THE COLLEGE IN BRIEF

The Poetry Society of Virginia, which was organized at William and Mary 31 years ago, held a May meeting on the campus at which it elected officers, awarded annual prizes and heard Madeline Mason, New York poet, critic and author in the featured address.

An annual three-day conference of the Virginia Citizens Planning Association was held at the College during May. President Chandler delivered the keynote address to the group and Dr. James E. Pate, professor of political science, was one of the principal speakers. Elected to the association's new executive board were F. J. (Jim) Barnes, II, '27Ba, former director of Alumni and information at the College, and Dr. Pate.

A new recording of the William and Mary Choir was pressed during the spring by RCA on a 10-inch long-play 33 $\frac{1}{3}$  disc. Included in the selections are "Alma Mater," "William and Mary Hymn," "Misereere Mei," "Crucifixus," "Come Soothing Death," "Shenandoah," "Nightfall in Skye," "Yonder! Yonder!," and "Ballad of Brotherhood." Note order blank at bottom of page.

—o—

A rain-soaked College Yard forced the second annual Colonial Festival into Blow Gymnasium. Despite the weather, an estimated 1,500 students were on hand in the gym for the pageantry. Pretty Anne LeHew of Clifton Forge was crowned Belle-of-the-Green and as the "handsomest maid on the green," was presented a pair of silk stockings by F. J. (Jim) Barnes, II, former director of alumni and information.

—o—

David J. Mays, a Richmond attorney and recipient of the Pulitzer prize for biography, was the principal speaker at the annual Phi Beta Kappa spring celebration held in May. The following ten students were initiated into the fraternity during the celebration: Mary Margaret Anderson of Arlington, Va., Barbara Lee Barker of Norfolk, Va., Jay Spencer Birnbrauer of Philadelphia, Pa., Philip Thomas Brown of Westfield, New Jersey, Sheila Sheldon Day of Rockeville Centre, New York, Mary Maples of Fort Knox, Kentucky, Mary Elizabeth McDow of Norfolk, Va., Carol Ann Myers of Alexandria, Va.,

Robert Stanley Ripley of Portsmouth, Va., and Barbara Ann Torrence of Danville, Va.

The William and Mary Intercollegiate Debate Council won awards in nine of 11 events it entered in the grand national forensic tournament held during the spring at Mary Washington College. The debate team was in competition with more than 50 other colleges and universities.

—o—

Virginia's Lieutenant-Governor A. E. S. Stephens, '22X, was initiated in May into Phi Alpha Delta, honorary legal fraternity. The Lieutenant-Governor was the principal speaker at the fraternity's meeting which was held in Trinkle Refectory.

—o—

Edward David Eanes, a freshman chemistry student from Arlington, Va., recently topped the test scores of outstanding freshman chemistry students in 41 different colleges and universities throughout Virginia and Ohio. He was awarded a $100 check for having placed first in the contest which was sponsored by the Chemical Rubber Company of Cleveland, Ohio. Eanes invested his check in scientific books which he presented in turn to the William and Mary Chemistry Library.

Twenty student leaders and two faculty members were selected in April for membership in Omicron Delta Kappa and Mortar Board during traditional tapping ceremonies in Blow Gymnasium. Tapped for membership in ODK were: George W. Burns, Jr., student actor and consistent dean's list student, of Williamsburg, Va.; Howard D. Cline, president of Phi Tau social fraternity, of Grand Blanc, Michigan; Ronald I. Drake, Jr., newly-elected president of the William and Mary student body, of Hamilton, Ohio; Thomas Michael Jordan, vice-president of the student body, of Manila, Philippines; Thomas L. Kenyon, Jr., member of the men's honor council, of Glenside, Pa.; Otto Lowe, Jr., member of the men's honor council, of Cape Charles, Va.; Arnold Lubasch, former editor of the Flat Hat of Newark, New Jersey; and John C. Risjord, track and football star, of Kansas City, Missouri. Dr. R. Wayne Kernodle, chairman of the department of sociology and anthropology was elected to the society as an honorary faculty member.

Tapped for membership in Mortar Board were: Virginia A. Broaddus, senior representative to the WSCGA Association, of Richmond, Va.; Barbara Chase Brown, chairman of the women's honor council of Springfield, Pa., Barbara Joan Danskin, President of Delta Delta Delta, social sorority, of Houston, Texas; Agnes LaFleur Egger, secretary to executive council of WSCGA, of Washington, D. C.; Cynthia J. Frye, president of Kappa Kappa Gamma, social sorority, of St. Petersburg, Florida; Yolanda Grant, active leader in student campus activities of Norfolk, Va.; Jane C. Kesler, newly-elected president of WSCGA, of Virginia Beach, Va.; Alice W. Knight, managing editor of the Flat Hat, of Falls Church, Va.; Marguerite McLaughlin, a member of the women's honor council, of Englewood, New Jersey; Margaret C. Pontius, past president of Pi Beta Phi, social sorority, of Chicago, Illinois; Shirley Lee Staubs, president of Pi Beta Phi, social sorority, of Chicago, Illinois; and Marilyn Zaiser, chairman of the women's judicial committee, of Philadelphia, Pa. Mrs. Beatrice K. Rome, assistant professor of philosophy, was selected for membership as an honorary faculty member.

A WORD IN EDGEWISE . . .

I think that few of us have ever returned to William and Mary that we did not think back to that first day we arrived on the campus. It would be hard for anyone of us to manifest again the enthusiasm we entertained as freshmen, or in some instances, to even remember why we were enthusiastic.

This feeling in our being could possibly have been attributed to those perfect fall days that so often frequent eastern Virginia. Perhaps it was the prospect of the new life that was about to unfold before us, and most truly it may have only been youth. Yet, whatever the reason, the fact remains that we were ready to begin the most crucial four years of our lives, ready to initiate the thinking that would direct our lives for the years to follow.

I had something of this feeling when I returned to William and Mary to begin this new job. Like the freshmen I really did not know what the whole thing was about, but I was aware that here was a situation which had held my interest since undergraduate days.

Like any new arrival I have brought with me some ideas. They are not particularly original ideas, but they are very much a part of me. They are a collection, an anthology if you will, of all that I have heard and of all that I have experienced since first I was aware of the existence of the Society of the Alumni. They are ideas that I have gathered as a student, in conversation with friends, as a member of two alumni chapters, and as an alumnus who has, on many occasions, returned. They are ideas that were left here by my predecessors.

I believe first of all that this college of our choice has been one of the important positive forces in our lives, and that it will continue to exercise such an influence on all who matriculate within its walls. The College is sound and is capable of making great progress. I believe that our alumni do not expect to return to their college to relive the past, but rather to enjoy the present and to work for the future. Most all of us look forward to participating in the festival atmosphere of a football weekend, or a class reunion. However, I am sure we will all agree that the raccoon coat, hip flask, and old school tie alumnus is someone most often found in the cartoons of the New Yorker. Spread over the world are mature men and women of William and Mary who desire to serve, who desire once again to do some positive thinking about their Alma Mater.

Last of all I believe that our Society is yet but a freshman in its growth toward an organization that will be capable of rendering the assistance and moral support to William and Mary that she so surely needs. I do not wish to minimize the exceptional work that has been done to get us this far. You who have given so freely of your time, your efforts, and your money are the true parents of the Society. Those of us who are comparatively late comers will find much satisfaction in our work, but we will never experience that special sort of pride that comes with having been a party in the original creation.

Here I think it would be most fitting to say a few words about the two men who preceded me. Charlie McCurdy should have a very special place in the history of our Society, for it was he who worked so diligently to establish an efficient and up-to-date organization. As our Executive Secretary he was a man with a vision.

If it ever be my pleasure to introduce Jim Barnes, our last Secretary, I would like to do so by saying here is a man who served his college so well that when he left it took two men to fill his boots. Jim was a Secretary who worked with his heart as well as his hands. Such a man can never be replaced, and he will be greatly missed.

Our Society is on firm ground, there is nothing to hold us back but our own lack of imagination. We do not pretend to have all the answers here in Williamsburg, and we look forward to any suggestions you have to offer. As your new Executive Secretary I am enthusiastic, but I am a beginner, and I am going to need a lot of help.

SCHOOL OF LAW

Significant Meeting

Some hundred law alumni filed into Trinkle Refectory April 24 for the second annual meeting of the William and Mary Law School Association. The occasion was significant—if for no other reason than the fact that Virginia's Lieutenant Governor, himself a William and Mary alumnus, was to be the principal speaker.

A brief 150 minutes later, however, the luncheon meeting had proved itself of far greater significance than the returning alumni could have imagined. Two front page stories were sprung at the meeting which readers throughout Virginia were to find the following morning in their Sunday newspapers.

Bold Appraisal. The first piece of news seemed to come like a bolt from the blue. Following a word of welcome and the presentation of guests by Association President R. Harvey Chappell, Jr., the luncheon program called for "remarks" from President Chandler.

"This is one of the happiest moments since I've been at the College of William and Mary," began the President, obviously impressed by the large turn-out for the organization's second birthday.

Then the president went on to evaluate the law school in a frank and forthright appraisal.

Condemning the law faculty's deficient salary scale, the president lamented: "William and Mary's salary scale is shamefully low. Something must be done to correct the situation. This College must take the initiative in awakening the people of Virginia to the needs of higher education.

"Out of every dollar spent at William and Mary for maintenance and operation last year," continued the president critically, "only 32% were tax dollars. Elsewhere in the country, the average was 52%. The figures speak for themselves. You've just got to have money to operate."

Then, turning to the College's critical space shortage: "There is no law building.

There is no student activities building. There is no auditorium. Lighting in the Wren Building is insufficient and inappropriate. We need a new woman's dormitory. We need adequate faculty housing. We need a new academic building.

"As a matter of fact," continued the president, "we are so crowded that your own law school is having to move into the newly-constructed Bryan Dormitory so that it will have sufficient space next year to operate effectively. And Bryan Dormitory was built as a men's dormitory in an effort to alleviate the crowded undergraduate situation.

"In the past 20 years," added the president, pausing, "... we've constructed only one building ... Bryan Dormitory."

Good News. But there was the brighter side. The president had some good news, some big news, some grateful news for his audience. He hesitated, looked around the room, and in a more mellow tone continued: "It gives me a great deal of pleasure today to announce one of the finest gifts that the College has ever received."

"Mr. Rockefeller, who has always been a true friend of William and Mary, has presented the College with two hundred and fifty thousand dollars towards the replacement of Phi Beta Kappa Hall."

The applause was instantaneous. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., had all but assured the College of an early replacement for its fire-swept auditorium.

It marked the second time in a little more than a quarter of a century that the philanthropist had helped make possible the construction of a campus auditorium. In the mid-20's he contributed approximately $100,000 to an endowment fund set up by the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa. From this fund, the Society gave $100,000 for the construction of the Memorial Hall, which was dedicated in 1927.*

As the applause faded, President Chandler went on to point out that a number of committees were studying plans for replacing the auditorium. He further explained that there was some question as to whether enough room exists upon the present site for the type of "cultural center" required for the College's needs.

But the president pointed out that regardless of where the new auditorium is erected, the old hall is scheduled for "complete renovation and repair."

Recognition. Then the president approached the day's second big news story. Already, Otto Lowe, '23 Ab, '26 BL, had given the group a progress report on the Marshall-Wythe-Blackstone project: "We have raised sufficient funds for the busts. ... The celebration will be held on Satur-

ROCKEFELLER
A true friend

*A last-minute tally of current funds before this issue of the GAZETTE went to press showed that the generous quarter-million dollar Rockefeller gift allowed approximately $625,000 for rebuilding the burned-out structure. Of the total, the College received $125,000 in insurance on the structure; $22,500 in insurance on its contents; $200,000 from the General Assembly; and over $28,000 from a fund-raising drive initiated by the William and Mary chapter of the Society. Some 2,820 individuals and groups have responded to the Alpha chapter's request for contributions.

day, September 25. . . . Within a week, we should have the brochure we need for the purpose of raising additional funds. . . ."

Said the president: "It would be impossible for me to emphasize too greatly the magnitude of the legal celebration that Otto Lowe mentioned a few minutes ago. He and his committee have done a splendid job in arranging for the ceremonies. They deserve the sincere appreciation of each one of us."

After outlining the plans for the celebration, the president turned to the roster of dignitaries expected for the celebration.

"I want to report to you that the Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court has already accepted an invitation to participate in the ceremonies," announced the president.

"Furthermore," he added, "we've invited the Lord Chief Justice of Great Britain . . . and it appears that most, if not all, of the associate justices of the U. S. Supreme Court will be joining us for the ceremonies. In short," he concluded, "we're looking forward to visits from the top legal experts in the English-speaking world. The name of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law should gain the recognition it so rightly deserves as a result of such impressive ceremonies."

