1965 COLONIAL ECHO

College of William and Mary

Williamsburg, Va.

FOREWORD

The mace of William and Mary symbolizes leadership. Traditionally, the mace is passed at June graduation from the outgoing president of the student body to the president-elect. The purpose of this ceremony is to show that student leadership does not end with the graduation of past leaders but is enduring. With each new session other young men and women need the opportunity to accept and to bear the burden of campus responsibilities. The ritual of the mace involves the recognition both of this fact and of its underlying principle: that leadership must be delegated to the students so that they may develop not only their own characters but a strong student body and thus a dynamic and progressive college community.

DR. ALEXANDER KALLOS
Professor of Modern Languages

DEDICATION

S.C.L., Vienna Commercial Academy; M.A. and Ph.D., University of Pennsylvania; these constitute the formal educational background of Dr. Alexander Kallos. But, this man, who has become a familiar personage to so many of us on campus, has a knowledge that far extends the bounds of any formal training.

Dr. Kallos was born in Austria and spent a large part of his life touring and working in Europe. He has worked as a proofreader, toured and worked with a theatrical troop, and dabbled in dramatic endeavors on the Continent. While working on his thesis, which was on Anton Wildgans, Dr. Kallos took up residence at the home of the subject of his topic in Austria.

Since he arrived at William and Mary as a German instructor in 1949, Dr. Kallos has become known for his interesting and different classes. It is not unusual for him to burst into song in order to demonstrate a poem set to music in German. Anyone who has attended one of Dr. Kallos' classes knows by heart the rule concerning his pet peeves: he cannot abide anyone who arrives late to class, yawns in class, or falls asleep in class. A student would find it hard to violate any one of these standards since the mood of a Dr. Kallos class hardly permits slothfulness.

Dr. Alexander Kallos is not known for an aloof attitude toward his students. He has a knack for becoming involved with students, their problems and their endeavors. He may be found at student parties involved in enthusiastic discussion or in the Wigwam enjoying conversation. His support and advice while serving on the Student Publication Committee (for fourteen of his sixteen years at the College) is always received with respect based on the worthwhile attitude he radiates. Dr. Kallos participates in a number of faculty committees which deal directly with the students: committee of Selection of Students for Foreign Study, Prizes and Special Awards Committee, Curriculum Committee, and Special Events Committee.

William and Mary, its students and its faculty, are indeed fortunate to have at their disposal the services of a man so well traveled and so well read. Dr. Kallos has become a part of this campus and a representative of this campus. During his sixteen years here, he has become known and remembered by the majority of the student body. Without him there would exist an unfulfilled void in the spirit of the campus. It is with great pride that we dedicate the 1965 COLONIAL ECO to Dr. Alexander Kallos.

Dr. Kallos traditionally leads the Academic Processions.

An active interest in the Humanities is an important aspect of his personality.

His familiar laugh and quick sense of humor add spark and spirit to his classes.

THE BOARD OF VISITORS

Since 1693 and the Royal Charter of the College of William and Mary, the Board of Visitors has been the governing force behind the College. The Board has traveled with the College through nearly three hundred years of history and of change. In the past few years the College has taken on a new visage. Several short blocks from the older, quietly sedate part of campus the College is acquiring a bold, modernistic skyline. These and other modifications and advancements in the history of the College have been largely a result of dedicated work by numerous members of the Board of Visitors through the years.

The power given to the Board in 1693 was reiterated in the Code of Virginia. Thus, the Board continues to hold the same rights granted under the Royal Charter provided the actions of the Board are not contrary to the By-Laws of the Board or to Virginia's state laws. The Board's duties include a responsibility for maintaining the property of the College, for drawing up the laws which govern the College, for approving the budget and for setting tuition rates, fees, and the requirements for admission. The Board is also responsible for appointing the President of the College and other administrators and faculty members. With certain faculty members, the Board works to establish the program of study for the College. In addition, the Board is responsible for establishing the policies and supervising the operation of the two-year colleges, Richard Bland in Petersburg and Christopher Newport in Newport News.

The Board consists of fourteen members including a Rector, Vice-Rector, and Secretary who are elected by the Board. The members are appointed by the Governor of Virginia and serve without compensation for four years. These appointments are staggered so that there is never a complete change-over in the membership of the Board. The Board meets regularly in September, November, January, and May. Special meetings may be called at the request of any five of the members of the Board on College issues. Any member of the faculty or of the student body who wishes to present some matter to the Board may do so through the President.

THE PRESIDENT

It is a rare occurrence that an alumnus becomes President of his Alma Mater. This happened at William and Mary when Dr. Davis Y. Paschall took the oath of President on August 16, 1960.

As State Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Paschall has served on all the governing boards of State institutions of higher learning in Virginia, including William and Mary, and is thoroughly grounded in the policies and challenge of his Alma Mater.

In discussing his student days, 1928-1932, Dr. Paschall is quick to mention his service as a waiter in the dining hall, his position as the first evening clerk in the Williamsburg Inn, and the time spent in waiting on President J. A. C. Chandler's table. "In recalling these experiences," Dr. Paschall says, "there was one thing above all that impressed me most—the energy, the drive, the vision, and the obsessed sense of determination and dedication of President Chandler. This was truly my first opportunity to see in action on a day-to-day basis a man who gave of himself so devotedly and sacrificially for a cause, and that cause was William and Mary. I pray that in some worthy measure my years here in the same cause can emulate his."

When he received his degree in history in 1932, the President had amassed many honors while at William and Mary; he was a Phi Beta Kappa, a member of Eta Sigma Phi, History Club, International Relations Club, Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Phi Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, Clayton-Grimes Biological Club, and the Philomathean Literary Society; he received the Sullivan Award and the Sons of Cincinnati Award.

Dr. Paschall's roots at the College are deep; his wife is a graduate of the College, as is his daughter. Although the Paschalls' son is a freshman at Hampden-Sydney, Dr. Paschall believes "he may transfer one of these days."

Dr. Davis Y. Paschall is a dynamic personality at the College; he has seen it grow and develop, change and expand; his experiences with the College on undergraduate, graduate, and administrative levels have all been and will continue to be beneficial to the College.

ADMINISTRATION

The Administration, working closely with the President of the College and the Virginia State Legislature, is the governing body of the College. Financial, disciplinary, social and educational matters are directed and coordinated by various assigned members of the Administration.

The organization of the College Administration is an intricate plan headed by the Board of Visitors and terminated by the heads of the numerous academic departments. Within its scope are the Deans, the President, the Bursar, the Director of Development, and other offices which are essential to the operation of the College.

Many important changes were made at the administrative level of the College during the past year, partially due to the conclusion of the College's Self-Study Program, partially due to the expansion of the College. The creation of the office of the Dean of the College was the most notable change in organization; W. Melville Jones, previously Dean of Faculty, filled the new office. The Dean of the College is the ranking academic and administrative officer under the President. The purpose of this office is to coordinate the academic life of the College. Dr. Harold L. Fowler, Professor of History and Head of the Department of History, was named as successor to Dean Jones in the position of Dean of the Faculty.

Another academic position created by the reorganization is the Dean of Graduate Studies. This position has the job of coordinating the College's rapidly growing advanced curriculum. The Dean of Graduate Studies is Dr. Robert T. Siegel, Research Professor of Physics. A Division of General Studies, combining the summer session, the extension program, the evening program, and the branch centers, was also established by the reorganization plan of the administration.

W. MELVILLE JONES, Dean of the College

President Davis Y. Paschall and Dean Melville Jones prepare for Charter Day Convocation.

Under the new structure of administration, the officers reporting to the President are the Dean of the College, the Bursar, the Director of Development, and the Dean of Students. As Dr. Paschall explained at the Fall Convocation on 25 September 1964, "The growth of the College in enrollment, in faculty, and program diversification has made reorganization necessary. Essentially, the new plan regroups a number of institutional activities developed in recent years; reduces the number of officers who have previously reported directly to the President; and provides a strong academic unity for the College as a whole." In summation of the Self-Study Program and the current administrative changes one must realize, as Dr. Paschall stated, "Institutions are, in the final analysis, the people who compose them. The times in which we live require more than ever before that such institutions undergo self-examination if they are to meet their responsibilities to the individual as well as the greater society which they serve."

In coordination with the conclusion of the College's Self-Study Program, a Faculty Handbook was drawn up. This publication combines the reports of the various committees within the College concerned with the Self-Study Program and the report of the Board of Visitation to project a statement of the legal and structural history of the College, the purpose and aims of the College, and faculty policies and organization. It is hoped that the Handbook will be distributed in revised form early next fall. Thus, the aim of the Administration by working closely with the faculty and students of the College is to guide the students in their endeavors and at the same time to maintain the standards of the College. The Administration is aware of the importance of maintaining a friendly and informal atmosphere in which student-faculty relationships exist under conditions which encourage respect for the individual. Through its maintenance of policy the College can hope to remain selective in its choice of students and faculty and still compete in a world of widening and specialized academic fields.

Dr. C. R. Terman spends long hours on his population Ecology project.

The faculty of any college campus includes many varied interests, ideas, beliefs and approaches to a particular subject, all of which are essential to a well-rounded college community. These academic interests are carried outside the classroom with lectures, panel discussions, and individual research projects. The life of a faculty member, though academically oriented, allows for leisure fun and gaiety with such social events as teas, receptions, a Faculty Christmas Dance, and even the possibility of chaperoning various student dances.

Dr. M. Pittman demonstrates the Doppler Effect in a classroom experiment.

Senor Gonzalez-Aboin proves the lot of a professor is not all academic.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

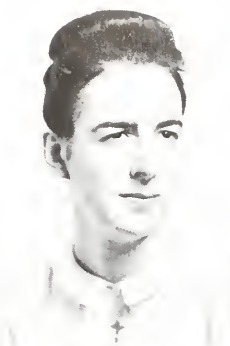

CLASS OF '65

Since our admittance to William and Mary, the Class of 1965 has been witness to a number of significant events. As freshmen, Dave Lutz represented us at the inauguration of the new college president, Davis Y. Paschall. Ken Hutchinson led the "wise fools" through a college year in which the student body began to grow appreciably. As juniors we mourned the tragic death of President Kennedy and joined with the rest of the College in the services in his honor. Senior year saw Craig Carlson usher in a new era of student government activity.

Yet, the significance of these events is overshadowed by the cherished recollections of comparatively unimportant occurrences. We remember the sincerity and hypocrisy of the men's smokers and girls' parties during rush. We remember "traying" down Barrett Hill on a February night. We remember crying about cafeteria food while we socialized in Tinker Hall. We remember cheering, and not cheering, at football games on Saturday afternoons. We remember the frequent No-Doz nights as well as the sudden thirst for knowledge at exam time. These are the events that will come to mind when someone mentions William and Mary to the alumni of the Class of 1965.

So now we must leave, although not without regret. Here we have spent thirty-two months of our lives—a long time. We have learned many things and forgotten many others. We have made some friends and perhaps we have fallen in love. We have criticized many practices while we formulated a value system. Here in a word, we have had a home. Even the most rational and unsentimental of us must admit that the time and the place can never be recaptured.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS

CLASS OF '66

We Junior Class members approached our third year of college with mixed feelings. Prominent among them were both awe and fear at finally "getting down to business" in a major field of interest. And many familiar faces from the graduating class were missing from the race to eight o'clock classes. New young eager faces took their places. It was a sobering thought to realize that over half of our college career was over and that now we would be called upon for advice and counseling, where previously we had been the questioners.

Many of us began seriously to take stock of ourselves, to estimate our potentials, and accordingly to line up goals to which we might aspire in our final two years.

About campus, we Juniors were seen in numerous leadership positions; we were involved in club, student government, and athletic endeavors as never before. We participated in political organizations, civic clubs, and other Williamsburg activities. Some of us accepted the additional responsibility of jobs, on campus and off campus.

As Juniors we began to actually "know" our professors, and to discover the thrill of professor-student communication. We found our friendships developing into a stronger bond.

The tensions of lurking exams and the gaiety of the spring social whirl almost appease each other as we face the culminating year of our college experience, having been primed and determined by the events of 1964-1965.

SOPHOMORE CLASS OFFICERS

Seated: C. CROFOOT, Historian. Standing: S. MARCY, President; D. FORD, Secretary-Treasurer; L. WHITE, Vice-President.

CLASS OF '67

As Sophomores, we have watched the Freshmen experience their first days of college with a quiet remembering smile. Our class officers compiled and published a Freshman Directory, in hopes that the unusually large Freshman Class would meet each other early in the year. Steve Marcy and his executive council organized a more meaningful "Due Week", starting off with an inspiring speech about the history and tradition of William and Mary, and adding also a huge "Fire of Bells", built by the Freshmen during the week, which represented their full acceptance into college community.

Sophomore Class members this year were found behind doors labeled with green "Class of 1967" stickers. The famed Sophomore slump affected not only the women, who had increased competition from the numerous Freshman girls, but also for the men who were under pressure to decide on a major and a profession. We found that the friendships made during our Freshman year were in most cases strong ones, and unaltered by the three month summer vacation. Members of our class have assumed leadership capacities on campus, participated in sports, and are working for various campus interest groups. The Greeks have seen rush from another angle now. The end of Sophomore year marks more than getting out the cafe; it is the half way point and the serious decision of a major has been made. At this time, we look behind us and see with what speed the experiences of the last two years have flown by, and yet we look to the next two years more seriously, realizing that they too must pass quickly.

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

D. DAVIS, President; B. BRADSHAW, Vice President;
L. RICHARDSON, Historian; B. BALDWIN, *Secretary-
Treasurer*.

CLASS OF '68

We, the youngest of the college family, arrived on a rainy Sunday afternoon, but parents smiled anyhow, as they scaled the mountain of mud at the nameless "New" Dorm. The Class of 1968 had arrived.

There are many things to be remembered about our first year at William and Mary: the tradition of long lines began with the registration line and culminated in the endless cafe line; the taboo against using the Jamestown Road tunnel, unless forced to during "Duc" Week; the necessity of fall and spring seminars at Jockey Corner and on Madison's porch; the exhaustion of the snowball fight on the roof of duPont Dorm; our institution of a new tradition, the "Fire of the Bells", to terminate "Duc" Week.

We began our classes and settled into the routine of college life. The Freshmen elections resulted with Dave Davis, Bill Bradshaw, Blythe Baldwin, and Laurie Richardson as our class leaders. The Christmas dance was a big success, and we made plans for a class scholarship, a spring dance, and service projects. The Class of 1968 has established its place and set a pace for future classes to admire and imitate.

Now we must look forward to our coming years as leaders, learners, and instigators at the College of William and Mary. We must remember the aloofness of the Sophomores as they demanded that we recite the priorities, the hymn, and the alma mater; we cannot forget the sincere envy of the Seniors as they realized that they were finishing a phase of life which we were fortunate to be just beginning. For the next three years we will be a force and a segment of the people that constitute William and Mary spirit, attitude and accomplishment.

MARSHALL-WYTHE

The school is named for two of our most famous forefathers, John Marshall, the renowned statesman, and George Wythe, a student and professor of the school; it is the oldest school of its kind in the United States; its library contains over 31,000 volumes. The Marshall-Wythe School of Law, founded in 1779, has remained one of the finest and most selective law schools in the nation.

Upon entrance into the Law School a student receives basic training in law and may also attend classes in business law or graduate classes in law and taxation. Each year the students of the school present a mock trial in which the participators and the defendant are chosen from the undergraduate classes. This trial gives lawyers-to-be a chance to practice and allows the student body a view of the American judicial system.

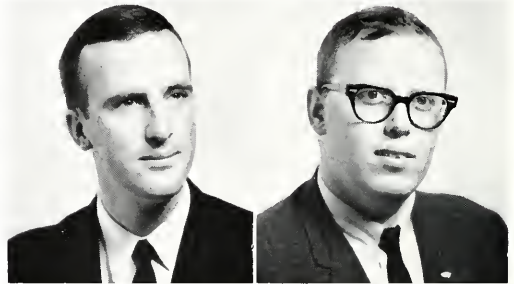

Under the leadership of Dean Joseph Curtis, the Marshall-Wythe School of Law will continue to expand in proportion to the expansion of the undergraduate school; it will continue to maintain its high standards and reputation.

Chancellor Professor Woodbridge lectures first-year law students.

STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

All law students are members of the Student Bar Association, the organ of student government for the Law School. The Student Bar promotes extra-curricular activities in the field of law. It sponsors guest speakers, usually practicing attorneys who can give the students insight into the practical aspects of law practice, promotes mock court competitions, and sponsors social events.

The officers of the Association, who act as liaison between the faculty and students, are Nickolas J. St. George, president; Charles H. Rideout, Jr., vice president; and Penelope I. Dalton, secretary-treasurer.

The Student Bar Association is associated with the American Law Student Association which is affiliated with the American Bar Association.

PHI ALPHA DELTA

Phi Alpha Delta is the national honorary fraternity in the field of law. Phi Alpha Delta sponsors activities which help its members acquire legal skills. These activities include mock court trials, guest speakers at dinner meetings, and toastmaster sessions. At a toastmaster session, a member must speak on a subject which is assigned to him only two minutes before he is to speak.

Officers are elected each semester. The officers for the first semester were R. C. Grizzard, justice; J. R. Tarrant, vice-justice; R. R. Zedd, treasurer; A. A. Thomas, clerk; and W. A. Keller, marshal. Second semester officers were J. R. Tarrant, justice; C. L. Compton, vice-justice; J. M. White, treasurer; G. M. Gleason, clerk; and S. M. Kapral, marshal.

STUDENT LIFE

The new library, due to be completed in 1965, will provide an excellent place for students to listen to music and study.

Colonial architecture is visible in the old brick walls, the lamp post, and the brick sidewalk in this south view of the Wren Building.

The Capitol at the end of Duke of Gloucester Street is visible from the balcony of the Wren Building.

The historical Wren Building, besides being a Virginia landmark, houses the English department of William and Mary.

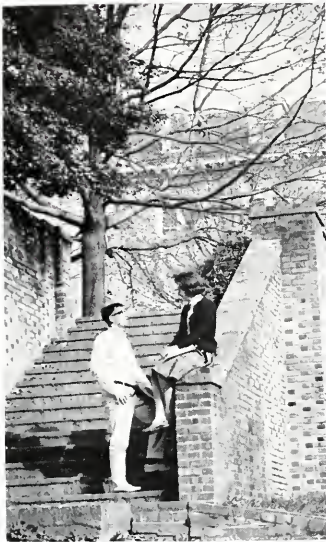

Barrett, one of the older girls' dormitories, provides a home away-from-home for over one hundred girls.

Although the girls must endure mud and long walks, the added luxuries of a modern lobby and air conditioning at the duPont Dorm make up for the inconveniences.

FAVORITE PLACES ON CAMPUS DRAW

When the weather is too fine to be inside, students frequently study or carry on discussions outdoors.

Although the walk to the new dorm may sometimes seem endless, at other times one may wish that it were.

After several months of college life, the halls and walks of William and Mary become familiar gathering places for students. The colonial atmosphere of the "old campus" invites a contrast with the more modern aspect of the "new." Students recognize the inevitability of progress and view their campus as symbolic of the synthesis of the past and the future, each of which must be aware of the other.

The Campus Center is the one building through which most students pass at least once a day. Its facilities for study, recreation, meetings, and quiet chatter accounts for its importance in the life of the College community.

Cultural activities are displayed at Phi Beta Kappa.

The Wren Chapel, in the south wing of the Wren Building, still provides an inspiring place for worship.

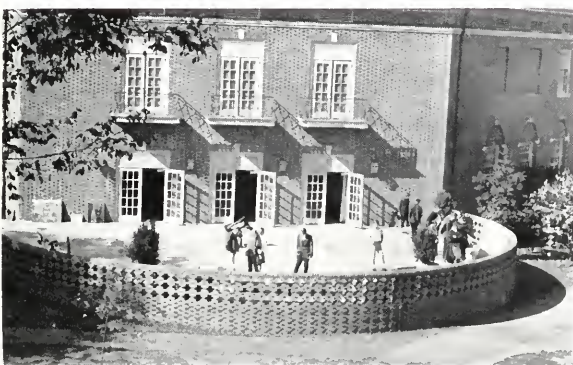

Mr. Warren Green, director of the Campus Center, regulates the intercom system.

At the desk in the Campus Center, students can purchase such essential items as candy bars, newspapers, and magazines.

STUDENT INTEREST

The terrace of the Campus Center provides a pleasant patio for such student activities as this display of art.

ORIENTATION AND

Diligent working freshmen labor to make the '64 "Fire of Bells".

Craig Carlson, with his ever present mace prepares to lead the procession of college officials out of the gym following Opening Convocation.

Every student is required to sign an honor pledge before attending classes. On the last day of Orientation Week some thoughtful freshmen sign theirs.

DUCE WEEKS BEGIN FRESHMAN YEAR

as successful as last year's.

When nine hundred plus freshmen arrived at William and Mary, the Sophomore Class and the administration had an Orientation Week planned that kept everyone active.

The traditional rain on arrival day did not seem to detract from the otherwise warm welcome. By the time the upperclassmen started to arrive on Thursday, the members of the Class of '68 were well-oriented in the ways of college life.

To increase the new student's sense of "belonging" to the William and Mary community, the Sophomore Class sponsored the annual "Duce Week." The week started with an assembly to inform the freshmen of their week's responsibilities regarding the "most respected upperclassmen." The grand finale of the week was the "Fire of Bells," symbolizing the freshmen's total acceptance as students of the College of William and Mary.

Say, Coach Levy, if he doesn't lose fifty yards on the play, maybe we can get the two points.

NEW LIFE, NEW FRIENDS AS THE GREAT

... it begins as lasting friendships are made.

... it begins the development of new and richer feelings.

... it begins with an Indian summer that extends well into November.

... it begins as wheels bring be

... it begins with a relocation and a settlement in a new home.

EXPERIENCE BEGINS...

... it begins with the discovery of new and exciting culinary concoctions.

... it begins with longer walks or the bus as an alternative for Ludwell and duPont girls.

... memories and create new ones.

... it begins with a breaking of the close ties that bind a student with home.

... it begins deeper and more involved discussions.

... and it ends with a new realization that late hours of study will tell in time.

PARADE IGNITE HOMECOMING ACTIVITIES

Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the boys are marching.

Music, floats, cheers, and hearty greetings—these were the marks of Homecoming 1964. Although rain forced the cancellation of Friday night's traditional Sunset Parade and pep rally, the precipitation did not dampen the spirits of either the students or the returning alumni.

