

Cost Squeeze Threatens College

Inflation, the sluggish economy, ever-tightening State control over higher education planning, and changing State priorities are hanging over William and Mary this autumn like a threatening dark cloud.

It is the second year of the 1974-76 budget biennium, and already--six months before the next budget is enacted--the cloud is becoming more ominous.

At stake is the College's academic quality, supported by the modern, well-equipped facilities developed during the 1960s and the momentum of the 1970s as William and Mary pays close attention to enriching its programs. The College has earned a national reputation as one of the few State universities which has remained small and selective, both in admissions and in the types of academic programs it offers.

Among the latest in a series of threatening events which date back to 1972:

*A total of 5% of the College's current State appropriation will be turned back, unspent, to the State Treasury at the State's insistence in order to help keep the Commonwealth's annual expenditures within revenues. State tax receipts have fallen behind estimates, so far this fiscal year.

*Governor Mills E. Godwin, Jr. '35 has suggested that it may yet be necessary to ask for more money back before next July 1. In the meantime, however, he has reduced State aid to public schools by 5% and may also cut back State aid to localities by 5%. The series of curtailments, according to the Washington Post, is the worst in Virginia since the depths of the Depression.

*The State Council of Higher Education has recommended sharply reduced allocations for William and Mary libraries in 1976-78, based on its yardsticks for budget allocation. While William and Mary has three libraries (Swem, Law and Virginia Associated Research Campus) the yardsticks treat them as a single all-purpose library with no specialized requirements. The yardsticks allocate budget funds based simply on enrollment. The library recommendation will be appealed by the College.

*At the same time, the State Council--applying more of its formulas--depicted William and Mary as being substantially overstaffed in non-teaching activities. The overstaffing mostly relates to the existence of three separate library staffs at William and Mary, plus special staff for the Swem Library's archival and historical collections. But it also covers other administrative areas which require extra strength at William and Mary, as compared to the "average" State college. The State Council did not recommend any curtailment in staff, but its announcement of the theoretical overstaffing was certain to be read with interest by the General Assembly.

*While higher education was politically popular during the 1960s, and State budgets showed it, the times have changed. Next year's General Assembly is certain to be faced with the growing demand to upgrade the State prison system, improve mental health care, and meet other governmental needs. Public school standards of quality, mandated by the 1974 General Assembly, will require more money in 1976. It is not certain how higher educational appropriations will fare, but a 1976-78 freeze on new academic programs has already been laid down by the Governor's Office. The freeze affects almost entirely the major State universities.

Dennis Cogle '49
W&M Budget Director

*The State Personnel Office this fall established a new series of faculty salary average "targets" for each of the State-supported colleges and universities. The "targets" are based on comparisons with selected similar college and universities elsewhere in the nation. A reshuffling of these "peer" institutions which the State regards as similar to William and Mary, led to a reduction in William and Mary's salary average "target." Since the State has never fully budgeted to meet the salary average goals, the downward change did not mean an actual pay cut at William and Mary--but it was another sign of the times.

The first sign of the storm which is now arriving began in 1972, when a legislative committee announced the employment of a Chicago consulting firm to study spending in higher education. The firm's later report, known as the Shaner Report, was never made public except in summary form. But some of its contents were leaked to the press, and among them were many which were harmful to William and Mary.

Among the stories which appeared was one which alleged that William and Mary, with its present classroom facilities, could double its enrollment by tighter scheduling. The stories failed to note, however, that there was no way to add dormitory space for such a drastically increased enrollment. They also failed to point out that much of the underused space was in older buildings with large, poorly lit lecture halls. At the same time, the State Council of Higher Education released new guidelines which suggested William and Mary could, in its academic facilities, accommodate 2,000 more students--again failing to note the substandard quality of much of the underused space and the lack of residence halls.

The storm cloud darkened in 1974, when the College's present budget was enacted. Despite rampant inflation, the State appropriation to William and Mary was barely above the previous budget's--so that, in effect, the College had less money to spend than before. Tuition and fees were raised as one move to maintain the momentum at William and Mary, and a series of internal cost-cutting initiatives was stepped up. Freezes were placed on funds for equipment, travel allocations were pared down, and restrictions were placed on printing, duplicating and copying. All of these freezes and restrictions are still in effect within the College, while at the same time the State has placed other limitations on purchases of paper, quality of printing, and the use of computer services.

Contrary to some other states, Virginia has not yet moved to lay off faculty and staff--although some of her agencies have been forced to retrench through attrition in order to meet the 5% budget curtailment. Governor Godwin has called layoffs of State employees a "last resort" in the budget-balancing process. Pennsylvania, among other states, has ordered its colleges and universities to lay off at least 5% of their faculties and specified numbers of administrators. -

RW

President Warns on Law School Future

President Graves has warned that continued delay on funding a new building for the William and Mary law school is now seriously jeopardizing the school's accreditation, and emergency action by the State is required.

The warning was based on a reinspection of the school's facilities by a representative of the Council on Accrediting of the American Bar Association last month. Following this visit, the representative advised Graves and James P. Whyte, Jr., then law school dean, that the William and Mary building is "the most inadequate physical plant of any ABA approved law school in the country."

The new ABA warning was discussed during the quarterly meeting of William and Mary's Board of Visitors. The Board authorized President Graves to bring the matter to the "direct attention" of the Governor and other key State and legislative officials.

Dr. Graves said that he has done so in letters which have now reached the appropriate officials.

Dr. Graves pointed out that a new building for the past three years has been the highest priority of the College. He also cited a position paper of December, 1974, in which the State Council of Higher Education formally declared that William and Mary's "old and respected law school" warrants increased state support "from a marginal level to one which will enable it to maintain its reputation as a strong law school of national stature," with particular emphasis on a new building.

In 1974 the General Assembly appropriated planning funds of $218,750 for the proposed new building. Although these plans were completed by the time of the 1975 session, the legislature failed to provide construction funds for the facility. The College has made the capital outlay request of $5,592,050 its top priority in the budget request to the 1976 session.

President Graves

The critical situation in physical plant was also top priority among the concerns included in the ABA report. Dr. Graves in his statement advised the Board that "all possible steps are being taken within the College and the law school" to provide satisfactory response to these matters, which cover salary scales, the professional staffing for the law library, and law library acquisition funds.

But the building question, which is largely out of the College's control, is the crucial matter, Graves' statement stressed. "Continued lack of positive action on the matter is threatening the future of the oldest professional law program in America," he said.

The President added that it is also making it "difficult to attract an eminently qualified person" as the new dean, and that the decision of the National Center for State Courts to locate its headquarters in Williamsburg was "based on the assumption that the new building for the law school would be adjacent to its headquarters."

College Art Collection Decorates Campus

The College has a relatively important fine art collection and some of the best of that collection is now on display around the campus for the general public.

Donated over the years by alumni and friends of the College, the collection includes paintings, sculpture, prints, ceramics and porcelains from Western Europe, the Orient and America.

One of the collection's strengths is a group of 18th century portraits, several of which hang in the Sir Christopher Wren Building.

In the gallery on the second floor hang portraits of 13 presidents of the College from James Blair, its first, to Dr. Davis Y. Paschall who retired in 1971. The Society of the Alumni has allocated funds to restore the Dew and Ewell portraits.

Over the fireplace in the Great Hall hangs a large portrait of Queen Anne, one of the College's benefactors. The Wren Building and the Great Hall were ravaged by fire in October, 1705. For three years the young College struggled for its existence after the loss of its main academic building. In March, 1708, by Royal Warrant, Queen Anne bestowed upon the College 500 pounds to rebuild the College building. Her gift was duplicated the next year.

The large portrait from the school of Kneller was a gift to the College from the Drapers Company of London upon the occasion of the inauguration of Dr. Paschall as president in 1961.

Also in the Great Hall are portraits of members of the Warner Lewis family and a portrait of Robert Boyle, another of the College's early benefactors. The honorable Robert Boyle, eminent natural philosopher, died in England in 1691, providing that 4,000 pounds sterling of his money should be employed in "pious and charitable uses." However, this portion of his will had not yet been acted upon when the first President of William and Mary, the Rev. James Blair, retired in 1697 to London in search of funds for his little College of William and Mary. Being the Bishop of London's emissary to Virginia, the Rev. Blair obtained an introduction by means of Bishop Burnet, to the Earl of Burlington, Boyle's nephew and executor. Rev. Blair entreated the Earl to direct a fund (approximately 4,000 pounds) to the support of an Indian School at the College. The Brafferton, the second oldest building on campus which now houses administrative offices, was built to house the Indian School. The portrait of Boyle was given to the College by the executor of Boyle's estate, the Earl of Burlington, and began a long list of gifts of portraits to the College through the years.

All but one of the Bolling and Randolph family portraits now hanging in the library are the gift of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Malcolm Littlejohn of New York City. They were presented to the College in memory of Robert Bolling I, founder of the Bolling line in Virginia, from whom Mrs. Littlejohn was descended. A portrait of Jane Bolling Randolph Walke, included in the collection, was given by Mr. and Mrs. O. W. June of New York City.

The small gallery in Andrews Hall is used for rotating exhibits during the school year which are sponsored by the Fine Arts Department.

The large gallery in Andrews is used for rotating exhibits, often student work, and is used time to time to display paintings from the Chrysler Collection.

Both President and Mrs. Graves have been interested in recognizing the importance of the various collections of the College and the part they should play in the life and heritage of the College.

"The President's House contains many art objects and paintings from the collection. President Graves has indicated that he is concerned that the items in the College's collection are not readily available or displayed as extensively as he would like them to be.

"We owe the donors of our collections and the people of Virginia the opportunity to have the collection on display," said President Graves.

A panoramic scene of the Battle of Dunkirk during the Napoleonic Wars, painted by John Singleton Copley (1738-1815) is hung in room 100 of the Wren Building which is used as an information center for visitors to the College.

A comprehensive catalogue of the collection was undertaken in 1973 to update and collate previous catalogues under the direction of Miles Chappell of the Fine Arts faculty and is continuing under the direction of the registrar of the College collection, Mrs. Louise Lambert Kale.

A panoramic scene of the Battle of Dunkirk which hangs in the Wren Building is part of the College Art Collection.

Salmagundi

W&M ALUMNA SINGS OPERA IN PITTSBURGH

Virginia Nichols '74 of New York, a mezzo-soprano, recently sang leading roles with the Pennsylvania Opera Festival in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania this summer. The festival is celebrating its 26th year.

Among her operatic roles at the festival were "Ulrica" in Verdi's The Masked Ball and "Gertrude" in Humperdinck's Hansel and Gretel.

Ms. Nichols, who graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree in sociology, received vocal instruction from Robin Roark, voice instructor at William and Mary, and sang in the chorus under Dr. Carl Fehr. While in college, she appeared with the Peninsula Civic Opera of Newport News, Virginia, in the role of "Mama Lucia" in the opera Cvelleria Rusticana by Mascagni. After graduation, Mrs. Nichols was accepted under scholarship in the Marjorie Lawrence Opera Workshop in Hot Springs, Arkansas. From there, she journeyed to New York where she presently studies

The College collection's largest sculpture is a statue of Norborne Berkeley, Baron de Botetourt, Governor-General of the colony of Virginia 1768-1770.

Richard Hayward, a well-known English sculptor, was commissioned to execute the statue under the direction of John Norton, a Virginia merchant in London. The 2,000 pound figure arrived in Williamsburg in June of 1773 and was placed upon the piazza of the Capitol. Some time after the Revolution the statue was mutilated by vandals and was bought for one hundred pounds by members of the college faculty and moved on campus in 1801.

The statue remained in the College Yard for many years. It has now been placed indoors for protection against weathering and vandalism and has a permanent home in the Botetourt Gallery of Swem Library. The statue is one of the earliest examples of public statuary in North America.

Busts of Washington and Jefferson are also on display in the Great Hall. The Blue Room in the Wren Building, which is part of the daily tour for visitors but is kept closed except for special meetings of the College, contains four 18th century portraits of prominent figures in William and Mary's history. They include portraits of James Blair and his wife Sarah Harrison Blair and King William and Queen Mary for whom the College was named.

In the lobby of Ewell Hall, adjacent to the Wren Building, is a collection of selected paintings from the Jean Outland Chrysler Collection on display.

The Chrysler Collection, given in 1964 to the College by Mrs. Chrysler, an alumna, has been enlarged by Mrs. Chrysler with significant additions in 1967 and 1973. Emphasis of the collection, which includes drawings, oils, watercolors, sculpture and glass, is on American abstract expressionist painting of the 50's and 60's.

In the Virginia Room and Botetourt Gallery on the ground floor of Swem Library are Bolling and Randolph family portraits attributed to John Durand, Gustavus Hesselius, William James Hubard, John Hesselius and John Wollaston.

with Kenneth Holmes and sings with Stuyvesant Opera of 310 E. 42nd St., New York, New York.

ALUMNUS RECEIVES EDUCATION AWARD

Charles E. Friend, a William and Mary alumnus (J.D. '69) and University of Richmond professor of law, was a recipient of the University of Richmond Distinguished Educator 1975 award.

The award, presented to five members of the University of Richmond faculty, was comprised of a certificate and $1,000. It was created last year by an initial matching grant of $150,000 given by the Cabell Foundation for "the purpose of attracting and retaining outstanding teachers and leaders in learning," according to UR President E. Bruce Heilman.

An additional gift of $100,000 from the Fidelity Corporation and gifts from alumni and friends brought the award program fund to a total of $450,000. The annual earnings from this fund will support the awards program.

Friend received his B.A. degree from George Washington University and his B.F.T. from the American Institute of Foreign Trade. He is the editor of the Virginia Bar Association Journal.

GIFTS TO THE PASCHALL LIBRARY

Books by or about alumni, or books about the College, are being solicited for inclusion in the Pat and Agnes Paschall Library in the Alumni House. Alumni who are willing to contribute such books are urged to send them to the Paschall Library, Box GO, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.

The Chicago Chapter has given the Paschall Library the book Arts, Crafts, and Architecture in Early Illinois, by Betty I. Madden. Esther Aldige, '71, president of the chapter, visited the College recently to make the presentation.

The Paschall Library also received books given by A. Drewry Jones, Class of 1913, in memory of his father, William Gustavus Jones, Class of 1876.

Alumni Dedicate Renovated Home

Cont. from cover

A plaque of similar design also engraved on silver will recognize those persons and institutions making significant contributions in excess of $1,000 towards the realization of this Alumni House. Vliet said that 114 individuals are recognized on the plaque, most of whom are alumni of William and Mary.

Many will recall that Alumni House, known for years as Bright House, was a College apartment building from the late 1940's until 1971. The last three deans of women—Katherine Jeffers, Dorothea Wyatt and Birdena Donaldson—lived in the building.

But even before those days, alumni remember well that the House on the knoll beside Cary Field was the Kappa Alpha Fraternity House from about 1925 until the World War II years.

One of the more interesting items of memorabilia now in the building is a picture of the House as it stood as the KA house in 1942 with a broadside describing the auction of the building by the fraternity on June 2, 1943.

The broadside notes that the auctioneer was Bob Matthews, '43, known as "Rubber Dog." (He was later attorney general of Kentucky, 1964-68.) The Auction proclaimed "entire household furnishings including articles unobtainable on the Present Day market."

Many of the old rooms in the renovated building have been set aside through gifts and donations to the "New Era" fund to honor, and in one case memorialize, persons long associated with William and Mary.

On the first floor—the formally furnished area in the 18th century manner—the entry foyer honors James S. Kelly, '51, long-time executive secretary of the Society, currently assistant to the president and national chairman of this year's 25th William and Mary Fund drive. The Kelly entryway was given by Aubrey Mason, '47.

The main hallway on the first floor honors J. Wilfred Lambert, '27, who until his retirement in 1973 had been on the faculty of the College 42 years serving his last post as vice president for student affairs and professor of psychology. The hallway was given the New York City area alumni.

The library honors Agnes Winn Paschall, '31 and Davis Y. "Pat" Paschall, '32, the former "first lady" and President of William and Mary. The room was given by J. Edward Zollinger, '27.

Roy Charles, '32, gave the room on the first floor as a memorial to Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, 1891, who was president of William and Mary from 1919 until his death in 1934.

On the second floor the Society offices have been furnished by Art Bretnall, '34, W. L. Person, '24, the W. Brooks George, '32 family, the class of 1932, Raymond Mason '59 and the estate of Virginia Sen. William H. Minter, '11.

Franklin P. Pulley III, '41, has given the room to honor Vernon M. Nunn, '25, the retired treasurer-auditor of the College.