Words of Praise. After the president's significant remarks, the address by Lieutenant Governor A. E. S. Stephens, '22X, seemed predestined to an anti-climactic fate. Yet, despite the headline announcements of the Rockefeller gift and of Chief Justice Warren's pending visit, Virginia's No. 2 man still had a few well-chosen words of his own.

He traced the good and the bad of the last session of Virginia's General Assembly. He praised some actions; condemned others.

But for his Alma Mater, the glib-tongued Democrat had only words of praise.

"William and Mary has not a law school, but the law school," Stephens told his audience.

"William and Mary is big enough in character and tradition to move on to still bigger days," he encouraged.

"William and Mary has had a lot of knocks," he concluded. "But with President Chandler at its helm, it is on the threshold of its greatest era."

New Officers. Wesley R. Cofer, Jr., '47Ba, '49BCL, was elected as the association's new president during the meeting. Assisting him for the forthcoming year will be W. Garland Clarke, '48BCL, vice-president; Chester S. Baker, '42Ba, '49BCL, secretary; Frederick B. Price, '49BCL treasurer; and James A. Murphy, Jr., 51Ba '53BCL, sergeant-at-arms. Past President Chappell, '48Ab, '50BCL, and Ferdinand Chandler, '22Ab, '26BL, were elected directors.

Impressive Ceremonies

Since the President's April 24 references to the Marshall-Wythe-Blackstone ceremonies, plans for the celebration have been snowballing.

Dr. W. Melville Jones, professor of English who was named executive director of the project, has set up a full-time office in the Wren Building which has been functioning since mid-June. His office has sent out more than 2,500 brochures on the ceremonies to attorneys throughout the country, has written reams of letters on the celebration, and has, in short, become the proverbial nerve center of the entire celebration.

Four-Fold Purpose. The official title of the celebration is the Marshall-Wythe-Blackstone Commemoration Ceremonies. Its stated purpose, as voted by the law association last year, is to emphasize the "vast influence which the three jurists have had upon American Jurisprudence."

Actually, its purpose is four-fold:

It will serve to rededicate the Anglo-American Bench and Bar to its traditions of representative constitutional government.

It will inaugurate the year-long celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of John Marshall's birth.

It will inaugurate the creation of a chair of taxation at the College.

It will inaugurate the one hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the establishment of the first chair of law in the United States.

The focal point for the entire celebration, however, will be the unveiling of busts of John Marshall, George Wythe, and Sir William Blackstone. The busts are being carved by Felix W. de Weldon, internationally-known sculptor and creator of the large monument to the Marines at Iwo Jima.

It marks the second step within a year that William and Mary has taken to honor its first professor of law, George Wythe, and his renowned student, John Marshall. Just last fall the College's Board of Visitors voted to change the name of the law school from the conservative Department of Jurisprudence to the more significant Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Distinguished List. The list of prominent dignitaries who have indicated that they will be on hand for the red-letter day has been growing by leaps and bounds.

Among those who have already accepted invitations are U. S. Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren; Britain's Lord Chief Justice, Lord Goddard; U. S. Supreme Court Associate Justices Felix Frankfurter, Harold H. Burton, Tom C. Clark, Sherman Minton, and William O. Douglas; U. S. Commissioner of Internal Revenue T. Coleman Andrews; Federal Judge Harold R. Medina, widely known for his brilliant handling of the difficult trial of 11 Communist leaders in 1949; Federal Judge David A. Pine, who handed down the famous decision on the steel strike several years ago; Arthur Lehman Goodhart, Master of University College at Oxford; and Loyd Wright, president of the American Bar Association.

Included on the list of prominent Virginians who are expected for the celebration are Edward W. Hudgins, Chief Justice of the Old Dominion's Supreme Court of Appeals and the associate justices; Governor Thomas B. Stanley; Lieutenant Governor A. E. S. Stephens; Attorney General J. Lindsay Almond; and the Virginia senators and representatives to the United States Congress.

One of the features on the program will be an afternoon panel discussion on "The New Tax Law and the Responsibilities of the Lawyer, Accountant, and Tax Administrator."

Commissioner Andrews will be Chairman of the panel. It will consist of some of the country's top tax experts, including Joel Barlow, prominent Washington attorney; J. S. Seidman, one of the country's outstanding tax accountants; Norman Sugarman, Assistant Commissioner of Internal Revenue; Daniel A. Taylor, Chief Counsel for the Bureau of Internal Revenue; C. H. Morrisett, Virginia's State Tax Commissioner; and Edgar J. Goodrich, prominent Washington Tax Attorney.

Press Coverage. With such an influential list of notables, the celebration seems assured of extensive publicity. Although press plans are still in the embryo stage, a barrage of TV and newsreel cameramen are expected to descend on the scene well in advance of the 10:30 a.m. ceremony deadline. Widespread newspaper, magazine, and radio coverage is also anticipated.

Advance news releases are already being disseminated on an extensive scale to newspapers, radio and television stations. Much publicity has also rolled off the presses in law journals and various other periodicals.

According to Dr. Jones, the celebration is "shaping up as one of the most impressive ceremonies ever undertaken by the College. We're anticipating one of the largest arrays of dignitaries that have ever converged on the 261-year-old campus."

WARREN
An array of dignitaries

Said President Chandler: "It will easily be one of the largest celebrations that the College has ever sponsored."

Added Marshall-Wythe Dean Dudley W. Woodbridge: "The legal world will certainly hear from America's oldest law school on Saturday, September 25."

COMMENCEMENT

54 Tolls

From the cupola of the Wren Building 54 strokes of the class bell drifted across a sun-dappled campus on Wednesday morning, May 19.

The tolling marked the beginning of a series of ceremonies which brought to a close the College's 261st academic session.

Just before the bell tolled, 301 robed seniors met in the Wren Building's Great Hall for traditional Senior Day exercises.

A Challenge. Class President Bud Jay presented the class gift, a glass-enclosed wall directory for Marshall-Wythe, to President Chandler. In accepting the gift, the president called it "one of the most useful gifts we've ever received." Then, in a gnomic statement, the president set forth a challenge to the class: "The past has been created for you. You can create the future."

Jim Barnes, in one of his last official acts as director of alumni and information, welcomed the Class of '54 into the Society of the Alumni and urged each member to "fight for this College as I intend to do down through the years."

John A. Westberg, 1954 editor of The Colonial Echo, then presented a copy of the yearbook to Dr. S. Donald Southworth, to whom it was dedicated.

An afternoon picnic at Yorktown concluded the Senior Day activities.

Whirlwind Schedule. Two weeks later, on June 4, after examinations had ended, other ceremonies and activities commenced with registration at The Brafterton. Registration continued the following morning, coinciding with a coffee hour and open house at the alumni headquarters.

The oldest alumni registering were Everett Edwards of Sweet Hall, '92, and T. Everett Chambers of Blackstone, '93, each 83 years old.

Following a meeting of Alpha of Virginia of Phi Beta Kappa, the voices of the William and Mary Choir echoed over the campus from the traditional noon memorial service at the College Cemetery. The invocation and benediction were pronounced by the Reverend Herbert N. Tucker, Jr., '48, and a tribute to deceased alumni was offered by Lloyd H. Williams, '29. The roster of dead was read by Dr. John Thomas Baldwin, '32. A wreath was placed on the grave of Colonel B. S. Ewell, 17th president of the College, by Robert Stanley Ripley, a member of the graduating class.

An alumni reunion luncheon was held at the Williamsburg Lodge at 1 P.M. President Alvin Duke Chandler made brief but pertinent remarks. On behalf of the Society of the Alumni, Alumni President William F. Thompson presented gifts to Jim and Dorothy Barnes.

The luncheon was followed by class meetings at 3:00 P.M. Reuniting this year were the classes of '26, '27, '28, '29, '44, '45, '46, '47, and the "Old Guard" of 1847-1899. The class of '29 voted to hold a reunion every five years hence, following its reunion session of June 4.

At 4:40 P.M. in the College Yard President and Mrs. Chandler gave a reception and garden party for members of the graduating class, their guests, alumni, and faculty members. Following the reception and garden party, a buffet dinner was held at 6:00 P.M. and the annual senior dance at 9:00 P.M. in the Pagoda Room.

Finality. The final day, June 5, began in the College Yard with the Baccalaureate sermon by Dr. Paul K. Buckles, First Presbyterian Church, Newport News, Va.

At 5 o'clock the academic procession marched onto the platform again, and the last hours of the 261st Academic Session of William and Mary began. Dr. J. J. Scherer, pastor of the First English Evangelical Lutheran Church in Richmond, delivered the commencement address to an estimated 1,000 persons.

Beginning with a brief lesson in etymology, Dr. Scherer said: "Blest and bleed come from the same Anglo-Saxon root word. No man, from the time of Jesus of Nazareth to the present moment in history, has ever blessed his generations without bleeding for that generation."

Continuing, the speaker warned the students that they needed something additional to "their academic achievements." "That," he said, "is your concept of God, the other fellow, and yourself."

Dr. Scherer was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree by President Chandler.

Leadership, Proficiency, Love. During the ceremonies, James D. Grant, Arlington, received the James Frederick Carr Memorial Award given annually on the basis of character, scholarship, and leader-

Madge Charlton Cushing, Roanoke, Virginia; Winfred O'Neil Ward, Exmore, Virginia; and Miss Marguerite Wynne-Roberts, Williamsburg, Virginia, were presented the Algernon Sidney Sullivan awards, "in recognition of influence for good" and "for such characteristics of heart, mind, and conduct as evince a spirit of love and helpfulness to other men and women."

Twenty-three members of the graduating class were commissioned as second lieutenants in the Artillery, United States Army Reserve.

At the conclusion of the program, the academic procession reformed and marched to the steps of the President's House, where Dean Marsh covered the mace and declared the 261st Academic Session of William and Mary closed. Graduates, faculty, alumni, and guests sang the Alma Mater.

MEMORABILIA

In an effort to provide Alumni with a review of the past year's events, Senior Class President Bud Jay compiled the following account for the GAZETTE.—Ed.

In Retrospect. To try to bring alumni up to date on everything that the students have been doing for the past year is a pretty difficult assignment, especially in one article. Therefore, I will just try and hit the high spots.

Of course the big news of last fall was our "Iron Indians." With Charley Sumner calling signals, George Parrazo and John "Jeep" Bednarik plugging gaps and opening holes in the line, and Bill Bowman crashing through with "the Mail," William and Mary was able to come out on top throughout the Fall . . . if not in score, at least in spirit and determination. A great deal of credit goes to Co-captains Steve Milkovich and Tommy Martin who were a great inspiration to everyone on the team. L. Q. "Hadacol" Hines wound up his last year of inter-collegiate ball with his "magic toe" again spelling the difference between victory and defeat.

An Urgent Need

BOARD OF VISITORS LOOKS AHEAD

Growing concern over the College's crowded conditions was indicated by the Board of Visitors when they met in May in the Blue Room of the Wren Building.

The Board cited an anticipated 57 per cent increase in the number of college age children within the next decade and a half. Then it went on to emphasize a most urgent need for enlarging the College's facilities, not only at Williamsburg, but in Richmond and Norfolk as well.

In view of the increasing demands on the College for admissions, the board members expressed hopes that funds for increasing the limited facilities would be included in forthcoming state appropriations. Plans for the increased facilities were presented at the last session of the Virginia General Assembly.

On other matters, the Board approved faculty appointments for the next academic year at the College in Williamsburg, the Norfolk Division, and Richmond Professional Institute.

Included in the appointments was the assignment of Dr. Harold Romaine Phalen as head of the College's Mathematics Department. Dr. Phalen, a member of the faculty since 1940, fills the vacancy created by the recent death of Dr. John Minor Stetson.

The Board also approved budgets for the coming year for the three institutions which it governs.

During the meeting James M. Robertson '29Bs of Norfolk was re-elected as rector for the ensuing year. Dr. H. Hudnall Ware, '22X of Richmond was elected vice-rector and Roy R. Charles, '32Bs of Norfolk was re-elected secretary.

It was the first board meeting for two new board members just recently appointed by Governor Stanley. Attending their initial meeting were Edward P. Simpkins, Jr., of Richmond and R. William Arthur of Wytheville, Va. In addition to the officers members who attended the meeting were John Garland Pollard, Jr., of Somers; J. D. Carneal, Jr. of Richmond; Mrs. Philip W. Hiden of Newport News; and Dr. Dowell J. Howard of Richmond, ex-officio member.

NEW BOARD MEMBERS

Edward P. Simpkins, Jr.

