

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

Scott Donaldson, professor of English, will return from a year at Princeton next fall to bring fresh ideas and insights into the classroom.

Absence Makes the Mind Grow Stronger

Professors Conduct Innovative Research, Resulting in Fresh Ideas for the Classroom

Professor James C. Livingston has taken two leaves of absence in his 18-year teaching career. He used the time at Cambridge University in England to do research and write two books on Christian thought and ethics, one of which is used widely as a classroom textbook.

Livingston would have been an exception at William and Mary a few years ago when William and Mary had virtually no program to give professors time away from their classroom duties.

But no more. Through an imaginative use of non-state revenue, including alumni contributions, the College has developed a mixed program of faculty research assignments, exchange professorships, leaves of absence, for professional development and summer research projects that is described as the finest in Virginia by Dr. George R. Healy, vice president for academic affairs.

As a result new ideas, new information, new approaches and fresh insights are flowing back to the students.

Livingston, who plans to leave his job as dean of the undergraduate program at William and Mary this year to return to fulltime teaching, believes he is far more effective in the classroom as a result of the leaves.

"No research and no writing ultimately tells on your teaching," he says. "It affects what you can bring to the classroom in fresh ideas and insights. Our students are very bright, and they quickly realize when a professor is simply plowing over old ground."

Judging from the variety of faculty research underway, William and Mary students should have no need to worry about that.

Professor Scott Donaldson, for instance, is at Princeton University this spring completing research on F. Scott Fitzgerald. Donaldson, a prolific scholar in the Department of English, has recently completed a book on Ernest Hemingway, a close acquaintance of Fitzgerald, that is both a scholarly and commercial success.

Professor Don Baxter in the Department of Government returned last fall from a year as an exchange professor at the University of Leicester in England. The experience, he says, had a profound impact on his attitudes toward undergraduate education.

Professor John McKnight of the Department of Physics will use the fall semester to complete a biography on the great William and Mary professor William Small, after whom

Continued on page two

"If a faculty member is really interested in the quality of his teaching and scholarship, he must occasionally test his ideas with his colleagues in his specialized field through publishing."

Ronald C. Brown, a professor in the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, will spend next semester researching federal-state relations, a controversial topic in law.

Continued from page one

the physics building at William and Mary is named. McKnight will go to England and Scotland to conduct the research because, as he points out, there is simply no adequate way to gather the material other than to go to the country where Small spent so much of his life.

Ronald C. Brown in the School of Law will use his fall semester research assignment to study federal-state relations, specifically how much control the Federal government can exercise over a state as a result of Federal grants -- a topic of burning contemporary importance.

Professor Donald L. Ball in the English Department has a faculty research leave to continue his study on the Puritan influence on the Early English novel, a project that will significantly augment his knowledge for a course on the novel that he teaches.

The professors agree with Livingston on the necessity of having uninterrupted periods away from the classroom. And it all adds up to better classroom performance in an institution devoted to teaching.

"It is so easy to fall into a pattern of using the same old classroom materials," says Livingston. "Scholarship moves forward very rapidly, and unless you have time to read and do research in depth, you can quickly be out of phase with your field."

A conscientious professor, adds Professor Ball, can easily spend 60 hours a week on classroom preparation, teaching, committee and administrative assignments, and student consultations.

"It leaves virtually no time for concentrated research," he says.

Professor Vinson H. Sutlive, Jr., chairman of the Department of Anthropology, agrees with that assessment. He recently completed a new book without the benefit of a leave from his teaching duties -- but most of the writing was done between "midnight and 2 a.m."

The College launched its faculty research assignment program five years ago after the college faculties listed such a program as the top priority of the faculty. The problem the College faced was that the State does not fund research or sabbatical leaves for universities.

To come up with the money, the College looked to income from the College's endowment, the annual giving programs, and to overhead money generated by Federal grants to the College. The mix now yields about $100,000 annually for research.

The number of semester research assignments has grown steadily over the past three years -- from 17 awards in 1976-77 to 21 in 1978-79.

"We still are not at the level we would like to be," says Healy, "but we continue to nip away at it."

Awards of the faculty research assignments are carefully monitored by the Faculty Research Committee and Healy. Faculty submit synopses of their proposed projects to the Committee, which studies them and then makes recommendations to Healy who makes the awards.

Awards are for one semester, during which the faculty member is relieved of his teaching duties in order to conduct research full-time. He continues to receive his full salary from the State, and the College uses private money to pay for a replacement during the time the faculty member is on leave.

Healy sees many benefits accruing to William and Mary as a result of the program.

First, he says, no teacher can stay effective without "being very much aware of new developments in his field." Second, since teaching, especially at the graduate level, involves research on the part of the student, a professor "can meaningfully understand the research process only if he is involved in it himself." Third, says Healy, if a faculty member is "really interested in the quality of his teaching and scholarship, he must occasionally test his ideas with his colleagues in his specialized field through publishing.

Good research, says Dr. Healy, requires time, and some projects "require travel and the benefit of other libraries and locales that necessitate time away from fulltime classroom obligations." In addition, he says, the leave program enables to College to bring new people with new ideas to campus as replacement faculty, which is a way of injecting new intellectual blood into the academic lifeline at William and Mary.

Some faculty spend as much as a year away from the College through exchange programs and externally-funded fellowships. The American Council of Learned Societies sponsored Livingston's year at Cambridge University. Both Professor Carl Carlson in Physics and Professor Eric Herbst in Chemistry received the prestigious Sloan Fellowship. Carlson is in Denmark this year and Herbst spent last summer in Germany. Donaldson spent a year in Finland as a Fulbright Fellow. And Baxter's year in England came through a faculty exchange program.

"We encourage these kinds of faculty initiatives," says Healy. The College will, in fact, next year use private money to augment a professor's income when travel expenses or the differential in the cost-of-living creates a hardship for a professor involved in such a program. Professor Baxter, for instance, took a 25 per cent pay cut to accept his exchange professorship.

"We went through most of our savings," he says, "but the experience was well worth it."

For professors who do not win or want a full semester research assignment, the College sponsors a flourishing program of summer research grants. These give professors financial backing to conduct research between the academic terms. The Society of the Alumni awards five grants each year for faculty research projects.

Healy says he is "darn proud" of the William and Mary research program.

"We now have what I believe is the most generous research leave program in the State," he says. "I think it has come along very well."

-S. Dean Olson

College Supports Dalton Plan for HEW

While Stressing University Independence and the Right to Maintain Standards

The College's Board of Visitors on April 28 voted to have William and Mary make a "good faith effort" to achieve objectives of a Statewide plan for desegregation of higher education.

The plan, developed by the administration of Governor John N. Dalton and accepted by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, was designed to end a decade-old disagreement between Virginia and HEW over the desegregation issue.

In it, William and Mary has been assigned an "objective" which would lead to increased black enrollment. By 1982, according to the plan, William and Mary's freshman class would have 152 blacks, an increase of 116 over the 1976 entering class. Efforts would be made to have a number of black faculty and staff in proportion to the number of blacks available in the relevant "labor market." The College will be required by the Governor's Office to submit its own plan for meeting the objectives by July 1.

In other business, the Board formally endorsed the Association of Parents, an organization formed in 1972 to support the College. It also asked for a feasibility study on proposed modernization and renovation of Cary Field, built in 1935. In addition, it approved requesting State approval for a new Master's degree program in historical archaeology, the only such program in Virginia.

Text of the Board's statement on the desegregation policy follows:

"RESOLVED, by the Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary that the College of William and Mary will participate in the Virginia Plan for Equal Opportunity in State-Supported Institutions of Higher Education (Revised 1978) with the understanding that the following interpretations are consistent with the Plan's applicability to the College of William and Mary.

"1. The College is committed to the principle that equal opportunity in education shall be afforded those seeking admission to and those attending the College, without regard to race, color, religion, national origin, political affiliation, sex, handicap, or age. The College is also committed to the principle of equal opportunity in the employment of faculty, administrators and non-academic personnel.

"2. The Plan does not require and the Board will not approve any compromise of the College's academic requirements for admission or for satisfactory academic performance subsequent to admission in any of the Schools comprising the College. The College is committed to excellence in teaching and learning.

"3. Subject to the understanding in 1 and 2 above, the College is committed to make a good faith effort to achieve the objectives of the Plan for the entering undergraduate classes at the College with the understanding that when these objectives are subsequently reviewed and possibly modified as provided in the Plan, they will again be analyzed by the College administration and considered for action by the Board.

"4. With reference to faculty and administrators, the College is committed to make a good faith effort to achieve the interim objective 'that the proportion of blacks hired to fill faculty and administrative vacancies shall not be less than the proportion of black individuals with the credentials required for such positions in the relevant labor market area.' In the course of this effort, the College will maintain its requirements of excellence in faculty and administrative personnel. The Board notes that further 'objectives will be reviewed periodically to reflect changes and availability.' Revisions resulting from any such review will be analyzed by the College administration and considered for action by the Board.

"5. In participating in the Plan, the College through its Board of Visitors shall retain sole authority and responsibility for the admission and academic performance requirements and employment policies of the College, subject to the limitations of applicable law."

Society Board of Directors Nominates Ten

The Nominating Committee for the Board of Directors of the Society has presented a slate of nominees for the elections to be held in late summer.

Chairman of the Committee, John H. (Jack) Garrett, Jr., '40, announced that the ten persons selected to run for the five positions are: Re-nominees: James E. Howard, '43, of Richmond, a business executive; and R. Bradshaw Pulley, '39, of Virginia Beach, a life insurance agent.

Running for first term appointments are: Esther Aldige, '71, of Chicago, President of the Chicago Alumni Chapter; James W. Brinkley, '59, of Towson, Maryland, a securities executive; Kathy King Duff, '73, of Centreville, Virginia, a teacher; Robert H. Land, '34, of Alexandria, Virginia, retired librarian with the Library of Congress; Andrew D. Parker, '69 JD, of Warwick, Rhode Island, Associate Director of Development at Brown University; Dr. C. Cooper Pearce, '66, of Alexandria, a dentist; Austin L. Roberts, III, '69, of Newport News, a bank president; and R. E. Bruce Stewart, '27, of Portsmouth, a retired insurance agent.

Nominating Committee members were Garrett, Denys Grant, '58; Mrs. Donnie Chancellor Wintermute, '69; J. William Hornsby, Jr., '50; William G. Thompson, Jr., '28.

Recommendations were received from chapters and from individuals through announcements placed in The Alumni Gazette for two issues prior to the meeting of the committee, and through letters sent to all chapter presidents. Two persons must be nominated for each vacancy on the Board. Persons may be placed on the ballot by petition, signed by fifty contributing alumni, prior to July 15.

Results of the election will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society, Friday evening, October 13.

Questionnaire Begins Round Two

The comprehensive alumni questionnaire, to be used as the basis for publishing William and Mary's new Alumni Directory in September 1978, is going into its second mailing this month.

Plans for the questionnaire were announced last summer in the Alumni Gazette, and the first mailing brought a substantial response.

The comprehensive questionnaire requests a wide range of information in order to update alumni records maintained by the College. Only portions of the data will be provided to the Directory's publisher, the Bernard Harris Publishing Company of White Plains, N.Y. The published Directory will contain names, class years, spouses, and addresses and telephone numbers for both personal and business locations.

Alumni will have the opportunity to purchase the Alumni Directory from the Harris company, which will begin to telephone alumni this month. Alumni will be contacted for their directory orders from mid-May through June by the Harris staff. Both soft cover and hard bound editions will be available.

Encouraging Words . . .

Philip B. Hamilton, '31

Former Chairman of the Board
Dennison Manufacturing Co.
Waltham, Mass.

"If I were asked which period in my life was the most enjoyable I would say without hesitation from 1927 to 1931 as a student at the College of William and Mary. Four glorious years of carefree existence in the company of good friends and stimulating professors without life's later pressures and complications.

"No educational institution of higher learning could have done more nor is there any more worthy of financial support."

Campaign for the College

"Encouraging Words . . ." is a new series of short statements by successful alumni of the College, written in support of the Campaign for the College and its goals. The Campaign's monetary goal of $19,000,000 reflects the need to sharply increase private support for faculty development and research, program enrichment, and student assistance. Later this year, all alumni will be asked to make their commitments on behalf of the Campaign, in addition to increasing their annual gifts for support of College priorities and the Society of the Alumni.

Employment Increases By One-Third

Computer Science and Accounting Concentrators Can Often "Pick and Choose"

If the accounting and computer science majors awaiting job interviews in Stan Brown's placement office at William and Mary appear a bit more confident than students in other disciplines, they have good reason to be. They are being snapped up by firms before the ink is even dry on their diplomas -- and at starting salaries higher than ever before.

The employment outlook is good in most other fields too, although teachers - and some aspiring attorneys - may have to wait until August before they have jobs firmed up. Liberal arts graduates are in demand because of their ability to communicate -- the primary asset an employer looks for, according to Brown, the director of corporate relations and placement at William and Mary.

Overall, the employment outlook is at least a third better than last year when job offers were up by 50 per cent over 1976.

"We are better off at William and Mary than the national average," says Brown. "Students came in earlier this year to report they had found jobs or to ask us to help them select which of several job offers they should accept."

Brown says visitations by employers are up by 10 per cent. At least 115 firms will visit the College before school is out. Moreover, he adds, through better interviewing procedures and longer hours, job interviewers are seeing more students than ever before.

Still, says Brown, his office has had 563 more students request interviews than it could handle because of the sheer volume of requests. An employer, he notes, can see about 14 students a day. To deal with the problem, Brown has asked the interviewers to hold group interviews in the evening with students who are not able to see the interviewer individually.

This year, some 1,100,000 graduates are chasing approximately 900,000 professional jobs, continuing a 10-year trend of an increasing number of graduates and a decreasing number of job opportunities. The employment opportunities bottomed during the 1974-75 recession, but they have been improving since then.

One solid indication of the improving job picture is the Conference Board's monthly index of help-wanted classified advertising, which is based on surveys of advertising in newspapers across the country. The New York-based business research organization says the index hit a high of 139 in February, compared with 106 in February 1977 and 129 in July, 1973, the previous high.

Starting salaries are up too, according to Brown. He notes the improvement of 5-6 per cent over last year is reflected by the example of accountants, who last year drew beginning salaries of between $12,000 and $13,000 and this year are up to between $13,300 and $14,500.

The average offer for William and Mary undergraduate students, he says, is between $10,000 and $11,000.

Spokesmen for both the law school and School of Education say the employment picture is still too unsettled to draw any firm conclusions, but both feel the outlook is at least as good as last year.

"There are plenty of jobs for math teachers," says John Sykes, placement director for the School of Education. "History and the social sciences are tight; art, music, and modern languages are mediocre. In the lower grades, the best opportunities are in grades 4 through 7."

New laws governing opportunities for special education and learning disabilities have placed teachers in these areas very much in demand.

Sykes says 75 per cent of the education graduates got jobs last year.

"It will be as good this year," he adds, "but students may have to wait until August before the offers come. Since there are more graduates in education, schools are being more selective and waiting longer to make up their minds."

Many of the job offers in law are not firm until August either, according to Louise Murtaugh, the law school placement director. Nonetheless, when all the statistics are in, William and Mary's law graduates will show a higher degree of job success than the national average -- which is about 60 per cent.

Mrs. Murtaugh says that of the 146 who graduated from the law school last year, 118 were employed as of March, 9 were still seeking legal related employment, and the status of 19 was unknown.

She notes that the large firms came in last fall and "took the cream of the crop." The smaller firms, she says, wait on the bar exams in February and July to make their decisions.

"A lot of students have irons in the fire, but won't know what is going to happen until after the July bar," she adds.

One pending law graduate, Jeff Detwiler, who is fourth in his class, already has his bags packed for San Francisco where he has accepted a job in the $20,000 range with a large firm. Detwiler had offers from eight firms in all parts of the country, and visited San Francisco, Chicago, Baltimore, Seattle, Philadelphia, and Portland at the expense of the recruiting firms. For him, job hunting was a joy.

Editor's Notebook

In many quarters on the campus, April is known as "admissions" month.

By April 1, hopeful applicants are notified of the Admissions Office's decision to admit, to place on the waiting list, or to turn down. Those who are offered admission have one month to accept and tender their deposit toward first-year expenses.

"Admissions" month at William and Mary was, in 1978, significantly more hectic than April has been in recent years. For one thing, the number of applications was still rising -- a total of 18% in two years. That means that more applicants will learn that William and Mary cannot accommodate them, leading to more letters, visits and telephone calls to the Admissions Office and elsewhere on campus by appealing parents, friends and alumni.

For another thing, a stepped-up effort was made to use the month of April to "sell" the advantages of a William and Mary education to exceptionally promising and accepted applicants who are trying to select which college, out of several, to attend. The Alumni Society worked with the Admissions staff to entertain many of those who were accepted; a mass "day on campus" was offered to accepted students and their parents, involving virtually every academic department chairman and numerous faculty in an orientation effort; and the Dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences, Jack D. Edwards, personally wrote and telephoned selected applicants to invite them to visit William and Mary individually for a day. Leroy Moore, director of Minority Affairs, made similar efforts among black and other minority applicants.

