Cubic SECOR pinpoints it... nothing else can!

The ability of Cubic's SECOR to fix exact locations in space is unequaled. Where other systems only come close, SECOR, the world's most precise satellite tracking system, determines space vehicle coordinates with pinpoint accuracy.

Operational concept...

The heart of SECOR is a miniature 7-lb Cubic transponder. Carried in the satellite, this instrument acts as receiver-transmitter to three Cubic-built portable ground stations. These stations, located at known points on earth, make approximately 29,000 measurements or "ranges" during a typical six minute satellite pass. By using simple trilateration, SECOR does its work.

Speed with economy...

In tracking, SECOR saves valuable time and eliminates errors. Unlike photographic and Doppler systems, it collects data and gives readings simultaneously . . . without delay. Since its initial use during Atlantic Missile Range tests, the SECOR system has proved itself to be more accurate than costly radar systems.

Varied applications...

Currently the U.S. Army is using the all-weather SECOR system to plot and measure the earth with amazing speed and surveying accuracy.

Because of this accuracy, SECOR is an ideal system for range instrumentation or guidance.

In addition to guidance evaluation and ground charting, another important SECOR application is the precise instrumentation of satellite interception or rendezvous.

The implications of SECOR are important in all future measurement of earth and space. It will play a growing role in space and defense programs requiring extremely accurate location of objects.

SECOR is a product of Cubic Corporation, leader in the field of electronic measuring systems. For additional information, write: Chief Scientist, Cubic Corporation, Dept. D-119, San Diego, Calif. 92123.

The need for additional classroom buildings at William and Mary was outlined by President Paschall in a speech January 25 to the Richmond, Va., Chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalistic society. In his talk, he reported on the College in the midst of a midcentury crisis and the dilemma he and the Board of Visitors face.

Crisis, Dilemma At William and Mary

By Davis Y. Paschall

WHEN I considered the question "Is There a College Crisis?" I began to speculate on that word "crisis." Like so many words which suffer abundant usage in our complex and troubled age, this word has been overworked. Certainly since 1930 it has been worn smooth with constant handling, as with an old coin, so that its once sharp mintage has been blurred, and its original signficance has been dulled. We are no longer sure of its value.

"Crisis" derives ultimately from a Greek word meaning "to separate," and its original use was largely medical. It pointed to that moment in the course of an illness, that culminating and turning point where there was a "separation" into one of two possible developments: recovery and health, or death. The word for this desperate and anxious moment in the life of an individual has been applied to so many trivial events that we often forget its original urgency and finality.

Without false dramatics, I want to employ it, with the full weight of its coinage, to describe the turning point we have now reached in the development of higher education in Virginia, and specifically at the College of William and Mary.

I will not burden you with generally known statistical projections of emergency enrollment prospects for the United States, nor will I presume to identify the specific needs now or in the future at other State institutions. I will speak, instead, of the indisputable and acute needs at William and Mary, based on documented evidence, and attempt to show in what way the

College finds itself in a "crisis" of such magnitude that its very life, educationally speaking, is threatened.

A 30-Year Lag

The continuing and most critical need at the College of William and Mary is for instructional facilities. This need is largely caused and intensified by a 30-year lag in instructional facilities. From 1935, when the enrollment was 1,205 to 1965, when the enrollment is 3,066, only one complete classroom building was constructed on campus (the William Small laboratory-classroom building for physical science completed in 1964). Thus:

Over 30 years, with more than a doubling enrollment, the College has struggled to fulfill its obligations to the Commonwealth with an increasingly inadequate physical plant.

This lag in instructional facilities has now reached a stage of crisis and can no longer be deferred. It threatens the very heart of quality education for which this ancient College has prided itself since the days of Jefferson.

Evidences of Need

In the current Space Utilization Study, compiled by the State Council of Higher Education from data obtained in 1962 and distributed in 1964, William and Mary, among the four-year resident institutions of higher learning, has the smallest amount of teaching space per full-time equivalent student, and the least number of student stations. But, it utilizes its available space more frequently and more efficiently. In addition to this intensive use of space during the normal class day from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m., Mondays through Fridays, and until 1 p.m. on Saturdays, the College has extended its scheduling of classes into the evening hours as necessary.

Moreover, the College advised the State Council of Higher Education as long ago as Feb. 16, 1963, that many areas listed in its Space Utilization Study for the College as "poor" should properly be classified as "unsuitable," since they are used only because of an emergency shortage of teaching space. Most of this space was never intended for instructional purposes at all, but was reported in the study under the category "poor" since there was no classification of "unsuitable" permitted in the study forms. The spaces and square footage thus fully utilized, but considered unsuitable for such purposes are:

• The entire Wren Building, except for the Chapel and Blue Room, including attic and basement, is used for instruction. The lighting, seating, and lack of blackboards, characterize a building restored as an historical replica of 18th-century education. Its inadequacy for modern instruction is as markedly recognized as the tragic wear and tear that threatens a National Historical Landmark, the oldest classroom building in America.

• Due to the unavoidable crisis in facilities, the entire Mathematics Department is temporarily housed on the second floor of the recently abandoned Williamsburg Methodist Church building, located off-campus. The building also serves the Colonial Williamsburg costuming department. By careful partitioning of the space available, the College has provided makeshift offices and classrooms in the church building for mathematics, a subject of long and distinguished importance to the liberal arts curriculum at the College from its inclusion in the original curriculum in the 18th century. In these impermanent quarters, mathematics is taught to a large percentage of all undergraduates, and to those enrolled in the graduate program.

• Three quonset huts, located to the rear of the power plant, plus the ends of two storage warehouses are used for instructional and research space—despite the distance from campus, poor lighting, inadequate ventilation and crowded area.

• The Campus Center building which was intended to serve the needs of students for education, recreation, publications, and student conferences, is now being increasingly scheduled for class instruction. To continue this increasing practice will serve to defeat the purpose of this building and will not, at the same time, serve adequate teaching needs.

· Geology, Law School and English classes are housed in the basements of three men's dormitories, thus depriving the study and recreation space as originally intended, and prohibiting expansion of those offerings in the face of increased enrollment.

Thus the total "unsuitable" space used for instructional purposes under the present enrollment exceeds 40,000 square feet. An additional 25,000-square-foot space now being used would have to be regarded as "poor."

As of this moment in its history, therefore, William and Mary is two and a half classroom buildings behind its current enrollment, and unless it can get a minimum of three of the four classroom buildings projected in the Capital Outlay requests for the 1966-68 biennium, it will not be able to maintain quality education, and must sink to the level of mediocrity. Certainly without a real spurt ahead in instructional facilities, William and Mary cannot contemplate additional students. And this crisis in facilities is a stark reality at the College at the very time when the tremendous increase in demand for admissions from qualified students is a matter of record. Unfortunately, this desperate situation will undoubtedly worsen in the future.

Demand for Admissions

On this date, one year ago, the Admissions Office at the College had received 5,081 completed applications for the freshman class of 1964. Now, one year later, the number of applications is 6,824—an increase of 1,743 applications in one year alone. And the applications are still coming! Out of this huge number of applications, however much the total may be, the College can admit only about 750 freshmen in September, 1965, or approximately one out of 10 women applicants and one out of five men applicants.

Furthermore, this expected class of 750 will be a reduction in the size of last year's freshman class because of the fact that a new women's dormitory (272 capacity) was opened in September, 1964, which permitted the enrollment of a relatively large freshman class for the current session. The large class will, of course, still be enrolled next fall, and spaces for freshmen will be created primarily from graduation and any withdrawal of undergraduate students currently enrolled.

In connection with our full-time undergraduate enrollment, it is important to point out that 140 of our full-time undergraduate women students are now housed in Ludwell, a private apartment building being leased off-campus by the College. As of the current date, in cooperation with Governor Albertis S. Harrison's request to us, definite plans are being made to increase our accommodations for the fall semester; however, a specific number is not available since the plans are still in process of being developed.

The College of William and Mary fully recognizes the acute need throughout the State for additional educational opportunities for those young men and women qualified for a college education. It is attempting desperately to cooperate in every possible way, and to assist the Governor in his recognition of the crisis in higher education. Some internal adjustments will be made at the College to admit additional women students, and an attempt is being made to obtain off-campus facilities for a few upperclass men students to free on-campus facilities for freshmen. But even if such drastic measures are successful, the critical problem of instructional space merely worsens without immediate and emergency relief.

To conclude my remarks on Wil liam and Mary's crisis, I wish to present a few of the dilemmas which face the College as it attempts to direct its course toward increased excellence and service in the future.

Eventual Size of the College

The College will not, in the foreseeable future, become an institution of the size that is normally expected for a reasonably large state university, but it cannot so restrict its enrollment as to fail to serve the needs that are expected of it by the State.

In preparation of the Master Plan several years ago for the development of future site facilities it became necessary to project an ultimate enrollment figure as a basis for planning. The enrollment figure at that time was set at 4,900 regular day students.

The College recognizes the importance of maintaining an informal, friendly atmosphere, characteristic of the smaller institution, in which students and faculty know each other under conditions conducive to a respect for the individual rather than permit a loss of this advantage under the impact of monstrous enrollment. The College will make every effort to enhance this valuable asset to good living and learning, and will plan future expansion with such principles in mind. But such expansion will be dependent, of course, upon the resources which become available for classroom facilities.

Ratio of Virginia Students

With increasing demands for enrollment from qualified Virginia students, the College must continually re-examine its policy of admissions. The Board of Visitors of the College, recognizing these increased demands, and also recognizing the unique history of William and Mary-its extended age, its long existence as a private institution until 1906, its cosmopolitan outlook, its national and international reputation and the desired educational effect of having a reasonable number of out-of-state students —established the guidelines of 70-30 for the admission of out-of-state students. That is, the overall percentage sought would be a student body composed of 70 per cent Virginia students and 30 per cent non-Virginia students. We have now attained this ratio.

Educational Programs

Another dilemma facing the College is the extent to which it will have to augment its graduate programs to meet the legitimate educational needs in the most rapidly growing area of the Commonwealth without becoming a complex university. In this respect, the State Council of Higher Education has approved the awarding of the Ph.D. degree in physics and marine biology. Within the last few years, the College has moved to master's degree programs in chemistry, biology, and mathematics, under the impact of the growing scientific and technological needs of the Virginia Peninsula. It is under admonition by the State Council to introduce graduate programs in government, dramatic arts, and a Ph.D. program in colonial history. There is, also, an urgent and undeniable demand in the area for a graduate program in business administration which would be taught primarily in the Evening College. The College cannot ignore these needs. Its basic problem is in how to meet them, and still maintain a college status to a commendable degree, which is its traditional role.

Faculty Salaries

There is a growing shortage of highly qualified faculty with experience in this country because of the increased demands by expanded institutions. William and Mary is competing on a national market for the brains and talents of faculty who can maintain the educational excellence long associated with the College, Faculty salaries are critical, and although the Governor and the General Assembly at the 1964 session supported a forward spurt allowing salaries to be paralleled to the national average, the crisis will continue unless all State institutions can continue the upward trend in salaries. The dilemma lies in the fact that the College, already having a top cost to students among our sister state institutions, will price itself out of the market for worthy but needy students if it has to raise tuition appreciably every time it raises faculty salaries, and yet we must continue to increase these salaries in order to recruit and hold good teachers.

Breadth as well as Specialization

The last dilemma I will mention is one that is not peculiar to William and Mary, but is particularly acute at the College. That is the problem of expanding and modernizing a scientific curriculum which is so vital to higher education in this century, while maintaining excellence in the arts and humanities for which William and Mary is renowned. The College must broaden its honors programs in the humanities to four years, and it must seek ways to introduce the balanced values of interdisciplinary studies into its scientific programs. The problem is how to find ways to do so in an era when financial resources are abundant for the natural sciences and extremely scarce for the arts and SWE humanities.

Commuting Professor

REACHING the highest rung of the educational ladder does not mean school is over, doctor-professors at the Medical College of Virginia have learned.

Dr. Howard K. Holland, dean of William and Mary's school of education, is now in the second year of a special program designed to teach the experts.

Men who have spent their lives becoming widely renowned medical specialists suddenly find themselves in a new world when asked to transfer their knowledge to young medical students.

These experts are dedicated to science and research, but often there is little preparation in their background for teaching.

In a program headed by Dr. Edwin F. Rosinski, director of research in medical education at the Medical College, Dean Holland's task is to train doctors in the science of teaching.

Students in Dr. Holland's classes come from the school of medicine, dentistry, nursing, pharmacy and hospital administration.

"I started the work tentatively because I was not sure my lack of training in the sciences would not be a hindrance," Dr. Holland said, "But I am not expected to know much about the medicine involved."

Dr. Holland was not the only one who began the program with some hesitation. His first students took the course with misgivings, but at the end of the year, the classes were successful.

When the second and current year began, more than 100 faculty members signed up for the course which is made up of 16 two-hour meetings.

The first of five broad areas studied by the doctors is the nature of learning.

"In the past 50 years, psychologists have been especially productive," Holland said, "And there is enough agreement to make positive conclusions about motivation, reinforcement, transfer of training, and other important principles."

Dr. Holland believes if teachers understand these principles of learning, they are able to help the learner learn.

When the doctors understand the nature of learning, they turn their attention to the learner and the nature of the medical student.

"We must realize the learner is not a computer but a human being with his own set of expectations," Holland said. "Learning has some non-intellectual factors such as hopes and fears."

The third area involves the more technical aspects of teaching. New techniques such as audio-visual aids and the teaching machines are mastered.

Dr. Holland believes there is no place better than medicine to use the newest techniques including color photography and color television.

Great emphasis is placed on the evaluation of student work.

"These men are particularly keen on this," according to Dr. Holland. "In medicine one must look not only for facts but for the ability to apply the facts, think scientifically and relate the facts to the patient. Knowledge alone is not enough."