Edward P. Simpkins, Jr., born September 25, 1907, in Hanover County, was graduated from William and Mary in 1928 as valedictorian of his class. Before entering William and Mary he attended the public schools of Hanover County. While in school at Williamsburg, he was elected to both Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Beta Kappa.

During the academic year of 1928-29, he was a member of the faculty of Danville High School, where he taught history and government. Then he returned to William and Mary as Assistant Librarian under Dr. E. G. Swem.

Deciding on a law career, he enrolled in the Harvard Law School in September, 1930, and was graduated in June, 1933.

After graduating, he became associated with the law firm of Parrish, Butcher, and Parrish, where he remained until 1940. Then he entered the firm of May, Simpkins, and May, where he remained until the firm was dissolved in 1951. Since then he has been practicing law in the City of Richmond. Elected Commonwealth's attorney of Hanover County in January, 1936, he held that

Roy William Arthur

Roy William Arthur, born May 16, 1917, in Louisa County, Virginia, was graduated from the College of William and Mary in 1938. Before entering William and Mary, he was educated in the public schools of Hopewell, Radford, and Wytheville and had attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute for one year.

While in school at Williamsburg, he was active in many organizations; he was a member of the band and of the dance orchestra; he was president of the Wythe Law Club for a year, a charter member of the Backdrop Club, and a member of Sigma Nu, Omicron Delta Kappa and the 13 Club.

After receiving his A.B., he entered the William and Mary Law School, from which he received a degree in 1940.

He has been a partner in the law firm of Parsons and Arthur in Wytheville, Virginia, since graduating from Law School. In conjunction with his practice, he has continued to be active in civic affairs. A former mayor of Wytheville, from 1946-1952, he has also served in various capacities for the Red Cross, the March of Dimes, the Tubercu-

The College community responded to our gridiron fortunes with a spirit which rivaled that of any preceding years. Finally on December 8 the faculty, students, and the Society of the Alumni got together and held a special convocation honoring the football team. At that time each member of the team and coaching staff received a scroll "in appreciation of the inspiring contribution to the success of William and Mary's famed 'Iron Indians' football squad of 1953." In addition each senior was presented with a watch, gifts from the people of Williamsburg and friends of the College.

In the field of student publications William and Mary was at the top of the list. Our newspaper, The Flat Hat, was again named the best undergraduate weekly newspaper in the State by the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association. Editor-in-Chief Arnold Lubasch did a great job in guiding The Flat Hat to this award for the fifth time in six judgments.

Meanwhile, the Royalist, under Editor Carol Butters, tied for second place with the Virginia Spectator in literary magazine contest, and the 1953 issue of the Colonial Echo was also judged as second best in the yearbook division.

The school session of 1953-54 was a very busy one for the Student Government. In assuming his duties Cary Scates, President of the Student Body, faced a gargantuan task. Perhaps his most difficult assignment was in representing the students in dealings with the administration. It is only natural that the students and the administration have differences, and for that reason there was an understandable amount of dissension between them. Many of the issues have already been aired enough, perhaps too much.

One important point, however, seems to have been lost in the shuffle of past debates, and that is that the students were not afraid to stand up and present their opinions and desires. As long as the students have the opportunity to give their views, and they accept that opportunity, we can rest assured that all is well at William and Mary.

Under Jim Grant, the Dance Committee once again did a great job in arranging the three big dances of the year, Homecoming, Mid-winters, and May Dances. No doubt many of you remember Homecoming with music by Art Mooney, the parade Saturday morning, and the 12-7 victory over George Washington that afternoon.

Mid-winters received a tremendous boost this year thanks to the very fine music of Ralph Marterie followed by the Alumni-Varsity football game the next day. In a game of mixed emotions and cheers for both teams the powerful Alumni, bolstered by many professional griders, managed to squeak by the undergrads.

Perhaps the outstanding student production of the year was the Colonial Festival which followed the Formal May Dance featuring Woody Herman. With a natural colonial atmosphere and the work and participation of hundreds of students, the Festival promised to be a big success. Marilyn Zaiser and Bob Lawrence acted as co-chairmen, succeeding "Stubby" Staubs, in what was only the Festival's second year.

This year rain marred the day, but fortunately not the production. With many last minute changes and a change in location from the Old Campus to Blow Gym the show went on, and in doing so proved that it could be just as good indoors as out.

Another product of student efforts during the year 1953-54 was the re-vitalization of the William and Mary Intercollegiate Debate Council. From what had been a highly successful organization in past years, great things emerged once more. Despite handicaps such as not having a coach and budget limitations, our debating team was ranked among the top ten in the Dixie Debating Conference which includes teams from colleges and universities throughout the South.

At the Grand National Debating Tournament this past year, William and Mary students entered in eleven divisions and carried off awards in nine of them. Student body interest in our forensic group surged as the Debate Council under the leadership of Henry Kaplan sponsored debates on the campus with topics timed to the student's interests. We can all be proud of the accomplishments of this fine group of students and hope that those who

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

At the request of the GAZETTE, Senior Class President Joseph Edward "Bud" Jay has woven together his impressions of the 1954 campus scene. His observations should provide alumni with a clear-cut insight into student reactions during the past academic year.

Bud Jay was born 21 years ago in Dallas, Texas, and attended Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School in Bethesda, Maryland. An economics major at William and Mary, he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Scabbard and Blade, and Society for the Advancement of Management. Besides being president of the Class of '54, he was a cheerleader and President's Aide.—Ed.

follow them can have equal success.

In reflection we can see that the college student's life is not one long round of parties and professors as cartoonists often depict, but is also filled with many hours of productive efforts in extra-curricular affairs. Here at William and Mary we are fortunate to have an atmosphere in which students can work toward goals other than scholastic. During the past year there was ample opportunity for anyone interested in the theater, student government, journalism, athletics, or a host of other special interests to develop their talents. Thus William and Mary can lay claim to just as high a rating in extra-curricular opportunities as it can in the scholastic field.

It would, however, be sheer hypocrisy to say that we have everything we need at the College. The problem of space and plant facilities has been strongly felt during the past years, and even more so last year with the loss by fire of our auditorium, Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall.

Beyond a doubt our biggest current need is for a student activities building. At present there is no place for students to gather and intermingle with each other and with the faculty. The fraternity lodges and sorority houses are freely available to only about half of the students. Williamsburg does not possess the variety of entertainment which the average college student desires and which could be found in a large city. It is earnestly hoped and desired by everyone at the College that we can have a student union very soon, and that the Virginia General Assembly will vote us the funds at its next session.

Turning now to matters particularly related to the Senior Class, we find that we had quite a year. Our treasury almost quadrupled itself, mainly through two channels. First, there was the near 100% per cent collection of class dues, and second, a Sadie Hawkins Dance in November. With the girls permitted one o'clock lates and Bill Clements providing the music, it turned out to be a tremendous success. With our financial worries behind us, we were able to go ahead with our plans for the second semester.

The climax, of course, was Class Day. After a Senior Breakfast, at which copies of the class history were distributed, we presented the College with our class gift, a wall directory for Marshall-Wythe. The enthusiasm over the impending graduation also brought about the mysterious disappearance of the clapper from the bell in the Wren Building, and Lord Botetourt's disguise as a member of the KKK. Although there is no confirmation of the fact, various members of the administration believed these events to be the workings of the Senior Class.

In closing I would like for us to take a look at the future, especially the members of the Class of 1954. During our last days at the College we were made aware of our Alumni Society. As Alums we are now able to take part in the work of this Society. But in order to do so, we must first join the active ranks of alumni who are supporting the College and contributing toward the William and Mary Fund.

The Class of '54 has made a great start in its contributions, and now we must strive to have everyone enroll in the Society. The contributions which you make to the William and Mary Fund are used to maintain The Brafferton as a place for visiting Alumni to stay, to publish the ALUMNI GAZETTE which brings news of what the College and your friends are doing, and to provide scholarships which enable many worthy students to attend the College.

For these reasons it is my earnest desire that our class can set a new record in the number of people who are full-fledged members of the Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary. Give, that others may enjoy the same opportunities you had.

ADMINISTRATION

End of An Era

After more than a quarter-century of unselfish and devoted service to the College, Miss Marguerite Wynne-Roberts has resigned her position as assistant dean of women to accept a similar post with Jackson College in Massachusetts. The following article pertaining to Miss Wynne-Roberts' resignation was written at the request of the GAZETTE by one of the College's former students who prefers anonymity.—Ed.

Surely William and Maryians carry around flexible mental maps of the locations of fellow-William and Maryians, for we're all likely to be near a college friend at some time or other. We now have check-marks on those maps at Medford, Massachusetts, where Miss Marguerite Wynne-Roberts will begin her work this Fall as Assistant Dean of Women in Jackson College. Whenever William and Mary friends have an opportunity to stop at Jackson, they will be greeted by the same kind welcome and warm heart that smiled, "Come in," for almost twenty years at the Assistant Dean's office in Barrett.

Some of Miss Wynne-Roberts' visitors may be those who were her students or co-workers during the late 1920's when she taught physical education at the College. She recalls those as "delightful, fun-filled years, with many grand teams, wonderful May Day programs, and the close and happy relationship of students and faculty. . . ." Miss Wynne-Roberts and her guests will talk about the weekly Saturday night dances in Blow Gym, where there was always a sizeable stag line of both men and women, and about the skating parties on Lake Matoaka. These were the prevailing types of entertainment before the coming of the war and the later era of the fraternity lodges. After the transition from teaching to assistant deaning, Miss Wynne-Roberts remained a part of the Phys. Ed. Department through her work with the W.A.A., various committees, and her continually broadening contacts with participants of the College community.

As Assistant Dean of Women, Miss Wynne-Roberts found that a wide and interesting network connected her office to all sections of the campus and brought her in touch with all its inhabitants. Early in her career, one small portion of that network was the tunnel leading from Chandler dormitory to Barrett. It should prove to be a most amusing chat if one of the fifteen girls who confessed to crawling through that tunnel after hours were to drop in at Jackson.

In addition to her work as counselor to the W.S.C.G.A., she had a hand in the installation of a campus-wide Student Government Association and served continuously on the General Cooperative Committee. She was responsible for the training and supervision of Housemothers, arrangements for College social affairs, and served on many faculty committees through the years. It is as difficult to list Miss Wynne-Roberts' creative deeds as it is to show adequate appreciation for her work and for the spirit in which that work was accomplished.

After the guests have traveled onward in New England, the Assistant Dean of Jackson College will smile again about the pleasures she experienced at William and Mary; and her custom of seeing the humorous side of her experiences will continue to make her tasks a joy rather than a burden. At the same time, the traveling William and Maryians and those who may never get to Massachusetts will be thinking often of Miss Wynne-Roberts; and many will chuckle over her good-humored shrewdness in never revealing the numerous student-pranks she dealt with and observed in Williamsburg. Some summer they may have an opportunity to enjoy again her hospitality in Virginia.

NAN CHILD ZIMMER, MISS WYNNE-ROBERTS, JAN FERRELL, SHIRLEY STAUBS
A spirit of love and helpfulness

Miss Wynne-Roberts concluded her job at the College with the feeling that "my confidence in the students has always been justified, and I'm so grateful for the cooperation and helpfulness of the people with whom I've worked; they've never let me down." We return that compliment. On June 6, 1954, the College of William and Mary presented to Miss Wynne-Roberts the Algernon Sidney Sullivan Award "in recognition of influence for good, and for such characteristics of heart, mind and conduct as evince a spirit of love and helpfulness to other men and women."

THE STUDENTS

World Travelers

An increasing number of William and Mary students are spending their summers traveling abroad. But is it not all play for these Americans who choose to visit the ends of the earth to know more about the world in which they live. Some attend summer schools; some join workshops; some live with native families to learn the language and customs.

Mrs. David Armstrong of the Department of Modern Languages and advisor to students on travel and study abroad, has marked up the world map to send interested students stepping across the globe to places fitting their needs and desires. She and Miss Martha Barksdale of the Department of Physical Education for Women are each taking groups on tours for college students conducted by Brownell. Both have traveled extensively in Europe, and Mrs. Armstrong, a native of Vienna, will be returning to home territory.

Organized Curiosity. Some students have chosen organized tours. Shirley Habestad, Joanne Eversole, Susan Rosar, Robert Parrish, Ann McCoy, Barbara Shriver, Joyce Louderback, Pearl Frayser, Jean Van Shilling, and Fred La Croix will travel on these tours in from three to eight European countries. Sally and Peggy Ives will go with "American Youth Abroad." Some recent graduates are joining old friends in their European travels. Among them are Jane Gross and Jean Lang.

