Memo to "Bequestive" Alumni

Philanthropy has languished under the strains to which wealth has long been subjected. For example, the once-generous alumnus does not feel as able as of yore to share his worldly goods with Alma Mater.

Bequest by life insurance can be conveniently and comfortably taken care of out of current income, leaves the donor's general estate untouched, enjoys certain tax-exemptions, and is payable directly and immediately to the beneficiary.

Ask our nearest representative or write direct to the Company for details of our Bequest Insurance service.

81 ALUMNI REPORTED LOST IN WAR

Verification of List Requested Before Tablets Erected

Alumni who gave their lives in either World War I or II will be memorialized by tablets to be erected in the Wren Building at an early date. A temporary tablet has been hung in the entrance hall of the Wren Building on which is listed the names of alumni lost in World War II. No permanent memorial was ever dedicated to alumni killed or lost in the first World War.

If possible, the projected tablets will be dedicated on next Alumni Day, June 8. The Alumni Office is now endeavoring to check its roll of the dead to make certain that it is accurate and complete. Listed below are the names of 81 alumni and one member of the faculty who have been reported dead and 14 alumni who were reported missing and whose present fate is unknown. Alumni are asked to check the lists carefully and to immediately notify the Alumni Office of any additions or corrections. Those reported dead are:

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Cover—

What further explanation or description is required?

Recently, a great many men who for three or four years, more or less, have been looking their best in khaki, olive drab, blue, grey, white or green . . . some few ornamented with varying degrees of brass, have been wondering about the old College: whether it had changed materially and could it be recognized again as the mecca of carefree days in less troublesome times. Their nostalgia is understandable.

The writer, himself away for three years and seven months and looking not too well in blue, back on the campus six weeks, can report that, like Bob Hope, he feels as though "he never left home" for basically, the College has changed very little. To walk into the Alumni Office after a prolonged absence and, somewhat surprisedly, fall into the wide open arms of "Doc" Henry Billups was an unexpected greeting that made the return almost tearful. Henry, for all his 75(?) years, gives no evidence of any change in him and certain it is that he continues to ring the Wren bell with an evenness of stroke that makes the ringing of that bell one of the most beautiful sounds heard anywhere, anytime. Henry may retire from active College employment before too long but that will not, he states, prevent his attendance at all homecomings nor from taking his customary place in the Victory Homecoming Parade next fall.

To be sure, the campus and buildings look more than a little bedraggled and worn after over four years of labor shortages and capacity enrollments. But extensive repairs are either planned or in progress and, probably, by Homecoming much of the campus will be at its best again. And it was certainly no surprise to find that again the College had dug trenches over most of the campus to install a better heat line. Is there an alumnus who can recall a four year period when it was not necessary to repair the water mains, electric lines or heat tunnels, which resulted in open trenches all over the place . . . the original "fox holes"?

Williamsburg itself has lost none of its charm though its facilities have been taxed to overflowing . . . the people still retire early and get up in time to catch the fragrance of West Point which comes in with a good northwest early morning wind and envelops the community . . . the dog population seems to be stable.

There are many new faces on the faculty and probably the loss through death of nine of the older members, including President Bryan, will be the change most noticed and most difficult to accept . . . but Cy Lambert and Johnny Hocutt are out of "blues" and in their respective deanships . . . "Pappy" Gooch is back at his old stand in the Gym . . . Ted Cox is reportedly en route from Germany . . . Dr. Morton is still writing his history . . . Donald Davis continues to be the senior member of the faculty . . . Dean Landrum is as beloved today as she has been for so many years . . . John Peyton Little, Jr., in his 92nd year, is the oldest graduate and alumnus . . . Lyon Tyler's youngest son is a freshman . . . indisputably, the coeds are as beautiful now as they ever were and the only change would appear to be in their number, which is unbelievable.

And the problems of the College . . . they are still with us and have scarcely changed at all . . . the question of increasing the male enrollment . . . what to do

As the second semester opens the College is in the process of being restored to a peacetime basis. The Navy Chaplains School formally closed on November 15, when Old Dominion Hall was once again made available to men students. The Chaplains School presented to the College their flagstaff and a beautiful bronze plaque that is located at the north entrance of the Marshall-Wythe Building. The daily flag raising is now cared for by the student organization of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Many of the members of the Faculty have returned from military and other government service and others will arrive during the course of the semester. Deans Lambert and Hocutt have been discharged from the Navy and have resumed their administrative posts. Dr. Fowler, Dr. Henneman, Dr. Moss, Dr. Southworth, Dr. Armstrong, Mr. Land, Mr. Gooch, and Mr. Gallagher have taken up their various duties.

Of tremendous interest to the campus has been the return of two hundred and fifty veterans to the student body. The suddenness of this movement was a surprise to everyone. The College was confronted with a difficult housing problem. Women students were asked to move from Brown Hall to vacancies in the other women's dormitories in order that Brown Hall might be occupied by men students. In addition, the Federal Housing Project on Richmond Road was leased from the government to accommodate married veterans. This project consists of three small dormitories and a cafeteria-recreation hall unit. It is planned to open the cafeteria when it is needed. At present there are about thirty married couples enrolled.

By next fall the number of men students should exceed the number of women students. Another large group of veterans will wish to register in September, together with the usual group of high school graduates.

The entering group of women students will be smaller than that of any of the preceding war years. By September, 1947 the ratio of 60 to 40 between men and women students should be reached.

The Summer Session, which is under the directorship of Professor George Oliver, formerly of the State Department of Education, will revert to the nine weeks' term instead of the full semester's accelerated program. It is anticipated that the enrollment will consist principally of two groups; veterans who wish to finish up as soon as possible, and school teachers who, for the most part, have been unable to attend the summer session for the past several years.

The College has requested from the General Assembly funds for the construction of a new classroom building, to be located opposite the Marshall-Wythe Building. It hopes, also, as soon as funds are available, and as soon as building costs decrease somewhat, to build a new men's dormitory. This dormitory will be arranged in six small units, and will house approximately 250 men students. It will be located beyond Old Dominion and on the opposite side of the road.

John E. Tompsett
President.

ALUMNI BOARD MEETS

The Board of Directors of the Society of Alumni held its mid-winter meeting on the campus on January 26th and considered a lengthy agenda including several proposals on which the Society will be called upon to act. In considering plans for reorganizing certain phases of the Society's operation, proposals were made that: (1) the By-laws be amended to provide for absentee balloting for members of the Board of Directors and (2) that annual dues for membership in the Society be eliminated and that hereafter all alumni who contribute to the annual fund shall become members of the Society with all rights and privileges. In connection with the latter suggestion, it was observed that at present there are four different solicitations of alumni and that it would be desirable to amalgamate them into a single fund and a single solicitation. Committees are studying both of these proposals and may have definite recommendations to offer at the annual meeting in June.

The Board requested permission of the College to move the Alumni Office to the first floor of The Brafferton so that needed space could be provided for additional clerical personnel, files and equipment. It was also requested that Brafferton Kitchen be retained by the Society for housing mechanical equipment and files.

Student members of the Board spoke at length con-

THE NORFOLK DIVISION

Interesting Facts Regarding Its Service

• By CHARLES JOSEPH DUKE, JR., '23

(Mr. Duke, Bursar of the College since 1934, has been Director of the Norfolk Division of the College since 1941. Prior to becoming Bursar, he had been a member of the Board of Visitors since 1929.)

The Norfolk Division of the College of William and Mary is situated in the heart of one of the best residential districts of the City of Norfolk. It serves the surrounding urban population of nearly a half million people. It was established in 1930 in connection with William and Mary's pioneering work in extension education. A year later the Virginia Polytechnic Institute joined with the College, and since that time the Division has been a joint enterprise of the two institutions. The physical plant is owned outright by the College of William and Mary, and under an agreement with the Blacksburg institution the College has complete responsibility and authority for administering the Division's affairs.

The Division is essentially a junior college. Through all the years of its existence it has been its policy to adapt its curriculum to the needs of the community which it serves, and it has frequently expanded and revised its offerings. Before 1941 the principal objective of the Division had been the preparation of students for the advanced work in a four-year college in both the liberal arts and engineering fields, although from the beginning considerable emphasis was placed on adult education. In 1941 a special committee of the Board of Visitors of the College, of which Judge Shewmake was chairman, made a study of the Division's program in relation to the needs of the community of Norfolk and of public education generally. As a result of this study the College decided that it would be desirable to supplement the freshman and sophomore courses in liberal arts and engineering that were being offered at the Division by incorporating in the Division's curriculum:

1. "Vocational instruction adapted to the abilities of the students and the needs of the Norfolk Division; and.
2. "Terminal courses best suited to those students who do not intend to pursue their college work beyond the work of the Norfolk Division."

As a result of this expansion of policy the Norfolk Division has greatly increased its field of service both to the community of Norfolk and to public education in Virginia, and its vocational program is unique in that its establishment has been made possible through the cooperation of the Virginia State Department of Education, the Norfolk City Public School System, the College of William and Mary, the Virginia Polytechnic Institute, the Federal Government, and the Norfolk City Council. These several public agencies have pooled their interests and resources to bring about a total utilization of their facilities in providing vocational instruction to persons in the Tidewater area.

The administration of the Division is divided into the day college and the evening college. The day college offers junior college work in liberal arts, engineering, and professional fields. The evening college duplicates the work of the day college and in addition offers a variety of courses for adults of a cultural character. In addition to the regular college courses, the Division offers its vocational programs both in the day college and in the evening college. Students are admitted under three general classifications, high school students, junior college students, and adult students. The high school classification includes all students under twenty who are not yet graduates of an accredited high school. Such students are admitted only through the authority of the local high schools and are carried on the enrollment lists of the high schools. They do non-vocational work in the high schools and vocational work at the Norfolk Division. The junior college classification includes all graduates of accredited high schools eligible to enroll. This classification is primarily intended for persons who do not intend to continue their education for the four years necessary to obtain an undergraduate degree, but who do desire to continue their education for one or two additional years. The adult classification includes all students over twenty who are not eligible for the junior college classification. Programs offered include mechanic arts, especially in connection with aircraft, radio and shipbuilding; sub-professional engineering; business, especially commercial, retail selling, distributive and secretarial programs; laboratory technique, both biological and chemical, and home economics. These programs are arranged in accordance with the best vocational educational practice; that is, much of the work is practical work in shop or laboratory. Many of them are developed as cooperative programs, thus decreasing the cost to students while engaged in the actual process of training and, at the same time, increasing the possibility of their obtaining remunerative employment at the completion of the program. To students who have completed one of the prescribed two-year programs at the Division a diploma of Associate in Arts is awarded. There is in operation at the Division a guidance bureau and placement office organized to serve the three groups, namely, the non-high school graduates who wish to secure specific training for jobs, the high school graduates who wish to continue their training, and the adults. These programs of study and the guidance and placement service are very popular with returning servicemen.

The service which the Division is rendering is best indicated by its popularity and results. On a State-wide basis only about 23% of the students who graduate from high school continue their education, and approximately one-half of those students do not continue their formal education beyond two additional years. In the Norfolk area not 23% but 60% of the high school graduates continue their education, and this is in large measure accounted for by the location of the Division in Norfolk and the fact that a variety of courses are offered which enable the students to prepare themselves for specific vocations in one or two additional years.

During the war more than 8,000 men and women were trained by the Division for special work in essential war industries. At the present time the regular day college has an enrollment of approximately 500 students. The evening college has an enrollment of 900. Including high school students, about 200 additional students are enrolled in the strictly vocational courses, and the Division is also providing the necessary academic training for about 200 young ladies who are in training as nurses in the hospitals in Norfolk and Portsmouth.

The work being done by the College at Norfolk has attracted considerable attention and favorable comment both within and without the State. It has provided a type of training that heretofore has not been available anywhere in Virginia. It has provided educational opportunities for a large number of boys and girls who would have been deprived of their chance for an education by reason of their limited financial resources had they not been able to absorb a part of the cost in the family budget. In short, the Norfolk Division has broadened the opportunities of the College of William and Mary for service to the youth of Virginia without in any way infringing upon its own liberal arts program.

