BOCOCK TO HEAD INDIAN ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT

Gooch is Named Business Manager in Statement From Bryan, Released Last Week.

Appointment of Branch Bocoek as head coach and director of Athletics and the naming of William S. Gooch, Jr., to the post of business manager, has been announced by President John Stewart Bryan.

The change, Mr. Bryan said, was made "to improve administrative functions and to meet added responsibilities assigned the Department." Mr. Gooch will look after the business features, as heretofore, in the capacity of business manager; Mr. Bocoek will be head athletic coach and will have supervisory charge of the athletic department.

"Mr. Bocoek will, subject to the approval of the president, select coaches for the various sports. I am informed that he does not contemplate employing any new coaches at this time," Mr. Bryan said in referring to rumors of a change in the coaching staff.

Bocoek, who left his Blackstone farm, to lead the tri-color football coaching staff last fall, faced a hard task in lining up the Indian team, a task made difficult by lack of material and a heavy schedule. He was coach here once before, as well as a former resident of Williamsburg while employed by the Restoration, and is well known both here and throughout the State.

Both Gooch and Bocoek are members of the Faculty.

Miss Tyler Will Handle Office Work

Miss Alyse Tyler will carry on the routine work of the alumni office, pending selection of a new alumni secretary. The work of the office will be under the supervision of Robert P. Wallace, '20.

Miss Tyler has been secretary to the alumni secretary since September, 1935. Her efficiency in her work was commended by both Mr. Taylor and the board of managers at the meeting of the board Jan. 16. She has been employed at the College since 1927.

NEW FALL QUARTERLY LARGER; PAINTER IS FEATURED IN ARTICLE

200 Pages in Last of 1936 Series Quarterly Contains Rare Picture by Swiss, While Here.

Featured by an article on Frank Buchser, "A Swiss Painter in Post-War Virginia", the fall issue of the William and Mary Quarterly is almost double in size over former issues of the Magazine. The Quarterly, edited by President John Stewart Bryan and Librarian E. G. Swem completes the Quarterly for 1936.

The magazine contains nearly 200 pages exclusive of a carefully-arranged index of the four historical Quaterlies issued during the past year, the total pages of which amount to nearly 800 pages.

Prof. H. Ludeke of the University of Berne, Switzerland, who recently visited in this country, is author of the article on Buchser. It features several pictures of Buchser's paintings including a portrait done from life of Gen. Robert E. Lee.

Buchser's Lee portrait is a rare portrait of the Confederate general since it was done at Lexington only a short time prior to Lee's final illness. Professor Ludeke relates that it took some urging on the part of Lee's family and friends to obtain his consent for the sitting.

Lee's friends were desirous that he appear in the grey uniform to which the general replied that he was "no longer a soldier and it is time to leave the pomp and circumstances of war aside." General Lee did yield to the wishes of his friends so far as to have his uniform, sword and belt lying on the table beside him.

The portrait shows General Lee wearing plain black clothes with his arms folded. The eyes in the picture are strongly marked. The portrait is as Lee wanted to appear after the war, a non-military personage, the college president.

Buchser's Lee hangs in "Solothurn-Berner Kunstmuseum" Professor Ludeke writes that "a quieter age, more appreciative of fine art, would not have allowed it to leave the country." It remained with the Swiss ambassador in Washington who later

FORMAL DANCE FEBRUARY NINETEEN; ALUMNI ASKED

Aides to Sponsor Return of Formals; Alumni Attendance Urged for Permanency.

A return to formal dances at the College is in prospect with the announcement that the Aides to President John Stewart Bryan have organized a dance committee to take over the duties of the disbanded Cotillion Club. Decision to try a dance, and if successful, to arrange for several during the year, was made at a meeting of the Aides held last week.

Scheduled to be held the night of February 19th, a Friday, the dance will begin at 9 and last until 2:30, with a midnight dinner for those attending. The dance will be held in the George Preston Blow Gymnasium and the dinner in the Dining Hall. The dinner intermission will last from 12 until 12:45.

