A MODERN TRADITION

The true Virginia hospitality and cordial welcome constantly awaiting student and alumni generations at Williamsburg Inn, Williamsburg Lodge, Travis House, Chowning's Tavern and the restored taverns and guest houses is a continuation of the cherished traditions of Williamsburg and the College of William and Mary. Consider our wide variety of accommodations and facilities your Williamsburg headquarters. You will find them consistently reasonable and comfortable.

WILLIAMSBURG INN and LODGE

A Record of Service to the entertainment needs of students, residents and visitors for more than fifteen years.

Completely Redecorated and re-equipped to assure old and new patrons the most advanced facilities for projection and sound and the utmost in seating and air-conditioning comfort.

Still Dedicated to the principle of providing the finest motion pictures in one of the best theaters in Virginia.

WILLIAMSBURG THEATRE

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

The session just closed, like the foregoing session, witnessed unbelievable enrollment figures. The total enrollment of the College for the first time in history passed the two thousand mark, with approximately 1350 men students and 650 women students. More than 900 students were veterans. The forthcoming session will be almost as large, with a concentration of numbers in the junior and senior classes. At the various graduations held during the session nearly 450 degrees were bestowed, also a record. Needless to say, the College required the largest instructional staff in its history to cope with the increased teaching load.

Crowded conditions required additional adjustments throughout the year and into the present session. The most noticeable changes are the completion of the fraternity lodges opposite the lily pond and the changes made in the dining hall service. The eleven lodges will be opened in September. Because of alterations providing a connection between the Wigwam and the small cafeteria, students are enabled to obtain meals at almost any hour.

Owing to inflation the College has had some difficulty in balancing its budget of $2,500,000. Nevertheless it has been able again to improve its salary scales for faculty and employees. Although funds are in hand for the Humanities-Fine Arts Building and a Student Activities Building, the cost of building has rendered construction for the present impossible. The College has continued its system of minor improvements and is working out plans for the eventual construction of additional men's dormitory units.

Gifts and bequests for the session were the largest in the history of the College, approximately $240,000. These came from many sources, but it is encouraging to note that nearly the whole amount was earmarked for general endowment or for scholarships. The largest single additions were final payments from the Payne estate amounting to $90,000, and the bequest of Mrs. W. H. Greene of New York of $60,000 for endowed scholarships. The recently announced bequest of Mr. T. N. Cromwell of New York of more than $100,000 for general purposes will greatly strengthen the program for scholarships and for faculty research. With these new increments the College will have an unusually strong scholarship program for an institution of its size. Such a program will not only afford a number of promising individuals the opportunity of an education, but it will greatly implement the selective policy of admissions. The interest of the Alumni as a group is reflected in the policy of annual gift-giving. As this program develops the College will be relieved of the need for seeking funds outside the William and Mary family.

It will seem strange to many of the older alumni that the summer sessions of recent years have been exceedingly busy ones. The College has averaged nearly 1,000 students in each of the past two sessions. The majority in attendance have been veterans. On the other hand, in lieu of undergraduate activities which do not flourish during the summer, the College has sponsored a series of institutes that have been well attended. During the past summer the Latin Institute and the Theatre Institute have attracted wide attention.

The College enters its 256th session with new faculty appointments in many departments. Major appointments have been made in chemistry, physics, psychology, education, and law. A new program in the field of taxation involves close cooperation between the departments of economics and jurisprudence. The advanced course offerings in a number of other departments have been rounded out. The alumnus who visits the College on the occasion of the next Homecoming will find the College at the peak of its postwar activity. There will be many new things to see, including the new alumni headquarters in The Brafferton, and, as usual, much to talk about.

John Z. Tompsett
President.

The Brafferton . . . second oldest academic building in the Country . . . and one of the most beautiful . . . in which are now located the offices of the Society of the Alumni.

Fraternities Are

To the south of the stadium, on the wooded knoll which lies across from, and slightly above, the frog pond, a construction project which will greatly affect the lives of the undergraduate men is just about completed. Nestled among the trees, on either side of a road which has been gouged through the brow of the hill, are eleven little brick buildings of the same general design. This project, labeled "top priority" by the administration is the final crystallization of the long and bitter fight waged around the question of fraternity housing.

Without going too deeply into the involved and tedious history of the events which led to the construction of these lodges (see ALUMNI GAZETTE, March, 1947), it will suffice to say that in 1942 the Board of Visitors ruled that fraternities could no longer maintain separate sleeping and eating establishments. The lodge plan, similar in many respects to those in operation at Davidson, Sewanee and Swarthmore was adopted in the belief that such a system would eliminate competitive fraternity housing and would make membership in a fraternity, either local or national, fall within the reach of every student who desired it. Colgate Darden, then Governor, endorsed this move as a "workable and very satisfactory solution to a difficult problem."

Naturally enough, the fraternities fought this whole idea with every resource at their command, carrying the battle all the way back to the Board of Visitors. The powers that be were, however, adamant. The decision remained unchanged, the construction of the lodges was authorized, and the funds appropriated for the work. The fraternities, newly organized after being dormant during the war, were rankled and many were the voices which raged in protest, even after the die was cast.

These strange new lodges began to take shape last fall . . . and as they became transformed from architect's drawings to things of reality, a strange change took place in the attitudes of the fraternity men toward the lodges. The mutterings of discontent became mute and here and there could be heard voices of appreciation and pleasure. The bitter pill became a bonbon. Not only are the lodges things of beauty and utility but, in a valiant effort to "play ball" with the boys, the administration has drawn extremely liberal social and financial regulations to govern the use of the lodges.

All eleven lodges have identical floor plans but varying exteriors. They are of cinderblock construction with brick veneer. They feature a living room 18 feet by 34 feet, with large fireplace and a high open ceiling with hand-hewn roof trusses; a terrace 23 feet by 13 feet which opens off the living room; a front porch 35 feet by 7 feet 8 inches; one bedroom 15 feet by 13 feet 8 inches, with two closets and a private bath; a ladies powder room 10 feet by 6 feet 5 inches, with adjoining lavatory; a kitchen 8 feet 2 inches by 9 feet; a utility room housing the oil heating plant (radiant heat is used), and an adequate storage closet. The College will furnish the bedroom and will provide refrigerator and range for the kitchen. The individual fraternities are expected to furnish the living room and ladies powder room.

The fraternities were advised of the following statement of College policy with respect to the lodges before preliminary contract negotiations were undertaken:

"1. The College has assumed the responsibility for providing the fraternities with lodges at a reasonable cost. It is the responsibility of the College both to protect the corpus of its funds invested in the fraternity housing project and to encourage the fraternities to maintain a sound financial condition.

"2. It is the responsibility of the fraternity to maintain a sound financial position that will provide adequate protection for the funds advanced by the Colin connection with operating a fraternity in accommodations afforded by a lodge. This figure of $1,100.00 is an annual operating estimate and does not include any provision for initial outlay for furniture. A chapter of 25 men paying local dues of $5.00 per member per month should, within this budget, be able to qualify financially for a lodge. The average fraternity group at William and Mary runs 35 to 40 men.

The College has reviewed budgets of the several fraternities before agreeing to proceed with the construction of their lodges to determine that the fraternities' annual operating income would meet the minimum requirement of $1,100.00 or that from some source the fraternity could count on the equivalent of this income for a period of at least three years.

Since the lodge plan was proposed with the belief that it would make fraternity membership financially possible for those students who desire to join, the College determined that it would not construct a lodge for any group whose members are required to pay national dues which, in the opinion of the College, are excessive.

lege for housing and at the same time enable the fraternity to maintain its individual standing and the reputation of the fraternity system as a whole.

"3. It is the responsibility of the fraternity to protect the property of the College and to maintain such standards of housekeeping as will provide the proper environment for gracious living.

"4. It is the responsibility of the fraternity to conform to such social rules as may be established by the College for its well-being."

The College plans to charge $800.00 rent per year for these lodges. Of this amount each fraternity expects to collect about $500.00 (a figure agreed upon by the fraternities) from three students who will live in the lodge, reducing the lodge rent paid by each group to $300.00 per year. From a study of budgets of the several fraternities, the College determined that each fraternity must have an annual gross income of not less than $1,100.00 exclusive of any rent derived from members living in the lodge and exclusive of sums necessary to pay dues to any national body, in order to enable the fraternity to bear the cost of rent, heat, janitor service, depreciation on furnishings, entertainment, and other miscellaneous expenses,

CLARENCE NORSWORTHY, Publishing Official

Treasurer of Huge Crowell-Collier Company

• By PAUL MASTIN KEISTER, '26Bs

A slim and determined two-miler, who practiced diligently on old Cary Field, but never won a race for William and Mary, sits today in a plush Park Avenue office in New York City, a success by every standard in the tough competition of the business world.

He is Clarence F. (Bunny) Norsworthy, '26Bs, whose industry and business acumen since leaving Williamsburg have led him up the ladder until today he is treasurer of the Crowell-Collier Publishing Company, 250 Park Avenue, publishers of Colliers, Woman's Home Companion and American magazines. As "Mr. Money-Bags" of the huge publishing house, he has an authoritative voice in its administrative policy.

Bunny is still the soft-spoken, serious and industrious young man who proudly tucked his sheepskin under his arm and departed from William and Mary twenty-two years ago. Nothing delights him more than to get together with a group of classmates and recall with innocent exaggeration the pleasant days of pre-Rockefeller Williamsburg when Duke of Gloucester Street first emerged from its muddy stickiness; Bob Wallace ruled the rickety College Shop on the corner with a booming voice; the "Greek's" was the only place you could get a midnight hamburger, and the aptly named Institute "in town" over by the railroad tracks was palmed off as a dormitory (where overzealous freshmen had a penchant for throwing cast-iron radiators down three flights of steps); and when a fifty-cent piece was hard to come by for the Saturday night soirees in Jefferson Hall.

A native of Newport News, Va., Norsworthy set out on the rigorous highway to success in debt. He borrowed $75 from a bank to buy a suit of clothes and pay his fare to Schenectady, N. Y. for his first job—in the accounting department of the General Electric Company at $23 a week.

In college, he was a member of Alpha Psi (local) social fraternity and president of Alpha Kappa Psi, business fraternity. He organized the first employment bureau in the School of Business Administration in the Fall of 1925. By graduation time in June, 1926, he had been successful in getting a job for every applicant—but had neglected to provide for himself. Then, at the last minute, came the offer from G.E.

Norsworthy soon learned that he was not conditioned to remain in the G.E. training school, familiar to hundreds of college graduates of that era. In the winter of 1927, he struck out for New York City, the mecca of ambitious youth. His connections with Alpha Kappa Psi led him to a Wall Street Stock Exchange firm, where he was hired as a salesman.

At the end of the first week, he had exactly two cents in his pocket. His $30 salary was a small fortune. And, in fact, did start him on the climb upward.

With a sound background in business and finance, gained in the classrooms presided over by such realists as Professors Charles C. Fichtner and Arthur Nielsen he soon mastered the intricacies of Wall Street. Within a short time, he was sales manager of the firm, directing a large staff of security salesmen.

In 1934, his firm sent him to Canton, Ohio, to look after its interests in a small steel plant. There, he easily shifted from selling stocks and bonds to peddling stainless steel to the big automobile manufacturers in Detroit.

Norsworthy remained in Canton until May, 1939, when he resigned as treasurer and executive vice president of the steel company to return to New York as assistant to the executive vice president of Crowell-Collier. Seven years later, in November 1946, he was elected treasurer and moved into his swank office where the door is always open to William and Mary men.

More than two decades have passed since Norsworthy left William and Mary, but his waistline has expanded very little, and his curly hair is still as raven black as it was when he was racing around the cinder path on Cary Field in a pair of skanties and spiked shoes.

His attractive wife, Eileen, presides over Norsworthy and their two sons, Johnny and Dick, in their Tudor English home at 254 Beechmont Drive, New Rochelle, N. Y.

College Receives Bequests From Cromwell, Bohannon, Coleman Estates

President Pomfret announced in August that the College would receive approximately $100,000 through a bequest of the late William Nelson Cromwell, prominent New York attorney and philanthropist who died July 19.

Forty-eight colleges, public service and charitable institutions will benefit from the Cromwell estate. In addition to William and Mary, other colleges and universities receiving bequests are: Columbia, which was Mr. Cromwell's alma mater, Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Cornell, Stanford, Johns Hopkins, Dartmouth, Amherst, Bowdoin and Kenyon.

The bequest to William and Mary is for general uses and purposes. The College will add the sum to its endowment and distribute the income for the maintenance of undergraduate scholarships and for the benefit of faculty personnel and faculty research.

In addition to the Cromwell bequest, the College has received from the estate of the late James Gordon Bohannon, '02Ba, a second legacy of $10,000 for the support of the memorial endowment scholarship fund. This amount is in addition to a previous legacy of $15,000 already received from the estate.

It has also been announced that the College will receive bank stock approximating $2,500 in value from the estate of the late George Preston Coleman, '92, who died June 17.

AROUND THE CAMPUS

The Student Angle

We finished playing I'll See You In My Dreams, and I closed up the grand piano at the College Inn. The rest of the members of the band were still putting away their instruments as I walked over to a table and ordered an evening snack. It was nearly midnight, and the College crew that had crowded the dance floor was finally dispersing. Summer Session had just ended, and the students who filled the booths lining the dance floor had been jocular and enthusiastic, as if some great weight had been lifted from their shoulders. In the course of the evening the rafters of the old Inn had been shaken by a resounding chorus of Alouette, and the band had jazzed the Wedding March in honor of a recent graduate who was soon to take the fatal step of marriage. A few weeks ago Charlie McCurdy, leaning back in his swivel chair, had beckoned me into the inner sanctum of the Alumni Office and had proceeded to inform me that a new feature was to be instituted in this year's GAZETTE, an article to be written by a student, reflecting student opinion and picturing campus activities. So as I sat in the College Inn waiting for my hamburger, I probed through my mind in an attempt to seize upon some prevailing sentiment that had gripped the thoughts of the student body during the summer. I could find none. I was struck by the apparent apathy, often viewed with alarm by friends of the College, that William and Mary students display toward student government and campus extracurricular activities.

The casual visitor to Williamsburg often remarks that a lethargic atmosphere envelops the little town. The mule-drawn farm wagons that roll down the side streets of town, the cyclists that glide along tree-lined lanes, the cicadas that sing lustily on summer evenings give credence to this belief. Even the tourists, constant reminders of the fact that Williamsburg is a commercial enterprise, fail to shake one of the feeling that the town and College merely slumber. And this sense of quietude seems to extend to the students. But the outward appearance of Williamsburg belies the truth. It is not a sleepy village. Nor are the students of the College apathetic toward their campus activities and their academic work.