In the 15 years of the Division's existence, 600 of her students have transferred to the College in Williamsburg and 350 have gone on to V.P.I. Of these 950 students, 90% have received their degrees. Another 700 Division students have transferred to other schools throughout the country.

31 HOLD ALUMNI GIFT SCHOLARSHIPS

31 men who entered the College last September are recipients of scholarships made possible by contributions to the first Charter Day Gifts Fund. 17 are from Virginia and others are distributed as follows: Illinois 3, Pennsylvania 2, Tennessee 2, Canada 2, South Carolina 1, New Jersey 1, Texas 1, Florida 1, Maryland 1.

Land Succeeds Swem After Ending Navy Duty

Robert Hunt Land, '34Ba, assumed his duties as associate librarian of the College on December 1st, taking over the duties of Miss Margaret Galphin who has been acting librarian since the retirement of Dr. Earl G. Swem in June, 1944. Dr.

Swem is continuing his work on the accumulation and assembling of material for ultimate use in writing the history of the College. He likewise continues as a member of the advisory board for the recently established Institute of Early American History and Culture.

A native of Surry where he received his early education, Mr. Land has been connected with the College intermittently since 1930 when he was one of the first students to be enrolled at the Norfolk Division of the College. After a year at the Division, he attended Tyler Junior College in Texas and entered the College in Williamsburg in the fall of 1932. During the session 1935-36 he took graduate work in American history at the University of Virginia, writing a thesis on "The Theatre in Colonial Virginia" and received the M.A. degree in June, 1936. During the summer of 1936 he worked in the manuscript department of the Library and in the fall was appointed junior historian for the Jamestown Archeological Project of the Colonial National Historical Park Service. He returned to the Library in January, 1938 as an instructor in history and archivist.

Mr. Land commenced his training for library administration at Columbia University in the summer of 1938, returning in the summer of 1939 and for the spring term in 1940. He received his B.S. degree in library science in June, 1940, returned to William and Mary for the summer and entered the University of Virginia in September, where he remained a year taking further graduate study and working on his doctor's dissertation which will also be on "The Theatre in Colonial Virginia." He expects to complete the requirements for his Ph.D. degree in the summer of 1947.

In March, 1942 Mr. Land was commissioned Ensign, USNR. After a two months indoctrination at Midshipmen's School, Northwestern University, he was assigned to the U.S.S. Brooklyn on which he participated in the invasion of Africa at Casablanca in November, 1942. Shortly thereafter he was transferred to the newly commissioned battleship Iowa which transported President Roosevelt to Teheran and later went into the Pacific and participated in the strikes against the Marshall, Caroline and Marianas Islands and New Guinea. He was later assigned to the new cruiser Amsterdam and returned to the Pacific for strikes against Japan proper and on V-J Day he was near Tokyo Bay. At the time of his release from the Navy, Land was a Lieutenant.

Continuing Dr. Swem's program for a strong liberal arts library is Mr. Land's announced purpose. He also desires to continue the "open stack" policy which Dr. Swem developed to a high degree of perfection.

While a student, Land twice won the Society of the Cincinnati Award; was a member of the Dramatic Club, Theta Alpha Phi, Omicron Delta Kappa and Kappa Alpha. In April, 1945 he was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa, Alpha of Virginia.

Among Mr. Land's relatives who have attended the College in recent years are: two sisters, Mary Marable Land (Gill), '28Ba and Cornelia Spratley Land (Hardenbergh), '37Ba and two brothers, William Edwin, '23x and Henry Carter, Jr., '34Bs.

deBordenave Becomes Bishop's Aide

The Reverend Ernest Auguste deBordenave, Jr., '32Ba, has become executive assistant to the Right Reverend Frederick Deanne Goodwin, '12Ba-M-'15Bs, bishop of Virginia.

Reverend deBordenave has had a somewhat spectacular career in the ministry since he was ordained ten years ago and was first appointed assistant to the rector at St. Paul's Church, Richmond. He later became rector at St. Paul's Church, Alexandria, an historic Church which he streamlined and soon acquired a local reputation for organization that made him a well-known figure in and out of Church circles.

After the outbreak of war, he became a Navy chaplain and served both in the Mediterranean and Pacific theaters. He is reported to have authored a book about the chaplaincy which could not be published while he wore the uniform.

Tyler's Son Receives Award

Harrison Ruffin Tyler, '49x, grandson of the 10th President of the United States and youngest son of the late Lyon G. Tyler, president of the College, 1888-1919, was presented the first award of a scholarship to be made by the Virginians in Maryland, Inc. The award was presented at the society's annual banquet on February 1. Tyler entered the College as a freshman last September. His home is Lions' Den, Charles City.

TUCK INAUGURATED GOVERNOR

First Alumnus So Honored in Over a Century

The warm and cheering smile of William Munford (Bill) Tuck, '19x, was in decided contrast to the bitterly cold weather which descended upon him on January 16th when, on the south portico of the State Capitol in Richmond, he took the oath which made him Virginia's Governor. He was the sixteenth alumnus of the College to attain this high station and the first in over a hundred years.

Taking the oath administered by Chief Justice Preston

Tuck Takes Oath

W. Campbell at 12:27 p.m., and after a detachment of coast artillery fired the 19-gun Governor's salute, Governor Tuck reviewed the colorful inaugural parade which passed in front of the stand. The parade over, the Governor commenced his inaugural address to a rapidly thinning crowd which finally succumbed to the cold. He confined his address to a broad outline of policy and directed it chiefly to the people of the Commonwealth rather than to the General Assembly. His remarks were highlighted by his pledge to return Virginia to a program of self-sufficiency and independence of Federal encroachments through money grants. He declared that: "even before the late war there had developed a decided movement by the government at Washington to break over the constitutional bounds prescribed for it and take on activities which were supposedly reserved to the States."

Continuing, he said, "There has been considerable agitation in some circles for a Federal grant to the States to aid in the conduct of the public schools. . . . The thought is seductive; it carried with it the something for nothing idea. But let us not deceive ourselves. The plan will not only cost the taxpayers of the States more money, but will eventually result in the control of their schools by a Washington bureau."

The formal ceremonies attending his inauguration over, Governor Tuck immediately went to his office in the Capitol and commenced the serious work of administering the Commonwealth's affairs.

ENTIRE DEPARTMENT IN PUBLIC SERVICE

Prewar Economics' Faculty Serves Nation and State

On December 7, 1941 the Departments of Economics and Business Administration had seven men on its combined faculty. Since that date all seven men have, at one time or another, been on leave from the College for some type of public service. Four of the seven have not returned as yet.

A. G. Taylor, Professor of Political Economy and head of the Department of Economics, has been on leave since June, 1942. He has served as Principal Employment Specialist and Secretary of the Essential Industries Committee, War Manpower Commission, and as Chief of the Labor Office, War Food Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture. In the latter capacity, he has traveled throughout the country, advising with food manufacturing companies and assisting State food packing associations in setting up labor committees. He expects to return to the College in September, 1946.

Charles F. Marsh, Professor of Economics and Business Administration and head of the latter department, was on leave from February to September, 1942, and served on a part-time basis until January, 1944, as Principal Economist, Board of Investigation and Research, in charge of motor transportation studies. From January, 1943 to February, 1945 the College loaned half of Dr. Marsh's time to the City of Williamsburg to serve as Director of Research of its War Board and Chairman of its Postwar Planning Commission. As Research Adviser of the Committee on Taxation and Government of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce, he prepared a report on "Opportunities for the Improvement of the Virginia State Tax Structure" which was published in February, 1946. At present, he is serving as Chairman of the Hampton Roads-Peninsula War

FULBRIGHT MAKES CHARTER DAY ADDRESS

"Law--Not Force--Must Be Basis of World Unity," Says Arkansas Senator

Speaking at the College of William and Mary's traditional charter day convocation February 8th, Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas declared that "law--not force--must be the inevitable basis of world unity."

"It is a fundamental error to leave this matter to experts," the senator told the crowd gathered to celebrate the 253rd anniversary of the granting of the royal charter to the college. "International law is simple enough for anyone to understand," he asserted.

President John E. Pomfret presided at the exercises, which included a reading from the original charter by James W. Miller, dean of the faculty, and a reading from the king's charge to the governor of the Virginia colony, by Vernon M. Geddy, secretary-treasurer of the Society of the Alumni and vice president of Colonial Williamsburg. The exercises were preceded by a full academic procession including the mace, color guard, and the college choir which provided the processional music.

The senator from Arkansas said "it is peculiarly the responsibility of Americans to understand and take the lead in the creation of a peaceful world."

He declared, "Not only is it our selfish material interests, because we have more to lose by chaos than any other people, but it is also our moral duty to give direction and strength to the bewildered people of this earth who are groping helplessly for peace and a decent life.

"Nearly every discussion of foreign affairs has a way of bogging down in complicated technicalities and vague generalities," the junior senator from Arkansas said. "As a result, too many of us have concluded that it is too difficult a subject for our simple minds so we think we must leave it to the experts.

"That is a fundamental error. To discharge our responsibility, it is necessary that we, the people of the United States, understand our relations with the other people of the world."

Fulbright, referring to earlier civilization, said that "the fundamental principle on which all successful communities were based was law--law in the early family and tribe just as it is in this nation today" and ". . . without these rules of conduct, there was chaos." No other principle than law has ever brought peace, he said.

He said he cannot understand why this present government does not exert all its influence toward creation of rules of conduct applicable to all peoples. "The logical subject matter for a beginning is armament, including the atomic bomb. The machinery to begin with may be created by relatively simple amendments to the charter of the United Nations. The abolition of the veto provision and the delegation of certain rule-making powers to the United Nations organization would go far toward the accomplishment of our purpose.

"We now propose a large armed force by conscription; we demand exclusive bases in the Pacific; we insist upon our right to participate in the affairs of eastern Europe, and we keep the atomic bomb to ourselves under the guise of an assumed moral superiority and a self-appointed sacred trusteeship.

"My point is that we apparently have no plan of action, no principles or convictions to guide us. Our actions or policies in foreign affairs seem to be improvised on the spur of the moment."

Davis Named Phelps-Stokes Head

Henry Jackson Davis, '02Ba-'31H, of New York City, has been named president of the Phelps-Stokes Fund, a New York corporation active in Negro education and race relations in the United States and Africa. Dr. Davis, one of the most distinguished graduates of the College of this century, has had broad experience in the field of education, especially in the South. For over 15 years he was the general field agent for the General Education Board in the South. He has been interested in Africa, being president of the board of trustees of the Booker Washington Institute in Liberia, president of the New York State Colonization Society, and Carnegie Visitor to Africa in 1935. He recently served as chairman of a commission studying native education in West Africa. Dr. Davis was a member of the Board of Visitors of the College from 1914 to 1920, was president of his class and president of the Society of Alumni in 1912-13.

Paschall to Handle Surplus Property in State

Davis Young Paschall, '32Ba-'37M, has been appointed by the U. S. Department of Education to assist Virginia schools and colleges, private and public, in obtaining Federal surplus property at preferential prices. Recently released from active duty in the naval reserve, Paschall served as communication officer aboard a fleet minesweeper and later in the office of chief of naval operations. Prior to naval service, he was principal of Victoria High School.

BOARD MEMBER CITED

Francis Pickens Miller, Fairfax, member of the Board of Visitors of the College, has been presented the Oak-Leaf Cluster to the Legion of Merit by Lieut. General Lucius D. Clay, Deputy Military Governor of Germany and the Croix de Guerre avec Palm by General Koeltz, the French officer who holds a position equivalent to that of General Clay in the French Army of Occupation.

The citation for the Legion of Merit award, for exceptionally meritorious performance of duty, reads in part: "As Chief of the Occupational Commitments Coordinating Sub-Division and later as Deputy Chief, Special Sections Sub-Division, G-2 (Intelligence) Division, Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, Colonel Miller was responsible for the coordination of the complex functions of all elements of his division engaged in occupational planning. This required a precise knowledge of the duties, responsibilities and functions of all intelligence agencies and great tact and sound judgment in handling the problems of diverse Allied interests and nationalities. He has contributed materially to the efficient operation of the G-2 Division and the defeat of the German Army."