Music is expected to be provided by Earl Mellon and his orchestra, who have just concluded an engagement in a Richmond night club and the price will be kept low in order to allow as many to attend as possible. Top price, the couple ticket, which includes the supper, will be $2.50. The committee feels that the former prices kept many away from the dances and that in order to make the affairs more popular the price should be kept within the reach of all.

Alumni and friends are especially invited to attend, Blake T. Newton, Jr., Chief-Aide, said in announcing the dance and it is hoped by the committee that Alumni will help the students put these dances over, laying the way for better dances in the future. Those who wish more information as to the dance may write to Dick Velz at Williamsburg, from whom tickets may be obtained. The tickets will also be on sale at the door.

A novel and unusual decorative setting will be provided by the Department of Fine Arts. The Gymnasium has just been newly decorated, a soft drink counter installed in the lobby and the old Y. M. C. A. room made into a lounge with comfortable chairs and settees, making dance facilities in the building much more attractive.

TAYLOR RESIGNS, WORK COMMENDED; SUCCESSOR WILL BE NAMED LATER

NOTICE OF DEATH HELD "ERROR" FOR J. P. LITTLE; STILL ACTIVE AT EIGHTY

Letter to Dean Landrum Tells of Man Who "Laid Out Every Railroad in Florida."

LETTER CHANGES RECORDS

Not only are reports that John Peyton Little, A. B., 1874, is dead, "greatly exaggerated", but untrue, for Mr. Little, now over 80 is "still active in a civil engineer way", according to a communication received by Dean Grace Warren Landrum from Bertha Richmond Chevalier of Holliston, Mass. Mr. Little is now living in Clearwater, Florida, and has been informed by the Alumni office that his name has been placed back on the active list.

The letter, written at Christmas time, follows:

"I have had in mind very much to write you about an old alumnus of William and Mary—class of 1879 or 1874?

It was at his house we stayed each of the two years we have been in Florida. A most charming gentleman, over 80—still active in a civil engineer way; estimates lumber; goes out into the swamps—says he laid out every railroad in the state.

His father was Dr. Little who wrote a charming history of Richmond, and whose personal library was left to William and Mary. His second wife was a Tucker and our Mr. Little lived in the Tucker House while at College. He taught Math there one or two years.

He is much interested in everything about the College. I asked him if he had ever been back and he said he hadn't—that when he had the money he didn't have the time and when he had the time he didn't have the money.

They have been wonderful parents to four children and now are doing the same thing for the next generation, the children of a widowed daughter and a daughter again.

Now comes the point of this letter and where you come in—you've got him listed as "dead" in your 1932 alumni list, the only one I could find in the Harvard library.

What I really wish is that the college would invite him to the next commencement and pay his expenses—they would honor themselves as well as him. His wife is still alive. Of course he hasn't received anything from the college in the way of notices, etc.

His address is 700 North Fort Harrison Avenue, Clearwater, Florida.

In writing him on January 2nd, Charles A. Taylor, Jr., asked for further information concerning himself, and his classmates, but up to the present no such information has been received.

GOES WITH BOOK FIRM

Meeting in special session, the Board of Managers of the Alumni Association of the College of William and Mary on Jan. 16, accepted the resignation of Charles A. Taylor, Jr., '09, as executive secretary of the Association. Mr. Taylor resigned on Dec. 30 in a letter to Joe E. Healy, '10, requesting the resignation become effective Jan. 16, 1937.

J. Malcolm Bridges, '25, member of the board, moved acceptance of the resignation, seconded by Miss Cornelia Adair, '23. The resolution adopted by the board follows:

"WHEREAS, the Board of Managers of the Alumni Association of the College of William and Mary has this date received and accepted with regret the resignation of Mr. Chas. A. Taylor, Jr., '09, who has served this Association efficiently since September 19, 1932;

"AND WHEREAS, The Board of Managers is deeply conscious of the splendid contribution made in the field of alumni service by Mr. Taylor;

"NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Board of Managers express to Mr. Taylor the regrets of the Board and the entire Association at his resignation, and its appreciation of his invaluable contribution toward the betterment of alumni work in the interest of the institution and its former students."