A basement tavern room, being developed as the "Sign of the Indian Princess," has been given by Arthur B. Hanson, '39 and Jane Harden Hanson, '42.

Through the past three years a number of significant contributions of objet d'art and William and Mary memorabilia have been received by the Society of the Alumni for inclusion in Alumni House. Vliet noted that particular attention should be given an antique 1877 Steinway piano given by the class of 1939 and a silver tea and coffee service,

The large first floor room (top) of the Alumni House is used for a variety of purposes including meetings, receptions, and conferences by the William and Mary family. The spacious first floor hallway (bottom) honors J. Wilfred Lambert, long-time teacher and administrator at William and Mary.

with serving dishes and candleabra given by the class of 1925 on the occasion this year of its 50th reunion.

The Pat and Agnes Paschall Library contains books written by alumni or about alumni as well as a number of books on Virginia and colonial history. Vliet reports that books are being received weekly by alumni for inclusion in the library. In addition, the Society is binding past issues of the College catalogue beginning in the 1850s, the Flat Hat from the 1910's to the present, the student literary magazines, student handbooks, Alumni Gazette, Society board minutes and other College publications.

Alumni will notice the large portrait of Dr. J.A.C. Chandler over the fireplace in the Chandler Room. It was given by an alumnus and long-time friend and worker for the College who wishes to remain anonymous.

Roy Charles, '32, has given a beautiful game table, also located in the Chandler Room. The table is inlaid with the College's Coat of Arms.

A print of King William III, prepared within four years of the founding of the College, has been given by Wilford Kale '66 and Louise Lambert Kale and is hanging in the first floor main room. A montage of William and Mary "broadside" items listing the virtues of both the King and Queen as well as the text of William's last speech to Parliament is in a frame dating from 1705. This interesting artifact, also in the main room, was purchased from funds provided by an anonymous alumni donor.

Vliet explained that two booths from the old Colonial Restaurant and Corner Greeks will be located at a later day in the basement tavern room as it is further developed.

Alumni House, in addition to providing office and work space for the Society, is utilized for social occasions by alumni, College faculty and campus-wide interest groups, wedding receptions and meetings.

The basement area will be completed in the near future and Vliet said that plans are already being developed for a patio to the rear of Alumni House adjacent to the dependency building. It will be built also from "New Era" campaign funds.

Many alumni who have visited the House in the past many months since the final furnishing has been completed have noted happily that the main floor has been decorated in the Williamsburg 18th century style and provides an elegant setting for the more formal activity of the Society.

The Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni extends a cordial invitation to William and Mary Alumni to visit the House anytime they are in Williamsburg.

"It is for all alumni," explained C. Randolph Davis, current society president. "It provides that one place on the campus where alumni can gather to recall the good times of the past and work together for the good times of the future."

W&M Professor Studies Prison Behind Bars

by Wilford Kale '66

Larry Guenther has spent much of his time since 1969 in prison, and this semester he has returned to William and Mary to teach sociology.

But don't get the wrong idea. Guenther is not a criminal. He is an active criminologist and sociologist who has been concerned for more than seven years about the plight of the criminal in prison and the lifestyle of the prison guards.

Since 1969, he has studied prison life in Georgia, Oklahoma and Indiana. The past academic year (1974-75), he was in Washington, D.C., conducting additional research on corrections officers and the culture of prison inmates.

During his 10-month group study in the Washington Police Department, Dr. Guenther initially was concerned with the occupation culture of detectives.

"No one has written on this and I wanted to learn about their beliefs, their strategies, the skills they develop and the basis of knowledge that they have to accumulate in dealing with the public, their supervisors and prosecutors," he said.

A second interest in the study was "the phenomenon by which cases are dropped by the courts and what perspective detectives have on this and what practices they invoke to become a more effective investigator."

Washington Police Chief Maufice J. Cullinane and Asst. Chief Burtell M. Jefferson gave full support to Guenther in the project which was conducted under a grant from the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice.

As a sociologist, Guenther began his first research project in 1969 at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary, becoming involved in a specific study of corrections officers.

"I had complete and full access to the staff and to inmates," he explained. Guenther was able to freely roam the prisons, talking with inmates not only in Atlanta but in other federal prisons in Oklahoma and Indiana as well.

In an attempt to document that work involving the "internal dynamics of prison society from the perspective of the inmate culture and the staff culture," Guenther wrote a book, "The Society Dimensions of a Penitentiary" in 1972.

He examined the status system of inmates, their economic transactions, sources of personal gratification. On the staff side, he studied the role dilemmas of corrections officers, conflicts in management and "ways they cope with the atmosphere of uncertainty" within the walls of prisons.

As part of the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grant requirement, Guenther will write a report on his Washington Police study. From that, he hopes will come still another book.

Although still in the area of law enforcement, his work last year with detectives was much different from his previous studies. Therefore, to better prepare himself to work with and understand detectives, he enrolled and graduated from the Washington Police Department's two-week homicide school.

With support from the department's top two men, Guenther still faced his biggest task: acceptance among the hundreds of detectives on the force of nearly 4,600 men.

"Even though the project was authorized by the chief," Guenther explained. "I still had to sell myself everywhere I went. Even when I moved from one detective branch to another, I did a job of salesmanship."

The William and Mary professor said that by their very nature, detectives "are generally acknowledged to be the most closed body of all law enforcement officers in a police department."

"As a researcher I asked them to do things they wouldn't do for uniform officers on their force or even for another detective," Guenther said. "I asked them to take me along when they talked to an informer . . . and they did it."

Part of his work specifically was done in the homicide branch, which is the "elite" among most police units. Guenther said his research indicated that each detective has his own special talents and some are extraordinary when it comes to searching for clues at a crime scene, while others give

Larry Guenther

"expert" testimony in courts on con games, firearms, narcotics distribution or toxicology.

In addition to his intensive study of detectives, Guenther was interested in discovering why so many criminal cases in a large metropolitan area never reach the prosecution stage or are dropped by the courts.

A major problem, he said, that keeps cases from getting to court is that people are unwilling to testify. "They get intimidated. They know the person who committed the sex offense, or they know the robber, but they will not testify in the case," Guenther said.

Another reason is that people cannot make "sure identification of criminal suspects, especially in robbery cases," he said. There are rarely any fingerprints or weapons uncovered from a robbery and the only way a suspect can be apprehended is through identification. "Especially in street robberies, the identification of the robber is most difficult," he said.

Sociology students this semester at William and Mary are getting an opportunity to hear directly from Guenther about his experience during last year's leave of absence because he is teaching a course in criminology, which allows him to utilize his experiences and study material gained during his work since 1969.

ALUMNI CHAPTER ACTIVITY

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS: While it's Homecoming Weekend in Williamsburg, Chicago area alumni will be celebrating their-own way in Illinois. The group has an exchange with the Northwestern alumni - W&M graduates living up north cheer for Northwestern football, while Virginia Northwesterners reciprocate by cheering for William and Mary. The Chapter has planned a trip to the Northwestern v. Indiana football game on Saturday, November 11, preceeded by a luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Aldige, 511 Laurel Avenue, Willmette (within walking distance of the stadium). The cost is $9.50 per person, and includes ticket, lunch, and "spirits." The occasion is limited to twenty people, and reservations may be made through Mrs. Mary Helmantoller, 247 East Chestnut Street, #2301, Chicago Illinois 60611 or by calling Esther Aldige, chapter president, at 477-4410.

NEW BRUNSWICK, NEW JERSEY: The New York Chapter is sponsoring a bus trip (to Rutgers' Homecoming game against William and Mary) for New York alumni and a cocktail party afterward for New York and New Jersey graduates on October 18. Arrangements for bus transportation to and from the pick-up point at 400 East 77th Street in Manhattan and to and from the party, as well as game tickets, may be made through Robert Andrialis, chapter president. He may be contacted at Standard and Poor's, 345 Hudson Street, New York. After the game, the cocktail party (complete with hot hors d'oeuvres) will be held at the Travelodge Motel, 1850 Easton Avenue, Somerset. There will be a $1.00 per person cover charge to defray the cost of the hors d'oeuvres, and a cash bar will be available.

NORFOLK, VIRGINIA: Arrangements are being made for an alumni party after the Oyster Bowl game against VPI on November 1 - watch for a mailing to area residents for details!

ATLANTA, GEORGIA: Dr. Scott Donaldson of the English department will be the guest speaker at the November 6 meeting of the Georgia chapter. His topic is "Hemingway and the American Dream," and the meeting has been planned for 7:30 p.m. at the Oriental Gardens Restaurant, 842 North Highland Avenue, NE, Atlanta. The cost for dinner, which will feature six or seven Mandarin Chinese dishes, is $4.00 per person, and reservations may be made through Mrs. Lynn Hecht Bradley, 200 Franklin Road NE, Apt. R-3, Atlanta, Georgia 30342, before October 31.

NEW HAVEN CONNECTICUT: President Graves and his wife, Zoe, and Gordon Vliet, Executive Vice President of the Society of the Alumni, will be visiting New Haven alumni on November

6. The President has promised to deliver brief remarks on William and Mary today at the meeting, which will be held at 6:00 p.m. at the New Haven Lawn Club, 193 Whitney Avenue. There will be no cover charge, and a cash bar will be available. To make reservations, contact Bill and Barbara Brink at 10 Maplecrest Lane, New Haven, Connecticut 06473.

ROANOKE VIRGINIA: The Virginia House Restaurant at 722 South Main Street, Lexington, will be the scene of a pre-game luncheon for the W&M v. VMI football game November 8. Director of Athletics Ben Carnevale has indicated that he will drop by to help raise Indian "spirit" at the party, which is scheduled to begin at 11:00 a.m. The cost is $2.50 per person, which covers sandwiches, snacks, and set-ups - alumni may "brown-bag" their own supply of "spirits." Reservations may be made through Marshall Gates, 3854 Hyde Park Drive, Roanoke, Virginia 24018.

HARTFORD, CONNECTICUT: November 10 has been set for the first meeting of Hartford area alumni. A cocktail party will be held November 10 at 8:00 p.m. at the University Club of Hartford, 30 Lewis Street. A $2.00 per person cover charge will defray the cost of the room, cheese, and crackers. A cash bar will be available. Gordon Vliet, Executive Vice President of the Society of the Alumni, will travel to Connecticut for the meeting, and all alumni interested in forming an active chapter in the area are urged to attend. For reservations or more information, contact Donald W. Goodrich, 518 Main Street, Portland, Connecticut, 06480.

BOSTON, MASSACHUSETTS: President Thomas Graves and his wife, Zoe, along with Gordon Vliet, Executive Vice President of the Society of the Alumni, will be attending a meeting of Boston area alumni November 11. Watch for a mailing to the area for further details.

PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND: Gordon Vliet will also be attending a meeting of the Providence area alumni November 12. The meeting will be held at 6:00 p.m. at the University Club, 219 Benefit Street, Providence, and a cash bar will be available. Reservations may be made through Mary Ann Coffe, 3595 Post Road, Apt. 517, Warwick Rhode Island, 02886.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT: An Outstanding Alumni Chapter Award has been established to honor a deserving chapter each year. Chapters will be evaluated throughout the coming year, and the first winner of the award will be announced in the October 1976 issue of the Alumni Gazette. Guidelines for evaluation are those duties and functions of a chapter set forth in the Chapter Handbook - any chapter president who has not received his copy of the book should contact the Alumni Office.

ORDER NOW

William & Mary Chairs

These popular chairs are available in several styles to help furnish homes or offices of William & Mary alumni.

The coat of arms of the College is reproduced on a bronze medallion embedded in the back, with the name of the College and the date 1693.
 Armchair, all ebony $89.00
 Armchair, cherry arms $89.00

The coat of arms of the College is reproduced in gold on the back.
 Armchair, red cherry arms $65.00
 Straight chair $55.00
 Boston rocker-All Ebony $65.00

Cushion for Ad. Chair

2" deep latex foam rubber covered with Naugahyde in William and Mary Green with black trim $11.00

The comfortable Boston rocker has the bronze medallion with the coat of arms, imbedded in the back.
 Boston rocker, all ebony $85.00
 Children' rocker, all ebony $52.00

All chairs picked up at the Alumni House are subject to a freight charge of $5.00
 All chairs to be shipped direct will be shipped freight collect.
 Chairs ordered should be allowed ten to twelve weeks for delivery, except rockers, which will be shipped as manufacturing schedules stand.

William & Mary Coat-of-Arms Needlepoint Kit $20.00

Includes
 Instruction Sheet,
 Clearly Marked
 Reference Lines
 Blueprint, Needle
 Tapestry Wool for 14" x 14" finished piece.

17" x 18" CREWEL KIT of the COLLEGE COAT OF ARMS. Design is hand silkscreened on the finest Belgian linen, with imported English wool, needle, complete instructions, $15.00.

The Society still has copies available of this hand finished pottery plate, suitable for wall hanging or flat decoration. It is finished in dark green and depicts the coat of arms. The cost is $17.50

Cipher on Sale

A handcrafted sterling silver W&M cipher is available as a necklace, pin and pierced earrings, from the society, for only $10. A cipher tie pin sells for $5.00

Profits from the sale of these items, handcrafted by Mike Stousland '41, are donated to the College. Mike provides the silver at his own expense.

limited number of copies available

AMERICAN EXCURSION Jack E. Morpurgo, '38

$15.00

This collectors volume, now out of print, recalls the authors first visit to America, his years at William and Mary, and his impressions of the United States. Morpurgo is the first British graduate of this century, has received the Alumni Medallion and an Honorary Degree, and is currently authoring the HISTORY OF THE COLLEGE, to be published in 1975.

For those who wish a ready reminder of the pleasant days spent on the campus, there is now obtainable a striking watercolor painting of the Wren Building. The artist was Kenneth Harris, and the actual size of the picture, unframed, is 22" x 14 1/2". Just the thing for the office, the den, or looking ahead, for Junior's room as an inspiration and a goal. Available from the Alumni Office, Box 60, Williamsburg, at $6.00, an attractive price for discerning alumni and art lovers.

William and Mary Alumni Show the Colors . . . Great Gifts!

Dark green or navy blue necktie with W&M Coat of Arms, $9.50

Four-color blazer crest $15.00
 Handbag $18.00
 Set of blazer buttons $17.50

Please send me _____ crest neckties
 _____ handbag
 _____ blazer crests _____ button sets
 Name _____
 Address _____
 City _____
 State _____ Zip _____

Sales tax is included in the cost of each item.
 Order From The Alumni Office, Box 60, Williamsburg, Va. 23185
 Make Checks Payable To Society of the Alumni

Little Lou--Small Package, Big Talent

by Jim Rees '74

Lou Biondi believes that William and Mary has a good football team. Despite the final scores, the game films, and the ever-discouraging press clippings, he is convinced that the Indians will win more than a couple of games in their '75 campaign.

So far no one--including the coaches--has claimed that the current edition of the Indians is an especially good one. No one except Biondi, a spunky freshman from Pittsburgh who's managed to pin down a spot in the Indians' starting backfield and who seems destined for stardom.

Biondi is a true-blue optimist. When it came time to go to college, the all-Pennsylvania tailback paid no attention to coaches who said he was too small to play major college football. He ignored offers from coaches who suggested he switch from offensive to defensive back. After all, being small has its advantages. You don't have as far to fall when tackled, and you can fit through the smallest holes in the opposition's defense.

Coach Jim Root correctly predicted that if Biondi selected William and Mary, he'd have a chance to play despite the fact that he's 5 feet 5 inches tall and tips the scales at about 160 pounds. In recent years the most successful William and Mary runners--Billy Deery and Phi Mosser--have been slight but speedy, making the most of momentary openings in the defensive line.

Biondi has already shown signs of being the central figure in Root's struggle to re-construct the Indians' offense, a task some pessimists compare to that of parting the Red Sea. A host of other freshmen, including quarterback Tommy Rosantz, wide receiver Joe Manderfield, tight end Ken Cloud and fullback Jeff Vanderbeek, have been seeing lots of action. If the Tribe can't build a winner this season, just wait until Biondi and Company come of age in '78.

Biondi, however, guarantees it won't take that long, and insists that the "Indians will surprise a lot of people before the end of the season."

Although the Tribe could only negotiate a single touchdown in their first two games, Biondi was impressive, particularly for a rookie. As one commentator said, "he is built like a Volkswagen but runs like a Jaguar." After two games, Biondi has gained 93 yards in 35 carries, returned most of the opposition kick-offs and caught three passes, making him far and away the busiest freshman running back in William and Mary history.

