Marshall-Wythe Building Dedicated; Lippmann-Weddell Get LL. D. Degrees

Columnist Praises Constitution As Supreme Over All Men; Lauds Framers as "Geniuses."

Walter Lippmann, columnist for the New York Herald Tribune, in the dedicatory address of the Marshall-Wythe School of Government and Citizenship, declared here April 23rd, that the "genius" of the authors of the American Constitution was perpetuated in a document "which is supreme over all men, including the elected representatives of the people."

Lippmann's was the main address of the dedication ceremonies of the Marshall-Wythe School which included introductions by President Bryan and Governor George C. Peery, and the conferring of the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon the columnist and Alexander Weddell, Ambassador to Argentina.

The nation's future "problem" Lippmann said, lies in bringing "the awakening masses, who have all the ultimate power, to govern themselves without being driven by their own inexperience and their own passing hysteria into disaster and the suicide of democracy."

The framers of the Constitution, he said, had a "prophetic insight" into the problems that later would confront the republic.

He outlined three principles which he said were "fundamental and enduring" in any form of government—Federalism, Constitutionalism, and "the idea that only the nation can alter the Constitution."

He said it generally was overlooked that "the only way in which great masses of people can remain politically united is by distinguishing the things which have to be done by the central government from those which can be done by local government."

"This is Federalism," Lippmann said, "and from it flows a second principle, which is even more fundamental. That is the principle of Constitutionalism itself, the principle that the powers of all governments are defined by law which only the nation—mark you—only the nation, and not some temporary partisan majority, can amend. . . ."

Fashion of the Day

The speaker said it was "the fashion of the day" to think that there are no durable ideas, no principles of government, only "facts and popular desires and political expedients."

"The art of government it is now said," Lippmann explained, "is a game played by a quarter-back who makes the rules of the game between the halves, and any rules are right if he has the bigger cheering section rooting for him. . . ."

"If the replacement of the horse and buggy by the automobile has made the political philosophy of the great Virginian obsolete, then I say to you

Ambassador Compares Government of U. S. and Argentina; Says Goals Are Same.

Presenting a comparison of the American and Argentine Constitutions in the ninth annual address under the James Gould Cutler foundation here April 23rd, Mr. Alexander Weddell, Ambassador to Argentina, said the Argentine and the United States were "set on the same course."

"Our goal is the same," he said. "Our methods of traveling may sometimes be different but our paths run parallel."

Ambassador Weddell spoke after dedicatory exercises for the Marshall-Wythe School of Government and Citizenship Building, at which he and Walter Lippmann, columnist and author, who delivered the dedicatory address, received the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

"I confess," the Ambassador declared "that the motive inspiring my words today is the desire to provide in your minds a 'high curiosity' to know better the great country to the south of us—now my temporary home. Such study would be a form of service to both countries."

He said the Argentine constitution provided the best example to be found of the application of English law under hispanic administration, "of the grafting of a shoot from Anglo-Saxon genius on a stock whose roots grew in Latin soil."

Describing "centralization" as natural in Argentina, he said the nation's "initial problem" was that of democratizing "a government with centralized tendencies. In other words, to develop a democracy from the top down, or the reverse of the process in the United States and England."

"And if one may dare to prophesy with regard to this great country," he said, "it would be that in Argentina, where there is familiarity with French political history and experience, there may be evolved with the passage of the years, in orderly steps, a government of the French type—a centralized democracy."

He pointed out one variation in the

To the Class of 1922

A decade and a half ago, our preceptors brought forth on this campus a new graduating class, registered in ignorance and dedicated to the proposition that all men (and women) are created unequal. Now we are engaged in a great civil enterprise, testing whether that class or any class so registered and dedicated, can long endure. We are striving on the great battlefield of economic conflict. We are invited and urged to take a day off from that strife and assemble on this hallowed ground to recall the preliminary skirmishes of life. The world will little note, nor long remember, what we say here; but we can never forget what we did here.

On the fifth of June let us assemble our graying heads, our crowfooting faces, and our spreading figures, and once more resolve that as long as we can gather in the Wren Building the class of 1922 shall not perish from the earth.

LOOKING AT SPORTS

With Spike Moore

THE month of April generally is referred to as being a very temperamental month. As a matter of fact, April was a very temperamental month, but no more so than was William and Mary's baseball team. Including the one game played in March and the one played thus far in May, the Indian nine has won but seven games out of fourteen played; and, although this is .500 baseball in any league, it is not in keeping with pre-season expectations of the Scott-coached team.

Co-defenders of the state title with Richmond, William and Mary has lost two games to state opponents—V. P. I. and Richmond—and now have only a mathematical chance of winning the state championship. Richmond leads state teams with a clean slate, and barring any upsets, are almost certain to win the title.

