At Homecoming

Four To Receive Alumni Medallions

A plastic surgeon, an award-winning cartoonist, the former president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the only 5-sport letterman, in William and Mary's history will receive the prestigious Alumni Medallion at Homecoming Oct. 28.

The Medallion, the highest honor conferred by the Society of the Alumni, will be conferred on Dr. Bromley S. Freeman '33 of Houston, Tex., cartoonist Hugh S. Haynie '50 of Louisville, Mrs. Marion Moncure Duncan '35 of Alexandria, Va., and Y. O. Kent '30 of Williamsburg, Va.

Dr. Freeman, who has pioneered procedures in plastic surgery that have now become standard, has been in private practice in Houston since 1949. Honored internationally for his innovative work in plastic surgery, he was named "Clinician of the Year" this year by the Society of Plastic Surgeons. He serves on the faculties of both the Baylor College of Medicine and the University of Texas Medical School and holds visiting professorships in 10 universities. He is the attending plastic surgeon in 10 hospitals, and he has published numerous articles relating to his field.

Dr. Freeman served as president of the Houston Chapter from 1969 to 1970 and as vice president of the chapter 1967-70.

Haynie, editorial cartoonist for the Louisville Courier-Journal, is syndicated by the Los Angeles Times in more than 40 newspapers. His cartoons appear regularly as well in Time and Newsweek magazines.

A staff member of the Courier-Journal since 1958, Haynie has won nearly every major award that can be conferred on a political cartoonist. Among his awards are the Sigma Delta Chi Distinguished Service Award (1971), the Freedoms Foundation Medal (1966, 1971), and the Headliner Award (1966). He was named one of the nation's 10 Outstanding Young Men in 1962 and he received an honorary doctor of humane letters from the University of Louisville in 1968.

A former member of the Board of Directors of the Society (1967-72), Haynie helped organize the "Operation Visibility" Program for the Society in 1972. In addition, he did the editorial cartoon "Gentlemen Protagonists," which was used for the third Presidential Debate held in Williamsburg last October. His original cartoons are in the private collections of nearly every international political figure. In 1974, a book of his cartoons "Perspective" was published by the Courier-Journal.

Mrs. Duncan and her husband Robert Vernon Harris Duncan '35 operate the Bob Duncan Real Estate-Insurance Co. of Alexandria. A former member of the Board of Visitors, she is past President-General (1962-65) of the Daughters of the American Revolution and a member of the Colonial Dames of America, as well as a number of other historic, patriotic, civic and business groups. In 1964, she received the George Washington Medallion from the Freedoms Foundation and in 1963 she was one of "Holiday Magazine's 12 leading American women."

Mrs. Duncan is a board member of numerous organizations including the Jamestown Corporation and the Foundation for Independent Junior Colleges in Virginia. She is president of the Order of the First Families of Virginia. She has received citations for outstanding service from the Boy Scouts of America, the Sons of the American Revolution, and Soroptimists International.

Mrs. Duncan, who is listed in Who's Who in America, Who's Who in the South, and Who's Who of American Women, serves on the National Development Council for the Campaign for the College.

Kent retired in 1971 as manager of the College Bookstore after continuous service to the College since 1926. Well-known for his contributions to the old Flight School at William and Mary, he was manager of the College airport and later barn-stormed in the West. A five-sport athlete at William and Mary, Kent played professional soccer. For many years he was steward of the college dining hall.

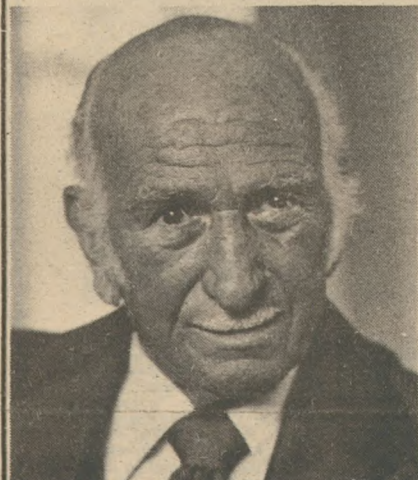

Kent is a trustee of the National Hemophilia Foundation and participated in the World Federation Hemophilia Symposium in Iran in 1971. He served on the Williamsburg City Council for 14 years, from 1954 to 1968. He is a member of many civic organizations, having served as chairman of the Williamsburg Red Cross, president of the Williamsburg Rotary Club, and governor of the Williamsburg Loyal Order of the Moose.

A letterman in football, basketball, track, swimming, and baseball while a student at William and Mary, Kent was elected to the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame in 1970.

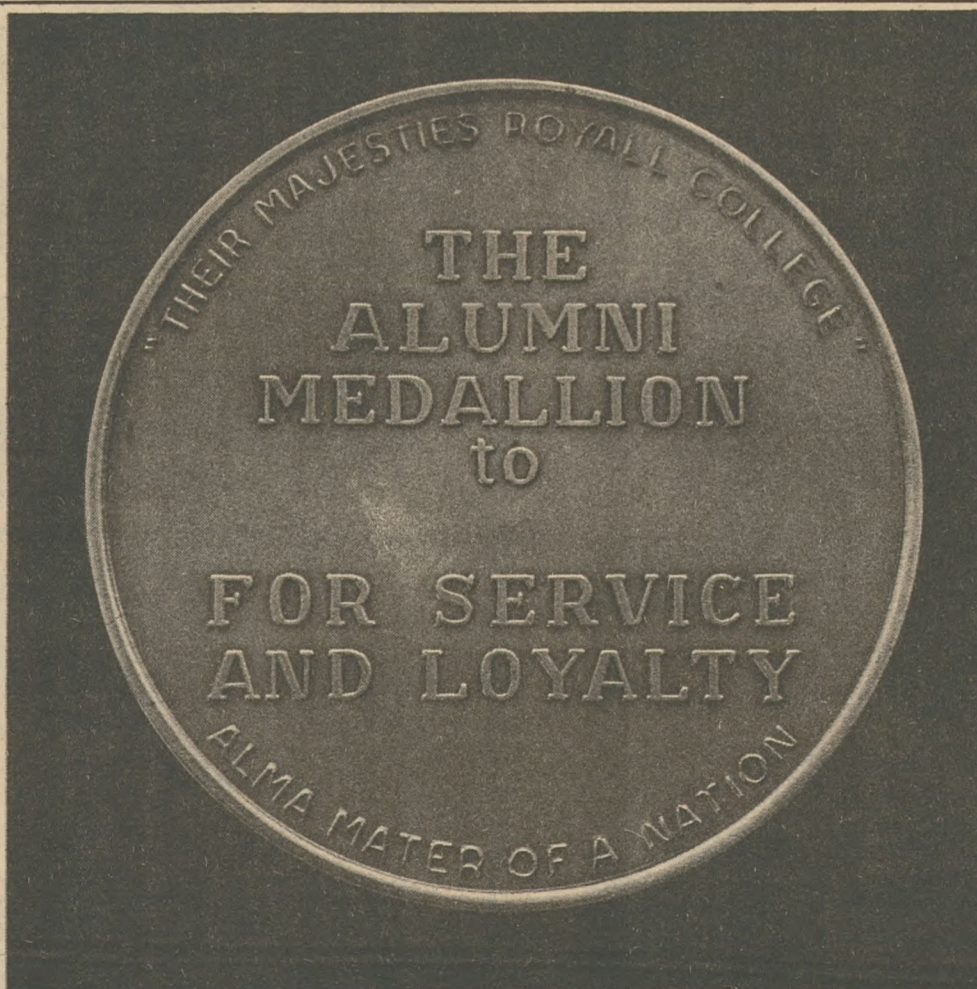

The election of these four bring to 155 the number of alumni awarded the Alumni Medallion for loyalty and service to the College since its inception in 1933 -- out of a known alumni body of 30,000.

Seven members of the physics department, Morton Eckhause, Franz Gross, John Kane, W. Jack Kossler, Charles Perdrisat, Robert Siegel and Robert Welsh, were among the more than 450 participants at the VIIth International Conference on High Energy Physics and Nuclear Structure, held in Zurich, Switzerland, Aug. 29-Sept. 2.

Their contributions included an invited talk on "Relativistic Aspects of Nuclear Wave Functions" (Gross); chairmanship of the workshop session on exotic atoms (Welsh); and short talks on "Muonic X-Ray Intensities in Low-Z Elements and Hydrides" (Eckhause), "Experimental Studies of the Formation of Antiproton-proton Atoms in Gaseous and Liquid Hydrogen" (Kane), "Recent Results in Muon Spin Precession Studies" (Kossler), and "Radiative Muon Capture in Calcium" (Siegel). Papers posted at the conference included "Backward Production of Pions by 700 MeV Alphas and 350 MeV Deuterons" (Perdrisat).

An article on recent Rubens exhibits in America, published in the August issue of The Connoisseur international art magazine, recognizes the "Rubens in Prints" exhibition shown last spring in Swem Library as a "small but informative exhibition." Fine arts department chairman Miles Chappell assembled the 23 engravings, etchings and woodcuts illustrating Rubens and the Renaissance, the Antique, the Church and the Royal Courts. The exhibition will travel to the University of Arkansas, Little Rock, where it will be on display through Oct. 16.

David C. Montgomery, a new member of the Department of Physics, has received a grant of $60,000 from NASA to continue work in plasmas which he began at the University of Iowa.

One of the world's leading authorities on theoretical plasma physics, Montgomery has published two books and more than 70 articles in his field. His recent studies have focused on research of waves in plasmas.

At present, said Montgomery, "plasma physics is still in its infancy, but its ultimate technical possibilities are almost unlimited. What we are trying to do in this project is to try to understand plasma behavior at its most basic level.

"Our job is to provide mathematical methods and machinery which can be used by space physicists, astrophysicists, and laboratory plasma physicists studying controlled thermo-nuclear fusion."

A graduate of the University of Wisconsin, Montgomery holds graduate degrees from Princeton University. He is a Fellow of the American Physical Society, Phi Beta Kappa, a National Science Foundation Pre-Doctoral Fellow, and in 1964-65, was a Fulbright Professor in Holland.

While on leave last semester teaching in Italy under a Fulbright grant, history professor Philip J. Funigiello spoke to the Centro Studi E. Ricerche "Mario Pannunzio" in Torino, Italy, on Jimmy Carter and the 1976 presidential election. His talk, given in May, was sponsored by the United States Information Agency.

Funigiello's review essay, "The Federal Government and Metropolitan America," appeared in the Journal of Urban History in May, and his review of West Virginia and the Captains of Industry by John Alexander Williams was published in the Journal of Southern History in May.

Editor's Notebook

In 1761, the William and Mary faculty took note of the complaint among students that their meals were poorly planned and badly cooked.

Because the complaint, records show, was well known "to the Visitors and other Gentlemen throughout the whole Colony," the Faculty decided it must issue its own dietary instructions to the College cook.

History has a way of repeating itself. From that time forward, students have periodically complained about the quality of their meals. During the 1960s, the complaints were mostly about the condition of old Trinkle Hall, which was then replaced with a modern dining hall on the new campus.

In 1976-77, a student-faculty-administrative committee was formed to explore improving the quality of the College's food service. The result was, as in 1761, the preparation of a detailed list of meal specifications. This time it was used as the basis for soliciting price quotations from competing food service companies.

In June, Shamrock System of Atlanta turned out to be the lowest bidder for the College's food and catering requirements, based on the specifications. As a result, for the first time in more than 25 years, William and Mary changed food service operators.

Now there is a new problem. This fall, the College was forced to suspend sales of meal tickets because too many students had purchased them, and the meal lines were too long. When sales were stopped, the number of tickets sold had reached 2,300, about 350 more than had ever been sold.

Meal hours were extended and an additional serving line was opened to help relieve overcrowdedness at the Commons dining hall. Meal ticket sales will be resumed shortly, once additional serving equipment, ordered when sales reached record numbers, arrives from the manufacturer.

For those interested in the 1761 diet specifications, here is the regulation issued by the Faculty:

"That there be always both fresh, and salt Meat for Dinner; and twice in the Week, as well as on Sunday in particular, that their be either Puddings or Pies beside; that there always Plenty of Victuals; that Breakfast, Dinner and Supper, be serv'd up in the cleanest, and neatest Manner possible; and for this Reason the Society not only allow, but desire You to get a Cook; that the Boy's Supper be not as usual made up different Scraps, but that there be at each Table the same Sort: and when there is cold fresh Meat enough, that it be often hash'd for them. . ."

The 1977 specifications are far more detailed, but essentially reflect an obviously long tradition.

New Directory Seeks "100 Percent" Response

Alumni will soon receive a comprehensive questionnaire designed to update and correct the College's biographical data on them. Some of the data will also be the basis for the first full international William and Mary Alumni Directory, to be published in 1978. A 100% response is sought for both reasons.

The Directory, to be published by the Bernard C. Harris Publishing Co. of White Plains, N.Y., is due off the press next fall. It will be available only to alumni who order in advance, based on a telephone solicitation by the Harris firm. The company, in making its calls to all alumni next spring, will also verify and update as needed the data which the College will supply it.

The questionnaire, designed to facilitate transfer of information to computer storage, will remain at the College with access restricted only to authorized William and Mary officials.

Names, concentrations, degrees, class years, occupations, business and residential addresses and telephone numbers, will be provided to Harris for inclusion in the Directory. Once the publication is printed, Harris will return that data to William and Mary.

In addition to updating College records, the questionnaire will supply the kind of statistical information on William and Mary alumni that will help the College comply with new trends in the admissions field. More and more prospective students, supported by the growing "consumer" movement, wish to know how successful are the alumni of colleges and universities they are considering. A movement is underway to require, through Federal law, all colleges and universities to provide an analysis of alumni career directions and performance.

Alumni House Receives Books, Pictures, Memorabilia

Mrs. Basil W. R. Lyon, of Essex, Connecticut, graciously gave to the Paschall Library Miniatures: How To Make Them, Use Them, Sell Them, by Phyllis Meras, and This Side of Yesterday in Miniature, by Catherine B. MacLaren. These books contain a number of photographs and descriptions of work done by her son, Robert Lyon, '77. Rob is ranked among the Top Ten Miniature Craftsmen in America.

Other books added to the library recently include Decisions Relating to Condominiums, a gift of the author, Paul Hawkins Gantt, '42; and An Autobiography of Walter Neal Chinn, Jr., given by the author, a member of the Class of 1927.

Dan H. Edmonson, '38, has given to the Alumni House one of his valued souvenirs. It is a mahogany board, on which is mounted his two favorite baseball bats and a number of autographed "last balls" of important games. He included the two first baseman's mitts he used to play every inning, freshman through senior year, and the canvas bag in which he carried his own bats to the games. This fine remembrance of some of the great seasons of William and Mary baseball has been mounted on the wall in the OWJ Room in the lower level of the Alumni House.

Miss Eleanor Calkins, '27, Associate Professor of Mathematics, Emeritus, and a well-known Williamsburg resident, generously gave the library a fine collection of memorabilia. Included was a scrapbook kept by Miss Calkins depicting local events of the town and College during the thirties and forties, math textbooks used in the late twenties, and the doctoral thesis of her sister, Gladys Calkins, '25. Miss Calkins kindly included an enjoyable book written by another sister, Burro Bill and Me, by Edna Calkins Price, who died in 1975. The book, presently in soft-cover, will be bound and placed in the library in memory of Mrs. Price and a brother, Frank Seymour Calkins, '21, who died recently in Richmond.

Miss Virginia Garrett, '40, visited the Alumni House recently and delivered an interesting collection of mementos and scrapbook clippings, including a number of theatre programs, football and basketball line-ups of the late 30's, and other remembrances of her college years.

Carter "Lefty" White, '33, stopped by the Alumni House before the Norfolk State game and left a copy of the program for President Bryan's inauguration and two snapshots dated 1929: a photograph of the freshman class and a photo of the girls physical education class.

The Society of the Alumni is grateful to all alumni who wish to share books and memorabilia with others. Books, written by alumni, and gifts should be addressed to Paschall Library, Society of the Alumni, Post Office Box GO, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.

Gubernatorial Debate Cancelled

For a time, it seemed this fall that William and Mary would host the first Virginia gubernatorial debate ever to be televised throughout the State. The event, scheduled for October 17, would have been modeled after last fall's televised Presidential Debate--and it would have taken place in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall just like the one last fall.

Both Republican John N. Dalton '55, who is now Lieutenant Governor; and Democrat Henry E. Howell, Jr., who attended William and Mary's former Norfolk Division, had accepted President's Graves' June 16 invitation to hold the Phi Beta Kappa debate. The statewide live telecast was being arranged by the state's public television network. The PBK audience would consist chiefly of students, faculty, staff and invited guests. Dr. Jack Edwards, dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, would moderate.

In 1976, it was Presidential contender Eugene McCarthy who went to court to seek a spot in the series of Presidential debates, but he was unsuccessful. In 1977, it was Labor gubernatorial candidate Allan Ogden who was on the verge of going to court to try to win a seat on the Phi Beta Kappa auditorium stage. He never took the issue that far, however, for the gubernatorial debate was cancelled in late September.

Dalton announced, after a series of verbal assaults by Howell, that he had cancelled all remaining joint campaign appearances including the debate. His opponent, Dalton contended, had not addressed the issues but instead was using the joint encounters as opportunities for name-calling and personal invective.

President Graves encouraged Young Democrats and Young Republicans on the campus to invite their respective candidates to speak to the William and Mary community, on separate occasions, during the remaining weeks of the campaign.

Graves said the debate would have been a public and educational service to Virginia and expressed the hope that similar debaters could be arranged during future statewide and national elections. The College is looking toward 1980, the next Presidential election, in the hope that the major candidates will again appear at Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Induction Scheduled Dec. 3

Hall of Fame Opens Nominations

William and Mary's Athletic Hall of Fame will induct 1977 members on Dec. 3 at the halftime of the Radford William and Mary basketball game in William and Mary Hall.

Ben L. Carnevale, athletic director at William and Mary, has provided the following criteria for membership in the Hall of Fame:

1) It shall be open to persons who have made a significant contribution to the College through intercollegiate athletics, as a competitor, coach, or administrator.

2) Consideration will also be given to continued contributions to society through community activities, through performance in chosen fields of endeavor and through avocations, on such a level as to bring credit and distinction to the College.

3) In order that proper assessment may be made of the nominee, a time period of at least 10 years must have elapsed since graduation for a competitor and at least 15 years for a coach or administrator.

4) No more than 8 persons and no more than one team will be inducted annually.

Alumni who wish to make a nomination should fill out the ballot below and return it to: Athletic Hall of Fame Committee, Box 399, Williamsburg, Va. 23185, no later than Oct. 20, 1977.

Al Haak Dies

Albert E. Haak, 61, professor emeritus of theatre and speech at William and Mary, died Sept. 2 following a short illness.

Haak, who was technical director of the William and Mary Theatre and for 30 years technical director of the "Common Glory" outdoor drama, retired from the College in May but continued to be active in several projects. He was treasurer and technical director of the "Scotch Tom" Nelson Corp., a company that produces a theatrical presentation about Revolutionary hero Thomas Nelson Jr. for the National Park Service in Yorktown.

Mr. Haak was a graduate of Lawrence College and received his master's degree from William and Mary.

On Everything From Foreign Affairs to Fantasy

Visiting Professors Offer Fresh Ideas

A first-rate academic community never remains static but seeks to discover original ideas, as well as new twists to old themes, by importing visiting faculty from around the world.

The 1977-78 school year offers a particularly good variety of visiting scholars whose specialties range from foreign service to science fiction. Many of the scholars are supported by special endowments designed to bring the best and brightest minds to William and Mary.

Why would one of the most experienced United States ambassadors in the world, an individual who admittedly likes the pressures and excitement of crisis situations in turbulent foreign countries, select William and Mary for his first teaching post?