Presently assigned as Chief of the Plans and Policy Branch, Office of the Director of Intelligence, Office of Military Government for Germany (U.S.) in Berlin, Colonel Miller was at one time the United States Representative on the Tripartite Agency for Intelligence in connection with the invasion of France. He served in France during World War I with the 5th Field Artillery of the 1st Division. In addition to his newest decorations, he holds the Order of the British Empire.

A graduate of Washington and Lee University and of Oxford University where he studied as a Rhodes Scholar, Colonel Miller was appointed to the College Board in March 1941 to succeed the late George Walter Mapp, '94Ba. He is also a member of the Board for St. John's College, Annapolis. From 1928 to 1938 he was Chairman of the World's Student Christian Federation. He served one term in the House of Delegates of Virginia, was on the Governor's Council; and from 1938 to 1941 was the Organization Director of the Council on Foreign Relations, New York City.

ARTHUR JAMES RETURNS TO OLD JOB

Tuck Names Him Commissioner of Welfare

Arthur Wilson James, '13Ba, has again been appointed Commissioner of Public Welfare for the State. For 16 years prior to 1938 he had been connected with the department in various capacities and was first appointed commissioner in 1930. In June, 1938 he left Virginia to attend the School of Social Service Administration, the University of Chicago where he received his master's degree in 1939. Since that time he has served as technical assistant to the United States Chief of Probation and Parole and supervisor of the juvenile offenders' section in the Federal Bureau of Prisons. In 1942 he went with the Civil Service Commission to handle emergency wartime assignments in Washington.

Author of two books on the history of public welfare in Virginia, Virginia's Social Awakening, published in 1940, and The State Becomes a Social Worker, in 1942, James spent three years at William and Mary, was later elected to Phi Beta Kappa and, after serving as a lieutenant of field artillery in the first World War, studied law at the University of Richmond and was admitted to the bar in 1921. He has also studied at Harvard. He has been director of county and city welfare programs, and in charge of the establishment of local welfare departments, juvenile courts, the elimination of county almshouses and improvement of welfare institutions.

His work during World War II was as administrative assistant in the Office of Civilian Defense, chief internal security officer for the War Relocation Administration, director of research and publications for the council of State governments. At present he is serving as chairman of the special clemency board of the War Department.

Governor Tuck, in making the appointment, stated: "I have known Arthur James since 1913. He is a warm personal friend and I regard him as an outstanding man in the field of public service. I believe the State is fortunate to be able to secure his services."

Two Alumni On Education Board Newton Elected President

Two alumni are involved in recent changes on the State Board of Education. Blake Tyler Newton, '11Ba-'41M, of Hague, was elected to the presidency of the Board to fill the unexpired term of Joseph Henry Saunders, '17Ba-'41H, Newport News, who resigned the presidency and died two weeks later. At the same time, Gladys Von Volkenburg (Morton), '27x, Charlotte Courthouse, was appointed to the Board by Governor Tuck.

Newton is well known in College alumni circles as well as throughout Virginia generally. A native of Westmoreland County, he received a teacher's diploma from the College in 1910 and commenced his teaching career in Cumberland County. Two years later he was named superintendent of schools for Richmond and Westmoreland Counties and since that time has been re-elected without opposition every four years. He studied law at home and passed the bar in 1919. While prominent in legal, banking, church and civic affairs of his community, it has been in the field of education that he has attained State-wide attention. He was first appointed to the State Board in April, 1937. He was elected to Phi Beta Kappa in 1922 and received his master's degree from the College in 1941. His two sons also attended the College: Blake Tyler, Jr., '35Ba-'38L, and Edward Colston Newton, '35x.

Mrs. Morton, the new appointee, spent two years and two summer sessions at the College and has been active in educational and other civic work in Charlotte. She was also former national committeewoman of the young Democratic Clubs of Virginia.

Lewis Becomes Personnel Director for Restoration

After almost 20 years of close association with the College, John Latane Lewis, Jr., '29Ba-'31L, on February 1st, resigned as assistant professor of jurisprudence and law librarian to become Director of Personnel Relations for Colonial Williamsburg, Inc. During the war years Mr. Lewis has been acting as Legal Assistant to Vernon M. Geddy, '17Ba, Vice President of the Restoration organization and while on temporary leave from the College had continued to teach several courses.

Spending six years on the campus to earn both his

Blake Tyler Newton

A.B. and law degree, Mr. Lewis first became an instructor in the fall of 1932 and was promoted to assistant professor in 1942. He received a master's degree in Law at Georgetown and also studied at the University of Maryland. He is a member of Kappa Alpha and Omicron Delta Kappa.

History Professor Honored

Bruce T. McCully, assistant professor of history at the College, was the recipient of high professional praise at the meeting of the American Historical Association in December for his study of Indian nationalism published under the title: English Education and the Origins of Indian Nationalism (Columbia University Press, 1940). The book concerns the role of the educated class—the product of English colleges and schools in India—in the genesis of the Indian nationalist movement. The Association gave the book honorable mention as one of three books considered for the award of a $500 prize. Dr. McCully, a graduate of Rutgers and Columbia, came to the College in 1940.

Islin Named Bank Official

Edward Nelson Islin, '25Bs, Newport News, has been elevated from assistant vice president to vice president of the state-wide Bank of Virginia (formerly The Morris Plan Bank of Virginia). Mr. Islin is also manager of the Newport News branch of the bank. He joined the bank soon after graduation from College and remained in Newport News until he was transferred to Richmond in 1935 as assistant cashier in the main office there. In September, 1943 he went to Roanoke as assistant vice president and cashier and manager of that office and returned to Newport News as branch manager in July, 1944. In May, 1945 he was presented a 20-year service emblem by the bank.

Islin has been active in civic affairs in Newport News and at the present time is chairman of the 1946 Red Cross campaign fund which commences March 1.

At the last meeting of the Society of Alumni he was elected to a three-year term on the Board of Directors. He is a member of Theta Delta Chi. His wife is the former Mary Elizabeth Eley, '25x.

Announcements

about fraternities . . . money for scholarships . . . greater alumni participation in the College program and needs . . . ad infinitum. Yet, there prevails a confidence that all of these will have a happy issue. President Pomfret, who unobtrusively piloted the College through the War years to a success scarcely equalled in any other school, seems to inspire confidence.

Poor old Botetourt continues to be subjected to periodic indecencies but he still presides at his customary station and, somehow, tipping one's hat to him does not seem so foolish after all.

No . . . what changes there have been have not altered the College we want to remember . . . it still demands all that we can give it . . . we're lucky . . . "we never left home."

Your Alumni Fund—

"The greatest asset of a college is the loyalty of its alumni. The kind of loyalty to our Alma Mater that I have in mind may be illustrated by the story of a young Chinese student, who was carrying on his immature back a sick woman, much heavier than he. 'Is she heavy?' asked a bystander. 'No,' replied the student, 'she is my mother.' Our Alma Mater is our spiritual mother. Her burdens are our burdens. May we never tire of bearing them."

With these words, the distinguished Dudley Redwood Cowles, '92x, concluded his oration to the alumni in June, 1940. Recalling them again seems particularly appropriate as we tally the results of the second annual solicitation of all William and Mary alumni in what has become known as the Charter Day Gifts Fund. While contributions continue to trickle in and the final results will not be announced until the next issue of the GAZETTE, enough information is at hand to know that the nation-wide bulk of alumni, for some reason, have not heeded the College's call. This is not to impugn the loyalty of our alumni though, to be sure, it seems dormant. Perhaps this is to ponder the reason why . . . why less than 400 (or 2.8%) of over 14,000 alumni contributed . . . why so few of the older alumni (1900 to 1925), a group for the most part well established occupationally speaking—have been heard from . . . why have those alumni so greatly concerned with increasing the male enrollment, not found it desirable to contribute to a fund specifically earmarked for scholarship purposes . . . why? And why ponder this line further?

This annual gift-giving program will be a success at William and Mary in a few years just as it is at most colleges in the country today. It will be a success for us because the most recent graduates will make it so. They are the ones who, though just out of school and not firmly established, are nevertheless answering the call to the extent of their means.

cerning student morale problems and made recommendations for improvement of certain existing conditions and problems. At the request of the students, the Board forwarded a request to the Board of Visitors that the recently announced policy governing fraternities be reopened for further consideration.

The Board also unanimously adopted a resolution calling upon the Board of Visitors and the College to place into effect at the earliest moment the pre-War adopted policy of establishing a student enrollment ratio of 60% men to 40% women.

Studies Committee, which, with the aid of a three-year grant by the Rockefeller Foundation, is studying the impact of the war on this region.

S. Donald Southworth, Professor of Economics, returned to the College in September, 1945, after serving since June, 1942 as Principal Economist, Division of Monetary Research, U. S. Treasury Department. In that capacity, he has worked with Asst. Secretary Harry D. White, who has been so largely responsible for the Bretton Woods plan for promoting international monetary and banking stability.

Wayne F. Gibbs, Professor of Accountancy, left the College in January, 1946, to serve on a War Department team with an engineer, an interpreter, and an army officer, engaged in the valuation of German industrial properties in connection with reparation problems. He arrived in Berlin the first week in February and will work in various parts of Germany. He is expected to return to the College in time for the summer session.

Hibbert D. Corey, Professor of Economics and Business Administration, and Placement Director, was on leave from March 1, 1945 to September, 1945 to serve as Chief Consultant, Classification Study for Personnel of the State of Virginia, Governor's Office. He has continued to devote some time to the study since returning to the College.

Carlton L. Wood, Assistant Professor of Economics and Government, has been on leave since February, 1942, first as head of the British India section of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, U. S. Dept. of Commerce and then as a military government officer in the Navy. After training at Columbia University, he served in the New Hebrides Islands as a liaison officer between the Army and Navy and the native people of those islands. Since his return, he has accepted a position with the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce as head of the British Empire section, Commercial Policy Division. It is not certain at present whether he will resume his work at the College.

O. J. McDiarmid, Assistant Professor of Economics and Business Administration, was on leave from the College from February, 1942, until his resignation during the summer of 1945. He served as Senior Economist, Joint Production Committee, Board of Economic Warfare and War Production Board and later was commissioned 1st Lieutenant in Army Ordnance. He was a member of the staff of the Army Industrial College for a time and is now in the Far East. His present rank is Lieut. Colonel.

Hoffman, who was a member of the staff aboard the U.S. Hospital Ship, Acadia, has been discharged from the Army Medical Corps and has returned to private practice at 219 Larchmont Avenue, Larchmont, New York. Herman received his medical training at the College of Medicine, New York University.

Arthur House Stainback, is pastor of Wadsworth Avenue Baptist Church, Bronx, New York. He studied for the Ministry at Hartford Theological Seminary and the New Brunswick Theological Seminary.

Elizabeth Alexander Buell, who was a Hospital Recreation Worker in Casablanca, is the author of a hospital guide book called Pajama Pocket Guide distributed by the Red Cross to patients at the 36th General Hospital. The booklet is designed to help patients acquaint themselves quickly with the activities and facilities of the hospital and provides a guide to such places as the Post Office, tailor shop, library, Red Cross office and recreation hall; special information for ambulatory and bed patients; a list of church services and the hours of the PX. A chapter devoted to the sights of Casablanca is also included. After a visit to her home in Herndon, Virginia, Elizabeth has returned to Red Cross work in the Philippines.

1934—

Robert M. Rodman has resumed the practice of law at 18 Tremont Street, Boston.

1935—

Catherine Wyatt Clark (Baxter) is with the Institute of Public Relations, Graybar Building, New York City.

1936—

Robert Travis Armistead, recently discharged from the Navy as a Lieutenant, has opened a law office at 402 Duke of Gloucester Street, Williamsburg.

William Lee Davidson, Jr., PBK, is co-author of a book entitled, Atomic Energy. He received his Ph.D. degree in Physics from Yale University in 1940.

Sarah Scammon has recently been appointed Executive Secretary of the Peninsula Girl Scout Council.

Greetings, everyone and best wishes for a Grand New Year. This column is off to a fair start in 1946, since some letters and cards have come in. Please keep all those messages traveling in the direction of Monongahela.