Others have chosen to make their own tours. Robert Feldman and Gary Joachim will stay in a castle on Traunsee near Salzburg with students of various nationalities while attending a seminar. Thomas Kefalas will attend a UNESCO seminar in a castle in Brittany and then will stay in youth hostels and with friends.

Florence De Hart and Jean Cromwell will enroll at the University of Grenoble and will live in a French home during this period. Gordo and Winkie Wilde have planned their own tour of Europe. Marguerite Huff will join her mother on a tour through western Europe.

A few students have chosen to visit countries nearer. Down in Mexico to shout oles and to eat tortillas are Nelia Daggett, Harlan Reynolds, Carol Pough, and Mary A. Maklowshi. They will also be studying at the summer school at Saltillo, Coah., Mexico.

Margo Wood will study French at Laval University, Quebec, Canada, where she will live with a French Canadian family.

Slides, Souvenirs, and Understanding. When these earth-steppers return in the fall, they will undoubtedly bring back countless souvenirs, slides, and unforgettable memories. But they will bring back more than these.

They will bring back a better understanding of the world in which they live, and by sharing their thought-provoking and stimulating experiences, they will give their friends at William and Mary a better knowledge of the world. So here is bon voyage and happy homecoming to all of them.

EVENING SESSION

Nocturnal Sevens

The academic buildings have seldom been so brightly lighted at night as now on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Then evening classes are in session. This year 257 students in the first semester and 270 in the second enrolled for a total of 580 class registrations, ranging from freshman English to Personnel Management.

Since being authorized on August 13, 1952, at a meeting of Heads of Departments and the Faculty Advisory Council, the Session has made great progress. Dean Marsh and Dr. C. Harper Anderson did the organizational work and provided for a successful first year. Then in this session the number of students increased by 65.2% over the number in the first session; the quality of students improved; and additional courses have been added.

Not All Freshmen. The purpose for the Session's establishment was to meet the growing demand by service men and women at nearby military establishments for college courses with residence credit in the evening hours. Military bases served include Fort Eustis, Camp Peary, Fort Monroe, Cheatham Annex, the Naval Mine Depot, the Naval Mine Warfare School, Langley Air Force Base, and the Norfolk Air Station. But these military men were not all freshmen; of the 303 men served, 182 either held degrees or were already candidates for degrees before joining the night session. In order to help them choose courses which will best serve their needs, John Quinn, Coordinator of the Evening Session since February, 1953, conducts an off-campus advisory program.

Although about 50% of the students are military men, the Session also serves the civilian population of the peninsula. About 26% of the students are Williamsburg residents; the others come from 30 communities, principally on the peninsula. Courses designed to fulfill the needs of these students have been added. Some of them are typing and shorthand, Introduction to Business Enterprise, and Personnel Management. Other courses, such as Marriage and the Family and Abnormal Psychology, will be added in the fall.

Cultural Uplift. Dressed in civilian clothes, the military students do not know rank; a buck private never knows whether he is disagreeing with another buck private or with a colonel. Privates, colonels, bankers, editors, secretaries, teachers, and retired diversion-seekers—all make the halls resound academically in the nocturnal hours. One student, age sixty-five, has taken freshman English twice for "diversion and cultural uplift."

Through bulletins, widely distributed in the area, and the use of radio, newspapers, and personal promotion activities, the Evening Session is becoming known throughout the area as one which renders invaluable service to the community.

office for twelve years, with the exception of two years in the United States Navy.

The new board member has taken an active interest in civic affairs: he has been Secretary, President, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Ruritan Club; a member of the Board of Directors of the Richmond Bar Association and the Hanover County Red Cross Association; Chairman of the Planning Commission of Hanover County; and is now a member of the Board of Directors of the Tri-County Bank, Incorporated, and of the Hermitage Country Club.

Interested in William and Mary alumni activities, he has been Class Agent for the class of 1928 for several years and is a member of the William and Mary Foundation.

losis Association, and the Boy Scouts of America. He is a past chairman of the Wythe County Democratic Committee and the Wytheville Lions Club, a member of the American Judicature Society and a Mason.

The new Board Member is also a member of the Board of Visitors of Emory and Henry College. Recently named to a three-year term on the Board of Trustees of the William and Mary Educational Foundation, he is also listed in Who's Who in the South and Southwest. In 1953 the Business and Professional Women's Club named him the outstanding male citizen of the year.

THE SOCIETY

A Former Policy Revived

In a series of June meetings, the Board of Directors of the Alumni Society selected Jim Kelly, '51 Ba, to be its new executive secretary. The new appointment was necessitated by the resignation of Jim Barnes, '27 Ba, who, on April 16, was appointed Commissioner of Public Relations and Advertising for the Virginia State Department of Conservation and Development.

The Board also decided to revert to a policy which existed before Barnes' appointment in 1952—that of the separation of alumni and public relations activities. President Chandler, in connection with this decision of the Board, announced that public relations, formerly under Barnes' direction, have been assigned to Roger W. Dudley.

Gregarious extrovert. Barnes' resignation ended nearly two years of diligent alumni work. Before that he had served for six years as Chief of the Division of Local Planning of the Department of Conservation and Development. During World War II, he was Director of Naval Officer Procurement, first in Richmond and later in Washington; from 1931-42 he was a member of the faculty at Washington and Lee University.

In a recent (May, 1954) issue of the Sigma Phi Epsilon Journal, Barnes, a former editor of the Journal, was described as being "at once journalist, scholar, and gifted orator . . . Barnes was the gregarious extrovert, devoted to the Fraternity, and to the proposition that fraternities in general thrived on nothing so much as on sheer gregariousness of actives with one another . . . He was a handsome, dynamic brother with a sharp sense of balance." Jim Barnes carried devotion to that proposition over into his alumni work.

Prediction of progress. President Chandler, commenting on the Board's selection of Jim Kelly, said the Board and the College would have to look an indefinite length of time to find an alumnus more qualified for the job.

Observed Barnes: "The Society of the Alumni will go forward under Jim Kelly's guidance. The Board of Directors of the Society could not have chosen more wisely. The College and the Society are fortunate to have secured the service of so able a man. He has my whole-hearted support."

A new Alumni Secretary. Kelly, who described the decision he had just made as "an easy one, for I can think of no place that I would rather be than in the service of my College," is a native of Bristol, Virginia. Twenty-four years old, he was employed by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Company in New York City.

As a William and Mary student, he set an outstanding record in extra-curricular activities. He was president of the senior class, a member of the Student Senate, the Assembly, the general co-operative committee, and the varsity track team. Also, he was a president's aide, chairman of the publications committee, and a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

After graduation in 1951, he served for two years with the Marine Corps from which he was discharged as a First Lieutenant. He was President of the New York Chapter of the Alumni Society of William and Mary and, before he moved to New York, Secretary of the Delaware Chapter of the Society.

Last January Kelly married a William and Mary alumna, the former Beverly Beech Simonton, '53Ba. Mrs. Kelly was May Queen at William and Mary during her senior year and was named Miss William and Mary of 1953.

Like her husband, she was an active campus leader. She was Chairman of the Judicial Committee of Women's Student Government, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, and a member of Delta Delta Delta. She was also Vice-President of Mortar Board, a president's aide, and a member of the William and Mary Choir.

Resolution of Praise. Before adjourning, the Board approved 9:00 A.M., Friday, December 3, 1954, as its next date of meeting and passed the following resolution: "Be it resolved that the Board of Directors of the Alumni Society of the College of William and Mary in Virginia lauds the efforts and accomplishments of the Law School Association in conceiving and organizing the Marshall-Wythe Celebration and offers its full endorsement and support to that occasion, expressing sincere hope that it will be a memorable event in the history of the College."

Valedictory. During the annual Alumni luncheon meeting, June 5, Barnes, in a heartwarming valedictory tone, gave his definition of a good alumnus: "I believe that every graduating alumnus leaves a bit of his heart behind when he graduates. I believe that a good alumnus returns to the Campus, as a shrine, to put the pieces of his heart together on every possible occasion. I left behind a piece of my heart when I graduated in 1927. I was privileged to return to the College in 1952 as a member of the staff. Now, in 1954, I am leaving again. I'm leaving a larger portion of my heart." After solemnly pledging that he would be back, Barnes said, "I believe William and Mary is on the march. I want to share in that march . . . Help me to be a good, loyal alumnus."

Perseverance and Pertinacity

When the College granted a degree of Bachelor of Philosophy to Thomas G. Jones of Urbanna, Virginia, in 1867, it was a doubly significant occasion.

It was the only Bachelor of Philosophy diploma awarded in 1867. Moreover, it was the first such diploma awarded since the College had been reopened two years earlier by President Benjamin Ewell.

Only two other degrees had been granted during the post-war days of William and Mary—a Master of Arts and a Doctor of Divinity, both of which were awarded in 1866.

The Jones diploma, a symbol of the spirit of perseverance and pertinacity of the College, is now the property of Lewis Jones, '15Ab, judge of the Thirteenth Judicial Circuit in Virginia and a son of the recipient. A reproduction of the certificate is on display in the College Library.

Due to the condition of the buildings and the small number of students at the time, the diploma was originally awarded without benefit of commencement exercises.

Heirs to Learning. A random glance at the Jones genealogy turns up several William and Mary alumni. In addition to Thomas G. Jones and Judge Lewis Jones, the list includes Parker Crutchfield, '38Ab, of Williamsburg, who is recognized as the "only Eighteenth Century master baker in the world." In the restoration Bakery, behind the Raleigh Tavern, he demonstrates old-style baking on the site where, generations ago, were baked the wholesome edibles that George Washington and Thomas Jefferson enjoyed.

That more Jones descendants are William and Mary-bound seems a foregone conclusion. A third generation prospect, eight-year-old, Parker Crutchfield, Jr., is already looking ahead to classes at the College.

Young Parker will actually be the grandson of two William and Mary alumni. Another grandfather, Alexander Trent Clarke, who lived at Celesville, Charles City County, attended the College in 1859 and 1860.

Thomas G. Jones, the recipient of the only degree awarded in 1867, was born in Middlesex County, Virginia, in September of 1844, and matriculated at William and Mary on October 16, 1865. Prior to serving in the Confederate Army—he was wounded at the Battle of Cold Harbor—

Jones had attended Emory and Henry College. After his two years at William and Mary, he studied law at Columbia College (now George Washington University), from which he received a law degree in June, 1869. From January, 1871, until his death, September 2, 1912, he was the Commonwealth's attorney of Middlesex County.

A Golden Anniversary

All of the students Cornelia Adair, '23Ab, has taught and all the teachers she has guided know that they can never repay this remarkable, service-dedicated woman. But recently, just before Miss Adair retired after fifty years of teaching—they tried.

Franklin School in Richmond, where she taught for 24 of the 50 years, began heaping honors upon its retiring principal by declaring June 4 "Miss Adair Day." The principal had not recovered from this surprise before the boys and girls of the school presented her a "vacation" fund.

Later in the evening, the Parent-Teachers Association presented a program, at which distinguished guests paid honor to her. Among the speakers were Congressman J. Vaughan Gary, Karl H. Berns of the National Education Association, and Richmond Superintendent of Schools H. I. Willett, '25 Ab.

A Proper Perspective. What qualities in a person call forth such honor and justify a school board in resolving that she is "synonymous with good education and good citizenship"? First, perhaps, is a deep understanding of human problems, and it has been Miss Adair's "own deep understanding of human problems plus a quiet sense of humor that can put burdens in their proper perspective that has kept her out front as a leader of youth and men and women for more than half a century." (Richmond News Leader, June 4, 1954.)

Next one might list faith in people. Cornelia Adair is always saying to people, "I know you can do it." By this faith and confidence in people, she has engendered in the boys and girls that she has taught and in her fellow teachers faith and confidence in themselves.

These qualities, combined with her educational training, have made her an outstanding woman. In 1923 Miss Adair

THE INDIANS

FOOTBALL

Inexperienced but speedier is a thumbnail description of William and Mary's forecast for the forthcoming football campaign.

Coach Jack Freeman, Virginia's Big Six Coach of The Year, must find replacements at ends, fullback, left tackle and center.

Gone from the Indian Reservation are All-Southern Bill Bowman at fullback, Tackle George Parozzo, Center Steve Milkovich and Ends John Bednarik and Tommy Martin. But one of the hardest replacements to find will be someone to handle the place-kicking chores for the departed Quinby Hones.

A pair of returning servicemen—Larry Fones and Jack Root should help lessen the burden caused by the loss of Martin and Bednarik, who gave up a pro-football career with the Baltimore Colts to take a high school coaching job. Fones played outstanding ball at Fort Belvoir the past two years and is a highly experienced player, while Root played here in 1951 as a Freshman under Marvin Bass before being called into the service by the Navy.

