Person-to-Person

The School of Education is sponsoring an unusual five week summer camp for environmentally deprived children in the Williamsburg-James City County area. Called Camp Tikonya, the program is conducted by Dr. John Abbott and staffed by graduate students of the special education division of the school. It is located at Waller Mill Park and includes such daily activities as fishing, boating, camp crafts, music and drama, swimming, and free lunch. A one-on-one relationship with a graduate student is possible for each child, most of whom have shown past difficulty with peer and adult relationships.

The Last Hurrah

The musical comedy 1776, now a motion picture, features a contemporary variation on the traditional William and Mary v. Harvard rivalry. As the Declaration of Independence undergoes its final revision, according to the film, Massachusetts delegate John Adams insists that the word "unalienable" is grammatically incorrect and should be replaced with the word "inalienable." When Virginia delegate Thomas Jefferson disagrees and refuses to make the change, Adams remarks: "Won't you defer to me? I am a graduate of Harvard." To which the courtly Mr. Jefferson magnanimously replied — "And I attended the College of William and Mary." That settled that for the duration of the show, and apparently today's College students agree. When a largely student audience recently viewed the film at the Williamsburg theatre, the man from Charlottesville was given standing applause for his retort. For the record, however, it must be said that Mr. Adams was the better grammarian.

Commencement 1973

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, shown at left during his Commencement address on June 3, was honored for his attention to judicial reform and adherence to the spirit as well as the letter of the law when William and Mary conferred on him the honorary Doctor of Laws degree. Some 5,500 attended the traditional Wren Yard exercises in 90 degree plus Williamsburg heat. Pictured left to right are: President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., Dr. George Healy, Vice President for Academic Affairs, and Doctor Charles Marsh. Doctor Marsh, onetime Dean of the Faculty at William and Mary, later president of Wofford College, and finally lecturer of business administration here, was presented one of the Algernon Sydney Sullivan awards.

Law Alumni Win

Alumni of the Marshall-Wythe School nearly doubled the $25,000 they had been asked to raise for the school as part of a Board of Visitors "challenge grant" of $25,000. In a final status report compiled by Warren Heemann, vice president for College development, total giving from law alumni to the school was $49,519. In addition, graduating law seniors pledged $7,975. Of the potential 973 law donors, 527 made contributions to the first Law School Fund, with an average commitment of $93.96.

Sorry Mister-One Way

Those visiting and returning to Williamsburg may be caught unaware of the new traffic patterns in the Merchants Square area of town. Begun by City Council order on July 1, the series of one way streets has taken all traffic off the first block of Duke of Gloucester street, except CW busses. Of course the lack of traffic lights in the colonial area, unsuspecting tourists, and forgetful townspeople and students have had their share of difficulties, but the new patterns are designed to reduce the potential accident sites from twenty to three. During August the Council will decide whether or not the changes will be permanent. In the meantime: look twice before you turn!

Ahead of Schedule

The $100,000 renovation of the Alumni House, begun in April after contracts for the work were signed by the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni, is slightly ahead of schedule (an abnormality in the Williamsburg construction picture). It is anticipated that the House will be fully open and ready for the enjoyment of alumni by the first home football game, with Villanova on October 6. The Alumni House grounds will again be the site of the popular "luncheons on the lawn" before each home football event, beginning at 11:30 a. m. and lasting until kickoff. One of the major needs to help complete the Alumni House is the acquisition of additional books about William and Mary, or by William and Mary authors, for inclusion in the Paschall Library. Alumni with such volumes who wish to donate them, may send them to Alumni House, Box G, Williamsburg, Va. 23185.

Carnevale seeks to increase private support of athletics

BY DEAN OLSON

The emphasis has been on quality in William and Mary athletics since Ben L. Carnevale assumed the position of athletic director in the summer of 1972.

In the non-revenue sports, William and Mary has been exemplary in the Southern Conference for the past several years. For the past three the College has either won or tied for the Commissioner's Cup, symbolic of the outstanding all-around sports program.

But in the major, revenue producing sports — football and basketball — the College, quite candidly, has been mediocre. In football in the past six years, William and Mary has had only one winning season, although the Indians have given their fans plenty of thrills in losing. In basketball the last winning season occurred in 1966-67.

"It's important that we develop a winning complex at William and Mary," says Carnevale, whose career as a basketball coach at the University of North Carolina, the Naval Academy, and an athletic director has demonstrated his commitment to excellence.

Carnevale, however, looks at the future realistically, and knows the College must have substantially increased help from friends of William and Mary athletics if the College is to achieve its goals. In fact, for the past year, he has been delivering addresses to groups that might be called the "plain truth."

For years, he says, students at William and Mary have been carrying the major burden of paying for intercollegiate athletics. Of last year's athletic budget of $665,000, more than half, or $358,000, came from an athletic and recreation fee of $88, one of the highest in the Southern Conference. Private donations to the Educational Foundation, on the other hand, accounted for $75,000.

Carnevale has been bringing this point home to individuals and groups — he calls it "laying it on the line." Private donations, he says, have been paying for about one-ninth of the program, and even less in previous years, while students have been "carrying the burden." William and Mary's booster club is the lowest in the Southern Conference in terms of fund-raising — where other schools receive from a low of $150,000 to a high of $300,000 in contributions.

Carnevale says the response to the "hard facts" has been encouraging. In the current campaign, the Educational Foundation has set a goal of $100,000, and all signs point to a successful conclusion. The average donation during the past year has nearly doubled — from $50 to $94.

In turn, Carnevale intends to build a program at William and Mary that is commensurate with the school's excellent reputation in academics — but at no reduction in standards. To do this, he has increased the recruiting budgets to give the coaches the means to find and attract athletes who can succeed at William and Mary academically. Carnevale points with noticeable pride at the fact that not a single member of the Indians' football squad was an academic casualty this past spring, and the overall average of the team (which included 13 members with a B average or better) was 1.5 on a 3.0 scale.

Carnevale has given the same attention to the non-revenue sports. He traveled extensively with track coach John Randolph in a successful $100,000 fund raising drive to build a new outdoor Tartan track in Cary Field — due for completion by fall. And in the 1973-74 budget, he increased scholarship assistance for track by 25 per cent and for wrestling by a hundred per cent. Eventually, he says, he hopes to provide some scholarship assistance for all of the minor sports.

In addition, this fall for the first time, William and Mary will have a full-time gymnastics coach. And in baseball, Carnevale recently hired a new coach — Tony Zontini, a highly regarded former professional player from the Tidewater area.

Carnevale says the next two to three years are critical for William and Mary athletics. With two outstanding and comparatively new coaches in football and basketball — Jim Root and Ed Ashnault — he is optimistic that those two sports will produce quality teams. These should in turn provide revenue at the turnstiles, private support from those who have a right to expect a winner, and the kind of excellence — within established athletic policy — that is a credit to the College.

Letters to the Editor

Although I had respect for Wilfred Lambert as a student at William and Mary, I regret that in a former issue of your publication and in the current issue he is reported to have said the Institute had "the roughest and wildest college men" he had ever known.

As an occupant of the Institute until moving to Monroe Hall my senior year, I take exception to this statement. College records will show me to have been graduated in three years and two summers with Phi Beta Kappa honors. My roommate at the Institute was Birchell S. Hilton who has served in the educational field as Superintendent in two counties and for the State. George Dewey Grove and Ernest R. Wolfe both were school principals for many years. Ted Fletcher was an outstanding salesman for Massengill Drug Company until retirement. His roommate, Earl Reasor, was President of a large bank in Johnson City, Tennessee. Bob Culbertson became a very successful lawyer in Columbus, Ohio. Ely, a pitcher on the baseball team, pitched the first win ever over Harvard. A. Scott Noblin became Superintendent of Scott County schools and later a salesman for a leading book company. J. Swanson Smith was student-in-charge of the Institute and spent a life time as County Court Clerk of Carroll County.

I know of only two residents of the Institute who were disciplined for misconduct. Instead of the "cannonballs" referred to in your article, the discipline was for dropping a radiator from the third to first floor.

If these residents of the Institute were as described by Wilfred, which they were not, maybe the College should encourage "wildest and roughest" to enroll, as those known to me have been a credit to themselves and to the College.

Sincerely yours,
Kermit R. Addington '26

Alums vie for major Virginia, New York offices

With William and Mary's record of producing outstanding public servants, it is not surprising that a number of its alumni are actively involved in political races this fall.

In Virginia, three politicians with William and Mary alumni connections are running for the two top state offices, and a College professor, Dr. George Grayson of the Department of Government, is trying for the second time to win a seat in the General Assembly.

In New York, Albert Blumenthal, a 1949 graduate of William and Mary, is the candidate of the Liberal Party for Mayor of New York City.

