Millie B. West

"You've Come A Long Way Baby"

Millie B. West, chairman of the women's physical education department at William and Mary, must feel a special affinity for that woman in the Virginia Slims advertisement who is informed: "You've come a long way baby."

She remembers the time she was summoned from her class by the business office, directed to a table in the corner of the room, and given 20 minutes to cut the budget for women's intercollegiate athletics.

She remembers, too, the time a College official exploded when she asked for a 25 per cent increase in her budget while, she was curtly informed, the men had asked for only a 10 per cent increase. Mrs. West promptly retorted that her budget totaled a paltry $15,000 while the men received well over a half million. If she could have the men's budget, she would ask for no increase.

Needless to say, Mrs. West didn't get her way. But that was before the passage in 1972 of -- some would say -- the infamous Title IX section of the Education Amendments Act.

Now, in 1976, the women's intercollegiate athletic budget is pushing toward $150,000; Mrs. West is kept informed by the President on policy matters and by the Vice President for Business Affairs on budgets affecting her department, not by surrogates in the business office; and the College has changed the old Men's Athletic Policy Committee into an all-College athletic policy committee, with -- of all things -- five women on it.

Title IX is the new HEW regulation that has struck horror into the hearts of athletic directors all across the nation. In effect, it outlaws discrimination based on sex, and the most controversial application is to women's sports where the bias is the most prevalent and obvious. At William and Mary when the law was passed women's intercollegiate athletics received about $7 out of an $88 athletic and recreation fee, while men's athletics received most of the remainder.

"Our department was so underfinanced," says Mrs. West, "that our students and staff had to pay for much of their own travel, sleep on floors where they could find room, buy their own meals, and pay for their own uniforms and equipment."

Confronted by the realities of Title IX, College officials have increased dramatically the support of women's intercollegiate athletics - which, like men's athletics,

Zollinger Announces Schedule Campaign Gears Up

J. Edward Zollinger, '27 National Chairman of the Campaign for the College, has announced a full schedule of meetings for the Campaign Executive Committee which will be held in Williamsburg. Meetings are planned for September 23, 1976; November 18, 1976; January 20, 1977; March 17, 1977; and May 11, 1977.

In releasing the schedule, Zollinger said that the Committee plans to complete the solicitation of advance gifts by October 1. On that date, at the Annual Meeting of the Endowment Association, he hopes he will be able to announce the total participation of both the Board of Visitors and Trustees of the Endowment Association.

Zollinger commented, "I have been very much impressed by the willingness of the members of the William and Mary family to assist in the Campaign. It is reassuring to me as we enter this most important endeavor on behalf of the College to know that I have the full support of my fellow Board members. Their gifts enable the Campaign to get a heart-warming head start. It also expresses a full commitment to the goals of the Campaign by those who play a significant role in the leadership of William and Mary."

In addition to Zollinger, key members of the Board of Visitors in this early gift phase, which is almost completed, are: Pam Pauly Chinnis, '46, Alexandria, Virginia; William S. Hubbard, '46, Roanoke Virginia, Chairman of the Development Committee of the Board; and Herbert V. Kelly, '41 AB, '43 BCL, Newport News, Virginia.

Assisting with the Endowment Association campaign, which is currently underway, are: Roy R. Charles, '32, Norfolk, Virginia; T.C. Clarke, '22, Norfolk, Virginia; W. Brooks George, '32, Richmond, Virginia; Arthur B. Hanson, '39 AB, '40 BCL, Potomac, Maryland, Chairman of the Development Committee of the Endowment Association; and A. Addison Roberts, '35, Rosemont, Pennsylvania.

Zollinger also said that the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni is determined to play a pace-setting role in the Campaign and is currently soliciting its own membership. Working on behalf of the Society of the Alumni are William L. Person, Sr., '24, Williamsburg, Virginia; and Harriet Nachman Storm, '64, Hampton, Virginia.

Zollinger told the Gazette that the basic principle of sequential fund-raising is being applied to the Campaign for the College. This means those solicited first represent the governing boards and other affiliate boards of the College. Plans are currently being made to solicit the faculty and staff of the College in the fall, as well as to start National Leadership Gifts activities and solicitation of corporations by mid-October.

Zollinger listed some of the essential points of the sequential fund-raising approach:

- Sequential solicitation involves concentrated leadership and Campaign staff attention in the various prospect categories. The sequential process takes longer, but it is more economical in its demands on volunteers' time. It also assures careful, planned solicitation of the maximum pledge from each prospect.

- Maximum effort is required to inform people of the current needs of the College and its plans for the future, as well as to match donor interests with the goals of the Campaign.

- Deferred giving or planned giving plays a major role in this approach. This frequently involves the establishment of a trust, the gift of an insurance policy, and appreciated stocks.

Zollinger said that an extensive search is being conducted to enlist as a National Leadership Gifts

Chairman an alumnus of stature who will be responsible for the organization of a committee that will solicit gifts in the $100,000 and up range. Also underway is the search for volunteers who will carry the brunt of Campaign big-gift activity.

Preliminary discussions have been held in key Virginia areas hosted by an alumnus and/or friend in the local area: William G. Thompson, Jr., '28, and Jean Canoles Bruce, '49, Virginia Beach/Norfolk; Nancy Kurtz Falck, '50 and Milton L. Drewler, Jr. -- McLean/Falls Church and Vienna; William L. Person, Sr., '24--Williamsburg; Pam Pauly Chinnis, '46, Robert V. H. Duncan, '35, and Marion Moncure Duncan, '35--Alexandria; Herbert V. Kelly, '41 AB, '43 BCL--Newport News/Yorktown/Seaford; Edwin M. Extract, '51--Arlington; Anne L. Legge, '54--Winchester; Donald W. Seiler, Jr., '56--Leesburg/Sterling-Herndon/Reston-Waterford-Bluemont; Ronald S. Clark, '57--Fairfax/Springfield/Annandale; G. Walter Bressler,

'64--Bristol/Bluefield; William S. Hubbard, '46--Roanoke/Lexington/Buena Vista; Raymond T. Waller, '40--Richmond; Robert A. Lowman, '69 BCL--Radford; Dr. James E. Kilbourne--Petersburg; John C. Swanson, '30--Danville; and Walter G. Mason--Lynchburg.

Sessions yet to be held: Joseph Koons, '68--Manassas/Warrenton/Woodbridge/Fredericksburg; Herbert I. Lewis--Middle Peninsula; Hon. Richard J. Davis, '42--Chesapeake/Portsmouth; Dr. Richard F. Clard, '55--Hampton; and Hon. Dixon L. Foster, '44 AB, '49 BCL--Northern Neck. Other meetings are planned for: Eastern Shore, Suffolk, Farmville, Charlottesville/Culpepper, Harrisonburg/Staunton/Waynesboro, and Emporia.

Zollinger concluded his report by saying, "I deeply appreciate the effort of all the volunteers who have worked on the Campaign to date. This and the strong support of Thomas A. Graves, Jr., and Warren Heemann makes the job enjoyable and rewarding."

NEWSMAKERS

A review essay evaluating five recently published books on the politics of public administration appearing in the December, 1975 edition of the Public Administration Review has rated a book authored by William L. Morrow, Professor of Government, as the "more sophisticated, thoughtful, and provocative book" of the five reviewed. The review suggests that Professor Morrow's treatment of the historical traditions and theories of public administration be "required reading for every administrator in the country." Professor Morrow's book, Public Administration: Politics and the Political System, was published in 1975 by Random House, Inc.

At the mid-Atlantic regional convention of the American Business Law Association, held at the University of Delaware, Newark, Assistant Professor of Business Administration Henry E. Mallue Jr. presented a paper on "The Developing Right of Trial by Jury."

Earlier this year, Geology Department Chairman Bruce K. Goodwin served on an evaluation panel for the National Science Foundation program of Faculty Science Fellowships in Washington, D.C. The panel evaluated proposals which had been submitted to the Foundation by science faculty members from institutions across the country.

Henry Johnson, registrar and director of administrative information services, is one of eight members of the Government Studies and Systems Pretest Panel. Earlier this year, the panel began evaluating and revising the second draft of the National Center for Education Statics' Postsecondary Student Terminology Manual. The manual "is expected to serve as a guide to Federal agencies in preparing communications and data requests about post-secondary students," according to NCES.

Plaque To Mark Site of Militia Camp on Campus

A bronze plaque recognizing the site where the Virginia militia camped on the William and Mary campus from 1775-1781 will be presented to the College by the Society of the Alumni and the Alumni College 1976 after the Homecoming Parade on Oct. 9.

The plaque will note that directly behind the Sir Christopher Wren Building Colonel Patrick Henry established camp grounds for Virginia troops who were to rendezvous and train at Williamsburg in 1775. Several Virginia regiments left Williamsburg in 1776 and 1777 to join Washington's army in the North; in 1777 students formed a College company with the president, Rev. James Madison, as captain. Troops camped on the site, known as the "College Camp," once again before the Battle of Yorktown in 1781.

Research indicates the 5th Virginia Regiment was stationed at the "College Camp" until it marched to the North in Sept. 1776, and was replaced in Williamsburg by the 7th. Other units were obviously there also as evidenced by many pension applications which contain depositions that refer to the "College Camp."

Gordon Vliet, Executive Vice President of the Society of the Alumni, said that students in the Alumni College wanted to present a gift to the College that would recognize an historical occurrence associated with the College during the 18th century. The theme of the Alumni College was "Colonial America."

Vliet says the presentation will be marked by "a very simple but impressive set of maneuvers by reconstituted Virginia militia units in the area to the rear of the Wren Building." The units will be in Williamsburg for the Homecoming Parade.

Expected to participate are President Graves and Jean Canoles Bruce '49, president of the Society of the Alumni, as well as members of the local Bicentennial committee.

Alumni Take New Jobs

Two William and Mary graduates who have worked at their alma mater since 1973 have accepted new positions at other institutions.

Jerry A. Van Voorhis '63, who has served as assistant to the President for the past three years, has resigned to become assistant headmaster at the Westover School, Middlebury, Conn., effective Sept. 1.

Andrew D. Parker Law '69,

Director of Special Gifts in the Office of College Development, will become associate director of development at Brown University, effective in October.

James S. Kelly '51, who also serves as assistant to the President, has assumed most of Van Voorhis' coordinating, task force, and communicating responsibilities within the College, in addition to his other duties.

J. S. "Jock" Darling (seated), a member of the Music Department faculty and well-known choir director and organist for Bruton Parish Church, tries out a rare Broadwood piano now on exhibit in the College Visitor Center in the Wren Building and soon to be used in Chapel recitals. Peter Redstone of Claremont, Surry County, who restored it, looks on. The pianoforte, constructed in 1816, is the only known "twin" to the instrument used by Ludwig von Beethoven and built in 1817. At one time a part of the furnishings of Sir Peyton Skipwith's Clarksville, Virginia estate, "Prestwoud," the instrument was given to the College in 1946 by Mrs. J.W. Price, Jr., the owner when the plantation was sold. Redstone, a British electrical engineer, moved to Claremont to work fulltime as restoring musical instruments. With the exception of wire, he constructed all of the replacement parts by hand in his workshop, just as they were made 160 years ago.

Salmagundi

The Office of College Development at William and Mary is soliciting applications for the position of Director of Special Gifts. The office seeks a person experienced in developing and implementing programs of planned giving for a college or university. Legal education is preferred, and the salary is negotiable.

Applicants should send their resume to Warren Heemann, Vice President for College Development, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. 23185, by Sept. 30.

The Society is attempting to complete a collection of portraits of former Presidents of the Society of the Alumni. The only missing portrait of known presidents to date is that of WILLIAM W. REYNOLDS, '65. If any alumnus has any information on Mr. Reynolds, who was President of the Society in 1894, and more importantly a picture of him, please get in touch with the Society Office, Box GO, Williamsburg, Va. 23185, or telephone (804) 229-7545.

