“I’ve built a dynamic business of my own, but I’ve always had time for my family and community affairs . . . not many businessmen can say that.”

— Donald F. Lau, C.L.U., Detroit

“I’ve been a Mass Mutual representative for 26 years and almost from the beginning I was able to build a satisfying business of my own. It wasn’t easy. You’ve got to be on your toes. Competition is keen. How successful you become depends almost entirely on your initiative. You set your own goals and work hard to attain them. But the financial rewards and the personal satisfaction you can gain are well worth the effort.

“Most of my clients are busy executives and professional people, in many respects very much like myself. I’ve found that many of them are constantly on the road or being transferred to different cities. They haven’t been able to plant their roots as firmly in any one community as I have here.

“As a Mass Mutual representative I’ve had time to spend with my wife and children and play an important part in the affairs of my community. Of course, I’d be involved in community activities no matter what my business, because it always has been important to me. But working locally has given me a chance to become deeply involved in many long-range community activities.”

AN OLD North-South rivalry was stirred up once more this year. The decades-long controversy over the nation's first law school ended with William and Mary's priority left standing.

It began when the Litchfield, Connecticut Historical Society in June announced that the National Park Service had dedicated the one-time Litchfield Law School as the first in America. Thus, the Society said in a newspaper item, the long dispute between Litchfield and William and Mary was ended.

Trouble was that this was news to the folks in Williamsburg, who protested to the Park Service that William and Mary had never had the chance to present its side of the dispute before the historical designation was made. Newport News Rep. Thomas Downing, and law school alumni Otto Lowe and Arthur B. Hanson pressed the issue in Washington on the College's behalf and the Park Service reconsidered.

Within three weeks, the Park Service's citation to Litchfield—"the first law school in the United States"—was officially changed to "the first proprietary law school in the United States, not associated with any college or university . . ."

"Evidence" on William and Mary's behalf in the dispute included a published comment by Dean Erwin N. Griswold, Harvard Law School's Dean, that William and Mary really was first in the law school field—although the program started in 1779 by Thomas Jefferson with George Wythe as professor of law and police might not have been called a "law school" as such.

It was this noted New Englander's reasoning that carried the ball for William and Mary in its effort to protect its priority.

Naturally, this judgment on the College's behalf did not meet with outcries of approval in Connecticut. Nearly every newspaper in that state accused the College of starting the Civil War all over again, and the Park Service of getting the facts confused. A Texas newspaper remarked that William and Mary might have won the technical decision—but Litchfield would probably go right on claiming theirs the first. A retired Navy Captain who is curator of the Litchfield site angrily announced that he would refuse to accept the Park Service's revised historical citation.

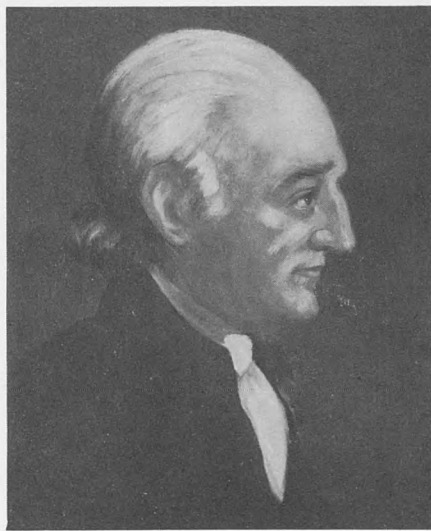

Litchfield was the home of Tapping Reeve, a New Jersey-born lawyer who began the tutoring of law in his home in 1772. Among his first charges was his brother-in-law, Aaron Burr. By 1784, his teaching sessions grew so large that he erected a small building next to his home for the law school—and it was this date that the Park Service recognized as the founding of the Litchfield Law School.

Williamsburg's Wythe, like Reeve and numerous other American lawyers, also tutored future lawyers on a private basis. Thomas Jefferson, for example, studied under him beginning in 1762, and later called Wythe his "beloved mentor." The folks in Connecticut apparently have thus far ignored Wythe's earlier role as a private teacher of law.

In all of this, the Park Service found itself the unwilling "judge." Their main aim in establishing national landmarks is to focus public interest on historical places, not to settle disputes over what's first and biggest. For example, the Sir Christopher Wren Building (1695)—where the William and Mary law program began—already is a national landmark under a designation by the Park Service.

How the government will treat the threatened protests from Connecticut was unknown early this fall. The 170 students at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law weren't about to lose any sleep over it, however.

Once More, That Old Argument Breaks Open

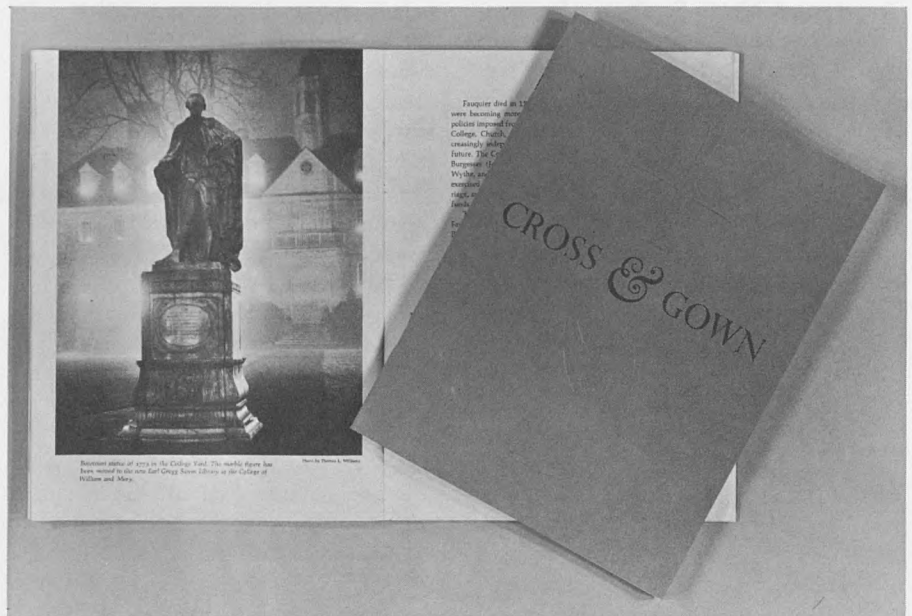

Changing Times On Campus

FALL CONVOCATION this year was a time for President Davis Y. Paschall to describe some of the significant changes taking place at the College, not only in facilities but in programs.

Time was when the campus nearly closed up for the summer. But, as the President noted in his remarks, the summer of 1966 was so busy that the maintenance people didn't have time to completely get dormitories in shape for the opening of the Fall Semester. Two five-week Summer Session semesters attracted a record 1,800 students and some 170 degrees were awarded in late August—65% of them graduate diplomas. Boys' State, the Band School and meetings of the Virginia Press Association and Historical Administrators on campus helped complete the schedule.

He described the schedule for the building program currently under way—a total of $11,000,000 in new facilities are under construction or being put out for bids. Mention was made of the possibility that fraternities may occupy a new men's dormitory project to be erected in 12 separate units each accommodating 37 men. This, he added, would free the 18-year-old lodges for classroom and office space needed until new facilities are built, and contribute to stronger fraternity life. Dr. Paschall said that the units would also be available for other contiguous groups of men.

The Convocation came after a successful orientation program and the "Cross and Gown" is an unusual study of the influence in colonial Virginia held by historic Bruton Parish Church and the College. Copies of the study, published as the Report of Colonial Williamsburg President Carlisle Humelsine, are available in limited number to alumni who request them. Colonial Williamsburg will spend more than $340,000 in further restoration and renovation of the Wren Building, to air-condition it and to increase its worth in the summer as a means of interpreting the College and its history to the thousands of visitors to Williamsburg. Detailed plans are being made for the interpretive program due to start in the summer of 1968.

registration of a record 3,419 students—up 108 from a year before. Of these, 342 were enrolled in graduate and law programs. There were 1,873 men and 1,546 women. The Freshman class number 711, from more than 6,300 applicants.

During the year which lay ahead, the Lecture Series was to include ex-Prime Minister Ferenc Nagy of Hungary and Mortimer J. Adler, director of the Institute for Philosophical Research. The Collegium Musicum Series began in November with world-famous Gerald Moore, coach accompanist and author of such books as "Am I Too Loud?" The William and Mary Theatre, in its 40th season, included "How to Succeed in Business without Really Trying" in its schedule as well as "Centaur, Centaur," a new play written by Louis Catron, a new faculty member.

Dr. John Lachs of the philosophy department was singled out for national prominence as a teacher-scholar by the Danforth Foundation, which named him one of nine across the nation as recipients of the E. Harris Harbison Award.

The College's approach to graduate studies won for it $207,000 from a new State Graduate Incentive Fund of $1,000,000 set up by the 1966 General Assembly to assist graduate degree programs. The sum was the largest given to any of the nine qualifying state institutions. It will help support a new doctorate in history, a master's in government and one in sociology-anthropology, all to start in September, 1967, and to expand master's programs in biology and chemistry.

The College's program in physics was uplifted when it was elected a member of Oak Ridge Associated Universities, allowing the faculty to use Oak Ridge for research.

Federal grants to research and research-related programs at the College rose to $997,453 in fiscal year 1966—a more than four-fold increase in six years, and an increase of $371,722 in one year alone.

St. George Tucker Library Given By Descendants

ONE OF the most significant gifts of colonial volumes and manuscripts ever given to the College was accepted in ceremonies November 11 which dedicated the Tucker-Coleman Room.

