Jimmy Driver, one of the College's oldest living football captains—he led the team in 1909—continues to lead an active, zestful life in Williamsburg. In addition to his business enterprises (see his advertisements, pages 16 and 24), he is verger of Bruton Parish Church. As such, he conducts thousands of visitors through the colonial building. For more about William and Mary football captains, see page 6.

Cubic Corporation — producer of industrial and military electronics for world markets

Electronic tracking systems for determining the positions of aircraft, drones, missiles, satellites and space vehicles have been designed and built by Cubic Corporation and are now operational throughout the free world. These systems are setting new standards of reliability based on the superior design of Cubic AME (Angle Measuring Equipment), DME (Distance Measuring Equipment), and DHE (Data Handling Equipment).

An outstanding example of the capability of Cubic systems is AGAVE, the primary capsule acquisition aid in worldwide use at all 18 tracking sites for U.S. men-in-space programs. Cubic tracking systems offer important advantages in lower costs, greater accuracy, prompt delivery and multiple target tracking capability. Complete systems, including peripheral equipment, are built to well defined specifications using state-of-the-art techniques. They may be easily adapted for real time display or data recording.

Here are typical examples of Cubic tracking systems

MOPTAR: Air traffic control system developed for the Federal Aviation Agency.

MATTS: Three-target AME-based scoring system at Eglin Gulf Test Range.

BICOTAR: AME-based range safety system at Vandenberg Air Force Base.

ADAM: A highly-sophisticated nine-target position tracking system based on combination of AME and DME.

AMRDH: Digital data system for Atlantic Missile Range.

Cubic Electrotape
Cubic has developed Electrotape, a lightweight, easy-to-operate electronic instrument measuring radio-line-of-sight distances from 30 feet to 30 miles—faster, more accurately than other methods. Surveyors save time and money by substituting fast, modern Electrotape for old-fashioned chain and tape methods of measuring distances. Electrotape also offers important advantages over other electronic and optical distance measuring systems.

Industrial Division
Cubic manufactures a complete line of quality digital instruments for precise measurements of DC volts, AC volts, resistance and other values. Reed relay digital voltmeters, a Cubic development, are extremely high speed, accurate, long life digital instruments that have won widespread acceptance in both defense and industrial applications. Cubic also offers economical packaged digital data systems to meet automatic, high-speed testing requirements.

For more information on any Cubic product, write to Cubic Corporation, Dept. WM-2, 9233 Balboa Avenue, San Diego 23, California,

Dispatches to the Editor

I was of the vintage of Dr. Koontz and believed that the coming of coeds was a backward step but the record shows these girls have set a high standard for the men to follow. These coeds, who were a few of the many graduates, have distinguished themselves and at the same time brought honor to their alma mater.

Charles H. Long, '12

Sir:

Will Molineux, '56, merits praise for his absorbing article, "House of Giants," in the recent issue of the ALUMNI GAZETTE. I entered William and Mary when a stripling and remained for my degree. However, I had never known before that In 1859 the Wren Building was given two Italian towers. In that period there was little appreciation of Colonial architecture. I have heard that old Bruton Church was given modern touches in the 1840's, all of which were obliterated in 1906-07.

I join Huldah S. S. Champion, '44, in hoping that the modern William and Mary buildings remain concealed.

The present William and Mary colors are beautiful. I hope that they are not changed.

I do wish that the beautiful William and Mary song composed in the early 1930's could be made the alma mater song instead of the present imitation of Cornell Univer-. . . very trite. William Irvine "Buck" Marable, '23

Dispatches from the Editor

While we thoroughly enjoy and appreciate notes, letters and comments complimenting the Gazette, it is our policy to refrain from publishing or calling attention to them, However, it would be an injustice to two talented and devoted alumni if we did not note that scores of readers expressed approval of the last issue, particularly the section devoted to the Wren Building. We refer, of course, to Will Molineux, '56, and Chiles Larson, '59. Will wrote "House of Giants" and Chiles contributed a picture story, "A College Lives Here."

Their twin-barreled essay generated so much praise that the board of directors of the Society of the Alumni authorized the Gazette to reprint their work in a special brochure. It is hoped that the reprint will be completed and available for distribution later in the fall.

Molineux contributed an article for this issue, "The Captains," beginning on page 6. He researched and wrote it between assignments for the Richmond News Leader and duties as commander of an Army Reserve unit. Before moving to Richmond and a position as staff writer for the News Leader, Will served on the Virginia Gazette and Newport News Daily Press in Williamsburg. He began his professional journalism career while an undergraduate by working in the Williamsburg Bureau of the Richmond Times-Dispaatch.

The Captains

by Will Molineaux, '56

THE wildly cheering crowd could hardly see the players as they lined up at the end of the field. It was getting late and in the last light of the November afternoon the Richmond students thought they would win.

The noise was so great that William and Mary quarterback John Lesslie Hall had to call for quiet, otherwise his teammates could not hear his signals. Then, quickly, when there was a pause in the bleachers, the play was given.

Left tackle Charles A. Taylor, Jr. pulled rapidly out of his line position and, at a full running stride, took the ball on a tackle around play. The same play had worked earlier in the game for two touchdowns, but by now the Richmond defenders were catching on.

Taylor raced around the right side of the William and Mary line. There was little blocking for him. He bumped into several Richmond players, but they couldn't knock him down. He just stood up, holding the ball, and let his own teammates push and shove him for five yards.

Just before Taylor stepped on the goal line the game's final gun sounded. The Richmond team protested, but the ball was in motion, the play was good and the score stood. William and Mary won, 21 to 18.

Taylor was lifted to the shoulders of his teammates. It was his finest game.

Besides the memory, Taylor still has the old, oval football he carried that November 21, 1908.

Taylor, now a merchant at Urbanna, was one of the first William and Mary football captains.

Like all football players, Taylor and the other team captains have their favorite, best-remembered game—often the one against Richmond.

George G. Hankins, the oldest living William and Mary football captain, best recalls the Richmond game of 1904. Hankins, now a physician in Newport News, then captained the first William and Mary team ever to beat Richmond. The score was 15 to 6.

John H. Wright, captain in 1913, remembers the Richmond game that year because some of the William and Mary players wanted to quit right in the middle of it in a dispute over a referee's decision against them. The team played on, however, but lost.

Joseph J. Marino, who was captain in 1936, recalled the William and Mary-Richmond game of 1933 because it rained so hard he had to take off his soaking, muddy pads in order to move about. The game sloshed to a 6 to 6 tie.

John E. Dillard, captain in 1939, thinks the William and Mary-Washington and Lee game that year was significant because the 18 to 14 victory started the great decade of football in Williamsburg.

One of the big games was the 1948 William and Mary-University of North Carolina 7 to 7 tie, played before the largest crowd ever to gather in Cary Field. It was "an unforgettable experience" for three players who were captains, Louis J. Hoitsma and Harry W. Caughron, co-captains that year, and George S. Hughes, co-captain of the 1949 squad.

The Dixie Bowl early that year was Jack Cloud's best-remembered game. William and Mary outplayed the University of Arkansas, but lost 19 to 21.

Another captain remembers best a lost ball game. To John Buxton Todd, who captained the team in 1923 and 1924, the big game was Syracuse 61, William and Mary 3. That was in 1923, the year William and Mary also lost to the Norfolk Fire Department.

In 1953 there were 17 players on the William and Mary team. And two of the "Iron Indians" who were co-captains the next year remember it as a tough season. "It was a display of sheer courage," according to Charles Sumner; "it was a chore just to end the season in one piece," remembers Gerald J. Sazio.

One of the 1953 co-captains, Tommy Martin, now an agent for the Federal Bureau of Investigation, said: "The team caught the imagination, the spirit and the feeling of the public, the student body and the faculty more than any other William and Mary team."

The 1954 "Iron Indians" gave William and Mary its most recent winning season. The year's final game was played in Richmond and, as nearly half a century earlier, William and Mary won in the final quarter.

William Marfizo, who was called "Mr. Versatility" because he played seven different positions, raced through the Richmond line to block a kick in the end zone. The safety gave William and Mary two points, the only score of the game.

Football at William and Mary gave Marfizo, now a dentist at Harrisburg,

Ioe Mark

Pa., "the insight that hard work is what is needed for success." The game has done a lot for those who played it at William and Mary.

Through the years it has given Charles Taylor "a more definite tie with the College."

"The game is great training for the game of life, (teaching) humility, courage, confidence," commented Richard H. Lewis, now a lawyer in Fairfax. He commanded the 1951 team.

Others, such as Melvin C. Davis of Richmond, who headed the 1927 team, and Joseph Bridgers of Ashland, captain in 1934, believe the friends made while playing have been "invaluable in business and social life."

Hugh "Ted" McGowan, captain in 1937, now vice president of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., believes football developed for him "an understanding of people."

"Running a business is similar to playing football—that is learning to take bad breaks and other setbacks in stride, to be able to overcome them and to go on to success," says Steve Milkovich who runs a dry cleaning establishment in Oberlin, Ohio. He was captain in 1953.

George Zupko, a captain in 1951 who is now a guidance director in Perth Amboy, N. J., said: "I believe football developed an understanding, tolerance and appreciation of other people."

For two young lieutenants in the army, Eric W. Erdossy and Roger Hale, co-captains in 1961, the football experience of working on a team has been valuable to them in their military careers.

The experience playing football gave nearly half of the William and Mary captains a career in the game.

James Glenn Driver, who played with Taylor in 1908, coached football for William and Mary and the University of Virginia. He was captain in 1909 and now serves as verger at Burton Parish Church in Williamsburg.

Art Matsu, captain of the 1926 William and Mary squad, coached for 25 years at Rutgers University. He is now a real estate broker in Phoenix, Ariz.

"The 'egg-head' concept of college education to the contrary," Matsu believes, "football conducted as an integral student activity, is a wholesome, desirable adjunct to the educational process. The demanding, rugged competition is a sorely needed antidote for accepted standards of conformity, mediocrity, security and indolence."

A former William and Mary football captain is now athletic director and head coach at the University of South Carolina. He is Marvin Bass, William and Mary captain in 1942.

The two 1950 co-captains at William and Mary are both coaching at the University of North Carolina—Joe Mark and Vito Ragazzo.

Jack Cloud, captain in 1949, is head football coach of the 150-pound team at the Naval Academy. Larry Peccatiello, co-captain in 1957, coaches at William and Mary. Lauren Kardatzke, co-captain in 1959, coaches at Maryville College.

Two former captains are now coaches of professional teams. Ralph J. Sazio, co-captain in 1947, is head coach of the Hamilton Tiger Cats, the 1963 champions of the Canadian League. Charles Sumner, who played professionally with the Chicago Bears and Minnesota Vikings, is assistant coach with the Oakland Raiders in the American Football League. He was a co-captain in 1954.

Ralph Sazio's brother, Jerry, co-captain in 1954, also played with the Hamilton Tiger-Cats and is now coaching at Maury High School in Norfolk. Another former pro, Bob Steckroth, co-captain in 1947, is principal of Blair High School in Norfolk.

Other former William and Mary captains who played professionally are Matsu, Cloud, Ragazzo and Otis Douglas, a William and Mary captain in 1913. Robert H. Soleau, last year's captain, is playing this year with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Joseph Marino has coached high school football for 24 years and now is coach at Essex Catholic High School in Newark, N. J. Harry Caughron is director of athletics and head coach at Woodberry Forest Prep School. Lou Hoitsma teaches and coaches at Phillips Academy in Andover, Mass.