An article appeared in the July issue of the Alumni Gazette listing the names of five alumni who had been named Outstanding Young Men of America. A sixth alumnus was not included in the list because the Gazette had not been informed that he too was a member of the outstanding group. He is M. Michael Walsh of Mercerville, N.J., who received his B.A. from William and Mary in 1972 and his M.A. in 1975.

In the August issue of the Gazette a scholarship established by Anna Belle Koenig Nimmo '45, the Prentice Hill Theatre Memorial Scholarship, was incorrectly identified as the Prentice Hall scholarship. This scholarship, established in 1953, honors a former member of the Fine Arts faculty and is awarded to theatre students.

The Gazette regrets the error.

The Society of the Alumni honored Professor Emeritus Wayne F. Gibbs (right) with a Certificate of Appreciation and a Bicentennial Medallion at Summer Commencement in recognition of his 50 years of Service to the College and to alumni. President Graves said he could think of no one whom "the College could more appropriately honor... than a man who has devoted 50 years, one-fourth of the life of our country, to this ancient institution." Professor Gibbs, who joined the faculty in 1926, taught accounting. He continues to reside in Williamsburg. His daughter-in-law, Marge Retzke Gibbs who is on the Board of Directors of the Society, and his son Wayne Jr., are both alumni of the College.

Walt Zable: A Human Dynamo

W&M Fund Co-chairperson Stamps His Imprint on Cubic Corp.

(Editor's Note: Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Zable will head up the William and Mary Fund this year as co-chairpersons. Walt '37 is the hard-driving founder and chairman of the board of Cubic Corporation while his wife is the former Betty Virginia Carter '40, active civic worker and mother of two grown children. This article on Mr. Zable by James J. Mitchell is excerpted from the San Diego Union.)

Walter J. Zable evokes strong passions among some of his colleagues at San Diego's Cubic Corp.

"He makes me so mad," said one. "He sets such damned unreasonable goals. They are totally unrealistic. He doesn't understand the risks. He doesn't understand the reasons you can't do it.

"You can never meet his standards - you're always chasing the rabbit. . . I'd just like to say once that I did more than he asked for."

While this comment might appear to be critical, it was not. For this employe is extremely devoted to Zable and Cubic, as are many of the firm's other 2,300 employes.

For Cubic clearly is stamped with Zable's imprint. He founded the company in 1949 and then attracted many of the people who help him run Cubic today. Zable still is president and still owns 33 per cent of Cubic's stock and has retained the positions of president and chairman of the board.

Last year, when Cubic was trying to recover from its first loss ever, Zable took firm hold of the reins and led it to a record $92 million in sales and $2.7 million in profits. While many executives played important roles in that turnaround, there is no question of who was the quarterback.

Despite his 61 years, Zable is an imposing person because of his size, his carriage and demeanor, and his expensive clothes.

For Zable is no 9-to-5 executive who remains behind his desk waiting for people to bring reports to his attention. He is constantly on the move, running down the hall, driving at break-neck speeds to the company's San Diego plants, or flying cross-country to visit work sites or to sell Cubic products.

While many of his meetings are scheduled beforehand, Zable does not always let people know he is coming. He sometimes appears unannounced, just to find out what really is going on.

"He is constantly on the move, running down the hall, driving at break-neck speeds to the company's San Diego plants, or flying cross-country to visit work sites or to sell Cubic products."

Zable visits people on plant floors, corrals managers in their offices, and keeps in close touch by telephone. As one top executive put it: "I never call Walter - he always calls me."

Zable keeps close tabs on what is happening because he believes that is one of the keys to "the fineness of the game," a phrase with recurs constantly in his conversation.

To Zable, the fineness of the game is knowing what really happens, as opposed to what might or should happen. And this knowledge, Zable contends, does not come through studying - although that has its place. It comes through experience, through the careful study of all aspects of running a business.

Zable's experience goes back a long way and has unusual breadth. He started studying radios in the seventh and eighth grades in Boston and soon was taking courses at MIT. He studied math and physics in college and in graduate school.

During these years and after college, he had a variety of jobs, including testing power meters for a utility firm and doing design and engineering work on ships. Later he worked for Sperry Gyroscope and Convair.

In all these jobs, Zable said, he was involved in detail work - what products cost, what the problems were, how you estimate costs, control materials, do business with the government.

Knowing the theory is good, Zable said - "but not knowing what fails between the cracks can hurt you."

Zable has found that a number of techniques have worked well for him at Cubic.

First of all, he said, you need to find good people, set some objectives for them, and then give them some freedom to do their job, and reward them if they succeed.

The company has no time clocks in most of its operations because Zable does not care how long a person works so long as he gets the job done. (Some managers say that takes well over eight hours anyway.)

He appreciates employes' successes and lets them know it. "I make sure that communication is good" - which is one reason he likes to talk to everyone.

How Much Do You Know About W&M?

Can you answer correctly all nine of these questions about the College? If so, you have a considerable knowledge of William and Mary as an institution of higher learning. You will find the answers on page 7.

1. How many students were registered as undergraduates at William and Mary in 1975-76?

3,300     4,400     5,500

2. What percentage of the faculty have received their Ph.D., or the highest equivalent degrees in their fields (J.D.)?

82%     73%     53%

3. What is the current endowment of William and Mary?

$9,000,000     $18,000,000     $36,000,000

4. Please rate these Virginia educational institutions as to the total number of intercollegiate athletic teams fielded by the schools:

University of Richmond
 University of Virginia

Virginia Military Institute
 Virginia Tech
 William and Mary

5. Does William and Mary conduct innovative educational programs?

Yes     No

6. How many books, articles, reviews, and papers were produced by faculty over the past five years?

7,000     4,500     3,000

7. Of the total operating budget of the College, the State provides approximately:

20%     40%     60%     80%

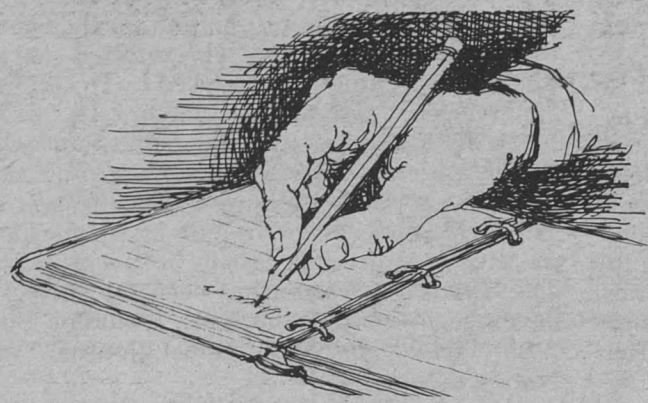

8. Can you name the three United States Presidents who are alumni of the College?

_____

9. Is the Honor System still active at William and Mary?

Yes     No

Editor's Notebook

America's long-awaited Bicentennial summer is over, and so are most of the celebrations and re-enactments of the events of 1776. Yet the anniversary lives on, even permanently in some important ways, at least for William and Mary.

For example, the creativity of physicists at the College is leading to a major permanent improvement in support of the study of physics and the physical sciences. Professors Hans von Baeyer and John L. McKnight, and other colleagues, are carefully reassembling an 18th century physical science laboratory which, when completed, will become the basis for a videotape documentary on techniques and procedures of 200 years ago.

Though Dr. McKnight had barely returned from England in his search for ancient instruments, and drawings or descriptions which would be useful in reconstructing them, interest in having the documentary was already being shown this spring around the nation. Requests for the special program have come from a variety of sources, including major research universities. Since its availability has not been announced (it is not complete), one can only expect demand to be especially heavy when the documentary is finally publicized.

The project will also leave the College with an outstanding permanent exhibition for students and visitors alike. Of all of the activities around the nation which have been undertaken on campuses for the Bicentennial, this one at William and Mary is one of the most significant in terms of lasting value.

A milestone was also reached in 1976 with the publication of the first thorough volume on the early history of William and Mary--one of the nation's most important institutions of any type in colonial times. Dr. Jack E. Morpurgo '38, author of "Their Majesties' Royall Colledge," has impressed serious readers with his handling of the subject--one which has, over the years, been associated with a variety of legends and speculations not necessarily rooted in historical fact. Dr. Morpurgo has sorted out the possibilities, and applied to them the available evidence. The well-illustrated book is not available in the popular marketplace, but readers may still obtain copies through the Society of the Alumni at $25 each, for as long as they last.

For the nearly 300 who subscribed to a collector's limited edition, they would be interested to know that they are in excellent company as owners of this distinctive leather-bound work. President Ford received one in the White House from President Graves; the President of France, while visiting Yorktown, was presented one by Dr. Graves while Vice President Rockefeller looked on; and Queen Elizabeth II was presented a copy by Ambassador Sir Peter Ramsbotham on the College's behalf. Thus, the heads of state of the three nations involved in the American Revolution now have this special, landmark volume.

During 1976, great progress was made in a special effort which is close to the hearts of President and Mrs. Graves, one to which they have given fulltime support partly because of the long-range effect it is bound to have on the William and Mary learning environment. In a phrase, the effort might be characterized as the blossoming of the arts, and they are showing their colors everywhere.

The careful use of a few non-state dollars here, and a few there, has made it possible to establish a central catalog of valuable items which have been owned by the College for generations, even centuries, but used or stored throughout the campus. These same few dollars have been applied to a systematic program of refurbishment and restoration, and the Society of the Alumni and Bicentennial Committee have made grants to finance some major portrait restorations. Works of art are in evidence everywhere; in the President's House and his office, and in public (but secure) places throughout the college. There is no art museum at William and Mary, although its holdings deserve one; and President Graves has made no secret of his hope that one can be built, eventually. As more and more significant collections are given to William and Mary, a museum will become more of a necessity.

The Music Department enlarged this past year into former administrative office space atop the President's Office, and those who pass Ewell Hall's open windows now hear vocalists and pianists rehearsing rather than typewriters clacking. The enlargement was required to accommodate a faculty which was expanded partly by the appointment of visiting distinguished professors. This fall, the Theatre and Speech Department has been strengthened through this same visiting program, through the appointment of Arnold Moss, the noted teacher-director.

These are some of the outstanding advances during the Bicentennial Year, but there is more to come. For example, some of the Bicentennial's most distinguished gatherings will take place here in December.

Delegates from Phi Beta Kappa chapters everywhere will converge on William and Mary and Williamsburg for the society's triennial congress--and to observe the 200th anniversary of Phi Beta Kappa's founding by William and Mary students. Among other things, they will be spectators for the annual December initiation of Alpha Chapter's new members, in which the ancient forms and ritual are traditionally followed. They will also take part in a multi-media "oratorio" which will feature the William and Mary Choir and performances under the direction of Howard Scammon. The "oratorio" is a special Bicentennial contribution of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, and is being composed and written by members of the Harvard faculty.

Coincident with the Phi Beta Kappa meeting, noted scholars in the literature of the American Revolutionary period will meet in a special symposium co-sponsored by the College, the Institute of Early American History and Culture, and the Modern Languages Association. Dr. Carl Dolmetsch, chairman of the College's English Department, has carried the symposium from the idea stage to fruition, including funding from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Not related directly to the College is yet another meeting--a gathering of top leaders of fraternities and sororities (social and professional) to commemorate December, 1976 as the 200th anniversary of Greek letter organizations in America. The leaders have formed a special study commission, called "Fraternities in the Year 2000," which will use Williamsburg (as the "birthplace" of the Greek letter concept) as the place to issue its report.

Outstanding Chapter Award

Georgia Chapter Wins Alumni Award

The Georgia Chapter of the Society of the Alumni has won the Outstanding Chapter Award for 1976.