The collection includes 1,200 volumes from the private library of St. George Tucker, the second professor of law and police at the College and a noted colonial attorney and jurist. The original library is one of the few known to be preserved by descendants of colonial families.

In addition, a highly important and valuable collection of manuscript pieces—numbering about 30,000—includes correspondence from early American leaders and the writings of St. George Tucker, and 600 Jefferson papers.

The dedication took place as part of a reunion of the descendants of St. George Tucker, which brought more than 200 from across the nation to Williamsburg. The family still occupies the historic St. George Tucker home.

The Tucker-Coleman Room is near the Botetourt Gallery in the new Library. Richly furnished, carpeted and paneled, it provides a traditional setting for the historic volumes. The treasure of manuscripts will be kept elsewhere for use by historians.

The gift comes at a time when the College is preparing to launch its new doctorate in history program, with emphasis on early American history. ❧

Nationwide TV Audience Set For Yule Songs

A COAST-TO-COAST television audience for the College Choir was taking shape late in the fall for the Choir's new "Songs of Christmas" program.

The half-hour program, seen in 1965 over major stations in Boston, Philadelphia, Syracuse, Erie, Albany, Baltimore, Charlotte, Richmond, Bristol and Norfolk-Hampton, will be telecast locally again this Christmas.

Alumni should check their local television listings to determine whether the program is available in their area.

At mid-November, the list of cities to air the program this year included Hampton, Richmond, Roanoke, Washington, Philadelphia, Albany, N. Y.; Austin, Tex., Spokane, Wash. and Hollywood Calif., although additional stations were certain to be added. WVEC-TV of Hampton produces the program and makes copies of the videotape widely available.

Television viewers in five western series—Tulsa, Sacramento, Indianapolis, Des Moines and Houston will also view the college as part of an hour-long documentary being produced by the Corinthian Broadcasting Co. The program, aimed at showing the "good side" of College life, will include the Queen's Guard, several folk singers and scenes during the November 12 football weekend on campus.

Choir, Band Record Music

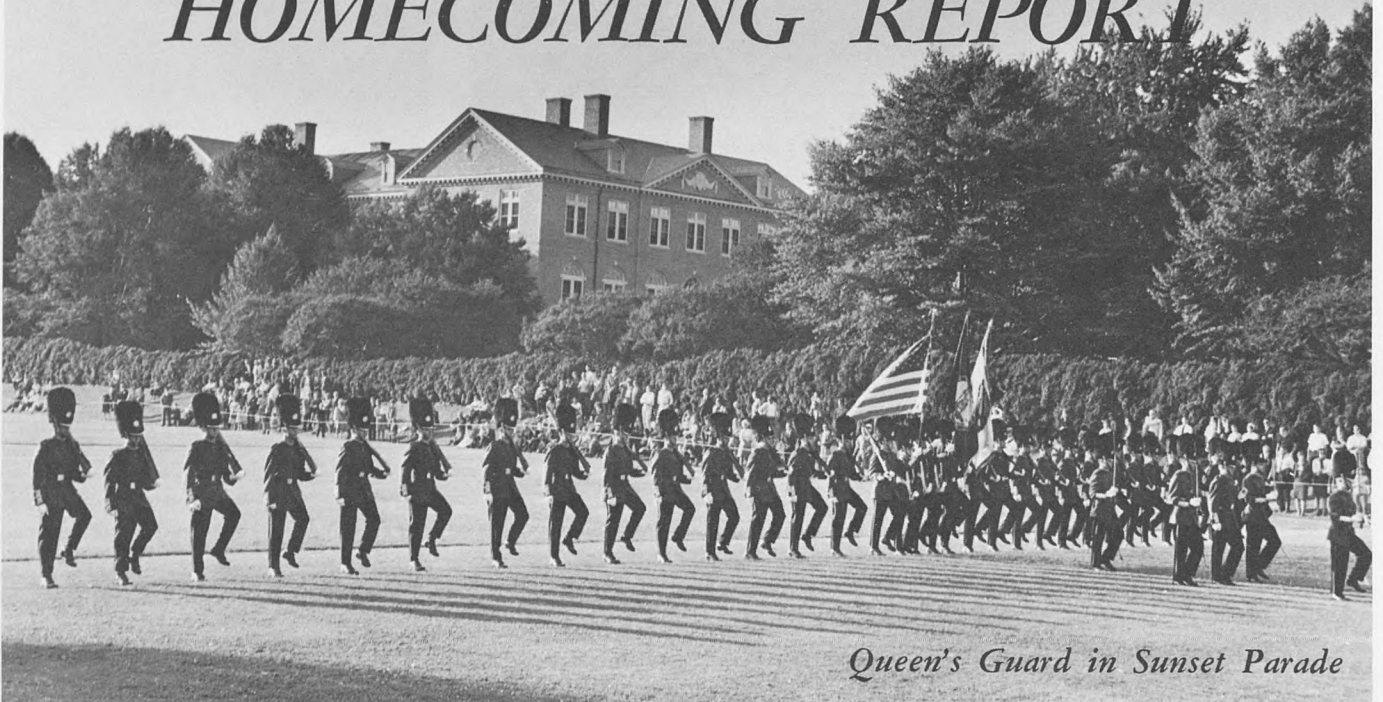

The William and Mary Choir and the William and Mary Band have recently recorded separate long playing albums, with the Band specializing in College songs.

The Choir album is available from Dr. C. A. Fehr, Choir director, while the Band record can be purchased from Charles Varner, Band director.

A portrait of Cecil Marcia Childress '64, who was killed in an airlines crash in 1965, has been presented to the Library as a part of the room named in her honor. The room was dedicated during Homecoming weekend. From left are President Paschall, Mrs. Cecil Childress, Fine Arts Department Head Thomas Thorne, who painted the portrait, and Mr. Childress.

HOMECOMING REPORT

Queen's Guard in Sunset Parade

HOMECOMING 1966 has passed into history, and the more than 4,000 who returned to campus in mid-October cherish many wonderful memories of the colorful, gala weekend.

A charming lass from Arlington, Virginia, Patricia Carol Burleigh, reigned through the weekend as Queen. The long-haired brunette received the traditional regal greetings—kisses on both cheeks by President Davis Y. Paschall and Alumni Society President Harry Wilkins '24 to climax halftime festivities at Saturday's Homecoming Game.

Queen Patricia's victory smile was as sunny as the weekend, as proud as Marv Levy's after his 24-6 victory over The Citadel—a win which put the Indians into competition for the Southern Conference title.

The Sunset Parade wasn't at sunset this year, but the Colonial Militia and the red-coated Queen's Guard made it just as impressive as before. The Militia welcomed returning alumni with volleys of joy, and the Queen's Guard solemnly honored those who had passed away. Until this year, Virginia normally returned to standard time at Labor Day; but Homecoming 1966 found the state still lit by sunshine Daylight Saving Time-style at the traditional Sunset Parade hour.

Alumni found themselves in the middle of the College's biggest building program in history, which was described for them at an opening "reorientation" and by President Paschall at the annual meeting of the Society. For a more complete report, see "The College" column in this issue of the Gazette.

They joined with students and townspeople to give fraternities and sororities a crowd of 12,000 as the Homecoming Parade proceeded down Duke of Gloucester Street. The Tri Delt, featuring thinly clad Arabian dancing girls and a snake charmer, won first place among sorority floats as they displayed a lone captive Citadel Cadet with the sign "We got the Citadel in the bag-dad." A dozen members of Sigma Phi Epsilon cavorted under a paper dragon, earning first place among the fraternities.

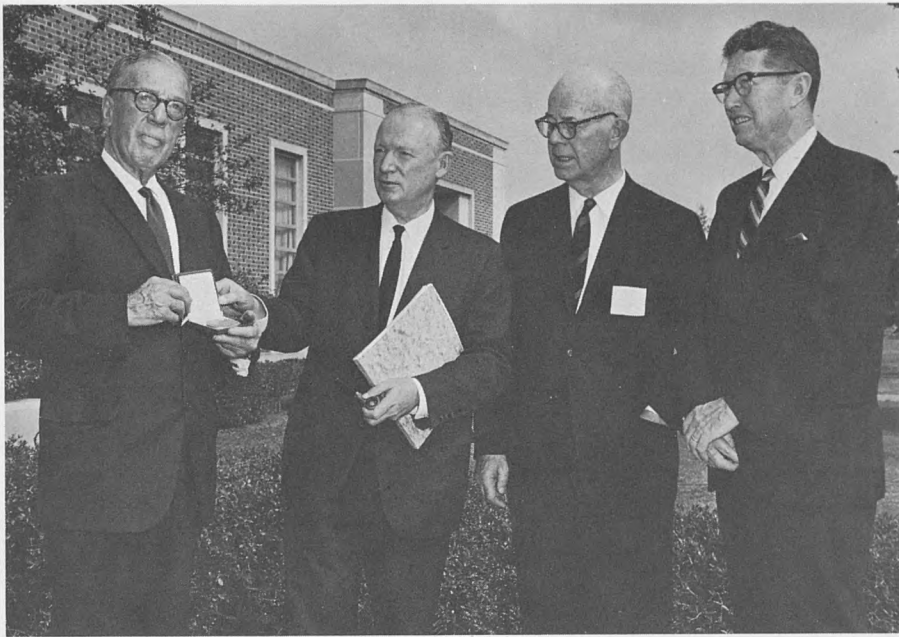

Alumni Medallions

At the annual meeting of the Society, three Alumni Medallions were awarded for service to the College.