Former Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr., who attended William and Mary in the mid-30's, and Lieutenant Governor Henry Howell, a former student at the Norfolk Division of William and Mary, are the opponents in the gubernatorial election scheduled for November. Both are running as Independents, although Godwin, who served as Governor of Virginia from 1966-70, has been endorsed by the Republican Party.

Dalton is currently a member of the Virginia Senate and served previously as a member of the House of Delegates. He is pursuing a career in politics that began as early as his days at William and Mary when he was elected junior class president and president of the student body.

Henry Howell

The New York Post calls Blumenthal "a political original — a liberal reformer with Establishment credentials." Now 44 and deputy minority leader of the Assembly in New York state, Blumenthal earned his law degree from New York University and has been in state government since 1962.

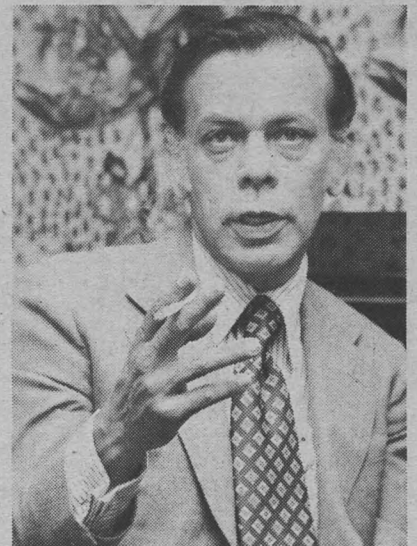

Blumenthal lost out in the Democratic Primary in the mayoral race in June, but retained the backing of the Liberal Party. In the last New York mayoral election, the current incumbent, John V. Lindsay, won reelection on the Liberal ticket after being bumped in the Democratic Primary.

Mills Godwin

Lt. Governor Howell, like Godwin a former member of the General Assembly, ran in the Democratic Primary in 1969, but lost to Bill Battle, who in turn was defeated by Linwood Holton. Howell was elected Lieutenant Governor in 1971 after the incumbent, J. Sargent Reynolds, died in office.

In the lieutenant governor's race, another William and Mary graduate, John Dalton of Radford, is the Republican candidate. A 1953 graduate, of the College, Dalton carries on a tradition of political activity. His father, Ted Dalton, now a U.S. District Judge, was twice a Republican candidate for Governor. His uncle, Dr. Garrett Dalton, is currently on the Board of Visitors.

Thieme's Inn property purchased by the College as extra housing, dining facility

For 28 years, Thieme's Inn on Richmond Road across from the College played to a sellout, and when it finally closed for good on commencement evening of this year, there was standing room only.

"Customers were still lined up at the door," says Mrs. Art Thieme who opened the restaurant with her husband in 1945 after he completed a stint with the Navy at Camp Peary.

The closing was an emotional occasion for the Thiemes, whose restaurant was an "in" place for customers from Virginia Beach to Richmond, but most especially for College students and their parents. Mr. and Mrs. Thieme ran the restaurant exclusively with William and Mary student waiters, and over the years, they estimate they employed and trained at least a thousand of them. In addition, they rented some eight rooms upstairs on a day-to-day basis, which parents of William and Mary students frequently used when they came to Williamsburg for a College occasion.

"To many parents," said Mrs. Thieme, "we were like a second home."

The Thiemes brought a little bit of home and a lot of epicurean talent to their restaurant. Trained at the Alt Bremer House in Germany, one of Europe's foremost wine restaurants, Mr. Thieme had cooked and planned meals for prominent hotels in Chicago and Philadelphia and had taught cooking for the U.S. Government.

When they opened in 1945, they had planned to serve one sitting of approximately 50 during the 6-9 p.m. dinner hour, but their business grew so rapidly that they changed to a continuous format. They instituted a College special, the only one in Williamsburg for many years, from 5-6 p.m.

Mr. Thieme closely guarded the quality of his food by preparing every meal himself. He cooked all of the items on the menu — "every piece of seafood, steak, every chop" — to order after the restaurant opened at 6 p.m., using the day to prepare his famous sauces.

Such personal attention brought the restaurant many awards. Metro Magazine called it one of the best 13 in the Tidewater and Norfolk area. It also held the prices to a minimum, and when the restaurant closed, they ranged from $2 to $7 — for such delights as roast Long Island duckling, sirloin steak, maitre d'hotel, and German sauerbraten.

For the 28 years they were in business, the Thiemes opened seven nights a week — except for vacations of a week in June and September and for two months from late December to March 1. They will now take a well-deserved rest and retire to their home in Florida. Mr. Thieme plans to consult to the food business, but he won't open another restaurant. If he did, he says, he would be right back in the kitchen because he wouldn't trust the cooking to anyone else.

The College purchased the Inn from the Thiemes and will use it for student housing and a dining facility. The Thiemes had other offers to buy, but they wanted to sell the Inn to the College because of their affection for William and Mary.

And of course it went both ways. For alumni to come back to Williamsburg and fine anyone other than Mr. and Mrs. Thieme operating the restaurant simply would not have seemed right.

Blending business and art —

Bob Sanderson

Bob Sanderson '47 majored in business at William and Mary, dabbled in art, and went into the real estate business in Memphis after graduation. In 1964, he put it altogether — his business astuteness and his talent in art — by becoming director and vice president of the Jay Bruce Art Gallery.

Sanderson handles artists from California to Maryland, and he is constantly on the lookout for new talent. In his travels throughout the country, he may view the work of hundreds of fledgling talents, but he will take an active interest in only few. To Bob Sanderson, a good artist is not only a talented one but one who is consistently productive as well.

"Most of my artists are just as reliable as any lawyer or doctor," he says, "and they are equally disciplined."

Sanderson says he is satisfied if he finds one new artist a year who meets those standards. The current star among his stable of 10 is William Nolan Van Powel, a 70-year-old retired architect who concentrates exclusively on paintings depicting ships and battles of the American Navy from 1775-1783.

Van Powel exemplifies the type of artist Sanderson believes in. Before he does any painting, he researches the ship or event exhaustively, then uses his artistic talents to transmit the scene to canvas. His paintings, which have been displayed to applause in such historical settings as Williamsburg and the U.S. Naval Academy, are highly prized by ship and sailboat owners who "greatly respect the perfection of his work."

Van Powel spurned many offers to handle his paintings before he selected Sanderson's gallery. The artist apparently liked Sanderson's background — with his William and Mary degree and grounding in 18th century culture and art. This background extended back to his post-college days when he spent a summer traveling in England with Jim Coger, curator for Colonial Williamsburg, on a buying tour. Coger, Sanderson remembers, wanted someone who could sketch, and in addition to his business major, Sanderson had studied design and architecture at William and Mary.

In addition to real estate interests, Sanderson has helped design some buildings in Memphis and restored several houses along the Mississippi River, including one that served as his first informal art studio and gallery. Unfortunately, when urban renewal came to Memphis, it wiped out many of the old buildings. In 1962, a bulldozer leveled his art studio, and a motel parking lot took its place.

In 1964, Jay Bruce, a packaging plant owner, asked Sanderson to manage an art gallery that he planned to open. Although it was a change in direction for his career, Sanderson accepted, and he is glad he did.

"J. Paul Getty once said that of all of the things he had ever been in, the purchase of art was the best because it is not only aesthetically rewarding but a good investment as well," Sanderson says.

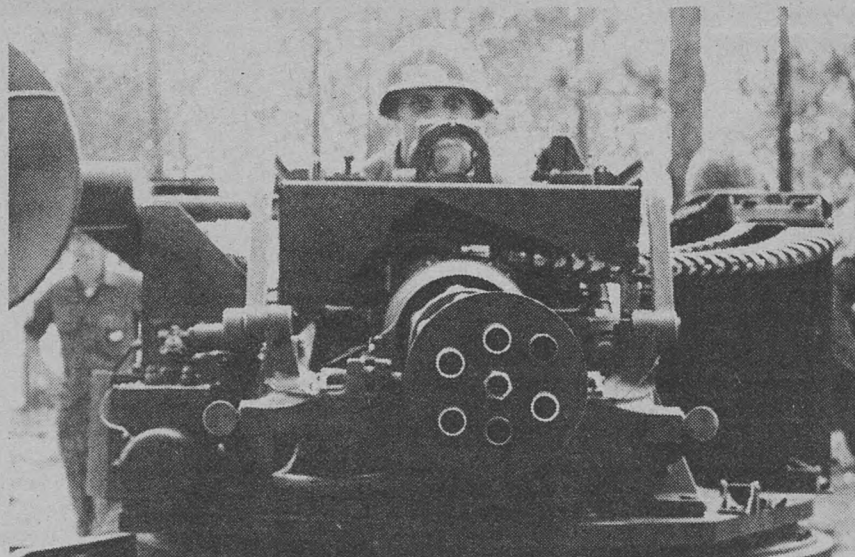

"There is a tremendous desire on the part of people today to buy good paintings for their homes, and I am delighted to be involved in trying to get the very best for them."