John A. Yohe, Jr., co-captain in 1956, is head coach at Columbia, Pa., High School; Thomas W. Secules, co-captain in 1958, coaches at Warwick High School in Newport News; James J. Porach, co-captain in 1960, coaches at Prince George County High School; Stanley A. Penkunas, co-captain in 1962, is a coach at Norfolk Catholic High School, and Dennis O'Toole, also a 1962 co-captain, coaches at Thomas Jefferson in Richmond.

Other football coaches have moved up to take positions as school administrators. One is Gerald L. Quirk, director of secondary education in Virginia. He was captain in 1933.

William F. Goodlow, Jr., once a high school coach, is assistant principal of Hermitage High School in Richmond. He was captain in 1941.

Most ex-captains have kept so interested in following the game that they have various suggestions. A frequently offered proposal: decommercialize college football. As John H. Wright commented:

"In my day we had a student body of about 250 men, but still not enough to supply much talent. There was no real recruiting, except occasionally some persuasion by an alumns, and no subsidization at all. We played because we wanted to and one of our greatest rewards was the affection of the student body.

"I do not want to give the impression of being unalterably opposed to athletic scholarships or other forms of help to outstanding athletes. I have seen too many of the modern-day players who seem to me to be putting as much of themselves into the game as we did and to love the game for its own sake; but I cannot but feel that we gained a little more than they do."

Many would like to see a greater emphasis placed on winning football at William and Mary.

"What is wrong with winning within the framework of the rules?" asks Richard Lewis. "Our whole way of life is based on that premise. . . . The best academically and athletically should be William and Mary's goal (and) I am afraid that has not been our goal since 1951."

Lewis believes that it is a "gross fraud" on students and players "if an all out effort to succeed is not made."

John Dillard points out that a college benefits from a good football team. "A good football team brings in students, money and acts almost as an advertiser," he said. "This starts a chain reaction: Better students, highly qualified professors, etc. A winning football team helps the morale of the college and to me this gives it life."

Bill Marfizo believes, however, that the colleges should "take much of the pressure off winning and to play for the sportsmanship and pleasure of the players, as well as the fans."

Marvin Bass would like to "minimize the pressure and interference from outside groups and, in some way, be able to make some groups see that an athlete can be a good student and participate in sports. Just treat them as any other student and eliminate the atmosphere that an athlete expects something extra."

John Buxton Todd, now a dentist in Newport News, thinks the practice hours should be shortened and spring practice eliminated.

Jack Cloud wishes for better protective equipment for players.

Another coach, Vito Ragazzo, suggests that the number of players to dress for a game be limited (approximately 35) and "let the coach use unlimited substitution."

Joe Mark, also a coach, wants a uniform set of rules for major high school, college and professional teams —"mainly unlimited substitution for the college game."

Two other ex-captains, Bob Steckroth and Lou Hoitsma, believe players should play both offense and defense.

Hoitsma also thinks that William and Mary should play more evenly balanced teams to eliminate the lopsided victory or defeat. "To accomplish this," he said, "the College would have to provide moderate financial support to enable the team to play on an even basis in its class or conference. The alternative, it seems to me, is for the team to align itself with more equal opponents when arranging future schedules."

Charlie Sumner agrees. He would like to see "all the clubs in the various conferences equal in regards to athletic scholarships and academic—standards."

Wayne Woolwine, a co-captain in 1960 and now a building supplies salesman in Richmond, commented: "College football must open up to compete with professional attendance, but if something could be done, I would appreciate a little more good hardnosed football than the razzledazzle type, which now is the rule."

George Zupko suggests that the losing team be given the option on halftime kickoffs.

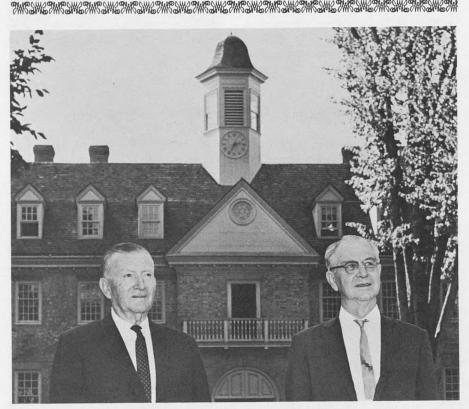

Grey Lynn, a co-captain in 1959 and now a salesman in Hampton, wants the goal posts in college games moved to the goal line to permit "more opportunity to score." One of the former captains, mindful of William and Mary's losing record for the past decade, suggested: "Give William and Mary a seven point lead prior to all its games." Jack Yohe was half kidding.

He and all the other captains agree with Jimmy Driver: "It is my decided opinion that we are extremely fortunate in having the services of Marv Levy as our football coach."

Perhaps, just perhaps, this year's captain, Scott Swan, will have a winning season and memories as sharp and as lasting as those of Charles Taylor.

Veterans Retire

A PAIR of professors known to nearly two generations of William and Mary students have ended their active teaching careers. Dr. G. Glenwood Clark, chairman of the English department, and Dr. J. D. Carter, Jr., '23, associate professor of Spanish and French, retired in June.

Dr. Clark, Chancellor Professor of English, served on the faculty for 39 years, the last six as chairman of his department. A native of Richmond, he earned his B.A. and LL.D. degrees at the University of Richmond, and an M.A. at Columbia University. He is the author of a dozen books, most of which were written for youthful readers.

Dr. Carter, who joined the faculty in 1927, achieved a perfect family record during his long career at the College. He entered William and Mary as a freshman in 1919, earning his bachelor's degree in 1923. His two brothers and a sister followed him to William and Mary in the years between 1924 and 1933. He married an alumna, the former Grace Dozier of Yorktown, and both his sons, James D., 3rd, and John R., are alumni . . . and each of them married William and Mary coeds.

Among Dr. Carter's published work is a small handbook which, published in 1944, is now entering its third edition. It is entitled "Going to a Bullfight? How to Understand and Enjoy Every Phase of It." Another interesting project, now being completed by Dr. Carter, is an English-Spanish baseball glossary.

Over 3,000

ROLLMENT for the 1964 session, if registration went as expected, is slightly more than 3,000 students. Nearly one-third, 944 of them, are freshmen.

Except for about 200 day students, all live in College facilities, including a new, as yet unnamed women's dormitory. Its 272 beds, combined with continued use of sections of Ludwell

Apartments for girls, was reflected in the male female ratio among entering students: There are 405 male freshmen and 539 coeds.

Though the freshman class is the largest in the history of the College, it was not nearly big enough to take care of all the young men and women who wanted to be in it. According to a survey made last spring by the Richmond Times-Dispatch, fewer than one in every five applicants could be accepted at William and Mary. According to its findings, William and Mary receives more applications for admission than any other institution of higher education in Virginia.

Woodward New Rector

J. B. WOODWARD, JR., retired chairman of the board of Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, has succeeded Judge Sterling Hutcheson as rector of the board of visitors. Judge Hucheson's two-year term expired in May and, under the bylaws governing the board, was not eligible to succeed himself.

W. Brooks George of Richmond was elected Vice Rector to succeed

Woodward in that post.

Honorary Degrees

IN addition to 600 degrees to graduating seniors, William and Mary awarded three honorary degrees at its 1964 Commencement last June. Otto Lowe, '24, received the degree of Doctor of Law and Taxation. Lloyd U. Noland, Jr., '38, received a Doctor of Laws. Professor C. Vann Woodward of Yale University received an honorary doctorate of Humane Letters.

Lowe, now a Washington attorney with the firm of Hanson, Hanson and Cobb, received his law degree from the College in 1926 as a member of the first class of the re-opened Law School. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, he served on the board of visitors from 1942 to 1950 and was awarded the Alumni Medallion in 1959.

Award to Paschall

PRESIDENT Davis Y. Paschall has been awarded the George Washington Honor Medal of the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge for "outstanding achievement in bringing about a better understanding of the American way of life." Brig. Gen. Rothwell H. Brown, a vice president of the Foundation, made the award. He said, "I have never made a presentation I thought was more deserving." He described Dr. Paschall as "one of the really great citizens of today."

Classes in Ex-Church

THE church at College Corner formerly known as Williamsburg Methodist Church has become home for the Mathematics Department. The new classroom space was made available by Colonial Williamsburg, which purchased the building in 1962. Methodists built a new church on Jamestown Road opposite the women's athletic field and recently moved into it.

Colonial Williamsburg uses the basement and first floor of the old Sunday School for its costume shop. The new mathematics classrooms will be on the second floor. The church auditorium will be used for a seminar class College classes in the old Methodist Sunday School are no novelty. For many years this building housed the music department.

Cancellations Needed

THE William and Mary Concert Series used to rank somewhere between eight o'clock classes and a visit to the dean's office on the campus popularity spectrum. Or so it seemed. Tickets went begging for buyers and many an outstanding artist or virtuoso played to hundreds of empty seats.

Things, as one is often tempted to say about the College, have changed. This year's Concert Series was a sellout last July! Indeed, the governing committee of the 1964-65 Series is actively seeking cancellations in order to accommodate some of the scores whose names are on a waiting list for tickets.

The Series has offered regular seasons of professional performances to the Williamsburg community since 1936. This year, the 29th season, they will begin October 9th with a young American pianist, John Browning. Following will be the Roger Wagner Chorale and Orchestra November 5th; Laurindo Almeida, classical guitarist, January 9th; Jose Molina's "Bailes Espanoles" dance troupe February 12th; Erik Friedman, violin virtuoso, March 19, and Leon Bibb, jazz and folksinger, April 10th.

A special R.F.&P. train will leave Washington, D. C. for Richmond on Thanksgiving Day to carry alumni and others to the Richmond-William and Mary football game at Richmond City Stadium. The special train will leave Washington at 9:15 a.m. and Alexandria at 9:33 a.m. Fredericksburg alumni will be picked up at 10:30 a.m. and the train will arrive in Richmond at 11:45 a.m. The train will depart the same day leaving Broad Street Station at 5:00 p.m. Eugene B. Luck, manager of passenger sales for the RF&P will handle reservations and tickets.

The Society

The Candidates

Each year five alumni are elected to three-year terms on the board of directors of the Society of the Alumni. Only those alumni who contribute to the William and Mary Fund are eligible to cast ballots. This year the following have been nominated for election or r-election:

John A. Barba, Jr., '40 BS Short Hills, New Jersey

Barba was born in Arlington, New Jersey and arrived at William and Mary in 1936. He was active in many campus organizations including work on the literary magazine, Phoenix

Literary Society and participation in football, track, and tennis. He is a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. His first job after graduation was with the Navy, serving in the line he was executive officer under the famous Captain Ellsburg in charge of Harbor and salvage operations at Cherbourg. He helped direct the building of the artificial harbor at Normandy for invasion forces, and was cited for this action. As a civilian John continued his interest in construction and is now President of Regional Realty and Mortgage Corporation, Countryside Properties, Inc., and the Barba Company, Inc. He serves as an officer in several other construction-type corporations. Barba has been a member of the College Development Committee since 1959, is a past President of the Northern New Jersey Alumni Association, and is on the Board of Directors of the New York Alumni Association. He is also on the Board of Directors of the National Association of Home Builders. Barba is married to an alumna, Marion Milne, '41 (a former member of the Society's Board of Directors) and they have three children.