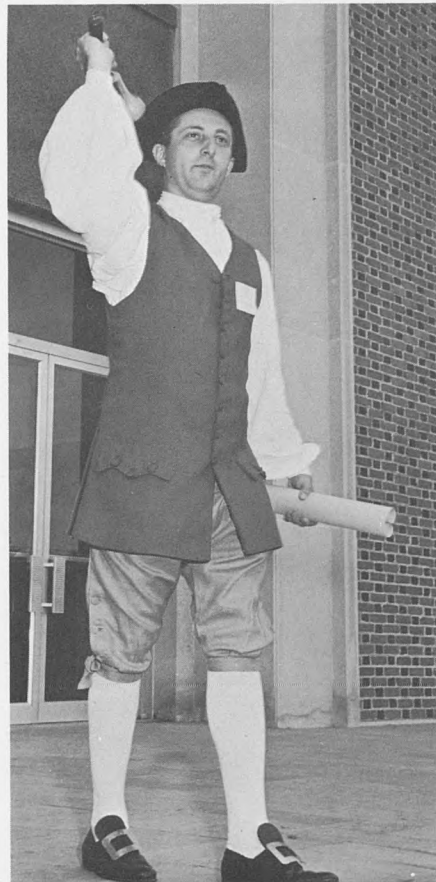

They went to Dr. George J. Oliver '31, president of the Richmond Professional Institute and formerly head of the Department of Education at William and Mary—"a champion of public education—your good work will ever be respected."

Henry T. Willett '25, superintendent of Richmond Public Schools since 1946 and a nationally respected educator—"an ambassador dedicated to the importance of education in man's quest for a better tomorrow."

James G. Driver '09, former coach at William and Mary, the University of Virginia and the University of South Carolina who has been active in the national effort for physical fitness—"who throughout his life has woven into the fabric of a Christian gentleman, an athlete's zest of living and a patriot's deep concern for his country and its youth."

Outgoing Visitors

Rector W. Brooks George '32 presented colorful portfolios and scrolls to four members of the Board of Visitors whose terms had expired in 1966: J. B. Woodward Jr., of Newport News, former Rector and retired chairman of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock, Co.; M. Carl Andrews of Roanoke, editor of the editorial page of the Roanoke World-News; Frank A. Ernst of Petersburg retired manager of the Nitrogen Division of the Allied Chemical Corp.; and Dr. James Asa Shield of Richmond, physician.

New Directors

Five new directors were elected from a slate of 10 candidates for the Society Board of Directors.

The new directors are Hugh S. Haynie '50 of Louisville, Kentucky, nationally syndicated editorial cartoonist; Mrs. Pamela Pauly Chinnis '46, of Alexandria, Virginia, a former member of the faculty; Dixon L. Foster '44, of Irvington, Virginia, an attorney who was re-elected to the Board; and Mrs. Betty Hicks Wagner '51, of Richmond, Virginia, an active leader in alumni activities there and Howard H. Hyle '48, of Atlanta, Georgia, manager of advertising operations for the Carbonated Beverages Division of Coca-Cola.

"Priority"

Alumni Secretary Jim Kelly noted the receipt of a letter signed only Priority, which described the formation of an anonymous group of alumni who say they intend to inaugurate a program of gifts. No word was available in early November on whether the secret group would follow through on its stated intention to bestow the first gifts December 5, the 190th anniversary of Phi Beta Kappa.

Society Gifts

The Society announced gifts to the College of $5,000 for faculty research; $1,000 for faculty retirement; and $500 each for college interpretation and support of the Queen's Guard.

President Wilkins noted the William and Mary Fund had received $35,000 by October 15, ahead of 1965 at that time but still in need of improvement to reach the year's $60,000 goal.

Depth Seen Problem In Winter

By STEVE ROW '68

BASKETBALL has a new coach, a proven star, a big soph, and a couple of question marks. Swimming has few in number and four good returning stars. Gymnastics, too, has few numbers and only three returnees. Wrestling features a senior SC medal winner and a soph who won ten straight freshman matches. Indoor track will again field a strong team, one that must defend both the State and Conference crowns.

That is a capsule summary of the winter sports of the 1966-67 season for William and Mary. The outlook for the Indians cannot be considered a sure success, yet there is too much potential for it to be considered bleak.

Basketball will probably be the most interesting sport of the winter to follow. Nine-year coach Bill Chambers resigned to enter business. Warren Mitchell, a young and personable coach who has several indirect ties with William and Mary, assumes the reins of a team that again finished with a winning record the year before, yet a team that will be without the services of three outstanding players who have graduated. A proven star

William and Mary's Indians attempt to move the ball in the season's opener against Eastern Carolina, ending up with a 7-7 tie. Other games found the Tribe victorious over Villanova (34-14), George Washington (10-3), The Citadel (24-6), and VMI (22-15), with odds that Richmond would be added to that list at Thanksgiving. Losses were against West Virginia (24-13), Boston College (15-13), Navy (21-0) and Virginia Tech (20-18). Barring an upset at Richmond, the Indians were to tie with Eastern Carolina for Southern Conference leadership.

remains: senior Ben Pomeroy, the 6-6 pivot from Pittsburgh who led the team last year in both rebounding (12.5) and scoring (17.1). Pomeroy was named to the All-Conference team for his play at center, but this year he will probably be moved to forward to make room for one of the most exciting prospects at the Reservation in many years.

He is 6-8 sophomore Dave Daugherty from Rochester, Minn. As a freshman, Daugherty showed all the signs of being a great player in the future. Strong under the boards and with a good jump shot, "he could be the real key to our team if he can come along and do the job," according to Mitchell.

Others who will add to the Indian cause in this season's competition include senior David Walker, juniors Jimmy Rama and Ron Panneton, and sophomores Jack Downing and Jim Furtill. A total of thirteen started in October practices. The season opener is at Virginia December 1; the home opener is December 9 against FSU.

Dudley Jensen will again be the head coach of the Indian swimmers, and he sees a team short on numbers for the 1966-67 season. "We will be lacking somewhat in depth," notes Jensen, "and our success or failure will depend on five or six sophomores and how well they develop." Co-captains for the squad are returning seniors Bob West and Bill Atkinson. Two outstanding juniors are Keith Maurer (SC record-holder in the breast stroke) and George Bear. Wally Riley will again coach the freshmen, a group that Jensen sees as potentially "one of the finest ever" at the College. The opening meet will be at home against Roanoke December 8.

Chet Witten, too, sees a team with little depth—he lists only three returnees: Nick Orrick, Bob Rowland, and Melvin Manor. His team must also rely heavily on sophomores. With a schedule that is full of teams with better depth, Witten is cautious about predictions. "We will rely quite a bit on last year's freshmen to fill up many of the events. They include Robert Morris, Rick Spurling, Jim Runyon, Jesse Herndon, and junior college transfer Hermino Cuervo."

Wrestling at the College has been gaining in prominence in the past three years, and this year will probably be the best yet. Dick Besnier enters his second year as coach with a nucleus of returning lettermen and one sophomore who won ten straight matches as a freshman, Scott Curzi. Bob Ellis, who placed second in the Conference Tournament last year, will return for another year of competition. Eleven freshmen have been recruited for this season, thus indicating a bright future for William and Mary wrestling.

The College's most successful coach, track coach Harry Groves, will start the 1966-67 season without Jimmy Johnson, but he still has a powerful machine eager to defend its State and Conference indoor titles. Sophomore George Davis, who ran away from nearly everybody in his freshman year and during this past varsity cross country season, will lead the distance men, followed by Terry Donnelly, Joe Philpott, and Chop Jordan. Jim Jancaitis and soph Will Hooker will high jump, Ed Witt returns in the broad and triple jumps, and Bob Davis will heave the shot. Other returnees include Dee Craig (hurdles), Fred Anspach and Vince Woolley (dashes), and Marshall Stone (pole vault).

Through the middle of the fall, sports at the College had not posed an over-all outstanding record, but individually, several important wins were recorded.

Marv Levy's Indians had posted a 3-1-1 record through the Homecoming football contest with a team that Levy noted "performed about up to my expectations. We were definitely not as strong as I think some people thought we were going to be, but this was due to a tremendous amount of inexperience. The sophomores were contributing well to our play, and though slow at the beginning, the play of the game began to pick up with the Villanova contest." The first five games included a 7-7 tie with East Carolina, a loss to West Virginia, and then three straight wins over George Washington, Villanova, and The Citadel. Stars for the first half of the season included quarterback Dan Darragh, and Chuck Albertson, and backs Terry Morton, Marty Fuller, and Mike Madden. On defense, Terry

WARREN MITCHELL

O'Toole and Bob Gadkowski were outstanding.

The mid-season record of the cross country team was impressive: three wins in four outings. George Davis was the top runner for the fall, seemingly ready to take over where Jimmy Johnson left off as top distance runner in the College. He was backed up by Terry Donnelly, Joe Philpott, and Chop Jordan, with Dick Widell, Juris Luzins, Ned Hopkins, Rodger McKain and Steve Larsen rounding out the unit. The wins were at the expense of Virginia, Quantico, and VMI, the only loss was a close one to strong Navy. The frosh were 3-0 by the middle of the fall.