Opening their 21-game schedule here on March 30, the Tribemen won an easy 11-6 victory over Washington and Lee. On April 1, however, Dartmouth nosed out a ninth-inning triumph when Campbell, of the Big Green, hit a homer with one aboard. The Indians then ran up four conquests in a row, beating Vermont twice, Boston University once, and University of Virginia once. Three straight defeats followed on the heels of the winning splurge as the Scottmen dropped games to V. P. I., Michigan, and Richmond. Both the Michigan and Richmond games were decided by enemy homers in the final inning.

A Carolina tour found William and Mary upsetting a strong Wake Forest nine, 7-1, thereby handing the Deacons their first defeat in nine games; losing to N. C. U., 6-4; and finally losing out in the ninth inning to N. C. State, 6-5. Returning home, the Indians met Navy here on May 1 and dropped a close 8-7 game to the Middies. Previous to this, the Tribe had made a one-day trip to Charlottesville, where they licked the University of Virginia for the second time, 7-3.

Bob Adams has so far been the only dependable pitcher on what was expected to be one of the state's finest pitching staffs. Adams lost two games as a relief pitcher, both losses coming in the last inning on home run balls. Rosy Waugh, last year's freshman sensation, apparently hasn't recovered from a recent sinus operation and he has turned in only one really good performance this season—that a five-hit, 5-3 win over Virginia. Larry Oliver, big fastball pitcher, has been troubled with wildness, as has Walter Zable. Micky Daley, another pitcher, recently gave up baseball after going through a period of ineffectiveness.

SCRAP Chandler's William and Mary trackmen went through a seven-meet schedule with five defeats and two victories. Triumphs were gained against V. M. I. and Hampden-Sydney, and losses were suffered to Dartmouth, Richmond, Virginia, N. C. U., and Maryland. Dartmouth and N. C. U. won easily over the Indian runners, but the other reverses were decided by fairly close margins.

Richmond's Spiders, in whipping the Chandlermen 65-61, turned in their first track victory over William and Mary in twelve years. This meet was decided in the final event when Alvin of Richmond, upset favored Walter Zable in the low hurdles.

Al DeGutis, captain of the Indian team, was a consistent winner in weight and field events. DeGutis' specialties were the shot put and the discus, but he also entered the broad and high jumps. Ranny Duke and Elridge Blanton were effective in the quarter-mile, Bill Marsh lost only twice in the two-mile run, and George Roller was effective both as a miler and half-miler. Other dependable point-winners were Murray in the high and broad jumps, Kyle and Roland in the high hurdles, Zable in the dashes and low hurdles, and Lang and Christian in the javelin.

The William and Mary tennis team opened a 16-match schedule here Apr. 13 against Virginia's strong netmen and received a 9-0 shutout for their efforts. The Indian racqueteers then dropped a 5-4 decision to Maryland, but came back with successive victories over Wake Forest, V. P. I. and Norfolk Division. Richmond, beaten only once in fourteen matches, defeated the Tribemen, 8-1. A Carolina trip resulted in a second triumph over Wake Forest, but other matches were lost to Duke and N. C. State. Maryland again took a 5-4 match from the Indians here last Thursday.

Playing No. 1 position for the local netters is Carl Mitson, last year's captain. Bill Reynolds has been filling the No. 2 spot with Jimmy Ryder, Lorimer Walker, Sidney Jaffe, and Linwood James rounding out the team. Other players who have seen action this season are Julian Mason, Ed Downing, and John Teal. Five additional matches are scheduled for the Indians here with N. C. State, Lynchburg College, Johns Hopkins, V. M. I. and a return match with Richmond.

SPRING freshman athletics have been unusually poor for William and Mary. The Papoose track team has won but one dual meet while losing five. A victory was hung up against V. M. I. frosh, but losses were suffered to Maury, John Marshall, Richmond frosh, Norfolk Division, and the Newport News Apprentice School. Two more meets remain of the Papoose schedule—one with Newport News high school and one with Hopewell high. Lloyd Phillips, a Lynchburg youth, has been a consistent first-place winner for the freshmen in the shot, put the discus, and the 100 and 220-yard dashes.

Freshman baseball has so far been extremely disappointing. After winning their opener over an impotent Drewerville high nine, the Papooses were blanked by Hopewell high, 10-0 and were routed by John Marshall high (no, it was baseball), 32-3. Crewe high then annexed a 4-2 victory at the expense of the frosh. Following these defeats, the Papooses started a winning streak of two straight games, winning 9-2 over South Norfolk high and 10-2 over Maury. Norfolk Division ended the "streak" with a 10-0 triumph over the little Indians. Three remaining games are scheduled with Fork Union, Thomas Jefferson high, and Norfolk Division.