Teachers without proper training in teaching, realize in the seminars they may have harmed students because they did not know how to evaluate the work.

This happens because medical teachers are extremely conscious of the seriousness of passing students who are incapable of being good doctors: it is literally a matter of life and death, according to Dean Holland.

The final area of study is the content or curriculum balance of the

"Since it is beyond my ability to give fixed answers, my job is to raise questions to be discussed by members of the class," Holland said.

Most class periods consist of a brief presentation by Dr. Holland and general discussion by the class.

Dr. Holland believes the original purpose of the program is being achieved.

"It is obvious these doctors are not receiving credit for the course," Dr. Holland said. "To me, it is stimulating to see men busy with patients, teaching, research and writing give up their evenings to try to improve their teaching ability."

Many of the doctors are already good teachers, according to Dr. Holland. However, he says, "now we have found a way to make good teachers better."

Dr. Holland's primary interest in his field is the psychology and philosophy of education.

He received A.B., M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Michigan.

Before joining the William and Mary faculty he was assistant director of The International House in New York.

Showing a continued interest in international affairs, Dr. Holland said, "I think what we are learning in the program at the Medical College of Virginia can be applied to international situations, such as the Peace Corps."

Specialists are often sent to other countries by the Peace Corps to do a certain job. Dr. Holland feels it is more beneficial when Peace Corpsmen have been trained to teach as they work—just as it is in medicine.

Charter Day Degrees

NE of William and Mary's most beloved faculty members, Dr. Richard L. Morton, was among four persons honored during the Charter Day festivities with an honorary doctor of laws degree.

Dr. Morton, who taught history for 40 years and who is recognized as an eminent authority on colonial Virginia, was the first College staff member to be granted an honorary doctorate since librarian-bibliographer Earl Gregg Swem was honored in 1941.

Other recipients at the Feb. 13 Charter Day convocation were Lord Harlech, the retiring British ambassador to the United States; Lewis F. Powell, Jr. of Richmond, president of the American Bar Association, and James M. Robertson of Norfolk, a former member and rector of the William and Mary Board of Visitors.

The College observed the 272nd anniversary of the granting of its charter by King William II and Queen Mary Feb. 12 and 13 during a two-day conference which marked the 750th anniversary of the Magna Carta. William and Mary's official birthday was Feb. 8.

Lord Harlech made the principal address of the conference which was sponsored by the Marshall-Wythe School of Law in cooperation with the

Virginia State Bar Association. Powell delivered the convocation address.

Dr. Morton, who retired in 1959, had served as chairman of the William and Mary history department since 1921. His best known work is a two-volume history entitled Colonial Virginia issued four years ago. During the Second World War he edited the William and Mary Quarterly.

On writing history, Dr. Morton once said: "If it isn't fact, it isn't history."

He took more than 15 years to write Colonial Virginia and most of it he scratched out in longhand on the backs of College notices and other scrap paper.

Dr. Morton was graduated from Hampden-Sydney College and received his advanced degrees from the University of Virginia and Harvard University.

Each year Colonial Williamsburg sponsors a seminar for outstanding high school leaders, called Student Burgesses. Five of the former student burgesses apparently liked Williamsburg so much they are now students at William and Mary. They are Sue Crouse of York, Pa., David Davis of Denver, Colo., Becky Rice of Tillar, Ark., Don Sanders of Steubenville, Ohio, and David Rutledge of Newport News.

All five former student burgesses report that their participation in the Colonial Williamsburg program helped them to select William and Mary and that the Colonial Williamsburg activity has given them new outlooks and stronger motivations.

Physics Grant

Among the special gifts and grants to William and Mary during 1964 (totaled on page 23) was the award of $2,500 physics grant given by the General Electric Foundation to help strengthen the teaching of physics at the College. It was the fourth such grant in as many years.

New Registrar

Dudley Jensen, who served as associate professor of physical education for 12 years, has taken over his new assignment as registrar. The appointment, effective last February 1, divides the two offices formerly held by J. Wilfred Lambert who remains as dean of students. The selection of Jensen is another step in the implementation of the general administrative reorganization.

U. S. Conservatism

Participants in the Marshall-Wythe Symposium this semester are considering the topic "American Conservatism: Waxing or Waning?" It is the 27th year that the symposium has been held on the College campus.

The next speaker in the lecture series will be Dr. Paul Weinstein, '54, assistant professor of economics at Columbia, who will participate in the March 26 session. Other speakers this spring are David Abshire, executive secretary for Strategic Studies at Georgetown University; Iain Macleod, editor of The Spectator and a conservative member of the British Parliament, and Dr. Arthur Peterson, associate professor of political science at Ohio Wesleyan.

Previous speakers in the series were Dr. Russell Thackrey, executive secretary of the Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges, and Dr. Russell Kirk, lecturer and author of the newspaper opinion column To The Point.

The Noble Game Of Cricket

William and Mary's Do-It-Yourself Sport

By Bucky Reigelman, '64

IT WAS the afternoon of May 17, 1964, and several hundred students, tourists, and townspeople had turned out on Market Square Green to watch William and Mary play a visiting team from Washington, D. C. It was a lazy and sultry Sunday afternoon and the composition of the crowd kept changing. Dr. and Mrs. Paschall, Carl Humelsine, president of Colonial Williamsburg, and his wife, and Lord Harlich, British Ambassador to the United States, and Lady Harlich could be seen among the onlookers for part of the afternoon.

William and Mary lost that day but somehow or other it was not like losing a football or basketball game. For in this sport there is no rah-rahing (the onlookers never yell, only clap and occasionally mutter "good catch, sir"). There is no recruiting (it's not that important to win or lose). There are no regular practice hours, no training to keep (after each game it is customary for all the players to go to Chowning's and sip beer), no hurry, and no one can fire the coach (because there isn't any).

The Paschalls, Humelsines, and the Ambassador were watching William and Mary students play a cricket match against the British Commonwealth Cricket Club.

Cricket, at William and Mary, is a do-it-yourself sport. The team was started by students five years ago and has continued to be student-run, student-coached and student-managed. Each year an interested student appoints himself captain-manager-coachplayer-schedulemaker-PRman of the cricket team. In the warm fall months and spring he puts notices in The Flat Hat that there will be cricket practice on the women's athletic field. Everyone who turns up (or even happens to be wandering by) ends up by learning the game. Because there isn't a coach, every student who has learned the game considers himself a coach with the job of teaching others. Last year there were 18 players and 18 coaches and this year there will probably be more.

The William and Mary cricket team operates outside the authority of the athletic department. Team members receive neither monogram letters nor an invitation to the spring athletic banquet. For publicity, the team gets together after a match and writes a story about the game to give to the editor of The Flat Hat. When the first game was played the editor wasn't sure whether the account of the game should be included under sports, social notes, or politics.

Perhaps it should have been included under all three. In England, where cricket has been evolving since the 12th century, it is both a social institution and a political event. Cricket causes English villages to smolder with mutual hatred and county to spit at county in a way that makes the War of Roses seem like the mere cooing of doves.

Cricket, as it will be played in Williamsburg this spring, will have neither political implications nor social effects, but during each game there will be a half-hour break. Members of the College sororities will serve the tea and bring cookies along as well for the players and onlookers.

It takes 11 men to make a team and 10 have already declared themselves members, so cricket is assured of surviving for its fifth year at William and Mary.

John Tudor of Lynchburg is this year's captain-manager-coach-player-schedulemaker-PRman. Last summer he wrote other cricket teams he knew of in the East (cricket teams are not easy to come by) and he has scheduled eight games for the spring.

Tudor said that money is always a problem. Because a cricket bat costs $18 and a ball costs $5. This year for the first time the athletic department is giving the team $100 and cricket got an unexpected boost over the Christmas holidays when Guy Temple, a freshman, flew home to Chester, England. His father, who has represented his district in English Parliament for 10 years, donated two new bats and balls to the team.

Tom Kirkup of Clinton, N. Y., and Bob Audley of Arlington, will both be playing cricket for their fourth year this spring. Neither had ever heard of the game before coming to William and Mary and both have become quite proficient. Tom is a very respectable all-around athlete (on the intramural level he plays football, softball, handball, golf, badminton, ping-pong, tennis, swims and wrestles for his fraternity, Sigma Pi). He says he plays cricket because "it's different, relaxing, and enjoyable." Bob has played for four years because he "likes to play a spring sport, but was never that good in baseball."

Pete King of Philadelphia, Pa., Martin Burrough of Cheltenham, England, Tom Davis of Atlanta, Ga., and Jerry Jebo of Alexandria, are others who will see action on the cricket field this spring. Ralph Hancewitz of Groton, Mass., will also be playing this spring "because cricket is a real battle of minds."

And a battle of minds it is. Like football, there are 11 men on a side and, like baseball, there is a pitcher and catcher (called by different names). But in cricket there are as many subtleties as in chess. The bowler (pitcher) may bounce the ball off the ground before it reaches the batsman (batter) and cause it to rebound like a "cut" tennis ball. Such a pitch is called a "googly" and a good bowler will have a repertoire of googlies to surpass all the curves, change-ups, and sliders of the Baltimore Orioles' pitching staff.

Special information sheets explaining the game are being prepared by the boys to hand out to viewers this spring. Because there are no required dimensions for a cricket field, each team makes certain ground rules peculiar to its own field. One of the Market Square ground rules states that any batsman knocking the ball through a window of the Old Court House may drink as much beer (compliments of his team members) as he desires at Chowning's after the match. This rule was added after Dick Grubb, the boy who introduced cricket to William and Mary, returned to England.

When Grubb arrived at Williamsburg as the Drapers exchange student in 1960 he was amazed to find that students didn't know how to play cricket. Outside of Dr. William G. Guy, who was born in Canada and spent a year in England on a Rhodes scholarship, most of the faculty didn't know the game either.

Grubb recalls that when he told one of the P. E. instructors that he was interested in starting a cricket club, the instructor thought he was going to collect insects. Yet Grubb was both a colorful and intelligent student and he singlehandedly generated enough interest to get together a team of sorts. Cricket was officially reborn in Williamsburg (it was played here many, many years ago) in the spring of 1960 when a group of students lost to the British Commonwealth Cricket Club, 107-43. But 400 people came, primarily out of curiosity, to watch and the seed was planted.

Grubb kept interest in cricket alive that summer by visiting some of the team members at their homes during his trip around the country. The trip should go down in the annals of student folklore, if for no other reason than Grubb and his English cousin traveled 12,000 miles in 10 weeks for less than $400. The two became used to eating one meal a day and sleeping on the floor of the 1950 Ford they had purchased before leaving. In a Flat Hat interview the next fall Grubb calmly told how "the transmission gave out along the Gulf Coast, second gear went in Denver, first and reverse gave way in Yellowstone, and the speedometer never worked. The only difficulty in driving back in third gear was in timing for stoplights."

The Ford didn't last until the spring of '62 when cricket at William and Mary began to gain momentum and our team posted a 3-3 season. After that season Grubb left for England, but he left his friends with a knowledge of and interest in his national sport. Enough interest, in fact, that during the next year John Gette, '63, of Bernardsville, N. J., got together a team and a schedule and the cricketeers won four out of six games.

one of seven games, this win was against the combined players of Duke, the University of North Carolina, and North Carolina State University. Pehrson recalled that were it not for President Paschall's financial and moral support and Colonial Williamsburg's willingness to maintain a cricket pitch on Market Square, cricket would probably have died out. But the President did reach into his private fund and Colonial Williamsburg has such a good pitch in fact that last summer when a New Zealand team played a team from the British Embassy, the game was played in Williamsburg.

What about the future of cricket at William and Mary? Tudor, this year's captain, is only a junior so next year is taken care of already. And there are freshmen who already have expressed an interest in learning the game this spring. Cricket will most likely remain here in the foreseeable future.

And a good thing it is, for cricket speaks well for William and Mary. It is English, and it is played by gentlemen and it seems fit and proper that it should be played in view of the Wren Building (Sir Christopher played a bit of cricket himself while a student at Oxford). William and Mary is unique in Virginia for having cricket and is only one of several colleges in the United States who play the game. One of these is Harvard. Tudor is trying to schedule a match with Harvard for next year. If this match becomes a reality, William and Mary cricketeers will not yell and scream after their victory. As the English would say, "It wouldn't be cricket."

Time: The Only Remedy

BILL CHAMBERS has had frequent occasion this winter to ponder an inescapable truth—that only one reliable remedy exists for inexperience: time.

That grand healer of all wounds may eventually allow William and Mary's veteran basketball mentor to forget the sideline agonies of the 1964-65 season. Despite the Tribe's lacklustre 5-10 record at the mid-term recess, signs of maturing talent augured well for the future.

Of Chamber's 13 men, only two were seniors, and only one of them a mainstay. Five juniors and six sophomores accounted for three-fourths of the scoring punch, even if on an erratic basis.

The key senior, lanky Martin Morris of Lynchburg, sat out four games with an injured ankle, delivering a serious blow to the Tribe's continuity of performance and contributing to a disastrous seven-game string of mid-season losses.

Even with the pressure on, William and Mary's youthful contingent managed to do credit to Chamber's tutoring. Six of the December and January losses came by the slim total of 33 points, and the Indians stayed in the game with nationally ranked Davidson until well into the second half.

Sporadic heroics were furnished by juniors Walter Wenk, Tim Walter, Larry Paffrath and Bob Eskay, along with sophomores Ben Pomeroy, Bart Steib and Lew Ollice. Walter, a junior forward from Pennsylvania, bloomed against Georgia Tech with a 32-point barrage. Pomeroy, the Tribe's leading rebounder, is considered one of the Southern Conference's finer rookie prospects.

Chambers can also be justly optimistic when he inspects this year's crop of freshmen cagers. The newcomers sported an impressive 9-2 record when examination time came, the only setbacks coming at the hands of Virginia and Navy. Otherwise, the Papooses rolled along effortlessly.