James H. Bailey is enjoying an assignment in Hawaii where he is lecturing on the History of Civilization at the Army University Center of Oahu, "the only University in the world located on an army post—famous old Schofield Barracks." The Faculty there is composed entirely of military personnel. Quoting line from Jimmie's letter: "Last term my classes included Puerto Ricans who were handicapped by the language difficulty and negroes with only the limited high school education afforded to them in the deep south, as well as boys who had been privileged before the war to attend Harvard, Haverford, and Chicago." He maintains that Hawaii is a lovely place but that he is looking forward to the time, March, possibly when he'll return to the "mainland." Address: Lt. J. H. Bailey, O-1580402, Army University Center, A.P.O. 957, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco, California.

Emily Stuart (Heydt) and family are now living in Upper Montclair, New Jersey at 6 Glenside Terrace.

Elaine Woody (Walker) and boys, Peter and Andrew, are now living at 1 Ridge Road, East Milliston, Long Island, New York.

Pauline Spinney (Marks) is at home in Hingham, Massachusetts with her three children, Peter, Margaret and Deborah (the twins) while her husband, a marine officer, is on temporary duty at Pearl Harbor.

Gwendolyn Evans is now an Ensign in the WAVES. Her address is 1821 Kenyon, N.W., Washington, D. C. When did this happen, Gwen?

S/Sgt. Jordan Sizemore is now at Bolling Field, if he hasn't moved since his Xmas card arrived. The address: 2 AAF, BA (Hq Sq. AAF) Bolling Field, Washington (20), D. C.

Mary Myers Taylor (Lyons) and baby daughter, are living at 629 Means Avenue, Bellevue, Pittsburgh (2), Pa. So far, Mickey and I have not been able to arrange a get-together but we had a good, long, phone conversation.

Charlotte Elizabeth Roberts (Edwards) and daughter, Bonnie, are back at Fort Lauderdale, Florida now that he is discharged from the Army. Their address there is 403 Sweet Building.

Dorothy Spencer (Druckenmiller) is with her family in Arlington. She is working for the Signal Corps while her husband is overseas.

Mary Hurley Mackey (Sainsbury) writes that after leaving William and Mary she went on to the University of Texas, where she received her A.B. degree in '39 and later worked on her M.A. in the School of Social Service Administration at the University of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. Sainsbury and their two children, Pat and Mary, are living at 1800 South Campbell Avenue, Alhambra, California. She sees Mrs. Herbert Fox (Mary Alice Barnes) occasionally. Her address is No. 4 Strand, Hermosa Beach, Calif.

Virginia D. Miller (Dekl) is living for the present at 4534 Burlington Place, N.W., Washington (16), D. C. while her husband a Captain, AUS, is stationed in Florence, Italy. Upon his return they will return to Jacksonville, Florida, where he will be employed by the American Locomotive Company. Mrs. Dekl is anxious to contact William and Mary alumni in the Jacksonville vicinity. She writes that her work is very interesting; she is secretary to the Chief of Services for the Blind. "We work with the various states in sponsoring the vending stand program under the Randolph-Sheppard Act, and are the agency for all vending stands in Federal Buildings throughout the U. S., also we are endeavoring to help blinded veterans who are qualified and have been trained to become employed in this remunerative employment in addition to helping their morale."

Mildred Mode is President of Region No. 6 (the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida) National Association of Girl Scout Executives.

Jeanne Thomas Sheridan, discharged from WAC after 28 months service, is now at 58 Marian Avenue, Poughkeepsie, New York.

I think that we should have a grand reunion this June. How about arranging to make it to Williamsburg for "finals." I'll be looking forward to hearing from you.

FRANCES L. GRODECOUR, '39Ba,
Permanent Class Secretary,
810 Howard Street,
Monongahela, Pennsylvania.

It was a great day when a note came addressed in that unmistakable, legible hand . . . Elsie May Vreeland (Cotterman), was home in Rocky Hill, New Jersey, after four years in Manila. She writes, "We are all fine now, and Stewart, '39Bs, is the same as he ever was. I'm even better than before. Did you know that we have two little Pi Phi prospects? One, four years old, looks exactly like Stew—with his big brown eyes, and the other poor little duck takes after me with very blue eyes and very light hair. Thank Goodness it curls! . . ." Send us a snapshot, Elsie. We'd like to see the whole family together.

Lt. (jg) Marjorie Barnes is now a civilian as of December 12th and is back home from Washington in Chattahoochee, Florida. She writes that she, Lucy Denny Yeaman, and Marion E. Blair, '41Ba, visited in Williamsburg last October and saw Frances Ann Terrell (Garrett) and John Henry Garrett, Jr., down there.

Helen Elizabeth Jones (Baker) and Chester Baker, '42x, are living at the Theta Delta Chi House in Williamsburg which has been purchased by the College for married couples. Five years in the Army left Chester with three years ahead for the law degree. But since he has it to do, he couldn't have picked nicer surroundings.

"The Chestnuts" (Janet Hamilton Wood and Alphonse, '41Bs) sent a Christmas card—on paper off the wall telling us they are as happy-go-lucky as ever in Port Norris, New Jersey.

Billie (Willetha Emma Holmes) Slaughter is back in Newburgh, New York, with her daughter, Susan, awaiting the return of her husband who is overseas.

Florence Mode was winner in February of the New York Metropolitan Junior Fencing Championship.

Lillian Davis Waymack (Amburgey) and her husband are staying with her parents at 2918 Seminary Avenue, Richmond, while they desperately hunt for an apartment. (Unpaid for advertising.)

Ruth Ann Holzmueller (Chancellor) is still living at 3082 So. Abingdon St., Arlington, Va., where her husband is stationed with the Army. They were in Richmond for Lillian Amburgey's wedding in October.

Emelie Morris Phillips (Teasenfitz) were in Richmond for the Thanksgiving football game, and her husband, Bill. They were visiting Ann and Jack Garrett.

Jayne Laubach Magee (Lillicrapp) has moved to Easton, Pennsylvania. Her address is 501 Paximosa Ave. Her number one New Year's resolution is to write to us, but no letter as yet. Come on, Jayne. Make the next issue of the GAZETTE.

Mattie Virginia Hoyle (Irby) has stopped work at DuPont and settled down to housekeeping now that her husband, Sam, has been released from his Army job as Glider Pilot and is home in Richmond.

I received wedding congratulations and Merry Christmas wishes from Elizabeth Morton Wood (Bradley) and Dan

Burr Bradley, '39, who are still living in Westport, Connecticut.

Frances Genevieve Jourdan (Holmstrom) has left the Navy and will be living in New York. Her husband is an lieutenant in the Air Force and was a POW.

Elizabeth Ann (Betty) Knoll (Smith) will soon be living in White Plains now that her husband is home from the Army.

It was grand to hear from June Hansell Worley (Butters), who wrote that she has joined the band of regular Navy wives and is living at 7200 Hampton Boulevard, Norfolk, with her 2½-year-old daughter, Patricia Ann. Her husband is Commander on an aircraft carrier on duty in the Atlantic. Keep us posted, June.

Alvene Louise Eppinger (Nuernberger) writes that her two children, Johnny and Mary Ann, keep her hopping, and to add to the fury they are house-hunting in Cleveland, and at the same time considering moving back to Chambersburg, Pa. Which happened, Eppie?

As for your Permanent Class Secretary, so much has happened in the last three months that she hardly knows what to tell. Her Truelove returned to the States October 7 after three years overseas with the Second Armored Division, and they were married three weeks later in Richmond. It was a rush white affair. Lillian Amburgey was a bridesmaid and her husband, Bill, one of the ushers. The happy couple have moved to Buffalo (70-inches-of-snow-in-one-month), New York, and hung out husband Ed's doctor shingle on 368 Norwood Avenue. (Yes, the apartment in Richmond has been rented already.) Immediately she telephoned Marion E. Blair, '41Ba, an ex-roommate, to find that she now spends all her time in Washington, D. C. Marion's mother gave the bride Girl Scout Troop No. 3 to occupy her spare moments. The only William and Mary alumna in town seems to be Doris Campbell (Desmond), '37Ba, whom she has met at several luncheons this past month. At one home the host showed movies of his honeymoon in Williamsburg for the benefit of the W. & M. guest, and one of the shots showed two May Court attendants dressed in pink flowing dresses. He had not known who they were, nor they he, but Pearl Brueger (Reid), '39Ba, and Josephine Jenkins (Dickerson), '39Ba, were at their smiling loveliest.

Paul H. Kratsig, Rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Hilton Village, received the gold key of the Peninsula Chamber of Commerce as the young man of the Peninsula most distinguished during 1945 for achievement in leadership and service to the community.

William Musselman Musser, Jr., is practicing law in Lancaster, Pennsylvania, following his discharge from the Army Air Force.

Hubert Demro Summer, recently discharged as a Captain in the Army Air Force, has joined the Gastonia Sales Corporation in New York City as Assistant Sales Manager.

Way up here in this frozen Northland, I'll not know what goes on among the Class of 1940, not even in Richmond; so, please write frequently. Just a penny postcard, or reasonable facsimile thereof, will do. Everyone has something to tell. We want to hear the news!

ROSA ELLIS (LONG), '40Bs,
Permanent Class Secretary,
368 Norwood Ave.,
Buffalo (13), New York.

When the card came from the Alumni Office saying the deadline for the next GAZETTE letter was February 5th I felt most unhappy—for to date, I have received only 2 short notes from people with any news of our class.

Carter Tate Holbrook, Jr. writes of the happy "reconversion" from military to civilian status, after 3 years and 7 months in the former. He was with the 79th Division, as Assistant operations officer. "C.T." arrived in the states on October 13th, and says the biggest thrill in years was meeting his 13 months old daughter. He is now back with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co. in High Point, North Carolina. His address is: C38, Emerywood Court.

My second letter is from Beverly Coleman (Jones) mostly about her husband, Louis Lansing Jones. He is now temporarily stationed in Tokyo as a Technical Intelligence Officer, but expects soon to return to his former station near Osaka. His address is: Lt. Louis L. Jones, O-1536063, 245th Chemical Service Platoon, A.P.O. 660, c/o Postmaster, San Francisco. While Louis is overseas, Beverly is staying at her home in Eastman, Georgia.

I did have a most unexpected and pleasant visit from Kemp Boot in December. Kemp has just returned from 33 months overseas (ETO) where he served with the Quartermaster in a Refrigeration Unit. Kemp and his wife were visiting near by, but were on their way back to their home in Williamsburg.

Dorothy Miller Ogden is a reporter on the Ardmore Daily Record.

Charles Eugene Stousland and Elizabeth Craighead (Stousland), '42, have returned to the College campus. Charles is assisting in the Fine Arts Department and Betty is a secretary in the same department.

Jack Lloyd Giannini is contact representative for the Veterans Administration.

Elizabeth Imus (Shelton) is editorial secretary for the Times Herald in Washington.

Flora McLaughlin Kearney is working on a Ph.D. degree at the University of Maryland and also teaches English there.

As for me and my family, we've had a streak of bad luck, which started on Christmas Day. All three of us were in our car when it was run into—Don and Penny survived with bruises, while I tested the shatterproof glass in the windshield with my head and had to have a few stitches taken. I look as though I had just returned from combat with my "scar of honor" on my forehead. Right after that, we started in on the local grippe campaign, and Penny is the last to recuperate from bronchial pneumonia. We're about ready to try California again, after this cold winter.

With so many of you men returned, and settling down, won't you please let me know your news? I'm beginning to get discouraged when I think how slow your letters are now, and this is only five years after graduation.

Hope to see you at Finals in June and until then, Cheerio.

MARJORIE GILDNER (COALE), '41Ba,
Permanent Class Secretary,
33 Forest Road,
Springfield, Pennsylvania.

It seems strange to be writing for the March issue of the GAZETTE in January with news received from November on, but that's always the way it goes. News for the May issue, incidentally, must be in to me by the end of March.

Mildred Anne Hill drops us a card saying that she is living on an army post at Fort Story, Virginia doing Red Cross hospital work. "The patients are all combat fatigue and orthopedic cases and very interesting. I went into the post library recently and discovered that Emalee Ewing and Eleanor Nottingham are the librarians! Just heard from Ethel (Terry) Teal, who is at Fletcher General in Cambridge now."