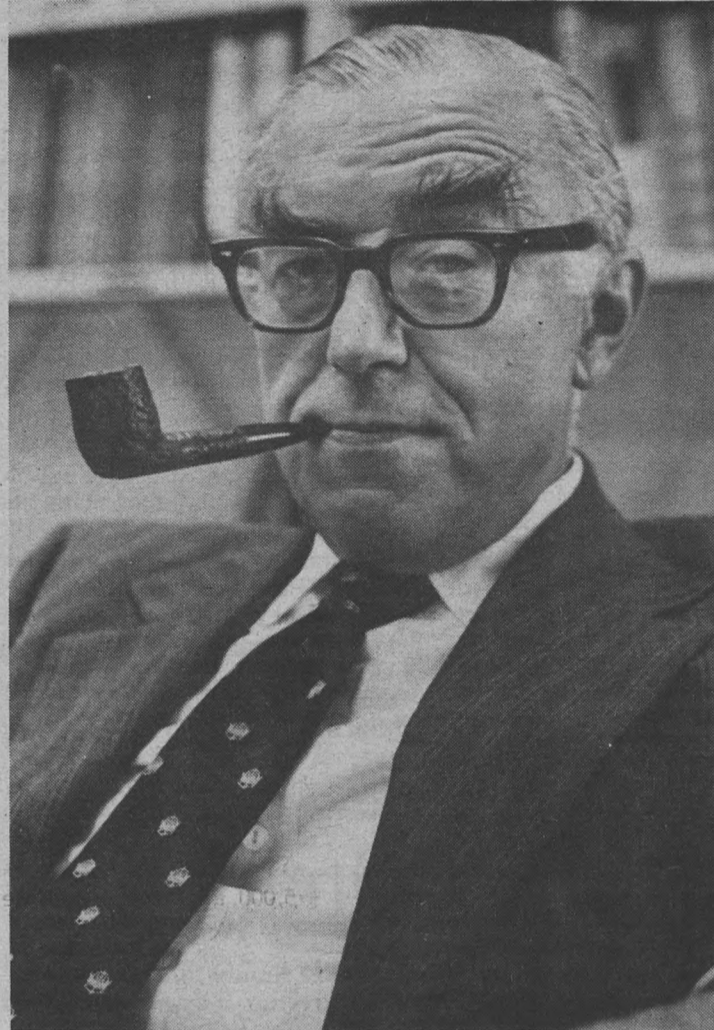

"I've always heard very good things about William and Mary," says William Leonhart, former ambassador to Yugoslavia and current vice president of the National Defense University at Fort McNair in Washington, D.C. "I thought I'd like to lecture somewhere in the South, and liked the idea of a small liberal arts university with high academic credentials."

No doubt Williamsburg is a change of pace for a veteran of 33 years in foreign service. Since he began his state department career in Buenos Aires as an economic analyst, Leonhart has held foreign posts in Italy, Japan, Tanganyika, Cambodia, Laos, Vietnam, Zanzibar and England.

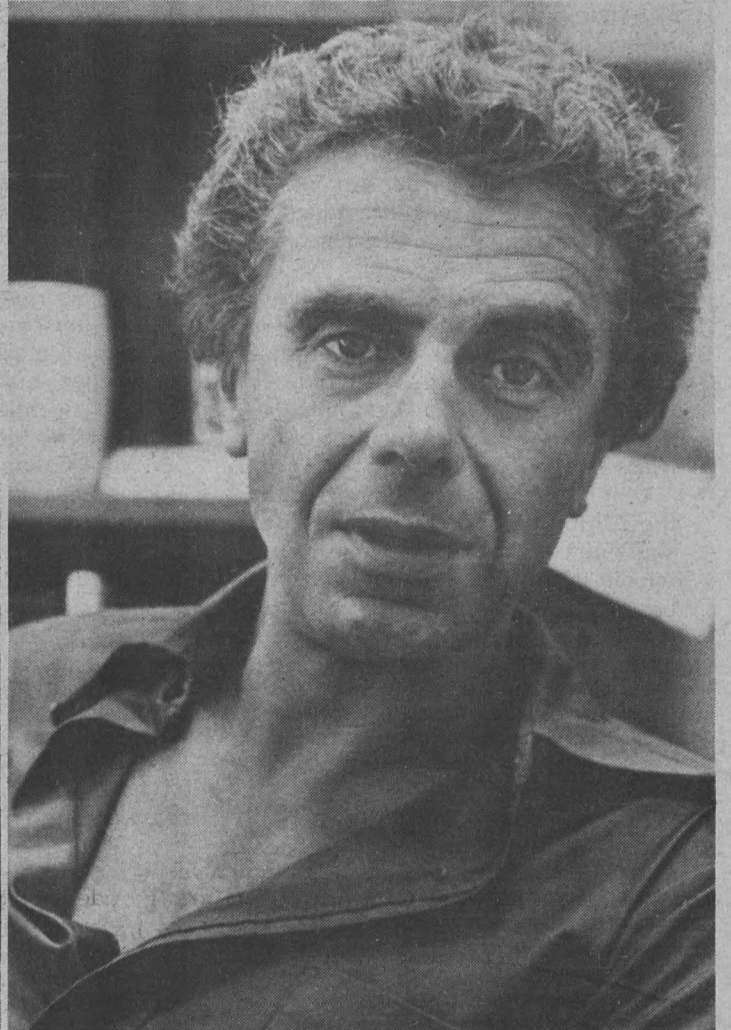

Leonhart is at William and Mary for the Diplomat-in-Residence program of the State Department's Foreign Service Institute. The program is designed to afford faculty and students an opportunity to learn from a practicing political scientist and to alert career diplomats to the changing moods and values on American campuses.

Leonhart will be a part of the government department faculty and will present lectures on international affairs and diplomacy throughout the Tidewater area. Like many of the visiting scholars, he's intent upon "getting to know the place and feeling at home in the college environment."

Lawrence C. Goodwyn, co-director of the Oral History Program at Duke University's Center for Southern

Leonhart

Van Alstyne

Studies, is this year's visiting James Pinckney Harrison Professor of History. His book "Democratic Promise: The Populist Movement in America" was nominated for a National Book Award in 1976. Goodwyn is teaching a graduate seminar in social history as well as an undergraduate course on the reconstruction, populist, and civil rights movements in the South. In addition, he will present three public lectures next spring focusing on "The General Crisis of the Democratic Faith."

Fantasy and science fiction writer Avram Davidson is the College's fourth writer-in-residence. A professional author since 1946, Davidson's work has been translated into twelve languages and appeared on five continents. He edited the Magazine of Fantasy and Science Fiction for three years and is the recipient of the Hugo Award, the Queen's Award and the Mystery Writers of America's coveted Edgar Award.

James J. F. Deetz, one of the country's most prominent historical archaeologists, will serve as Eminent Scholar in the anthropology department and give a series of four public lectures. Currently a professor at Brown University and assistant director of Plimoth Plantation, Deetz has gained a highly-respected reputation in his field for his innovative approaches in applying anthropological principles and for his interpretations of American Indian culture.

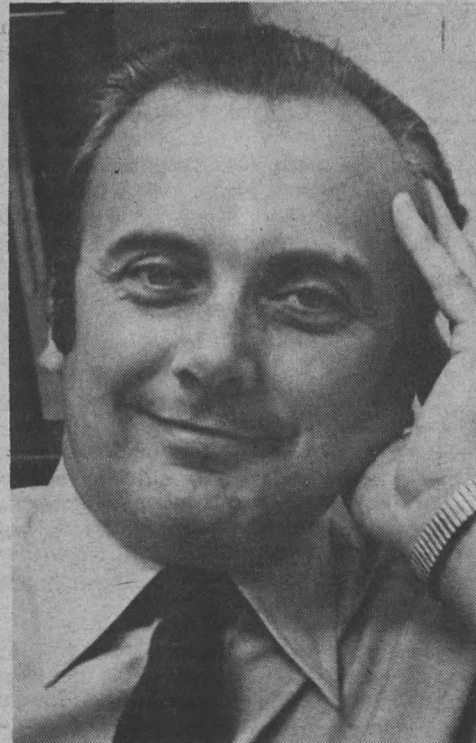

The Marshall-Wythe School of Law is host to three of the nation's leading experts on judicial administration.

Walter E. Hoffman, retired Chief Judge of the United States District Court for Eastern Virginia, and Delmar Karlen, New York University law professor, are serving as Tazewell Taylor visiting professors for 1977-78. Justice Paul C. Reardon, the first president of the board of directors for the National Center for State Courts, will serve as a guest lecturer next spring.

William W. Van Alstyne, Perkins Professor at Duke University School of Law, and John William Bridge, an expert on public international law at Exeter, are also visiting professors at the law school this year. Bridge has exchanged his teaching assignment, office, home and car with Walter L. Williams, Jr., a William and Mary law professor serving as a visiting lecturer at Exeter.

Students, Alumni, Administration Support Bonds

Bar Association staged a festive "TGIF" party on the already-landscaped site of the new law building, to dramatize the need for the building.

The State Virginians for Bonds Committee includes Dr. Jack D. Edwards, dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences. Dean William B. Spong of the Law School is chairman of the State Committee's speakers program, which is also being assisted by the Alumni Office. Second Year Law Student Ken Geroe, an Old Dominion University alumnus, is a founder and co-chairman of the statewide Students for Bonds committee.

The following is reprinted from the fact-card sent to all Virginia alumni and widely distributed by the Society through other channels:

On November 8, Virginia voters are being asked to approve borrowing $125,000,000 through State bonds to finance catch-up projects in higher education, mental health, corrections, ports, and parks and recreation. About 70% is earmarked for colleges and universities to cope with the requirements of existing enrollments.

Bonds will get these projects completed much faster, and at less cost to the taxpayers, than if they are financed through general taxes. The issue is not whether the projects should or should not be started; the question is how to finance them. All of the projects have been previously approved by the General Assembly, as far back as 1970; but construction funds have been unavailable.

Bonds will help forestall a tax increase. Undertaking these projects by relying on tax revenues, rather than by borrowing, would obviously require tax hikes. Borrowing, through bonds, will cost taxpayers less than 1/2¢ per tax dollar per year -- a tiny sum.

Bonds are good business. The rate of inflation in the construction industry is twice the rate of interest to be charged on bonds, due to Virginia's faultless credit rating. Delaying the projects even a few months will raise their cost.

In layman's terms, the bonds are the same as a home-improvement loan. They equal for Virginia government a $1,250 home-improvement loan for a family which has no mortgage, which earns $15,000 a year, and whose only debt is $406 left to pay on an automobile. It makes sense for that family to borrow money to fix up the home, when repairs are urgently needed, and when repayment of the loan is within its budget.

On the average, Virginia's state colleges and universities have 23% less space per fulltime student than the national average, and 14% less space than State guidelines require. That is based on present enrollment -- and yet 53,000 more students are expected to be enrolled in Virginia colleges and universities by 1987 than now. Almost all of them will be Virginians.

There are 1,200 habitual criminals in community jails, and more to come, who should be in the State prisons but space is unavailable. They are mixed with youthful offenders and others for whom rehabilitation is still possible. Mental health facilities are, in some cases, ancient and require replacement; training for retarded citizens can be accomplished more productively outside mental hospitals. Thousands each year are being turned away from State Parks, and 10 State-owned sites have not been developed for use, depriving community businesses of at least $500,000 in revenue a year. Virtually all of Virginia relies somehow on the ports for exports and imports: yet competing ports may draw business away from the Commonwealth without long overdue improvements in Norfolk, Portsmouth and Newport News.

VOTE "YES" FIVE TIMES TO ADOPT THE BONDS

Letter from the President

To all Virginia Alumni and Parents:

I am taking the unusual step of writing an "open letter" to you about the November 8th Bond Referendum because its full endorsement by the voters is crucial to the future of the College and to higher education in Virginia.

Alumni residing in the Commonwealth have already received a letter from Mrs. Jean C. Bruce of Norfolk, President of the Society of the Alumni, urging them to support the effort to win passage of the Referendum. The Society's Board of Directors and many of the Alumni Chapters in Virginia have endorsed the Referendum and are at work on measures to insure full voter awareness of the issue involved in it.

Parents should be aware that the Student Association and the Student Bar Association on campus are sponsoring a major effort among students to encourage them to cast votes in favor of the Referendum. The act of voting, for most students, involving using absentee ballots sent to their home jurisdictions, and the student governments are working to insure that all eligible students are given such ballots in time for the deadline. It is likely that Virginia parents will be hearing directly from their sons and daughters, urging support for the Referendum, before the end of October.

We believe, with Governor Godwin and the General Assembly, that borrowing through the sale of bonds is the most economical and painless way for Virginia to finance the long list of catch-up projects in higher education, mental health, corrections, ports and parks and recreation. Though in this letter I am reporting on William and Mary's stake in the Bond Referendum, there is no doubt in our minds that all five parts of the package must be approved, as they are essential to all Virginians. The communications to alumni, students and parents (and the "fact card" published by the Society of the Alumni) make the same point.

As regards the new building for the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, one of the projects in the Referendum package, we have explored virtually every alternative to providing adequate facilities for our law students. No other suitable space on the campus exists as an alternative to the new building. Despite numerous proposals made to possible sources of private gifts for the new building, we have found no such source capable or willing to finance this desperately needed project. We are gratified that the General Assembly in 1976 appropriated enough funds to prepare the site of the law school for construction of this building, and then included full funding in the Bond package.

Once this building is complete, then the space in four campus buildings now used by the law students can be converted to other uses. Some of it will be returned to use as residence hall facilities. Some will be used to relieve fragmentation in the location of faculty and classrooms in English. It will be possible for the College to plan for adequate space for the School of Business Administration and the School of Education, both of which are increasingly popular among prospective students. We can also devote priority attention to a renovation project to create, for the first time in recent history, a central warehouse, shop and physical plant facility to replace the unsightly, inefficient, and rapidly deteriorating Quonset huts and sheds which have been used for these purposes for 20 years or more.

In sum, enactment of the Bond Referendum has far-reaching implications for the William and Mary environment, which we all agree needs to be very special indeed. Passage of the Bonds will also affect positively the attitudes of your elected representatives toward the areas covered in the package, and the entire Commonwealth will benefit in the short and long run.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I am a 1961 graduate of the College and generally look forward to thoroughly enjoying the Alumni Gazette. However, the recent September issue contained several oversights or omissions which I feel compelled to comment on.

First, while Miss Bartlett's selection as Miss Virginia is significant, I believe the accomplishments of Ms. Showalter, MacKimm, Layne, Ferenbaugh. . . and even Morse are much more aligned with the purpose and direction of William and Mary. Relegating them pages 4-6 versus a cover feature for Ms. Bartlett seems at best ironic!

To dispell any thoughts that I am an ERA proponent or feminist fanatic, my next comment is directed toward your omission of any article concerning the 1977 W&M Football team. I found this even more incredulous as I read the Gazette on the eve of our game with last year's NCAA National Champion (Pittsburgh, ugh!). Also, your report of the upcoming '77-'78 basketball campaign made no reference to the sad fact that George Balanis no longer is at the helm. I hope his apparent untimely departure does not indicate a change in the healthy and ambitious program he led over the last two and one-half years. W&M's loss is someone's gain!

In light of the above stories, I must sigh at the voluminous accounts of the female athletes' accomplishments. This is written at severe risk of personal harm since my wife (1963 graduate Sue Meara) was a member of the Field Hockey Team and I Co-Captained the 1961 Men's Baseball Team, which was possibly the most unproductive in W&M history!

In closing, I am sure we agree the College affords unlimited opportunities to report of successes by both our undergraduates and alumni. Perhaps a more balanced report of such would be more appropriate.

Dear Editor:

The score of last week's football game against Pitt as reported in the Chicago Tribune (Pittsburgh 28, William 7/8 Mary 6) prompts the observation that the College has carried its concern over women's rights to excess. Can the sexes not play (football) together equally? Would not the College win more games if both male and female scores were totalled against the common enemy?

A scene from the Endowment Association Board of Trustee meeting last month.

President James Blair Set the Pace

Endowment Funds Play Vital Role

When James Blair went to England some 300 years ago to seek an endowment from the monarch to establish a college in Virginia, he probably had no idea of the long-term effect of his solicitation.

Blair, who in effect became William and Mary's first fund-raiser, contacted several influential persons he knew for assistance in obtaining gifts for endowment. The net result, some time later after his friends were successful in gaining the ear of the monarch, was King William's concurrence with the idea of a college in Virginia.

"The endowment was fixed," according to the Executive Journals of the Council of the Colony of Virginia, and the patent passed for an institution of higher learning called "the William and Mary College."

From that auspicious beginning, private funds -- and endowment -- have played an important role in the history of the College. And the role is no less important today when the College's approximately $11,000,000 endowment is under the guidance of two organizations -- the private Endowment Association of the College of William and Mary, Inc., and the Board of Visitors.

In many instances, the endowment of the College has faced a rocky road to survival. Much of the early endowment disappeared when the Colonies declared independence from the Crown in 1776, and William and Mary lost the benefit of its support. What little was left went into Confederate bonds during the Civil War, and after the war the bonds bought about as much as Confederate currency does today.

A state grant in 1888 -- and state affiliation in 1906 -- saved William and Mary from extinction, but future presidents still believed that private support was essential to the financial health of the College.

Dr. J.A.C. Chandler, president from 1919 to 1934, worked closely with the Alumni Endowment Association during his presidency to increase private support of the College. In 1921, he encouraged the Association to raise $150,000 for the College Endowment Fund, noting that a friend had agreed to match that amount. At the same meeting the Association endorsed Dr. Chandler's plan to raise a total of $1,440,000 for the Endowment Fund.

Dr. Chandler's successor, Dr. John Stewart Bryan, was responsible for establishing the present Endowment Association of the College of William and Mary, Inc. In 1939, he chartered the Association with a $40,000 grant given to him for the Chancellor's Fund and with some other private money in order to assure that the private money was not pre-empted by the State of Virginia. Vernon Nunn, treasurer of the College under Dr. Bryan and several other presidents, remembers that there was a move afoot in the General Assembly to force state institutions to deposit private gifts to the General Fund of Virginia, which would then reappropriate them as the General Assembly saw fit. Since the Endowment Association was chartered as a private corporation, it would not be subject to state control.

Total Endowment Association funds more than doubled in the 1960s -- from $1,181,307 to $3,149,569. In addition, endowment controlled by the Board of Visitors went from $1.6 million to nearly $2.5 million.

Since 1970, the assets of the Endowment Association corpus have again doubled -- to $6,919,337, much of the growth coming during the administration of President Graves who has reorganized and re-emphasized the development program. The total endowment of William and Mary -- held under the Board of Visitors as well as the Endowment Association -- is approximately $11,118,000. The Board of Visitors controls separately from the Endowment Association approximately $4 million of the $11 million.

On the basis of a new investment policy, adopted by the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Association during its September meeting, the Association intends to assure that the endowment will continue to grow.

The Board decided that reduction in the percentage of short-term income for the benefit of long-term growth will be the basis for investment policies, at least the next three years.

The Board's investment policy says that "long-term investment results are more important than high immediate cash income or near-term market price changes."

What this means is that the percentage of return on the corpus of the Endowment Association investments will be reduced from the current 5-5½ per cent annually to 4 per cent over the next three years. This will give portfolio managers for the Association more flexibility to pursue investments that will increase the corpus of the endowment over the long-term.

While the percentage of return on the endowment will be reduced, it does not necessarily mean that actual income from endowment for current operations of the College will decrease. The Association is counting on the Campaign for the College -- the 3-year, $19 million capital fund-raising program now underway -- to increase the corpus enough to offset the lower income percentage.

In addition, the College will lay out a three-year budget program for investment income from endowment that will enable the Endowment Association and its portfolio managers to be responsive to private funding of the College's educational needs.

Past investment policy of the Endowment Association has been based on a high annual return from investments. This necessitated portfolio managers to place a large percentage of the corpus in fixed yield investments -- bonds for instance -- which, while they provided income for the College, did not add significantly to the growth of the corpus. With the high annual rate of inflation, the Association became concerned that minimal growth of the corpus would result in a reduction of "real" income -- buying power now compared to several years from now -- for the College.