Modest almost to a fault, Lou is careful to give most of the credit to the Indians' offensive line. "Anybody can run through holes," he explains. Biondi is easy to embarrass, a perfect target for the jibes of his teammates, and all-in-all the kind of charismatic force that instills confidence in a team that on paper has little to be confident about. As sports publicity director Bob Sheeran puts it, Biondi is not liked--"he's loved."

Broad-shouldered, narrow-waisted and heavily muscled, Biondi looks like he's ready to audition for a health spa commercial. He never drinks, usually hits the sack early, and has an eight-by-ten glossy of his hometown sweetheart on his desk.

Yet Biondi isn't one-hundred percent the typical All-American boy. His close-cropped hair and wide appealing smile merely disguise an unusual desire to be one of the Marx Brothers. "If I could look like anyone in the world, I'd look like Harpo Marx," he says. You'd swear it was a put-on if his room wasn't covered with pictures, posters and books about the immortal comedy quartet.

The pint-sized halfback also admits that he "really goes for those beach movies and surfing." Pittsburgh isn't exactly the surfing capital of the east, and Lou's roommate Bobby Rash, an offensive lineman from Hampton, is quick to remind Lou that "he's only been surfing once in his life."

Lou Biondi

So Lou does the next best thing--he listens to Beach Boy records, Bobby brags that the Beach Boys have cut 26 albums, and his roommate owns them all. "He knows every word of every song they've ever made."

While the Marx Brothers and Beach Boys may be diversions for Lou Biondi, football is a religion. "I've been playing organized tackle football since I was eight," he said. "I like to play hard, and I like the hitting."

Lou also likes to win, something he hasn't done since he arrived at William and Mary. But he claims the Indians have a solid team, a better team than North Carolina, "the perennial ACC powerhouse that downed the Indians in their season opener. "We really outplayed them but made a lot of mental errors."

What the team lacks in talent it makes up in what Lou calls "togetherness." He says "the team is really close. The upperclassmen are always there to help you out, and there's a real respect for the coaches."

LUNCHEON ON THE LAWN

AT THE ALUMNI HOUSE

11:30 AM TO KICKOFF

(weather permitting)

ALL HOME GAMES

ALL ALUMNI AND BIG GREEN FANS ARE WELCOME

Park your car early, beat the rush, have lunch, meet your friends, walk across the street to the game.

T-D Photo by Masaaki Okada

Mr. and Mrs. Russell H. Eckles Discuss 1951 Students
Daughter, 'Dee', Son, David, Enjoy the Old Yearbook

W&M Admissions Questions —And The Answers—

[EDITOR'S NOTE: Readers are invited to send in their questions on undergraduate admissions problems or admissions matters of general interest. They will be answered in this column by Robert P. Hunt Dean of Admissions.]

How are undergraduate admissions decisions made at William and Mary?

We have eight members on our clerical staff and four professional staff members, all of whom process and review applications for admission. (For the Fall semester 1975 we processed and made decisions on 6,107 applicants including freshmen and transfers, as well as former and unclassified students.) Once an individual application is completed, it is given to a member of the professional staff for a detailed review. On this first reading a tentative rating on a 1 to 5 scale (1 highest) is assigned which takes into consideration the individual's total educational background. A rating of S is assigned to those individuals who have unusual talents or backgrounds which do not lend themselves to normal evaluations, e.g. foreign students. A second reading of the application is made by another staff member, and if the two ratings agree then this is the final rating which is assigned. If the two ratings do not agree, then the application is reviewed by a third and fourth person, if necessary, until a consensus is reached. After we read all freshmen and transfer applications in this manner, we are ready to make final decisions.

For purpose of decision making, members of the professional staff are assigned areas of responsibility. Associate Dean Rex Tillotson is responsible for freshmen applicants from Virginia. Juanita Wallace, Assistant Dean, is responsible for transfer applicants, and Kristine Aulenbach, our new Assistant Dean (from Barnard College, replacing Harriet Reid this fall) will handle freshmen applicants from out of state.

Using the staff ratings as a guide, and taking into consideration factors such as geographical areas, these individuals make decisions on a comparative basis and indicate that the applicant should either be admitted, placed on a waiting list, or rejected. As Dean of Admissions, I review all decisions before letters are mailed.

Dean Hunt

What is the role of the Admissions Policy Committee?

This is a College-wide committee appointed by President Graves. Consisting of faculty members, students and administrators, this committee considers policy matters, but does not normally involve itself in the reviewing of individual applications. However, we do have an Admission Review Committee consisting of three faculty members appointed from the Admissions Policy Committee, as well as the four members of the professional admissions staff. This review committee meets as a group to discuss and make decisions on special categories of applicants, such as alumni children.

Should alumni write letters of recommendation?

Yes, we welcome such letters and they are included in the applicant's file for review by members of the admissions staff. It is particularly helpful if alumni will encourage good candidates in their area to consider William and Mary in their educational plans. We have been very fortunate in the last few years to have received a large number of applications from capable individuals. This has permitted us to enroll freshmen and transfer students with strong educational credentials. Although this demand has resulted in tough decisions for admissions staff and disappointments for applicants, we feel it is important to continue to receive this type of interest from prospective students in order for William and Mary to remain strong. Alumni can make a very important contribution in this area.

Life at the College ... How It's Changed

by Betty Pettinger

A bright mind and a pair of blue jeans are nearly all a student needs for college these days.

Parents who remember lugging trunks of cashmere sweaters and stuffed animals to college are in for a shock when they get ready to deposit their own youngsters on the steps of the high-rise dormitory.

The difference in college today and a quarter of a century ago is particularly evident to the Russell H. Eckles family, two of whom are attending the College of William and Mary. Eckles and his wife were graduated from the same school in 1951.

"When I was there a girl was required to wear a skirt or dress to class. And she had to wear shoes," said Mrs. Eckles.

The uniform of that day for girls was a cashmere sweater, tweed skirt, loafers and a strand of pearls. For boys, it was white bucks, slacks, a sport coat.

Now it's blue jeans, decorated T-shirts and bare feet for both.

"I remember I used to buy quantities of suits and skirts each year. No one ever went to church without a hat. My daughter has never owned a hat," said Mrs. Eckles.

Her daughter, Diana, whose nickname is Dee," is a senior this year. She's majoring in biology.

She recommends as a wardrobe blue jeans, "some nice pants, maybe a dress or two." When she was a freshman, she did take a long dress, but found it "too dumpy" for the style of her school and bought another in Williamsburg. It's better to wait until you get to school to make major purchases, she concluded.

The stuffed animals that filled girls' beds in yesterday's dormitories have given way to "husbands," big study pillows.

In the older Eckleses' day, students equipped themselves with matching bedspreads and curtains in a heavy, patterned cotton fabric. Now the schools furnish the decoration of the rooms. Students still bring piles and boxes of personal knick-knacks.

The student preparing to go to college 25 years ago bought stacks of bed and bath linens and his mother painstakingly sewed nametags on them. Now at William and Mary the college provides a linen service for students who want it.

In her day, no student kept cars on the campus, said Mrs. Eckles; now, almost every student, including her sophomore son, David, has a car.

Now colleges treat all their students as adults and expect them to assume the responsibility of behaving in a mature fashion.

All four members of the Eckles family joined a fraternity and this is one part of college life which appears to have come full circle. Fraternities went out of style in the "anti-Establishment" days of the 1960s but now fraternity membership is on the upswing.

The more serious student of today has demanded a less frivolous fraternity life. Hazing is out of style; fraternity government has changed to give undergraduates more voice in the fraternity; activities considered "irrelevant" have been eliminated and the emphasis has been placed on academics, individual development and philanthropy.

Reprinted from the
Richmond Times Dispatch

HISTORY MAJORS

The History Department would very much like to know where you are and what you have been doing. Take a few moments and write us a line or two. Have no fear that we will ask you for money. We just want to know what has become of all those people who suffered with us (and sometimes vice versa). Believe it or not, we often think of our former students and wonder if being a history major at William and Mary was a worthwhile experience. If it was, why not tell us so? If it was not, here is your chance for revenge.

Letters should be addressed to Professor Thomas F. Sheppard, Chairman of the Department.

Parents Weekend Set for Oct. 24-26

Parent's Weekend, scheduled for October 24-26, will highlight the theme "Salute to Parents -- Then and Now."

The three days of discussion, entertainment, and social activity will begin at 2 p.m. Friday, Oct. 24, with a meeting of the Steering Committee of the Parents' Association. Registration is scheduled from 1 p.m. - 6 p.m. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Other events Friday are an "open door" visitation for parents with faculty and administration and a Gilbert and Sullivan opera in Phi Beta Kappa that evening.

On Saturday there will be lectures by faculty members in the humanities, natural sciences, and social sciences, a panel discussion, which will include a parent for the first time, on "Bridging the Generation Gap," a buffet luncheon at which President Graves will speak, a football game with Furman, open houses, and a dance in the evening.

A continental breakfast in the Wren Courtyard will conclude the Weekend. Dr. and Mrs. George Healy will serve as hosts. Dr. Healy is academic vice-president of the College.

Letters of invitation have been sent to all parents of William and Mary students.

Follow The Tribe

Several radio stations around the state of Virginia are carrying the William and Mary football games this fall. They are WTAR in Norfolk, WRGM in Richmond, WLLL in Lynchburg, WMBG and WBCI-FM in Williamsburg.

In the Washington D. C. area, the Nov. 1 game between Virginia Tech and William and Mary will be heard over WAVA (780 AM dial) and WAVA-FM (105.1) beginning at 1:15 p.m.

Oct. 4	W&M-Citadel	7:05
Oct. 11	W&M-Ohio U.	1:35
Oct. 18	W&M-Rutgers	1:05
Oct. 25	W&M-Furman	1:05
Nov. 1	W&M-VPI	1:35
Nov. 8	W&M-VMI	1:05
Nov. 15	W&M-Colgate	1:05
Nov. 22	W&M-Rich	1:05

At left, the Board meets in the historic Blue Room of the Wren Building. Above is R. Harvey Chappell Jr., '48, attorney from Richmond.

Board Meets In Historic Blue Room

William and Mary's 17-member Board of Visitors has met in a number of locations over the years.

For several years prior to the 1970s, it held its meetings in the Campus Center and then in rented facilities in local hotels and motels.

In the last four years, however, its meetings have usually taken place in the Rare Book Room of the Swem Library—a large room whose walnut-paneled walls display some of the library's prized book specimens.

Perhaps because it was the Bicentennial, or perhaps it was a touch of nostalgia, that led one Board member to wonder recently why the official governing board of the College was avoiding the Wren Building for its meetings. After all, the member reasoned, it was in this building that the business of the College was conducted from 1695 until, perhaps, even the present century. More specifically, the Blue Room was the setting for almost all of the deliberations of the Board, and the faculty, 200 years ago.

To satisfy this yearning, the September meeting of the Board was moved to the Blue Room—with its oval antique table, its candlesticks, and its hard, high-back chairs. The Rector, R. Harvey Chappell, Jr., was assigned the chair in which President James Blair might have sat; it was a bit more ornate and possibly more comfortable.

No one present could say whether the actions of the Board at that meeting were unusually well-conceived, or debates were carried on with more reverence.

But the ability of the Board to sit at that table, and in those chairs, for several hours was a testament to its stamina and unflagging interest in the College.

Starting in the late 1960s, it seemed, the Board meetings began to become more and more complex. Members began taking more time, so that they could listen to student leaders and explore firsthand their concerns. Some Board members began visiting the campus between regular meetings, to talk with students and even to eat in the dining halls and stay overnight in dormitories. The Board began to work more closely with faculty groups, and to explore College policies more actively with various administrators.

The two branch colleges began to mature, each with students, faculty, and administrators to be heard from.

At one time, Board meetings began on Friday afternoon and ended by Saturday noon, four times a year (five every other year). But this September, most Board members were on hand Thursday night for a committee meeting that lasted until 11:30 p.m., and they met from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Friday. On Saturday, they met from 8:30 a.m. until 1 p.m.

The quarterly meetings (a fifth one every other year) still exist. But starting last year, it became the practice of the Board to have monthly meetings of the Executive Committee, starting in the spring and continuing through the summer, most of them just a few hours long. Many members of the Board who were not on the Executive Committee managed to attend, to add their expertise and strength.

The members of the Board, all appointed by the Governor, serve without any compensation at all, save the rewards they find in serving William and Mary and the Commonwealth, and the rare opportunity to sit for hours in a hard chair in the Blue Room of America's oldest academic building. - RW

President Graves addresses the Board. At left is Mrs. Victor Powell '70 (law), U.S. attorney from Annandale, Va.

J. Bruce Bredin '36,
Businessman and Philanthropist
Wilmington, Del.

Dr. Robert J. Faulconer '43
Pathologist
Norfolk, Va.

William S. Hubbard '46
*Vice President, Shenandoah Life
Roanoke, Va.*

Dr. Garrett Dalton '25
*Retired Physician
Roanoke, Va.*

T.C. Clarke '22, soft drink bottler and distributor, Norfolk, Va., and Mrs. George Falck '50, civic leader, McLean, Va.

Dr. James E. Kilbourne (left), dentist, Petersburg, Va., and Frederick Deane Jr., Richmond bank board chairman.

Anne Dobie Peebles '44
*Educational Leader
Carson, Va.*

John R. L. Johnson Jr. '28
Retired Hercules Corp. Executive Chadds Ford, Pa.

Dr. George Sands '39
*NASA Scientist
Williamsburg, Va.*

J. Edward Zollinger '27
*Retired IBM Executive
Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.*

(Not shown are Willits H. Bowditch, Newport News, Va., businessman, Mrs. Carter C. Chinnis, '46, Alexandria, Va., civic leader, and John W. Hanes, foundation administrator.)

Bicentennial Feature

James Innes - From Rowdy Behavior to Hero

Alma Mater
of a Nation

One of the lesser-known patriots of the Revolutionary War, who turned down President Washington's request to become U.S. Attorney General, chose expulsion from college in 1775 rather than give up leadership of a group of Williamsburg volunteer militia.

The patriot was James Innes, who enrolled in 1770 at William and Mary. Two years later, he became assistant usher in the college's Grammar School, while continuing as a student and later as a reader of law in George Wythe's local office.

Innes, who was a leading member of the F. H. C., the secret fraternity to which Thomas Jefferson had earlier belonged, had his first confrontation with the college faculty for engaging in rowdy behavior with his fraternity brothers.

It has been suspected that the F. H. C. (Flat Hat Club) was in 1775 the nucleus of an effort among many college students to confront and hopefully publicly embarrass Loyalist faculty at William and Mary. At any rate, Innes was identified as the leader in several incidents which caused concern among some of the faculty.

He and several friends filed a formal complaint on May 27, 1775 against college housekeeper Maria Digges which accused her of keeping "a sumptuous Table at the very time that the Provisions in the Hall were scarce and intolerable." She launched a vigorous self-defense and was acquitted of the charge when it was dismissed as frivolous and malicious. One of the signers of the Innes petition, James Monroe (later fifth president of the United States) admitted that he had failed to read the document before signing it.

Innes was also in the process of organizing a Volunteer Company in Williamsburg that spring. On June 17, 1775, the Board of Visitors declared that "Mr. Innes' Military Engagements were not incompatible with his Office of Head-Usher of the Grammar School," in resolving a complaint brought to its attention. The Board's ruling overruled that of the president, the Rev. John Camm, a Loyalist.

Mr. Camm ignored the Board's finding on August 4, 1775, and the faculty found that "Mr. Innes is now absent from the College without Permission and has been almost constantly so ever since the last Visitation on Business (as is generally believed) which respects his military engagements."

On August 7, the faculty resolved to dismiss Innes from the College for "repeatedly absenting himself from the College for days and weeks together without asking permission to be absent, behaving herein as if he had no superior in the Society to whom he thought himself accountable for his conduct."

Thus, at the age of 21, Innes became a fulltime military leader. He served as lieutenant-colonel of the 15th Virginia Regiment and an aide to General Washington. He was elected Virginia's Commissioner of the Navy in 1779, and later as president of the Board of War in Virginia. He led regiments in many battles, including Trenton, Princeton, Brandywine, Germantown and Monmouth. A term in the Virginia General Assembly was interrupted when he led a local regiment to fight in the Battle of Yorktown, at Washington's request.

Innes entered the practice of law in peacetime and in 1782 became a member of William and Mary's Board. His career included several terms in the Virginia General Assembly and as a member of the 1788 Constitutional Convention.

After serving as Virginia's Attorney General, and rejecting President Washington's offer to the Cabinet post, he moved to Philadelphia, where he died in 1798 and was buried near the grave of Benjamin Franklin.