He is married to an alumna, Janet H. Wood, '40, and they have two sons.

John N. Dalton, '53 Radford, Virginia

As an undergraduate Dalton served as manager of the football team and an Aide to the President. He was elected President of the Junior Class and President of the student Body. He is a member of Omicron Delta Kappa,

Scabbard and Blade and Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity. He received the John Frederick Carr Cup at graduation and entered the Army for three years. He was discharged as a First Lieutenant. Dalton graduated from the law school of the University of Virginia in 1957 with an LLD degree and was admitted to the Virginia Bar. He is a former Chairman of the Young Republicans Federation of Virginia, is now General Counsel for the Republican Party of Virginia. In 1960 he was delegate to the National Convention and an alternate in 1964. He is member of the Rotary Club, American Legion, Masons, Shrine and former Vice President of the Radford Jaycees. Dalton was elected to the Alumni Board of Directors in 1961 and is now serving as chairman of the William and Mary Fund Committee. He is married to the former Edwina J. Panzer and they have four children.

C. Randolph (Randy) Davis, '50 Suffolk, Virginia

Randy Davis was born in Yorktown, Virginia; attended school there and at Matthew Whaley, and Hargrave Military Academy. At Hargrave he was selected for the allstate prep team in football and basketball and served as Cadet Captain. Entering the Army in 1943 he served in artillery and infantry and was discharged in 1946; the same year he entered the College. Davis participated in the varsity football program for four years, playing on one of the finest William and Mary teams ever assembled. He was president of his fraternity, Sigma Alpha Epsilon. Following graduation he was recalled to the Army for service during the Korean crisis. Once again honorably discharged from service, he became affiliated with the Ferguson Manufacturing Company, Inc. of Suffolk, Virginia, a producer of farm equipment. He started in the Sales Department, worked as Traffic Manager, and is now Secretary to the Board of Directors. He is now involved with production and product development. Davis is a past president and member of the Suffolk Junior Chamber of Commerce; a member of the Suffolk-Nansemond Chamber of Commerce and the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce; chairman of the Suffolk Recreation Board; past president of the Suffolk Tennis Association and was elected Suffolk's outstanding young man in 1959. He is a member of St. Paul's Episcopal Church; has served as the Junior and the Senior Warden, and is Superintendent of the church school. He is married to an alumna, Sue Hines, '50; and they have three children.

A. Robert Doll, '49 Louisville, Kentucky

Doll came north to school from Tampa, Florida to Williamsburg in 1945. He received an A.B. in Economics in 1949 and a B.C.L. from the Marshall-Wythe School of Law in 1951. As an undergraduate he distinguished himself as a member of the College's unbeaten tennis teams of the late 40's; served as a President's Aide; a member of the Student Assembly; and was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa. He is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity. In 1954 Doll joined the law firm of Greenebaum, Barnett & Wood of Louisville, Kentucky. He is now a partner of this firm that includes his name in its title. He is a former member and director of the Junior Chamber of Commerce and is now a member of the Louisville Chamber of Commerce and is active in committee work. He is also quite active in committee work with the American Bar Association, Kentucky Bar Association, the Louisville Bar Association, and the Federal Bar Association. A conscientious supporter of the William and Mary Fund, he was for years one of the Society's most successful class agents. He is married to an alumna, Mary Stanton Willis, '49; and they have two children.

William J. L. Green, '39 Wilton, Connecticut

Bill Green, a native son of Brooklyn, left home in 1935 to seek his education in Virginia. Green took root in southern soil and as an un-

was Editor-inChief of The Flat Hat, sports editor of The Colonial Echo;
co-founder and first president of The Backdrop Club;
President's Aide; and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. Following graduation he worked in New Hampshire and Virginia in radio as an announcer, writer, and producer. From 1941 to 1946 he served as a naval aviator. Since 1946 Green has been working in the field of public relations and advertising in California, Washington, D. C., and New York for Young & Rubicam and Ketchum, MacLeod and Grove. He was responsible for all public information material for the early phases of President Kennedy's Physical Fitness Program, working directly with the program's director, Bud Wilkinson. Green has been most active in alumni work serving on the Board of Directors of the New York Alumni Chapter and is the immediate past-president of this organization. During his presidency he inaugurated a regional newsletter to the New York area alumni. He is married to Joyce Cox and they have four children.

Ralph K. T. Larson, '28 Norfolk, Virginia

Larson was one of the College's first public relations men, serving Dr. J. A. C. Chandler as Press Secretary. He entered the newspaper business as an undergraduate and has been in it ever since. He is now Associate Editor for Public Service for The Virginian-Pilot and Norfolk Ledger-Star, having served this organization as reporter, Managing Editor and Associate Editor. He is a National Director of Sigma Delta Chi Society of Journalists, a member of the executive committee of the Virginia Press Association, executive committee of the Norfolk Red Cross, a director of the William and Mary Educational Foundation, President of the Feldman Chamber Music Society, Permanent President f University of Virginia Advanced Management Class of Summer 1958, a member of APVA, and a member of the Board of the Virginia CARE Committee. In 1955, he was the recipient of the Alumni Medallion of the Society of the Alumni, and was elected to the Board of Directors of the Society in 1961, serving on the Fund Committee. Larson was recently honored in New York as the founder of the American Business Writers Association and was given the first life membership in this nation-wide association. He is married to the former Marion Adams. They have two children, both graduates of the College.

Otto Lowe, Jr., '55 New York, New York

As an undergraduate he was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, Omicron Delta Kappa and served as Chairman of the Men's Honor Council, an Aide to the President and a varsity member of the swimming team. He was the recipient of the James Frederick Carr Memorial Cup and a member of Theta Delta Chi social fraternity. In 1957, he received Bachelor and Master of Jurisprudence degrees in law from the University of Oxford and a BCL from the College of William and Mary in 1958. Before entering the practice of law in Virginia and Federal Courts he served in the Chemical Corps of the United States Army and following his military service he taught English and coached football and wrestling at Episcopal High School. He served briefly as Administrative Assistant to Congressman Thomas N. Downing of the First District of Virginia; was for two years Assistant Counsel to the Banking and Currency Committee of the U.S. Senate; and is now Administrative Assistant to the President of the New York Stock Exchange. Lowe was elected to the Alumni Board of Directors in 1961 and has served on the Magazine Committee. He is married to the former Patricia Ann Wescott, '59, an alumna; and they have two children.

Ray E. Reid, '26 Arlington, Virginia

The Colonial Echo predicated that Reid would devote his life to the teaching of Chemistry. The Echo was half right. He entered the College in 1922, coming across the James River from Holland in Nansemond County, and he crossed back over the James to take his first job as a teacher-coach at the Isle of Wight High capacity at Smithfield High School. In 1929 he was appointed Principal of Cople High School in Hague, Virginia and served there and at Blackstone until 1946 when he was elevated to the position of Division Superintendent of Amelia and Nottoway Counties. In 1951 he was appointed Assistant Superintendent of Public Instruction for the State of Virginia, a position he held until 1958 when he undertook one of the state's most challenging positions, Division Superintendent in the fast-growing Arlington School System. Reid received a Master of Arts degree from the College in 1936 and has attended Harvard University's Advance Administration Institute for the past two summers. He is Presidentelect of the Virginia Association of School Administrators; was Vice President of the Virginia Education Association from 1946-1951; and Past District Governor of Rotary International. He is a member of the Methodist Church Board of Stewards. Long interested in the College's alumni program, Reid was active in the Richmond Alumni Chapter and served as President of this organization. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Educational Association, and has been active in re-establishing an alumni program in the Washington, D. C .-Northern Virginia area.

A. Addison Roberts, '35 Philadelphia, Pennsylvania

"Billy" Roberts is an Eastern Shore boy; came to College from Eastville and will probably go back some day. He graduated from William and Mary with a B.S. in Economics in 1935, and then enrolled in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law for the next two years and passed the Virginia Bar in 1937. As an undergraduate he was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa and is a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. In 1938 he joined the Reliance Insurance Company as an associate counsel. In 1947 he was elected Secretary of the Reliance Insurance Company; in 1952, Vice President; and later that year Treasurer; in 1955 a director; in 1961 Executive Vice President; in 1962 President—Pilot Insurance Company (Canada); in 1963 President and Chairman of the Board of Central Standard Life Insurance Company; in 1964 President and Chief Executive Officer of Reliance Insurance Company; and also in 1964 President of the American Equitable Assurance Company and President of the New York Fire Insurance Company.

Since 1959 he has been a member of the College's Development Committee; he is President and Director of Americans for Competitive Enterprise System, Inc.; Chairman of Board of Directors of the American Cancer Society of Philadelphia; headed the Cancer Crusade in Philadelphia in 1956; and is a member of the Philadelphia Crime Commission. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Society of Sons of the Revolution; and the Maritime Law Association of the U. S. Roberts is married to the former Doris L. Lawrence. They have three children.

Athletics

A Year for Rebuilding

DURING the summer one national magazine predicted that this year's William and Mary football team—Mary Levy's first—would have a perfect record: No wins and 10 losses.

On the face of it, this was a sound prediction. From last year's disappointing team (four wins, six losses), Levy inherited just 13 lettermen. When he began practice in September, the squad consisted of only 34 players, smallest in the Southern Conference. This outnumbered team must meet the likes of Navy, Pittsburgh, West Virginia, Virginia and Virginia Tech.

Levy, who has impressed everyone with his candor, admitted this squad lacked both experience and depth. He was quick to add, however, "We're not going to die easily."

Observers of spring practice and September preparations noted that Coach Levy demanded—and obtained —maximum effort from each player each moment. He insisted he would keep only the boys who believe in giving 100 per cent, even if this meant travelling with only 15 players. He hammered home fundamentals and emphasized aggressive defensive play.

On the basis of his solid approach to coaching and the splendid spirit he had engendered in the players, it was possible that the outmanned squad, sparked by its outstanding Junior quarterback, Dennis Haglan, would surprise one or two of its 1964 opponents.

While he was exerting every effort to prepare the varsity squad for what could be a long, long season, Levy might have been pardoned for an occasional wistful look in the direction of his freshman squad. Thirty-three first-year men checked in at Cary Field this fall. On most days, considering the casualties and walking wounded which kept the varsity squad a man or two shy, they outnumbered the upper-classmen. Thoughtful observers insisted that the frosh outweighed and outran the varsity every day.

The numbers, size and talent of the freshman gridders were not accidental. Although he started late, Levy conducted an aggressive, far-reaching recruiting campaign. At the same time, working closely with Athletic Director Les Hooker, the new coach ranged throughout William and Mary territory meeting and speaking to alumni and friends of the College.

He won friends everywhere . . . and the kind of solid support he needed for his recruiting campaign. He predicted no miracles and asked for four years—1967 is the target year—to produce clear-cut results. His objective is to produce a winner, "the finest athletic team available without sacrificing our academic standards."

As for 1964, Levy has one thing going for him. He is not expected to win any games, so even one victory will represent what might be considered a good season.

As you read this news letter we may have already met for our 35th Class Reunion. This event, we hope, will bring back a large crowd of our classmates. At this writing our plans are incomplete as to specific arrangements but we hope to have more definite information soon. A form letter with return card went out recently from the Alumni Office to all reunion classes. From these returns we hope to have a better line on just who will be back for the reunion.

