BOARD OF MANAGERS SELECT JOSEPH HEYWOOD BELL FOR SECRETARY POST

Former Associated Press Man Is Widely Known; Native of Newport News; Now in Washington, D. C.

A special committee appointed by the Board of Managers of the Alumni Association to make a recommendation for the position of Executive Secretary of the Alumni Association made its report to the Board at a meeting held on March 22nd. The committee recommended to the Board the appointment of Joseph Heywood Bell, Jr., and the recommendation was approved by the Board of Managers.

This recommendation came after two months deliberation and several meetings where numerous applications for the position were brought before the committee.

Mr. Bell, who attended the College of William and Mary 1925-27, is from Newport News, Virginia, and was engaged in newspaper work in Newport News and Richmond. He later became connected with the Richmond Bureau of the Associated Press and last year was transferred to Washington to cover Virginia activities in the capitol. Last fall he resigned to become secretary of the committee on reorganization of the federal government headed by Senator Byrd.

Mr. Bell is married and at present lives in Washington.

Active in college affairs, he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He has a wide circle of friends throughout the alumni as well as among newspaper men in Richmond and Washington.

The committee appointed at the January meeting of the Board of Managers consisted of Joseph E. Healey, president of the Alumni Association; Dr. Sidney B. Hall, vice president, and Robert F. Wallace, secretary-treasurer.

Madstone Owned By W. & M. Graduate

A genuine madstone, reputed to cure poisonous wounds or bites, which was presented by a sultan of India in 1861 to the late Prince Alexis Konstantin Nestorowitsch of Russia, is now owned by his son-in-law, Dr. Morris Barret, of Maidens, Va. Dr. Barret was a student at William and Mary from 1880-81. He registered from Goochland County, Virginia.

The stone has been shown at the office of the Richmond News-Leader at Dr. Barret's request following printed reports of discussions of these stones, by Dr. Wyndham Blanton at a meeting of the Richmond Academy of Medicine.

The madstone belonging to Dr. Barret is about the circumference of a silver dollar, and is heart-shaped. The outer surface is smooth but the underside which is placed next to the wound is porous. The stone is supposed to be dipped in hot water, then placed on the wound. If there is poison present it is said to adhere and draw it out. It is supposed to be removed every eight hours and cleaned with milk. Although Dr. Barret has never tested its efficiency, these stones were formerly considered highly effective in the use for poisonous bites of all kinds.

Dr. Barret married Helen Nestorowitsch, daughter of the late prince, who had become a naturalized American citizen and for many years owned Sabot Hill Farm in Goochland county.

NINE WEEK PERIOD WILL FEATURE SUMMER SCHOOL

Hoke Announces Institute of Foreign Languages; Maison Francaise for Term.

Innovations in the method of instruction, as well as courses to be offered, will mark the 26th annual session of the College of William and Mary's Summer School, which begins here June 14. Dr. K. J. Hoke, director, said.

Instead of the previous six week sessions, of which two were held during the Summer, this year will see one regular session of nine weeks duration, with a convocation for the awarding of degrees ending the term on August 14. Credits will be given on the basis of forty-five lectures, instead of the shortened number given in previous years, making it possible for students during the nine week session to secure the same number of credits as during a regular term.

In order to provide instruction in French for students who wish to acquaint themselves with French conversation, customs and literature, the College is planning a Maison Francaise during the first six weeks of the summer session. Special living accommodations will be arranged in one of the women's dormitories, which will be under the direction of Madame Antoinette Noel Hoffherr, a native of France, who has been conducting this type of work in this country during recent years. Madame Hoffherr will have competent assistance in the direction of this work, with special equipment in the form of books, magazines, pictures, language and music records being provided. Students who enroll in the Institute on the Teaching of Foreign Languages will be able to take this work at no additional expense.

ATTEND ALUMNI DAY JUNE FIFTH

THREE LECTURES ON APRIL COLLEGE LIST

Kittredge, Hince and Millikan to Speak Here in Exceptional Lecture Series.

The next lecture of the series provided by the faculty committee on Lectures, Art, and Music will be that by Professor George Lyman Kittredge of Harvard University on Thursday, April 8th. It has long been desired to bring Professor Kittredge to William and Mary. Of all the Harvard instructors he has been one of the best known to most generations of Harvard men and has always been deeply appreciated and popular as an interpreter of Shakespeare. He has been on the faculty since 1888. A graduate of Harvard College, has been awarded advanced degrees by Chicago, Johns Hopkins, McGill, Brown, Yale, Harvard and Oxford. His subject will be "Macbeth."