Chief instruments of the frosh success were high-scoring Ron Panneton, rebound artist Jimmy Rama, Billy Taylor, Mike Johnson and Brian Wolf.

Chambers recognized certain if's when the season began, notably if he could find strength at guard and if Martin Morris could remain in good health.

Consigned to his third losing ledger in eight years on the Reservation, Chambers can look ahead with some hope—if time is truly a reliable remedy for inexperience.

Busiest season of the sporting year is spring, when baseball, track, golf and tennis vie for attention.

Joe Agee's five returning lettermen promise to make this spring's edition of the Tribe golf team exceptionally strong. The outlook is so-so in tennis, where Mike Kutner handles coaching duties. Maynard Weber's baseball nine expects to be on the upgrade.

In track, veteran overseer Harry Groves has some exceptional individual talent, but this could be an "off" year for the team as a whole. Top individual performers back are distance ace Jimmy Johnson and shot-putter Joe Green. Johnson's best time this winter in the mile was a 4:15.8 clocking. Groves' thinclads last fall captured their second straight cross-country championship in the Southern Conference.

Meanwhile, Marv Levy's gridders will be knocking heads starting April 6. Back from last fall's 4-6 outfit will be 22 lettermen, including seven starters. Missing will be four key All-SC operatives. The SC's coach of the year also has some good material coming up from an undefeated (5-0) freshman team.

Our news is scarce. We had hoped to hear from more of you at Christmastime. We hope you will not forget this in the future. While you are thinking about it, put us on your 1965 Christmas Card list and we will be sure to hear from you.

Indirectly, we have news from Hazel Saunders Weaver. We are glad, as it's the first news we have had from her in some time. Her husband, Dr. Sam Weaver, who is a neuro-surgeon, spent the month of January 1964 on the hospital ship Hope in Guayaquil, Ecuador. He gave his neurosurgical talents to the ship and two large hospitals in the city. Hazel made the trip to Ecuador and stayed, first, with the lovely family of Arteta's in Quito over the holi-This was a storybook experience. Hospitality and kindness made them feel like royalty. Then on to the air-conditioned Hotel Humbolt where she spent the rest of the time. They feel that "People to Peoprojects such as the U.S.S. Hope, medically are the greatest help to our neighboring countries.

All three of their children have graduated from college and are happily married. Hazel and Sam were excited about plans for a family reunion during the Holiday Season at their desert home, "Builtmore." Season at their desert home, "Builtmore." Their home address is 13902 Yorba Street, Apt. 11A, Tustin, Calif.

S. Douglas Fleet of Richmond recently was elected vice president of the Ethyl

Corp.

In December, John C. Swanson, president of Swanson Motors, Inc., Danville, was nominated by the Automotive Trade Association of Virginia and the Danville New Car Dealers Association to receive the 1965 Benjamin Franklin Quality Dealer Award, which makes him eligible for election as national automobile dealer of the year. The award is sponsored by The Saturday Evening Post and the Automotive Trade Association Managers. Swanson has been an active church, civic and community leader for many years. He is a trustee of the College's Educational Foundation, chairman of the High-way Committee of the Roanoke River Basin Association, and a member of the Mayor's Committee on the employment of the handicapped.

Jane Jolliffe Palmer is the new president of the Virginia Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs. Mrs. Palmer is senior guidance counselor of the Loudoun Valley High School at Purcell-ville. She started in guidance work when it was in its infancy in 1944. Mrs. Palmer early set something of a record by being graduated as valedictorian from high school at the age of 14. When she was 18 she was graduated from William and Mary. Several years ago she was named Woman of the Year for Loudoun County and she is listed in the latest edition of Who's Who in American Women.

A course in conversational English for foreigners is being offered for the first time by Lynchburg College. It was set up at the suggestion of Laura G. Parker, associate professor of English at Lynchburg College, who is teaching the class.

William E. White of Scranton, Pa.,
represented the College at an academic convocation last fall at King's College. As a representative of William and Mary, he, and the representative from Harvard, jointly lead the procession.

A class in conversational English for foreigners has been established at Lynchburg College at the suggestion of Laura G. Parker, associate professor of English there. The new course is dubbed "English O." The class helps foreigners to understand the peculiarities of English.

Betty Chambers George teaches at Mary Munford Elementary School in Richmond. Her husband Leonard works for the State. They have two daughters, the wife of an Air Force captain stationed on Okinawa and the wife of a student at Greenville, N. C.

The former executive secretary of the Alumni Society, Charles P. McCurdy, Jr., has been honored by the Alumni Federation of Columbia University for his "distinguished contributions to education." The award was made at the federation's 50th anniversary in New York. McCurdy is a former president of the American Alumni Council.

Lillian Carmine Sterling writes from Gloucester that her daughter Carolyn is a sophomore at William and Mary.

Edwerta Beyer Barber is working as administrative secretary to the public relations director of Printing Industries of America, Inc. Her husband Edward has a private investigative agency in Silver Spring, Md.

A year ago, Marian J. Holl became a planning associate with the Hospital Review and Planning Council of Southern New York. This past Christmas she spent on a Caribbean cruise.

Dr. James Radcliffe Jr. represented the College at ceremonies in October at Stonehill College in Massachusetts.

Dr. George W. Bishop Jr. was recently promoted to the rank of professor of finance at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville. He was one of two faculty members elected to membership in Omicron Delta Kappa and was also elected a member of Delta Sigma Pi, the professional commerce and business administration fraternity.

Adele Stephenson Burgess writes from Wilton, Conn., that she and Ralph have three children, Eveline at Vassar, Ralph Jr. at the Lenox School, and Linda Lee in the sixth grade at Wilton School.

Mills E. Godwin Ir.

Mills E. Godwin, lieutenant governor of Virginia, has announced that he is seeking the Democratic nomination for Governor of Virginia. His candidacy has received the endorsement of more than half the members of the Virginia General Assembly.

Dr. Maurice R. Nance, medical director of Smith Kline and French Laboratories in Philadelphia, has been appointed to a unit of the President's Science Advisory Committee. He will serve on the Panel on Handling of Toxicological Information. Dr. Nance received his M.D. degree from the Medical College of Virginia in 1941.

Annabel Hopkins Mitchell Foley Road, Star Route Havre de Grace, Md. 21078

Here is some news gleaned from my Christmas cards. Joan Thompson Hicks writes that her nephew, Anne Thompson Graves' son Lenny is a freshman at William and Mary this year.

Mildred Albee Babb's son Terry graduated from Florida State University around Christmas time. He was to have a month at home before entering the service. Her daughter Ellen attends Christopher New-port College and hopes to transfer to William and Mary her junior year. Mildred is still busy with Girl Scouts and much church work.

There is a wedding in the air: Margaret Brett Evans' eldest child became engaged at Christmas, with a June wedding planned. Sorry to hear her husband Bill has been hospitalized.

How about plans for a William and Mary Alumni Chapter in Pittsburgh? Marjorie Beggs Brice is very interested in the idea. She writes that her daughter Candy is in junior college, and Lissa is a junior in high school.

Dottie Kincaid, husband Woody, and nine-year-old son David were in Williamsburg late in October this past year. She was dumbfounded at the numerous changes since her last visit. David, she says, probably learned more history in a painless fashion in a short time than ever before. Dottie, smart girl, is taking some courses in law at Western Reserve; but since it is a parttime thing she thinks it may take quite a few years to finish off the required hours for a degree!

Ada Stuart Holland of Williamsburg is newly associated with The Virginia Gazette and is the circulation manager.

Katherine Pierce Towers has a son in the Marine Corps and another at Rockhurst College in Kansas City, Mo. She would like to know if there are any alumni around Iowa, Omaha, or Kansas City.

My husband Jim and I attended the opening session of the Senate and heard the new United States Senators sworn in January 4, a rather serious occasion for them all.

I would like to hear from many more of the members of the class. Drop me a line with some news of your doings or your children's. It takes your letters to make this letter possible.

Frances L. Grodecoeur 810 Howard Street Monongahela, Pa.

Lee Goodwin Firth and her husband Rod spent the summer and fall term, on leave of absence from Harvard, in Palo Alto, Calif. During that time Rod was a fellow at the Center for Advanced Study in the Behavioral Sciences. She and Rod Jr. enjoyed sightseeing in California.

The Equitable Life Assurance Society announced that R. Bradshaw Pulley has been awarded its highest honor, the Hall of Fame Medal, for qualifying 10 times in the National Leaders Million Corps.

Eva Rose Colby Warden writes from 965 Jewett Holmwood Road, East Aurora, N. Y., that she and her husband, president of a tool manufacturing company, and their two sons, Brian, 17, and Peter, 15, live in a remodelled farmhouse, set among old maple trees, on 18 acres of land. They also have a small cottage on Lake Muskoka in Ontario. Eva returned to the business world six years ago and has a fascinating job as secretary to one of the Directors of Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory in Buffalo, a non-profit organization affiliated with Cornell University.

Marion Corliss Beavers has written to enlighten our readers on a bit of misin-formation which I garnered at our 25th reunion. Her husband, Kendall Beavers, is not Superintendent of Florida schools, but is District Director of Vocational Rehability for Control Florida African Superintendent of Superintendent itation for Central Florida. After years of secretarial work, Marion has settled down to the career of housewife at 1407 Roosevelt Avenue, Orlando, Fla.

Mrs. F. D. Henderson (Barbara Clawson) Box 17, Irvington, Va.

Frank and I had a grand trip this fall to Minneapolis, by way of Buffalo, Canada, Detroit and Milwaukee. The highlight of our trip was a nice visit with Jean Clarahan Bratton and two of her attractive children in nearby Northfield, Minn. Jean's husband Frank and oldest daughter Anne were in California and we were sorry to miss seeing them, but we thoroughly enjoyed Jean's hospitality and it was grand catching up with her since our last get-together about 15 years ago.

I had a nice telephone conversation with Charlotte Bagot White, but we were disappointed that we couldn't get to Kansas City to see her.

Our other long stop was on our way home. We visited my sister and her husband in Huntington, W. Va. We saw lots of interesting places on our 3,700-mile drive, but the Rappahannock River at our own back yard looked mighty beautiful the night we returned home.

The G. W. Youngs of Weston, Conn., enjoyed a trip to Williamsburg last August. They were showing off their Alma Mater to their daughter.

John E. Dillard was recently elected President of The National Tobacco Festival. He is associated with the American Tobacco Co. in Richmond.

In early December I had a grand letter from "Pat" (Frank) Damrosch (Hill-croft, Box 96, Lambertville, N. J.) who tells me that he and his wife Billie now live on a farm and hope to stay put a bit since travel has moved them pretty much all over the world, including a lengthy stay in South America with Standard Oil. Now Pat's working hours are occupied with newspaper advertising and his leisure with Irish setters, horses and golf. Their son David is a Marine jet pilot stationed in Hawaii and promises them their first grandchild at any minute. Pat hopes to renew activity with college and become active in alumni affairs, which I hope includes taking in our 25th reunion in October.

After seeing Jean Clarahan Bratton in the fall it's been wonderful hearing from her again in November and at Christmas. Jean and Frank's oldest daughter Anne is out in California working and sharing an apartment with two other girls and having a wonderful time. Jean's address is 2 Fareway Drive, Northfield, Minn.

Christmas cards are life-savers and so welcome. Sally Bell Wainwright says that her older son Curt is in his second year at V.P.I. and likes it very much, and the younger boy, J. I., is now a junior in high school. Sally is a supervisor at Family and Children's Service and loves social work. She and Thea live at 9400 University Blvd.,

Richmond. Jane Brandt Wild sent a long newsy note saying that their oldest son is a junior at University of California, their next is at St. Lawrence University and on the freshman hockey team, and her daughter and youngest son are in high school. Jane and Ben were scheduled to leave Jan. 20 for Antigua and Montserrat for two weeks, home for a week, and then take to the skies again to Berkeley and Rolling Hills, Calif., down to Mexico for fiesta in Mazatlan, and home about March 8. Jane's home address is 62 Emerson Rd., Winchester,

Col. Seymour Shwiller of the Air Force has been named one of 25 college football players of the entire United States class of 1940 to receive the Sports Illustrated Silver Anniversary Award. Shwiller, a Phi Beta Kappa scholar, was a running guard at William and Mary and was nominated for the award by the College. He serves as staff assistant in the Air Force Office of the Special Assistant for Disarmament. After his graduation from William and Mary, Shwiller received a master's degree in nuclear physics from Ohio State.

Tom Della Torre, football coach at Hackensack, N. J., High School, was named the outstanding high school football coach in the United States by Unico, a service organization of Italian-Americans. He also has been named Bergen County coach of the year. The honors followed the 1963 football season after Della Torre has posted a 15-year record of 112 wins, 34 losses and

I talked to Jim Kelly and plans are already shaping up for our 25th reunion next year. The newest addition to the Williamsburg Lodge is reserved for our class and it isn't a bit too early to start planning and talking it up to all those we see and correspond with to get on the bandwagon. Jim says this will be the best reunion yet and you'll all be hearing soon about the directory they're planning for us, and all the other ideas. We broke the records at our 20th, so let's see what we can do

How about letting me hear from you and I'll report on those planning to attend in my next letters in hopes of interesting more to do the same.

Mrs. W. G. Mollenkopf (Margaret Mitchell) 231 Hillcrest Avenue Cincinnati 15, Ohio

It is always pleasant to have something to write about for this column and sincere thanks to those of you who took a minute to add a few lines to your Christmas cards.