These efforts were designed to increase the number of top students who enroll at William and Mary, rather than letting similar top-quality universities win them away.

"Admissions" month of 1978 also took a controversial turn. This came with the decision, apparently by students, to leak to the press a confidential and incomplete study of the academic records of those students who were eligible for special consideration in the admissions process--alumni children, athletics recruits (men and women) and minority students.

The policy on admissions which granted special consideration to those in these categories (along with individuals having special talents such as musical or artistic ability, writing talent, etc.) was adopted by the Board of Visitors in 1973. The College's Committee on Admissions Policy decided last fall to study the effects of the special admissions policy on academic performance.

As reported in the media, the Committee's preliminary analysis showed that minority students enrolled in fall, 1975, had a mean grade point average (GPA) after their first two years of 2.22, athletes with grants-in-aid had a mean GPA of 2.19 and alumni children had a mean GPA of 2.65. All others in that class had a mean 2.73 GPA. The Flat Hat, among others, suggested that a fairer appraisal of these groups could be obtained by evaluating their performance through the entire undergraduate career over four years.

The media also noted that the total percentage of students admitted outside the regular freshman competition has grown to 40%. Actually, later figures showed, those in these groups amounted to only 23% of freshmen. And, the later articles pointed out, few of those within that 23% actually were admitted because of active special consideration on their behalf.

In the face of the College's effort in recent years to increase minority enrollment, the leakage of incomplete negative information was viewed with dismay by Leroy Moore--just as he was working with individuals who were choosing between William and Mary and other universities. The intercollegiate athletic leadership was also aghast, because the coaches have concentrated on recruiting scholar-athletes and providing them special tutoring when necessary during the competitive seasons. The alumni leadership argued that nearly all alumni children who apply are routinely accepted, with no special consideration.

The admissions process is a delicate one at as competitive a university as William and Mary. It deals with a variety of factors, some objective and some subjective, in the decision process. Above all, young people are at the heart of the matter. For that reason, it is unlikely that the College will ever officially publish a clarifying analysis of the grade studies.

--Ross Weeks Jr.

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

May, 1978

Volume 45, No. 9

Editor, Ross L. Weeks, Jr.
Associate Editor, S. Dean Olson
Class News, Trudi Topping
Typesetting, Sylvia B. Colston
Design, Jim Rees

Established June 10, 1933, by the Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary, box GO, Williamsburg, Va. 23185; monthly. Second-class postage paid at Williamsburg and Richmond. Subscription rates $5.00 a year.

Officers of the Society are: President, Harriet Nachman Storm, '64, Hampton, Virginia; Vice President, John H. Garrett, Jr., '40, Irvington, Virginia; Secretary, Patricia King Sell, '58, La Jolla, California; Treasurer, Denys Grant, '58, Richmond, Virginia; Executive Vice President, Gordon C. Vliet, '54, Board of Directors: To December 1980: Marilyn Miller Entwisle, '44, Meadowbrook, Pennsylvania; R. Stanley Hudgins, '43, Virginia Beach, Virginia; Norman Moomjian, '55, New York, New York; Patricia King Sell, '58, La Jolla, California; Marvin F. West, '52, Williamsburg, Virginia; To December 1979: Elaine Elias Kappel, '55, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania; John H. Garrett, Jr., '40, Irvington, Virginia; Denys Grant, '58, Richmond, Virginia; Jane Spencer Smith, '48, Grosse Pointe Shores, Michigan; Henry D. Wilde, Jr., '53, Houston, Texas; To December 1978: Jean Canoles Bruce, '49, Norfolk, Virginia; J. W. Hornsby, Jr., '50, Newport News, Virginia; James E. Howard, '43, of Richmond, Virginia; R. Bradshaw Pulley, '39, Virginia Beach, Virginia; Harriet Nachman Storm, '64, Hampton, Virginia.

On Campus

Tuition Stays Same for '79

Costs for attending the College will go up only slightly next year.

The Board of Visitors increased the general fee by $22.50 per semester for both in-state and out-of-state students. There was no tuition increase.

The action means in-state students will pay a total of $1076 per year in tuition and general fees and out-of-state students will pay $2524. The rate for the current year is $1031 and $2479.

The Board approved an increase in the board rate of $32 per semester, from $387 to $419 or a total of $838 per year, and an increase in room rent from a present range of $320 to $420 per semester to a range of $350 to $445 per semester, or a total of $700 to $890 for the full academic year.

Semester hour tuition rates for part-time students will increase from $34 to $36 (in-state) and from $83 to $85 (out-of-state).

Two Sophs Receive Aid

Two sophomores at William and Mary have received scholarships recently for study in 1978-79.

Clayton M. Clemens of Salt Lake City has been named a Harry S. Truman Scholar. Clemens is one of only 53 students to receive the prestigious scholarship which covers up to $5,000 in tuition, fees, books and living expenses during his junior year at the College. The Truman Scholarship Foundation usually renews the award for the winner's senior year and for two years of graduate study.

The scholarship is awarded on the basis of potential for leadership, academic ability, and success in government service.

Jeanne Renee Meyer, a sophomore German and mathematics major, has been selected for the Munster Exchange Scholarship for 1978-79.

Miss Meyer is from Richmond. She will study at the University of Munster in Germany during her junior year.

U.Va. Honors Dr. Paschall

Dr. Davis Y. Paschall '32, President Emeritus of William and Mary, has been awarded the third annual Distinguished Alumnus Award by the University of Virginia.

The award is given to an alumnus who has maintained a continuing relationship with the education school and has made significant contributions to the profession. Presentation was made at the University's Education Weekend.

Dr. Paschall was president of the College for 11 years, retiring in 1971. During his administration, the College realized a $36 million new campus as well as the development of new graduate programs, departments and schools. He was State Superintendent of Public Instruction in the 1950's.

Four Students Die in Crash

The College is grieving the loss of four of its students who died as the result of a one-car accident near West Point, Va., on April 14.

The students were returning to Williamsburg from Washington, D. C., when the accident occurred.

Killed were Glenn Robert Balas, 20, junior from Chatham, N.J., Gary Neal Altman, 20, junior from Cherry Hill, N.J., Graham John Tancill, 21, junior from Rockville, Md., and Paul David Cahill, 22, senior from Williamsburg.

All four were members of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity.

"Thirteen States" Start Grant

The College of William and Mary has been selected the Virginia recipient of a $1,000 annual scholarship sponsored by the Bicentennial Council of the Thirteen Original States.

The Bicentennial Council (BCTOS) established in 1977 a plan to award a scholarship in each of the thirteen states included in its membership. Selection of William and Mary for the Virginia award was based on a recommendation by Lewis A. McMurrin, Jr. of Newport News, and Parke Rouse, Jr. of Williamsburg, the Virginia trustees of the Council. McMurrin is chairman of the Virginia Independence Bicentennial Commission and Rouse is executive director.

The College will award the scholarship to a person who has evidence of exceptional merit. Currently, most other forms of financial assistance at William and Mary are disbursed on the basis of demonstrated need.

The 1978-79 Bicentennial Scholarship will be awarded to Miss Emilie Margaret Amt, a graduating senior from Takoma Park, Maryland. Miss Amt, a student at Montgomery Blair High School in Silver Spring, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Amt, 7111 Sycamore Ave.

Faculty Newsmakers

Professor Leonard Schifrin, professor of economics, has completed two projects in the area of health care economics. The first of these was a prepared statement on behalf of the Consumer Affairs Committee of Americans for Democratic Action, submitted to the U.S. Federal Trade Commission in its Proceedings on the Advertising of Over-the-Counter

Drugs. The second was a study prepared for the Consumer Protection Division of the FTC on "The Benefits and Costs of Repeal of State Drug Anti-Substitution Laws."

A new book by R. Merritt Cox, professor of modern languages, entitled "Spanish Literature of the Eighteenth Century," has been accepted for publication within the year by Twayne Publishers of Boston.

Scott C. Whitney, law professor, has been appointed a member of the Committee on Conservation of the Environment, of the American branch of the International Law Association. He has been designated rapporteur on deep sea mining and global commons issues.

James M. Naughton, national news editor of the Philadelphia Inquirer, spent three days on campus as the 1978 Journalist in Residence. Naughton received the third Heritage Award, given annually by the Society of Collegiate Journalists at the College for distinguished achievement in the field of journalism. Naughton's visit to the College, which included several sessions with students, was partly sponsored by the Society of the Alumni. W. Wilford Kale '66, Williamsburg bureau chief for the Richmond Times-Dispatch, is advisor to the William and Mary chapter of SCJ and the national executive vice president of the Society.

For the First Time . . .

The Real Story of the Royal Charter

Dr. Frank B. Evans, professor of English, emeritus, has written this fascinating account, The Story of the Royal Charter of The College of William and Mary. The result of extensive research of the files of the College and Colonial Williamsburg, Professor Evans' booklet tells for the first time the story of the origination and history of this unique document, granted in 1693, which founded the College of William and Mary. Available to alumni and friends of the College through the Society of the Alumni at $1.50 per copy. Order now by using the handy form on page 10. Limited Supply!

The Seldom-Selected Alternative

Students Who Live Off-Campus Must Make an Extra Effort to Become Involved

Each spring it happens; students eagerly anticipate the letter that determines their luck in the campus housing lottery. The lucky ones end up in lodges or single rooms. Some are left with not-so-desirable housing. And some are left with no housing at all.

"While the College can't claim to house all the students who want to live on campus, most who want campus housing do get it," explained Jack Morgan, associate dean for residence hall life. "Eighty percent of the undergraduates live on campus, including all freshmen."

Morgan pointed out that students who get "bumped" from campus housing often view it as an opportunity to get their first apartment. Many who get bumped and desire housing on campus are eventually accommodated, but it takes some waiting.

Where do those who get bumped go? Assisting these students is part of the responsibilities of Leroy Moore, associate dean for minority and commuting students.

"I see myself as a source of information and as advisor," said Moore. "While I don't go out and find housing for students who need it, I keep a list of available housing and refer students to it."

While some students opt for the various apartment complexes in the Williamsburg area, some pursue more unique methods of acquiring off-campus housing.

One graduate student mowed lawns, washed windows and trimmed hedges for people in residential areas so he could find a suitable place to live that was more private than a regular apartment. Some find rooms in guest homes which are rented to tourists during the summer months. A prize find is to rent the home of a William and Mary professor away on leave.

Many students find single rooms in some of the larger houses in the area. Oftentimes these rooms are not advertised in local papers—they are rented by word of mouth. One student may inherit a room from another who is graduating.

Bulletin boards around campus are a familiar place for those seeking off-campus housing. Notices of sublets and rooms for rent are posted around different campus offices.

Transportation is another problem for off-campus students. Those who can afford their own car are lucky. Some organize car pools from the different apartment complexes. But others are forced to ride the bus, ride a bike or walk. Housing close to campus is at a premium.

Moore pointed out that commuting students experience problems other than finding a place to live, deciding on study hours, planning meals and cleaning.

"We serve a social function as well as being a source of information for students here in the office," he explained.

Commuting students don't have some of the advantages enjoyed by those who live in dorms, sororities and fraternities. Moore's office is working with students to alleviate some of the problems that occur.

A program which is underway to help day students is the Day Student Council. The Council, in cooperation with Moore's office, provides numerous benefits to day students. Among the activities are monthly newsletters which inform day students of events on campus and facilities available to day students; an associate dorm member program which links day students with members of residence halls and allows them to take full advantage of dorm facilities; a program which helps fund day student parties in their own residences; and attempts to provide a common bond which unites all day students.

"I think day students generally feel alienated from the campus and there is a real need to bring them together," said Paige Archer, chairperson of the Day Student Council. "But I think that it's up to the individual to take the initiative to get involved."

Archer, a senior English major, lives off-campus with her husband and three children. She commutes 30 miles each day to come to William and Mary. She is a member of the Student Activities Council and has been very active in the day student council for two years.

"I felt I needed to get involved in some activities in the College community other than merely attending classes," said Archer. "I felt like I had something to contribute."

For whatever reason a student finds himself in off-campus housing, he knows that he has not completely severed his ties with the College. There are numerous activities and people waiting to be tapped, but the student must take the initiative.

Sallie Bowman of Richmond, Lisa Naser of Pittsburgh, and Nancy Read of Sarasota, Fla., in front of their rented house on Lafayette Street, about four blocks from campus.

Karen Detwiler

Letters

Play Said In Bad Taste

Dear Editor:

Subject:

Premiere Theater - "Advisor" Dr.
Louis E. Catron
April 7, 8, 9, 1978
Lab Theatre
Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall
The College of William and Mary

Question:

Is it common practice for the College of William and Mary to present and there-by sanction officially, student plays that are:

- Anti-Black
- Anti-Jewish
- Anti-Church
- Anti-Audience (Judging more from the AMOUNT of obscenities than from moral transgression itself.)

The Play:

"The Wreck of the Aurora" by Dylan Baker (Student)
Characters in the Play:

- Niger # 1
- Niger # 2
- Young
- Goldberg
- Old
- A. Rab
- Woman

A Second Question:

Is it common practice for the faculty and students to present the College of William and Mary in such a poor light, as to cause parents to become:

- Anti-W&M Tuition
- Anti-W&M Scholarship Fund
- Anti-W&M Faculty
- Anti-W&M Student

Opinion:

The play was not - youthfully fresh - progressive - or even radical. The play was that old, worn out (but not out of use) childish iconoclastic impulse.

This was not an impromptu frat house production. The play was the result of hours of class work and calculated re-writing with faculty guidance.

Responsibility:

It is understood that the students selected the play for production, but that fact does not dismiss FACULTY RESPONSIBILITY.

I teach communications art and illustration at the college level and I could not allow my art students to put on paper graphically the imagery that was auditory in "The Wreck of the Aurora."

The "Aurora" was not the only wreck. The night of the 8th of April was a disaster for me, my wife, my 15 year old daughter and 17 year old son. We did not have the advantage of an "X RATED PLAY" warning. We were led to the slaughter by optimism.

Opportunity Lost:

Students writing, directing and acting in their own plays, could have been - inspiring to brother and sister, encouraging for mother and father - IT WAS NOT.

Poor faculty judgment and students striving to be intellectual bully boys is BAD TASTE that will always create its own form of oppression.

At this point, I am NOT PROUD that my son is attending the College of William and Mary. We have ALL LOST an occasion for true pride.

Sincerely,

Charles A. Mendez
Washington, D.C.

(The following letter is a response to Mr. Mendez' letter given to the Alumni Gazette by the Board of Directors, a student group, of the Premiere Theatre.)

Dear Mr. Mendez:

It has come to our attention that you have written a letter to President Graves expressing your opinions regarding a recent production of Premiere Theatre. We understand that a copy has been sent to the Alumni Gazette. As members of the Premiere Theatre Board of Directors, we feel it necessary to reply and explain the policies of Premiere Theatre.

Premiere Theatre is a "new voices theatre," an experimental situation in which students may fill the jobs of everything from playwright to director to actor to technician. We cherish this opportunity to present our own work and deeply respect the department for making this opportunity available to us. There is only so much a theatre student can learn in the classroom; practical experience is a vital part of our growth in all areas of production. In giving us opportunities not available in any other departmental presentations, Premiere Theatre fulfills this need and gives students the chance to discover and develop our talents. We would not present a production that advocates prejudice of any sort. We strive to present only those productions of which we can be genuinely proud.

The Premiere Theatre Board of Directors does not see Dylan Baker's "The Wreck of the Aurora" as anti-black, anti-Jewish, anti-church or anti-audience, and certainly would not have produced it if we had perceived any of those qualities in the piece. Rather, we view the play as anti-stereotype, anti-prejudice and anti-hypocrisy. Our purpose is never to offend, but instead to entertain and, perhaps, to educate. If you and your family were not entertained, we are sorry and hope that if in the future a production distresses you, you will speak to us directly rather than going to President Graves and the press. You do us a disservice in withholding audience reaction, a valuable part of the learning experience for all involved. We are totally willing to accept responsibility for our actions and productions.

We are very proud of our association with Premiere Theatre and its many achievements and successes. Premiere Theatre has begun to extend its presentations from solely one-act plays to include full-length plays, still totally student-produced. To have full-length plays even being attempted at the undergraduate level is phenomenal; to have them reach the stage as successful productions, as Debbie Pryor's Magnolia Town last year and Lisa Buurma's Kin this year both did, speaks even more highly of student dedication, participation, talent and pride. It also says much of Dr. Louis E. Catron who, as advisor to Premiere Theatre, is willing to take the time to aid, guide and encourage us.

We hope you will not allow one bad reaction to keep you from returning to Premiere Theatre. We feel it is an important learning experience for both student and audience, one we are always eager to share.

Sincerely,

Sheryl J. Anderson
Lisa A. Buurma
P. Erin Munday
Rebecca E. Ritter
Theresa S. Smith
Hardwick Ray Spencer

Suggest Change For Alumni Trips

Dear Editor:

It has bothered me for some time that the only trips available to alumni are expensive group tours. What has inspired this letter is the brochure describing one that is to leave in August.

It was heartbreaking to read that William and Mary people will go on a journey that includes a stop at the Paris Hilton and sail down my favorite river, misspelled as usual, on an air-conditioned boat with a heated swimming pool. They will eat (often) on board and sleep there, thus being cut off from nearly all contact with Germans except those hired by the promoters.

