of the College of William and Mary

JUNE, 1973

J. Wilfred Lambert

The 'Man for All Seasons' closes a chapter in the College's history

For the thousands of William and Mary students who have come to know him over four decades, the experience must have been traumatic. Normally a promotion and title change are easy to accept, but after years of addressing him as "Dean Lambert," his former students, his friends and colleagues needed some time to adjust to "Mr. Lambert," vice president for student affairs.

Others who knew him more intimately didn't have that problem. To them, he was simply "Cy" Lambert, the man with the en-CY-clopedic mind. That group might include the President of the College, some friends, and a few colleagues in the Administration and Faculty. But it was a rare student or former student — who had remembered vividly facing him across his desk — who would venture such informality.

Cy Lambert's stern, direct, yet understanding manner may have derived partly from his first encounter with William and Mary. After an exhaustive steamer and train ride from his home in Leesburg, he met with Dr. J.A.C. Chandler, the President of the College, who had received word that Mr. Lambert was due at William and Mary and needed some assistance. Dr. Chandler asked him what he could do, and Lambert replied:

work in a printing office. The President picked up the telephone, called a man named Ferguson, who was the proprietor, and said:

"Ferguson, I have a boy in my office who needs a job. I want you to give him work. Yes, I will send him down to see you." Mr. Lambert remembers how he "marvelled at Dr. Chandler's directness. He didn't even say please."

That was around 1923, some 50 years ago. After he graduated in 1927, Mr. Lambert studied at Johns Hopkins and worked for the Baltimore City Health Department and the Loudoun County Hospital School of Nursing for awhile. He returned to the College in 1931 as an instructor in psychology, became Dean of Freshmen, while continuing his teaching, in 1935. In 1938 he was appointed Dean of Men and in 1946 Dean of Students. From 1949-65, he served in the dual role of Registrar, and in 1970, with the reorganization of the administration, Mr. Lambert became Vice President for Student Affairs.

Mr. Lambert probably knows more stories and anecdotes about the College — and Williamsburg — than any other living man. In a tribute to him at Charter Day when he received the Thomas Jefferson Award as one who "exemplifies through his life, his character, and his influence, the principles and ideals of Thomas Jefferson," the Rector of the Board of Visitors called him "a man for all seasons."

"Deeply versed in both ancient and modern traditions of the College," the Rector noted in a citation to Mr. Lambert, "He has kept a close watch on students as they have entered and departed for four decades, and he remembers them all."

Mr. Lambert is marvellously adept at relating stories about the College. He knows so many that it's a rare conversation that does not remind him of an anecdote or offer the opportunity to give the full history of a student he knew anywhere from one to 50 years ago. In an address published in the Alumni Gazette a couple of years ago, he offered some vintage Lambert — a story of an infamous building known as the Institute where "the roughest, wildest group of college men I have ever known" resided (they reportedly rolled cannon balls down the stairway from the third floor); a fond recollection of the sumptuous food available in Williamsburg; and a good yarn on how he and his friends used to supplement their diets with "fish (which jumped up on the bank (of Lake Matoaka))" and "vicious chickens" which attacked him and his friends and which they "had no alternative save to kill in self defense."

Mr. Lambert is such an institution at William and Mary that President Graves has said, only half in jest, that rather than try to replace him the College decided to reorganize student affairs and eliminate the position. After he retires at the end of the summer, Mr. Lambert will still contribute his services to William and Mary as honorary chairman of the William and Mary Fund drive. Judging from the outpouring of telegrams and letters from alumni upon his retirement, there couldn't be a better choice.

In reminiscing on his "Love Affair with Williamsburg," Mr. Lambert told an audience about the virtues of the community:

"Understanding grows with communication and with the growth of understanding comes respect and appreciation. Williamsburg is the kind of community in which these virtues flourish and grow strong."

The words may have been about Williamsburg, but they are equally descriptive of the man who said them.

Lambert Room established in Alumni House

The central hallway in the new Alumni House will be named for J. W. Lambert '27, as the result of a special gift from New York City area alumni. The effort was spearheaded by Ed and Bob Coco '55, of Hartsdale, N.Y. In recognizing the gift, W. Brooks George '32, New Era fund chairman, expressed "heartfelt gratitude of the entire College family" and said the designation "will not only recognize the lifelong contributions of Dean Lambert, but also serve as evidence of the continuing interest in the College of New York area alumni."