Innes' reluctance to move into national leadership circles, as did so many other William and Mary alumni, was never clearly understood. Historians have felt he was more comfortable in Virginia politics, where he could be his own man.

Alumni Designer Stresses Quality

by Barbara Ball

Allan Denny Ivie III '54 is a soft-spoken Richmond businessman who is well established in the haut monde of his profession - interior design.

His studio and workshop at 110 E. Cary Street is part of the magnificently revitalized heart of old Richmond.

Stairs of gracefully turned wrought iron curve up to a balcony at the front door a half floor above the brick sidewalk. The old world atmosphere created by the facade is continued in semi-circular balconies across the windows on the second floor.

Inside, different styles of fine furniture and accessories mix easily in the heavily carpeted showrooms. The silk sheen of old polished wood is reflected in the mirror brightness of modern metals.

It is not surprising that his clients include the Rockefellers, governors of Virginia and Florida, Liberty Hall Restoration in Frankfort, Kentucky, Stratford Hall, Wilton Scotch Town and several generations of Virginia families.

Ivie started toward his career with a B.A. in fine arts from William and Mary, class of 1954.

With no attempt at imitation, Ivie espouses in his business the philosophy of his Alma Mater.

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., with no attempt at elitism, has said that the College should seek to do well those things it does best - it cannot be all things to all people.

With no intent to sound snobbish, Ivie explains that his company has a special place within the profession. "We are not competitive with most design firms in the area. We'll probably cost you more - quality workmanship is costly."

"We are not going to suit everyone just as William and Mary isn't going to suit every student who wants to go to College. There is a design firm for every taste and pocketbook - you pick your designer to fit your lifestyle and your resources," said Ivie.

The firm of J. Frank Jones/Allan Denny Ivie Associates, Inc., is the merger of two companies. Jones established his business in Richmond 50 years ago and was located at the corner of 4th and Grace Streets where the Bank of Virginia now stands. He moved his business to 110 E. Cary in 1930.

Jones was one of the first businessmen to move into the Cary Street area which had once been a fashionable residential section of Richmond but had declined as the city moved westward.

Jones was highly respected in his field and worked very closely with Colonial Williamsburg in the formative years of the restoration. The tie with Williamsburg was continued by Ivie through his associate and consultant, James L. Cogar, former curator for Colonial Williamsburg, now retired director of Shakertown Museum, Pleasant Hill, Ky.

Jones' daughter, Mrs. Virginia Jones Newbold, took over the business from her father in the 50's and in 1972 went into partnership with Ivie. Ivie became president of the company following her death in December, 1972.

Ivie set up his own studio across the street from Jones in 1967, across the street from another established Richmond firm, Dietz Press. Ivie was director of the Interior Design Studio at Miller and Rhoads department store for several years before going into business for himself. He is a native of Eden, N.C.

Reviewing his credentials reminded Ivie of some advice he would like to pass along to fine arts undergraduates today. Those going into the interior design field, he advises, should get some business training along the way.

"You can be very talented by if you don't have any business sense you are sunk . . . the exposure is essential," he asserts.

The scope of Ivie's work depends on whether his client is a foundation working on a historic restoration, the owner of a large condominium in Florida, the Governor's lady, or a senior citizen moving into a retirement home.

Recently Ivie designed many of the public areas in the new Westminster-Canterbury House in Richmond, a retirement complex built jointly by the Presbyterian Synod of the Virginias and the Episcopal Diocese of Virginia. Governed by three prime considerations - Federal fire regulations, budget and maintenance - Ivie designed rooms that reflect a youthful, invigorating atmosphere through the use of bright cheerful colors combined with a fine collection of antiques from the former Protestant Episcopal Home in Richmond.

The trade magazine "Interiors" in January devoted a double page of color plates and several pages of a copy to a complimentary review of Ivie's work in various rooms of the recently refurbished Governor's mansion in Richmond.

Most of Ivie's clients know what they want when they come to him. He works with them to achieve their expectations, sifting through furnishings and accessories already in hand, adding or restyling as needed. There is no wholesale moving out of the old and moving in of the new explained Ivie. Some clients want a room or several completely redesigned, another may want to begin with a particular piece of drapery that will be part of a larger scheme later on. Reupholstery work and draperies are done in the workshops behind the showrooms.

The temptation to ask Ivie about the latest in home furnishings or the influence of the Bicentennial quickly fades as he talks. Ivie designs are individualized to each client with no thought to the comings and goings of popular trends. There are several mirrors in the Cary Street showrooms which might be pegged as part of the Chinese revival in fashion today. Ivie quickly interjects a footnote of history - the Chinese influence in furnishings has been around for several hundreds of years. Pastels he predicts will be championed as "big" in a trend toward use of light colors. Ivie doesn't intend to change his use of color to fit the trend. He'll continue to use pastels and darker colors, he says, when and where they are appropriate.

Ivie uses antiques liberally in his work and is aware of the diminishing supply. "You know there was just so much that was made during the 18th century and just so much of that has survived today. Better pieces are becoming prohibitive in price to almost everyone with the exception of museums or serious collectors.

A lot of people today, he said, are buying things that are being misrepresented as antiques when they really are not in the true sense - made before 1830.

Ivie and his wife Shirley, also a designer but not active in the field, are currently on a "busman's holiday" redesigning at their house which is being remodelled.

"It is much more difficult to do for yourself than for other people," said Ivie. "I'm thinking of calling in a designer."

Ivie

Endowment Plans Move Forward

Planning for a proposed effort to increase William and Mary's endowments continued to move forward during the summer and early fall.

The Board of Visitors reviewed the status of planning at its September 19-20 meeting, and agreed that it should continue along the direction recommended by counsel and the Office of College Development. The planning is expected to continue at least until next January.

The Board inaugurated the planning at its May meeting. The Society of the Alumni's Board of Directors voted its support for the planning, at its annual June meeting.

William and Mary's endowments have a market value of $9,451,194. Endowment and other investment income for 1974-75 was $623,465, most of it restricted as to use.

Homecoming Schedule

DAY	TIME	EVENT	PLACE
Thurs. Oct. 9	3:30 pm	Order of the White Jacket Board of Directors meeting	Alumni House
	6:00 pm	Order of the White Jacket Cocktail Reception	Campus Center Ballroom
	7:00 pm	3rd Annual Order of the White Jacket Dinner Meeting	Campus Center Ballroom
Fri. Oct. 10	8:30 am	Golf Tournament (for alumni and spouses)	Golden Horseshoe Course
	9:00 am	Registration and Ticket Pick-up until 5 pm. (Coffee and Doughnuts)	Alumni House
	11:00 am	Campus Re-Orientation and Bus Tour of the New Campus	Alumni House
	3:00 pm	Dedication of Rogers Chemistry Building and Barksdale Athletic Field	Barksdale Field
		Soccer Match - Alumni vs. Varsity	James Blair Terrace
	5:00 pm	Sunset Parade - Queens Guard and Colonial Militia	Sunken Gardens
	6:15 pm	Class Cocktail Parties (Cash Bar)	Williamsburg Lodge
	7:30 pm	Alumni Banquet (Prepaid reservations only)
Sat. Oct. 11	8:00 am	President's Reception and Continental Breakfast	President's House
	9:00 am	Registration and Ticket Pick-up until 2 pm (Coffee and Doughnuts)	Alumni House
	9:00 am	Law School Registration until 11:30 (Coffee and Doughnuts)	Front of Law School
	10:00 am	Homecoming Parade	Duke of Gloucester Street
	10:30 am	Alumni Band Practice	Ewell Hall
	11:00 am	Cross Country Meet W&M Varsity v. U. of Richmond	Eastern State Hospital Course
	11:30 am	Dedication of the Alumni House	Alumni House
	12:00 noon	Law School Luncheon Buffet and short business Meeting	Campus Center Ballroom
	12:00 noon	see schedule below:	Alumni House Side Lawn
		12:00 '25; 12:10 '30;
		12:20 '35; 12:30 '40
		12:40 '45; 12:50 '50;
		1:00 '55; 1:10 '60
		1:20 '65; 1:30 '70
	12:15 pm	Luncheon-on-the-Lawn	Alumni House (Blow Gym in case of rain)
	2:00 pm	Football Game W&M v. Ohio University	Cary Field
	post game	"Fifth Quarter" Social Hour for all alumni	Hospitality House
	post game	Law School Cocktail Party	Campus Center Ballroom
	7:45 pm	Alumni Dinner (pre-paid reservations only)	Williamsburg Lodge
	9:00 pm	Alumni Dance (BYOL-until 1:00 am)	Williamsburg Lodge

THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI PRESENTS ALUMNI TRAVEL TOURS
(For members & their immediate families)

EGYPT
Jan. 14-21 $599.00

BERMUDA
March 8-12 $229.00

VIENNA
April 27-May 5 $482.00

DUBROUNIK & ROME
May 9-18 $879.00

LONDON
Aug. 9-11 $367.00

All prices subject to fuel surcharges and possible dollar fluctuations.

DULLES DEPARTURES!

For further information and/or reservation coupon, contact: Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box G.O., Williamsburg, Va. 23185 PHONE: (804) 229-7545

Happy Birthday Mama

The girls in Kappa Alpha Theta knew her as "Mama String" during the 12 years she served as Housemother, until her retirement in 1955. Mama (Mrs. George F. Stringfellow) recently celebrated her 95th birthday, and on a visit to William and Mary she appeared as spry and warm-spirited as ever. Among the cards of congratulations was one from President and Mrs. Ford. Mrs. Stringfellow now lives with her daughter in Wakefield, Virginia. Happy Birthday from the Gazette and all Alumni, Mama. We all love you.

ALUMNI GAZETTE of the College of William and Mary

October, 1975: Volume 43, No. 4

Editor, Ross L. Weeks, Jr.
Associate Editor, S. Dean Olson
Art Director, George A. Crawford, Jr.
Class News, Trudi S. Neese
Vital Statistics, Mary T. Branch
Typesetting, Sylvia B. Holmes

Established June 10, 1933, by the Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary, Box GO, Williamsburg, Va., 23185; published ten times a year. Second-class postage paid at Williamsburg. Subscription rate $5.00 a year. Officers of the Society are: President, Colin R. Davis, '50; Vice President, John F. Morton, Jr., '58; Secretary-Treasurer, Jean Canoles Bruce, '49; Executive Vice President, Gordon C. Vliet, '54. Board of Directors: To December 1977: Glen E. McCaskey, '63, Hilton Head Island, South Carolina; Norman Moomjian, '55, New York, New York; John F. Morton, Jr., '58, New Orleans, Louisiana; William L. Person, '24, Williamsburg, Virginia; Patricia King Sell, '58, La Jolla California. To December 1976: Harold M. Bates, '52, Roanoke, Virginia; Marjorie Retzke Gibbs, '44, Akron, Ohio; Elaine Elias Kappel, '55, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; Raymond T. Waller, '40, Richmond, Virginia; Hillsman V. Wilson, '51, Lutherville-Timonium, Maryland. To December 1975: Jean Canoles Bruce, '49, Norfolk, Virginia; Colin R. Davis, '50, Suffolk, Virginia; Fred L. Frechette, '46, Richmond, Virginia; J.W. Hornsby, Jr., '50, Newport News, Virginia; Harriet Nachman Storm, '64, Hampton, Virginia.

Freshest Advice

17

Walter Lee McCormick of Redlands, Calif., writes "All goes well. 12 grandchildren, 4 girls and 8 boys."

21

Inger Scheie Vaughn of Sacramento, Calif., has retired (last year) after 40 years of teaching. She is still active in youth activities and other organizations.

Last June the Reverend Morris W. Derr, D.D. of Allentown, Pa., celebrated the golden anniversary of his ordination into the ministry. During his retirement he is the honorary Associate of the Church of the Mediator. He served as a missionary in seven states and retired in 1966.

25

Mrs. J. Stuart White (L. Helen Smith) 140 Towne Square Drive Newport News, Va. 23607

My deep and grateful appreciation to the Alumni Society for honoring me with the title of "Class Reporter". It is a pleasure and privilege to serve as your reporter, and it has been such fun receiving your letters. Thanks for your many little personal remarks. They have taken root deep within my memories and there shall remain.

Yes, it was great celebrating together our Fiftieth Class Reunion! A tear for those who could not be with us -- a million thanks for those who could!

Dot and Red Campbell, of whom we are so very proud, write that they attended the graduation from high school of one of their grandsons in Plainfield, N.J., and also attended a reunion of the "Campbell Clan" from the Philadelphia area. On August 30th they attended a 40th wedding anniversary of friends in Winston-Salem and from there to Myrtle Beach, S.C., for a few weeks.

From Anita Rucker Cottrell I learned that she had spent the summer in Maine and upon returning to their home in Carolina found weeds and weeds in their garden - but - in her own words she added - "The same hot, damp weather that makes the weeds grow also makes the tomatoes and figs fat and juicy. I'd rather look at the Maine scenery but I'd rather eat the Carolina produce". Lucky gal -- the gorgeous scenery -- and still the produce!!

Can you imagine enjoying fireplace heat while some of us were sweltering in the high nineties this summer? Well, that is exactly what Vernon and Liz Nunn did when they visited their daughter and grandchildren in Michigan! They also visited in Pennsylvania and New York.

Marjorie Brulle Shook writes that since our reunion they have "almost" built and "almost" moved into a new smaller home -- but where oh where does the accumulation of years go now! Yes, Marjorie, that is the cry of many of us "oldsters" today. She adds that she plans to "recuperate" at Homecoming, but from the schedule Marjorie, you'd better recuperate and then come to Homecoming prepared for a gala time.

Ruth Wynn Lee who makes Florida her home nine months of the year came back to Old Virginia in time for our class reunion and she visited her sister and daughter in Richmond as well as her daughter in Greensboro, N.C. She and her sister will be our house guests in September and we plan to live it up. From our home she goes to New York and from there will return to Florida. No grass grows under that gal's feet!

Virginia Waymouth Chappelle and two friends spent ten days in North Conway, N.H., with a friend who has a summer home there. In August, she, her daughter and one granddaughter took off for Bedford Springs, Pa., for a week. While there she celebrated her birthday. You guess!!! Knowing Virginia she didn't miss a trick. I might add that Virginia and I have corresponded quite frequently this summer and she has sent me some excellent recipes. If you want something exotic, just write her.

While Mary Gilliam Hughes did write of some sadness, she also closed in her usual happy mood. It is interesting to note her enthusiasm for our Alma Mater and several alumni not of our class. Mary's step-granddaughter's father-in-law was killed in an auto accident. His wife was Adele Coleman who graduated in the thirties and his daughter, Anne Johnston is a graduate of the Class of '71. We extend our deepest sympathy to the family.

Also, the husband of Sallie Shumate Legard, '26, was in a freak accident in July and although he has partially recovered is still not well.

Mary has been busy trying to arouse enthusiasm amongst William and Mary grads for Homecoming. Great! That is something all of us should be doing.

By the way, have you sent in your reservations for Act II - Class of '25 Reunion? If not, get busy and don't forget to order those football tickets. You know we have our own special reserved area! We can thank Art Winder for that. Isn't he just the greatest!!

Norman Neblett has been doing some deep sea fishing this summer. He says, "I am afraid in the near future there will be only two classes - the rich and the poor. I don't know which way to go. In 1976 I am going to take it easy. Let come what may, I can survive". With that spirit, Neblett, we have no fear of survival -- but do plan while you are relaxing to give W&M a hand!

Swanson and Jessie Smith have visited their daughter twice this summer. He says that Harriett is coming for her 25th Class Reunion in October and he and Jessie plan to be there also. They attended the William and Mary Alumni Chapter meeting in Roanoke in July, honoring those from that area who are entering the College.

Eddie and Elizabeth Islin have visited their daughter in Burlington. Eddie played golf at "Mid Pines". He and Charlie Pollard attended the Theta Delta Chi Convention in Toronto in early September. He closed with, "See you at the important luncheon on the 10th of October".

Garrett Dalton attended Commencement at the Medical College of Virginia as well as their scientific programs. On July 3d and 4th, he attended Ted's Naturalization Ceremonies for the New Citizens which is held annually at Monticello. He attended the W&M vs. University of N.C., game on September 6. He will attend his Board of Visitors meeting at the College on September 17-19, and be with us for Homecoming.

Elizabeth Walmsley writes that she has had her reservations for Homecoming at the Williamsburg Lodge for almost a year. Now, that's what I call vision and good ole College spirit!

Marion Butler Reynolds, you are Mrs. Chamber of Commerce of St. Pete, Fla! She writes - "We haven't been doing much of anything except the usual fun and games, also feeling sorry for those people in the North and West who have been suffering in the horrible heat waves. Whoever heard of St. Petersburg having much over ninety and those afternoon cooling showers embroidered with thunder and lightning just make this the prime place to be".