Secretary Four Years

Mr. Taylor has been secretary slightly more than four years. He resigned to accept a position with a textbook publishing concern. Among the achievements of the Association during his secretaryship have been the establishment of the Alumni Gazette, establishment of an Alumni Medalion for service and loyalty to William and Mary, installation of a complete set of Alumni records, and an enlarged annual Homecoming Day program.

Illustrated Book Comes From Press

Released for distribution this month was a new illustrated book on the College which had been in process of preparation since last summer. The books are to be sold and copies for Alumni will be available at the Alumni office at 25c each and will be mailed upon receipt of order.

Done in gray rotogravuer, the booklet contains 32 pages, all pictures with the exception of one page of introductory text written by President Bryan and explaining the purpose of the book,—to give a visual idea of what is to be found on the campus of William and Mary.

Forty-eight pictures, most of them taken during the summer and fall are included in the collection and remarkable photography contributes to the fine presentation. Scenes shown include buildings and grounds, student activities, Matoaka Park and views of men's and women's athletics.

The need for such a book has long been felt and it expected that the publication of the book will be of great value in presenting the College in a pictorial way, instead of with text.

TAYLOR RESIGNS; WORK COMMENDED BY BOARD

In a letter to the Board at its special meeting, Mr. Taylor made a number of recommendations. Calling attention to the fact that the Alumni Association was founded in 1842, Mr. Taylor recommended that the Association observe its 100th Anniversary in 1942. He also recommended that plans be formulated and put into execution to raise an endowment fund of $100,000 for the Alumni Association during the next five years and that the fund be called the J. A. C. Chandler Memorial Alumni Endowment Fund.

In addition to thanking members of the Board of Managers as well as those who were members during the past several years but who have gone out of office, Mr. Taylor took the opportunity to commend Miss Alyse Tyler for her loyalty and efficiency in discharging her duties in the Alumni office since she was assigned to the work by the College Administration in September 1935, adding that "Miss Tyler is fully capable of carrying on the work of the office while you are considering my successor."

Commend Miss Tyler

The Board, following motion by Robert P. Wallace, '20, extended its thanks to Miss Tyler for her loyal and efficient services in the Alumni office, the motion being seconded by Miss Adair.

President Healey read letters of application from six Alumni for the position of Alumni Secretary. Following lengthy discussion, Mr. Bridges moved that President Healey select two members of the Board to serve with him to consult with the College Administration in reference to expanded duties of the secretary and the necessary financial arrangements for paying his salary, and to report the recommendations of the committee to the Board at its next meeting. The motion was seconded by Dr. Sidney B. Hall, '16 and carried.

President Healey named Dr. Hall and Mr. Wallace as the two members to serve on the committee with him. Dr. Hall moved that Miss Tyler be requested to carry on the routine work of the Alumni office under the general supervision of Mr. Wallace. The motion was seconded by Miss Adair and adopted.

To Continue Gazette

Mr. Taylor reported that he and Mr. Wallace had made suitable arrangements with the College Administration to carry on the publication of the Alumni Gazette and that Lloyd H. Williams, '29, had volunteered his services to collaborate with Richard Velz, '36, of the College Publicity Department, in getting out the Alumni Gazette until a new secretary was appointed.

Dr. Hall moved that these arrangements be approved and that Mr. Williams be thanked for his proffered services. Dr. Koontz seconded the motion and it was duly adopted.

The President read a letter from the Richmond William and Mary Club expressing regret of the Club at the resignation of Mr. Taylor. The letter also expressed the appreciation of the Richmond Club for the excellent work done by Mr. Taylor during his term of office.