They're in the Army now!

(Editor's note: Harriett Stanley '72, of the College's Office of Information Services, recently attended ROTC Camp at Fort Bragg, N.C., as a press representative. During her four day visit she participated in all cadet activities, including marksmanship tests, field maneuvers, field mess, and RECONDO training. The presence of five women editors was a first for the Army and their experiences may serve as guidelines when women across the nation enter the ROTC program in the fall. Miss Stanley's photographs and caption comments follow.)

William and Mary cadet Jim Rudisill does his time on K.P. serving duty.

Learning to handle highly explosive automatic weapons systems such as the Vulcan (above), was adventurous for the cadets, but thought provoking as well. An often expressed attitude was "the power at my fingertips may be too great a responsibility for any man to handle properly."

"Sleep when the sleepin's good" was an unwritten rule at Fort Bragg, and despite 98 degree heat, these cadets took advantage of the last part of a mess hour.

President's House undergoes third major renovation

By WILFORD KALE

After more than 40 years of use since the restoration in 1927-31, the President's House on the William and Mary old campus is currently in the final stage of a two-year modernization project.

The work, which has been periodically underway since July, 1971, will cost approximately $115,000. Most of the funding comes from William and Mary funds which support the maintenance and improvement of all college-owned buildings, or from local (non-state) funds which are from a variety of sources, including unappropriated endowment income and undesignated gifts to the college.

When Dr. Thomas A. Graves Jr. became William and Mary's 24th president in 1971, the Board of Visitors gave him an option of renovating the old home — with the addition of air conditioning and some interior structural changes to increase the livability — or the construction of a new home near the Lake Matoaka section of the campus.

Dr. Graves and his family opted for renovations because they felt the 18th century house, which has been the home of all 24 William and Mary presidents, should be "the living room of the college."

William J. Carter, college vice president for business affairs, said that a new house, containing the space requirements for entertaining and living similar to those now in the President's House, could have easily cost $300,000, "but we still would have had to handle the current house as far as maintenance and upkeep is concerned. And that costs money too."

The last two presidents of the college — Admiral Alvin Duke Chandler and Dr. Davis Y. Paschall — lived only part-time in the house during the last years of their terms. Both men owned homes elsewhere in the area.

Considered by some of its recent tenants to be like a "fish bowl," the house, located just a few feet from well-traveled Richmond Road, was not very conducive for living or entertaining. It was just a landmark.

The current modernization renovation work is the first for the structure since 1927-31 when the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation restored the home, along with the Sir Christopher Wren Building and the Brafferton on the ancient campus, as the first steps in the restoration of 18th century Williamsburg.

The cost of the Rockefeller-funded original restoration, which included the removal of a Victorian porch and a late 19th century wing, was only about $49,000, but at that time the price tag for the entire restoration of the town was estimated to be only $3 to $4 million.

In July, 1971, the house was usable on only two of its four floors. The basement had not been touched in decades and was uninhabitable and the third floor was primarily used for storage; neither had been affected by the 1927 restoration.

In the summer of 1971, before the Graves moved in, the basement underwent partial renovation and the third floor was made usable for living quarters and the building's "ancient" furnace was replaced.

The first two floors of the house contain state-owned antiques and reproduction pieces and about a dozen 18th century paintings from the college's collection. Mrs. Graves has added porcelain and Chinese pieces from other college collections in the last several months. The third floor now contains some furniture of Dr. and Mrs. Graves (the remainder of their furnishings is in storage).

The house was centrally air-conditioned in the spring of 1972 and the basement work was completed with a "rathskeller" decorating approach in the large room. In archaeological work during the basement restoration, Colonial Williamsburg found several 18th century drain systems.

Built in 1732 by Henry Cary Jr., one-time vestryman at Bruton Parish Church, the building is the only residence of a college president in this country repaired by a reigning monarch. A portion of the funds for the construction of the house were "contributions" paid by captured pirates in return for their freedom.

During the American Revolution and sometime just prior to the battle of Yorktown, French officers moved into the house, while the main college building served as a hospital. On Dec. 22, 1781, the house was severely burned and General Rochambeau, commander of the French troops, immediately ordered the building repaired at the expense of King Louis XVI

That admissions problem again

From the November, 1972 issue of the Yale Alumni Magazine comes the following letter:

"I suppose that other fathers have been disappointed in that their first-born, although academically capable, were not accepted at Yale. I'm not alone, I'm sure, but I'm afraid that not any of my other five sons will be considered — because of — well it wouldn't make any difference anyway.

"At any rate my eldest is doing just great at William and Mary College (1973), where scholastics and academics and just plain education have not been politicized. Thank Heavens."

President of R.P.I.

George J. Oliver

Dr. George J. Oliver '31, former president of Richmond Professional Institute (now Virginia Commonwealth University) and a William and Mary administrator from 1945 until 1959, died in Williamsburg June 15. Dr. Oliver served as chairman of the College's Department of Education, Director of the Summer Session, Coordinator of Divisional Activities and Director of Extension prior to taking the presidency at RPI in 1959. He retired from that post in 1967 and was a part-time lecturer in education at William and Mary in 1967-68.

Coaches optimistic about Indian prospects

This should be a bright fall for intercollegiate athletics at William and Mary. In football, Coach Jim Root has one of the most experienced clubs in recent Indian history; in track, Coach John Randolph glows with pride over what he considers perhaps his best cross country team ever; and soccer, Coach Al Albert will have 13 lettermen and the "most talented group of incoming freshmen" in his tenure at William and Mary.

The month of September will have a great bearing on the success of the Indian's football fortunes. The Indians open at Blacksburg on September 8 — in a game changed from November 24 — against archrival Virginia Tech, whose fans are still smarting from last year's 17-16 defeat in the Tobacco Bowl in Richmond. On successive Saturdays, William and Mary meets the University of North Carolina, Wake Forest, and The Citadel — all in enemy territory — before returning home on October 6 against Villanova.

The fact the Tech game has been switched from the last game of the season to the first should work to the advantage of William and Mary, which has 34 lettermen returning, the best offensive line in the Southern Conference, and spark-plug Billy Deery at quarterback. Tech is minus last year's fine passer Don Strock, and in the opener will be testing a new offensive system.

In Deery, the Tribe has one of its most exciting players in years. In his sophomore season, Deery gained over 1600 yards in total offense — 823 rushing and 860 in passing — and easily established himself as the best sophomore player in the Southern Conference. He will get plenty of help from an offensive line anchored by All-America candidate Joe Montgomery at center and from another sophomore sensation from last year — Dick Pawliewicz, a 6-2, 215, (and still growing) pound end who runs out of the backfield, plays flanker, and operates at tight end with equal skill.

In cross country track, Randolph has six runners who he believes can run with anyone in the country. They include former all-American Ron Martin, Bill Louv, who was instrumental in last year's sweep by William and Mary of the SC cross-country title, Mac Collins, Tim Cook, and Reggie Clarke. The Indians could well have all of them in the NCAA finals in Pullman, Washington, on November 19.

For the past three years, the Indian soccer team has reached the finals of the Southern Conference championship, only to come up on the short end. Last year, Albert's team won its division and then lost in the conference title game to Appalachian State, 1-0. He would like to change that this year, and with his 13 lettermen and topflight freshmen, the prospects are encouraging.

Dr. J.A.C. Chandler — one of Virginia's finest educators

The renaissance of the College of William and Mary in Virginia is the story of Dr. J.A.C. Chandler and the men and women who supported him.

No study of modern education in the Old Dominion would be complete without considerable attention to the works of the late president of William and Mary. Former students and associates will be interested in the biography of Dr. Chandler written by Solomon R. Butler, with the assistance of Prof. Charles D. Waters of Hampton Institute.

"The Life of Dr. Julian Alvin Carrol Chandler and His Influence on Education in Virginia" is the result of years of research in Richmond, Norfolk and Williamsburg archives as well as personal knowledge and interviews with those who knew Dr. Chandler.

It traces the "Development Years," then the "Editor Years" and following that, his work with the Jamestown Exposition.

Dr. Chandler was a prolific writer, especially relating to Virginia and American history and studies of the South. Many of his works are still used in libraries and also are being collected by "Virginians."

His career as superintendent of Schools in Richmond shows the beginnings of his administrative abilities as well as his remarkable mind.

"One of the secrets of Dr. Chandler's success as Superintendent of the Schools of Richmond was his ability to turn what seemed on the surface to be adversity or a real handicap into success as it related to the cause of education," Butler notes.

By his diplomacy Dr. Chandler overcame opposition to curriculum revision, introduction of music, manual training, weeding out of incompetent teachers, and so on.

He weathered opposition from some teachers and by his efforts to improve their pay and teaching conditions he won growing support from them.