In order to meet these objectives, all capital, other than that needed to support current operating needs, will be invested to 1) preserve principal in terms of purchasing power 2) achieve long-term capital appreciation and 3) earn a reasonable and growing income.

To help achieve its objectives, the Endowment Association has hired an additional investment firm -- David L. Babson and Co. of Boston -- to handle half of its portfolio. Capitoline Investment Services, Inc., of Richmond will continue as investment managers to the Association, handling the other half.

Assets of the Endowment Association now total $6,919,337, an increase of nearly $900,000 over 1976. The Endowment Association has used its income for scholarships, fellowships, books, eminent scholars, and endowed professorships. In addition, some expenses for the operation of the Campaign for the College and other development activities have been paid by the Association as an investment in raising additional private funds for the College.

The Association's charter -- revised in 1968 -- notes that the Association was formed "to aid, strengthen and expand in every proper and useful way the work, usefulness and objectives of the College of William and Mary in Virginia, and to develop, strengthen and utilize the ties of interest, sympathy and affection existing between the College... and its Alumni and friends throughout the Country."

Authorized membership on the Board of Trustees is 35, recently expanded from 25, although only 30 positions are currently filled. (See related story.) The membership consists of some of the nation's more distinguished citizens and includes non-alumni as well as alumni. The President of the College serves as president of the Endowment Association.

Acuff, Daly, McCormack, Schaubach, Walker, Wilson

Six Members Join Endowment Board

Six new members, including five alumni of the College, have been named to 3-year terms on the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Association.

They are A. Marshall Acuff Jr. '62 of Riverside, Conn.; Thomas F. Daly '25, Rumson, N.J.; Mark H. McCormack '51, Cleveland, Ohio; G. Elliott Schaubach Jr., '59 Norfolk; Robert C. Walker of Williamsburg; and Hillsman V. Wilson '51 of Lutherville-Timonium.

The Board of Trustees now consists of 30 members. Six others serve as trustees emeriti and six others are life trustees of the Board.

Acuff is first vice president of Smith Barney, Harris Upham & Company of New York. He is responsible for the firm's portfolio strategy counseling and serves on Smith Barney's investment policy committee. Acuff received an A.B. in economics from William and Mary and an MBA from the University of Michigan in 1966.

Daly is a retired partner of the New York law firm of Lord, Day and Lord. In addition to William and Mary, he attended the University of Nancy in France and the Columbia University Law School, from which he received his law degree in 1927. He is a member of the National Development Council for the Campaign for the College.

McCormack, described by Time Magazine as a "promotional genius" and by Sports Illustrated as the "most powerful man in sports," is president of the multi-million dollar International Management Group, Inc., a complex of companies specializing in athlete management and sports promotion with offices around the world. A graduate of William and Mary and Yale Law School, McCormack's client list includes hundreds of athletes and celebrities, as well as teams, associations, corporations, and television networks.

Schaubach, an all-state and all-Southern Conference football player while at William and Mary, served for several years as president of the Athletic Educational Foundation. Through his leadership, the AEF has dramatically increased its level of fund-raising since 1974 when the College announced a new athletic policy. This year the Foundation is expected to raise $300,000. Owner of the Feather-N-Fin Chicken and Seafood fast-food operation in Norfolk, Schaubach was named Man-of-the-Year by the AEF in 1976 in recognition of his contributions. He is also a member of the William and Mary Hall of Fame.

Walker, a graduate of Washington and Lee University and the Graduate School of Banking at Rutgers, is chairman of the Board and president of the United Virginia Bank in Williamsburg. He is a member of the City Council and Vice Mayor of Williamsburg, a member of the Board of Directors of the Williamsburg-James City County Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the board of the Williamsburg Community Hospital. Walker is a member of the President's Council of the College.

Wilson is executive vice president and a member of the board of directors of the McCormick Co. of Baltimore, Md. A member of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni from 1973 to 1976, he attended the Marshall-Wythe School of Law after graduating from the College, receiving his law degree in 1953. Wilson has served as vice president of finance, general counsel, and secretary of the McCormick Co., and is an officer and director of numerous domestic and foreign subsidiaries of the company.

Walker

Other trustees of Endowment Association are:

Changes in Development Staff

McGoldrick Ready To Seek Special Gifts

William P. McGoldrick, director for College Relations and Development at the State University of New York at Oswego, joined the staff of the Office of College Development at the College on Oct. 1 as Director of Special Gifts.

This new position was recommended by the College's campaign consultants, Brakeley, John Price Jones, and has been approved by the Board of Visitors in the 1977-78 campaign budget.

McGoldrick's appointment is one of several staff changes in the Development office.

Michael Schoenenberger, presently Director for Special Gifts, will have his title changed to Director for Trust and Estate Planning to more clearly reflect the responsibilities assigned to his office. Schoenenberger will continue to serve as counselor to the Endowment Association.

Len Meyer, Director for Annual Giving, resigned effective Sept. 5 to accept the position of Vice President for Development and College Relations at Eckerd College, St. Petersburg, Fla. Meyer joined the College staff in 1973, coming to Williamsburg from St. Louis, where he had been Director of the Friends Division of the Office of Development at Washington University.

Jess Cloud, who had been serving as Coordinator for Communications since June 1976 to provide supplemental public relations and writing support during the Campaign, will serve as Acting Director for Annual Giving until a permanent appointment is made. Cloud held the position of Director for Development and Public Relations at Hampshire College before joining William and Mary.

Campaign Tops $7 Million Mark

Contributions and commitments to the Campaign to the College have gone over the $7 million mark, as of August 31.

The total given to the Campaign is $7,386,121.65, or 39 per cent of the $19 million goal.

Expendable gifts	$1,063,628.65
Capital Gifts	2,955,893.00
Testamentary gifts	3,366,600.00
Total	$7,386,121.65

Dali Etchings On Display At Library's Zollinger Museum

A portfolio of original etchings by contemporary Spanish artist Salvador Dali, on loan from Richard W. Radebach Jr. '74 of Reston, Va., are on exhibit through October 29 at the Zollinger Museum of Earl Greg Swem Library at William and Mary.

The 12 works form an "extravagant Surrealist fresco," writes art historian Andre Parinaud in his introduction to the collection.

In biographical sketches accompanying the etchings, Parinaud describes Dali as "a paradox of lucidity and folly. In him, eccentricity vies with the keenest intelligence; his destructive will releases formidable creative powers, and his clownish freaks are but the masks of a remarkable consistency." Dali, he writes, "is Surrealism itself."

The College That's Definitely a University

W&M Celebrates Special Anniversary

William and Mary this year marks the Tenth Anniversary of one of its least-known occurrences.

In 1967, the Board of Visitors and the State Council of Higher Education declared that the College was, in fact, a university in its scope. No longer, both bodies agreed, was William and Mary to be regarded as a college although its historic name would not be changed.

Perhaps because its name--the College of William and Mary in Virginia, as contained in the Royal Charter of 1693--has never changed, the general public tends not to remember that the College is, indeed, a university. Nearly 28% of the students are in graduate work, however.

Not only is William and Mary not spelled with a "U", it has not followed the pattern of enrollment growth that typifies most state universities. Nor has it started a variety of new academic programs at the graduate level.

Yet, according to the State Council of Higher Education, William and Mary now contains a larger proportion of graduate students, as compared to undergraduate, than any public university in Virginia except the University of Virginia.

That places William and Mary's "university status" ahead of Old Dominion University, Virginia Commonwealth University, Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, and James Madison University, according to last year's SCHEV analysis.

(James Madison University was, until July, 1977, Madison College. The Virginia General Assembly authorized the name-change.)

The William and Mary enrollment last year was 4,339 undergraduates and 1,602 graduate students, or a ratio of 72% to 28%.

Additionally, William and Mary is regarded nationally, for comparative purposes, as one of four fully comprehensive universities in Virginia--institutions which have established a record of graduate degree productivity sufficient to place them in the highest university category. The others in Virginia are UVa, VPI and VCU.

When the College's status was changed in 1967, the action reflected the emergence in 1961 of the School of Marine Science, and in 1966, the School of Education. Doctoral programs in marine science and physics had been inaugurated in 1964, in education in 1966, and master's programs in variety of fields had been started. The Marshall-Wythe School of Law was beginning to grow in both enrollment and professional stature. The Virginia Associated Research Center in Newport News became William and Mary's Research Campus.

In 1960, the College awarded 64 graduate degrees. In 1967 it conferred 234. In 1977, it awarded 316, compared to 906 undergraduate degrees.

Subsequently, the School of Business Administration was formed in 1968 and doctoral degrees programs were added in the School of Education in 1969, adding to the College's stature as a university.

No particular events have been scheduled during 1977 to observe the Tenth Anniversary, and there is no thought being given to changing the College's historic name or decreasing its traditional emphasis on the undergraduate programs.

As the State Council's 1967 statement, published the following January, projected: "The Council does not expect William and Mary to become a comprehensive university. . . the College can retain its distinctive characteristics as a residential institution with high standards and at the same time expand its educational services for the rapidly growing Peninsula area. . ."

The growth of services and quality has continued. The Office of Special Programs, established in 1972, offers a variety of non-credit courses for a large number of Peninsula residents. The law school has begun a limited number of evening courses which are designed partly to attract practicing lawyers, to help them keep up with tax law. The School of Education is embarking on a new program designed to reach individuals in eastern Virginia who--though not intending to become teachers--wish specialized degree opportunities in public service areas. The School of Business Administration earned professional accreditation for both undergraduate and master's programs in record time, one of the relatively few enjoying dual accreditation.

University status is not new to William and Mary, as any historian knows. In 1779, when the Board reorganized the curriculum at the urging of Thomas Jefferson, William and Mary became the first real university in America. Subsequent events, partly attributed to the Revolutionary War and partly due to Jefferson's own decision to found a separate state university for Virginia, undid the "university" scope at the College.

But, it can be said as a result, that William and Mary is Virginia's oldest university. But, emphatically, it is the College, and not the University.

The William and Mary Trivet

The Royal monogram of King William and Queen Mary is the design for this handsome brass trivet made by the Virginia Metalcrafters under the supervision of the Williamsburg Restoration.

Designed to protect woodwork from damage caused by hot dishes, potted plants, or flower vases, it also has many varied decorative uses. It makes a handsome and appropriate addition to the table of any William and Mary alumnus.

Made of solid brass, the W&M trivet measures 7 3/4" x 6" and sells for $16.50.

Choir To Take "Most Extensive Trip Ever"

The College choir is going to Europe in '78.

With concerts scheduled in Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris and Westminster Abbey in London and stops in Switzerland, The Netherlands and Germany, the trip will be the most extensive ever undertaken by a William and Mary choir.

The trip will be a "pay if you go" jaunt for choir members. All expenses will be covered either by donations or by the students themselves since there are no funds in the university's budget for the trip.

Frank Lendrim, choir director and chairman of the music department who is planning the concert schedule and travel itinerary, says preliminary planning has indicated the cost of the trip, per student, will be about $1,000.

To help defray the cost of the trip members of the choir have designed notecards and Christmas cards which they will sell. (See adjacent ad). Money earned will be used to cut the overall cost of the trip and lower the amount each student must pay.

Out of logistic necessity, a maximum of 46 students--one bus load--will go. In the group will be the Botetourt Chamber Singers, who will be featured in tour performances.

The singers will leave shortly after commencement May 16 and return on or around June 8, spending 11 days in Europe and 12 to 13 days in England. They will fly from Dulles to Paris and return home via London.

Although this is the first time a William and Mary choir was traveled abroad, this is the third European choir tour for Lendrim, who directed two successful trips for the Kenyon College choir before coming to William and Mary. He was chairman of the music department there from 1971 until 1974, when he moved to Williamsburg.

After a travel break in Paris, the choir will give its first concert in Paris; its second in Geneva, Switzerland, in Emmanuel Church; and the third concert of the trip is scheduled in Frankfurt, Germany, at Christ and King Anglican Church. Following this concert the singers will take a respite, go for a Rhine River cruise, and spend an evening in Cologne before traveling to The Netherlands for a concert in The Hague.

On May 28 the choir will sing in Westminster Abbey in London and on May 30 will give another concert in London in the Church of St. Martin's in the Fields.

The full concert schedule is not yet complete, but will be announced later. Lendrim is arranging the 23-24 day trip so students will have an opportunity for some relaxation and sight-seeing between performances.

There is currently a brisk exchange of trans-Atlantic correspondence going on, lining up programs and lodgings for the tour. In an effort to stretch the trip's potential as an educational and cultural tour for a group of William and Mary ambassadors the schedule is being planned to include a good mix of work and play that will make the trip a rich experience in European travel.

The choir will sing in a variety of different types of locations from large cathedrals to small churches, schools and community halls. Singers are preparing two concert programs, one of sacred music and one which is more secular in nature.

Plans are for students to stay in private homes where possible. This plan will be less expensive than acquiring hotel accommodations and will also provide students with more intimate contact with the people of the various countries than would be possible under a commercially packaged tour.

Choir director Lendrim would like to see the overseas tour be developed into a regular program that would be repeated often enough to give each student generation an opportunity to participate.

The choir will soon be in rehearsal for its traditional Christmas Concerts, Dec. 2, 3, 4. The program will include selections from the choir's tour repertoire and will give the singers, through their public performances, an opportunity to engender support for their fund raising projects.

Albert Admits "There's a Long Way to Go"

W&M Soccer Team Seeks National Crown

"There isn't anyone who can't play soccer," says William and Mary coach Al Albert, explaining the dramatic rise in interest in soccer across the nation. And no one knows better than Albert—not only does he coach the William and Mary team, but he also helps direct the youth soccer program in the Williamsburg area.

Albert became head soccer coach in 1971 after having been a member of the William and Mary team as a student. He brought the team from a 6-7 won-loss record his first year to a 10-4 record. It has been an uphill climb.

"The turnabout has come in the last three years," said Albert. William and Mary secured links with two outstanding programs, the Annandale Boys Club and St. Andrews in Toronto, which helped to bring the team to national rank. Now Albert's recruiting program is top-notch, and concentrates on securing the best soccer players in the state.

Establishing the recruiting program hasn't been easy for Albert. "We've really come from nowhere," he said. Few funds are available for soccer scholarships through the athletic department. To compensate, the team has organized special projects to earn money for the program. Among these is the recent Kiwanis Tourney, hoped to become an annual event.

The tourney, held at Cary Field September 17 and 18, included such challengers as Georgetown, Old Dominion University and University of Virginia. William and Mary won the tournament by beating Georgetown and UVa, continuing its so far undefeated season record of 4 and 0. The tournament victory was no easy win for the Indians. Old Dominion and UVa are two of the toughest competitors in the state.

But the goal this year of team members is a national championship. "We have a long way to go," said Albert, "but we've got a chance. I have half a dozen players who could start for any team in the nation." Albert cited Bill Watson, Graham Sykes and Eduardo Lopez as some of the strongest members of the team. Watson was named all-American two years ago.

Key games that could help win a NCAA playoff berth include a September 24 match at Navy, a Homecoming (Oct. 28) game against East Carolina, and perhaps most important, the November 5 confrontation with former national champion Howard (at Cary Field).

One big blow to this year's team is a knee injury to Kip Germain, which has put him out of action for the entire season. Germain, a winger for the team, was featured on the cover of the 1977 NCAA Guide for Soccer.

"We're an eleven-man team," said Germain. "I may be out for the season, but there's plenty of good players on the team. We can still win."

"We're a young team," he explained. "We start a lot of freshmen. But we've got a lot of talent and I think we can make the nationals."

Germain credits Albert with much of the team's success.

"He's very knowledgeable about the game," Germain said, "and he's always striving to learn more."

Germain also helps Albert as a referee with his youth soccer program. William and Mary professors Vinson Sutlive, Len Schifrin, Emeric Fischer and Kenneth Bick are among others who direct the program along with Albert.

Albert estimates that within five years the soccer program will be bigger than any other sports program in Williamsburg.

Last year the soccer program hit an all-time high of 400 participants and expects even more this year. He said it will reach at least 600-800 participants within the next few years.

"You can't start a five-year-old in basketball, baseball or football," said Albert. "But you can start him in soccer. All they have to do is play once and they're hooked. I have parents calling me constantly wanting to know how old their youngster has to be before he can join the team program."

Albert's style of coaching makes it more fun for the youngsters to play. He employs two major programs in youth league soccer. One is the house-program, which is a low key, intramural type approach. Standings are recorded, but individual scorers are not. All participants play at least half of the game. The kids have fun, and there's little pressure on winning.

The select program takes the best players from all age groups, and they compete with other teams throughout

Virginia and other states. The players in the select program have a longer season than those in the house-program. These are the players that usually end up playing high school and college ball, Albert said.

No matter how Albert tries to rid the games of pressure to win, there are always parents to deal with. On more than one occasion Albert or one of his colleagues has had to deal with a parent who wants his child to win too much. Usually a tactful word or two will suffice, but time out has sometimes been necessitated because of irate parents.

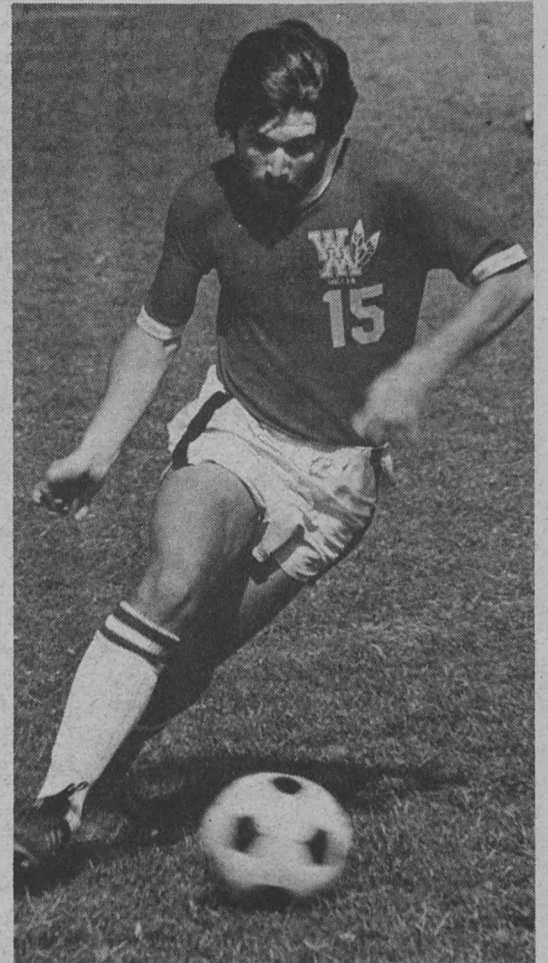

What is it that makes this game of soccer so exciting?

According to Germain, it's the ball. "No matter how good your team is—or how good of a player you are, you just don't know how that ball is going to bounce. It keeps you on your toes—always thinking and trying to outguess the ball."

"When I'm on the field, the time goes incredibly fast. When half-time comes I feel like I've only just gotten onto the field."

"You have to be cocky on the field, know you're going to win; know you're going to score that goal. That's what keeps it exciting."

Alumni Meet At Steel City

Alumni from several major cities in the northeast, including Detroit, Philadelphia and Cleveland, celebrated before the William and Mary-Pittsburgh football game. They also sat together in the stands of the huge Pitt Stadium. Although outnumbered by Panther fans by about 100 to 1, Indian fans remained loyal--and sometimes quite vocal--until the final gun sounded.

Pictured at top left are William L. Person, Sr. '24, Williamsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Fran Recchuiti, '61, Villanova, Pa.; Mrs. Elaine Elias Kappel, '55, Pittsburgh; W. Brooks George, '32, Richmond; and Jack Stabile, '53, Pittsburgh. Just below are Scott Curzi, '69, Phillipsburg, N.J.; Fred Brown, '39, Swarthmore, Pa.; Jim Ukrop, '60, Richmond; Mrs. Bobbie Berkeley Ukrop, '61, one of the national tri-chairmen of the William and Mary Fund; and William L. Person, Jr. '56, Williamsburg.

