OLDEST LIVING ALUMNUS OBSERVES 83RD BIRTHDAY

John Peyton Little, oldest living alumnus of the College was 83 on August 11th and celebrated his birthday by a trip through part of a twenty-five thousand acre tract of timber land. Still very active in the lumber business, Mr. Little was classified in the last Alumni record as being "dead."

A telegram of greeting, sent by President John Stewart Bryan, did not reach his camp until the 14th, on which day he answered the communication. The telegram and letters are as follows:

"Mr. John Peyton Little Clearwater, Fla.
"William and Mary, your proud Alma Mater, sends congratulations and best wishes on your birthday. Fourscore years and three is a long time, but no time is too long for the memories and affection of this college for you and her other sons.

John Stewart Bryan, President.
"Your wire of the 11th, which was forwarded to me at Lake City, Fla., where I was at work on a twenty-five thousand acre tract of timber land, was a most delightful surprise. I can think of nothing more pleasant than to get such a message from the President of my Alma Mater, for the old college has always held a warm place in my heart and it has been the dream of my life to some day return to the scenes of my boyhood; but raising a family of five and educating them does not give much leeway for pleasure trips.

As I tell my friends, I am not old, have just lived a good many years, for I am still strong and vigorous, have perfect health and find quite a lot of work in my lines.

Thanking you again for your kind remembrance, I am,

Yours &c,
J. P. Little."

Francis Martin Reed, feature writer for the St. Petersburg Times, wrote an interesting story of Mr. Little's life, published in the August 7th issue of the Times.

Melville (Stumpy) Bryant, '37, former W&M star halfback, has accepted a position as backfield coach at Newport News high school.

Dr. Calkins, brother of Miss Calkins of the William and Mary faculty, received his B. S. degree at William and Mary 1925. He holds M. A. and Ph. D. degrees from Stanford University. He was a member of the Stanford faculty before going to the University of California, and a member of the research staff of the Food Research Institute at Stanford.

Said to Be One of Largest Groups to Return to William and Mary Campus.

The four days of commencement activities and festivities, June 4-7, were participated in and greatly enjoyed by one of the largest, if not the largest, alumni groups that has ever returned to this ancient and honorable campus.

The program opened on Friday night with the June Ball in the Sunk-en Garden. In the center of an especially constructed dance floor, containing nearly 50,000 square feet of space, was placed a huge Grecian urn filled with gorgeous magnolia blossoms the beauty of which was accentuated by unusual and spectacular lighting effects. Music was furnished by the famous Mal Hallett orchestra.

Saturday, Alumni Day, was a day of rarest June beauty. The annual meeting of the general Alumni Association was held in the Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Auditorium at 11 A. M. It was the most spirited and lively meeting that has been held for many years. Quite a number of alumni participated in the discussions, and nominations were received from the floor for vacancies on the Board and Committees. The following resolution was presented by D. Gardiner Tyler, Jr., '20, and adopted:

"RESOLVED: That this Association go on record to favor the passage of a statute by the next General Assembly requiring that a majority of the Board of Visitors be Alumni of this institution;

That the president and members of the Board of Managers present to the appropriate committee of the General Assembly the wishes of the Alumni Association relative to this matter."

President Healy stated that the Board of Managers wished to recommend to the Association that the Board of Visitors of the College be requested to adopt a ratio of 60 men to 40 women in selecting students for the College in the future, and that preference be given to sons and daughters of alumni of the College. The motion was seconded by Cornelia S. Adair, '23, and after considerable discussion was adopted.

The terms of Dr. S. B. Hall, J. E. Healy and Arthur Carv T. Grayson as members of the Board of Managers of the Alumni Association having expired the following were nominated and elected to the Board for a term of three years: Dr. Sidney R. Hall, '16; Joseph E. Healy, '10; and James S. Jenkins, Jr. '23.

Dr. John B. Todd, '25, was elected to membership on the 3-3-3 Athletic Committee to succeed Judge J. Lester Hooker whose term had expired.