The fact of the matter is that the average college student today is divided between conflicting goals. Not only must he profit from his academic work in order that he be somewhat fitted to assume a place in the economic life that awaits outside of College, but he must in many cases contribute largely to his support while attending school. Williamsburg offers a surprising variety of opportunities for part-time work, and beneath the town's Colonial dignity there is a beehive of student commercial enterprise.

Probably the greatest mass remunerative effort of the students is the production of the Common Glory, Paul Green's quasi-historic drama of the American Revolution. The casting of the play presents one of the most amusing aspects of a William and Mary summer session, for at this time an army of actors and pseudo-esthetes descends upon the College, their bizarre dress and bohemian tastes rather jarring the staid atmosphere of Williamsburg. Though the cast includes recruits from colleges all over Virginia and neighboring states, William and Mary students monopolize the positions of the parking lot attendants, the program sellers, the ushers, and the Choir Singers, and contribute substantially to the actual cast and the stage crew. In the evenings after the performance the players crowd into the restaurants of town and shoot barbed witticisms across the tables, delicately fingering their milkshake tumblers as if they were glasses of cointreau. Several young men, impelled to grow beards by their artistic calling, increase the arty appearance of the theater set. However, though the production of the Common Glory brings with it lots of honest fun, it entails a great deal of work, leaving the students who participate little time to devote to campus activities.

The Restoration employs another large segment of the student population in the capacity of night watchmen, waiters at the Travis House, bartenders at Chownings, caddy masters at the new Golf Course, and life guards at the Inn Pool. Incidentally, it is at the Inn Pool that the College dilettantes meet to bask in the afternoon sun and indulge in a few bottles of amber brew. Little can be said for the industry of the lifeguards, for they generally seem to be more engrossed by a rubber of bridge than by the activity in the pool, but these bronzed campus Adonises and their coterie of chic female companions add a certain verve to the College sporting set.

Another group of students is employed by the Eastern State Hospital in a variety of jobs that in some instances supply a practical background for the courses offered by the College. Then, too, the merchants and businessmen of Williamsburg provide employment for a number of students. Many of the cabs that carry tourists along the sequestered streets are driven by students. Some undergraduates find employment in the town's department stores; still others can be found behind the counters of the coffee shops. The two campus dance bands, whose services are generally in demand, have just concluded extended engagements at near-by military installations. And lastly, the College itself makes it possible for many undergraduates to defray part of their expenses by work in the Cafeteria, the administrative offices, and on the playing field.

Consequently, when I hear some friend of the College decry the fact that there is great student apathy enveloping the campus, I am inclined to think that he has only a partial view of the picture. It must be recognized that the postwar crop of students now being nurtured by the nation's colleges are less secure financially than their predecessors. It would seem that the young men and women of William and Mary, hardened by their participation in the recent conflict, are more directly confronted with the realities of life than the students of prewar years and that the first items to be sacrificed to this new condition are the campus activities not directly associated with academic learning. This does not mean that college undergraduates are not as fun loving as ever. It does mean that they are intensely aware of the need of marketing their talents in order to enjoy the benefits of an education. Thus, the apathy of students toward extracurricular activities may not be apathy at all, but a sign of the increasing maturity and sophistication of the Indian tribe.

ALUMNI GAZETTE RANKS EIGHTH IN NATION

Award Announced at Ann Arbor Conference

At the annual conference of the American Alumni Council, held at Ann Arbor, Michigan, July 12-15, The ALUMNI GAZETTE, in competition with college and university alumni magazines from every State in the country, was judged the eighth highest ranking magazine. Each year the Council selects the top ten magazines and this year marks the first time that William and Mary has been included in the selection. The contest was directed by Chesley Worthington, alumni secretary of Brown University, and the judges were various newspaper editors in the New England area.

The Harvard Alumni Bulletin was voted "magazine of the year" and received the first place award. Others in the top ten in the order of their ranking were: California Monthly, The Wisconsin Alumnus, Stanford Alumni Review, Columbia Alumni News, Old Oregon, The Simmons Review, THE ALUMNI GAZETTE of the College of William and Mary, Vassar Alumnae Magazine and the Penn State Alumni News.

In individual competitions for particular phases of an alumni magazine, William and Mary picked up three awards and one honorable mention.

A first place award was received in the "Association and Club News" competition for an article appearing in the March issue on William and Mary's twelve alumni chapters. Appearing in the same issue was Fred Frechette's account of "Sixty Years With Henry Billups," which took second place award in the personality feature contest. A third place award was received for the year's cover pictures, all but one of which were taken by Linwood Aron, '48.

Honorable mention was given for general illustrations during the year, particularly the use of color in the May issue.

In 1940 and again in 1947, William and Mary received single awards for a particular feature of the magazine.

The certificates of award were signed by Kenney L. Ford, alumni secretary at Kansas State University and retiring president of the American Alumni Council, and Chesley Worthington, editor of the Brown University alumni magazine and the Council's director for magazines.

ALUMNI OFFICE MOVED TO THE BRAFFERTON

William and Mary's 106-year-old Society of Alumni, after fifteen years of cramped but pleasant operation in the Brafferton Kitchen, on August 12 moved to William and Mary's 225-year-old Brafferton, the second oldest academic building in the nation. The move was a culmination of many years of discussion and planning over a desire not only to give the Alumni Office more adequate space to conduct its business but also to give the alumni themselves a place on campus where they might visit, meet old friends or just sit down to relax. Now, it has come to pass.

The transfer of alumni activities to The Brafferton might be termed a step backward in the right direction. Nineteen years ago when the Society employed its first full-time executive secretary, George Willis Guy, '21Ba, the first independent alumni office was set up in one of the very rooms in The Brafferton which the Society has now reoccupied. It remained there until 1931 when the building was restored by Colonial Williamsburg. In 1932 the office was moved to the reconstructed Brafferton Kitchen and Charles Albert Taylor, Jr., '09Ba, became the executive secretary. The office remained in the Kitchen for sixteen years. During this period the alumni files constantly expanded until a point was finally reached where no further expansion would be possible in the "Kitchen." The matter was more complicated by the need for additional office personnel and place for them to work. To these was added the long-time need for some facility where alumni might meet or even sit down when they returned to campus. At the annual meeting of the Board of Directors in June it was decided to ask the College for use of The Brafferton.

The College, in authorizing the transfer, went much further in accommodating the alumni than had been anticipated or requested by the Board. In addition to providing office space on the first floor, it agreed to having the large lounge, also on the first floor, repainted immediately. The Board of Directors then determined to proceed with interior decoration and re-furnishing of the room to make it attractive for alumni reception. It is expected that this room will be completed by Homecoming, October 30.

The two upper floors of the building are already partially equipped as bedrooms. Within two years the College will make extensive renovations by adding an additional bedroom and three small baths. Thereafter, the rooms will be utilized to accommodate official College guests and Board members when they are required to remain over night while attending meetings.

The old Brafferton is one of the College's most valued possessions. Started a quarter of a century after the erection of the oldest academic building in the country, the Sir Christopher Wren, it was erected out of funds secured from the rents of the Brafferton estates in Yorkshire, England, made available by the bequest of the Honorable Robert Boyle, the great English scientist. This bequest, incidentally, was the first endowment the College received. The building was originally the Indian School of the College and in it were quartered the Indians and the master of the Indian School. Afterwards, The Brafferton was used to house faculty and students alike and during one of the periods when the College was closed it is likely that it was rented for private occupancy. As the new building program progressed under Dr. Chandler, the building was converted to classroom and office use. After the building was restored, Dr. Chandler had his office in it for a short period as did several of the deans and still later the Law School offices and classrooms were located there. In the late thirties the first floor of the building was turned over to the faculty as a clubhouse and for this purpose the College furnished the reception rooms with attractive eighteenth century furniture. The furnishing was never

Raschi Pitches American League To Victory In All-Star Game

Victor Angelo John (Vic) Raschi, '42, reached a pinnacle of fame last July 13 when, playing in the fifteenth annual All-Star baseball game in St. Louis, he pitched and batted his American League teammates to a 5 to 2 victory over the rival National League. Raschi, former William and Mary baseball star who now wears the colors of the New York Yankees, came into the game in the fourth inning with the score tied at 2 all and, in addition to pitching shutout ball for three innings, singled with the bases loaded to drive in the runs which eventually made him the winning pitcher.

A native of West Springfield, Massachusetts, Raschi was an outstanding athlete in the three major sports at Springfield Technical High School, pitching and batting his team to the state baseball championship during his senior year. While at William and Mary, in addition to starring on the baseball team, Vic won his letter in basketball and aided in coaching the football team. He started professional baseball in the Piedmont League, going from there to several of the Yankee "farm" teams before his big "break" came last summer. It was after being hastily summoned from the Portland Pacific Coast League team in July, 1947 that Raschi helped spark the Yankees in a winning streak that eventually carried them to the World Series and Championship.

Raschi's "ball-of-fire" deeds in the All-

Star contest were not of the "flash-in-the-pan" variety. His deeds then only bring to light the type of performance he has been turning in for the Yankees all season. Well on the road to becoming a twenty-game winner, he has reached the top in his chosen field of endeavor . . . he is the "ace" of the Yankee pitching staff.

Ninth Generation at College

This session marks the first time that a ninth generation descendant has come to the College. Indeed, Raymond DeVan Kimbrough, Jr., '52, can claim that there have been very few college generations at William and Mary when one or more of his ancestors have not been enrolled as students. He was preceded by his mother, the former Janet Haldane Coleman, '21-Ba; his grandfather, George Preston Coleman, '92; his great-grandfather, Charles Washington Coleman; his great-great-grandfather, Nathaniel Beverly Tucker; his great-great-great grandfather, St. George Tucker; two great-great-great-great-grandfathers, William Holt and Theodoric Bland; a great-great-great-great-great-grandfather, Richard Bland; and two great-great-great-great-great-great-grandfathers.

Young Kimbrough entered the College as the winner of the annual chemistry contest scholarship. He is a graduate of Episcopal High School, Alexandria.

Pomfret President of Southern University Conference

President Pomfret has been elected president of the Southern University Conference for the current college year, succeeding President Umphrey Lee of the Southern Methodist University. The Southern University Conference is composed of forty-six colleges and universities in the liberal arts tradition. The Conference acts as a clearinghouse for the study of educational problems common to these institutions of higher learning.

"We Won't Be As Strong As Last Year"

Says McCray

"William and Mary definitely will not be as strong in '48 as was the Tribe's Southern Conference championship squad of a year ago."

So says R. N. (Rube) McCray, head coach of the Indians, who must almost completely rebuild his forward wall in a year when William and Mary will face the toughest schedule in its long athletic history.

"Our line will not be as good as last year, and therefore our team will not be as strong as last year," warns the head man on the Williamsburg Reservation. "We lost the entire left side of our line, and it will be a difficult job to try to find someone capable of filling Knox Ramsey's shoes in the downfield blocking job."

Gone from last season's backfield are Stan Magdziak, Tom Mikula, Herb Poplinger and Jack Hoey—and each will be sorely missed this fall.

Harry (Red) Caughron, the "Mr. Consistent" of the William and Mary fore-wall, and End Lou Hoitsma will lead the team as co-captains, with much of the burden for the coming campaign also resting on the broad shoulders of Jack Cloud, fullback, and Tommy Thompson, the Tribe's rugged 215-pound center.

Henry Blanc, speedy little wingback, and Tailback Tommy Korczowski, who fractured an ankle in the third game of the 1947 grind, are two question marks which would prove of great service to the William and Mary cause providing their injuries of last year do not hamper them this fall.

The Braves open their 1948 festivities September 25 in Charlotte, N. C., when they meet the Davidson College Wildcats. Wake Forest comes to Williamsburg October 2 for a Southern Conference encounter, and the Indians follow with V.M.I. in Norfolk on October 9.

V.P.I. will be tough in Blacksburg October 16, the Gobblers' homecoming week end, and St. Bonaventure will attempt to upset the William and Mary bandwagon the following Saturday in Olean, N. Y.

The University of Richmond will provide the William and Mary homecoming entertainment October 30, and the McCraymen must journey to Chapel Hill, N. C., November 6 for a look at Charlie Justice and his North Carolina teammates in what should prove the toughest game of the year for the Indians.

Boston College is a newcomer to the Tribe schedule and will be met in Beantown November 13. A week later, the Big Green eleven comes home to play host to the N. C. State Wolfpack, with a jump to Little Rock, Ark., for a tussle with the University of Arkansas in the closing game of '48.

Close observers of the nation's gridiron extravaganza rate William and Mary the favorite in all but the North Carolina and Arkansas battles, with the Tarheels given the edge to knock off the men of Rube McCray.

There is nothing the Tribal Chieftain would rather do than to keep the Southern Conference Crown in Williamsburg, but it is a mighty rough road from here to November 27.

W&M Wins National Tennis Title Again

William and Mary's tennis men had to count on doubles play to win their second consecutive National Intercollegiate championship in Los Angeles last June.

The Indian netters, after winning the Southern Conference title and going undefeated in dual matches long enough to bring their win streak total to 59, were favorites at the N.C.A.A. classic in the west. But singles play was of no profit to the Williamsburg forces, as they failed to score in team points for solo play.

But, as William and Mary tennis coach Dr. Sharvey G. Umbeck predicted long before the season began, the Indians "... will be able to count on our doubles teams when the going is rough."

Top doubles combination for the Braves this season was that of Fred Kovaleski and Bernard "Tut" Bartzen. They took the Southern Conference crown, and in California went all the way to prove their claim of best in the land.

In singles play, Kovaleski lost to North Carolina's E. Victor Seixas in the quarter-final round of the national tourney, and Bartzen at the same time lost a close decision to Herb Flam of U.C.L.A.

Playing as a pair, Kovaleski and Bartzen took the William and Mary banner past the best opposition. Seeded teams which fell to the mighty Indian duo included Notre Dame's Evert brothers and Southern Cal's Perez and Saul.

William and Mary's dual victory over North Carolina at Virginia Beach last spring was the result of outstanding doubles play, too. The Tarheels won four of the six singles matches, but the Indians took all three doubles and a 5-4 victory.

In taking the doubles championship at the national tournament, and at the same time winning the team trophy, the Indians moved out ahead of all other teams in the race for the Garland Bowl. William and Mary's total points reached the 14-mark with the play of Kovaleski and Bartzen, just six short of the number needed to bring the coveted award to Williamsburg.