The Alumni Service Committee of the Board of Directors of the Society gave the honor to Georgia after reviewing the year's activities of all Alumni Chapters across the country.

Georgia was one of four finalists. Others were Highlands (Charlottesville), Richmond, and San Diego which received a "strong vote of confidence from the Alumni Service Committee," according to Gordon C. Vliet, Executive Vice President of the Society.

Georgia is the first recipient of the coveted honor which recognizes those alumni chapters that best serve the Society and the College through their programs, their interest, and their service to their constituency and to the total alumni program.

In making the award, the Committee cited the variety of programs of the chapter which included a dinner and lecture by Dr. Scott Donaldson of the Department of English who spoke on "Hemingway and the American Dream" and used the well-known author's A Moveable Feast as a suggested reading; a Christmas party for current students and alumni in the Atlanta area, which gave alumni an opportunity to learn about the College from the students and for students to learn about alumni; and the annual spring beer party held over Memorial Day Weekend.

As the chapter president Mark Shriver, '71, noted in his report, "Our members have had a chance to get to know directly representatives of the principle parts of the College, the administration, the faculty and student body and to share their thoughts, philosophies and hopes for the College with them. There is also a role for the chapter in the area of education. Specifically, educating alumni as to the role they should and do play in the total scheme of the College, not just in terms of dollar contributions. They need to know, be reminded, how vitally important they are to the continued excellence of the College."

The Committee noted the cooperative spirit that existed between Georgia chapter members and between the officers and the membership; their willingness to work together; and the cooperation between the chapter and the Alumni Office. Georgia was also cited for the sound financial condition of its chapter and the "overall vitality and enthusiasm of the chapter."

Business School Expands Rapidly Under Quittmeyer

at Commencement--or 11% of all undergraduate diplomas.

-- Of 138 master's degrees conferred at Commencement, 70 were the Master of Business Administration degree.

-- For years, the School's accounting students have rated among the highest in the nation in their success rate in accountancy examinations.

-- The roads to Williamsburg are now on the maps of recruiters for some of the nation's most important corporations, which until recently had looked for MBAs on campuses like Harvard, Yale, Stanford and Wharton.

-- It achieved full accreditation in unusually rapid order.

-- The School's faculty members have begun to publish regularly in the major professional and business periodicals. As consultants, their expertise is used by a variety of regional and national organizations and firms.

Dean Quittmeyer foresees a growth in the MBA program from its current 250 full-time equivalent to between 425 and 450 students. But, he added, "we can't grow with our present resources and facilities."

The School now occupies the top floor of Hugh Jones Hall, but William and Mary has given top priority (second only to the new law school facility) to obtaining funds to renovate Old Rogers Hall as headquarters for the School of Business Administration. This fall, the School will have four additional faculty positions to bring total number of full-time faculty to 28 (including School of Business Administration teacher-administrative), to which are added seven part-time instructors in specialized fields.

Faculty who have joined the School in recent years, Dean Quittmeyer said, "are more research-oriented. They are known in their areas of specialization. We are becoming better known in academic and professional circles through our faculty's books, papers and lectures; through the impetus and word-of-mouth efforts of our School of Business Sponsors, Inc."

"We have constant visibility in Virginia through the Bureau of Business Research, which publishes a monthly report on economic conditions in the major metropolitan areas and the state," he added.

Dean Quittmeyer said one program, in particular, has led to recognition for the School throughout the nation. He referred to the innovative technique introduced by Dr. William H. Warren, associate professor, by which national and international business and economic leaders are invited to lecture to his class in business policy by long-distance telephone. The technique enables students to ask questions of the lecturer, just as if he were in the classroom. Dr. Warren has been the subject of coverage in many periodicals, including Business Week, the Wall Street Journal, and Nation's Business.

"Our goal," said Dean Quittmeyer, is "strong regional recognition, then strong national recognition, and beyond that, international standing."

While the study of business administration remains essentially more interesting to men than women, Dean Quittmeyer foresees that one-third of his enrollment will be co-educational. This fall, the first woman to be employed full-time will join the faculty.

The kind of educational opportunity offered by the School to undergraduates, Dean Quittmeyer believes, is an important career-oriented degree, at a time when there is a national "bulge of interest in careers."

Students who decide to prepare for the BBA degree have the same broad underpinnings in the liberal arts and sciences as those who elect to concentrate in one of the 25 undergraduate departments. Except for one course open to sophomores, no courses in business administration are open to students who have not reached the junior year. Thereafter, students may take between 45 and 60 hours of business administration to fulfill the requirements for the BBA.

Dean Quittmeyer believes that growth in his undergraduate enrollment will taper off at about 500, or about a 25% increase, and that the School will have one-fifth of the male undergraduates and one-tenth of the females.

The undergraduate BBA was, when introduced in 1971, the first new undergraduate degree at William and Mary since the early 1930s. The experience of the past five years shows that it is here to stay.

"You've Come A Long Way Baby

receive no state support. The staff has added five new members since 1972 and with the increased budget (from $16,000 in 1971 to $144,500 this year), the department has been able to pay for most of the travel, uniforms, and equipment.

Mrs. West has now set her sights on a fourth priority (adequate personnel, equipment, and travel conditions were the first three): grants-in-aid for women athletes. She has a request into the Athletic Educational Foundation which has promised to launch a fund-raising campaign in the fall to get the women on their way to grants-in-aid.

Whatever the success of the campaign, it appears the College will soon have to find ways to fund the grants-in-aid.

"We've made a lot of progress," says Mrs. West, "but we do not plan to relax our vigil. We now have the clout with Title IX in existence to argue with and our needs cannot be denied."

A clarification over the summer by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare of Title IX adds to that clout. It says that a university receiving federal funds must be in total compliance with Title IX by 1978, which means that women must receive financial support, including scholarships, in proportion with their numbers, to that given to men's athletics.

Says Mrs. West ominously: "If you exclude the men's revenue sports (basketball and football), we have more women participating in our program right now than the men have in their programs."

Mrs. West says attitudes on campus toward women's athletics have improved since Title IX, but she, along with a lot of other women, probably wonder why it took so long. Women's athletics has a long and distinguished history at William and Mary, going back to 1920 when the College started a field hockey team. By 1925, basketball and tennis had been added, and with the leadership of Caroline St. Clair, Martha Barksdale, and Marion Reeder, the program continued to prosper over the years.

When Mrs. West came to William and Mary in 1959, the women's program was far ahead of those at other colleges. "We were competing on an intercollegiate level," she says, "while many other schools still had only club competition or sports days."

In 1963, the College completed Adair Hall, giving the women a brand new swimming pool as well as a place for staff offices and exercise rooms. By the time Mrs. West became chairman in 1969, the program had doubled in staff (from four to eight) and added four additional sports. Today, there are 13 intercollegiate sports and interest groups and 12 full-time staff people.

But until recently, the women couldn't get adequate financing for their program. According to Mrs. West, it was the student and faculty interest that fueled the growth of the program. If there were capable women to play a sport, they would first initiate it on a club level and then advance to the intercollegiate level. If funds for equipment, travel, and uniforms weren't there, the students and staff simply came up with the money themselves.

What the College is beginning to realize now, says Mrs. West, is the value of the women's program. "Our's is a participatory program," she says, "not a spectator-oriented program, although we welcome spectators. It's the purest form of the melding of the academics at the College with sports for the kind of total education we talk about here. And because it is so broad and so open we can offer something to just about every woman at the College."

Mrs. West scoffs at the notion that women's and non-revenue sports don't deserve more support because they don't bring in any revenue and in fact live off of the revenue sports, which attract paying spectators and constitute the inspiration for private giving to the Athletic Educational Foundation.

She points out that revenue sports fund $180,000 of their present budget of $718,000 with a mandatory student season ticket of $36 which is part of the athletic and recreation fee collected by the College. The other 75 per cent comes from gate receipts, private giving and miscellaneous sources.

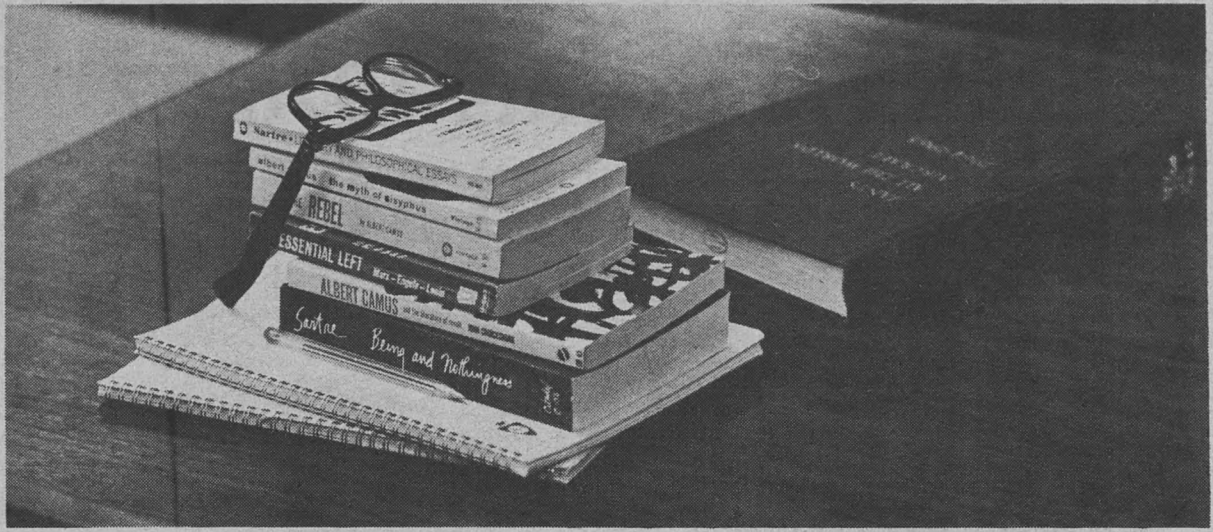

Of that same fee, women's athletics receives $24 or $144,500 while men's non-revenue intercollegiate sports receives $163,270. That means that the non-revenue sports of men and women have almost reached parity in their budgets, which derive their revenue solely from the student fee.

"We have tremendously qualified and dedicated people on our staff and students who are greatly talented," says Mrs. West. To emphasize her point, she notes that in 10 years the number of competitive events during a season has increased from 75 to 200. Much of that increase came without adequate financing; with the proper support, the future looks even more promising.

WILLIAM AND MARY QUIZ ANSWERS

1. 4,400 is correct. Total enrollment, including graduate and professional students, was more than 6,100. To provide excellent teaching-learning relationships, William and Mary is striving to keep enrollment at this level, while meeting the demands placed upon the College by the General Assembly.

By doing so, the College continues to accent the full academic development of its students. It seeks to further the sense of community on campus, encouraging students and faculty to "touch base" frequently. As a result, contacts are fruitful and intellectually exciting.

2. Approximately 73%. The full-time faculty numbers 477: 337 in the faculty of Arts and Sciences, 25 in the School of Business Administration, 32 in the School of Education, 24 in the School of Law, and 59 in the School of Marine Science.

The current faculty is cosmopolitan in background. The graduate schools most frequently represented are Columbia, Harvard, Johns Hopkins, Michigan, North Carolina, Princeton, Virginia, Wisconsin, and Yale.

As a group, the William and Mary faculty is relatively young and devoted to undergraduate teaching as a career. Regular faculty teach all courses; teaching assistants or graduate students are not used. Professional advancement depends on teaching ability as well as research capacity.