Soccer was the only sport at the College to have trouble at the halfway mark, dropping its first four decisions. In its first year as a full varsity sport, it took a while for an offense to be started, and often the defense was hot and cold. The squad dropped a close decision to Eastern Mennonite in the opener, then fell to state power Randolph-Macon. After a disastrous loss to Campbell, the Indians returned home and outplayed Ft. Eustis everywhere except in the score. Paul Maclaughlin was the first soccer coach at the College, and among the players who showed well during the season were frosh John Burleigh and Tom Wieboldt, sophs Steve Gaskins and Bob Boal, juniors Art Louise, Pete Clarke, and Bill Smith, and seniors Mike King-Harmon (captain) and Gary King, last year's All-SC selection at fullback.

Just in case the December issue of the ALUMNI GAZETTE reaches you before Christmas, this is a reminder to "forget not" to send Christmas cards to your Class Agent. These will be most welcome and it would be jolly to hear from many of you.

Homecoming was wonderful as usual and those of the Class who came would not take a million for the experience. We don't know of any other occasion where you can see and be with so many devoted friends. I am advised the date is October 28-28, 1967.

Another good letter from Bob Wescott of Ypsilanti, Michigan, who expressed sincere regret at not being able to be back for Homecoming. He has come out of retirement to instruct students in aviation at the Ann Arbor Airport. Most of his students are from the University of Michigan but some are in ROTC from the Navy, Army and Air Force programs. Bob says he will be back with us next fall.

ANNOUNCEMENT

The management of this magazine regrets that an increase in price of the esteemed William and Mary necktie from $2.50 to $3.00 was not correctly noted in the September issue. This resulted in consternation for purchasers and embarrassment to our friends at the emporium of Mr. Earl N. Levitt. The popularity of the necktie necessitated a new shipment at new manufacturing prices.

more at the College. Another daughter is a senior at East Carolina College.

Edythe Dank Lever of Port Chester, New York has been teaching school part-time. She teaches English to students from foreign countries who enter the high school with a little or no knowledge of the language. She has had students from everywhere—Italy, Israel, West Germany, Cuba, Iran, Columbia, South America and Puerto Rico. She finds this interesting and most rewarding. Her younger son, Lawrence, graduated as the Valedictorian of the Port Chester High School and is now attending Cornell University on a New York State Regents Scholarship. Her older son, Andres, will be a senior at New England Conservatory. He played at Philharmonic Hall, Lincoln Center, New York with the Conservatory Symphony.

Michael J. Hook of Erie, Pennsylvania writes that his daughter, Diana, is attending Syracuse University where she is a senior. She spent last semester in a "Semester Abroad" program in Florence, Italy. Michael is still with General Electric in their Locomotive Division. His sons, Michael and David are in the 10th and 6th grades respectively. Michael threatens to be a pretty good basketball player.

Maurine Stuart Dulin of Chevy Chase, Maryland wrote that Jean Warren Stewart and family are returning to Arlington, Virginia after two years in Hawaii. Her daughter, a graduate of American University is now in the Philippines with the Peace Corps.

Daniel J. Blocker, Jr. of Johnson City, Tennessee wrote that he retired from the Army as Lt. Colonel in December of last year to begin a second career as Purchasing Agent for East Tennessee State University. 25 years of service for him was culminated in Atlanta with a parade and the award of the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious service as Senior Instructor and Operations Officer for the ROTC unit at ETSU. His wife, Hele, is teaching Latin in the high school in Johnson City and his two boys, John and Jim, are both in the high school system. He particularly enjoys the hunting and fishing in the beautiful East Tennessee locale and cordially invites any William and Mary alumni to get in touch with him.

Kendall and Marion Corliss Beavers of Orlando, Florida are enjoying their life there. Ken is still playing the trombone and having fun with it. He belongs to the "Sawbones and Jawbones Philharmonic" which is made up of a group of doctors, lawyers, and men closely associated with the medical profession all of whom like to get together and play simply for their own enjoyment. He also is a member of the "Dixie Doctors," a similar group which is made up mostly of dentists. 40 Mrs. Franklin D. Henderson
(Barbara Clawson)
Box 17, Irvington, Va. 22480

There's been a dirth of mail since the last issue of the Gazette so I really am scratching for news.

This summer the Henderson family had a reunion at Virginia Beach and while there I called Deede Eastlack Gray, who lives in Lynnhaven. I was simply delighted when she and her 18-year old son, Rick, stopped by to see us. It's been over 15 years since we last saw her and that's much too long. She's still working as a legal secretary and young Rick is a freshman at VPI this fall.

That weekend we wanted to be twins so we could be here to attend the wedding of Bob and Kay Hoover Dew's daughter, Linda Ray, to David Dodd of Camp Hill, Pa. William and Mary was represented by the following who were there: Nils and Gervais Wallace Brekke, Larry and Kitty Britton Norton, and Bill and Jean Cox Phillips.

The latter part of the summer Jack and Ann Garrett rented a cottage near Irvington where they and their family enjoyed feasting on crabs they caught at their back door. Leah and T. Waller from Richmond and Jo Lee and Bill Edwards from Baltimore were at their summer home here in Irvington and Mary and Merritt Foster came to their newly-acquired house here on Carter's Creek.

John A. Barba, Jr. of Short Hills, New Jersey represented the College at the inauguration of the new President of Upsala College in October.

Dora Green Brennan of Scotia, New York is married to owner of large drive-in restaurant. They have two children, John 14, and Jackie 11. The family plans a 4-months vacation in Europe in 1967.

Walter A. Bara's death in March was a real shock to all. One of the many outstanding things he did was establish in the 1940's a collection of modern language books in the College library as a memorial to Dr. John R. Fisher of the Modern Languages Department. Over the years he continued to add to this collection.

Frank and I had a fine trip this fall up through New England to Maine and were over-night guests at Ben and Jane Brandt Wild's in Winchester, Massachusetts. We were pleased to have Jack Garrett join us there for dinner that evening. He is presently at Harvard taking the Advanced Management Program so he was not far away. The Wilds' had heard from their daughter, Leslie, now a freshman at College, that Fran Seymour Cooper's daughter, Condit, is there and also Carl Buffington's youngster.

Do write me so I'll have lots of news for the March issue.

A reunion is for sharing memories and that we did! The noise coming from the Ellis's room Thursday evening as the early arrivals got together was convincing proof that the Class of 1941 had arrived in Williamsburg. The noise did not stop until the last of our class began the long trip home. It was a great reunion and those of you who could not be with us missed an exciting and wonderful week-end.

It was impossible to get an accurate tally, but we guessed that at least a hundred of our class made it back for some part of our 25th. From north and south, and east and west (even from California) they came, singly and with spouses, and when we all gathered in the Lodge Friday evening for our class dinner, it was a lively and happy group. To set the mood, Dean Lambert gave a short talk. We really weren't sure what he was leading up to, but the end, when it came, brought forth a rousing cheer. It seems, so the story goes, that late in our college career the "Class of 1941" banner mysteriously disappeared causing some consternation among The College officials. This banner had remained "lost" until just recently, when the custodian's wife, having run out of mothballs, decided it had best be returned. When the great green banner was held aloft, the room rang with cheers. Dean Lambert was given much applause, and all was well within the Class of 1941!

Following dinner, we were treated to an evening of entertainment—a witty monologue by Bill Edwards, some interesting statistics gathered and presented by Larry Pettit (which will be reported in another issue), and singing, led by our own maestro Steve Lenzi. The highlight for all of us was the showing of some colored movies Gene Ellis had taken during the course of our senior year. They had to be seen to be believed! As the program ended, and the tables cleared, the group settled down to an evening of talk, table hopping, and visiting. Larry had brought along a collection of pictures taken during our four years which provided much laughter and questioning. Everyone had a delightful evening.

Saturday found us up bright-eyed(?) and ready for the parade at 8:30, the Alumni Society meeting, class luncheon, football game, social hour at the Motor House, and Alumni dinner-dance. The parade had many lovely floats; the Alumni meeting gave us all the opportunity of hearing President Paschal discuss the present state of the College, and its future; the class luncheon was attended by many who had come to town just for the day; the football game was fine—we won; the social hour was noisy but great; and the traditional dinner-dance topped off a great day.

Bill Land did a fine job of organizing our 25th reunion, even to seeing that the weather was perfect. Those of us who were there will stow away our souvenir banners and hats and memories and gather strength to return for our 30th in another five years. Save the date!

Eloise Whittington Medinger is in Heidelberg, Germany with her husband, John, who is stationed there with the Army Strategic Communications Command. They are enjoying it very much as their last tour there was in 1948. They see great changes there.

Connie Stratton McGrath of Belmont, California and husband and two children flew East last summer for a visit.

Captain Donald P. Reid of Fairfax, Virginia has recently been assigned to the Navy Department as Deputy Auditor General of the Navy.

Clifton H. Kreps, Jr. of Chapel Hill, North Carolina has just finished a year's leave of absence during which he held a Ford Foundation Faculty Research Fellowship in Business Administration to study abroad. He has now returned to his post at University of North Carolina as Wachovia Professor of Banking in the Graduate School of Business Administration.

Jean Stevenson Walsh of Buckeystown, Maryland has recently moved out near Frederick, Maryland after living in the D.C. suburbs for nearly 15 years. They have a 16-room, old Victorian house with three acres, two ponies, chickens, sometimes ducks, turkeys, rabbits, a dog and cat. Two of their six children are married and have children of their own. Jean is currently the Bookmobile Librarian for Frederick County.

Robert E. Griffin of Chesapeake, Virginia is an investment broker and attorney as well as running his own business. He keeps busy with civic and fraternal works and covered bridge hobby.