She adds, "We are looking forward to a two-week Caribbean Cruise on the Norwegian American Cruiser Ship Sagafjord sailing from Everglades on October 25. Also, she anticipates a visit from their younger daughter and family over Christmas. Have fun, Mac, and let me hear about your cruise when you return.

Suzanne Garrett Montague writes that she and Monty have spent a lazy summer at their farm in Yorktown swimming, fishing and harvesting their garden and now are looking forward to being with all of us at Homecoming. We look forward to being with you and Monty, Suzanne.

Betty Lou Westbrook, niece of Wilson E. Westbrook, writes that he died on July 10th. She adds "He was very disappointed that he had not been able to attend the class reunions in recent years, but he often mentioned the College and his former classmates". Betty Lou, we thank you for your letter and on behalf of the Class of '25, I extend to you our deepest sympathy and our prayers. We shall always miss your uncle.

Frances Sanders Ennis writes that Ruth Wynn Lee visited her and her husband, John, in White Stone, Va., this summer. Frances is always busy tripping to parties. Her husband is busy politicking. We are pulling for John, Frances. He is a great guy and we wish him success!

Rose Vipond writes that she visited her brother and family in Berea, Ohio. She next visited her oldest brother in Silver Spring, Md. In June she spent a few days in North Carolina attending the Women's Summer Conference of the United Church of Christ held at Catawba College.

And what about Helen and Stuart? Our children and grandchildren have visited us as have several friends. The biggest event was moving into a townhouse facing the James River. How privileged we feel to once again be able to witness those gorgeous "sunsets on the James"--and those romantic moonlight nights! Now we are setting our sights on the VMI-Virginia game (my husband is a VMI grad) and Homecoming at our dear ole Alma Mater!

Please continue sending me news and have a happy, happy autumn!

29 Macon C. Sammons
Box 206
Shawsville, Va. 24162

We hope to see many of our classmates during Homecoming weekend, October 10 - 11. As usual, a fine program is planned.

Lois Wilson Taze, Green Valley, Ariz., had a fine trip in early spring with her husband Ed to Port Allegre, Brazil, where he was sent for two months by the International Executive Service Corps.

Charles P. Scott, Arlington retired June 1970 from Arlington County Schools. He taught chemistry at Wakefield High School from its opening in 1953 until retirement. He taught all during his career in this area--10½ years at Falls Church High School and 31 years at Arlington. He has a small farm near Winchester where he spends much of his time. He had a pleasant reunion recently with Katherine and Dick Mann and Joe and Eleanor James at Winchester.

We had a pleasant visit with Lucille and Armstrong Smith at their home in Farmville recently. They hope to be back for Homecoming.

33 Mrs. T. Leonard George
(Betty Chambers)
5708 West Franklin Street
Richmond, Va. 23226

Hi, everyone, I hope all of you have had a good summer.

Please begin this year by sending me news of you and your families. A card would be fine. Don't forget.

Did you know that Thomas H. Ayersof Blue Acres, Pinehurst, N.C. 28374, served his last assignment with the U.S. Federal Government as Director of Safety Hq. U.S. Army, Heidelberg, Germany before his retirement? He was there for ten years. What a beautiful place to work! Tommy, did you have time to see Europe while you were there?

I was delighted to read that Mary Virginia Rigg Fisher is the W. and M. Fund State Chairman for Nevada. Good luck, Mary Virginia.

Now for a little nostalgia and personal news. Remember your sophomore year when you went back to school as an upperclassman and greeted old friends as you got settled? Indirectly, my husband and I were there this Labor Day Weekend as our granddaughter who goes to William and Mary lives in Florida so we had to bring down the things that she had stored here in Richmond as she had flown home in May. We joined her mother, father and her brother in helping her get settled. (Always on the third floor, isn't it?) How different it is today! Due to a shortage of campus accommodations she was assigned to share an apartment off Jamestown Road. They cook, do their laundry, study, sleep, and live in close quarters in their home away from home. They knew each other, and seemed happy and congenial, so maybe they are learning more about living together in harmony than we ever did with only one roommate. They seem willing to settle domestic problems that arise with discussion and compromise in a mature way. And I know they will have fun together.

Don't forget that Homecoming is early this year. Try to get back, and take a look at the beautiful Alumni House if you haven't seen it. It's lovely. You will be very proud of it, and the people in it who so ably serve us all. They, too, would like to see you.

Please send me some news. I've run dry.

35 Mrs. J. Paul Kent
(Eleanor A. Martin)
616 Campbell Avenue
Altavista, Va. 24517

John A. Mapp, dean of the Evening College and Summer Sessions at Virginia Commonwealth University, gave the graduation address at summer Commencement exercises.

Ann Northington Westlow retired June 1975 from Richmond City School System after thirty-eight years of teaching. She has remained busy this year also as Supreme Prelate of International Order of the Amannet.

Cathy W. Clarke of Richmond has been named assistant staff employment manager for Reynolds Metals Company. She joined this firm in 1970.

George C. Pitts, Jr., of Williamsburg retired in July as the senior staff person in the administrative office of the Williamsburg-James City County school system after forty years of teaching and educational administration.

37

A Class Reporter is needed for the Class of 1937. Will anyone interested please contact the Alumni Office.

Winnie Nelson Fisher of Woodside, Calif., writes that their youngest daughter, Kathy, graduated from the University of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif.; last June and now works for Bechtel Corp., in San Francisco. The next youngest daughter, Anne Randolph (Randy) married David Caldwell of Oregon City, Ore., in November. Both are now in Italy where they met.

Lt. Col. Shale L. Tulin of East Norwalk, Conn., was appointed in May as Vice Chairman of the Norwalk Veterans Memorial Committee and grand marshal of the Memorial Day Parade which was most successful.

T. Edward Temple of Richmond, Va., was appointed in June as President of Virginia Commonwealth University.

39 Frances L. Grodecoeur
810 Howard Street
Monogahela, Pa. 15063

Our '39 Fun Time Committee is alive, well, and going strong for our upcoming 36th reunion. Why a 36th reunion? Why not - when it's the Class of '39 getting together.

Congratulations to Marjorie Bowman Fowler who was awarded an MEd from Rollins in the summer of 1974. She has switched to Specific Learning Ability while her husband continues to teach remedial reading. They live in Brooksville, Fla.

Another classmate in the Sunshine State is Jean Warren Stewart who is living in Largo.

From Somerset, England, Mildred Mode Owen-Hughes writes about the exciting trip she and her husband enjoyed last year. With Mrs. Betty Clay (daughter of Baden Powell), heading the tour, "In the footsteps of Baden Powell", they travelled in South Africa and Kenya, receiving a warm welcome from Scouts and Guides and learning a great deal about Powell's early days as a soldier which led to his founding the Scout Movement.

C. Samuel Cockrell and his family are deep into education. He is Assistant Superintendent of School in Suffolk. Sam and his wife, Leah, and three daughters are teachers. Daughter #4 is still in high school and was planning to tour Italy during Easter vacation.

Another classmate in the field of education is Fred M. Felner, Jr. who is principal of the Board Acres Elementary School in Montgomery County, Md. Before taking on this post in 1971, he had been with another elementary school and prior to that, a Supervisor of Music in Winchester, Mass.

Minor Wine Thomas, Jr., of Cooperstown, N.Y., has been named Director and Chief Curator of the New York State Historical Association, the Fenimore House, Farmer's Museum, and the Carriage & Harness Museum.

Her classmates may be interested to learn though information received at the Alumni Office that Frán Grodecoeur is listed in the latest edition of the Marguis' publication of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICAN WOMEN. Congratulations!

45 Mrs. T. Cato Tillar
(Ruth Weimer)
703 Peachtree Street
Emporia, Va. 23847

Mary Simon Blevins writes from Princeton, W. Va., that she received her Master of Science degree in Secondary Administration in August '74 at Radford College and was initiated into Phi Kappa Phi honorary. Daughter, Barbara, is a '74 graduate of Fairmont State College and a son attends VPI. The Blevins have a married daughter who lives in Hawaii. Mary and son, Robert, had a wonderful two weeks visit there and Mary had the opportunity to become acquainted with her grandson, who is now a year old.

Ricky Struminger Wise lives in Houston and reports that her two sons are both married and live in Houston. Daughter, Helaine, is a junior at the U. of Texas. Robert, a stockbroker, is a graduate of the U. of Texas, and son, Mark, a graduate of George Washington U., received his law degree from the U. of Texas.

Our congratulations to Marvin Bass, as a recent news article entitled "Marvin Bass Given Top Birmingham Job" states, "Marvin Bass, a veritable household word in Southern Conference and Atlantic Coast Conference football circles for 35 years, has been named head coach of the new Birmingham Vulcans." The article continues, "Bass, who was an All-Southern Conference selection as a William and Mary guard in 1942, coached the Indians in 1951, . . . a coach for 33 years, he has worked in the National Football League at Washington and Buffalo and in Canada at Calgary and Montreal. Besides his headcoaching stint at his Alma Mater, he also guided South Carolina and was an assistant at Georgia Tech and Richmond, serving the latter for the year prior to his appearance in the World Football League."

Two recent weddings concerned William and Mary alumni. One took place in Emporia in May at which time Lane Pruett '72 and Tom Jacobsen were married. The Chi Omega's were well represented through the bride and four of her attendants. The bridemaids, also from the class of '72, were Susan Jean McGowan, Cheryl Ann Menke, Barbara Robertson, and Mrs. Michael Bixiones.

Marion Lang Van Dam wrote concerning their special trip to Williamsburg in Sept., to attend their oldest son's wedding. Thomas, a graduate of The Law School and Randy Pearson '70, the daughter of Natalie Nichols Pearson '42 were married in the Wren Chapel. Randy, a Kappa, is a stewardess with Pan Am. The Pearsons live in Palo Alto, Calif. The Van Dam's son, Dave, is a sophomore at the College.

Jean Clark Ford and Virgil '43 also returned to Williamsburg in June for a very special occasion. At that time the College of William and Mary received the published manuscripts of all of Vigil's

...For The Bicentennial

A HANDSOME, FULL COLOR FACSIMILE OF THE EARLIEST KNOWN WATERCOLOR OF THE CAMPUS

... an unusual print for home or office
... available now at $4.00 including tax and handling.

This newly issued 11 x 14 inch print, a facsimile of a mid-19th century lithograph based on Thomas Millington's watercolor, has been published by the King and Queen Press for the Bicentennial. The King and Queen Press, an activity under sponsorship of the Society of the Alumni, will publish selected items of special interest and value to the William and Mary family. Income from the sale of these items, ordinarily not seen elsewhere, will be invested in the production of further published materials.

Order by sending your check or money order made payable to the King and Queen Press, at $4.00 for each print, to Box 60, Williamsburg, Va. 23185.

church music anthems (Teen-swinging coffee shop guitar music and contatas) for their archives and posterity to be used as a teaching device for their music department. It was a coincidence that Virgil was honored by the College on a very important day to them as it was the thirtieth anniversary of their marriage which took place in the Wren Chapel. A Minister of Music for the past 25 years, as well as a composer, Virgil has also been a U.S. District Court deputy with Judge Hoffman who is head of the Judicial Center in D.C. Their son, David, is a '72 graduate of the College, and son Taylor studied engineering at ODU and UVA. Daughter, Donna Jean, is a Navy wife. The Fords are proud grandparents of a year old grandson.

Cato and I enjoyed a special August weekend at Sandbridge Beach visiting Sunny Trumbo Williams '44 and Rolf. We also enjoyed seeing Jean McPherrin Morris and Harrell and Jean Boyd McIntyre '44. Fran Loesch Brunner and Bob vacationed at Nag's Head and also were Aug. visitors at the Williams' beach house. Sunny and Rolf had a fabulous trip to Norway in June as guests of the Foreign Department. They dined and danced in the company of royalty and were presented privately to the King.

Jeanne Schoenewolf Preston and Page have a second grandchild as daughter Peggy '69 and Rob have a baby girl. Jeanne saw Audrey Hudgins Thompson when Audrey was at Virginia Beach this summer. Everywhere the talk was about Homecoming--so see you then for the Thirtieth reunion!!

47

Mrs. C. E. Clarke, Jr.
(Jean McCreight)
4817 Rodney Road
Richmond, Va. 23230

Aha, she cried, Patience is rewarded. Aubrey Mason sent me news (after 27 yrs.) of his installation as Chairman of the Ferrum College Board of Trustees. "Prior to entering W&M, my children Aubrey Lee, Leslie Anne, and Walter "Chip", all attended Ferrum for two years." Aubrey Lee '72 is now associated with the family firm in Lynchburg; Leslie Anne '74 is an instructor with the Barbizon School of Modeling in Atlanta and doing free lance modeling, while "Chip" is a member of the class of '76. That leaves Allison Leigh, 15, a student at Seven Hills School.

Connecticut certainly deserves a mention according to Allen Sullivan. For the last 5 yrs. at least one or more students from Trumbull HS have enrolled at W&M and two more for the class of '79. Allen has just finished his 27th yr. of teaching and coaching, the last 15 at good ol' Trumbull. Allen Jr. '73, has done 2 yrs. at Univ. of Grenoble, Fr., and will enter Syracuse in Sept. for a M.A. in communication.

Ruth Paul Katherman sends news from York, Pa., where she has received tenure at York College as asst. prof. of Psychology and also licensed for private practice of Psych. I can appreciate the tedium and long hours spent, Ruth, having just finished Stone's Passions of the Mind about Freud. And much as gracias to Martha L. Aston for encouraging me to read that tome. I lived dangerously and found my way to Elberton, Ga., for a visit with Lee and Martha Jane.

Some of you close readers may remember I wrote of Able "Andy" Anderson Apperson a few issues back. Well, now her college appreciates her, too: she was named faculty member of the month for Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Congratulation!

After a 20yr. break I have hit the gardening-canning cycle this summer. Now if you don't think it's good, hot, backbreaking fun, try hunting in the woodshed and smoke-house for jars, then scrubbing out ancient wasps and bees memorabilia! Because Clarke is a tenacious soul, I am told, he gets around to assorted stores, markets and country service stations . . . yes, I've had lids. Its been a tough fight but I am rewarded as I crawl in the closet under the stairs to gloat over the neat rows of tender snaps (a southerneuphuism for green-podded bush beans), tiny butter-beans (all limas failed the test for us) and August apple sauce.

Keep those cards and letters coming folks, bringing all the news that's fit to print about your summer.

49

Mrs. Charles Anthony, Jr.
(Alice Baxley)
53 Hickory Place
Livingston, N. J. 07039

Mervyn Wingfield is currently chairman of the Department of Accounting, School of Business, Virginia Commonwealth University. During the 1974-75 academic year he served as Southeast Regional Vice President, American Accounting Association.

Joan Wattles Spencer is now living at 777 Clubview, Worthington Hills, Ohio, where her husband is with Ford Motor Company as manager of their oil and gas operations.

Margaret Smithwick Clay teaches English at Azalea Junior High School in Norfolk. Her husband is Supervisor of Physical Education and Health in Norfolk schools. Their daughter Diane graduated from high school last June.

Jim Logan writes that he recently had a surprise visit in Pulaski from Jim Sluss who is now technical director of a semiconductor manufacturer in Belo Horizonte, Brazil. He had also heard from Bud Bridges who is now living in London where he is in overseas corporate development consulting.

Jim Macken wrote a lengthy letter bringing us up to date with him and his family. He and his wife, Maureen, have five children, ages 12 to 20, and all of them tennis players. Jim was captain of Canada's Davis Cup Team against Mexico in 1963 and against the U.S. in 1965. He was President of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association in 1964-65-66 and is now representing the Canadian and Northwest Lawn Tennis Associations as umpire in chief. Jim says that he's had no contact with college friends and would especially like to have news of Ash Wiley and Ed Marsh. His address is 3863 W. 11th Ave., Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

William Ogletree is currently working for Narco Scientific Industries in Fort Washington, Penn., where he has been appointed Vice President, Finance and Development. Narco is a maker of health, life-science and aviation/marine equipment and William has overall responsibility for Narco's business planning and development and internal audit as well as finance. William and his wife, Dorothea, have three children and live in Newton Square, Penn.

Eva Kafka Barron has taken a sabbatical from her job as an English teacher at Teaneck High School in New Jersey. Eva will spend a year studying school administration and will continue her studies in London next spring.

Ronaldo Morton has been employed for a number of years as Cruise Manager for the Swedish American Line. In this capacity, he was on board of the Gripsholm's final cruise to the Scandinavian countries.