At 12:00 memorial services were conducted at Colonel Ewell's grave on the campus in memory of William and Mary's dead. The memorial address was made by Judge John Weymouth, '94; prayer and benediction pronounced by Rev. Earnest A. deBordenave, '32; and Mr. Archie Brooks, '75, placed the memorial wreath on Col. Ewell's grave. The College choir assisted in the services.

The Alumni luncheon was held in the College dining hall at 1:30. At this time the senior class was inducted into the body of the alumni, and alumni medallions for loyalty and service to the College were presented by president John Stewart Bryan to:

DR. SIDNEY B. HALL

Dear Friends:

It is with deep appreciation that I accepted your decisions at the last meeting of the Alumni Association of the College of William and Mary, in electing me your President for the ensuing year. years, principal of the Staunton High School and is now head of the English Department at Binford Junior High School in Richmond and is continuing work for her doctorate in English at New York University. In addition to her professional work she has found time to participate in professional and alumnae associations, having been an officer of the William and Mary Alumnae Club of Richmond. She is recognized at this time as an educator, executive, and loyal friend and alumna of the College.

JAMES MALCOLM BRIDGES of the class of 1925 has achieved distinction and reflected credit upon his Alma Mater as secretary of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, Richmond, Virginia. In addition to his exacting duties as leader of the Chamber of Commerce he has found time to be president of the Richmond-William and Mary Alumni Club as well as accept membership on the Board of Managers of the Alumni Association and discharge the duties which that office has placed upon him. His example should go far in inspiring the alumni in the direction of faithful service to the College.

JAMES DURRETTE CARNEAL, JR. of the class of 1920 has most active in behalf of his Alma Mater among the Richmond alumni. In addition to his efforts in Richmond, he has contributed generously of his time and thought to the welfare of the College. In the field of business he has achieved a position of distinction. He is recognized for his qualities of leadership and loyalty which are unsurpassed among the younger alumni.

ALVIN PAUL HINES of the class of 1899 has served the College faithfully and earnestly for a longer period of time than any other alumnus presented for recognition by the Alumni Association on this occasion. He has the distinction of having had a daughter graduate at the College in the class of 1929. Mr. Hines may be seen present for every alumni and every home coming program which the College sponsors. He is indeed an inspiring example of alumni loyalty.

EDWARD CLAUDE JOHNSON of the class of 1924 is one of the youngest trial examiners in the legal department of the Federal Government and is recognized by reason of his devotion and loyalty to his Alma Mater as evidenced by a constant desire and willingness to be of service. The fact that he is alumni speaker on this occasion bespeaks of the high regard in which he is held by officers of the Alumni Association.

HUGH LEANDER SULFRIDGE of the class of 1909 has devoted his life to the cause of education in the State of Virginia. He has achieved splendid recognition in the educational field as a high school principal and as president of the Virginia Education Association. Standing, as he does, for the best in the culture of this era he reflects credit upon his Alma Mater.

PRESTON PHILLIPS TAYLOR of the class of 1915 has won distinction in his chosen field, the legal profession. He is a worthy brother of Chas. A. Taylor, Jr. who was for four years secretary of the William and Mary Alumni Association. His contribution to the College is in the direction of a fine appreciation of its traditions and a splendid loyalty to its ideals.

EVERETT ELDRIDGE WORRELL of the class of 1901 has been for 36 years a leader in educational thought in this commonwealth. His service in the field of Education and his unswerving loyalty to the College have won for him a place in the affections of the alumni of this institution surpassed by that of no other alumnus. His modesty and his devotion to the best interest of his Alma Mater have won for him the recognition which he receives on this occasion.

The annual alumni address was delivered by Edward Claude Johnson, A. B. '24, of Washington, D. C. Mr. Johnson implored the alumni to extend the continuity of the heritage of the William and Mary traditions

Secretary's Letter to Alumni Pledges Strengthening of W.&M.

September 1, 1937.

To The Alumni,
College of William and Mary.