Seated in the line-up below showing their Green and Gold cups are Mrs. Winnie Goodman Fratkin, '69, Williamsburg; Mrs. Milt Maddox, Richmond; Mrs. W. Brooks George, Richmond; and Mrs. Ted Filer. At bottom, Minta McNally, Director of Chapter Activities, presents certificate of service to outgoing Pittsburgh Chapter President Ash Woolridge, '64. Looking on are Mrs. Elaine Elias Kappel, '55, member of the Board of Directors of the Society and first president of the Chapter; and Mary Dunham Minnick, '58, incoming chapter president.

Amidst it all is Gordon Vliet, executive vice president of the Society of the Alumni, departing the airport bus with plans for a big weekend in Pittsburgh.

Losing to the National Champs ...With a Touch of Class

The nearly-full chartered plane carrying an assortment of William and Mary alumni, a few familiar sports writers and a couple of nervous organizers left Patrick Henry Airport at 5:08 p.m. Only seconds later--without warning--it started to happen.

A loud, enthusiastic "Go Big Green" echoed from one end of the fuselage to the other. Immediately, stewardesses began to distribute complimentary spirit-lifters, two mini-bottles at a time.

"Do you think we really have a chance?"

"Sure we do. Don't you remember back in . . ."

The William and Mary supporters were enthusiastic and confident that if nothing else, they were going to have a good time in Pittsburgh this weekend. After all, they were the die-hards, the fans who would follow the Big Green anywhere--even to the rain-drenched home of the ferocious Pittsburgh Panthers, last year's national champions in college football.

At the motel in Pittsburgh, the William and Mary fans seemed to be everywhere--dining by candlelight, dancing in the disco, moving from room to room, from party to party. The Athletic Educational Foundation and the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Society of the Alumni planned a reception on Friday night and a cocktail luncheon just before the game.

The players, of course, spent a much more quiet night. They turned in early after watching James Bond perform the impossible in his latest movie. With a little luck, some of 007's techniques might be utilized against the Pittsburgh defense and all-American Randy Holloway, a foe more fearsome than all of Bond's enemies combined.

In Pitt's 60,000 seat stadium, the William and Mary rooting section looked like a small pea from the Goodyear blimp that circled overhead. But from the sidelines, the William and Mary contention was loud, and at fleeting moments, actually ferocious.

Coach Jim Root couldn't hear the advice the stadium-chair quarterbacks were shouting, and the referees couldn't hear the complaints. There wasn't a great deal to cheer about during the first three quarters of action, although every William and Mary pass completion or gang tackle of one of Pitt's evasive running backs brought Big Green fans to their feet.

Fortunately, William and Mary supporters have learned to be patient. The Indians made it to the Pittsburgh 22, 20 and 10 yard line on three scoring attempts in the second half. The next time had to be the one.

Playing against second stringers most college coaches would give their right arm for, the Indians started a determined scoring march from their own 19 yard line with less than four minutes left in the game. With 43 seconds remaining, the Indians stood on the Pitt seven-yard line with a first down. Then the entire Pittsburgh squad headed for the sidelines and the Panthers' first string came back on the field. Their mission was to stop the Indians from scoring.

Seconds later, reserve quarterback Kevin Odor scampered around the left side of the line into the endzone. The Indians had robbed Pitt of the shut out it wanted to boost its national ranking after a season-opening loss to Notre Dame. William and Mary, a 33 1/2 point pre-game underdog, had closed the final gap to 28-6.

About an hour later, the William and Mary cheering section was again in the air, this time bound for Newport News. There were the usual "we should have done this and we should have done that. What about next Saturday--who's hurt, and how badly?"

The stewardesses were busier than ever passing out refreshments and packages of peanuts to take home for the kids. Then it happened, again without warning.

A loud, still enthusiastic "Go Big Green" came from the rear of the plane.

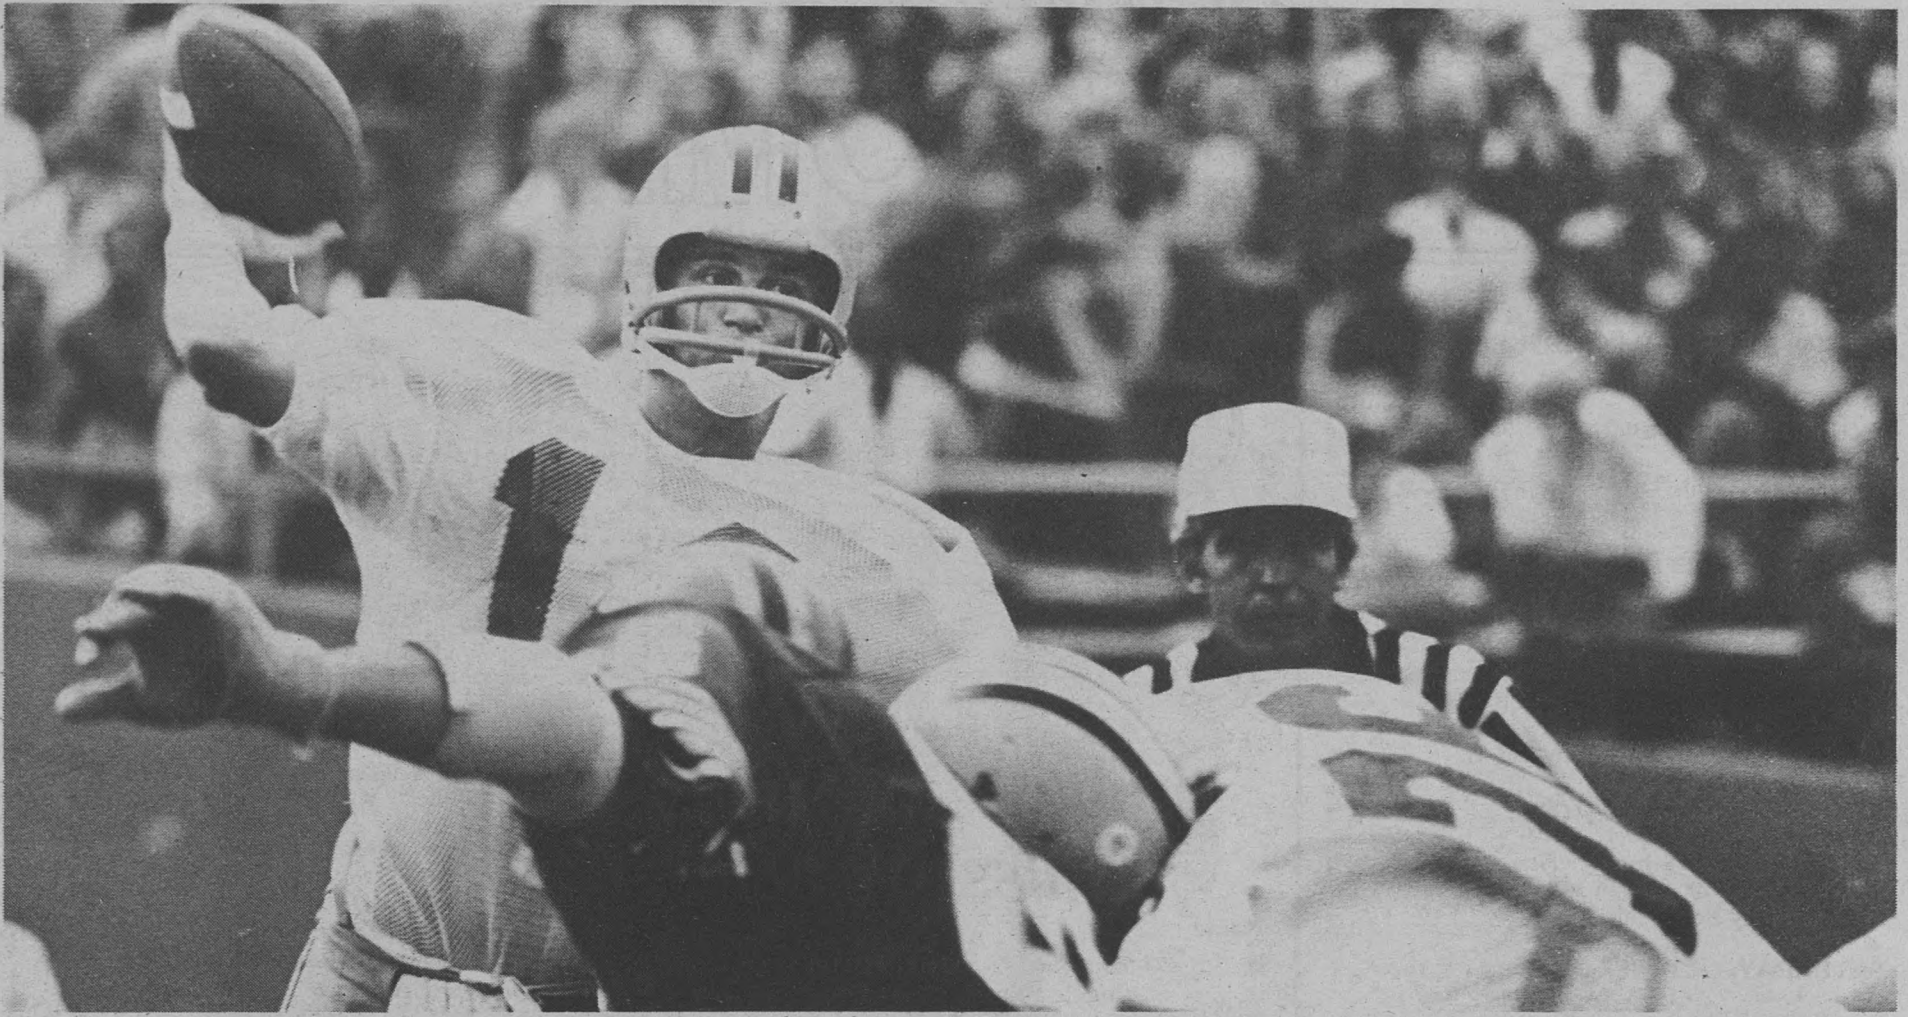

Someone suggested that the pilot change the flight plan. It might be easier to head southwest toward Louisville, the site of next Saturday's game.

At top, Coach Jim Root leads the Indians bursting through the cheerleaders' banner. At center, Root talks to the entire offense in an effort to stop the infiltration of Holloway and the tough Pittsburgh defense. Below, it looks as if a Pittsburgh player is in on an Indian huddle. Actually it's just on of Pitt's defensive lineman who's trying desperately to get to quarterback Tom Rozantz.

Grid Schedule "Lightens Up" As Homecoming Approaches

"You better believe he's back," said an enthusiastic Keith Fimian following the Indians' 21-7 upset victory over the University of Louisville.

It was good news for William and Mary fans and a warning to Tribe opponents. Tommy Rozantz, the side-steppin', quick-throwin' Indian quarterback, has more than recovered from his early season injuries. In fact, his performance against the highly-rated Louisville defense may have been the best of his career. Rozantz completed 13 passes for 185 yards, and collected 43 additional yards on the ground.

The Louisville game was an all-around bonanza for the Tribe. Fimian and Jimmy Kruis, as well as rookies Tommy Franco and Alvis Lang, gave the offense a dependable one-two punch on the ground. As for the defense, some claim it's never played better, despite the injuries of stalwarts Joe Agee and Scott Hays. Ends Rolfe Carawan and Melvin Martin notched 14 tackles while the secondary nabbed three interceptions.

The Indians looked even better when the scores of other games started to come in. The awesome Pittsburgh Panthers, who a week earlier defeated the Indians 28-6, had just blown Temple off the field, 76-0.

Indian fans will get a closer look at the revitalized Indians at the Tobacco Bowl in Richmond on October 8 and Homecoming against Rutgers on October 29. Jim Root's teams have always played their best against Virginia Tech and both sides still remember when the Indians upset the heavily-favored Gobblers when they last met at the Tobacco Bowl. A win against Tech in Richmond could be the psychological lift the Indians need to finish the season with six straight victories.

Remaining Schedule

Oct. 8	Va. Tech at Richmond
Oct. 22	Navy at Annapolis
Oct. 29	Rutgers--Homecoming
Nov. 5	Citadel at Charleston
Nov. 12	East Carolina at Norfolk
Nov. 19	Richmond at Cary Field

At top, quarterback Tom Rozantz tries to throw over a defense that's too big to run through. At center, injured defensive back Scott Hays shouts encouragement from the sidelines. Below, Indian fans try to inform the referee that his calls have been less than acceptable.

College Makes Adjustments for Handicapped

Workmen construct a special ramp for handicapped employees and students outside of James Blair Hall, while signs nearby reserve parking spaces for the handicapped.

Wheel chair ramps, curb cuts and parking spaces designated "reserved for handicapped" have begun appearing on campus as the College moves to make its educational programs and employment opportunities more accessible to handicapped persons.

At this point, said College Affirmative Action Officer Wesley Wilson, the College is concerned with making "reasonable accommodation" to handicapped students and employees. Wilson is the College's compliance officer, responsible for implementing on-campus regulations recently enacted under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. The new provisions protect the right of the handicapped to equal opportunity in federally assisted programs.

The ramps, alterations, and other measures being taken are the result of an informal survey conducted this spring by Wilson with the assistance of members of the Affirmative Action Advisory Committee. "We identified the buildings where the need for modifications was greatest," Wilson said, "and then compared those findings with those buildings which receive the greatest use."

James Blair Hall, which houses most of the College's administrative offices, was consequently given high priority for modifications.

As further needs for handicapped students and employees become apparent, the College will try to deal with them. "We have to look at each person and try to accommodate them individually," Wilson said. He has set up a task force of key College administrators to coordinate arrangements for handicapped persons on campus.

Flasks, Coolers Banned At Cary Stadium

For as long as anyone can remember, Virginia law has prohibited the consumption of alcoholic beverages in public.

For just as long, at least, football fans throughout the nation have, in many instances, carried refreshments with them into the stands. Pocket flasks, coolers, six-packs and the like have regularly made their appearance at Cary Field, too, even though the football tickets warn that it is illegal to consume their contents in public.

William and Mary moved this fall to bar such beverages from Cary Field.

The College's effort was part of a multi-pronged program designed to insure adherence to Virginia law, affecting not only Cary Field but William and Mary Hall and other public locations.

Women's Field Hockey Team Wins

William and Mary's women's field hockey team lived up to its advanced billing by defeating Ursinus College, 1-0, in an early season game. Ursinus finished second in the nation among women's field hockey teams last year.

JAMES G. DRIVER FINE VIRGINIA FOODS Society of the Alumni P.O. Box GO, Williamsburg, Va. 23185

For over thirty years Mr. James Glenn Driver, '09, maintained a selective mail order business for a discriminating clientele interested in some of the fine foods for which the Old Dominion is so justly famous.

Upon his death in the fall of 1975, Mr. Driver bequeathed his business "James G. Driver, Fine Virginia Foods", to the Society of the Alumni. The Society is pleased to now be able to extend to all alumni of the College of William and Mary the opportunity to enjoy these personally selected and recommended fine Virginia foods, prepared from time-tested traditional colonial recipes.

These include the genuine World-Famous Smithfield Ham, ready to carve and serve; Rockingham Smoked Turkey; Rappahanock Salt

Roe Herring; Smithfield bacon by the slab; and assorted Smithfield meat spreads.

In addition we bring to your attention other items of quality merchandise especially designed and sold for the loyal alumnus. These items are for use and enjoyment as well as serving as a constant reminder of a close association that includes some very special times, events and close friends.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

The first item under "Newsmakers" on page 2 of the August 1977 issue is about a new book, Fray Luis de Granada, by Professor John A. Moore.

Granada is described as "A Dominican monk," which is an impossibility. Members of the Order of Preachers, the Dominicans, are friars and not monks. They share the term "friars" with the Carmelites, the Franciscans, and the Augustinians. The last named order included among its early sixteenth century membership a better known religious writer called Martin Luther. For decades Luther has been called a monk in error. He, like Granada, was a friar.

Sincerely,

W. E. Chesson, '43
Newport News, Va.

his wife, the former Lavinia Pretz, '57, will be the scene of the fall re-organizational meeting of the Lynchburg Chapter. In anticipation of the upcoming Oyster Bowl game on November 12, which will have W&M going against East Carolina, the Phillips are planning an oyster roast. Details of the meeting and reservations forms will be sent to Lynchburg and Central Virginia alumni.

Dear Editor:

In reference to the article "She's in the Army Now" in the September 1977 Alumni Gazette, if you check the ROTC's records I believe you'll find a woman has been commissioned before. My roommate Laurel Virginia Roberts was commissioned in the spring of '68, our senior year. She is currently Capt. Laurel R. Manning, serving at Fort Monroe in Hampton, Virginia. Who knows how many other women have been commissioned and gone largely unnoticed? But its gratifying to know that the College has been open toward anyone, women or men, who want to enter any field or career, long before it became vogue to liberate women.

Sincerely,

Anne (Wilson) Andersen '68

Hello Classmates!

The Campbells, Red and Dot, would like to have all of you as their guests at luncheon in the Great Hall of the Wren Building on Homecoming Friday, October 28th. We believe this will be another great Homecoming and hope you have made plans and reservations for the Alumni Dinner and the Dinner Dance. If you plan to order tickets for the football game, be sure to tell them you want the Olde Guard section. We are looking forward to seeing a large group of '25ers and hope all of you and your spouses will be our guests for lunch on Friday. We will miss those of you who are unable to come. Please return the tearoff on our letter from the Alumni Office so we can make plans. Best wishes to you all, Red and Dot Campbell."

I feel that I express the sentiment of our Class when I say, "Thank you, Dot and Red, for your delightful invitation and we are looking forward with great anticipation to being present." They also wrote that they have visited their son, Stuart, in Plainfield, N.J., for three weeks in July and attended the annual Campbell Family Reunion there -- Thirty-three members were in attendance. Since they were so close to New York they went and saw the movie, "MacArthur" at Radio City Music Hall. Also went to Yankee Stadium on the Fourth of July and the fifth but missed the Mets' game due to the "blackout". After the Campbell Reunion they drove to Grand Island, N.Y. and spent two weeks there with their William and Mary daughter. They plan to leave Williamsburg immediately after Homecoming for a three-trailers' trip across Canada, down the West Coast to Palm Springs, Calif., for a month and then to Florida for the winter. What a terrific couple they are!

Your Planning Committee met in August at the Alumni House and discussed several items which were felt to be of importance, and one in particular of which each of you will receive a detailed communication regarding the possibility of establishing a "Class of '25 Memorial Endowment Fund," subject to the approval of the Class membership. The Committee asks that you give this good thought and come prepared to express your opinions. It is hoped that final action may occur during the 52nd Reunion Luncheon.

Liz and Vernon Nunn had planned a trip to Minnesota to attend a family reunion, but due to the heat and distance decided to cancel out, but they did have several weeks of house guests, so their summer was by no means a dull one. Vernon is working on the compilation of the Memorial Endowment Fund resolution. Thank you, Vernon, for the time, thought and effort you are giving this.

Art and Mary Winder traveled to the Orient last spring and in Art's words, "It was a wonderful experience." He continues -- "Everything was new, exciting and lots of fun. We enjoyed it all -- Bangkok, Java, Bali, Hong Kong, and Japan. We were lucky enough to arrive in Kyoto just as the cherry trees were coming into bloom. And we were lucky too, to have a chance to see Mt. Fuji on a clear day. What a glorious sight!"

Hi Willett writes that on March 17th he was named Acting President of Virginia Commonwealth University in Richmond, and adds, "That is about the only activity I have time for these days except for my regular Saturday morning game of tennis. Of course, Dot is still teaching at the University of Richmond." We are proud of you, Hi, and we recognize the heavy responsibilities which rest upon your shoulders -- but -- you and Dot steal off for two days and join us for Homecoming. We do have such fun -- we forget time and age -- and think only in terms of the day.