Our contributors to the William and Mary Fund continue to grow in both numbers and amount contributed. With greater response we hope to keep pace with many of the other classes of our period.

News items from the following: Joe James will be back and hopes to see many of his classmates back for the 35th Reunion. Virginia Harper Meeks will return with Polly Venable Stone and Page Vaughan Wright. Virginia offered a good suggestion as to how we might get more members back. Nyle Miller regrets his inability to be with us due to conflicting meetings but sends greetings to all. David S. Moore enjoys reading about his classmates in The GAZETTE. Just after the last class news went to press, I had a grand long letter from Dinny Forwood Pate which I certainly appreciated. Her daughter, Kennon, is entering her freshman year at William and Mary this fall and her son, David, having finished his second year at Georgia Tech is going this year to Indiana University where he will minor in broadcasting. Dinny sees Ginny Brenn Steele quite often and this spring they got together with Ed Miller, who lives in Lebanon, Pa., but keeps a boat in Havre de Grace.

From news releases sent by the Alumni Office I learned more about Dinny: Governors Tawes of Maryland ernors Tawes of Maryland announced the reappointment of Virginia Forwood Pate to the Harford County Board of Education for a second five-year term. Recently she attended the National School Boards Association Convention, in Houston, Texas, where, as President of the Maryland Association of Boards of Education, she was an official delegate. From there, she traveled to Tulsa, Oklahoma, to attend the National Convention of American Women in Radio and Television. Mrs. Pate is listed in Who's Who of American Women, Who's Who in the East, and World Who's Who of Commerce and Industry.

Dinny is also one of a group of Educators invited by President Johnson to meet with him July 30 at the White House.

Lilliam Weymack Ambargey attended Summer School at the University of Richmond this summer. Lill says she's finally professionally certified as a Spanish teacher, and is working toward certification as a counselor, which she'll have after this summer. Then she'll start working toward a masters degree in education, with a minor in Spanish. She found she was sadly lacking in undergraduate credits in education which she has been gradually acquiring at night while teaching at the Collegiate Boys School during the day. More power to you, Lill!

This spring I stopped in on Maizie Coggin Sanders in Tappahannock and had a nice chat with her. She has one son who enters college this fall. Maizie leads a busy life as manager of the family furni-ture business there in Tappahannock.

Our summer has been a busy one. In June I took our two younger children to the World's Fair and to Plainfield and our visit was prolonged while Daniel went through a siege of measles. Then on July 12 our grandson, John Mark Slack IV was born in Chapel Hill and I flew down to take care of Bambi and the baby when they came home from the hospital. Little Mark is a lovely baby and Frank and I are thrilled to be grandparents—it's quite an experience. Now we anticipate a ten-day visit with the three of them here with us and I can hardly wait to get my hands on the baby again!

On August 15 we attended the wedding of Kay and Bob Dew's daughter, Joanne, at Grace Episcopal Church, Kilmarnock, and the reception at the Yacht Club. At this point I'm in the throes of preparing to entertain Joanne at a luncheon this week

Homecoming is October 17 this year and I do hope we'll see many of you there. Don't forget to keep me posted!

Thanks to the alumni office, there are a few items for this letter. A newspaper clipping reports that Franklin Clark was running, last fall, for a place on the Geneva, Ohio, school board. We hope he was elected and are grateful for the clipping which brings his activities up to date for us. From 1941 to 1946 Frank served in the 11th Armored Division in Europe, achieving the rank of major and winning the Bronze Star and Purple Heart. For the past 14 years he has been with the Geneva Metal Wheel Company, where he is sales engineer and regional sales manager. Mrs. John F. Blom (Dorothy Johnson) 235 Henry Street Hasbrouck Heights, N. J. and Mrs. T. L. Van Dam (Marion Lang) 251 Division Avenue Hasbrouck Heights, N. J.

Our once-a-year correspondence with Ruth Schmitz Kerns proved rewarding, from a personal as well as a class secretary's point of view. She reported on several, some not in our class. Ruth Kenyon Jolly is still in the Philadelphia area, Barbara Duborg Fennell, in Washington, sees Jinx Stephens Daniel frequently and Marge Lentz Plitt wrote of her experiences as a school librarian and a Florida visit—made by 5 people and a Volkswagon. Ruth is substitute teaching, serves as assistant treasurer for the Kappa Kappa Gamma alumnae in the Fort Wayne area and at the March writing was looking forward to a summer of boating.

Mary Simon Blevins, whose address is 807 Highland Avenue, Princeton, West Virginia, added a note to her Fund envelope. Her twins are 14 years old and the family spent last Christmas holidays with Mary's parents.

Nancy Gibb Jones (Mrs. Roland D.) also used the Fund envelope for a quick note. Her husband is vice-president in charge of sales at Towmotor Corporation in East Cleveland. Their address is 22475 Westchester Rd., Shaker Heights, Ohio. Their oldest son has completed his sophomore year at Ohio University, middle son graduated from Shaker High and the youngest boy enters 10th grade at the University School.

Jane Heiney Bliven of Englewood, N. J. met her new daughter, three year old In Sook Lee of Korea, at Kennedy International Airport in March. Our county paper had a lovely picture of the group. The little girl will be called Lee Bliven and she joins a brother, Christopher, age 5.

Dot Hoadley Burnett sent news that she and Jack now live in St. Clairsville, Ohio where her husband is pathologist-inchief at three hospitals. They are parents of two girls, Jeanie, 12 and Eileen, 6. Last year Jack and Dot visited London, Heidelberg and Paris and a fall trip this year included Belgium, Russia, Finland and Sweden. Dot also planned to attend the national Gamma Phi Beta convention as state membership chairman.

Jean Boyle Herbert's new address is 7360 Winchester, St. Louis, Missouri. They left Huntington Valley, Pa. and headed west late in April.

The Blom four made their annual visit to Abingdon during the summer and the Van Dam six another camping trip—this time to Niagara Falls and up the St. Lawrence River. Their oldest son, Tom, attended the national Boy Scout Jamboree at Valley Forge, Pa. in July. When the Van Dams left for their vacation, Betty and Henry Schutz and five of their six children stayed here in Hasbrouck Heights, a quick trip from here to the Fair.

We will face our next deadline with no news unless someone supplies us with class information. Will YOU?

Mrs. James D. Williams, Jr. (Nancy Grube) 5108 Moorland Lane Bethesda, Maryland 20014

There have been too many issues of the GAZETTE lately with nary a mention of the Class of 1946 so I thought I'd take pen in hand myself and jot down what few tid-bits we could find.

At the time of this writing I am sitting before a lovely open fire in our cabin at Blackwater Falls, West Virginia where we are enjoying a family vacation. From here we will go on to Ohio to visit Jim's folks before returning home the end of August.

Chatted briefly with Deeks Phipps Shyrock in the spring, just before she and Dick took off for a gay tour of Europe.

Betty Cutshall Allman and Ed have

Betty Cutshall Allman and Ed have been living in New Hampshire for about a year and a half. Their address: 283 North Bend Drive, Manchester. On a recent trip to New York they had a reunion with Peggy Walker Marlott, '47 and Pete. Betty and Ed planned a St. Lawrence cruise for this summer.

It was great to hear from Dick Bicks after all these years of silence. He is married, has two sons and one daughter and is living at 2929 Central, Memphis, Tennessee. Dick is an M.D. and is doing research at the University of Tennessee College of Medicine where he is now an assistant professor. In addition to teaching, Dick practices as consulting physician and will get his FACP this fall.

From Florida comes word that Charlotte Trabue Palmer is a case worker for the State Welfare Department in Tampa. She is living in Riverview. Jerrie Healy Clay and family have moved from Philadelphia to Cincinnati and we hope to hear from her once she gets settled. Ruth Paul Katherman is teaching at York (Pennsylvania) Junior College where she has three sections of general psych. and five sections of reading and study. Her two older sons are enrolled at Massanutten Military Academy and her younger two children are still at home.

The '46 Tri-Delts seem to have relocated in Texas. Tom and Keith Anne Duncan are in Dallas, B.J. Relph Samuel is in Fort Worth as is Bobbie Volkert Harrison. Recently B.J. visited Joyce Remsberg Shank in Abilene where Tim Shank is a major in the Air Force. Tom Duncan sees Harry Carter at meetings of building materials men. Harry is living in San Antonio. Virginia Electric and Power Company last year appointed Jim Hutcherson assistant to its Norfolk district manager. And the beginning of this year Bill Hubard was promoted to the position of vice president and general manager of the Shenandoah Life Insurance Company. Bill had been General counsel of the company. He not only has his chartered life underwriters designation but is also a fellow of the Life Office Management Institute. He has been teaching a course in insurance at Roanoke College. In the same field Stan Holloway was promoted by Mutual of New York to manager of their Winnipeg, Canada agency. Stan is married and has two children. Ann Singer Banes not only keeps up with all her six children and numerous community activities but she is personnel director of one of the leading department stores in Phoenix, Arizona. She is a busy gal but manages to keep up her golf game as well up her golf game as well.

Julia Woodbridge Oxreider and John have had a change of pace since the arrival of their adopted daughter just in time for last Christmas. But Julie can still find time to lend a helping hand to her many friends whenever called upon. I think our greatest skiing enthusiast is Dottie Hammer who has skied all over Europe and the States. This past winter she went to Sun Valley and Stowe. She relaxed at the shore this summer but come the first snow, look out—she may be skiing in to see you! Lucille and Ronnie King are still in Stamford but took time out last year for a fabulous trip around Europe. They were in Williamsburg this past spring when we were there but both of us had our offspring with us and consequently we never even got to visit together.

Anyone who has been scanning the shelves of newly published books must surely have been pleased to find the delightful "Riddles, Riddles Everywhere" by our own talented Ennis Rees—Dr. Rees that is, professor of English at the University of South Carolina. He really has been distinguishing himself with his writings. It would be great to see him and Marion at our next reunion.

And speaking of reunions, I'd like to remind you that our terrific twentieth will be coming up in '66. That may seem far away now but not too soon to think about how we want to celebrate it. If any of you have any thoughts or suggestions, please do drop me a line. A tremendous amount of planning and work goes into one of these and we want to give you what you want. One big decision to be made is whether to go all out as we did for our 15th or hold such a performance for our 25th and have just a quiet dinner or some such gathering for the 20th. The sky is the limit so let's hear your preferences!

By the time of the next GAZETTE some

By the time of the next GAZETTE some one of you lucky people will have been blackmailed into taking on the job of class secretary! Until then drop me a line with latest news of yourself and any classmates and I'll be sure to convey it to the proper person. Guess it's a little early, but Merry Christmas anyway!

Mrs. Thomas O. Moore ("Trinka" Robinson) 167 Wallace Street Freeport, New York

Having just returned from a family boating vacation to Mystic, Connecticut and harbors on Eastern Long Island, I find that my news letter to The GAZETTE is due. The office kindly sent me some notes jotted on Fund envelopes, and a letter or so written by a thoughtful class member.

I had a very nice letter from Jane (Heller) Frieden of Norfolk telling of a very enjoyable alumni party they had attended in the spring. She and her husband were planning a European vacation this summer which should be terrific. Jane is teaching at the William and Mary extension and loves it.