Heard that Nancy Boatwright (Bishop) is living in Bedford, Virginia and is working for a lawyer.

About once every year I can always look forward to a nice newsy letter from Pat Bankhard (Howard). Pat and young son, Rick, are living in Upper Darby, Pennsylvania and life for her can be summed up thusly—"Fred ('39Ba) is still in the Navy, although he is due to get released in a month or so. Meanwhile he sits in Kure, Japan, and I sit in Westgate Hills and wait to start living again." (I hope he's home by now, Pat.) Pat says that Kay Cotterman is living with her parents in San Francisco now and that Marianne Heckman is due back from England where she was a Red Cross worker. Many thanks, Pat, and also for the clipping. The newspaper clipping said that Kitty Trudell Green was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. Trudy is associated with the Philadelphia law firm of Pepper, Bodine, Stokes, and Schloch.

It's nice to hear how many like to return to the dear old college town to be married. Nancy Price did just that, and had Natalie Rogers as her maid of honor. Nat came all the way down from Rochester, N. Y.

Here is one of those "now it can be told stories" from Richard Mears. "Briefly with me it was: overseas in May '43 with a station hospital, eight months in Africa—Oran and Mateur, Tunisia; a year in Naples; eight months in Florence—the last five as sergeant major of a captured German hospital caring for German PW's—interesting, to say the least. Home in August. Am now at the University of Pennsylvania taking graduate work in English. My roomie, Gerald Rose, is a dentist in Norfolk."

After such a long time it sure is nice to have William M. Clinton check in with us again. This is what Bill has been doing for the last couple of years. "Entered the air corps in the fall of '42 and kicked around from coast to coast for two years before going overseas with the first B-29 outfits as a flight engineer. First to India and China for a year where we managed to see most of China, Burma, and the Malayan Peninsula. Hopped over to the Marianas in May and finished my 35 missions in July and had two months special duty in California before being discharged as a 1st Looney. My wife and I are now living in Detroit while I'm working at Packard Motors. The only one of the class I've been in contact with is Bob Aldrich, who at last report was an ensign on duty with the CUE U.S.S. Breton." A million thanks, Bill.

Joyce Mathes (Malcolm) comes through again—to say that her husband has finally returned from overseas, and that they are temporarily living in Maplewood, N. J. Joyce says that Betsy Wakeman wrote that she was working on her Master's degree and expected to go out to Wisconsin to complete it.

Let me pause right here to thank all of you for your lovely Christmas cards, and also to say how much I enjoy the news in your letters even though I can't always print all of it.

More from Lt. Cleo Tweedy. Cleo's letters always make such interesting reading that I like to include as much of them as possible. "Wiesbaden, Germany—We are living in German homes near the hospital. Thirteen of us live in this house. It is really very nice. We have a kitchen on both floors and two small living rooms downstairs. The mess hall and club are just a small distance from here. We treat about fifty patients a day, mostly fractures, dermatitis, sprains and a few nerve injuries. All the equipment in the department is German except for two whirlpools. . . . This is not a bad town. We have two movies, an Opera House, where the USO puts on musicals and plays, and a really beautiful night club. . . . I went to Paris again in October and saw some of the places I hadn't seen before. I took the tour to Versailles. The palace was really beautiful, but I'd have radiators and elevators installed if I were to make it my cozy little home. The gardens were really lovely. The mirrors in the Hall of Mirrors were slightly old and reminded me of the hall of mirrors at Coney Island. The walls were covered with tapestries and portraits and the ceilings with paintings. . . . I also went to the Louvre Museum."

A clipping from the Richmond paper told that first lieutenant Ben S. Read, USMCR, had been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious achievement as commanding officer of an artillery battery during action on Okinawa. Ben also holds the Silver Star Medal.

Heard that Ned Trout is now a happy civilian and is working for Remington Rand in Philadelphia.

Margaret Adelia Eaton (Case) served 20 months with the Radio Research Laboratory branch Laboratory in England, where she was in charge of the document room. She is now instructor in Physics at Vassar College.

Two letters have accumulated from Lt. (jg) Edgar Fisher. Ed says, "After eight months operating out of New Orleans to Puerto Rico and Panama, my ship, the U.S.S. U. S. Grant, was ordered back to the Pacific to help bring the boys home. We made one trip to Okinawa taking a load of marines and returning a load of army fliers, and were decommissioned in San Francisco on November 14. I was then assigned temporary duty here at the 12th Naval District as a witness on a Court of Inquiry. At present I am living with friends in Berkeley near the University of California. I like the atmosphere and the thousands of pretty co-eds. (Why, Ed!!) According to my points for inactive duty, I am fairly well fixed, and should be out in March or before." (And from his latest letter) . . . "The Court of Inquiry for which I am a witness is still holding me in the Bay Area and may last for a month or two more. Frankly, I don't care too much as this will be my last tour of duty. As a matter of fact, this is the best duty I have struck yet in the Navy. It is just like being on leave!"

Patricia Nichols (Curcuru), PBK, writes in that she is living just outside of Washington now in Silver Springs, Md. while her husband is a patient at Walter Reed Hospital. He was wounded while with the 101st Airborne Division at Bastogne. Patty says that her son, Steven, is keeping her busy moving everything within his arm's reach now that he's walking, and that he is a full time job. She also tells us that Barbara Anderson is still working in Buffalo for a law firm and that she believes William Slater is in Long Beach, still with Texaco. Thanks, Patty!

Malcolm Sullivan mentioned in his letter that probably most of our class would be separated from the service by late spring and that if I could, by planting the seed in this column, stir up a general interest what a really grand finals celebration it would be.—Ah, Williamsburg in the spring—final dances—what nostalgic memories that recalls.—Why, Sully, I'll bet everybody within hopping distance will be there this year. (Wish California weren't such a long hop!)

Sully adds about himself, "We are still here in Seattle and at last the end is in sight. The dear old Fuller is headed for the graveyard and within the month I shall be on my way home—the 15th of February is the deadline and don't you even question for a moment the sheer ecstasy of that day. One of the first moves I intend to make is back to Williamsburg for a brief stay."

Richard E. Cline writes in to catch us up on himself since '42. "I have been in the army 35 months and overseas 26 months. I was in the 895th Chemical Company in Australia, New Guinea, Luzon and Ie Shima. On Luzon we mixed and serviced fighter planes with firebomb. I got back to the States December 17, 1945, and was discharged January 6, 1946. Needless to say, I am glad to be out of the army. I plan to go back to school again and work for a higher degree." Do write in again, Dick.

A letter from Margaret Meinhard (Steinbrecher) tells us that since graduation she taught school a year and then became a chemist at Seagram-Calvert Distilling Company in Baltimore where she worked for two years making alcohol for Uncle Sam. Now Margaret and her husband are living in Richmond where she is working in the Engineering Department of the C. and P. telephone company.

Had a very nice lengthy letter from Roy Merritt. Roy and his wife, Mary Henderson (Merritt), and two daughters, Linda and Deborah, are living at 21 Brown Street in Cambridge, Massachusetts. (I can see, Mary, why you have no spare time to write with those two, aged 2½ and 1 respectively, but they do sound cute.) Roy enlisted in the Coast Guard in '42 as an athletic specialist after rejections by the marines and air corps for color blindness. "This defect kept me from becoming an officer, so I taught Ju Jitsu, wrestling, etc., for three years, most of which time was spent in the 1st Naval District. They wouldn't send me to sea because of the same, and so I pitched for the Championship District Baseball Team for almost three full years, managing it one. Discharged in June '45, I went to Chenwonki, a boys' camp in Maine, as athletic director. From camp in September I came here (The Rivers Country Day School, Chestnut Hill, Massachusetts) as Director of Physical Education, head coach of football and baseball. It's a beautiful school, grand men to work with, and I'm hoping to stay on a long time." Thanks again for the news, Roy.

Laurie Reid Burgess is taking graduate work in statistics at the University of North Carolina.

Warren Jerome Schneider, recently discharged as a Lieutenant in the USNR, is attending Columbia University School of Law.

Guy Earlescourt Horsley, Technical Sergeant, USA, is studying French, German and Political Science at the Shrivensham-American University in England. Harry Lee Morton is, or was, also taking work at Shrivensham in Radio and Advertising.

Now for my two cents' worth. My husband and I were fortunate enough to get back east around the holidays. We were in Williamsburg for several weeks visiting my in-laws, but the town was dead with all of the college students gone. School started up a few days before we left, so I was able to see Miss Hunt, Hester McCrae, June Gallagher (remember her husband, Coach Dick Gallagher—well, he just got out of the navy and is back at the college) my housemother, Mrs. Lambeth, Mrs. Campbell, and Mr. McCurdy. It certainly was nice to walk into the Alumni Office and see Mr. McCurdy at his old desk again.

Had lunch one day with Audrey Wallace (Bass). Audrey is busy keeping house in Brown Annex (the old Golden Sty) and cooking for Marvin.

I missed seeing Chester Baker and his wife, Helen Jones (Baker), '40Ba, by one day. Chester had received his discharge and is back at the college for a law degree. The college bought the Theta Delta Chi House for married couples, so that's where they will be living.

We fortunately got to see a few people up in Richmond one day—Claire Hulcher and Charlotte Mooers (Stevens). We popped in on Charlotte first. She, husband, and baby had just come up to Richmond from Columbus, Georgia for the holidays. Claire's house was next. She was looking just fine, and I find that she has been made president of the Richmond Alumnae Chapter of W. & M.

Guess that's all for this time!

Best of luck and write in for the last issue of the year—deadline end of March.

and since then have ushered in the New Year with an encouraging note for me. As each year goes by, I find myself wondering how much shorter our news letter will grow, but so far we seem to be holding our own and some of us, at least, are "keeping up with the Joneses."

I had a very unique card from Japan, from Lt. (jg) Howard M. Smith, Jr. "Smitty" is now attached to a Port Director Unit with the Naval Occupation Forces in Fukuoka, Kyushu, Japan. He previously served in the Central Pacific and in the Mediterranean area with a Beach Jumper Unit under Lt. Commander Douglas Fairbanks. Before receiving his new assignment, he was with the Naval Replacement Depot at Pearl Harbor. His present address is Port Director Navy 1177, F.P.O., San Francisco, California.

Though many of you seem to be winding up service careers, I'm still getting letters from the Pacific. Lt. (jg) J. E. (Jimmie) Howard writes from Saipan, where his address is Log. Sup. C. 509, Navy 3245, Box 110, F.P.O., San Francisco, California. After going to the Pacific, Jimmie was in Pearl Harbor for a number of months on an LCT flotilla staff. The flotilla was decommissioned in September, and since that time his travels have taken him to Johnston, Kwajalein, Guam, Okinawa, Shanghai, Hong Kong, Manila, Samar, Leyte, and finally Saipan. He is commanding officer of a Logistic Support Company consisting of 240 men and four officers. He has seen a number of W. & M. boys, the most recent ones being Charlie Elliot and Norman ("Doc") Tavss. "Doc" had just come from Tokyo where he had seen Don Ream. Having served a tour of duty in the Atlantic or European theater prior to his duties in the Pacific, I should say that Jimmie is well traveled.

I never thought I'd graduate to the use of nicknames for Japanese ports or islands, but I know now that it's necessary for me to keep on my toes about such things if I'm to keep up with some of you. "Cec" Griffin, writing from Saseba, Japan, was telling me about his maneuvers in foreign waters—mine-sweeping operations in the East China Sea—using "Okie" as a rear base. Although I've given up many a time in my search for some of these peculiar places on the map, I did start out to locate "Okie" before it dawned on me that he was speaking of Okinawa. Since "mines have a nasty habit of exploding just as destructively—war or peace," "Cec's" duties were no less strenuous following V-J Day. They have swept minefields in the Northern Honshu—Hokkaido sector, and his was the first U. S. War vessel to enter the Jap naval base of Iminato. They have also covered innumerable minefields in waters around Japan, Formosa, China, Korea, etc. "Cec" spent Christmas holidays in Shanghai which he described as "an amazing and interesting city." While there, he saw Darryl Watson and Al Doumar. "Cec's" address is U.S.S. Symbol (AM123), c/o Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, California.