The Mosel (it changes its name as soon as it crosses the border) cries out for travelers who explore it by car and on foot. One should be free to stop at a little hotel with geraniums in the windows and to relax in a Weinstube, saying frequently those lovely words: "Noch ein Mosel."

Would it not be possible once or twice a year to schedule charter flights to Frankfurt or Paris or London for those who just want cheap transportation and hate being herded and are not too sybaritic or timid or lazy to make their own way once they get to Europe?

Also, while I'm complaining, it was surprising to note that the Gazette, usually free of factual or typographical errors, had some bad ones in the April issue. On Page 1 it referred to "hoards" of joggers; on Page 10 Lou Bailey's name was incorrectly rendered, and on Page 11 Dr. Wagener's name was misspelled throughout a letter.

Sincerely,

Ed Griffin, '48
Richmond, Va.

(Note: Ed Griffin is not the only one who caught the typographical errors, which we should have corrected. But as to the charter flight idea, there are so many low-cost trips now available that such arrangements are available to anyone. The patrons of the Alumni trips, we find, prefer to be with people with whom they have some identity, and they want low-cost trips which include primarily transportation and rooms. Only the cruise trips, such as the one down the Mosel (the spelling varies according to region), involve "group" touring. Hopefully, those on this cruise will later want to explore the Mosel just the way Ed does, once they have a taste of the experience.

--Editor.)

April's Letter Brings Response

Dear Editor:

My letter to you in the April issue of the Alumni Gazette has brought me so many letters from friends and alumni of William and Mary. I was so pleased and surprised to have so many favorable comments of my recent letter to you. I have so many more interesting and meaningful memories of the happy days I spent at William and Mary.

I am always so delighted when I have a chance to talk to others who are going to William and Mary at present. Then, too, past graduates often share many similar experiences with me of their college days. I was pleased recently to hear that the Editor of the Sun newspaper in Clarksville was a William and Mary graduate.

Sincerely,

Susan Carpentry Carter '30
Boydton, Va.

Their Majesties' Royall Colledge

The Society has obtained two of the first edition leather bound copies of Their Majesties' Royall Colledge. This outstanding volume is extensively illustrated and is written by Dr. Jack Morpurgo '38. For further information on purchasing these collector's editions please contact the Alumni Office (804-229-7545). Price: $250.00 each.

THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI
OFFERS A UNIQUE EXPERIENCE

ALUMNI COLLEGE JUNE 4 to JUNE 9, 1978 'DIG INTO THE PAST'

RETURN TO THE COLLEGE AND HISTORIC WILLIAMSBURG AND RECHARGE YOUR INTELLECTUAL BATTERIES WITH AN EXCITING WEEK OF ARCHAEOLOGICAL FIELD WORK, LECTURES, SEMINARS, DISCUSSION GROUPS, AND FIELD TRIPS. UNCOVER NEW EXPERIENCES AND FRIENDSHIPS AS YOU DIG INTO THE PAST!

PROGRAM OUTLINE

Each day will begin with three hours spent at an archaeological site with "students" participating in the actual field work taking place at that site. Digging will be under the supervision of Dr. William Kelso, Executive Director of the Virginia Research Center for Archaeology, and his staff.

Participants should be advised that field work is demanding and "students" should be prepared for hard work, alongside trained professionals and other volunteers at the dig site.

Afternoon sessions will consist of lectures by Dr. Kelso and his staff. Subjects covered during these lectures will include:

ARCHAEOLOGY AND COLONIAL ARCHITECTURE IN VIRGINIA:
What remains to be seen?

DEFINITIONS, SURVEY, AND FIELD METHODS:
What are you doing and how do you do it?

IDENTIFICATION AND INTERPRETATION OF HISTORICAL ARTIFACTS:
Can the trash of the past speak?

In addition to the time spent in the classroom, there will be field trips to such sites as Carter's Grove, the recent site of an important and outstanding archaeological find, and Flowerdew Hundred Plantation, one of the most fully developed 17th century settlements in the New World.

Planned evening programs include an outstanding presentation by Ivor Noël Hume, Chief Archaeologist for Colonial Williamsburg, and a concert of 18th century organ music in the Wren Chapel by Jock Darling. The opening buffet and the closing Colonial Feast, replete with 18th century entertainment, are the only evening meal commitments. All other evenings you are free to enjoy your choice of Williamsburg's fine restaurants.

Advanced readings will be assigned to better prepare enrollees for the experiences awaiting them. Only by the preparation and participation by each person will "students" fully benefit from this unique experience in a unique setting.

Athletic and recreational facilities of the College will be available during free period times for children and adults. The Alumni College staff will assist in obtaining reservations in local eating establishments and at other tourist attractions.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Accommodations are designed to provide an inexpensive vacation for the entire family. Rooms and suites will be in Dupont Dormitory and fees include linen service and medical fees for the College infirmary. Breakfast Monday through Friday and Lunch Monday through Thursday will be in the College dining facilities.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

A program for children of alumni attending will be organized around the interests and ages of those children enrolled. Such activities as a tour of the Powell-Waller House in the restored area, the college greenhouse, several field trips, and an athletic recreational program will be coordinated by the Children's Program Director, and will coordinate with the adult program where convenient and appropriate. Only children between the ages of 10 and 15 will be accepted.

REGISTRATION AND FEES

Reservations will be limited to 30 adults and all applications will be accepted after April 1, 1978, with some consideration being given to age and geographic distribution as necessary and if possible. This will allow all alumni to receive the ALUMNI GAZETTE and make application.

To register, complete the tear off form below and return with deposit or full payment.

The registration fee covers room, breakfasts and lunches, opening reception and buffet, Colonial Feast, linen service, and all course materials except for books on the suggested reading list.

Colonial Williamsburg admission tickets good for three days of unlimited visits to buildings are included in the fee.

Classroom supplies, films, faculty honoraria, bus transportation, and a special gift to the College are included in fees.

ADULT RESIDENT (staying in Dormitory)	$225.00
COMMUTER ADULT	$210.00
CHILD (age 10-15 only will be enrolled)	$205.00

An enrollment deposit of $100.00 per person is required.

REGISTRATION FORM

ALUMNI COLLEGE 1978 - "DIG INTO THE PAST", P.O. BOX 60, WILLIAMSBURG, Va. 23185.

Patricia Giermak, '77, Director

Please enroll _____ persons in the Alumni College 1978 (only alumni and spouses are eligible).

Enclosed is a deposit of $100.00. Full payment is enclosed Check # _____ Total _____ Make checks payable to Society of the Alumni - Alumni College. Full payment due May 15, 1978.

We will require dormitory accommodations for _____ persons. We will commute _____.

Cancellation Policy: Full deposit is refunded up to 30 days before opening day. After May 5, deposits will be refunded only if replacement person is enrolled.

NAME _____

please print all information

CLASS _____ Spouse _____ CLASS (if Applicable) _____

CHILDREN: _____ Age _____

ADDRESS _____

Street

City _____ State _____ Zip Code _____

Telephone: Home _____ Business _____

FURTHER REGISTRATION INFORMATION AND FORMS WILL BE SENT UPON ACCEPTANCE. NO APPLICATIONS WILL BE ACCEPTED BEFORE APRIL 1, 1978. ONLY WRITTEN APPLICATIONS WILL BE ACCEPTED. PLEASE NOTE CANCELLATION POLICY.

Educating Tomorrow's Female Executives

A Special Program Stresses Survival in a World Dominated by Men

As the Campaign for the College enters its third and final year, it has been responsible for a number of changes on campus. One of the most significant of these changes is in the School of Business Administration.

The "Women in Business Program," made possible by a $100,000 gift to the Campaign by the IBM corporation, has changed the face of the Business School. This year thirty percent of those enrolled in the school are women--the national average in business schools across the country is six to ten percent female enrollment. And while the program cannot be credited as being solely responsible for this increased enrollment, it has made very definite and positive contributions to the School.

The program, announced one year ago this month, is one of the first of its kind in the nation. Its goal is to encourage women to pursue careers and attain executive positions in management. The program is geared to allow women to participate in a curriculum where the competitive environment is similar to that in the world of business.

Linda Allen, second year MBA student from Richmond, expresses a concern which is widespread among many women enrolled at the School.

"Any job I secure or any promotional opportunities made available to me should be made because I am qualified for the job," Allen explained. "I don't want any special favors because I am a woman."

The seminars sponsored by the Women in Business Program are geared to help women in the business environment, but they are also careful not to plan topics which are exclusive to women.

In November, 1977, 425 men and women participated in the first major seminar sponsored by the program. The list of participants was impressive, among them Betty Friedan, author of "The Feminine Mystique" and "It Changed My Life;" Joan Showalter, vice president for personnel and recruiting at CBS and a William and Mary graduate; Mercedes Boyle, a staff specialist for the American Telephone and Telegraph Company; and Marty Sullivan, planning and women's programs manager for IBM.

Since the November seminar, the Women in Business Program has switched gears and aimed at smaller seminars with more specific topics. Earlier this year Eleanor MacDonald, a professional business-woman who worked for Unilever for 24 years, and is currently director of a Women in Management program in England, was invited to speak to students and business people in the area about career development. In April the Program sponsored a "Speak for Success" seminar, a program designed to improve the speaking skills of women to enable them to better participate in the business environment. A final seminar for the year will deal with "Dress for Success."

Sarah Bane, director of the Women in Business Program and a December, 1977 graduate of the MBA program, has worked with many faculty and administrative members of the Business School to insure the success of the program.

"I think that women are beginning to realize that four years of college are no longer sufficient to pursue a real career. They are finding that the MBA degree is a real alternative for them," said Bane.

The program is also reaching community women, who are beginning to enroll in the program part-time to further their careers. Scholarships are offered to women returning to school to improve their career opportunities.

While there have been no changes made in the curriculum because of the new program, Bane feels that the awareness of people involved in the School of Business Administration has been heightened in relation to the special problems of women in the business environment.

Undergraduates as well are helped by the program. Bane feels that it is important to provide role models of women who have succeeded in the business world to encourage undergraduate women to continue in business.

Many undergraduate women do come to the office to discuss business careers, Bane explained, and she encourages them to participate in the seminars. "The fact that I'm here--that I am a business school graduate--serves as a very real example for them," she said.

The first year of the program is drawing to a close, and there are definite plans for the future. Bane hopes eventually a course will be added to the curriculum which is taught from a women's perspective. The ultimate goal of the program is to prepare a model program for Women in Business that can be used by other universities and perhaps corporations.

"I feel there's a real need answered by talking to women who have gone as far as they can with their present education," said Bane. "I think that going to corporations and talking to the women there would be very beneficial to both the women and the corporation. Those who desire to return to school would be encouraged to do so."

Dean of the School of Business Administration Charles L. Quittmeyer said when the program was first announced, "It's obvious that in the future we'll be called upon more and more to better prepare women to face the challenges of the ever-changing, super-competitive business world." This is the hope--that William and Mary, with the Women in Business Program grant from IBM, will better prepare women to secure management positions in the business world.

Karen Detwiler

Board Praises Mrs. Duncan

Mrs. Marion Moncure Duncan '35, died April 15 in Alexandria following an illness. A member of the Board of Visitors from 1966 until 1974, when she was not eligible for reappointment, she received the Alumni Medallion for service and loyalty in 1977.

The Board of Visitors, in a resolution adopted April 28, said "her legacy is the example she set of love and devotion to family, leadership she provided in public matters which were close to her heart, and the personal charm and warmth which she carried with her always."

From 1962 until 1965, she was President-General of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution. She was active in the Colonial Dames of America and the Order of First Families of Virginia, a member of the Board of Directors of the Jamestown Corporation; and author of a major genealogical study of her family, published in 1968. She received awards from the Boy Scouts of America, the Sons of the American Revolution, Soroptimists International and the Freedoms Foundation.

Her activities on behalf of William and Mary were many: membership in the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Association; the National Council for the Campaign for the College; and the Committee to Furnish the President's House.

She is survived by her husband and business partner, Robert V. H. Duncan, and three sons, Robinson Morton Duncan '63, Bruce Grigg Duncan '72, and Moncure Duncan.

Swem Acquires Galt Collection

The papers of the Galt family of Williamsburg, which was associated with Eastern State Hospital in an official capacity for over 100 years, have been added to the manuscript holdings at William and Mary.

The College has acquired over 10,000 pieces pertaining to the Galt family through a combination purchase-deposit arrangement with Anne Galt Kirby Black, an alumna of the class of 1944.

James Galt (1741-1800) was keeper from 1773-1800 while his brother, John Minson Galt I was Visiting Physician from 1795-1808. Alexander D. Galt, son of John Minson Galt I, was Visiting Physician from 1800-1841.

John Minson Galt II was the first to be given the title of superintendent at Eastern State Hospital in 1841. He served until 1862, and was a founder of the Association of Medical Superintendents of American Institutions for the Insane.

The Botetourt Boutique

"The Special Gift Shop for Alumni from Coast to Coast"

Gift Items "Guaranteed to Please"

- A. W&M sterling silver cipher jewelry handcrafted by Mike Stousland, '41. Pendant with chain $15.00; pierced earrings, $10.00; pin with safety catch, $12.00; cipher charm (not shown) $5.00; Bronze finish Wren Building weather vane tie tack, $5.00.
- B. Pottery plate: coat-of-arms plate, 12" dia, dark green, can be hung on the wall, used for an ashtray or decorative piece. $17.50. Hand-blown glass mugs created with the same tools, techniques and materials used by craftsmen at the Jamestown Glasshouse in 1608. Combining elegance with tradition, each has been stamped with the William and Mary cipher taken from the College boundary stone. $8.95. Coasters, boxed set of 4 with the coat-of-arms and the cipher. Heavy duty to protect your furniture and promote our college. $6.00.
- C. Belt buckles, from top, replica of 1923 W&M monogram buckle, $11.00; brass, antique finish replica of early 20's Fighting Virginians buckle, $11.00; replica of the 1919 W&M Seal belt buckle, $11.00.
- D. Handsome brass trivet crafted by Virginia Metalcrafters under the supervision of the Williamsburg Restoration. Royal monogram of King William and Queen Mary measures 7 3/4" by 6", $16.50.
- E. Striking watercolor painting of the Wren Building by Kenneth Harris. Unframed size, 22" by 14 1/2", $7.00.
- F. Full color facsimile of the earliest known watercolor published for the Bicentennial, $4.00.

Order Blank

Mail to Botetourt Boutique, P.O. Box 60, Williamsburg, Va. 23185

Item Description	Quantity	Price	Total
1. _____
2. _____
3. _____

Sales tax if applicable _____
 For all items delivered in Virginia, please add 4% sales tax. For each item except chairs, please add $1.00 service charge for postage and handling. Service charge _____
 Total enclosed _____

Make Checks payable to "Society of the Alumni."

Name _____ Class _____
 Address _____
 Ship To _____

Back Where We Belong

Roy Chernock's Track Team Once Again Ranks as the Best in Virginia

William and Mary's track team must feel like the man who read his own obituary in the newspaper and announced that the accounts of his demise were greatly exaggerated.

Other state track teams learned that in Richmond about William and Mary in April. Counted out as a contender after the Indians last year lost their first state title in 15 years, William and Mary overwhelmed 16 other state universities to win the State Intercollegiate outdoor track championship.

Second-place Virginia Military Institute, which went on to win the Southern Conference championship, could muster only 108 points, compared to William and Mary's 142 1/3. Defending titlist and favored Virginia Tech, which broke the Tribe's string of 14 consecutive championships last year, finished third with 82 1/3 points.

"I hope this proves to everyone that the track program is not dead at William and Mary," said Chernock, who assumed the head coaching position just last fall. "Our kids really wanted to win because they were tired of hearing and reading how down our program is."

Drexel George, the 315-pound weight star who captured his fourth consecutive State shotput title, credits Chernock with the Tribe's surprising comeback. George finished third in the Penn Relays.

"He is one helluva coach," said George. "Coach Chernock restored our confidence and really got us working and believing. His energy and enthusiasm have been contagious, and every member of the team has responded to his positive and knowledgeable approach."

In addition to George, five other Tribesmen took top honors. Rich Rothschild won the 1500 with an NCAA qualifying time of 3:40.0; John Hopke set a meet record of 1:50.5 in the 800; Kevin Cropp won the 5000 in 14:23.2; John Schilling captured the high jump with a 6-6 performance, and Mike Schay won the discus with a toss of 48.15.

William and Mary's depth in the distance events proved to be the dominant factor. The Indians took charge of the meet after an exciting 1-2 finish in the 1500 meters by Rothschild and Mike Hagon and then clinched the championship in the next to last running event, the 5000 meters, when Cropp, Mike Ellington and Jim Shields finished 1-2-5 in a driving rain.

The inclement weather plagued the meet the entire day, but Chernock found no reason to complain.

"The weather?" he said. "Hey, as far as William and Mary was concerned, it was a beautiful day."

Parkhill Nabs Prep Stars

Head basketball coach Bruce Parkhill lost a coach but gained two highly-touted prep stars since the regular season ended.