A note from Sumner Rand of Orlando, Florida reported that he had played a role as one of the community guest players in "Henry IV, Part I" produced at Rollins College.

Stella Withers Hardee is coming to New York to live and bringing her two sons, ages 6 and 4. After September she will be at 8 East 83rd Street, New York, New York. All are invited to visit her.

A newspaper clipping from last year, no less, was our source for learning that Dr. James Harnsberger will be an associate director of the Homestead Spa as well as having his private practice in the Virginia Building, Hot Springs.

Malcom Savage has been appointed a trust officer at the Summit, New Jersey office of the National State Bank of Elizabeth.

From an article in the Panama Canal Zone newspaper, we have learned that David Speir, Jr., formerly principal of the Balboa High School, has been promoted to the position of supervisor of instruc-tion for the U. S. Secondary Schools in the Zone.

Marilyn Woodbury Brown of 1700 Valley Road, Gainesville, Georgia, has four wonderful children—11½, 10, 6 and 4. Her husband, "Pep," was chief of staff last year of Hall County Hospital. Marilyn will be kept busy next year as President of the Gainesville Junior Service League.

There was a nice long letter from Madeleine McVickar Edwards filling us in on her doings during the past years. After graduation Madeleine became an airline stewardess. She then settled in Los Angeles where she took some education courses and became a teacher. She married fellow educator Alan Edwards, and they now have two very intelligent daughters, Carolyn and Kathleen. While her husband teaches Jr. High, Madeleine does some substitute work. She asked about news of Al Puth and since I can't help her, I am asking you readers.

We are taking our eldest daughter Nancy down to Roanoke College in September to begin her Freshman year. I therefore doubt that we will attend Homecoming, so any of you who are full of choice tidbits for this article will have to take pen in hand. By the way, Jeanne Lamb O'Neil had a very amusing and witty article in the July-August American "Home" magazine entitled "Give me Ants, Lots of Ants." I wanted to write a sequel, "Oh where, oh where has my anchorage spot gone.'

Peggy Pennewell Hedstrom has returned from five years in Japan. Her husband Bob is now stationed at Patrick AFB in Florida and they live at Merritt Island, Fla. She says they hope to retire there in about eight years.

Fred Q. Barnett, physical science administrator in the directorate of data acquisition and processing at the Air Force Missile Test Center at Patrick Air Force Base, Florida, has been awarded a commendation for meritorious civilian service, highest civilian award authorized by a major air command. He was cited for his outstanding performance as chief of data reduction and analysis division. Through his efforts, delivery time of data on tests was reduced from 10 to three days.

Barie Blair Daly is now living in Germany, APO 36, New York City. Her husband is Lt. Col. Robert C. Daly.

Bob Doll represented the College at the inauguration of Dr. John W. Oswald as president of the University of Kentucky last spring.

Ben Johnston, teacher of music theory and composition at the University of Il-linois, has worked on Guggenheim Fellowship projects connected with electronic music and the refinements of tuning instruments at the Columbia-Princeton Music Center. He recently wrote a composition for strings entitled, "Nine Variations for String Quartet.'

Dr. James Harding Siske attended the University of Capetown, South Africa, in 1963, and traveled through East Africa, Rhodesia and Mozambique. He married Gladys Charles Phillips in June, 1963, in the Cairo, Egypt, and honeymooned in the Middle East and Europe. He and his bride are now members of the faculty of Navarro Junior College, Corsicana, Texas.

Mervyn W. Wingfield is chairman of the division of accounting, School of Business Administration, University of South Carolina. He holds a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois, an M.S. from the University of Richmond and a Virginia CPA certificate.

Howard D. Winters is an instructor in anthropology at the University of Virginia and has traveled extensively in the U. S. and Mexico excavating archaeological findings. He has been staff archeologist on the Chalchihuities project in Durango, Mexico, and field director of the Wabash Val-ley Project sponsored by the Illinois State Museum, working under research grants from such bodies as the National Science Foundation and the National Park Service.

Mrs. Robert R. Morrison (Phyllis Reardon) 201 Oleander Street Bakersfield, California

We made our bi-annual trip to Virginia this summer and I tried to see as many this summer and I tried to see as many people as possible in two short weeks, it makes the trip just one mad rush. Nicky Dillard Dewing and Jay had a wonderful dinner party for us. Nancy Kurtz Falck and George, Liz and Bob Shuman, Skippy Beecher Scrymgeour and Bruce were there.

It was really a treat to see all of these people, I felt rather sorry for all of the husbands because they just had to listen to five women chatter all evening. We did catch up pretty well. Nicky and Jay live in Springfield and have a most attractive house. Nicky was just getting ready to spend the rest of summer in Yorktown with her mother and let Jay commute. Skippy had just arrived in town from Naples. She and Bruce will be living in Tampa.

Nancy Kurtz Falck and George live in McLean and seem to be a headquarters for people passing through so I was able to pick up quite a bit from Nancy. It seems that George works with Bill Nixon for the Republicans. Mac McCoy is living in Arlington and they manage to get together once or twice a year. Anne Cleaver and Ed Marsh are living in Elicott City, Maryland. They have two children. Jane Copland Upshur has just moved to Alexandria. Janie and Giles have 5 children now. I am sorry I didn't get to call but just found they were in town the day before I left.

We spent an evening with Liz and Bob Shuman in Rockville. Bob asked me to please announce that he is no longer in the home brew business. They are now in the Boom Base business. If you want to know what that is write and send me some news and I'll tell you. Bob said that Bob Luartes is also working for Minneapolis Honeywell in Washington and that he plans to be married this fall.

Had dinner with Janet Pierce Waller, '49 and John. They are living in Leesburg and have just finished remodeling an old house. Janet said there were lots of people from William and Mary in Leesburg but I didn't have a pencil with me.

Also managed to stop and have a drink with Eddie Pierce, '51 and Gayle. Eddie has his own law office in Alexandria. Eddie had recently seen Martha Wood, '51 and her husband who were visiting in Washington from New York.

Had a long card from Richard Canham. Dick was just preparing to leave the College of Charleston where he was an associate professor of chemistry. He will now be at Oklahoma Baptist University teaching physical-inorganic chemistry. Dick has also been teaching alternate summers at William and Mary. He said he ran into Earl Copp in Charleston. Earl writes in the sports department of the Charleston Evening Post and News Courier. Dick and Shirley have 2 boys, Randy 6 and Andy 5. A daughter, Susan Rebecca was born March 7, 1964. The Canhams will be in Shawnee, Oklahoma and would like anybody passing through to give them a call.

Henry Pinsker writes from New York that he has a 2 year old daughter and an infant son. Henry occupies his profession time with private practice of psychiatry and with work at Metropolitan Hospital in connection with duties as Assistant Professor of Psychiatry at New York Col-

Martha Melford Root dropped me a note suggesting we get together. California is too long. We southern California-ites should really plan to get together, anybody interested drop me a card and maybe we could plan something for fall. Martha had seen Jan Walser Nelson and her three girls.

teresting letter from Winston-Salem, North Carolina. Her husband T. A. is with Piedmont Federal Savings and Loan Association. Their daughter Marie will begin the first grade in the fall, and their son Tom begin kindergarten. They live in a neighborhood filled with such illustrious people as the Jamer Brays and the Harry Marrs (Marcia Bourne Marr, '40). Jim's varied activities are frequently reported in the local papers. Ginie says they hear from Jeannie Folk Stieglitz, who lives with Val and their four offspring in Miami, Fla. Val is in the real estate business. Jeannie often sees Jerry Tuttle who also lives in Miami. The last news she had from Laura Ramsey Browning, '53 was that her husband Phil, a lawyer in Pittsburgh, had purchased an airplane just large enough to accommodate his family of four on short flights to the country on Sunday afternoons. Ginie's address is: Mrs. T. A. Underhill, Jr., 2416 Maplewood Avenue, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Ginie sent one of the articles that came

Jim teaches psychology at Salem College during the winter, and then he, his wife, and their two sons go to Williamsburg during the summer where Jim is director of promotion for "The Founders," the play being given this summer instead of "The Common Glory." Ben teaches at Coker College in Hartsville, S. C. and during College in Hartsville, S. C. and during the summer is stage manager at the Lake Matoaker location in Williamsburg. This year the two brothers were asked by a promotion company to write and direct a fifteen minute action scenario, plus short vignettes, to be presented several times daily at a reproduction of Charles Towne and Fort Carolina near Myrtle Beach, S. C. The cast is made up of college students, and the costumes were made by Indians on the Cherokee reservation at Cherokee, N. C. The two professors rehearsed the cast during two week-ends in late May and for an entire week in June. Jim has had two plays published which he sold outright to a publishing firm but this year a publishing house in Wyoming will pub-lish his play "A Cry of the Crows" from which he will receive royalties. A hobby of Jim's is writing to famous people and if he receives a reply he sometimes sends the letter to a dealer in New York. Letter from Missionary Stan Bain, '55

Kapit, Malaysia

Dear Friends,

The new year brings to us here in Sarawak, as to you all, the exciting challenge of uncertainty in these days. Our year of language study has ended and perhaps the greatest accomplishment of this period is the awareness of how much we have yet to learn. Because Nanga Entawau is the farthest longhouse up the Balleh River towards the Indonesian border, the government called us down to Kapit in September when terrorists raided several border areas. Since then we have been permitted to visit although not to live permanently in that place.

Beginning with the new year our assignment is District Missionary. This means Stan will travel the network of rivers reaching out from the large Rejang and Balleh rivers, working with local pastors and lay worship leaders in the longhouses throughout the "upriver" area. Florence and Lindi plan to accompany him whenever possible. Also, since there is a shortage of local pastors for the many circuits, he will be assigned the pastorate of one specific rural area where we hope we as a family will be permitted to live. We look to the year ahead with eagerness. Kapit will continue to be our address wherever we are, for it is the last post office upriver.

The Christmas season has been a rich one for us. All three of us spent Christmas at Nanga Entawau and several days before and after celebrating with the Christians in eight longhouses where Stan has been pastor. In each house there was a community worship service, usually followed by a rice and fish dinner. Then was a brief prayer service and fellowship in each Christian family room. always including greasy rice cakes and weak sweet coffee. If we had ever thought the Christian community in these bouses numerically small we reconsidered after eating our way through all the "biliks" in five days' time. The worship experiences were very meaningful and we were aware anew of how commonly powerful and personal today is the Christmas message of God to man, however wide be the differences in environ-

One of the many special joys for us this holiday season has been the cards and letters from many of you. However, in trying to bring our address file up to date we notice names that have been on either of our lists for as long as eight years (when Stan was here as a bachelor and Florence in the Congo). We know a lot of our letters are ending in dead-letter bins, and while we want to send them to anyone who wants to read them, we'd like to know if they're reaching only the trash collector (undelivered, that is). Obviously it's not practical to ask you to let us know if you did not receive our letter, so please don't think us too bold for deciding that our next letter will drop names from the mailing list if we've had no communication noted in the last 11/2 years. If you get this letter and think we don't know if you're still there, drop us a card in the next month or two.