In September 1918 he was chosen for the Presidency of the College of William and Mary. "He is quoted as having said that on the day of his graduation, when handed his first degree, the feeling came over him that some day he would become President of that grand old college," Butler writes.

On July 1, 1919, when he took over, the enrollment of the year before had been a mere 131. The next year it was 227 men and 106 women. In 1920 three Norfolksians, alumni, Dr. E.L.C. Taliaferro, A.H. Foreman and Robert M. Hughes headed a successful drive to raise $1,000,000.

Dr. Chandler's dreams of bringing education to the people are exemplified by his night school establishment in Richmond and by his originality and foresightedness in establishing extension courses, the first in Virginia, in 1919-20. He was no postponer of action. By 1922, Norfolk, for example, had 160 extension students. The extension classes, continuing, were the seeds that brought about the development of Richmond Professional Institute, now under the Virginia Commonwealth University banner, and the forerunners of Old Dominion University.

Dr. Chandler was bound to be controversial. The authors bring out many incidents in the chapter: "Dr. J.A.C. Chandler's Public Relations with Faculty, Students and the General Public as President of the College."

"Probably the greatest contribution that Dr. Chandler made towards education in Virginia came through personal contact . . . and one of the secrets of his success lay in the fact that he was willing to give of himself and give freely," author Butler notes in the concluding chapters.

The publication, in limited supply, is available at the Beacon Book stores in Norfolk and Virginia Beach at $2.50 per copy. —R.K.T. Larson

1973 WILLIAM & MARY FOOTBALL SEASON TICKET INFORMATION

This should be the year the Indians get that winning season. Last year the Tribe had its third straight 5-6 season, but Jim Root, now in his second try at the William and Mary helm, has 33 of his top 39 players back, including do-it-all QB Billy Deery. So if you want to be in on the action with the best seats, buy season tickets. Do it before July 15 and save five dollars, too. Here are the prices for the five home games:

$30.00 for the best remaining seats on orders received after July 15.
 $10.00 for reserved season tickets in the end zone.

Only Tomahawk Club members (or above) who have made their contribution to the Educational Foundation (or pledge) by June 30th are entitled to purchase season tickets in Section EE. Tomahawk Club members are entitled to purchase two (2) tickets in Section EE and one additional season ticket for each additional $50.00 contributed. If EE is sold out, Tomahawk priority will extend to the best seats available.

How to order 1973

W&M Season Tickets

Season ticket orders will be filled first. Last year's season ticket holders will receive same seat locations if their orders are postmarked no later than July 15th. After that date the seats will be sold on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

Individual game tickets ordered in addition to season tickets will not necessarily be adjacent to season tickets.

All orders must be accompanied by a check or Bank Americard number.

Make check or money order payable to WMAA and mail to Box 399, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.

'OWJ' Celebrates First Anniversary

The Order of the White Jacket (OWJ) was founded last year by former W&M waiters. Its second Homecoming Dinner meeting will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 18, in the Campus Center Ballroom. Cocktails are scheduled at 6 p.m. So far, 128 men who worked as regular (or regular substitute) waiters, or headwaiters, in College dining halls have enrolled to help emphasize the value and dignity of working through College, to establish fraternal ties, and to initiate service programs for W&M. The form at right should be completed by those eligible to obtain further information on the OWJ, headed by M. Carl Andrews '27 of Roanoke. Members include honorary co-chairmen Mills E. Godwin, Jr. and Davis Y. Paschall, and recruiters for most alumni classes to help obtain names of former waiters who are eligible.

'WAITER' SERVICE REGISTRATION FORM
(For eligible former students not now members of OWJ.)

You are hereby advised that the undersigned, a former W&M student performed services as a regular waiter, head waiter, etc., (or regular substitute waiter etc.) in the College Dining Hall or Cafeteria during the year(s) .....

73-74 Alumni Meetings Set

The magnificent Drapers Hall in London was the scene last May of a formal dinner attended by 53 American alumni and parents and 50 alumni, visiting faculty and guests residing in Great Britain.

The dinner, arranged by the United Kingdom Chapter of the Society, was part of the William and Mary Alumni Tour to London.

A marble-walled ante-room overlooking a formal garden in the heart of London's financial district was the setting for a reception prior to the typical City of London dinner. The Drapers Company had its treasured silver on display in its banquet hall, beneath towering portraits of kings and queens. Master of Ceremonies Jack Morpurgo '38 presided as president of the UK Chapter. C. Randolph Davis '50, president of the society, made brief remarks and presented Dr. Morpurgo with the Alumni Medallion. Professor David Quinn, recently a visiting professor at William and Mary, delivered the major address of the evening. Greetings from President Graves were read by Dr. W. Melville Jones, retired vice president of the College and a Free Man of the Drapers Company.

Another group of alumni, numbering about 60, traveled to Hawaii in June and met with William and Mary alumni living in the islands at the Hilton Hawaiian Village.

Fall meetings on the schedule include Cleveland, October 23; Detroit, October 24; Chicago, October 25; and Houston, on December 10 or 11. Post football game parties are tentatively scheduled for Blacksburg on September 8, Chapel Hill on September 15, and Durham, N.C., September 22. The Roanoke chapter will have a pre-game champagne breakfast before the VPI game on September 8 at the Lakeview Motor Inn in Roanoke, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. Bus excursions are being planned from Richmond to both the VPI and Chapel Hill games.

Freshest Advices

W. Josselyn Reed of Raleigh, N. C. enjoyed a trip in July to Panama, Colombia, Equadore and the Galapagos Islands.

Mrs. A. Brinkley Trammell (Wilhemina Swann) 711 Ridgecrest Circle Denton, Tx. 76201

Having heard from only about one percent of our class in these two years of reporting the Alumni news, I was about to resign when this newsy letter, which I will share with you, arrived from Hilda Stephenson Woodall, 7551 Route 32, Clarksville, Md. 21029.

After graduating from William and Mary she taught in South Norfolk High School until she married in 1941. A year later they were moved to Ocala, Fla. where her husband was with the U.S. Engineers. The Corps of Engineers then sent him back to Washington and Baltimore until his retirement in 1963. There they bought twenty-two and a half acres around Clarksville, near the new self-sufficient city of Columbia. Hilda became active in the Methodist Church, Community Association, Garden Club, Homemakers Fire Auxiliary and they both enjoy the Leisure Club.

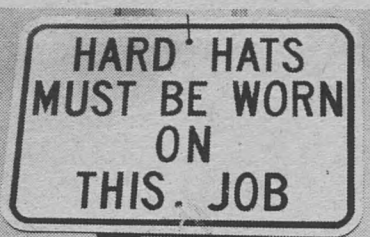

Shelton Baker and his wife have been out to visit them. He has retired and lives in Baltimore.

Elise Everett Kramer writes that she has retired as hostess in the exhibition buildings of Colonial Williamsburg and has returned to her home in Elizabeth City, N. C.

William B. Bolton 1103 Princess Anne Street Fredericksburg, Va. 22401

Justice Lawrence W. l'Anson of the Virginia Supreme Court has been awarded the Virginia Trial Lawyers Association's 1973 distinguished service award. One of the major contributions with money from the general fund of the French Army.

The building was the only one of the three 18th century buildings in the historic section of campus which was not burned by Federal troops during the Civil War.

All work on the house has been and is being done by Colonial Williamsburg under a contract which covers the renovation of the three 18th century structures on the old campus.

Don Evans, director of architectural projects for Colonial Williamsburg, said that plans for interior changes were prepared so that all of the 18th century interior walls of the President's House would be retained. Even the existing millwork in the rooms will not be altered, he said.

Some of the steps, Evans said, "cost a few more pennies, but we want to preserve the historical integrity of the buildings."

During the last two years there has been some minor refurbishing, replacement, modernizing and repairing of furnishings and appliances in the house. Some additional refurbishing of furniture may be undertaken in 1974-75 if funds are available, Vice President Carter explained.

Carter explained that the house, which had fallen into disrepair and disuse over the decades, will again, after renovation "be able to serve the entire college community in the role for which it was intended and will be of a quality that reflects well its place in history and its place in the college today."

for which the award cited l'Anson was his chairmanship of the Virginia Court System Study Commission. Several of the commission's proposals were enacted before the General Assembly.

Eliza Hunter Trainham of Newport News, Va. retired in 1971 from the Virginia State Department of Education. She served as area and then assistant state superintendent for 25 years after teaching health education at Marshall High School. She often sees Kitty Myrick Marshall. She is active in the D.A.R. and also Delta Kappa Gamma.

Macon C. Sammons Box 206 Shawsville, Virginia

We had the pleasure of attending a dinner in June at Cumberland High School honoring E. Armstrong Smith, upon his retirement after 43 years as Superintendent of Schools of Cumberland County. A "This is Your Life" type of program was presented and many of his friends attended and took part in the program.