George Spack, a member of the basketball program at William and Mary as both a player and coach since 1969, resigned as assistant coach, effective in May.

Spack, who played for the Tribe for three years, has been on the staff since 1973 when he joined the Indians as a graduate assistant. Spack is uncertain of his future plans, but may return to graduate school.

A replacement will be named this month.

Meanwhile, Parkhill signed a 6-6 1/2 forward from Buffalo Gap, Va., and 6-4 guard from Washington, D.C.

The forward is 205-pound Dale Moats, described by Parkhill as "very explosive with excellent jumping ability." Moats scored 1259 points and pulled down 800 rebounds during his high school career.

The guard is Billy Barnes, a first-team All-Metro player from Washington and the outstanding player in that city's Tournament of Champions. Barnes scored 41 points against the top high school team in the country, DeMatha of Washington.

Parkhill said Barnes is "more than a blue chip player. He is pure gold."

Lacrosse Team Goes 10-0; Ramsey Leads the Way

William and Mary's women's lacrosse team has completed a perfect season against collegiate competition.

Led by All-American Ginny Ramsey, the women won all 10 of their games against college teams, including a victory over Maryland. The only blot on their record was a defeat by the Piedmont Club team, a collection of the top women lacrosse players in Virginia. William and Mary tied Piedmont in a subsequent game.

Ramsey was named to the United States All-University team, the equivalent of All-American. She toured England for two weeks with the team, which won all of its games.

Four other William and Mary players received honors. Pixie Hamilton, Cheryl Proscino, Betsy Frick, and Claire Campbell were named to the All-Virginia team and will compete in the All-South tournament and possibly the national tournament.

According to assistant coach Nancy Porter, this year's lacrosse team is the best in William and Mary history.

"It was the culmination of some years of work," she said.

Indian Bites the Dust

William and Mary sports fans will be seeing less and less of the smiling "Indian" characterization which has been used by the athletic programs for a decade or more.

In place of the cartoon, the Indians will be identified by the logo illustrated above.

The new logo has been in use for more than four years, on a somewhat unofficial basis. It first appeared on stationery designed for sports publicity by the College's Office of Publications, and its popularity grew rapidly. In 1977, Indian bumper stickers provided local fans by a Williamsburg business began using the logo, and decals issued by the Athletic Education Foundation to members also picked it up.

After exploring the identity matter with a variety of individuals this spring, Dean of Students Sam Sadler '63 determined that the old Indian cartoon was almost never being chosen to identify William and Mary sports teams.

As a result, the cartoon--which originated with the Cleveland Indians--will be removed in coming months from such locations as the arena floor of William and Mary Hall, the playing floor of Blow Gymnasium, and the scoreboard at Cary Field. To the extent possible with available funds, the new logo--designed almost by accident at no cost--will be painted in place of the Indian head.

Coach Roy Chernock and 315-pound shotputter Drexel George who led the Indians to the State outdoor track championship.

Ash Lawn

The weather was beautiful, the guests enthusiastic, and more than a dozen colorful peacocks were there as a unique welcoming committee to a very special dedication ceremony at Ash Lawn, the historic home of President James Monroe.

The ceremony marked several significant accomplishments. The College recently completed an extensive refurbishing of Monroe's "cabin castle" that included construction of a reception building, gift shop, restrooms and parking lot. In addition, William and Mary has sponsored months of intensive archeological and architectural research since it acquired the property as a part of the Jay Winston Johns estate in December 1974.

But more importantly, the College was celebrating the financial success of Ash Lawn. Profits from the tourist attraction not only paid for the refurbishing but provided funds for the new Ash Lawn fellowship in American history, a $2,000 scholarship given annually to a deserving graduate student concentrating on United States history before 1825.

The Board of Visitors, which had just met for two hours in the Rotunda at the University of Virginia, joined Charlottesville area alumni in saluting John Seidler, '63, and his wife Barbara for all their efforts in making the local alumni chapter the best in the nation last year. The group also recognized Mrs. Carolyn Holmes, the resident manager of Ash Lawn.

At top, new rector of the Board of Visitors Edward E. Brickell, '50, explains the financial success of Ash Lawn and the creation of the new Ash Lawn Fellowship Award. Above, a small crowd gathers outside the north entrance of Ash Lawn where Monroe would often stand to look out at the home of his friend Thomas Jefferson about two-and-a-half miles away.

Above, John Seidler, '63, and his wife Barbara, the driving force behind the rapid growth of the Charlottesville-Highlands alumni chapter, receive a framed Monroe print that will hang in Ash Lawn in their honor. Presenting the award is current chapter president Charles Huxsaw, '68. At right, Mrs. Carolyn Holmes, resident manager of Ash Lawn, shows her emotional response to the print donated to Ash Lawn in her honor. Below, President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., opens the dedication ceremony before alumni, Board of Visitors members, and special guests.

Alumni Notes

17 Educators, local elected officials and friends of Dr. Thomas C. Pullen, Jr., gathered at Catonsville Community College March 12 to dedicate the newly remodeled Board Room of the College, to be named in Dr. Pullen's honor. The dedication was recommended as a campus event in commemoration of the Bicentennial. The dedication was postponed for the necessary renovations. Dr. Pullen had gone to Maryland in 1926 as principal of Catonsville High School. During his long career he has received seven honorary doctorates, including one from the College. He has had nine buildings and rooms named after him: a library; a gymnasium; an elementary training school; the rare book room at the College; and a rare book room at the University of Baltimore; a Junior High School in Prince George County; the museum building of the Catonsville Historical Society; a room in the Maryland State Teachers Building, as well as this most recent Board Room of the Catonsville Community College.

25 Mrs. J. Stuart White
(L. Helen Smith)
140 Towne Square Drive
Newport News, Va. 23607

M. Carl Andrews
2814 Crystal Spring Avenue, SW
Roanoke, Va. 24014

27 It is with great sorrow that I report that F. James (Jimmy) Barnes II, our Class President, died April 11 at his home in Parksley, Va.

Jimmy had been in declining health for several years and was unable to attend our 50th reunion.

Dorothy called me to give the sad news and we had a lengthy conversation. She was glad that he had mustered strength in December to fly to California for the wedding of their son, Comdr. James Barnes, USN, who is stationed in Yokohama, Japan, in command of the destroyer USS Kirk. A broken leg two years ago, coupled with diabetes and heart trouble, hastened the end. Memories of Jimmy's ebullient nature will continue to linger with us.

The biggest news this month is about Lee Todd's 73rd birthday party, and what a party! How many of us have been greeted by more than 500 people on any birthday?

What follows is one of the most heart-warming stories it has been my pleasure to write:

As some of you may have heard, Lee suffered his second coronary in two years late in January and the result was an outpouring of anxiety over the countryside of Quinwood, W.Va. To mark not only his birthday but his return to part-time practice at his clinic, members of the Quinwood First Baptist Church planned a "surprise" party. When you tell a whole community, however, there's not too much surprise.

The gymnasium of Crichton Junior High School was decorated to rival July 4th, and people--family, patients, friends and well-wishers flocked to fill the hall despite continuation of the worst winter in memory.

I was hoping to get there myself but had to forego the fun. As Lee tells me, everything was perfect but the weather--there was snow, sleet, rain and fog. A good many planning to attend from a distance had to turn back.

In spite of this, they came from miles around, including countless babies Lee delivered over the years, their children and grandchildren. He also received telephone calls from all over the country, from Arizona to Florida.

Naturally, Mrs. Todd (Daisy) was there, also son John from Wytheville, daughter Ann from Roanoke, daughter Jane from Newport News and others of the family including a sister, son-in-law, daughter-in-law and grandchildren.

His pastor, the Rev. Houston Boothe, served as master of ceremonies on an occasion marking 44 years of medical service to the community. Many had to say a word. One read an original poem I wish there was room to print.

The athletic director of Greenbrier West High School presented Lee with a school jacket and athletic letter, making him an honorary letterman in every sport. Lee has always donated his time to give physical exams to players in each sport and has seldom missed a game of any kind.

The Greenbrier West High Choir offered a program featuring "What I did for Love." The Rev. Boothe presented Lee with a plaque and Bible. Gifts were too numerous to list.

Commented the Meadow River Post: "It was a fitting tribute to a man who has devoted his life and profession to the people of Quinwood and Western Greenbrier County." It printed a page of pictures. The front page carried a huge streamer headline: "Folk Open Hearts to Dr. Lee Todd."

Lee was born at Newport News, March 13, 1905, and was graduated from Newport News High together with me and several other members of William and Mary '27. He followed his brother John to the Medical College of Virginia and was graduated there in 1932. Two years later, he joined Dr. James G. Leech in practice at Quinwood, remaining until 1943 when he entered the armed forces until 1946.

Let Lee tell about it: "Times were not good when I finished my internship and I was glad to have the opportunity of serving Quinwood as I was assured of an income from the patients who paid $2.50 each for medical service. I came here not expecting to stay too long but it grew on me. It's a good life and I don't regret it. I have had other opportunities to work in big cities in major hospitals but this was really medicine to me."

Lee would like to retire or to slow down greatly, but thus far hasn't been able to persuade a young doctor to come and join him.

To complete our story, Lee became director of public health service in his native Newport News upon leaving service in 1946 and remained until October, 1951, when he returned to Quinwood, answering the call of the mountains and the home of his wife Daisy.

Where once he answered remote calls on horseback and even on foot, he now gets there by four-wheel-drive Jeep. In 1968, he received national attention for his work at the scene of the Hominy Falls mine flood. His tales of events in the back hills would fill a book.

All too many dedicated medical men finish their careers without a note of appreciation. It is wonderful to know that Lee received his salute while he could smell the flowers and hear the accolades. Quinwood appreciates him as much as William and Mary, to which he has been a most loyal son.

A footnote to this is that Lee and I got together with Art Matsu on April 7-8 at the White Jacket Board meeting in Williamsburg, Art flying in from Prescott, Ariz. We were three of the four organizers of OWJ and Lee succeeded me as President for two years, starting in 1976.

Word came from the Alumni Office that Robert W. Corstaphney of Dallas was in attendance at the Dallas Alumni Chapter meeting in February.

Walter Chinn, putting aside his health problems, writes: "The big news is that I am a grandfather at long last! My daughter Lucy and her husband, Dr. David Morrow, an environmental medical scientist with the University of Georgia Lab at Tifton, Ga., are responsible for this great happiness on January 25--Elliott Luke Morrow."

Walter adds that he regretted missing the class 50th due to a long-standing engagement for a Scottish trip. He did attend Charter Day at W&M, Feb. 11, with Betty and Charles Pollard, '25, and stayed on for the Masonic Grand Lodge 200th anniversary, Feb. 12-15, seeing many alumni he had not seen for years.

A few days later Walt had a major operation and for the past month has been at the UVA Hospital for therapy. Get well quickly, Walter, and congratulations on that grandson!

As a follow-up to what I wrote about Frank Hopkins in our previous letter--he became the last member of the class to become a septuagenarian on March 8, celebrating with a party of 50 family and friends.

On the way home to Washington from a Florida visit, Frank stopped off in Williamsburg to visit Max Brockenbrough/Houghland and saw her paintings. She is one of our most artistic classmates. Recently I wrote of the publication of another volume of her poems, Sea Sounds. The verse is quite lovely and sensitive. I wish all of you classmates could read them. Ask to see the volume at the Paschall Library in Alumni House next time you drop by. I particularly like the title poem, also "Candle Power," "Apple Blossoms" and "Sea Storm." She's an artist with words, too.

Following graduation from W&M, Max taught art in Richmond public schools, married Wright Houghland in 1932 and moved to Woodstock, N.Y., when he retired. There he continued his writing and sculpting while she painted and courted the muse.

In 1975, Max and Wright tired of northern winters and moved to Williamsburg "to stay put." She finds Williamsburg a stimulating place. Her first book of poetry, Out of a Clear Sky was published in 1935. She sells her paintings to private collectors through Woodstock.

Last, and certainly not incidentally, their son, Wright Brockenbrough Houghland, is an architect in Williamsburg and teaches in the Fine Arts Department at W&M.

This is the last class letter until next fall and there won't be one then unless you classmates out there write me a word about yourselves. I have written to numerous ones and have heard from only a few. Now that you have finished reading this, how about turning to your desk and writing a note or letter?

Macon C. Sammons
Box 206
Shawsville, Va. 24162

29 We did not forget the deadline for the May issue but the time was so short since the March issue that there was no news from any classmates. So please let those letters roll in during the summer months so we can pass on lots of class news for the first issue in the fall. We hope to hear from some of you who have not written in for some time. We hope many of you will be back for Homecoming in the fall, October 13 and 14. Make your plans to return now.

Word came from the Alumni Office that Harry L. Blair of Dallas attended the Dallas Alumni Chapter meeting in February.

31 Everett L. Butler
1017 Allison Street
Alexandria, Va. 22302

Mrs. T. Leonard George
(Betty Chambers)
5708 West Franklin Street
Richmond, Va. 23226

Forty-Fifth Reunion

October 14-15 1978

33 Hi, Class of 1933! I hope that no news is good news for all of you, as I've had very little. Margaret L. Shipley of Washington, D.C., did send me a note. She and Geno Miles have been on a Caribbean cruise. She wrote from San Juan, Puerto Rico.

My new neighbor across the street is also an alumna so we have fun talking together. She is Ruth Week Harvey, '35, from Petersburg, Va.

Bromley S. Freeman attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni chapter.

Classmates, watch your mail for information about our 45th Class Reunion in October. Please make plans to come back. A visit to Colonial Williamsburg is always a delightful experience. Though it has changed from the sleepy town of 1929, you will be surprised, as I always am, at the many changeless things which remain, especially on the campus.

Have a good summer, everyone! See you in October, I hope.

Mrs. J. Paul Kent
(Eleanor A. Martin)
616 Campbell Avenue
Altavista, Va. 24517

35 Wallace Gwaltney is in Ginter Hall Rest Home (3210 Chamberlayne Ave., Richmond) and is having a slow time recovering from his stroke. No doubt he would appreciate cards and letters from friends.

In February, a person who has recovered from several strokes and heart attacks and still keeps on the go, Bill Savage, was in Williamsburg for the President's Council and Charter Day festivities. After leaving town he went back to Norfolk, then to Richmond, to Chicago and on to San Francisco before leaving for Brasilia to check on some of his property.

Please remember to send some news of your self -- it would be welcomed by your reporter and I am certain also by other members of the Class of '35.

Dr. Elmo F. Benedetto
505 Essex Street
South Hamilton, Mass.

37 Lt. Col. Shale L. (Bud) Tulin, USAF (Ret.) is now engaged in a third career, working as a high school teacher on a substitute

THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI PRESENTS ALUMNI TOURS

SWITZERLAND

June 2-10, 1978 $527.85

MOSELLE RIVER CRUISE & PARIS ESCAPADE

(Washington Departure)

Aug. 24-Sept. 2 $989.00

POLAND

Oct. 19-27 $527.85

All prices subject to fuel surcharges and possible dollar fluctuations.

All tours Dulles Departure unless otherwise specified.

For further information and/or reservation coupon, contact: Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box G.O., Williamsburg, Va. 23185. PHONE: (804) 229-7545 basis--English, French, Spanish, German and History. Bud also serves as vice chairman of the Norwalk, Conn., Housing Authority and President of the Conn. Council of Chapters of Retired Officers' Association.

Elliott Cohen of Boston, Mass., has retired as Chairman of the Board of Directors of the Robert Hull and Co., Inc., insurance brokers. But he is still actively working as an insurance consultant/risk manager in his own established business company.

Joseph Marino, retired teacher-coach in New Jersey and now residing in Colonia, N.J., is planning to attend a retirement testimonial banquet next month for New Jersey Athletic Director and football coach Tommy Dellatorre. Joe was football captain and Hall of Fame winner when Tommy played on the grid squad as a sophomore.

On a personal note, I have added two additional assignments to my busy schedule as Director of Athletics and Physical Education in the Lynn, Mass., school system. One is Coordinator of Title 9 and Chapter 622 which deals with sex discrimination and equal opportunity in the school department and the other is a recent election to the Hamilton-Wenham Regional School Committee, the township where I reside.

39 Frances L. Grodecoeur
810 Howard Street
Monongahela, Pa. 15063

Mrs. John J. Brennan
(Margaret Jahnke)
425 Philbete Terrace
Virginia Beach, Va. 23452

41 In January, John and I saw Herb Young being interviewed on the local TV evening news. As a nuclear physicist expert, he had been called in to investigate some suspicious waste material that had been dumped near a park in Norfolk. Herb allayed fears by saying that there was no danger present. He and Jane are coming to Homecoming, October 13-15.

Jack Geddes writes that he is still working for the broadcast division of the New York Times Corporation. He lunched recently with Tom Crane '43, communication executive with the Columbia Broadcasting Company. Tom and Fran Crane will be coming to Homecoming, along with Bobby Taylor, Billy West, and Frank Yeager.

Mayor Vincent Lusardi of Brookneal, Va., and his wife, Carolyn Moses, will attend Homecoming. Their son is a senior at the College.

Jack and Mary Ellen Geddes are all set for Homecoming. They enjoyed the hospitality suite in 1977 and want to add their names to the list of financial supporters.