Two additional lectures will be given during April. On the 12th, L. A. Hince, a member of the staff of the Federal Bureau of Investigation Department of Justice will speak on the subject: "Law Enforcement as a Profession". The lecture series for the year will close fittingly with the lecture by Professor Robert A. Millikan on the topic: "The Social Significance of Science". Professor Millikan is a physicist, world famous for his researches and publications.

ALUMNI DAY JUNE FIFTH SCHEDULES DANCES, REUNIONS, MEETING, DINNER

APRIL 23 SET AS DATE FOR SECOND OF FORMALS

Alumni Urged to Attend; Prices Will Be Low — Decorations Planned Are Unusual.

An invitation to Alumni to attend the second of the formal dances, sponsored by the Aides to President John Stewart Bryan, and to be held in George Preston Blow Memorial Gymnasium the night of April 23rd, has been extended by Chief Aide, Blake T. Newton.

The first of the dances, given here in February, was a success and was hailed as the best formal dance ever witnessed in Williamsburg. An unusual decorative scheme, involving columns and the installation of a false ceiling, converted the gymnasium interior into a replica of the grand salon of the French liner "Normandie". Lighting was soft and entirely indirect. The Fine Arts Department, under the direction of Leslie Cheek, Jr., designed the decorations and will repeat this work for the coming dance.

No orchestra has as yet been selected for the April dance, but several are under consideration and a selection is expected to be announced shortly. The prices of the dances have been kept down, last one the tickets selling for $2.50 for couple tickets and $2.00 for stags. This was done in order to make the dance available to as many as possible. Unusual at the last dance was the number of townspeople who attended, many parties in Williamsburg preceding the dance, which began at 10 P. M. and lasted to 2 a. m.

The Aides are sponsoring these dances, requested by students, and it is hoped that they will become permanent features of college life. The Alumni who wish to attend, may write to Dick Velz at Williamsburg for tickets or further information.

Classes Ending in Two and Seven To Have Reunions; Detailed Program To Appear In Later Issue of Gazette.

JUNE BALL FRIDAY NIGHT

A tentative program for the Alumni Day observance, to be held here Saturday, June 5th, has been announced by the Alumni office. The celebration will get under way Friday night with the gala June ball in the sunken garden and a continuous program of events will follow until late Saturday night.

The alumni office will be open both Friday and Saturday nights, so that members of the Association may secure tickets, needed for admission to the dances. The June ball will feature the same decorative scheme used last year, with an orchestra as yet to be selected.

Saturday at nine o'clock, registration will begin at the alumni office and at eleven the annual meeting of the Association will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. At noon the Memorial Services at Colonel Ewell's grave will be observed. These exercises will be considerably changed this year, with the services honoring all Alumni of William and Mary. The Department of English at the College is assisting the Alpha chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in the plans for this service.

At one o'clock a luncheon will be served in the dining hall and at this time the class of 1937 will be inducted into the body of the alumni. President John Stewart Bryan will present the Alumni Medallions to the members of the Association who have been selected at this time. The speakers of the occasion have not yet been announced.

At three, Alpha of Phi Beta Kappa, will meet in the Apollo room of Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, to be followed at 4:30 by the President's Reception, held, as last year, on the north lawn of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Music and refresh-

HENKEL PRESS COLLECTION BEST IN EXISTENCE

Editions From First German Language Printing Press Below Mason-Dixon Line Repose in Library Vaults.

Reposing in the library of the College of William and Mary is probably the best collection of books of the Henkel Press in existence today. It is learned on good authority that the collection of Henkel volumes in the library of congress does not compare with the collection now in Williamsburg.

The Henkel Press, established in 1806 at New Market, is still owned by members of the Henkel family after 130 years. In the July Quarterly of the College of William and Mary, Albert Sydney Edmonds, great-great grandson of the founder of the Henkel Press, wrote an article on "The Henkel Family of New Market, Va., Early Printers in the Shenandoah Valley."

Ambrose Henkel, who founded the first German language printing press south of the Mason and Dixon line, was born in Virginia, about eight miles southwest of New Market, the son of the Rev. Paul Henkel, a German Lutheran preacher.