3. In the past 40 years William and Mary has developed endowments of about $9,000,000, modest by comparison with high-quality public and private colleges and universities. Here, for example, are endowment figures for several other schools:

Duke (Private)	$105,811,701
University of North Carolina (State)	20,831,725
University of Richmond (Private)	55,529,672
University of Virginia (State)	108,317,013
Virginia Military Institute (State)	10,767,348
Washington and Lee (Private)	18,789,047

4. ATHLETIC TEAMS

	Men	Women	Total
William and Mary	15	11	26
University of Virginia	13	6	19
University of Richmond	10	6	16
Virginia Tech	11	4	15
Virginia Military Institute	11	--	11

5. Most definitely! Innovative programs include:

Freshman Colloquia--One-semester, topic-oriented courses with enrollment limited to 15 students.

Project Plus--A self-governing, academic-residential program for upperclassmen. A faculty member directs the academic program, which includes a weekly forum led by faculty and visiting lecturers and tutorials for active discussion in the generation of independent work. The theme for 1976-77 is "The City in History and Contemporary Life."

Departmental Honors--This program provides special opportunities for intellectual stimulation and development for superior students. Each pursues an individually-designed course of study which culminate in the writing of a thesis on which the student is examined.

Language Houses--The houses--French, German, Italian, and Spanish--approximate the cultural environment of the countries, as well as provide the opportunity to perfect the spoken language. A native-speaking house resident encourages proper language development and leads discussions on the culture of the country. Asia House offers a program for students who have a special interest in Asia, usually involving some aspect of Asian culture.

6. With over 7,000 publications to its credit over the past five years, the faculty exhibits a remarkable intellectual vigor and imagination. Research spans a wide range of interests from original plays, children's literature, and poetry to advanced research in the sciences; from studies of medieval history to analyses of international law and perceptions of twentieth-century American writers.
7. 40%. The Commonwealth of Virginia has contributed to the College since 1906 and has done much to provide an excellent base of support to protect and enhance the quality of her oldest and best-known college. But State tax revenues have fallen short of the Commonwealth's conservative projections the last several years, while demands for other services have continued to increase.

The economic result is that the Commonwealth is forced to hold the line on supporting William and Mary, while costs of operating the College have soared. This means that, in fact, State support provides a shrinking proportion of William and Mary's total operating budget.

8. Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, John Tyler.

In addition, George Washington accepted office as the first American Chancellor of the College on April 20, 1788, serving until his death in 1799. Thus, since Washington had been appointed surveyor of Culpepper County in 1749 by the President and Masters of the College, his first and last offices were held under the auspices of William and Mary.

Other noted alumni in public service include sixteen members of the Continental Congress, four signers of the Declaration of Independence, four Supreme Court Justices, more than thirty United States Senators and sixty members of the House of Representatives, eight members of Presidential cabinets, eighteen ministers to foreign countries, and twenty-seven governors of ten states.

Currently, the Governor, Mills Edwin Godwin, Jr., '36; the Lieutenant Governor, John Nichols Dalton, '53; and the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, Lawrence Warren I'Anson, '20, of Virginia are William and Mary alumni.

9. Among the most significant traditions and treasured priorities of the College is the Honor System which has remained viable since the late 18th century.

As the charter of the College has changed, so has the Honor System. When the College served the sons of the planter aristocracy, a small group who took special pride in their reputation as men of honor, a violation of the code of discipline was punished by ostracism.

Today, application of the Honor System is restricted to three specific areas--cheating, lying, and stealing. These restrictions enable the concept of honor to be practically applied within the heterogeneous environment of the modern campus.

The student body administers the Honor Code through an elected Honor Council. When a student is accused of breaking an honor, the Council has the power and duty to investigate the alleged offense and, if necessary, conduct a hearing or trial.

Albert Exudes Optimism Over Soccer Outlook

Head coach Al Albert has developed a strong soccer program at William and Mary and the Tribe mentor is certain the future will be even better.

"We have just concluded our most successful recruiting year ever and just about everyone who was a part of last year's 9-4 team will be back," stated Albert.

The 29-year-old head coach landed players from the Annandale Cavaliers Soccer Club, winners of this year's National Junior Cup.

Additionally, one of the premier prep players in Canada, Graham Sykes, has accepted a William and Mary grant, giving Albert reason to beam with delight in looking over the list of newcomers.

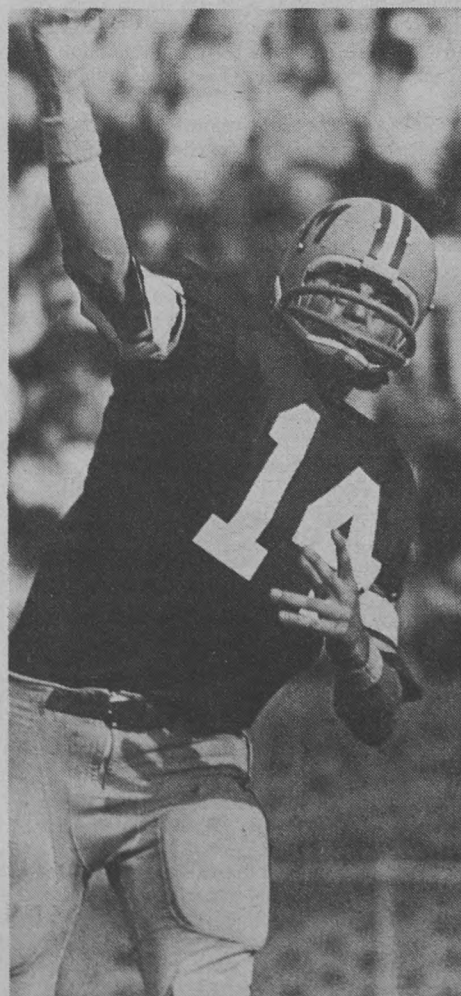

"Soccer has really caught on in the U.S. We are now attracting larger numbers of youngsters who are taking part in the youth programs," Albert said.

"Five or 10 years ago very few communities were involved with any type of soccer program but recently there has been a nationwide movement and the result is far more talented players coming along."

Albert is positive about soccer's future.

"I definitely feel you are going to see a strong trend towards soccer in the U.S. It is an exciting spectator sport and the high school, college and club levels are drawing more and more fans each year. The abilities of the athletes have vastly improved, thus establishing a far finer quality of competition."

In looking at the soccer picture at William and Mary Albert points to the upcoming season with optimism. "We have seven home games, featuring four at Cary Stadium, for which we will offer season tickets." Albert said "Soccer is getting established and I'm certain fans will see an outstanding caliber of play this year at William and Mary."

VMI Opens Tribe Season

A Look at the Opposition

William and Mary's football team will meet four traditional opponents to kick off the 1976 season. The Keydets of VMI come to Cary Field for the opener on September 11; the Indians journey to Charlottesville to take on Virginia the following week. On September 25, W&M returns home to host East Carolina, and on Oct. 2 the Indians face VPI at Blacksburg.

Here is a look at how the opposition stacks up.

VMI: The Keydets finished 3-8 last year but five of those losses were by a total of 17 points. W&M defeated VMI 13-7 in a hard fought defensive battle. Head coach Bob Thalman expects his squad to return to winning form this season and defense will again be VMI's strong point. All of the linebacking and secondary corps return. On offense, there have been some personnel changes (former strong safety Johnny Garrett is now at tailback) in an effort to strengthen the "I" attack. Five starting offensive linemen graduated and that leaves a big question mark along the front. In all, 34 lettermen return for the Keydets. VMI-W&M confrontations are always a war, and this year will be no different.

VIRGINIA: After a disastrous 1-10 season in 1975, the Cavaliers brought in a new coach (Dick Bestwick) whose first order of business was to regroup a squad wrought with frustration and disappointment. The new coaching staff will have 45 returning lettermen to work with including such talented performers as Billy Copeland and David Sloan at the split back positions on offense. Virginia has quality players but the big question is whether the program can pull itself together in one year. W&M has not beaten the Cavaliers since 1959 (37-0).

EAST CAROLINA: The Pirates are coming off a strong 8-3 season, and reports out of Greenville, N.C. indicate an even bigger and better year in 1976. Virtually every position will be manned by experienced veterans. ECU's always-tough defense has unbelievable speed and the familiar names of Jim Bolding and Cary Godette will headup the 5-2 alignment. On offense speed is again the main ingredient of the wishbone. Head coach Pat Dye is expecting a "great season" which he thinks will include the Southern Conference championship.

VIRGINIA TECH: There should not be too many "dad-gummit" coming out of head coach Jimmy Sharpe's mouth this season. The personable mentor got his squad on track after a shakey start and the Gobblers closed with an impressive 8-3 slate last year. Disappointed after not getting a bowl bid in '75, VPI has its sights set on a post-season berth this year. A stable of running backs return (Roscoe Coles, Paul Adams and George Heath) to complement a veteran offensive line for the wishbone attack. With the defensive line and linebackers intact, the only weakness appears to be new faces in the secondary. Last season VPI defeated W&M 24-7 in the Oyster Bowl.

Dec. 4 is Induction Date

Hall of Fame Balloting Set

William and Mary's Athletic Hall of Fame will induct 1976 members on Dec. 4 at the halftime of the Citadel-William and Mary basketball game in William and Mary Hall.

Ben L. Carnevale, athletic director at William and Mary, has provided the following criteria for membership in the Hall of Fame:

1) It shall be open to persons who have made a significant contribution to the College through intercollegiate athletics, as a competitor, coach, or administrator.

2) Consideration will also be given to continued contributions to society through community activities, through performance in chosen fields of endeavor and through avocations, on such a level as to bring credit and distinction to the College.

3) In order that proper assessment may be made of the nominee, a time period of at least 10 years must have elapsed since graduation for a competitor and at least 15 years for a coach or administrator.

4) No more than 8 persons and no more than one team will be inducted annually.

Alumni who wish to make a nomination should fill out the ballot below and return it to: Sports Hall of Fame Committee, Box 399, Williamsburg, Va. 23185, no later than Oct. 20, 1976.

By-Laws Amendments

Proposed Amendments to the Bylaws of the Society of the Alumni

A review of the Bylaws of the Society of the Alumni by your Board of Directors has indicated the desirability of several changes in order that they might be brought up to date and made more effective in defining the formation of the Society.

These changes must be approved by the membership of the Society. Accordingly, three amendments will be submitted for approval at the Annual Meeting of the Society on Friday evening, October 8, 1976. Accompanying each proposed revision is the reason for the change.

1. Voting rights of contributors to the College or Society

ARTICLE I, Section I, Paragraph (b), revise to read as follows:

- (b) An active member, with the privilege of voting, shall be either an alumnus who has been designated a Life Member of the Society, or an alumnus who has contributed to any fund recognized and/or accredited by the Office of College Development or the Society of the Alumni, during the previous fiscal year or by September 1 in the same calendar year in which the election occurs.

REASON: Presently only those alumni who have contributed to The William and Mary Fund are eligible to vote. With this change, a contribution to any accredited fund, e.g., William and Mary Athletic Educational Foundation, Parents Fund, Law School Fund, etc., would entitle an alumnus to voting privileges within the Society.

2. Restriction on term of office for Society officers

ARTICLE II, Section I, add the following:

Officers shall not be eligible for election for more than two consecutive terms.

REASON: Currently there is no restriction to the number of terms an elected officer (president, vice president, etc.) can serve.

3. Deletion of female membership requirement

ARTICLE II, Section VI, Paragraph (b) to be deleted.

REASON: This section currently reads: "Membership of the Board of Directors shall at no time consist of less than 20% women." As it now stands, at least three members must be women. If the proposed change passes, members will be elected only on their merits, and there will be no minimum or maximum number of men or women required on the Board. Currently there are ten men and five women serving on the Board of Directors.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I quote from the Alumni Gazette of recent date: "He (Brownfeld) also became involved in another controversy when he invited who he believes to have been the first black speaker to the College and was refused a meeting place. He finally found a church that was willing to let the group, the Political Science Club, meet."