Kai Winding and his orchestra provided the music for Friday night's semi-formal "Surf and Starlight" dance in the Campus Center ballroom. A highlight of this event was the midnight crowning of Jean Freeman as Homecoming Queen 1964. Festivities continued on Saturday morning as a parade of floats and marching units moved down Duke of Gloucester Street. The floats offered dire predictions as to the fate of the Citadel in that afternoon's gridiron collision—predictions which later came true as William and Mary beat the Bulldogs, 10-0. Saturday night's informal dance marked the official end of the week-end's activities.

The Homecoming court—Jan Looney, Ellen Arnold, Donna Dodson, Pat Patterson, Cathy Quirk, Mary Erskine, Jean Freeman, Leslie McAneny—remain pretty in spite of the bad weather.

But Mr. Chappell, there really is strategy in losing ten yards.

FALL BRINGS VARIED ACTIVITIES

When the last alumnus had departed from the campus after Homecoming Weekend, academics again claimed the attentions of William and Mary students. It was not all work, however, as various events and activities occurred, causing the weeks before Thanksgiving vacation to pass rapidly.

The Student Association sponsored two well-supported events, a mock Presidential election and a hootenanny in the Jamestown tunnel. The S. A. proved to be planning ahead as proceeds from these events went toward the bringing of big name entertainment to the College for a weekend during the spring semester. Coupled with crisp fall weather, exciting home football games with Virginia Tech and the University of Virginia gave life to two successive weekends on campus. Perhaps one of the biggest events of that time was the informal dance sponsored by the Interfraternity Council November 20. "The Drifters," a nationally known group, performed as students "rocked it up" only a few days before vacation.

YULETIDE BRINGS A FLURRY OF

Mistletoe and troubles burn together in the Yule Log fire.

Three weeks can be a long, long time—especially if it's the three weeks between Thanksgiving and Christmas vacations. The Christmas spirit seeps onto the William and Mary campus slowly, unobtrusively at first, but by early December it is lodged securely in both the halls and the hearts of the College.

Perhaps the biggest event in the campus celebration is the traditional Yule Log ceremony. On the night of December 10, members of the College community gathered in Wren courtyard to sing carols and watch their old year's troubles turn to ash as they burned symbolic holly sprigs. Red and green clad Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa members annually sponsor the popular event.

Weekends close to Christmas found students whirling to combo music amid colorful seasonal decorations as fraternities and sororities observed the holidays. The Student Association sought to foster student-faculty understanding and appreciation by holding a Christmas Tea. The Greeks and other campus groups added to the enchantment of that last week before vacation as they wandered together from dorm to dorm singing old and familiar Christmas tunes.

PARTIES, DANCES, CAROLS

Christmas means more than a vacation from classes to most William and Mary students. Several fraternities and sororities exhibited the true spirit of the season by holding parties for young Eastern State patients.

Well attended by community and college residents, the 1964 Christmas Concert by the College Choir and Chorus climaxed the weeks of festivities. After the last breathtaking note of THE MESSIAH on Thursday night, excited students packed their bags, preparing to spend the rest of the glad season at home.

ACADEMICS CONSUME MAJOR

"I know CANDY is an engrossing novel, but the satire is very unique".

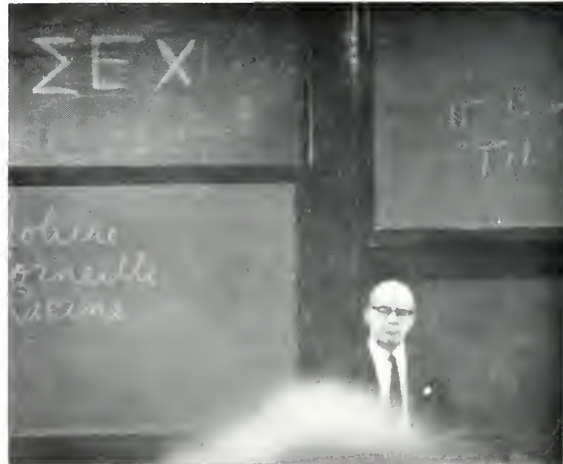

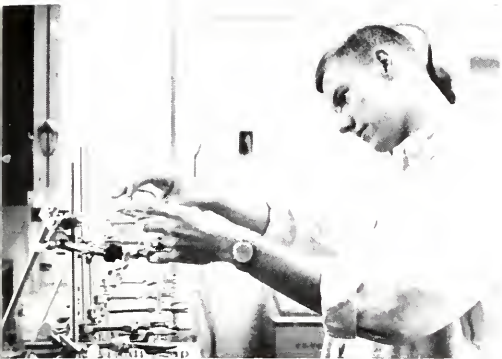

"I could call it the "Great Society" and if it breaks give everyone a piece. Lyndon would like that".

Despite the common conceptions of dull lectures, confusing labs, panic over quizzes, and desperate cramming for exams, the academic side of college life is not all discouraging. The basis of learning is found in the classroom, and regardless of complaints, students still manage to rise in time for their eight o'clock classes. In the classroom they may participate in lively discussion, become exposed to various points of view and even become well-acquainted with other students. The purpose of college is education, and the classes prove an essential part of the academic growth of the student.

The strained calmness of sorority court reflects anxious anticipation of the first rush party.

Any tourist who happened along Richmond Road between the hours of four and nine during the first week of February, 1965, might well have experienced second thoughts about the "sedate Colonial town" of Williamsburg. Indeed, enthusiasm and excitement electrified the atmosphere as William and Mary's nine social sororities vied to attract a fair share of the over three hundred girls going through formal rush.

Due to the exceptionally large number of girls participating, rush was two days longer than in previous years. Sorority women didn't let extra days damp their spirits, however, as they sang porch songs almost as loudly on Friday night as on Tuesday! Guided tours of the various houses were Wednesday night's feature, and most groups told a little of the history of their chapter. Thursday and Friday night parties were highlighted by skits and special songs.

When bids were delivered on Saturday afternoon, screams of happiness and excitement vibrated through the halls of girls' dorms. With the ringing of the College bell at four p. m., the new Greek women crossed Richmond Road to their houses to signify their acceptance of the bids.

Men's Rush, handled somewhat more informally than that of the women, began with smokers on February 9. Having talked in a quiet atmosphere, the men continued rush with some "swinging" weekend combo parties. More smokers the following week led up to the Friday noon "shakes," when fraternities gathered at corners of the campus to greet their new brothers.

"Dancing in the streets" at a Saturday night block party caps the week end. (Well, in 1964 anyway).

The final fling of the year occurs in May at the Student Association-sponsored Spring Finals. Traditionally held in the Sunken Garden, the 1964 formal dance was moved inside due to inclement weather. Nevertheless, couples danced 'til two a. m., thoughts of impending final exams at that time far distant.

Commencement culminates four of the hardest, but also the most rewarding years of one's life. Besides providing the students with a well-rounded education, college also leaves them with many lasting memories. HONORARIES AND PROFESSIONALS

PHI BETA KAPPA

Initiation into Phi Beta Kappa is the culmination of academic endeavor at William and Mary. Members are selected in their senior year on the basis of superior scholarship.

William and Mary Phi Beta Kappas have the honor of belonging to the Alpha Chapter of the fraternity. On December 5, 1776, Phi Beta Kappa was founded in the Apollo Room of the Raleigh Tavern.

Preserving the founding date and place, the fall members were initiated on December 5, 1964, in the Apollo Room. After the initiation, dinner and a public program were held at Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The initiates were presented at the program; Robert V. Roosa spoke on "The Pursuit of Excellence," and E. Reed Whittemore read a poem. Carl A. Roseberg received the faculty award for the advancement of scholarship.

The spring initiates of Phi Beta Kappa were: J. Francis Amos; James A. Cornette; Linda Lane; Charles Lachenmeyer; Bernard J. Rudman; Janet Sheets; Susan Stevenson; Sarah Ann Trenholm.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

ODK's meets at a luncheon to discuss campus problems.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honorary fraternity for men. The members, selected from the junior and senior classes, are recognized for their outstanding scholarship and leadership. The purpose of ODK is to serve the College and to be a guide to other campus organization officers. Each year, Omicron Delta Kappa sponsors the Spring Leadership Forum. Officers from the various campus organizations attend the forum to discuss leadership problems.

ODK holds meetings once every two months. These meetings are held in the home of a faculty member and are planned to encourage discussion and communication between faculty and students.

The Yule Log Ceremony held each December is co-sponsored by ODK and Mortar Board. This ceremony is traditionally held in the Wren Courtyard. Students "throw away their worries" by tossing a holly sprig on the Yule log which is then burned in the Great Hall.

New members this year include J. W. Armentrout, J. C. Breeden, J. G. Chocklett, J. Harris, and W. H. Weiland. The president of ODK is Scott Ferguson. Other officers are Craig Carlson, vice president, and Mr. Howard Smith, secretary-treasurer. The faculty advisor is Dr. Wayne Kernodle; other active faculty members are Dean J. Wilfred Lambert, Dr. Cecil McCulley, and Dean Carson Barnes.

MORTAR BOARD

Mortar Board is a national senior women's honorary society. membership is based on scholarship, leadership, and service to the College. The primary purpose of Mortar Board is to promote these qualities in every student; each year juniors are tapped for membership at the Spring Honors Convocation. The organization and activities of Mortar Board are very flexible and open to innovation. Mortar Board members strive to serve as a nucleus for campus improvement projects.

Each year, the club awards a scholarship to a deserving woman student. Money for the scholarship is raised through various projects: the used furniture sale during Orientation Week, a silver display, and the sale of mums during Homecoming are a few examples. Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa, the men's equivalent, traditionally co-sponsor a Yule Log Ceremony for the student body. Other activities include serving as campus guides for prospective students and giving a Dean's List Brunch in February.

This year's officers are Jay Louise Weldon, president; Janet Beers, vice president; Anne Barden, secretary; Dianne Dettmer, treasurer; Marge Robert, editor; and Kathy Wiese, historian.

PI DELTA EPSILON

The purpose of Pi Delta Epsilon, the national journalism fraternity, is to promote high ethical and professional standards for the William and Mary Publications and the College radio station. The society fosters the welfare of student publications and rewards the journalist for his service and accomplishments.

Pi Delta Epsilon selects its members twice yearly from the faculty, undergraduates, and alumni who have made outstanding contributions in the field of journalism. In cooperation with the Publications Committee, the society sponsors the spring Publications Banquet at which time awards are presented for outstanding contributions. At last year's banquet, Newbold Noyes, a prominent journalist who is the editor of the Washington Star, was the principal speaker.

The fall initiates of Pi Delta Epsilon are John Sours, Skip Baman, Joanne Taylor, Robert Gatten, Judy Beth Entler, Linda Groom, Elizabeth Grillo, Ginny Knoop, John Gaidies, and Joy Hutzel.

Officers for the year are: Jesse Hawk, president; Gretchen vanDyck, vice president; Susan Van Brunt, secretary; Joanie Solinger, treasurer. Dr. David Clay Jenkins serves as faculty advisor to the society.

The spring initiates of Pi Delta Epsilon were: Paul Bernstein, Howard Busbee, Anne Dixon, Donald Ferriss, Richard Furr, Josephine Jones, Robert Kahn, Barbara Lane, Donna Lynch, William Lyons, and Patricia Williams. Honorary faculty members were Edward Kessler, James Sawyer, and James Servies.

Kappa Delta Pi is an honorary fraternity for people who show interest and ability in the field of education. Members must be in the upper quintile of their class, which is about a 2.3 average, and must have at least a B average in education courses.

Kappa Delta Pi sponsors speakers on education. The group also holds three banquets each year in honor of new initiates. Two $100 scholarships are awarded annually by Kappa Delta Pi. The money for these scholarships comes from membership initiation fees.

The officers of the Alpha Xi chapter at William and Mary are Martha Leef, president; Barbara Hopson, vice president; Janet Thurman, secretary; Kathy Davis, treasurer; Diane Bright, membership chairman; Laura Meagher, historian-reporter; and Betsy Myatt, ritual chairman. The advisor for Kappa Delta Pi is Dr. Galfo.

ETA SIGMA PHI

In April of this year, the William and Mary chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, in co-ordination with the other Virginia chapters, sponsored the fraternity's national convention in Richmond.

In addition to participation in the convention, Eta Sigma Phi members have this year furthered their appreciation of ancient Greece and Rome through speakers at their meetings. Among these speakers was Dr. Swindler, whose topic was "Roman Law and Legal Latin." Dr. Graves Thompson's lecture on Ovid's Art of Love was co-sponsored by Eta Sigma Phi.

Janet Sheets served this year as president; Mike Mihalas as vice president; Martha Graham and Dottie Gilbert as secretaries; and Suzanne Frayser as treasurer.

The stimulation of creative writing is the chief purpose of Chi Delta Phi, women's national honorary literary sorority. To this end the members hold bi-monthly meetings to discuss their own works and those of the other members, besides sponsoring talks either about literature, or the process or problems of creation itself.

Chi Delta Phi sponsored a lecture series open to the whole campus entitled "The Creative Impulse" with Professors Riley, French, and Staroba each discussing a different aspect of creation. The group has also rewritten the national initiation ceremony which has been adopted officially. Last spring Harriet Baer won the national award for the best piece of literature published during the year in the Litterateur, the national publication.

Membership is based entirely on three samples of creative writing which may be submitted at either the spring or the fall try-outs.

Officers for the year are: Susan Howard, president; Harriet Baer, vice president; Trilby Busch, recording secretary; Carolyn Brock, corresponding secretary, and Jeanne English, treasurer. Mr. Dabney Stuart is the faculty advisor.

PI DELTA PHI

First Row: V. Riddick; C. Laehemeyer; E. Gebhart; S. Howard; F. Cole. Second Row: L. Robinson; B. Ruffin; K. Wiese; L. Marcus; M. Anderson; S. Brand

Pi Delta Phi is an honorary French organization. Members must have a 1.8 overall academic average, a 2.0 average in French, and either an A or a B in a 300-level French course. Most members are juniors or seniors.

Pi Delta Phi strives to stimulate interest in France and French culture, increase understanding between Frenchmen and Americans, and acquaint as many people as possible with the ideas and philosophies of the French people.

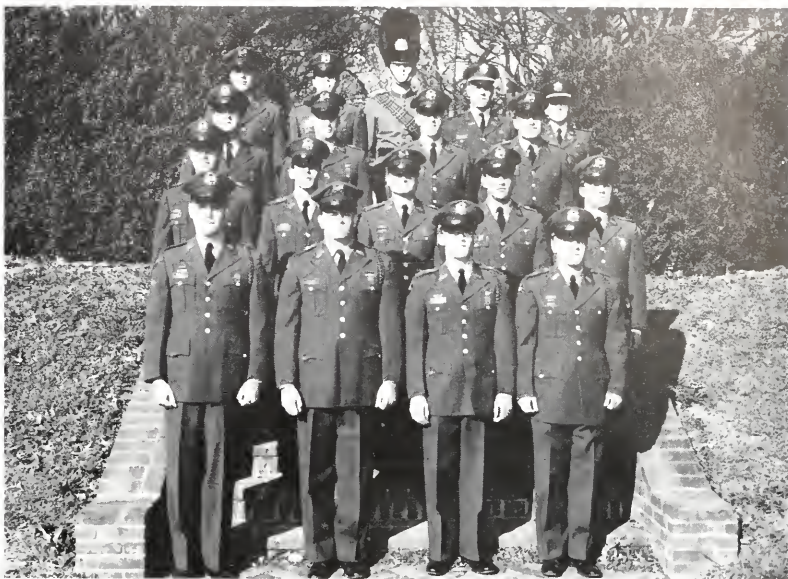

This year, Pi Delta Phi was host to a dignitary from both the French Embassy and the Belgian Embassy. Members guided the dignitaries around the campus, explaining William and Mary traditions to them—in French! The foreign guests gave lectures in French which were followed by receptions.

The group also ushered for the William and Mary Theatre production of Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme. A reception was given in the spring for French majors—French was also spoken at this reception.

Officers of Pi Delta Phi are Elizabeth Gebhart, president; Charles Laehemeyer, vice president; Ursula Riddick, secretary; and Susan Howard, treasurer. Dr. Ringgold is the faculty advisor.

Recognition of outstanding accomplishment in military science, enhancement of military knowledge through military speakers and activities are the prime concerns of the members of Scabbard and Blade, a national military honorary fraternity.

With Capt. Jesse S. Lockaby as the company sponsor and John Fuller as president, The "K" Company Eighth Regiment of Scabbard and Blade climaxed its sixteenth year at the College by tapping new members at the spring Reserve Officers Training Corps review. Membership in Scabbard and Blade is based on military leadership, demonstrated potential and interest in military service, and academic standing.

"To advance the science of psychology and to encourage, stimulate, and maintain scholarship of its members in all academic fields, particularly psychology"—this is the aim of Psi Chi, the National Honor Society in Psychology. Although a relatively young organization at William and Mary, the society has the distinction of affiliation with the American Psychological Association.

Members are chosen twice each year; Psi Chi membership includes undergraduates, graduates, and faculty members. Psi Chi works with the Psychology Department of the College each year on service projects. With the Psychology Club, Psi Chi sponsors lectures and an Open House to introduce the members of the Psychology Department to the rest of the campus. The year of activity is topped off with the spring picnic given jointly with the Psychology Club. The faculty advisor for 1964-1965 is E. Rae Hareum; officers are Glennie Hines, president; Jo Ellen Kirssin, vice president; Diane Wilson, secretary; Ginny Blount, treasurer.

Representing William and Mary both here and at the national Tournament at the University of Indiana were Harris and Donna Province.

DSR-TKA is both a Forensic Society and an Honor Society. As a Forensic Society it honors those who excel in communication; but further it honors scholarship as well as the forensic excellence.

Initiation was held in March; the formal ceremony, was conducted by Professor of Speech, Donald L. McConkey who is the advisor to the campus chapter.

Susan Reynolds is the President of the William and Mary Chapter of DSR-TKA for this year. Membership is comprised of varsity debaters who have shown excellence in debating and academic studies.

Alpha Lambda Delta, the Freshman-Sophomore women's honorary scholastic fraternity, instigates encouragement of scholastic excellence and a higher standard of achievement among underclass women. The William and Mary Chapter of Alpha Lambda Delta received its national charter on this campus in 1961, and it is one of over 120 national chapters. The qualification for membership is a 2.5 average for either semester of the freshman year.

Dean Donaldson acts as advisor for Alpha Lambda Delta, and Miss Barksdale is the faculty sponsor. The officers for the 1964-65 session are: Mary Stedman, president; Carol Jones, vice president; Frances Zweig, secretary; Judy Morris, treasurer.

ALPHA LAMBDA DELTA

DELTA OMICRON

Delta Omicron is the international music fraternity for women; it is a professional fraternity. The purpose of Delta Omicron is to foster fellowship among women musicians during their college days, aid worthy students, encourage appreciation of good music, further the work of women composers, and promote American music and composers.

Membership in Delta Omicron is based on talent, ability, and versatility. Each candidate must pass an examination covering points in musical history and musical appreciation before being initiated. Membership is open to music majors.

Members of the Delta Tau chapter of William and Mary usher for departmental music events, sponsor Collegium musical events, and help with band and choir concerts.

Linda Ann Johnson is president of Delta Omicron. Other officers are Joyce Bushong, first vice president; Annabelle Eaton, second vice president; Ruth V. David, secretary; Donna Lynch, treasurer; Mary Frances Sedwick, director of Music activities; and Joyce Whitehead, historian. Dr. F. D. Truesdell is the faculty advisor.

ALPHA PHI OMEGA

Alpha Phi Omega's Bob Mooney reports on future projects.

Alpha Phi Omega is now in its fourth year on this campus, and through its cardinal principles of friendship, leadership, and service, it has increased its role to more than 40 members and nine honorary members. The Nu Rho Chapter is but one of 400 chapters which have grown up on colleges and universities of the United States since the fraternity's founding at Lafayette College in 1925. The fraternity's constitution establishes the purpose of Alpha Phi Omega to be the assembly of college men in the spirit and ideals suggested by the Scout Oath and Laws. Accordingly, these men are to render friendship, leadership, and service to each other, and for the furtherance of our national and intellectual heritage.

This chapter continually strives to maintain these principles, and has realized them repeatedly through a variety of activities and projects. This past year the members of Alpha Phi Omega have taken an active part in scouting as advisors, served as ushers for the football games and Concert Series, acted as guides for the Science Fair, aided with decorations for college social functions, cleared land for a new church, and posted the lecture series.

In addition to these and other tasks, the fraternity has also established a speaker's program for its members. This year's banquet was held with great success in early winter, and included the after dinner remarks of Dr. Alexander of Colonial Williamsburg. The culmination of the fraternity's efforts came in the form of some fine new initiates. Officers for this past year were: President Richard Mueller; Vice President Kenneth Nichols; Second Vice President John Cole; Secretary William McIntosh; Corresponding Secretary James Mack; and Treasurer Harry Litchfield. Messrs. Heeman, Pettengill, R. Smith, and Fuller served as advisors.

GENERAL COOPERATIVE COMMITTEE

THE STUDENT

CRAIG B. CARLSON, President

The Student Association serves as a body of communication among various student elements, and between the students as a whole and the faculty and administration. It is a medium through which the common feelings, interests, and problems of William and Mary students may be heard, considered, acted upon, or presented to the General Cooperative Committee, depending on the nature and intensity of the subject matter.

The immediate goals of the Student Association have been not only to involve the student body in such activities as the Homecoming Dance, the Tunnel Hootenanny, Jerry White's piano concert, and the book fair, but also to develop responsibility and a concern for the College in as many of the students as possible. The Student Association has also initiated certain other programs such as a Public Affairs Committee, a Faculty Award presented annually to that member of the faculty who best exemplifies qualities of inspiration and concern for the students, an Academic Affairs Committee, and a Student Association newsletter in the attempt to extend the sphere of influence of the Student Association. The long-range goals of the Student Association, therefore, are to improve the cultural atmosphere and as many facets of William and Mary student life as possible.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

To bring any and all ideas to the attention of the Student Assembly and to afford these ideas adequate discussion is the main purpose of the Executive Council of the Student Association. A second important function of the Executive Council is the organization of all committees standing within the Student Association. Once established by the executive branch of the Association, these committees have full authority to make their own decisions. Aside from instigating legislation and setting up functioning organs of the Association, the Executive Council stands ready to advise the President of the Student Association at all times.