Mary Spitzer Etter of Harrisonburg, Virginia is teaching and regrets so much that she could not attend Homecoming. She had a perfect attendance record (several years) and did not want to break it. Also she had a professional meeting on the same weekend.

James F. Chapin of New York City is an outstanding drummer and the author of a wonderful volume, "Advanced Techniques for the Modern Drummer."

Paul H. Gantt, chairman of the Board of Contract Appeals of the Atomic Energy Commission, early in the fall was elected President of the Federal Bar Association. He took office on October 1.

Helen Talle who married Gerry Koteen Koretz's brother Bob in July 1965 is now living in Washington, D. C. Helen is head of the Art Department at Western Junior High in Montgomery County, Md. Her oldest daughter is a sophomore at the U. of Md.; her 15-year old is at Walt Whitman High School and her 12-year old is at Western with Helen.

Roy B. and Mary E. Merritt of Chestnut Hills, Massachusetts write that Roy is Assistant Principal at North Quincy High School. Their eldest daughter graduated from Middlebury College Phi Beta Kappa and has now received her M.A. from Columbia. Their next daughter is in the Waves in Maryland and their youngest is a sophomore at the University of Penn. Their son is in the seventh grade. Roy is almost through his doctorate in Education at Boston University.

Albert Simerman of Utica, New York was re-elected for the seventh consecutive year Secretary of the Utica Jewish Community Council. He is active in many civic and religious organizations.

Gerald Ostrow of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania has a son who is a junior at the College.

Elizabeth Craighead Stousland and Charles live in Oxford, Ohio. He is Chairman of Architecture Department at Miami University. They have two children, Christopher, 12, and Casey (a girl) 5. Mike is a member of the Oxford Planning Commission and Elizabeth is President of the Oxford League of Women Voters.

Nancy Jordan Parker of Norfolk, Virginia received her Master of Public Health degree in June 1965 at the University of North Carolina.

Mary Ruth Black Dowling of Severna Park, Maryland writes that she spent a weekend in April in Williamsburg attending a reunion and dinner for Miss Martha Barksdale. She saw many alums from other classes but none from '42. She traveled with Dorothy Judd '41, and her sister Helen Truesdell, '43.

the write-up I didn't even mention my sixteen year old daughter, and thirteen year old son, or even that we are Episcopalians—terrible thing for a Virginian to neglect to mention!

Had a call from two Griffins after the Gazette came out. Cec is retired in Norfolk from the Navy, married to a Tri-Delt from Butler University, has four children. Edward Griffin is Vice President and Treasurer of Norfolk Federal Building and Loan. He has his key and diploma from the Savings and Loan School of Indiana University.

Sit at the football games near Dixon and Nancy Foster and Betty Hicks Wagner and her husband. Each summer we see them at church services at the Beach—on Carol Talbot Eglehoff's porch. Carol's husband has spearheaded a mission church to be built at Sandbridge.

Read in this morning's paper about the Reverend John Carter coming to Norfolk to make a talk. Cannot find the clipping at this moment, but it concerned the opposing elements in the Virginia's Democratic party. Hope I can hear him.

other Navy move—to their joy—back to Virginia Beach. She told me that Sally and Dyck Vermilye have just moved to Washington. Ran into George Blandford last month at the Country Club. He looked just the same. Has recently moved to New Orleans. Is with National Gypsum. Bobby Steeley Hegeler was at the Beach this summer, lives in a small town in Illinois. They come here each summer. He's just sold his business, and we were trying to talk them into Virginia investments. She had a W&M luncheon, and it was great fun to see everyone. A group of about ten of us get together several times a year.

See Bob Hornsby at all the games—also Norman and Betsy Hornsby. Saw Warren Spratley after the East Carolina game at the James River Country Club. He and his father are among the faithful in the Hampton-Newport News area. Two others that are always at the games are Joe Healey and Kit Larson. Jerry Healey Clay and her husband were in Honolulu in the spring and he had a bad tangle with a surf board—broken jaw, teeth knocked out, etc. Saw Kay Larson and her husband in Washington at the reception for Norfolk's Azalea Queen (Prime Minister of Norway's daughter).

Ebie Berkeley Harrison and Bob were here from Philadelphia this summer. Bob is a Vice President of Wanamaker's. Took him around our redeveloped area to show him where we'd like a branch, but he wouldn't commit himself!

Dot Agurt and her husband were at the Beach also. And Hudgins Thompson was here from Florida last week. She and Jean Schoenwulf Preston spent a day in Williamsburg. Jean's second daughter is hoping to go to the College next fall. Page Preston's VMI spirit is having a rough time with all the William and Mary enthusiasts in the family. He's even joined the Tomahawk Club!

Muriel Koch Ernstmeier of Seattle, Washington writes that her oldest daughter, Jan, is at William and Mary as a sophomore.

Jane Welton Anderson and I didn't win the Princess Anne Country Club Invitational. She said I talked too much! We were runners-up however, and I won the TIRED HOUSEWIVES doubles tournament. Think I'd best retire now.

I'm about ready to retire after I get this in the mail. How about some nice informative Christmas cards? Where are you Marion Ross, Billie Davidson, Marion Commy, Gloria Brush and Arkie Vaughan for example?

now he calls signals on a GM assembly line.

Bill Geshwiler is a Methods Engineer, quarterback of the engine assembly line for Buick at Flint, Michigan.

He works with miniature men and machines on a three-dimensional board, an actual facsimile of the plant. By moving, changing, arranging and rearranging, he coordinates and balances men and equipment for peak efficiency and productivity. He evens the individual work load so that a smooth, orderly production flow is maintained all the way along the assembly line.

Bill has always been a quarterback—in grade school and high school at Beech Grove, Indiana, near Indianapolis. The fact is, he made the All-

State football team in 1954. Passing up scholarships at two universities and an appointment to a service academy, he decided instead on the General Motors Institute in Flint, and was graduated with an engineering degree.

He's the kind that could make any team, but we're glad Bill Geshwiler is in the General Motors lineup.

General Motors is people making better things for you.

She says that the work is hectic now with many thousands of service men and veterans who are applying to colleges and universities for credit for their service school courses in the fields of language, physics, business administration, etc. However it promises to be overwhelming with the new G.I. Bill of Rights, which will open the door to higher education for many more.

The gold match covers (favors at our Class dinner) were right—"Class of '46, Terrific 20th"—this reunion was indeed terrific. The only thing that could have made this past weekend in Williamsburg more pleasant was a fuller participation from you alumni. The sun shone brightly—the football team performed gallantly—the social hours were mobbed and quite happy—and the hard work put in by Grubie and the Alumni Office paid off handsomely. It was a most delightful weekend.

Those attending part or all of this reunion are Len Aaron, B. J. Adams Trueheart, Daphne Andrews and John Crum, Doris Brandt Bauer, Versie Ray Brown Massey, Jene Carr Dent, Dale and Jackie Freer Clark, Elsie Cottam Ebersole, Betty Cutshall Allman, Tom Dingle, Shirley Dixon Whitbeck, Jane Fessler Brick, Dottie Fitzcharles Weber, Fred Freschette, Jan Freer Scantlebury, Priscilla Fuller Downs, Mildred Gaito Steingress, Keith Gamble and Tom Duncan, Nancy Grube Williams, Dottie Hammer, Olive Hasty and Roy Shelor, Martha Humbert and Chuck Riley, Ronnie King, Rita Koppelman Dinner, Phyllis Laskey Renick, Betty Lawson Sallada, Donnie Lepper Ware, Marcia Levering Balzereit, Sarah Levy Traumann, Marion Lott and Ennis Rees, Ann Manson Gatling, Barbara Nycum Moore, Blair Parsons Goff, Pam Pauly Chinis, Harrie Phillips Shyrook, Shirley Printz Scott, Jackie Sanne, Dot Scarborough Howell, Dolly Seward, Henry Shook, Helen Strickler McConnell, Carol Talbot Egelhoff, Allen Tanner, Cecy Waddell and Scottie Cunningham, Alice White Tomlinson, Cherry Whitehurst Wood, Julia Woodbridge Oxrieder, and Fritz Zepht. It was fun having Betty Aurell and Henry Schutz join in our 20th celebrations also.

At the class dinner Friday night, there were three gifts given to winners of the "mostests"—Millie Gaito Steingress got her lovely set of William and Mary glass for having the most children among those present—five; Tom Dingle and his wife won the most distance award, coming from Chicago; and Betty Jane Cutshall Allman won her prize for the most recent addition to the family with her sixteen month old baby. Our charming President presided over this meeting in her best manner, while Fritz Zepht added the authority of a former Student Body President to the gathering with the mock mace and white gloves presented him in fun. This is the night the long suffering and greatly appreciated spouses were introduced, and given a brief opportunity to be seen and honored. A new class directory was at each place, providing us with a practical souvenir of the evening.

Under the decorated class tent on Saturday noon, with brunswick stew and class banner in evidence, Fritz returned the compliment to Grubie by giving her a small token from a most grateful group of classmates—an oblong wooden tea caddy and trivet from the Craft House should remind the Williams Family that we think we've got the best class president ever.

The Homecoming Parade Saturday morning was a fine example of imagination, hard work and fun. The Class of '46 was represented because of Grubie and Helen and Trist McConnell, and because of four very good sports who rode down the Duke of Gloucester Street in a truck bearing the words "We've Hung On For Twenty Years." The four "hungover" actors were Elsie Cottam and Ed Ebersole and Millie Gaito and Fred Steingress.