Jim and Emily Davis had a quick trip to France—over on the S.S. France, four days in Nice and four in Paris, then home by air. The trip was made with the annual convention of the Association of Bank Travel Bureaus for which Jim serves as counsel, and accompanies them on convention tours. Last year it was Puerto Rico and Bermuda the year before. He adds, "If I can keep the group in legal difficulty we may get to see Jamaica!" Jim is also soaking up campus atmosphere at the University of Delaware one night a week where he is in the third year of a four year plus thesis program for an M.B.A.

exciting, but she admits to having hit the age when she enjoys the peace and quiet. Amen, Ella. They have two children in college: Charles is at VPI and Carolyn is in Pharmacy School in Richmond, Kay Hoover Dew reminds me that it's not too soon to begin planning for our 25th reunion. Let's make this one a big one and all of you put it on your calendars for 1966. Kay saw Marian Milne Barba when the Barbas were in Williamsburg for the Society of the Alumni board meeting.

A trip to Hawaii was the highlight of the year for Ruth Rapp Thayer but she was sorry to have missed seeing some of our college friends who are in that area. At home Ruth is active in alumnae work with the Pi Phi Chapter at University of California at Los Angeles.

Every once in a while, from out of the blue, comes a note from a long lost friend, so it was with real surprise and delight that I read the signature of Fran Reeder Burnett on a Christmas card. Fran writes, I'm a complete Californian by this time, having moved here in 1955 shortly before the death of my first husband. . part time in the office of a local magazine, read to a blind graduate student afternoons and go to school nights gradually sneaking up on my Bachelor's. One son is on the verge of his doctorate in physics, my daughter is in the art department of a New York magazine, and my younger son is starting college." Thank you, Fran, for your note. It was wonderful to hear from you and I hope others of you will follow her example and write!

Mrs. James B. Macon (Marion Pate) 2621 Brookwood Road Richmond, Va. 23235

I expected a deluge of Christmas cards from the loyal class of '42, but was disappointed, hearing only from my faithful Christmas friends. I do appreciate the voluntary contributions which come in from time to time.

Just when we left Culpeper, Bill Diehl moved there to become the managing edi-tor of the local daily paper. I keep up with Bill as we still subscribe to this paper, and enjoy a column which he writes under the by-line of "Diehling it out."

A note from Margaret Kelly Dunham was enclosed with her contribution to the William and Mary Fund. The Dunham fam-ily took another extended vacation of five weeks in their travel trailer. They went to Nova Scotia, Quebec, and Ottawa, where they saw the changing of the guard at the Parliament building and Niagara Falls.

A wonderful letter from Roy Merritt, reports that he is assistant principal of North Quincy High School, Quincy, Mass. Roy has been working for his doctorate at Boston University while his oldest daughter has been doing undergraduate work at Middlebury College and gleaning all sorts of honors. Daughter number two was scheduled to make Roy and Mary Henderson Merritt grandparents this March. Daughter number three is 16 and a prep school senior looking forward to college next year. The youngest is a boy with the interesting name of Sayre, a fifth grader with a voracious appetite and much bounce to the ounce.

I missed the last deadline so didn't get in my news about Homecoming. This is always a glorious, well organized oc-casion, and was equally so this past year in spite of the rain. We had Ben and Fran Wagener Read and Vince and Betty Lyon Lascara with us for the dinner dance.

Saw Charlie and Austin Roberts at the dinner dance. I believe Austin was the brother who had the handsome son with him who was down to investigate applica-tion for the class of '68.

Eleanore Rheuby Volonte writes that her husband retired from the Navy in August after 22 years of service. He is working for Bellcomm in Washington, D. C.

For the past two years William O. Morris has served as advisor-attorney and consultant to James J. Saxon, Comptroller of the Currency, Washington, D. C. He serves in the winter as Professor of Law at West Virginia University. Last Summer he served as visiting professor of law at the George Washington National Law Center in the evenings. He is the author of almost two dozen publications, mainly in law journals and dealing with some banking law prob-lem. He attributes his position in the field of law to our College, and particularly to Dean Dudley W. Woodbridge.

Judging from the messages on holiday cards, members of our class will return in large numbers to the campus next fall for our class reunion marking 20 years since graduation

Jean Clark Ford wrote from Norfolk where Virgil is minister of music at the Park Place Methodist Church. He composes music as well and has had 34 church anthems and an Easter cantata accepted for publication—a marvelous accomplishment! The eldest of the Ford's three children is in the school of engineering at Old Dominion College and the second son is a high school student and their daughter attends junior high school.

Betsy Yow Pearce and family were still at Redstone Arsenal, Ala., as the new year began but Bob expects to be transferred to the Army War College at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., early in the fall. Their son, Mac, will finish at the Columbia Military Acad emy in June, and the twins, Perry and David, begin their senior year of high school next September. Betsy, Bob and Perry journeyed to West Point last summer for Bob's 20th reunion.

Mary Jane Chamberlain is librarian of two elementary schools in Chesterfield and husband, Vaughan, teaches ninth grade science on television.

Phyllis Ebling Tavel has a new neighbor in McLean—Jane Craig Beaver. The Tavel twins and Jane's eleventh grader ride the school bus together. Jane's husband, Bob, is a naval captain and they built a white brick colonial home.

Jeanne Boyle Herbert and her three sons joined Tom in St. Louis last spring. They flew east in December for a holiday visit with family and friends.

Mildred Foster Lewis sent a holiday note from South Carolina. She and Bill, sales engineer with Armco Steel, Inc., have a daughter who will enter Furman University in September and a second daughter who is interested in William and Mary.

Tine Stultz Emerson spent the summer of 1964 in Boston where Chemstrand sent her husband for a course at M.I.T. The family enjoyed New England and stopped at the World's Fair en route home.

Kay and Bart Bartlett vacationed in Maine again last August. Kay's brother, Whit, and wife, Alice White, have just moved to Upper Saddle River, N. J.

Our faithful Dinny Lee McAlinden not only keeps us up to date on her family but thoughtfully sends news garnered from her Christmas cards. Dinny and Joe plan to add two more bedrooms, a sauna and an indoor swimming pool to their house. You'll recall how fascinating it was to hear progress of the first addition built around the original house. Their son, James Lee, going on two, necessitates more space. Joe has been doing much work out of the country. Just after Christmas he was off to Venezuela.

Dinny had heard from Mary Schafhirt Barnes. Colonel John B. is back in the States after a year in Korea and is now at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds, Md. He and Mary live in a beautiful 10-room mansion on Chesapeake Bay. Their son, John Jr., is in his third year at Annapolis.

Sunny Manewall Murray's son, Ken, graduates from high school in June and enters college in September. His sister, Leslie, is the family's horse enthusiast as well as being active in scouting, choir and an avid flute player.

Another high school graduate come June will be Betty Aurell and Henry Schutz's oldest son, Henry III, who hopes to be at William and Mary in the fall. They report that Mary Jones Vliet's husband is assistant principal of the Falls Church High School.

A few notes from outside our class. Lebe Seay Grey, '44, writes that her husband Bill will return to the staff of West-ern State Hospital in Virginia during the summer. They with their two adopted children have become campers.

Shirley McGuire Rhees, '47, is in Elizabeth City, N. C., where Jerry is business manager and registrar of the College of the Albemarle, a community college. He also teaches history and political science and Shirley is enrolled in courses of her own. She also is president of the Faculty Woman's Club. They are close enough to Williamsburg to have spent several weekends there in the few months since they left Ohio.

Eleanor Yates Schueler proudly announces that she was graduated in August from William and Mary, only 19 years after her class. Her husband Harvey, '51, is a certified public accountant. Their three children are all in school and the oldest daughter hopes to enter William and Mary this fall. Eleanor enjoys substitute teaching around her area, Northumberland, Pa.

Morris B. Gutterman, a certified public accountant, recently announced the opening of his office in Suffolk.

Ann Singer Banes loves the warm weather in Phoenix, Ariz., after moving from Chicago five years ago. Until last year she worked as assistant personnel manager for Diamond's, a large department store. Now she keeps books and serves as secretary for husband Roy's insurance and re-modeling business. Their six children, ranging from three to 12, all have learned to swim and dive, and the three oldest are tak-ing golf lessons. She and Roy are active in politics, the PTA, and college life around Arizona State University. Several times they have seen Marilyn Kammerle Quinto, '45, who lives in Tucson.

Ann sent along an article from the Sept.

29 Phoenix Gazette that announces the appointment of district attorney Carl A. Muecke to serve as federal district judge for Arizona. He and his wife Nancy have three children, Carl, 20, Jack, 17, and Catherine, 13. Carol Talbot Egelhoff has been living in Williamsburg for the past year and a half. Her husband Bill, formerly in the insurance business, was graduated in 1957 from the Virginia Theological Seminary. For five years he was rector of Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, Onancock, and Emmanuel Church, Jenkins Bridge, on the Eastern Shore. The whole family spent the academic year 1962-63 in Canterbury, England, where Bill studied at St. Augustine's College. Their four children, Bill 15, Betsy 14, Catherine 9, and Tommy 5, attended four different English schools and enjoyed playing cricket, hearing the Beatles before they were known in America, and asking for their allowance money in shillings and ha'pennies. Their house pre-dated James-town and had few of what are considered the necessities

In spite of her endless activities and projects, Carol often sees her former suite mate, Julia Bristow, who edits a Navy newspaper in Norfolk. Julia paints in her spare time and has exhibited her work in Richmond, Norfolk and Virginia Beach, in addition to doing some commissions for Ford Times.

The William and Mary Tomahawk marks items in class news columns which your editors feel are of more than passing interest to all alumni: noteworthy accomplishments, surprising information or, simply, good stories.

Ennis Rees reports that he's a professor of English at the University of South Carolina and recently published The Song of Paul Bunyan and Tony Beaner. After he was graduated from William and Mary, he received his master's and Ph.D. degrees at Harvard

Mary Dickson Phipps Shryock reports that she and her husband Dick made a three-week trip through Europe last spring.

Mrs. Thomas O. Moore (Trinka Robinson) 167 Wallace St. Freeport, N. Y.

Much as I had hoped, the Christmas mailman did not bring vibrant news from a long lost alumni who have been hiding low these many years. I was most grateful, however, to all my regular pen pals for their nice cards and reports of family do-

Since I have previously reported on most of these folks, suffice it to say that B. J. Yoder Petersen, Millie Draper Lipps, Tina Jones Carr, Ruth Kathermann, '46, "Simo" Mary Simon Blevins, '46, Nancy Carnegie Merrill, '46, Eleanor Grant Hart, '49, and Jane Oblender Atwater, '49 are all fine and raising a bumper crop of alumni.

I did have a very enjoyable letter from Emily Scott Seawell who is married to Tubby (Elwyn) Seawell, '49, with the news that her family has recently moved to Bristol. He is sales manager of the Bristol Branch of National Biscuit Co. What a nice business to be in with three girls (8, 10, and 12 years). Among the familiar faces they have seen since arriving are those of Ann Nottingham Johnson, '43, and Bill Bonham, '48, and his wife, Peg. On a trip to North Carolina they looked up Lewis Toodie Hall, '51, who is now dean of Lees-McRae College. He and his wife, Betty, have a new son. Emily also reported seeing Anne Mason Batling, '46, in Norfolk. She and her husband, Ed, had just returned from a pleasurebusiness trip to Canada.
Sally Justis, '46, and Howard Ranson

Greetings! Heard from Surry and Marie Stevens Harrison at Christmas with news and a picture of their lively youngsters—Lindsey, who is three, and Tom, fifteen months. Marie writes that brother-in-law, Bill Harrison, has had another promotion with Seaboard Railroad. He's now assistant chief mechanist officer.

Harvey Chappell, Jr., writes that Ann had an emergency appendectomy on Christmas Eve. We hope that Ann is up and about long before this column appears.

Gloria Carbonell Jacker writes that in June, 1963, she was married to Richard Edward Jacker, a lawyer and graduate of Harvard and Northwestern. After a honeymoon in France, they are renovating a brownstone town house on 10th Street off Fifth Avenue in New York and raising and training two dogs.

We are sorry to hear from Edward Nelson Buxton in Springfield that he has been unwell, and we hope that he is much better now. He lives with his parents and reports that his sister, Jean Page Buxton Moffett, '44, is librarian at the Rappahannock County High School in Washington, Va., and that her husband is an attorney.

In December James S. Skipwith was appointed assistant manager at the Indianapolis branch office of Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. He and his wife, the former Elaine Wilsey of Long Island, live in Indianapolis with their three children.

Warren C. Rockwitt reports that he and his wife Mimi traveled through Europe last year and met Dave Henritze in Flor-ence, Italy, and had a William and Mary reunion.

Our faithful Christmas correspondent, Diana Wedel Riley, reports a new addition to the family, son Peter Andrew, born last August. Husband John, '50, was recently appointed a director of Woburn National Bank, Mass.

From Lafayette, Ind., comes news of Claire Brinley Berner, busy with two growing daughters and the enlargement and remodeling of their home. That is the extent of my Christmas mail, I'm afraid. I did manage to have lunch in New York with Alice Baxley Anthony and Babs Griffin Whitaker, both of whom can boast of a set of twins to keep them busy!

Vantage Press recently published a book, Pipes of Wretched Straw, written by John Gravatt. Now a resident of Virginia Beach, John drew his novel from his experience as a teacher in Clover and in Newport News. He concentrates on the complete breakdown of discipline and a lack of respect for authority among America's youth

Jay Walter Hardison writes that he is teaching in Anne Arundel County and living in Annapolis, Md., for the second year.

Max J. Stoszesky writes from Chadds Ford, Pa., that his son William received the "Andrew Wyeth Art Award" last May.

Dr. Ralph E. Alston represented the College of William and Mary at the inauguration of Dr. James Henry McCrocklin as president of Southwest Texas State College last November.

Herbert H. Bateman of Newport News has been named a partner in the law firm of Jones, Blechman, Woltz and Kelly. Bateman, long active in civic affairs on the Virginia Peninsula, has been a member of the firm since 1959, the year he received a law degree from Georgetown University.

Many thanks to those who remembered to send cards and notes at Christmas. I fear that the same people are the faithful ones and if you want to see different names in the column you had better get busy with your pens. I will accept cards for any and all occasions.