Congratulations are in order to Jim Somerville! He was one of a select group of lawyers in Virginia who have completed more than fifty years as members of the Virginia State Bar. On the eleventh day of June he was honored with a very nice certificate. At Homecoming we hope you will share your many interesting years with us. In his last letter Jim recalled a classroom experience at the College. It ran like this, "I was sitting in class one day next to a fine, polished native of China. I said, 'How did you happen to select William and Mary?' He replied, 'Chinese respect the ancient. My parents learned from a history book that Virginia was the oldest Colony and that William and Mary is the oldest College in Virginia.' Jim, I thoroughly enjoyed your reminiscing about Bob Astrop of Surry County, a William and Mary graduate who taught in the Newport News High School, and Jim Stevens, his co-teacher. Thanks, Pen Pal, for your many compliments and your very prompt reply to my card. It is always a joy to hear from you.

It is never too late for news from the Gravelys and I shall quote your activities with much pleasure, Bill. He writes that early in March he and Elizabeth drove to Florida, stopping one night in Savannah and four days in Palm Bay, then a week in Palm Beach with friends they had met in Italy during their visit in 1974. As they were leaving Florida, they spent several days at Vero Beach, St. Augustine and Brunswick, Ga. "Our main reason for staying in Brunswick was the opportunity it afforded us of paying a visit to Vernon and Liz Nunn at their yearly retreat on Jekyll Island." Their last stop was a two-day visit with Le Grand Tennis and his wife, Janet.

Bill and Elizabeth have a third grandchild - a little boy - who arrived soon after their return. Congratulations to you both! Their oldest son who is a member of the Class of '64 and his family were to arrive shortly for a visit and incidentally plan to attend Homecoming.

Dick Brunning writes, "No news worth sending" -- but he did mention this - his grandson was married on May 14th and to a very lovely young lady who is a Phi Beta Kappa. Yes, Dick, I know you are proud to call her "Granddaughter". It is always good to hear, so keep the lines open.

Muriel Valentine Yale, it is always refreshing to receive a letter from you -- somehow I feel as though we are chatting side by side! I know you enjoyed having Elizabeth Kent Lazo visit you last spring and equally of much pleasure in having Bill and Elizabeth Gravelly last year. Muriel says she would like to pass on a happy discovery, "You save money every time you don't go to Europe."

Elizabeth Walmsley reports that she and her sister spent three delightful weeks in Florida during some of the "Philadelphia weather". She adds that while in St. Petersburg, she talked with Ruth Wynn Lee who was on her way to pick up a new car. Little did you think that would be your last conversation with her, I'm sure. Elizabeth also wrote that upon her arrival home she received a "welcome telephone call" from Betty Robinson Cowne in Richmond. Betty also called me this spring and I did appreciate it so much. We had a delightful conversation - yet a bit sad - she had heard of Ruth's death.

Margaret Thomson Copland, how good to hear from you. I'm distressed to learn of your illness of last year and do hope you are much better ere this. You are living in a beautiful location, Hilton Head, S.C. Know you must enjoy your golf and growing roses. It's so nice that you and your husband both have the same interests. . . it surely makes for much more happiness. So the deer ate your roses last winter! That was quite an experience but I am glad it did not lessen your interest. Wish you and your husband would plan to come for Homecoming.

"Rus" Stuart, we are always glad that you take the time to let us know you received our request for news. Thanks for your "pretty" remarks! Stay well and try to make our 52nd reunion.

Swanson Smith writes that he and Jessie spent a few days in Williamsburg this summer and what a pleasant time. They spent one day at the Alumni House, and Jim Kelly drove them to see Kingsmill on the James. They especially enjoyed seeing it since Jessie had taught school one year on "King's Mill Farm". They spent a week with their daughter and family in Fairfax. He concluded, "Our best wishes to all the Class of 1925 -- and our good friends at William and Mary also. Hope we can make Homecoming this year also."

Eddie Islin writes that he and Elizabeth have had an interesting summer, but not exactly an exciting one. However, he had most exciting plans at the time of his writing. He and Charlie Pollard were going to attend the Theta Delta Chi Convention in Seattle and on their return to have a sightseeing trip as paying guests of the Canadian Pacific. He then added, "We've made overnight reservations at the Lodge for Friday night as we will be attending the Campbells' luncheon and the Alumni Dinner and Annual Meeting."

Mary Gilliam Hughes writes of attending reunions of high school classes which she sponsored through the years, and how interesting it was to see the excellent positions now held by many. She had plans to travel through the New England states and visit at Lake Geneva in Wisconsin, but due to a circulatory condition which she developed had to cancel out. We are sorry, Mary, but we are glad you are planning to come to Homecoming.

Mary Ayres Moncure tells us that her son, James R. V. Daniel, III is President of Richmond Plastics Corporation, and she has two grandchildren, J.R.V. Daniel, IV, and Derby Daniel. Mary and her sister own the house she was born in in Accomac, and she spends much of each summer there.

Well, Mathilda Whitehouse, you really did have some news for us. You have moved from Nahant to Hingham, Mass., to live with your sister who is a member of the Class of '28. The first night she was there a neighbor, Priscilla Nickerson Hoxie, '36, called on her and brought a most delicious fresh peach cake. Mathilda, you mentioned the fact of a William and Mary alumnus having an antique shop on Main Street. Do let us have his name, address and class year. We are always anxious to locate our alumni, you know. Mathilda was a trustee of the Nahant Library for twenty-six years, and in this short time in Hingham, she is doing a volunteer job at the library. What a gal! She and her sister plan to spend September 2nd-9th in Vermont, and the last weekend in October she and Elizabeth Walmsley plan to join us for Homecoming.

From Alice Clay Hall we hear that her "two joys" were receiving invitations to both England and Italy to conferences on "The Arts and Communications", but due to the extreme heat she felt compelled to decline. But despite the heat she has been busy in other areas, among them being the organization of poets of which she and other fine poets have felt the need. Such an organization would be of poet of world dimensions. She gives full credit for the creation of this to Dr. Ernest Kay, who is known and beloved around the world. In her own words she writes, "Dr. Ernest Kay is the one to whom the honor and glory belong". She continues, "I had been dreaming of such an organization for a long time and it is wonderful that is now a reality." The title selected for this organization is "The International Academy of Poets" and "our Alice" is a Founding Fellow and Life Member. She expresses hope that all poets will study and work hard towards the high calling of the "International Academy of Poets", and points out that the headquarters will be in Cambridge, England. So, again, another of our classmates has brought high honor to our Class of '25, and our Alma Mater. Congratulations, Alice, for the large role you have played in the founding of what will be a great international organization. She concludes, "Loving thoughts to members of our Class and other dear friends of William and Mary. Thank you for keeping us Twenty-fivers informed and en rapport."

Frances Sanders Ennis is constantly assisting others and finds time never to forget the less fortunate, but she also finds time to play Bridge and especially likes Duplicate. Her team won the last game reported to me, so by now she doubtless could report several more. She recalled in her news report that Stuart and I were guests of mutual friends in Kilmarnock this summer, at which time our host and hostess entertained in our honor and amongst the guests were several William and Mary alumni. Needless to say, the alumni got in a huddle and reminisced for quite a while. She also recalled other mutual friends who entertained for us - one being a William and Mary alumna. Yes, Frances, it really was a happy time. She also recalled meeting with us at a very lovely barbecue party at which were approximately 1500 guests, but like always, William and Mary alumni soon found William and Mary alumni, and there were many of us.

Frances also reported quite a "twister" which hit her area soon after our visit. She did close on a sad, yet happy note, when she reported the death of Charlie Carroll, '26, who was a Theta Delta Chi. Incidentally, they dated quite a bit the last two years of college, and he was her date for finals. She concluded, "Three nights of dancing, they were good ole times!" Frances will be at Homecoming and, needless to say, she will attend the Campbells' luncheon.

Virginia Weymouth Chapelle is planning a Caribbean cruise in December. She will fly to San Juan from Friendship Airport and board the beautiful "Carla 'C'" to four islands, St. Thomas, Martinique, Trinidad and Caracas, and will arrive home just two days before Christmas. Sounds as if Christmas shopping will be done very early this year, Virginia, or perhaps, as we did last year, you will do it as you travel. Virginia is playing Duplicate Bridge more and more and finds it quite a challenge. In writing of her family, she says her son who lives in Edina, Minn., is District Manager of Pittsburgh Plate Glass Industries and has salesmen covering seven states. Her daughter's daughter, "Randy" has composed many songs and plays the guitar. Recently she sang three songs, all original music and lyrics, at a concert. She is only 15 years of age and was the youngest of the seven who participated. She and her mother both sing in St. Paul's Methodist Church Choir in Bethesda, Md.

Anita Rucker Cottrell visited Elizabeth DeShazo Whitlock in Richmond this summer, and she reports that Betty is as busy as ever as a consultant in parliamentary procedure for a number of organizations and conventions both in and out of Virginia. Anita and Slats went to Maine as they usually do each summer and enjoyed delightful visits from their son and daughter and their families. She added, "Lobsters are not so plentiful as they used to be, but the coast is as beautiful as ever." She tells us that due to the heat their vegetables and fruit really suffered but they have had a bumper crop of Japanese persimmons. She concluded - "Slats picked off 87 to relieve the little tree, but it is still loaded. We have it trussed up like a turkey on Thanksgiving morning!"

Betty Robinson Cowne called me as soon as she learned of Ruth Wynn's death and expressed deep sorrow. She told of visits with relatives and friends and also of a most interesting trip to Washington, D.C. Her grandson is quite a golfer and this summer played in the Golf Tournament Pock a Shock Golf Course in Chesterfield County, Va.

From Elizabeth Nicholson Richter we hear that their grandson, Gregory, has graduated from the University of California, Santa Cruz-Crown College with honors. He has also won a scholarship to the University of California at San Diego, and received a teacher's assistant position there. He will instruct in Russian and German and work on his Master's and continue to study Music. The granddaughter, Carolyn, has completed her first year at the University of California at Riverside and plans to study in England her third year.

"Mac" Reynolds writes that this year is semi-centennial wedding anniversary year and so they are spreading it over the year in trips and celebrations. Last November they started and cruised to Los Angeles returning via San Juan and made stops in Mexico, some of the islands and South American ports also via the Canal. Since January he and his wife have had numerous visits from friends of long standing. Their older daughter and family spent a week with them and during this time much entertaining was done. At the time of "Mac's" writing they were anticipating a visit from their youngest daughter in Roanoke and her family. Their busy schedule includes spending several weeks in August with their older daughter in New Paltz, N.Y. "Mac" expressed his shock at the news of Ruth Wynn Lee's death who was a recent neighbor of theirs. He adds, "Just a short time before she stopped by our home to show us her new car and to tell us of her coming trip to Hawaii and the Orient. We had many enjoyable times together with her and her close friend, Mr. Lynch. We shall miss her very much."

Rose Vipond's news was quite sad. She wrote that her sister, Grace Vipond Robinson, who was a William and Mary graduate, Class of '29, died of a heart attack in March, just two days after she mailed us her report.

Stuart and Helen proudly announce that their oldest granddaughter, Stacey White, is now a freshman at the College! We are now off to Williamsburg to see her.

Everybody, come to our Class Reunion - but, please drive safely!

27 M. Carl Andrews 2814 Crystal Spring Avenue, SW Roanoke, Va. 24014

Those 43 of us who returned to the College for our 50th anniversary reunion on May 14-15 need not be reminded what a wonderful occasion it was. The other 173 living-located classmates who failed to show up learned from the June Gazette how much you missed!

Thanks to the fine detailed work of Gordon Vliet and his Alumni Office staff, everything was perfectly planned and staged without a single hitch.

Much credit is due also to the class committee headed by Wilfred (Cy) Lambert who helped put the affair together. We were saddened by the absence for health reasons of President Jimmy Barnes. Our vice president, Cotton Rawls, couldn't make it, either. Thus it was that Lambert, our chaplain, did what presiding was necessary.

Others of the original officers present were Maxwell Brockenbrough Houghland, secretary-treasurer, Kitty Myrick Marshall, historian, and yours truly, the poet of sorts.

The messages from those who were unable to attend were much appreciated--posted in Alumni House or read at the formal banquet in the Great Hall of Wren Building on Saturday night.

Most of the returnees registered Friday for an early start the next morning. Being quartered together at the Heritage Inn helped run off a smooth schedule which started with a bus tour of the new campus, an amazing experience for those who had not been back since graduation on June 8, 1927.

Saturday also featured luncheon on the lawn under tents at Alumni House where good food and fellowship prevailed for hours, climaxed by the official class picture by Tommy Williams. (If you did not get yours--they are in color--they can be obtained for $5.50 through the Alumni Office).

The formal dinner that night in the Great Hall was an experience never to be forgotten. Counting husbands, wives and guests, about 75 shared in the fun. Cy did nobly and nobody would have guessed he was the chaplain! Greetings were delivered by Jean Canoles Bruce, Alumni Society President.

Among the honor guests were three members of the Class of 1925 which started this much superior plan of having 50th reunions at Commencement rather than at Homecoming when all is so hectic. They were Vernon Nunn and wife, Charles Pollard and wife and Helen Smith White and husband.

Also in this group were old friend Billy Person and wife, Brad Pulley, vice president of the Society board, Harriet Nachman Storm, secretary of the board, Mrs. William Guy, Mrs. Thomas J. Stubbs, Stanley King, Ellen Ticer King, Mrs. Lee Vliet and Jack Bruce. Also Laurie Bond, David Smith and Cynthia Bennett, president, vice president and secretary-treasurer respectively of the Student Body, as well as nine members of the Society Staff.

Some few, I understand, were able to get up Sunday in time to attend Bruton or some other church before we gathered at the Commons on the New Campus for a champagne luncheon. Here it was that President Tom Graves brought greetings from the College in his typically courtly and gentle-humored way.

He did not forget us, either, after we headed the march into William and Mary Hall for Commencement exercises that afternoon. It was the first time most had donned cap and gown since that far off June day 50 years before. But imagine our amazement when the graduating class came in 1300 strong, filling the whole floor of the coliseum. That was 300 more than the entire student body when he graduated!

President Graves drew a mass chuckle and gasp of admiration when he told the 1977 graduates that 50 years ago we had danced three nights straight, the last one until dawn! The College is so big (5000) that they don't have fun now like we had with those beautiful card dances.

The dances remind me that a Saturday night feature was the gathering in the Order of the White Jacket room in Alumni House to hear tapes of music of the great bands of our day as presented by Herb Ganter, who must have a marvelous library of old time records.

It should be reported here that the girls are still lovely and the fellows just as handsome (some a bit portly) as 50 years ago. In fact, none of us felt the least bit older until they handed out those Olde Guard certificates at the banquet.

That saddened us somewhat because it was the last reunion. Henceforth, we are informed, we'll meet at Homecoming with the Olde Guard. Some, however, will be found under the White Jacket tent or in their new room, ready for dedication shortly.

For the benefit of those who could not come, the following (other than those already mentioned) attended the reunion:

Fairfax M. Berkeley, Ouide Boguess Noffsinger, Beverley Virginia Caldwell Fritsche, Eleanor Calkins, Isla Chambliss Elmore, Robert W. Corstaphney, Fairfax Griffith Bahr, George Dewey Grove, Mary Hess Rowe, L. Quinby Hines, Marie Hofmeyer Tuttle, Margaret Holman McCoy, Frank Snowden Hopkins, Julia Howard Day, Rosa Jacobson Kolker, J. Curtis Jenkins and C. Alton Lindsay.

Also Eulah Massey, Mildred Meyer Bull Lindsay, William H. Morrow, Mary Morscher Drechler, Joseph Muscarelle, Eugenia Portlock Joyce, Roy D. Powell, Harold W. Ramsey, Mary B. Ribble, A. Ray Simmons, Jesse F. Slauson, Marguerite Snyder Kiser, Bruce Buzzy Stewart, A.S. Thompson, Lee B. Todd, Alice Trevett Todd, Nina Trevett Miles, James E. (Dick) Tribble, Edward L. Wilshin, J. Thomas Yates and Ruth Yeamans Cudlipp. Also Macon Sammons ('29) who started out with us in 1923.

Much credit for the outstanding success of the reunion is due not only to Cy and Herb but to Buzzy Stewart, Max Brockenbrough, Fax Griffith and others who helped with the plans.

The best compliment I can think of is that nobody wanted to go home, all swearing to be back for Homecoming Oct. 28-29.

Prize for coming from the farthest place: to Bob Corstaphney from Dallas, Tex.

This is my first effort as your Class Reporter and there was plenty to write about. Future letters depend on you. Write and tell me about yourself, your family, your travels, your honors, your plans for the next 50 years! Do it now!

We think most of you know that Homecoming is later this fall and is not until the October 29th weekend. Our football opponent for the occasion will be Rutgers University and it should be a great game. Both schools have good teams this year, and both will be ready for a great battle. Be sure to see this one - You'll get your money's worth!

We are glad to see that more of the Class are contributing to the various College funds, and in larger amounts. These funds are badly needed now and for the College's 19 million, 3-year Campaign for the College Fund Drive. Be sure to do your part in this most important drive. The William and Mary Fund which supports our alumni activities is hoping for a great increase for '77-'78.

Don't miss Homecoming, coming up - many of the Class have been returning each year for a fun-packed weekend. We certainly hope to see many of you there.

I am taking the Rhine River Escapade September 10-20, and looking forward to a wonderful trip with many alumni aboard.

Katherine Lam wrote from Norfolk, Va., that our 45th Class Reunion was certainly a special occasion and brought back many happy memories. She and Marion Handy Anderson were disappointed that so few attended. She was glad to see Ellen Ticer King, Betty Ambler Gillespie, Irma Adams Gillespie, Catherine Hazeltine Mayhew, Dottie Reese Smith, to mention a few. One of her good bridge friends is Sarah Lee Odenbak Case of Norfolk, and another one is Marie Spence Moffitt at Virginia Beach. She says she would love to see some of her former W&M friends who live in the area. Katherine and Marie went to Bermuda last spring on one of the W&M trips and loved every minute of it.

Paul Baldacci and his wife, Virginia Moore, '32, celebrated their retirement from teaching and their 45th wedding anniversary in mid-June, in San Rafael, Calif., at St. Sylvester's Church and a reception following at the Peacock Gap Country Club.

Elizabeth Erwin Higbee of Philadelphia, Pa., is still very active in church, community, professional and social groups, plays a great deal of Bridge, and her husband and she are still interested in world travel.

Ethel Nunn Gregory of Sandston, Va., received her Master's of Education from the College in 1966, retired in July 1975, after 30 years' service in Virginia school system. Ethel is the widow of Robert Harrison Gregory, Jr. She has two children and one grandchild.

Hi, Classmates!

Have you had as hot and dry a summer as we have in Virginia? It has been hot on the Potomac, too. Usually we get a breeze from the Chesapeake Bay in the afternoons. We are in Westmoreland County at Sandy Point.

We are all proud of Mary Virginia Rigg Fischer of Las Vegas, Nev. She was first-place winner, and runner-up in the Nevada Bicentennial Poetry Contest, I wish she would send her entries so we could have them printed in the Gazette for us all to read.

Morris Francis Elliot of San Angelo, Tex., has retired as of May 1974, as rector at Emmanuel Church of San Angelo, Tex. Hope he is enjoying his retirement.

Have you made your reservations for Homecoming on the weekend of October 28th? I hope we can get together at the Alumni House yard during the luncheon on Saturday, the 28th. Let's plan to meet at the 1933 Roster Board. Don't forget to sign it, please. Next year we will have our 45th Reunion, and we need to make plans for it. We should plan something special for 1978. What are your ideas about this? Let's get together so we can think about our reunion. Bring your ideas.