Totally incorrect. Either in 1916 or 1917, Booker T. Washington spoke to the entire student body in the chapel. He was introduced by Jackson Davis, '04, I believe, later to be President of the General Education Board.

The speaker was well received and applauded. I heard no criticisms nor complaints.

William and Mary in the past was always liberal. Bishop Meade states that some Virginia families sent their precious young to Princeton (then the College of New Jersey), a Presbyterian stronghold because William and Mary was a "hot bed of free thinkers and French philosophy," or words to that effect. James Madison's purity, in his youth at least, was protected by this device.

During my days another controversial figure, pure white as to complexion, but otherwise according to his detractors, Colonel George Harvey, the editor of The North American Review, spoke at a convocation. Colonel Harvey, a non-entity now, but a sort of intellectual leader then, about 1914, 1915, had broken with Woodrow Wilson and the Virginians at William and Mary resented his defecting from a fellow Virginian. There was criticism, but courtesy was maintained at the meeting. The next morning in class Dr. J. Lesslie (note the two s's) Hall told our class that any criticism of Colonel Harvey was unjust, that he was invited to speak as the noted editor of a great magazine and not as a dabbler in politics.

During my presidency of Alpha Chapter, Phi Beta Kappa, Drew Pearson, Phi Beta Kappa, Swarthmore of Haverford, was invited to speak. So great was the student interest the meeting was held in the gymnasium, which was crowded. I suppose there was some criticism, but it did not amount to much. In

Did you ever imagine how a 50th Reunion would be?

Well it was really stupendous, if you'll take it from me.

They arrived by air, they arrived by car, Some came from nearby, others from places afar.

They all looked great, few changes time had made,

Maybe a little less hair or some a bit grayed.

Some were fat and some were thin,
But the smiles were there, also well remembered grins.

Gordon, Joan and John were truly sublime,
Took us to many places and always on time.

It reminded us of schedules we tried to keep well,

Always to the ringing of Doc Billup's bell.
They wined us and dined us from morning to night,

And always everything turned out just right.
All the new buildings were a sight to behold,

With more to be built is what we were told.
Commencement was impressive with almost fourteen hundred degrees,

As large as our entire student body, if you please.

When we were presented they gave us a cheer
That really was music to all of our ears.

And now as members of Ye Olde Guard
For the future of our Alma Mater we will try extra hard.

To President Graves and all who the program did fix

Come the sincere thanks from the Class of Nineteen Twenty-Six.

We are so sorry that all of our former classmates could not have attended our reunion. It was truly a delightful experience.

Wilhemina Swann Trammell wrote that it had been worth all the effort to come all the way from Texas. She has since travelled for several weeks in England and Wales.

We didn't go so far but enjoyed the Imperial Shrine Convention in Kansas City, Missouri and visited the Truman Memorial Library at Independence, Mo.

Andre Goetz wrote that the weekend was far too short and that everything planned for us was the greatest. Others have expressed the same feelings.

Lomax Wells had planned to attend but had the misfortune to break his arm. He was to have presided at the banquet in the great hall in the Christopher Wren building. We are sorry he could not be there but Stanley King was a fine substitute.

introducing Mr. Pearson as a controversial figure (an SOB according to Harry Truman) I recalled speaking of Colonel Harvey and William and Mary's attitude of liberalism and open expression.

Hope all who attended and many more will plan to attend Homecoming and another get together of the Class of 1926. There will be a luncheon before the game and a class dinner on Saturday night. Plan now to attend. We will never have another 50th Reunion, so plan now to be there in October.

You all looked so good to us and it was great being with you.

At Homecoming time last year Billy Kenny and I were very impressed with the spirit and enthusiasm of the class of '25 celebrating its 50th reunion. We felt we'd like to see our class show the same exuberance in 1980 and that such organization is not an overnite experience so ---- we need to start planning early. If there are others who feel the same way and would have suggestions for getting the ball rolling, send your ideas to Mrs. Wyllhart Kenny, 4060 Spring Hill Rd., Columbia, S.C. 29204. Perhaps someone connected with the Class of '25 activities would pass the planning ideas along.

Billy also writes that she has assisted her daughter, Betty and her husband celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary culminating with a dinner for 25 at Brennan's in Atlanta.

Clippings from newspapers about William and Mary tell of members of the Class of '32, who are busy with the '76 Campaign for the College.

Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, former President of the College, is National Honorary Chairman of the '76 campaign. Under his administration as President, William and Mary realized some of the largest expansion in building, faculty and curriculum in its history. He is a recipient of many awards and honors including the Thomas Jefferson Award from our Alma Mater.

Roy A. Charles of Norfolk, a member of the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Association is also a member of the Development Council for '76 Campaign for the College. Roy has given of his time and money to many of the College activities. He provided financial support for the research leading to the publication of the first volume of the history of William and Mary, "Her Majesties' Royall Colledge". He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Sponsors of the School of Business Administration, and the President's Council. He received the Alumni Medallion in 1961, and an honorary LLD from the College in 1975.

W. Brooks George of Richmond is Treasurer of the Executive Committee for the '76 Campaign for the College. Brooks is a past-member and rector of the Board of Visitors and a current member of the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Association and the Board of Directors of the Sponsors of the School of Business Administration. He is a member of the President's Council and a recipient of both the Alumni Medallion and an honorary doctor of humane letters degree from the College. He is Chairman of the Board of Central Virginia Educational Television, and a director of the Life Insurance Company of Virginia, Bank of Virginia and Lawyers Title Insurance Co. Brooks has established a scholarship fund in honor of his wife. Both of their sons are graduates of the College.

Dr. Alfred R. Armstrong, our Chemistry classmate, has retired as a member of the faculty. He has been a professor of Chemistry since 1933. He and his wife, Martha, live in Williamsburg.

Dr. Bernice M. Speese retired in June as associate professor of Biology at the College. She continues to reside in Williamsburg.

It was sad to hear of the death of Nelson Case. He lived in New Hope, Pa., and was an announcer in radio and television for 50 years. In the 40's and 50's he was associated with Lowell Thomas's nightly broadcasts of the news. Nelson attended the College and transferred to the West Coast in '31.

Anna K. Dunlap Weatherford has retired as math teacher of Nottoway Senior High School. It is good to have her here in Blackstone. The best of good wishes to all of you.

Dr. Eugene S. Barclay, '36, and wife, Bea, '36, are truly world travelers. I received a letter mailed from their cruise ship in India. They were having a grand time and are really looking forward to our 40th class reunion. In fact, they already have their reservations at the Mount Vernon Motor Lodge in Williamsburg, which is headquarters for our Class Reunion this year.

Helen C. Rose, '36, was made the Coordinator of Arts and Humanities of the Richmond, Va., Public Schools last year. Prior to her promotion, she was, for 24 years, Supervisor of Art. Her offices are at the delightful Ellen Glasgow House at 1 West Main Street, which is a historic landmark. Helen will be at her home in Williamsburg, 610 Jamestown Road, at Homecoming and has extended an invitation to her friends and classmates to drop by before the game for a visit. She has done quite a lot of traveling - having visited several foreign countries several times and, at this writing, is visiting some islands in the Caribbean which she had missed on other cruises.

Thanks so much, Trudi Neese, for your help while Dot and I were in Puerto de Santa Maria, Spain, having a great time.

It really is heartwarming to have some bits and pieces of letters from faithful friends to pass along.

Len Owen, bless his heart, rose to the appeal in the last newsletter that "news in scarce" and wrote me such a welcomed letter. He and Alice received their fifth grandchild (fourth grandson) on April 27, their youngest daughter's first-born. Daughters, Chris and Pat, live in the Manasquan area and son, John, a Dupont man, lives just outside Newark, Del. Len and Alice plan on attending Homecoming this fall and we look forward to seeing them.

We enjoyed Ginny Clauden and Scrib Allen's Bicentennial letter which arrived in March. Their daughter, Pam, is back from Arizona and as of March tutoring at National Cathedral School and generally having fun. Son, Jeff, is working for GMS in Burlington and pondering his future, having finished the University of Colorado in Political Science. Ginny helped set three national swimming records and made top ten in eight events at the Short Course in Fort Lauderdale and the Long Course in Knoxville. We are indeed proud of you, Ginny!

So happy to hear from Charlotte Bagot White that she was going on a Caribbean cruise in April and then spending a week visiting in Florida. Do hope you had a great time, Charl.

T. and Leah Waller attended the William and Mary Chapter meeting in Richmond in April and Bob Lansburgh the one in Dallas, Brock Steel in Orlando and Thomas Cartwright was present at the meeting in Los Angeles.

Had a great letter from Shirley Shean Battison with whom I've gotten reacquainted thru our respective sons who were both at the University of Virginia. Shirley said she used to come to this area every summer with her parents and later with her husband and son, til the Old White Stone Beach closed. Her letter brought back many memories of how things were when we settled here twenty-five years ago.

We saw Shirley in Charlottesville the weekend of commencement. Our son, Daniel, a Philosophy major, did us proud by graduating with honors. Shirley's son, Bill was awarded his Master's from the Business School and is now working in New York City. All our family gathered for the event and were so disappointed it rained for only Frank and I could attend the Exercises.

On June 12, Margie Hoskins and Red Bloxom's son, Elliott, and Robin Rhodes were married at Christ Church here in Irvington. Elliott received his commission from Annapolis the week before. Among the out-of-town guests here for the occasion were Yvonne Johnson and Luther Jenkins, Sally Bell and Thea Wainwright and Ruth Ann Holzmueller and Bill Mahood.

Ann Terrell and Jack Garrett were among those attending Alumni College June 27-July 2. They said it was the greatest experience and went far beyond their wildest dreams and expectations. They've had a fun week with four of their five children and all their nine (9) grandchildren when they rented two houses at Croatan Beach. In August they're going to see Dick and Jean Harvell in Millbridge, Maine at their summer home and travel with them up to the Bay of Fundy.

On August 17 Ed and Virginia Foreward Wetter are going on an extended cruise originating in Copenhagen. They will go to the Greek Islands and Black Sea ending in Athens. They'll then spend five days in Yugoslavia and four in London and fly home on the Concord. Sounds like a delightful trip.

I was so pleased one day in May when Connie Hogue Smith called me. She and her husband were spending a few days at The Tides Lodge and she took the time to give me a ring which I surely appreciated.

In July I got a call from Jane Harden Hanson. She and Gimmy Smith Strange and several other wives were at Windmill Point Marina awaiting the arrival of Tim and his crew sailing from Bermuda. Went down to see them for a brief visit and had a great chat. Jane's daughter, Jennie, arrived while I was there, and I was so pleased to meet her.

Merritt and Mary Foster and Dick and Nancy Norris Foster had a "sip, sup, and sing" party one beautiful evening. It was great fun and among those present were T. and Leah Waller, Joe Lee and Henry (Bill) Edwards, Margie and Red Bloxom, and Jack and Ann Garrett.

Frank and I are departing August 19 for five weeks in Europe. We fly to Oslo for a few days, then by Eurail travel to Copenhagen. We plan to boat down the Rhine from Frankfurt to Heidelberg, visit Rothenburg and then on to Basel and see some of Switzerland. We go to Paris next and then on to England for two weeks to visit friends in the midlands, Wiltshire and Cornwall.

We have reservations for Homecoming and hope to see many of you there.

I read in the newspapers the following. Mrs. Walter Chrysler of Norfolk is an active civic leader who, with her husband, son of the founder of the Chrysler Corporation, founded the Chrysler Museum in Norfolk. Among her many generousities to the College was a gift of contemporary art with an emphasis on American abstract and expressionist painting of the '50's and '60's. She is secretary of the Virginia Opera Association, a member of the Tidewater Rehabilitation Institute, and a member of the Board of the Barter Foundation. In case you wonder who Mrs. Walter Chrysler is, she is Jean Outland.