Those present at the meeting, in addition to Mr. Healey, Dr. Koontz, Dr. Hall, Mr. Wallace, Mr. Bridges and Miss Adair, were Charles P. McCurdy, '33, Admiral Cary T. Grayson, '99, and Robert M. Newton, '16, were absent.

FALL QUARTERLY LARGER

carried it to Switzerland where it hung in his office.

Later, it disappeared and was not found again until after the world war and it now hangs opposite Buchser's Sherman in the rotunda of the museum. Buchser traveled in America several years. Newspapers of the time give a number of accounts of his work. As for his portrait of Lee, the following comments were made:

The Washington Daily Chronicle said, "By all who have recently seen the ex-Confederate chieftian the picture is conceded to be one of striking fidelity to nature." The Washington National Republican reported, "Those who are personally acquainted with General Lee tell us that the likeness could not be better," while the New York Sunday News says, "It is decidedly the best portrait of General Lee that has yet been taken."

Other articles in the current issue of the quarterly include a discussion of "Sarah versus Susan," by Gregory and Robin R. Robinson. The authors in their article give an extensive investigation of the problem of the names of the three ships landing at Jamestown in 1607, one being often represented with various names, more frequently "Sarah Constant," and "Susan Constant."

Mrs. P. W. Hiden of Newport News has two articles in the current quarterly. One gives an inventory of the estate of Westwood Armistead, showing some of the articles of the period of 1760 which would appear in the home of a well-to-do planter. The second article by Mrs. Hiden gives a comprehensive genealogy of the Graves family of Essex.

Thomas T. Waterman has an article on "The Old Buildings of Stafford Court House". An interesting list of the "Census of Pensioners for Revolutionary and Military Service" in 1840 relating to Virginia gives not only the names of the pensioners but their ages. A number of other interesting articles are included in the quarterly, one of the largest in several years.

INDIAN SWIMMERS ON TOP; BASKETEERS LUCKLESS: FOOTBALL SCHEDULE OUT

Tankmen Look to Southern Conference Title, With Duke, W. & L. As Leading Contenders.

Unbeaten in three meets this season, Scrap Chandler's Indian Swimming team is casting menacing glances towards the Southern Conference title, despite the fact that they have yet to hurdle formidable barriers in the form of Duke and Washington and Lee.

The Chandler-coached tankmen will match strokes with Duke here Saturday, February 4 in what may prove to be a real test of the Tribe's strength. Duke was beaten last year by a one-point margin.

Meets to date show that William and Mary has won over Fort Monroe, Randolph-Macon, and N. C. State. The first two named were easily disposed of, but State offered sterner opposition, before bowing 47-37.

The Indian swimmers, co-captained by Walter Hatke and Walter Daniels, are strong in every event except the backstroke. Jimmy Moore and Harvey Schuler have yet to be extended in the 440 and 220 swims respectively.

Schuler and Helfrich have been working the 100 for the Tribe, with Ward and Walker skipping off 40-yard dashes. Daniels and Brown take care of the back-stroking, and Goldberg and Cotterman furnish the breast stroke team.

In the free-style relay, DeGutis, Hatke, Walker and Bunch have yet to taste defeat, and Adams and Flickinger are always good for one-two in the diving. The team will be further strengthened by the return of Moe Brill, fast dash man, who is re-entering school in February.

The remainder of the schedule:

Feb. 6—Duke at Williamsburg.
Feb. 12—Virginia at Virginia.
Feb. 20—W. & L. at Williamsburg.
Feb. 27—V. P. I. at Williamsburg.
Mar. 1—V. M. I. at Williamsburg.

FUTURE OF FRESHMEN SWIMMERS DOUBTFUL

William and Mary's freshmen swimmers opened a five-meet schedule here January 16 by dropping a 60-15 contest to Massanutten Military Academy, last year's Eastern Interscholastic champions.