Mildred Wallace Drummond of Norfolk, Va., married Thomas N. Drummond in June 1955, had no children. She retired from U.S. Naval Supply Center in 1971 and is spending retirement years gardening, needlecraft and traveling. They have visited nearly all of European countries, Turkey and South America. They enjoy antique shows, collecting antique china and glassware. They are ardent opera buffs, support Virginia Opera Association and have visited New York for the "Met" for many productions.

On the weekend of May 14 we had a wonderful experience in Williamsburg. Our granddaughter, Linda Singleton, '77 was married to Tom Driscoll, '76 in the Wren Chapel with the Reverend H. B. Allport, Jr. officiating. The intimacy of the beautiful chapel seemed to bring the closer family relatives and dear friends together for this happy occasion. Cold shivers ran up and down my spine as I glanced around in the Great Hall of the Wren Building where the reception was held. I felt that the Colonial Burgesses were peering over my shoulder. I had the feeling of timelessness, or time standing still. Then on Sunday was graduation. I saw Margaret L. Shipley of Washington, D.C. She had come down for niece's, Cindy Bennett of Maryland, graduation. Linda graduated as Mrs. Driscoll. So now I have a closer feeling toward the College and Williamsburg, if that's possible. My husband, Ted, and I were married at Bruton Parish Church with the man who had been my teacher, Dr. W.A.R. Goodwin, officiating, in 1933. We had our reception at my sorority house.

Oh, I forgot to tell you that Calder Sherwood of Portsmouth, Va., retired in May. He had been professor of Physics and Geophysical Sciences at Old Dominion University. He began his association with ODU in 1939, and became a full professor in 1958. During the time of WWII he was an instructor at the Naval Academy. Now he has become Professor Emeritus of ODU. Congratulations! May you enjoy your retirement, too.

All of you have a happy, healthy, busy year, and please send me news of your activities. Look in the August issue of THE ALUMNI GAZETTE at the notes about the retired personnel. They are all doing interesting things. What about you? They are active and I know that you are, too. Tell us about your doings. Till next time, Yetine Winslow Bryant enjoyed homecoming 1976 and thought the Alumni House to be a wonderful asset. She reported that James Mathers died in June 1974 and that his wife, Betty Johnson Mathers is still in Englewood, N.J.

Blake T. Newton, Jr. and his wife moved in April, 1977 from Greenwich, Conn., to Washington, D.C.

It has been reported that Wallace Rolfe Gwaltney of 508 Darden Avenue, Suffolk, Va. 23434 suffered a stroke last December. While he cannot read, speak or walk, he can hear and has limited mobility. He might enjoy receiving cards.

Bruce M. Kent has retired from Franklin County, Virginia school system as of July 1, 1977, after serving as classroom teacher, assistant principal, principal, various directors, and assistant superintendent for a total of twenty-nine years. He and his wife, Clara, are looking forward to a busy but restful retirement.

Classmates, please remember to send some news. I am certain all of us enjoy reading about the other members.

Greetings and Happy Autumn.

Mildred Mode Owen Hughes writes from Somerset, England that the Bicentennial party they held for their English friends last year was one which stressed interdependence, not independence, as I had reported. She thinks that she may have skipped a letter here and there on the typewriter, but I suspect that it was an oversight of mine. Anyway, Interdependence was inscribed on the ice cream gateau and it was as Mildred said, more tactful and up-to-date when celebrating the special occasion in the midst of British relations and friends - much appreciated, too. Several months ago Mildred met Lord Cornwallis at a Masonic gathering. Lord Cornwallis, a charming man in his eighties, told her that when the troops of both armies were drawn up for the ceremony of surrender at Yorktown, the Americans returned to the British Army the Masonic regalia which had been captured during the years of fighting. As Mildred said, a nice gesture of reconciliation.

Another item about Cornwallis and certainly one which the British would appreciate is a newspaper headline which announced that Lord Cornwallis had fallen victim to a "tummy bug" while on a visit to Yorktown several years ago and consequently had to cancel some engagements. The banner headline read, "Cornwallis surrenders again!"

"Anonymous" writes that "Lucy Cary Ruffin Greene of Charles City, Va., besides her busy professional library and family involvements has taken on further commitments in her Westover Church Parish. I have proposed a citation for her splendid efforts in organizing and setting up a parish library. This has been organized not only as a church library, but as a meaningful community instructional center for the entire area." That letter was dated June 4, 1977, so by this time Lucy must know about the special honor paid her. Congratulations, Lucy!

Alma Van Blarcom Walker writes that she has retired from school teaching and that Lorimer has been studying at Pace University and Greenwich, Conn. Audubon Center during his sabbatical. As part of the sabbatical they were able to take a three-week trip in January to Africa - Capetown to Cairo! Marvelous, said she. They will be back for Homecoming.

My spring travels for CMU took me to the West Coast and Arizona with a Kansas City visit wedged in between. It was wonderful seeing Pearl Brueger Reid after all these years while in K. City, had a nice evening with Pearl and Joe at their lovely home in Leawood, Kan. Also picked up a great chicken recipe. Then in Phoenix, Dot Spence and Don Druckemiller and I had dinner at a wonderful spot which gave us a superb view of a glorious western sunset.

The Frank Millers (Peggy Prickett) are either in Ireland at this writing or on their way home from another Miller caravan trip

(last year it was Scotland). They were with me twice last spring while returning to Pittsburgh for special CMU occasions, namely, Greek Sing and graduation. Yes, their youngest graduated from Carnegie-Mellon. Happy day, sad day. During the four years Polly was in Pittsburgh I saw Peggy and Miley several times - Hope we keep up the pattern.

The week of July 4, I spent several days with Barbara Wastcoat and Charles Carter in East Aurora, playing golf (ha! when it wasn't raining) looking at slides of the Buffalo winter and the great blizzard, and watching the raindrops fall. As always, a joy being with them and enjoying the country air and surrounding peace and quiet. They spent a few weeks in Florida following the winter, and needless to say, liked the change.

Homecoming time again - doubtful that I'll be there this year, but please keep me posted on the 39'ers. Have fun.

Recent travels were a favorite subject and picturesque post cards told of interesting places visited by classmates during the past few months. Jeanne Schoenewolf Preston enjoyed a trip to Italy in June. Audrey Hudgins Thompson and Buck vacationed in Calif., and while in San Francisco had a visit with Sheila Stewart Ehrlich and Phil. More recently the Ehrlichs were in Williamsburg and D.C., and Audrey at Virginia Beach. Sunny Manewal Murray had trips to Sanibel Island and Cape Cod. Sunny Trumbo Williams '44 and Rolf have an exciting trip scheduled for Norway and Sweden. Marge and Wayne Gibbs '44, Nancy and Dixon Foster '44, and Ann and Harvey Pope '44 had a fabulous time on a Caribbean cruise. Marge wrote that son Wayne is in D.C. and Dave in in Calif.

Among the younger generation on recent travels were the Preston's daughter, Jeanne Page, to England, Sunny Murray's daughter, Leslie, a '77 graduate of Duke, to Israel, our son Tom and wife Darrel to Switzerland, Fran and Bob Brunner's daughter Susan and husband Terry to Bermuda, and vacationing in Honolulu was Kay Tillar '74, the daughter of Dr. Vernon Tillar '32 and Frances of Emporia.

Sandbridge, Virginia was once again the scene of social activity for William and Mary alumni, and Cato and I enjoyed the full schedule of events planned for all. Among those vacationing there were Sunny and Rolf Williams, Fran and Bob Brunner, Jean McPherrin Morris and Hal, and Jean Boyd Lacy '44 and Ben.

Two very beautiful weddings took place this past summer, which were also a gathering place for William and Mary alumni. Sunny Williams, daughter Lesney '72, and I attend Fran Loesch Brunner and Bob's daughter Susan's wedding. Susan Brunner and Terry Pratt were married in Westfield, N.J. on July 2. Her lovely bridesmaids were sisters Kathy and Nancy. The very beautiful and elegant reception took place at the Chanticleer Chateau in Warren. Susan and Terry live in Boulder, Colorado, where Susan, a U. of Col. graduate, is with the Boulder Board of Realtors and Terry, a graduate of Col. College, is a general contractor.

The Page Prestons attended the wedding of Anne McMullan and Hank Flint in Richmond on June 11. Anne is the daughter of Claire Hulcher McMullan '42 and Dr. McMullan, and Hank is the son of Joan Parker Flint and John. Among the guests who enjoyed the beautiful reception at the Commonwealth Club were Evelyn Cosby King and Hal '43, Mary Jane Chamberlain Howard and Vaughan, Mary Hammer Burton '43, Jeanne and Page Preston and their son Bill, a law student at the U. of Richmond. Anne and Hank live in Charlottesville where he is in law school at the University of Va. During the late summer the Prestons visited Jo and John Flint in Charleston.

Congratulations to Alf Johnson Mapp, Jr. who was awarded the medal of the Comite' Francais du Bicentenaire de L'Independance des E'tats - Unis by the Republic of France in appreciation for contributions to understanding between the peoples of France and the United States.

Our daughter Elizabeth and husband Jimmy, who live in Albuquerque are both students at the University of New Mexico. She is completing her studies in English and anthropology, and he is studying architecture. We recently enjoyed a visit with our son Tom and wife Darrel in Blacksburg, and next on our agenda is Williamsburg and Homecoming weekend!

One lighteth a candle and one never knoweth how far shineth its long light. Dot Ferenbaugh, many thanks and honors to you. You have the distinction of being the only member of the class to write news to me for the Gazette H.C. issue. To have maintained the same address over 13 years is a major achievement now. How embarrassing to have misplaced your letter and can't accurately quote from your interesting bio. Stella Winters Hardee wrote via Alumni Office that travel is her bag: "In the past 3 yrs. I've discovered a wonderful ship that makes expeditions all over the world in most inaccessible places, topped off with 5 or 8 brilliant lecturers on each trip (each a master in his field). Since Aug. '73 I've had month-long trips thru the Indonesian Archipelago and Asmat (W. New Guinea) the Arctic, the Falkland Is., So. Ga. and Antarctica, Pacific from Yokohama to Indonesia, incl. Micronesia (visited Iwo Jima) & just returned from Indian Ocean expedition off Africa, the Seychelle Is. ending in Capetown. I do recommend these trips. To anyone interested in anything unique & fascinating, write for details (I AM NOT A TRAVEL AGENT) 45 E. End Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10028. Now, Stella, you deserve honors, too, because of a good presentation; I am sold--let's ship out on the next high tide.

It's really tough not to mention friends in '48 named Lee and Martha Aston who've spent 3 weeks in Japan mixing biz and pleasure--like M.J. climbing Mt. Fuji to see the dawn or being entertained in a Japanese home...or getting one's doctorate in chopsticks. But, as the lawyer objects in his court case--strike that from the record--having left a beautiful image in the minds of the jurors!

Clarke and I have managed 3 long visits to our place in N. Myrtle Beach S.C. Even got all the family together. We also had a great April trip to New Orleans. Satisfied many fantasies for me--a riverboat named NATCHEZ took us down Tom Sawyer's river, walked a levee, saw the Vieux Carre early morn, at sunset and in that strange night world of Bourbon and Royal Sts. Even rode the street car (the oldest in continual operation) around the 6 univ. Town. That was really a thrill for me, as vivid as ancient rides in D.C., Richmond and Petg. Too bad we are so chained to the auto.

See you at H. C., never mind the weather, let's really remember that wonderful year.

Henry Rosovsky has received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree from Yeshiva University. He is an economics professor and dean of the faculty of arts and sciences at Harvard University. Anne Cook Sager is currently director of instruction with the Warren County school system at Front Royal. Jack Peterson has recently moved to Stow, Mass., and is a commuter into Boston.

Raymond Townsend has recently retired from Colonial Williamsburg. He has been affiliated with a number of societies concerned with the preservation of American antiquities and has been elected to Who's Who in the South and Southeast. His daughter Laura has graduated from the College and plans to enter the graduate program in Counseling Psychology this fall.

Ross Lawrence Goble of Potsdam, N.Y. wrote that he read a paper at the XXIII International Meeting of the Institute of Management Sciences in Athens, Greece in July, "A Psychometric Study of Media, Message and Product Credibility - Phase II".

Shirley Lyons Hardwick, '50, of London, England, sent a long and very nice article from the London SUNDAY TELEGRAPH, about Mark McCormack who has a home and office there as well as in Cleveland and New York. There were several color shots picturing Mark and his typical day in London.

From Titusville, Fla., a long newsy letter came from Ina Saville Grundmann who was working the night shift (11 p.m.-7 a.m.) at the local hospital as night relief Ward Secretary. As well as working regular shifts, she has been taking night classes through the local college adult education program. This year she has completed classes in Medical Terminology I and II, Cardi-Pulmonary Resuscitation and Basic Life Support, Insurance Billing and Ward Secretarial Training. Home projects have included fencing their three acres with railroad ties and farm gates and building a large barn (about half built, to date.) Recently, 5 trees were lost to lightning. Ina ends her letter by reporting that another daughter was married this year.

Do keep those letters coming with more news of yourselves.

Well, another summer is rapidly coming to an end and the pace of life will begin to pick up as we resume our usual activities. We had a memorable summer. Not only did my husband and I "graduate" from elementary school PTA -- a job that we both seemed to hold in perpetuity -- but my husband, Gary, was named Assistant Patent Counsel of Chrysler Corporation as of July 1.

The Alumni Office has sent me several interesting news items. Ronald Masnik has joined Pinsker, Winguth and Shattuck, executive search consultants, as a principal in their San Francisco office. Previously he was a Director in a major London based executive search firm. Previous to that he was a vice president and managing director of the Chase Manhattan Bank in Luxembourg. Ron has certainly done a lot of traveling in his career.

Arlan L. Kenney is a developer of the Beaver Brook Camping Resort on Androscoggin Lake in Maine. Prior to this endeavor he spent 18 years with the Federal Government, in the Air Force in personnel and management, with the State Department as a Foreign Service Officer in counter-intelligence and as a security official, and then with Secretary of the Interior, Rogers Morton, as a special assistant.

Another William and Mary couple, Jack and Sylvia Beck White write that an offspring is attending the College. Stacey White, age 15, is in the Class of '81. Stacey had a "sister" Judith Tenario of Oaxaca, Mexico, living with the Whites under the AFS Program. Judith was invited to an AFS Weekend at William and Mary last winter and was most excited about visiting the school her "American Parents" attended.

I hope our class will be well represented at Homecoming. I wish I were going to be among that number, but unfortunately, I have a previous commitment to be in East Lansing that day to watch the University of Illinois lose to the Spartans of Michigan State with several loyal, wishful thinking alumni from the U. of I. I hope the Alumni Office will be a stopping point for all of you and that you will leave lots of news with them for my next column. Don't forget, you can always write me directly, too.

Dear Classmates:

As Labor Day approaches, sand fleas, broken arms at summer camps, teeming humanity at Disney World, and trendy tennis weekend retreats become only a memory, we the Class of 1959 must once again address ourselves to the really important things in life -- arranging for car pools, choosing an orthodontist, and initiating early Christmas shopping.

Your reporter continues to be inundated with messages that various members of the class have not been married to the same person and do not have the same job (or dog), but on the contrary, they continue to brag of youthful activities and success oriented endeavors. Judge for yourself.

George Washington Conrad, Jr., continues to make every effort to represent our class in vital statistics, and his contribution this year is a brand new baby boy. I can't wait 'til next year.

Stuart Duncan is a senior partner in his law firm in Chattanooga, Tennessee. His most startling news was the admission that he is a Republican, which is obviously not news, only negligence.

Betsey Jones and her lawyer husband, Alexander, are proud parents of four children, the oldest being a student at V.P.I.

Lawrence Verbit is a chemistry professor at the State University of New York at Binghamton. Larry reports that he now has the privilege of being an associate with his former physics professor at the College, Robert Hart.

Dr. Barbara E. Ingram has taken the time to report that she is not lost, has not lived in the same place, does not have the same dog, in fact, she never has had a dog, (I'm sorry), and is presently living in Okinawa as a resident graduate professor with the counselor education program of the University of Maryland, Far East Division. In addition, Barbara has recently completed a book on communication skills, and she and her husband, Timothy Woodbridge, plan to return next year to Boston where her husband is in real estate. Unfortunately,

Barbara's other news was not suitable for publication.

Marsha Whitehurst Jones is teaching elementary school in northern Virginia, and we are told that John and Una Makarczyk are living in Fairfax, Va.

Terry Walker is the proud mother of three children (no mention of a dog) and is working part-time. Terry says that some of her best friends now are 39 years old; however, she refuses to comment on her own age. Terry and her family are living in Alexandria, having moved from Long Island. Terry's husband, Frank, a New Yorker, is in the Marketing Division of the United States Postal Service.

Barclay Bell Nakhleh, her husband, Ziad, and twelve-year-old son, William, are now living in Nigeria, where her husband is catering to the offshore oil rigs.

Katharine Hickam Prout has moved from Japan, where she taught English for the elementary grades, to Hawaii.

John E. Anagnostis writes that his daughter and the twins are rapidly approaching college age, and that he is still teaching at Kennebunk High School in Kennebunk, Maine, and enjoying it immensely.

Bill Henderson is serving on the City Manager's Advisory Council for the Development of an Historical Program for Petersburg, Va.

Jim Brinkley has recently been elected the President of the Bond Club of Baltimore, Md.

George E. Feild is currently employed with Planters National Bank and Trust Company as City Executive in Rocky Mount, N.C., and was recently elected Senior Vice President of the bank. Congratulations!

Mary Jamieson Wallace and her family moved to Lawrence, Kans., last July from Chapel Hill, N.C., and her husband is the Chairman of the University of Kansas Computer Science Department.

Patricia Foushee Jacobs and her family are now living in Wilmington, Del., where her husband is a Safety Consultant, and Patricia is taking care of her children and dog. (She does not state whether or not it is the same dog.) She says that she and her family will be returning to Williamsburg to give her college-bound daughter a chance to look over the College, and, in the interim, she is very active in community activities.

Sarah Derry Callahan is presently living with her family in Bartlesville, Okla. Their children swim for the Phillips 66 Splash Club, and her 14-year-old daughter, Anne, was in the North Sea Invitational Meet last November in Norway. Her 12-year-old daughter, Nancy, in addition to swimming, pursues ballet and has aspirations of going to William and Mary. Sarah details the many accomplishments of her swimming children, but this columnist is concerned about questions of over-achieving and a parent's attempt at reflected glory.

Nancy Simmons Manson writes that she and her husband have only four and one-half years until retirement from the Army. Her husband, Dick, is an ophthalmologist at Fitzsimmons Army Medical Center in Denver. Nancy is active in oil painting, and she and her family do a lot of hiking and camping. Sounds a bit strenuous for someone Nancy's age.

In addition, this columnist has received many letters providing juicy tidbits, but since the letters were unsigned and we cannot vouch for their authenticity, we are, therefore, unfortunately unable to share the interesting gossip concerning some of your classmates.

This past summer your reporter leased a house in Georgetown and has taken the opportunity to visit old haunts on the East Coast. Our offices are now open at 818 Connecticut Avenue, and my family and dog are enjoying Washington very much (the latter sends her best to each of you).

I hope each of you had a terrific summer, and that we will have a chance to get together for homecoming on October 28 and 29. In the interim, please give my best to your grandchildren.

Law for the Layman

William B. Spong Jr., Dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, displays a copy of "The Layman's Guide to Virginia Law," given to the Law School by one of its 19 authors, Janet Brown (left), a former student in the law school, now a resident of Winter Park, Fla. Written by former students at the law school at the urging of Dr. William F. Swindler (right), John Marshall Professor of Law, the book is a comprehensive statement on the laws of Virginia, in a style and parlance especially for the layman. Proceeds from the book, started in 1973 and published by the Michie Co. of Charlottesville, will be donated to the College in trust for the use of the law school library. Each chapter was written by a student, reviewed by three editors and check for accuracy by one or more faculty members or practicing attorneys.