The members of the Executive Council include the three officers of the Student Association, the president and vice president of each class, and the chairmen of the standing committees.

MEN'S HONOR COUNCIL

MICHAEL SOPCHAK, Chairman.

Preserving honor through the individual responsibility of each student is the basis of the Honor System. The first honor system established at a college in the United States was founded at the College of William and Mary in 1779. Still active today, the honor system is one of the most notable and cherished of William and Mary's priorities. In the past year honor systems at colleges across the country have been the topic of national debate. At William and Mary the honor system is upheld and enforced.

The main function of the Honor Council is to investigate honor offenses, conduct trials, and recommend disciplinary action. It is also the duty of the Honor Council to preside over student elections, count the ballots, and post the results. At the beginning of each school year the Honor Council is in charge of acquainting the freshmen and transfer students with the workings of the Honor Code and with the importance of individual integrity in relation to the Honor Code. No student may remain at William and Mary if he refuses to pledge himself to the Honor Code.

The Men's Honor Council is composed of two representatives from each class. This year's representatives were Michael Sopchak, Ben Blanton, Keith Taylor, Rod St. Martin, Paul Bernstein, Bob Owen, Jeff Foster, and Jim Armentrout. The Council considers all honor violations and submits recommendation to the administration where final action is taken. The Honor Council is a working example of a judicial organ essential to the maintenance of the Honor System.

Every student is an honorable person—this has been the basic assumption of the Honor System since it was established at William and Mary in 1779. For the system to work effectively, an external control was deemed necessary to supplement the sense of honor in each individual. Therefore, the student-administered Men's and Women's Honor Councils were established in the 1920's.

The Women's Honor Council consists of eight members: Kathy Wiese, chairman; Susan Roberts, vice chairman; Cam Buchanan, secretary; Jay Louise Weldon, senior representative; Nancy Combs and Sally Mac Smith, junior representatives; and Carol Jones and Clevie Youngblood, sophomore representatives. The Council members are elected by the women students of the College each spring.

The primary duty of the Women's Honor Council is to investigate honor offenses among women students. The Council determines whether an offense has been committed and, if necessary, conducts a trial and recommends a penalty. The final decision, however, is left to the President and the deans who review the case and administer the penalty.

The Women's Honor Council, in conjunction with the Men's Honor Council, is responsible for explaining the Honor Code to the Freshman Class during Orientation Week, for supervising the signing of the pledge cards, and for handling campus elections. In addition to these major duties, the Women's Honor Council gives dormitory talks before exam periods to re-acquaint the women with their responsibilities under the Honor System, and members of the Council post reminders of the Honor System around the dormitories.

WOMEN'S DORMITORY ASSOCIATION

MARGE ROBERT, President

The Women's Dormitory Association is a self-governing body dedicated to the ideal that the women students of the college should have the responsibility of defining and maintaining their own standards of social conduct. All women resident students are members of the WDA. This year, the women students were governed by two new WDA rules. Girls were given 12:00 lates on the Sunday after a holiday, and double demerits were given for noise after 11:00 on Friday night. The Constitution requires all freshmen and transfer students to pass a written test on WDA rules. This year, women students were instructed in the "do's and don't's" by a handbook full of "Peanuts" characters—edited by Dianne Dettmer and illustrated by Margaret Temple.

The Women's Dormitory Association has two branches, the Dormitory Council and the House Council. The Dormitory Council consists of an Executive Council and all dormitory presidents. This branch handles all official business of the Association, works jointly with the Faculty Advisory Committee, sponsors an annual tea for the housemothers, assumes responsibility for the formation of social rules not provided by the Administration, maintains relations with the Student Government, and informs the students of WDA activities. The House Council in each dormitory is composed of the House President, Vice President, Secretary-Treasurer, and the hall proctors. The duties of the House Council are to enforce the social and house rules, refer repeated violations to the Dormitory Council, and to present minutes of house trials to the housemother.

A general meeting was held in the early fall at Phi Beta Kappa Hall for all the freshmen and transfer students. At this meeting, the girls were introduced to WDA rules through songs and skits given by the house presidents. The WDA also holds a hall proctor's workshop and helps select house presidents, counselors, and Orientation sponsors. This year WDA was able to give two $100 scholarships to deserving women students.

The WDA advisors are Miss Birdena Donaldson, Dean of Women; Miss Sandra Suidow, Assistant Dean of Women; and Miss Fran Rucker, physical education instructor. The officers are: Marge Robert, president; Dianne Dettmer, vice president; Banni Popkin, secretary; and Chris Scheid, treasurer.

Men's Dormitory Managers and Counselors

In each of the men's undergraduate residence halls there lives a person known as the dorm counselor or dorm manager. These men are chosen by the administration to act as a modified counterpart to the housemother in the women's dormitories. Although the duties of the counselors and managers are not as defined as those of the housemother, the position is still the one of authority on the hall.

The counselors and managers enforce disciplinary measures, maintain order, and inform the administration of student deviation from the rules. The counselors and managers are the link between the undergraduate student and the administration in matters outside the academic realm, but within college bounds. These men are also on hand to give advice if it is asked for and to help with an occasional physics problem or English paper.

Men's Dormitory Presidents and Representatives

Tyler, Taliferro, Brown, Bryan, Madison, Monroe, Old Dominion, Over the Infirmary, Stith, Over the Bookstore, and the demolished Morris House is an interesting list of people's names and strange places. To the William and Mary student, however, it is easily identified as a list of the men's dormitories. These dormitories for undergraduate students are governed by the Men's Dormitory Councils which exist in each residence hall. The members of the council are elected by the respective dormitories. The councils serve as co-ordinating body for open houses, intramurals, and other inter-dorm activities.

As "commanders-in-chief" of the individual councils of each dorm, the presidents, function as the head of the governing unit. The president and the representatives to the council serve as the governing link between the Student Association, the College administration, and the inhabitants of the undergraduate dorms.

From the time of the announcement of the President's Aides at the Fall Convocation, these student advisers to Dr. Paschall have assisted him in several capacities.

In October, Dr. and Mrs. Paschall had dinner at the Williamsburg Inn with the thirteen aides. At this time they discussed the campus needs. The aides met in the spring to compile for the President a list of suggestions for the improvement of the College community. Both of these meetings emphasized the mediary role of the aides between the students and the Administration.

In addition to their advisory capacity, the President's Aides also serve as hosts and hostesses for certain College functions. This year they received with Dr. and Mrs. Paschall at the Class Teas; they were responsible for serving refreshments at the Board of Visitors' tea for the faculty in January. In November, they were host to the visitors on Burgesses Day.

Finally, the aides were included in the formal procession at each convocation and at graduation. At these times the chief President's Aide, Student Body President Craig Carlson, carried the College Mace.

ORIENTATION SPONSORS

Orientation Week Without it many of the William and Mary squaws would have been lost before starting their college careers. Each spring sponsors are chosen on bases of character, scholarship, leadership, and interest; these upperclassmen assist the freshman women during Orientation Week and throughout the year.

Several days before the frosh women arrive the sponsors attend a training program which is designed to acquaint them with their responsibilities, ranging from familiarizing the freshmen with the Honor System to the times the cafe line will be the shortest. In addition to conducting their groups around campus the sponsors give placement tests to the new arrivals.

This year more emphasis was placed on maintaining a closer contact among sponsors, house presidents, and freshman counselors. This was done in hopes of eliminating many of the problems common to entering freshman women. The Head Sponsor for the 1964-65 session was Margaret Temple; her assistant was Bruce Edell.

ORIENTATION GROUP LEADERS

The male counterpart of the Orientation Sponsor, the upperclassmen chosen as group leaders, must meet the same requirements of character, scholarship, interest, and leadership that the sponsors do. Group leaders attend the Orientation Week training program designed to ready them for the many questions and responsibilities they will encounter as the freshman's "big brother" at the College. Familiarizing the incoming freshman with the College community, its workings and its members, is the chief concern of the group leader.

The group leaders this year, as in past and surely future years, were besieged with questions and spent time and effort in solving problems throughout the year. Head Group Leader for the freshmen was Scott Ferguson; he was assisted by William Weiland.

RICHARD KRAEMER, President

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Interfraternity Council is the governing body of the fraternity system at the College. The IFC is the co-ordinating power of the general activities of the eleven national fraternities at William and Mary. The council also serves as a liaison between the fraternities and the administration. The overall purpose of the Interfraternity Council is the promotion of better relationships between the fraternities and the Williamsburg community.

The IFC establishes and enforces rush rules. The formal rush period of 1965 involved two hundred and ten rushees. After attending the formal and informal smokers, the combo parties on the week-end, and numerous bull sessions, the rushees made known their choice at twelve o'clock noon on February 19th. The shaking ceremonies took place at appointed locations on campus.

The Interfraternity Council composed of the president of each fraternity and one representative from each fraternity was led this year by council president Rich Kraemer. In 1964-1965 the council promoted more open relationship between freshmen and fraternity men by sponsoring, in conjunction with the freshman class, a dance which was open to all and featured the Drifters. The IFC also supports an orphan under the Foster Parents Plan. During the Christmas and Easter seasons, parties are given for orphans through the individual fraternities.

The climax of the year was Greek Weekend sponsored jointly by the IFC and the Panhellenic Council. A speaker whose topic concerned the fraternity system on a national level, an informal dance, and an afternoon concert by the Impressions, composed the agenda for the weekend.

The "Monkey" is the thing at the IFC fall dance.

PANHELLENIC COUNCIL

Although most sorority women think of the Panhellenic Council as the agency in charge of enforcing rush rules, this organization has been instrumental in affecting changes on this campus which involve freshman women and sorority women long before formal rush rolls into sight. This year the Panhellenic Council sponsored teas for the freshman women and for transfer students. Teas were also given for the faculty in a successful attempt to better the understanding between faculty members and sorority women. Academic achievement was encouraged as the Council awarded two one-hundred-dollar scholarships to deserving students.

Composed of two representatives from each sorority, each sorority president, and under the leadership of President Jo Ellen Kirssin, Secretary Carolyn Stoneman, and Treasurer Sally Wells, the Council co-ordinated an extremely successful rush. Even though the grade average requirements were raised to 1.2, women who were interested in joining a sorority were undaunted; three hundred and forty-five rushees participated in formal rush of 1965. A major change instigated by the Council for the sorority system was the adaptation of a quota-limitation system which enabled the sororities to accommodate the large number of rushees. Under this system, sorority membership will fluctuate proportionately to the number of rushees each year.

The work of the Panhellenic Council does not end in February with the conclusion of formal rush. The Council constantly strives to better the inter-sorority and sorority-fraternity relationships. Through joint philanthropic projects and social events, the entire Greek system was strengthened and unified. Greek spirit on campus was emphasized by Greek Weekend activities. Plans were already under consideration concerning next year's Homecoming Parade as the Panhellenic Council continued to act as governing body of the sorority system throughout the year.

STUDENT PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE

The Student Publications Committee exists for the sake of maintenance of the high standards of William and Mary campus publications. The committee is composed of the editors of the three College publications: the COLONIAL ECHO, the Flat Hat, and the Review; the editors of these publications this year were Margie Hodges, Skip Baman, and Harriet Baer respectively. Also on the committee were Mary Erskine, the Chairman, and Craig Carlson, president of the Student Association. There are also two faculty advisors on the committee; Dr. Cecil McCulley, elected by the Student Activity Fee Committee, and Dr. Alexander Kallos, elected by the Committee itself.

At the bi-monthly meetings of the committee the editors of the publications pose current problems to which the committee suggests various solutions. The committee in acting as a coordinating body, does not, however, arrive at any final decisions concerning any one publication; the final action is taken by the editor of the publication concerned. The editor is not therefore deprived of any authority and benefits from the advice of the committee.

Each Spring the member editor submits his nomination for an editor to replace him. The committee must approve these nominations at this time. If there is more than one nomination, the committee selects the editor-to-be from the nominations. The committee also selects the Business Managers for the three publications.

The highlight of the year is the annual Publications Banquet. This affair is co-sponsored by the Student Publications Committee and Pi Delta Epsilon, the honorary journalism fraternity. At the banquet awards are presented to students who have made outstanding contributions to journalism at the College. Miss William and Mary and the COLONIAL ECHO dedicatee are also announced.

COLONIAL ECHO

A personal collection of memories, a public representation of the College, the COLONIAL Echo preserves all facets of campus life. For each student the Echo depicts aspects of his college career to which he may attach special importance. As a representation of the College the Echo functions as a pictorial history viewed by prospective students and faculty members. It participates in a national exchange program including high schools, colleges, and publishers. Public and private opinion created by those who are not familiar with the College is more often than not based on the light in which the Echo presents the College.

The COLONIAL Echo, distributed annually, is a publication indicative of an entire year's work and an entire year's cooperation involving the whole campus. Thus, the creation of the yearbook depends to a great extent on the interest of the college community, its individuals and organizations, both student and administration.

THE FLAT HAT

Editor-in-Chief Skip Baman has expanded the range of the Flat Hat to include coverage of events on the national scene as well as strictly campus news. Editorial emphasis has been placed on the importance of these events to the student at William and Mary.

This year the Flat Hat featured depth studies of the issues and candidates of the presidential campaign. Governor Harrison and his views on Virginia's higher educational system were covered as an issue of importance to the future expansion of our community.

Page five of the Flat Hat was devoted almost weekly to an editorial-feature presentation of problems and issues directly involving the College and the College community. During second semester the Flat Hat surveyed the honor system and its place in campus life. The alcoholic beverage rule, as listed by the College, and the fraternity system were also topics of the editorial-feature page.

In addition to Skip Baman, the staff includes: Joanne Taylor, managing editor; Wilford Kale, associate editor; Gretchen van Dyck, associate editor; John Bell, editorial associate; John Sours, technical editor; Tom Gardo, sports editor; Mary Ward, news editor; Don Hall, feature editor; Ginny Knoop, make-up editor; Joy Hutzel, proof editor; Susan Roberts, copy editor; and Bob Kahn, advertising manager; Joanie Solinger, associate editor.

The enthusiasm of the staff in enlarging the scope of the coverage has contributed vitally to the weekly editions.

THE WILLIAM AND MARY REVIEW

HARRIET BAER, Editor-in-Chief

Published biannually, The William and Mary Review draws on a wide range of the various disciplines for its contents. Poetry, fiction, and literary criticism, as well as articles dealing with philosophy and the social and natural sciences are included in the magazine. Photography and art work are presented independently of the articles and creative pieces. Woodcuts, lithographs, etchings, oils, and pen and ink drawings comprised the visual arts section of the winter 1965 issue. Many of the contributions were solicited through The William and Mary Review Art Show held in October, 1964, in the Campus Center and patio.

Contributors to the magazine are principally undergraduates at the College, but faculty and occasional outside work is also included.

The staff of the Review is organized into three editorial boards: Fiction, Robert Johnston, Susan Van Brunt, and Richard Wentz; Poetry, Paul Boynton, Elizabeth Grillo, and Steve Skinner; and Scholarly Articles, Frances Cole, Joseph Dye, and Frank Turner. Other editorial positions are filled by Janet Beers, Managing Editor, who also acts as chairman of the board for scholarly articles; Robert Gates, Business Manager; Judy Weathersbee, Secretary and member of the poetry board; Virginia White-ner, Typing Editor; Martha Graham, Copy Editor and a member of the fiction board; Roberta Ramsey, Exchange Editor; and Art Editor, Susan Ward. Other assistants are Martin Burrough, Lenelle Duecker, Tom Houston, Louise Beard, Larry Qualls, Harry Krauss, and Susan Roberts.

Advisors to The William and Mary Review are David Clay Jenkins, Edward Kessler, and James A. Servies.

WCWM is working on providing AM as well as FM broadcasting for the College community. The variety and quality of the William and Mary radio station indicates that such expansion would be beneficial to the College.

WCWM broadcasts seven days a week, 3 p.m. to 12 midnight. On a typical day, "Cue," a popular music show, is on the air from 3-5 p.m.; from 5-5:30 p.m. an informational program is broadcast. Topics such as the College reorganization are considered.

From 5:30 until 7:00 p.m. "Music for Dining" is played. At 7:00 student analyses of different types of music are featured. From 7:45 until 8:00 p.m., WCWM broadcasts another educational program. At 8:00 p.m., the classical program "Encore" plays until 9:00. The radio station's wind-up show from 9-12 p.m. features slow tempo music in a program entitled "Night Sounds."

In addition to this typical work day, WCWM sponsors various special activities. This year members of the staff were on hand to broadcast the Senior Class Matoaka party, a Yates dance, and a Student Association freshman dance.

Under the supervision of faculty advisers Mr. James Sawyer and Mr. Howard Travis, and with the help of chief engineer Mr. James Slate, the student staff makes an effort to supply the College with both educational information and entertainment. The WCWM staff includes: Jesse Hawk, program director; Al Louer, special program; Rick Babcock, traffic and continuity; Richard McCluney, news; Donna Lynch, publicity and public relations; John Roth, pop music; and Dick Lester, classical music.

FINE ARTS AND SPECIAL INTERESTS

THE WILLIAM AND MARY THEATRE

The William and Mary Theatre presents four plays each year. These plays are presented with the idea of bringing to the college community plays of excellence, plays that bring dramatic literature to life. The plays are selected by the Theatre Staff: Mr. Howard Scammon, director; Mr. Frank J. Staroba, playwright; Mr. Russell T. Hastings, designer; and Mr. Albert E. Haak, technical director.

The first play this year, presented in October, was William Saroyan's The Time of Your Life. This play is set in Nick's waterfront saloon, where the characters wander in and out, seeking answers to life's puzzles. William Saroyan wrote in the introduction to this play, "In the time of your life, live—so that in that good time there shall be no ugliness or death for yourself or for any life your life touches."

Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme by Moliere was presented in December. This is a light and entertaining satire aimed at parvenus of all time. Monsieur Jourdain is the object of ridicule as he takes fencing, dancing, music, and philosophy lessons designed to transform him into a gentleman.

The third production of the group was Long Day's Journey Into Night, presented in March. Written by Eugene O'Neill, the play is an emotional story of a doomed family—the father is a miser, one son is a drunkard, the other son suffers from tuberculosis, and the mother is a drug addict.

The last play was presented in April and was John Webster's The Duchess of Malfi. The Duchess, a widow, falls in love with her steward, Antonio, and secretly marries him against her brothers' wishes. Her brothers' spy, Bosola, discovers the marriage and the lovers are parted. The Duchess is tortured, and she and her three children are eventually strangled. The crime is followed by one brother's insanity and the other's death. Antonio and Bosola are also killed.

Oscar Blayton and Robert Weeks discuss their dreams on stage in The Time of Your Life.

The philosophy professor (Kirkpatrick) advocates his profession—Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme.

The William and Mary Theatre also sponsored three other dramatic events. In November, Mr. Hugh Miller presented Bare Boards and A Passion, a drama recital. The National touring company of Who's Afraid of Virginia Wolfe was sponsored for a performance in December. This play by Edward Albee deals with the relationship of man and woman. The Beggar's Opera was presented in February by Theatre Group 20 of London, a company of English actors. An acting demonstration was also given by this group; dance movement techniques, comic-tragic mask improvisations, and acting methods originated by Stanislavski were presented.

THE BACKDROP CLUB

Swinging songs, a large cast, hard work, lights, sets, costumes—put all these plus a few more ingredients together, mix carefully, and presto! Backdrop Club will have presented a new musical comedy!

Each spring, Backdrop Club presents a musical. This year, production headaches were treated by Lucy Blandford, Backdrop president and producer. Bob Gaines directed the play. Libby Gebhart, secretary, conducted Backdrop relations between the club and the campus. Financial finagling was managed by treasurer John Kirkpatrick, while Judy Hein publicized the club's activities. Scene design and technical aspects were arranged by a very able team—George Appenzeller and T. W. Graves. Mary Blandford and Pat McMahon transformed yards of material and patterns into very clever costumes, and Richard Vos, musical director, reprimanded any tuneless or off-key singers.

Backdrop productions are completely student-run. This gives the students the opportunity to direct and produce as well as act in musical comedies. Try-outs are open to anyone, and inexperienced students may work on Backdrop plays. The productions are also financed by the students; each year's musical is paid for by the proceeds from the previous year's show.

Prince Dantless (Bucky Riegelman), backed by a chorus from his court, bemoans his wifeless existence.

THE WILLIAM AND MARY BAND

The William and Mary Band is a versatile group of sixty college musicians. Try-outs for band positions are held in the fall. The try-outs are conducted by Mr. Charles Varner, the band director, and are individual auditions. Everyone who plays an instrument is eligible to audition.

After auditions and selections, the band members start their vigorous practice schedule. In the fall, the band is a marching group. Drill formations are practiced over and over. The result of the hours of work is then enjoyed by the entire college community when the band performs during football half-times. This year, the band marched at four home games and travelled to Annapolis, Washington, D. C., and Richmond for the Indians' away games.

After Thanksgiving and the last football game, the group converts to a concert band. This year, the concert band presented its annual Spring Concert on April 29. Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall was filled with the strains of works such as the Finale from Dvorak's New World Symphony, Universal Judgement by Camille DeNardis, Robert Russell Bennett's Suite of Old American Dances, W. C. Premier's Rhapsody for Clarinet, and other selections.

In late Spring, the band members broadened their geographical horizons with a concert tour. Leaving Williamsburg, they travelled first to Northern Virginia and to Delaware and New Jersey.

When they returned home, the band performed twice again for the student body. They presented two informal concerts in the Wren Courtyard. These outdoor concerts were welcomed by both the students and the band members as a wonderful way to conclude the musical year.

THE WILLIAM AND MARY CHOIR

Following tradition, the William and Mary Choir opened its 1964-1965 session with an open house designed to demonstrate to all interested persons a sampling of the types of music for which the choir is renowned. The Choir is presently celebrating its twentieth year under the direction of Dr. Carl A. Fehr.

The achievements of the Choir and its wide fame are largely due to the devotion and musical prowess of its director, Dr. Carl A. Fehr or "Pappy," as he is known by his students. Indeed, Pappy and the name of the Choir are synonymous due to the close relationship which has existed between the organization and its director since the partnership was formed in 1945. Dr. Fehr strives constantly for the artistic presentation of a wide range of music so that the audience and the choir members themselves can acquire an appreciation of this cultural aspect. His success is evident in the attitudes of all his choir members, present and past, and in the prestige which the organization has earned.