Probably the most highly regarded ex-Tribesman to return from the Armed Services is Bobby Hornsby from Newport News. A brother to another former Indian—Swanson Hornsby—Bobby combines speed and weight with ruggedness. He was an outstanding linebacker as a Freshman in '51 during the days of two-platoon football.

Coach Freeman also welcomes back a pair of guards in Lou Corbitt and Lloyd Hicks. Corbitt saw considerable service in '51, while Hicks entered school in February 1952 from Hampton H. S., and took part in only Spring football practice before going into the Navy.

With the addition of the service returnees, Coach Freeman has 14 returning lettermen from last year's band of "Iron Indians" that ended the season with a record of five wins, four losses and a 6-6 tie with Navy.

"Last season's squad was a veteran team and its experience will be missed this season," Coach Freeman explained. "The big question mark now is—how will the 1954 squad be able to stand up with the more experienced teams which we face this Fall? Though we will not have the experience of last year we shouldn't tire out in the closing minutes of a game as we did in the past." Coach Freeman pointed out that he should have a squad of 44 men, not including the September Freshmen who will be eligible this Fall under new Southern Conference regulations.

Strong points in the Tribe lineup will be at guard, tackle and in the backfield where Coach Freeman has four lettermen headed by Co-Captain Charlie Sumner of Salem, Va. Sumner led the Conference last Fall in total offense.

Co-Captain Jerry Sazio, 225-pound tackle is a candidate for All-Star honors and will team with Charlie Copeland of Hampton to give the Tribe heft in the line. A pair of Sophomores, John Brantley of Emporia and Ray Chiesa, Blairsville, Pa., should see considerable action.

The Tribe will have no less than ten candidates battling it out for the guard post, but a trio of established performers will get first call over the inexperienced newcomers. Sam Scott, who begins his fourth year as a regular for the Indians, will occupy the left guard position, while Aubrey Fitzgerald and Chet Waksmunski will fight it out for the other regular position. Ends and center will be the doubtful points.

Until Fones and Root were released from the service, Lindy Cox, another four-year regular, was the only letterman, though Cox was shifted to the terminal spot after performing as a guard throughout his varsity career. Coach Freeman is hoping to get some help from his incoming Freshmen which would lighten the load expected from Cox, Fones and Root.

The Tribe will be better off in backfield material than they have been in the past few years, though Coach Freeman is still looking for a good all-around quarterback to relieve Sumner. In Al Grieco, Dick Langham, Jim Smerczynski and Bob Nelson the Tribe has four youngsters who can do one thing well, but none measures up to the all-around ability of Sumner. Smerczynski, a 6-3 redhead from Salem, Mass., is rated by Coach Freeman as the best passer to play at William and Mary since Stan Magdziak and Buddy Ley played on the great 1946 team.

Speed will be the hallmark of the Tribe halfbacks. Sophomore Jack Yohe of Columbia, Pa., has taken his share of pre-season spotlight because of his swiftness. The mercury-heeled Yohe must battle lettermen Bob Elzey and Bill Martin for the left halfback position and a running mate for durable Walt Herrman.

Doug Henley is looked to as the likely replacement for Bowman though Hornsby and Lynchburg's Junior Duff will crowd him for starting honors.

THE CLASSES

1908 H. Lester Hooker was the subject of a recent profile study in the Richmond News Leader. In the article, he was praised for his thoroughness, which was called a contributing factor in keeping him on the State Corporation Commission for thirty years. In his years of service he has gained national prominence as an expert on utilities and railroads. As president of the National Association of Railroad and Utilities Commission, he has served for some time as the Chairman of its legislative committee.

1909 Dr. Seldon Richard Warner was a recent visitor at the Brafferton. After receiving his bachelor's degree in 1909, he earned a Master's at Cornell and a Ph.D. at the University of Chicago. A Theta Delta Chi and Phi Beta Kappa, he was a member of the famous '08 football team. From 1912 until he retired last September, he was head of the Biology Department at Sam Houston State College, Huntsville, Texas, of which he was acting president during the war years, 1943-44.

1918 Rawls Byrd is now joint superintendent of schools in Williamsburg and James City County.

1919 Dr. H. M. Stryker was recently elected to his eleventh two-year term as a Williamsburg councilman. Dr. Stryker, who has served as a councilman since 1933 and as mayor since 1948, attended William and Mary for two years and then earned his degree in dentistry in June, 1919, at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond. Since beginning his practice in Williamsburg in 1920, he has been quite active in civic affairs. A past president and board member of the Chamber of Commerce, he is also a member of the board of trustees of Colonial Williamsburg, Incorporated.

A. P. Elliott after graduating from William and Mary with both bachelor's and master's degrees, earned another master's at the University of North Carolina. From 1921 until 1923, he taught on the English faculty in Williamsburg, after which time he was Professor of English at Southwestern Louisiana Institute. He has been chairman of the Department at Southwestern since 1943.

1920 Leslie E. Bush who has been on leave for a year because of ill health, will return as principal of Richmond's Bainbridge Junior High School in September.

Robert P. Wallace is Chairman of the James City County (Va.) School Board.

1923 Dr. Roscoe David Campbell of Saltville, Virginia, is now Medical Director of Thomas K. McKee Hospital. He has been Chief Physician for the Mathieson Chemical Corporation of Saltville since 1952.

1924 Harry D. Wilkins of Richmond, assistant vice-president of personnel for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Virginia, has been elected president of the Old Dominion Chapter, Telephone Pioneers of America. A native of Eastern Shore and former Virginian-Pilot news staff member, he was district traffic manager with the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company in Norfolk for several years following World War II.

1925 Bettie Murfee Ray retired in June as elementary supervisor in the Richmond School System. In addition to attending William and Mary, she was a student at Longwood College, at the University of Virginia, at the University of Chicago and at Columbia University. Her fellow teachers presented her with a surprise gift of a set of oil paints to enable her to pursue one of her hobbies. Her fifty years of teaching—37 of them in Richmond—have included classroom training and supervision of primary grades teachers. She has always displayed those qualities which she thinks are most desirable in a teacher: a liking for children, patience, fairness, and firmness.

On June 5 at Commencement exercises, Emory University conferred a Doctor of Laws degree on Dr. Robert D. Calkins, President of Brookings Institution.

H. I. Willett, Superintendent of Richmond Public Schools and president-elect of the American Association of School Administrators, has been appointed to the advisory board of The Nation's Schools, a monthly magazine of national circulation serving school administrators. He was recently cited in an editorial pointing out Virginia's pride in her impressive array of presidents of National Educational Groups.

1926 At graduation exercises, June 10, the Senior class of Manchester High School, Richmond, presented to the school a portrait of its principal, Gurney Holland Reid. A native of Nansemond, he has been principal of Manchester for the past twenty-three years.

In Richmond's recent election to determine which nine men of Richmond would run the city's business for the next two years, W Stirling King, was re-elected. He has served on the Council since 1943; was mayor in 1948-50. The Richmond Times-Dispatch in a recent editorial pointed out his substantial and continuing contribution to the city. The editorial was partly motivated by a bronze plaque which the Richmond-First Club awarded for his "outstanding contribution" as a private citizen to good Government in Richmond. Two such Good Government Awards were presented to the recipients by Cornelia Adair, '23Ba.

1928 Edward H. Williams is practicing medicine in Miami, Florida.

William B. Bolton, Attorney at Law, recently announced the opening of his office for general practice in Fredericksburg, Virginia.

1929 Lloyd Haynes Williams, manager of the Williamsburg Bureau of the Newport News Daily Press, was recently re-elected to the City Council of Williamsburg. He has been a member of the Council since 1940 and vice mayor since 1948. He is a past president of the Rotary and Ruritan Clubs, a member of the Pulaski Club and Sigma Pi social fraternity, past vice-president and director of the Chamber of Commerce and has been Chairman of the City Democratic Committee since 1940.

1930 Martha Gresham Saffer was recently elected president of the Virginia Federation of Garden Clubs.

In March, Mary Hargrove, was named "school personality of the month" by the League of Richmond Teachers. She has taught school in Richmond for forty-three years. Now her job is to guide boys and girls in their choice of subjects when they enter John Marshall High School, but her friendly attitude brings her many more problems to solve. In addition to earning a degree at William and Mary, she attended Teachers' College, Columbia University. She is a member of the American Personnel and Guidance Association, the National Vocational Guidance Association, the Virginia Association of Guidance and Personnel Workers, the Richmond Area Guidance and Personnel Association, the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics, the American Forestry Service, the American Nature Association, and the American Association of University Women.

1931 Thomas H. James, of Kendall Grove, became Clerk of Northampton County and of the County Court. Judge Waters, who appointed Tom to fill the unexpired term of George T. Tyson, said of his appointee as custodian of the oldest continuous county records in the United States: "I believe Mr. James has the ability, industry and personality that will enable him to render an outstanding service to the people of his country."

Captain Doris C. Hammond (Doris C. Crockett) has been named Chief of the Food Service Division of the United States Army Hospital at Fort Benning. She is a member of the Women's Medical Specialists Corps.

P. B. Hamilton is Director of Sales of the Dennison Manufacturing Company, Framingham, Massachusetts. His home address is 85 Hyde Avenue, Newton, Mass.

Yelverton O. Kent recently received the largest number of votes of any other 1954 candidate to be elected to the City Council of Williamsburg. As book store manager and former refectory manager, he has been associated with the College since 1930. He is past president of the Rotary Club, a member of the board of governors of the Moose Club, an officer of the Williamsburg Packing Company, and a trustee of the National Hemophilia Foundation. He has been active in community drives such as the Red Cross, the Community Chest and the USO.

1932 Catherine Pendleton DeShazo, of Center Cross, has just returned from a thirty day tour of Germany with 7 other American women who studied conditions in rural and urban areas of Germany in order to interpret these conditions to the American people. She is president of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

1934 Anthony J. Bagley has been named president of the newly organized Richmond Container Corporation. He has been vice-president of the Fibre Board Container Corporation in Richmond since 1941.

1936 The New York Life Insurance Company has announced the appointment of Roswell Natal as manager of its Century Branch Office. A native of New Jersey, he has been associated with the New York Life Company in Chicago since 1949 as an agent and as Assistant Manager of the Central Branch Office.

1937 Major Leonard L. Phillips cited for meritorious service from September 3, 1953, to March 3, 1954, as the port's judge advocate and for meritorious service in a similar capacity at the Inchon Military Post, has received the Bronze Star Medal in Korea.

Charles Penrose recently wrote from RR. No. 2, Potsdam, New York, that he had been on a business trip to Philadelphia and both there and elsewhere had met several William and Mary alumni. Excerpts from his letter follow: "In Philadelphia I visited Edward L. Jackson, and his wife. He is a patent attorney there and is in practice with his two brothers, Joe and Van Steel.

"When I got to Washington I visited two of my former roommates at William and Mary. Ed MacConomy is still with the Legislative Reference Section of the Library of Congress, where he has been for 14 years.

"My other roommate at William and Mary was Bankhead Davies, who has his own law office in Arlington, Virginia. His brother Billy recently gave up his government job in Washington and moved to North Carolina, where he is working for an outfit that services ships. Bankhead has plans to build a three-story law office right across the street from the court house in Arlington. . . .

"Later, I visited my parents in Marietta, Ohio, and on my way back to Potsdam I passed through Columbus, Ohio. There I phoned Louise Grant. She married Robert C. Kennedy and they have two children, ages seven and five, I believe. Louise, who has lived all around the world, finds Columbus a bit dull but says it doesn't matter as she has her family to rear. . . . The same day I was in Columbus (April 12) the Columbus Citizen carried a feature story about Louise's life and how she decided to settle in Columbus. . . . I hope that these random notes may be of some interest and you can be sure we all talked about the good times we had at W&M."

1938 Charles Troxell has returned as director of music to the Grace Baptist Church in Richmond, Virginia. He has taught music at Wake Forest College, at the University of North Carolina, and at William and Mary. Now he is teaching music at John Marshall High School in Richmond, Virginia.

Robert J. Watkins is practicing law at Poquoson, Virginia, where he has been since 1950. Prior to that time he was associated with Montague, Ferguson, and Holt in Newport News. He is married and has one daughter, Bonnie Ann, three-years old in July. Recently he has been engaged as local attorney for the Pan-American Refining Corporation and the American Oil Company in connection with the location of their new Yorktown refinery.

E. T. Crowson is a member of the Department of History at Winthrop College, Rock Hill, South Carolina. He is married and has one son, Thomas Jonathan, who is enjoying life at the tender age of 15 months.