We all keep busy but Lindi is by far the busiest member of the family. Every waking moment is all action. Nearly nine months old, she is full of personality and determination, gets around on fours faster than we can keep up with her on two. She stands with confidence to prove that things we're positive are out of her reach aren't, sinks her six teeth into everything from her mother's scarred shoulder to insects she catches alive. Although it is a major challenge to keep her inside the boat while travelling, she enjoys our longhouse visits. She even has learned to sleep on the floor with the pigs squealing under her and cats and grandmothers falling over her. She finds so much to get into that even the Ibans proclaim her "udu manchal" (extremely mischievous). Needless to say, she is our greatest joy.

As we step out into the new year we are aware of "wars and rumors of wars," unrest and tension. We know we are in company with most of the world in such a situation. We appreciate the interest in local events many of you bave expressed and your concern for us personally. Although there are occasional restrictions and changes in plans we find plenty of work in one direction or another and spend little time worrying. We do ask your prayers for the church here in this crucial time, and for us that we may be sensitive to God's direction in the turmoil of man's attempts at directing.

Sincerely,

Stanley, Florence, and Belinda Bain

Stan Bain's letters are always so full of interesting descriptions that I wish all of you could read them. Stan now serves as pastor to seven longhouse congregations at Nanga Entuloh on the Merirai River in Sarawak, Malaysia. As "District Missionary" Stan spends about one week of each month on the district with other pastors besides his full-time pastoral duties. He is the only ordained Iban minister and assists the superintendent Rev. Joshua Bunsu in giving guidance and training to the six young Iban pastors on the district. Stan added that many have written expressing concern for the safety of him, his wife Flo, and baby Lindi. He assures everyone that they are quite safe, do not worry, and expect others not to. He explained that their immediate area is well plained that their immediate area is well protected by security forces.

Betty Ann Holladay Bellaire wrote a very delightful and newsy letter which Jim Kelly passed on to me. She and Marc opened an art gallery in September 1963 in Virginia. The building was formerly a restaurant, so from the time they purchased the land in January 1962 they were hard at work renovating and remodeling. Marc does all his painting, sculpturing, pottery, etc. in a building in the back. In addition to Marc's work they have paintings and sculpture by about 25 other artists. Betty Ann and Marc still travel extensively. Betty does all the tour booking and the gallery bookkeeping. On tour Marc teaches hobby ceramics primarily, but has also added oil painting, water color, and sculpture. Betty Ann says their two boys Marc, 5, and Dana, 3, travel beautifully. In April Betty had a lead role in "Tender Trap" in a Little Theatre production. They recently bought a small brick ranch-type home in Crittenden which they may enlarge if they stay in Virginia.

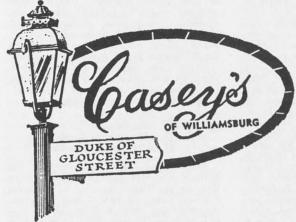

Also passed on by the Alumni office is a letter from Mary Ellen Wortman Ackerson full of interesting items. She and Lt. Col. Frederic have been in Ft. Benning, Georgia since January 1963 with the new 11th Air Assault Division being tested there. Before that they were at the Armed Forces Staff College in Norfolk, and prior to the summer of '62 in Baden-Baden, Germany. They have two boys Douglas, 6, and Norman, 3. Mary Ellen ran into Ellie Lunfberg Marthius, '56 who is now in Fort Hood, Texas. Mary

News clippings are our final source of information. James Singletary was spot-lighted in a "Know Your Clergyman" fea-ture in the Norfolk, Virginia Ledger-Star. The article states that Jim "is a Christian Disciples minister who specializes in health education. He is the director of three United Communities Fund agencies, the Norfolk Council on Alcoholism, The Tidewater Association for Mental Health, and the Tidewater Cancer Society. The article explains that after having spent five years in pastoral work in Illinois and Virginia. Jim felt he could best serve his native Norfolk by practicing Christianity in health and social enterprises. Jim attended Union Theological Seminary in Richmond and received his master's degree at Richmond Professional Institute. He also studied psychology in rehabilitation counseling at the University of Illinois. Jim married a French girl, Jacqueline Albert, whom he met at the Richmond Seminary, and they now have a six year old daughter and live at Virginia Beach.

George Dail has joined John H. Lewis Advertising Agency as a sales executive. He was formerly president of Radio Station WTID, Newport News. George lives in Norfolk.

A PTA meeting story brought out a lot of news about Wayne Marshall. He was the main speaker at the White Plains High School in New York. The article stated that Wayne who spoke on planning for the future is the director of admissions at Long Island University. He has done graduate work in political science, emphasizing international relations. Before joining the LIU staff, he served as a U. S. Naval officer, instructing in English at the Vietnamese Naval Academy, Viet Nam.

Many, many thanks to all who contributed this time. Please keep those interesting letters coming as all this news makes your reporter beam with happiness.

First of all I want to thank all of you who wrote. There is much news for this

Gail Morgan Filion, now living in Hopewell, New Jersey, had an 8 lb., 10 oz. boy, Victor Ross, on July 30, 1964. Dudley E. Conners, from Newton Square, Pennsylvania, represented William and Mary at the inauguration of Dr. William W. Hagerty as President of Drexel Institute of Technology on May 12. Eleanor House Pemberton is living in Germany and traveling to Spain, France, Belgium, and the rest of Europe. She has a son, Robert, 21/2 years old. Bob Somerville has been on a year's leave of absence from fifth grade teaching to get his M.A. from DePauw; he has an assistantship in Education for full tuition and fees.

Sally Gearhart Somerville remained at her job as librarian at Mayfield Jr. High School in Cleveland. Sue Davis was married to Arnold Lee Addington, Jr., of Kingsport, Tennessee, on June 13. Sue received her M.A. at the University of Tennessee and was a member of the staff at Carson-Newman College in the English Department. Her husband received his B.S. from Eastern Tennessee State University and his M.S. from the University of Tennessee. He is on leave from the Economics Department at Eastern Tennessee State to work on his Ph.D. at the U. of Tennessee.

Ralph Shankle, whose first book, The Twins of Space, will be published in November, 1964, dedicated his book to Mr. G. Glenwood Clark. Jean Ventura Dickson and Wallace are in Arlington. Wallace has been in school for the past six years and recently opened his own law office. They have three children: Jennifer 5, John 3, and Julie 1½ as of this writing. Jean has been an active member of the Arlington County Democratic Committee.

Myrna E. Hartman is working in New York City as a reference librarian. After leaving William and Mary, she graduated cum laude from the University of Southern California, with honors in language and history. She received an M.S. in library science from graduate school in Berkeley, California, and last summer went to Europe and Russia. She speaks, reads, and writes Russian, as well as other languages.

Patsy Wescott Lowe, '59, had an 8 lb., 9 oz. boy, Allen Scott, on March 10. Otto Lowe is with the New York Stock Exchange, and they live by the East River, in Peter Cooper Village. Patsy wrote that Lynn Wescott Johnson, '57, is expecting her second child in October. Carolyn Thaxton Snyder, '59, had a baby girl. Cy and Debbie Myers Smith, '60, are living in Morristown, New Jersey, and have a son and a daughter. Ginny Smith Young, '59, had a baby in June. Sally Smith Manifold and Rod moved to Newburgh, New York, in December. Rod is the Safety Director at the United States Military Academy at West Point. They have two children: Bill 5, and Dede 2. She wrote that Craig and Doris Ann Anderson Lynn have a daughter, Debbie, 1½ years, and have bought a home in Rockville, Maryland.

Bill and Pattie Lynn Adams Slaughter, '59, had a 5 lb., 2 oz. daughter on April 25. Bill is at the University of Virginia doing his internship in surgery. Jay and Mary Aleese Shaw Schreiber had an 8 lb. girl, Lynne Allison, on May 3. Eve Mapp Davis had a 6 lb., 15 oz. girl, Holland Powell, May 13. Eve attended the opening parties and ceremonies of the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel last spring.

Marion Hurd Duerr is presently a secretary in Public Relations at Emerson College in Boston. She wrote that Judith Pennell McGowan teaches first grade in Indianapolis. Judy's husband, James, is in advertising for the major Indianapolis newspaper company. Marion is active in the Young Republicans, teaches swimming, and enjoys sailing on the Charles River. I'm sorry I didn't answer your questions, Marion. Your letter came just after I had another son, 7 lb., 14 oz., George Frederic.

John and Jackie Brantley have adopted a boy, Thomas; they already have a girl, Debbie. John received orders for Greece, and they left in May. David and Gretchen Grunenfelder Grise live in New York City and just had a daughter, Gabrielle, February 2. Len and Karen Franseen had their third daughter last year. Loje and Mike Speers are in Alexandria, Virginia, and have two children. Ed Nettles won that election for District Attorney in the county of Sussex, Virginia. He wrote that Vern Keesee is at the Sorbonne, studying for his Ph.D. in French.

Polly Geil Scott received her B.S. in Medical Technology at the Medical College of Virginia in 1958, and married Fred (V.P.I., '58) that December. They live in Staunton, Virginia, where Fred is a dairy plant manager for Augusta Dairies. They have two sons. Mike 416, and Stuart 2.

have two sons, Mike 4½, and Stuart 2.

Pat King Sell wrote that Brad, '57, and Mary Dyekman Lesher have moved to Tehran, Iran, for two years. Brad is with I.B.M.'s World Trade Corporation, and left in May on 2½ weeks' notice. They were delighted at the prospect of traveling and living abroad. Jay and Shari Sanner, '60, gave a party for Bill Rush, who was visiting Maryland from California, where he is with Aerojet General in Los Angeles. Jay took the bar exam in patent law in June. Chuck Coale was at the party; he is doing graduate work at the University of Maryland. John Makarczyk, now with Melpar, and his wife, Una, and John Farrell, now with Mutual of New York, were also there. The Sells and the Rowletts gave a beer party, inviting Ginny and Ed Schine from Richmond, Helen and Dave Sweeney, Ginger and Chad Henry, and a whole mob of local William and Mary alumni.

Barbara Mitchell, '56, married attorney Paul Welch on June 27. Hike and Sue Abdella, '56, also visited with the Rowletts and the Sells. Hike is practicing law in Jamestown, New York. Pat and Stew left for a year in Birmingham, England, at the end of June. Stew is in the Department of Experimental Pathology at the University of Birmingham.

Bobbie Ramsey Brooks is in Hampton, Virginia, now, where Bill has a job at the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. He has an administrative job in the machinery-design division. Diane Montague Morsey and Jim leave for Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, where Jim will spend ten months in school. Paula Phlegar Hoge and Joe are in Arlington. They have two children: Kathy 5, and Beth 4. Paula and Joe teach Sunday School and Paula is in the church choir. She also substitutes for kindergarten. She said that Helen English Sweeney is director for the new recreation center in Arlington and that she loves it.

The Reverend Fred Gibbs married Judith Small and lives in Canton, Ohio. Melissa Smith Fitzgerald wrote a long letter from El Salvador. She and Pat have two boys, David and Christopher. They are completing a two year tour with the American Embassy in San Salvador, where Pat is a foreign service officer. They were due to leave in July, and planned to spend two months in the States buying two years' worth of supplies, visiting the World's Melissa wrote that Paula Heslin Nelson is living in San Francisco with her two children, Blake and Penny, while doctor husband Jimmie finishes his stint with the Navy. Paula wrote her that Jo Ann Ferrell, '59, now married, is also living there. Bev Wilson Palmer is in California, too, and is the mother of a new baby girl, Margaret. Her husband, Hans, is teaching economics at Pomona College.