John Prince and his wife have moved from Pittsburgh to 605 York Warwick Drive, Yorktown, Va.

Austin Roberts writes that Barbara's leg, injured in a Mo-ped accident in Bermuda last November, still troubles her--that ligaments are a little slow in healing. The grapevine carries news of Austin's prowess in golf--a hole-in-one back in May (3 witnesses) and he's shooting in the 70's.

Austin and Jack Garrett '40 met in April to work up plans for Homecoming--possibly to combine activities with the Classes of '39 and '40. Be sure to reserve the weekend of October 13-15, 1978, for Homecoming. Information on reservations and class activities will be on the way in the near future--late May or early June. Have a good summer.

Mrs. Joseph Patterson, Jr.
(Virginia Curtis)
Box 162
Williamsburg, Va. 23185

Thirty-Fifth Reunion

October 14-15, 1978

43 Greetings from the Gentle City. No notes from anyone this time, but there is a happy Springtime thought to pass on. Grandchildren born this year will be part of the Class of 2000. Welcome to our Meghan Aileen McCall of that class.

Mrs. T. Cato Tillar
(Ruth Weimer)
703 Peachtree Street
Emporia, Va. 23847

45 On a recent visit to Emporia, Jeanne Schoenwolf Preston shared news of several alumni who enjoyed some very special trips. Audrey Hudgins Thompson and Buck vacationed in California, spending time in Carmel and San Francisco. They had a great visit with Sheila Stewart Ehrlich and Phil at their home in Belvedere. During '77, the Thompsons also visited Gloria Gruber Blakelock and Ralph at their lovely new home at beautiful Sanibel Island. Audrey will be at Virginia Beach this spring so that will be an excellent reason for a Williamsburg get-together!

Marge and Wayne Gibbs '44, were on a combination business and pleasure trip involving such cities as Houston, Tucson, Phoenix and, most important of all, San Diego, to visit their son Dave for a week! Dave is working for Stanley Andrews Sports Outfitters. Wayne lives in D.C.--Wayne III, that is, and a full page photo of him appeared in the Price Waterhouse Annual Report!

Jane Whitmore Whittemore '47, and Pete had a wonderful trip to Hawaii early in '78.

As for the Prestons, they, too, had an exciting April vacation trip. Jeanne joined Page on their sailboat in the Abacos Island in the Bahamas for two weeks. Page sailed the boat across the Gulf Stream with another man and then Jeanne, daughter Jeanne Page and two other 16 year-olds joined him. They had a great time sailing, snorkeling, fishing, and enjoying the Island. After a week of fun, it was back to Virginia Beach for Jeanne Page and her friends. The Prestons were then joined by another couple for a second week of sailing. They plan to keep their boat in the Florida Keys for another year and go back from time to time for trips up the West Coast and around the Keys.

Nancy Gibb Jones and Bill are living in Winter Park, Fla., since his retirement. Elizabeth Johnson Winters moved in '77 to Carmel, Calif., on the Monterey Peninsula.

Edythe Marsh Traylor is active in Houston real estate and enjoyed seeing Fran Loesch Brunner and Bob when they were there last fall. Edythe's daughters, Nancy and Kathy, both live in Houston. Edythe attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni Chapter.

Virgil '44, and Jean Clark Ford's daughter Donna Jean, her husband and their 4 year-old son lived in Puerto Rico for several years but are now located in New London, Conn. The Fords were delighted to finally get acquainted with their grandson!

Sunny Manewal Murray's 6½ year-old grandson broke his leg skiing this winter. Sunny enjoyed a nice trip to Key West for a week early in '78.

Nancy Speakes Tibbetts and Colby had an Easter visit from their year-old grandson and, of course, his family was there too! Nancy wrote from Manhasset, N.Y., sharing news of the Tibbetts. Their daughter Barb and her family live nearby, Bill is in graduate school in San Diego, Nancy is teaching in Colorado and Mike works in Johnstown, Pa.

Our congratulations to Dr. Albert M. Powell, Jr., who has been named clinical director of the Thomas B. Finan Center in Cumberland, Md. He received his MD from the University of Maryland and, after several fellowships, has centered his interest and practice on child psychiatry. Previously, he had been director for community services at the Brooklane Psychiatric Center in Hagerstown.

Congratulations, too, to Debbie McIntyre, a senior, who was a William and Mary princess at the Apple Blossom Festival. Jean Boyd Lacy '44, and Ben, who live in Front Royal, enjoyed all of the exciting festivities when daughter Debbie represented the College at the annual Winchester event!

Fred Veader, who lives in NYC, went into the professional theater for 12 years, which involved two shows on Broadway and one Hollywood contract, but he gave it up for a publishing career. Fred writes: "Occasionally I run into a William and Mary alumnus and it is like going back to Williamsburg again!"

Dorothy Agurk Edmunds '44, has done a fantastic job as president of the Clearwater Historical Society, which is one of the biggest and fastest growing in Florida. Starting in February, Dot was looking forward to a well-deserved rest. They were fortunate to have her as their president for two years!

Several have written of trips planned to various places during the next few months. Please send post cards and have a wonderful summer!

Mrs. C. E. Clarke, Jr.
(Jean McCreight)
Box 42
Stony Creek, Va. 23882

47 Too bad my fan club doesn't include some '47 people. Know that old saw about STRETCH? This trivia could be the idea that started that command.

Like the proverbial bolt, H. Reid sent a communique to say that he is alive and writing in Newport News. Apparently he follows my strange fancies--taking in stray cats and hunting for railroad items in flea markets and such. About a year ago I wondered as I saw some photographic credits to H. Reid in a book on ACL RR. Since they didn't make too many in that mold, it did turn out to be "THE H." He writes that he has done undernotes for two upcoming railroad documentary record albums, several steam railroading books, one with a Pulitzer nominee called "Extra South."

The management here has two announcements of some importance: Item one is a NEW TYPING MACHINE; Item two--I am a candidate for Town Council. Three of us are in the running for two seats: a black man, a younger-type man and the only woman ever to try for Council. The victory party should be a blast on May 2.

Enjoyed the April 1 wedding in Wren Chapel and reception in Alumni House of Mary Dunn Lilley '74 to Tim Hubbard (Duke). Spring in Williamsburg is still the greatest.

Mrs. Charles Anthony, Jr.
(Alice Baxley)
53 Hickory Place
Livingston, N.J. 07039

49 Ruth V. Randle attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni Chapter.

Mrs. Clark G. Myers
(Tita Cecil)
American Embassy
APO New York 09170

51 From the Philippines, from Parris Island, S.C., and from Charlottesville, Va., comes news this month of our far-flung classmates. Jim Baker, in Manila, wrote a newsy letter about his activities (he is a foreign service officer with the U.S. Information Agency and is also an amateur magician in his spare time). Presently, he is serving as president of the Philippine Amateur League of Magicians (PALM). He and his wife, Elaine Compton Baker '49, have been in Manila for 2½ years. Before this post, she served in India, Turkey, Pakistan and Washington, D.C. They have two sons, Jim, Jr., 22, who is working in Seattle and Glenn, 19, a sophomore at Brown University. Elaine is working on a Master's degree in library science at the University of the Philippines. Thank you, Jim, for your offer of assistance with the newsletter. The Alumni Office would have a list of classmates, if you wish one. Any contacts you make would indeed be welcome.

On stationery bearing a U.S. Marine Corps General's flag came a long letter from Roy E. Moss. He wrote of winding up a 3-year tour at The Citadel where he commanded the nation's second largest Naval ROTC unit. The best news was to learn that he had recently been selected for the rank of Brigadier General. In April, he was assigned to the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, Parris Island, South Carolina, where he will be the Assistant Depot Commander for the next 2 years. His wife Betty is from Independence, Mo. They met while Roy was living in Newport News and was commuting to William and Mary during his sophomore year. Their eldest son is working in Virginia; their middle daughter is working and living in Charleston; and their youngest daughter is preparing to enter the Naval Academy in 1979! We haven't done the research as yet, but could Roy be the first Marine Corps General from William and Mary?

My next task is a difficult one: how does one condense a long article about one of our classmates and squeeze it into an allotted space? The article is from a recent issue of Charlottesville's The Daily Progress and is about Betty Cox who is featured in a column called "Piedmont People," complete with a fine photo. Would that the whole article could be incorporated, Betty. Please forgive the deletions. The by-line is: "She Has Always Worked Hard, But Now She Gets Paid." And it starts with a quote: "I just got talked into raising money for the YMCA," she says in half exasperation, peering out the office window at nothing in particular. The frustration is not insincere, but Betty Scott knows full well, and even expects, the calls for help after years of volunteer service are not going to stop simply because she now has a job. . . . Last fall Mrs. Scott passed her real estate exam and got her first paying job in more than 20 years at Piedmont Realty. . . . Through all the changes, from college student to teacher to mother to business-woman, there has been one constant -- volunteerism, closely tied to her interest in government and politics. Most recently Mrs. Scott has been a member of the Charlottesville-Albemarle Economic Development Commission and last month was one of 15 persons appointed to Charlottesville Development Group, a new committee established to advise the City Council on broadening the city's economic base. Such appointments by the City Council generally are made in light of an individual's past civic activities. But Mrs. Scott, a past president of the League of Women Voters, believes that she was not appointed for just being active. Her activities have varied from reading for Recording for the Blind to knocking on doors for the Democratic Party. But her appointment to the economic development commission, for instance, bears more on her involvement in the league, which she calls a 'good watcher of city government.' . . . With local government, she says, 'you can have some effect if you do your homework'."

And you have done your homework well, Betty. May I interject, in closing, that you stand for so many in our class who have worked as "volunteers" behind the scenes over the past 25 odd years. We can be pleased to see you get due recognition!

B. J. Washington attended the Dallas Alumni Chapter meeting in February.

Mrs. Harold J. Woolston, Jr.
(Barbara Jo Mott)
116 Talleyrand Road
West Chester, Penn. 19380

Twenty-Fifth Reunion

October 14-15, 1978

53 "Tina" Bass Menzel is engaged in the private practice of psychology as a doctor in Miami, Fla.

"Jacky" Fisher Wolfe received her PhD from Johns Hopkins.

Harriet Willimon Cabell represented William and Mary at the inauguration of President Vickery at the University of Montevallo in Alabama. "Harry" is Director of the External Degree Program at the University of Alabama.

Dr. Gale Carrithers has been appointed to a three-year term as chairman of the Department of English at the State University at Buffalo, N.Y. He is a specialist in 17th Century Literature and is a full professor in the department.

Nancy Child Zimmer attended the 1977 World Congress on Mental Health in Vancouver, British Columbia. She enjoys her position as Director of Community Relations at Elmcrest Psychiatric Institute, a progressive, humanistic, family therapy hospital in Portland, Conn.

Betty King Hundley writes from Dallas, Tex., that her oldest daughter attended the University of Arkansas; the next oldest is a sophomore at Baylor University.

Betty and Posie Hundley of Dallas, Tex., attended the Dallas Alumni Chapter meeting in February.

Emmy Ketterson Smith states that her oldest daughter has married and is attending the University of Arizona; another child is a freshman at the University of New Hampshire. Emmy finishes her MBA this spring.

Scott and Caroline Young Petrequin write that daughter Leslie is a floriculture student at SUNY in New York; son Mac graduated from Canton in May and is working in hotel management at Lake Placid. Another daughter will graduate from the College in May.

Henry Wilde and Joan T. Libby attended the Houston Alumni Chapter meeting in February.

Barbara Schwartz Smith and Jim '52, announced that their oldest had married in Williamsburg. Their oldest son is a freshman at Guilford College in Greensboro, N.C. The Smiths thoroughly enjoy New England life.

"Ginny" Campbell Furst is still very active in real estate. Both children attend college, one at the University of Illinois and one at Duke.

Ginny Gary Lupton and Ed enjoy Army retirement in Cocoa Beach, Fla. Ed is involved in civic and political activities, while Ginny is a bookkeeper for a heating and air conditioning firm. Two of the children attend the University of Florida.

Congratulations to Virginia's new Governor, our John Dalton.

Watch for your reservation forms soon in the Gazette for our 25th Class Reunion in October on the 13th and 14th. Make plans now for our big celebration together in Williamsburg. See you there!

Mrs. Charles J. Vincent
(Anne Lunas)
855 Strawberry Hill Road, West
Columbus, Ohio 43213

55 Seeing Williamsburg through the eyes of a ten-year-old is an enlightening experience! I never saw the town until I arrived there in September 1951 as a freshman. But a few months ago, Robert, who has been studying colonial times in school, began pleading with us to take him to Williamsburg. He was so elated when we told him we would spend part of his spring vacation there that it was difficult for him to contain his excitement. Along with that, several misconceptions surfaced, as evidenced by questions such as, "When we go to church on Easter, will we have to sit through a four-hour sermon as they did then?" and "Do they have bathrooms in Williamsburg?" Nothing was disappointing to him and he came away as one of Colonial Williamsburg's best public relations representatives in Ohio.

As for me, it is always interesting to see how the campus has grown, even since the last time I was there five years ago. I wasn't quite as amazed as was Anne Carver Coirini, with whom I talked by phone while changing planes in Atlanta in early March. She returned last summer with her son, who plays soccer in high school, for the first time since graduation and for her, it was scarcely to be believed. I enjoyed seeing the Alumni House (where you're all welcome on your visits to Williamsburg) and meeting and talking with Trudi Topping and Gordon Vliet. I also entertained the girls at the Gamma Phi house by relating to them the quaint and curious W.S.C.G.A. social rules for women students during the fifties ("You had to wear raincoats over your gym suits even in hot weather?").

Recently, I received a copy of the October 1977 issue of the Virginia Cavalcade. This is the magazine that, as you may remember, contains Martha Briggs' marvelous article, "Signboards and Sign Painters of Eighteenth-Century Williamsburg." It is well worth ordering and reading, which can be done if you send one dollar to the circulation manager, Virginia Cavalcade, Virginia State Library, Richmond, Va. 23219.

Scott Stone of Pasadena, Tex., attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni Chapter.

Because there is no other news for this issue, I will use the opportunity to bring you up to date on what I am doing. I worked for a brief time at Children's Hospital last fall, but found that working with acutely ill children was not what I wanted after all. So I left, and in early January I started working part-time in a position that is both rewarding and fulfilling. I work evenings at Talbot Hall, the alcoholic treatment unit at St. Anthony Hospital. The patients, for the most part, are wonderful people who realize that they have a serious disease and are working very hard at getting well. Last week I gave my first lecture to new patients and really enjoyed it.

Now I am sure that in our next column you will want to read about someone else besides me. So have a wonderful summer, and sometime in late August drop me a line and tell me your news.

Mrs. Aubrey H. Fitzgerald
(Shirley Richardson)
5 Poindexter Place
Newport News, Va. 23606

57 No news is supposed to be good news -- not so when you're writing the class letter for the Alumni Gazette. No news is exactly what I had three hours ago which was one day past my deadline. What you will read here is news gleaned from a hastily set-up grapevine consisting of those friends from 1957 whose telephone numbers are in the Newport News/Hampton directory and who were at home Sunday evening, April 9. I appreciate their help and promises of future assistance with news gathering. One even suggested I glance through my Christmas cards, which I did, only to discover that I had written about most of those friends last time.

Jo Ann Thompson Walberg received her Master's Degree from William and Mary and is teaching in Hampton public schools, primarily remedial reading. She and her husband have two children, one a tenth grader and the other a student at Christopher Newport College. Jo Ann keeps in touch with Nancy Beery Thomas who lives in Chesapeake, Va. Nancy and family are in a new home in the country. Her husband is owner of Bayside Press in Norfolk and Nancy teaches school in addition to rearing three children.

News of Kathy Christian Young is primarily about her family (which is the case with many of us right now). My reporters tell me that Kathy's daughter Kay will be attending the Governor's School for Gifted at Randolph-Macon Woman's College this summer. Kay is talented in art, particularly painting, and is one of four students from Menchville High School in Newport News to be selected to attend the month-long school. Kay is not the only talented one in the family. Brother Kyle, a seventh grade student, recently won first place in the Tidewater Science Fair in Junior Mathematics.

Alice Matthews Erickson, who is playing tennis as well as preparing to send her son to college next year and traveling with husband Wayne, reports that she sees Mary Talmage Kaylor who also enjoys the current tennis boom. Mary lives in nearby Gloucester with her husband and three sons.

My Christmas card search yielded a note from Pat Curllis Richardson. She and her family live near Richmond, where husband Frank practices dentistry. Their son Mark is taking courses at William and Mary and hopes to enroll fulltime next year. Pat saw the class picture in the Gazette and said she could recognize the women but had a little trouble with the men. Does that say something about who is changing, fellows?

There was also a card from Betsey Davis Hathaway and husband Bruce '56. This Christmas card is always special because with it comes a picture of their very attractive family which includes sons Bruce, Jr., a student at Guilford College; Brantley, who attends Woodberry Forest; and Brooks, who is busy at four-year-old kindergarten.

Anne Gilbert writes that she has been on sabbatical from her teaching job doing research for two books and working with restoration of an old historic property in her town. Anne teaches in Haverford Township in Pennsylvania.