Just after I sent in the last column I had a nice note from Pat Stringham Venable. Pat and Chuck live in Vienna and have a baby girl, Laura. Pat said they see Steve Taylor quite often at local plays; they are all theater buffs. Steve is still a bachelor and lives in Alexandria. Pat would like to know the whereabouts of Petie Moll, Dick Bethards, and Marcia Magill. Please stand and be counted.

I had a long note from Sue Hines Davis. They moved into a large old colonial house about a year ago and have at last gotten it to where it is called home. It sounds wonderful. Randy is on the vestry at the church, is chairman of the Suffolk Swimming Pool and for two years he has won the junior men's singles and doubles on the city tennis team. Their oldest boy Randolph is 13, Beth 11, and Mallory 10. Sue has been busy with Scouts, church work, and PTA. She also passed along the following information on others. Jeanne Payne Lewis has a new son John and a new home. Jean Murphy (sorry I don't have her married name) has a new home in Paramus, N. J.

Jeanne Bambforth is still teaching in the Philadelphia area but has moved to a new apartment with a swimming pool. She is planning a trip west this summer so maybe I will get a call.

Jo Jonsher Scofield and Dick said their most exciting event of the past year was a winter visit to Florida where they ran into everybody from Ohio.

Pat Jones Warner enclosed a picture of herself and children. They make quite a handsome group. It doesn't seem possible all of our babies are half grown.

all of our babies are half grown.

after so many years abroad.

Ruth Barnes Chalmers and Dave had a trip to the World's Fair with Davey and Ruth's parents this summer and also a trip to Mexico City. They get together with Bill Low and Jean when they can.

Nancy Kurtz Falck begged me not to mention her name but she is my very best source of information. She and George get together with Nicky Dillard Dewing and Jay and Jane Copland Upshur and Giles quite often. Nancy and George got to Homecoming and saw Tuga Wilson Clement, Ann Norman, Chottie Phillips, and Mary Stanton Willis Doll, and Bobby.

Jean Meyers Boudreau and Buddy are still in San Jose. I keep thinking I will call them when Bob takes me to San Francisco again but we haven't gotten up for some time. Milly Johnson Woodling, '51, and Pete are still in Houston and plan to be until we get to the moon. Harriet Burden Mathews, '51, and Bob are in Denver and they miss the east coast. Don't we all. Gale and Eddie Pierce are in Alexandria but have moved a couple of blocks. Janet Pierce Waller, '49, and John are in Leesburg. I am still waiting for news of all the alumni Janet has discovered there. Joan Meadows Hawkins, '51, and Buddy are still in Ohio. Liz Daniel Shuman and Bob wrote that Bob has finally reached Boy Scout age. That is the age when if you aren't leader or helper with the scouts your kids want to know the reason why. Franklin, Va. 23851

I received Christmas cards, letters, and some adorable pictures of children. How I wish more of you would write.

Congratulations to Mary Anne Woodhouse Waugh and Ron upon the arrival of their fourth child, second daughter, Elizabeth Anne, on August 14, 1964. Their three other children are Ronnie, a student in junior high school; Mary Helen, in kindergarten; and Tim who is in a special school in South Bend. Ron works with Delco and Mary Anne's busy as a mother and work in AAUW and the church. This year they aided in the creation of an association for the retarded children in their county. The Waughs live at 510 Davis Drive, Anderson, Ind. Charles Criag and Nanette and their daughters, Catherine and Charlotte, live at 1851 Colland Drive, N.W., Atlanta, Ga. 30318.
Dr. Carl Fehr, "Pappy" to us, sent me

Dr. Carl Fehr, "Pappy" to us, sent me an excellent color picture postcard of the present William and Mary Choir along with his Christmas card. It brought back many happy memories of my four years in the choir.

Arden Kirkby Perkins, Perk, and their sons, Rudy and Kirk, live in Kansas City, Kathryn Gray Bradshaw, '52, and Bob had a lovely picture of their daughter, Kay. The Bradshaws, their sons Brad and Bill, and their daughter live at 44 Milford Road, Newport News. Kathryn's father, Marvin Gray, who was executive secretary of Ruritan National, died this past fall.

Other cards with pictures of children came from Katherine Bell Martin, Tom, Tommy, Anne and Jay; and Jackie Jones Myers, '52, Averette, Jackie Lu and Penny. The Martins live at 8 Candy Lane, Huntington Station, Long Island, N. Y. The Myers family lives in Alberta.

Cards also came from Gwen Batten Perkins, Perk, Gwen Anne, and John from 1905 Lilac Lane, Alexandria. Jim and Bev Kelly, 319 Burns Lane, Williamsburg; Teddy Nicar Maddox, Jim, Laura and Jimmy, Box 229, Jeffersonville, Ga.; Carol Gardner Lorenz, Roy, Connie, and Debbie, 517 Little John Hill, Sherwood Forest, Annapolis, Md. 21149; and Betty Cox Scott, John, and four children from 1504 Bunker Hill Drive. Charlottesville.

Hill Drive, Charlottesville.

Jane and Bob Gleason and children,
Bobby, Kathy, Mike and Patti, live at 757
West Hills Parkway, Baltimore, Md. 21229.
Jane and Bob attended Homecoming while her mother kept the children at Virginia Beach. She said the class of '49 was well represented.

Anne Dunn Nock and Claude sent an excellent picture of the entire family. They have two daughters, Laurie and Robin, and a son, Jamie. Claude and Anne sing in the Presbyterian Church choir. Claude is also an elder and Anne directs two youth choirs. They have recently moved into their new home in Springfield.

their new home in Springfield.

Helen Mason Boyle, Bob, and two children, Robby, 5½; and Mary Blanche, 2½; live at 1701 Ash Lane, Kilgore, Tex. They visited Helen's mother, sister and her family in Richmond last summer.

Doris Hamilton Jones, George, George W., and Helen live in Mannboro. Doris went to Longwood for eight weeks last summer and is now teaching all four years of Spanish in the Amelia County High School.

Sidne Cockley Pizzo, Paul, and their three children, David, Ann Lewis, and Mary Beverley (born Oct. 13, 1964) live at 19 Evergreen Row, Windmill Farm, Armonk, New York. Paul works with IBM World Trade Corporation in New York. Sarah Enos Brown and family visited them last summer. They also visited Lee Renander Shubert, Al, and their family in Darien, Conn. The Shuberts and Pizzos get together quite often.

Connie Carhart Stamm, '50, and Walt, '50, sent a grand picture of sons, Bobby, 10; and Ricky, 4; plus the usual long Christmas letter. Connie told of their trip to the World's Fair, vacationing at Bay Head on the New Jersey shore, and trip to Pittsburgh to see the William and Mary-Pitt game. The Stamms live at 3317 Warringgon Road, Shaker Heights, Ohio 44120.

Mary Earhart Jenkins, Bob and children, Brian, 9, Robbie, 4, and Mary Ellen, 2, live at 1439 Mohawk Road, North Brunswick, N. J. Bob is on the faculty of Rutgers University. Last February he was elected to the New Brunswick Board of Education. Mary is a Den Mother for eight boys, and she and Bob have recently become members of a Presbyterian Church. They're also active in PTA. They visit his mother in Norfolk quite frequently since Bob's father died last April.

Phoebe Martin Harcum, Rae, and Sally and Payten, live at 103 Plantation Drive, Williamsburg. Rae is on the faculty at the College where he is acting head of the psychology department. Phoebe works parttime on Rae's research grant. They took trips last year to Florida to visit Rae's parents and to Ann Arbor, Mich., where Rae did graduate work.

Millie Johnson Woodling and Pete and their children, Kerry, Jo, and Stevie, live at Box 671, Friendswood, Tex. Pete works with NASA. Her parents, who live in Petersburg, spent Christmas with Millie and her family.

Sally McQuire Gray and Richard live at 2930 South Buchanan St., Apt. B-2, Arlington 22206. Sally teaches in Fairfax. Sarah Enos Brown, Jim and children,

David, Mark, and Ginny, live at 1717 31st St., S.E., Washington 20, D. C. Jim is a Presbyterian minister.

Ginny Gallaher Sharp and Ed live at 622 North Vale Ave., Rockford, Ill. 61107. Ed is a heart surgeon in Rockford. Their daughters are Susan, Mary, and Ann. Ginny recently met a William and Mary girl, Polly Wrinkle, at her church and they get together often.

Jane Waters Nielsen, Bud, and three children live at Route 3, Overbrook Rd., Vernon, Conn. 06086. Bud's family's company recently purchased another company which specializes in polishing creams for the dental industry and plastics such as eyeglass frames and buttons. Jane is busy as all of us mothers are chauffeuring her children plus doing some church work. She and her children visited Williamsburg and Jamestown last summer en route to Charlotte, N. C., to visit her mother. They also spent a week in the mountains of Virginia. She saw Martha Wood Kongshang on the eve of the Presidential election. The third Kongshang son was a year old in December. Jane saw Dave Saunders once last spring when his daughter was presented a writing prize at a Woman's Club Meeting at which Jane was a guest.

James C. Mizell writes that Jack Parker, '54. has joined the personnel department of the same company for which he works, Safeco Lifeco General Insurance, with home offices in Seattle, Wash. Jim lives in Edmonds, Wash., while Jack's headquarters are in Atlanta, Ga. Jack and his wife, Shirley Lyons, '53, have one son and two daughters.

From Paris, Mary Null Clontz reports that their three-year tour of duty in the Air Force will be over this summer. Her family has had many opportunities abroad.

but is looking forward to returning home. Dr. Richard Canham, Oklahoma Baptist University associate professor of chemistry, served recently on the National Science Foundation undergraduate research proposal committee in Washington, D. C. Dr. Canham was at Charleston College, S. C., before going to Oklahoma.

June Compton Merkle and Jim live in Atlanta, Ga., and have two boys, Bruce, 9, and Scott, 7, and a year-old daughter Emily. They have seen Ann Hines, '53, and her daughter, who have been in Atlanta for a year and a half.

James S. Devitt of Pompano Beach, Fla., represented the College at the inauguration of Dr. Kenneth Rast Williams as president of Florida Atlantic University last November.

Jim Anthony has been elected president of the Williamsburg Kiwanis Club. He and his wife, Yvette, '51, have four children—all girls. Jim keeps busy as a Prudential Insurance agent.

Frederick C. Allen represented the College at the inauguration of Dr. Robert Harry Spiro as president of Jacksonville University in November. He is managing director of the Delray Beach Playhouse in

Mrs. H. J. Woolston, Jr. (Barbara Jo Mott) 116 Talleyrand Road West Chester, Pa.

Thanks so very much for your notes included on Christmas cards. Please keep in touch; it's never too late to drop me a word or two.

John and Eddy Dalton's card showed four little Daltons this year. Cards arrived from Al and Mavis Pacchioli, '52; Bev Simonton Kelly and Jim, '51; Chris and "Cadsie" Forman Moe, '52, and their two boys; "Shan" Duis Carico, '55; Bruce and Camille Grimes Henderson, '52, and their four from Brazil; Nan Evans Scott; Howard and "Boots" Crovo Wickham, 54; and Bill and Ginny Campbell Furst.

I owe Caroline Young Petrequin a much overdue letter. She and Scott enjoy Burnt Hills, N. Y., very much. Scott travels greatly even into Canada as salesman for Mohawk Paper Mills. He stopped to see Gale Carrithers and his family in Buffalo, N. Y., recently. Gale is a professor of English at the University of Buffalo. Scott also sees Dave Belew who is advertising manager for Becket Paper Company in Hamilton, Ohio. Sally Butcher Peck, '55, who transferred to St. Lawrence in her junior year, lives nearby with her husband and two boys. Harriet Jordan DeGraff and three children live in Albany, N. Y. Caroline appreciates being closer to her home in Connecticut and now visits with her sister, Debbie, who attended the College, too. Caroline mentioned Dr. and Mrs. Sidney Rome formerly of the College's Philosophy Department, and their recently published book.

Marilyn Zaiser Ott, '55, wrote on her card she is quite busy with daughter, Carolyn, and with her twin boys who arrived on the Ott's ninth wedding anniversary in June! Jim and Marilyn had as recent weekend guests Hank and Barbara Solomon Dressel, '55, who also live in Atlanta, Ga. The Otts stopped in Crittenden on a trip back from hometown Philadelphia to visit at the Bellaire Gallery belonging to Marc and Betty Holladay Bellaire, '55. Dan and Emmy Ketterson Smith and three children spent the holidays with Emmy's parents in Chicago. Tom and Carol Myers Mifflin, '54, and their three are now in England for a year and plan to return in August to Texas. Come spring they plan to visit Scotland, Ireland and the continent. Yes, the weather in England isn't the best, writes Carol.

Anne Hines Fuller and husband, Bill, again wrote their clever "Dixie Squire" at Christmas time. Bill has been promoted by the National Association of Manufacturers to the Field Organization Headquarters in the Washington, D. C., office. They regretfully left Atlanta, Ga., after a year and a half stay and now live in a two-story colonial in Bethesda, Md. Daughter Sharon keeps all busy.

Marguerite Olfdield wrote from the U. S. Embassy in Ottawa, Canada, where she has been located since spring. So far her northern weather has been lovely but "Rite" plans to learn to ski just in case!

flin mailed from Manchester, England. The Mifflins, numbering five in all (counting the most recent addition, Laura, their first daughter) are enjoying all the many nice trips they are taking during their one year

All in color and smiling were the Williamses on a Christmas card. I'm referring to Phyllis Woodyard Williams, her husband, Jim, and their three children. They have made Texas their home and really like it there where Jim is involved in the geophysical and electronics industry.

An animated picture of the children of Betty Bodley Dunker appeared on their card this year.

Dot Hagberg Bower, '53, has written to say they are still in Hanover, N. H., and Dick is on the faculty of Dartmouth. With her youngest in school, she has taken up working with the computer at the Tuck School and is learning to play the cello.