At 16, Henkel went to Hagerstown, Md., and was an apprentice to Herr Gruber, publisher of the famous almanac. Four years was spent in apprenticeship to Gruber and in Reading and Baltimore. He returned to

New Market and published the first German newspaper south of the line, the "Virginia and New Market Popular Instructor and Weekly News," a sheet 10 by 15 inches.

Edmonds describes Henkel's first press as being brought from Hagerstown by horse and cart. It was the bed and irons of a Rampage press. Henkel hewed the press frame from mahogany and cottonwood, and in it set a bed of granite 21 by 26 inches, Edmonds states. On this bed type was set and locked. Edmonds states the platen of the press was but 14 by 21 inches, two impressions being necessary before the whole form could be covered.

Similar to the original used at Gutenberg, the press used by Henkel is now at Duke University. Henkel carved his own woodcuts and made his own ink from lamp black, linseed oil, and boiled onions. With this equipment, Henkel printed his paper and numerous illustrated books, all in the German language.

In brief, the Henkel Press, operated under various names but always by members of the family, has had a long and interesting career. Ambrose Henkel sold the business in 1817 to his brother Solomon. Toady, the firm is known as "The Henkel Press."

The books in the college library were recently presented by Julia K. Henkel in memory of her husband,

Long and Interesting Career of Henkel Family Told; Settled at New Market in 1806; Still Control Business.

Elon O. Henkel, owner of the press who died at New Market, Feb. 27, 1935. Elon O. Henkel was for more than 50 years connected with the business. Under the name of Henkel and company, the establishment under his management gained the distinction of publishing "more Lutheran theological works in the English language than any other publishing house in the world."

Of Distinguished Family

Edmonds states Elon O. Henkel, born in 1855, was "connected with a family, who throughout the country's early history, was one of the most distinguished in the Lutheran church in America." He was a direct descendant of the Rev. Anthony Jacobs Henkel, "founder of the Lutheran church in America, who in turn was a direct descendant of Dr. Johann Henkel, D. D., LL. D., court preacher to Louis II and Queen Maria of Hungary, and also Count Henkel von Donnersmarck of Peltzig, Germany. Elon O. Henkel was also the author and publisher of "The Life and Character of Joseph Salyards," noted educator of New Market.

Fraternity Opens New Campus Home

With their annual Founders Day banquet and dance on March 17th, the Alpha Theta Chapter of the Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity, officially opened their new home, the former Sigma Nu house, on College Terrace. They had moved from their previous home on Prince George street a week before.

Constructed for fraternity purposes the house is one of the most modern of the campus Greek homes, having been built four years ago. Dean T. S. Cox of the Marshall Wythe School of Government and Citizenship; Charles A. Duke, Bursar of the College; Dr. C. F. Marsh, faculty advisor of Phi Kappa Tau; President of the Chapter Donald A. McGuire; incoming President, Rodney Jones, and Dick Velz, '36, spoke on the opening program at the new house. Dave Rutledge was toastmaster for the occasion.

Seventy guests attended the banquet and dance.

The fraternity has asked the Gazette to invite all members of the chapter, as well as the local Pi Epsilon Beta, which later became the Alpha Theta chapter of the fraternity, to visit them at their new home while in the vicinity of Williamsburg.

IMMORTAL MONK LITTLE, PHI BETA KAPPA AND INDIAN TRACK STAR, TO COACH JEFFERSON HIGH

A recent newspaper announcement telling of Moncure (Monk) Little's willingness to help coach the Thomas Jefferson high school track team, of Richmond, brings memories of the days when Monk was William and Mary's "one-man" track team.

Those days are not so far in the past, either, for Monk first came to William and Mary in 1931 after having made a name for himself as a versatile track star at Maury high, in Norfolk, Va.

Before Little finished at William and Mary in 1935, he had won nationwide fame as one of the outstanding track and field stars in the East. His lists of championships and records soon began to read like a list of William and Mary priorities.

Lean and little, Monk first attracted attention as a freshman in the spring of 1932 when he was Southern Conference freshman 60-yard dash champion. That same year he was also South Atlantic A. A. U. broad jump champion.

From that time on, championships began to literally flow under the feet of the modest Monk. In his sophomore year Little was I. C. A. 4-A outdoor broadjump champion—a position which he repeated in the indoor games the following year.

Again in his junior year, Monk went up to the Penn relays and came away with the American broadjump championship. Came 1935 and Monk made an assault on the 60-yard Southern Conference dash record. He walked off with first place.