Marion "Small" Smith (15 York Avenue, Lowanda, Pennsylvania), writes from Delray Beach, Florida, to report on her adventures since graduation. In October 1943, she began working for American Airlines in New York City, where she was in the Reservations Department, located at LaGuardia Field on Long Island. The work was new and fascinating, but finally in October '45 she resigned when she had an opportunity to spend the winter in Florida with her mother. On their trip down, they stopped off in Williamsburg and in Sumter, South Carolina, where Claire Bardwell (Lappin) is living. Clair's husband is stationed at Shaw Field. Marion's address in Florida is P.O. Box 1267, Delray Beach.

Thanks so much for your nice long letter, "B." Betty Buntin (Matthews) says that Bob will have enough points for discharge by February the fifteenth and expects to head homeward from the Pacific soon thereafter. I do hope they will carry out their plans for a trip to Williamsburg just as soon as he returns.

I was so glad to hear from Barbara Cooper (Cameron) that she and Ray are civilians again and back in Kokomo. Her address there is 912 W. Sycamore Street, Kokomo, Indiana.

Our friend George Blanford beat you all with a super deluxe New Year's resolution whereby I was the recipient of an epistle that was priceless! I just wish that I could quote it word-for-word—two pages of that inimitable Blanford chatter. I mean no offense, George, for I don't know when I've enjoyed anything more. George is a "legal eagle" (legal assistant) attached to the Naval Separation Center at the Naval Air Station, Jacksonville, Florida. He's an expert on rentals, leases, marriage, divorce, etc., having been qualified for such a position through Dean Cox's two hour Introduction to Law! Thanks for your "chit of chatter," George and even if you are "young, unmarried, and a low point officer," I'll be hoping that you won't have to see duty on the "U.S.S. Poduck" out in the briny waters of the Pacific.

You have no idea how exciting it is to be here in Williamsburg and run into so many of the old gang coming back to school. Those of us who have been holding down the fort here have anticipated this for some time and we are getting a big bang out of these reunions. I have already run into a few from our class within the last few days, this being Registration period. Larry and Gladys (Wallace) Goldsmith should be about settled now out in the Government Dormitories on Richmond Road where the married veterans will live. They've been in town for several days. I ran into Edie (Debow) Wooley and son this morning as I came through the Post Office on the way to the Goodwin Building. Bud was registering at the time. While eating lunch at the Lodge yesterday, I saw Lester and Pat (Dorsey) Hooker. Les just got back from the Pacific several days ago. He plans to rest up a bit and then enter in a couple of weeks. There are many others, but I haven't seen them yet.

I had a nice note from Kitty Brown (Harris) the first of the month. Kitty has been at her home in Roanoke awaiting the "discovery" of a place to live. Her husband, who was discharged from the Air Corps in October, has accepted a position in Cincinnati and they expect to go from there to Chicago soon. She asked what alums were in that vicinity, but since I don't have great faith in my ability to keep up with who's where, I'll give you her Roanoke address now in hopes that some of you in and around Chicago will drop her a line. 507 Cornwallis Avenue, Roanoke (14), Virginia.

Scotty and Cecy (Waddell) Cunningham are in Washington now. Scotty had planned to come back in February but he found that he couldn't get the work that he wanted so he is staying in the Navy—gets a promotion too—until July. Cecy had a job with the Civil Aeronautics Administration in the publicity department, but she was to start in on some Social work at American University at the beginning of the second semester. They had a real streak of luck and found an apartment at 123 Wayne Place S.E., Washington (20), D. C.

Newell (Red) Irwin was discharged from the Navy in the fall and has accepted a coaching position at Binford Junior High School in Richmond. With Glen and Ann (Lawrence) Knox already living there, I think they'll have lots of get-togethers. Buster and Betsy Lee (Hooper) Ramsey spent a week or ten days here recently. Buster was member of the Navy's great football team at Bainbridge, Maryland, and played considerable football while on duty in Hawaii. He played with the Navy All-Stars against the Army All-Stars in the "Poi Bowl" game, and the day before he was discharged, played in San Francisco in a War Bond game against Fleet City Navy. Harvey Johnson and Al Vanderwegh played opposite him in that game. I understand that both Harvey and Al are married and have settled down in the East somewhere. I hope they'll give us more details soon. Buster and Harvey have signed with the Yankees for next season and Al will play for Buffalo.

I was particularly glad to get some news of Bob Templeton. After a medical discharge from the Air Corps, Bob entered the Bliss Electrical Engineering School in Washington from which he was to have graduated the end of January with a very high standing in his class. I'll be interested in knowing his plans thereafter.

Hal and Evelyn (Cosby) King have been at Camp Peary for several months, but Hal was to have gotten his discharge the middle of February. He hopes to land a coaching berth somewhere in Virginia. I've seen them several times, and one Thursday evening they joined some of us in a W. & M. reunion at Camp Peary that included Dixon and Nancy (Norris) Foster, Merritt Foster, Dan Edmundson, and "Tee" Waller.

Lt. (jg) D. R. Taylor (Ad Com Phibs Pac) (Staff) Marianas, FPO, San Francisco, California, says that Guam seems like a paradise to him, after the two months spent on Ulithi. While there he had a group of LCT's which had the task of decommissioning the base. He is now Assistant Personnel Officer of the Amphibious Command at Guam, and though he has a while to go yet before he acquires enough points for discharge, he plans to go up to China and Japan on leave, which should prove an interesting trip.

In reporting on who's who in Williamsburg, I failed to mention one of our highlights. Elizabeth Ann (Betsey) Douglass arrived in town about the tenth of January and is now a dietician in the college dining hall. She seems to be very interested in her work and I really think she'll manage to straighten out the customary student gripes. More power to her!

I saw Lloyd Austin Clarke, Jr., back in December. He was in town for the week end and joined the crowd of us who went over to Lively, Virginia for Dixon and Nancy (Norris) Foster's wedding on the tenth. Lloyd had S.P. duty or training in Washington at that time. I believe he was expecting to get stationed somewhere in Florida, however.

The latest on Henry Van Amburgh Joslin is that he is in charge of Marine guards at President Truman's "retreat" in Maryland, just outside of Washington.

Gladys (Kyger) Richardson has left Williamsburg with her husband, who returned from the Pacific the last of December, and will be in Texas where Len is now stationed until July or August. They expect to go to Kentucky in September when Len will resume study at the Baptist Seminary in Louisville.

Madeline Iris Shelley, who has been a regular hostess for Colonial Williamsburg, has opened a Pre-school for youngsters and is holding forth at her home out on Jamestown Road. The school meets from nine to twelve on week days, and on the week ends, Iris will continue to serve as a hostess.

I played bridge at Helen Black's last night. She is still with the Physical Education Department, you know, and between hands, she and I discussed ideas for dances in the spring dance recital. Evelyn (Cosby) King and Betsey Douglass were there too, so I picked up a few items of news interest. Nancy Guptill (Guppie) Searle and her husband, Bob, who recently returned from overseas, have bought a home in Great Neck, New York, and Bob has gone back to his prewar position with Pan American Airways. Anne Nottingham is working at Fort Story, and Mary Hamner is teaching government and mathematics in the first year high school and living at her home in Ammon, Virginia. Dot (Brooks) Solomon is teaching in the high school at Warsaw, North Carolina, while she awaits the return of her husband from overseas.

After four years in the Army Dick Adams has returned to William and Mary.

Muriel Elizabeth Fisher has been admitted to the New York State Bar by the Appellate Division. Her address is 713 West Ferry Street, Buffalo, New York.

Joseph Gordon Gilliam has been attending Shrivensham-American University.

Virginia Blanch Till is studying for her law degree at George Washington University.

That winds up the news for this time, but let me put in my plea for a line from each of you before the next issue, even if it's just to send me your latest address. With all good wishes for a grand New Year to all of you,

JACQUELINE FOWLKES, 43Bs,
Permanent Class Secretary,
Box 621,
Williamsburg, Virginia.

1944—

Nancy DeSota Hale, '44Bs, has arrived in the Philippines as an American Red Cross staff assistant.

Topping my pile of class correspondence is a letter from our class president of our freshman year, John M. Bellis, now Lt. (jg) in the Navy (U.S.S. Pickens, APA 190, c/o FPO, San Francisco, California). Dated 29 November, Jack's letter was written just about the time his ship put into port in California someplace. Evidently he went back out to sea shortly thereafter.

In October at Guam, Jack had seen Bradford Dunham, skipper of an LCI(M), who was at that time headed for Japan.

Alexander Rosowsky is working for the Overseas News Service of the Australian paper, the Sydney Morning Herald, in New York.

John Mann is getting his degree in anthropology or sociology at NYU this month. Congratulations, John.

Also, Robert Lanahan has returned to William and Mary.

Thinking of Bob being in Williamsburg makes us all feel a deeper urge than ever to go down for a visit, I know. And it seems that a substantial portion of our class has returned to the old haunts of the good town. In addition to boys who have returned—Walt Weaver, Ted Bailey, Frank Beale, Phil Thomas, Dudley Woods, there are others of '44 who have been fortunate in locating themselves there—Mary Beatrice Nelson (Bebe), Maizie Inglus Tressler, Doris Wiprud, and Hallie Vaughan Rennie, all with the Restoration and Mary Barnhardt with the College.

From Norma Jean Ritter comes a grand letter, in the inimitable Ritter fashion—with a laugh a page and it is a 12-page letter! Unfortunately, I don't think we can quote it all here. Suffice it to say that at present Norma is living at 21 E. 10th Street, New York (3), N. Y. and is working as agent with Eastern Air Lines. After leaving American Airlines last June, Norma spent a glorious summer in Boston and Cape Cod. Lucky gal, don't you think?

Erma Russel Powers is completing her course of study in law at Cornell and from what I hear she is making a very fine record.

At long last we have direct news from Ann James (May). She and George were married when he returned from overseas last July at which time Tex gave up her job at Glenn L. Martin Co. in Baltimore where she'd been working since graduation. She and George have seen quite a few of the ASTU who were at William and Mary and are looking forward to George's return to Amherst to finish his studies. And they have a place to live! Her address when she wrote was 200 Lincoln St., Newton Highlands, Massachusetts.

William C. Remick wrote us from Hong Kong on 20 December. He gives little information about himself; so I shall quote from an article which appeared in the South China Morning Post and Hong Kong Telegraph of 13 November 1945.

"Having arrived in Hong Kong almost a month ago the U.S.S. LST 991 remained unheralded and unsung all these days until a couple of days ago when a Post and Telegraph representative was specially invited on board by kind permission of her Commanding Officer Lt. (jg) W. C. Remick. Our representative was conducted around the ship by the Commanding Officer, and saw all there was to see, including a most delicious Turkey Dinner, which he not only saw, but actually partook of. . . . This particular LST is unofficially known as "The Lady Bug," a name given to her by her first Commanding Officer, Lt. Shake.

"Since August 1945 the LST 991 has been converted into a Mobile Fleet Post Office, handling all the mail of the American Fleet in Hong Kong. She is also acting as a sort of Film centre, handling the cinema films used by all the American vessels in this port. The latest films are flown out here by plane and distributed among the ships.

"The LST 991, since she was commissioned, has been, among others, to the following battle areas: British Soloman Islands, Anguar Islands, and Leyte. During and after the invasion of the Philippines the LST 991 was engaged in supply runs in the Southwest Pacific. From April 1, 1945 she has been travelling between Okinawa, Ulithi, Leyte, and the Ryukus. She came to Hong Kong from Okinawa and has been here since October 19."

Of special interest in the article is the story of Bill's command of his ship under the trials which ensued at the time of the typhoon of Okinawa on October 9. We are proud of you, Bill.

As for seeing William and Mary people, Bill saw Bill Heffner and Dix Foster off Okinawa. And says he heard Will Grover was in the South Atlantic, skipper of U.S.S. PC 1166.

Mary Prickett Carter (1302 E. 53rd St., Apt. No. 2, Chicago (15), Illinois) is working for a firm of public accountants—doing some traveling and general auditing and tax work. She has already passed two parts of the CPA exam!