Featuring the meet was Jacobson, of Massanutten, who set a new interscholastic record for the 100 yard breaststroke. His time was 1:07.3. The time also broke the pool record.

Lennie Goldberg, who becomes eligible for the varsity in February, also beat his own pool record in placing second to Jacobson in the breaststroke.

The Indian frosh, probably weaker than freshman teams in recent years, show possibilities of developing some good men despite their shellacking from Massanutten. The embryo Chandlermen have lined up like this: Willoughby, Hecker, Purtil, and Brockett in the relay; Herbst and Goldberg in the breaststroke; Herbst in the backstroke; Gall, Willoughby in the short dashes; Purtil, Brockett in the 100; Herbst, Goldberg, Gall in the medley; and Tinsley in the diving.

The remainder of the schedule:

Feb. 6—Norfolk Division, there.
Feb. 12—Virginia at Virginia.
Feb. 17—Fort Monroe, there.
Feb. 24—Norfolk Division, here.

F. H. C. Selections

Annual selection of the F. H. C. Society was recently announced on the campus.

Those selected were: Arthur Briggs Handon, Washington, D. C.; Carl Buffington, Lewistown, Pa.; Ned Keiter, Lebanon, Pa.; George Anner, Williamsburg, Va.; John Britton, Lansdown, Pa.; and John Coiner, Washington, D. C.

Continue Series With Richmond and Roanoke Next Week; Outlook Hardly Favorable.

William and Mary's varsity basketballers, their nine-game winless streak temporarily checked by examinations, this week made ready for an invasion by Richmond's Spiders on Thursday night and another by Roanoke's Maroons on Saturday night.

Thursday's game will be the first of the season between William and Mary and Richmond, but the Indians already have met and fallen once before a fast Roanoke team. The Maroons whipped the Indians in Roanoke, 48-39.

Following their game here Saturday night, the Tribe cagers leave for a two-day Maryland stand. Tuesday the Dowlermen stop off at College Park for an engagement with University of Maryland and then continue up to Annapolis for a tiff with Navy.

Except for three games, William and Mary has been decisively beaten every time in the course of its long losing streak. Good games were turned in by the Tribe against Virginia, V. P. I., and V. M. I.—good, that is, in the light of comparative scores.

In their first game after Christmas holidays, the Dowlermen dropped a hard-fought 33-30 contest to University of Virginia at Charlottesville. The Cavaliers converted three foul shots in the final minutes of play to provide the winning margin.

After the Virginia defeat, the Indians began a four-day campaign against teams in southwest Virginia. Opening with V. P. I., William and Mary went down, 36-29 and then moved over to Washington and Lee to absorb a terrific 64-15 lacing.

Another game in Lexington saw the Tribe put up sterner opposition against V. M. I. William and Mary led until the last three minutes of play, but the Cadets rallied to come through with a 42-39 victory. In the final game of the trip, Roanoke won easily.

A brief home stand following this disastrous road trip found the Indians swamped by a clever Wake Forest five, 63-25 and then beaten a second time by Virginia Tech, 38-30. They were the last games played before examinations.

George Bunch, rangy center from Lynchburg, Va., has been the shining light in a weak Indian offense in practically every game. In the nine games played, Bunch has scored 76 points and has averaged more than eight points per game.

Coach Dowler, with an eye towards the future, has used every man on the squad in games whenever possible. The first five men usually have been Pete Bunch and Kamen at forward, George Bunch at center, and Harper and Metheny at guard. Baltimore and Zable also have started many games for William and Mary.

The schedule throughout the month:
Feb. 4—Richmond at Williamsburg.
Feb. 6—Roanoke at Williamsburg.
Feb. 9—Maryland at Maryland.
Feb. 10—Navy at Annapolis.
Feb. 12—Randolph-Macon, here.
Feb. 17—Richmond at Richmond.
Feb. 22—V. M. I. at Williamsburg.
Feb. 23—N. C. State at Williamsburg.