Karlee Smith Gifford sent a South

American style picture Christmas card showing her handsome, growing family. Her two sons are not twins as it might have been indicated in the last issue.

Margaret Browning Morgan Johnson writes from Indiana, Pa., that she is married to Philip Lee Johnson, an I.B.M. data processing sales representative. They have a four-year-old son Charles and a two-year-old daughter, Virginia.

Shirley Lyons, '53, and John H. Parker IV live in Atlanta, Ga., where Jack is working for Safeco Lifeco General Insurance as personnel manager of the southeast division. They have one daughter and two sons.

Harry DeSamper served as general chairman of the 76th annual National Amateur Athletic Union track and field championships last summer at Rutgers University. The meet was sponsored by the New Jersey Jaycees and Harry is a member of the Red Bank Jaycees. It was the first time since 1936 that the championships had been held in New Jersey and was part of the state's Tercentenary celebration. One of Harry's assistants was Robert "Bullet" Lawson, '51, of Hightstown who was the impact of the game's living committee. chairman of the game's liaison committee.

again. We have a co-op school going and one day a week we hold class here for a group of neighborhood boys and my fouryear-old, Patty. We take occasional field trips to museums and other places of in-terest. We've enjoyed using the facilities of the very near-by country club during the past year and had a big fling at the New Year's celebration.

Bill Mathes wrote a welcome and interesting letter recently. He was a naval air intelligence officer and tried more schooling and medical research for a while. Now he is settling down to a career in free lance writing and has had poetry, essays, and criticism published in nationally distributed literary and popular magazines. He also has a book of essays and criticism which will be ready for a publisher soon and a quartet of novels which will be ready not so soon. Bill and his wife Pat live in a San Francisco apartment in an old Victorian mansion. While Pat is in school Bill spends most of his time writing. They live in an older part of the city where many of the homes survived the fire and earthquake of 1906. Bill says a kind of spontaneous community of writers, artists, and what would have been called 'bohemians' a few years ago seems to be developing on Potrero Hill where they live. They have hopes that the community will develop into a significant center of arts, something like "Greenwich Village West."

Bill added that Glenn Pearce is teaching philosophy at William and Mary and the last he heard about George Seiler he was working for Stauffer Chemical Co. in

New York.

Carol Kent writes that she has been having a busy year in Santa Monica, Calif. She is quite active in a social group there and has just been made editor of the weekly paper. She also writes that her older brother Brian, who recently made major, just got back from Viet Nam and is stationed at the Pentagon. Her younger brother Kevin will be married this summer when he graduates from law school at the College.

From Pat McClure Caplice we received an invitation to drive down and see them soon as they only live about 45 minutes away in Red Bank, N. J. Pat and Mike have four active youngsters, Ruth Ann, third grade, John, first grade, and the "twin terrors" (as Pat puts it) just turned four and three respectively. Mike is still with I.B.M. and teaches a course in basic data processing one night a week and goes to Reserves another night.

Pat had a grand reunion with Mary Lou Riggan Baird in August. Mary Lou and Ed were in New York for the Bar Association Convention. Pep and Jim Logan also joined them. They live in Tenafly, Pat Culpepper Powell's Christmas card brought news of Wendy, born on their anniversary, October 11. The Powells have another daughter, Amy-Lynn, three. Pat also wrote that Floyd had emergency surgery on August 30. He ruptured his spleen and is still restricted to some things. Pat says she received a letter from Pat Collins Bowman with news of their new baby girl born in October.

Janie Ottaway Dow writes that Patsy Wall Beasley and Lucius bought a house mear them last spring in Grosse Pointe, Mich. Patsy has quit her job at a C.P.A. firm. Janie's brother, John, '57, and his wife had their second boy, Michael, last June.

Monty Knight, '54, and his wife, Jerry, received an extra special Christmas present this year. A three-weeks-old baby boy was delivered to them on December 21st. They have named him Paul and Jerry says he is just beautiful.

We were in Norfolk over the Christmas weekend, and I didn't get to talk to half the people I wanted to. However, I did get in touch with Mae Jernegan Quirk. She and Ray have three girls, ages seven, six, and three. Ray is assistant business manager at Old Dominion College and teaches night school. Mae says that Barbara Coogan visited Joan Earnshaw Donohue who lives near Monterey, Calif. Joan and Douglas have two daughters. Barbara is teaching at Larchmont Elementary in Norfolk.

My brother Denys, '58, and his wife Barbara, '59, are expecting a new addition to their family in April or May. They have a four-year-old boy, Bruce.

After entertaining World's Fair guests and going 12 times herself, Martha Briggs and her mother took a 24-day cruise to Lima, Peru. The ship also stopped at two ports in Colombia, Panama, Ecuador, and Haiti. Martha says a highlight was seeing Cajarmaquilla, the ruins of a pre-Inca city, about 15 miles from Lima. She adds that she has turned into an amateur archeologist. She digs with a group at a 2000 B.C Indian camp site about 12 miles from her home. Martha also did the research for the 20-page catalog of the Long Island Art "A Century of American Art" show, and helped hang the show. A copy of the catalog is in the library at the Metropolitan Museum and the papers said, "The show was very well hung and was a must for all art enthusiasts.

Arthur L. Meyers writes from Rego Park, N. Y., that he and his wife Judy have a three-year-old son Glenn.

Baynham Campbell Ellson, also a New Yorker, writes that husband Stan is district manager of industrial sales for Scott Paper Co. in Buffalo, and he is also president of the Bucknell alumni group. She would like to know if there is a William and Mary alumni group nearby. The Ellsons, including John, 6, and Jimmy, 4, love living on the Niagara River about four miles from the Falls. They enjoy waterskiing in the summer and snow skiing in the winter.

From Bill and Nancy Binney Butler, '57, we hear that Bill works in industrial sales for Anchor Hocking Glass Co. in Lancaster, Ohio. He is a captain in the Army Reserve and serves on the board of directors of the local Y.M.C.A. They have two children, Holly, 8, and Tracy, 5.

À note from Mrs. Elizabeth Dickens, reserve room librarian, at the College made me suddenly realize how time has flown. Her daughter Ellen, who some of you may remember as a little girl waiting for her mother in the library, is now in graduate school at Georgetown in Washington, D. C.

Can you believe it? This June it will have been 10 years since we were graduated. Do plan on making our gala reunion this fall. I'm going to make a big effort to get there myself. Thanks to everyone for all the lovely Christmas cards and the even lovelier news.

Mrs. Rodney C. Mercker (Jean Wyckoff) 11510 Highview Avenue Wheaton, Md.

The best place for picking up news of the class of 1956 appears to be at the Washington Alumni Club meetings, where Don Seiler has advanced to the post of first vice president. Seen at the last meeting was Pete Ellenbogen, who attended William and Mary for three years before transferring to R.P.I. He has been working in New York, and now lives in Takoma Park, Md., and is an architect in Washington. Betty Bloxsom Witherington was stopping traffic with a neck brace she was wearing as the result of an automobile accident. Chuck Dix reported that Barbara Mitchell Welch and husband live in the same apartment building as Chuck and his bride, Clare Rae Neuberg. That's Barcroft Towers, Arlington. At Chuck's wedding we saw Mason Swann, who is working in Jersey City, N. J. And Pat Wells McDonnell is now the mother of Joseph Patrick McDonnell, born Oct. 25. Pat reports that Trible King has left Richmond to seek her fortune in the big city—she's working for Bankers Trust in New York. Stu and Pat King Sell are in England for a year at the University of Birmingham.

Bumped into Fahy Baker Low at a Republican get-together and discovered her husband Warren is also active in party politics. A local Republican newsletter says that Warren is chairman of the Bethesda precinct which leads the county in party activity.

Anne Pope Kitchen reports that their first child, Keith Pope, arrived on June 20, and that Shirley Hollis Walter and husband Lloyd have three children and are living in Charlotte, N. C.

Jane Dougherty Marfizzo (2957 Croyden Rd., Harrisburg) and Bill have a second daughter, Susan Frances, born May 13.

Fred Bane, now a captain in the Army, is at Fort Benning with the 2d Infantry Division. He and his wife Boo Luck Bane have two children, Ann and Scott. Roberta (Jackie) Jackman Harrison finished her Master's degree work at San Jose State College in California. She and Dave are at 944 Leighton Way, Sunnyvale, Calif.

Lois Ludwig Foster says they are enjoying life in the 50th state, at 91-1047 Kuhinast, Ewa Beach, Hawaii.

The Roanoke World News devoted a large feature story to John H. Marsteller and his work in the field of theatre design. After leaving William and Mary after two years, he studied at the Illinois Institute of Technology and then at Yale. After two years with the Yale School of Drama he received a Franco-American Atlantique Association fellowship to work in Paris on theater construction. Now back in this country after two and a half years abroad, he plans first to become certified as an architect.

A. L. Lunsford has been named dealer sales supervisor for the Roanoke District of the Eastern Esso Region of Humble Oil. John H. Fay has been named director of marketing research for First and Merchants National Bank in Richmond. He is also a state director of the Richmond Jaycees.

This summer Rod and I spent a lovely weekend in Barrington, R. I., with Skooky Gideon Collins and Harry. They have a brandy-dandy new house and two captivating daughters. Harry reported having seen Joanne Napolino Bickel and her two daughters on a trip to Hamden, Conn., where Alex is still teaching at Yale.

Jim Kelly wrote just before Christmas and asked if I would give this column a try for a year or so. Since I had been disturbed at losing track of class acquaintances whom I don't hear from at Christmas 1 decided to do it. I'll meet the deadlines, but you'll have to supply the news!

I'm starting a card file with pertinent information like your or your husband's job, children and address. Please help me complete it. A post card will do or send your information to the alumni office with your contribution and they will forward it to me.

Chuck and I and our three daughters, Jennifer, six, Patti, four, and Ginger, two, are firmly settled in New England. Simsbury is a suburb of Hartford, where Chuck, who is a C.P.A., is working at the Travelers Insurance Co.

One of the nicest parts of Christmas is receiving the annual notes and letters from out of town friends. Since the March issue deadline was January 15, I just had time to collect the notes from my cards and those of Kathy Hamilton Steinwedell who lives nearby.

Heard from Bob and Carolyn Meachum Hawxhurst who are homeowners in Churchtown, Md., that their daughter Joanie, one year old, is expecting a brother or sister this spring.

Dennis Charles Dix was married in August to Clare Rae Newberg. He is administrative assistant to the executive director of the National Crushed Stone Association, and they live in Falls Church.

sociation, and they live in Falls Church.

Bill and Gail Hewson Martin and their three boys are in Linwood, N. J., where Bill is teaching. They were looking forward to a Christmas trip to Scottsdale, Ariz., for a reunion with Gail's parents after two years.

Walt, '54, and June Rickard Herkness

Walt, '54, and June Rickard Herkness and daughters Diane and Amy are in Broomall, Pa., where June is very active in the Junior Woman's Club and they are both active in the Philadelphia area William and Mary alumni club.

Wally and Shirley Ross Wood are living in Alexandria with their three children, Stephen, Cathy, and Ross. Wally is working in nearby Washington, D. C. Shirley is involved in a Junior Woman's Club project for which she grades English themes for a high school teacher.

Tom and Peggy Adams Sprague adopted a baby boy, Jeff, Nov. 9 and are living in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Bill Herdman who was at Wharton Business School with my husband, now has his C.P.A. and is working for a certified public accountant firm in Philadelphia.

Gary and Sally Quarton Newtson and daughter Judy, almost four, are enjoying the community activities in Kirkwood, Mo. They had a marvelous trip to San Francisco last summer.

Joe and Kay Jordan Renner and their four children are in Piedmont, Calif. At Christmas time Joe was aboard the USS Ranger, somewhere in the Viet Nam area, as catapult officer.

Peter and Susan Thackston Clark have two children, Cindy, almost six and Phil, born last spring. Pete has been transferred from Burlington, S. C., to Altavista so they are still looking for suitable housing there.

Last May we drove down to Mary Ripley's wedding to John Barry. They are living in Pleasantville, N. J. John has joined the insurance agency of Mary's father and we enjoyed seeing them a couple of times this fall while John attended the Travelers Insurance school here in Hartford.

We had a nice visit with Rex and Judy Behymer Baltas at the wedding. They have an adorable daughter Stephanie, and they too are living in Alexandria. Also at the wedding were Bud and Lynn Wescott Johnson who are living in New York City with their two little boys, one born last November. With them were Spence and Marjorie Muller Smith who have since moved to a new house in Matawan, N. J., with their two children, Debbie, three, and Steven, born last summer.

One of my former roommates, Judy Welton, married an Amherst man too, and she and husband Jack Feinberg are living in Rochester, Minn., where Jack is doing his residency at the Mayo Clinic. They are busily planning a trip to San Francisco this spring.

Ellen Merrill Leaman is busy decorating their new house in New Orleans, writing her dissertation, and caring for their two children.

Kathy Hamilton Steinwedell lives in nearby Newington, Conn., near where Pete is a teacher. They have a boy David, five, and a girl Anne, almost three. Kathy is active in the local Tri Delt group and also does altar guild work at church. They vacationed in Chicago and Oklahoma City last summer. They saw Helen Lewis Bidwell when in Chicago. Chuck has his doctorate and is with the University of Chicago. They have a son, Charles Lewis, born Aug. 31.

From Kathy we learn that Kathy Christian Young is in Newport News. She and Joe have a two-year-old girl, Kay, and are expecting a second child in May. She said Jo Ann Love Fleming moved Jan. 1 to Louisville, Ky., where Denis was transferred by Ford. They have two boys, Denis, 7, and Ken, 4.

Mary Talmadge Kaylor also lives in Newport News. She and Jack have two boys, Todd, almost three, and Kevin, one. Sally Dallas Messick lives in Georgetown, Del., where Jack has a law practice. They have two girls, Gayle, almost five, and Karen, 3. Sally is involved in AAUW and church work including altar guild.