From the Richmond News Leader of April 22, 1973 we noticed that Edward T. Justis, President of the Class of 1929, retired May 21 as deputy commissioner of the Virginia Department of Vocational Rehabilitation.

Dr. William M. (Billy) Bickers has retired as Chairman and professor of Gynecology of American University of Beirut, Beirut, Lebanon and returned to Richmond, Va.

A brief personal note. Our daughter, Mary Virginia Sammons graduated from William and Mary with a degree in English in June of 1973.

A note to all classmates — keep those letters rolling in to your class agent — we need more news from everyone.

Mrs. Joseph N. James (Eleanor C. Williamson) Millwood, Va. 22646

Lucile Burke Smith took great delight in reviewing her husband's public service in education from 1930-1973 as it was presented in a "This is Your Life" program celebrating E. Armstrong Smith's retirement on June 30. Smitty has served as Superintendent of School of Cumberland County. Lucile says they will see us at Homecoming.

Ed Trice and Bernice have had the wonderful experience of greeting their first granddaughter, Samantha, whose mother, Cindy, was a 1968 graduate of the College of William and Mary. They tore themselves away long enough to take a three weeks trip to England, Scotland, and France. They planned their own tour and Ed says he saw things he taught about in English History and English Literature, and feels much better qualified for the job now that he has first hand knowledge.

Charlie Hailey has his son, Chip, in business with him in Real Estate and Insurance in Falls Church. Nancy is busy with her more than two hundred rosebushes.

Elizabeth Coleman Houser of Oakton, Va. retired this year after completing 42 years of teaching in Arlington Public Schools. At one time she was principal of Reed Elementary School. It is estimated that she has taught 1260 children during her career.

Charles S. Marshall, Director of the Virginia State Office, National Park Service, retired after 39 years. He received the Department of the Interior's Meritorious Service Award in 1965. He and his wife live in Williamsburg.

John Eversole of Phoenix, Ariz., Chairman of the Arizona Bicentennial Commission, was the honored guest at Greek Week ceremonies sponsored by the fraternities and sororities at Arizona State University. He briefed the students on plans for the national celebration and encouraged them to become involved.

Dr. Arthur House Stainback is the author of Dictionary of Illustrations and Outlines. It is the first of a series of six. The book is especially prepared for teachers and preachers.

Billy Palese of Medford Lakes, N.J. who has been associated with Leon E. Todd, Realtors Inc. for 20 years, recently led the sales staff with a volume of approximately $200,000.

38

Mrs. R. Lee Mitchell (Annabel W. Hopkins) 2110 Foley Road, Star Route Havre De Grace, Maryland 21078

Wilbur Y. Morton has been included in the Dictionary of International Bibliography, published in Cambridge, England. He is presently an assistant professor teaching economics at East Tennessee State University in Johnson City, Tennessee. Congratulations!

Eugenia Mathew Kleinknecht of Richmond, Ind. writes that she and husband Richard (UVA. Law School '39) keep busy with community activities and travel. They have recently visited daughters and new grandchildren in Ottawa, Canada, and Madrid, Spain.

Our class president, Horace Dyer, urges all members of the Class of 1938 to try to attend Homecoming this fall. We hope for a good representation at our — would you believe? — 35th reunion. See you there.

Mrs. Franklin D. Henderson (Barbara Clawson) Box 17 Irvington, Va. 22480

It certainly was great to receive such a nice letter from Frank Damrosch. "Pat" has been out of touch with things for the past few years, bouncing in and out of hospitals and finally winding up with open heart surgery . . . completely successful, but with orders from the medical profession to get out of the advertising business and retire early. He and his wife Billie have been living on the Kona Coast of Hawaii for over a year and recently moved into their new home which has a panoramic view of the Ocean. To keep out of trouble he's doing PR work for the local Chamber of Commerce, but most of the time he's just fishing, swimming, and really enjoying all that that beautiful spot has to offer.

Their two children, David, a pilot with United airlines, and Tricia, a Pennsylvania Dutch housewife, have provided them with five grandchildren. "Pat" hopes to get East for a reunion very soon, as the 25th was the last contact he had with Williamsburg. His address is PO Box 774, Kailua-Kona, Hawaii 96740.

We had an anniversary card from John and Marion Milne Barba who were married the same May 1 that Frank and I were 30 years ago. They were off to Bermuda to celebrate. Marion is out of Kessler Rehabilitation Institute now and does a little "cane walking" but mostly gets about by wheel chair. She says that she and John became instant grandparents when Bonnie and Bruce, of Laramie, Wyo., recently adopted a 2-week old boy.

Bob Dew is making great progress recovering from a heart attack. He looks wonderful and is now getting out and around.

At two different occasions recently Frank and I have enjoyed seeing and/or meeting some William and Mary people. At T. and Leah Waller's we met Pam and Carter Chinnis who have a summer home here in Irvington, and another evening we were dinner guests at Tides Inn along with Bill Wyatt and his wife, Betty, from Hampton. This little town is a great spot for finding alumni!

Across the creek from where Jack and Ann Garrett live and just down the cove from us, Elliott and Margie Hoskins Bloxom have built a lovely home and are getting settled. Red retired 1 June from the Navy as a Rear Admiral, so we're gradually getting surrounded by Navy. Jack Garrett is now associated with The Cecil-Waller Company as their local registered representative.

On the home front, our son, Dan, finished his first year at University of Virginia on Dean's list. Frank and I flew to the West Coast in June for a belated anniversary celebration. In August we expect Bambi and the grandchildren for a 2-week visit, so the summer will be a busy one. We look forward to Homecoming and hear from Ben and Jane Brandt Wild that they already have reservations at the Inn to attend.

Bette Smith Elliott of Raleigh, N. C. was a reporter and women's editor on a newspaper before becoming women's news director in 1963 for a Raleigh TV station. She has two children. Her son is an English instructor at Louisburg Junior College and her daughter is getting her MA in art at UNC-G. Smitty is still working in the local theatre, having done about eight plays.

Mrs. Rolf Williams (Sunny Trumbo) 904 Jamestown Crescent Norfolk, Va. 23508

Hi! Picked up news during our Azalea Festival Week — Grace and Harry Cox looking forward to Hawaii to see Ginny in her W&M roommate's wedding.

Jean and Jack Bruce preparing for son's wedding and pleased that daughter will be a Freshman — Guess where!

Connie Curtis Laws involved with second wedding in six months — Page — a Wellesley Phi Beta (in three years) and a fall '73 Yale graduate student with her husband, who is also a Yale grad.

Jean S. Preston excited by a new cottage near Tide's Inn (and the Fosters) a beautiful new boat, and being a grandmother!

Saw Evie King recently at Sandbridge recuperating from what my young W&M friends say was the wedding of the year — Kathy King's. Saw Jane Turner Laird at Sandbridge. She and Charlie have moved from Williamsburg to an old farm near Gloucester.

Betty and Vince Lascara recently moved back to our area. He is the Admiral in charge of largest supply center in the world. Clare and Joe Brichter said that his change of command was great!

Jean Outland Chrysler and Walter have put together first comprehensive Picasso exhibit since his death. It is attracting thousands of visitors to our museum.

Bob Sanderson here from his art gallery in Memphis. We didn't see him. Rolf broke his leg playing tennis. A month later he fell down stairs at beach (with me in front of him) and there were two of us in rescue squad truck — That's togetherness. All goes well.

Julius Trousdale Sadler, Jr. of Litchfield, Conn. is the co-author of Mr. Jefferson, Architect, the first complete study of Thomas Jefferson's career as an architect.

THE ALUMNI GAZETTE will have new class secretaries gradually, so volunteer or give us a suggestion. See you at Homecoming.

Mrs. Donald R. Rutter (Mary A. Keeney) 1001 Pontiac Lafayette, Ind. 47905

Charles F. Hyle has recently been promoted to Manager of Marketing Services in the Container Division of Anderson Box Company in Indianapolis.

Jack A. Lawson of Hampton, Va. is serving as a director of the Dominion Bank.

Edward C. Dunbar of Roanoke, Va. has been named Chairman of the Budget and Consultation Committee of the United Fund of Roanoke Valley, Inc.

Jack B. Hoey has been elected a Vice President of Peoples Natural Gas Co. in Allison Park, Pa.

Joe P. King, Jr. of Franklin, Va. is featured in one of this year's issues of the Virginia School Boards Association newsletter. He has been a city school board member for 10 years, and its chairman since 1968. He was elected VSBA president in 1972.

Elsie C. Gruver this year was elected to the Board of Directors of First Virginia Bankshares. She is the first woman to serve on the board of any Virginia bank holding group.

This year Dr. W. Jackson Payne of Athens, Ga. was the recipient of the P. R. Edwards Award given by the Southeastern Branch of the American Society for Microbiology for outstanding service in Microbiology.