Lambert agrees to head William and Mary Fund for 1973-74

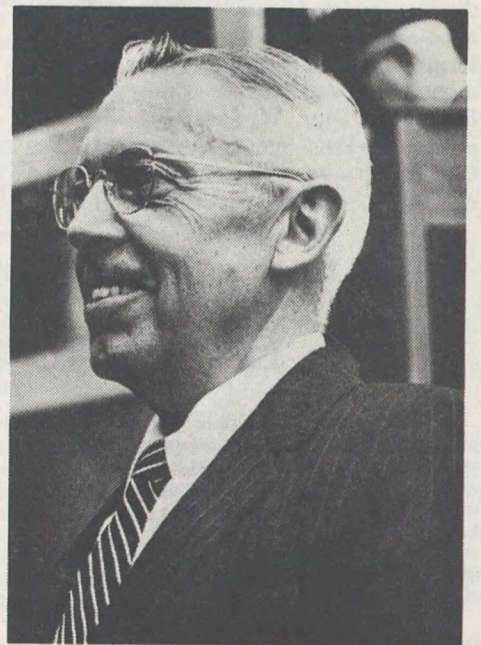

J. Wilfred Lambert '27, retiring Vice President for Student Affairs, has consented to serve as the 1973-74 Chairman of the William and Mary Fund, the annual giving campaign conducted among alumni. It is the first time the Fund will be administered by the Office of College Development.

Warren Heemann, Vice President for College Development, said the Fund will also have a national vice chairman and 21 regional vice chairmen to be announced at a later time. Virginia will be organized into 12 regions, and all other states will be combined into eight regions. All foreign countries having alumni residents will constitute an additional region.

In addition to the new regional approach toward solicitation, the traditional class effort will be continued with about 70 class vice chairmen and hundreds of Class Agents.

The Fund effort will begin late in August with the first general letter of solicitation scheduled late in September. Wrap-up telephone solicitations will take place in late November and early December.

Graves, Chappell give impetus to College art display

President Graves has taken steps to recognize the importance of the various fine arts collections of the College — collections donated by alumni and friends of the College — and the part they should play in the life and heritage of the College.

As part of this project, Miles Chappell of the Fine Arts department is currently preparing a catalogue of the College's extensive collection of art works which include paintings, sculpture, prints, ceramics and porcelains from both Western Europe and The Orient.

There have been catalogues in the past, explained Chappell, but they have not been as complete as the current one which is being undertaken to establish a definitive listing and accurate description of each item in the collection.

The current catalogue, indexed according to subject, location, artist and donor, includes a photograph and detailed information on each item. Chappell is being assisted by students interested in museum work. The catalogue will be kept in the Fine Arts department with a copy in the rare books room of the library for use as a research tool.

The art works of the College will continue to be on display on various parts of the campus. There are currently paintings on display from the Collection in the Wren Building and the Capitol Building of Colonial Williamsburg.

While the catalogue work is being done to establish an accurate record of each donation, President Graves has indicated that he is concerned also that the items in the College's collection are not readily available or displayed as extensively as he would like them to be.

"We owe the donors of our collections and the people of Virginia the opportunity to have the collections on display," said President Graves.

Three key appointments complete student affairs reorganization

Three key members of the new student affairs staff will join the College this summer. Among them is Dr. Lynn Skerrett Schulz '67.

The three are Dr. Frank L. Field, who becomes Associate Dean of Students for Career Planning; Morris G. Wray, Associate Dean of Students for Residence Hall Life; and Dr. Schulz, Associate Dean of Students for Career Planning.

The three appointments complete the reorganization of the student affairs division which began last year with the appointment of Dr. James C. Livingston, former chairman of the religion department, as Dean of the Undergraduate Program. Later, W. Samuel Sadler was appointed Dean of Students and Miss Carolyn Moseley, former Assistant Dean of Women, was named Associate Dean of Students for Administration and Special Programs.

The student affairs program will emphasize services which can be made available to students in close collaboration with their academic activities. As part of the reorganization, the student affairs function was brought under the general supervision of the Vice President for Academic Affairs, Dr. George R. Healy.