The Board of Managers of the William and Mary Alumni Association has honored me by electing me to the office of Executive Secretary of the Association, which honor I have been grateful to accept, and I am this day entering upon my duties of the position with a very keen realization of the responsibilities attending the work and with an earnest and sincere desire that for as long as I am to hold the position, I shall be able to render service to Alma-Mater and the Alumni Association.

I shall interest myself in carrying forward our Alumni program already established by my predecessors and, to the best of my ability, will execute the policies adopted by the Board of Managers. Believing that the Alumni Association, in conjunction with various Alumni Clubs throughout the country, offer a splendid opportunity for all Alumni to participate in the affairs of the College, and to be of inestimable service to the College, it shall be my purpose to conduct the business of the Executive Office in such a way that will encourage this cooperation. To that end, I invite and truly hope that every Alumnus and every Club will, from time to time and whenever necessary, make suggestions and criticism for the constant improvement of our Alumni work. I ask that we order our future experience by remembering with Kipling, that:

"This is the Law of the Jungle—as old and as true as the sky—
And the wolf that shall keep it shall prosper, but the wolf that shall break it must die;
As the creeper that girdles the tree-trunk, the Law runneth forward and back—
For the strength of the Pack is the wolf, and the strength of the wolf is the Pack."

I ask for your interest and cooperation. I promise you my very best effort in the pursuit of our common goal—the strengthening of William and Mary.

Faithfully yours,

equalled by few and surpassed by none in this country.

In the late afternoon a reception was given on the west lawn of the Sir Christopher Wren Building.

The George Preston Blow Gymnasium was elaborately decorated for the Alumni dance, 9 to 12 P. M. at which music was furnished by Mal Hallett's orchestra.

The Alumni Register

Many Alumni were seen on the campus Alumni Day and during Finals who had failed to register. The register in the alumni office, however, shows a total of 340 names. Much as we should like to list all of them space will not permit.

The first name appearing on the book is that of Judge Harry C. Hughes, of Galveston, Texas, who arrived June 3rd with his wife adolescent son and younger daughter. This was Judge Hughes' first visit to the College since he left here in 1897.

Among the early arrivals were: John M. Wager, '92; A. Paul Hines, '99; H. Lester Hooker, '07; Rev. C. H. Long, '11; Dr. W. C. Webb, '97, and his daughter, Mrs. Rosalind Webb Jenkins, '30; J. W. Hedrick, '17; Dr. W. T. Hodges, '02; J. Conway Chichester, '93; Frank M. Chichester, '95; Peyton M. Chichester, '06; Dr. Amos R. Koontz, '10. Comdr. J. Leslie Hall, Jr., '09; Turner Henley, '22; E. L. Wright, '15; Catherine T. Dennis, '21; R. W. Copeland, '20; Lucy Mason Holt, '24; I. W. Robertson, '17; Paul Derring, '17; Cornelia S. Adair, '23; E. Ralph James, '16; Mary T. Pyle, '30; Robert Harper, '23; Melba Graveley Finch, '28; James S. Jenkins, '23; Jimmy Robertson, '29; Margaret Jeter Burrus, '24; John Garland Pollard, Jr. '23; Dorothy Seward Quinn, '27; Page Drinker, '28; Rufus Powell, '92; Dr. John B. Todd, '25; Jimmy Barnes, '27; Carl Andrews, '27; Art Matsu, '28; Meb Davis, '28; Virginia Ayers Woody, '27, (and still the belle of the class); Florence Bainbridge, '32; Brooks George, '32; Binford Sykes, '32; "Hank" Lawson, '32; Charles P. McCurdy, Jr., '33; Owen E. McBride, '33; Martha Seaver, '35; Ernest Goodrich, '35; and R. S. Wallace, '36.

According to the register, the six oldest alumni present were: E. D. Spencer, 1874, of New York City; Archie Brooks, Jr., 1876, of Williamsburg; Magruder Powell, 1880, of Baltimore, Md.; J. A. Salle, 1881, of Hallsboro, Va.; P. S. Stephenson, 1890 of Norfolk, Va.; W. C. L. Taliaferro, 1891, of Hampton, Va.