Caroline Cook Ball of Camp Hill, Pa. stopped by the Alumni House in early May. She was travelling with a group of ladies, but plans to revisit Williamsburg and the College with her husband in the fall.

I received a most interesting letter from a classmate and promptly mislaid it, but I can see her before my eyes, since she was pleasant to look at, I think she had red hair - I have forgotten her married name and her address. She was from either Farmville or Lynchburg, and her nickname was Ginger. Please write me again. Mea culpa.

John Entwistle sent me a letter dated July 7 to be shared with all of you:

"Alumni College '76 was one of the better experiences of my life and I want to share it with the Class of '44.

There were approximately seventy attendances - husbands, wives and children from as far away as Alaska to the proximity of Richmond. We were housed at DuPont Dormitory on the new campus and classes were held in the air-conditioned lecture hall of the new Swem Library.

Gordon and Lee Vliet ('54 and '68) kept us busy from 9 a.m. to sometimes 10 p.m. with lectures and field trips conducted by W&M faculty, and CW personnel - yet there was ample free time to explore, shop, etc. On free evenings the group scattered to such famous watering spots as Campbell's, Kings Arms and Chowning's Taverns.

Lectures and field trips included; Political Thought in Colonial Times, Theatrical Arts of the 18th Century, 18th Century Architecture, Archaeological Digs on Colonial America (field trip to Yorktown), Music in the 18th Century, Folk Art, Crafts and 18th Century Science, to name a few. . . Children (ages 5 to 14 or so) had their own special and very interesting program the entire week.

Tom Graves hosted a cocktail party at the President's House, and a fabulous Colonial Feast was held on the last evening in the Great Hall of the Wren Bldg. President Emeritus Paschall gave the final talk, and "graduation certificates" were issued to all before departing for home. Many of our group stayed on for 4th of July Festivities in Williamsburg.

From the Class of '44 we had; Dorothy DeVaughn ("Dev") Dent, Hallie Rennie Martin, and your correspondent. Marilyn was unable to attend, as she (was) off on an African Safari with a group of volunteer guides from the Philadelphia Zoo.

The Alumni Association, the College and the Vliets went all out for this affair. It was such a success that I am sure there will be one in '77, and perhaps forever after."

We thank you, John, for sharing your wonderful experience with us. After reading your letter, everyone will want to attend next year. . . so sign up early!

Julius (Jay) Sadler and wife, Jacquelin, have co-authored several books, Mr. Jefferson, Architect, Viking press, 1973; The Only Proper Style, New York Graphic Society, 1976; Palladio - A Western Progress, Viking Press, 1976, and are currently gathering material and researching for The Stable Door, New York Graphic Society, to be published in 1979, and "would like tips, photos, news articles. . . on the "perfect" stable, for possible use in the book. . . stables of all ages and all styles. . . Marjorie Lentz Plitt, Baltimore, is currently Librarian at Catonsville Community College. Willard (Bill) Smith and wife, Jane (Spencer) '48 gave the Alumni House a set of their newest sideline, "Mr. Tennis" highball and lowball cocktail glasses. Perhaps you have seen their ads in "New Yorkers", "Sports Illustrated", etc. They visited Williamsburg a week after Homecoming last year. Let's hope they make it the right weekend, this year.

Sunny Trumbo Williams kindly helped me out by sending a big batch of William and Mary news items, which unfortunately arrived too late for the April issue. But I am sure it will be news to most of us even now, so with thanks to Sunny, here are excerpts from her letter:

Connie Curtis Laus was the woman behind a tremendous conference on World Hunger that opened March 22 at Scope, Norfolk. Senator William Spong, new head of our law school, was a speaker. Also working on the conference were Bob Lawrence and Jean Canoles Bruce, new head of the Society of the Alumni.

Donald Griffin was selected "Outstanding (Norfolk) City Employee", and was in charge of our marvelous Norfolk Charter Day dinner honoring Judge I'Anson. Special guest was Supreme Court Justice Powell. Louise Spalding Hollis, Peggy Duval Winston and Kitty Seay helped me make 43 flower arrangements!

Glimpsed at the Williamsburg Charter Day luncheon were Evie and Hal King, Bob and Bunny Faulconer, Pat and Dot Harper, Jean Outland Chrysler and niece, Deal Chandler

(Nancy Outland Chandler's daughter) Our (daughter) Lesney is working in Nancy's real estate firm.

A huge crowd attended the fantastic opening of the new wing of (Norfolk's) Chrysler Museum. Jean Chrysler and Walter have given Norfolk wonderful art work. Our Bicentennial exhibit of American Art is the largest in the country, and has had a great press.

Hunter Andrews is often on our TV screen as are Mayor Ann Hitch Kilgore of Hampton, and Mayor Dick Davis of Portsmouth. Saw Jeanne Schoenewolf Preston '45 and Page at a costume party that Jane and Pete Whittemore gave. Jane was a great ballerina.

Rolf and I took a VMI trip to Cancun, Mexico in January. Our daughter just returned from a W&M Bermuda trip. Think college trips are great!"

Wonderful to hear from Sunny! Other news of "Sunny and friends" is that Fran and Bob Brunner of Westfield, N.J., were renting Hal and Jean Morris' home at Sandbridge in August. Also planning a Sandbridge visit in August, were Ruth Weimer Tillar '45 and Cato, and newly-weds Jean Boyd McIntyre Lacy and Ben, for a "reunion" with Sunny and Rolf. (Ruth and Sunny were attendants for Jean at her wedding last December).

I saw Audrey Hudgins Thompson '45 in Orlando in July. She told me that she, Jean Preston and Ruth Tillar had lunch together in Williamsburg in April. The Prestons took their daughter, Jeanne Paige, son Bill, and his wife Emily, on a ten day cruise to Annapolis and back on their sailboat in June, then celebrated their 30th anniversary, July 2nd, with three days at the Inn. Audrey and husband Buck visited Sheila Stewart Ehrlich '45 and Phillip on a trip to San Francisco last spring, and said the Ehrlichs still have two children at home but manage to do a lot of traveling - and so do the Thompsons. . . they had just returned from a vacation on Sanibel Island the day I saw them.

Hope you've had a great Bicentennial year and summer. David and I flew to D.C. for July 3rd and 4th for a visit with our daughter and her husband, and a peek at the Bicentennial festivities. Daughter #2, Susan has returned from her year of study in Italy, is working for a local planning and zoning Board, and will return to her pursuit of a degree in Architecture this fall. Hope to see you at Homecoming.

We can start the count-down anytime now. Because, ready or not, believe it or not, and like it or not, we will be having our 30th Reunion, come Oct. 8-9!

Keith Anne Gamble Duncan, of Coraopolis, Pa., is Chairperson for this event, and I'm sure that by now we have all had Freshest Advice from her about it. Helen Strickler McConnell, who lives in Williamsburg is co-chairing it with Keith.

Until we meet next month, here's some news about:

John Donald Anderson, who says hello to all of us. Don, wife Karolyn, 14-year old daughter Catherine and eight-year old son, John make their home in Alexandria, Va., after having lived in Fairfax County for about 15 years. Don is with the Federal Government in the general field of personnel management. Recently, he has been concentrating in the civil service's equal employment opportunity program. He served with several agencies--Agriculture, U.S. Information Agency (Voice of America), the D.C. City Government, and is now in DHEW's Public Health Service in the Rockville, Md. Offices. Karolyn has gone back to college, part-time, studying for her B.A. at George Mason U. Hope to see Don and Karolyn at Reunion Time.

Bill Hubard, who represented William and Mary at the inauguration of the President of Roanoke College this past April.

Beverly West Lewis, who recently completed 18 years of research and development with NASA, Langley Research Center as a Physical Chemist. He is currently working in the field of marine environmental monitoring by remote sensing techniques. Beverly lives in Hampton, Va.

Edie Harwood Smith and Jerrie Healy Clay, who had a delightful lunch and afternoon together in St. Pete, Fla. Jerrie's son Jeff graduated from a college in Florida, and is busy job-hunting. Jerrie is a tennis enthusiast. Edie's son "Woody" who has been working in Baltimore during the summer was rescued from that city's famous heat by an invitation to her home for dinner from Doris Brandt Bauer. "Woody", by the way, is a talented jazz pianist.

Mary Sue Ebeling, who visited Edie in her Westfield, N.J., home over Memorial Day. Mary Sue live in Arlington, Va.

Some '46'ers who attended alumni chapter meetings held in the Spring. In Los Angeles, Ann J. Tomkinson and R. Goodwin Burns; Seattle, Sue Claypool Vukich and husband Bob; Tampa, Jerrie Healy Clay and husband Alan and Charlotte Palmer.

Do plan to come to our Reunion. Don't forget your bathing suit and your raincoat, and be sure to bring any memorabilia that would be fun (or funny) to share. See you!

Alumni chapters are busy having get-togethers all around the country. In recent months they have been held in Atlanta with Betty Powell and Stan Humphries attending, in Dallas with Posie Hundley attending, and in Los Angeles with Jean and Stewart Robertson on hand.

Last year was a busy and hectic time for us, while I was teaching music daily at the Kingsbury Lab School in Washington. I'm recovering this summer and getting our oldest daughter ready to go off to William and Mary this fall.

Let me state clearly that letters are most welcome and encouraged. If, however, you prefer to convey news in person, I expect to be on hand in Williamsburg several weekends in the coming months.

56 Dr. Robert D. Gibbons
1008 Fourth Avenue
Farmville, Va.

Welcome back to another year of class news. Lots of exciting news to report and of course our big 20th reunion will be this year, too.

Eleanor Lundberg Martling received her Master of Arts in Counseling and Guidance from Northeast Missouri State University in April of this year. Received a note from Sam Cole. Sam is a graduate of the University of California-Berkeley-law school and teaches half time for the university in government contract law. Sam lives in Oakland and will be happy to hear from any alumni in the area. Saw in the paper that Gilbert L. Granger was elected to the Williamsburg, Va. city council. Gil was on the school board. Congratulations, Gil, even if you weren't a member of the '56 class.

Had a note from Ralph S. (Stewart) Lane. Claims he's alive and well in Atlanta, Ga., and loves it. He has 2 girls--Tracy 11 and Pamela 10. Stewart is a manufacturing representative on industrial coatings and also manufactures and packages speciality products for private brand distribution. Thanks for writing; Atlanta is a great city and I'm sure you enjoy living there.

More mail--Dodie Fauber wrote to say she's looking forward to our 20th reunion--hopes to see lots of us there--me, too, Dodie. Dolores Mannion Barker wrote (Didn't have to call you, did I, Dolores!) Dolores married Clyde (Buddy) Barker, '53, and is living in Haddonfield, N.J. They have 2 girls: Karen is 15 and Lisa 13. Clyde is personnel manager for the Phila. office of Price Waterhouse. He is also president of the Board of Education in Haddonfield. It's a tough job, Clyde, I'm sure-but we do need good school board members. All 4 of the Barkers live to play tennis. Dolores invites us all to visit them. They'll take us to Phila. and Independence Hall (a 20-minute drive)! Thanks for writing, Dolores.

meetings during the past few months. Stewart Sell and Bob Swearinger attended one in San Diego; Anne and Ray Long in Tampa and Bobbie Wenger in Los Angeles. Duane Hockersmith attended a meeting in San Francisco, Pam Fry in Richmond, and Joan Marsh Myers and Joan McWilliams Russell in Minnesota. Your attendance at chapter meetings is always appreciated.