Among those who began with the Class of 1957, I have news of Peggy Lawson Olson. Peggy graduated from Radford College after leaving William and Mary. She lives in Hampton with her husband and two children. I recently visited in Suffolk with Carolyn Thompson Powell, who now resides in New Jersey. Carolyn has four daughters and is a secretary with RCA.

Terry W. Slaughter

Several times a year I am in telephone touch with Barbara Sylvia Doggett, who lives close enough that we should do better than that. Barbara and husband Bob, who works at NASA, have three children.

Carlton Wilde attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni Chapter.

American Association of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons (AAOMS) President and Board of Trustees Chairman, Dr. Terry W. Slaughter '57, has been elected to serve as the United States representative on the Executive Council of the International Association of Oral Surgeons (IAOS).

The oral and maxillofacial surgeon has served on the AAOMS Board of Trustees for six years and is the chief of the dental staffs at three hospitals in Salinas: Natividad Medical Center, Salinas Valley Memorial Hospital and Alisal Community Hospital.

A diplomate of the American Board of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery (ABOMS), Dr. Slaughter is a past president of the Northern California Society of Oral and Maxillofacial Surgeons, the Monterey Bay Dental Society and immediate past chairman of the board of Central Mission Trails Heart Association.

He is a fellow of the American College of Dentists, the International Association of Oral Surgeons, and an associate member of the European Society of Maxillofacial Surgeons.

Dr. Slaughter received his dental degree from Columbia University School of Dental and Oral Surgery. He served his surgical residency training at Bellevue Hospital Medical Center, New York City.

In closing, I'd like to impart a little information of which some of you may not be aware. It took Aubrey and me ten years of Gazette reading to figure it out! When you think your class correspondent is lazy and no letter appears in a particular month, take heart. The even-numbered classes appear in one issue and odd-numbered classes in the next. So you will hear from me every other month -- not every month!

Please keep in touch and help me have a news-filled column whichever month the Class of '57 gets its chance to tell the world how we're doing.

Steven C. Oaks
1929 Sharp Place
Houston, Tex. 77019

59 This is your middle-aged reporter giving you the latest information on the Geritol set before the summer respite begins.

Barbara Holcomb Lange, whom I'm happy to report is at least one year older than your reporter, says that she has heard from Jan Charbonnet Crocker who is still active in the Junior League -- (knowing Jan's age, I know that she would have to be a sustaining member), and Barbara also relates that Bobby Clarke Cox and Ernie are at the University of South Florida, where Ernie is in the Fine Arts Department. The Coxes have one child, a boy, and Ernie is an active sculptor. Barbara is now Director of Public Relations for the Art Institute in Fort Lauderdale and obviously is approaching an early age of senility since she says that she is an active Republican. Barbara and her two teenagers, Scott and Christine, are into the tennis world where Barbara worked on the Virginia Slims tournaments and is also active in promoting other tennis tournaments on the East Coast. Dee Dee Daniels Mahoney and her husband, John, are living in New York, but enough for the Class of '58 and on to the Class of '59.

Received a super letter from Phyllis Garris Powers. Her husband, Bob, is working on a Ph.D. at George Washington University and just completed the National War College. Phyllis reports on a terrific trip to Europe, and she is presently substitute teaching in Fairfax County. She also had a great lunch with our President, Dr. Graves, when he was visiting in Fairfax.

James Belote has been named to the Board of Western Carolina Bank of Morganton, N.D. He is the owner of Belote Realty in Morganton.

Alice Roberta Gordon has been listed in the Bicentennial Editions of "Personalities of the South" and "Community Leaders and Noteworthy Americans." Alice now resides in Bristol, Va.

David Little of New York City has appeared in 1974-75 on Broadway in THIEVES with Marlo Thomas -- most recently on New NBC-TV program "Saturday Night."

William D. Henderson of Petersburg, Va., has recently been promoted to Associate Professor of History at Richard Bland College. He was also recently elected a member of the Board of Trustees of the Petersburg Battlefield Museum Corporation and is presently serving as Chairman of the Richard Bland College Bicentennial Committee.

Jack Gibson was in Houston recently on business and said that everything is super with his family.

Our 20th reunion (better described as a Conference for the Aging) is fast approaching, and I would like to hear what ideas you might have for getting together at the College.

Have a SUPER summer, watch your cholesterol, diet, exercise, alcohol intake, and please let me hear from you.

Mrs. Shaun Northrup
(Diane Pickering)
119 Beth Drive
Kingston, N.Y. 12401

61 One of the early unexpected pleasures of serving as Class Editor was a telephone call from my sophomore year roommate, Dana Krueger Grossman. She and her husband and daughter live in Washington, D.C.; however, many of you may have the opportunity to see and hear Dana in person. She is singing operatic leads throughout the country on a free lance basis, supplementing existing local opera groups. Dana, please send me a schedule of your future engagements so that we may include that information in this column.

A letter from Bill Nicolai related that he is presently Manager of Communications at American Standard, Inc., in NY City. For the fifth year he has been named to "Who's Who in the East" and is looking forward to being more than a cross reference in the national "Who's Who."

We have learned that Jeff Cohen is ill with cancer in a hospital abroad. His address is Ziegelhof 297, Kaiseraugst 4303, Switzerland. You may wish to send best wishes to him for a speedy recovery.

Don Pons has been appointed to the Williamsburg-James City County School Board, effective December 1977.

An interesting note from Jim "Fox" McMahon: he is alive and well in South Africa. He was recently elected Honorary Chairman for Life of the Southern Africa Temperance Society. This is quite an honor, considering W.C. Fields was the last American so named. Visitors in the Johannesburg area can reach Jim at 818-1461.

A Christmas card from Barbara Beckman Schaaf included a newspaper clipping from the Oakland Tribune about Vida Kenk. Vida is a biologist teaching at San Jose State University. She is one of three internationally recognized experts on mussel taxonomy and has found newly discovered organisms in the Pacific which are probably a new genus of the Mytilidae family. Barbara is serving her second year as President of the 400-member Oakland Symphony Guild and is a newly elected member of the San Francisco Bay Girl Scout Council Board. She also sent news of Johelen Ashton Martin's visit to Arcadia, Ca., with her husband Lawrence and two daughters. Johelen was visiting her sister, Frances Ashton Baxter '64.

In August 1977, Chris Harms Dulaski received her M.S. in higher education from Indiana University in Bloomington.

Bill Clayton is now Chief of Urology NRMIC in Oakland, Ca., and is in charge of a residency training program.

Ellen (Bunny) King sent a personal "hi and congratulations" to Bobbie Berkley. Bunny is a career planning and placement administrator at Youngstown State University in Ohio. Her husband has been the District Governor of Rotary International.

Dave Bottoms reported a move to Darien, Ct., although he is still a law partner with Lord, Day and Lord in NY City.

Carolyn Washer Rubin wrote that Matt has changed jobs and is now with the National Labor Relations Board. They are living in Chevy Chase, Md.

Lt. Col. Charlie White heads a 15-attorney law office at Fort Hood, Tex., for the 1st Cavalry Division. His wife Tricia Lee '63, was recently named Sales Director of 1st Texas Equity, Advisory and Management Corp., a land development and construction firm in Killeen, Tex.

After "16 years of non-gainful employment at home," Emily Evenson Boice has gone to work full-time for an oil heating and burner service in Winchester, Va. She says she "loves it."

I have left only myself. I am once again working for the Social Security Admin. in Kingston after having stayed home for seven years. My three children are all in school full-time, thank goodness. This past six months has had its ups and downs as I am presently in the process of becoming a statistic in the divorce courts. As I have seen names change throughout the years, I wonder if the vital statistics column should incorporate a new division: Divorces. I'm just kidding, of course. I would enjoy hearing from as many of you who'd care to send notes, postcards, etc. Any of you who have sorority newsletters to pass along, please do so. I'm looking forward to hearing from you!

Judy Murdock Snook
(Mrs. Donald Snook)
1029 Sanderling Circle
Audubon, Pa. 19407

Fifteenth Reunion

October 14-15, 1978

63 Say! I really enjoy and appreciate hearing from all of you out there. It's nice to hear what you are doing and it gives me something to write about in this column. I hope this gives you incentive to drop me a line soon!

Tom McGeehan writes that he lives in Wichita, Kan., where he works for Nance Speed Equipment Company, builders of dirt track spring racers. His job is to make torsion bars on a lathe.

Rodger Bergey is the coach of the newly crowned Div. AA basketball champs of Virginia, Harrisonburg High School. Congratulations, Rodger.

Don '61, has added another course to his teaching schedule this semester so that he is now teaching three hospital administration courses at Temple University and Widener College. As the Administrator of St. Mary Hospital, he is looking forward to the opening of the new hospital wing in June.

Kathy Dudley Okada has had quite a winter in Ohio and is looking forward to visiting Dave's relatives in Hawaii this summer. My two daughters enjoy hearing from Kathy's twin girls who seem to have inherited Kathy's artistic ability.

Marty and Barb O'Connell were in attendance at the Dallas Alumni Chapter meeting in February.

Mrs. Andrew E. Landis, Jr.
(Susan Stevenson)
527 Lilly Drive
Beckley, West Va. 25801

65 Jan Sassaman, having earned a Ph.D. in Zoology, is a professor of environmental sciences at Unity College in Maine. He is very active in environmental issues and is President of the State Biologists Association. He has also been nominated to the executive boards of the Maine Natural Resources Council and the North Kennebec Regional Planning Commission. He is on a sabbatical to work with Congress, examining energy and environmental issues that will come before Congress during the first half of 1978. He is particularly involved in those issues that affect the Northeast.

Betty White Suchar thoughtfully sent me a copy of the Kappa newsletter containing the following news: Dona Hougen Marshall has accepted a position in the public relations department of the Tom McAn shoe store chain. Dona recently qualified for the New England National Bridge Tournament. She lives with her children, Christy and Cary, in Westboro, Mass. Ginny Whitener Lyon has successfully launched a private practice in Oregon which serves both children and adults. She no longer teaches so she can devote her time to being a practicing psychologist.

Pam Cooke Keen and Willie have lived in Germantown, Tenn., long enough to feel they have real roots there. He is working for Saunders Leasing Co., an organization that leases trucks. Lynne Marcus Yerkes and Tom are now settled in Walnut Creek, not far from San Francisco, Calif. Tom is Vice President of Finance for William Colucci-Gomez and Company.

Rusty Rollings Stevens and Kent continue to be confirmed Virginians. Kent is an associate administrator at a hospital near their home in Franklin. Laura Youngblood Meagher is enrolled as a part-time student at Virginia Theological Seminary working toward a Master's degree in Theological Studies. This spring she will travel to Jerusalem and spend a month there studying and visiting the various biblical sites in Jerusalem. She has also been doing some writing and speaking on the subject of improving the role of women in the Church. Jean Ball Bugg and John have enjoyed varied travels to Denver, Dallas, Richmond, and Atlanta this year. New Orleans, La., is still home, and they find it a good place to pursue such diverse interests as gardening, flying, genealogy, and work.

Pat Niccoli Gasch is remodeling her old house in Chilton, Wis., when not tending to the demands of two children and four horses. Byrd Lacy Murray and Gene deserve special credit for their continued support of William and Mary activities. They are now living in a house "out in the country" outside of Richmond. Byrd is teaching math and social studies on the fifth grade level at St. Michael School. Gene has been promoted to Vice President of Central National Bank and is pleased with his new responsibilities.

Margie Hodges Furr recently ended her term as chairman of the Youth Care Board of Directors in Greensboro, N.C. She is continuing her work with the Greensboro Historical Museum and the Traveling Trunks program. Margie's own trunk is a collection of artifacts, contemporary crafts, and information on Indians of North Carolina. She takes the trunk around, called "trouping," to schools, scout groups and such. Mickey teaches a course in organizational management at Guilford College in addition to his job at James N. Farr Associates which has clients such as city and county governments, banks, corporations, and other assorted organizations.

Babs Dunaway Bowers and Mike live in Dallas, Tex. Babs does some tutoring in reading and, in connection with this, has attended some good conferences on reading at SMU and with state groups in Dallas. Lynn Meushaw Parent and family have moved to a new home in Alexandria, Va. She is working part-time for a local anti-poverty agency; her responsibilities include writing administrative reports and proposals. Lynn was one of a group of women who led seminars for mothers of infants and toddlers in the Alexandria area. Kathie Wiese Little has left New York City and is enjoying a new job as director of financial aid at the University of California, Santa Cruz. From her office, Kathie supervises a large staff and administers a substantial aid program.

Judy Weisman Dennan has a part-time job tutoring reading which allows her time to chauffeur her two boys from Cub Scouts, piano lessons, soccer teams, and ski lessons. Judy's own primary interest is the American Field Service; she is also a member of the Board of Directors of a girls' camp in New Hampshire. David, her husband, has completed his doctoral course work and is now busily writing and researching his dissertation.

Susan Bunch Allen successfully started a nursery school which has grown over the past four years to include 40 children and three teachers. Susan is the director. Next year she will study school administration at Rhode Island College while teaching on a part-time basis. She is also serving as President of the Rhode Island William and Mary Alumni Chapter. Betty White Suchar continues to work at the College Board. This year one of her research projects has been launched as a new program. It is called the Early Financial Aid Planning Service and its purpose is to give families an opportunity to learn about their eligibility for financial aid before the time to make actual college choices. Her husband Victor has a hectic life as more overseas corporations realize the advantages of investing in the United States. The heavy demand takes him to Europe about every other month.

The Pi Phi newsletter contained the following information: Ellen Rennolds Brouwer was Fairfax City Coordinator for Daretta Hubbard, candidate for the Virginia House of Delegates. While her candidate did not win, Ellen enjoyed the experience. She is also active in a Mother-of-Twins Club. Mary Erskine Jackson finds that part-time elementary guidance work fits in nicely with her family responsibilities. Susan Roberts Chadd has begun a three-year term on the vestry at church and also undertook the responsibility of organizing a Christmas bazaar.

Joyce Hoskins Walk is active in garden club work and plays bridge. Larry is still principal of Bruton Heights Elementary School and an avid supporter of William and Mary football and basketball. He helped organize the "Hoop Groop," a club to support basketball much like the Quarterback Club supports football. Tricia Davis Cleveland and Bill moved to a larger home in Dublin, Calif. Bill still works for the FBI, now in the Berkeley office. Tricia is a teacher's assistant for a sixth grade class at Crossroads Christian School, the same school their children attend.

Micki Leef Stout and Pete '64, are also in a new home. Micki now shares the job of volunteer coordinator and manager of the gift shop at Maymont Park in Richmond. She also does a lot of volunteer work with the Senior Center Junior Board, the State Women's Penitentiary, and the Junior League. Pete is still busily practicing law and is one of the Vice Presidents of the Athletic Educational Foundation at William and Mary.

Janet Thurman Murphy is president of her local Pi Beta Phi alumnae club, member of the PTO board, volunteer at the school library, and active garden club member. Her husband Bob has been promoted to manager at Arthur Andersen and Co. He also serves on the community council and was commissioned as an extraordinary minister of the Eucharist this past fall.

Mary Liz Smith Sadler took on a part-time job as bookkeeper at her church, allowing her to work while her daughters are in school. Sam remains Dean of Students at the College. Laurie Yingling Soleau is taking an accounting course following an interesting job counseling-testing program last fall. She does volunteer work at school, and is involved with Pi Phi alumnae activities.

Deedle Rowland Holsten reports that her husband Bob has been promoted to president of E. A. Holsten, Inc. Suzie Shomon Forehand and Ben are much involved in their new restaurant, the Helmsman, at Virginia Beach. Suzie is still teaching. Sara Shafer Hetzler helps with a co-op playschool and several church activities. We visited Sara and Steve in their new Portsmouth, Va., home.

Mrs. John B. McGaughy
(Ellen McWhirt)
1005 Colonial Avenue #3
Norfolk, Va. 23507

67 Priscilla Crowgey of Galveston, Tex., attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni Chapter. Also, Peter Heyne attended.

Mrs. J. Douglas Wintermute
(Donnie Chancellor)
502 Wolfe Street
Alexandria, Va. 22314

69 Jane Youngblood Spurling writes that they are happily settled in Bermuda, where Rick is very busy with his law practice. Rick deals mostly with litigation, wills, and corporate law. He is also on two civic committees, the church vestry, and is interested in politics. Luci is almost two and is a very lively, blue-eyed, towhead. Jane and Rick were expecting again in April; however, I have no news at this writing on the baby's arrival. Jane writes that Jonathan is much the same and is still in England in a special hospital. Jane, Rick and Luci spent two weeks in Virginia last fall and saw many William and Mary alums. The Spurlings visited Rod and Terry Waters Whibley in Norfolk and then attended Homecoming. Congratulations go to Bob Kaplan, who has been made a partner in the Richmond firm of Hirschler, Fleischer, Weinberg, Cox and Allen.

Gale Dehn Paisley writes from Columbia, Md., that Jonathan is an active, jolly one-year-old and that Lisa is a busy five-year-old. Larry is with the Marriott Corporation and the Paisleys have recently enjoyed several management meetings in Hilton Head, S.C., and at the Greenbriar in White Sulphur Springs, W.Va.