In a recent editorial, a Virginia newspaper pointed with pride to Virginia's impressive array of presidents of national education groups. Cited was Dr. Woodrow Wilderson, State Supervisor of Secondary Education and president of the National Association of State Supervisors and directors of Secondary Education.

In its May 29th list of promotions, the Georgia Institute of Technology announced the promotion of Dr. James H. Wahab to the rank of associate professor. Dr. Wahab, whose address is 3618 McAfee Road, Decatur, Georgia, teaches mathematics at Tech.

Helen Vince Seay writes that her new address is Cumberland, Virginia, where her husband is county agent.

Mary L. Pearse stopped in briefly at the alumni office when she was in Williamsburg on vacation. She is teaching in the Beverly, Massachusetts, public school system. Prior to her teaching career, she worked at the General Electric Company in sales engineering on aircraft instruments. She is working towards a Master's degree at Boston University.

Had dinner with Dick and Ann Velz, '36, who left for Washington at the same time we left the city. PLEASE don't forget to note the new address and let me hear from you.

A newsy note from "Jinny" Tripp (Keeney) brings us up-to-date on the Keeneys. Art completed his training in Ophthalmology in Philadelphia in 1951 and then they returned to Louisville, where he is in private practice. Art also teaches at the medical school and is Director of Research for the Department of Ophthalmology. Recently he was made Area Consultant in Ophthalmology for the Veterans Administration which will require a yearly visit to all the V.A. Hospitals in eight states around Kentucky. Jinny says, "We see less of him all the time!" The Keeneys have 3 children: Stevie, 4, Dougie, 2½, and Martha, 1-year-old. Jinny is in her senior year at medical school and expects to receive her M.D. degree in June.

"Flossy" Yachnin (Liebman) writes that she is kept busy in her Long Island home with two active little girls, Jane, 3, who attends nursery school, and Nancy, the 1-year-old. Flossie and her husband, Hank, spend their spare time playing golf on the many courses on Long Island. They had a grand trip to Florida this past winter.

Tom Paynter was married in 1949 to a New York girl and they have a little daughter, Janice, age 2. Tom thinks his youngster qualifies as a counterpart to

"Dennis the Menace." He is magazine promotion manager and buyer for a national book firm. Tom was in an airplane crash in 1952. We are glad to hear he has recovered from his injuries now and feels fine again after a rather long period of hospitalization.

Jean Outland (Chrysler) and husband, Walter, flew to Paris to spend Christmas and to Rome for New Year's.

In March, Edgar Fisher, Jr., attended the National Conference on Rural Health in Dallas, Texas and while there had dinner with Henry and Polly Davis and little Henry IV. They have become very enthusiastic Texans! Cowboy boots, ten-gallon hat et al.

Joseph H. Markowitz recently received his Bachelor of Laws degree from Rutgers University. His address is 5510 Browning Road, Merchantville, New Jersey.

Do send me a card from your vacation spot this summer. It would be wonderful to hear from more of you.

1943 Mary Spencer Hynes was elected vice-president of the Williamsburg Regional Library Association in March. The Association is responsible for the operation and maintenance of the Williamsburg Public Library.

Donald R. Taylor, trial justice for Williamsburg and James City County, was elected president of the Association to succeed school superintendent Rawls Byrd. He Peggy Horn (Booth) and Lin have their fifth child (second son), Walter George, born April 14. Lin has been promoted to District Manager of Connecticut Light & Power in East Hampton. So they will sell their home in Danielson, but will not move 'til school closes.

A note from Jean Boyd (McIntyre) asked about Class Reunion. She hopes to attend with George—says she misses Williamsburg, "the gang," and the old days, even after ten years!

A recent Richmond newspaper story described the outstanding job Lawson Davis is doing there, teaching sculpture to blind students attending special classes for that purpose. (Incidentally, the accompanying photo showed Lawson MINUS the beard to which many of you may have become accustomed in recent years!)

I know I speak for all of you in '44 when I wish Jim Barnes Godspeed in his new endeavors.

Here's hoping the next letter will have VOLUMES of news of those of you attending the Reunion (whether it be in person or in spirit!).

Another day and another deadline for the GAZETTE.

Had a very nice letter from Ruth Paul (Katherman), now living in York, Pa. Catching up with Ruth, we find that her husband, Walt, is doing well in his law practice, and that they have three children: Walter, five, Bobby, three and Elliot, one and a half. Ruth and Walt have a steady round of activities—Ruth is chairman of the Education and Publicity Committee of the York County Mental Hygiene Association, works for the Junior Service League to support the Child Guidance Center, and is active in the Ford Foundation for Adult Education Group. Walt, '48, is playing the second-lead in the April presentation of the York Little Theatre of the "Philadelphia Story." Cornie Westerman (Wolf), '45, plays the lead role of Tracy Lord. Thanks loads for the letter Ruth. I wish there were a few more like it.

Joanne Kelley (Condell), '48, called me while on her way through New York to Boston. Bill passed his major Comprehensives in January, and made a business trip to California shortly afterwards. Looks like the Condells are kept busy. Kelley writes that Joan and Eddie King had a baby girl, born December 27th. Joanne and Bill are the proud godparents.

Shirley Ostermeyer (Clarke), '48, and Barney will be in New York for Barney's sister's wedding. Don't know whether we will have a chance to get together, but understand that they both love Cleveland, Betty Bradley, '44, visited in New York recently. I was able to get together with Isabelle Clarke (Borland), '47 and Betty for lunch. Betty's most current plans are a trip to Europe, upon which she expects to embark in July. She has been teaching at night and working in Norfolk, so she is certainly deserving of a rest. Isabelle and her husband, Nelson, have purchased a 46 ft. schooner, which is at present up in Bar Harbor, Maine. They expect to bring it down closer to the New York area, and will no doubt put it up for some chartering. Isabelle is looking for any would be painters and sanders, that is, volunteers.

Gene Hanofee, '44, is making plans to leave White Plains, N. Y., and will move to Liberty, N. Y., where he will set up his law practice.

On Tuesday, April 23rd, the Alumnae Chapter of New York had their spring meeting. I was not able to attend, but understand there was an interested turn out, and concrete plans are being made for the contacting of alumni in this area, and for some Fall get-togethers.

Fred Frechette, former managing-editor of the ALUMNI GAZETTE and now Williamsburg Correspondent for the Richmond Times-Dispatch, had an article on the Phi Beta Kappa Hall fire published in Fire Engineering (March, 1954). Accompanied by pictures, the article points out the extraordinarily efficient job of the Williamsburg Fire Department in saving the north wing of the building.

That's all for now. Do write.

1948 Thomas W. Athey, Attorney-At-Law, has become associated with Robert Watkins in the practice of law at Poquoson, Virginia.

John H. Fritz recently left Princeton University to join the staff of Culver Military Academy in Culver, Indiana, for the summer. In the fall he will be teaching at the University of Texas. His address in the meantime is 308 Paris Avenue, Rockford, Illinois.

Louise Willis Vorhis recently wrote from Japan, where she and her husband are now living, that she has seen Hanet Campbell Alley, '47, once or twice. In Japan, she attended the Yokohama Pan-Hellenic Group, is a Red Cross Gray Lady, and leads a Girl Scout troop of 6th Graders. She expects to return to America next spring.

Eugene C. Black recently received his Master of Arts degree from Harvard University. His address is 16 Ivy Road, Belmont, Massachusetts.

Richard C. Hopkins was awarded the Degree of Bachelor of Laws from Harvard on June 17, 1954. His present address is 395 Broadway, Cambridge, Massachusetts.

Ross David Campbell is now personnel director for the Burlington Mills Plant in Raleigh, North Carolina.

Dr. Jason E. McClellan has been awarded a National Heart Institute traineeship for a year of advanced study at the University of Virginia Hospital, Charlottesville, in the fields of diagnosis, prevention, and treatment of heart diseases. After receiving his B.S. degree at William and Mary, he earned his medical degree from the University of Virginia.

1949 Baxter I. Bell, Jr. received his M.D. degree at the Medical College of Virginia in June. He will intern at Norfolk General Hospital.

Lester Olsen is living in Tucson, Arizona, where he is associated with the Sunnyside School. He went to graduate school at the University of Arizona. When he recently stopped by William and Mary on his vacation, he reported on Bruce Crowell, '51, and Crowell's wife, Fran Thatcher Crowell, '51 (see class of '51).

Also graduating from the Medical College were Leonard Leslie Davis who will also intern at Norfolk General Hospital, and Jennings Earl Dorman who received his D.D.S.

Not wishing to see our class "uncovered" in the forthcoming GAZETTE, I offer the following which has been ripening in my desk while I awaited a successor. Mostly from March 1953: Maurice Gilbert, after receiving his M.S. in accounting was plucked from Columbia University by the Air Force for a direct commission and assigned to Detroit to perform cost audits on Air Force contractors in that area. Maurice's tour was supposed to end last August and he hoped to return to Ethyl Corp.

Bill Williams "staggered off with gold bars" from Air Force Officer Candidate School in Texas in 1951. While there Bill married a "mighty pretty Texas belle," Julianne Brownlow. Bill says it looks as if he will spend the next 38 years moving. The Williams' have been all over Germany and were due in Paris last April. The most proud news in Bill's letter was that the medics had assured him that he would be a papa in August. He hopes that some day Uncle will place him once more on the cobbles of Duke of Gloucester.

Another world traveler, Walt Raymond spent three marvelous weeks in England and France during the spring of '53. He completed a two-year hitch in the Army in Feb. '54. Don Beckett says he and Pete went to Walt's wedding fairly recently. Walt also wrote that Lt. Bob Rawlings was completing a tour as a jet pilot in Korea and was slated to return Stateside last fall; that Mel Mecartney, with the State Dept. in Washington, had recently (then) become engaged to Joyce Marshall; and that Clyde Wilcher is married to a Pa. girl.

Tommy Banks finds himself "able to survive Navy life" in the intelligence division at the Pentagon.

From Georgia, Nancy Rigg sent a wonderful ten-stanza pome, "Quatrains for Neglected Friends," revealing that "My roommate and I have developed our Civic sense/ And plot air planes each Wednesday for Civil Air Defense;/ And I gave a pint of my blood to the Red Cross yesterday/ And found it not blue at all—much to my dismay."

Charlie Williamson wrote that he married Susan Lyons in July 1952 and they are now living in Baltimore where Susan is a student nurse at Johns Hopkins Hospital and Charlie is a chemist at Army Chemical Center.

From just over the crest of Nob Hill in San Francisco, Kitty Trask wrote that she was sec'y to one of the directors of Bechtel Corp. Kitty's card glowed with love for S.F. and her work with the American Friends Service Committee (Quakers) and the United World Federalists.

Now I can start using the vivid present. Bill Kapp is married and working in New York City as an advertising salesman for Fairchild Publications. The last time I saw Bill he was handsomely featured in a spread in Menswear. While we're in publications, Hugh Haynie's cartoons are being reprinted in the New York Times from the Greensboro Daily News just about every week as well as several in each issue of the Democratic Digest. And my former roommate (how we love fame to rub off), Martha Wood is being beautifully featured in a Greenwich Village spread in the July issue of Mademoiselle. The other former roommate, Jane Waters (Nielsen) has left Mademoiselle for Hartford, Conn., and a husband "Bud" (Raymond G.). Jane is studying the intricacies of their vested interest, wood by-products.

Babies: Al and Lee Renander (Shubert) have a son, Stephen. Bob and Jane Renton (Smith) have a daughter, Beth. Jane and Bob are now living in Philadelphia. Ray and Jeanne Payne (Lewis) have a daughter, Cynthia and Ray is about to receive a law degree from Missouri University. Don and "Pete" Peters (Beckett's) year-and-a-half-old edition, Stevie, is the world's greatest pantomime artist. Big brother, Eddie, may talk more but Stevie knows how to get what he wants. Don is still with CIA in Washington.

Big business: Bud Bridges is still with Motorola, but in Philadelphia and commuting to New York on week ends. Norm Martin is now a partner with Vickers Brothers, Wall Street brokers, and Jim Vickers is planning a sulphur venture in Utah. Jim has been married a year to a terrific tinymite, Blanche.

Rumor hath it that Johnny Dayton came home to get married and has gone back East (Far, that is); that Jo Collins is teaching in California; that Gus Manett is in New York; and that Patsy Jones (Warner) became a mama Jan. '53.

Verified intelligence shows that Glenn Garrison is still writing for the N. Y. Port Authority and recently received an Authority award for his stories.

We're sorry that Ed Brown broke his rib motorcycling in Nassau, but he's bounced back to New York outrageously tanned.