Myrna Tichenor is still living in Scarsdale, New York, and has what sounds like a most interesting job with a writer-doctor in New York City. Also in the N.Y.C. area is Ellie Schilt Hill, living in Glen Rock, New Jersey, with husband Clark and daughter Ann. Diana Jacobs, '59, is doing interior decorator work there for Consolidated Trimming Co. Margie Gormours Snyder is in Richmond and has four children. Carol Sue Williams Gilbert and husband Sam are still searching for oil and presumably fighting with Communists in Barcelona, Venezuela. We moved to Richmond this September. My husband Ned is head of the English Department at the Collegiate Boys' School here, and I'm busy with two sons.

Thanks again for writing so much. Please keep up the good work. It is a delight to get your newsy letters.

How I hate constant apologies, but as you can see by the above, I've finally gotten out of New York. As a result of the move, my possessions and correspondence, at the time of this writing, are either in New York, Connecticut, Massachusetts, or Virginia, and naturally your letters and notes aren't with me! My move from the Big City has much promise even if I am returning to prep school, but this time I'll see if from the administrative side as director of the social and extra-curricular programs. Sounds right down my alley, doesn't it?

In June, Dick Prosl received a Master of

In June, Dick Prosl received a Master of Science in Mathematics from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N. Y., and I'm a little late in reporting that in February, William Davidson received the degree of Master of Education from Temple University, Philadelphia. In Bristol, Va., Dr. John Blazer, formerly a staff psychologist with Bristol Mental Health Clinic entered private practice and became director of the Bristol Tamily Guidance Center. After receiving his doctorate from the University of Miami, John completed additional work at Episcopal University near London.

Rollins College has an instructor in theater arts who is also designing sets for theater productions during the coming season—Lewis Crickard. He graduated from the Yale School of Drama and will work this season with the opening production "Kiss Me Kate" and later on Ionesco's "Rhinoceros." Other news, also late in getting to you, is of Martin DeHaan who resigned from the Real Estate Division of the Texas Oil Company of Michigan to assume a position with Austin Farm, Inc. last January. Martin and his wife, Joan, live in Robersonville, Michigan. Another January move, and into the executive ranks, was that of Jim Brinkley associated with Mason and Company, a stock brokerage firm in

Newport News; Jim is now serving as Vice President

Ernest Cox is on the fine arts faculty at the University of South Florida having first gotten his M.F.A. from Cranbrook Academy of Art in Michigan and then having joined the staff of the Jacksonville Art Museum. Last year, he had three of his works exhibited at the University. Josie Toth and Jim Linen now live in Chicago where Jim works for Field Enterprises which includes two newspapers, Sunday Times and Daily News. Jamie V. enlivens the scene while Jim also works hard on the Goldwater cause—air pollution. If any alumni in the area would like to help her out, she can be reached at 450 Wrightwood Avenue, Chicago 14, Ill.—Tel. DI 8-0137.

Peggy Grant has been working on her Master's degree at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill but continues to teach elementary school in Fairfax County, Va. James Roach, living in the city of Newport News, works for NASA at Langley Field as an aerospace technologist. He is also studying for a PhD in Physics at Lehigh University under the NASA cooperative graduate study program. Mary Sue Tinnell and Bill Carter, '58, have been in Waynesboro for these past five years where Bill is an IBM salesman and Mary Sue tends to her three children, ages 5, 3, and 1. Phyllis Garris Powers writes that she and her husband, Bob, have been extended on their tour of duty with the Navy in Norfolk which is much to their liking since they both come from Portsmouth. Their son, Bruce, is looking well at the age of 1 year.

This reminds me, my friends, that we have all been doing various and sundry interesting things for five years now, and since I haven't really been able to keep you posted on all of these, why not begin planning now to attend our 5th Reunion Homecoming this Fall to catch up with each other. Now I know with little ones around, new jobs, distances to cover, and all sorts of other good reasons, some of you won't be able to come, and you'll be missed; but DO make a concerted effort-it will make the weekend more significant to everyone. If you cannot come, however, why not share your whereabouts and latest news with us anyway by dropping me a note at my new address. I promise to keep them all in one place and include them in the next issue! Hope you had a fine summer, but most of all hope to see you soon.

Mrs. Pasqual A. Picariello (Jogina Diamanti)

The close of summer leaves me with a paucity of news items. All information came from the alumni office. I would love to hear from you personally; please do write. Homecoming is drawing near; plan now for that delightful weekend.

A bit of old news (from October of 1963) has found its way to me. John Gough was appointed plant manager of the Bedford office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. We wish you the best of luck, John, in this position.

Mike Heims is doing quite well in his work with the Eastman Kodak Company of Rochester, New York. The first of this year he was assigned to the Indianapolis area as a graphic arts technical representative for the Kodak Company. After graduation in 1960, Mike studied at the American Institute for Foreign Trade, the University of California, and the Goethe Institute in Germany. He's been with Eastman since 1962.

Hawaii is claiming home for one of our classmates. The Reverend Victor H. Krulak, Jr. has an Episcopal church, St. John's By-the-Sea in Kahaluu, Oahu, Hawaii. Army 1st Lt. Barton Wittekind was assigned to 1st Special Forces on Okinawa last April.

Bob Harrell married Rolla Roberson (a 1964 graduate of Madison College) in June. He is vice-president of Joel E. Harrell and Son June.

After finishing six months of active duty with the Army, John Harrington passed the March, 1964 New York Bar Examination. He is currently with the tax department of Standard Oil Company in New York. Gene Haislip, a 1963 graduate of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, was recently appointed as an associate to the law firm of Attorney Robert M. White in Norfolk.

Pat and I have just completed a summer of graduate work at Trenton State College in Trenton, New Jersey. Taking a course in physical education with Pat was Dick Rinker. Dick married Jan Diamond, and they have a baby girl, Debbie, who is now 9 months old. They are living in Mount Holly, New Jersey, where Dick has been teaching Math for the past two years. This September he will begin as a physical education instructor in an elementary school.

Pat Gifford returned to the States in July after completing a year of teaching fifth grade for the Army in Germany. She spent a few days with Pat and me, and she indeed had some fascinating experiences to relate about her travels. While touring on her vacations, she saw Gail Jordan, '59 and Babs Barnhart, '61. Babs is to be married soon and will be living in Leopoldville.

I'm looking forward to seeing you all at Homecoming. It certainly has been a long time since 1960. Do come and celebrate!

Thanks for rallying to my plea for news in the last issue of the GAZETTE. As we celebrated the third anniversary of our class in June, we could hold up our heads with the best of them as a news-producing class.

Recent law graduates constitute the greater portion of news. Allan Brownfeld received his law degree from William and Mary in June and will join the faculty of St. Stephen's School in Alexandria this fall. A recent article of his from the Law Review was published in July in the Congressional Record. Allan writes that Joe Phillips also received his law degree from the College and is practicing in Williamsburg, and that Anthony Gallo received his Master's Degree from the University of Pennsylvania and is now working for the Pittsburgh National Bank, in addition to teaching several courses at a Pittsburgh junior college. Dave Bottoms, Shore Robertson, and Jeff Stafford each received an LLB. degree from the University of Virginia. Shore will enter the Army and be stationed first in Indiana at Fort Benjamin Harrison and then in Atlanta. Dave and Jeff also plan to enter military service. Al Volkmann received his law degree from New York University in June, was married August 16 in Patchogue, New York, and plans to enter military service in January. Another New York student, Gerry Goldsholle, was graduated from the Columbia Law School in June. After the New York and Washington, D. C., bar exams, he and his wife Judy plan to go wherever the Army sends them.

Don Farrell was graduated in June from the Law School of the University of Pennsylvania. He has returned to Chicago as an associate of Stevenson, Conaghan, Hackbert, Rooks, and Pitts, and he will take the Illinois bar exam in September. Don reports that Ed Perkins was married April 11 to Carole Hilton in Nashville, Tennessee, for which Don was best man. Herm Schmidt flew up from Georgia to attend the wedding. After a Bermuda honeymoon, Ed and Carole are living in New York City, where Ed is working for the Chase-Manhattan Bank. In March, Don saw John and Madelon Stone and their son Bart, who are living in Warrensville Heights, Ohio. Several more items from Don include the information that Dave Heenan is still in the Marines in Japan but will return to the States this summer via the Middle East and Europe. For the duration of his military service he will be stationed in California. Karl Gretzinger is also out of the service and is living in Media, Pennsylvania. Also living in Pennsylvania are Sandy Dean Barringer and Dick, in Philadelphia.

Dian Keel Recchuiti writes that her husband Francis, whom she married August 18, 1962, in Wren Chapel, received his law degree from Villanova Law School the first of June and plans to practice in Montgomery County, Pennsylvania. Before marrying Fran, Dian taught eleventh and twelfth grade social studies at Princess Anne High, Virginia Beach. After working, later, for a short time as a guide at Independence National Historical Park, she has been working for almost two years for the Department of Defense. Dian reports that she and Fran spent last Homecoming with Martha Dietrich Guthrie and Tom in Yorktown, where Tom is with the Navy. Marty and Tom have two children, Bonnie, about two and a half, and Tommy, about one. They also saw Margaret Grim, who is teaching high school at Virginia Beach. Another recent graduate, writes Dian, is Steve Lovell, who received his law degree from Fordham Law School and is preparing for the New York bar exam. He was scheduled to be married August 6 to Deedee Kalick of New York. At their engagement party in January, and Fran saw Gary, '60, and Marcia Hoff-man Silver, Pete Yahr, and Norm Kaplan, '60, who has been with a New York brokerage firm and on May 31 married a New York girl. The latest news from Dave Kurwho received his Master's in 1963 from Columbia School of Business Administration, is that he should be just finished with his six-months' hitch in the service. More news from Dian is that Mary Beth Anderson Parks, '63, and her husband Bob are living in Ravenswood, West Virginia. From Joan Ruth, '62, Dian hears of her hopes to teach overseas for the government after having taught for two years in Fairfax County. Sue Comer VanCamp, '62, her husband Bill, and their baby daughter are living in Arlington where Bill works for the F.B.I. Dian winds up her letter with the news that she and Fran enjoyed a "so-cial hour" with President Paschall on April 13 when he was in Philadelphia for a speaking engagement. Then, two weeks later, they again enjoyed William and Mary visitors this time the Chair will be the chair with the chair will be the c visitors, this time the Choir with a dinner and concert. Bless you, Dian, for your newsy letter.