Howard W. Wiseman was elected to the membership of the Sons of the Revolution this year. He lives in Maplewood, N. J.

Eugene Brockley of Portsmouth, Va. is now minister of Portsmouth Christian Church. He is married and the father of three children.

Peggy Benedum Stout of Round Hill, Va. received her master's degree in education in May of this year from the University of Alaska at Anchorage. She taught in the Anchorage School System which she writes is an outstanding school system. Both daughters are in college at the University of Alaska in Fairbanks. Her husband being assigned military duty in the Pentagon will mean that they will be returning to the D.C. area. She writes that they all have fallen in love with Alaska and will hate to leave.

C. H. Woodling of Friendswood, Tex. had been awarded the NASA Exceptional Service Medal in recognition of outstanding contributions to Apollo.

Recently Edward R. Lupton of Springfield, Va. was promoted to full Colonel and is the commanding officer of the Army Recruiting Support Center.

Kathryn Halsey Armstrong of Palo Alto, Calif. wrote a very interesting note some time ago. "After a brief stint as a secretary, I joined the married ranks when John Loveland Armstrong (West Point, '46), whom I had known for 25 years, claimed me as his blushing bride upon his return from Korea. We then proceeded to produce our own population explosion — John, Lee Anne, Mark, and Jimmy. Army tours around the world ranged from the ridiculous (South Dakota with its 20-degree-below-zero winters) to the sublime (3 years with NATO in Fontainebleau, France, where the older children attended French schools and we all acquired a patina of "culture"). When my husband was at war in Vietnam, I held down the fort in Palo Alto, from general's daughter to captain's bride to "Colonel's Lady." I loved the old-time Army life, but still was glad when my husband hung up his green suit for good in 1967. His longtime interest in economics led to his present position as District Manager for an investment analysis firm. I am active on the Children's Health Council, and help out with school, church and scouting activities.

Mack H. Sturgill of Rocky Mount, N. C. this year was granted a year's leave of absence for study and writing. Several months will be spent traveling in Spain. He is an assistant professor of Romance Languages at N.C. Wesleyan College.

Dr. Robert G. Landen has been named this year Dean of the College of Social and Behavioral Sciences at the University of South Carolina.

54 Mrs. J. Mitchell Brown
(Marguerite Huff)
6720 Deland Drive

Jim Grant of Demarest, N. J. early this year was elected Vice President of Corn Products Corporation, Inc. in New Jersey. He is in charge of research and development. Also with this firm is Gene Alton Burns, '52, of Ridgewood, N. Y. who is the Vice President of Finance.

John Bednarik of Allentown, Pa. in June was appointed head coach of Lehigh University's freshman gridiron squad. He and Mary, his wife, have two children.

Milburn L. Hines of Williamsport, Pa. is assistant to the president of Capital Industries, Inc.

With the demise of the Minnesota Experimental City Program, Ron and Betsy Skinker Barnes are moving to Topeka, Kans. where Ron '52 is a senior associate in the Division of Industrial Mental Health with the Menninger Foundation.

William A. Brink of New Haven, Conn. has been elected Corporate Vice President of The Burton Company — general insurance.

Oren R. Lewis, Jr. of Arlington, Va. has been elected to the board of directors of First Virginia Life Insurance.

Can you believe that we have been out fifteen years? I hope that you all really try to get back to William and Mary this fall for Homecoming.

I understand there is to be a big (and refreshing) change in your newsletter reporters. Beginning with your February issue, you will have a new class reporter who will write for the class for five years. At the end of five years another class reporter will be chosen. This new system should provide better coverage.

For the news of the summer: Rusty Dietrich McDaniel is moving again. Mac has been named District Commercial Manager for the C&P Telephone district centered in Lynchburg, Va.

Catherine Bache Kasko has been elected president of the Salvation Army Home and Hospital Auxiliary. Her husband's Red Sox are in the thick of an exciting American League pennant race.

Edward Love wrote just in time to miss the last newsletter. He said he is a partner in the management of a restaurant in Dover, New Jersey, as well as taking night courses in Business Administration at Fairleigh Dickinson College there in N.J. He said he is also the business manager and agent for his wife, who is a professional wrestler.

Richard F. Sanders of Vienna, Va. has been named assistant principal with primary responsibility for the Middle School of George Mason High School in Falls Church, Va. He was formerly a biology teacher, health and physical education instructor, guidance counselor and coach.

William H. McCray formerly of Princeton Junction, N. J. early this year was appointed branch manager for IBM in Birmingham, Ala.

Phyllis Atwood Gauker and John and their newborn son live in a small village in southern Spain.

Many thanks to Judy Case Falkenrath whose Delta Delta Delta newsletter comprises most of this column. Judy and Jim, who served two tours in Viet Nam, live in Falls Church with Michelle, and newborn son Michael. Jim, who remains in the Army, works for Computer Systems Command. The Falkenraths enjoy gardening and artsy-craftsy projects around the house.

Debby Battles Young and Dick live in a 70 year-old Victorian house in Bala Cynwyd, Pa. with their four daughters, ages 9, 7, 5, and 2. Since 1969 Dick has been assistant counsel to the William H. Rorer Co. Martha Bell Laxson and David enjoy living in Hilo, Hawaii on the big island of Hawaii with their daughters, ages 3 and 1. David practices law in Hilo and Martha is interested in organic gardening and raising orchids.

Gayle Crabill Kerns and Waldon live in Athens, Ga., where Waldon is an assistant professor of agricultural economics at the University of Ga. Gayle is busy with their two daughters, ages 8 and 4, and son David, 1 year-old. Carita Dalrymple Green and Howard live in Honolulu where Howard practices law (with the same firm David Laxson is with) and Carita is secretary to a vice president of the Hawaiian Electric Co. The Greens recently took an exotic trip to the Far East.

Carol Keyes Balesteri and Sal were married in 1970 and live in Salinas, Calif. with their 1 year-old son Chad. Sal recently sold a fishing fleet and now devotes more time to wood-working, sculpture and painting; he owns a craft shop and real estate at Fisherman's Wharf in Monterey. Carol specializes in dioramic paintings now which have a 3-D collage effect. She usually paints street and wharf scenes of the Monterey area or of France. Walt Disney Productions sent one of the French ones to the International Trade Center.

Lorne Mitchell Cassell and Carl met in 1965 in a Little Theater group in Vero Beach, Fla. and were married in 1968. They live in Satellite Beach with their 2 year-old son Mitch. Lorne is active in the local Tri Delta alumnae group.

Bea McKay Osbon and Jim live in Richmond with their sons, ages 3 and 2. Jim left IBM to form The Computer Company in 1969 which is doing well and growing rapidly. Bea's hobbies have included work with the Children's Theater and the local sorority alumnae group.

Janet Perry Ellis and Wayne have built a home in Midlothian. Wayne completed work on his master's degree and is now a systems analyst manager at VEPSCO in Richmond. With two children in private schools, Janet does a lot of car-pooling but still finds time for tennis and weekend boating. Elena Ruddy McMarlin and Stacy, '61, are currently settled in Germany with six children, all ages, while Stacy is a dermatologist (Lt. Col.) with the Army. The McMarlins are also traveling a lot in Europe with an accent on skiing for the whole family. Prior to Germany Stacy did his three year dermatology residency in San Francisco.

Mary Stekete Hall and Bill live in Pittsburgh where Mary is manager of the College Bookstore at Allegheny Community College. In the past few years Mary has become preoccupied with politics, was active in the McGovern campaign for 1½ years, and a delegate to the Democratic Convention. She has also been active on the National Women's Caucus nationally and locally and is on the board of directors of the county group. Bill completed his doctorate at Brown in 1968 and teaches math at the University of Pittsburgh.

Carol Anne Wylie Swagler has written that she and her husband, Roger, who will be teaching at the University of Liberia under the Fulbright Program this year are interested in knowing of any other alumni who might be in Africa. She has heard that Dot Young, '62, is in Algiers and Anne Harvey, '63 is in Dahomey.

Richard S. Perles of New York City writes that after three years of service as a law assistant to the Board of Justices of the New York State Supreme Court — New York and Bronx Counties, he has returned to private practice with a firm. He spends most weekends afloat sailing on Sweet Piece between Maine and Virginia.

The Reverend J. Gregory Tweet is pastor of the First Congregational Church in Old Lyme, Conn.

When I'm not busy with my two preschool boys or writing this column for the Gazette, I'm involved in gardening, refinishing furniture and sailing, which along with politics, is a family passion. Please send me your news and names of any volunteers for a new class scribe four years hence.

YOUR SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI

A Special Report

Goals and Objectives

THERE'S A LOT IN IT FOR YOU . . . fellowship, leadership opportunities, services offered exclusively to Alumni Society members, opportunities for service to others.