Scoop: Jim Kelly relieved one Lou Bailey of the presidency of the New York Alumni Chapter at the April meeting, which Dean Lambert and some 50 alumni attended.

Patty Lambert is a librarian in Rocky Mount, "writing nothing but book reviews and club slogans. My attitude is subversive, and I have a very good time."

We have an address again. (Note above.) Now the only problem is getting settled. Didn't think it was humanly possible for two people to collect so much stuff and junk in just one year. If I get us settled before we have to pick up and move again, I'll feel good.

After graduation, Jim Grant was recalled to active duty in the Navy. He celebrated his discharge the night Ike was elected, and since then he and his wife, Marilyn, have been living in Middletown, Conn. He's assistant advertising manager for the American Paper Goods Co.

Heard that June Compton married a Harvard man, Jim Merkle, and is living in Atlanta, Ga.

Also heard that Peggy Harmon has taken a job with the American Red Cross. Don't know any details other than that she's on her way to Germany, and will then go to French Morocco and Spain.

Herb Rothfeder took his Masters in German at Ohio State and then taught for a year. Then he spent a year with the Dept. of Defense in D. C. Herb enlisted in Oct. '53 and will be stationed in Germany for the next 29 months. He says Larry Blum is studying at one of the English medical schools and is hoping to see him on the continent.

Think Herb would like to hear from some of the old gang. You can write to: Pvt. Herbert P. Rothfeder, RA, 12446621, Hq. Co. 8620, AAU, APO 757, c/o PM N. Y., N. Y.

Joyce (Fentress) Garland and John are living on the base at Randolph AFB, Texas. John is a S/Sgt. and Joyce is trying to keep house and take care of their three little ones—Betty Lynn, 3, Johnny, 2, and Frank, 6 mos.

Three months after graduation Ace Goodlow was recalled into the Navy for a 15-month tour of duty. Most of it was spent at Paris Island where he was attached to the Marine Corps as a Hospital Mate 3/c. Ace played football for the Marines while there (along with Ted Gehlmann and Joe Connors) and the team won the Corps championship in '51. He was released to inactive duty in Oct. '52 and took a job with the Gulf Oil Corp. in Pittsburgh. After six months he left to accept a position with the Personal Finance Co. in New Kensington, Pa. Ace was married last Sept. and he and Isabel are living in Glassmere.

Harry Myers, or now Brother James Myers, wrote and told me about monastic life. He entered St. Meinrad's Abbey in St. Meinrad, Ind. in July '48. In Feb. '53 he made perpetual vows, binding himself to monastic life at St. Meinrad's for the rest of his days. He spends his working hours as porter of the monastery, which means he answers telephones and doorbells and handles mail. With 175 monks in residence and 700 students in the theological seminary, he keeps busy.

Last summer Harry had two weeks vacation and got down to W&M to visit Roy Alluisi, who was teaching psych in summer school. Roy is now at Ohio State, working on his doctorate. Harry said Gus Forrest was still in the Air Force, and was thinking about making a career of it.

Now from the grapevine: Rocky Mayo is working in New Jersey, but expects to get an assignment in the south soon. Dave Rogerson is working in Washington and was recently married. Bob Hendrich is working for his father.

Evie Gardner (King) and Jim are settled for a bit in Chandler, Arizona. They have a three bedroom home, plus yard, plus new black cocker puppy.

Tita Cecil (Myers) is spending a couple of months with her family in San Francisco until she can get passage to Japan. Clark is stationed at a communications center just outside Yokohama. They'll spend their last two years of Navy life there.

Elias Richard, III won a $50 prize in a will draftsmanship contest sponsored by the Virginia Trust Company of Richmond. After attending William and Mary, he attended the Washington and Lee Law School.

Bruce Crowell and his wife, Fran Thatcher Crowell, have been attending graduate school at the University of Arizona. Bruce, planning to be ordained, went to theological school in California last July. Fran is teaching in Arizona. Dr. Garretson, former member of the Education Department at William and Mary, is head of the Department at Arizona.

Perry (Bitsy) Lewis, star defensive player for William and Mary's championship basketball teams from 1948 through 1951, was appointed head coach at Wilson High School, Norfolk, in May. He is currently in the army and stationed at Fort Lee.

William M. Nixon was named by the GOP, June 26, to oppose Representative E. J. Robeson, Jr., of Warwick, as a candidate for the House of Representatives. Nixon, after graduating from William and Mary, attended law school at the College for two years. Nixon, who felt that he should first "render more service to his local community," withdrew from the campaign soon after his nomination.

Joe Mark, assistant line coach at William and Mary has resigned his position to become assistant football coach at Vero Beach High School, Vero Beach, Florida. A native of Hampton, he was captain and all-Southern Conference blocking back for the 1950 William and Mary football team.

Marcus Brown received his master's degree in philosophy from New York University in June.

Marian Hough Cowling has moved to Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, where her husband will intern at Philadelphia General Hospital. The Cowling address is 1004 S. Farragut Terrace, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Life gets tedious. I've written to exactly 100 members of the class since the first of the year and received exactly five replies. My missiles couldn't all have ended up "address unknown." How about a little help?

Hello again to all you guys and gals of '52. Been busier than the proverbial beaver with my wonderful wedding plans. Lot of news for you all so let's get right to it. . . .

When last heard from, Jim Stone was at Camp Pickett waiting to go to Fort Lewis, Washington for FECOM shipment (what's that, Jim?). He also mentioned that Bill Strum and "Ruff" Van Zandt were likewise headed for this FECOM fate. Another '52er stationed at Pickett was Dave Wakefield, who, Jim said, was transferred to Fort Eustis recently. Before reporting to Pickett, Jim had been stationed at Fort Sill in Oklahoma with all the rest of the kids who had been out there—George and Helen Zupko, Jim and Marie (Newcomb) Baber, Dickie and Peggy (Derring) Lewis, Marvin West, Bob Barlowe, and Bruce Creager. Supplementing the news in Jim's letter, was a post card from Tom Rienarth (pardon me, Ensign Rienarth) who journeyed around the Mediterranean area for about 6 months on the USS Coral Sea. (Lucky Tom!) As far as the services go, Tom thinks the Navy is pretty nice.

Another far-flung traveler, Greg Booth reported in from Korea. Greg was another classmate to go to Ft. Sill after graduation, from there he was sent to Japan, and from Japan to Korea where he is now. Greg and his wife Joyce have become the proud parents of a baby girl. Congratulations!

After spending a happy year in Silver Spring, Maryland, Betsy Graves (Smith) and husband Bob are now in Portsmouth, Ohio where Bob is associated with the Goodyear Atomic Co. at their new Uranium Processing Plant.

Back in Richmond, Jeanne Watkins (now Mrs. Ryland Hughes) was sharing an apartment with Beth Quynn (Williams), Carrol Turner, and Lucy Lawson until last July when Lucy left to go to Johns Hopkins Nursing School and Carol Kavanagh moved in. However, in a recent letter, Marie Newcomb (Baber) revealed that Jeanne up and got married in November. (Who's in the apartment now, girls?) Marie also contributed the following bits: that Jeanne Vester was also recently married; that Beth Quynn

(another apartment deserter?) and "Butts" Williams, '50, were married April 10 in the Wren Chapel; that Becky Roche (White) and husband Bill were lullabying a second daughter, Jean Stewart, born February 26; that Peggy Derring (Lewis) and Dickie are now stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas after leaving Fort Sill, and expect to be there until his discharge next fall; that Jane Kerwick (Beil) and husband Jack are settled in Norfolk now with their year-old daughter, Ruth Ann; that Joan Eardley (Janega) and son Steven joined Vic in Germany last February where they expect to be nearly three years; and best of all (says Marie) that her own husband Jim was due home from Camp Chitose, Japan in April when they were going to take that "second honeymoon" trip to Florida. And how's that for some news?

Back to the Army, this time from Joe Cowan, who at last word was on duty as Battery Commander of "B" Battery, 319th Airborne Field Artillery Battalion at Fort Bragg, N. C. Joe says he is planning to make the Army his career as of now, and reports that wife and son—Jane and Wayne—are "doin' fine."

Reversing the usual procedure, "Mac" Richey went from Indiantown Gap, Pa. to Fort Sill in his army travelings. Mac wrote that Bill Bigelow had shuttled from Quantico to Cherry Point and that Ralph Francis was with the Army in Europe. He also mentioned that Jack Outcalt is managing two restaurants in the air terminal at Washington National Airport. Keep us posted, Mac.

Shifting to the west coast, we find Camille Grimes (Henderson) and husband Bruce located in Oakland, California where Bruce is on duty. Camille mentioned seeing fellow W&M-ite Jack McNally (Lt. McNally of the Marines, sir) who was then on his way to Korea.

Cross-country to Schnectady, and Anne McGraw (Sweets) who writes of her marriage to husband Clarence last June. Anne said classmate Margie Hoover (Gordon) was one of her bridesmaids. Marriage seems to predominate among the Class of '52 at General Electric up there, because Anne also mentioned that Dick Hildick, a fellow employee, was married to Peggy Martin in the Wren Chapel June 13th.

A newspaper clipping via the Richmond Times-Dispatch reveals that Bill Burton has been named Fire Marshal for Fairfax County. Bill was chosen out of 16 applicants for the position, having served on the Bills-burg F D while in school. Congratulations from all of us, Bill.

Up Cambridge, Mass. way we find Dick Hutcheson finishing up his graduate work at Harvard. Dick reports his recent marriage to Miss Elizabeth Martz of Cincinnati. Beyond this June, Dick said that they had "no definite plans."

Jackie Jones sent me a very nice clipping on her marriage last June to Averette P. Myers. Among her attendants, Jackie selected Mary Kay Langan, Gwen Batten (Perkins), and Ella Tuck presided over the punch bowl. Following their wedding trip to the Great Smoky Mountains Jackie and her husband (who graduated from Pharmacy School at U. of Va.) have settled down in Danville.

Away down thar in Dallas, Sue Herzog writes that she is now working as archivist of the Dallas Historical Society. This interesting position is the result of much study on Sue's part in achieving her M.A.

from Vanderbilt U. at Nashville in June of '53. Says she loves her work and is finding out more things that she never knew about her home city.

Mary Alyce Harvey (Tuska) writes that she and husband Jim took a trip out to the west coast last summer, stopping off in New Mexico on business first, and visiting all the national parks. Mary Alyce also said she had been working part-time at the Forrestal Research Center which is part of Princeton U. Incidentally, during my own summer "tour" last year (a week's vacation visiting my sister Ruth—Mrs. Hardy Cofer—in North Carolina) I met up with a couple of '52ers while stopping off in the Burg. Jim Carter dropped in Middle Greeks long enough to tell me that he hoped to receive his B.C.L. this past February and that he was still playing baseball.

Ran into Burton Hill en route to Norfolk and was pleased to hear that he and Charlotte Walker were about to take the "big step." Also had a good time just walking around the campus and recalling all the big times we'd had as underclassmen.

At last report, Claudia Richmond (Harmon) and husband Bill were situated in Norfolk where Bill was stationed in the Coast Guard. Claudia had been teaching school, but made no mention of their future plans.

Another service wife, Phoebe Holmes (Webb) is out in La Jolla, Calif. where she spent last summer working with the La Jolla Playhouse. Phoebe said that her husband was still overseas and that in passing the time away she had been seeing lots of Anna Holliday and Tita Cecil (Myers) before Tita and Clark moved back East.

Another dizzy hop took this reporter's mail plane back to New York City via a letter from Elaine Diehm. Elaine and Pat Hitchcock made a "find" in the form of the Intercollegiate Alumni, an organization which offers a variety of interesting activities for college grads in the N. Y.

area. At a party given by the W&M Alumni Association of N Y C Elaine met up with Russ Barrett, Ed O'Brien, Bob Rehlaender, Norm Martin, Martha Wood, Jane Waters, and a host of other friends from school. Then one day at B. Altman & Co., where Elaine is a buyer, in walked Fran and Bruce Crowell for a visit. She also had the following bits of news to relate: Peggy Blair (Hackler) and Bob are in Manhattan, Kansas where Bob is stationed; Cadsie Forman (Moe) and Chris were headed for Chapel Hill where Chris was to do graduate work; Harriett Jordan (DeGraff)'s husband is also entering grad school—Cornell; and Kay Byers is now married to Jim Haggard and happily settled in El Paso, Texas. Elaine closed her letter with an invitation to one and all to come visit her and Pat in their cute Greenwich Village Apartment (138 West 11th St.).

Bernie Wittcamp writes that he is going to M.C.V. in Richmond and has been since graduating from W&M. That way he gets to go back to school on week ends. Bernie added a bit of news about his old roommate, Bill Strum, who is now engaged to Mildred Ann Davis.