Bartzen, College's All-Time Tennis Champion

William and Mary's outstanding tennis player of all time was among the June graduation class of last spring. His name was Bernard E. "Tut" Bartzen. The short, swift left-hander aided the Indian cause in two consecutive National Collegiate tournaments, and was in four Southern Conference playoff matches. In high school days at San Angelo, Texas, "Tut" was runner-up for the nation's scholastic tennis crown, and as a freshman at William and Mary in '45 he played the top position. Most remarkable of all his feats, however, is the fact that in four years of college tennis, Bartzen has yet to taste defeat in a dual match, and lost only two sets in his entire career. His opposition has been of the highest calibre. Miami's Pancho Segura is the only tennis player in history to top the record of Bartzen; Segura never lost a set.

FAMOUS 1908 FOOTBALL TEAM WILL HAVE REUNION

Will Recelbrate 21-18 Victory Over Richmond 40 Years Ago

When the Big Green takes the field for their Homecoming contest on October 30 against the Richmond Spiders, they will have as honored guests the surviving members of the William and Mary football team which beat Richmond forty years ago. It will mark the fortieth anniversary of the 1908 gridders, one of the first Indian football teams to beat Richmond. That contest, played on November 21, 1908, saw William and Mary triumph by the close score of 21 to 18.

The '08 team will feature prominently in the Homecoming Day activities, with tentative plans for them to take part in the Homecoming parade, attend the luncheon, attend the game in a body, and be presented to the assembled spectators during the half-time intermission.

This year's contest against Richmond will be the 53rd game played between the two colleges since 1899. In the 52 recorded games, William and Mary holds a slight lead in the number of victories with 25 as opposed to 21 for the Spiders. Five of the games ended in ties . . . all scoreless . . . and one game, awarded to Richmond, was never conceded by the Indians. Despite the one-sided William and Mary victories of the last few autumns, the most top-heavy win ever recorded in the long series was the 48-0 score which Richmond rolled up in 1916. However, the Indians will be seeking their ninth straight win over Richmond on October 30 as the Spiders take the field trying to score their first points on William and Mary since 1938, the last time they succeeded in either winning or scoring. The 1908 team will be particularly interested in the proceedings.

The 1908 team was coached by George E. O'Hearn who, it is hoped, will be on hand for the reunion, coming from his home in Pittsfield, Massachusetts.

Seven members of the team are reported deceased. Three are unlocated.

The roster of the team was:

- LE Robert Bruce Barber (A), York, Pennsylvania.
- LE Selden Richard Warner, '11Bs, Huntsville, Texas.
- LT Charles Albert Taylor, Jr., '09Ba, Urbanna (Captain).
- LG Isham Trotter Wilkinson, '09, Kenbridge.
- LG Richard Turner MacDonald, '11, (deceased).
- C William Byrd Lee, Jr., '11, Montross.

- RG John Land Patterson, '10, (deceased)
- RT Jesse Graves Porter, '12, (deceased)
- RE Nathan William Schlossberg, '09, Roanoke.
- QB John Lesslie Hall, Jr., '09Bs, Norfolk
- HB Jack Whitfield Cohen, '11, (unlocated)
- HB James Glenn Driver, '09, Williamsburg
- FB Henry Augustus Allison, '11, (unlocated)
- Manager Blake Tyler Newton, '11Ba, Hague.
- Ass't. Mgr. Joseph Mettaur Hurt, Jr., '10Ba, (deceased)

SUBSTITUTES

- Howell Harris Fletcher, '10Ba, (deceased)

Cloud Is "Cover Boy" On 1948 Football Pictorial

For the first time in William and Mary's long athletic history, one of the members of the school's football team became a "cover boy," when Jack Cloud, the Tribe's great fullback, was featured by the 1948 edition of the Street & Smith Football Pictorial.

The popular sports magazine has a circulation of close to 700,000 copies throughout the United States and Canada.

Look Magazine of Sept. 14 also turned the spotlight on Rube McCray's husky ball carrier, and Grantland Rice named Cloud to his pre-season All-American team.

Further nation-wide publicity for the Indian ace will be found in the November issues of Sport and Sportfolio magazines.

Cloud made third-team All-America last fall, and is destined to clinch a higher rating this season—providing he and the William and Mary team experience good years.

COLLEGE GRADUATES ITS LARGEST CLASS

Directors Elected—Awards Given—Gifts To College—Henry Billups

The 1948 June commencement honors were shared in one way or another by 323 undergraduates who received degrees, 10 graduates who received advanced degrees, a distinguished U. S. Senator and a prominent alumnus-publisher who received honorary degrees, a State Supreme Court justice and a famous Baltimore surgeon who received alumni medallions, and Henry Billups who received a scroll from the Society in recognition of his sixty years' service to the College.

Most noteworthy event of the finals week end was the graduation of the largest class in the history of the College. Not only was the total of 323 degrees given in June a record in itself but, in addition, 57 degrees were awarded at the midyear commencement in January and another 71 received theirs in August, making a total graduation of 451. Of this number, 417 are registered in the class of 1948 with the remaining 34 electing membership in earlier classes.

Leverett Saltonstall, senator and former governor of Massachusetts, was the commencement speaker and received the LL. D. degree along with Dudley Redwood Cowles, '92, Brookline, Massachusetts, chairman of the board and formerly president of D. C. Heath & Co., publishers.

Judge Claude Vernon Spratley, '01Ba-38H, of Virginia's Supreme Court of Appeals, delivered the annual alumni oration at the alumni luncheon (to appear in December issue) in which he called attention to the deplorable salary scale for college professors whereby "we pay more to those who direct our machines and build our houses than we do to those who direct and inspire the minds of our youth." He challenged the alumni to show unselfish appreciation of what the College has done for her alumni by feeling impelled "to give help and extend to others the opportunities and blessings received by us."

Alumni medallions were presented to Judge Spratley and to Howard Chandler Smith, '20Ba, Baltimore urological surgeon, in recognition of their distinction in their respective fields of endeavor.

Dr. Helen Foss Weeks, retiring professor of education, was presented an honorary life membership in the Society of Alumni. She retired after completing 25 years on the faculty.

SOCIETY ELECTS DIRECTORS

At the annual meeting of the Society the nominating committee of which Zelma Talmage Kyle, '17Ba, was chairman, nominated the following for three-year terms on the Board of Directors: Carroll Brown Quaintance, '24Bs, Cranford, New Jersey (to succeed himself); James Moody Robertson, '29Bs, Norfolk; McLain Tuggle O'Ferrall, '29Bs, Richmond; and Samuel Burt Robbins, Jr., '42Ba, Jamestown, New York. The following were nominated from the floor: Arthur Briggs Hanson, '39Ba-40L, Washington, D. C.; Jacqueline Fowlkes (Herod), '43Bs, Charlottesville; Milton Greenblatt, '43Ba, Waterbury, Connecticut; Edward Nelson Islin, '25Bs, Hilton Village; and Alva Ray Simmons, '27Bs, Baltimore, Maryland.

In the balloting which followed, Quaintance and Islin were re-elected and Mrs. Herod was elected to succeed Simmons.

Due to the resignation from the Board of Mary Wilson Carver (Sale), '44Ba, Charleston, West Virginia, nominations from the floor were received to complete the remaining year of her unexpired term. Greenblatt, Robertson and O'Ferrall were again placed in nomination, along with Margaret Hull Mitchell (Mollenkopf), '41Bs, Princeton, New Jersey. Greenblatt was elected.

At an organization meeting of the Board later in the day, all officers were re-elected: Vernon Meredith Geddy, '17Ba, president; Quaintance, vice president; and, Islin, secretary-treasurer.

ELECTION CHANGE DELAYED

The proposed amendments to the charter and by-laws of the Society to provide for the election of directors by mail ballot was not acted upon because there was not a sufficient number of members represented in person or by proxy. In view of the fact that over 600 members had indicated approval of the amendments by submitting proxies, it was determined to adjourn the annual meeting to meet again on Homecoming Day, October 30th, by which time it was expected a sufficient number of proxies will have been received to adopt the amendments.

President Geddy, in his annual report, told the members that the Board had authorized the appointment of a committee to study and make recommendations for coordinating fund raising efforts at the College which might relieve duplicate solicitations now in operation.

Mr. Geddy also reported that the Board had adopted a resolution asking the College to name a building in Williamsburg or Norfolk in memory of the late Robert Morton Hughes, '73Ba, former rector of the Board of Visitors and College benefactor. This resolution was unanimously endorsed by the Society.

Society President Geddy and Henry Billups hold scroll presented the latter on Alumni Day.

BILLUPS RECEIVES SCROLL

Escorted by three of his "old boys": Joseph Chambers Bristow, '04, Charles Albert Taylor, Jr., '09Ba, and Robert Wesley Corstaphney, Jr., '27Ba, the College's much beloved Henry Billups ascended the rostrum at the annual meeting and received from Mr. Geddy an illuminated scroll in testimony of the appreciation and affection held for Henry by the alumni during the sixty years that he has progressed from college employee to college tradition. Henry, an orator in his own right, responded briefly and declared he was proud of "all my boys" and that "one of my boys is now Governor of Virginia (Governor Tuck) and before I die I want to see one of my boys President of the United States and then I'll be satisfied."

THE CHARTER

A copy of the rare 1758 edition of "The Charter, Transfer and Statutes of the College of William and Mary in Virginia" was presented to the College Library on Alumni Day in June by Dr. Walter Edward Vest, '02Ba, Huntington, West Virginia, past president of the Society of Alumni.

Before the discovery of this copy, which Dr. Vest acquired from a rare book dealer in Chicago, there were only five known copies, and none of these was in Virginia.

This edition of "The Charter" is printed in Latin and English by William Hunter of Williamsburg. Hunter succeeded to the business of William Parks, first editor of the "Virginia Gazette," who printed "The Charter and Statutes" in 1736.

The Board of Visitors directed the printing of a new edition with the addition of "The Transfer" in 1752 and the book came from the press in 1758. It is an octavo volume of 164 pages bound in the original calf.

REUNIONS AND GIFTS

The classes of 1938 and 1943 held tenth and fifth year reunions. The 1938 group met for breakfast at Williamsburg Lodge while 1943 held a picnic supper at the shelter on Lake Matoaka. At the alumni luncheon both classes presented reunion gifts to the College, the 1938 gift being designated for scholarships in memory of members of the Class lost in World War II and the 1943 gift was specified for the purchase of books for the Library.

The June Ball, for the first time, was held on the stage of the new amphitheater on the shore of Lake Matoaka. Claude Thornhill and his band played for the dances and concert over the finals week end.

HOMECOMING OCTOBER 30

Clear Weather and Victory Over Richmond Scheduled

By the law of averages, if for no other reason, 1948 annual Homecoming celebration should be greeted with something approaching favorable weather. The past two Homecomings will be remembered for the deluge which all but eliminated the annual parade of student floats and the picnic luncheon. William S. "Pappy" Gooch, Business Manager of Athletics, has never permitted rain for the Richmond game on Thanksgiving days. Now that William and Mary is to play Richmond in Williamsburg, there is much reliance on the Gooch luck!

The first formal dance of the College year will inaugurate the Homecoming program on Friday evening, October 29. On Saturday morning the program will get under way with the parade of student floats on Duke of Gloucester Street commencing at 9:30 a.m.

Immediately following the parade, at approximately 11 o'clock, the adjourned business meeting of the Society will be held in Phi Beta Kappa hall for the purpose of acting upon the proposed amendments to the charter and the by-laws of the Society which, if enacted, will provide for the election of Society directors by mail ballot. Proxies have been mailed to the membership in order that those who favor the proposed amendments may vote upon them should they be unable to attend.

The Brunswick stew picnic luncheon is scheduled for twelve o'clock noon at The Wanigan on Lake Matoaka. Tickets for the luncheon may be purchased at the Alumni Office at the time of registration or at the entrance to Matoaka Park.

The game with the University of Richmond, which begins at 2 p.m., will have more than usual interest. Richmond is expected to field a better team than it has had in recent years, and the natural interest in the game with the College's oldest rival will be implemented by the fact that the game is being played in Williamsburg for the first time in over a quarter century.

Honored guests at the game, as well as throughout the day, will be the football team of 1908, which defeated Richmond 21 to 18. Charles A. Taylor, Jr., '09Ba, formerly Executive Secretary of the Society of the Alumni and Captain of the 1908 team, will lead his teammates onto the field to special seats being provided for them along the sidelines.

The new Alumni Office in The Brafferton will be open at 8:00 a.m. for registration. It will remain open until the luncheon and alumni are cordially invited to visit the new offices, as well as to make themselves at home in the newly decorated lounge also in The Brafferton.

BALDWIN RETURNS FROM YEAR IN LIBERIA

Biology Professor Member of Government Economic Mission

John T. Baldwin, Jr., '32Ba, Professor of Biology at the College, returned recently from a trip to Liberia on which he served as a member of a State Department Economic Mission sent to the "Black Republic" in an effort to make recommendations for the development of the resources of the country. The group consisted of specialists in several different fields . . . engineering, forestry, agriculture . . . whose job it was to study the problems and possibilities of development. Baldwin's particular task as horticulturist was to evaluate the agricultural potentials of the area. His findings, along with those of the other members of the commission, will be used in shaping a course for foreign investment, without which Liberia cannot grow in stature. The only sizable business venture in the country at present is the vast Firestone rubber plantations, although a group of influential Americans recently formed a company for the purpose of developing the country.

Liberia itself, roughly the size of Ohio, hilly in part and heavily vegetated, has a population probably not exceeding 800,000. Entirely Negro, it was created by Americans about a century ago around a nucleus of repatriated slaves who were settled along the coast. Their descendants, the only educated group in the area, form the ruling class. They number about 10,000 individuals. The vast majority of the inhabitants are natives, who live in the interior and have a long-established tribal culture.

Monrovia, the capital, was the base of operations for the mission, and from there Baldwin started on his several field trips. Since there are only 500 miles of roads in the region and 300 of them are on the Firestone plantations, Baldwin had to cover the country on foot, following the paths which, worn by thousands of feet during the centuries, form a network over the entire area. He remarked that the notable thing about these age-old trails is that they never seem to go around a hill. Instead, the paths go straight up one side and straight down the other.