Dr. Field has been Counseling Psychologist at the University of Santa Barbara; Wray has been director of the division of unclassified students at Vanderbilt and is a candidate for the Ph.D. degree there; and Dr. Schulz has been assistant professor in the department of behavioral and humanistic studies at the University of Delaware. She holds graduate degrees from the University of Virginia.

Letters to the Editor

(Note: The Alumni Gazette has traditionally published Letters to the Editor when they are submitted. The Society wishes to encourage alumni to express their views on matters affecting William and Mary, so long as letters are kept to under 200 words and are typewritten and signed. Letters may be edited to reflect space demands in the Gazette as well as to insure clarity and brevity.)

Dear Editor:

The major consideration the College gives to its alumni is the letters of solicitation each year for financial support. Some contribute more generously than others. Possibly, a reason for lack of support is the feeling that the alumni receive only "token" consideration and preferences from the College.

Recently our daughter sought admission as a student. She was in the top 8 percent of her class (excess of 500 students), National Honor Society and Leonards Star Award (scholarship and citizenship). We were told that the only preference she would receive as a daughter of two alumni was the placement of her application in the Virginia quota rather than the out-of-state quota. She received a form letter of rejection. We, the alumni, received no explanation. I question if this can even be considered "token" preference. Presumably, all of the Virginia applicants accepted have higher qualifications. Admittedly, her extracurricular activities were minimal. The reason being a part-time job of 30 hours per week as part of her distributive education course.

What can be done????

(a) Give children of alumni who obviously more than meet the entrance requirements preference over non-alumni applicants.

(b) If rejected, advise the alumni parent of the reason. They would like to know.

(c) Have a late acceptance period. Each year many successful applicants do not enroll. Give these vacancies to children of alumni.

Is this asking too much? I think not.

Sincerely,
Joseph P. Parker '49
Nancy Miller Parker '50

Board of Visitors approve revised admissions policy

A new statement on undergraduate admissions, which calls for giving preference to the applications of alumni children when "other considerations" are equal, has been adopted by the Board of Visitors.

The Board adopted the statement at its May meeting after it was proposed by the Admissions Policy Committee of the College.

The new policy replaces one adopted in 1963, which was mute on the subject of admission of alumni children.

The text follows:

"Application for admission to the College of William and Mary is open to all, acceptance to be decided on a competitive basis within the framework of certain concepts, balances, and constraints discussed below.

"The College accepts and seeks to blend the diverse aspects of its character. As a publicly-supported state institution it must be responsive to the needs of higher education in Virginia. As a selective institution it must look for students who can bring academic excellence to the college community. As an institution wishing some sense of continuity and sustained interest it must relate to its alumni. And in its need to enrich the fabric of the college community, to avoid rigidity, and to enlarge its possibilities, the College must try to reach out to a rich diversity of background and talent. In all of this, two paramount considerations must be the potential benefit of the College to the student and of the student to the College.

"As a state supported institution of higher learning, the major responsibility of the College is to Virginia residents. The Board of Visitors specifies the ratio of in-state to out-of-state students to be admitted to the College. Recognizing that the infusion of talent from other parts of the United States and from foreign countries allows William and Mary to achieve a greater complexity and diversity, the College will continue to admit a significant percentage of out-of-state students.

"The College expects high academic qualifications from its entering students. An entering freshmen must have shown an ability to perform well in his pre-college years, both scholastically and on standard examinations. An entering transfer student must have shown an ability to perform well at the college level. Evidence of imagination and tenacity are considered indicative of promise in academic matters as well as in special interest areas. A student unable to meet the academic challenge of William and Mary will be frustrated in attempting to realize his potential. A binding limitation on admissions, therefore, is that the student should, in the best judgment of the Admissions Office, be able to meet this challenge.

"The College recognizes strong bonds with its alumni. Other considerations being essentially equal, preference will be given to the applications of children of alumni.

"Along with these considerations, the College desires to incorporate into its community a wide variety of backgrounds, attitudes, and interests. This has meant a commitment to recognize and to try to meet the educational needs of members of minority groups. Diversity of geographical and economic backgrounds is sought. There is also a conscious effort to include in each class men and women with special talents and abilities or interests, whether artistic, athletic, scientific, or in some other area. In some instances acceptance of such a student is based upon a special skill, subject again to the general premise that the student should be judged capable of solid academic accomplishment.