Feb. 25—Virginia at Williamsburg.
Feb. 27—W. & L. at Williamsburg.

O.D.K. TAKES SIX

Six men, four seniors and two juniors, were made members of Eta Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa at services held here the night of January 18th.

Smith, class of 1937, Richmond, Va.; George Anner, class of 1938, Williamsburg, Va.; and Carl Buffington, class of 1938, Lewistown, Pa.

Lists Nine Games, Two Unusuals, Homecoming With W. & L. November 13.

William and Mary's 1937 football schedule has been released by director of athletics Billy Gooch, Jr., and at the same time Coach Branch Bocoock announced that spring practice for grid candidates will start March 1.

Featuring the football schedule are (1) playing a double-header here October 16 between William and Mary and Guilford and the Indian frosh and U. N. C. freshmen, and (2) a regulation game here October 23 between the varsity and the freshmen.

Spring practice, Coach Bocoock said, will last two weeks but will extend longer than that if the players so desire. Only eight lettermen will return for the 1937 season.

Letters were awarded 15 players and two managers for their work during the 1936 season. Those honored were: Captain Marino, O. Bunch, Dozier, Flickinger, Woodard, Truehart, Hatke, Coiner, Walker, Zable, DeGutis, McGowan, Kreuger, Hook, and Davies.

Johnny Coiner, Washington, D. C., end, and Ted McGowan, Ridgefield Park, N. J., center and tackle, were named co-captains of the 1937 William and Mary football team.

The 1937 schedule:

Sept. 25—Navy at Annapolis.
Oct. 2—Virginia Military at Norfolk.
Oct. 9—Virginia Poly at Richmond.
Oct. 16—Guilford at Williamsburg.
Frosh vs. U. N. C. at Williamsburg.
Oct. 23—Varsity vs. Freshmen, here.
Oct. 30—Virginia at Charlottesville.
Nov. 6—Hampden-Sydney at Williamsburg.
Nov. 13—Washington and Lee (Homecoming).
Nov. 25—Richmond at Richmond.

FROSH CAGERS OPEN TEN GAME SCHEDULE

Bill Scott's William and Mary freshmen cagers, beaten by Raymond Riordan in the lone game yet played, open a 10-game schedule this month with Richmond's frosh slated as the first opponent here February 4.

The Papposes showed flashes of strength against the Riordan team, but a dearth of tall men is likely to cause them trouble in many games this season. Only by superior height was Riordan able to take the Scotts' measure.

So acute is the demand for tall men that Coach Scott has been forced to use Vance Fowler, a Norfolk boy who usually plays forward, in the center position. Fowler barely reaches six feet.

The Indian yearlings appear well-balanced, however, and have a supply of capable reserves. Most of the regulars are clever ball-handlers and have shown indications of speediness, so Coach Scott should have few worries against the general run of opposition.

Starters in the Riordan game found Howard Heinz, Illinois boy, and Vince Lusardi, Cranford, N. J., in the forward positions; Vance Fowler, Norfolk at center; and Jack Geddes, Egg Harbor, N. J., and Bill Altenburg, Jamaica, N. Y., in the guard berths.

Coach Scott substituted only two men in the game, and both were forwards—Charlie Hall, Ashland, Ky., and Jack Willoughby, Williamsburg boy. These two, together with the five who started the Riordan game, likely will form the regular players.

The schedule throughout the month:
Feb. 4—Richmond at Williamsburg.
Feb. 5—Hopewell at Williamsburg.
Feb. 6—John Marshall here.
Feb. 9—South Norfolk, here.
Feb. 11—Benedictine, here.
Feb. 13—Norfolk Division, there.
Feb. 15—Wilson at Williamsburg.
Feb. 17—Richmond at Richmond.
Feb. 19—Norfolk Division, here.
Feb. 23—Fork Union, here.