On his trips, he traveled with about ten or twelve natives who carried food, bedding, equipment, and specimens. Most of the streams had to be forded, but at a very few he found swinging bridges built of vines. Covering from 15 to 35 miles each day, he collected plant specimens and made his observations, stopping at night in native villages. The people were extremely hospitable and at each settlement he was given the use of the "palaver" hut, a kind of visitor's kitchen. If the village had no such hut, he would pick out the cleanest native dwelling, and, upon indicating his choice, the natives would vacate it for him. Then the local bigwig would come with food . . . chicken, eggs, and rice. This is what, in the pidgin English of the country, was known as a "dash." The "dash" was given with the clear understanding by both parties that the "dashee" would in turn "dash" the "dasher." For his end of the bargain, Baldwin would give tobacco or shotgun shells, both highly prized commodities among the natives. He had no trouble making himself understood for, although there are a score or more of tribal dialects, each village usually had at least one member who at one time or another had worked on the Firestone plantations and thereby picked up knowledge of pidgin English.

Back at the College J. T. Baldwin, Jr. adds a specimen of rubber from the Firestone Plantations in Liberia to the collection of Hevea—genus of this tree—which he assembled by two years of work throughout the greater part of the Amazon Valley. This material will be used in writing a monograph on the genus.

Although Liberia had acquired the tag "White Man's Grave" during the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries, Baldwin found it to be a misnomer. With up-to-date medical precautions and inoculations, diseases are not to be feared. Even the equatorial climate was better than had been anticipated. Baldwin stated frankly that the actual temperature was not quite as high as that of Williamsburg during the summer, but that other factors must be considered in making a comparison.

Having made about 6,000 collections (15,000 to 20,000 specimens) of plants on his fifteen-month visit, Baldwin has, in addition to his government work, performed a sizable task in the botanical field. At present in the midst of sorting and classifying his staggering assortment, he is helping to add to the sum total of knowledge about the vegetation of Africa.

Of the object of the mission, his opinion is that there exist tremendous possibilities for the development of the natural resources of Liberia provided proper direction and guidance are forthcoming. It has distinct geological assets in the form of gold, iron ore, and diamonds, and its soil is extremely fertile.

When asked whether he'd like to return to Liberia, Baldwin said that, as a scientist, he'd prefer to go to some region new to him. A visit is more interesting the first time.

Four of 1947 Squad Enter Pro Football Ranks

Four of Coach Rube McCray's 1947 Indians turned to the business of professional football after completing their periods of eligibility at William and Mary.

Knox Ramsey, the Tribe's swift All-Southern guard of last year, has joined the ranks of the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Conference, while Ralph Sazio, tackle and co-captain of the Conference champions of '47, went with Carl Voyles and the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Richmond Rebels claimed End Marvin Graham and Guard Steve Chipok. Both were William and Mary reserves last season.

Stan Magdziak and Tom Mikula, two of McCray's backfield stars of the 1947 campaign, trained with professional clubs but later elected to return to school.

Magdziak was on the roster of the Cleveland Browns, but is back on the William and Mary campus to continue his studies. Mikula played several games for Voyles at Brooklyn before he asked for a release which would enable him to do graduate work at Columbia.

ALUMNI NEWS

1874 John Peyton Little, Jr., '74Ba, the College's oldest alumnus, on August 11, celebrated his 94th birthday by devoting a full day to his profession—surveying. Said Mr. Little: "What's the difference? It's just another day. I'm not old, I've just lived a long time."

1875 Cary Breckinridge Wilmer, '75Ba, the College's second oldest alumnus, on June 2, celebrated his 89th birthday by continuing to write on scientific, philosophic and theological themes.

1896 The official history of San Juan, Puerto Rico has been dedicated to Colonel John Womack Wright, '96x-'47H, as a tribute for the work he did in rebuilding old fortifications and other buildings in the country.

1907 Dr. George Geddy Hankins, '07, has been elected president of the Peninsula (Virginia) Academy of Medicine.

1909 Vice Admiral John Lesslie Hall, Jr., '09Bs, the College's highest ranking naval officer, became commandant of the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, in July. He had formerly been commandant of the 14th Naval District with headquarters at Pearl Harbor.

1911 William Byrd Lee, Jr., '11, has become rector of Cople (Episcopal) Parish in Westmoreland County. An Army chaplain during World War I, he had recently been rector of a church in Auburn, Alabama.

1914 Walter Spencer Robertson, '14, a Richmond investment banker, has returned from Ethiopia where he represented Stettinius Associates in a contract to sponsor economic development in the country. Robertson has served in recent years as a member of the Lend-Lease Commission to Australia and as U. S. Minister and Economic Counselor with the American Embassy in China. He is a trustee of the William and Mary Endowment Association.

1917 Vernon Meredith Geddy, '17-Ba, in May, retired as executive vice president of Williamsburg Restoration, Inc., after 16 years association with the organization. He will serve the organization as counselor and adviser. In June, Geddy was appointed to the State Hospital Board for a four-year term, succeeding the late George P. Coleman, '92.

1920 Robert Henry Walker, '20Bs, received his M.A. degree at Columbia University and is a teacher of mathematics at Baltimore Polytechnic Institute.

1921 William Harvey Pride, '21Bs, is professor and head of the biology department at Arkansas College, Batesville, Arkansas.

1922 Mary Purnell DuPuy, '22Bs, is a county welfare worker at Worsham.

1923 Helen R. Marks, '23Ba, is teaching at the Thomas Jefferson High School in Richmond.

1924 Robert A. Duncan, '24, has been elected president of the Peninsula Bank and Trust Co., Williamsburg, succeeding the late George P. Coleman, '92.

1925 Reuben F. Simms, '25, has just completed a term as district governor for Lions, International. He is a physician in Richmond.

1926 Ward R. Scull, '26, in March was elected president of the Peninsula Association of Commerce and, in April, elected to the board of directors of the Mayflower Warehousemen's Association. He is owner and manager of the Virginia Transfer and Storage Company, Newport News.

1927 Frank O. Birdsall, '27Ba, is business manager of the Woodrow Wilson Veterans' Rehabilitation Center, Staunton.

Stella Nelson, '27Ba, who has been listed as "unlocated," has been found at Alderson, West Virginia where she is a teacher in the local high school.

Samuel Edward Nicholson, '27Bs, is general sales and servicing manager in the Baltimore office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co.

1928 Virginia Christian Farinholt, '28Ba, has received a permanent appointment as Commander, USNR. She was the first WAVE officer to receive a permanent appointment and promotion in the 5th Naval District. She received her Ph.D. degree from the University of Chicago in 1936.

1929 James Moody Robertson, '29Bs, has been named collector of customs at the port of Norfolk. A law graduate of the University of Virginia, Robertson has been a Norfolk attorney and served several terms in the House of Delegates from which he resigned to accept his new assignment.

1930 Joseph Henry Amiel, '30Ba, formerly modern language instructor at the College, is in Vienna, Austria, where he is directing N.C.W.C.'s Central European Relief Program. When in this country, he resides in New York City.

Laura Catherine Colvin, '30Ba, has been elected vice president of the division of cataloging and classification of the American Library Association and is president-elect for 1949-50.

Leroy Merrill Ober, '30, is beginning his tenth year as founder and instructor in the Virginia Institute of Effective Speaking, with classes in Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News. This work is Mr. Ober's hobby. Professionally, he is the Norfolk representative of the Connecticut General Life Insurance Co.

Elizabeth Harris Vaiden (Rehmann), '30Ba, has joined her husband in Japan. He is a lieutenant colonel in the Army.

1931 Priscilla Brett (Olson), '31Ba, is living in Hartford, Connecticut, and is working for her M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in psychology at the University of Connecticut, New Britain.

Alma Mae Clarke (Fontaine), '31Bs, is the first woman ever elected to the Mount Prospect (Illinois) school board. Mrs. Fontaine was one of the leading theater stars on campus in the early thirties.

1932 Vivian Oviatt Dreyer (Haesloop), '32Ba, left for Trieste in April and will remain a year.

Isabel Cranston Neilson, '32Ba, is secretary to the president of the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

Mary Thurman Pyle, '32Ba, has opened a school in Richmond for the teaching of English and the speech arts. She spent the last year at the College in the Library.

1933 Harold Lee Barnes, '33Bs, has been promoted to the permanent rank of lieutenant commander in USNR.

Ann Beth Garrett (Scott), '33Ba, lives at Annapolis, Maryland where her husband is an instructor in the Naval Academy. During the summer she lived at Martha's Vineyard, Massachusetts where she opened and ran a Laundrette for the Island.

John Roland Johnston, '33, is a member of the Pittsburgh law firm of Thorp, Bostwick, Reed and Armstrong. Jerry received his A.B. degree at Lafayette College and his law degree at the University of Pittsburgh.

1934 Elizabeth Burger, '34Bs-35M, has been chosen junior publicity chairman for the Virginia Club Woman. She is a professor of natural sciences at State Teachers College, Farmville. She was a member of the U. S. Field Hockey touring team to British Guiana.

Stanley Lee Hemingway, '34Bs, is coaching at the Harding High School, Bridgeport, Connecticut.

1935 Dorothy Bourne Baden (Eaton), '35, is working in fashion promotion with Charlotte Parker, 441 Madison Avenue, New York City.

1936 Jay Francis Simpson, '36Bs, has been named manager of the Armstrong Cork Company's Floor Division District Office in Detroit. Jay has been with the Armstrong organization since his graduation, and served as salesman until named to his present position.

1937 Secretary,
MARTHA FAIRCHILD (GLEDHILL)
R.F.D. 3, Bath, New York

The keys of my typewriter are dusted off after a summer of idleness. Now all I lack are a lot of letters from classmates to keep these old keys in tune.

A letter from Irwin A. Jaslow, M.D. states that he is now residing at 90 Hawthorn Street, New Bedford, Mass. He writes: "After an internship at St. Luke's Hospital I took postgraduate training in orthopaedic surgery in Orange, New Jersey; Detroit, Michigan; and in Sayre, Pa. I have been in practice doing orthopaedic surgery in New Bedford since March 1946 and was recently made a Diplomat of the American Board of Orthopaedic Surgery." That certainly is a wonderful record and we are all proud of you and very glad to hear from you again.

A card from Charles Penrose states that his new address is 67 Main Street, Potsdam, N. Y. where he is librarian of Clarkson College of Technology. That sounds like a grand position, Charles, and we wish you much success. We will be interested in hearing more from you.

Dorothy Pierce—now Mrs. Ralph Ladd—is librarian at Norfolk Division, W & M. Dorothy, can you urge other members in Norfolk to write to me? They are: Marguerite Blackwood, Irving Chapman, Harry Garrett, Margaret Galling, Nathan Jones, Virginia Jones, Frederick Kyle, Frank Livesay, Martha Madrey Healey, Margaret Reay, Frances Suber Martin, Robert Whitehead, Anne Whitehurst. Many thanks.

James B. Thompson advises that he is now Lt. JG, U.S.N., Legal Officer. He says: "We returned to the Mainland from Hawaii the last of May. Travelled by automobile through California, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Tennessee, to Virginia. Visited Roanoke, W&L and VMI in Lexington, travelled several hours along the Skyline Drive, came back through Charlottesville, stopping to see the campus at the U. of Va., then on to Richmond, Williamsburg—seeing W&M just a few days after Finals—, Jamestown & Yorktown, on to Portsmouth. Turning south, we enjoyed the restful mountain route through the Smokies to Asheville; thence to Atlanta, Jacksonville, Miami, and finally Key West." Jim is at the U.S. Naval Base, in Key West. It surely sounds like a wonderful trip. Keep in touch with us.

Florence Allen (McAnally) at last has been heard from—she lives in Guatemala City, has three children one of whom, she says, is a Yankee, one a Southerner, and one a Senorita. Susie was born in New York, Jeff in the Duke University hospital, and Dayle in Guatemala. Her husband, a graduate of Duke Medical School, is with the United States Public Health Service and is now Chief of the Caribbean Sector for the Pan American Sanitary Bureau. They are looking forward to returning to United States for good next year.

We have been doing a "Mr. Blanding" this summer redecorating the "farmhouse." It has been lots of hard work but much fun. The results have been wonderfully successful. As farmers we are a complete failure. Our one attempt to have a small vegetable garden was grim—the woodchucks have eaten it up completely and are the fattest, healthiest looking woodchucks in the whole valley. The deer are plentiful—so are the fox. Some kind soul informed me that bear "had been seen in those hills." At that point I lost interest in wildlife and hiking. I confine my activities to picnics in the back garden within running distance to

1938 Secretary,
ANNABEL HOPKINS (MITCHELL)
4 South Rogers St., Aberdeen, Md.

Here we are after a grand stay in Williamsburg, a delightful reunion breakfast at the Lodge for our class (where were most of you?) and perfect weather for finals. Our class president, Horace Dyer, did a noble job contacting all our class and arranging the breakfast on Saturday, June 5th. We certainly owe him a vote of thanks. Dr. Pomfret was our honor guest and gave an informal talk which brought us up to date on happenings at William and Mary since our graduation.

We held a class meeting at which it was voted to apply our reunion gift to the Memorial Scholarship Fund. This check was presented by Horace at the Alumni Luncheon. At the meeting it was announced that Ed McConomy, our secretary, had resigned because of the pressure of his duties at the Library of Congress. I was elected to the job and if you will all help me by sending news of your activities, I will try to have a letter in every issue of the GAZETTE.

Those who attended the class breakfast were Horace G. Dyer and Mrs. Dyer, Mildred Albee (Babb), Martha Virginia (Pete) Moreland (Thomas), Jane Speakman (MacPherson) and Mac, Mollie Waters (Christie) and Mr. Christie, Helene Stein (Brandon) and Mr. Brandon, Frances (Billie) Nenzel (Ash) and Mr. Ash, John Wesley Hobbs and Mrs. Hobbs, Annabel Hopkins (Mitchell), and Harvey Schuler.

From the questionnaires that Horace sent you, I have been able to obtain the following news:

Dorothy Ann Herron was unable to attend the reunion because she received a Master's degree at the University of North Carolina that same week end.

Charlotte Daughtrey (Foster) is living at 117 Bellamy Ave., Norfolk. She is the proud mother of two children, ages 5 and 3.

Russell Haynie is the safety and human relations engineer for the Trailway Bus Co. and lives in Charlottesville, Va.

Martha (Pete) Moreland (Thomas) is Army Ground Force librarian at Ft. Monroe, Va.

Ruth Eleanor Otis (Testa) has two children, Michael, six, and Mary Eleanor, two. Eleanor has been assistant in a morning nursery school.

Ruth Muriel Perrine (Partrea) lives in Norfolk and has a daughter 5½ and a baby boy, Robert Bradford, born July 13. The Partreas both have magic as a hobby and often do shows for parties and conventions. During the war they entertained at the hospitals and camps.