The eleven reunion classes were reasonably well represented. The class of 1935 lead with an attendance of 39; the class of 1927 was second with 31 present. Most of the classes had no formal program and all through the day on the front campus here and there little groups gathered to chat and to laugh over each other's reminiscences.

Inspired by the thought of hearing again the silvery oratory of their classmate, Henry Harrison Simms, who made a formal address, members of the class of 1917 met again at 7 P. M. in the east wing of the college dining hall for a banquet. As promised on that memorable day in 1917, Vernon M. Geddy re-read the class prophecy which, to the merriment of this particular group, proved to be about 95 per cent "false prophecy."

Members of the class of 1927 found their way to Squirrel Point on Lake Matoaka where they held a picnic supper and considered plans for the booklet entitled "The class of 1927—Ten Years Out" which they hope to publish soon and to also talk over plans for their next reunion in 1942.

The William and Mary Alumnae Association of Richmond added zest and color to the day by appearing in a body, forty strong, adorned with ribbon badges of identification.

At 11 A. M. on Sunday the baccalaureate sermon was delivered in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial auditorium by Dr. Sparks W. Melton, who used as his text, "Is Jehovah with us, or is He not?"

Monday at 10 A. M. degrees were conferred on the graduates by President Bryan. The academic procession formed in the Sunken Garden and marched to the west portico of the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Former Governor of Virginia, E. Lee Trinkle, the speaker on this occasion made an inspiring address on "Qualitative Values as well as Quantitative Values." The honorary degree of doctor of laws was conferred on Ex.-Gov. Trinkle. The recessional proceeded eastward through the Wren Building and disbanded at the president's house.

Since September first means "moving day" for many families, please be so kind as to fill out the enclosed blank if you have changed your address and mail it to P. O. Box 154, Williamsburg, Virginia.

RICHARD CASSIUS LEE MONCURE—1891, died on May 25, 1937, in St. Luke's Hospital, Richmond, Va., after a brief illness. Age 65. The funeral services, attended by the commonwealth's official body, were held at old Acquia Church in Stafford County, Virginia. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Wallace Moncure, and two daughters, Miss Dora Wallace Moncure and Miss Margaret Gascoigne Moncure.

After leaving the College of William and Mary, where he was a room mate of the late Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, Mr. Moncure graduated from the T. C. Williams School of Law. Early in manhood he established great popularity which lead him to the House of Delegates and later to the Virginia State Senate. During the entire Wilson administration he was Collector of Internal Revenue for the Eastern District of Virginia. For the past sixteen years he had been a member of the Board of Movie Governors. In addition to these activities he owned and managed Kirkwood Farm near Falmouth and was associated with his brother-in-law, G. B. Wallace, in the pickle industry, which latter association gave him the sobriquet of "Pickle Dick." He was also prominent in church and masonic affairs. Pickle Dick Moncure stood four-square to every wind that blew; and was the most beloved citizen of Stafford County.

The eulogy delivered by Judge Robert Ould at the funeral of the grandfather of Mr. Moncure may aptly be applied to him: "Let us thank God that he gave to the country such a patriot; to the State such a citizen; to the administration of the Law such an advocate; and to those who loved him such a friend; for never have clods of Stafford soil rattled on a casket that contained a purer heart than that which now contains the remains of Richard Cassius Lee Moncure."

After serving briefly as an English Master at Culver Military Academy in Indiana, he joined the faculty of the University of Texas in 1899, becoming professor in 1918.

Four years ago the Harvard University Press published Dr. Campbell's "The Mind of Poe and Other Studies," made up of seven essays on Poe in which Dr. Campbell sought to reconstruct Poe's cultural development particularly with reference to what Poe actually did know and what, from his writings, he appeared to know.

From 1932 to 1935, Dr. Campbell was associate editor of "American Literature". He contributed to the Cambridge History of American Literature and various literary journals.