The 4th largest # of '56ers lives in Penna. The Tar Heel State ranks #5 among our classmates. For those of you who don't know where the Tar Heel State is, you'll find out next time. This will end your quiz of where many of us live. Quiz #2 will start next time--your knowledge about the College of William and Mary!

I'm looking for information from Jeanne Armstrong Halsey (N.C.), Lorne W. Hicks (La.) and Carl P. Pearl (Okla.) for next time. Either write or get a collect long distance phone call, people.

Time to close. Irving Berlin said that "the toughest thing about success is that you have to keep on being a success. Talent is only a starting point in any endeavor. You have to keep working that talent." As your class reporter, I am certainly impressed with not only the talents of the class of '56 but also the successes all of you have. It is a pleasure for me to report the successes of people instead of the problems.

Where have all the people gone - long time passing???

Look, gang, you've got to do better than this! Dr. Robert Gibbons of the Class of '56 is writing a fantastic column - I can't begin to compete with this incredible writer if I receive no letters from the '58'ers.

The only news I have gleaned - Beth Meyer Fox and Ned have left Richmond's Collegiate Schools for the "South" - Charlotte, N.C. Ned has been appointed headmaster of Charlotte Latin School.

I had a chance to see the Alumni College in action when I met Californian, Ruth Peterson Barton, and children, Joey, Julia and Susie in Williamsburg. Each Barton had a fantastic time at the College. The Alumni College, from all the reports that day, was excellent. Ruthie had combined the trip East with a stop in Palm Beach and the Theta National Convention. She is doing volunteer work in San Francisco as an official hostess for the San Francisco Reperatory Theater.

That's it for the news! Isn't that awful? Could you just dig up a Christmas card and send it to me early?

Hope all of you had a great summer! Maybe some of you did some traveling around the country and visited classmates. If so, please send me some news!

In the spring I received a darling birth announcement from Priscilla Krietzler Hopkins and her husband Jonathan. Their second son, Matthew Alden, was born in March. Jon is an engineering designer with American Enka, a synthetic textile company. In Swannanoa, N.C. Priscilla taught for nine years before the birth of their two sons. Now she works with a Story Hour Program at the local library and is doing research on flower and vegetable gardening in preparation for some writing in this field.

Merrily Long Horan lives in San Francisco, Calif. After many years of widowhood, Merrily has married a "darling Irishman" and now has a six-month-old son.

Lois June Tyner Bodles is teaching Social Studies and Language Arts in Chula Vista, Calif.

Nancy Hanson Benson is living in Sioux City, Iowa. She is a Life Insurance agent for the Equitable Company. She is also involved in the Chamber of Commerce Environmental Task Force, Family Service Center, and a Member of the Board of Directors of the Sioux City Concert Course.

Ann Perkins Charney is teaching Political Science at Western State College of Colorado and resides in Gunnison, Colo.

Various Alumni Chapter Meetings were held in the spring. Members of our class attending in Cleveland were Dan and Linda Giffen and in the Richmond area - Hester Motley and Joan Dressel.

In early August, Charlie Nahill and his family, Nancy (Sally) Branham, and his two daughters, Julie and Kristin, stopped by the Alumni House in Williamsburg. Charlie was attending the National Municipal Treasurers Association convention at the Hospitality House. Their son of less than two years stayed at home.

Recent alumni chapter meetings have been held, and in San Diego where the official charter was presented, Kris and Bob Downey attended. In Seattle, Jack Berman was present and in Los Angeles, Peter Bradley was among those hearing Gordon Vliet, Executive Vice President of the Society, speaking.

John Molnar has "returned to the land of the living", Richmond, Va., after living in Michigan for a while. He is working for the State Library.

John A. Schuler, residing in Wernersville, Pa., has been promoted to assistant controller, financial planning and analysis, of Carpenter Technology Corporation of Reading, Pa. John is an active fireman and a member and treasurer of the Wyommising Borough Police Pension Fund.

Barbara Drucker Smith has attained the Collegiate Professional Certification for the State of Virginia to teach English Language and Literature and Speech. Barbara is also the current State Legislative Committee chairman for the AAUW of Newport News.

A welcome note from Doug Berryman revealed that he has opened his own architectural office in Pittsburgh, Pa., and is also busy remodeling his townhouse. Doug's wife, Evi, is a trust officer with the Mellon Bank. He saw Dick Mac Namee recently. Dick and Betsy are in South Carolina, where Dick is a professor of Chemistry at Furman. Doug would like to hear from Lloyd Becker. Lloyd, where are you?

A letter I much admired came from Barry Fretz who writes, in part, "a la The Kitchen Sink Papers, I'm 'retiring'... (after four years as headmaster of a small private school in Haddonfield, N.J.) to return to the land and the kitchen sink - object - to get to better know the 4 1/2-year-old daughter I've missed seeing enough of because of my workload." Barry will concentrate on raising the kindergartener, learning to operate the coffee pot and completing the house he and his wife have designed and are building on five acres in Pennsylvania. Good luck, Barry, in your new venture!

Susan Trice Fieglein has a new son, William Alexander, Alex was born June 30th, and her husband, Mike, has a new job, heading the tax team of the law firm of Dibrell, Greer and Broron in Galveston, Tex.

And finally, words and pictures of a reunion I should have loved to attend came from Ginnie Pierce Volkman who reported on the gathering that was held at the home of Ann Lyons Ackiss in honor of the former Kappa Alpha Theta housemother, Mrs. Marie Price. Attending also were Gretchen Scherer Israel, happily established as a minister's wife in Bethesda, Md.; Judy Davis Johnson, happy as a housewife and mother, having left a successful career with the U.S. State Department; Bobbie Mulcahey Frazier who had just returned from a trip to San Francisco and will resume her teaching career in the fall. Husband Bill remains with IBM; Marcia Ballard Scott who was residing in Richmond, Va., at the time with husband, Tom; and Patty Vaught, who is living in Alexandria, working for a law firm and attending American University. Ann Ackiss' husband Tom has started his own architectural firm and Ann is continuing her teaching career in Springfield, Va. Ginnie Peirce Volkman has good news in that she and Al expect a new addition to daughter, Kate, 2 1/2, in February.

Best of luck to classmates, John Randolph and Maynard, as they begin their new life at West Point, N.Y., where John will be head track coach following such a successful career at the College.

This summer I became our new Class Reporter for The Alumni Gazette. I hope to receive news from you in the future. I had to rely on the telephone and local classmates for this issue.

Bill Humphreys has been named supervisor of chemicals resale with the purchasing department of ICI United States Inc. He, his wife Gael and their two children live in Wilmington, Del.

J. Steirling Gunn, Vice President in charge of the Bank of Virginia's South Richmond-Chesterfield area, as one of this year's recipients of the Richmond Sales and Marketing Executive "Sammy" awards. Only twenty "Sammys" were awarded this year to outstanding professional salespersons. Steirling graduated from the banking school at the University of Wisconsin.

Joy Hutzl Nathan was named Director of Public Relations at Easton Hospital in Easton, Pa. Jim Becker is still a Methodist minister in Linton, Va., near Front Royal. He is kept real busy with five churches.

John Jacobsen wrote he and his wife Becky '70 are in Chula Vista, Calif. Becky was elected as one of the first directors of the William and Mary Alumni Society in San Diego. John is presently Assistant Future Ops. Officer on the COMNAVSURFPAC STAFF.

Dave "Lurch" Olson is assistant Commonwealth Attorney in Newport News. His wife Linda King '68 teaches school there and they keep in touch with several alumni. Dave tells me Jim Noe, his wife Sherrod and son Christopher 9 mo. are in Charlotte, N.C. Jim is with Belk and Company. Ted Hanson is assistant commonwealth attorney in Virginia Beach.

Mary Kathryn Sweeney McIntosh and two children are living in Lynchburg for a year while Bill is stationed with the Army in a remote section of Iran. They plan to start an oriental rug collection while he is in the East. Lynn Efrid Burnet and family are in Niceville, Fla., after an Air Force tour in New Mexico. She is busy volunteering with the local Junior Woman's Club. Betty Staton Hogan, husband Ray and three daughters are in Orange, Va., where Ray is principal of an elementary school. Betty stays busy with her family and churchwork. Another Lynchburg classmate John Tudor and his wife Dorothy Hutton are in Greenville, S.C. John is principal of Wade Hampton High School and Dorothy has become active in the Greenville Chapter of A.A.U.W. Their neighbors are Bill and Connie Hudson Harris who have just moved into a new house in Greenville. Bill is a professor at Furman University.

Cathy Brown Southwell lives in York County with her husband Malcolm, son Todd 4 years and daughter Melissa 9 months. Cathy tells me Cheryl Johnson Ratts and husband are stationed with the Army in Ankorage, Alaska. They've been able to take many interesting camping trips in the surrounding area.

I run into Betty Moyer Boggs quite often and she and Chuck and two sons are preparing to move to Fairfax, where Chuck will be with the C&P headquarters in Washington. They are expecting their third child in February.

Cam Buchanan Spirm brought me up to date on a lot of the Theta's. Cam and Stuart '67 live in Norge with their two children. Stu has his own law practice in Williamsburg and Cam has just finished medical school at the Medical College of Virginia. She is starting her internship there in OB-GYN. Marty Miller Yeary and Emmitt are in Abingdon where Emmitt has his own law practice and Marty teaches high school chemistry. Brigitte Schmidt is in La Jolla, Calif., getting her Ph.D. in German literature at the University of California. Brigitte got her Master's in German at Washington University in St. Louis and taught English in Germany for three years. Elaine Bannerman maintains an apartment in Washington and has numerous overseas assignments with the foreign service. She will not be at Homecoming this Fall since her travels will keep her away. Linda Arey Cooper is living in Richmond and will start her second year at T.C. Williams Law School this Fall. Betty Gayle Sandford Kirk and Dave are in Newport News with their two children. Dave is an insurance salesman and Betty Gayle teaches the fourth grade. Betty Gayle tells me Dana and Beth Distler Gaebe '68 had their second child last December. Dana is a lawyer and they live in Seekonk, Mass. Burt Queen and his wife Betsy Cherry '68 have been in Charlottesville the last two years while Burt worked on his MBA.

John Sours and his wife Ruth Eye '67 live in Atlanta with their two children. John is in labor relations law. Babs Lewis Korman and Jim '65 are in Northern Virginia where Babs works for the CIA and Jim is an attorney. Jerry Thompson Buchanan and Bucky '68 live in Richmond with their two children. Bucky is an assistant football coach at the University of Richmond.

Gladys Holland Tankersley tells me she and Ron are in the planning stages of building a new home. Ron is an oral surgeon in Newport News. Gladys keeps in touch with Dena Kaye Cunningham who is presently in Washington, D.C., working for the State Department. Her job has taken her to all parts of the world including a stay of a few years in Pakistan.

Arthur '65, I and our two children, Julie 5 years and Michael 1 year, have been back in Newport News the last three years. Arthur is a CPA and tax administrator for Noland Company. I look forward to seeing lots of alumni at Homecoming and getting news to put in the next issue.

In July, Ken Smith was named Associate Dean of Students for Activities and Organizations at the College.

Kathleen Buckley and Ward Walsh returned from Europe in December '75 where they had spent the previous years. They lived two years in Belgium while Ward was in the Army, and two years in Holland after he was released from the Army. He travelled extensively through Africa, Europe and the Middle East as sales manager for an American company. They bought a house in York, Pa., where they plan to live for the next few years. Ward is in sales work in the graphic arts field and works primarily in the D.C. area. Since the birth of their first child, a son, in Belgium Kathleen has been a home maker. Their second child, a daughter, was born shortly after their return to the States.