From Harvard Law School, Mike Glass writes, via Jim Kelly, that he enjoyed hearing the Choir in Boston. On the opposite coast, Fred Bartlett is in his senior year at the Church of Divinity School of the Pacific

in Berkeley, California

Many boys in our class have been in the military service for a while. Charlie White recently left for Okinawa, with Tricia and Laurie to follow in September for a stay of about two and one-half years. The White Plains, New York, newspaper carried the news last September that Tom Dellaero had been promoted to first lieutenant at Ft. Eustis, where he was stationed with his wife Janice and daughter Elizabeth. Then, in November, Dave Fiscella's home town paper carried a picture and news concerning his promotion to first lieutenant at Fort Monroe. Before entering the Army in April, 1962, Dave was a copy writer for an advertising agency in Pompton Lakes, New Jer-

In September, Nat Withers, '59, will begin as instructor in mathematics at the College, after having been employed by the Newport News Ship Building and Dry Dock Company. Marianne McKee Withers is also starting a new job, at the Abby Aldrich Rockefeller Folk Art Collection. Another of our graduates teaching in college is Henry E. Coleman. An Appleton, Wisconsin, paper last October carried an article announcing that Henry, instructor in art at Lawrence College, was scheduled to give a special lecture on campus and another at a professional meeting in Indiana. After being graduated from the College, he received his M.A. in sculpture at the State University of Iowa. His own sculpture has been exhibited at the Des Moines Art Center, the Virginia Highlands Art Festival at Abingdon, at Charlottesville, and at William and Mary. Ron Willard writes that he is teaching economics and driver education at Pinkerton Academy in Derry, New Hampshire, and was expecting to marry Joan Abbott this past August. In Norfolk, Liz Rader is teaching sixth grade and is director of music at Second Presbyterian Church.

All the way from Greenland, "Fox" Mc-Mahon writes that he is working for the Federal Electric Corp. there. As he wrote in June, the temperature was 26 above and the wind was blowing at 40 m.p.h. He and Sam McGee seem to be kindred spirits, but 'Fox' does expect to be in Williamsburg for Homecoming. The Springfield, Ohio, Sun reported in February that Dave Diehr was to begin work as program secretary for the Xenia-Greene County YMCA, after having completed two years of graduate study in the field of group work at George Williams College. Here in Williamsburg, Ed Henderson, formerly manager of the conference center, has been promoted to assistant manager at the Williamsburg Inn.

Several of our female class members are civilian employees in armed services departments. Mrs. Ann Modisette, a computer programmer, went to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston after working at Langley Research Center. Beth Berg writes that she was in the Marine Corps for about six months, after which she worked as a secretary for the Department of the Army and lived with her parents in Arlington. Re-cently she finished an Army-sponsored course and is now a digital computer programmer with the U. S. Army Personnel Research Office in D. C. Beth hopes to take some graduate courses at George Washington University this year. Around Washington, Beth sees Ginny Reed occasionally; Ginny is a secretary for the Justice Department. Beth writes that Cynthia Friis is doing graduate work at the University of Minnesota after having taught a year in elementary school in Colorado Springs. Carolyn Williams is still doing graduate work in biology at the University of Virginia and Beth believes that she plans to work on her Ph.D.

The Virginia Gazette recently reported the Jamestown Corporation's "fiftieth matri-monial match," between Edna Gregory and Frank Cataldo. They were married June 6 and are now playing in this summer's production of "The Founders." Edna plays Goody Redhead and Frank plays Rawhunt. Last summer in "The Common Glory," Edna played the part of the Widow Huzzitt and Frank was assistant dance director. Frank is a graduate of Purdue University in physics; he and Edna both plan to continue in the teaching field. In May, Nancy Hagy was married in Big Stone Gap to Bob Chiles. They are living in Hampton where Nancy works for N.A.S.A. at Langley and Bob is with the Shipyard. A recent letter from Billie Howland Steffee reports that she was married July 27, 1963, to Art Steffee, an orthopedic surgeon who was then stationed at Ft. Belvoir. He is a graduate of Allegheny College and of McGill University in Montreal. This past July, Billie and Art moved to Cleveland, where Art will finish his residency and Billie will teach at Shaker Heights. She hopes to regain touch with others of our class and sends her new ad-dress, Sherman and River Road, Gates Mills, Ohio. Since she has been teaching in Fair-fax County, Billie has kept up with some of the news. She says that Pris Edwards is going to Japan to teach for the government next year and that Ann Lichtefeld got married June 20. Berta and Bruce Hobbs are ried June 20. Berta and Bruce Hobbs are living in Alexandria and Berta told Billie that Betty Parker is married and still lives in Richmond. Billie also often sees Nancy Moore, who lives in Arlington and works for I.B.M. A letter from Leslie Stephens Nason reports that she, husband Bob, and coars Stephen two and a half and Phillip. sons Stephen, two and a half, and Phillip, six months, are living in East Lansing, Michigan. After her sophomore year at William and Mary, Leslie transferred to Northwestern University and was graduated and married in June, 1961. Bob is a doctoral candidate in the marketing and transportation department at Michigan State University. Leslie says that they often see Abbie and Phil Albright, who live only an hour's drive away, and they have even been horse-back riding on the Albright's farm. Last summer Leslie visited Karen Muesser and Brenda LaGrange in New York City.

CHICATE CHICAT

GRADS who visit the Wigwam will feel years younger in the stylish, modern campus restaurant . . . and wish they were entering freshmen. A spacious, cherry-paneled dining area, bright terrace view . . . colors in green, champagne and gold . . . tables for four. Efficient, functional food-serving spaces, swank soda fountain, air-conditioning . . . TV nearby in the building. But, two favorites of the old Wigwam remain . . . the friendly counter girls . . . and budget-minded prices.

Brenda transferred from the College to Duke and is now teaching first grade and taking courses at Columbia toward her Master's Degree in education. In Albany, New York, Leslie visited Ann McIntyre Sommers, who lives with her husband Dean, a medical detail man, and their year-old daughter Leslie.

There is still more news of babies. Barbara Daughtrey Hylton and Dick have a baby daughter Elizabeth, born April 1. Dick is beginning his third year at Medical College of Virginia as a dental student. Diane Titolo Alexander and Joe, '60, have a little girl, born in June. Dorris Smith McElroy writes from Evanston, Illinois, that she and Ken have a son. Patrick Wingfield born Ken have a son, Patrick Wingfield, born November 19. Ken is serving with the Public Health Service and is stationed in Chicago. Dorris reports that Marcia Downie was married in August, 1963, to David Rothstein and is living in California. Joy Anker Moss was matron of honor. Joan Gamble Brown is at Andover Newton Seminary outside of Boston, studying religious education and says that Fred Denny is in his last year there. My old roommate, Penny Anderson Trusty, '60, and Marty are living in Denbigh, fifteen miles from Williamsburg and announce the birth of a son, James Marton on July 19, in addition to their daughter Karen Virginia, born Feb ruary 19, 1962. Marty is working for N.A.S.A., which is sponsoring his work on his Master's Degree in personnel administration in night school at the Ft. Monroe extension of George Washington University. Penny says that Bob, '62, and Audrey Murray Harris, '60, have a baby daughter Laura Westcott, born in September, 1963, and a son Robert, Jr., almost three. Bob graduated fourth in his law school class at Wake Forest and plans to enter military service. Penny's brother Cary Anderson, '59, lives in Memphis, Tennessee, where he is selling Municipal stocks and bonds. He visited Penny and Marty in August.

News from Lynne Hagen Clarke, '60, is that her husband Bill has been transferred by Sears, Roebuck, and Company to Nat-chez, Mississippi, from Mobile, Alabama, and has been promoted to merchandise manager. Lynne is working for the Inter-national Paper Company in Natchez, doing systems work similar to what she did at

I.B.M.

You all should have this issue of the GAZETTE by Homecoming, so if you are in Williamsburg, Steirling and I would like for any of you to stop by to part with some of your tidbits of news, or just for fun. We live across Richmond Road from the Holiday Inn. See you then.

The Class of 1963 has reason to be proud. In August, with this year's William and Mary Fund drive only half way to completion, our class has already given more than last year's class gave for the entire period of the drive. The total as of August 8, is $436.50. So far 52 class members have contributed an average amount of $8.40 apiece, although actually the gifts range from $1 to $25. If we could reach the 100 contributor mark we might be very close to the $1,000 mark also. That must be a rec-ord for a class so newly graduated! So contribute now-even if only a dollar, you'll be starting a good habit for the years to come.

Many thanks to Glen McCaskey, who collected the above statistics and to the class agents, who handled the letters of solicitation for the William and Mary Fund.

Lesley Ward Winingder wrote last spring that she and Tom (Ga. Tech.) were living in Boston where she was employed as a service representative with the New England Telephone Company while Tom was attending Harvard Business School. They planned to be in Duncan, S. C. this summer but will return to Boston in the fall. Lesley also said that Carolyn Roosevelt is working for IBM in Norfolk and living in Virginia Beach with Ruth Temple. Suzanne Dudley is working for the National Art Gallery in D. C. and living in George-Art Gallery in D. C. and living in George-town. Nancy Van Schreven, '62, is in Cam-bridge attending the Harvard-Radcliffe Graduate program in fine arts. Marilyn Sterner Keat is in Philadelphia where her husband, Don, is working on his Doctor's in psychology at Temple University.

Sandy Harris Carney reported that her husband, Jim, is a data processing sales trainee with IBM in Norfolk. Sandy teaches Latin at Norview High School. She also wrote that Cathy Leon is working for GMAC in San Diego. Courtnay Turner, '62, taught math in Charlottesville while studying for her Master's degree at U. Va. Mary George is living in Portsmouth and working for the International Revenue Service. Martha Walker Blanks and Dink are also living in the Norfolk area. He is studying to be an architect at the Technical Institute of Old Dominion College and Marthat is teaching the 6th grade. In June they moved into their own house in Hampton. Martha wrote that Linda Holland Camp and Bruiser returned this summer from Germany where he was on active duty. They will be stationed at Ft. Eustis until Bruiser gets out of the Army. He is a captain.

Sarah Larkin Bove and Roger are proud parents of a son, named Christopher Stewart. Roger and Sarah are living in Newport, R. I. where he is in Naval Destroyer School.

From a "very rural area" in Virginia, Nancy Lee Ramsey writes that she was married in June 1963 to C. L. Carwile, Jr., a dairy farmer. Nancy Lee is teaching first grade and enjoying it.

Fran McCampbell Ring is in Japan. Her husband Stewart is stationed there in his capacity of Executive Officer on the U.S.S. Bridget, a destroyer escort. Last spring Fran wrote me about her many activities and she certainly was busy. She was a case interviewer for the Navy Relief Society, did copy and art work for the Officers' wives monthly newspaper, The Ladies' Home Destroyer and attended a theological philosophical discussion group. Perhaps most interesting she was writing a book about her college experiences.

Joe and Gail Weston are stationed presently at Ritchie, Md., where he is with the Military Police and Security Company.

Pam Johnstone wrote that she and Dave Hit were married June 20. They are now settled in Philadelphia where Dave is in his second year at Westminster Seminary. Pam will be teaching 4th grade there a "demo-tion" she says, from the 6th grade she taught in Fairfax, Virginia last year.

From Connecticut, Babs Beaumont writes that she is marrying Gene Anderson in October. Gene works for Addressograph-Multigraph Corporation in Hartford and he and Babs will live in Avon. She will be quitting her job with Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. to be a full-time housewife after a Bermuda honeymoon.

Upon receiving his master's in Communication and Journalism from the Univ. of Pennsylvania, Glen McCaskey returned to Williamsburg to work in public relations for C. W. this summer. In September he will report to Ft. Benning for active duty. Glen writes that Roger Swaggler and Carol Ann Wyle, '64, are getting married August 22 in the Wren Chapel. Mason and Connie Sizemore, Jim Truxel and Glen will be in the wedding party. Jim Truxel is in Divinity School in Washington, D. C. Tom Haley, originally of our class is Advertising Manager of the Virginia Gazette. JoEllen Kessler is living with Jo Ann Bodie, '64, in Williamsburg and teaching school in