A post card from Cambridge reveals that Clyde Baker is working for his Master's in Civil Engineering at M.I.T. Clyde said he hoped to get back to school and see some of the old crowd soon.

The old energy gal herself, Carolyn "Andy" Anderson has really taken on a herculean task. Andy's new job is that of youth director and recreation director at Mt. Olivet Lutheran Church in Minneapolis. One of her assistants was Bebe Shopp, Miss America of 1951, and Andy said they work with about 3,000 young people. Andy extends an invitation to anyone out that way to drop in on her at 5343 Emerson So. any old time.

Working at Langley Field must be pretty lucrative, because Ginny Gall writes that she's in the process of "paying for a new Plymouth." Wow, Juggo, it's nice to have money! Ginny also told of visiting Meredith Stewart across the waters in Portsmouth. Says they "had one glorious time getting chit-chatted up to date."

Last, but certainly not least, comes a letter from Ladd Air Force Base in Alaska and Phil Denman. After hibernating during the winter temperatures of 59 below, Phil says he's now plowing through the melting snow's slush and mud. Phil plans to return to college for his master's in history after he gets out in May of '55.

Delman H. Eure, now studying law at William and Mary, received an honorable mention award of $50 in the will draftsman-ship contest sponsored by the Virginia Trust Company.

Richard B. Sayford has just received the Degree of Master in Business Administration from Harvard University. His home address is 150 Parkview Drive, Bloomfield, New Jersey.

Robert Hutcheson has just finished his course requirement and passed his general examinations for the Ph.D. at Harvard. He is now busy with the research for his thesis, which he hopes to complete by the fall of '55.

Guess that's it for now. Don't forget to keep the cards and letters coming. See you next issue.

Well, hello again! Here's hoping this news will reach Roger Dudley in time for the May publication. I'm finding most of my time is filled with caring for our "new" baby daughter, Mary Lou. Seems there just aren't enough hours in each day!

Class agent Johnny Dalton writes from the University of Virginia where he has been attending the Law School since last September. He will report to Fort Knox, Kentucky, in early July and will continue his law studies after his return from the Army. In case you would like to contact him, the address is: 305 Long Hall, University of Virginia, Charlottesville, Va. Johnny also reports that Janet Dandridge is studying to be a laboratory technician and is at the University Hospital. Jack Bouyer and Tom Fulcher are both in their second year of Medical School at U. Va.

Suzie Trimble (Floyd) dropped me a note from Richmond where she is teaching sixth grade and enjoying being wife and teacher. This fall husband Ralph will be freshman coach at U. of North Carolina, where Marvin Bass, '45 Bs, is Varsity Line Coach.

Jim Smith and Barbie Schwartz (Smith) will leave Petersburg where Jim has been stationed at Fort Lee. They will return to Williamsburg this June so that he may attend summer school to receive his Masters degree in August.

Dave Potts writes that his latest orders are for an assignment in Tokyo at the Headquarters of the Far East Command. He adds that life in the Orient is extremely interesting and different.

From Wilmette, Illinois, Gerry Campbell writes of her coming marriage on June 25th to Bill Furst. He'll be out of the service by early May and then will travel to the west coast in search of job opportunities in possibly Los Angeles or San Francisco. Gerry and Bill may even settle down in nearby Chicago. At any rate there has been much excitement and wedding plans for an evening wedding definitely are underway. Judy Robinson will be one of her attendants.

"Marty" Everhard is now at Officers Candidate School in Rhode Island. His address in case you're interested is: Martin E. Everhard, OCSA, 4567346, Company J2, Class XVI, U. S. Naval School, Officer Candidate, Newport, Rhode Island.

In April Tom Guthrie reported to Fort Sill to the Field Artillery branch of the Army. He and brother Connie previously had been living on the W&M campus. Tom will be taking a refresher course in Oklahoma.

December 27th was the wedding day of "Bebe" Fisher. She and her husband now live in Denver.

Via the grapevine: Mary Zimmerman (Foldberg) now has a baby boy.

I hear that Jim Leftwich, stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground in Maryland, makes frequent trips back to William and Mary. Reason—Shan Duis, '55. Also in Maryland at the University, "Bobbie" Castle is working on a graduate degree in the Department of Physics. Al Richardson is doing grad work also and at the same time greatly enjoys the lighter side of life: living at the Phi Tau House!

Shirley Lyons is teaching school at Camp Springs, Maryland, near Washington.

Cincinnati is the site of Mary Ellen Romney's job in the development lab on home permanents for Procter and Gamble.

She's crazy about her work.

Sally Eger (Poole), who lives in Wayne near Philadelphia, and I attended a sorority alumni Bridge-Luncheon one Saturday afternoon last month. She spoke of Bev Simonton's wedding to Jim Kelly. Three of the attendants were Tina Bass, Jean Madsen and Pam Hall. Sally and husband Mickey saw Joan Alleman at the wedding in York.

The latest address for Jack Steinger is Johns Hopkins School of Advanced International Studies, 1906 Florida Ave. N.W., Washington, D. C. Carmen Romeo also is in Washington and expects to be stationed there for some time, since the expected "trip" to Fort Bliss turned out to be a false alarm. "Rich" Gonier, John Flanagan, and Carmen compose the trio of 1953 grads stationed with the anti-aircraft defense in Washington.

Jim Alderson is at Pensacola, Florida, in flight training and is hoping to receive his wings in about a year. Seems life is "the greatest" for him as he enjoys Florida's sun and sports.

"Wally" Wilsey although located at Fort Bragg, N. C., with the 663rd Field Artillery finds time to go to W&M on the week ends.

Warm weather is in store for "Hal" Jackson who is at Fort Bliss, Texas, with a guided missiles battery.

Ann Johnson (Harris) and Jerry Harris now have their apartment in South Arlington while Jerry is at Quantico.

And before I close, belated "glad you are well" wishes to Mr. Barnes. Hope you all have grand summers; please keep me in mind when October rolls around.

A postal card and letter from Alice Fisher Arbuckle brings news of a new name. She recently married Robert W. Arbuckle, University of Kansas, '51. A new address, 2901 East 27th Avenue, Denver, Colorado—and a bit of news about the two of them. "We are both working here in Denver," she writes. "Bob is a structural engineer and I'm having a great time in the Personnel Research Department of the Gates Rubber Company. I am busy with statistical psychological, and personnel work that is most interesting." She also passed along the word of a couple of marriages which will find place in the next issue.

Herbert A. Curtis received his B.S. at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in June. Herb, enrolled at William and Mary under the M.I.T. Program, received degrees from William and Mary and M.I.T. at the same time. His present address is 40 Beech Street, Berea, Ohio.

1954 "Bullet Bill" Bowman, who was the mainstay of the Tribe's running and passing attack last fall, has been signed by the Detroit Lions, National Football League Champions. Captain of the Lions' last season was All-Pro Lou Creekmur ace tackle for the Tribe during the late 1940's. A team-mate of Creekmur's on the 1948, 1949 and 1950 teams, All-American fullback Jack Cloud, who also played with the Lions for several seasons before he was traded to the Washington Redskins two years ago.

Sarah Gertrude Page, of Virginia Beach, will join the staff of the Virginia Beach High School faculty next year.

Rene A. Henry, former Athletic Press Secretary for the College, has accepted a similar position as Director of Athletic Publicity for West Virginia University.

A native of Charleston, West Virginia, and now living in Virginia Beach, he was in charge of William and Mary athletic publicity for the past year-and-a-half and has been associated with athletic teams at the College since 1949.

He worked with radio station in the Tidewater, Virginia area broadcasting the Indians basketball games during the 1948-49 and 1950-51 seasons, and following that assisted Jim Jackson and Sam Banks, respectively, when they were Director of Public Relations for the nation's second oldest institution of higher learning. When Banks left to go with the Baltimore Colts in February, 1953, Henry took over full duties.

Graduate Students

Garfield Shafter, Jr. has been appointed principal of the Churchland Elementary School, Norfolk, Virginia. After graduating from Duke University, he earned his M.A. degree at William and Mary in 1939.

Nancy Coleman Messick, of Williamsburg, a candidate for a BCL degree at William and Mary, recently won third prize of $100 in a will draftmanship contest sponsored by the Virginia Trust Company of Richmond. She is a graduate of Sweet Briar College.

Miss Adair

graduated from William and Mary, where she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Only four years later, 1927, New York State Teachers' College gave her an honorary doctor of pedagogy degree.

Hard work helped her gain her honors. Her first classroom job, paying $13 a month, was as pupil-teacher in Elba School, Richmond. Then Miss Adair taught in Robert Fulton and Bellevue Schools and at Bainbridge Junior High before becoming principal at Franklin.

World-wide Influence. Other honors, too numerous to mention, have come her way. In 1928 she was the first classroom teacher to be elected president of the National Education Association.

The Richmond Board of Education, overcome by pride in this woman, granted her a year's leave with pay and later helped finance a trip to Edinburgh, Scotland, for a meeting of the World Federation of Educational Associations. Later she attended similar world meetings in Geneva, Scotland, San Francisco, and Toronto.

CORNELIA ADAIR

In the depression aftermath of 1935-36 she was appointed to direct the government's Works Progress Administration program and the National Youth Administration out-of-school youth program in Richmond. She is now a member of the Virginia Adult Education Association's committee to study problems of the aging.

Civic Leader. Miss Adair believes "there isn't a single phase of education that won't make a good citizen." And when it comes to good citizenship, she herself has been the embodiment of all she has taught: she has held many civic offices; she supported the leaders fighting for women's suffrage; she was a founder of the Richmond Business and Professional Women's club and served a term as president, and she also worked with the Virginia Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Believing that teachers could become more articulate through association, she founded, and was president of, the League of Richmond Teachers. In 1908 she and five other teachers helped push the passage of a retirement plan for Virginia teachers by appearing at the Capitol every day the bill was being considered.

Miss Cornelia Adair, through her service-dedicated life, has become a credit and a figure of inspiration to the College of William and Mary, to the Commonwealth of Virginia, and to the teaching profession.

Judge Jones, appointed to the Superior Court Bench in Washington State in 1927, was the great-great-grandson of Chief Justice John Marshall. While a student at William and Mary, he was a member of the Kappa Alpha Fraternity. Judge Jones was a native of Fauquier County, Virginia.

Dr. Marvin Burton, '02X, is reported deceased June 5, 1954, in Urbanna, Virginia.

1904

Vice Admiral Edward Darlington Jones, '04Ba, who retired from the Coast Guard in 1946, died of a heart attack at his home in Menlo Park, California, May 6, 1954.

Born at Williamsburg, Virginia, May 8, 1885, he graduated from William and Mary in 1904. He was a member of the Kappa Sigma Fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, and Bruton Parish Episcopal Church. After graduating from William and Mary, he became a cadet in the United States Revenue Cutter Service, from which he was commissioned an ensign in 1906.

Admiral Jones served the Coast Guard in many capacities. He was instructor at the Coast Guard Academy, was later Superintendent of the Academy, and was assigned to the Seminole and the famous Arctic Patrol ship, the Bear. (While on the Bear, he became such an ardent student of Arctic life that Vilhjalmur Stefansson wrote the following of him in his Arctic Manual: "Admiral Jones is an authority on the Bering Sea and many other important spheres.") Other assignments were at Coast Guard Headquarters, Washington, D. C.; in Alaska and New York; Chief of Staff, New York Division; International Ice Patrol Duty; Hawaiian Area Commander; Liaison Officer at the Navy Department, Washington, D. C.; and World War II Pacific Coast Coordinator for the Coast Guard with the Eastern Sea Frontier. He was in command of the ships Eagle and Northland.

In World War I he received a Victory Medal with a bronze star and in World War II a Defense Medal with a sea bar and a bronze star. The Belgian Government in 1935 awarded him the Chevalier of Leopold II for the heroic rescue of the crew of a Belgian ship, Jean Jadot.

Admiral Jones was buried at Arlington National Cemetery with full military honors, May 13, 1954.

Bernard Renshaw Powell, Jr., '25X, is reported deceased in Franklin City, Virginia.

Nannie Wooding (Driscoll), '30X, is reported deceased March 3, 1953, in Charlottesville, Virginia.

Kenneth M. Pendleton, '31X, is reported deceased in St. Brides, Virginia.

Lieut. Commander Charles Herman Dunker, Jr., '32Bs, is reported deceased April, 1954.

Virginia Evans (Halligan), '36X, is reported deceased May 27, 1954, in Williamsburg, Virginia.

Florence Lovitch, '36X, is reported deceased in Williamson, West Virginia.