There was a general lull in women's athletics following the close of basketball season. A co-ed swimming team placed fifth in the annual women's Eastern Region Telegraphic Swimming Meet. Helen Carl, Claudia Torrence, and Helen Strange were point-getters for the local co-eds.

The feminine tennis team has played and won two practice matches from the Hilton village Women's club, but the Indianettes do not meet a regularly scheduled opponent until the week-end of May 14-15 when they take a northern trip for matches against Notre Dame, Baltimore; Hunter College, and N. Y. U. A match had been scheduled here on May 1 against Beaver College, of Philadelphia, but bad roads made it impossible for Beaver to appear for the match.

Daniel Trigg Sargeant, A. B. '36, is practicing law at Gate City, Va.

Lucille N. Stonnell, B. S. Home Ec. '32, representing the Kelvinator Company of Detroit, Mich., held a demonstration school in Newport News, Va., early in April.

Dr. Clarence Porter Jones, Jr., '29, Mrs. Jones, and their little daughter, Sudie, of Craigsville, Va. have been visiting Dr. Jones' parents in Newport News.

E. Ralph James, B. S. '16, attorney at Hampton, Va., was the honor guest and principal speaker at The Buckroe Beach Civic Association's first annual bunsuet.

Sudie Jones, A. B. '35, violinist, of Newport News, Va. gave a concert in Suffolk recently. Included in her selections were Beethoven's Sonata in F (4 movements) and the Max Bruch Concerto in G-minor.

Rev. Jennings Wise Hobson, '05, has been Rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Bluefield, W. Va., for twenty years. Mr. Hobson is a son of the late Rev. John Cannon Hobson, '76.

Argentine constitution from that of the United States was a clause prohibiting the President, who is elected for a six-year term, from leaving the country or the capital without the consent of Congress. In the length of the terms of the President and Vice President, both six years and with the provision they may not be reelected without the interval of one term, he said "we see again uneasiness over the possibility of a dictatorship."

Ambassador Weddell said discussion of a six-year term for the American President was followed with "great interest" in Argentina, where "there seems to be a consensus of opinion" that the longer term presents many advantages over the quadrennial periods.

"A noteworthy deviation of the American model," he continued, is the provision that the President shall take part in the framing of laws, in addition to approving and promulgating them. . . .

"Since the Argentine viewpoint is a flat recognition that good government implies sympathy and good will between the executive and the legislature, it is unreasonable from this viewpoint to expect adequate enforcement of laws by a branch of the government which had no hand in their making and which may be out of sympathy with them.

"The authority thus conferred on the President to initiate legislation would seem to possess certain obvious advantages over our limitation of his powers to making and sending messages on the State of the Union."

The speaker also pointed out that a bill initiated by the Executive "Need not be left to the hostility or indifference of Congress, but may be defended on the floor of either house by a member of the Cabinet." In Argentina, he said, the people always had looked to the executive for "great reforms" rather than the legislative authority.

"The Argentine people has never been afraid of conferring great powers on their chief executives," he said. "At the same time they have endeavored, as suggested, to provide safeguards against an excessive and arbitrary use of the powers thus granted."

Contrary to the history of the United States, he said in Argentina there was a long struggle between the executive and the judiciary resulting in the ultimate freeing of the latter from "a subservient position."

be really modern. Have the courage of your modernity, sack the professors with the judges, put your books along with the Constitution in a museum, install a ticker in each students bedroom, turn the lecture halls into theatres for watching current events by television, and call it a day."

Introducing the speaker Governor Peery said, "There is abundant reason for the eminence he has achieved in his profession. It rests on a brilliant record of hard work and rich experience. He is preeminently fitted for the mission of depicting to the American people the kaleidoscopic events of today and the uncertain things of tomorrow."

President Bryan said Lippmann had brought to the understanding of world problems "the sure perspective of wide and accurate knowledge and the adherence to conviction which is the final test for the conduct of life."

may retire between the ages of 55 and 69, if they have completed thirty years of Federal service, or may retire upon reaching 70, if ten years have been spent in Federal service. The average age of the present court, he said, is 59.

None of its decisions in respect to the constitutionality of any law, he said, has ever been disputed.

"The various influences at work in the attempt to erect a free government upon the ruins of absolutism," he said, "which so long crushed the people of Spain and her subjects abroad, is plainly evident in the Argentine legal fabric."

While procedure in Federal and provincial courts is now cumbersome, he said, it "cannot but be anticipated that essential reports will come with the passage of time."