Our class is proud of an additional recognition—Pam Pauly Chinnis was elected to the Board of Visitors, and this announcement was made Saturday. Grubie has been serving on this Board, and will retire this year. It is a fine thing to have our class represented in this respected capacity.

We all hope the picture is good, and that you are able to put names and faces together without undue laughter or side remarks. I know there are many questions you would like answered, but space and fortitude are limited here. Please write and we can maybe fill in some of the empty spaces. Already planning is being done for the 25th Reunion, and we hope that you all will be able to enjoy this Homecoming treat in 1971 as we have just done in Williamsburg this October.

Thanks to the kindness of two long-unheard-from alumni, "would you believe," I have news for you.

I certainly appreciated the letter from Lucy Elliot (Spigel) Herman who has been married to these many years to Frederick Herman '48. They are living in Norfolk where Fred, after earning a Ph.D. in International Affairs, has opened his own architectural firm. He finds time to act as Chairman of the Fine Arts Committee, and was recently appointed by the Governor to the Commission for Preserving Historical Landmarks.

Lucy has been teaching elementary school for the past twelve years and loves it. She returned to the William and Mary campus in 1962 for her Masters of Education degree. They have two children, Bernard who is 15, and Fredrika 13.

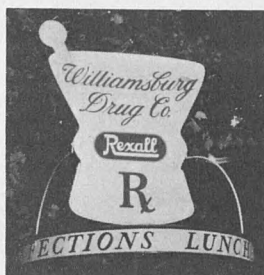

The other letter I received was from Nancy Easley Cox. She, too, is busy teaching and at the same time is working for her Master of Humanities degree. Sounds terribly difficult. As you all know she is married to Fletcher Cox, and their older son, Fletch, is up here in "Yankeeland" as a freshman at Columbia University.

From her Christmas cards Nancy thoughtfully sent these news items. Ruth Thistle Sultzbach has returned to school for a journalism course and is enjoying a part-time job as "publications technician" for the district superintendent of schools. She also finds time to raise her family of three children which is a job in itself.

Betty Borenstein Scher and her husband Sid also have three children and are living in Baltimore. Margie Oak Jolly reports that Bill '48 is now personnel director for E. R. Carpenter outside of Richmond. Fran Moore Carter, among other activities, is kept busy as a lay reader for the English department of a high school nearby. Her husband, Dick, is vice president of the school board.

Elaine Compton Baker, '48 and Jim stopped in to see Nancy while they were on leave from duty with the USIS. They apparently had left Madras, India and were planning to be stationed in Turkey.

Some notes written to the Alumni Office—Isabelle Clarke Borland of Norwalk, Connecticut wrote that she has been taking courses at the University of Bridgeport and substituting in the local schools. She has an eleven-year-old daughter and twin daughters six. Dorothy Baitzel O'Connor of New York City is teaching, part time, and enjoying it. Her husband, Bob, is with NBC-TV.

Stella Withers Hardee of New York says that her two sons and she are enjoying living there, also enjoyed spending the three summer months in Florida. She sees many W&M people in the city. Saw Patricia Nunes from Jamaica, West Indies who was there for a visit last April. Sumner G. Rand of Orlando, Florida writes that in between being the "critic" for the Orlando Sentinel he "lets the audience throw a few tomatoes my way—my latest effort being the role of the plaintiff in "A Case of Libel" with the Orlando Little Theatre last spring.

Jane Heller Frieden of Norfolk, Virginia finished her 9th year as part-time instructor for the College. She is active in Little Theatre, Garden Club and Cancer Society. They enjoy travelling whenever possible. Sickness, death of parents and fire (destroyed her husband's place of business) delayed their travelling this year.

Eugene D. Purdum, Jr. of St. Petersburg, Florida is still making computers and memories and other guidance equipment. He had some guidance electronics on Gemini Spacecraft VI and VII—all A.O.K. in performance. He is enjoying working at Honeywell going on 7 years—and likes the wonderful Florida winters.

Lydia Ellen Johnson Stagnaro of Alexandria says that her husband is retiring from the Navy and they hope to make Alexandria their home. She is Librarian at Hollin Meadows Elementary School. They have two daughters, Carol 12 and Lyn 8.

Guess that covers all the news as we did not get down to Homecoming this year. Don't forget next year is our 20th. Let's all be there.

Sorry about the last issue of the Gazette but not one of you sent me anything to put in. Please remember California is not out of the world and we do receive mail here (I think).

I had a nice letter from Edgar (Woody) Wayland and Yvonne. They are still living in Lisle, Illinois. They had just had a visit from Marvin Atkins, Mary and daughter Debbie who live in nearby Barrington, Illinois. Marvin works for an insurance company in the Chicago Loop. In addition to seeing Marvin, Woody writes that he corresponds with Jim Brothwell who is Vice President of a bank in Phoenix, Arizona.

Elton Brooks Mason, his wife and four children are living in Lockheed, Georgia where Elton is working at the management end of the aircraft industry. By this writing they should have their oldest child in the freshman class at William and Mary.

Edward E. Brickell is the director of secondary administration in the Virginia Beach school system. Edward is married and has two children. Until his recent appointment he was an administrative assistant to the President of the College of William and Mary.

R. Lee Aston is living in Elberton, Georgia where he owns the Buena Black Granite Corporation. He also has offices in Rapidan, Virginia. Lee and his wife Martha have two boys and two girls.

M. R. Mallory has been elected Vice President in charge of Scientific Instrument Division of Phipps and Bird, Inc. in Richmond, Virginia.

Dr. James A. Sluss has joined the Semiconductor Division of the Sprague Electric Company as Manager of Discrete Device Development. He was formerly with the Philco Corporation, a division of the Ford Motor Company, with which he was associated for the past 9 years. For the past four years he was with that firm in Brazil.

M. Jeanne Payne Lewis of Columbia, Missouri represented the College at the inauguration of the new President of Christian College in October.

John J. Watson has been appointed Publication Manager of McGraw-Hill Publications. Formerly he was Research Manager of Business Week Magazine. He lives in South Norwalk, Connecticut.

Thomas M. Banks of Fort Lauderdale, Florida writes that he is still in the Naval Reserve as a Lieutenant Commander in Naval Intelligence. He is working on his doctorate at the University of Florida, and will complete requirements in June 1967. He has seen Edward Ward and J. P. Morgan during the last year down in Florida.

Marcia MacKenzie Kirkpatrick of Suffolk, Virginia left Hawaii in January to return to Virginia to wait for Kirk whose tour in Vietnam ends in January 1967.

Cubic SECOR satellite surveyor makes first direct coast-to-coast measurement of U.S.

Cubic's SECOR, world's most precise satellite tracking system, recently completed the first direct "single-leap" distance measurement across the United States, from San Diego, Calif., to Herndon, Va. In only 10 seconds, the distance between these points was determined to be 3,628,300.5 meters, or 2,254.5 miles.

More important than actual distance computation was SECOR's ability to accomplish this historic feat. SECOR uses a satellite 600 miles in space to plot and measure the earth with amazing speed and surveying accuracy.

"... a first order geodetic tool..."

After initial tests, SECOR won the highest praise of the surveying and mapping profession.

Army officials noted, "SECOR has the full capability of a first order geodetic tool." In present operations, Cubic's all-weather SECOR system is successfully measuring distances between points of land separated by broad expanses of ocean.

29,000 "ranges" in six minutes...

During a typical satellite pass of six minutes duration, SECOR's four Cubic-built ground stations make approximately 29,000 measurements or "ranges" with 95% success. Within the SECOR satellite, a miniature 7-lb. Cubic transponder acts as a receiver-transmitter.

Tests prove that SECOR can extend control over distances exceeding 2000 miles with geodetic accuracy.

SECOR's far-reaching applications...

Data gathered by Cubic's SECOR will have lasting importance in the fields of geodesy, global navigation and satellite navigation. SECOR will have a role of major importance in space and defense programs requiring distance measurements with pinpoint accuracy. Information about the earth's shape and gravitational field is also being obtained.

SECOR is a product of Cubic Corporation, leader in the field of electronic measuring systems.

I refuse to believe that the Class of 1953 has absolutely no interesting news to report. Please write to me! Our class is much too young and has too many successful alumni to fall by the wayside.

I did receive one welcomed and unexpected telephone call from Barby Schwartz Smith who recently moved with Jim and their three children from Oklahoma City to Malvern, Pennsylvania. This is near our home. Jim remains with General Electric. The Smiths saw Johnny Krog, with G. E., who lives in Waynesboro, Virginia. It was good talking with Barby; we are planning a get-together soon.

Are you all aware that two of the six William and Mary alumni cited as "Outstanding Young Men of America" by the Montgomery, Alabama Junior Chamber of Commerce are 1953 graduates? They are John Dalton and John Munger. Congratulations.

Felicity ("Felix") Trueblood's letter was most interesting. She lives in Gainesville, Florida and teaches at the University of Florida. Previously Felicity edited an inter-American journal, worked with the government in Washington, and studied in Mexico and Europe.

Ruth Hasemeyer Cofer of Glenside, Pennsylvania was elected secretary of a social and singing group organized in Philadelphia in 1901.

William M. Harris is Assistant Vice President and Personnel Director of the Central National Bank in Richmond.

Jay and I and our gang of five are busy with the usual—piano lessons, YMCA Indian Guides, Girl Scouts, braces, hockey, doctor's visits, etc. It all seems to be never-ending and still quite enjoyable.

Hope you had a grand and glorious Homecoming and please do not forget our contributions to The William and Mary Fund before the year is over. A special thanks to those who did contact me.