Betsy Cutting Brown, '58, wrote Kathy that she is living on Hastings-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., and is a program engineer for IBM in New York. She also heard that Jim and Marilyn Zaiser Ott, '55, living in Augusta, Ga., celebrated their ninth wedding anniversary by having twin boys, David James and Michael William.

Sue Rosar Sheehan, '55, and husband Charlie, who is with G.E., have been transferred from Tokyo to Sydney, Australia. Sue is getting a nice tan as we shiver here in our woolens. Joan Danskin Kemble, '55, lives in Glastonbury, Conn., where Tom works for Pratt and Whitney. They have three daughters, Sarah, 6, Martha, 4, and Jennifer, 2. They all went to England last summer to visit Joan's parents, and Joan and Tom had a chance to have a continental holiday while there.

Peter M. Kalison, president of the New York Area Alumni Chapter, reports that more than 200 alumni turned out Dec. 11 to hear William and Mary coach Marv Levy. "I doubt if the College has ever had a more affable and personable representative," writes Peter.

And, to close this report, John S. Bain reports that he is with an insurance underwriter's firm in Summit, N. J.

BJi Nunn McKnight wrote a wonderfully newsy letter. She and John live in Williamsburg now where John teaches physics at William and Mary. BJi spent a year in graduate school at Penn State University and now works for Colonial Williamsburg as a hostess. She wrote that George and Gretchen Sedam Niedermeyer are in Philadelphia. George is about to finish a chief residency and will become resident physician at Society Hill Tower in Philadelphia in the spring. They have a son, Pete, and a daughter, Kate.

Betsy Stafford and Frank Elliott are in the Washington area where Frank is a guidance counselor in a Fairfax County High School. They have two sons, David and Michael Carter. Joan Oren and Warren Strickler and daughter Robin are now in New Brunswick, N. J., where Warren is campus minister to Lutheran students at Rutgers University. Donna Cole and Pete Goodwin are in Philadelphia where Pete teaches geology at Temple University. They have a daughter, Jennifer. Bitsy Daggett Laneville and husband, Jim, are in Superior, Wisc., where they recently moved from Minnesota. They have a son and Jim is a lawyer. Muffy Funk and Larry Houstoun are currently in Washington, D. C., where Larry is with the Job Corps. Muffy is very close to completing requirements for a Ph.D. in philosophy at Bryn Mawr.

David Little, who spent several years working with the Catholic University "National Players" (starring in their production of "Oedipus" last year), is now living in New York City where he is studying classical drama under Philip Burton. Kent Watkins is in Washington, D. C., where he is on the legislative staff of Congressman Moorehead of Pennsylvania. Ginny Anding and Raymond La Charité are also in Philadelphia, where both are working on Ph.D.'s in French Literature at the University of Pennsylvania. They were married early last May. Peggy Brooks, after four years in Richmond, has entered graduate school at the University of Georgia at Athens. She is working toward a doctorate in clinical psychology and is delighted with the program at Georgia and with her coursework so far.

Shirley Noell Cafee is living in Reading, Pa., with husband and two sons, Bobby, now three years old, and Franklin Walter, born September 14. Patsy Wescott Lowe, '59, is in New York City with Otto and two sons. Otto and Allen. She wrote that Lynn Wescott Johnson, '57, had a son, Jim, last fall. Liz Mitchell Day spent New Year's Day at the Orange Bowl. Husband Phil represented Alliance, Ohio. The Alliance High School Band played in the parade. Liz has a son, Jeff, 2½ years old, and a new daughter Ann Elizabeth as of June 23. Liz wrote that Mary Ann Breese Brendell had a daughter, Jennifer, in September, and that Hil Albiez Burke now lives in Connecticut.

Jay and Mary Aleese Shaw Schrieber have three children now: Scott, Karen, and Lynne. Jim and Diane Montague Morsey moved to Fort Leavenworth, Kan., in August, where Jim, a major now, is attending the Command and General Staff College. They will get new orders when the course ends in June. Jim received his master's degree before they moved. Both children are in school-kindergarten and pre-school, so Diane has been very active with club work and such. Bobbie Ramsey Brooks was expecting her second child in February. Jim and Nan Maurer Rosenbaum are still in Houston, but Jim went into business for himself in February. He's keeping milkman's hours, but business is booming. They moved into a larger home in March and a new baby, Terry, arrived in early June. Dr. Alex Fakadej, '56, is a ward senior at University of Virginia, but will be moving in June.

Patricia O'Connell and John Weston write from Rockport, Mass., that John is an instructor at the State College at Boston and in the summer teaches sailing at the local yacht club.

Beverly Wilson Palmer lives in Claremont, Calif., with husband Hans and yearold Margaret. Hans teaches economics at Pomona College.

Ann Walker Elliott and Rot live in Staten Island, N. Y., where Rod is in his second year of urology residency. Daughter Karen is four and son Rodney is almost two.

Anne Richardson Tankard has a son Ed, 18 months old, and still hopes to have their house built on their Eastern Shore waterfront lot. Presently they live near Clyde and Julie Vakos Nordstrom.

That winds up my news. Please call or write me some news. I've tried to get in touch with Richmond classmates, but unfortunately tried at the last minute and couldn't get them.

Elaine L. Rankin East Gould Northfield School East Northfield, Mass.

This issue should bring our class up-todate, for a change! Some of my news may be "old hat" by now, but nonetheless, it's always good to hear from and of so many of you. The long-awaited class directory did much of the up-dating.

It was good to learn that Jay Morgan the Martha Baird Rockefeller Fund for music. Barry Martin has been with the Bank of America for over two years; he and Carolyn are proud of Shawn Eugene Martin, a September addition to their Walnut Creek, Calif. home. John Grantier wrote a grand letter from St. Louis' Washington University where he enjoys being the librarian as well as attempting to disprove the stereotype of the librarian "as a nice little old person who told someone to be quiet and admonished the borrower to love the books." John says his brother Barry, '63, and wife, Marty, '63, are stationed at Ft. Knox and on Oct. 30 welcomed Eliza-beth Tracy to their family. John asked of news from Harry and Mel Flaherty Miller in West Virginia. Jane Giffen and her husband Dan are neighbors in Concord, N. H. After they were married, they lived first in New Orleans where Dan was designing a new museum for the state. By now they, with their year old Sarah Louise, have probably moved into their new home in Henniker where Jane will teach American Art at New England College and Dan is with the New Hampshire Historical Society.

Just ages ago, I had a nice letter from Lee Granata Comstock out in Vancouver, Wash., who had visited with Maynard and Jane Harris Jacobson in Moscow, Idaho. Lee's husband, Chris, is with the United States Forest Service and she's been converted to a lover of the outdoors.

And even longer ago, Diane Tucker Bridgewater wrote from Coventry, England, about 20 miles from Stratford. Diane and John, a chemical engineer with Courtaulds Limited, were married in December 1962 and have since done some traveling by bicycle in the Netherlands. They are hopefully skiing in Austria this winter. Diane and John were both delighted with a visit from Joanne Schubert and at the time of her writing Diane hoped Gail Jordan and Ann August would be coming by this past summer. I understand Jo Anne is teaching in Annandale; Ann is at MCV in Richmond; Gail, are you still in Boston? Thanks, Diane, for your nice letter.

J. Adams Robertson wrote almost a year ago and I'm only now telling you. She and James have been living in Baltimore since their marriage in 1962. James works for Martin-Marietta and C.J. enjoys being a full-time homemaker. They visited Tom and Judy Crone Reed who, with son David, are in Leola, Pa. C.J. added news of Dave and Alice Weir Flemer, '58, who have a son and are in Oswego, N. Y.; Keith and Natalie Wright Haley and daughters Karen and Robin are in Roanoke where Keith is a dentist. Tom and Betsy Lanier Swan and daughter, Elizabeth Anne, are still in Baltimore and Betsy enjoys teaching again. Lucy Corr teaches fourth grade in Richmond. Harriet Ripple Doub, '56, is Alpha Chi alumnae president in Baltimore.

Patty Jo Divers reported on some of the Homecoming activities and people seen. Adel Hartford Williams, the proud mother of three, was there as were Mary Sue and Bill Carter, CeeTee and Elliott Schaubach and Betsy Pecatello. During Christmas, Patty Jo hoped to see George and Anne Brown Lanman and two children visiting in Roanoke from Monterey, Calif., where George is doing postgraduate work. She had heard from Charlie and Mary Anne Curtis Williams out in New Mexico. P. J.

went down to Houston in August for Lynn McDaniel's wedding to Bill Jackson and also had a chance to visit with Carolyn Bacon in Dallas.

Christmas brought many lovely cards and messages. Barbara Brant Knight writes that Edward (Squirrel!) is still economic analyst at the Legislative Reference Service and that their Alison is already three. She holds a Graduate Teaching Fellow in gov-ernment at George Washington University and is working on her Ph.D. Harry and Sandy Styron Wilbur and their two daughters are in Alexandria. Harry is an artist, presently assistant art director for an art studio, and Sandy has a five hour a week job recruiting foster parents. John and Joan English McIntire are also in the Washington, D. C., area. They have two children, Ziggy, 3, and Melissa, 9 months. They visited Polly Ann Stadel Wrinkle in Wisconsin last summer.

Ken Mink is a captain in the infantry in Germany and has traveled in Russia, Austria, Hungary, Belgium, France, Denmark and this Christmas was in Bethlehem and Egypt. His address is Capt. Kenneth S. Mink, 05310316, Hdqts. Co., 8th Div., Spt. Cind, A.P.O. 09111, New York, N. Y. Lawrence and Sandy Broderick Zillmer added son No. 4 to their family this past September. Mal and Judy Davis seem convinced that it was their move to Burling-Vt., that made the Vermonters see political light; i.e., go Democrat for the first time! By now, they should be settled into their new home in Shelburne from where he drives 600 miles a week as an itinerant campus minister at the three state teachers' colleges in Castleton, Johnson and Lyndon through the Vermont Congregational Conference. Before moving into the Green Mountain Wilds, Mal finished his seminary work at Union.

From Arlington, Garry, Charlotte Tolley and Teddy Etgen send greetings. Garry is serving his two year duty with the Army by working for NASA under the chief of the applied mathematics board in Washington and Teddy's walking, running and climbing keep Charlotte busy! Bev Harris Jenkins writes that Barb Tombler Corey and her husband went with Bev and Ed to Homecoming. Barb has a new son, David. At school they also saw Jim and Dona Brinkley who also have a new son, Doug. The Jenkins are in a new house and Bev is doing some painting and ex-

Mrs. Pasqual A. Picariello (Jogina Diamanti) 254 Radcliffe Street Bristol, Pa.

We've just had a 12-inch snowfall here in Bristol, and I have a day off from teaching. (Good setting for the March issue.) Sorting through our Christmas cards, I found some news of our classmates.

Greetings came from Rick and Jo Day Pescosolido in Sharon, Mass.; Lynn and David Ladd in Columbia, S. C.; Bob and Susie Ellis Heidenreich in Drexel Hill, Pa.; and Pat Gifford in Indianapolis, Ind.

Gail Erikson wrote from Marblehead Mass., where she is now the lingerie buyer for R. H. Stearns in Boston. She loves New England as much as ever. She said that Lee and Ruth Ellison sailed out of Marblehead all last summer; Joe Watson, '58, has moved across the street from her; and Bill Waldron, '59, planned to move there until he was transferred to Los Angeles.

Also writing from Marblehead was Sally Williams Merrick. She is expecting her first little Merrick on Memorial Day. She has retired from the retailing and is now doing some work with retarded children. Congratulations, Sally, on your forthcoming addition!

News came from Park Forest, Ill., by way of Mary Welsh Doyle. She is being run ragged by Martin, 3, and Sharon, one. Jim is in market research and is enjoying it tremendously.

Missey Griggs Sackett is simply bubbling over this past year. Skipper is now two years old. Missey and Dean, a lieutenant in the Navy, have done quite a bit of moving. Christmas found them in New London, Conn., but I do believe San Diego, Calif., claims them now. Missey is quite proud of Dean as he finished first in each of the following schools: nuclear power, nuclear reactor prototype, and submarine.

Recently I received a delightful sur-prise, a letter from an old hockey teammate of mine, Mickey Gale Snead. Her husband Lewis is completing his Ph.D. in physics this spring at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. For the past five years Mickey has been working as a medical technologist in Chapel Hill and caring for her two boys, Jeffrey Lee, 4, and Lance Lewis, one. She also writes that Jack White is at Chapel Hill working on his Ph.D. in physics.

Kay Lutzelman writes that in August she received a master's degree from the University of Virginia, which qualifies her as a head guidance counselor. This year, however, she is teaching art at Norview Junior High School in Norfolk.

Stationed in Germany, Captain William, '59, and Linda Haskell Sylvia are enjoying Europe. They have a year and a half more before returning to the States Their children are Mary Louise, four, and Richard, almost three.

To those who sent Christmas greetings, I gratefully thank you. But I only heard from a smattering of our class. It's now 1965—five years since we were graduated I'm sure much has happened to each of you. All I ask is a few lines. Hope you all survived the winter and do have a bright springtime.

Mrs. J. Steirling Gunn (Margie Barnhart) 811 Richmond Road Williamsburg, Va. 23185

Happy Spring from Williamsburg! It seems to be more beautiful here every year. From another lovely spot, Bermuda, Jim McKey writes that last October he left his job on The Royal Gazette and is working as assistant news editor for the local radio station, ZBM. He adds for us radio enthusiasts that ZBM's transmitting frequency is 1340 k.c. and that the station has enough power to reach our eastern seaboard. In that honeymooners' paradise, Jim has seen several William and Mary alumni in the last few years. The most recent was Sandy Murck, '60, with his bride. Sandy is a copywriter for Ted Bates in New York, one of America's largest advertising agencies. Jim has also heard from Ted Parks, who got his Ph.D. in psychology and is now in California with his wife Marti,

'60. Jim reports that he is already making plans for a trip to Williamsburg for Homecoming in 1966, our fifth reunion, which isn't a bad idea for us all.