Joan Eileen Thompson (Hicks) lives at 33 Swan St., Aberdeen, Maryland and has two boys, Bruce Randolph and James Latham, 4½ and 2½. I see Joan frequently because we attend the same church and our boys are in the same Sunday school class. She had me over to tea one afternoon in June to see Dean Landrum, who was visiting her niece in Aberdeen. It was grand to see her again and reminisce. (I still can't get used to calling her anything but "Dean" Landrum!)

Eleanor Spotswood Turner (Hankins) has a two-year-old son, Ricky, and lives at 1202 Park Ave, Richmond, Va. now.

Margaret Vaden (Bouldin) lives in Winston-Salem, N. C. where her husband is cashier of a bank. They have two sons—Edwin, Jr., 7½ and Robert Vaden, 3. She is a member of the Junior League there.

In a thank you note for a wedding present, Dottie Kincaid (Portz) told me that her husband, Woody, is a graduate of Ohio State and is a patent attorney for American Viscose Corporation at Marcus Hook. They have an apartment at Claymont Gardens, Apt. 311-E-5, Claymont, Del. Dot says she is keeping house and loving it.

Mildred Albee (Babb) and family left Pensacola, Fla. the first of April, visited in Hampton and Winchester, Va., then went to Elizabeth, N. J. for several months, and now are back in Pensacola. Her new address is 544 South First Street, Warrington, Pensacola, Fla. While in New Jersey, Mildred tried to contact several of the Class of '38 for me. She and Helene Stein managed to get together, and she had a letter from Sue Thompson (Wanstall) who was spending the summer on Cape Cod. Sue has a son, "Chipper," who is seven. Mildred also heard from Verna Saunders (Harwood) who wrote that she had intended to be at the reunion but one of her sons became sick right about then.

Hester White finished a postgraduate course in Medical Records at Graduate Hospital, University of Pennsylvania on Sept. 1.

That is all the news this time. Many thanks to those of you who helped by writing each other and forwarding the news to me. I have been on the Eastern Shore all summer with my husband and two boys, Ryland, 5, and Wylie, 2. My husband is busy canning shoepeg and golden bantam corn so we stay here for the canning season. We are planning to be in Williamsburg Oct. 30 for Homecoming Day, and I hope to see many of you then. Don't forget there's an Alumni meeting that morning.

1939 Secretary, FRANCES L. GRODECOUR

September again and so many things reminding me of Williamsburg—we should be making our plans for the 10th reunion. Any ideas you have for a successful get-together (and for getting all of us there) will be most welcomed—let's hear from you.

Armina E. Crosby is now Asst. Acquisitions Librarian, Cornell University. Her address is Pleasant Street, Dryden, New York.

James H. Bailey will be instructor in history at Mount Saint Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Md., as of September.

Frances Kemp is Councilor for the Wesley Memorial Hospital, School of Nursing. Her address: Hampshire House, 201 East Delaware Place, Chicago (11), Ill.

The following item appeared in the Virginia Gazette, May 14, 1948—"Mrs. Fred R. Savage and son, Thomas D. Savage, have agreed to purchase the F. U. Robinson Insurance Agency and will occupy the offices over the A&P store in Williamsburg. Thomas Savage has been in Roanoke, since 1946, with S. E. Messingill Co. Before that, he was associated in Newport News with the Fire Company's Adjustment Bureau, an organization which investigates and adjusts fire damage claims." Good luck, Tom—you can corner us for a policy at the big '49 reunion.

John Lesley Stone received the Duke University Bachelor of Divinity Degree at ceremonies held in Durham, North Carolina, June 7, 1948.

Moss Armistead came through in June with his first letter to this news-hungry secretary (you, too, can write your first letter, note, card or scrap of paper, making your classmates very happy people). When he left William and Mary back in the dark ages (1939) he went on to Carnegie Institute of Technology, where he received his chemical engineering degree in 1941. Tony Wagener and Stewart Cotterman were there with him. (You three should see Pittsburgh now that we have smoke abatement—there are days when you can really see it!) In July, 1941, Moss accepted a position of Junior Research Chemist with the Shell Oil Co. in Houston, Texas, and has been with that company ever since, holding various positions. He is now in the Economics and Scheduling Dept. of the refinery, and has received his Professional Engineer's license. His address is 1209 Richard St., Pasadena, Texas—and would like news of Stewart and Elsie Cotterman.

First letter, too, from Mary Comstock (Hastings) (and she answered the Any News slip, too). In addition to keeping house and watching over three children (two boys and a girl), Mary has been doing a lot of technical writing and editing for her husband who began his own electronic research company (Hastings Instrument Company, Inc.) several years ago and is doing development work under contract with the Army and Navy as well as general instrument manufacturing. She writes further, "We saw Neoma Bunting in New York in January, she is married and working for the U. S. Engineers. Barbara Brown is with the editorial staff of the National Advisory Committee on Aeronautics at Langley Field, Virginia. We see Norma Petillo (Taylor) and her husband occasionally. She is living in Hague, Virginia, where she has a job as education supervisor for several counties." Mary's address is 117 Hampton Roads Ave., Hampton, Virginia.

Had a wonderful vacation at Miami Beach, Florida, in June, spending a few days with Betty Roberts (Edwards). She, her husband (Dr. William Edwards), and two girls live in a strictly modern home at Ft. Lauderdale.

Let's all aim for that '49 reunion.

1940 Secretary, ROSA ELLIS (LONG)

Bishop of Dallas. Alfred is an administrative assistant in the diocese in charge of development of the Cathedral School for Boys at Dallas.

John S. Hudson received his degree of Master of Science in Public Administration at Ohio State University on March 19, 1948.

Arch K. Meserole is now an osteopathic physician having graduated from the four-year course at the Philadelphia College of Osteopathy and three years of surgical residency at Lancaster Osteopathic Hospital. He is living and practicing at 134 College Ave., Lancaster, Pa. Arch married in 1945 and has one son, Donald Craig, who is two years old. You picked a wonderful career, Arch!

Robert I. Lansburgh has moved to New York City and is now a buyer with Charles Stores Co., Inc., 370 7th Ave., N.Y.C. We will look for you when we shop in the Big City, Bob.

Harry L. Gebauer has been appointed aluminum manager for the Hamilton Steel Co. in Cleveland and writes that he would like to see some alumni in Cleveland.

Robert J. Klein wrote a long and interesting letter to us last May to tell us that he is already looking forward to the Tenth Reunion of our class in 1950! He is working in accounting in Florham Park, New Jersey. Among the alumni he has seen recently are Fran Seymour who lives in Florham Park, Davey Jones who was leaving a theater in Morristown, and Bob Kern who became a father the night he was with Robert. Thanks for your letter, Bob. See you in Williamsburg in 1950!

Ann Seward (Allen) has just moved to 5031 Pacific Ave., Long Beach 5, California, where her husband has been transferred to the staff of Service Squadron One. They left Arlington on June 11 and had a good trip west by way of Yellowstone, Bryer, and Zion National Parks with their two-year-old son, Bill.

Lillian Waymack (Amburgey) writes that they had no vacation since she is in a new job with Thalhimers in Richmond and Bill was attending summer school at the University of Richmond, but they are planning to attend Homecoming and are looking forward to seeing all of us.

Marie Harris (Young) writes that she and George still adore their little neighborly street in New Rochelle, and she keeps busy chasing their daughter, Linda. Marie says she is turning into a real politician and is secretary of the League of Women Voters. George is on the go keeping up with the Marshall Field mills in North Carolina and Illinois.

Jayne Magee (Lillicrapp) has her hands full with her two daughters and the Easton, Pa., School Board.

Our seagoing classmate, Lt. Comdr. Paul J. Post has left Newport, R. I., and reported aboard the USS Sabine a Fleet Tanker at San Diego on June 17. He left that port and went to San Pedro, Pearl Harbor and Yokosuka before heading for the Persian Gulf. Paul hopes to get back to the States in January for a month's relaxation, but today he is probably in Hong Kong.

I know that summer is drawing to a close whenever the deadline for the first GAZETTE issue rolls around, for it's about the only thing I have to do any more which involves a seasonal time limit (barring spring housecleaning). California living makes one a trifle lazy I fear, for days roll into months, and months into years without much awareness from the inhabitant.

In April I had a phone call from Ginny Tripp (Keeney). She and her husband, Dr. Art Keeney, were spending the night at Bill and Pat Howard (Parry's) in Santa Monica. They were just back from Korea. Ginny was there for 1½ years and Art for 2. He was just discharged from the army and they were taking in California in their jeep before going back east. Art is going to take three more years of specializing in Philadelphia before practicing.

Had a card from Jean Ross (O'Brien) with a change of address: 416 A Longstreet Road, Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Mo. She said that her husband Stewart was in the middle of his next to last set of exams and then he'd be a lawyer. Lucky Jean was planning on going back to Williamsburg over Labor Day week end.

I was sorry to hear that Alyse Tyler had resigned her duties with the Alumni Office. I'm sure we'll all miss her friendly face whenever we put in our appearance at the Alumni Office.

Thomas "Mac" Moncure has elected to add his name to our class (his original class year) after having been graduated this June.

Terry Teal sends a beautiful postcard from picturesque Quebec with the following, "The vacation this time brings me to the isle d'Orleans near Quebec where we're having a great time absorbing 'old world' atmosphere and trying to understand French."

Another pretty card, this time from Alice Walton (Swift) who wrote from Havana, Cuba, "Bill and I are here in Havana celebrating our second wedding anniversary. It doesn't seem possible that it's been six years since we graduated, does it?" (Nope, it doesn't!)

the rank of bachelors to join the married group. Hunt received his Master of Science degree in May from the University of New Hampshire.

Ginny Gould (Schwenke) wrote a nice long letter. She, her husband and little boy Roger, age 3½, have been living in Quantico at the Marine Barracks for a little over a year after almost a year's duty in Pearl Harbor. Ginny said that she has managed to see several W & M people since she's been there. "Jean McEldowney (Respass) and Benny and their two children live in Alexandria. Jean and I had lunch with Babs Pogue (Preston) several months back at Bab's home in Washington. Then a few months ago saw Louise Weaver (Reiss), and Shirley Sheain (Battison) in Fredericksburg. Louise lives in New York and is keeping very busy doing ninety different things as usual. Shirley and Bill are now living in Washington, D. C. where Bill is stationed. Saw Marie Rietz (Masters) and Harlie in Richmond with their two daughters." Thanks, Ginny!

Charlotte Mooers (Stevens) writes that they have but one year yet to live in Rochester, Minnesota where her husband Ed is studying at the Mayo Clinic before they return east where he will start his practice.

Norman B. Funsten is working as a television field representative for the Philco Corporation in Philadelphia.

A clipping from the Richmond News Leader tells that Jim Hickey has been made John Marshall High School's new head coach of football. "Hickey, who has served as backfield coach in football and head coach of basketball since 1946, succeeds Newell (Red) Irwin, who goes to the University of Richmond next Fall as end coach under Dick Esleeck." It also said that Bill Goodlow who handled the line-coaching duties for the Justice football squad last season, will take over as head track coach next year. Goodlow also directed the John Marshall baseball team this Spring.

An envelope and letter within with the largest printed heading I've ever seen arrived from Sam Robbins. Sam explained it, however, saying, "Bob and I have sold our Paint and Glass company (all but 25% of it) and have embarked on another venture. We now own a Box and Label Corporation (T. James Clarke Box and Label Works, Inc.) here in Jamestown, New York. So the next time you get a pill box or a powder box, etc. from a drug store, there is a good chance it is one of our boxes. We are one of 6 or 7 manufacturers of this item in the whole country and we have customers all over the United States. We do concentrate in the East however. It is a very interesting business and we make all of the boxes by automatic machines. If you want to see how pill, drug, powder or capsule boxes are made, come out and visit us. We also have a printing plant for the manufacture of labels, stationery, business forms, etc. It is quite a complicated business. Bob is the Production Manager and I presume you could call me the General Manager as I have charge of the sales representatives, the general offices, and mostly administrative duties. Well, that's enough about what we have been doing." (You can pay me later for that plug, boys!!) Sam said that both he and Bob hoped to be in Williamsburg for Homecoming. Good luck on your new venture!

Meg Eaton (Cattrall) writes that she and her husband have found a lovely little apartment in Pitman, N. J. and are busy getting the place fixed up. Meg said that her husband Tom has his professional chemical engineering degree from Columbia and is working at the Socony-Vacuum Research labs where Meg is also working.

Margaret Kelly (Dunham) writes that she and her husband have bought a 5-room bungalow in the country with ¾ of an acre of land. Margaret says that it is 21 years old, and has four white pillars on the front porch and it reminded them of good ole Virginny, so they decided to take it the minute they saw it. She said she wanted everyone to come see them at 247 Sumner St., Stoughton, Mass. Margaret said that her husband Louis was teaching electricity and electronics at Franklin Technical Institute in Boston and that she was planning to find a job nearby.

Trudi Green, lawyer, will be Trudi Brown, housewife, by the time the GAZETTE comes out. Trudi will be living in Short Beach, Connecticut outside of New Haven along the Sound while her husband is taking graduate work in languages at Yale and also working as a reporter on a New Haven paper until his appointment into the Consular Service comes from the State Department. Trudi said . . . "It seems fitting for one to change from 'Green' to 'Brown' in the fall!" Pretty cute, Trudi!

Received the cutest birth announcement I've ever seen from Gerry Koteen (Koretz) upon the arrival of her daughter, Mary Elizabeth. Wish you all could see it. On the front there was a coat of arms consisting of such things as safety pins, rattle, bottle, clock, sun and moon, diaper, buggy and crown arranged in a very artistic design. Above this were the Latin words "Semper Cum Aqua." (Funny, if you remember your Latin!)

Had a card from Claire Hulcher who was vacationing in New England.

Ed Fisher sent some clippings about the feats of our famous Vic Raschi, New York Yankee pitcher. No doubt all of us read or heard over the radio how Vic practically won the All Star game single-handed.

Nothing too new with the Willoughbys. Our little daughter is the most progressive of the lot and has now reached the cute age of 2½. The summer has been filled with treks to the beach, a few to the mountains and many barbecues. Some of our nicest have been with Ruth Rapp (Thayer), her husband Bob, and 3½-year-old son.

Next deadline Nov. 5—catch it if you can!

Best of luck.

Another year with the ALUMNI GAZETTE rolls around and I shall get right down to news.