Washington, D. C. claims a large number of our class, among them Edmond Robert Plunkett. Ned and Gwen are living at 2020 Summit Place, N.E., while he is attending the Medical School at George Washington University and Gwen is working for the D. C. Home Service Chapter of the Red Cross in the Communications Department.

Albert Powell is finishing his second year in medicine at the University of Maryland.

Katharine Alvord Rutherford and Marion Ross are sharing an apartment (Apt. No. 1, 4110 Beecher St., N.W., Washington 7). Marion is still with IBM and Katie with OSS, now known as ORI, Office of Research and Intelligence.

Katie writes that Ann Washington (Beard) is now living in Bryon, Texas while her husband is finishing school at Texas A. and M. Marianna Brackinridge (Mather), husband, son and daughter are now located in Evanston, Illinois and Willhemena Shannon Davison is working at the National Archives in Washington.

Rebecca Lee Ramsey is teaching sixth grade in Hampton and is sharing an apartment with Dot Landon and Helen Marshall.

Not long ago Katie had dinner with Jane Pancoast who is working as hostess for Penn Central Airlines. And at a recent William and Mary Alumni meeting she saw Holly Ricketts, Nellie Greaves, Doris Armor, Dot Raymond and Carl Meucke. Before the meeting Gene Kellogg had dinner with Marion and Katie. Gene is working at the Bureau of Standards and is living in Alexandria (506 Cameron Street).

You see, we had a letter from Gene herself. Says she has seen Jane Schilling (Prince). Also that she spent Thanksgiving with Barbara Bevan who is still working with Columbia Pictures. During this visit Barb and Kelly had lunch with Elaine McDowell (Falerdeau), Betty Gibbs, Barbara Cooper (Cameron) and Marilyn Kaemmerle.

Jerome Elliott Hyman has a new address (Office of Mil. Gov. for Ger. (U.S.), Div. of Inv. Cartels and E.A., APO 742, N.Y.). His work sounds fascinating and he is still finding William and Mary people over there all the while. While Jerry was still in Frankfort he saw both Pat Casey (Clay) and Dean Cox (really Lt. Colonel Cox). When Jerry last wrote in November he was in Berlin and expecting to return to the States this spring.

From 5 North Culver Street, Baltimore, Maryland, Marjorie Lentz (Plitt) writes that she and Ed are living here while he is going to Law School at the University.

We have another student among us, J. Neville McArthur who is completing his second year of graduate work in Spanish at Middlebury College in Vermont. He writes that Ensign Ratcliffe Barnes has recently landed in San Diego and that Sumner G. Rand has been discharged from the Army and has returned to William and Mary. Richard B. Owen, now an Ensign in the Navy is doing entertainment work in Manila. Thanks for the letter and news, Neville.

And now from our prize correspondent, Pauline Walker we have another good letter. Pauline is now director of the Kindergarten School with which she was associated last year. She was bridesmaid in the wedding of Matilda Gentile and Charles Albert Lewis in late September in Suffolk. When she last heard from Phyllis Broemel (Attride), Phyllis and her husband were preparing to spend leave at home in White Plains.

Marjorie Deborah Davis is now working for a hearing aid company, managing their office in Scranton.

We have a grand letter from Yvonne Babin (Duhé) (Gran Hotel Jardin, Maracay, Edo. Aragua, Venezuela). She and her husband were right in the midst of the revolution down there in the fall. She really had a narrow escape, too. Her husband, Dick, is Naval Attaché at the American Embassy.

While her husband is out at sea again, Geraldine Hess (Megee) is living at home in Newark and working.

Hannah Leonard (Merrick) is counting on being a real traveler as Jack is planning to stay in the Navy. They may be reached c/o Jack's address which is Ensign J. L. Merrick 371240, 381 Alabama Avenue, St. Petersburg (4), Florida. Another Florida couple are Johnny and Louise Spalding (Hollis) whose address c/o Ensign J. M. Hollis, USNR, U.S.S. Hayter (APD 80), 16th Fleet, Florida Group, Green Cove Springs, Florida.

Wayne Fulton Gibbs, Jr., Lieutenant (jg), USNR, is serving on the U.S.S. LST 1050, moored at Mole Pier, Tsingtao, China. The 1050 is one of three Tank landing ships being used as training ships for Chinese. Each American officer and enlisted man is instructing a Chinese recruit in his duties aboard ship.

Honora F. Thompson received the B.A. degree from Bryn Mawr College on June 6, 1944, with major in Economics, and is now working in the War Department, Strategic Services Unit as an analyst.

Katharine Lee Marshall is in the class of '46 at Bryn Mawr College.

Jean Audrey Wilder is a cadet nurse at the Presbyterian Hospital in New York City.

Now, here's another Washington gal, Julia Louise Rowan, who has a job as secretary to a Technical Counselor and finds the work very interesting.

My sincere thanks to those of you who sent me cards at Christmas time. And a belated Happy New Year to you all.

Best wishes to all our newlyweds (see marriage column)—Winnie, Elsie, Pat, Mu, Ned and Gwen . . . and congratulations to Marjorie Talle (Merriman) and Jack on the birth of their son.

And so—until the next GAZETTE . . . remember one thing . . . please write!!!!

As ever,
ELIZABETH GOOCH SEAY, '44Ba,
Permanent Class Secretary,

Richmond, Virginia.

Have you seen the November 19 Life ("Big Belts"), the January Charm, or the most recent issue of Seventeen? In these and other current magazines Nina Parsons (Henderson), '45x, now of John Roberts Powers fame, models the latest styles. Suzy was the Colonial Echo "Queen of Beauty" our sophomore year—remember?

Doris Wiprud is an accountant in the Restoration office. She works with Mr. Langton and Mr. Jones. Dorie, Mazie Tressler, and Mary Beatrice Nelson live in the Prentice Shop. Mr. and Mrs. Wiprud recently visited Dorie in Williamsburg.

Martha Birdsong Macklin writes that her new job has kept her quite busy since September. She has a teaching position in Suffolk, which makes it possible for her to live at home. She is in the Junior High department and teaches five classes a day, four in government and one in health, all in 7B, 8A, and 8B. Mac finds teaching fascinating and is very fond of her pupils. She maintains that early teen-age children are not as difficult to handle as people generally claim. She says that, though every day is different, the work seems easier as she becomes more familiar with it. Martha has visited William and Mary several times this year and each time saw many old friends, Margaret Virginia Lee, Marion Balfour Lang, Elizabeth Winston Aurell, Nancy Lavinia Outland, Mary Epes Raney, Eleanor May Harvey, Doris Wiprud, Sunny Trumbo, Doris Armor, Lebe Seay, and Carolyn Armitage. Mac went to Ginny Partrea's wedding and saw so many Chi Omegas there that it was practically a reunion. She hopes to see more of our old schoolmates on her next visit to the Alma Mater, which will be soon.

Edythe Marie Marsh spent a November week end in Williamsburg and had a good time seeing people. She stopped overnight in Richmond with Lebe Seay on her way back. Edie commutes to New York City for her work in the personnel department of American Telephone and Telegraph Company on the Avenue of the Americas. It is an hour's ride on the train and ferry, but Edie enjoys her job so much that the trip is not terribly hard. She is concerned with the reemployment of returned veterans, which she says is extremely interesting. Once a week Edie writes a column in her town paper; she enjoys the writing, but says that it takes up a lot of her spare time, even though she does not work on Saturdays. She commutes with Theo and Ginny Kelcey from Westfield, New Jersey. Virginia Saxe Kelcey is at Carson's Art School in New York and will graduate this May after three years' study there. She will take up commercial art then. Edie said that Edna Betty Kerin will talk at William and Mary to those students interested in the kind of work she is doing at the Johnson O'Connor Laboratory. Edie sent a card later from Pasadena, saying that she is enjoying the California sun for three weeks, has just left Austin, Texas, and will visit relatives in Dallas for a week on her way back home. She promised us a letter with more detail about this wonderful trip—don't forget, Edie.

Cornelia R. Westerman is working in the personnel department of the Hamilton Watch Company in Lancaster, Pennsylvania. Louise Goldsborough Thomas enjoys her nursing at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore, even if it is hard work.

Marilyn Kaemmerle and Elizabeth Bower Gibbs have an apartment together in New York and are having a grand time in the big city. Mac is the handy one with the cooking, we hear. Betts is working in the accounting department of Vicks Chemical Company.

Virginia Ann Baureithel has been busy traveling around. She visited the college late in the fall. She says that she felt strange at first, without all of us around, but that, when she was inveigled into cutting people's hair most of the night, she felt right back in school. Ginny likes her job and the people with whom she works. There are nine girls in her laboratory, and the head of the lab is wonderfully amusing. (Say, Ginny, who is it that is holding out on those nylons?) Ginny lives in a big, old house with some of the other girls at DuPont. She finds it very much like a sorority house or dormitory, but so many of the girls are leaving that she and two other girls want to find an apartment. She is very fond of Wilmington, but thinks that it is rather crowded. Many new plays are produced there, and the town is centrally located for her interests. She has been to several parties and goes bowling weekly.

Marcia Guyette Manewal, PBK, moved to Annapolis when her parents set out for Dallas, Texas. "There is just something about the Navy," she says. Sunny is working in the Naval Alumni Office and is very nostalgic for Williamsburg. She has an apartment in the home of a Navy captain's wife with another girl, also the fiancée of a midshipman. In June Sunny will become Mrs. Ken Murray, we understand, via the Naval Academy Chapel. Her present address is: c/o Mrs. Vincent Godfrey, 29 Southgate, Annapolis, Maryland.

Shirley Lanham, Jeanne Nelson, Lois Loucks ('48x), and I are hostesses at the United Nations Officers Service Club and see one another occasionally. Lois is attending George Washington University. Shirley is studying at the Washington School for Secretaries. She says that Gloria Chrestlick is considering social administration work in Buffalo.

Lucy Labe, '48, recently visiting Washington, had a get-together with Dorothy Ann Raymond and Lois Loucks.

John Paul Carter is a coach at Episcopal High School as well as a theological student. William Roy Britton played a hilarious role in the amusing skit presented by the Juniors (entering class) at the Christmas party given by the Virginia Theological Seminary. I could not talk with him for very long, but he looked fine and seemed very happy.

Mary Gladah Jones has been to the hospital for another operation. She came home at the end of January and is recuperating. She hopes to get back to her work in the Children's Hospital in about two weeks. We sincerely hope you will be all right for good this time, Mary.

Edith Elizabeth Havey (Johnson) writes that she hasn't seen the ground since the beginning of October for all the snow. When she wrote the letter, the temperature was 33° below zero. "Quite a change from Williamsburg," says Betty. She seems to be having fun, though, and Mary Gladah tells me that Betty hopes to be back in this country soon. Betty's present address is: 8425 107th Street, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada.

Early in December every Washington paper burst forth with critics' applause for an old, old play with a bright new star, being presented in a three-week run at the Little Theater of Catholic University. The play was "Electra" and the title character was none other than Janet Fehm, '48x. I was fortunate enough to see the production on its closing night, and it was a marvelous piece of work. Jeff merited all the ovation which the critics had lavished on her. Her interpretation of the part was exquisitely moving, and, in this case, one could really say, "Mourning Becomes Electra." She was not the only member of the cast whom we know: John Green ("The Patriots"), '47x, portrayed Agamemnon with fidelity to character. We all chatted after the performance, and both of them said they were enjoying very much their association with Catholic University and its well-known dramatic department. They were anxious to hear all about William and Mary and their friends.

On the same night as the play, December 20, there was a William and Mary Alumni meeting, which I was sorry to miss. From what we heard later, we guessed that not many people got to it.

Several members of our class attended the next meeting, however. It was held in the accustomed place, the Continental Room of the Statler Hotel, on January 17. Dorothy Ann Raymond, Jane Raymond, Virginia Lee Craddock, Antoinette Henderson Robinson, Jeanne Nelson, and I represented our class. Others we saw there were Ensign Doris Armor, Katie Rutherford, Gene Kellogg, Marion Ross, all of the Class of 1944, and Lois Weiss (Mirandon), '43. Carl Muecke and Paul Gantt were present, too, and several other gentlemen, whose acquaintance we shall probably make at future meetings. We hope so, anyway. We heard that Paul will be going to Germany soon with the Department of Justice. After the business was settled, a learned Chinese gentleman presented an interesting lecture about the attitudes of various cultural groups in China.