TWICE TOLD TALES: (As reported by Charles Houston, a Richmond columnist) There came a telephone call and it was our tipster, Dr. George Preston (Buddy) Green, the left-handed dentist, calling to report a mammoth and comical bit of traffic irony. Out on Cary Street there was a large yellow gasoline delivery truck . . . out of gasoline . . . The driver took his pail in hand and trudged back through the pouring rain to get a couple of gallons of a rival company's product at the nearest station."

Dr. Green, '19, is one of those three Green Brothers from Surry Courthouse, Va., who attended William and Mary. The other two are Larry, A. B. '25, and John Branch (Dauber), A. B. '28, and

"Oscar L. Shewmake, the lawyer, was commenting on how William and Mary used to wait until they'd begun to make their after-college marks in the world before Phi Beta Kappa keys were passed out . . . and then he remarked on how much he had valued his law school certificate from Virginia . . . and how only one person had ever commented on the one that has hung in his office for twenty-eight years . . . 'That one time', Mr. Shewmake said, 'was while I was making out a deed or something for a one-eyed negro preacher. I was at work and he became restless and began to examine the walls with that bad eye squinted comically . . . and then, he halted in front of the diploma and asked (he had noted the picture of Thomas Jefferson on the diploma) was he a relative of yours?' 'No', replied Mr. Shewmake. 'How long's he been dead?' the preacher then wanted to know. 'Oh, nearly a hundred years now, I guess,' Mr. Shewmake replied as he worked and wondered at the same time. 'What,' asked Mr. Shewmake, 'do you think that is?' 'Why, 'taint nothing but a burial certificate, is it?' said the one-eyed preacher . . . and since that time Mr. Shewmake is silently flattered everytime somebody says nothing about it at all."

Mr. Shewmake received his A. B. from William and Mary in 1904, and was initiated into Alpha of Va. Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa on March 28, 1908.

Article in Danville Register Praises Work Done in Raising Athletic Standards of G.W.H.

WAS STUDENT PRESIDENT

Remember Jerry Quirk, the Boston boy who captained William & Mary's 1933 football team and who won a tackle berth on the All-State selections that same year?

The "Terrible Turk", they called him around the campus, although it appears that he confined his "terribleness" to the football field where he led opposing teams many a hectic afternoon.

Well, whether you know him or not, you'll have gotten a pretty good idea of what he was like by the time you finish this little treatise of genial Jerry Quirk.

It all came up as the result of a feature recently written about Quirk in the Danville (Va.) Register by Clarke Bustard, a graduate of George Washington high school in Danville where Quirk is now coaching.

The former Indian grid star, who took over the coaching job in Danville two seasons ago, was highly praised by Bustard. The latter, in his newspaper column, goes on to say that Quirk, in his two years at Danville, had "brought G. W. out of the football doldrums and made it a real power on the gridiron."

In his first year as coach at Danville, Quirk, despite a lack of seasoned players, turned out a team that annexed the Western District title, with five victories and two defeats. The team also whipped Lynchburg for the first time in seventeen years.

Last season Quirk piloted the Cardinals of George Washington through a schedule that produced four victories, two ties, and two defeats. Says Bustard in his ramblings:

"Too much credit cannot be given Jerry Quirk. With a minimum of material in his two-year stay in Danville the amiable William and Mary alumnus has brought the Western district title here and now seems headed toward the big haul by bringing George Washington its first Class A football championship. Thus we close a tribute to the man this corner considers the best high school coach the state of Virginia ever saw!"

And so it seems that William and Mary's Jerry Quirk is doing all right for himself as head of the Danville high school football situation. But for that matter Quirk didn't do so badly for himself at William and Mary.

Coming to William and Mary in 1930, the Boston youth soon established himself firmly in the local athletic, social, and scholastic life. As a freshman, he captained the frosh football team and won numerals in both baseball and track.

From that point on, Quirk began to gather in the honors with the ease and rapidity of a Jesse Owens. In 1932 he was named All-Virginia Conference tackle in football and All-State in track, where he handled the weights.