First of all, though, perhaps you'd like to hear a little about our reunion. After talking it up as best I could for a year, I, for one, was a little disappointed that there were so many, who didn't make it! Next time, which I hope to make on the occasion of our tenth anniversary, perhaps I'll do a better job of rounding people up. In spite of the small number—roughly twenty-five—present, those of us who did make it seemed to have an elegant time. We proudly displayed our '43 name tags all day Saturday (Alumni Day), attended the alumni meeting, had lunch with alums from all other classes, at which time our class gift was presented, and gathered at the shelter for an informal coke and hamburger snack after the concert Saturday afternoon. Of course, there were the usual "old pal" gatherings and we also enjoyed the dances and other festivities of a Finals week end. There were a number of reunioners back whom I hadn't seen in years—all in all, I certainly wasn't 100 disappointed. Honors went to Rux Birnie and Paul Couch, I suppose, for having come the greatest distance, though "Buster" Ramsey, a traveling man, covered considerable territory to get back too.

A total of sixty-six members of the class contributed to the gift, which amounted to three hundred and twenty-six dollars. A check was presented to Dr. Pomfret with the request that it be turned over to the Librarian. You will be interested in the following letter from Dr. Pomfret:

"I want to express in writing the gratitude of the College to the members of the Class of 1943 for your fifth anniversary gift of $326.00. The money will be used by the Library for some needful and worthy purpose. Mr. Land, the Librarian, told me that he would consult with you about expending the money.

"My only regret is that all those who contributed to this magnificent gift could not be present with us on the occasion of the presentation. Such happenings as this are of tremendous encouragement to the College. With best wishes."

Bob Land and I exchanged several letters about the use of the money by the Library and we decided to purchase the first 27 volumes of the great French bibliography, BIBLIOTHEQUE NATIONALE, CATALOGUE GENERAL DES LIVRES IMPRIMES: AUTEURS. This bibliography was described on page 11 of the May 1948 ALUMNI GAZETTE. To quote only a paragraph from one of Bob's letters: "I wish to say again how much I appreciate the gift to the Library of the Class of 1943. I appreciate also your willingness to have this fund spent at my discretion. It is of great aid to me to have funds for special projects that are available in this manner. . . ."

I believe that from these letters we can see the genuine gratitude of the College for our small expression of continued interest and that you share with me a feeling of real pride in being able to make a contribution to the College which will be of lasting benefit.

Before getting to news items, let me remind you to send in your proxy if you do not expect to be present at the adjourned meeting of the Society on Homecoming Day. The proxy has been mailed to you from the Alumni Office, so please sign it and return it to that office immediately. This is just another small way in which we can support the College.

Sally Kyger (Richardson) writes from Raymondville, Texas, that their little Susan is growing by leaps and bounds and is red-headed as ever! Her husband, who is minister of the Presbyterian church there, is quite busy with the building of a new church. Our best wishes to them.

Dyck Vermilye notifies us of a change of address. He is presently residing at 11 West 101 Street, Sharks Village, Orangeburg, New York. A long letter from Tom Miller says that he has been with the State Department for over a year, and is with the Code Department. He likes it too, graveyard shift and all! That carries me back to my cryptography days. Tom says he hopes to land foreign service before too long. His address is: 4104 N. Fourth Street, Arlington, Virginia. Incidentally, Tom wants to hear from Dyke and Sally Vermilye, Toni Manzi, and Betty Smith! ! !

Dick Thomas sends his best to everyone from Detroit (4800 Newport, Apt. 8). Jeanne Wolf (Theen) gave up her position as Registrar of Alton High School in Illinois in June, but she didn't say what her plans thereafter would be. She had a scheduled trip for Williamsburg during the summer. Harry Kent is teaching physics at The Citadel Military College, is secretary-treasurer of the Canady Construction Company, and during the summer (while on vacation from teaching) was assistant camp director at the Boy Scout Camp near Charleston, South Carolina. His address in Charleston is 104 Darlington Avenue.

Anne Zepht (Stone) is living at 10-A Elizabeth Road, Hampton, Virginia. A grand letter from Sis Jerry (Vassar) brings us up to date with her busy days. Sis is married again and her husband has been attending Champlain College but expects to go back into the Army. They have a little girl, Lee, and Jerry is no longer "little," but "a big girl, now"! Sis and the children visited Mrs. Fields during the summer and seemed to have had a grand trip. She saw Kitty Jones (Ray) not too long ago, and says that Kitty has a little boy, Tod. From Sis, I also hear that Tex Schick (Fay) has a son, Bruce. Surely would like to hear from those girls! Howard Fiery, a married man now, is in the contracting business. Sis saw Howard and his wife, Geneva, on her trip.

Virginia Curtis (Patterson) has had a busy year with little Shannon while husband Joe was at sea on two long cruises. She says that her apartment resembles a gift shop, with all the things Joe had sent home from the many countries he'd visited. She looks forward to the promised two years of shore duty. Her trip to Canada, and the Chateau Frontenac sounds enviable.

I'm sure all of us are following Buster Ramsey's career with interest. Buster has instructed me to pass along the word that he can get tickets for the Chicago Cardinals games, should any of you be in the vicinity of their games! He's really anxious to see W & M people in his travels. I suppose many of you listened in on the Cardinals-All Star game in August and heard the announcer describe Buster's contributions to the Cardinals' victory. Harvey Johnson is playing pro-ball too, you know, and at the time of this writing he has just kicked his forty-eighth consecutive extra point.

Nan McClellan (James) was moved again (via Army channels) in August, so I'm hoping she'll let us know her new location. Thanks to Mrs. Costenbader, we are up to date with Liz Costenbader (Bellis) at long last. Liz's mother wrote me all about the wedding and tells us that Liz and Jack are living at 48 Boylston Street, 7 Drayton Hall, Cambridge, Massachusetts, where Jack is a first year student in the College of Medicine at Harvard and Liz is doing some sort of analysis work for the University. Besides housekeeping and her job, Liz must stay busy with two night classes at Boston U. in abnormal psychology.

Bill Lugar, too, is up to date now with us. He was called into the Army in '43 and served with the parachute infantry overseas, seeing action across the Rhine. He was discharged in November '45, and returned to W. & M. where he completed his degree in August, '46. He was with the State Corporation Commission for a while, but is now with the C. & P. Telephone Company in the Traffic Department. Bill and Jean have a little blonde, blue-eyed daughter—Suzanne. His address is 3920 Park Avenue, Richmond.

Ginny Knerr (Smith) had a real W. and M. tea party back in the spring with a good attendance, including Phyllis Hantz (Wolf) of our class. She also told me about attending the Philadelphia Alumni chapter meeting at which Dean Lambert was guest speaker. She said he really brought the college close-to-home again, but confessed that "in spite of what he said, I think we had better times when we were there."

I was sorry to hear that Helen Black (Truesdell) had an illness last year but she seems to be fine now. Bob has been transferred to the Pittsburgh territory and they expected to move up there from Lenoir, North Carolina. A recent letter from Mimi Boone (Zunich) says that she sees Helen quite often, so apparently Helen did move. Mimi (503 East Eleventh Avenue, Tarentum, Pa.) has a little boy now, and she took him on a trip with her to San Diego in September—by plane.

Margaret Langfitt tells us that Helen Foster (Hudgins) is living in Norfolk—quite settled, too, with two children. When Jane Enberg (Kindel) wrote to tell me about her little son's arrival, she said that Margaret Wrenn (Kennedy) is living in Boulder, Colorado now. Bille was a dietician with the Army, stationed overseas, during the war. Jane's address is 1635 E. 13th Avenue, Denver, Colorado.

A card from Marion Smith (Turner) finds her enjoying a wonderful summer with lots of swimming, sailing, golf, and canning. Her six-year-old stepson not only is grand company for her but keeps her busy. They've bought a house, car and a home freezer! Really sounds exciting, doesn't it?

James Fleming has a second son. He's now teaching in a private school in San Francisco. Jim really travels: first, it was New England, then Arizona last winter—now it's the west coast! Guy Moates has moved to Los Angeles where he is with the Amercoat Division, American Pipe and Construction Company. His address is 727 W. 117th Street.

Of interest to all of us was the announcement of the winners of the Virginia Trust Company's annual will draftsmanship contest, listing Ira Dworkin and Francis Clark as recipients of fifty-dollar awards. Congratulations! Mary Louise Morton received the Bachelor of Fine Arts degree from the University of Pennsylvania in June.

Francis Clark has been practicing law in Franklin, Virginia since June. His address is 511 Chestnut Street. Bob Faulconer has been appointed Fellow in Gynecology, Johns Hopkins University, for 1948-49, and Bradford Dunham has won a Sheldon Fellowship to travel abroad during the coming year. He is to study under J. H. Woodger in England for a time and, according to my source, his study will involve the search for further applications of logic to science.

New additions to our class roster, as the result of their completion of degrees in February and June, are Richard William Adams, Alexander Ruxton Birnie, Joseph Ernest Sandlin, and Frank Hubbard Stevens, Jr. "Welcome home, boys"!

Cecy and Scotty Cunningham have found a house—and in Williamsburg, too! They have moved out on Capitol Landing Road into the house which many of us will remember as "Dr. Harrison's"—of our day. They had an elegant vacation after Scotty finished his summer school classes, which he carried along with his regular position on the Admissions Committee at the College.

Frances Arentz (Walton) describes for us her exciting life with baby Cathy and the thrills with progress in the building of their new home. Johnny designed the house, six rooms, and early Colonial in design. They love Westport (Connecticut) and particularly the fact that there is a good W. & M. population in the vicinity. Francie had heard recently from Peggy McSweeney (Gray) and Dottie Dodd (Lemon), but no news from them was included!

Newell (Red) Irwin is one of the coaches at the University of Richmond, having left his head coach position at John Marshall High School in Richmond, where his team won championship honors last fall and "Red" also was cited for coaching honors. Jim Hickey and several other W. & M. people are holding down the fort at John Marshall this year.

I shall have to hold other items for the next issue, since I'm already running over the "suggested" limit. Before closing let me get you caught up with the Herods. Jack passed the Virginia Bar Exam

(three cheers!) in June and anticipates his LL.B. in October. We will then depart from dear old U.Va. and Charlottesville and expect to locate in Richmond. Please note change of my address back to Richmond again. I hope I won't have to beg for news this year, so get out your pens. Best wishes to all of you and I hope you'll be getting back for Homecoming.

1944 Secretary, ELIZABETH GOOCH SEAY
4120 Stuart Avenue, Richmond 21,
Virginia

For all of us may I express our appreciation to Nancy Throckmorton (Franck) for her generosity in acting as our guest editor for the last issue. We hope you will be back with us again, Truckie!

Shall we begin with news of Richmond? In June Gloria Hoover Tyler was married to Dr. William Clayton Robertson, also of Richmond. Gloria and Clayton are now living in Baltimore where Clayton has an appointment with Public Health Service. At the wedding were many William and Mary people, among them—Ruth Higgins and Jeanne Stigall, both of them bridesmaids; Ann Armitage and Carolyn (Pruitt). Ann has a new job at the Medical College of Virginia where she is executive secretary of a research project in radioactivity.

I saw The Common Glory again this summer . . . went with Barbara Gray and Betty Ellett (Klugh) who was in Richmond, technically Midlothian, visiting her family. In Williamsburg I saw Hallie Vaughan Rennie who has since graduated. Congratulations, Rennie. I visited with Louise and Johnny Hollis and young Susan who has a new sister, Martha Spalding, born August 18.

May we also bid welcome to other class babies? In July a daughter, Mary Quinn, was born to Graham and Mary Wilson Carver (Sale). There's also a new youngster in the Schutz family. Will you send us the name and date, Betty and Henry? Henry is with FBI as is Winfred E. Jester. Henry is stationed in Philadelphia; Winfred, in Chicago. On November 2, 1947, Winfred was married to Jayne Beatty (Ohio University '43). Belated good wishes, Winfred! And welcome to our class!

John Paul Carter was ordained to the priesthood at St. Luke's Church, Salisbury, North Carolina June 1, 1948 by Right Reverend Edwin A. Penick, D.D., Bishop of North Carolina.

Pauline Walker is returning to San Antonio to direct kindergarten for the Mexican Christian Institute. She sends us her address: Business, 1214 Colima St.; home, 953 E. Guenther.

A physician has been added to our ranks (and perhaps a few more of whom whom we are unaware). Edmond Robert Plunkett received his degree in medicine from George Washington University in May.

Jerry Hyman is with the law firm of Cleary, Gottlieb, Friendly and Cox at 52 Wall Street. He is living at 100 W. 55th Street, Apartment 6F.

At Lexington James Neville McArthur, who has been teaching at the University of Miami, will become instructor in Spanish this fall at Washington and Lee.

Lucile Fizer (Gooch)'s new address is Box 284, Stephens City, Virginia.

In late May we had a letter from Dorrie Berlin, Paul's wife. They are now located in Washington, D. C. at 5324 Rock Creek Road, N. E. Recently Paul passed the C.P.A. exam.

A new addition to our class roll is George Melton Heathcote of Cham-Belatedly may we congratulate Barbara Ruhl (Odland) and husband Paul on the birth of a daughter, Judith Claire born October 20, 1947? Paul, who is a Navy doctor, is expecting his release from the Navy this spring.

Elizabeth Allen (Birch) and husband have started to build a new home. Their son, Dickie will have had his first birthday by the time our column gets to press.

We understand that Martha Eddy is engaged in editing with the Army at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Jack and Marge Talle (Merriman) are coming east this fall between semesters of law school in Iowa.

Yours truly is as always . . . at the job in the Juvenile Court in Richmond. I spent part of my vacation on a rural health project in Cumberland County, Tennessee where I got to see part of the TVA and surrounding countryside. In August I was in the wedding of Martha Macklin and Herbert Smith in Suffolk and got to see Flossie Metius (Johnson) and Dinny Lee. Flossie and Dwight are building a home near Wyncote, Pennsylvania. Dinny is with the Educational Testing Service in Princeton.

I trust that the fall weather will bring better response in letters from you all.

1945 Secretary, NELLIE D. GREAVES
2803 Ridge Road Drive, Alexandria,
Virginia

Among the most welcome of the letters greeting us after a full summer is that from Charlie McCurdy stating that several former Forty-Fivers are rejoining the class as alumni. They are Stanley Herbert Bernstein, Morris Bernard Gut- terman, Abner Kingman Pratt, II, and Ernest Harry Priest. Welcome back into the fold, classmates. Let us hear all about your future plans.