Living in Davidsonville, Md., are Mike and Peggy Sothoron Wormwood. Peggy is coordinating the Special Education program at Parkdale High School and is working on her Master's at the University of Maryland. In Atlanta last spring, Peggy gave a presentation at the International Conference of the Council for Exceptional Children on her special curriculum project and she will be going to Kansas City, Mo., this spring for another presentation.

Congratulations to Roy and Ellen Mauck Lessy on the birth of their twin daughters on March 5th - Anne Mauck and Page Alexandra. The Lessy's older daughter, Rose Ellen, was three in April. Ellen reports that things are pretty hectic at the Lessy household these days!

Sue Huber Reavely writes that they have moved to Tom's hometown of Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where he has formed his own law practice. Tom, in addition, teaches at Iowa Wesleyan College in Mt. Pleasant and is the

House Notes

W. Wilford Kale, '66, has generously given to the Paschall Library a copy of his Private Homes of Williamsburg. . . Today, Dr. M.A.F. Ritchie, '42 M.A., sent a copy of his book, The College Presidency: Initiation into the Order of the Turtle. Dr. Ritchie, now retired, was for many years a college president. Another addition to the library's collection is Old Brooklyn in Early Photographs, by William Lee Younger, Jr., '55.

The Alumni Office is endeavoring to locate past issues of the Alumni

Gazette, so that a complete set will be available in the Paschall Library. Urgently needed are issues from 1933 to 1938. Also needed are Flat Hats, particularly copies of Volumes 2 through 12, and 20 through 48. Scattered issues of other volumes are also missing. We would be most grateful to receive the assistance of any alumnus who has copies of the Alumni Gazette or the Flat Hat. Please send them to the Paschall Library, Alumni House, Post Office Box 60, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.

golf coach there. The Reavelys also own a clothing store on the side. Sue reports that she is no longer teaching remedial reading as she did in Des Moines, but is working for Iowa Wesleyan, doing some volunteer work, and enjoying some classes at the college for personal enrichment.

Donald and Frosty Hoskins Friedman have moved to Boston where Donald is with IBM and Frosty is on a rotational assignment with New England Telephone, which is owned by A.T.&T. The Friedmans bought a partially completed contemporary house in Sudbury, Mass., and they have been busily working on it.

Living in Iowa City, Iowa, is Ann Chancellor.

Congratulations to Mike and Barbara Crissey Eberhardt on the birth of their second daughter, Katherine Crissey, on February 14th in Reston.

I received a call from New York City from Barb Johnson Valencia, who is soon to travel to the United Arab Emirates and Bahrain. She had recently returned from Europe on a business trip for Gulf Air. In March, she and Ricardo visited Ricardo's parents in Santiago, Chile. Barb mentioned that she recently visited Marty McGuire Keating and her little boy, Michael, in Boston.

Living in New York City is Cathie Calvert, who is with Mademoiselle.

Also in Manhattan is Jo Ann Walthall Kramer. Jo Ann is working on her Ph.D. in finance at Columbia, and her husband, Stuart, is with the Macy Corporation.

Frances Herring Reynolds continues to excel in her second year of law school at William and Mary. Melvin is with Stone and Webster in Fredericksburg, and comes to Williamsburg on the weekends to be with Frances.

Congratulations to Brad and Sandy Barrick Bierman on the birth of their first child, Richard Bradley, Jr., on January 22nd. Little Brad was premature and weighed only 3 pounds and 11 ounces, but he is fine now and is a happy, healthy baby. The Biermans are living in Plano, Tex., where they author a periodical on aviation.

Eric Assur writes that he has moved to a new home within walking distance of his office in Fairfax, where he is employed as a supervisor of probationary services with the Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court. Eric plans to be running in the 1978 Boston

Marathon - and recently qualified with a marathon race time of under three hours. Eric still runs daily and he welcomes running with other William and Mary alumni runners. He is married to an East Carolina University graduate, who is a school teacher, and the Assurs expect their first child this summer.

In March I had a delightful lunch in Washington with Stan Wojno. Stan is a very successful actor in New York City and has appeared in many TV shows as well as performing in numerous commercials.

Wynne Whitehurst has been promoted to a Xerox ninety-four hundred systems representative and is responsible for providing market support and training for some of Xerox's largest customers. Wynne and her mother enjoyed the William and Mary alumni trip to Bermuda in March, and they even went on their motorbikes to visit Jane Youngblood Spurling. Wynne has bought a house in Ventura Villas in Alexandria and plans to move in July.

Wynne mentioned that Peter Smith is serving as the head of the Montreal Office of Tourism in Bermuda. Peter has recently married a TWA stewardess.

Toni Biordi has been promoted to the Director of Employee Development Training for A.T.&T. in Washington. Toni serves as the head of the group that is responsible for all of the training programs for approximately 5,000 non-management employees. She also is planning to work on her doctorate in counseling adults for pre-retirement.

Sharon Reeder Derringer has been elected chairwoman of the 1978 Indiana Junior Executive Conference for Savings and Loans. Sharon and Eddy are living in Evanston, where Eddy owns a Mayflower moving van franchise.

Judy Chase Kahn has pioneered the concept of contract sharing for teachers in Alameda County, Calif. Under this plan, Judy next year will go back to teaching half-time and will share her contract with another teacher. Bob has opened his own civil practice in Hayward, Cal.

Anne Bradstreet Smith has been quite active in the Junior Women's Club of Newport News and this past fall she was in charge of the Santa House featuring hand-made crafts. Anne was responsible for advertising and publicity, and appeared on several TV talk shows. The Smith twins, Amanda and Carrie, are seven and Brad is four. Les is an attorney with a Newport News law firm.

Steve Watkins of Houston and also Susan Campbell attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni Chapter. Ray and Pam Barger of Dallas attended the February Dallas Alumni Chapter meeting.

As for me, I am selling real estate for Manarin, Odle and Rector and have found the Washington area to be great for the real estate business. I enjoy it immensely in spite of the unending evening and weekend work. Doug is now President of the consulting firm, Performance Systems Incorporated. Peter is three now and is in nursery school. In April we enjoyed a fun trip to William and Mary, as I served on the Nominating Committee for the Board of Directors. It was great to be back and see all of the many changes on campus since our days. It's hard to believe that we're approaching our 10th reunion!

This is our last class newsletter until the fall, so you've got plenty of time to drop me a note with your news. Please let us hear from you!

Craig Windham
12 Hesketh Street
Chevy Chase, Md. 20015

71 There he stood--pin-striped suit, conservative haircut, one hand nervously jammed into pocket, Yale Law beanie in the other: an unlikely victim of Cupid's quiver. But it was indeed happening--the nuptials of Tom "Sak" Rees and Martha Sewall--on an elysian weekend in March in the Wren Chapel, the Rev. Tom Maynard presiding. The ceremony was an excuse for a weekend junket by Skip and Barbara Stiles, Tim and Betsy Groves, Donna Ireland, Kenny and Anne King, Kevin Crowe, Linda Geddy, and yours truly.

Without a doubt, the highlight of the day was the post-wedding dinner at Williamsburg's most exclusive eatery, the Campus Restaurant. Our hosts, George and Mary Dallas, escorted the assemblage to booths of honor in the back corner near the air conditioner-heater unit as we ignored the stares of T-shirted collegians. After a futile attempt to qualify for the student discount with yellowed ID's circa 1969, we dispensed with the formality of menus and unanimously ordered the house specialty: Chopped Steak-Cordon Bleu. Our stomachs growled in anticipation of such a long-forgotten delight as Mary reeled off her litany of side dishes: French bread, French fries, gravy, salad (tomato or onions?). When the newly-weds drained their water glasses for the second time, Mary chortled, "I guess your throats are dry from saying 'I do'." Even George was in a jovial mood, taking a moment out to brandish his meat cleaver when we tarried over our last French fries. As we got up to leave, Skip Stiles donned a piglet mask and oinked his way through the restaurant. George, without missing a flip on the grill, muttered a Greek epithet and hurled a foil-wrapped leftover just as the door closed behind us.

Skip, by the way, continues to be the top staffer for Congressman George Brown. . . how do we know? Because he was recently chosen to fly to Lansing, Mich., to address the local chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. A couple of furtive gulps from a strap-on leg flask kept his whistle wetted during the stemwinder on the evils of demon rum. Kevin Crowe and Linda Geddy are building a house and pottery in Nelson County, Va. And Kenny King works for a Government think tank in Northern Virginia.

Paul Doolittle will finish up his studies in Pharmacy School at M.C.V. next year. He plans to marry Diane Drummond '72, this month. Mark Walling has set up a dentistry practice in northwest Washington, D.C., and he solicits alumni patients (363-6999). Mark writes that Ed Smith is doing what he does best for American Airlines in Dallas. "Colonel" Kerry Buckley is now an honest-to-goodness Captain in the Army and a natural to double in a Clint Eastwood movie: he has surrounded himself with an arsenal of eleven guns and two motorcycles. Kerry is studying law in Denver between hands of bridge. After graduation he will work in the Judge Advocate General's office.

Bill Martin writes that he will complete his residency in internal medicine at the Washington Hospital Center next month and then it is on to U.Va. to do an endocrinology fellowship. Bill says Cleve Francis is completing a fellowship in cardiology at George Washington, but has not neglected his singing; he performs occasionally at the Singers Studio in

Chapter Meetings

Thursday, May 18

Northern Virginia

The Northern Virginia alumni will have an organizational meeting at the Belle Haven Country Club beginning at 8:00 p.m. with a cash bar reception. Special guests for the occasion will be Harriet Nachman Storm, '64, President, and Gordon C. Vliet, '54, Executive Vice President of the Society of the Alumni.

Tuesday, May 23

New York City

The Princeton Club will be the site of the spring meeting of the New York Chapter. Dan Henning, '64, the quarterback coach of the New York Jets and the Tribe's quarterback from 1961-63, will be the featured speaker. The cocktail party/cash bar reception will begin at 5:00 p.m. and the charge is $7.00 per person. For additional information contact Chapter President Bob Andrialis, '65, Standard & Poor's Corporation, 345 Hudson Street, New York, New York 10014.

Wednesday, May 24

Philadelphia

J. Wilfred Lambert, '27, former Registrar and Dean of Students at the College, will address members of the Philadelphia Chapter at their annual spring meeting. The cash bar reception and meeting will be held at the Philadelphia Marriott, City Line Avenue and Monument Road, Bala Cynwyd, and will begin at 7:30 p.m. Chapter President is Owen Knopping, a member of the Class of '61.

Thursday, May 25

Boston, Massachusetts

The Boston Chapter is holding its annual spring meeting at the Union Club, 8 Park Street in Boston beginning at 7:00 p.m. with a cash bar reception. Special guest and featured speaker for the occasion will be J. Wilfred Lambert, '27, former Registrar and Dean of Students. Reservations may be made by contacting Chapter President Bill Allison, '53, 33 Whiting Road, Wellesley Hills, Mass. 02181.

Thursday, May 25

Roanoke, Virginia

The Roanoke Chapter is planning a pot-luck supper for its spring meeting. Details of the meeting will be sent to all alumni living in the Roanoke area. John Tucker, '54, chapter president, is in charge of the arrangements.

Saturday, May 27

Southwest Virginia

President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., will be the commencement speaker at Clinch Valley College. In connection with this event, a reception is being planned for President Graves and the alumni living in Southwest Virginia. The reception, which will begin at 7:30 p.m., will be held at The Inn in Wise. Robert T. Copeland, '75 JD, and Jackson S. White, Jr., '57, are co-chairmen for the reception.

Wednesday, June 7

Providence, Rhode Island

The Providence Chapter is planning a reception for all alumni in the area at the University Club, 219 Benefit Street in Providence. The party will begin at 6:30 p.m. Chapter President is Susan Bunch Allen, '65.

Saturday, June 10

Portsmouth, Virginia

Chapter President Bob Holley, '49, has announced that the annual spring meeting of the Portsmouth-West Tidewater Chapter is scheduled for June 10 at the Elizabeth Manor Country Club. There will be a cocktail hour and dinner along with after dinner entertainment. More details will be forthcoming in a mailing to alumni in the area.

Friday, June 30

Richmond, Virginia

The annual spring combo party for the Richmond Chapter has been scheduled for June 30. Chapter President Tim Hunter, '70, will be sending out specific information to all Richmond alumni the first of June.

Looking ahead to summer and fall activities, the following Virginia chapters are among those groups scheduling "get-acquainted" parties during July and August: Charlottesville, Portsmouth, Roanoke, Lynchburg, Detroit.

During the fall, receptions are being planned for most of the away football games. The dates and places are:

September 16: Hartford, Conn.
September 23: Philadelphia, Penn.
September 30: Blacksburg, Virginia

October 21: Annapolis, Maryland
October 28: Louisville, Kentucky

November 11: Greenville, N.C.
November 18: Richmond, Virginia

Information on exact times and locations of these events will be mailed to the alumni in the various areas.

Georgetown.

Mike Nelson has decided to come out of hiding rather than be held up to public ridicule in the "Where are They Now?" list. After teaching a year at Morris College in South Carolina, he journeyed to Baltimore for 5 years at Johns Hopkins, where he has just defended his doctoral dissertation in Political Science. In between, he spent a year as a VISTA volunteer in Augusta, Ga., and a year as editor of the Washington Monthly. He's now a contributing editor with the Monthly and writing frequently in The Baltimore Sun. He recently had an excellent piece in the Washington Post Magazine on the paradoxes of the tax system, including a little Catch 22 he dubs "taxflation," which happens "when inflation blindsides a progressive income tax system driving people up the tax ladder even as their real income stays the same or goes down." Mike's articles have also appeared in Nation, the New York Times and Daily News, and the Philadelphia Inquirer.

Jim Callear graduated from the Marshall-

Wythe School of Law and is now working with the National Labor Relations Board. Lee Letcher has completed his residency in internal medicine in New York City. Greg Sampson has received a Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina. And Ted Yeiser is practicing law with a Memphis firm.

After leaving the Army two years ago, Greg LaBelle says, "I just cannot leave the old town of Heidelberg." And it's easy to see why. He sends a photo of himself in a pub called Z'eppl's with frauleins draped one on each arm, all hoisting huge steins of beer. Greg is now working with the University of Maryland's European Division. He writes that Bill Moore has been in the foreign service since graduation with tours to the Central African Republic and Barbados. Most recently, he served with the U.S. Delegation to the Helsinki Security Agreement talks in Belgrade.

"Where are They Now?" -- Becky Neff, Jane Ballard, Scott McEvoy, Larry Smith, Kim Roddy, Bob Herb, Hope Davies, John

Davies, Ed Tomeck, Ken Weiher, Jane Mason, W.R.C. Munsey, and Bob Henkel.

That's it for now. Have a great summer. And let's get off our collective you-know-what's and write before next September.

Mrs. Allen T. Nelson, Jr.
(Dede Miller)
1702 Chesaco Avenue
Rosedale, Md. 21237

Fifth Reunion

October 14-15, 1978

73 Jack Stephens is in his second year at Eastern Virginia Medical School, where he plans to specialize in pediatrics. Jack sends his regards to Bangladesh and the Old Dominion lobby.

In Norfolk, Marcie Winkfield is working with a law firm as a paralegal assistant. Graduating from U.Va. this spring will be Chris Reilly, who will receive an MBA. Chris is also planning a summer wedding. I'll let you know more about that later.

Also finishing up at U.Va., Lynda Butler graduates from law school and plans to be working with a large D.C. firm next year.

Hilda Cruet Flippen and her husband Dennis are still in Richmond. Hilda is teaching high school French and she and Dennis took a group of students to France earlier this spring.

Judy Brandon Owens and Randy are living in Danville now. Judy is still teaching at an elementary school in Turbeville, Va.

I just found out that Bob and Anne Degraff Spencer had their third little girl this morning. She arrived right on schedule, just four hours past the original due date. I talked to Bob and he's taking new daughters very calmly now. He says all the Spencers are doing fine.

I had back surgery at Johns Hopkins a couple of months ago. Everything went very well and I am anxious to go back to work. My company was very nice about giving me

HOMECOMING '78

OCTOBER 13-14

REUNION CLASSES: OLDE GUARDE (1693-1928)
1933, 1938, 1943, 1948, 1953, 1958, 1963, 1968, 1973

EVERYONE WELCOME!!

There's nothing bigger than Homecoming at William and Mary, and it's getting bigger every year. Here are just a few reasons why:

FRIDAY

- * Alumni Golf and Tennis Tournaments
- * Bus Tours of the Campus
- * Class Cocktail Parties
- * Annual Alumni Banquet
- * Annual Meeting of the Society

SATURDAY

- * Homecoming Parade - Duke of Gloucester St.
- * Luncheon-on-the-Lawn at the Alumni House
- * Football - W&M vs. James Madison U.
- * "5th Quarter" Reception
- * Alumni Dinner-Dance

The Alumni Office has reserved blocks of rooms for returning alumni at many of Williamsburg's fine motels and hotels. The OLDE GUARDE will be staying at the Williamsburg Lodge; Class of '33 - Hospitality House; Class of '38 - Mount Vernon Motor Lodge; Class of '43 - Williamsburg Motor House; Class of '48 - Howard Johnson Motor Lodge; Class of '53 - Williamsburg Lodge and the Sheraton Motor Inn; Class of '58 - Parkway Motel; Class of '63 - Lord Paget Motor Inn; Class of '68 - Hospitality House; Class of '73 - the Captain John Smith Motor Lodge; OWJ - Heritage Inn; Classes of '39, '40, '41 - Williamsburg Motor House; and Non Reunion Classes - Ramada Inn East, 1776, and Holiday Inn West. Contact Trudi Topping at the Alumni Office for reservations.