The news this time is down to a slow trickle. We are hoping that Homecoming and Christmas will bring people together for news-spreading and that some will take a minute to write me.

I had word from the mother of Joan French Schlepfer by telephone filling us in on her maiden name.

Bonnie Meyer Atkeson and her four-year-old son, John, are living in Richmond. Bonnie is a medical social worker at the Medical College of Virginia. She has been in this position for about one and a half years.

Carol Myers Mifflin, whose parents are still living in Northern Virginia, came for a visit in August. She now has four children. Her fourth, a little boy, was born last January. They are situated back in Houston again.

Alan D. Canfield has been awarded the coveted Chartered Life Underwriter designation. He is the Agency Director of The Guardian Life Insurance Company of America in charge of the Western Regional Office and the thirteen western states. He and his wife, Jeanne, and their two children live in San Rafael, California.

J. Leroy Thompson, Jr. has been appointed an Assistant Vice President—National Sales—of The First Boston Corporation. He is a member of the corporation's San Francisco office.

Bob Lawrence is now Executive Assistant to the Director of the Norfolk Redevelopment and Housing Authority.

Gilbert Parmele is situated in the entertainment field of RCA Business Affairs in New York City.

Carol Ann Myers Mifflin of Pasadena, Texas says that they are getting used to Texas and modern conveniences again after an interesting year in Great Britain.

VIEWPOINT

TWENTY YEARS ago, William and Mary students lived on the site of our present store, played touch football where our parking lot now is. Those were the days of the "Vets Dorms," the "Rubberguts" and "Flying Vets," and cafeteria food so good that many students walked out specially for Sunday dinner. Today, students walk, drive, ride Hondas—any way at all—just so they get to the Williamsburg Shop for its broad and economical line of quality clothing, gifts, notions, housewares, footwear and luggage.

The Harrells had a vacation in September and we managed to see some William and Mary alumni at that time. We visited with Bob and Violet Forrest and their three children in Washington, Pennsylvania. Bob is a math professor at Washington and Jefferson College, the oldest college west of the Alleghanies.

We also visited friends in Cincinnati, and Barbara Brown Harman had a coffee for me. One of the guests was Marilyn Zaiser Ott. It was great seeing her after all these years. Barbara and Marilyn's husbands both work for Procter and Gamble, and they each have three children. Marilyn passes on the news that Charlie and Sue Rosar Sheehan were transferred to Rio de Janeiro last August. Sue wrote that they vacationed in New Zealand and Hawaii before reporting to Rio.

At this writing I am still in Williamsburg enjoying the peace and quiet after a most enjoyable. Homecoming and 10th reunion. Our class was well represented and everyone had great fun seeing familiar faces again and trying to remember names! However, there were many sighs of "I wonder where so-and-so is?" or "I thought sure so-and-so would be here!". So, if you were unable to attend, you were missed!

Read your Class Directory and you will have more news than I could ever give you, but keep me posted on your future doings.

Thanks to Jack Kerr, I have the following news. Ted Plitt and his wife Ann are expecting their third child in November. Ted recently received a promotion in the Social Security Administration in Baltimore, where he, his wife, and his two sons are living.

Ed Connor, his wife, Linda, and their young son are living in Flushing, New York. Ed is currently working for the Gulf Oil Company. Dave Bennett and his wife are currently living in Morristown, New Jersey. Dave, according to the last report, is working at the Morgan Guaranty Trust Company in New York City.

Jack is still single. He received his MBA degree in Economics in 1963 at the Graduate School of Business Administration, New York University, and is presently working as an assistant economist with the Prudential Insurance Company in Newark, New Jersey. This semester he is doing a little moonlighting in the form of teaching a course in security analysis in the Graduate School of Fairleigh Dickinson University, in Rutherford, New Jersey. Jack said to send along his very best wishes to everyone in our Class.

Our fifth reunion was blessed with beautiful fall weather and a winning football team. The Alumni Gazette gave us special consideration by allowing only the reunion classes to submit Homecoming news in this issue, but unfortunately only three members of our class contributed. Let's save face by having a better column next time.

Ron Willard sent best wishes for an enjoyable reunion and hopes to make it to our next one in 1971. After teaching for three years, Ron is now working in the industrial relations office of the Portsmouth Naval Shipyard in New Hampshire. His wife Joan teaches first grade. They hoped to see some alumni at the Boston College game.

Allan Brownfeld is on the staff of the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and is working with Senator Thomas Dodd. He has debated on radio and written articles in the North American Review and Human Events. He is completing his Master's thesis at the University of Maryland. Allan generously sent along the news that Shore Robertson is out of the army and is practicing law with Martin and Alexander in Warrenton. Al Volkman is now stationed in Saigon. Anthony Gallo has left the banking field and is teaching business administration at several universities in the Pittsburgh area. He recently returned from a trip to Europe. Thank you, Allan, for sharing this news with us.

Bill Nicolai is working on his Master's degree in business administration and his regular job as an account executive.

If anyone knows the circumstances of the death of Betty Taylor Morris, please write and let me know. She called me several years ago when she was at Fort Eustis with her army captain husband Ed and their two sons.

The Gazette requests that we limit columns to news of members of our class or news relevant to members of our class. Let us hear from you.

College until their daughter arrived. 1st Lt. Ernest C. ("Pete") Horton III (USAF) spent two years stationed in Colorado Springs as a communications officer; he met his wife, a registered nurse there. In January 1966 Pete received orders for a year's tour in Viet Nam and is now anticipating a second honeymoon trip to Europe this January, after which he will be job hunting in California and Colorado. Pete's address is FV 3135333, 1879 Comm SQ (PACAF), APO San Francisco 96240.

Sande (Hodsdon) Carr worked as an editor with the American Association for Health, Physical Education, and Recreation, a department of the National Education Association since graduation; she and her husband George left the Arlington area in August for Paris where George is assigned for three years to the Military Attache's Office in the American Embassy. Lt. James and Judy (Case) Falkenrath are living in Orleans, France. Jim and Bea (McKay) Osbon spent three weeks of September in France, hoping to see Judy. Dorothy Guild and W. F. (Bill) Tompkins were married in August 1964 and in the summer of 1965 spent eight weeks working at the London Hospital and six weeks touring Europe in their Saab; in June 1966 they both finished medical school at the University of Virginia; Bill is from Richmond and a graduate of Princeton. The Tompkins are now starting internships in internal medicine at Western Reserve in Cleveland but hope to return to Virginia after completing residency training. Margie (Berry) Fullen and Larry have been living in Akron, Ohio, since June 1965 when Larry received his master's degree in business administration from Ohio State University; Larry is employed by B. F. Goodrich as an advertising supervisor. The Fullens spent two weeks last summer in Texas and Mexico. Margie is Godmother to William Baxter II, son of Marga (Larson) Bales, '60, of Cleveland.

Bruce Garside is married and teaching at McGill University. Pete Gyfteas is doing graduate work at Stanford. David and Martha (Bell) Laxson enjoyed their summer vacation in Hilo, Hawaii so much that they moved there permanently in September; David is associated with Carlswich, Carlswich, Wichman and Case. Arden Bing, Jr. lives in Arlington and is associated with the law firm of Lee and Lee, Washington, D. C. Jan (Perry) Ellis and Wayne vacationed at Nags Head, N. C. last summer and moved into their new home in Richmond in the Fall. Cram Macomber played summer soldier at Fort Lee in July and August; he is with the Hallmark Card Company in Kansas City.

Polly (Scott) and Gil Bartlett bought a home in Williamsburg now that Gil is out of the Marines; he is attending the Marshall-Wythe School of Law and Polly is teaching elementary school. Pril (Nash) Brown and Seaf have moved to Japan with Seaf's work. Cynthia Iseman, Sue Oakley and Bunny Becker were in Arthur and Kay (Christian) Sills' August wedding; Arthur is from New York originally. The Sills are living in Michigan where he is working on a master's degree in business administration. Bunny Becker has resigned from the Girl Scouts in Hartford, Conn. to take a four-month vacation in South America, after which she plans to teach in New York City and spend the summer of 1967 in Europe.

Having lived together for nearly five years, Carita (Dalrymple) and I both have new roommates this year. Carita and Howard Green were married here 12 November and honeymooned in Hawaii; Howard is with Congressman Wayne N. Aspinall of Colorado and is attending George Washington University Law School now. He was graduated from the University of California, Berkeley, and did graduate work at Colorado State University. My husband is a lawyer here in Arlington via Princeton and the University of Virginia; he is associated with Tolbert, Lewis and FitzGerald. After a honeymoon in Florida and the Caribbean, we plan to make our home in Arlington.

As you will note by our new address above, John and I moved from Atlanta this summer to Greenville where John accepted a position with Elliott Davis Company, a local C.P.A. firm. When we moved, I retired from the business world to await the birth of our first child, who will arrive in February.

During our move, two letters got separated from my William and Mary file and so I failed to report them in the last Gazette. I hope the following news from those two classmates is not completely outdated. In March, Sarah Delk Perkins wrote to me for her sister Emily Delk. After graduation, Emily taught fourth grade in Alexandria, Va., for a year and a half. In 1964 she toured Europe and while in Madrid, met Dennis A. Cross, whom she married January 30, 1965. Until this fall, Emily and Dennis were living in Tusaka, Zambia, Africa, where Dennis was working with the Zambian Ministry of Finance on a program sponsored by M.I.T. and the Ford Foundation. Emily taught math in the government school there and helped set up an International School. January 27, 1966, their daughter, Alexandra Alayne, was born. Also in March, Carolyn Simpson Bassett reported that she and George had moved to Cherry Hill, N. J., from Wilmington, Del. George is with Standard Register. Cathy Watts Long and Dave are neighbors of the Bassetts. Dave works for the Federal Government in Philadelphia and he and Cathy have a little boy, Scott, who is two. Sue Sager is in Cambridge, Mass., working for an educational institute. Peggy Anderson, who started out in our class at William and Mary and transferred to Swarthmore, received her PhD from Brown this year. She hopes to go to Germany for further study.