A picture card from Hollywood brought a newsy message about two of our classmates. Edna Kerin can write more on a postcard than most people can on a six-page letter. She, Lucille McCormick, and three of their friends drove out West on a wonderful trip. They covered Denver, Yellowstone, Reno, a big week end in San Francisco. Yosemite National Park (we just missed you, Edna; my brother and I were there just a week before you), a long drive down the California coast, and four and a half marvelous days in Los Angeles. All that plus Las Vegas, the Grand Canyon, Albuquerque, El Paso, Mexico, and a big toot in New Orleans in one month! They reported to the Big City for duty by the first of August.

Mary Gladah Jones (Vliet) hopes that, by the time this letter goes to press, she and her brand-new hubby Arthur will have moved into their home at 922 North Cleveland Street, Arlington, Virginia. The Vliets were thrilled to see The Common Glory this summer. They hope to make it to Homecoming. We trust a lot of others of you will, too, and make it a real reunion.

Near the end of August a card from Barbara Hamilton (Hart) said that she and husband Dave planned to sail on September 3 aboard the Nieuw Amsterdam for Havre, France. They are on their way to Zurich, Switzerland, where Dave will do graduate study at the University of Zurich. Barbara plans to spend most of her time learning German. After spending a honeymoon in Martha's Vineyard and in Connecticut, Barbara and Dave found Newport News heat terrific. They were in "our town" for a few days, and Barbara reports that there are lots of new buildings in Williamsburg. (Something else for us to look into come October 30.) Barbara will keep her permanent address at 7109 Park Drive, Newport News, Virginia.

The postcard that came from the vacationing Edie McChesney last month was so pretty we nearly flew up to Windsormere, Ontario, to join her. Naturally, she had a grand time, with golf, beautiful lakes, boats, and such.

The new address for Dorie Wiprud (Diggs) is 1725 Orrington Avenue, Evanston, Illinois.

Another new address: Mary Ellen MacLean (Hall) is living at 246 Lark Street, Apartment 9, Albany, New York.

Mary Ellen still has her job at General Electric, while husband Bob is in the sales department at Remington-Rand.

Ginny Craddock (Oberlin) and her husband have Apartment 19 at 3823 Rodman Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

Big plans for the week end of September 24 are taking shape in the minds of several classmates. The Gamma Phi Betas of '45 wanted to have a reunion. Dee Dumas (Coburn) made arrangements; and on that week end Ginny Baureithel (Leopold), Margie Knepp (Dodson), Jean Ferebee (Reynolds), Mary Ellen MacLean (Hall), all with their husbands, they hope, and Edie McChesney, and Nellie Greaves—perhaps even more—will be all together for the first time since we clutched our diplomas with one hot little hand while we switched the tassel with the other.

William Fleming Addington is attending the University of Indiana now and living at 3935 North Temple Avenue, Indianapolis 5.

After working for two years at the Honolulu Academy of Arts as Executive Secretary of the Educational Department Sheila Stewart is now employed as Assistant to the Director of the Smith College Museum of Art, in Northampton, Massachusetts. Her address there is 159 Elm Street, Northampton.

A perfectly grand letter came in from Marion Lang (Van Dam). She sent us a New York Herald Tribune clipping about an automobile accident that injured four members of the Litchfield (Connecticut) summer theater. Among those injured were Annabelle Koenig and her brother William. We all are awfully sorry, Annabelle, and hope that by now you are well. Except for this regrettable information, the news from Marion was all good.

Betty Willcox (D'Agostino) and Doc are now located in Westbury, L. I., where Doc is getting established in the Tydol business. They were in Buffalo in hopes of seeing Judy Fisher (Boone) only to find Judy in New Jersey for a month and Dan in Dallas, Texas. Judy flew down to Texas not long after Dan, who received his coveted M.D. in Buffalo and is interning in a Dallas hospital. Judy, Dan, Danny, and baby Judith Ann are living with Dan's parents on their ranch, 45 miles out of Dallas.

Dinny Lee was a bridesmaid in Martha Macklin's wedding. Martha will get her MA at the University of Virginia while husband Herb works for his degree in architecture.

About herself, Marion writes that she and Ted had several William and Mary friends at their wedding last April. Daphne and Johnny Crum were there. The Crums live nearby and plan many good times with the Van Dams. Their honeymoon trip took Marion and Ted to Chicago. In Cleveland they celebrated with Roland and Mary Raney (Begor). Mary does the same sort of work at Curtiss-Wright that she used to do at Langley Field. Roland is at Otterbein College in Westerville, Ohio. On their return trip Marion and Ted stayed at the Inn at Buck Hill Falls, Pennsylvania, and there met Debbie Davis ('44), who works there. At present the Van Dams have their hands full decorating their good-sized apartment.

Phyllis Ebling (Tavel) and Sax often see Marion and Ted. The Tavels have a place in Greenwich Village.

Jeannie Boyle has a champion dog who not only seems to have a brilliant blue-ribbon future, but also likes to eat flowers from hats.

Marion's account of the William and Mary alumni dinner at the Williams Club in New York says that there were many people there we know. Sheila Keane and Mary Ann Green were two from our class. Thanks, Marion for keeping the class up to date on so many of our number.

Bill Heffner spent the summer at the Norristown (Pennsylvania) State Hospital for the Insane as part of the Theological Seminary curriculum. His main role was that of a student, but he also served as assistant to the Hospital Chaplain.

Upon his discharge from the Navy Howard L. Aaron completed his BS at Columbia University. Last winter he started working for the Manhattan Shirt Company as a Junior Executive in merchandising in the handkerchief department. In the Navy he was an ensign and served aboard the USS Topeka as Radar Maintenance Officer.

ternship in June of '46 and has been in the Medical Corps of the Army since then. He is now stationed at the Army General Dispensary in New York.

The Lee Hodgkines are now at Fort Sherman in Canal Zone (Address: Box 50). They have two children.

Dot Johnson is Children's Librarian at the Public Library in Hagerstown, Maryland.

Marnie Bevans was maid of honor in Kay Leavey's wedding to Robert Hite. After their honeymoon, Kay and her husband will live in New York, where the bridegroom has been taking graduate courses at Columbia. In June they will go to Honolulu.

Charles H. Langton graduated from the United States Naval Academy last June.

Mary Jeanne Keiger recently went to Atlantic City, to attend a meeting of the Library Association.

That invitation we have been throwing out to you all to come and visit a really high-class radio station still stands. We should love to see you.—Only make it WRRC in Washington. Moving day is September 13.

Don't forget that it's news we're after, class, and keep the mailman a little busier. Here's hoping everybody will come to Homecoming. Next deadline is the first of November.

1946 Secretary, EDITH HARWOOD (SMITH)
362 Westfield Road, Scotch Plains,
New Jersey.

At last it looks as if your "roving secretary" will have the above address for a permanent address for the next 2-3 years anyway. We shall probably be moving into our new house by Oct. 1st. We are certainly looking forward to a home of our own. We have been on the move since Kent graduated in June from Cornell, and been looking for an apartment on or near Staten Island where Kent has started working for Procter and Gamble Co. as an Industrial Engineer. So finally, as an alternative to the unreasonable renting situation here on the Island, we have decided to buy in N. J. Can't wait to put an end to the living in furnished rooms and eating out business.

I don't have much news this issue, but it's probably due to summer vacationing and probably most of my mail hasn't caught up with us yet.

Pam Pauly went on a wonderful cruise the latter part of May and early June on the S.S. Brazil to Bermuda, Virgin Islands, Puerto Rica, and Dominican Republic.

Janet Hilton (Antolick) and her husband, who is working for Bristol Myers, have left their 6-room penthouse apt. in Havana, Cuba and are being moved to San Salvador, S. A. Janet is at home in Dover Plains, N. Y. getting her furniture and household things together to ship to San Salvador, where she joins her husband in several weeks.

Jerrie Healy had a summer scholarship at the University of Virginia to continue her studies with teaching the deaf. She has also been having lots of fun (along with the mechanical problems) with the Model A car that she, Pris Fuller and some other friends purchased.

Susan Claypool (Helm) and her husband have moved way out to 1108 Pleasant Ave., Bremerton, Washington with their little daughter Carolyn, nearly a year old. Harry is going to the University of Washington and also working at a local radio station.

Kay Callahan wrote a nice letter telling how much she liked living and working in Miami. She is the Assistant Reference Librarian at the Miami Public Library and has an apartment at the Riviera Plaza Hotel. Kay would love to see any classmates that are down that way.

Talked with Daphne Andrews (Crum) on the telephone. Her baby Jean is a year old this month. She and Johnny were going to visit Betty Aurell (Schutz) and Hank Schutz in Camden, N. J. the following week end.

Bobby Black (Brown) and her husband Jack have been moved to Odessa, Texas, where last I heard they were trying to find a place to live, and the very latest news that they now have a baby boy.

Mary Sue Ebeling left N. Y. C. in July and has been vacationing at home and in Virginia until September, when she starts taking graduate work at Farmville State Teachers College, Va., in the Nursery Training field. We were able to enjoy a week end with Mary Sue before she left N. Y.

Cynthia Wort (Sydow) and her husband Philip, who is in the Navy, honeymooned in Florida in their new car and then headed for the West Coast—1505 Sutter St., San Francisco, Cal. where they are now living until Philip has to go to sea in January, and then Cynthia will return to Staten Island.

Glo Rankin (Guy) and Ed Guy and Ed Jr. have moved to Detroit where Ed is interning. They have gotten together with Sally Reik (Despard) and husband Dick. Sorry haven't address as yet.

Mary Peek, 20 Wagarow Boulevard, Paterson 2, N. J. was at home in Florida for the summer, and is returning to her teaching job that she is so fond of this fall. She teaches 4 classes, study halls, and the Natural Science Club. Last year she was stage manager for the Dramatic Club and hopes to be able to do it again this year.

That's all for now, and I do hope that having a permanent address will help encourage you people to drop a card at least and bring us up to date on you and your news—so many we haven't heard from since right after graduation.

1947 Secretary, JANE ANN SEGNITZ
706 Pollard Park, Williamsburg,
Virginia

News is profuse for this fall issue of the GAZETTE and most of it concerns the many weddings. A complete list of the marriages will appear in the section in the rear.

June finals now seem so far in the past that it is hard to recollect all the faces I saw. Fran Moore, Jill and Owen Elliott, Joan Le Fevre all stopped for a chat. Pat Jones was here during the summer with the news that she has received several promotions at the Glenn L. Martin Co. in Baltimore.

I had dinner one evening with Marilyn Woodberry (Brown) and she has fully recovered from her illness. She is now enjoying life in Gainesville, Georgia, as the wife of an army doctor.

From Schofield Barracks in Hawaii comes word from Dot Ferenbaugh. She flew out there in the spring to join her parents and is still basking in the sun. Dot relays the news that Kay Caffrey, like all the rest of you, longs to return to Williamsburg and is holding down two jobs in order to finance such a trip.

Wally Rowe received his M.D. from Johns Hopkins in June and is now interning at Bowman Gray Medical School Hospital, Salem, North Carolina. Sumner Rand received his M.A. from Harvard in June.

Jimmy Coble took her vacation in Jamaica visiting Pat Nunes, and Stella Withers is touring England, Belgium, Holland, Italy, Switzerland and France, returning on the Queen Elizabeth.

The Alumni questionnaire brought in the news that Virginia Ruhl is studying for her master's degree in Medical Social Work at Chicago University.

Miriam White (McNulty) is working for the Dept. of Psychiatry at Yale while her husband Bill is in Medical School there.

Doris Gonzalez (Edwards) is hoping that some of the class of '47 will drop in for a visit at her new home in Shelby, North Carolina.

While taking a swim at the Inn this summer to beat the heat, Carroll Callis paused long enough to tell me that she has been occupying herself taking training in medical technology at the DePaul Hospital in Norfolk.

I see quite a bit of Nancy Easley (Cox) and son Fletcher III for they have settled here in Williamsburg. Both Nancy and Fletcher are working for the Virginia Gazette.

The rest of the news I'll save as I am already over the deadline. I hope I am forgiven but I am just a few days out of the hospital with a back injury and typing is still on the restricted list. By the time the next issue comes out I'll have had my vacation in New York (I'll be back in time for Homecoming). In the meantime why don't some of the rest of you let us hear from you?

1948 Secretary, MARY MINTON CREGOR
Anchorage, Ky.

Here it is September and instead of packing my trunk, I'm writing our first Alumni letter. The fall "return to school" rush has begun and instead of joining it, I find I'm on the sidelines, a bit wistful about not returning to Williamsburg.

The largest graduating class seems to have made itself quite scarce in no time at all. Two letters and two phone calls constitute this letter. Must have been a busy summer!

My first communication came from Jack Fritz who attended the University of Chicago summer session. He took two review courses in French and German in preparation for the required reading exams in language which he has to take when he begins graduate school at Princeton this month. He heard from John Helfrich who is now helping his father run his home and office appliance store in Carrollton, Ohio. He also heard from John Jessee, who said he had rebelled against working in his father's store and plans to teach near Richlands, Va., this year. Jack said that though he had not heard from Dick Plumer, he was sure Dick had settled down to helping his father edit their weekly newspaper in Bristol, New Hampshire.

There was a nice article in the Richmond News-Leader about Carroll Simons. The Secretary of Rotary International announced that Jack had been awarded the Rotary Foundation Fellowship for advanced study in the field of international relations. The fellowship carries with it a grant of $2000 a year and Jack has designated that he will do his work in Geneva, Switzerland. Upon completing his fellowship work he will enter the University of Virginia in the department of law and will then continue to study international law in which he proposes to practice.

Counting February, June and August commencements, the Class of 1948 has a total of 417 graduate members. Of this number, 126 (30.22%) have joined the Society of Alumni and will regularly receive the ALUMNI GAZETTE. The October issue is being sent to the entire class which, it is hoped, will remind those who have not joined to do so.

According to another newspaper article, E. Page Walker has been named librarian at Urbana Junior College, Urbana, Ohio. Page will take up her new duties this fall as supervisor of the 16,000-volume library at Ohio's smallest liberal arts college. Lots of luck, Page.

Joan Paff Gibbs received the B.S.S. W. degree from the Richmond Division in June. She is now a student medical technician at George Washington University Hospital.

I received through the mail the other day a very impressive-looking card. On it was printed "State Farm Insurance Companies—James C. Sutherland—304 East Grace Street, Richmond, Virginia." That sounds very good!

Talked to Mary Keeney recently. She was very excited over her marriage to Don Rutter which took place September 5, in Columbus, Indiana. Don has another year and a half at Indiana University so they plan to live in Bloomington. Mary has a job with the Department of Economics at the University. Mary said that she had heard from Pat Snyder who is doing personnel work at a newly organized company in New York City. Wicky Wierum has a temporary job in New York but plans to look elsewhere this fall.