The 6.5 second mark which he established in the 60-yard dash stood until this past indoor season when Billy Hopkins, of Virginia, clipped two-tenths of a second off Monk's time.

In the Penn Relays in 1935, Little, besides taking the broadjump championship, also took first in the javelin to add the American javelin championship to his list of honors.

And, in between all these sectional and conference meets, Monk still found time in dual intercollegiate competition to hang up five collegiate Virginia state records. Some have since been broken, but when Monk left William and Mary in 1935 he held records in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, the 440 run, the broadjump, and the javelin throw.

From all this, an outsider might gather that Monk Little did nothing while at William and Mary except to win track and field championships. Such an impression is erroneous, as may be gathered from the following:

Scholastically, Monk was a member of that ultra-exclusive honorary organization which had its birth at William and Mary—that of Phi Beta Kappa. Brain plus brawn was personified in Monk Little.

Monk, besides being a Phi Beta man, was a real leader in campus affairs while at William and Mary, and a list of the various offices which he held during his four years at college would be too numerous to be included here.

MONK LITTLE

After graduation, Monk went to Hampton (Va.) high school as coach and mathematics teacher. While still at Hampton, he competed in Olympic broadjump tryouts, but he could never regain his old form which he showed at William and Mary.

Monk now is located in Richmond with the duPont Company, and it was because of his new location that Monk offered to assist in the coaching of the Thomas Jefferson high track team.

Kyle '24 Elected To Important Post

Roy E. Kyle, Galax, was appointed this month to serve a four year term as superintendent of schools in Carroll County. He has been principal of the Galax high school for the past four years and is president of District 1, Virginia Education Association.

Both he and his brother, Jack, graduated here in the class of 1924 and both were members of Pi Epsilon Beta local fraternity which later became a chapter of Phi Kappa Tau. Jack is principal of the high school at Wise.

A native of Carroll county, Kyle received his B. S. degree here and his M. A. at George Peabody College for teachers, where he was elected to Phi Delta Kappa, a national honorary educational fraternity.

LOOKING AT SPORTS

With SPIKE MOORE

THE MONTH OF MARCH brought little added prestige to the William and Mary athletic situation. Few major contests were played, however, and with the exception of fencing and girl's basketball, Indian teams engaged in no intercollegiate athletics.

Spring football practice started March 1 with more than forty candidates reporting to coach Bocock. Only seven of the forty were lettermen, although there are many holdovers from last season who played but who did not earn letters. Lettermen who reported were co-captains Coiner and McGowan, O. Bunch, Walker, Krueger, Hook, and Zanghi. There also were many candidates from last year's freshman team, besides several transfers and boys who never before had been out for football.

Two scrimmage sessions were held during the two week's spring drills, but most of the work was confined to fundamentals and drills in blocking and tackling. Coach Bocock supervised the drills with the aid of freshman coach Otis Douglas. Stumpy Bryant, a former all-South Atlantic football choice, also helped supervise some of the backfield work.

Immediately after the close of spring football, baseball practice officially got underway. Coach Bill Scott received eight lettermen headed by Captain Dan Edmonson. Three of the eight—Adams, Oliver, and Daly were pitchers, and a fourth pitcher, Rosy Waugh, reported from last year's freshman team. Other veterans were Bud Metheny, outfielder; Walt Zable, short stop; Elmo Benedetto, third base; and Wayne Harper, catcher. The Indian nine will open its regular season here March 30 against Washington and Lee.

EARLIER IN THE SEASON, the William and Mary indoor trackmen placed seventh in the annual Southern Conference games at Chapel Hill. University of North Carolina won the meet. Joe Flickinger took a second in the pole vault for the Chandlermen; Al DeGutis took fourth in the shot-put; and Walt Zable placed fourth in the 70-yard low hurdles to account for all William and Mary points. The freshmen track team scored three points in the first-year events as Lloyd Phillips placed third in the 60-yard dash, and the mile relay team placed fourth.

The Southern Conference Swimming tournament, held at Lexington, found the Indians in fourth place. Thought by many as a possible contender for championship honors, William and Mary trailed Washington and Lee, Duke, and N. C. State in the order named. Lennie Goldberg took the Indians' only first place with a victory in the 200-yard breast-stroke.