51

Mrs. Beverley F. Carson
(Anne Reese)
111 Shell Drive
Roanoke Rapids, N. C. 27870

Bill Lehrburger has joined American Recreation Group, Inc., as Director of Marketing. He was associated most recently with J. C. Penney Co., Inc., as Marketing Development Manager. He previously held senior marketing and general management positions with Duplan Group, the Singer Company, Massey-Ferguson, Ltd. and the U.S. Plywood Corporation. After graduating from the College with our class, Bill attended the Harvard University Graduate School of Business from which he holds an MBA. He is living in Scarsdale, N.Y., and he and his wife have three children.

Jim Kelly will serve as national chairman of the 1975-76 Silver Anniversary William and Mary Fund campaign. He served as alumni secretary from 1954 until 1971. That post was combined with the duties of the Director of Development for the College from 1966 until 1971, which Jim also administered. Since 1971, he has been an assistant to President Thomas A. Graves, Jr. While Jim was editor of The Alumni Gazette from 1954 until 1966, he won a top editorial award in 1957 from the American Alumni Council. After he graduated from the College with us, he spent three years on active duty with the Marine Corps. Since then, he has risen to the rank of Colonel in the Marine Reserve. In Williamsburg, Jim has served as president of the Chamber of Commerce, United Fund, and the Red Cross. He is presently vice president of the Peninsula Council of the Boy Scouts of America, the group which recently awarded him the Silver Beaver Award. He is also a member of the Vestry of Bruton Parish church. Jim is married to Beverly Simonton '53, and they have three children, Sandy, Sharra, and Beverly. Sandy will be a junior at the College this fall.

Paul Webb who was the basketball coach at Randolph Macon College in Ashland, Va., and one of Ashland's outstanding citizens, recently accepted the offer of Old Dominion University in Norfolk, Va., to be its basketball coach.

Governor Mills Godwin, Jr., of Virginia recently appointed Dr. E. Raymond Harcum '50 of Williamsburg to the State Board of Psychologists Examiners. Rae is on the faculty at the College and is married to the former Phoebe Martin of our class. They have a son and a daughter.

Millie Johnson Woodling, my sophomore roommate, who lives in Friendwood, Tex., called me one morning this summer on her way to Nags Head, N.C. She, Pete '50, and one of their three children were traveling and camping up the East coast. After a few days at Nags Head, they were planning to visit her mother in Petersburg and to visit his family in Pennsylvania. Pete works for NASA and helps with the training of the astronauts.

A very interesting article about Gordon Jump, the husband of Anna Inge '53, appeared in the Richmond Times-Dispatch recently. He is an actor who has appeared on television and in the movies in featured roles and on commercials. He has appeared on "The Rockford Files", "Kojack", and "The Mary Tyler Moore Show". He pointed out that it was Anna who encouraged him to go to California, and soon he came back to Blackstone, Va., Anna's hometown, and married her twelve years ago. Later in California, Anna helped him get one of his jobs. She had a friend who had become one of Hollywood's top casting agents, and through this contact, he got to be on a meat tenderizer commercial.

Another article recently appeared in another edition of the same newspaper about two of our classmates, Dot Franklin Eckles and Russ. It brought out the difference in college today and a quarter of a century ago. This is particularly evident to Dot and Russ because their daughter, Diana, nicknamed "Dee", is a junior biology major at the College, and their son, David, is a sophomore at the College. An excellent picture of this family of four accompanied this interesting article. How I wish that I could share all of the article with you because it brought back so many happy memories of our college days. It tells about the dress, the room decorations, etc., used by the students in our day and those used by the students at the College and other colleges today. We can appreciate the contrast because most of us have children who are students at the College or other colleges.

Constance O'Connor Morgan wrote that their daughter Michele was a freshman at the College last year.

Walter F. Milkey wrote that on April 8, 1974, he and Martha were blessed with the birth of triplets, two girls and a boy. Unfortunately, the boy and one girl passed away one week later. The survivor, Jane Ellen, enjoyed her first Christmas last year with her two brothers, Steven, 11, Kevin, 10, and Ann Elizabeth, nineteen months old. Our thoughts are with you, Walter and Martha, and we are so happy that you have such a fine family.

Bolling Conner Carter wrote that she is working as school counselor at the Appomattox Middle School. Her husband Richard is Vocational Director of the Appomattox County Schools.

Chris Moe, who is a professor and director of theatre at Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill., has received a Fulbright-Hayes senior scholar grant to Australia where he will lecture on American theatre and playwriting, and do research on Australian drama. He and Cadsie (Carolyn Forman '52) left in June and will reside in Adelaide for six months. In 1968 they lived in Oxford, England, and in 1970, in Luxembourg. Chris has advanced degrees from the University of North Carolina and Cornell University. In addition to directing and teaching, he has written plays for which he has received a number of awards. He wrote the prize-winning off-Broadway production, Stranger in the Land, and other plays, including several which were commissioned to celebrate historical events and plays for children. Among his recent books are Creating Historical Drama (with George McCalmon) and Six New Plays for Children (co-edited with Darwin Reid Payne). Chris currently serves also as competition director of the International Biennial Play Competition for a new play about the American Revolution. One of his former students is Louis Catron, professor of theatre and playwright-in-residence at the College. Cadsie and Chris have two sons. Eric is a University Scholar at Princeton. Keith has been enrolled as a Presidential Scholar at Beloit College in Wisconsin. He spends summers working on archaeological excavations, and last summer was employed at Washington's Birthplace by the Southside Historical Sites Foundation, which has headquarters at the College.

Again I will be teaching eighth grade English at Roanoke Rapids Junior-Senior High School. Our daughters, Beverley, 15, and Mary, 14, will be attending the same school. Our son Tom is a sophomore at the College. He worked for Colonial Williamsburg this summer and was an excavator for the Department of Archaeology at the newest archaeological "dig" located on the James Anderson House properties on Duke of Gloucester Street. Bev continues to work as a pharmacist for the Rosemary Drug Company here.

I hope you had a wonderful summer. I may not get to Homecoming this year, but you can bet that I am making plans to be there next year for our 25th Reunion. Please start making plans now to be there. It will be so great to see all of you again. Also, don't forget, I will be giving this job up at that time, and I hope one of you will volunteer to take over. It is one way that we have of keeping up with each other as we go through the years. I have enjoyed helping keep us in touch. Now we need another one of you to do the same. Don't forget to contribute to The William and Mary Fund. The College needs our support, and remember, Jim, our Class President, is the Chairman this time. Let's help him make this year's campaign a successful one. Write to me about you. The class wants to hear from you.

53

Mrs. Harold J. Woolston, Jr.
(Barbara Jo Mott)
116 Talleyrand Road
West Chester, Pa. 19380

Brian Kent has retired from military service after twenty-one years of duty. He is a Lieutenant Colonel. His latest address is Laguna, Niguel.

Dr. Karl Schellenberg is on the faculty at Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk.

Margaret, '55, and Pete Hino left Japan and presently are stationed in Hawaii at Schofield Barracks. Pete has been promoted to Colonel and is the commanding officer of the 25th Infantry Division Artillery. Son, Peter, is a 10th grader at Punahou School.

Jim Sood and family spent last year in Finland where Jim was the visiting professor of International Marketing at the Helsinki School of Economics. They live in Rockville, Md.

Bob Barrett, his wife and two children, live in Rockland Co., N.Y. Bob is Associate Professor of Neurology at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons.

The Reverend William Martin has been appointed chaplain of Culver Military Academy in Culver, Ind. "Bill" had served as chaplain of Old Dominion University in Norfolk since 1965. He received his master of divinity degree from the Virginia Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria in 1962. Following graduation from the College he was a teacher in history and drama at Chesapeake City and York County schools in Virginia. He also was a district manager for Field Enterprises, Inc., and has served on a number of service and civic boards including the board of the boys' home in Covington, Va. The Martins have three children.

Bill Chambers, our former All-America basketball player at the College, is Southeastern Regional Sales Manager of the Sporting Goods Division of Converse Rubber Co. in Wilmington, Mass.

Barry Wilson is currently Vice President of Public Affairs with Blue Cross of the National Capitol Area. He is a member of the National Blue Cross Communications Advisory Committee, the Public Relations Society of America, The American Society of Hospital Public Relations Directors and is in "Who's Who in the South and Southwest" and "Who's Who in Business and Industry". He also is active in a variety of church, community, health, and amateur theatre activities. He and Mary Lou have four children.

Emily Ketterton Smith is Director of Publications at the University of New Hampshire.

Nan Ellis Smith, husband and three children, live in Palo Alto, Calif. Husband, Phil, works for Reynolds Metals in San Francisco; their two oldest children are in college.

Welton and Beata Swanson Mansfield are in Bloomfield Hills, Mich. Welton has joined Cunningham and Walsh as Vice President and Management Supervisor of the American Motors Account. He is active in the New York and San Francisco offices.

Barbara Schwartz Smith, Jim, and four children are moving to Connecticut this fall since General Electric's corporate offices will be located in Fairfield, Conn. The Smiths had hoped to see Hugh and Mary Ellen Romney Baude and family in August.

This year finds the Woolstons having two daughters in college at the same time. Mary Lou finishes at West Chester State while Susan begins her freshman year at Lock Haven State in Penn.

55

Mrs. H. L. Harrell
(Yolanda Grant)
7 Pendleton Drive
Cherry Hill, N. J. 08003

The next time you receive your copy of The Alumni Gazette you will see a new name heading up the column of 1955. Yes, it seems I'm retiring from my job as class reporter, at least for a while. The editors asked that all reporters try to change every five years around Homecoming Time. Your column will be in excellent hands, however. Anne Lunas Vincent, one of my best correspondents, has consented to take over. Please send all her news to her after this issue, and if you're at Homecoming she would love to hear from you as she won't be able to attend. Her address is: Mrs. C. J. Vincent, 855 Strawberry Hill Road West, Columbus, Ohio 43213. I've really enjoyed being your class reporter all these years, and want to thank each and every one of you who took the time to write or phone me. The Class of '55 is the greatest!

Now more news - John and Carol Marsh have spent a very interesting year at the Institute for Cancer Research in Sutton, Surrey, England, just outside London, they returned to New Haven, Conn., this summer.

Ginny Hungerford Moore, who did such a good job producing Backdrop Club shows in '54 and '55 remains busy in Community Theatre. She's an actress and President of Bay City Players in Bay City, Mich. She and Al's oldest son, Warren, is a freshman at Albion College and Allen, age 17, is an exchange student in Narrandera, NSW, Australia.

Ann Callihan and Quinby Hines are pleased that son, Marc, is a freshman at their alma mater.

John Mahoney's fine play helped his team, the Jaycees, to its second consecutive championship and a 11-10 record in the Scotch Plains, N.J., Basketball League.

Thanks again to all of you for all your help. I'd also like to thank all the editors of The Alumni Gazette who have written me through the years. My very best wishes to all of you. Please don't forget to write Anne. She needs to know the news!

57

Mrs. Gary L. Newton
(Sally Quarton)
752 Robinhood Circle
Bloomfield Hills, Mich. 48013

I hope everyone had a great summer as we did. Now I'm having trouble settling down to a regular routine again.

I had a seaside visit with Carolyn Thomas Jones and her husband, Pete, and their children in July. They live in Chappaqua, N.Y., and are involved in all sorts of activities in the community. Pete had a business trip to France a couple of years ago and came back determined to master the French language. As a result, they are both serious students of French. More power to them!

I have received word that Alice Mathews Erickson received a Master of Arts degree at the 1975 Commencement Exercises. Congratulations, Alice!

Speaking of advanced degrees, John Jensen completed work on a Ph.D. in Human Development at Union Graduate School, Yellow Springs, Ohio, in January, 1975. He's the father of a three year old girl and is now living in Douglas, Alaska, near Juneau.

Dr. Paul George Gutermuth writes that he has moved from his post as Counsellor of the German Embassy in Teheran, Iran, and is now with the Federal Ministry of Economy in Bonn.

Kathy Hamilton Steinwedell's husband, Pete, contributed the following news. He says that Kathy is a happy, fun wife and a great tennis player. She teaches crewel embroidery and is on the vestry of their church in West Hartford, Conn. He also says that any of Kathy's friends who come to New England should stop in for Happy Hour!

I am hoping to hear from more of you in the months to come.

61 Mrs. J. Steirling Gunn (Margie Barnhart) 2040 Leovey Lane Midlothian, Va. 23113

J. Hunter Todd, founder and president of the Atlanta Film Festival, has recently announced that he is moving the event to the U.S. Virgin Islands in November.

The new dean of the Manoa campus College of Business Administration, University of Hawaii, is David A. Heenan. Formerly he was a First National City Bank vice president in New York City. Dave earned an M.B.A. degree from Columbia University in 1966 and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1972. He has been a visiting lecturer at both universities as well as at University of New South Wales.

A classmate of ours in 1958-59, David P. Randlett is chairman of the Division of Music, Lynchburg Baptist College.

Alan Weaver has earned an M.Ed. degree in administration and supervision from the School of Education at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Bunny King Neff is teacher placement director in the Office of Career Planning and Placement at Youngstown State University, Ohio. She received an M.A. in history and is now working on an M.S. in student personnel services.

Abbie Falvey Albright was elected to Convict Township Treasurer.

In 1973, Bama McNeill Steinman and Art moved to Deland, Fla., when Art bought a surveying business there. They have two daughters.

Fran and John Pforr, '60, and children have moved to New Haven, Conn., where John has been transferred with the Secret Service.

The Gunns spent vacation time during the summer with several alumni friends. We shared a rainy week with Jane and Paul Bahn and family at Bethany Beach, Del. Their former neighbors, Dick and Carol Noble Braun, were on their way to their latest Marine Corps assignment, Beirut, Lebanon. Later we enjoyed a visit to Greensboro, N.C., to see the Clarkes, Lynne, Bill, and children. Now fall is arriving with more activities. Steirling has opened several more branch banks and is teaching a course in commercial law at University of Richmond. I am launching into my usual club work, carpooling, tennis, and volunteer work in the learning disability classroom at our elementary school.

Hope to see you all at Homecoming!

63 Mrs. Donald Snook (Judy Murdock) 1029 Sanderling Circle Audubon, Pa. 19407

Emily Renzel is working for S.R.I. and has been serving on the Planning Commission in Palo Alto, Calif., since 1973. She works on her elderly home and garden in her spare time.

Jeanne (Wilkinson) Shuler and Bill, '62, work at Lawrence Livermore Lab in California. Bill is a Physicist (earning his PhD from William and Mary in 1968) and Jeanne is a systems programmer. They water ski or snow ski year around.

Betty (Risser) Heenan teaches kindergarten and Sunday School and also is a volunteer in their son Randy's classroom. John Heenan is Director of Manpower Planning in Personnel at Eastern Airlines in Florida. The Heenans vacationed in Japan, Hong Kong, and Mexico City this past year and plan a third visit to Europe and hope to get to Williamsburg this year.

Joanne (Holland) and Aubrey Goldberg enjoy living in Las Vegas. Aubrey was recently elected treasurer of the Clark County, Nevada Bar Association. Joanne is now serving as President of the Clark County Attorney's Wives Association. Their son, Devon, is now five.

Knox Lovell is visiting professor of Economics at the University of British Columbia for the 1975-76 academic year.

Liz (Holland) and George Lunger plan a trip to the Rocky Mountains. They and their children are active in the Y's Indian Guides and Princesses.

Lee (Williams) McBride is living in Paris with her family and enjoying the opportunities for travel there.

Libby (Heise) Honeywell left William and Mary in 1961 and after several moves and two sons, earned her BA from the University of San Francisco in history. Her husband, Jim, left the Marine Corps and is now with Electronic Data Systems in Camp Hill, Pa. Libby is assistant manager of a bank branch there.

Kitty (Canady) Owen is still in Hawaii where Bob is the Executive Officer of a Polaris Submarine. Kitty keeps busy with volunteer work at the Honolulu Academy of Arts and for various Submarine Wives Club activities.

Sarah (Larkin) Williams and her family are returning to Reston, Va., where Tom will be training to become a VA Hospital Assistant Director.

Lesley (Ward) Winingder is attending Georgia State University part time working on her Educational Specialist degree in counseling. She also works parttime as a family and marriage counselor in Atlanta. She and Tom have three daughters Dana 9, Deborah 7, and Dale 4, and their own tennis court which they enjoy. Lesley's roommate, Marilyn (Sterner) Keat has three sons and lives in State College, Pa., where her husband directs the elementary school counseling program. Marilyn dances actively with the Penn State Dancers. Suzanne (Dudley) Hoffa also lives in State College where her husband is head of the Art Department. Suzanne is active in an art career also in the Pa., schools.