Burnsie Weston and Dick Slaughter were married September 11, in Washington, D. C. They plan to live in Williamsburg this year as Dick has one more year.

Peggy Moser and her husband, Emerson Planck, will live "somewhere in Pennsylvania" this year, according to Mary Keeney. He is with the Ford Motor Company. Their marriage took place September 25 in St. Louis.

Rumor has it Macy Diggs is on her way to California to seek her fortune. She is sight-seeing on her way out west.

Had a grand newsy letter from Tom Athey not long ago. He was the No. 2 correspondent. He wrote, "I came out here on August 16 to take a job, for at least a year, as Field Secretary with Phi Kappa Tau National. While I live at the Phi Tau house, I work out of the Central Office. The first part of the year (school year, that is) I'll be making a circuit of chapters and prospective chapters east of the Mississippi, but before the end of the term, I expect to have seen most of the United States.

"Last week end I was in Pittsburgh to 'best man' in a William and Mary wedding. The bride was Jean Marie Owens, and three of the bridesmaids were Edna Rees, Audrey Kneece (Harding), and Sally Obitz. Thurman Morgan Groves was the lucky man, while Dave Henritze, Dave Strubinger, Ed Vandewater, and Tom Hubbard were the ushers. News of other Forty-Eighters is sparse, but I do know that Snaz Hurt is at the University of Denver, Colorado, to take graduate work. He had a get-together with Polly and Mel Wright on their return from Canada. 'Rocky' Rockwitt is a future paint magnate, currently running around trying to line up customers. Stuart Whitehurst has gotten a job as cost accountant with a chemical firm in Newport News." Now if everyone would write a letter like that how happy I would be!

Had a long chat with Ginny Rassinier. She was expecting Bob Quackenbush for Labor Day week end. She is working at the Standard Oil Company in Louisville. Ginny had heard that Jane Godard had had a foot operation but was up and around now looking for a job.

Evelyn Armstrong is teaching in Portsmouth this year.

Ruth Chase plans to teach around home this year. Home being Port Jervis, New York.

Dee Isele is working in the Infant's Department at the Wm. T. Knott Company in New York. Sounds like an interesting job.

Jackie Hale and Bill Lucas were married August 28 and plan to live in Williamsburg this year while Bill finishes school.

Carol Neuman and Charles Acker were married in August too, and plan to live in Memphis, Tennessee.

Mary McGinnis (White) and Howard are house-hunting in Huntington, West Virginia, where they expect to be for awhile. They were in Louisville, "Weezie" McNabb is working in an export company in Fort Wayne. Jean Bevans is working on the editorial staff of the Quartermaster Review in Washington. Sounds like a good job.

Speaking of good jobs, I really had one in August. Graduate Advisor for the College Board at one of the local stores. It was quite a load and called for much brain work on my part. I had the most beautiful desk you ever saw! That was over almost before it started, and now I'm debating over what to do this fall. Work somewhere at something. Sounds intelligent.

That is all from here for now. Pliz, kid, let me hear from you. Just a post card will suffice. We do want to stick together and we can by means of the GAZETTE.

Nineteen Added to Faculty Including Psychology Head

Nineteen new faculty members and a new head of the Department of Psychology take their places with the opening of the 1948-49 session.

Dr. Stanley Williams, an Assistant Professor at The Johns Hopkins for the past two years, has been named professor and head of the Psychology Department. Dr. Williams received his B.A. and M.A. at the University of California at Los Angeles, and his Ph.D. at Yale University.

Other appointments include John C. Bright as director of the Placement Bureau and director of the Work-Study plan. He has been director of student employment at the St. Helena Division of William and Mary since 1946. James E. Bush, who received his B.A. at the college, will be a lecturer in Business Administration.

Joseph Curtis has been appointed associate professor of Jurisprudence. He has been assistant to the dean of the New York University Law School since 1946.

Herbert Neal Drennon, formerly of Mississippi State College, has been made an instructor in Government.

Edward James Durnall, for the past year a graduate fellow at Colorado College, has been named psychometrist and assistant counselor, and Donald Foerster has been appointed an assistant professor of English. Mr. Foerster was an assistant lecturer at the University of Birmingham in Birmingham, England.

Deceased

George Preston Coleman, '92x-42H, June 17, at Williamsburg. One of the few students who received private instruction from President Ewell during the period when the College was closed, 1881-88, he remained two years after it reopened under President Tyler, after which he engaged in engineering in the middle west and was city engineer at Winona, Minnesota from 1901 to 1906. Returning to Virginia, he became assistant highway commissioner and from 1911 to 1923 was commissioner. He was a leader in the development of the Virginia highway system and he organized the Virginia Road Builders Association.

Mr. Coleman was appointed to the Board of Visitors of the College in June, 1913 and, at the time of his retirement in 1924, was vice rector. He became president of the Peninsula Bank & Trust Company of Williamsburg in 1927 which position he held at the time of his death. He was mayor of Williamsburg from 1929 to 1934.

In 1942, on the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Society of Alumni, Mr. Coleman delivered the alumni oration in which he cited his grandfather, Nathaniel Beverley Tucker, who had made the first oration in 1842. On this occasion, Mr. Coleman received the alumni medalion and, two days later, the College conferred upon him the LL.D. degree.

Mr. Coleman was a member of the Sons of the American Revolution, Society of the Cincinnati, Society of Colonial Wars, Phi Beta Kappa, F.H.C. Society and Kappa Sigma.

Among his survivors are two daughters: Janet Haldane Coleman (Kimbrough), '21Ba, and Cynthia Coleman (Moorehead), '28x. A grandson, Raymond Kimbrough, Jr., entered College in September.

William Carlisle Johnston, '93, July 26, at Whaleyville. After three years at the College, he started the revival of the Virginia Gazette in Williamsburg and was its editor for several years. During President Wilson's administration he was the Williamsburg postmaster. For 17 years he edited the Suffolk News-Herald and in 1938, became associate editor of the Southern Planter in Richmond. In 1940 he accepted a similar position with the Petersburg Progress-Index. At the time of his death he edited the Peanut Journal in Suffolk.

Among his survivors are a son, William Carlisle, Jr., '21x, and a grandson, William Carlisle, III, '44x.

Thomas Lomax Hunter, '95x, June 19, at Fredericksburg. A lawyer and writer, Mr. Hunter was well known as "The Cavalier," the title of his daily column in the Richmond Times-Dispatch, and through it directed many philippics against his two pet subjects—the New Deal and national prohibition. In 1918 and 1920 he represented his home county, King George, in the General Assembly. He studied law at Georgetown University but claimed that he was educated "mainly in the Great University of Books." He was the author of a book of verses, Forbidden Fruit and Other Ballades.

Staff

Mrs. Caroline Carter, August, 1948, at Richmond. Mrs. Carter served as chaperone at the Alpha Chi Omega house from 1929 to 1934. Among her survivors is a daughter, Catharine Kyle Carter (Zaharov), '29Ba.

Honorary

John Joseph Pershing, '31H, July, 1948, at Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C. General Pershing, the only man ever to have the title "General of the Armies," received the LL.D. degree at the time of the Yorktown Sesquicentennial celebration.

Fraternities

The College proposes to review periodically the financial status of each fraternity to determine whether it can continue to finance its lodge.

With respect to social rules which will govern the use of the lodges, the fraternities have been advised that:

"In accordance with the responsibility of the fraternity to conform to social rules of the College, it is expected that the fraternity as a social organization will feel the obligation and the desire to contribute to the social well-being and reputation of the College and will at all times abide by the accepted standards of gentlemanly conduct.

"The rules and regulations governing men's dormitories will, in general, apply and are to be strictly adhered to. Subject to any limitations imposed by the special social rules which may be established by each fraternity, women guests including students are permitted to visit in the fraternity lodges from 3:00 P.M. to 10:00 P.M. Tuesdays through Fridays, on Saturdays from 1:00 P.M. to midnight and on Sundays from 1:00 P.M. to 10:00 P.M. Women will not be permitted to visit in the lodges on Mondays. Special social functions must be scheduled in advance in accordance with established College procedure."

The above social rules are liberal and the College has been warned by a few that it is inviting trouble. It believes, however, that each fraternity must assume full responsibility for maintaining gentlemanly conduct in its lodge and the College intends to experiment with the plan on this basis. Each fraternity will be advised that abuse of the social privileges accorded with the lodge will result in cancellation of the fraternity's lodge contract.

The College feels that these lodges will afford comfortable and pleasant accommodations where fraternity men may hold their meetings and social affairs. It anticipates improved fraternity morale, already evident, which should enable these groups before long to assume responsible leadership in undergraduate life.

The several fraternities selected their lodges in order of seniority on the campus. Theta Delta Chi, established in 1853 and now commencing its 95th year at William and Mary, had the first choice. Sigma Rho, the youngest chapter, had the eleventh choice.

THE WITCH-WOMAN. By James Branch Cabell, '98Ba. Farrar, Straus and Co., Inc. New York. 161 pp. $2.50.

James Branch Cabell, '98Ba, one of the deans of literary circles in the South has recently completed his latest novel, The Witch-Woman. Not an original book in the true sense of the word, being a republished edition of three earlier tales (The Music From Behind the Moon, The Way of Ecban, and The White Robe) which he rewrote and revised for this occasion, The Witch-Woman is nevertheless successful and to all practical extents, original.

Very little of reality enters into the book. The stories are sheer imagination and fantasia, yet Mr. Cabell draws into his orbit the realities of life and with his facile pen draws caricatures upon them. The stories are not pleasant episodes, nor are they optimistic, but they were not meant to be. They would not have been as deep or as good had they been so.

"Ceci" Cunningham Takes Position With Alumni Society

Cecil Cary Waddell (Cunningham), '46Ba, has become assistant to the Executive Secretary of the Society of Alumni and, in addition, will be receptionist for the new alumni offices and lounge in The Brafferton. "Ceci" entered William and Mary in 1942 and remained three years. In April, 1945, she married Hughes Westcott Cunningham, '43Ba, who had been president of the student body in his senior year and was then an ensign in the naval reserve. The Cunninghams returned to Williamsburg in the fall of 1946 when

"Scotty" became secretary of the committee on admissions and she returned to College to complete her degree which was awarded in June, 1947. During the past year Mrs. Cunningham has been assisting in the College Placement Bureau.

After nearly 21 years' association with the College, Miss Alyse F. Tyler, who had been associated with the alumni office for over twelve years, resigned on July 1st and is now secretary of the admissions committee at the Richmond Professional Institute of the College.

Pollard Appointed To Board Succeeding Shackelford

Four members were reappointed and one new man appointed to the Board of Visitors by Governor William M. Tuck, '19, when he made appointments in May for the terms which expired on March 7.

John Garland Pollard, Jr., '23Ba, of "Belle Isle," Somers, was named to succeed George Scott Shackelford, Roanoke, who had requested the Governor not to reappoint him. Mr. Pollard is the son of the late John Garland Pollard, professor of government at the College and, from 1930 to 1934, Governor of Virginia. After leaving William and Mary where he was a prominent student and member of Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Beta Kappa, he took graduate work in business administration at Harvard and subsequently became a member of the investment-banking firm, Loomis-Sayles and Co., in Washington. Several years ago he returned to Virginia and became a farmer and oysterman in Lancaster County.

Those reappointed to the Board are: Rector Alvan Herbert Foreman, '99Ba, Norfolk; Mrs. Lulu Metz McManaway, Manassas; Vice-Rector Oscar Lane Shewmake, '03Ba, Richmond; and, State Senator Robert Carrington Vaden, Gretna.

Duke Directs Reorganization Of State Government

Charles J. Duke, '23Bs, bursar of the College has been "loaned" to the State at the request of Governor Tuck to aid in reorganizing the governmental machinery of the Commonwealth. Recent legislation has decreased the number of state departments from seventy to approximately thirty, necessitating a drastic revision. Mr. Duke will serve as a sort of "chief of staff" to the governor "so long as his services are found necessary" the Governor said.

This will be a temporary assignment for the chief fiscal and financial officer of the College, but he was released on loan by President Pomfret with the understanding he could be away from his post at Williamsburg as long as the Governor needed him.

Nine Pass State Bar Exam

Nine William and Mary alumni and students were among those passing the State bar examination given June 29 and 30. They were: Richard Jeffery Alfriend, III, '43Ba, Norfolk; Robert Richard Boyd (a law student), Clarksville; Samuel Leon Ellenson, '42Ba, Newport News; Robert Bernard Ellert, '44Ba, Brooklyn, New York; Robert Stanley Hornsby, '41Ba, Yorktown; James Edgar Pointer, Jr., '43Bs, Bena; Donald Harvey Sandie (a law student), Portsmouth; Katherine Virginia Settle, '47Ba, Roanoke; and, Lyon Gardiner Tyler, Jr., '45Ba, Holdcroft.

ANOTHER SUCH VICTORY. By John Downing Weaver, '32Ba. The Viking Press. New York. 250 pp. $2.75.

"Another Such Victory," John D. Weaver's second novel, has recently been published by The Viking Press of New York. Weaver, prominent in literary circles during his undergraduate career, has drawn upon very recent times to present a historical novel dealing with the unsuccessful "bonus march" of 1932. He has re-created this turbulent little incident of the depression in a story which is called "exciting, honestly written, and persuasively documented" by one reviewer.

In the tough, prosy style that was the hallmark of the thirties, he describes the march of the 22,000 veterans to Washington, tells of their encampment in Washington on the mud flats of Anacostia, and of their final demise at the hands of General MacArthur and his regulars, with the then Major George Patton prominent. Weaver's bonus marchers, loafers and good men, who had been washed out by the depression, ex-privates and ex-captains, are an orderly mob, sympathetically presented but by no means whitewashed. Although decency can hardly be said to triumph in this novel, the decent impulses are not extinguished.

Ida Reilly To Head Medical Technologists

Ida Lance Reilly, '32Bs, chief technician at Roanoke Hospital, has been named president-elect of the American Society of Medical Technologists. This honor came at the annual convention of the organization held at St. Paul, Minnesota and she will take office next year.

Miss Reilly received her graduate training in technology at Stuart Circle Hospital in Richmond. She was chief technician at Dixie Hospital, Hampton, before going to Roanoke eight years ago. She has been a member of the American Society of Medical Technologists since 1938 and has served as counselor for the Southeastern District of the Society for two years and last year was secretary of the national group. She has helped to organize several State societies in the eastern part of the United States.