One of the major upsets of the meet was the failure of William and Mary's Johnny Adams to win first place in the diving. Adams was beaten by Grantham, of N. C. State. Joe Flickinger won third in the diving. Harvey Shuler scored points for the Indians with a third in the 50-yard dash and a fourth in the 100-yard dash. The Tribe medley relay team placed third.

Coach Tucker Jones' fencing team gave a fine account of itself during the month, opening with an easy victory over Langley Field, then nosing out St. Johns, of Annapolis, 9-8. On a northern invasion the Indian swordsmen tied Maryland, whipped Rutgers and Stevens Tech, and dropped a close 9-8 decision to Haverford. One other match was held here last Tuesday against University of Richmond. William and Mary won. The fencing team will end its season with a match next week against V. P. I.

IN GIRL'S SPORTS, the William and Mary basketball team opened the month with a northern trip. The Indian sextet defeated Notre Dame, of Baltimore, 37-14 but were overwhelmed by a strong Manhattanville team in New York, 47-15. Closing their season the following week-end, the Indianettes dropped successive games to New College, of New York, and to Beaver College, of Philadelphia. Anne Layton and Jane Hutcheson contributed most of the William and Mary scoring during the season, with Ruth Ann Holzmueller, Helen Carl and Linda Waddell also accounting for many points.

A newly organized girl's fencing team held a triangular meet here on March 20 with Hunter College and Brooklyn College. The local girls lost both meets by 9-0 scores, and in the third meet of the afternoon, Hunter defeated Brooklyn, 7-2. McDermitt, Trotter, Dunn, Nash, and Massenberg fenced for William and Mary. It was the girls' first attempt at intercollegiate fencing competition.

The men's varsity outdoor track team was against Dartmouth. The team at present scheduled to open its season here last Saturday looks weaker than any William and Mary track team in the past several years. Track coach Scrap Chandler, says, however, that he believes the team will improve as the season goes along and that it will give a good account of itself in state meets. Missing are Joe Flickinger, Paul Mingee, and Platt Bullard—all stellar performers on last year's team. The outdoor trackmen are captained by Al DeGutis this year. Roller, Blanton, Zable, DeGutis, Lang, Duke, Lesner, Livesay, Kyle, Roland, Dudley, and Crutchfield are expected to be chief point-getters for the Indian cindermen.

Noblin '27 Heads Scott County Schools

Scott Noblin, rural school supervisor of Gate City, was unanimously elected superintendent of Scott county schools by the county school board this month. Noblin, a graduate of the class of 1927, and who received his M. A. here in 1933, was a member of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity while at College.

He succeeds W. D. Smith, superintendent for the past 51 years, who declined to serve again.

The board had previously reappointed Smith, who asked that his name be withdrawn, explaining that he did not believe his health would permit him to give the service to the office he would like to see it have.

Noblin, Smith's nephew, was then nominated and elected by unanimous vote of the six board members present.

He was principal of the Rye Cove high school several years ago when

Brothers Mark March Birthdays

Three brothers, all graduates of William and Mary, and members of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity, celebrated their birthdays within a six day period this month. They are, John Buxton Todd, A. B. '25; Lee Barksdale Todd, B. S. '27, and Richard Gideon Todd, B. C. '32.

Dr. Lee Todd, practitioner at Quinwood, W. Va., celebrated his 32nd birthday. Dr. John Todd, dentist at Elizabeth Buxton Hospital, celebrated his birthday March 7. He was born in 1903. Gideon Todd, chemist for the State ABC board celebrated his 33rd birthday.

John and Lee Todd were outstanding members of the William and Mary football team several seasons ago. John captained the eleven and was outstanding as a linesman. He was placed on several all-star selections. They attended the Medical College of Virginia after finishing at the College of William and Mary.

When they were younger and living at home, they had joint birthday celebrations, but now that is impossible. Gideon, however, frequently spends a week-end with his parents.

it was struck by a tornado, killing one teacher and 12 students. He was praised at the time for getting other students out of the building before it was demolished.

"Uncle" Alex has been employed off and on by the College in several positions for a period of 40 years.

"Uncle" Alex has been an absent figure on the campus the past two years because of a paralytic stroke.

The Institute on the Teaching of Foreign Languages will be given during the first six weeks of the session, June 14 to July 3, and aims to promote the teaching of foreign languages in the secondary schools to insure sound principles of instruction. The work offered will introduce teachers to the new methods of instruction as well as the latest theories of curriculum construction and administration. The Institute will be headed by Professor A. P. Wagener, head of the Department of Ancient Languages, and Professor J. R. Fisher, head of the Department of Modern Languages at the college. Opportunities for observation in correct methods will be provided by demonstration classes in the Matthew Whaley high school. A series of round-table conferences, and of archaeological and literary lectures of interest to the entire group will occupy certain evenings.