As the preparation of each year's chosen works progresses, every member becomes infused with pride in his accomplishments and those of the organization. This "family spirit" gives the Choir a feeling of devotion and unity of purpose which remains with all of its members long after their years at the College of William and Mary.

The perfection of a completed concert . . .

And the beauty of the harmony of strings . . .

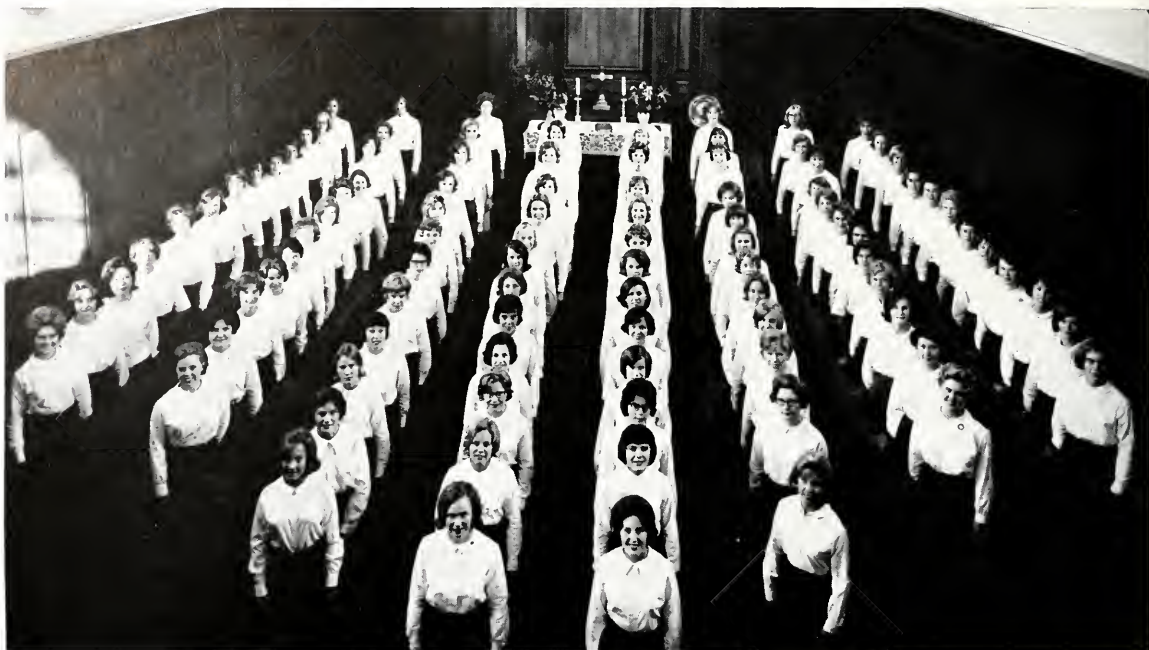

For the spring concerts, the Choir worked closely with the Chamber Orchestra for the major work on the program, Randall Thompson's Ode to the Virginian Voyage and the presentation of Brahms's Schicksalslied. Forty members of the group were selected as a touring choir and represented the College in concerts throughout Virginia. In addition to Christmas and spring campus concerts, the Choir performed for convocations, presented outdoor concerts in conjunction with the Chorus and Band and provided special music for the baccalaureate service and graduation. In response to a request from the Civil War Commission, a select group of choir members recorded the soundtrack for a motion picture made and released by the Commission.

The Messiah, Handel's mighty oratorio, was the Christmas presentation which culminated the arduous hours of diligent rehearsal during which Dr. Fehr gave the members of the choral organizations, the Choir and the Women's Chorus, extensive instruction in dynamics, diction and tonal quality. The Choir and the Chorus were ably assisted in this concert by the William and Mary Chamber Orchestra, under the direction Mr. Alan C. Stewart. In addition to the two concerts at Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall, portions of The Messiah were taped by a local television station and broadcast throughout Virginia.

THE WILLIAM AND MARY CHORUS

The William and Mary Chorus, composed this year of nearly ninety girls, has again made a valuable contribution to the high prestige of the College's musical organizations. Directed for its twentieth year by Dr. Carl A. Fehr, the Chorus has worked closely with the Choir to produce fine Christmas and Spring concerts.

The Chorus added many enjoyable features to the College's musical calendar, notably its joint presentation with the Choir and Orchestra of Handel's Messiah, in which the girls sang in unison many of the lovely arias and recitative sections. Thus, they added a feminine and lilting quality to the oratorio.

Through the close of the winter and into the spring, the girls practiced and perfected their music for the Spring concert in May. Dr. Fehr's artistic demands brought out the best abilities in everyone through extensive training while his humor and the lovely music made the rehearsal hours pass pleasantly. For the concert the Chorus presented ten beautiful Liebeslieder (love songs) by Brahms.

The Chorus' contributions to William and Mary's musical life did not end with the concerts, however, for it also participated in the Spring Convocation in April and the Wednesday night outdoor concerts before exams.

Dr. Fehr has thus given his Chorus members not only good experience in singing fun music and the opportunity to develop their musical abilities, but also a keen satisfaction in their accomplishments this year.

This year the William and Mary Intercollegiate Debate Council debated the topic: "Resolved: that the Federal Government would establish a national program of public works for the unemployed." With this topic, the Debate Council participated in over twenty tournaments and sponsored the annual Marshall-Wythe Debate Tournaments in February.

Major contests in which William and Mary participated included debates at the University of South Carolina, at the Wake Forest Dixie Classic, and at Navy. In conjunction with the Debate Council of the University of Pittsburgh, the William and Mary team conducted a demonstration tour for twelve high schools in the Pittsburgh area. The highlight of the debate year was the Marshall-Wythe tournament, during which five of the William and Mary debaters re-enacted the Stamp Act Debate.

Jerry Harris served the Debate Council as president; Susan Reynolds was secretary. Professor Donald L. McConkey and Glen Kirk coached the team.

A precision drill team attired in black seal-skin Grenadier's Caps, scarlet tunics, black trousers, and white gloves, the Queen's Guard is always a striking sight. The unit has already established a national reputation by winning honors in several eastern coast competitions.

The Queen's Guard Association, composed of members of the Queen's Guard, under the leadership of President Nelson Jester, Vice President Larry Rosser, Secretary-Treasurer Bruce Caine, endeavors to encourage student and faculty interest in this unique drill unit. The Queen's Guard Association is responsible for much of the loyal backing necessary to make the Queen's Guard as impressive a branch of the College ROTC program as it is.

C COMPANY—CADET CAPTAIN CARL R. WEBER, Commanding.

D COMPANY—CADET CAPTAIN THOMAS D. STEILER, Commanding.

The Reserve Officers Training Corps was established at William and Mary in 1947 for the purpose of providing reserve officers for the U. S. Army. Col. Julian L. Hogan is presently head of the Department of Military Science at the school. ROTC aims to instill in the military science students leadership ability and knowledge of military tactics, traditions, and methods. Academic credit is received for participation in the ROTC program.

The first two years of study are devoted to the basic fundamentals of being a soldier. The last two years of study deepen a cadet's knowledge of such subjects as military law, military methods, and the relationship of the U. S. Army to world affairs. Each cadet drills two hours every week. The summer following a cadet's junior year, he attends a six-week summer camp. This camp situation provides actual field training.

Following graduation, a cadet receives a two-year commission as a lieutenant in the U. S. Army Reserve. Outstanding cadets may be given a regular army commission if they so desire.

The Corps at William and Mary is organized in one brigade which is divided into two battalions. The brigade commander is Scott Ferguson; and Jay Anthony and John D. Fuller are the battalion commanders. Each battalion is organized into three companies.

Headquarters Company at William and Mary is the Queen's Guard. Cadet Major Ernest Johnson is the commander of the Queen's Guard. This company served as the honor guard for Admiral Ball at a NATO program given this winter. They also marched in the Homecoming Day Parade. This spring, the Queen's Guard marched in the Kilmarnock Festival in Kilmarnock, Virginia, the Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, and the Dogwood Festival in Charlottesville.

SOCIETY FOR ADVANCEMENT OF MANAGEMENT

Young Republicans at William and Mary threw themselves into the 1964 presidential campaign. Working closely with the First District of Virginia Republicans they participated in door-to-door canvasses, assisted with mailings, manned headquarters, and worked at the polls on Election Day. Local Republicans spoke to the group on several occasions and members of the club also attended city Republican meetings.

Highlights of the rest of the year included attendance at state and college Young Republican conventions in Richmond and Baltimore, Maryland. Students have also worked steadily in Williamsburg, keeping the office open several hours a day Monday through Saturday. The headquarters and First District work continue to be the focal point of the organization and its activities, with the belief that actual experience is the best lesson in politics.

Officers for 1964-1965 were: Joy Hutzel, president; Jack Cole, vice president; Judy Bryant, secretary; Harry Wilkins, treasurer; Luke Terry, parliamentarian; John Jacobsen, sergeant-at-arms; and Stan Eastman, liaison officer.

To provide for students the opportunity to organize, plan, direct, and control organizations is the reason for the existence of SAM. The society accomplished its purpose by working closely with merchants and business at local and national levels.

This year the society sponsored three lectures on various fields of business: Robert Sheery spoke on industrial relations; Gilbert Jones discussed the workings of the New York Stock Exchange; Alvin Boernstein explained how computers build houses. Activities were not restricted to attending lectures; the members of the society took several field trips, including one to the Richbrau Brewery in Richmond and one to the Ford Motor Company in Norfolk.

Each year the society solicits members from students who are interested in business, economics, and government. Officers for the year were president, Thomas Smith; vice president, Thomas Ewig; secretary, Clifford Johnson; treasurer, Michael Deligiannis. During the 1964-1965 session SAM has successfully gone beyond classroom situations to afford its members more realistic preparation for the business world.

CIRCLE K CLUB

Circle K is a national men's service club affiliated with Kiwanis International. The William and Mary chapter, organized in 1959, undertakes projects which benefit both the College and the Community, and, working closely with the local Kiwanis Club, does much to further good relations between the students and the citizens of Williamsburg.

Among the Circle K projects this year were making preparations for Homecoming, joint work with the Kiwanians in an anti-cancer drive, setting up a new scholarship, and aiding in the construction of a new church. A year-round project is a daily tour of the campus for prospective students.

Although the primary interest of Circle K is service to others, the members occasionally engage in club social activities, such as the monthly dinner meetings.

The officers for 1965 are: Bob Gatten, president; Bob Holmes, vice president; Gary Reese, secretary; and John Jackson, treasurer. Committee chairmen are Chuck Amory, Jerry Barnett, Bruce Davis, and Jeff Pilaud. The club's faculty and Kiwanis advisor is Mr. Ed Derringe.

ORCHESIS

To allow the members to express themselves through the creative experience of modern dance is the object of Orchesis, the College of William and Mary's modern dance group. Sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, the club provides an opportunity for the study of dance techniques at an advanced level and the chance to create and produce an entire show from rehearsal to the fall of the final curtain.

Tryouts were held last fall and again in the spring. General meetings to review the fundamentals of dance lasted through October; then, the girls divided into their separate groups to create the various numbers that would eventually be tied together by the central theme of the annual presentation held in March. Under the direction of Miss Shirley Roby and the leadership of Neil Sprague, the Orchesis choreographed, produced, and performed a variety of dances ranging from jazz to dramatic.

A predominance of Old Dominion talent, a desire for showmanship, enthusiastic school spirit, and smiling pretty faces characterize the majorette squad of the marching band of the College of William and Mary.

Joyce Hoskins, elected head majorette for this year, Pat Patterson, Margie Kelly, Bonnie Cheshire, Marty Miller, Karen Williams, all reside in Virginia, while only Margie Gove is an out-of-stater. Freshman alternates Norma Jarrett and Kathy Kincaid divided the Mason-Dixon Line between Virginia and Ohio.

Many hours of hard practice, both in the spring and in the fall, rigorous boot-polishings, and tired, sore muscles are behind-the-scenes preparation to produce the excellent show for which the entire squad should be congratulated. Their wares are displayed periodically throughout the year. The bevy of lovelies spotlight all home and some away football games with their dance and twirling routines. In addition at pep rallies, the squad features a unique flaming baton exhibition.

"Let's go through it again," is the cry of Miss Mildred Barrett, director of sixty of the most water-logged legs on campus. Approximately thirty girls go through a series of dives, twists, and turns to produce back dolphins, ballet legs, and catalinas.

Put the stunts and the girls together, and the result is one of the most popular annual attractions at William and Mary, the Mermettes' Synchronized Swimming Show. This year Student Director Denny Taylor, Assistant Director Gerry Thompson, Secretary-Treasurer Ginny Goolsby, and Production Manager Judy Mann teamed up with all the Mermettes to give one of the most colorful and lively shows possible. The College family demonstrated its well deserved appreciation by attending every night of the performance at Adair Gym in full force.

"Give 'em Hell, Big Green, Give 'em Hell" is not a sanctioned cheer of the William and Mary cheerleaders, but it is one of the popular cheers of the William and Mary student body.

Athletic events at William and Mary would seem lacking if cheerleaders were not present. Not one of us could imagine a William and Mary football game without Wampo or Wampo Feather there to lead the team up the field after a touchdown; Blow Gymnasium might have seemed more like Wren Chapel at times had it not been for the cheerleaders. During the games and during half-times, the cheerleaders worked in co-ordination with the gymnastics team to present diversions to the crowds. Spirit, enthusiasm, and good sportsmanship are all a part of a cheerleader's job, and the William and Mary cheerleaders are to be commended on their fulfillment of this role in the College community.

Girls from in state and girls from out of state, girls with powerful lungs and girls with arching backs, girls who have been cheerleaders and girls who have never held a megaphone—every type of freshman girl ever known to exist is represented in the ranks that try out for freshman cheerleader. Originated by several freshman girls of the Class of 1965, the squad has become a traditional part of freshman sports. Now a coveted position, membership on the freshman squad can be the beginning of a four year career of cheering the tribe out to victory.

After several days of organized try-outs, the select few are chosen. They are then trained by the varsity cheerleaders. Freshman cheerleaders have offered moral support to all of the College's freshman teams; they are on hand for the preliminary basketball games and the mid-week afternoon football games. When there are William and Mary freshman teams playing, there are William and Mary freshman cheerleaders cheering.

KEPLAR

Hank Davis and Skip Cashwell do the "jerk" at a Heritage Inn dance.

A few men students come to William and Mary realizing that an education is the chief reason for their attendance. Chiefly for these, the college has furnished a capable faculty, a library for studying, and dorms for living. Among these men who are appreciative of their opportunities there are a certain number who recognize the need for a fraternal organization, whose principle stress and sole hope for its members is academic superiority, and whose main function is to provide educational and entertainment opportunities beyond those offered by the college institution. Keplar attempts to find these persons and to provide the organization they seek. From each class, Keplar chooses seven to ten men which it deems "materia vera", and then, proceeding under the inherent handicaps of democratic procedure, tries to satisfy its whole body.

Keplar moves forward with hope and confidence for its future, and pride for its past. For its members and friends, it has provided intellectual exercise by presenting speakers and discussion group leaders from the faculty and town. It has provided entertainment with dances at the Heritage Inn. It has provided a feeling of joy for its members and many others through its service to Eastern State Hospital. Finally, through afternoon football games, evening dances, and services at Eastern State, it has created a sense of brotherhood among its members which can only develop out of numerous group activities.

Through Keplar, the college experience is well-complemented. Through Keplar, the William and Mary man may receive academic stimulation, associate with other men, associate with ladies, and associate with the community.

Keplar was led during the past year by: Mike Watson, president; Hayden Gordon, vice president; Keith Walters, secretary; Jim Hockman, treasurer; Don Neily, historian.

STUDENT EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

The Student Education Association of the College of William and Mary is one of eighteen active chapters in Virginia. This organization is a student group affiliated with the National Education Association. Its primary aims are to inspire standards of excellence in the profession of teaching and to give the student members an insight into the qualities of a good teacher.

In September of each year all prospective teachers are invited to join the Student Education Association. The organization welcomes freshmen, and this year the chapter is proud of its increased membership. The yearly dues enable the organization to provide monthly publications of the National Education Association and the Virginia Education Association for its members. These journals contain articles about the most recent teaching techniques and trends.

This year's officers are: Mary Scott Turner, president; Kay Drinard, vice president; Barbara Anderson, secretary; Sara Shafer, treasurer; Flossie Bishop, social chairman; Judy Weismann, publicity chairman; Gladys Holland, constitution committee chairman. Mr. Patrick Riley is advisor from the School of Education.

The first Tuesday of each month is meeting day for the Student Education Association. The business session is followed by special programs and speakers. Representatives of various professions give the students an idea of the teacher's role in the school, the community, and the nation. This year's programs have included the teacher's place in the community from the viewpoint of a journalist, a psychologist, and a professor from Old Dominion College who was born in the Soviet Union. At the end of each meeting the speaker entertains questions and enjoys refreshments with the students.

The regularly scheduled monthly meetings are not the only activities of the Student Education Association. In addition the organization helps with the teas given each month for Virginia school superintendents from this area. This year the local chapter served as the host school for the annual Virginia State Convention of the state chapters of the organization. Representatives from each chapter were present, and the convention featured an all-day program including well-known guest speakers, circle discussion groups, a banquet, and election of officers for the Student Virginia Education Association selected from candidates nominated by the state's chapters. In the spring of each year the newly elected officers are installed at the annual banquet.

Ausgezeichnetes Essen, frohliche Lieder, und Gemuthlichkeit—these are a few of the things that make German more than just a language. An organization which everyone can enjoy, the German Club offers monthly discussions concerning aspects of German culture and heritage and sponsors a classic German film.

In order to learn a language one must know the people and their customs; the presence of many a beer stein from the old country at the club's annual spring picnic is evidence of a sincere attempt to bring a little bit of old Germany to Williamsburg.

Officers for this year are President Tom Trewin, Treasurer Axel Leibum, Publicity Chairmen Jean Stern and Ann Cook.

DAS DEUTSCHE VEREIN

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

Parlez-vous français? The members of Le Cercle Français, the campus French club, do! Part of every meeting is in French, and all the lectures are given in French. To improve their conversational French, the members sing French songs and sometimes even play "twenty questions" in French!

Le Cercle Français sponsored a variety of activities this year. In the early fall, they were co-sponsors of a reception for the French professors. At this reception, prospective French majors could informally discuss their field with the French instructors. December was the month for a Christmas party. In March, the club had a mi-careme. The mi-careme is a mid-Lenten party and is an old French custom. The club hosted guest speakers and showed films furnished by the French Embassy.

This year's officers were: Buck Collins, president; Marcia Anderson, vice president; Linda Massey, secretary; Lorna Morris, treasurer; and Carolyn Hitt, Student Association representative.

First Row: B. Lane, M. Ostwald, C. Hitt, R. L. Collins, president; L. Morris, treasurer; L. Robinson, N. Guthrie. Second Row: J. Baker, C. Clements, K. Garvey, S. Hackney, J. Lowry, N. Carson, P. The Spanish Club aims to provide its members with many varied experiences with Hispanic culture. Meetings are highlighted by slide shows, films, and lectures dealing with all phases of life in the Spanish speaking nations. Customs such as a Christmas Pinata Party are put into practice as the season lends inspiration. This organization offers an opportunity to explore foreign lands and cultures through the language of the land. The officers are: Dick Woodhouse, president; Suzy Forstbauer, vice president; and Ruth Franklin, secretary. Senor Gonzalez-Aboin is the faculty sponsor.

As the name implies, membership in the Physical Education Majors Club is restricted to those who are majoring in physical education. Interest and projects of the club, however, are not restricted to club matters; the club is concerned with community health and general recreational activities.

Under the leadership of President Sam Miller, the Physical Education Majors Club planned an exhibition basketball game between the Washington Redskins and W.V.E.C. team sponsored by a Hampton television station. This game gave the college community a chance to see some ex-William and Mary players in action again.

In its seventh year at the College, the Physical Education Majors Club is active in stimulating the greater social and professional cooperation among all health, physical education and recreation majors, students, faculty and alumni.

The purpose of the Accounting Club is to consider theory learned in the classroom and to apply it to situations in the business world. Through a program of field trips and of speakers representing both local and national accounting firms, this purpose is achieved. Each Spring the club's activities are culminated at a dinner with the Virginia Society of Certified Public Accountants. At this dinner an award is presented to the most outstanding accounting student in the graduating class. The club is named in honor of a retired William and Mary professor who taught here for over thirty years.

Members are solicited through accounting classes. Participation by members in the internship program is one of the many practical advantages offered members of the club.

The Psychology Club has been organized with the intention of providing an opportunity for students and faculty to broaden their understanding of psychology and related fields. The monthly meetings not only are of educational value, but promote closer student-faculty relationships. This year's programs have included a lecture by Dr. J. G. McAllister of Eastern State Hospital, Dr. R. P. Norman from our own Psychology Department and Counseling Office, and related movies. Several of the professors joined together for a seminar on career opportunities in psychology. Each spring the Psychology Club joins with Psi Chi, the psychology honorary society, to sponsor an open house for those who are interested in taking psychology courses and those who are simply curious to see rats running a maze. Spring also brings the annual picnic for all members of the club.

The faculty sponsors are Dr. E. Rac Harcum and Mr. Virgil V. McKenna. The officers for this year are: Susan Stevenson, president; Gretchen van Dyck, vice president; Glennie Hines, secretary; Alan Brown, treasurer.

CLAYTON-GRIMES BIOLOGY CLUB

The Chemistry Club is an affiliate organization of the American Chemical Society. Open to students of Chemistry 200 and above courses, the club offers professional as well as educational information to its members by way of lectures and films on varied subjects.

Members of the Chemistry Club have the opportunity to become student affiliate members of the American Chemical Society (ACS). The ACS provides various services for the student affiliate. Among these are the nationwide employment clearinghouse, a weekly chemistry magazine, reduced rates for scientific journals, and the experience of participation in regional meetings and national conventions. A graduate school clearinghouse is also in the experimental stages.

Officers for this year are: Luke Terry, president; Carol Thomas, secretary-treasurer; Larry Gates, member-at-large. Dr. Trevor B. Hill is the faculty advisor.