There are rewarding experiences in building lasting friendships, and the opportunity to serve others, fellow alumni, undergraduates, faculty, staff, and the College itself.

THESE ARE OUR GOALS AND OBJECTIVES—:

1. To create an understanding of the William and Mary's programs, goals and objectives.
2. To serve as a connecting link between alumni and their College.
3. To keep alumni informed of current College events and to stimulate alumni interest and concern.
4. To develop a supporting body of alumni leadership to serve the interests of the College.
5. To bring the alumni together, both on and off the campus, for the common good of the alumni and the College.
6. To recognize outstanding alumni for their service to their communities and/or their vocations as well as to William and Mary, and to encourage such service.
7. To assist in maintaining alumni records for the College and for alumni chapters.
8. To assist the ongoing academic life of the College through scholarship and research assistance for both faculty and students, and recognition to outstanding younger faculty members.

SERVICES OFFERED EXCLUSIVELY TO ALUMNI

The Alumni Gazette is mailed without charge to all located alumni. In addition it is distributed to parents of undergraduates, students, and friends of the College. It is a major means of communication to keep alumni throughout the country, and overseas, informed of the facts and events of the changing life on campus. From time to time other publications by the College or the Society are distributed to all alumni in the interest of a fuller understanding of William and Mary today, or as historical interest items.

The Society offers travel tours several times a year. Priced at affordable group rates, these tours offer alumni an opportunity to expand their knowledge of the world, as well as their friendships with fellow alumni.

Alumni visiting Williamsburg often contact the Alumni Office to assist in locating lodgings or make other reservations.

SPECIAL EVENTS TO GET ALUMNI TOGETHER

Homecoming Weekend is one of the most important events sponsored by the Society. Its express purpose is to encourage alumni to return every fall to the College, to enjoy the fellowship, and to see the new developments on campus. At the Annual Meeting of the Society, held during the weekend, Alumni Medallions are presented, the classes holding reunions are recognized, new members of the Board of Directors are announced, and a report on the status of the College is made by the President.

Alumni Chapter meetings bring former William and Mary students together in their local communities. Through local chapter affiliations, alumni keep abreast of current events and developments on the campus, build lasting friendships with fellow graduates, have the opportunity to meet other alumni with similar interests or business affiliations, and learn ways to serve in the interest of their College. Opportunities for community service may be offered through chapter projects.

Class Reunions, generally held every five years during the Homecoming weekend, give special emphasis to the members of the class to return and renew old acquaintances with fellow students, and special events are held for them.

The Alumni Society sponsors get-togethers for alumni in areas where there is not an organized alumni chapter for such events as visits by the choir on tour, athletic competitions, or where a member of the faculty or administration may be available and it is thought the program would be of interest to area alumni.

AWARDS FOR SCHOLARS, ALUMNI, AND FACULTY

Summer Research Grants assist faculty members in their research projects, and the Society of the Alumni was instrumental in the establishment of these grants. The Society continues to contribute to these worthy academic pursuits, which result in meaningful contributions to various academic fields, and provides fresh inputs into the undergraduate educational experience.

In addition, under the Endowment Association of the College, the Society has established a corpus, the income from which is to be used for direct payments of salary and research grants to members of the teaching staff of the College.

Alumni Fellows is the designation given to five members of the faculty who, although younger members, have been recognized for their efforts to be especially outstanding 'teachers' and have had a strong positive influence on the undergraduates through their abilities, their concerns and their interest in students.

The Alumni Medallions are awarded annually to alumni of the College who have distinguished themselves by achieving prominence in their profession, by continuing service to the Society and to the College, and by their participation in the life of their community and efforts to assist their fellow man. This award is the Society's most coveted citation. The presentation of these awards is an important event during the Annual Meeting of the Society. It is one of the ways the Society strives to recognize outstanding accomplishments of individuals which reflects credit on the College. In order that the integrity of the award be maintained, no more than five may be awarded any one year.

The Alumni Scholarship Fund has been established to award scholarships annually to young men and women of high character and promise in scholarship. Alumni Scholarships were awarded as early as the 1938-1939 session from an expendable fund under the Board of Visitors. However, it was not until June 1956 that President A. D. Chandler was instrumental in having the contributions by the Alumni Society go to the Endowment Association to create an unexpendable endowment fund to supply income to serve the scholarship program indefinitely. Many students are now the beneficiaries of aid from this fund and a great many more will be helped in the future.

An Architect's Rendering of the Alumni House

(Pull out and save for future reference)

The Society of the Alumni was officially founded in 1842, although there did exist an informal structure prior to its incorporation.

The first and last objective of the Society is to serve the College community, which includes the student body, faculty, administration, and the alumni themselves in the areas that have been defined generally by the Society charter, and specifically by those areas that have been developed by the individual Boards of Directors themselves.

Whatever affects the College is the concern of the Alumni Society. The Alumni are the college's primary product and feel a responsibility to support the institution in such a way that future generations will benefit from the same opportunities they enjoyed. They recognize that their years at William and Mary were made more meaningful by those generations which preceded them. It is in this spirit that they wish to continue by preserving the best of college memories and subsequently what that experience has given to their lifestyle.

Any student who has attended the College for one semester or more, during regular session, is considered a member of the Society. There are certain rights and privileges which accrue to the contributing member, but all members receive mailings, the Alumni Gazette, and other benefits, for as long as the Society has a current mailing address for them.

The Society is governed by a Board of Directors. There are fifteen members, with five being elected annually for a three year term. No director may serve more than two consecutive terms, but serve any number of terms. The Board of Directors are elected by members of the Society of the Alumni who have contributed in the most recent year to the William and Mary Fund. Nominees for the Board are selected by a committee of alumni, chaired by a current member of the Board, and there must be at least two persons running for each vacancy. Nominations for candidacy may be made by petition, signed by contributing members. There must be at least three women on the Board at any one time, and there must be one person from the immediate Williamsburg area.

A long and historical past

The officers of the Society are elected by the Board of Directors for a one year term, from their own number. The Board is required to meet at least twice each year, normally in early December and late May. Copies of the by-laws of the Board and the minutes of the meetings are available by contacting the Alumni Office.

The President of the Society appoints such committees as necessary to assist in conducting the business of the Board. Alumni who are not Board members may be appointed to these committees.

The Society functions through the Executive Secretary and the staff of the Alumni Office, which offices are located in the Alumni House, adjacent to the stadium, on Richmond Road. The Executive Secretary is responsible to the Board of Directors. All members of the office staff are paid by the Society.

The Alumni Office works with the Board, with the classes, and with the Alumni Chapters throughout the country, and in England, as well as with various other committees and organizations of the College.

The assistance given uncludes organizational help, processing of communications, supplying of alumni lists for bona fide college related functions, program preparations for meetings, providing speakers, handling details of reunions, Homecoming, special events, etc.

The Alumni Office assists in maintaining a complete, up-to-date, alphabetical file of all alumni. A mailing stencil file is maintained by both class and geographic area.

All address changes, records of marriages, children, careers, and deaths are sent to the Alumni Office and it is important for each alumnus to send in any such changes. The Society does not have sufficient staff and resources to trace lost and unlocated alumni extensively, so please report the above changes and especially address changes, of yourself or other alumni.

There are currently some seventeen alumni chapters that meet on a regular basis around the country, and one in England. The main objective of a local chapter is to sponsor and encourage any activities by that group, to further the welfare and best interests of William and Mary, to provide the means for alumni living in the same area to become acquainted, and to renew old friendships. It is hoped that this will become an important bond between the alumni and the campus.

ALUMNI HOUSE

In the spring of 1971 the Society moved its offices into the former Bright House, a spacious Georgian house on Richmond Road, with extensive lawn area available. Throughout 1972 and into 1973 the Society has been raising money to remodel and decorate this house into a suitable alumni facility. Work is underway and is scheduled for completion prior to the fall of 1973.

The new Alumni House will contain several large reception rooms, a library, and office space for the staff. The lawn is available for pre-game luncheons and other receptions.

THE WILLIAM AND MARY FUND

For a number of years the Society conducted the William and Mary Fund soliciting money from alumni for the operations of the Society and to fund programs in support of numerous College activities. Among these were the Summer Research Grants, the Alumni Fellows faculty recognition, the Queens Guard, the Yule Log Ceremony, assistance in the writing of the History of the College, the 275th Anniversary, Charter Day, Parents Day, visits by special groups to campus, Burgesses Day, receptions for the General Assembly, and many other unbudgeted events, student scholarships and faculty recruitment funds.

In the spring of 1973 the Alumni Board authorized the Office of College Development to assume the fund raising responsibilities formerly held by the Society. The College will provide the Society with operating funds.

19 active chapters to serve alumni

The Society has 19 current local Chapters with active organizations, three which are temporarily inactive. As the result of the New Era program now underway, two additional Chapters are being formed and five interest groups have been identified.