An educational conference, to be given during the opening weeks of the term, and to be devoted to a discussion of secondary education and conducted by men nationally known in this field, will be another special feature of the session.

The largest number of summer courses yet to be offered by the Marshall Wythe School of Government and Citizenship, embracing work in Economics, Government, History and Sociology, are listed in the catalogue.

College Girl Wins National Prize

Peticolas Lee, dark haired, smiling hostess of historic Raleigh Tavern, was considerably surprised when on the morning of March 15th, a representative of a soap company, told her she had been awarded the grand prize in a nationwide contest, and would receive an award of $1,000 a year for the rest of her life.

Miss Lee, who came to William and Mary in 1921, and became one of the founders of the Beta Lambda chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta, didn't know what to say, but went ahead with her work while preparing to speak on two nationwide National Broadcasting Co. networks.

Last fall she went into a Williamsburg department store, purchased a few bars of soap, and wrote a 25 word letter on why she preferred this brand. In, as d.d hundreds of thousands of other contestants, went Miss Lee's letter. And out of it all she emerged the grand prize winner.

A descendant of the Lees and Ludwells, families whose prominence date back to the days when Williamsburg was Middle Plantation, Miss Lee is also a descendant by another line to Peter Robb Debeuville a citizen of France who came to Virginia with Lafayette and afterwards settled in Williamsburg.

With other members of her family, she has been associated in various capacities with the Restoration here since its beginning.

Henkel Press Is College Treasure

library, most of which are printed in the German language, shows the quality of the work turned out by the Henkel Press over a period of years. The collection includes one of the rarest of Henkel publications, a copy of "Berichtung der Special Conferenz" printed in October, 1806, the first book printed on the old press, and one of two copies known to be in existence. The latest volume in the collection is the "history of Hebron Lutheran church, Madison county, 1717 to 1907" by the Rev. W. P. Huddle, pastor, printed in 1908 by Henkel and company, printers and publishers.

The library's collection includes copies of the Evangelical Lutheran conferences, in addition to the one mentioned above in 1806, for 1807, 1808, (two copies), 1810, and 1822, for Virginia, all in German. Other reports of conferences are 1811 for North Carolina; 1821 for Tennessee; 1814, 1817 and 1818 for North Carolina, all in German.

There is a leaflet of 14 pages on the special conference of the Lutheran church at Woodstock in 1815, also in German. Several other small books, all in German, are in the collection.

One of the finest books in the college's collection is the "Book of Concord," the symbolical books of the Evangelical Lutheran church. This volume include more than 700 pages, all carefully indexed. It was translated from German and published by Solomon Henkel and brothers, in New Market, 1851. It is described on the "correct English version for descendants of German emigrants in America." The book is about the size of a copy of the Acts of Assembly as printed today. It is excellently bound in leather, of fine type and shows the quality of work done by this establishment nearly a century ago.

Ambrose Henkel, the founder, aided in the translation, begun by his father, the Rev. Paul Henkel. The volume was revised and reprinted in 1854.

Many in Collection

Other books in the collection may be briefly described as follows: 'Scenes in Heaven,' by Henry Stilling, professor of the University of Marburg, in Germany. This is an English translation by Gottlieb Shober of Salem, N. C., in 1813 and carries the signature of Ambrose Henkel.

A German prayer book, printed in 1810 in German, containing prayers, psalms and services; the Catechism of Martin Luther, printed in German by Ambrose Henke, and company in 1811; a German Catechism by the Rev. Paul Henkel, printed in German in 1816; an English Catechism, with prayers, etc., printed in 1816; and ABC and picture book, illustrated and in both German and English, printed at S. Henkel's printing office, 1817;

A large primer and grammar, dated 1820; a German ABC book, also illustrated, all in German; a volume of 180 pages, dated 1825, and titled "An Answer to Mr. Joseph Moore, the Methodist, with a few fragments on the doctrine of justification" by David Henkel, pastor of the Evangelical Lutheran church, Lincoln county, North Carolina, and printed at New Market on S. Henkel's printing press by S. G. Henkel;

In addition to several other German language books, there is in English "Idothea, or the Divine Image," by Joseph Salyards, a poem of 300 pages, printed by Henkel, Calvert and company, New Market, 1874.