Pat Franklin and her husband Jay are also avid tennis players. Jay is in commercial real estate. Pat substitute teaches two days a week and works at the National Center for Voluntary Action once a week. She also took a government course. Jackie (Murphy) and Bob Trelogan play tennis with the Franklins. Jackie is a Systems Engineer with IBM and Bob is in sales with IBM. The Trelogans live in Washington, D.C. Also in D.C. are Mary Frances (Bonner) Koltes and Jimmy. Jimmy is in the stock brokerage business. Mary Frances works two days a week at HEW. Sharon (Hall) and Wilbur McBay used to own a tennis shop and now own a ski shop. They live in Arlington, Va. Judy (Beers) and Pete Trelogan live in Reston, Va. Pete travels a good bit and works for the government. Judy is a Girl Scout leader, active in photography, and expecting a third child momentarily. Sue (Spillers) Reid and Bill live in Arlington also where Bill is a lawyer with the government. Diane (Stuart) Perry and Skip live in Oklahoma City after three years in Germany with their three children. Diane (LaFerriere) Auburn and Bob are in Ventura, Calif., with their four children. Ann (Harvey) Yonges and Charlie are finishing their third year in Dahomey, Africa. Crellan (James) Byrd and Bob are in Charlottesville, Va. Crellan is teaching in the high school. Across the hall from Crellan teaches Carolyn (Birch) Knolls. Carolyn and Kenny have three children. Pat's husband's brother Dick Franklin and his wife Jane live in Annandale, Va., where Dick is in commercial real estate.

Jane (Rothgeb) Jennings lives in Anaheim, Calif., area and is very active in the Alpha Chi Omega alums there.

Rebecca Ward Hamner has been nominated by the Environmental Protection Agency for the Federal Woman's Award. In January she received the Agency's Silver Medal for Superior Service. Congratulations, Becky!

I will be teaching nursery school again this year, meanwhile I have become even more involved with our daughter's school as secretary of the PTA and head of the room mothers. Don, '61, recently was promoted to Major in the U.S. Army Reserves. He also wrote articles for various hospital publications, winning the Philadelphia chapter's literary award from the Hospital Financial Management Association. In August he spoke at the American Hospital Association meeting in Chicago. Walls in the pediatric section of his hospital, St. Mary Hospital, now have Sesame Street characters painted on them complements of myself and a friend.

65 Mrs. Andrew E. Landis, Jr. (Susan M. Stevenson) 5014 Wellington Lane Bremerton, Wash. 98310

Rhys Griffin Llewellyn, his wife, and three sons, moved from Falls Church, Va., to Evergreen Col. Rhys is working for the Mining Enforcement Safety Administration in Lakewood, Col. Dabney Delaney Leonard and her husband Ron have also relocated. They left Ft. Bragg, N.C., for Ft. Leavenworth, Kansas, when Ron was selected for command and general staff college.

Randy Venable Sinisi and Joe moved to Denver because he was transferred to be the News Bureau Chief for Fairchild Publications, including Womens Wear Daily. Randy and Joe took their eight-year-old son on the William and Mary Alumni trip to Russia. Tom Corbin also made the Russian trip. Randy is now an art instructor at Loretto Heights College in Denver.

Raymond Robert Goodhart is a Captain in the army stationed in Hawaii with his wife, the former Sally Smith, a son and a daughter. He is also working for a Master of Science in Systems Management through the University of Southern California.

As noted in a feature article in the last ALUMNI GAZETTE, Susan Reynolds Brechbill deserves special congratulations for being selected as the Outstanding Young Woman for the State of Nevada in 1974.

For the past four years Thomas E. Vaughan has been the Director of Administrative Services at the Portsmouth Redevelopment and Housing Authority in Portsmouth, Va. Tommy will soon receive his Master's Degree in Business Administration from Long Island University in Brookville, N.Y. Anne Barden Kirkup and Tom live in Saratoga, Calif., with their two children. Tom is District Sales Manager for Reynolds Packaging Division.

67 Mrs. Jonathan C. Gordon (Mary Stedman) 9522 Burdett Road Burke, Va. 22015

Again I find myself as substitute correspondent for our class. With a new baby and a new home, Bonnie has managed to keep very busy this summer. Bonnie (Hamlet) and Larry White now reside in Rockville, Md. Larry is the radiation oncologist at Bethesda Naval Hospital. Their second son, Robert Adams, was born on April Fools' Day, before they left Charlottesville.

I, too, have recently moved from Charlottesville. I was married in July to Jonathan Gordon (University of Florida, '66). Jon is an attorney with the U.S. Army (JAG); he is currently with the Criminal Law Division at the Pentagon. We have just returned from the American Bar Association meeting in Montreal.

Several of our classmates have earned advanced degrees in recent months. There were two recipients of the Master of Science Degree from the School of Business at Virginia Commonwealth University--Bill Haymes, who lives in Sandston, and Ernie Burke, Richmond. At the 1975 W&M Commencement Michael Johnson received a Certificate of Advanced Study.

Margie Arnold was featured in a special article in the July Gazette--hope you all read it. Margie, an Assistant Professor at Rutgers University, was selected as New Jersey's Outstanding Young Woman of the Year in 1974.

Barbara Stansbury has been granted sabbatical leave to work on her Master's degree in foreign languages in France. Formerly a music teacher and band director, she is now chairman of the foreign language department at Lafayette School in the Williamsburg-James City County system. Last summer she attended a special seminar in Grenoble on teaching methodology with a scholarship from the French government.

Teaching English, public speaking, and reading in Fairfax County, Susan Szadokierski Stone also finds time at night and in the summer to work on her master's degree in the teaching of reading. Her husband John works for the National Wildlife Federation and both enjoy summer gardening.

Kenney Crooks, USAF, was recently promoted to the rank of Major. He and his wife Mary are at Altus Air Force Base, Okla., where he is chief of the aeromedical service.

A new Lieutenant Commander, Charles Windle is, senior resident in anesthesiology at Portsmouth Naval Hospital. He and his wife Leslie, a pharmacist, are currently living in Virginia Beach.

Also there are Joan (Simpson) and Mike Dainer; Mike is doing his residency in obstetrics and gynecology.

Both Mary D. and Gerold (M.S., '66) Blessing are with the Navy in the Washington area. They have purchased a home in Camp Springs, and their two children, Dennis and Dawn, are in first grade and nursery respectively.

Living near Detroit, in Utica, Mich., are Chris (Scheid) and Tom Sloane; Chris is on the faculty of Oakland University and has her summers for research, while Tom does research for the General Motors laboratories. They have recently brought a home.

Pat (Bailey) and Doug Jensen live in the Charlottesville country-side; Pat travels quite a bit attending and working for auto parts conventions. They were expecting their first child in June.

Fred and Pamela (Goodrich '68) Palmore have a son, their first child, named Michael Goodrich.

Back from two years in Peru on the Peace Corps staff, Jim Robertson is now working for Action-Peace Corps in D.C. He lives in suburban Maryland with his wife Claire in their new condominium.

Dick Haynes is the new publisher of the chesterfield and Colonial Heights News-Journal; he has been a journalist for several years and his writings have appeared in New Dominion Lifestyle and Richmond Magazine. Now he is also writing a book on heroin addiction.

Bob McIvor, based in Richmond with IBM, will be traveling this month to San Francisco for job-related schooling.

Larry Sartoris, also lives in Richmond with his wife Faith; Larry is a lawyer with the state of Virginia.

One of our classmates, Bob Flinn, in Alberta, Virginia, has been particularly active with the Alexandria Gazette's drive to restore citizenship to General Robert E. Lee.

Last May Lewis Puller was named a member of the Presidential Clemency Board, before that he had worked as a staff lawyer, preparing cases of war resisters coming before the board. Lewis is a graduate also of the Marshall-Wythe Law School.

Hope lots of you all will make it to Homecoming this year. If you do, or even if you don't, please let the College or me know of your latest activities and accomplishments. Have a good fall!

69 Mrs. John Douglas Wintermute (Donnie Chancellor) 502 Wolfe Street Alexandria, Va. 22314

Mike Poole writes that in January 1974 during the Arab Oil Embargo, he joined the staff of William Simon's press secretary, as a staff assistant. Once the embargo crisis subsided, Mike remained with the Federal Energy Administration where he is currently Deputy Assistant Director of Public Affairs. Mike's responsibilities are in the areas of personnel, budget, payroll, and general services for the 125-person staff. Mike is currently living in Alexandria.

John Lehigh completed for years of study at Pennsylvania State University Medical School in Hershey in May 1974 and is now in a three year Family Practice residency program with the Franklin Square Hospital near Baltimore. John married Dorcas Marlene Long in July of 1970, and they have two children - Dara Joene, born May 13, 1973 and Ryan Kenric, born February 23, 1975.

Sue Huber Reavely writes that she and Tom '68 have moved to Des Moines, Iowa, where Tom practices with the law firm of Whitfield, Musgrave, Selvy, Kelly and Eddy. Sue is teaching remedial reading with the Des Moines schools and is also working on her Master's as a reading specialist at Drake University. Sue also is active in the Alpha Chi alum group in des Moines.

Jim and Tricia Hooker Newman and their four-year-old son, Austin, are living in Williamsburg where Jim is selling real estate for Teagle Realty and attending law school. Tricia is employed with the James City County Social Service Bureau.

Steve Cochran recently formed his own law firm of Bennett, Gorman, and Cochran, with offices in Vienna, Springfield and Alexandria.

Hartley Dewey writes that he is now a supervisor in the Tax Department of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co. in Norfolk. Their second son, Kendall Casey, was born Jan. 12th. Hartley also passed on the news that Mike Joyce is an audit supervisor with Peat, Marwick in Midland, Tex. Mike and Jan now have two daughters.

After having lived in Colorado and Tennessee, John and Ann Morris Thiel are now residing in Lansing, Mich. John is working on his Ph.D. at Michigan State as well as serving as principal in a local school. Anna and John have two children, Adam, age 3 and Clair, was born last January.

In August 1974 John Bennett accepted the position as Supervisor of Health, Physical Education, and Driver's Education grades K-12 in the Hanover County Public Schools. In addition, John teaches part time at Va. Commonwealth Univ. John's wife, Claudia, is an elementary school guidance counselor in Henrico Co.

Tracy Emerick reports that after graduation and a son one week later, he spent three years in the Army. After discharge as a captain, Tracy returned to graduate school and received his MBA from Northwestern Univ. in Boston in 1973. Dawn and Tracy now have a daughter and live in Littleton, Mass., while Tracy is Marketing Manager for an art sculpture company.

Mike Florence and his wife Jennifer are living in McLean, Va., and both are working for the Xerox Corporation.

Barb Johnson, who is living in New York City, accepted a position in promotion and sales with Aero Puro in August. Barb passed on the news that Jo Ann Walthall is also in New York City and is teaching at Pace University.

I recently had lunch with Frances Herring Reynolds, Carol Hamerson Dixon, and Lou Givens. Frances is living in Fredericksburg while her husband, Melvin, who is a nuclear engineer with Stone Webster, is assigned to the North Anna Power Plant. Frances and Melvin have bought a townhouse and are now looking for a sailboat to purchase. As for Carol, she and her husband, Bill, are also in Fredericksburg. Carol taught modern dance and ballet at UVA this summer and is working on her Ph.D. in English at UVA. (One comment I must insert is that Carol has lost a much weight since W&M days-she looks terrific skinny!) Carol's husband, Bill, is a scientist at the Naval Research Lab and is studying for his Ph.D. in Applied Math from the Univ. of Md. Lou is living in Richmond and is a guidance counselor in Chesterfield County.

Living in San Juan, Puerto Rico are Jim and Pam Runyon.

In her hometown of Moline, Ill., Cheri Anderson is working part time for the Lutheran Church in the area of childhood education.

Katie Walline Brumfield has been a speech pathologist with the Newport News Public Schools for three years. Katie's husband, Gary, is the supervisor of the Gun Shop in Colonial Williamsburg.

Penny Alexander has been working in a managerial position at the Sheraton in Fredericksburg, however, has recently resigned as she and her husband will become parents this fall.

Still working for the State Department in Washington is Judy Knott.

Judy Banks Okawa is taking a sabbatical this year from her high school teaching position, while she attends Georgetown University for her Masters in English. Judy's husband, Benn, is an oceanographer at the Naval Research Lab and they live in Annandale.

Gail Webster Dickerson is living in Manhattan, Kan., where her husband, John, serves as manager of Plant Materials Center.

Once again Mary Chris Schmitz Williams has provided me with the Kappa Delta newsletter. Thank you again, Mary Chris! The following is bits of news extracted from it.

Sally Barner Dean has moved to Fort Pierce, Fla., where she is Coordinator of Student Activities at Indian River Community College.

Nancy Beachley is the Reference Librarian - Archivist in the Mary Washington College Library in Fredericksburg.

Judy Carhart graduated from the Medical College of Virginia last May, and is spending this year at Penn State Medical Center in Hershey as a resident in Obstetrics and Gynecology.

Teaching in a private school in Henrico County is De Garber Steverson.

Kathy Jebo Jordan terminated her position last summer as a social worker to await the arrival of their first child due in August. Kathy's husband, Jerry, is practicing law in Radford.

Living in Kingsport, Tenn., are Dorothy Kilgore Bacon and her husband Tom and daughter, Angela, born last Jan. 4th.

Janet Marshall McGee is a research assistant for the Socio-Economics Group of the Maryland Department of Transportation. Janet's husband, Mike, teaches business courses at the Univ. of Md., and in addition is working toward his doctorate. The McGees have two children, Chris and Laurie.

After a three-year tour in Germany, Bruce and Sue Miller Long reported to Fort Benning, Ga., in August for the 6½ month Infantry Career Course. Bruce and Sue have two daughters, Amy and Polly.

Living in Oxon Hill, Md., are Al and Jackie Mitchell Harris, and their two daughters, Heather and Melanie.

Mary Chris Schmitz Williams and Hal had just settled into their new home in Richmond when Hal's company announced that he had been promoted to District Sales Manager for the Southeast District of calculator sales. Hal's territory extends from Virginia to Florida and as far west as Alabama. Mary Chris and Hal moved to Marietta, Ga., (just north of Atlanta) in July.

Don and Sandy Skeen Spengeman became the proud parents of Jeremy Taylor on April 24th. Don is teaching Special Education as well as coordinating the Special Ed program for Franklin, Va.

Living in Midlothian, Va., are Walt and Cindy Smith Jones. Walt is employed with IRS, and Cindy is a tax examiner for the State.

Mary K. Thompson Pruiett is employed by the Dept. of Commerce and is involved in trade policy relations with Canada. Ralph is now working for the Environmental Protection Agency and deals with the prevention and control of oil spills from ships.

Teaching in Petersburg is Becky Vaughan. Nancy Verser Brumback continues to work for a food newspaper in New York City, and her husband, Ron, is writing his Ph.D. dissertation.

Carol Knight is a psychologist for an agency that provides psychological and psychiatric services to the Youth Services Division of Virginia's Corrections.

Ruth Reynolds Newman and her husband, Peter, were married June 15, 1973. Peter is a dentist and they are living in Manakin-Sabot, Va.

As for me, I am thoroughly enjoying my retirement from being a City Planner. Peter, who is eleven months, is a perfect little baby and truly an absolute joy. Though busy with Peter, I still manage to play tennis daily and we hope to continue sailing into the winter months. Doug is the Director of Federal Marketing of Compress in Washington.

Looking forward to hearing from you!

71 Craig Windham
12 Hesketh Street
Chevy Chase, Md. 20015

The lights dim. It's showtime at a small nightclub in Boulder, Colo. The clinking of glasses and the buzz of conversation subside as two spotlights search out a solitary figure emerging from the shadows on stage. Slowly he struts into view. The sight of his lavish outfit sends a murmur through the crowd: huge green embroidered palm trees, a fiery blaze of color from thousands of rhinestones that pierces the smoky haze. People whisper "Is it really Leon Russell? But as the figure emerges into full view, the band grinds to a halt. A startled silence, then a few olives and cocktail stirrers are thrown stageward, and conversations begin anew. No, it wasn't Leon Russell. It was Jeryl Mumpower who, through some chromosomal quirk, is the exact same size as the rock star and thus serves as a model for Leon's personal seamstress. When not giving on-stage tryouts to outfits destined to be torn to shreds by hysterical groupies, Jeryl continues his studies towards a Ph.D. in Psychology at the University of Colorado.