Quirk also was a member of the '13' Club, ODK, and was president of both the Athletic Council and the Student Body. He was named to the All-State football team in 1933 along with that bandy-legged backfield ace, Billy Palese, and also captained the 1933 Indian grid team.

YULE PARTY BECOMES TRADITIONAL,
MOST COLORFUL EVENT OF YEAR

In all the year there's nothing quite so colorful as the now traditional William and Mary celebration of Christmas, a celebration which on December 18th went into its third year and which has become in that short space of time an integral part of life at the College. At four o'clock the present slips behind us and we live again in an old English Manor House. It's now time, so let's peek into the Great Hall of old Sir Christopher Wren.

Down by the huge fireplace stands the Lord of the Manor,—President Bryan, clad in the gaily-colored garments of a picturesque and by-gone day,—surrounded by his staff of retainers. The fire burns bright, flames roar up the chimney and the murky day seems dispelled, here in the warmth and cheer. Suddenly a fan-fare of trumpets and a roll of the drums herald the approach of the awaited procession.

In they come, four, carrying the huge Yule Log, four, carrying the Boar's Head, all clad in costumes of the era, preceded by drummers, carolers, trumpeters,—a gay procession, singing as they come into the cheery hall. They troop in and await their reception,—a speech of welcome by the Lord and a proclamation to make official the arrival of the Yuletide Season.

Maids from the Manor, curtsy low and recite their poetry, sing their songs,—laughter and good cheer spreads in anticipation of the coming holiday season. The Boar's Head, a work of art indeed, comes forward and is presented with a simple ceremony. Up too comes the Yule Log to be placed by brawny men on the crackling fire and to be extinguished at the conclusion of the ceremony by the "youngest child of the house" so that good times will stay throughout the year. Wine poured on the log makes this certain and this ceremony is over as the procession follows the Lord back to his home and disbands.

Now over in Phi Beta Kappa Hall all has been activity for many a day,—for tonight we dance and make merry, the students say, and tomorrow we go home for a two week holiday. Candles cast their gleam on a fair-land of Yuletide charm, holly wreaths and gay ribbons seem to dot the scene. The chairs have gone and an open floor greets us as we step in, costumed of course, for no one is admitted without a costume.

It's nine o'clock and the dance is in full swing. Ladies in crinoline, men in lace-ruffled collars swirl on the floor below as we gaze down from the balcony. Every color we've ever seen is represented in that mass of humanity down below. British officers dance with Colonial maidens, Russian Princes and Holland girls trip lightly over the floor,—all is gaiety, laughter and charm. Yes, it's Christmas at William and Mary.

Time for the pageant to begin, so let's go over here where we can get a good view. The aides clear the hall and in comes the procession, headed by President Bryan and the invited guests and as they are announced they take their places on the stage and the show begins. Spot lights in the roof pick out the first skit as it enters the hall,—it's six girls clad as reindeer pulling a sled with a merry jingling of bells to a halt before the stand, where the occupant presents a Christmas gift "To You Lord of the Manor." The first one goes and on they come,—some bright and cherry, others resplendent in their depiction of the Christmas in another land. Some are serious, some are laugh-provoking,—but they all represent work and fun. The prizes are awarded and on goes the party.

The evening wanes, morning comes and sleepily students wend their way to their final day of classes, well it's been a great time, and so home and gone is another Christmas Party at William and Mary, gayest and happiest time of the year. Our traditional party is making history at William and Mary as with each year it improves,—wish you could all be here, but I hope you've captured a little of the spirit of this affair from the pictures herewith, and mayhap the story too,—but here's farewell to Christmas 1936 in Williamsburg.

The marriage of Elizabeth Nelson Garrow, A. B. '33, of Denbigh, Va., to Wilbur Riley McFall of Hampton, Va., was solemnized January 16th at high noon in Denbigh.