There is also "Echoes from the Land of the Golden Horseshoe" by Anna Venable Koiner, printed in 1897 by Henkel and company. The collection shows the type of work turned out by this establishment, not only in its early days, but down to recent years.

It is fitting that it should be a memorial to a descendant of one so prominently connected with the printing industry in Virginia and even more fitting that it should be deposited in Williamsburg, where the first press south of the Potomac was established in 1730. Perhaps, some day, the press of Virginia will establish a printing museum in this city containing examples of early Virginia printing and equipment.

COLLEGE QUARTERLY FEATURES MANY ILLUSTRATIONS IN LARGE SPRING ISSUE

Industries of Petersburg, With Old Photographs; Work in Colonial Historical Park Are Included in New Volume.

HOMES IN CHARLES CITY

Comprising approximately 150 pages and illustrated with more than thirty photographs, the winter issue of the William and Mary College Quarterly has come from the press. The magazine is edited by President John Stewart Bryan and Dr. E. G. Swem, college librarian.

Leading the list of contents is an article entitled "Rise of Industry in Ante-Bellum Petersburg" by Edward A. Wyatt, IV. This article contains an interesting description of the varied industries of Petersburg which included tobacco, cotton, milling, and iron. The article is prefaced by a woodcut from Harper's Weekly of 1862, showing the city of Petersburg.

A number of photographs illustrating the work being done by the Colonial Historical Park follows the article. In addition to the views showing the Parkway and scenes of restored buildings in Yorktown, two views of archaeological work on Jamestown Island also are included.

The second of the longer articles in the Quarterly is the article by Dr. Wesley Frank Craven on "Lewis Hughes' 'Plaine and True Relation of the Goodness of God Towards the Sommer Islands.'" Dr. Craven prefaces the reprint of Hughes' tract with an account of the Sommer Islands, the name by which Bermuda was first designated. The tract is reprinted with historical notes by Dr. Craven, professor of Colonial History at the College of William and Mary.

Interest in the Quarterly is heightened by the inclusion of some eighteen photographs of Charles City County homes. The original photographs were taken by R. M. Allyn, photographer of the State Conservation and Development Commission and were reproduced through the permission of Chairman Wilbur C. Hall of the Commission, with notes by Dr. H. J. Eckenrode, historian of the Commission.

Views of such well-known houses as Westover, Shirley and Berkeley were omitted for the reason that they are easily available in historical and architectural periodicals and in the standard books on colonial architecture.

Houses in the collection are Greenway, birthplace of John Tyler, with front and rear views; Sherwood Forest, home of John Tyler after he was president; Kittewan, home of the Minge family, front and rear views; Farmington; Mount Sterling, home of the Jerdone family; Lower Weyanoke; Meadow Springs; Bush Hill; Roe Farm; restored house at Upper Weyanoke; Westover Church; Burlingont; Montpelier; Porto Bello; River Edge, and the Glebe.

Another illustrated article is "Some Wards of Nottaway Parish" by Jean Agnew. The staircase, fire place and several outside views of the "Old Homestead" are used to illustrate the article.

Other articles in the Quarterly are "Sterman Family Notes" by M. W. West and Juliet Fauntleroy; "Will of Abraham Michaux" by W. S. Motron; "Inventory of the Estate of William Rind" by Floyd Flickinger; "Names from the Ledger of a Merchant in Aylett, 1781, 1782" by E. H. Ryland; "Warranty Church in New Kent" by Mrs. B. B. W. Turner; "The Lost Clergy List of 1758" by C. G. Chamberlayne; and a number of book reviews.

At nine o'clock, the Alumni Dance, will be held in the George Preston Blow Memorial Gymnasium.

Yellowed Clipping Tells of Old Grads

A yellowed clipping, on whose back are advertisements of a coach factory and a saddlery establishment, and taken from a Norfolk paper of an unknown date, was received at the Alumni office last week. Checking the names listed in the clipping, one giving the names of a graduating group of the old College, the Alumni office found these men were awarded degrees in 1853, placing the clipping as taken from an issue of June of that year.

That newspapers made mistakes then, as now, the name B. T. Taylor, was not found among the 1853 graduates, but a B. T. Tayloe, was awarded a degree at that commencement. The other names checked with College lists.