Our lives have taken a nice new turn with the birth of our son, James David, in April. While I will not be teaching for awhile, I continue to be involved in our daughters' schools and serve on the school district's Curriculum Advisory Committee. Don '61 has just earned his Associate Degree in Business Administration from the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania. He will be teaching a graduate course in Hospital Administration at Temple University this fall.

John Gette recently moved back to the Seattle area as a result of his new assignment as Area Treasury Manager for Pacific Northwest Bell. He and his wife Rozanne have a new son, Jeffrey Michael, born October 8th.

Alan Scott is Assistant Director of Career Advising and Placement at Oakland University in Rochester, Mich.

John Sawyer is now teaching high school English in Ohio. He earned his Master's Degree from California State University and has been teaching for about ten years.

Babs Beaumont Moritz is working toward a degree in Interior Design at a local junior college and is doing an apprenticeship with a design firm. They have bought a gulf front condominium as a vacation home and rental property. She lives in Florida.

Anne Marshall Bippus has been honored in Who's Who in America - Child Development Professionals, 1976 World's Who Who of Women, and Personalities of the South.

Keith Blomstrom is selling computers for IBM. Carol Kirkup Blomstrom is Director of the Computer Center at National University.

Mary George White is busy with their three children. She and Charles are planning to build a new home on the water in Virginia Beach soon. Charles is an associate with Forrest Coile and Associates, an architecture and engineering firm in Newport News.

Peter Sturm has joined the Bank of Virginia Company as senior Electronic Data Processing auditor in the audit/credit examination division. He was previously with Ernst & Ernst as a manager on their management consulting services staff.

Eric Erdossy, senior vice president and marketing director for Clarendon Bank & Trust was named to the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors in June 1976.

Randi Sigmund Smith was the subject of an interesting article in the West Hartford News. She is a developer and teacher in effective communications skills for major corporations and government agencies and travels nationwide for Brandon Systems Institute, a major data processing consulting and training firm. She does all of this in addition to raising a family, learning to fly, bridge, scuba diving, and working with the Theta alumnae association.

Gene Murray has been elected a Vice President of the Central National Bank in Richmond, responsible for the bank's systems, programming and computer operations. He joined CNB in 1974 as a trust officer and last year was promoted to Assistant Vice President.

Robin Reighley has become Executive Officer of the San Diego based guided missile destroyer, USS Hoel (DDG 13) in May.

Phyllis Eason Galanti is one of the directors of The Women's Bank in Richmond. She also serves on the Virginia Commission of the Arts and Humanities. Her husband, Paul, is the Commanding Officer of Navy Recruiting in Virginia. They have a son born in November 1975.

Nancy Lee Ramsey Carwile is working as a Developmental Reading Specialist in Appomattox County, Va.

Robert Davis is a commercial division manager in Newport News branch of UVB. He has been named loan administration division manager. He has been with UVB since 1961.

George Lunger and Liz (Holland) Lunger have moved to a different home in Louisville, Ky. They traveled East this summer, visiting George's sister who lives near us, but we were out of town at the time and missed seeing them.

Sherry Parris Sullivan spent the summer in Virginia. She saw Linda Neese McCormick in Maryland. Linda is Personnel Manager for a Montgomery Ward store in Hagerstown.

Marie Lynn Hunken Caldwell and Martyn continue to travel. Hawaii was on their summer agenda.

In June President Graves came to Philadelphia for an alumni meeting. He met with Don Owen Knopping, '61, a lawyer with a Philadelphia firm, and Alan Miller, '58, President of American Medicorps, Inc. for lunch at the Vesper Club in Philadelphia.

Please note our new address. Worth has finished his military obligations and is now enjoying the private practice of orthopedic surgery at the Southern West Virginia Clinic in Beckley. We are building a new home and renewing east coast friendships.

Ray Goodhart is a Major in the Army stationed in Hawaii. He received a Masters degree in education from Pepperdine University in May, 1977. This was his second masters, the first being an MS in Systems Management from the University of Southern California.

Mary French Crouch was recently named to Who's Who of American Women for her outstanding work as an educator and activist. She has been teaching English and American literature and Women in Literature courses at the University of Virginia Falls Church Regional Center. While at UVa she worked for Pulitzer Prize winning biographer Dumas Malone on his biography of Thomas Jefferson. She has also done extensive writing on her own. She and husband Dick, '62, and their two children are restoring a 17th century farm house in King and Queen County, Va.

Bob Andrialis has been elected President of the New York Alumni Chapter. He is Comptroller of Standard & Poor's Corp. in New York City.

Clark Owen has been appointed president and chief executive officer of the proposed Salem Bank and Trust Co. He had been with United Virginia Bank for eight years, and is past president of the Roanoke alumni chapter.

Vel Krowe Gray, her husband Doug, and two sons Trippy and John, live in Richmond. Vel plays tennis, serves as Altar Guild Chairman, participates in the Poetry Society of Virginia activities, and is helping to compile a cookbook.

Judy Weismann Dennen has been tutoring reading on a one-to-one basis at the neighborhood school several days a week. David is in the midst of getting a PhD in Education. They are still very involved in the American Field Service and hosting international students.

Suzie Shomon Forehand has been very busy with teaching, chauffeuring a very active son, and helping her husband Ben with the opening of their new restaurant, The Helmsman, in the Virginia Beach area.

While reading an article about college costs in the September Better Homes and Gardens, I noticed that the author quoted Betty White Suchar. Betty is Director of Financial Aid at the College Scholarship Service.

Terumi Tokita is a partner in the Colonial Virginia Guide Service, Inc. of Williamsburg, which is working hard to get chartered air flights into the Williamsburg area, providing guides for those groups and helping with ground arrangements.

Joan Speer Henderson and her daughter, Lauren, age 4, are still living in Vero Beach, Fla. Joan is counseling at Indian River Community College and instructing courses in history. Joan is planning to come to Homecoming.

Harry E. Krauss, III, of Wynnewood, Pa., received a Master of Divinity Degree at The Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary in Alexandria, Va. in May. He was ordained a Deacon and has been appointed Curate at All Saints Church in Wynnewood.

Millie Moore has completed her Ph.D. in Early Childhood Education from George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. She is currently the Child Development Coordinator in the Governor's office in Tennessee.

Larry, the boys and I are settled in our new home in Philadelphia. Larry has joined the faculty of The Thomas Jefferson University in the Department of Radiation Oncology. This Friday we are planning to visit with Barbara and John Spellman who live nearby. This year John is the president of the Eastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Society of Dentistry for Children. Barbara is expecting their third child in January.

Randy Bell has represented the State of South Carolina in federal litigation argued before the United States Supreme Court. His specialty is Civil Rights Law.

We are looking forward to seeing many of you at Homecoming in October.

Austin Roberts has been named President of First Peninsula Bank and Trust Company. At the age of 31, according to the records of the Virginia Banking Association, he is the youngest bank president of the state. Austin joined the Hampton bank in August 1976 and served as Executive Vice President and Chief Executive Officer until his promotion.

The Palmer Connection

Two William and Mary alumni joined in a friendly get-together with golfer Arnold Palmer (left) this summer at the British P.G.A. tournament in Sandwich, England. They are Norman Moonjian '55 (middle), New York restaurant owner and a member of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni, and Mark McCormack '51, who handles the financial affairs of many famous athletes. Palmer himself has a William and Mary connection: his daughter Margaret is a member of the class of 1979.

Austin's banking career started in 1969 when he joined United Virginia Bank/State Planters. In 1971, he joined First and Merchants National Bank of the Peninsula. Austin is currently serving as Vice President of the Newport News Rotary Club and Treasurer of the William and Mary Athletic Educational Foundation.

Peter Smith has been named Canadian manager of the Bermuda Department of Tourism and is based at the Toronto office. Peter previously managed the Bermuda News Bureau in New York City.

Wellford Marshall has been named assistant cashier with First and Merchants National Bank of the Peninsula. He was formerly assistant branch manager of First and Merchants' Williamsburg office.

In September 1976, Claudia and John Bennett moved to Dekalb, Ill., where John began teaching at Northern Illinois University in the physical education department. The Bennetts attended a Chicago Area Alumni gathering last Christmas and saw Jim and Ronni Repka Taylor, who are living outside of Chicago.

Following graduation, Richard Sills went to flight school and then on to Viet Nam as a Cobra pilot. His next assignment was Ft. Rucker, Ala., where he taught flight training. Richard was then transferred to Ft. Benning, Ga., where he attended the Infantry Officers Advanced course. Richard is now serving as a company commander in Germany, where he and his wife are enjoying travelling and skiing.

Frances Herring Reynolds began her first semester of law school during the summer session at William and Mary. Frances did fantastically well, however, I have been made to promise not to tell you how well! She returned to Williamsburg in September and commutes home to Fredericksburg to see Melvin on the weekends. Melvin is a nuclear engineer with Stone and Webster.

In June I spoke with Barb Johnson Valencia, who accepted a new job in commercial sales for Gulf Air last January. Barb attended a William and Mary alumni meeting in New York City in the spring and is very active in Kappa alumna activities. Richardo is working for an import firm. Barb passed on the news that Jo Ann Walthall was married last spring in the Norfolk Botanical Gardens to Stuart Kramer. In June, Jo Ann and Stuart departed for several months of travelling in Europe. Jo Ann is studying for her Ph.D. in finance.

Sandy Adams Zarbolias writes that she and Mike retired from teaching in the D.C. area two years ago and relocated to Missoula, Mont. Mike supplies internationally 1955-57 Chevrolet parts. Sandy is home with the children, Jonathan, age 5, and Wendy, age 3.

Congratulations to Michael and Marty McGuire Keating on the birth of their first child, Michael Burns Keating, Jr. on August 11th. In September, the Keatings moved into their new house which is on Beacon Hill in Boston. Marty writes that the house is on a little street with cobblestones called Acorn Street. They are busily re-furbishing the house and are so delighted with it.

Last spring I received a phone call from Stan Wojno, who is an actor in New York City. Stan has had numerous roles in movies, television shows, and commercials. Stan has done 70 commercials, including many for Scope mouthwash and Downey fabric softener. So look for Stan on the television! Stan is currently appearing in the movie "False Face". Stan mentioned that Justin and Jodey Deas are in New York City and that Justin is currently appearing in "Ryan's Hope".

Congratulations to Tim and Karen Arnold McPherson on the birth of their second child, Kevin Timothy, who was born on March 21st. Their daughter, Lori, is five and began kindergarten this fall. Karen has completed her Ph.D. in Political Science, with the exception of her dissertation, which she plans to resume work on in the fall. Tim practices law in Herndon with Peter Cerick. The McPhersons spent two weeks in August in Ocean City, Md., with Sharon and Rich Potter and their two children. The Potters live in Manassas, where Rich practices with Compton, Latimer, Compton and Compton.

Karen McPherson also passed on the good news that Mike and Gail White Lubeley adopted a little boy, Michael Justin, on January 4th. Justin was born last November 21st. Gail stopped teaching after Christmas and took a leave of absence for the remainder of the year. Mike practices with Compton, Latimer, Compton and Compton in the Woodbridge office. The Lubeleys are residing in Occoquan.

Living in Louisiana is Sue Covington. Sue is married and is the mother of two children.

Scott and Bobbie King Hart's first child, Michael Timothy, was born April 3rd. Scott is practicing law in Richmond with Mays, Valentine, Davenport and Moore. Bobbie began studying for a graduate social work degree in September. Bobbie writes that in the spring of 1976 in a trip across country, she visited Laura Busse in Goleta, Calif. Laura had just returned from England where she met and married Barry Gray. They now have a daughter, Jennifer Alban Gray. The Grays moved back to England this spring.

Carol Hamerson Dixon was a participant in the Shakespeare Association meeting in New Orleans last March. Carol was the first part-time student to receive her doctorate from the University of Virginia. She finished her dissertation in March in record time. Carol received two post-doctoral fellowships from the National Endowment for the Humanities. In June and July, she studied Russian literature at UVa. In August, Carol worked at the British Museum in London. In September, she began a ten-month fellowship at the University of California at Santa Cruz. Bill is working on his Ph.D. in Applied Mathematics at the Univ. of Maryland and works at the Naval Research Laboratory. The Dixons reside in Fredericksburg.

Mary Chris Schmitz Williams once again sent me a very newsy KD newsletter. (The first half I've included in this class letter, and I am saving the rest of the news for the December Gazette issue due to space limitations.) Mary Chris is still working for Coca-Cola USA as a standards and education coordinator in the data processing department. Although heavily training oriented at first, Mary Chris has spent most of her hours this year rewriting a standards manual. In addition, she has started two newsletters -- a monthly one for the 160 people in her department and a bi-weekly one for the 2100 people in the Atlanta Coca-Cola family. Hal is doing well with his sales district at Hewlett-Packard. The Williamses vacationed on a cruise to Bermuda in late April.

Nancy Beachley Newins was married in Fredericksburg on June 26th. Nancy and Bob's honeymoon was spent driving to Texas, with a three-day stop at the Greenbriar in West Virginia. Nancy began working almost immediately after their arrival in Texas at the Fort Worth Public Library as a reference librarian. In November, she moved to a better reference position in the main library at Southern Methodist University. Nancy and Bob bought a house in North Dallas and they report that they are enjoying the "big city" life.

Dr. Judy Carhart has one more year of residency at the Family Practice Center of Harrisburg Poly Clinic in Harrisburg, Pa. Judy and her husband, Alan Meminger spend their spare time going to New York for plays and sailing the nearby lakes.

In April, Neil and De Garber Stevenson bought a larger home in Richmond. De is still teaching and Neil is practicing law.

Living in Radford are Jerry and Kathy Jordan Jebo and their daughter, Jenny. The Jebos are expecting another child in mid-November. Kathy has opened a needlework shop in Radford.

Tom and Dorothy Kilgore Bacon and their two-year old daughter, Angela, are in Kingsport, Tenn. The Bacon's second child arrived in July, however, I don't have the details. Dorothy is active in several bridge clubs and is in a Christian Women's Club.

Carol Knight continues to work with delinquent children in Richmond and is still working on her Ph.D. dissertation.

Still in California and loving it are Bruce and Sue Miller Long. Polly, who is six, qualified for California's Mentally Gifted Minor Program and Amy, who is four, goes to pre-school. Sue is teaching fourth grade and is also teaching fourth and fifth grade music. Bruce took command of Headquarters Troop in January and spent the month of July in the Mojave Desert on a joint Army-Air Force exercise. At the same time, Sue and the girls flew to Norfolk for a 30-day visit.

In June 1976, Al and Jackie Mitchell Harris and their two daughters moved from Maryland to Denver, where Al accepted a job with Elmer Fox, Wesheimer a CPA firm. Al planned to start a consulting branch for his firm in Dallas this past summer.

Doug and I had a great summer of daily

Human Rights Conference

John R. Lee Johnson '27 (right) and President Graves welcomed former Secretary of State Dean Rusk to campus recently for a conference on "Human Rights and Foreign Policy," sponsored by the Southern Center for International Studies. Rusk, a member of the Center's Board of Trustees, was conference moderator. Speakers included New York Times columnist James Reston, U.S. Senator Daniel Moynihan of New York, and John Scali, senior correspondent for ABC News. The conference was held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

tennis and lots of sailing. Peter will be three this fall and will be going to a little nursery school here in Old Town Alexandria.

Please send any and all news on yourself and our fellow classmates. I'm looking forward to hearing from you!

A good hunk of our news this time comes from the unlikely locale of Beach Haven, N.J., site of the Fourth "sort of annual" '71 Gamma Phi Beta Reunion and Beach Blanket Bingo. Ginny Vogel Carey writes of all sorts of shenanigans, including "misguided, sophomore Don Juans lured over by our sophisticated, chablis-inspired porch singing." Ginny is teaching technical writing in Williamsburg while working on a Master's in Guidance and Counseling. She's also a member of the James City County Planning Commission. Paul and Char Sandquist Berge have left the land of peanuts and crackers (Georgia) to become vagabonds for six months. Char is looking into beginning graduate studies next year. Sherry Althaus has left her job as resident counselor at a Charlottesville boy's home. Destination: "parts unknown." In Philadelphia Pat Albright continues her work as a drug counselor. Sharon "Smitty" Smith is "burning up the U.N.C. Recreational Therapy graduate program at Chapel Hill." Ginger Smith Chambliss and her family have moved to Charlotte, N.C., where husband Proctor will become youth minister at Myers Park Presbyterian Church. At William and Mary, Amy Jarnon has given up her classy title: "assistant dean of students" to start working on her doctorate. From their home base in Chesapeake, Va., Rick and Diane Paisley Capron enjoy camping in the summer and skiing in the winter. Diane is librarian at a Portsmouth elementary school.

Mark Shriver of Decatur, Ga., has been appointed as one of the three National Chairmen for The William and Mary Fund.

Esther Aldige of Chicago writes that after 2½ years working on Kellogg in the Market Research Department of Leo Burnett Company. (she became very well acquainted children's advertising), she moved to new clients, Nestle coffee products and Royal Crown. She still likes advertising.

In Abington, Pa., Sue Schwenk Volp is officiating women's lacrosse, sharpening her tennis game and "somehow managing her all-male brood." Ivy Akers Sinaiko works for the Internal Revenue Service in Alexandria. Babs O'Dell recently bought a house in Seattle and is putting her efforts into a writing career while working for a blue jeans importer. Robyn King is Dean of Students at Madison College. Craig and Sharon Maier Saline and new daughter Stephanie are living in Lockland, Ohio. Now settled into a new home in Illinois, Bob and Marilyn Wynkoop Baines are 'Navy brats': Bob is doing dentistry for Uncle Sam. Marilyn continues her career with the Social Security Administration. Nancy Bierly Chaney is a librarian at the University of West Virginia while her husband practices law in Charleston. Cindy Cave Brown is working on her Ph.D. at the Maxwell School of Public Administration in Syracuse. Robin Roettinger Snodgrass, husband Dale, daughter Danby, and dalmations Ajax and Hebe are in Virginia Beach, where Dale flies F-14's and Robin and friends spend their days "grooving on the sand and surf." And Cyndy Hicks is at the National Outdoor Leadership School in Wyoming. . . She went out for a few weeks last summer and never returned. . .

Dwight Dansby writes that "after several years as an electrician and plumber and three years as a law apprentice by day and Williamsburg Inn bartender by night, I have finally passed the Virginia Bar exam and set up offices in Williamsburg and Newport News." He adds that, although his grab-bag of jobs put him through school, that "it sure is nice nto to have to rely on Colonial Williamsburg to make a living." A note from Beth Harris McMullen lets us know that she is working as an auditor with Arthur Andersen & Co. in D.C. after graduating at the top of her class with a B.S. in Business Administration from Penn. State.

The social event of the spring had to be the nuptials of Barbara and Skip Stiles. The event took place in the garden of an exclusive northern Virginia club, complete with tuxedoed waiters, and even Admiral Stiles himself occasionally dispensing the bubbly. On hand were the likes of Tom "Sak" Rees, who recently startled the academic world with the announcement of his return to Yale Law; and Alan and Cindy Viau Kahan (Alan's artistic talents are now being put to work at a scientific trade journal).

An unusual birth announcement from Ben McKelway in Idaho: "Cate and I had a baby boy, born Aug. 17. His name is Jamie Brennan O'Neill. The O'Neill is Cate's last name--one small step away from male supremacy. The 'Brennan' is for my Williamsburg friend, John Brennan, who died of cancer at age 26." Ben and Cate also report that they are raising four chickens. Which brings me to my own 4-H activities raising 2 Aracaunas Hens (they lay pastel colored eggs) at the radio station where I work. Names: "AM" & "FM". They are being groomed for the upcoming Frederick County fair. I spent an eventful July in Europe. From Amsterdam, I trained south to Rome (where I stayed at a convent) then up to Geneva where I mounted a Puch moped for a trip across Switzerland and Austria with friends. A spill outside Lucerne landed me in a Swiss hospital for stitches near my eye. Then from Salzburg, it was up to Munich and Berlin, where a little book I was carrying with pictures of Hitler and WWII was destroyed before my eyes by a Smug East German border guard. That's all for now. Please take a few minutes to write to let your friends know what you're doing.