The Clayton-Grimes Biology Club is a dynamic group of students with diverse interests ranging from dentistry to bull fights. Enjoying a busy term, the club members visited the Medical College of Virginia, camped in the Blue Ridge Mountains, and welcomed guest speakers from William and Mary departments and other institutions. The club has continued to sponsor the popular Audubon Wildlife Film Series.

As its special project for this year the club presented a series of five Walt Disney Nature films. These cleverly portrayed wildlife studies of settings varying from African jungles to Arctic ice fields offered informative and amusing interludes throughout the academic year.

The officers for the year are: president, Dee Boren; vice president, Bob Gatten; secretary, Peggy Jo Korty; treasurer, Joe Santore. Dr. Garnett Brooks is the faculty advisor.

The AIP chapter on campus is a student section of the professional organization, the American Institute of Physics. Each student section, although affiliated with the national group, is a self-governing body.

The aim of the AIP student sections is to encourage the study of physics and to assist student physicists. Section activities are designed to stimulate group interest in physics among college physicists. Students are made more aware of the scope of modern physics and the development of new ideas and theories. AIP section members benefit from closer association with faculty members and from early affiliation with the professional group of physicists.

AIP student sections may be formed at regionally accredited colleges which offer a good physics major program. Each student section is required to have a faculty sponsor. The advisor at William and Mary is Dr. James D. Lawrence. The president is Ted Fecteau.

AMERICAN INSTITUTE OF PHYSICS

ABELIAN SOCIETY

The Abelian Society exists for the purpose of providing an opportunity for the exchange and development of ideas related to mathematics. Although membership is restricted to majors in mathematics, the informal discussion groups and lectures are open to anyone who may be interested in the subject being considered.

The lecture series for the current year consisted of a variety of subjects ranging from the solution of problems which will occur in the future use of mathematics to the impossibility of solving problems which have existed since the Egyptians introduced a math system to the world. Guest lecturers have also explored the various uses of math in less likely fields of endeavor. The philosophical, sociological, and economic importance of math implied the influence of mathematics in everyday living.

Officers for the 1964-1965 year are executive secretary, Alan Barwick; treasurer, Dickey Barron; Executive Committee, Jay Louise Weldon, Maria Vallas, Cynthia Peary, and Barry Walsh. Under this leadership, funds were raised for a lounge in the math department and a spring picnic was held.

The Student Religious Union is a group composed of a representative from each of the religious fellowship groups on campus. The purpose of this organization is to promote cooperation and understanding among the various religions on campus. In an effort to reach this goal the Union sponsors Wednesday night chapel services in the Wren Chapel and Religious Emphasis Week during the winter.

The Union meets every other week and presents a variety of programs designed to bring the group closer together by getting the religions to work together. Business meetings are held to discuss problems which the representatives bring from their respective religious associations. The Union also sponsors programs featuring nationally known speakers. These programs are open to the public.

STUDENT RELIGIOUS UNION

BALFOUR-HILLEL

One of the strongest religious groups on campus, the Balfour-Hillel Club, meets every Friday night in the Wren Chapel for a religious service and every other Sunday for discussion and inspiration. Under President Jean Stern, the Balfour-Hillel Club increased and broadened the scope of its programs. This year, along with various brunches, celebrations, and socials, the club sponsored a series of controversial foreign films with discussions afterwards. An Anti-Defamation League Rumor Clinic, a speaker from the Planned Parenthood Society, and a lake party celebrating the main religious holidays were also part of the Balfour-Hillel activities.

Jean Stern was assisted by vice president, Ed Farb; secretaries, Sandy Temes and Steve Levenberg; treasurer, Sam Kushner; and SRI representative Dick Wolfson. Other aides were Chaplain David Blumenthal; religious advisor, Rabbi Jesse Finkle; faculty advisor, Mr. Emerick Fisher; and Congressional advisor, Mr. Howard Pulm.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

The Episcopal student has a range of activities open to him as a member of the Canterbury Club. Besides the regular Sunday supper meetings devoted to guest speakers, discussion groups, and ecumenical activities, the Canterbury member can participate in a Scripture study group and in a Common Prayer study group. He can also work with the pre-school and high school Bruton Parish children; he is invited to become member of the Bruton Choir.

This year, the Canterbury Club highlighted its list of activities with the formation of "The Heretic Hour," a weekly discussion session open to students, faculty, and clergy. These sessions were devoted to discussing the more controversial aspects of the Christian faith.

Jeff Camp served Canterbury this year as President.

The Baptist Student Union is a student organization sponsored by the Baptists in Virginia to serve as a link between the College campus and the local church. Among the emphases of this year's program were the following:

(1) Study and growth in Christian discipleship in which the focus has been directed toward two areas, world religions and Baptist problems.

(2) Worship through weekly devotional periods preceding 'BSU' meetings and special worship services;

(3) Service and mission opportunities through weekly service at Eastern State, through teaching a mission study and providing entertainment for a banquet at the Baptist Goodwill Center in Newport News, and through supporting a summer missions program with Baptists and students throughout the state;

(4) Fellowship through various phases of our activities, such as Sunday evening suppers, Christmas caroling, and exam teas.

Officers this year were Ernest Johnson, president; Bill Baldwin, vice president; Janet Sheets, secretary; and Don Sutherland, treasurer.

Three principles form the basis of the Christian Fellowship: the Bible is the authentic word of God; one must cultivate personal devotion to God; and one must comply with the commission of Jesus to share what he has learned about God.

In an effort to carry out these principles, the Christian Fellowship holds weekly student or speaker-led discussions. In addition, Bible studies and prayer meetings are held in the dormitories.

Officers for the year were: president, Bill Moore; vice president, Randy Lanford; secretary, Betty Bright; and treasurer, Lyle Campbell.

First Row: B. Bright, L. Campbell, R. Lanford, W. Moore, C. Moore, R. Ternan. Second Row: P. Alexander, S. Black, D. Maslbrook, L. Newman, J. Sassaman, E. Baptist, R. Baxter. Third Row: L. Bly, L. Baxley, C. Cain, I. S. Swartz, A. Thompson, F. Bishop, H. Rountree, M. Babb.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE ORGANIZATION

First Row: S. Pond, F. Fry, M. Demers. Second Row: C. Sievers, S. Reynolds, L. Hornsby. sponsor: J. Fumack. Not present: S. Blackwell, A. Brown, B. Siebert, G. Hinckson.

The Thursday evening meetings of the Christian Science Organization provide inspiration by allowing the members to share their problems with one another. Under the guidance of Mrs. Lois Hornby, the students themselves conduct these services and promote several Christian Science activities. On October 5, 1964, the organization held a workshop with a representative from the central church in Boston. The fall lecture, geared primarily for non-Christian Scientists, examined some phases of the Christian Science religion.

President, Chuck Sievers; Secretary, Susan Pond; and SRU representatives, Chuck Sievers and Susan Reynolds, led the Christian Science Organization this year.

The Wesley Foundation is a group of students concerned about questions of life and faith. As the collegiate-level organization of the Methodist Church, Wesley provides a structure in which students may confront themselves and one another in an effort to understand the meaning and relevance of Christian faith in their lives.

Operating uniquely in the comfortable surroundings of the Wesley Student Center on Jamestown Road, the group holds various weekly activities open to all students: a Sunday morning forum and a Sunday evening program including supper, worship, and a lecture, panel, or discussion. Monthly activities include a special student worship service in the Church Chapel and a Friday evening informal coffee hour featuring a faculty member and a current topic of interest to students. Services to the community include bi-monthly visits to Eastern State Hospital and choral and dramatic programs to peninsula churches.

Officers this year have been: Janet Beers, president; Jim Becker, vice president; Jane Noland, secretary; and Everett Holland, treasurer. The Rev. John E. Harwood is Wesley Foundation Director.

First Row: K. Munnell, J. Noland, secretary; J. Beers, president; E. Holland, treasurer; L. Blandford; M. Blandford. Second Row: A. Wade, D. Akers, S. Hollis, C. Jones, S. Blanks, F. Bishop, C. Brown, M. Whitley. Third Row: P. Mahin, C. Riecks, R. Lee, G. Williams, J. Harwood, advisor.

Soter, B. Davis.

The weekly program for Newman Club members began every Sunday at a special Mass held at St. Bede's Church. Following the Mass the members met in the parish rectory for breakfast and a planned program.

Ecumenism was one of the major topics of discussion during the year; it promoted a program concerning the function of music in various Protestant and Catholic services. The Newman Club also studied and participated in the changes in the Church liturgy. The enthusiasm and individual participation of the members in these discussions and studies encouraged a closer relation between the workings of the Church and the purposefulness of the Newman Club.

Advising the group were Father Joseph Zung and Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Tarleton. Officers for the year were Joanie Solinger, president; Sue Daffron, vice president; Greg Olley, treasurer; Cleve Youngblood, secretary. Bobbi McDermott planned the programs, and Kathy Tupper arranged the breakfasts.

LUTHERAN STUDENT ASSOCIATION

Every Sunday this year the Lutheran Student Association sponsored a supper and a program. The varied programs included a joint service with the Baptist Student Union and a showing of the same movie that the Lutheran Church sponsored at the World's Fair.

Other activities included a dramatic reading by several members of Malcolm Boyd's play The Community, and a panel discussion on the scientist in the Church. The organization also sponsored a student reading of "Voices," presented to the Lutheran congregation. This reading depicted the place of the Christian in modern society.

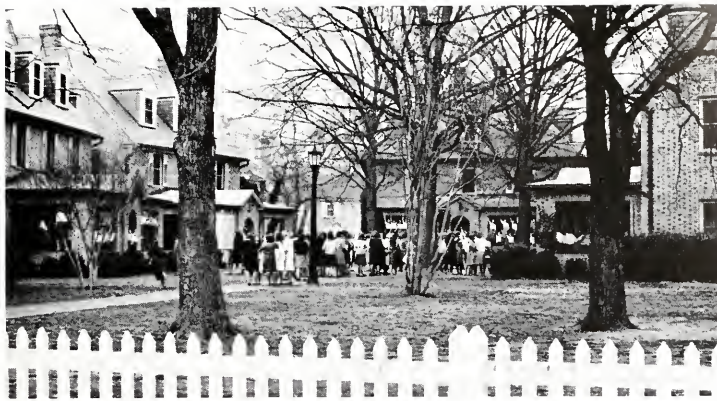

Larry Bolton led the Lutheran Student Association this year as president; vice president was Linda Dorset, and secretary-treasurer was Trilby Busch.

THETA DELTA CHI

Established
October 31, 1853

DAVID M. MAYNIER, President

Theta Delta Chi prides itself in excelling in the three most important aspects of fraternal life. Scholastically, Theta Delta has copped such honors as the coveted President's Cup for the highest fraternity average with this year's Phi Beta Kappa Joe Ellis succeeding last year's Tom McCullough. Craig Carlson, president of the Student Association, is also a member of Omicron Delta Kappa honor society. In addition, much of the brotherhood is firmly rooted on the dean's list with this semester's overall fraternity average being well above the all-men's average. Athletically, Theta Deltas participate in both Intercollegiate and Intramural sports. On the Intercollegiate level, Theta Deltas last year could be seen on all major varsity teams and this year can be seen in such sports as varsity baseball, basketball, tennis and track. On the Intramural level, the Theta Deltas have always taken an active interest in all aspects. Socially, Theta Delt enjoys a prominent social calendar with such events as the annual Christmas party, Pledge-Brother Beer Party, Boat Party, and the Sweetheart Dance during our Virginia Beach Weekend. Along with these events are assorted combo parties, sorority parties and theme parties.

Theta Delta Chi is the eleventh oldest secret fraternity in the United States and was the first to arrive on the William and Mary campus. The officers for this year were: President, Dave Maytnier, Vice President Art Walsh, Secretary Paul Shultz, Treasurer Ken Hutchenson and our sweetheart this year is Miss Pam Cooke.

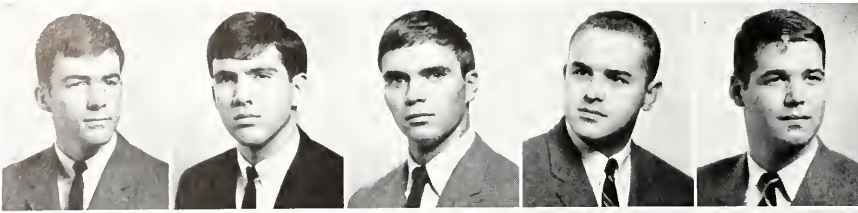

As has been shown, diversity and individuality are the keynotes of a Theta Delt.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON

Established
December 19, 1837

RICHARD V. WENTZ, President

Sigma Alpha Epsilon was the first social fraternity founded in the South and the second to establish a chapter at William and Mary. Today S.A.E. is the largest national social fraternity with chapters in 48 of the 50 states.

As a social fraternity, S.A.E. enjoys many fall and spring functions. The highlight of the fall semester is the Smoke Ring Dance; theme parties, sorority parties, Founder's Day, the Sweetheart dance and Virginia Beach weekend are the big events of the spring semester. Finally, the famed Shipwreck party to commemorate the beauty of Landrum Pond is held at the end of the school year leaving little time for the S.A.E.'s to get in shape for the fall.

As a brotherhood S.A.E. is active in the William and Mary community. Earning academic acclaim are Cabell Smith, Clyde Culp and Dick Wentz. Dick Wentz has also been a member of The William and Mary Review staff for the past three years. Dick Prillaman and William Mercer are members of Scabbard and Blade; Colt Worcester and John Garrett are members of the swimming team. Active in IFC is William Mercer who is the Social Chairman.

S.A.E. is also very active in the town of Williamsburg. They go every Christmas to Dumbar to sing carols and to give a party. S.A.E. sponsors a drive for the local Red Cross in the spring to round up the year's philanthropic program.

GERRY THOMPSON, Sweetheart

PI KAPPA ALPHA

Established
February 27, 1871

JOHN R. BOBERG, President

Pi Kappa Alpha, the fifth ranked fraternity in the nation, was founded at the University of Virginia in 1868. Gamma Chapter was founded at William and Mary three years later.

Gamma began the 1964-1965 school year under the leadership of President John Boberg and Vice President Tim Harris. No time was wasted on returning from summer vacation with full weekends beginning at once. October saw the PiKA lodge covered with spaghetti, thanks to Chef Plumeri and his Italian magic, and, of course, Homecoming weekend with the annual reception for alumni. The PiKA "Indians Unwind the Bulldogs in Record Time" float won first place in the Homecoming parade for the third consecutive year. December witnessed the Christmas Party and the PiKA Christmas Seal Campaign. Closing out the semester was the annual Playboy Party with its eye-catching art gallery.

Athletically PiKA had a fine year, capturing three trophies in the first semester. This was done in its bid to retain the all-points trophy it won last year. In Varsity Competition, PiKA was very ably represented in basketball, track, gymnastics, wrestling, tennis, and baseball.

The second semester began under the leadership of Dave Kern, who guided the fraternity through a fine rush program and social schedule, such as the Founder's Day Banquet and Dance, Prehistoric Party, Virginia Beach weekend, and several sorority parties and Sunday afternoon trips to Jamestown Beach.

KAPPA ALPHA

Established
January 10, 1890

SCOTT SWAN, President

Kappa Alpha Order was founded at Washington and Lee University in 1865. Alpha Zeta was founded in 1890 and has been active longer than any fraternity on campus.

We pride ourselves as a brotherhood of men active in a variety of campus activities. In sports, KA contributes many. Scott Swan, Bill Wellons, Dennis Haglan, Ed Scott, and Rodney Schmitt participate in football. Gary King and Lee Smoot participate in baseball. Scott Ferguson, Dennis Haglan, William Keen, Gene Griffin and record-breaking Jim Johnson are members of the track team. Chuck Stont is a member of the varsity tennis team and Harry New is a member of the varsity swimming team.

KA contributes to campus leadership. Scott Ferguson is Brigade Commander of ROTC and is also Head Group Leader. Scott Swan was captain of the football team and Gary King was president of his freshman class.

KA has many community activities including orphan parties and an annual Eastern State Christmas party. KA helps with the circus for underprivileged children and has high participation in the Blood Donors Drive.

The social calendar includes parties throughout the year. The Christmas season is highlighted by the formal Black and White Ball. The outstanding event of the College social year comes in the spring when KA holds its Southern Ball.

Officers for 1964 were Scott Swan, president; Bill Wellons, vice president; Mike Reese, secretary; Lee Smoot, treasurer.

KAPPA SIGMA

(Founded)
March 1, 1890

FRANK E. FLETCHER, Grand Master

Kappa Sigma at William and Mary means academic achievement, athletic prowess, student leaders, and social enjoyment.

Scholastically Kappa Sig prevails with consistent top ratings. The brotherhood contains a Merit Scholar and an Outstanding Sophomore Award winner of last year, along with other individual scholars.

Kappa Sig is also a leader in the athletic realm. A co-captain along with other Kappa Sig mainstays contributed heavily to the varsity football effort. A Kappa Sigma captain also led several other Kappa Sig's during the varsity basketball season. The brothers of Kappa Sig also participate on the swimming, golf, baseball, and intramural teams.

Besides this athletic leadership, Kappa Sig provides other leadership to the student body. Kappa Sig brothers hold various positions, such as President of the Senior Class, Vice President of the Student Association, O.D.K. and Honor Council members, ROTC commanders, the Treasurer of the Interfraternity Council, and others.

Kappa Sigma also means Party. The Sigs highlight the year with social events such as the annual Sweetheart Dance, the Virginia Beach Weekend and numerous theme and sorority parties. The brotherhood also provides several social services for the community during the school year, such as the Kappa Kappa Gamma-Kappa Sigma clothing drive for Eastern State, the Christmas Party for underprivileged children and blood donations.

Thus, it is evident that the diversity of Kappa Sigma has enriched all realms of college life and just as importantly has enriched each brother of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity.

PHI KAPPA TAU

Established
November 13, 1926

ROBERT J. SHILLIDAY, President

Alpha Theta Chapter of Phi Kappa Tau was established at William and Mary in 1926, twenty years after the national fraternity was founded at Miami University of Ohio.

President Robert Shilliday led the Phi Taus to an outstanding year academically, athletically, and socially. The annual combo on the first weekend back at school set the trend socially for the first semester. An early fall Virginia Beach weekend, sorority parties, combos and the Christmas party were some more highlights of the first semester. The second semester followed the same trend. However, the Phi Taus do more than party. They were well represented on campus this past year. Bob Willis, Dwaine Harrell and Fred Grill were representatives to student government, Glick Schultz was a consistent performer in the theater, Wayne Chadwick was a member of the Chemistry Club, Mike Christner was a tackle on the football team, Wall Bembinista played varsity tennis, Joe Green was captain of the track team, and Bob Audley was captain of the Cricket team. Phi Tau also kept up their good relations with the Williamsburg community through its conduction of the United Fund drive on campus.

However, the above cannot give a true picture of Alpha Theta. This can best be expressed by the strong bond of brotherhood which is the unifying link in this diverse group.

LAMBDA CHI ALPHA

Established
May 7, 1927

PETER MCINTOSH, High Alpha

The year 1964-1965 has been a "forward-looking" one for Epsilon Alpha chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha. This was exemplified in an extremely successful rush in February, as more than twenty outstanding freshmen were pledged. Meanwhile, the brotherhood has been active in all areas of campus life: scholarship, campus leadership, athletics, and social activities.

This year has found the Lambda Chi brothers leading the student body by holding positions as Student Association Representatives, Dormitory Managers, Resident Counselors, Group Leaders, Merit Scholars and members of Scabbard and Blade, Honor Council and Omicron Delta Kappa. The Interfraternity Council Vice President, Assistant Head Group Leader, Head Usher of the College, President of the Political Science Forum, Associate Editor of the Flat Hat, Advertising Manager of the COLONIAL Echo, and a ROTC Battalion Staff Officer were all Lambda Chi's.

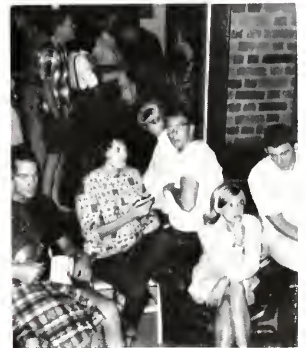

The men of Lambda Chi also led the way in athletics by participating in varsity track, swimming (all three tri-captains of the swimming team were Lambda Chi's), baseball, rifle, cricket, and wrestling. Also, the brothers were strong in all areas of intramurals.

The brotherhood also finds time to contribute to unfortunates with a party for the mentally retarded at Christmas. Last, but certainly not least, the Lambda Chi's social life included our celebrated Homecoming pig roast barbecue, Virginia Beach Weekend, the Roaring Twenties Party, and the infamous Gaza Strip Party.

PI LAMBDA PHI

Established
June 8, 1929

ROBERT P. KAHN, Rec.

It is in the spirit of Pi Lambda Phi to have the highest regard for a man as an individual. Thus the brothers are able to take advantage of the nonsectarian nature of their fraternity to benefit from a variety of backgrounds, ideas, beliefs, capabilities, and personalities.

For this reason then, it only seems natural that the Pi Lams are active and well-known throughout the campus. Paul Bernstein is a member of the Honor Council and the Sports Editor of the COLONIAL Echo. Bob Kahn and Lee Doerries hold responsible positions with the student newspaper. John Haley is the fraternity representative for Pi Lam on the COLONIAL Echo. Joel Zaba is president of the Stith dormitory council and Bob Andrews has appeared in numerous William and Mary Theatre productions.

On the athletic scene, Pi Lams narrowly missed championship in the intramural football league and are well-known for their tenacious contention in the basketball and volleyball tournaments. Pete Heyne and Bob Stoker are members of the swimming and diving teams, while Paul Bernstein represents the fraternity on the track and cross-country teams.

Needless to say, one of the most significant aspects of the fraternity is the social. Pi Lam's infamous Gaza Strip Party, Gangster Party, unbelievable Pajama Party, Halloween Masquerade, Hay Parties and numerous sorority and combo parties are the most highly awaited on the row. The Fraternity's annual excursion to Virginia Beach is considered the highlight of the second semester while the Purple and Gold Formal caps the first semester activities. Also during the first semester the annual Christmas Party with the Kappas for underprivileged children enables the fraternity to bring aid to the Williamsburg community.

Pi Lam was founded at Yale University in 1895 and the Virginia Psi Chapter was founded in 1929. The officers this year are Bob Kahn, Rex; Bob Factor, Archon; Tom Boyd, Scribe; and Joe Pitt, Marshal.