After six years in New York working for Doubleday & Co., Margaret Friedmann moved to California. She took the scenic route spending 8 weeks on her cross-country odyssey. Margaret is living in Walnut Creek just 30 minutes east of downtown San Francisco in a cute little house with a vegetable garden and a fabulous view. She has 8 chickens, a kitten, and a rabbit. Margaret is job hunting and attending classes at JFK University's Institute of Mystical and Parapsychological Studies.

Judy O'Grady McKeon, Tom, and their two daughters, Sarah and Kathleen have just moved into an older home in Charlottesville. They are looking forward to fixing it up. Judy says there is much work to do. Tom is completing his doctorate in higher education at U.Va. and is working in the School of Continuing Studies at U.Va.

Linda Donahue Wren taught in Hampton, Va., one year before moving to Dallas Tex. She has taught history, English, and French in grades 7-12 in Richardson, Tex., a suburb of Dallas. In 1973, she received her master's degree in liberal arts from Southern Methodist University. Linda married Larry Dennis Wren in December, 1975. Larry is a C.P.A. in a Dallas accounting firm. Linda sees Mary Vogel Feldman and her husband who does pediatric research at Southwestern Medical School. The Feldmans have two sons, David and Michael.

Carl Chris Christensen has graduated from the MBA program at Harvard and has accepted a job with Cameron Iron Works, an oil tool manufacturing company in Houston. As Assistant Vice President-finance, Chris will implement a new system for management control and capital budgeting. His job will also require frequent trips to Western Europe. Chris is purchasing a condominium in Houston.

This spring a number of our classmates attended alumni chapter meetings. Attending the meeting in Cleveland were Carl and Victoria Thornbary and Roger McKain. Jo Lynne and Tony DeMary, Pam Palmore, and Fred and Donna Vaughn represented our class in Richmond. Tom Reavely attended the first W&M alumni meeting to be held in Iowa and Howard Harris attended the meeting in Chicago.

Steve Row has celebrated his eighth year with the Richmond News Leader. He is the Leader's city hall reporter. He also covered the House of Delegates in the 1976 Virginia General Assembly. The Virginia Army National Guard quarterly news magazine was honored as the best publication in the First U.S. Army area and third in the U.S. Army worldwide competition which makes its editor, Steve, very happy. Steve has also done some freelance writing and has recently completed two articles for the Virginia Independent Bicentennial Commission for use by the U.S. Travel Service. The Rows became parents on Nov. 7, 1975 when their daughter, Sarah Elizabeth, was born. Steve says they are beginning to really enjoy parenthood.

The rest of this column is brought to you by Steve Row. Steve Wing and his Norwegian born wife, Gunvor, had a daughter Synne in August 1975. The Wings are living in new Canaan, Conn., where Steve is a landscape architect. Jerry and Mary Ann Daley Pugh had a daughter Jennifer in April 1975. The Pughs reside in Doswell. Patti Gosnell Woodle and her husband Buddy had a son Jason last January.

Marsha King Carter is head of a tutoring service in South Richmond. She is working on a master's degree in special education at Virginia Commonwealth University. Her husband, Reid, is in the planning section of the Federal Reserve Bank. Their son Adam is two.

Gordon Kellett is now Capt. Kellett and in the medical corps of the U.S. Army stationed in Germany. Previously he and Janet Baker Kellett lived in Richmond where Gordon was in pediatrics at Medical College of Virginia. He was chief resident at the MCV Poison Control Center. Gordon received the Martin Hoffman Award for 1975, given to a pediatric resident who shows ability in teaching, in patient care and empathy.

Steve and Helen Garrett Lawson now have two children, with their second, a daughter Gretchen, recently celebrating her first birthday. Their son is three. Steve is a lawyer with Christian, Barton, Epps, Brent, and Chappell and has been teaching part-time at the T.C. Williams School of Law.

Don Lillywhite has been working for the State Division of Planning and Community Affairs in Richmond. He helped to gather information for the report, Fiscal Prospects and Alternatives -- 1976 for the State's Revenue Resources and Economics Study Commission. He and Becky Cupp were wed in September 1975.

Corita Hermann Kirby has two children, Douglas, 2, and Bryan, 6, and is living in Richmond where her husband, David, is a physician.

Andy Haddon Kautz, her husband, Richard, and their year old son, Ryan, are living in the Lakeside area of Richmond.

Thanks to you who have sent letters. I enjoy reading them, and members of our class love to keep in touch through your information. Please note the change in address-- the Simmermons have moved. We've been here a little over a week and I'm still falling over boxes. After a frantic search, I finally found the information for this column in a box placed in a storage closet under our stairway. The address is not the only change in our household, Jeffrey, our first child, was born May 30, 1976. At two months he's over 14 pounds in weight. At the rate he's growing I should be a prime contender for the next U.S. Olympic weight lifting team. When not unpacking, burping Jeffrey and changing his diapers, Fren and I work with the Loudoun Farmer's Market Association. Fred is the Treasurer and I am the President. The market is located in Leesburg and is open Wednesday evenings and Saturday mornings. Do stop by if you're in the area.

Elize Frazier Woodward is an architect with a New Orleans firm which specializes in historic preservation and restoration. Her husband, Alan, is completing his training at Tulane University School of Medicine.

In March this year, Richard Stark was elected treasurer of First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Arlington, Va. Dick joined First Federal in 1970, and held managerial positions at the Association's Landmark Center and South Arlington offices. In 1974, he was named to his present position as Manager of the Vienna, Va., office.

Having recently retired from her job as a medical technologist at the Hampton Veterans Administration Hospital, Barbara Hopkins Joynes is enjoying "whatever strikes her fancy" for the moment. She and husband, Mike, live in Newport News. Mike is completing his last year of family practice residency at Riverside Hospital and looks forward to setting up a practice in Virginia next summer.

Michele Cayot has bought a house in Decatur, Ga., and is with the Operations Department of AT&T in Atlanta.

Reid Williamson sent brief news of two of our classmates. . . Jean Kossoff has been working in England the past couple of years. Mike Resler earned his PhD in German from Harvard last spring.

On July 3, Janice Savage and Buddy Gardner had their first child, a daughter, Ashley Paige.

Fran Gretes recently left for Grafenswoehr (near Nuremberg), Germany as head of an Army library. Having earned a Master's in Library Science at Emory, Fran worked for an architect developer in Atlanta for 3 years prior to her present position. She would like to know the whereabouts of Suzanne Edge, Nancy Odenath and Chris Sherman, '69.

Perhaps you've noticed the unusual brevity of this column. . . I look forward to a bombardment of news for my next class letter. Will the following people please take pen in hand!! Lee Albrecht, Margaret Bunte, Dennis Cordell, Kevin Brosche, Carol Crute, David Cole, Geri Baltes, Russ Bailey and Ron Pulling.

Several of our '72 graduates completed medical school at MCV this spring: Frankie Holmes, who will begin a medical internship in Hartford, Conn. at Hartford Hospital; Bob Brewer, who is going to Williamsport, Pa. with wife Louise for a Family Practice program; and Albert Payne who has completed the dentistry program and plans to set up his practice in Danville.

Jerry Belzew wrote to say that he has spent the last three years living in Bucks County, Pa. working as a Claims Representative for Social Security. He has recently moved into a condominium in Philadelphia and invites any alumni visiting the "Cradle of Liberty" this year to stop by.

For four years, John Gearhart was assistant organist at Bruton Parish Church in Williamsburg. He is now concert organist and choir director at Grace Presbyterian Church in Jenkintown, Pa. John's talent has already given him an excellent start at a distinguished career.

Jefferson Ray Key is a tax examiner with the D.C. government and wife Roberta Smith is a civilian Personnel Staffing Specialist with the Department of the Army at Ft. Myer, Va.

John Chandler and wife Mary Robichaud are living in Columbus, Ohio where he is a candidate for a doctoral degree in Computer Science at Ohio State. Pete Malpass reports he is alive and busy in Lexington, Ky., as a graduate student at the University of Kentucky. Debbie Edwards is working as a staff attorney in the law department of Westinghouse Electric Corporation in Pittsburgh, Pa. Anna Ballard wrote from Goodfellow AFB in Texas to say that she is Anna Quindland once again and intends to stay that way. Tomeka Watkinson Smith and husband Jonathan are living in Portsmouth where she is employed at Louise Obici Memorial Hospital in Suffolk as a medical technologist.

Seen lately in San Francisco at a W&M alumni chapter meeting were Ed and Laurie Morgan and Allen Grant. Also at the first chapter meeting held in Minneapolis were Ginger Dick and Bob Seabold and Jeannie Rice Gleasing.

Beth Wellington is currently employed as a Probation Counselor with the Twenty Fifth District Juvenile Court Service Unit for Allegheny County and Clifton Forge. She was recently selected on a nationwide basis as one of 25 persons to attend the 21st Annual Juvenile Officers' Institute at the University of Minnesota.

Gary R. Jones of Virginia Beach, Va., has recently been promoted to Staff Auditor in United Virginia Bankshares, Inc.

Say, gang, for those of you who don't know me, I'm your Class Reporter, George Duke, and I'll be keeping you posted on the continuing exploits of the Class of '76 here in The Alumni Gazette. I haven't heard from most of you yet, so get out a piece of paper and a pencil and tell me what's happening. If you've never seen your name in print before, it'll be a real thrill. Since I as an accounting major, most of the news in this report will be from the business world.

A trio of grads, Barry Wilhelm, Colleen Rodman Scruggs and Bernard Leister are working in Richmond for the accounting firm of Ernst and Ernst. David Boor and Bill Campbell have found employment in Washington, D.C. with another accounting firm, Price Waterhouse. William & Mary's most recent contributions to the staff of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell are working in various cities on the east coast-- Pat Angstadt in Pittsburgh, Steve Handzel in Philadelphia, and yours truly, G. Duke, here in the Capital of the Confederacy.

Glenn Gundersen and Bonnie France have both begun a one-year internship in state government here in Richmond as two of this year's five Virginia Commonwealth Interns. They will spend the year in a series of assignments with various state agencies. Glenn will be working through November developing legislation with the Department of Taxation, while Bonnie has selected the Department of Drug Abuse Control as her first assignment.

Tim Melester and Jim Harbert will be in Charlottesville this fall, Tim entering UVA's medical school, Jim in his first year at the Wahoo law school. Among other '76er's entering professional schools in September are Gene Grubbs, studying optometry, and Steve Moyer, who'll be at New York Law School. Mark Barban will be entering MCV's pharmacy school while Gary Gorbosky will be at Princeton doing graduate work in biology.

Pika's George Riegel landed an accounting job in Richmond with Harry Murray, while Butch Falconer is in Atlanta with National Services Industry as an auditor. And Bob Teitelman is entering Columbia University's Foreign Relations School. Phil Sword is teaching the 3 R's to elementary school children in Chesterfield County, and Bill Dowd is also in the educational field, teaching high school math in Virginia Beach.

Rick Vercellone and Tom Conine are together up in Luray, Va., working with Wrangler. Rumor has it that they're making blue jeans. And finally, Fragmento Lex got a job in D.C. with an accounting firm. Way to go, Frag!

I admit in this first report there is a noticeable lack of those who majored outside the business department. So all you guys and gals who don't see your name in this report, please write so we can tell everybody else what you're doing.

Business Administration Expands Rapidly W&M: Bullish on Business

Just a few years ago, it didn't even exist. Today, it is responsible for more than 10% of the undergraduate degrees conferred by William and Mary, and more than half of the master's degrees bestowed. "It" is the School of Business Administration, established in 1968 under the leadership of Dr. Charles L. Quittmeyer '40.

The last eight years have been exciting ones for the School, as the following data shows:

-- This fall, the School will have 400 full time-equivalent undergraduate students, up 30% from last year. In turn, the undergraduate population of the School had risen 25% over the year before that.

-- In 1976, there were 105 Bachelor of Business Administration degrees conferred