Rosedale, Md. 21237

After leaving William and Mary in 1973, Dave Corn went out west for a year working in Yellowstone Park, Sun Valley, Id. and on a ranch in Hailey, Id. He returned to Williamsburg in '74 to work on his MBA. After marriage and then graduation in '76, Dave began as a management trainee for J.C. Penney in Greenville, S.C., where he is now living.

A couple of other people have recently received MBA's from the College. Russell Astley graduated in '76 and is now working in Richmond for IBM.

Bob Matthews received his W&M MBA in '76, and is now working with Trocor Sciences and Systems in Rockville, Md., as an engineer scientist. To help pay his way through MBA school, Bob was a sewer inspector for James City County. Bob says that most people at least start at ground level and work their way up, but he started under the ground! Before leaving Williamsburg Bob was married to Cindy Whitt. Their wedding was in the Wren Chapel.

After receiving an MS in Computer Science from Ohio State, George Shepherd worked for a year and a half with a consulting firm to the Navy. Last April he joined the staff of the Naval Research Laboratory as a mathematician. George is living in Alexandria.

From June to mid-July Barbara Ann Diduk had a pottery exhibit in Andrews Hall. She presently holds a vocational diploma in ceramics from the West Surrey College of Art and Design in Farnham, England. Barbara is also now completing her Master of Fine Arts degree at the University of Michigan.

Debbie Seaver Roe said that teaching sex education in the Hampton City schools for four years finally paid off on April 4, 1977, when she and her husband, Paul, had a son, Christopher Paul. In addition to a new son, they also have a new home in Hampton, to which they moved two weeks after Chris was born. Debbie says she's planning to continue teaching this fall.

Elaine Wack Becker wrote to say that she and her husband, John, '72, are now living in Norfolk. They were married at St. Bede's in December of 1973, and lived in Williamsburg for 2 years while Elaine was teaching art at James Blair. She has since completed a graduate program in Art Psychotherapy at Eastern Virginia Medical School, where John received his M.D. in September of 1976. Elaine now works as an art psychotherapist at a private psychiatric center, while John is doing his residency work at Norfolk General Hospital. When I heard from Elaine, she had recently been to a National Art Therapy Convention in Baltimore, and lots of nice things to say about the city. We are also finding that this really is a very diverse city with quite a lot to offer, contrary to what most people seem to think. For all of you who have only seen Baltimore from I-95, there is more to the area than that scenic view from the Harbor Tunnel.

After beginning work on a Ph.D. in Comparative Literature at U.N.Y. in Buffalo, Glenn Bowman, on a whim, applied to the Institute of Social Anthropology at Oxford to do graduate work. To his surprise, Glenn says he was accepted and he plans to spend a year in England after which his plans are indefinite.

Mary Jane Love Seay and her husband are the only Americans in a small town outside of Augsburg, Germany where they are stationed with the Army. Mary Jane also passed along the news that Bob Millious is living in Richmond where he is teaching.

Practicing law in Norfolk, Karen Buckley is with the firm of Cooper and Cooper. Karen graduated from the University of Virginia Law School in May 1976.

In Alexandria Dave Duff is practicing law with Donovan and Arthur. He and wife Kathy King Duff are living in Centreville, Va., which is in Fairfax County. Another lawyer, Tom Tokarz, graduated from UVa in January of 1976. He and another Charlottesville attorney have put together a corporation that extends legal aid in Virginia. Next year they plan to have 10 offices around the state. Living in Richmond, Tom says 'no', he is not married and 'yes', he has recently bought a house.

Hope everyone had a good summer. Al and I had a great trip out to the West Coast, covering over 2300 miles. In LA we got together with Lynda Butler, who spent the summer working with a firm based in LA. She will be finishing her final year of law school at UVa this year. Have a good fall, and I hope to see lots of you at Homecoming.

Once again, the fall finds me with a new address. Hopefully, though, this one is temporary, and by the next column, I will be living in Virginia. Meanwhile, please send your news to the above address, and it will reach me. And please remember to write!! I am afraid that these columns are getting a little sparse, so if you can't take the time to write a letter, just send a postcard. In any case, write!!

The first item came not from Robin Mead herself, but from another classmate, who sent me a newspaper clipping. Robin, who became a professional golfer last year at the LPGA qualifying school in Florida, recently played in the Broome County Open tournament in her native New York State. Unfortunately, I have no word of the outcome of that tournament, but I have heard that Robin will soon be moving to Florida. I haven't heard from you in a long time, Robin--how about some first-hand information?

From the other side of the country, Tykie Tobin writes that she "finally" got her MBA degree in arts management from UCLA, and is now employed as an assistant to the Dean of the School of Performing Arts at the University of Southern California.

Charlotte Earnest was also a June graduate -- she received the degree of Master of Religious Education from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville.

Back in the Old Dominion, Terri Bartlett started up the road to becoming Miss America when she was crowned Miss Norfolk in June.

Van Black retired after becoming something of a William and Mary institution, and is enrolled in the master's program in educational counseling at James Madison University in Harrisonburg.

Further south, Dave Fedeles is working as a communications consultant with Southern Bell in Atlanta. Ed Fishler, after completing his MBA at William and Mary, is also employed in Atlanta, where he is living in the same apartment complex as Jay Burgomaster.

From Portsmouth, Ron Gup writes that he was married in June, and is looking forward to graduating from Eastern Virginia Medical School in 1979.

Mark Smith and his wife, the former Noel Newell '73, are living in St. Andrews Fife, Scotland, while Mark is pursuing a Divinity degree at St. Mary's College of St. Andrews University.

Last spring, Mary Beth Leibowitz wrote from Dayton that while she enjoys law school in Ohio, she is "definitely going to return to the South to practice." Hopefully, this winter will be a little milder than last! Mary Beth is entering her third year at the University of Dayton law school, where she is both an associate editor of the law review and a Hearing Officer in the City Prosecutor's Night Prosecutor Program.

David and Tracy Walker Wyman wrote a long letter some months ago--they are still living in New Hampshire, and now have an eight-year old foster son, Ray, who is living with the Wymans until a permanent adoptive home can be found for him.

David writes that becoming a parent so unexpectedly creates a massive change in one's life-style--"suddenly there is no time for theoretical discussions of educational and developmental ideas. We have a son whose cold is more urgent."

Last year, Art Moody '74 and Mandy Linden were married at Shenandoah National Park, where Mandy is a seasonal park ranger. The couple spent last year in Williamsburg, where Mandy was the Head-start teacher and Art worked for Colonial Williamsburg. Recently they moved to Philadelphia, where Art will attend graduate school.

From Norton, Ohio, Christina Englund Bond writes that she received her degree in 1975 from Cleveland State University and is now employed by CAPCO Coordinating Office.

Susan Marshall is working on an MBA at the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, while employed as an auditor for the US General Accounting Office.

Houston, Tex. is now home for Libby Pruitt and Ivy Hibbs. They write that they plan to enter graduate school next year.

Connie Stuart is employed as a CPA in Washington, D.C.

Bill Whitman, who has enjoyed considerable success with his D.C.-based band, is soon to move to California to pursue a career as a musician.

David Rustuccia and Nancy Fuchs '76 were recently married, and are now living in Ludlow, Ky. Dave is doing audio-visual work for several major companies.

Bruce Falk was a spectator at William and Mary's graduation last spring, and recently enjoyed a business trip to L.A. where he "really lived it up."

Rick Martinko reportedly planned to embark on a backpacking trip of indeterminate length through the Shenandoah Mountains.

Sharon Pandak spent part of her summer travelling through Europe, and met Yugoslavian relatives for the first time.

Marcia Carl Simpkins was married in Williamsburg in May--her husband, Fred is also an MBA student. She spent the summer working as a teller for UVB, while in the process of completing her M.Ed. at William and Mary and also working on her MBA. Marcia wrote that she hoped for "work in the Lightfoot branch where I can do some studying!"

Final note--The deadline for the next column is about one month from the time that you read this--so don't delay in sending your news to me. Also, if anyone is thinking of moving to Detroit, I can tell you some areas not to live in--and have some great tips for evading motorcycle gangs on the Edsel Ford Freeway!

Barbara Ramsey who is living at 408 Griffin Avenue in Williamsburg wants all her friends to know that she is having a pre-Homecoming party on Friday night, October 28, beginning at eight o'clock. It's a b.y.o.l., and r.s.v.p.'s will be appreciated but not necessary.

How's the world treating the Class of '77? Unless you want to continue to read solely about the Richmond accounting world, please write and let me know what you are doing.

Richmond is full of '77 graduates. Many are celebrating after passing the C.P.A. exam and starting work with various accounting firms. Johnny Blankinship, Eddie Eddins, Richard Joh, Betsy Johnson, Carolyn Jones, Larry Skinner, and I all passed and are living in Richmond. Johnny is working for Price Waterhouse. Eddie is employed by Peat, Marwick and Mitchell. Ernst & Ernst's Richmond office hired Betsy and Carolyn along with Ron Clark and Steve Turner. I'm working for Coopers and Lybrand, while Larry Skinner is employed by Touche Ross.

Richard John married Barbara Bowen in May, and they are now residing in Richmond where he is working in accounting. Debbie Kelley is in management training with A&P. Nancy Nugent was hired by United Virginia Bank in their management program. Ellen Moore is employed by Phillip Morris, also in Richmond.

Rich Sisisky just started law school at the University of Richmond. Cynthia Casson began graduate work in human genetics at M.C.V. Beth Hutzler worked at M.C.V. during the summer and plans on studying there this fall. Steve Dinwiddie, Sherry Saunders, and Kevin Holmes also registered at MCV for graduate school. Jim Rutledge, George Coleman, Merle McCann, Tony Allen, John Barnes, Rick Nicholas, and Leight Anne Schwietz are attending the medical school.

Mary Barbara Comer is embarking on a four-year doctoral program in bacteriology and immunology at North Carolina.

Ivan Fears of Williamsburg has been hired by the Head Coach at the College to work with the football team, coaching receivers and offensive ends.

Greg Campbell, who also passed the C.P.A. exam, and Pam Jordan work for Coopers and Lybrand in Norfolk. Pat Giermak just could not leave Williamsburg. She's working with the Alumni Society.

Several '77 grads headed for D.C. Kathy Durdin, Mike Flurie, Jim Overson, Mark Palmer, Laurie Bond, and Becky Webster all breathed a sigh of relief after passing the C.P.A. exam. Kathy is an auditor with Arthur Andersen, as is Sherry Poskanzer. Mike Flurie is working for Peat, Marwick & Mitchell, along with Laurie Bond. Laurie just returned from a European backpacking trip. Price Waterhouse hired Mark Palmer. Becky Webster married Chip Craig the end of July and is working in D.C. Jim Overson is to be married in the near future and is an auditor with a D.C. accounting firm. Karen Murphy's working on Capitol Hill. She's assistant to the personal secretary for Senator Harrison Williams of New Jersey. Maggie Kneip attended a dance program at American U. this summer.

Bette Christoffersen and Gary LeClair both passed the C.P.A. exam and are working in the New York City area. Gary recently married April Wells. Andy Stumb is living near Greenwich Village in New York and working for Coopers and Lybrand. Rich Chambers is working for a bank in New Jersey. Carolyn Testa is living in Nutley,

Still Swimming

Shown here with some of his top swimmers, Frank D. "Rusty" Bruni '74 coached the Richmond All-Star Swim Team to the championship in the U.S. Youth Games this summer at New Haven, Conn. Bruni, who captained the swim team at William and Mary in his senior year and won the 200 and 100-yard Virginia intercollegiate freestyle championships in 1973 and 1972 respectively, is employed as a laboratory specialist at the Medical College of Virginia where he received an M.S. in cardiovascular physiology. Bruni is the head coach of the Richmond Metro Aquatic Club. Photo courtesy of Richmond Times-Dispatch which, with the Richmond News Leader, and the Department of Recreation in Richmond, sponsored the all-star team at the Youth Games.

N.J. She's working for the Prudential Insurance Co. in the claims department of their Group Life Division. Gita Vasers is attending medical school at Rutgers.

Debbie Rennolds has taken Atlanta. She's working for Habit, Arogeti & Wynne, an accounting firm. Robert Wright and Carrine Klingman also headed for Atlanta. They both passed the C.P.A. exam. Carrine is employed by Arthur Andersen and Robert is working in the tax department of Arthur Young. Cathy Wilson is working for the Government in Atlanta. Mimi Pfeifer is living in Chicago and working at Macy's.

Graduate schools across the country drew members of the Class of '77. Mary Sue Hogan accepted a teaching assistantship and graduate counselor position at Texas A. & M. Cat Taylor is doing graduate work in English at U.Va. Bob Stallings and Elaine Eliezer are attending the medical school at U.Va. Jeff Leppo is also at U.Va. in law school. GINNY Youngblood traveled across Europe before starting grad school at Yale. Steve Sides is studying at the University of Cincinnati. Debbie Allison accepted a teaching assistantship while studying medicinal chemistry at Ohio State. Joan Floyd, a Draper's Scholar, is studying in Oxford, England. Jody Roberts and Cindy Folsom are attending graduate school in geology. Cindy is studying at the University of North Carolina and Jody at the University of Vermont. Anne Weekly is in physical therapy at Duke. Gerry Vessely just started at Carnegie Mellon in public administration. Jeanne Nicholson and Linda Steigleder are traveling through the West in a V.W.

Several '77 graduates were married this summer. Phyllis Ashley married Dane Pescosolido, June 11. They are living in Columbia, Md., while Dane finishes law school at the University of Maryland. Susan Chapman married Greg Anderson. They are living in Waynesboro. Sandy Jeter married Tommy Smith. Michele Griffin married Bill Craig June 25 and is working for a Richmond accounting firm. Nancy Esper married Bob Gessner June 18. They are living near Minneapolis. Nancy Carter married Pete Hammond. In July, Paula Stassi married Bob Ott. August 6th Maggie Rollins married Bob Stanton in Richmond. They are living near Hershey, Pa.

Well, that's the news I could gather from somewhat reliable sources. Please write and let me know where you are and what you are doing. By the way, I mailed a check for $1,030 to Ken Smith for the craft center, closing out our account. The Senior Class gift reached over $18,000. Congratulations, on a job well done. We sure showed everyone else up.

Hub's "Home Cooked" Salted Peanuts

These are truly "home cooked" salted peanuts - prepared in a unique old-fashioned mouth watering way. In the Tidewater area we have been enjoying peanuts cooked this way for generations.

You will find these peanuts different from any others. They are crunchy and have a rich full peanut flavor that is brought out delightfully by a special and difficult water blanching process.

Only hand picked extra large Virginia peanuts are used, and they are processed with utmost care to give you the very best.

Keep them refrigerated for prolonged freshness. They will keep indefinitely in a deep freeze regardless of how often the container is opened.

Order now for weekend entertaining, snacks around the house, for the special touch during holiday entertaining. We are offering a special large size 46 ounce resealable can for $6.00 plus postage costs of $1.50 per can east of the Mississippi and $1.75 per can west of the Mississippi.

Crucial Bond Issue Due Nov. 8

William and Mary's efforts to help Governor Godwin explain the November 8 bond referendum to Virginia voters moved into high gear late in September.

Acting on the endorsement and support of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni, Society President Jean C. Bruce '48 of Norfolk wrote to all Virginia alumni--some 15,000 strong--to seek their assistance.

Each letter contained several copies of a handy fact-card with the request that individual alumni share the cards with friends and associates. That way, the efforts of 15,000 in the campaign could reach nearly 100,000 potential voters.

The bond referendum includes $5.1 million for William and Mary's new law school building--a facility which the American Bar Association has urged be built to avoid threatening the law school's accreditation.

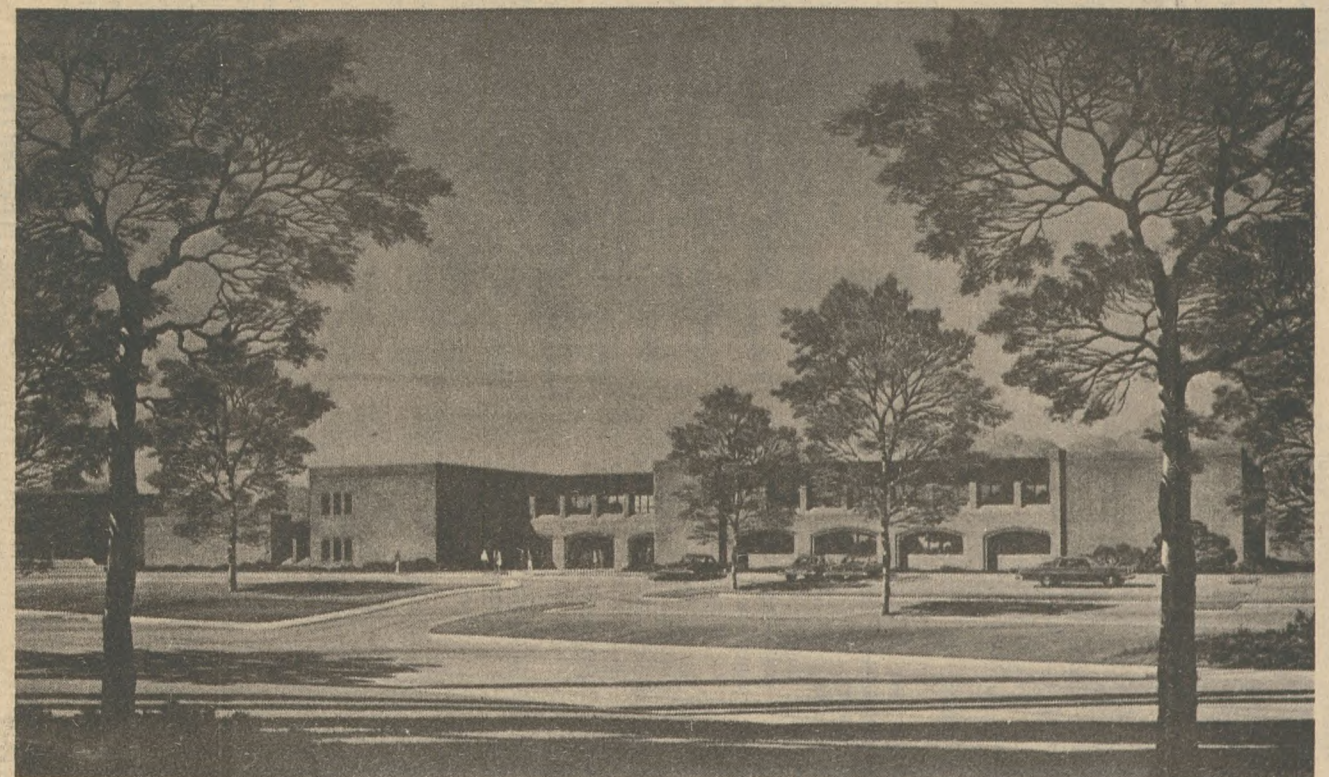

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr. (see open letter, p. 5) scheduled speaking appearances around the state among alumni groups and civic clubs, in part of a multi-pronged effort to win voter approval for the referendum. The appearances will take place during October and early November.

Several alumni chapters took an active role in bond referendum campaigning. The referendum was endorsed by the Roanoke, Charlottesville (Highland), Portsmouth and Richmond chapters. Roanoke Chapter President John Tucker '54 spearheaded an active promotional effort among members meeting there on September 20.

Students at William and Mary began working on an effort to get out the vote among those 18 years and older, under the leadership of Student Association President David Nass '78. Miss Kathy Hirschi '78 was named chairman of the students' effort to promote votes for the bonds' passage. The Student