SIGMA PI

Established
June 6, 1931

THOMAS P. HOLLOWELL, President

The key word among the men of Sigma Pi is individualism. Every brother is a separate individual but all are unified into a successful fraternity.

The Alpha-Eta Chapter was founded at William and Mary in 1931 and has since risen to a position as one of the most active of the eleven fraternities on campus.

Sigma Pi is primarily a social fraternity and it is noted for its great parties such as the "Toga Party" and the infamous Orchid Ball weekend at Virginia Beach as well as our usual weekend record parties which tend to become an informal interfraternity dance.

Besides being a social fraternity, Sigma Pi is also a service fraternity. Throughout the year, Sigma Pi makes valuable contributions to both the campus and the community. These include an annual Christmas Party for the orphans of the community and the support of an orphan overseas.

The brothers of Sigma Pi are quite active throughout the campus. Sigma Pi's take an active part in varsity sports, the Flat Hat, ROTC, the Men's Honor Council, and the holding of class and Interfraternity Council offices.

The Intramural program of Sigma Pi is also very strong. In the past five years, Sigma Pi has finished in the top three fraternities in the race for the Interfraternity Sports Trophy.

This year's officers were: Tom Hollowell, president; Roger Burbage, vice president; Bill Griffin, treasurer; and Jim Armentrout, secretary. Our sweetheart this year was Pat Patterson.

SIGMA NU

Established
February 23, 1952

LESLIE P. SMITH, Commander

Epsilon Iota chapter is proud of Sigma Nu's heritage. Sigma Nu was founded at Virginia Military Institute in 1869 by a nucleus of three brothers. Sigma Nu has grown steadily and today ranks fourth among social fraternities in number of chapters which are located in forty-five of the states.

Sigma Nu's are found in all phases of campus life. Diversity is a fitting word to describe our brotherhood. We are represented by the president of the Interfraternity Council, technical editor of the Flat Hat, orientation group leaders, Student Association representatives, an ROTC company commander and in various clubs and honoraries such as Eta Sigma Phi, Pi Delta Epsilon, and Scabbard and Blade.

In athletics Sigma Nu is well represented. Brothers are found in varsity football, basketball, baseball, track, and swimming. In intramural wrestling Sigma Nu copped the championship again this year, and we are looking forward to an equally fine year in basketball.

All fraternities have parties and Sigma Nu takes pride in having the best. But Sigma Nu means more than parties, and this distinguishes us from the crowd. Our founder sought men who could govern each act by a high sense of honor, and he welded them together into a fraternity, not a club for college boys.

Epsilon Iota's officers this year are Les Smith, commander; Anthony Buccino, lieutenant-commander; George Pearce, secretary; and Ron Martin, treasurer.

Sigma Nu's sweetheart is Linda Combs.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Established
May 6, 1961

JOHN D. FULLER, President

Inside the Red Door at Number 10 Fraternity Row is Virginia Delta chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon, one of the largest fraternities on the row. Sig Ep is based on the desire to be best and upon the belief that a fraternity should be the developer and molders of men. All phases of campus life are represented in Sig Ep as brothers are found in a variety of organizations with leadership a strong point. Class officers, the president of the men's honor council, members of ODK, Scabbard and Blade, and student assembly, and leaders in ROTC are brothers in Sig Ep. The scholastic record of the brotherhood is among the highest on campus. Merit Scholars and an occasional Phi Beta round out the group. Believing a strong mind is complemented by a fit body, Sig Ep is always a leader in intramural point totals demonstrating sportsmanship and the desire to excel. On the intercollegiate level, brothers are found on varsity football, basketball, track, baseball, cross country, tennis, golf, wrestling and gymnastics teams.

Number 10 Fraternity Row boasts of a varied social life. The Founders Day Formal and the Golden Hearts Ball highlight the season while the Christmas party, Marli Gras masquerade, combo parties and a beach weekend fill the social calendar. Service, a very important part of Sig Ep is seen every fall and spring with a clothing drive held for Eastern State Hospital, and in parties for underprivileged children held at Christmas with the Theta's and at Easter with the Pi Phi's. The pledge class collects for the Campus Chest in the men's dormitories.

Officers of Sigma Phi Epsilon this year are: John Fuller, president; Jerry Harris, vice president; Tom Ford, recorder; Jerry Stettler, comptroller, and Dick Woodhouse, secretary. Our sweetheart is Miss Donna Dodson.

CHI OMEGA

Established
April 13, 1921

DABNEY O. DELANEY, President

The Chi Omega horseshoe brought a full year of good luck and happiness to the Omicron Betas. We were welcomed back to school this fall by a party with Theta Delta, and we spent a Saturday in Norfolk initiating our new chapter at Old Dominion College. Informal rush brought us four new pledges: Ellen Campana, Courtney Eley, Ruth Sallenger, and Karen Williams. Three of us were fraternity sweethearts: Lin Walters Smith, Kappa Sig; Ellen Campana, SAE; and Donna Dodson, Sig Ep. Then, in December, Anne Birk was tapped for Phi Beta Kappa.

The new year brought us a new downstairs including a formal dining room—and another pledge, Janet Beasley, Miss Richmond. Then came formal rush and our Pledge Presentation Dance, and a springtime full of laughter and fun, serenades and parties, tears and good-byes.

Our officers for the year were: Dabney Delaney, president; Anne Birk, vice president; Sandy Bolick, secretary; and Penny Plummer, treasurer.

KAPPA ALPHA THETA

Established
January 17, 1922

ANNE C. BARDEN, President

Full of spirit, Thetas roared back to the colonial village, ready for a great year. We began with a "barking" second-place float at Homecoming. Our new super pledges, Jan Looney and Bobbie Cusworth, were welcome additions in informal rush.

"Happy Hours" brought the whole campus cramming into 155 Richmond Road and we were lucky the oxygen held out. To support our Korean orphan, we sponsored a spaghetti dinner, prepared by our own "momma mia," Brigitte Schmidt. The highlight of our social calendar was the Fall Dance, an event rivalled by the PiKA-Theta football game.

The tapping of FIVE Thetas into Phi Beta Kappa set a new sorority record. Christmas meant tree-trimming with Sigma Pi and entertaining orphans with Sig-Ep.

The excitement of rush was matched only by the enthusiasm of our new pledges. Spring heralded our pledge presentation dance, the senior picnic, and district convention. Too quickly another great year in Theta had come to an end.

Officers were Anne Barden, president; Bonnie Burnett, vice president; Betsy Burrows, recording secretary; Sharon Spooner, treasurer.

LYNNE R. MARCUS, President

For a new year of Kappa friendship, Gamma Kappa welcomed three new fall pledges: Merrill Barber, Marlene Cohen, and Mary Lynn Murphy.

Inspired by Phi Beta Kappa's Donna Hougren Marshall and Ginny Whitener to scholarly endeavors, we also exerted our energies in Homecoming preparation: a reception for the football team, Father-Daughter weekend, and an alumnae breakfast.

After a political debate sponsored by KKG and Sig Ep, there were parties: Halloween with Sig Ep, Monmouth Duo with Pi Phi, with Pi Lamb for underprivileged children, "White Elephant" Party with Tri Delt, caroling with Theta Delt, and our Christmas Slumber Party.

Second semester brought a frenzy of rush skits and a flurry of new pledges. They joined us in philanthropy work at Eastern State, at fraternity parties; were presented at the spring pledge dance and were initiated in April. We honored our seniors at a banquet and said good-bye at the annual Fleur-de-lis party before exams.

Kappa's officers were: Lynne Marcus, president; Judy Weismann, vice president; Susan Bunch, secretary; Babs Dunaway, treasurer.

PI BETA PHI

Established

SUSAN M. STEVENSON, President

A newly decorated house welcomed us back to many activities. The major one was Homecoming. We were represented by our "William and Mary Go-Round," and four princesses: Mary Erskine, Leslie McAneny, Tricia Patterson, and Cathy Quirk. Two pledges were added, Barbara Herbert and Missy Crowgey.

Campus activities kept us busy bringing honors to Pi Phi's. Suzanne Frayser was tapped into Phi Beta Kappa and Susan Stevenson into Mortar Board. Mary Erskine was Senior Class Secretary-Treasurer and Pat Patterson DuPont Dorm President. Susan Stevenson and Mary Erskine were selected as President's Aides, and Susan Roberts served the Honor Council. Backing the teams were Marie Fridenstine, Cheerleader, and Joyce Hoskins and Tricia Patterson, Majorettes.

In December there was the annual Christmas Open House, "Santa Party," food baskets, and the Monmouth Duo with KKG. In January we helped the Grand President initiate a chapter at Old Dominion College.

Our officers were: Susan Stevenson, president; Sara Shafer, vice president; Patricia Davis, secretary; and Suzanne Frayser, treasurer.

Second semester brought twenty-five pledges, the excitement of fraternity parties, the Presentation Dance, and finally, initiation!

RANDY VENABLE, President

Fall brought excitement and activity to the Phi Mu sisterhood. Noisy welcomes were soon turned into spirited suggestions as we redecorated our house. Cheering us on was our new housemother, Mrs. Easley, who helped us entertain at our September tea. October saw us busily working on our homecoming float, "Bulldog Stew." The fall pledge class surprised us with their culinary ability at their Hootenanny-Spaghetti dinner. December saw the initiation of our pledges. The annual tree-trimming Christmas party got us into the Christmas spirit quickly. Christmas service projects included a toy cart and tree for Eastern State's children's ward. February brought the joy of new sisters entering our bond as rush ended. Pledges held a picnic for an orphanage. On March 4th, we celebrated Phi Mu's 113th birthday as the second oldest national sorority. The first day of spring was enhanced by the pledge's dinner and presentation dance. The joy of initiation came in April. June saw the concluding event of the year, the Senior Banquet, when farewells were said. All in all, it was a great year for Phi Mu.

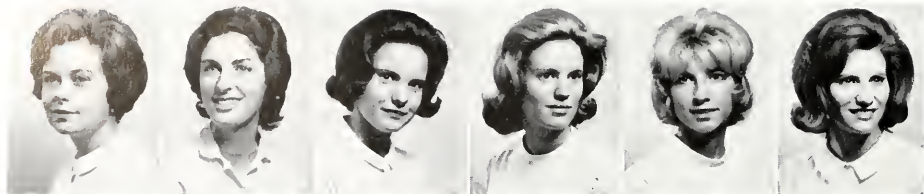

Officers for the year were: Randy Venable, president; Jean Acker, vice president; Virginia Rose, secretary; Marsha Sater, treasurer.

ALPHA CHI OMEGA

Established
April 8, 1927

MARCIA E. ANDERSON, President

Alpha Chi Omega began the 1964-65 year with plans for Homecoming and hopes for victory against the Citadel. Our float, a wooden Trojan horse ridden by a William and Mary Indian and pulled by Greek slaves, bore the slogans, "Des-Troy the Citadel" and "Beware of Greeks bearing Gifts." W&M's victory was matched by Alpha Chi's victory in winning first place in the parade.

With fall came social activities for Alpha Chi, beginning with a tea for freshman men and a Halloween party with Kappa Sig. We held our fall formal at the Congress Inn in November and gave a Christmas party with Kappa Sig for underprivileged children. We rushed with Lambda Chi on the Sunday afternoon of Men's Rush.

On campus, Alpha Chi has had many leaders: Barbara Hopson, President of W. A. A., Chris Scheid, Treasurer of W. D. A., Mary Stedman, President of Alpha Lambda Delta; Joanie Solinger, Associate Editor of the Flat Hat; Jo Ellen Kirssin, President of PanHel; and Kathie Brewer, Sweetheart of Lambda Chi. Alpha Chi's officers for the year were: Marcia Anderson, president; Belly Staton, vice president; Joanie Solinger, secretary; and Kathy McGurrin, treasurer.

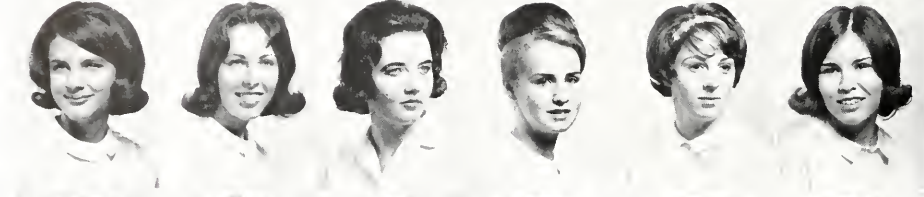

In a first semester workshop, the Alpha Chi's learn the art of rushing.

KAPPA DELTA

Established
October 28, 1928

GLENNIE V. HINES, President

The KD's returned to school with fond memories of the previous spring, when we placed first in the Greek Weekend games and in scholarship. We began our year led by Glennie Hines, president; Marjorie Robert, vice president; Diane Wilson, secretary; and Pat McMahon, treasurer. We had much to be proud of with the election of Marjorie Robert as WDA President, the selection of Jackie Murray and Donna Province as Dorm Presidents, and Joanne Taylor and Pat Trevvett to editorial positions on the Flat Hat and COLONIAL ECHO.

The days of fall were occupied with preparations for our Back-To-School Buffet, Founder's Day Ceremony, and Homecoming.

Winter brought many activities for us. We visited the Crippled Children's Hospital in Richmond, our national philanthropy, had numerous frat parties, and our White Rose Week when we initiated five fall pledges. December brought the Christmas spirit, our Diamond Ball, the tree decorating, and slumber party.

With spring came Rush, White Rose Week, Parents' Day Tea, the Presentation Dance, and the honoring of our graduates at the Senior Banquet. Graduation was approaching, and soon many of us would be leaving, but we would always remember the fun we had in KD.

DELTA DELTA DELTA

Established
December 1, 1928

JEAN N. FREEMAN, President

In keeping with the past, Tri Deltas experienced another full and rewarding year.

Fall activities began with Homecoming preparations. Jean Freeman was elected Homecoming Queen. We pledged two girls, partied Western style with Kappa Sig, entertained KKG for dessert and a White Elephant party, played bridge with the housemothers, and helped Phi Tau collect for the United Giver's Fund. Founder's day celebrations, the Christmas Dance, the annual orphan party with Sigma Pi, and caroling with PiKA, were the highlights of the winter months.

Formal rush and the Pledge Dance ushered in the second semester. Along with the usual emphasis on academic improvement, Tri Deltas had a work day and a second spaghetti dinner in order to award a scholarship to a William and Mary coed. We had a garden party for the faculty at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Guy and honored our mothers and seniors at the annual Pansy Breakfast.

The year ended as it began, with enthusiasm, pride and rich memories of Delta love.

Officers: Jean Freeman, president; Jean English, vice president; Melinda Duke, secretary; and Patsy Canady treasurer.

GAMMA PHI BETA

Established

JAY LOUISE WELDON, President

The Gamma Phi's returned in September ready for another great year. Lead by Jay Louise Weldon, President, we were proud of our Intramural Trophy, our prize winning Homecoming float, and our new pledge, Ruby Schonfeld. Jay Louise was a President's Aide; she and Dianne Dettmer, President and Treasurer of Mortar Board; Margaret Temple, Head Sponsor; Dianne Dettmer and Bunni Popkin, Vice President and Secretary of W. D. A.; Linda Nieder and Bunni Popkin, Literary Editor and Sorority Editor of the COLONIAL Echo; and Jay Louise Weldon, Nancy Combs, and Cleve Youngblood, Honor Council Representatives.

In December, we gave a party at Dunbar and sent gifts to our Korean foster child, Kim. Highlighting the season, Jay Louise Weldon, Marguerite Furey, and Gay West Wilcox were tapped for Phi Beta Kappa.

Second Semester brought rush, twenty-five wonderful pledges, a Presentation Dinner-Dance honoring them, serenades, parties, initiation, and finally the Senior Banquet, fond farewells, and the end of another memorable year under the crescent of Gamma Phi Beta.

Our officers were; Jay Louise Weldon, president; Elise Medinger, vice president; Dianne Dettmer, treasurer; and Scott Turner, secretary.

The William and Mary Athletic Department, under the leadership of Athletic Director H. Lester Hooker, Jr., continued to expand and improve in 1964-65.

Hooker, now in his second year as director, paved the way for two new official sports, gymnastics and wrestling, while striving to improve the quality of some of the minor sports. On the other hand, the established sports of football, basketball, and track continued to improve.

Mary Levy, former head football coach at California, in his first season copped Coach-of-the-Year honors in the Southern Conference when his thin and inexperienced team won four games. Bill Chambers finished his eighth year as basketball mentor assisted by Joe Agee who coached his seventh frosh unit. John Harvey, who coached the frosh gridders on an undefeated season, scouted and recruited for both football and basketball, and coached the frosh baseballers in the spring.

Harry R. Groves' Cross-Country team swept SC honors for a second straight year as he kept his runners and weight men busy throughout the indoor and outdoor season.

Baseball got a boost when Maynard Weber took over the reins and added unparalleled enthusiasm and knowledge to the William and Mary nine. The Tribe went through a 30-game schedule under the experienced coach. Weber also coached the wrestling team. Chet Witten initiated gymnastics on an intercollegiate basis for the first year, while Dudley Jensen handled the swimmers for the fifteenth season.

Joe Agee directed the golf team for the first official year and Mike Kutner coached the tennis team.

Edmund Derringe completed his first official year as Business Manager and Barry Fratkin finished his first year as full-time Publicity Director.

FOOTBALL

Coach Mary Levy; Captain Scott Swan

William and Mary's football team for 1964 was distinctly different from those of the recent years. A new coach with a new attitude and outlook for the future took over the management of the Tribe and brought big-time football experience.

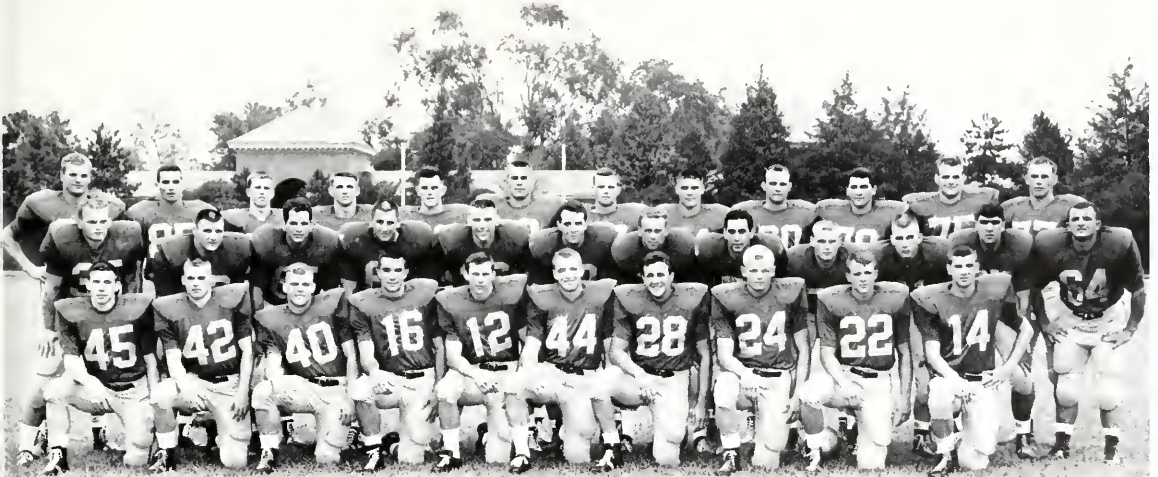

Mary Levy became the twenty-seventh football coach at William and Mary since it began its gridiron competition seventy years ago. His credentials for his new position are impressive. He received a Master's Degree in history from Harvard and was honored by being selected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa. He was a successful coach at his alma mater, Coe College, then moved to New Mexico, and then to a four-year tenure at the University of California.

The new attitude represented on the 1964 team is what Coach Levy likes to call "the 100", hard-nosed football player." With this attitude Coach Levy had the task of producing a successful season with only thirty-two players on the squad. The Indians were not counted upon to give anyone much trouble, but despite predictions of a winless season, and though they faced some of the nation's outstanding quarterbacks, the Tribe won four of their ten games. What impressed fans most about this team was that they were scrappy and tough; they never quit coming back when they seemed to be beaten, and they maintained a spirit and desire few fans have witnessed in a William and Mary team.

The credit to this year's varsity team is due not only to Coach Levy but to his fine assistants who were responsible for instilling Coach Levy's new style of football into the players: Jim Roe, the backfield coach; Joe Downing, coach of the tackles; Larry Peceatiello, the end coach; and August Tammariello, coach of the guards and centers.

Post-season laurels were bestowed upon several of the Indians for their outstanding play all during the season. Team Captain Scott Swan and George Pearce made the first defensive team All-Southern Conference and Jeff Craig and Craig Smith made the All-Conference first offensive team. Chuck Albertson made honorable mention. The outstanding effort which the Indians accomplished in their 4-6 record was perhaps best expressed when Coach Levy was named Southern Conference Coach-of-the-Year in his debut season. With only the loss of four seniors from the 1964 squad, and the addition of one of the most outstanding freshman teams in the school's history, William and Mary will figure in the top standings in conference play in future seasons.

William and Mary opened its 1964 season with a high-spirited and hard-fought 14-12 victory over VMI. Sophomore Chuck Albertson's 52-yard quick-kick and five-yard run put the Indians into a 7-0 second quarter lead. VMI came back midway in the third quarter when fullback Granville Amos took off on a 98-yard touchdown run which broke a Southern Conference record. W&M rallied to take a 14-6 lead on the next series of downs with Albertson again contributing the key plays. With time running out, VMI scored the equalizing touchdown but again missed on the two-point try with 35 seconds left in the game. It was a fine effort by the Tribe defense and W&M handed new Coach Mary Levy his first victory and the Indians' first victory over VMI since 1958.

W&M 6—NAVY 35

Albertson goes through the air for needed five.

The Midshipmen of the Naval Academy played host to W&M for the Tribe's second game of the season. Navy needed some fourth quarter heroics to head off a possible Indian upset. Navy led 14-6 in the fourth quarter with about 14 minutes remaining. The Indians had scored on a fine pass interception by Tom Feola, one of the two he intercepted in the game. At this stage Navy's outstanding quarterback Roger Staubach appeared on the field and Navy lost little time in getting its offense in high gear as it won by a 35-6 score.

William and Mary played heads-up defense for most of the game. Tom Feola, Dan Nase, Craig Smith and Jeff Craig all received laudits for their play. The Tribe's overall performance was considered very good in view of the differences in depth between the two teams.