Ginny Craddock is hoping it will be "Wedding in the Spring" for her. She told us that Joyce Lynn Brewer married Bill Ricketts on the day after Christmas, and that Dorothy Signor Blake will live in New York after her honeymoon. Dot Raymond has a working schedule that she likes at Garfinkel's; it permits her to work two days, take Wednesday off, and work three more days to finish the week.

Dorothy Agurk (Edmunds) and her husband are studying at the University of Michigan.

I ran into Barbara Perkins (Odegard), '46x, on a bus a few weeks ago. She was elated about her husband's soon-expected arrival.

Elizabeth Winston Aurell has heard from Margery Corinne Sease (Burruss), who expects to be up this way in May.

Mary Jane Raymond is a medical student at George Washington University.

Betty Ann Fletcher sailed from New York last November on the Gripsholm for Athens, Greece, after having received training for Foreign Service in the State Department, Washington.

Elizabeth Hayes Bradley, PBK, visited her home in Norfolk last week end and saw Jean Vaughn Ferebee, who is having a good time. Jean works for the Pennsylvania Central Airlines. Catharine Stille Tomlinson works for the same organization in New York and is very enthusiastic about the job. Betty Bradley and Edith Frances McChesney, PBK, attended a recent Phi Beta Kappa meeting at the Wardman Park Hotel. Not long ago Edie went up to New York for a grand reunion with Ginny Baureithel, Rachel Snyder Lyne, Mary Ellen MacLean, PBK, and Eleanor Jane Heyer, PBK, at the apartment which Eleanor and Rachel share. They went to see "On the Town" and had a marvelous time.

A girl with whom I work recently was hostess to Ann and Florence Pettigrew, '44, whom she knew when she lived in Haiti.

Jean Bolton is studying for her M.A. at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy in Medford, Massachusetts. The work is heavy and keeps her busy; it is interesting, however, and she enjoys it very much. Ghislaine Lovell, who started with our class, is studying for her Ph.D. at the same place. She and Jeanne frequently reminisce together about William and Mary.

Thanksgiving week end Jean Taylor and Edna Betty Kerin revisited the school and saw several alumni and alumnae. Edna informs us that Lucille Margaret McCormick is not at Denver, after all, but at the Beth Israel Hospital in Newark. Edna says that her job at the Johnson O'Connor Human Engineering Laboratory is more exciting than ever now that she is coming into contact with the examinees themselves. Edna tests individuals for three and a half hours a day and is now training with one of the senior administrators to take over part of her work. She is thrilled by the challenge the work offers and is learning more about her job this way. Edna is also on the house committee, which handles the details that keep the house in operation. She says that now she is beginning to feel like a vital cog.

Margaret Virginia Lee is now working at the same place. It is located on East 62nd Street. Dinny and Edna are Junior Executives, of which there are about twenty, mostly 1945 college graduates, from Middlebury, Wake Forest, Texas, Radcliffe, Smith, and others. Dinny enclosed an extremely interesting booklet which explains the purpose of the work far better than I could interpret it for you; it says, "The aim of the Laboratory is not vocational guidance, but rather to give to a person, through a series of ingenious tests, a conscious inventory of his natural aptitudes and potential capabilities." The document continued by presenting the methods of some of the tests, which really are ingenious, and by citing specific cases that had had amazingly successful, almost miraculous results. The Junior Administrators give tests, assist in research, study background and results of the tests, and have a one-hour class daily. Besides these responsibilities, they manage the office and the correspondence. Dinny is in charge of office supplies. She and Edna say that the way the work piles up reminds them of college life. The laboratory headquarters is a beautiful house near Fifth Avenue. Every Wednesday the girls attend an elaborate staff meeting, which includes cocktails and dinner. No wonder Dinny and Edna are so enthusiastic! The booklet alone is enough to persuade almost anyone to work there.

Dinny will take a professional writing course at Columbia, starting with the new semester. She wrote that Frances Alma Loesch has discontinued her nursing training at Presbyterian Hospital and is now engaged to a boy from Westfield. They will be married in June.

Marjorie Bevans has a position with the Office of International Information and Cultural Cooperation in the State Department here and enjoys her work very much. Billy Davidson, '44, was with her this week end. Marnie has recently been back to William and Mary. Joan Brown Parker (Flint) was there. Joan and her husband are living at Yorktown now, and Joan is thrilled to be so close to William and Mary. Joan Simmons Kable was there, too. She plans to be a hostess at the Inn and live in Williamsburg with Joyce LeCraw. Marnie says that Sheila Stewart is having a grand time in Hawaii. Marnie's address is: 4801 Connecticut Avenue, Washington, D. C.

Catharine Farrington Leavey expects to return to Washington from Hawaii soon.

Antoinette Henderson Robinson has been kept busy by her job at Arlington Hall with the Signal Corps. She is living with Ginny Till now at a new address: 2217 North Nottingham, Arlington, Virginia. Tony went home to Henderson, North Carolina, for Christmas.

Margaret MacGregor Johnson is studying secretarial science at Boston University. She is living at: 145 Bay State Road, Boston (15), Massachusetts.

A letter from William Clancy Heffner, '45x, said that he thought of our class last June third. He could not dwell on his thoughts long because that morning his outfit invaded the Ryukyus. Bill expects to return to William and Mary to finish college. He has seen Wayne Gibbs and Bill Remick in the Far East. Lyon Gardiner Tyler, '45x, docked near Bill's ship in Leyte, but Bill has not yet seen either of them. It sounds as if they could start an alumni chapter, if they just had time to get together. Right now Bill's LST is engaged in repatriating Japanese civilians and prisoners of war from China. Bill is anxious to come home, but wants to see the job finished first. His address is: Ensign William S. Heffner, USNR, U.S.S. LST 807, c/o FPO, San Francisco, California. It was grand hearing from you, Clancy. We hope to see you back here soon.

Nancy Lee Carnegie writes that she is now up at Western Reserve University in Cleveland—in the Frances Payne Bolton School of Nursing. She is fond of the work, the school, and her classmates. She sees Mary Jeannette Simon every now and then. Nan also saw Shirley Hoffman recently; Shirley nearly has her Ph.D. and has recently opened her own shop in St. Louis. Nan sees Lillian Dorothea Knight, PBK, when she goes home to Akron. Lillian has visited William and Mary and enjoyed her stay. Helen Michael Woods (West), '45x, is at school with Nancy and they see each other frequently. Nancy's address is: 11100 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland (6), Ohio.

The other day I bumped into Loise Weiss (Mirandon), '43, on Kay Street. She has joined the apartment-seeking hundreds of Washington. In a few minutes Helen Fisher, '47, appeared. She had come to visit Loise for the week end. Louis Rives and Paul Gantt came soon to complete the party. They went to Treasure Island for lunch and planned to stop in at WOL to see our studios, but were delayed. Loise, Louis, Paul, and Ginny Craddock all work near each other. Later on that same day I bumped into Frances Buttler, '46, trousseau-shopping in Woodward and Lothrop.

Virginia Lee Craddock expects Evelyn Carolina Johnson to visit her next week end. Kay is considering going to secretarial school. Ginny used to see Julie Louise Rowan at the United Nations Service Center, where Ginny is a volunteer worker and Julie is a member of the AWVS. Julie will soon move to Texas with her family. Ginny says that Cecil Cary Waddell (Cunningham), '45x, and Hughes Wescott Cunningham went back to William and Mary to visit this week end. Ceci wants to return to college and receive her degree.

Marion Balfour Lang reports that she went to Westport, Connecticut, for the wedding of her former roommate, Lucille Roy. Marion is still enthusiastic about her advertising position with Franklin Simon. She meets many artists, one of whom was assistant to Irene, Hollywood designer. Nothing in her advertising, Marion says, ever becomes routine or monotonous, and every ad presents a new problem. She has run into Suzy Parsons Henderson several times when Suzy had a modeling job with Franklin Simon. Marion says that the latest news of Suzy's husband is that he will be home soon. Jeanne Marie Boyle, Elizabeth Anne Willcox, and Marion had a grand reunion in Princeton in November at the Princeton-Dartmouth game. The highlight of Marion's fall was Thanksgiving week end, which she spent in Williamsburg. The only change she found was "the filled-in ditches." She went down with Muriel Rosalind Schoonover and Jane Eversmann, '47x. Mary Raney and Martha Macklin were there, and everyone had fun. Marion meets Dinny Lee quite often for lunch and Phyllis Claire Ebling regularly once a week. Phyllis is ecstatic over her grand job with Newell-Emmet Company, an advertising agency.

Julia Fisher (Boone) spent Christmas in New Jersey with her family, at which time the baby was christened. There were big plans for the occasion.

Margetta Doris Hirsch, PBK, was one of the six rooters for the William and Mary basketball team at the Kings Point game. Mary Elizabeth McClelland, Betty Reid Driscoll, Dorothy Elaine Lewis, Kay Johnson, and Getta drove over with Louise Marie Dietz (Gulick) to the Merchant Marine Academy. They were all excited over seeing the team again, and felt terribly conspicuous, being the only spectators to cheer for the Indians. At the Fordham game Louise and Getta proved to be the only two behind the green team. With their loyal support, the team rolled up a 45-37 victory. Nash might say:

"Good for you,
Getta and Lou!"

I hope I can go to see William and Mary beat George Washington tomorrow night, but I trust that there will be more people to cheer our team on.

Getta is still intrigued by the business world. In her market research, she is now concentrating on a hair tonic survey and feels remarkably well informed on the subject.

This is not class news, but I am sure you would like to know: Ann Anthony Lester, '46x, wrote me from San Francisco that she met Betty Bull, '42, who is working in the laboratory at Letterman Hospital. Tony got a ring in November. Her present address is: Corporal Ann Anthony Lester, WAC Detachment, Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco.

I have received conflicting rumors about what Jeanne Haines Schoenewolf and Julie Audrey Hudgins are doing; I shall have to wait, then, until I hear from them firsthand before I can write about them.

Many thanks to those of you who have been such marvelous correspondents. (Pardon my patting us on the back, but all your letters certainly reflect the fine spirit of '45.) Keep up the good work—for years to come. It surely would be nice to hear from all you "silent partners" now. My Washington spies are a splendid help in contributing scoops, but if you want to make sure that I do not print the wrong "dope" about you, you had better write to the class yourself. Rumors travel fast, you know, and I am liable to catch most of them. For May's GAZETTE let's hear from you by the beginning of April; anything received after that will have to wait for next October's issue.

His brother and law associate, Cary Champion, '13x, died in April, 1944. He is survived by two sisters: Cara Rowland, '24Ba, and Dora Travis, '27Ba.

Joseph Henry Saunders, '17Ba-'41H, February 9, 1946, at Newport News. A native of Portsmouth, Dr. Saunders had long been prominent in education circles in Virginia and the nation and was the recipient of many honors. He was one of the original organizers of the State board of education, a member since 1930 and its president since 1941. In national circles he was chairman of the board of trustees of the National Education Association and held many other important committee assignments with NEA, including the building committee which planned the NEA headquarters' building in Washington.

Dr. Saunders attended the College for 3 years commencing in 1893 and though he did not actually complete the degree requirement until many years later, he left the College to immediately start what was to become one of the greatest services in the State school system. In 1907 he was one of a small group who determined to make the effort to obtain legislation which would guarantee a fair chance for an education to every boy and girl in the State. With the late Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, Dr. Saunders co-authored the present compulsory school attendance law which eventually doubled the financial support of schools.

He has been superintendent of schools in Newport News for 25 years. After taking his A.B. at the College in 1917, he went on to Chicago where he received his M.A. He received the LL.D. degree at Central University in Indiana and in 1941, William and Mary gave him the honorary Doctorate of Pedagogy. In 1936, he received the Alumni Medallion. He was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and of many professional fraternities and organizations.

Among his survivors are three daughters: Frances Beale Saunders (Chisholm), '29Ba; Elizabeth Avery Saunders (Greenman), '36Ba; and, Jane Beale Saunders (McMurrin), '39Ba and a son: Robert N., '37x.