The most recent Charter was granted in May to the new Portsmouth, Va., Chapter by Mrs. Harriett Storm, representing the Board of Directors. Perhaps the most unusual is the London Chapter.

The following is a directory of Chapters and other groups served by the Society:

23,052 William and Mary Alumni and Where They Live

This map shows the location by state of the 23,052 known William and Mary alumni. Just about half of the alumni are residents of Virginia. The figures are taken from a study made this past spring by the Society.

A progressive Board of Directors

The major shifts in the role of the Society of the Alumni, and its move toward greater service to William and Mary and its alumni, have been guided by a Board of Directors which has spent an uncommon amount of time preparing for the inauguration of the "New Era."

Managing the transition has not been an easy task, and it was all the more complicated because it necessitated an unusually vigorous fund raising program and supervision of the development of the College's first Alumni House. The current members of the Board, therefore, have been among the most hardworking in history and many are regular visitors to the campus to attend to one assignment or another. Regular meetings of the Board are tightly scheduled, and only the wee hours of the evening are available for socializing.

Current officers of the Society, serving until December 1, are:

Colin R. Davis, '50, Suffolk, Virginia, President.

Chester F. Giermak, '50, Erie, Pa., Vice President.

Allen C. Tanner, '46, Newport News, Va., Secretary-Treasurer.

Gordon C. Vliet, '54, is Executive Secretary.

The Board of Directors now includes: Serving to December 1973:

Dr. Guy M. Daugherty, '34, Rochester, Minnesota. Guy is in the Cardiovascular Division at the Mayo Clinic and is Chairman of the William and Mary Fund Committee and the Restructuring By-Laws Committee and on the Alumni Medallion Committee. He has served on the Board for six years.

Marjorie Retzke Gibbs, '44, Cleveland, Ohio. Marge is a housewife, married to Wayne F. Gibbs, Jr., '44, after a brief career as a publicity writer and continuity editor. She is a member of the Chapter and Publications committees of the Board and Chairman of the Homecoming and Admissions Committees.

Chester F. Giermak, '50, Erie, Pa. Chet is President of Eriez Magnetics, and several of their subsidiaries. In addition to serving as Vice President of the Society he is Chairman of the Operation Visibility Committee and serves on the Fund and Alumni House Committees. Chet is completing six years on the Board.

Paul K. Lapolla, '41, La Jolla, Calif. Paul is a Vice President of CRM Books and the Director of the Psychology Today Book Club. Chairman of the History of the College Committee, he also serves on the Alumni Medallion and Operation Visibility Committees.

Allen C. Tanner, '46, Newport News, Va. A partner in a CPA firm he helped found, and a six year veteran of the Board, he is Chairman of the Nominating Committee and serves on the Fund and Development committees as well as acting as Secretary-Treasurer. Serving to December 1974:

Dan H. Edmonson, '38, Glen Ellyn, Illinois. Executive Vice President of Kroehler Furniture Manufacturing Company, Dan is in his first term on the board and he is acting as Chairman of the Chapter Committee and a member of the Fund and Alumni House committees.

Jane Harden Hanson, '42, Potomac, Maryland. Jane is a housewife active in her community work, and her husband is Tim Hanson, '39. She is Chairman of the Alumni Medallion Committee and a member of the Operation Visibility, Alumni House and Restructuring By-Laws committees. She has been a member of the Board for six years.

Glen E. McCaskey, '63, Hilton Head Island, S.C. Glen is in his first term on the Board. He is Executive Director of the Institute of Environmental and Leisure Studies, Sea Pines Plantation Co. Chairman of the Publications Committee, he is also on the Alumni Medallion, Operation Visibility and Admissions committees.

John F. Morton, Jr. '58, Metairie, Louisiana. Head of his own architectural firm in New Orleans, John has served as architect for the Alumni House after having developed the original proposal. He is Chairman of the Alumni House Committee, and a member of the Chapter and Office committees. His wife Roney is a member of the Class of 1959. This is John's first term on the Board.

William L. Person, '24, Williamsburg, Va. A longtime resident of Williamsburg he is President of Person Ford. Chairman of the Office Committee and the Development Committee he is in his first term. To December 1975:

Jean Canoles Bruce, '49, Norfolk, Va. Director of Family Life Education for the Health-Welfare-Recreation Planning

Council of Norfolk. Jean is a first term and a member of the Fund, Alumni Medallion, Office and Admissions committees. Her husband Jack is a member of the Class of '49.

Colin R. Davis, '50, Suffolk, Va. Randy is Vice President and General Manager of the Ferguson Mfg. Co. of Suffolk. He is in his second term on the Board and his second year as President. He serves as ex-officio member on all committees as well as the Board representative on the Jefferson Award Committee. His wife Sue is a 1950 graduate.

Fred L. Fretchett, '46, Richmond, Va. He is President of his own motion picture company in Richmond. He serves on the Publications and Restructuring By-Laws committees. His wife Caroline is a member of the Class of 1950. This is his first term.

J. William Hornsby, Jr., '50, Newport News, Va. Bill is a practicing attorney and currently Mayor of Newport News. His wife Susan is a 1948 graduate of the College. He serves on the Office, Development and Admissions committees as well as the Executive Committee with the officers of the Board. This is Bill's first term on the Board.

Harriet Nachman Storm, '64, Hampton, Va. A former Women's Editor for the Daily Press she is returning to the College and is working on her M.Ed. She is serving her first term and is on the Publications, Homecoming and Nominating committees.

10 enthusiastic, well qualified nominees

Ballots will be mailed early in the fall for the election of five members of the Society's Board of Directors. Results of the vote will be announced at the Annual Meeting during Homecoming, October 19-20.

The five Directors whose current terms expire December 1 are Dr. Guy M. Daugherty '34, Mrs. Marjorie Retzke Gibbs '44, Chester F. Giermak '50, Allen C. Tanner '46, and Paul K. Lapolla '41. Only Mrs. Gibbs is eligible for an additional term, and she has agreed to be on the ballot.

Harold M. Bates, '52, Roanoke, Virginia. A practicing attorney and former President of the Roanoke Alumni Chapter, Hal's wife Audrey is also a member of the Class of 1952.

Raymond T. Waller, '40, Richmond, Va. T is a partner in his own investment firm and is a past President of the Richmond Alumni Chapter.

A modern approach to endowment

In its early history before it "chose to risk material substance for principle," the College of William and Mary was once considered the wealthiest college in the country, according to historian Herbert A. Adams. During the Revolution, however, William and Mary lost its most important sources of revenue through the depreciation of paper money and the diversion of English endowment funds, and after the Civil War the College found itself impoverished again by its investment in Confederate bonds.

Through the good graces of the Commonwealth of Virginia, William and Mary today finds itself on fairly solid financial footing, but its endowment remains comparatively small, amounting to around $10 million in funds invested under the Endowment Association and the Board of Visitors.

With the addition of a new staff member, Andrew D. Parker, Jr.,

Director for Special Gifts, the College development office has begun a concentrated effort to increase endowment funds. Parker, a graduate of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, joined the development office this month, and will devote a good share of his time to working with people who are interested in bequeathing money to William and Mary in ways that will be beneficial both to the individual and the College.

Warren Heemann, Vice President for College Development, says Parker will work mainly in the area of setting up charitable remainder trusts, including unitrusts, annuity and pooled income trusts; bequests through wills; insurance annuities in which the College is named the beneficiary, and in the area of gifts of property to the College.

In a quarterly newsletter to alumni, parents and friends of the College, Parker will explain the procedures and benefits of trust arrangements and bequests to William and Mary. Heemann notes that such arrangements can be mutually beneficial, resulting in tax benefits to the benefactor under the Tax Reform Act of 1969.

"In trust arrangements," says Heemann, "money can be given to the College and placed in trust, with a beneficiary or beneficiaries named in the trust arrangement either receiving a percentage of the income from investment or a fixed income. It becomes the College's responsibility to invest the money in a manner in which the interests of the beneficiary are realized and the corpus preserved and indeed increased."

The benefactor, for instance, can bequeath the money to the College, yet continue to receive income from the investment the College makes with that money. The College is named the "remainderment" and while it may not receive any direct benefit while the benefactor and his heirs are alive, after their deaths the corpus reverts to William and Mary. The arrangement, Heemann notes, can result in substantial tax advantages to the benefactor.

The College hopes, too, to attract money for Pooled Income Trusts from individuals who may wish to work out a trust arrangement but whose contribution would not be sufficient to warrant the establishment of an independent trust. In a pooled income trust, several contributions are invested together, similar to a mutual fund, and payments are made on a unit basis to the benefactor.

Parker will bring the knowledge not only of an attorney but of a former bank trust officer to the area of special gifts. Since he graduated from the law school in 1969, he has been associated with Citizens and Southern National Bank in Greenville, South Carolina, as a trust officer.