W&M's third game of the season saw the Tribe face another of the Nation's top quarterbacks, Fred Mazurek. The combination of Mazurek, the beefy Pitt line, and four full teams proved too much for the Indians as they fell victims by a 34-7 score.

The Indians kept the Panthers in a scoreless deadlock in the first quarter, but Pittsburgh scored twice early in the second quarter to take a 13-0 lead. With less than three minutes left before halftime, Tribe halfback Chuck Albertson raced 83 yards with a kickoff return for the Indian's only score. Pitt blitzed back and scored again before the half to make the score 20-7. The Indians returned in the second half fired up, but their drive was halted on a pass interception. Pitt's other scores came in the third and fourth quarters as the Tribe absorbed its second defeat of the season.

Standouts for the Tribe included Albertson, McGuire, Craig, and Dick.

W&M 21—FURMAN 14

The Tribe opened its 1964 home season against Furman's Paladins in one of the most thrilling football games seen in Cary Field Stadium in some time. The Indians maintained a 14-0 lead midway through the third period. However, Furman unleashed an aerial barrage that evened the score in the third and fourth periods, and threatened to score again as they moved to the Indians' goal line with less than four minutes remaining in the game. A beautiful pass interception and runback of 64 yards by halfback Mike Weaver set up the winning score for the Indians as they gained their second victory of the season and snapped a two-game losing streak. The victory gave the Indians a tie for the Southern Conference lead with a 2-0 record.

W&M's quarterback Dennis Haglan picked up 102 yards in 13 carries and scored twice. Other standouts for the Indian's spirited and hard-hitting victory included Mike Weaver, Chuck Albertson, Randy Glesenkamp, and George Pearce, as well as all the Indians' hard-charging defensive linemen.

A Haglan to Glesenkamp pass—perfect!

Homecoming for W&M's Indians was a success. The Indians' aggressive defense completely stopped the Citadel, and W&M remained tied for first place in the Southern Conference with West Virginia.

Dennis Haglan, the Tribe's outstanding quarterback, played one of his best games of the year as he accounted for almost half of the Tribe's 192 yards picked up against the Citadel. After a scoreless first half, Chuck Albertson set up the Indians' lone score with a pass interception. Haglan scored from the one-yard line. Sam Miller's extra point was good. Miller also kicked a 39-yard field goal in the third quarter as the Tribe handed the Citadel its third loss of the season.

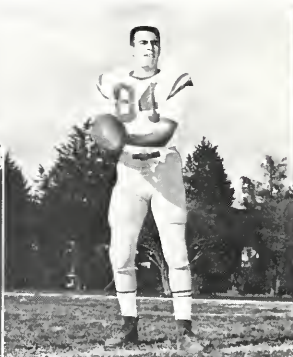

Coach Levy had praise for many of his players as the game was an excellent example of strong team effort and spirit. Among those specially cited were Scott Swan, Harold Rausch, Mike Mihalas, Larry Harrell and George Pearce.

W&M 0—GEORGE WASHINGTON 21

W&M traveled to D. C. Stadium to play George Washington University for its sixth game of the season, and was knocked out of a share of the Southern Conference lead by losing 21-0.

George Washington's new sophomore quarterback, Gary Lyle, proved to be the Tribe's undoing as he accounted for 14 points on runs of 59 and 47 yards. The third score against the Tribe came in the third period on a pass play that covered 41 yards. George Washington's three interceptions of Haglan passes hurt the Tribe where it counted most. Another factor which hurt the Tribe was penalties at key stages of the game. Top efforts in the losing cause came from Ned Carr, George Pearce, and Harold Rausch as the Indians suffered their third setback of the season.

Blasting the last few inches to pay dirt.

October 31 saw William and Mary's Indians come back to Cary Field to take on the Gobblers of Virginia Tech. Tech quarterback Bob Schweickert led his team by throwing three touchdown passes in the hotly fought 27-20 contest.

The Indians led twice, 7-0 and 14-7, each time capitalizing on Tech penalties. An intercepted pass put the Gobblers into the lead midway in the second period. The Tribe never led again, but made a bold and spirited effort to take charge in the fourth quarter. A fumble recovery by Danny Nase set the Tribe in position to score for the last time of the game.

The Indians out-rushed and out-passed the Gobblers, gaining a combined total of 328 yards, a season's high. A highlight of the Indian's performance was a fake quick-kick and 55-yard run by halfback Scott Swan, perhaps the most exciting play of the Southern Conference football season.

W&M 13—VIRGINIA 14

On November 7 W&M played its final home game of the season, and what a game it was! After a poor first half in which the Tribe gave up two touchdowns to the Cavaliers, the Indians came back to play one of their most spirited games ever. One sports writer aptly entitled it "a fantasy in the unlikely."

Battling back from a 14-0 defeat at the half-time, the Tribe scored in the third period on a 42-yard run by halfback Chuck Albertson. The stage was set for the comeback touchdown by Haglan with 16 seconds left in the game. The Indians went for two points and the win. The gamble lost but the Tribe did not quit. An inside kick gave the ball to the Indians and they moved to the 35-yard line of Virginia before time ran out.

Cited for outstanding efforts for the Indians were Chuck Albertson, Art Brown, Jack Becker, George Pearce, Jeff Craig, Craig Smith as well as the entire W&M squad.

Haglan goes over the Mountaineers to score.

W&M's ninth game of the season was with the Mountaineers of West Virginia in Morgantown. The Indians were facing the team that had clinched the Southern Conference Championship.

West Virginia unleashed its most potent passing attack to date with Allen McCune connecting on 16 of 26 passes for 216 yards and 2 touchdowns. The Mountaineers intercepted three Indian passes, but until the last interception, it looked as if the Indians might hand their hosts a defeat. Dennis Haglan scored two touchdowns on runs of 26 and 10 yards and accounted for half of the Tribes 168 yards rushing. The Indians failed to come up with several close chances for pass interceptions, and this hurt their hopes of stopping the Mountaineers' scoring. The Indians put up a hard fight but it was not enough to stop the running and passing of the Mountaineer offense. The loss was the Indians' sixth for the year.

W&M 33—RICHMOND 13

The unbelievable Indians of 1964 clobbered arch-rival Richmond on Thanksgiving Day before 10,500 fans and clinched its fourth victory of the season.

Fumbles, intercepted passes, and penalties characterized the hardly contested game as the Indians handed Richmond its seventh loss of the season. Dennis Haglan was the chief instrument in the Tribe's brilliant victory as he passed for three touchdowns, his first of the season via the air. Harold Rausch exploded for a 53-yard run in the third period as the Indians took a 26-13 lead. Sam Miller's field goal and four extra points accounted for the rest of the Indian's scoring. The Indians produced their high point output of the year and closed the season in a blaze of glory.

Two Indians close the hole quickly.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

William and Mary's 1964 freshman football team, coached by John Harvey, contained some of the most outstanding talent the Tribe has ever recruited. The freshman team compiled a 5-0 record, the first undefeated Papoose season in many years. The thirty-seven man squad elected center Bert Milling of Mobile, Alabama, and Mike Head of Lynchburg, Virginia, as honorary captains for the year.

This was Coach Harvey's debut season as freshman coach. He organized the squad into three platoons: the Ax, Hatchet, and Tomahawk units. The big factor in several of the Papoose's victories was the ability of these three platoons to wear down their opponents. Contributing greatly was the stress on defense, fundamentals, and team spirit.

CROSS COUNTRY

Pre-race jitters

The start

On the course

Cross country is one of the most grueling varsity sports at William and Mary. It has also been one of the most successful. This year's team, led by captain Jim Johnson, ran up a 6-2 dual meet record, and won its second consecutive State and Southern Conference championships. The tribe lost only to powerful Navy and a veteran Quantico Marine team. During the dual meet season, the Indians continued to improve under the fine coaching of Harry Groves. They entered the State Inter-collegiate Meet as a strong favorite and defeated arch-rival VMI by ten points to take the title. In the conference meet at Davidson, N. C., the Indians were predicted to finish behind powerful and heavily favored West Virginia University. The tribe, as a result of excellent conditioning and a tremendous team effort, defeated W. Va. by nine points. The Indians placed their five scorers in the top twenty finishers. Their places were: Jim Johnson, first; Joe Philpott, fifth; Steve Jackson, tenth; Tom Ryan, twelfth; and Paul Bernstein, eighteenth. Johnson and Philpott were named to the All Southern Conference cross-country team.

The freshman squad swept to easy State and Conference victories and lost only to Navy in dual meet competition. Its great depth and fine individual performances rank it as the best freshman team ever at William and Mary. A thrilling season climax came when the freshmen placed third behind Kansas and Southern Illinois in the National Freshman Two Mile Team Championship. With the addition of the freshmen to next year's varsity, the cross country future appears to be in capable hands.

The finish . . .

. . . One, two punch

As the season began, hardly anyone would have believed that this year's Indians would generate the excitement they did. Having only two seniors on the team and several good but "unproved" underclassmen, the Tribe finished 12-13 while losing the Conference Championship to West Virginia in double overtime.

The starting five usually saw Walter Wenk and Larry Paffrath at the guards complemented by All Big-Five Martin Morris and Tim Walter at forward, with sophomore Ben Pomeroy at center.

The season started on a disastrous note as Virginia whipped the Tribe 72-58. The Indians returned home to win three in a row over Hampden-Sydney, East Carolina, and George Washington. Following an overtime loss to Furman the Big Green ventured to West Virginia where they lost 72-63, and captain Morris was injured. Handicapped by the loss of Morris as a full-time starter, the Tribe lost seven of the next eight games.

During Christmas the Tribe traveled to Texas for the Sun Bowl Tournament but came home a double loser. Davidson was given a brief scare but won out over the ever-hustling Indians to usher in the new year. Successive losses followed to Citadel and George Washington, before V.P.I. dealt the Indians the seventh loss in a row.

With the return of Morris the team began to jell and won eight of their last eleven. Four straight victories on the road, a first for a Bill Chamber's team, guaranteed the Indians a spot in the post-season tournament. The Big Green saw their four game streak end with a 61-57 loss to V.M.I. After beating Pittsburgh, the Tribe lost a second time to V.P.I. Needing a victory over Richmond to clinch sixth place in the conference the team played one of its best games winning 87-77 with five men in double figures.

The never-say-die Indians journeyed to Charlotte, North Carolina, and the Southern Conference Tournament and immediately upset Citadel and V.P.I. to gain the finals for the first time since '61 and to give Coach Chambers his 109th win. The Indians then lost a double-overtime heart-breaker to West Virginia 70-67. Wenk and Morris made first team all tournament, Pomeroy second, and Walter honorable mention. The Indians had won many followers with their efforts, and an All-American called them, "one of the best teams" he had seen all year.

The Indians this year were most successful with a ball-control offense which required fine floor play. After a poor start in the early season, the ball-handling and play-making led by Guard Walter Wenk showed continued improvement. The Indians as a team proved so adept at it that they completely controlled the tempo of their three tournament games in their bid for the conference championship. Even though they lost the championship the team gained much admiration by the way they handled the ball and for their control-type offense.

The fine team play of the tribe was indicated in the final statistics. With four of the five starters shooting over 40% the tribe had well-balanced scoring led by Martin Morris' 16.0 per game. Following the conclusion of the season, Morris was named the outstanding player in Virginia, becoming the first Indian to win this award since 1958.

Rebounding, an important part of any game, continued as always to be an Indian strong point this season. The big green were seldom beaten off the boards and ranked first in the league in this department. Sophomore Ben Pomeroy proved to be the team leader, and was third in the league with eleven retrieves a game. He was given able support by Morris, Paffrath, and Walter all of whom had outstanding nights off the boards.

This year's team lacked consistent outside shooting except for senior Martin Morris. Experiencing problems with their field goal percentage throughout the season the Green and Gold proved most consistent when playing their control offense and waiting for the good shots. It was this policy which led them to the Southern Conference championship game and a final game percentage of 51%. This late season surge of improved shooting plus the Tribe's ever strong defense led to two upsets and a near win in tournament play.

Wenk goes up for attempted two as Walter and Paffrath move in to assist.

Hectic court action results in two points for Morris.

This year's Frosh under Coach Joe Agee posted a 15-4 mark. Winning more games than in any other one season, the final results kept intact Agee's record of never experiencing a losing season in his eight years at William and Mary. The Freshmen's starting unit consisted of former Newport News stars Billy Taylor and Jim Rama, Ron Panneton, H. V. Withers, and Brian Wolf. The reserves led by John Medlin and Mike Johnson also saw much action on this talent-loaded team.

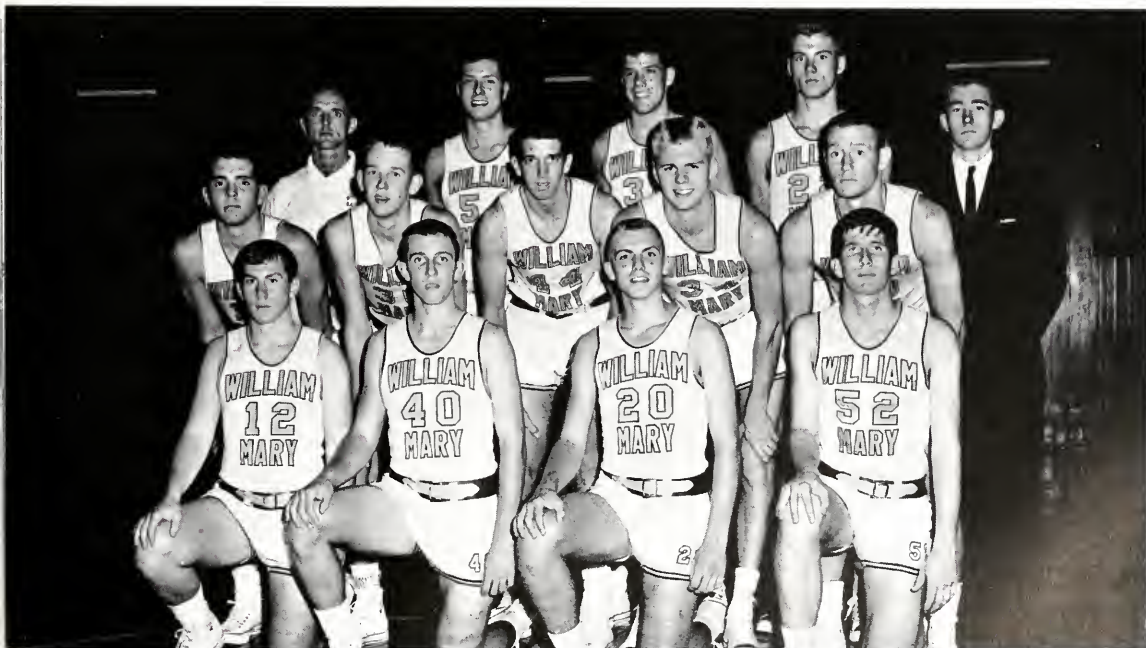

Panneton, former Bulles Prep star, was the leading scorer and was followed by Rama, Taylor, and Wolf, all of whom scored in double figures. Rama proved to be the top rebounder on a big frosh team and was given able support by Taylor, Wolf and Johnson. The team as a whole was a very fine shooting team, as the varsity, was seldom out rebounded.

With this talented group moving up to varsity competition next year, the future looks bright. With four returning starters from this year's varsity, the competition should prove great and make for an interesting William and Mary team. Maybe it will be the one to bring home that first Conference Championship.

This season was Coach Agee's last as freshman coach. The most successful frosh coach in W&M history will be greatly missed by tribe followers who have nick-named him "Screaming-Joe". His successor, John Harvey, will have a big job to fill in replacing this enthusiastic coach.

SWIMMING

The William and Mary Swimming Team led by tri-captains, Ron Good, Pete MacIntosh and Jim Winfree, overcame a serious lack of depth and experience to compile an 8-4 record which included a six meet winning streak. With only ten swimmers and somewhat less than adequate facilities and cooperation, the team was handicapped, but this was compensated by the versatility of the tri-captains and the spirit and determination of the entire team.

Ron Good was undefeated in the 50 and 100-yard freestyle sprints, taking firsts in these in everyone of the meets. He also doubled as the fastest 100 fly man in the conference and a member of the medley relay team. MacIntosh proved to be the best Individual Medley swimmer in the conference and also swam the backstroke and the butterfly in many meets. The third tri-captain, Jim Winfree, lost only two 500-yard freestyle races and also contributed valuable points swimming in the 200 Individual Medley and the 200 freestyle.

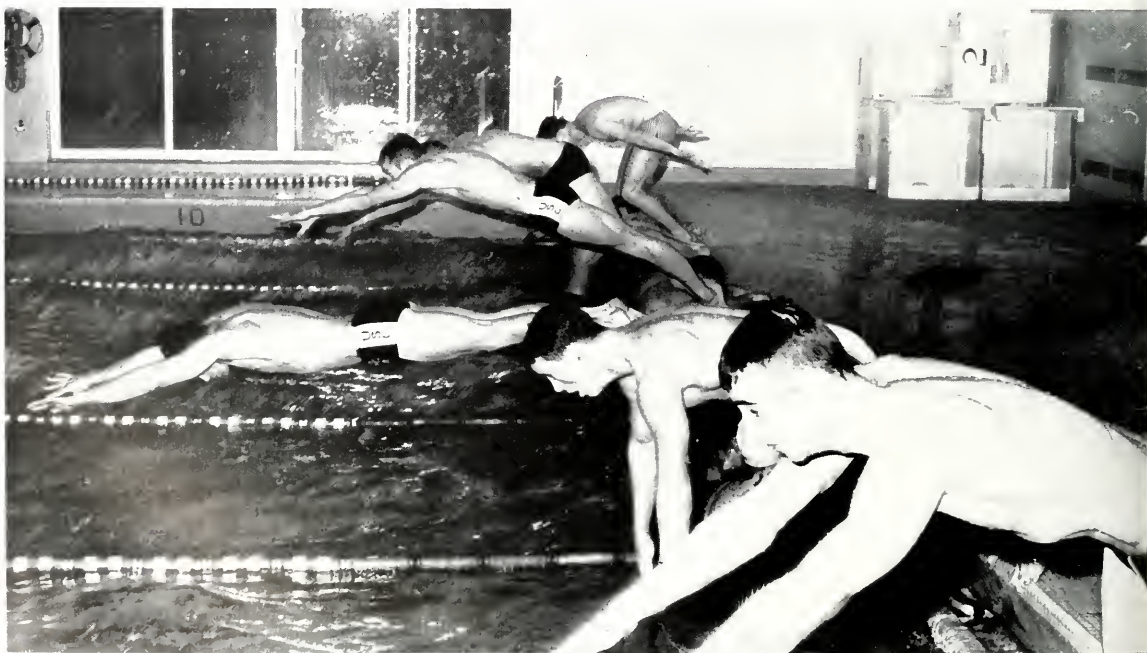

Additional support came from senior diver Bob Stoker who broke the long standing school diving record, and junior Don Cave whose progress in the freestyle immeasurably helped both relay teams. Pete Heyne supplied record-setting breaststroke times, followed closely by Bill Atkinson, together becoming the best combination in the school's history. Harry New, Rick Babcock and "Guts" Cholko contributed points in the backstroke, butterfly and freestyle respectively. John Garrett and Bob West gave one semester of freestyle support on the successful free relay team.

From the Virginia meet before Christmas to the Citadel meet, the team racked up six straight victories, with especially tremendous efforts against Wake Forest and South Carolina. One of the keys to the success of the season was the capability of the free relay team to win the final event and the meet. This team composed of Pete MacIntosh, Bob West, Don Cave and Ron Good exemplified the spirit of the entire team that enabled it to be the most successful in the school's history.

GYMNASTICS

The William and Mary Gymnastics Team is one of the latest additions to the College's varsity sports program. Interest in a team was generated by inviting the Danish Gymnastics Team in 1962. In the fall of 1963, Mr. Chet Witten, a former gymnastics competitor from Maryland and a physical education instructor, came to the College.

Under Mr. Witten's leadership, a co-ed Gymnastics Club was organized in the '63-'64 school year. The season was highlighted by two meets with University of Virginia, (W&M 55—U Va 58), (W&M 63—U Va 45), and numerous performances for high schools in Southeastern Virginia. The season was climaxed by an exhibition to the College community in May. During the 1964-1965 season, in addition to exhibitions, the Team had informal meets with Navy (no official score), and formal meets with U Va. (W&M 68—U Va 72), Georgia Southern (W&M 48—Ga 82), Furman (W&M 59—Furman 69), U Va (W&M 59—U Va 76), VMI (W&M 81—VMI 39), and a meet with David Lipscomb, as well as a trip to the Southern Intercollegiate Gymnastic League Championships in Georgia, were also on the schedule.

In the '64-'65 season the competitive Team, now given varsity status, grew to include Jay Anthony (parallel bars, trampoline, rope climb, rings), Jay Bassage (high bar, parallel bars, rings, long horse), Bob Johnson (free exercise, tumbling), Jim Moss (free exercise, tumbling, rope climb), Nick Orrick (side horse, high bar, trampoline, rope climb, long horse), Bob Rowland (free exercise, tumbling, long horse, side horse), and Mike Sestric (parallel bars, rope climb). Others who have started training this year are Terry Bennett, Ron Boykin, Doug Curtler, Bob Hagy, Melvin Manor, Walt Mehring, Paul Scott, and Hank Scharting.

The Women's Team consists of Sue Blair, Michele Loizzi, Alice Respass, and Winnie Witten. The events in Women's competition, which differ considerably from those of the men's competition, include the uneven parallel bars, beam, and free exercise

THE RIFLE TEAM

Although the rifle team is a minor sport here at William and Mary, it is by far one of the more competitive. In a competition match, each shooter has thirty-six minutes to shoot three targets, with ten bulls in each target. He shoots one target in each of the three positions: prone, kneeling, and standing. There is a possibility of shooting a perfect score—300 points—but to date, no one at William and Mary has done so. In a match, a team consists of up to twelve shooters, with the scores of the five highest counting as a team aggregate, with a total possible score of 1,500 points.

Besides firing in shoulder-to-shoulder competition with other schools in the Southern Conference, the Varsity and Freshman teams participate in postal matches, in which the scores of the shooters are mailed to the opponent schools. These postal matches are usually with schools that are beyond traveling distance for the team. Except for the procedure of mailing in the results, the procedures are exactly as those for a shoulder-to-shoulder match.