Diane Pickering Northrup writes from Kingston, N. Y., that last fall she and her husband Shaun took an extended trip to Europe, traveling by car throughout England, Scotland, France, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and Spain. Back home now, Diane is working as a claims representative for the Social Security Administration and Shaun is a sales representative for the R. T. French Co. of Rochester. They report that Art and Carol Ridgeway Hall, '60, live in Poughkeepsie.

On a Christmas vacation to visit her parents in Hawaii, Susan Kohler Frost writes that her husband Jerry has com-pleted his M.A. in history at the University of Wisconsin and has a teaching assistantship there. Susan is a member of the Madison Theater Guild and recently played the role of Eliza Doolittle in their production of My Fair Lady.

Phyllis Akers Mink and Skeeter are living in Radford and have a new daughter, Michelle Elaine, born Sept. 15. Skeeter is with Spiers and Spiers law firm and is Assistant Municipal Judge for the City of Radford.

In Ohio, David Diehr is employed as program secretary for the Young Men's Christian Association of Xenia and Greene County.

The New York World's Fair has at least two hits, operated by Fred Clayton. When Fred resigned from the Social Security Administration, he and some friends opened a Belgian waffle stand and a Mexican food stand at the Fair. When the Fair closed for the season, Fred and his wife, the forfor the season, Fred and his wife, the former Dolores Carol Ferrara of Swartswood, N. J., took a vacation in Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, and then went to California for several months. After seeing Paul Verkuil, Casey Carey and Roger Amole, '62, at the Fair last year, Fred hopes to see more alumni this year. His places are Belgische Wafels in the Belgian Village and Club Colombia in the International Plaza.

A delightful payaletter from Bill Nicolai.

A delightful newsletter from Bill Nicolai brought news of many alumni in all sorts brought news of many alumni in all sorts of work. After two years as a credit analyst with a bank in New York, Bill decided to try a field more interesting to him, advertising. He is now an assistant media buyer with the Grey Advertising Co. in New York City. Bill's former neighbor, Ralph Wheeler, '63, has finished his Army duty and is in Chicago, employed as an underwriter by Royal Globe Insurance. From Ralph, Bill learned that Pete Suppa, '63, is teaching high school math in New is teaching high school math in New Jersey and plans to be married in late spring. Lt. Jon, '63, and Marcia Compton Regal, '64, were scheduled to leave for Germany in January. Artie Regal, '64, is stationed at Ft. Meade. Jud Franklin, '63, and Mike and Billie Barnes Isenbery, '62, are in West Virginia where Jud and Mike are studying law at the Universe. and Mike are studying law at the University. Jim Nelson, '63, is in South America with the Peace Corps. Bill Culley, '65, was scheduled to receive his degree from Syracuse in February and then to be stationed at Ft. Gordon, Ga. Kevin Talbot is a student at the University of Wyoming. Another student, Don Smith, will receive his Ph.D. from Rutgers this year and is teaching as well.

Lt. Maynard and Caroline French Walters were scheduled to return to Oregon from the Far East in February. They were living just five minutes from Lt. Terry, '62, and Carol Lady. Lt. George and Mary Elizabeth Tracy Dresser are also in the service. Wayne and Dianne Loekle are living in Silver Spring, Md., where Wayne is working in the insurance business. Mike, Glenda, and Mike Jr., Drury are living in Chicago. Fred Walter is comptroller of Chemplast, Inc. Fred's former roommate, Steve Lopez, '62, recently received a promotion with Life magazine. Barry and Sandy Pingue Leach were married last August and Jim and Dianne Casserta in July. Jim is a senior dental student at New York University while Dianne teaches junior high school science. Murph Weirick, '62, just returned from Saudi Arabia. George Chapman is stationed in Atlanta, Ga., and visited Bill last fall. Many thanks, Bill, for your generous report of news. During the last political campaign, Allan Brownfeld wrote speeches for George Bush, Republican candidate for the Senate in Texas. In recent months Allan has had articles appear in Christian Economics, The New South and The New Guard. Allan reports that Shore Robertson is stationed in Atlanta, Ga., and that Marc Higgin-botham, '62, recently visited in Williamsburg on leave from his Army post in Hawaii. Crammond Macomber, '62, is work-ing for Hallmark Cards in Kansas City, and Rolf Svendsen is working for a master's degree at Colgate University.

Tricia, '63, and Charlie White, and their two-year-old daughter Linda Laurie are living in Awase, Okinawa, where Charlie is stationed with the Army. Also on Okinawa are Charles H. Gobrecht and his wife, who is a first lieutenant, too. They have another year in the Air Force and are anticipating travel to the Philip-pines, Bangkok and Australia, already having been to Tokyo, Taipei and Hong Kong.
In an October newsletter, Marianne

Hodges tells of her plans and preparations for work in the Peace Corps. After receiving her master's degree in July, she applied for the Peace Corps, and was assigned to three months of study at the University of California at Los Angeles. She was scheduled to leave New York on Jan. 2 for Ethiopia. There she will make use of her newly acquired language, Amharic, and teach English and math on the junior high school level.

In other news, Frederick M. Denny reports he is teaching philosophy, Bible and world religions at Colby Junior College in New London, Conn. He is married to Alexandra Ivanoff, '61.

Anthony E. Gallo is teaching problems in marketing management at Duquesne University's Graduate School of Business Administration. He reports that he is still with the Pittsburgh National Bank.

Al Volkmann has passed the New York State Bar Examinations, but reported for duty in the Army last month. After his service hitch, he plans to return to New York to continue his legal practice.

Stacy Lee Marlin reports that he expects to receive a medical this June from the Medical College of Virginia. He is married to Elena Ruddy, '62, and they have one child.

Steirling and I keep busy here with our school work, he at William and Mary and I at York High School. My new job as class notes editor for the ALUMNI GA-ZETTE consumes much of my time during the week before the GAZETTE goes to press. Also we are very much interested in St. Martin's Episcopal Mission, which was organized in the fall of 1963. Carol Talbot Egelhoff, '46, is our vicar's wife. Steirling serves as a vestryman and I on the altar guild. He was selected as St. Martin's delegate to the 73rd Annual Council of the Diocese of Southern Virginia. We can boast of several faculty members whom you will remember, as well as several alumni: Dr. and Mrs. Tony Sancetta, Mr. and Mrs. Lew Foster, Dean and Mrs. Carson Barnes, Butch and Linda Neese Schilling, and Ron and Tisa Piper Masci. Many others with familiar faces visit from time to time.

JoAnn Dotson Apt. 504 Dominion Towers Apartments 1201 South Court House Road Arlington, Va. 22204

Once again the GAZETTE deadline has rolled around and if it were not for Ann Smith's generosity in sharing with us the annual Theta News Letter, there would be little news from the class of '62.

Ann shares an Alexandria apartment with Judy Hawkins, '63, Nancy Carmen, and Janet Love. Ann, who works as an administrative assistant in Postmaster General Gronouski's office, was one of the lucky few to attend the Inaugural Ball. She is also busy with plans for an April 24 marriage to Jim Hughes, '61, University of Maryland. Jim works for the Food and Drug Administration.

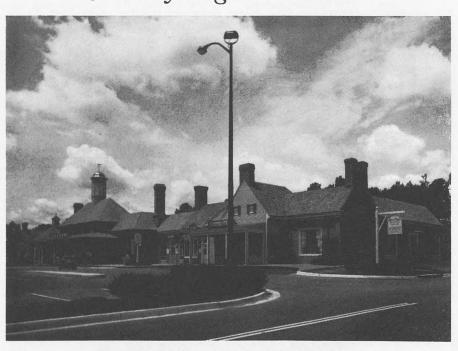

Ann writes Kay Christian and Sue Oakley have absconded the country for Germany. Both teach in American elementary schools—Kay in Pirmasens near the French border and Sue in Stuttgart. Both seem to be travel happy. Kay went to Rome during Christmas and Sue to Egypt. Perhaps in their travels they'll run into Lt. James M. Lyle of Baumholder, Germany, who is enjoying a very successful three years with the Army, participating in NATO exercises and occasionally finding time for trips throughout Europe. Jim says Army life is agreeing with him.

Also in Germany are Stuart Richardson and Danny Dopp who wrote at Christmas and Danny Dopp who wrote at Christmas they were expecting a January visit from the stork. Barbara Aubrey, vacationing, spent a few days with them last summer. Meanwhile, back in the States, Dorcas Miller Lounsbery and Ken of San Diego, Calif., are the parents of a daughter, Ancie Lynn Ken is in his last year of Law. Calif., are the parents of a daughter, Annie Lynn. Ken is in his last year of Law School at California Western and is editor of the Legal Newsletter. From Panama City, Fla., Lt. (j.g.) Bob Moore reports that he is serving as executive officer aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Cartigan. When his tour of active duty is over, Bob intends to go to graduate school to obtain a master's degree in English.

Ensign John Riley recently flew his first solo flight in the "Mentor" trainer aircraft at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Fla. John mentioned in his letter that his sister, Barbara Riley, '65, and Jim Scott are engaged and planning a June wedding.

I talked to Charlene Stafford Gravely at Christmas when we were home and found out that she and John are living in Newport News now. Charlene is teaching at Sanford Elementary School while John is a sales representative with Humble Oil Co.

Wilbur Johnson is coaching freshman sports at Gilford College. Mary Frances Bonner is sharing an apartment in Alexandria with Mary Kay Walsh and Suzanne Dudley. Mary Frances is a research analyst at Health, Education and Welfare in Washington. She reports that "J" and Shirley Pinkston Jennings are proud parents of a baby girl, Shannon Kay, born Oct. 24.

Also sharing an apartment in Alexandria are Val Simms, Ann Harvey and Jackie Murphy. Val received her master's degree in philosophy from the University of Pittsburgh and now has a teaching fellowship at Georgetown University and is working toward a doctorate in political science. Ann and Jackie toured western Europe last summer after Ann completed a year at Exeter University in England. Ann is working on Vice President Hubert Humphrey's staff and, in her spare time, she is writing a master's thesis. Jackie is teaching second grade.

Barbara and Bill Pitt are living in Ashland, N. J., while Bill is teaching seventh grade science at Heritage Junior High School in Cherry Hill Township and, at the same time, doing graduate work at Temple University. Barbara is a senior at Glassboro State College and will graduate in June. (If anyone knows Linda Elliot's address would they send it to me so that I can forward it to Barbara.)

Pat Farrell Franklin and Jay, who are presently living in Annandale, are expecting to be parents in April. Dick and Sue Mear Coyle are also expecting their first child very soon. Dick, '61, is still with the New Jersey Telephone Company while Sue recently gave up her teaching position to avail their heavy report.

Pam and Tommy Lytle have moved to Weatherford, Texas while Tommy is in training at the primary helicopter school at Ft. Walters. They have orders to move to Ft. Rucker, Ala., in February. Jeff Allen is still at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., but with just a few more months of active duty left before he returns to civilian life. Susan Bunch, '66, and Jeff are planning to be married in August.

Marilyn Sterner Keat writes that she and her husband Don are living in center city Philadelphia and like it very much. Marilyn is a field representative for the Urban Renewal Administration and she describes her work as terrific. Don will be finishing most of his requirements for his Ph.D. by June and then will begin working on his dissertation. Marilyn reports that Carol Williams is in her second year at Oxford University in England. She is studying philosophy and psychology. Pat Brombach is living in Philadelphia, too, while working for the Community Facilities Administration and planning a trip to Europe this year.

Jean Siler McCarthy writes that she spent the past year in graduate school at the University of Virginia working on her Master of Arts in English. On Nov. 7, 1964, she was married to John McCarthy of Norfolk and is presently teaching the third grade in Newport News. John will graduate in January from the University of Virginia. They plan to return to Charlottesville next fall where John will study law and Jean will finish her M.A.

Chapel Hill School for Girls

HISTORY

CHAPEL HILL SCHOOL was established in 1860. Present enrollment, 185 — 140 boarders and 45 day students. Member of the Independent Schools Education Board, Educational Records Bureau, Independent Schools Association of Massachusetts.

ADMISSION REQUIREMENTS

ADMISSION is based on an estimate of whether a girl can carry the work of the school and profit from her experience while attending. This is based on her previous school work, her natural ability and entrance examinations. No pupil is admitted until reports concerning her are collected and evaluated.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

THE EDUCATIONAL program is student-centered. Small classes, closely supervised study, extra help, are all a guiding principle. Everyone must attend a class in "How to Study."

COURSES

STUDENTS may take a college preparatory course for entrance to the college of their choice. The major portion of the student body is enrolled in this course.

Pupils may also be enrolled in a general course with a major in either business or art.

Havilah Babcock

A former English professor who revived The Virginia Gazette died Dec. 9, 1964, at Columbia, S. C., where he was head of the English Department of the University of South Car-

Dr. Havilah Babcock taught English and journalism at William and Mary from 1922 to 1926 and, with the help of students in the William Parks School of Journalism, issued 18 numbers of The Virginia Gazette from Dec. 18, 1925, to May 28, 1926. One of his last issues reported the visit of President Calvin Coolidge.

There are alumni who remember with affection his stimulating classes and his non-credit informal seminars while picking dandelions in the Wren Yard to make dandelion wine or while fishing and frog bunting at nearby ponds.

CWARE WAS TO WAS

GRADS who visit the Wigwam will feel years younger in the stylish, modern campus restaurant . . . and wish they were entering freshmen. A spacious, cherry-paneled dining area, bright terrace view . . . colors in green, champagne and gold . . . tables for four. Efficient, functional food-serving spaces, swank soda fountain, air-conditioning . . . TV nearby in the building. But, two favorites of the old Wigwam remain . . . the friendly counter girls . . . and budget-minded prices.