I enjoyed hearing from Sherry Parrish Sullivan and Paul, who along with their two boys, Mark, 2, and Evan, 7 months, are now living in Ft. Madison, Iowa. Paul began working for Sheaffer Pen Company there in June. For the past three years they have been living in Cambridge, Mass., while Sherry got her Masters in Chemistry at Brandeis and Paul got his MBA from Harvard Business School. Sherry reports that Kathy Dudley is teaching Art and English in Manassas, Va.; Betty Upson O'Brien and Jack are both working at the Patent Office in Washington while Jack completes his last year at Georgetown Law School; Fran Newton Harwood and Glen are living in Washington, D. C., and Fran is working on Capitol Hill while Glen finishes his service.

Diane Christian Owen writes that she and her husband Calvin settled in Williamsburg after their marriage June 29, 1966. He is a welder with Dow-Badische Company, a subsidiary of Dow Chemical, and Diane is a junior cost accountant with Colonial Williamsburg, Inc. In June 1964 they bought a house in Norge, Va., a suburb of Williamsburg. Diane proudly reports the births of their sons, Calvin C., Jr., born October 18, 1964, and Michael David, May 14, 1966.

In a brief note, John and Betty Risser Heenan relate that John received his masters degree in business administration, finance, this past June at U.C.L.A. He is employed as a financial analyst at North American Aviation in El Segundo, California. Betty is president of the Los Angeles Alumnae Association of Kappa Kappa Gamma and also president of a church group. She is taking courses each semester at U.C.L.A. toward an eventual advanced degree. The Heenans spent a few days in Williamsburg this summer while they were on the East Coast visiting John's family in Pennsylvania.

Many thanks to Judy Murdock Snook for sending me a copy of the Alpha Chi news letter. Most of the news appears in the "vital statistics" columns. Bonnie Higgins Barnes traveled to San Francisco this summer in connection with her job in Maritime Administration and Joe, '64, joined her there for a week's vacation. Marie Lynn Hunkin attended the U. of Colorado this summer in connection with the masters degree she will receive from Duke. She was also working in the Rockies at one of the field stations of the Institute of Arctic and Alpine Research.

It takes a good deal of care. Graduations, anniversaries, birthdays, and very special people require really different, exciting gifts. Colonial Williamsburg offers the most unusual shopping opportunities anywhere in America. Both colonial and contemporary ideas are featured at Craft House, eight Colonial Craft Shops, gift shops at Williamsburg Inn, Lodge, The Motor House, and at the Golf Shop at the Club House. On your next visit to the College, visit the Shops of Colonial Williamsburg. See for yourself.

Some time ago I received a very informative letter from Bill Hutchinson. After spending three weeks in Spain and Portugal last summer and then working for the Health, Education, and Welfare Department in Washington, Bill has now returned to his third year at the University of Michigan Law School. Also in the midst of their third years in law school are Gordon Pehrson at Michigan, Blake Newton at the University of Virginia, Walt Vineyard at Columbia, Roger Tomasch at Duke, and Herb Wilfred, Jerry Gimmel and Lucy Hummer at Georgetown. Lucy also spent the summer touring Europe with Doris Williams. Beginning his second year at Georgetown is John Fox.

The list of those completing other graduate work is lengthy as well. Bill Redd, who just completed his Masters program in Chapel Hill, is now continuing for his Ph.D. in Psychology at the University of North Carolina. Also in Chapel Hill are Priscilla Hegeman Skiji and Steve, who is continuing his graduate studies there.

Bill Corley informs me that Barry Tinsley is working on his Masters in Fine Arts at William and Mary. T. W. and wife, Ricki Messina Alley, are also in Williamsburg while T is attending the School of Education, as well as coaching and teaching high school. They are the proud parents of a baby girl, practically a year old. Ed Waters is in the Medical School at Georgetown, while Frank Brown is attending Dental School at the Medical College of Virginia. Tony Steinmeyer is completing Law School at Harvard; in between his law studies, Dick Lutringer spent his summer in Sweden. And after completing his Masters program in June, Bill Black will continue at Duke toward his Ph.D. in English.

Bill also relates that Bryan Prichard is working as an industrial salesman with U. S. Steel in Pittsburgh. And Dan Henning, while coaching and teaching high school in Norfolk, is playing football with the Neptunes, as well as being with the "taxi squad" of the San Diego Chargers.

Serving in the Army, Bob McIntosh and Dan Armour have returned from duty in Japan. Don Beck has served in Vietnam; John Randolph, having returned with honors and medals from Vietnam is now stationed at Camp Lejeune. And Jim Bennett was stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas after service in Santo Domingo. Where is Jim now?

After working last summer for the Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, Shauneen Cruise has returned to teaching high school in an honors English program at Lake Forest High School.

Shauneen also writes that Elaine Hoover has completed two years in Columbia with the Peace Corps and recently traveled throughout South America. Dave Woodson, who completed his Masters in Physics at Brown, is now working for Melpar in Falls Church, Virginia. Jon Van Voorst also completed his Masters in Philosophy at the University of Western Ontario. Mac MacLemore is working for the Government in New York City. Cindy Harris is working at the Underwater Sound Lab in New London, Connecticut.

Before their departure from Germany, I received a letter from Mary Ann Venner Schmidt, who married Herm Schmidt '61 in June 1965. They were stationed in Vilsech with the Combined Arms School and returned in October to the States. In November, Herm reported to Fort Bragg for special Warfare School, and in January will proceed to the Presidio at Monterey, California, for Vietnamese Language School before heading for the Far East. Mary Ann plans to stay in Virginia Beach to teach.

Mary Ann relates that Pud Quaintance has continued to teach elementary school in Virginia Beach. Joanna Jeffries is working for IBM and returned to Raleigh, North Carolina in October.

After vacationing in Florida, Gretchen Scherer has moved to San Francisco for another year of teaching. Joanne Arnett Murphy has moved back to Northern Virginia to teach a year while husband Paul is with the Army in Bangkok, Thailand. Michael Hatcher was married in August; I hope to hear from Mike about more details.

Keeping up the apartment in Alexandria, Virginia, are Bobbie Mulcahey and Patty Vaught. Bobbie is again teaching French at Madison High, while Patty has switched to Marshall High with her German. I have been in California, teaching in the Long Beach schools.

That's all for now. We are all getting so scattered that news via word of mouth is hard to get. Please let me hear from more of you soon.

In an effort to economize on space without editing news of interest, I shall not make an effort to achieve any credit for literary style. In as few words as possible, I will relate the activities of our classmates.

I am presently teaching in Charlottesville while my husband attends medical school at the University of Virginia.

Emily Louise Turner is serving as a recreation aide for the American Red Cross in South Vietnam.

Mary Chichester is doing graduate work in vocational rehabilitation counseling at Columbia. Mary spent the summer working at a residential treatment center for emotionally maladjusted children.

Jay Louise Weldon Crawshaw is working at the Franklin Institute in Philadelphia doing computer programming while her husband Paul continues graduate studies at Rutgers.

Nibs Smith is working at Eastern State Hospital. Becky Milner spent the summer in Williamsburg before leaving for school.

Pat Ward and Anne Kabler are working for the Department of Public Welfare in Chapel Hill.

Suzanne Frayser spent the summer in Europe visiting Isobel Thubron in England and touring the continent. In September she will go to Cornell to resume graduate studies in Anthropology.

Lynne Kirby Bowman is teaching English in Charlottesville while her husband attends the University Law School.

Barbara Hopson Witley having completed graduate work at Syracuse University is teaching Mathematics in Ithaca while Alan completes his doctorate in veterinarian medicine at Cornell.

Judy Weisman Dennen is teaching in Somerville, Massachusetts and her husband Dave is doing graduate work in education at Tufts.

Marty Boyd and Sara Shafer, having survived a trip to Mexico, California, and other points west during the summer, are now sharing an apartment in Richmond. They saw Barbara Wampler in San Francisco.

Betsy Burrows Thompson and her husband Clark are living in Baltimore, Maryland.

John Bell is presently completing a tour of duty in Korea.

Ann Singleton Bebe and Matt are living in Columbia, South Carolina, where Ann works as the assistant to the Financial and Administrative Director of Richland County. Matt is working on his master's in Geology at the University of South Carolina.

Liz Gebhart Cottingham and her husband John are living in Aiken, South Carolina.

Vel Krowe Gray and Doug are in Washington State where he is stationed at Fort Lewis.

Allan Goodman is at State University of Iowa working on a Masters in Biology.

B. J. Rudman spent the summer in Brussels working for the "European Economic Community." In September he returned to the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy in Boston. He has already received his MA and is now working towards a doctorate.

Bonnie Cheshire and Deedle Rowland are sharing an apartment in Richmond. Deedle is doing research work in tissue cultures at the Medical College of Virginia.

Janet Miller has accepted a position teaching English at St. Olaf College in Northfield, Minnesota about 45 miles from Minneapolis for next year.