William and Mary, in conjunction with the United States Army through the ROTC detachment, sponsors three separate teams: Varsity, whose members must be at least a sophomore; Freshman, whose membership is open to freshmen only; and ROTC, which caters to any individual who is currently a member of the Reserve Officers Training Corps.

Stacy Garrett shoots his target from a kneeling position.

The Varsity and Freshman teams are members of the Southern Conference. In October of this year, the Varsity Coach, Sgt. Raymond Patrick retired, was replaced by Sgt. Louis Romero, who has done much to improve the conditions at the rifle range and to aid the team.

This year's team lacked sufficient depth with only six members on the Varsity Team; three of them, Robert Kennedy, Joe Turner, and Stacy Garrett are returning lettermen. Captain Milton R. Wofford of the ROTC department is the Officer-in-Charge of the team. Bob Kennedy is Captain of the team and Stacy Garrett is the team secretary.

WRESTLING

"A day late, a dollar short and in the wrong town," Coach Mo Weber's profound comment on life might have been the motto of the William and Mary's newest varsity sport, except for twenty-three freshman and varsity wrestlers who felt Williamsburg was the RIGHT town for wrestling.

Under the guidance of assistant coaches Bill Cowardin and Ted Bertleman the team began to form. A pre-season victory over an experienced but poorly conditioned Peninsula wrestling club and a 30-10 win over RPI fostered interest in the team and provided valuable experience for the tribe's novice grapplers.

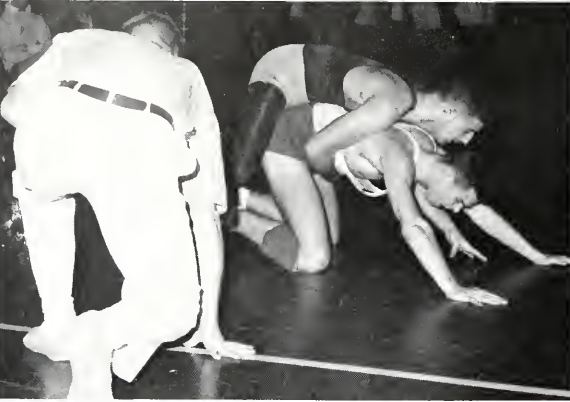

The new year brought injuries and disappointments. Heavyweight John Jacobsen, a hard working junior, injured a finger and could not make the VPI-VMI road trip. Wrestling well individually against more experienced opponents, with wins recorded by Pete Nance, Dick Randa and Jim Miller, the team lost both matches forfeiting two weight classes. In the second RPI match Sophomore Robert Fromm showed the value of hard work by pinning the man who had defeated him in the previous meet.

The team's freshmen showed great spirit and dedication. Outstanding among them were Richard Randa, Jim Miller and Wayne Edmunds. Other members of the squad were Richard Fridge, Rod Phillips, Richard Citron, Mike Smith, and Doug Green.

Many of the tribe's wrestlers participated in the Southern Conference Tournament at VMI in March. Complementing their regular season matches, Juniors Pete Nance, Lynn Dievendorf and Woody Caine compiled commendable individual season and tournament records against formidable opponents.

CRICKET TEAM

The cricket team was started at William and Mary in 1960 by Richard Grubb, a visiting student from England. Since that time it has steadily improved and prospered. The team is organized and coached by the players themselves and the results have been very commendable. It is especially noteworthy that William and Mary should have a cricket team because cricket is the oldest intercollegiate sport in the United States.

This fall the team had eight matches lined up, six played in Williamsburg and two played in Baltimore and Washington D. C. The team looked forward to a prosperous year with the return of a good number of last year's team. Guy Temple, Martin Burrough and Brian Clark added additional strength to the club in the batting department. All three were from England and their experience and skill were a great asset this year. The team captains for this year were Robert Audley and John Tudor.

The team is subsidized by the Athletic department but was formally sponsored by President Paschall's fund. The line-up for this year included matches between the British Commonwealth Cricket Club, the Maryland Cricket Club, and the Greensboro Cricket Club. Among the College teams that pitted their skill against the William and Mary side were: Duke, North Carolina State, and Haverford College. A request was received to play a team from the University of Southern California but their eastern tour had to be cancelled.

The team moved into a very successful and profitable season beginning April 10 with the British Commonwealth Cricket Club travelling to Williamsburg.

BASEBALL

Win, lose, or draw, the 1965 baseball season for the William and Mary Indians has been a successful one in many respects. It has brought the Indian diamondmen Coach Maynard Weber and Assistant Coach Sam MacIntyre (formerly of the St. Louis Cardinal organization), two of the most experienced baseball men ever to come to William and Mary. These two men have brought with them a spirit and desire that has been long lacking, and that will now be quite difficult to remove.

This intangible spirit and desire have taken many forms during the course of the season. A fall baseball practice was initiated in the hopes that certain fundamentals would become habit by the time the spring season arrived. Spring season arrived with more than thirty candidates competing to make the team. This was the earliest starting work and the largest number of prospects for the Indians in recent years. Conditioning, drills on fundamental techniques, and a love for the game were continually stressed and have reaped untold dividends already this season.

The indoor batting cage was just one of many coaching innovations this season to get the ballplayers ready for their March 20 opening with the highly rated squad from Kalamazoo. The thirty game schedule is in line with Coach Weber's theory of "the more you play, the better you get." All this is a vital morale booster to the eager and young ballplayers, most of whom will be returning next year for a shot at the Southern Conference crown.

And why not? The tangible and intangible rewards of this season will make this wish into a possibility.

Spring 1965 hope: William and Mary scoring on way to many victories.

TRACK AND FIELD

William and Mary has a reputation as one of the strongest track powers in the state, and last year's team was no exception. The Indians, after finishing a close second to V.M.I. in the state indoor meet, built up an impressive 8-1 dual meet record. Included among the victories was a win over Brown, of the Ivy League, and a narrow one point victory over perennial state rival V.M.I. The team also won the state championship meet in a close battle with V.M.I. A great team effort helped the Tribe to defend the championship which it has won for three consecutive years. The team ended the season with a fifth place finish in the Southern Conference Meet.

This year's team boasted a large number of fine individual performers but faces a serious lack of depth in many events. This lack of depth was evident as Navy and West Virginia defeated the Tribe in a triangular meet at Navy. After those two defeats, the team steadily improved and collected victories over East Carolina College and the University of Delaware in separate dual meets. Once again this year the Indians finished second to V.M.I. at the indoor state meet.

The outlook for the outdoor season is fairly good. The team will rely heavily on state indoor champions Jim Johnson (mile), Joe Philpott (2-mile), Gene Griffin (pole-vault), Rodger Bates (shot-put), and co-captains Bill Hurley and Joe Greene. The team needs only depth to become a serious contender for the state and conference championships.

This year's freshman team is the strongest ever to compete at William and Mary. They showed great depth and ability in winning the state indoor title. Their addition to the varsity next year will be a definite asset.

GOLF

With five of last year's starting six men returning, prospects were bright for the 1965 edition of the William and Mary golf team. Last year's team, coached by Dr. Robert Pedigo, compiled a record of 6 wins, 2 losses, and 1 tie—the only losses being to George Washington and Navy. In addition to their regular schedule, the linksmen also competed in the State Golf Tournament in Hot Springs, Virginia, and the Southern Conference Tournament at Myrtle Beach, South Carolina.

Returning lettermen from the 1964 squad were: Dave Stuart, Lee Dixon, Ron Chambers, and Cooper Pearce. Also back from last year's team is Gene O'Keefe, a late addition to last year's squad. These men along with some promising members of last year's freshman team formed the nucleus for 1965.

The squad's new coach, Joe Agee, expressed hopes for another successful season, and he also hoped this year to complete plans for an active freshman team. According to Coach Agee, there was considerable interest in freshman participation at early meetings.

The Varsity played its matches at the Williamsburg Country Club and was assisted by Peter Hodson, professional at the club. This year's schedule included seven scheduled matches and two prospective tournaments. The season began for the six man team on April 9.

The following matches were scheduled:

April	9—Bucknell.....	Home
	13—Old Dominion.....	Home
	16—VMI.....	Away
	17—VPI.....	Away
	29—George Washington.....	Away
May	1—State Tournament.....	Away
	5—Navy.....	Away
	10-11—Southern Conference Tournament.....	Away

TENNIS

Will William and Mary again have a losing tennis team this spring? The "netters" said "no", for this season could be a very profitable one.

One factor contributing to a possibly fine season was the schedule arranged by the team's "zesty" new coach, Michael Kutner, of the mathematics department. The first few matches were all played at home. It was hoped that spectator participation would help bolster the team's confidence for the away matches later in the season. The team was eager to take on the likes of Williams College, a perennial powerhouse, on March 22 at the Williamsburg courts. Richmond, April 7, was also played at home. Another home match was with Bucknell, a newcomer on the schedule, on April 9. VMI, VPI, Old Dominion College, and George Washington University were played away, followed by the Southern Conference Tournament at Davidson, May 10-12.

The Indians have gained a great deal of experience in the past two years. With the exception of senior captain, Craig Carlson, the team consisted primarily of juniors. Jim Moss, Wally Bembenista, David Parker, Scott Hershey, Alan White, and Keith Walters were the junior members; Guy Temple, an English transfer student, and lone sophomore Chuck Stout also figured prominently in the lineup.

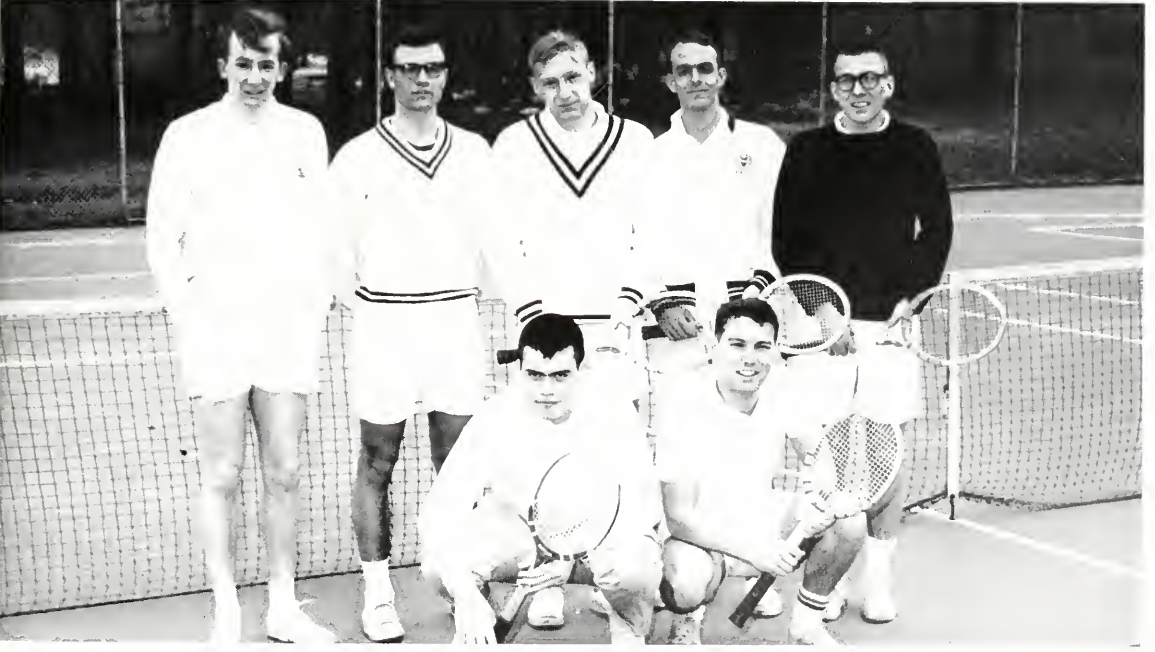

Coach Kutner, on arranging this year's ladder, has not wished to over-emphasize the importance of challenge matches among the players; he has thought that more emphasis should be placed on defeating other teams. This method has proved most efficient this year, for each player is more relaxed in practice and the will to win is more intent.

Many close matches were lost last year and the key-notes to this year's team were "desire" and "perseverance". Possibly this "extra something" helped produce another winning team on the reservation.

MEN'S

'65

Intramurals are almost synonymous with student life at William and Mary. There are league schedules and independent championships provided through a system of dormitory, fraternity and independent competition. With the exception of exam periods, there is no time when some phase of the program is not in action. The pictures on these two pages show the spirited intramural action that goes on in this and every year.

There are provisions made for participation in the following individual and team sports: badminton, basketball, bowling, free throws, golf, handball, horseshoes, softball, swimming, tennis, touch football, track and field, volleyball, and wrestling.

All-out fall action led to a PKA first in football.

WOMEN'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Women's Athletic Association organizes all intramural and varsity activities for the women at William and Mary.

The Joint Board heads the Association and is composed of the student officers, the faculty head of intramurals, and four faculty members from the Athletic department. In the fall this board plans a picnic for the freshmen where they are introduced to the WAA and the officers. Each spring the board plans a special Awards Dessert at which time awards are given for individual participation throughout the sports season. These awards are given on the basis of the number of points a girl has accumulated throughout the year. Points are given for participation in intramural and varsity sports. The WAA also presents a trophy to the team which participates in the most sports, and an award for the most outstanding intramural representative.

Other bodies of the WAA are the Manager's Board and the Intramural Representatives. The Manager's Board is composed of the four varsity sports managers. The Intramural Representatives include members from each sorority and each dorm. The Board plans the intramural sports events and sets up the rules and policies of play for the year.

Officers for the 1964-65 session include the following: Barbara Hopson, president; Sally Mac Smith, secretary; Clevie Youngblood, point recorder; Bruce Edle, student head of intramurals; Elaine Bannerman, secretary of Manager's Board.

HOCKEY

The enthusiasm of the new members supported by the experience of the returning players gave the hockey team the potentiality for a winning season. Coached by Miss Fran Rucker, the squad opened their season with a tie against Hampton Roads Club.

They then met with such clubs as Richmond, Longwood College, and Roanoke College. Against these teams the defense, led by goalie Pat Morrison, distinguished themselves and kept their opponents scoreless. As the season progressed, the girls gained in ability, as evidenced by their 3-0 shutout over Old Dominion. The defensive play was by far the best that the team had displayed during the season. Outstanding in this game was Mary Chichester, center halfback, whose performance was probably her best of the season.

Thus, what started out as merely the potentiality for a winning team, developed, and ended with the Squaws' record of a 4-1-3 season.

BASKETBALL

Much hard work proved to be rewarding for the 1964 basketball team for women under the coaching of Miss Fran Rucker and Mrs. Eleanor Corbett.

The girls' efforts and enthusiasms were displayed in their brilliant victory over Roanoke College in their first game. The varsity led by co-captain Jean Lusardi achieved a victory of 45-32 in a hard fought game. The Junior Varsity walked away with honors and an easy win by beating the Roanoke team, 45-7.

The remainder of the season brought to the girls such opponents as Bridgewater, Longwood, Lynchburg, Mary Washington and Westhampton Colleges. With this air of determinism in our lady competitors, a bright season was inevitable.

LACROSSE

SCHEDULE

Hollins College	April 10
Westhampton	April 14
Mary Washington	April 24
Sweet Briar College	May 4
Gaucher College	May 15

The 1965 Women's LaCrosse Team was one of the best in William and Mary's history. Twelve experienced players from last year's varsity joined with the newly selected varsity team to work to better last year's record. As in previous years, the team was under the direction of Miss Fran Rucker who was aided this year by Mrs. Eleanor Corbett, a recent addition to the William and Mary faculty.

Each year our LaCrosse Team has faced a schedule of experienced teams composed of girls that have played LaCrosse for a long time. Most of the girls on the William and Mary team learned to play LaCrosse for the first time here at college. LaCrosse season began in mid-March and continued until the end of the year. Since LaCrosse demands a great deal of skill and exacting precision, it requires a great deal of practice and the team must undergo a period of rebuilding each year.

TENNIS

The 1965 Women's Tennis team, coached by Miss Martha Barksdale, was divided into Varsity and Junior Varsity teams and was composed of returning varsity players and a large number of new members. The girls were ranked according to Varsity and J. V. positions by a ladder arrangement resulting from practice play-offs. Captain for the team was Barbara Wampler, one of last year's top players. Managers were Pat Cullen, Judy Duffer and Linda Trice.

This year's schedule included matches with Suffolk Recreation Association, RPI, Longwood, Sweet Briar, Lynchburg, Westhampton, and Madison. Also on schedule for the spring was the Middle States Tournament at Mary Baldwin and the Middle Atlantic Tournament at Bryn Mawr College. Each year the College has one or two players representing William and Mary in these tournaments. This year the College participated in the tournaments at Greensboro, North Carolina.

The spring schedule promised to be a challenging one for the Squaws. As they anticipated winning a large percent of their matches which they could well do with their team of a number of good, enthusiastic players.

SWIMMING

The Women's Swimming Team began its first year of competition on February 27, 1965, when it defeated a powerful Mary Washington team. The team, captained by Laurie Roberts and led by a nucleus of freshman stand-outs, looked forward to an extremely successful season, confident that the strongest opponent had already fallen. Meets scheduled with Roanoke College, Old Dominion, and Longwood, and an invitational meet at Westhampton were eagerly awaited and presented the opportunities for both individual and team improvements. The strength of the ten-member team was expected to come from such first meet leaders as Beeki McColpin, second place finisher in the butterfly and backstroke; Suzanne Bolton, double winner in the freestyle and backstroke events; Laurie Roberts, with a win in the breast stroke race and a second in the individual medley; and Karen Eden, with a second in the diving. Miss Marion Reeder, the coach, is hoping to expand both the team size and the schedule of meets for next year's competition.

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

Each year the Women's Athletic Association sponsors an intramural program for the women students. Participation in these activities gives each person an opportunity to make new friends and to enjoy the fellowship of others in team play.

This year under the able leadership of Bruce Edel, head of intramurals, there was an effective and fun-filled program set up. The girls representing the dormitories and the sororities made all the events exciting and hard-fought to the end.

The intramural season began with tennis. Due to the enthusiasm on the part of her players, Kappa Kappa Gamma came in first in tennis; but not without a battle. As soon as tennis ended the Ludwell girls made quite a showing by copping all honors in swimming.

Following in fast sequence, Kappa again showed her strength as she added a win in hockey to her record. Gamma Phi Beta was not to be out done and showed her determination by taking a first place in volleyball.

As the year continued the intramural sports took the forms of basketball, the free-throw contest, bowling, and softball. With these to provide ample opportunity for each girl to display her athletic ability, the entire intramural program for 1964-1965 was a complete success.

Editor's Page

The COLONIAL ECHO rarely has the opportunity to take part in any campus discussion or controversy. Very few people would assume that the ECHO has a legitimate concern in such an area or that it is even of ECHO interest. This idea, however, is without basis. The ECHO is an important, and the only permanent, student publication. It is time for the COLONIAL ECHO to be considered as something more than a once-a-year phenomenon, and its Editor's position to be regarded as important in the student community.

The ECHO does not represent the regular two semesters of work that one would attribute to such a college activity. It represents, rather, the work of over an entire year—from the moment the Editor is appointed in the spring, through the summer, to the last official mention of the book in the spring of the next year. During this time very few students are concerned with the operation of the book and very few people care. Because the yearbook desires, for the most part, to retain a wall of secrecy, this lack of concern is not always undesirable. It is, however, unfortunate when the Administration elects to ignore the publication until the day the complimentary copies are finally carried to the offices of the President, the Deans, and the administrative personnel. At this time several words of praise or criticism are given. Then all thought of the book is pushed into the background, only to be considered again when the Editor or a staff member makes a particular effort to gain administrative cooperation and assistance.

The ironic thing is that the book itself is not pushed into the background. The President's and the Admissions' Offices have copies readily available for all who enter Ewell Hall; the book is sent to various schools around the country on an exchange program; each student (who so desires) takes a book to his home. And thus the ECHO is spread over the United States and often to other parts of the world. For those unfamiliar with William and Mary, this is an important record of the College—the campus, the students, and the personnel—and quite often holds the key to their opinions of, and attitudes toward, the school.

This widespread publicity of the COLONIAL ECHO, and the subsequent influence that it can exert, plus the fact that the budget is one of the largest for any student activity, would seem to suggest that more attention should be paid by the Administration to the very existence of the ECHO during the year. The reciprocal need to better acquaint the Editor and the ECHO with the Administration and its functions would serve an important part in the desired communication between students and Administration and would further add to the value of the COLONIAL ECHO and to the more complete coverage of all aspects of the year's activities.

Acknowledgments

The job of editing a yearbook is a tremendous and time-consuming task, and no book could ever be completed without the hard work and loyal devotion of its section editors and staffs. Each and every one of the staff members of the 1965 COLONIAL ECHO deserves recognition for the fine job that he has done this year. I wish to thank especially Robert Gatten, Photography Editor, for his dependability and cooperation through the entire year; the ECHO would have a dismal lack of pictures without his constant and untiring efforts. Linda Groom's work with the Organizations section involved much time, energy, and even more patience, all of which were given enthusiastically and with never a complaint. To Carol Jones and her staff, the ECHO is deeply indebted for the new section on Student Life, a phase too often before neglected. Paul Bernstein has with originality and conscientious work managed to edit an extremely fine and complete Athletics Section. The copy staff was very well guided by Betty Bishop, while the Fraternity Section received a tremendous boost by the efforts of Kent Stevens. Mary Elizabeth Smith has overcome major obstacles to complete her Features Section, while Pat Trevvott, Linda Neider, Linda Sheffield, Anne Cox, Bunni Popkin, and Barbara Hopson have likewise upheld their positions. The business staff was expertly managed with a new professional approach by Anne Dixon and Ron Woerle. Richard Furr has very ably directed the advertising staff, as well as given much needed moral support to the Editor.

I wish to thank, also, Dean Melville Jones for his aid in the construction of the Administration Section and Dean Harold Fowler, for his support with the faculty. A special thanks goes to Mr. Thomas Williams, Photographer, for his patient and understanding cooperation throughout the year, and to Mr. William T. Reece, our financial advisor, for his unflinching assistance.

Many other people have given their time and their cooperation to the yearbook, and to all of them I extend my deep appreciation. Because of their work and interest of all these people, the 1965 COLONIAL ECHO is new, exciting, and different, one of which we can be especially proud.