Susie Fuqua Hastings is working as a librarian in the Chesapeake Public School system. Robin Roettinger Snodgrass and husband Dale (a Navy F-14 fighter pilot) are excited about being transferred from San Diego to Virginia Beach. Linda Rucker Hubbard is now a dietician with the "WIC program at the MPLS Health Dept." in Minneapolis while husband Van does his residency in pediatrics. Leaving his job as production director at WCPM in Norfolk, Frank Bacsakay will return to school at Old Dominion this fall.

Summarizing her activities of the past few years, Mary Alice McCabe writes that she has been a Learning Disabilities specialist for the Department of Defense and taught school in Labrador and Iceland. This year she gladly leaves the ice and snow behind as she heads for a school in Iwakuni, Japan (near Hiroshima). "I am really enjoying this job as it has given me a chance to see Europe, Africa, and now the Orient."

It used to be such a simple matter to mosey down to the feedlots and select a steer for slaughter, solving one's meat problems for months. Now, instead, transplanted Nebraskan Scott Davis and wife Linda are forced to face a bewildering array of polyvinyl-wrapped, portion-controlled cutlets and rump roasts in the stifling sterility of a supermarket. Despite such cultural shocks, the Davises are enjoying domestic life in Bloomington, Ind., where Scott is an instructor at the University of Indiana School of Law.

Hats off to the many recipients of advanced degrees last spring: Wayne Fore and Donna Whitney received Master's from the School of Community Services at Virginia Commonwealth University. Also at V.C.U. Linda Redmond earned a Masters from the School of Social Work and Linda Rae Gordon Stagg was awarded an M.Ed. in Elementary Education. Back in Williamsburg, Bob Hobson and Ron Clair received M.Ed.'s from the College. With his M.D. from the Hahnemann School Affiliated Hospitals, Dr. Dave Levy will do his internship in internal medicine at the world-famous Mayo Clinic while wife Bev Sauer Levy teaches a Women in Literature course at a University of Minnesota extension division. Others on the "scalpel and tongue depressor" circuit are Robert Gilbert, George Wedd III, Tom Wheeler, and Garry Kuiken, each of whom earned his M.D. from the Medical College of Virginia last spring.

In San Francisco, Ben McKelway works for a consumer group called the Citizen's Action League. He does some community organizing and a lot of door-to-door fund raising. "Our main campaign is a fight against Pacific Gas and Electric's utility rates." Kathy Shirley Micken has moved from the acquisitions dept. of Swem Library to the Development office where she will conduct research in preparation for the capital campaign to increase the College's endowment. It's interesting that this information comes to us from an article in the Los Angeles Times sent in by Lt. (jg) Richard John Salmon proving that we'll go to any lengths to uncover news of pen-shy alumni.

Which brings us to the Where Are They Now Dept. which elicited a good response from informed sources last spring and will be continued this year. Where Are They Now? Dave Bernd, Matt Pagels, Candy Kain, Vicki Jeffress, Jim Valva, Cathy Tully, Les Zimmerman, Renee Hanson, Shelly Watts, and Sanders Wyatt.

After earning his J.D. from Marshall-Wythe in 1974, Jerry West entered private practice in the little town of Accomac, Va. Jerry and wife Nancy Richards West live amongst the wild ponies on Chincoanteague Island. Margaret St. Clair Martin was recently granted an M.S. in library science from U. N. C. and this summer became acquisitions librarian for the Lenoir Rhyne College library. After completing his PhD in social psychology this summer, Allen Turnbull has returned from Canada to become assistant professor at Randolph Macon Women's College and Lynchburg College. And Clark and Karen Nichols completed an enjoyable year in Seattle and are now out of the Air Force and bound for graduate school.

Finally, the following letter: "We are not writing to tell you what we are doing. We are saving that story for our 5th Reunion, which we will attend only if it is held in Williamsburg and organized by Alan Katz. So get on the stick, Craig. With baited (sic) breath, Jane Ball Entwistle and Michele G. Pongratz."

Well, it's only a year away. Hope you all had as good a summer as I. Spent a couple of weeks at Bethany Beach, Del., where my "Alma Mater of a Nation" bumper sticker drew gazes of wonder. There's been a news drought since last spring, so let us hear from you.

73 Cordelia Ann Miller
14422 Cool Oak Lane
Centreville, Va. 22020

Since my last newsletter, I've heard from several people who had lots of news. Because there has been no class news in the Gazette since April I'm afraid some of it may be out of date, so I apologize for any errors. You will just have to write to update me.

Maureen McHenry Reighler wrote to say she had sent news in three different times, never to see it printed. I'll make sure she is not overlooked this time. Sorry Maureen! She and her husband, Ken, are living in Jacksonville, Fla., after moving four times in their year of marriage. While Ken is getting his Navy pilot's wings, Maureen is working as a lab technician in a Navy medical center, and is hoping to go back to school to specialize in psychiatric nursing.

I also heard from Julie Christian Michael who is living with her husband, Howie, '72, and their year-old daughter, Sally, in North Little Rock, Ark. Howie has "retired" from track and is working with American Hospital Supply after spending several years with the Marines. Julie said that Marcie Winkfield is living in Virginia Beach and working for a bank.

Also Jay and Lin Kroeger, '74 Gsell are living in the Maryland suburbs of D.C., where Lin teaches high school English. Jay got his Master's in English at Georgetown.

John and Cheryl Clark Pagan are living in England where John is working on his doctorate in History. Cheryl received her Master's in Medieval Literature. Both are really enjoying England.

The Alumni Society notified me of a number of '73 graduates who have recently received degrees.

Janice Gardner earned a B.S. degree from the School of Nursing at VCU this past spring.

Colleen Whiting McCall got a Master's degree from the School of Community Services at VCU. Meanwhile, Jeff Harrison received a Master's of Business Administration.

Robert Griffin and Gerald Matthews both have earned Master's of Education degrees, while Susan Metzger McCabe received a Master's of Science degree.

Congratulations to all of these people, as well as anyone else who has received a graduate degree since leaving the College.

Matt Assai is a second lieutenant in the Army serving at Fort Carson in Colorado Springs.

Joining a number of other '73 graduates already at UYA Lynda Butler will be starting her first year in law school this fall.

Debbie Donelson is at UNC in Chapel Hill working on a Master's in Childhood Education. She did graduate work at W&M last year while teaching part-time.

After a summer of law clerking in Atlanta, Mary Mann is back at Vanderbilt for her third year in law school. From all reports she seems to be having a great time.

Living in Richmond are Margee Walsh and Bob Ranson, '72. Margee is teaching high school, while Bob is doing public relations work.

Also in Richmond are Dennis and Hilda Cruceet Flippen. Hilda is teaching Spanish in an area high school and has begun work on a Master's degree. Dennis is with VEPCO.

Bob and Susan McLaughlin Mathe are in Seaford, Del., where Bob is a supervisor for duPont and Sue is working steadily as a substitute teacher.

John Wiltbank planned to finish his M.A. Ed. in English in Williamsburg this past August and hoped to find a job in the Tidewater area.

John Dowd is an underwriter for Aetna Casualty and Surety Company. He was in Columbia, S.C., and was hoping to be transferred into the Virginia area.

Robert Gotke is starting his third year at American University Law School.

Carol Richardson Link is at Tulane working on her Master's in Social Work while her husband works on a Ph.D.

Bill Harris is supposed to have loads of news that he is sending me about all the Lambda Chi's and lots of others. I'll save that for next time. Please write and let us know what's new.

75 Nancy P. Burgess
1847 Dominion Avenue
Norfolk, Va. 23518

A good group enrolled at Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk in September: Alan Cole, Peggy Cooper, Randy Gould, Ellis Maxey and Craig Wessels.

G

Mrs. E. D. Etter
(Mary R. Spitzer)
486 West Market St.
Harrisonburg, Va. 22801

Vital Statistics

BORN

To: Linda Carol Lester (Hagen), '62, a daughter, Catherine Elizabeth, July 18. Fourth child, first daughter.

To: Terry May Price (Campbell), '64, a son, Christian Clay, August 17. First child.

To: Sara Jane Shafer (Hetzler), '65, a son, William Clark, March 6. Second child, second son.

To: Susan Mitchell Stevenson (Landis), '65, a son, Andrew Ellsworth, III, July 14. First child.

To: Thomas Edgar Vaughan, '65, a daughter, Melanie Lynne, July 11. Third child, first daughter.

To: Carole Anne Green (Gelfeld), '68, a son, Douglas William, October 13, 1974. First child.

To: Katherine Anne Asplund (Munson), '70, a daughter, Kristina Michelle, June 14.

To: Guner Alexander Gery (Burkhard), '70, a son, Andrew Addison, July 26.

MARRIAGES

Dwight Collier Brown, '32, and Mary Smith Risdon, August 16.

Sallie Jane Shwiler, '66, and Delacroix Davis, III, May 17.

Karin Lou Larson, '69, and Kenneth Barton Kolsky, May 26, 1974.

Randy Lee Pearson, '70, and Theodore Thomas Van Dam, September 6.

Catherine Ann Thrasher, '71, and Anthony Michael Thiel, '71, June 29, 1974.

Linda Lee Allmond, '72, and Robert Richardson Emory, Jr., May 31.

Byron Elaine Blyth, '72, and Michael J. Bixiones, February 8.

Cheryl Christine Bracken, '72, and Ernest Alan Grubb, July 26.

William E. Moorman, Jr. has announced his candidacy for supervisor from Gloucester County's Ware District as an independent. He is assistant headmaster at Hampton Roads Academy and a farmer and has taught math and science at the school for the past ten years. He is a civil engineering graduate of VMI, 1951, and received his master's degree in math and science (physics) from the College in 1970.

Wesley C. Wilson (MEd. '74) has been appointed assistant to the president of the College of William and Mary with responsibility for the College's Affirmative Action and Equal Employment Opportunity programs. A native of Philadelphia and a graduate of Morgan State College, Wesley joins the College staff in October 1974 as director of grants and research contracts and coordinator of the Affirmative Action program on campus.

Tilghman Broaddus, a member of the Board of Equalization and president of the Hanover Farm Bureau, is a candidate for commissioner of revenue of Hanover County, Va. He received his B.S. in physics from Washington and Lee in 1965 and an advanced degree in physics in 1967 from the College of William and Mary.

Daniel Z. Shapiro (J.D., 1974) has opened an office for the general practice of law in Middletown, Conn. He is a lifetime resident of Middletown and a graduate of C. W. Post College.

Linda C. Petty (M.A., 1972) received a Ph.D. in general psychology from Virginia Commonwealth University, Richmond, Va.

Anthony Gaeta, Jr. (J.D., 1970) has joined the staff of United Carolina Bankshares Corporation as secretary and general counsel at Whiteville, N.C.

Thomas J. Middleton, Jr. (B.C.L., 1958) was recently sworn in as a judge on the Nineteenth Judicial Circuit, Fairfax, Va. He was admitted to practice before the United States Supreme Court in 1963.

Harry D. Saunders (J.D., 1970) has joined the NCNB Corporation in Charlotte as vice president and staff attorney. NCNB is a holding company which has the North Carolina National Bank and eight other financial companies as subsidiaries. Harry is a 1967 graduate of Oklahoma State University.

Mrs. Mary Hendrix Keating (J.D., 1974) has become Norfolk, Virginia's first woman prosecutor on City Attorney Philip R. Trapani's legal staff. Mary joined the staff in February and was sworn in in April.

Dr. Martin E. Pschirrer (M.A., 1968) has been promoted to Associate Professor of Psychology at Rockford College in Rockford, Ill. He earned his Ph.D. at Northern Illinois University in Dekalb, Ill. Currently he is serving as president of the Board and chairman of the Professional Advisory Committee of Stepping Stones, a half-way house for the mentally ill.

Dr. Susan Jane Albert (M.Ed., 1970) has been elected to the Lycoming College Board of Trustees by the alumni. Susan received her B.A. from Lycoming (Clearfield, Pa.) in 1969 and her doctorate in counseling from the University of Virginia in 1974. She is associate dean of students at the College of William and Mary.

Captain Eileen M. Albertson (J.D., 1970) was selected as the Outstanding Young Woman for the state of North Carolina in 1974.

Donna Lee Kidd, '72, and David William Kingsolver, March 22.

Marsha Kay Seidman, '72, and Neil H. Gewirtzman, '71, August 9.

Cheryll Jayne Bull, '73, and Terry Lynn Douglass, May 25, 1974.

Margaret Papadopolos, '73, and Bruce Alexander Hanson, '72, July 26.

DEATHS

Perry Andrews Ozlin, Academy, November 18, 1972, in Chase City, Virginia.

Lennie Lee Mears, '08, June 9, in Atlantic, Virginia.

Samuel Jones Angier, '13, December 21, 1973, in Durham, North Carolina.

John Wilmer Hedrick, '16, June 18, in Saratoga Springs, New York.

Robert Moore Williams, '24 B.S., July 2, in Suffolk, Virginia.

Moses Butler Joyner, '25 B.S., June 21, in Dendron, Virginia.

Wilson E. Westbrook, '25 A.B., July 10, in Washington, D.C.

Marvin Winfree Gill, Jr., '26 B.S., August 18, in Petersburg, Virginia.

Thomas Edwin Allen, '33, March 5, in South Hill, Virginia.

Grayson Brownlee Miller, '38 B.S., May 21, in Norfolk, Virginia.

Priscilla Watson (Reid), '41, June 2, in Grosse Pointe Park, Michigan.

Lt. Col. Henry Van Amburgh Joslin, '43, May 24, in Bethesda, Maryland.

Steven Arthur McGinness, '72 B.A., August 16, in Littleton, Colorado.

Thomas Latane Sheppard, Special, May 6, in Richmond, Virginia.

POSTMASTER: Send Form 3579 to
P. O. Box 1693, Williamsburg, Va. 23185

Second-class postage paid at Williamsburg, Va.

CHECK YOUR ADDRESS! If it is incorrect in any way, please fill in below, then tear out this entire block including old address and send to Box 1693, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.

Name _____
Street _____
City _____
State _____ Zip Code _____

The Order of the White Jacket (OWJ) was founded in 1972 by former W&M waiters. Its fourth Homecoming Dinner meeting will be held Thursday, Oct. 9, in the Campus Center Ballroom. So far, 325 individuals who worked as regular (or regular substitute) waiters, or waitresses, or headwaiters, or waitresses in College dining halls have enrolled to help emphasize the value and dignity of working through College, to establish fraternal ties, and to initiate service programs for W&M. The form below should be completed to obtain further information on the OWJ, headed by M. Carl Andrews '27 of Roanoke.

'WAITER' SERVICE REGISTRATION FORM
(For eligible former students not now members of OWJ.)

You are hereby advised that the undersigned a former W&M student, performed services as a regular waiter, or waitress, head waiter, etc., (or regular substitute waiter etc.) in the College Dining Hall or Cafeteria or in private and commercial eating places during the year(s)

Name Class

Address

I am interested in information regarding OWJ.

Send to: Dwight C. Brown, Sec.-Treas., 5712 N. 20th St.,
Arlington, Va. 22205

ALUMNI GAZETTE

of the College of William and Mary

VOL. 43 NO. 4

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA 23185

OCTOBER 1975

The Alumni House

The Alumni House

After years of dreaming, years of planning, years of actual work and now a couple of years of enjoyment Alumni House at William and Mary will be dedicated during Homecoming Weekend.

The actual ceremony will be held at the House following the Saturday morning Homecoming Parade and preceeding the Luncheon on the Lawn. Scheduled are remarks by C. Randolph Davis, '50, president of the Society of the Alumni, Dr. Thomas A. Graves, Jr., William and Mary President, and W. Brooks George, '32, chairman of the "New Era" campaign which raised $300,000 to remodel the structure.

Gordon C. Vliet, '54 executive vice president of the Society, said that a series of plaques will be unveiled as part of the formal dedication of the House which has been utilized by the Alumni as its official home for nearly two years.

The dedicatory plaque will recognize 26 alumni members of the Society's Board of Directors from 1970 when the Alumni House concept was initially put on the drawing boards and received approval from then College President Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, '32, until 1975 and the formal dedication.

It also recognizes those officers, College presidents, Alumni presidents and executive officers of the Society who participated in the five-year effort.

Vliet explained that another special plaque has been devised to recognize Alumni Medallion recipients from 1934, when the medal was first presented through this year's award winners. Designed as a wooden representation of the doorway of Alumni House with its Georgian style with an engraved silver plate mounted on it, the plaque contains 148 names of the recipients who have been singled out from the 28,000 located alumni for their achievements for service and on the behalf of their fellow alumni.

Cont. on P. 3