"Admissions policies are made by the Admissions Policy Committee in consultation with the Admissions Office and are subject to review by the Board of Visitors. Admissions procedures are developed by the Admissions Office in consultation with the Admissions Policy Committee."

Cover by KJP

The cover design and "New Era" fund logo for this month's Gazette were designed by Kathie Perka, '73. Miss Perka is a fine arts major who has done design work for numerous College projects, including invitations and menus for Mrs. Thomas A. Graves, Jr. Miss Perka also created the cover for the nationally acclaimed 1972 Colonial Echo, and for the February issue of Photolith yearbook magazine.

Paschall Library

Books by or about alumni, or books about the College, are being solicited for inclusion in the Pat and Agnes Paschall Library in the new Alumni House. Alumni who are willing to contribute such books, including old Colonial Echos, should send them to Alumni House, Box 60, Williamsburg, Va. 23185.

"New Era" giving hit all time high in 72-73

Giving to the Society reached an all-time high in the 1972-73 William and Mary "New Era" Fund, and all efforts have not yet been completed. The Report contained in these pages was compiled as of May 1, 1973, and totals $280,716.58.

W. Brooks George '32 was Chairman of the special New Era campaign conducted in Virginia. Dr. Guy W. Daugherty '34, was Chairman of the William and Mary Fund Committee of the Board and William L. Person '27 of Williamsburg was Alumni House Cornerstone Drive chairman.

Total cash received during the period was $180,969.40, with additional pledges still outstanding of $93,514.43 to be paid in the coming years. In addition, there were credits issued for such things as Class Agent expenses totaling $6,192.75.

Figuring significantly in the totals were 76 contributions and pledges of $1,000 or more. A number of these gifts were made to designate particular rooms in the Alumni House, and have been announced in previous issues of the Alumni Gazette.

Contributions were received from 4,420 alumni and friends with 532 persons contributing to the William and Mary Fund for the first time. There were 178 matching gifts by employers of alumni in the amount of $16,048.25. There were pledges of $169,519.84, and nearly half of these have already been paid in part or in full.

These pledges, made to the Alumni House decorating and renovation program, will continue to be received by the Society under the new annual giving arrangement by which the Office of College Development will be responsible for the College's annual giving solicitations. Designated contributions can continue to be made to the Alumni House Fund of the Society, and will be used to assist in meeting the costs of the development of this facility as one of the nation's outstanding Alumni centers.

Brooks George, chairman of this special focus, has expressed great praise for the work of the major division chairmen: George Ritzel Jr., '53 of Richmond; Bill Hubbard '46 of Roanoke; Mrs. Pam Chinnis '46 of Northern Virginia; Bill Mirguet Jr. '62 of Lower Peninsula; Bill Thompson Jr. '28 of Tidewater; Gil Granger '57 of Williamsburg; and their many Divisional Chairmen and volunteer workers who participated in the record campaign.

An indication of 1972-73 success shows up in comparisons with prior years. The 1971 campaign grossed only $164,826.37; and five years ago (1968) the total was $100,168.96. Ten years ago (1963) the Fund received $43,000.

G. T. BROOKS AGENCY

REAL ESTATE — INSURANCE — RENTALS

The Oldest Agency in the Oldest City in the Oldest State in the United States

Ask about our free trial offer.

Signing up for Army ROTC in college is not a major commitment. We suggest that you give it a try. Take the Basic Course during your freshman and sophomore years. See what it's all about. You'll find that it's only a few hours a week.

That's not going to get in the way of classes, study, sports or other activities. At the end of your sophomore year you'll know for sure if you want to continue.

If you decide to go on with the ROTC Advanced Course, you'll be paid $100 a month during your last two years of school, although you'll have to agree to complete the program and accept a commission, if offered.

You'll be earning your degree and commission at the same time. It's even possible for you to go on to graduate school. Then serve as an officer later.

You will also find it to be a very attractive offer for a profession after you complete your education.

And, you may be interested in the Army ROTC Scholarship Program. Scholarships are available for one, two, three or four years.

For complete information you may contact the Professor of Military Science, Room 1, Blow Gymnasium, The College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.