Don't miss out on all the fun and excitement of Homecoming '78. Make your plans now to come back to see old friends and make new ones. The weekend is packed with fun-filled activities and we don't want you to miss a minute!

LOOK FOR MORE DETAILS AND RESERVATION FORMS IN UPCOMING ISSUES OF THE ALUMNI GAZETTE.

time off, but now I am getting nervous, realizing they have been able to continue their day-to-day operations without my valuable services! Al and I plan to attend Homecoming this year and hope to see lots of you there. This is the first biggie for our class - #5 already.

Sorry that there is no more news, but my mail box has been EMPTY. All you people out there who don't want to write in about yourselves, get busy and send me some information about your roommate, best friend, arch rival, or worst enemy - I'll include it all.

Joan M. Harrigan
1123 Linden Hill Apts.
Lindenwold, N.J. 08021

75 Once again, you've all done a great job of keeping me supplied with news, so I will get right to it: From Williamsburg, Jerome Johnson writes that he is completing his MA in biology, with a specialization in invertebrate respiratory physiology. After graduation, he plans to return to the Chicago area for a job and/or further studies.

Bob Lambertson is a second year medical student at MCV, and is working part-time at Chippenham Hospital, where his wife, Pam, is also employed.

After a season with the Alley Theatre in Houston, Biagio Sancetta has returned to Virginia, where he worked on an MBA at William and Mary, serves as an intelligence analyst for the Naval Reserve, and was appointed Executive Director of the Dance Guild of Virginia. In his free time, he built a dining room set: Biagio sent news of another theatre alumnus, Susan Dandridge, who is working with Century Strand in theatre lighting and design.

Sally Moren fell in love with California's "Bay Area" while doing her master's at Mills College, and is now teaching art and dance in a prep school on the Monterey Peninsula. Ultimately, though, she'd like to settle in Williamsburg, a sentiment that seems to be common to many of our classmates.

After completing her MA, Betty Yeamans drove and camped through Great Britain and Europe. She is currently living in Virginia, while producing training programs on self-paced helicopter repair for the Army. Betty invites her fellow William and Mary veterans to visit her at 6206 Chestnut Ave - #3, Newport News, or phone her at 827-7480. Betty also sent news of Doug Harrel -- she reports that he is alive and living in Richmond, where he works for IBM.

Don Brizendine writes that since graduation, he has married Erica Joyce Kent, finished his MS in virology at ODU, and begun his first year of medical school at Kansas City College of Osteopathic Medicine, Kansas City, Mo.

Marshall Miller won a trip to San Francisco as top producing agent with his Prudential agency. Most of his work is in the Williamsburg, Gloucester, Newport News, and Hampton area. His roommate is Ed Holt, who is in his last year of MBA work at William and Mary.

Jim Larsen writes that he spent one year selling real estate in Virginia Beach, and followed that up with a year as an assistant manager with K-mart in Norfolk. Jim was married last summer, and is currently back at school at ODU in preparation for starting an accounting career this summer.

Marcel and Connie Warren Desaulners are living in Williamsburg, where they recently moved into a new home. Connie is in her third season as a sales representative for Busch Gardens, and writes that she loves her job and doesn't plan to give up working!

Cherrie Kassem taught conversational and business English to German adults in a private school in West Germany for a year after graduation, and describes the time spent working and travelling there as the "most educational of my life." After a short time in Hawaii, Cherrie roamed around California on her motorcycle, and then settled in Blacksburg, Va., where she is a staff writer with the Information Services and food science departments at VPI. Cherrie writes educational articles and pamphlets for the general public, and in her spare time plays racquetball and basketball, swims, and plays the alto sax.

Thomas and Mary Dunn Lilley Hubbard were married in April, and are living in Richmond, at least until Mary Dunn finishes her MBA at VCU.

Like Sally Moren, David Schwartz misses Williamsburg and "college life" -- he's in his third year of graduate dentistry at Boston University. According to David, most of his work now is in the clinic, "so it's quite nice to be into or close to real life work." He is also involved with hematology research at the Navel Blood Research Lab in Boston.

If you are in Florida, Ken and Diane Cale Stewart invite you to visit them and their Cocker Spaniel, Brandy. Diane teaches drama and speech to eighth graders, and loves it!

James Norman has been in Ghana with the Peace Corps for a year -- letters can be sent to him c/o the Dept. of Social Welfare and Community Development, PO Box 152, Sunyani, B/A, Ghana, West Africa.

"I've finished my Master's at Johns Hopkins in environmental biology (finally)," writes Debbie Rutledge. Currently, Debbie is working as a systems engineer for IBM in Baltimore.

Pat Harkin recently visited Craig Penner, Mike Hingerty, Louanne Cole, and Gail Yamada in San Francisco. Pat has an MBA from Northwestern University, and after completing a marketing internship for RCA, accepted a permanent position with Hertz as an assistant to the vice president and general manager.

There's a little bit of Williamsburg in Old Towne Alexandria -- Ernie and Happy Gretsck Copley's townhouse, which is decorated in Williamsburg colors. Happy writes that Ernie is now with Merrill, Lynch and is bullish on his job!

Skiing is Jay and Clare Monahan Corson's favorite sport -- they spent a week at Killington last winter, and enjoyed snow not commonly found around their home in Fairfax. Clare is employed as a litigation paralegal for an Arlington based law firm, and she contributed news of several classmates. According to Clare, Alison Williams and Barbara Bingham are sharing a townhouse in Alexandria--Alison is a field investigator for State Farm Insurance Co., and Barbara is "climbing the government work's ladder while working for the Department of Labor." Daryl Ramsey Joslin and her husband, Michael, '72, are living in Centreville, Va. Daryl is a sales representative for Proctor and Gamble. Paige Auer is completing law school at Georgetown, and began clerking for a West Virginia Supreme Court Justice in May. Tricia Pugh is reported to be working for the Department of Welfare in Alexandria. Pem Dunlap Hutchinson and her husband, Greg, Grad '75, are living in Winchester, and recently welcomed their first child, Edward Pembroke Hutchinson.

Rodger and Moira Madrid Spahr are enjoying life in Colorado. Moira writes that she has been keeping busy helping her mother-in-law with her jewelry business and taking jazz/Hawaiian dance lessons. She sent news of Nancy Norman Hudock, who was married last fall and is still enjoying teaching high school in Virginia.

From medical school in Charlottesville, Bill Butler wrote that he is hoping to spend the summer of '78 in San Antonio doing work in general surgery and the treatment of burn victims. Like classmate Ellis Maxey, Bill would like to hear from the alumni of "Madison Fifth."

Jeffrey Mason, a third year biochemistry student at UVa, recently presented a paper at a New York City symposium of biochemists.

Drew and Diane Kessel Hagemann have a fully equipped blacksmith's shop in the backyard of their Williamsburg Home! Drew, who is currently pursuing a mechanical engineering degree, learned the blacksmith's trade while working for Colonial Williamsburg, and according to Diane, remains a blacksmith at heart. Diane works in the Wren Building -- she's with the Virginia Research Center for Archaeology, which maintains an exhibit in the Wren basement. Diane sends a hello to long-lost classmate Tom Ferguson, who was last reported in graduate school at William and Mary.

Scheduling training activities, running a Skill Qualification Testing program, answering three phones and two radios at once, and catching a lot of flak are among the duties listed by Will Vehrs in connection with his assignment as assistant operations officer with the US Army in Germany. Will and his wife, Beverly Forss Vehrs '76, have enjoyed skiing in the Alps and traveling through London while stationed abroad, but are also looking forward to showing the States to their new daughter, Heather Ellen, who was born in December. They are also planning to attend Homecoming '79!

Since graduation, Randy Garrett has worked on a software project at Langley AFB and Moorestown, N.J., before becoming a programmer for Sperry Univac's Technical Services Division in Dahlgren, Va. Randy is living in Fredericksburg -- a 45 minute drive to work!

After directing the music for several shows in Williamsburg's (including William and Mary's production of Guys and Dolls), Ginni Carr is now living "all over the state of Virginia" and working as an entertainer on the Richmond nightclub circuit and as a pianist/singer at the Tides Inn in Irvington, Va. In her spare time, Ginni is going to school at VCU to get a teaching degree in music!

From Manchester, N.H., Tracy Walker Wyman writes that she and her husband, David, are still employed at the Derryfield School Library and Pinehaven Boys Center, respectively. There is, however, a new addition to the Wyman family -- a part-husky puppy named Gwen -- whose favorite occupation is dragging Tracy down the street on their walks.

Gift Ideas

from the Botetourt Boutique

At top, William and Mary Alumni show the colors! Dark green, navy, or maroon necktie with W&M Coat of Arms, $10.00. Green and gold, reversible and washable handbag, $15.00. Four-color blazer crest, $15.00. Set of blazer buttons, $17.50.

At bottom, W&M Coat-of-Arms Needlepoint Kit, 14" x 14" finished piece. $20.00. W&M Coat-of-Arms Crewel Kit, 17" x 18". $15.00.

To purchase, use the order form on page 10.

William and Mary Chairs

Coat-of-arms Captains Chair
All Ebony, $80.00
With Cherry Arms, $80.00
Coat-of-arms Boston Rocker, $75.00
Coat-of-arms Straight Chair, $60.00

Medallion Captains Chair
All Ebony, $98.00
With Cherry Arms, $98.00
Medallion Boston Rocker, $95.00

Chair cushion, 2" deep latex foam rubber, dark green cover with black trim, $11.00

All chairs picked up at the Alumni House are subject to a freight charge of $10.00.

All chairs to be shipped direct will be shipped freight collect. Chairs ordered should be allowed ten to twelve weeks for delivery, except rockers, which will be shipped as manufacturing schedules permit.

To purchase, use the order form on page 10.

Fred and Marcia Carl Simpkins wrote that they are looking forward to joining the other '75'ers in the D.C. area after completing their MBA's at William and Mary in May.

Terri Bartlett writes that she is using her Miss America talent scholarship to pursue a Masters of Instruction with an emphasis in music at William and Mary. Ultimately, Terri would like to teach choral music on the secondary level, but this year she has been enjoying the travel and experiences that accompany her Miss Virginia title.

Hunter LeCompte is in the property casualty insurance business in Richmond. He is married to another William and Mary graduate, the former Mary Ellen Metzger.

Barbara Briesmaster writes that she enjoys her work as a legal assistant with a Richmond law firm. She also sent news of Peggy Lawlor, who at last report was busy studying for the Virginia Bar Exam!

Having one's VW rear-ended on the San Diego freeway is but one of the hazards of the California freeways, writes Tykie Tobin. Tykie was recently promoted to Assistant Director for Public Events at USC, a job that involves everything from accounting and contracts to concert management. She also moved "for what seems like the millionth time since coming to LA" but this time to the middle of the downtown area, which should reduce her gas bill!

Carol de Wilde and Margaret Stephens are rooming together in Arlington. Carol is an education and cultural exchange assistant for the State Department -- her office handles the administration of the Fulbright-Hayes Student and Scholar exchanges with Eastern Europe. After transferring from William and Mary, Margaret completed her BA at George Washington University where she is now a graduate teaching assistant in history.

Clay Blanton and Ed Burnette are rooming together in Williamsburg and looking forward to graduation from Marshall-Wythe!

Chris McKechnie and Sally Rogers are sharing an Alexandria townhouse. Chris is a legislative aide for the Council of American Flag Ship Operators in D.C., a job that she really enjoys. Sally has been finishing her law degree at Georgetown, and has also been working for Strom Thurmond. Both would enjoy hearing from classmates living in the area.

John Gerdelman and his wife, Sue Hanna Gerdelman '76, moved four times last summer -- they are now stationed at NAS Whidbey Island, Washington, where John flies the EA-6B, a Naval electronic aircraft. Sue writes that she is enjoying the Northwest and seeking a teaching job.

Peggy Windsor has spent the last year and a half living in northern Arizona and working at the Yaupai Rehabilitation Center, a sheltered workshop and work adjustment center for mentally and physically handicapped teenagers and adults. Her duties as a social worker include placing clients in community homes and doing follow-alongs when they graduate from the program.

Paul Haley was a counselor at the Bacon Street, Williamsburg Youth Center and at Eastern State, but is now employed as a paralegal at the Christiansburg Legal Aid Office.

After two years of living in the Norfolk area, Dennis and Sally Ross Cook moved to Barrington, R.I. Sally is a systems analyst for a government contractor in Newport, and Dennis is a programmer analyst with C.E. Maguire, Inc. in Providence. They've recently bought an older home, and are now enjoying redecorating it.

Ward Boston and his wife, Mary Anne '76, travelled across three continents with their nine-month old son, Daniel, last October. They are stationed with the Army in Germany, and visited Mary Anne's family in Guatemala and Ward's parents in Southern California. According to Ward, it was a wonderful trip, though the logistics presented some problems! Michael Dixon has spent the past two years travelling through Europe, Africa, and the Middle East, and was able to spend some time with the Bostons in Frankfurt. Michael taught English in Teheran, and is now enrolled in a graduate program in international studies at UVa.

The former Lana Boone and her husband, Rick (sorry, but I misplaced the envelope with Lana's married name) are living in the Big Apple, where Lana is a proposal specialist with Mutual of New York. Come fall, they hope to be moving to Boston, where both can pursue graduate degrees. Lana writes that they were able to get to Mardi Gras in New Orleans this year, and they also manage to visit family and friends in Virginia fairly often. In her spare time, Lana is active in the Tri-Delta alumnae, and she and Rick welcome William and Mary visitors to New York. She sent news of Debbie Gortner, who recently started a new job with AT&T in New York, and Kim Faris Pond, who is a secretary with Tectronics in Oregon.

Don Harvey writes that since graduation, his job, priorities, and goals have changed. Don taught fourth grade in Williamsburg for two years, and then entered Southeastern Baptist Theological Seminary in North Carolina. He will be working as minister of youth at the Main Street Baptist Church in Emporia, Va.

Thanks to Don, we have news of the following alumni: Cindy Moore was last reported teaching sixth grade at Bruton Heights Elementary School in Williamsburg, and Rose Browning and her husband, Bert, are involved in a ministry at Adams Grove Baptist Church near Emporia. Rose also teaches in Southhampton County. Mark Grumbles has returned from Paraguay, where he served as a missionary, and is employed by Best Products in Richmond. Julie and Sam Jones have built a home in Providence Forge -- Sam works at Goodyear in Williamsburg and Julie teaches music at Walsingham Academy.

Mark and Dottie Mills Harrell are both in graduate school at the University of Wisconsin - Madison. Mark is working on a PhD in entomology, and Dottie is doing double masters in zoology and water resources management. The following news was reported by Dottie: Sylvia Laughon Vancho and her husband, Mark '74, both work at Cameron Station in Northern Virginia, and have bought a home in Triangle. Suzanne Downey is in the brokerage business in Hagerstown, Md. Janis Manning is a paralegal with a D.C. law firm. Scott and Kathleen Coberly Stewart and their baby daughter are living in Germany, where Scott is a lieutenant in the Army. Jennifer Shopland Dillon and her husband, Bruce '74, are living near Chicago. Bruce is doing his residency in surgery at the University of Illinois-Chicago Hospital, and Jennifer is working on a PhD in ornithology at the University of Chicago. Celeste Corcoran has joined the Harrells in graduate school at Madison -- Dottie writes that the William and Mary contingent is small, but growing, as George Diggs '74 is also doing graduate work there.

This is the last column until fall, but please don't forget to write over the summer! As you can see from the new address, I've moved, and am living in South Jersey, outside Philadelphia. Finally, after a long job search, I'm very happy working as a group representative with the Hartford Insurance

A Prospect of William and Mary — Hitchcock artist Mel Morgan has recreated the famous "Millington View" of the college yard as it appeared around 1840. On the left is Brafferton, erected in 1723 with funds from the estate of Robert Boyle and named for his Yorkshire manor which provided rents that supported the Indian School until the time of the Revolution. In the center is the second Wren Building, dating from 1716, which was rebuilt after the original structure of 1695 was destroyed by fire in 1705. Wren is the oldest academic building in continuous use in the United States today. On the right is the President's House (1732), which has been the home of every president of the college.

William and Mary Chair by Hitchcock

A magnificent, hand-woven rush seat arm chair for your living room, office or den. Exquisitely decorated in gold on a rich black background, the chair offers the famous "Millington View," executed by hand in pastel shades through a combination of traditional Hitchcock stenciling and brushwork.

Your chair will be finished with your name and class inscribed in gold on the back. Please allow six to eight weeks for delivery.

The price, $195., includes delivery to your door anywhere in the continental U.S. Please make checks payable to "The Hitchcock Chair Company."

Society of the Alumni, William and Mary
c/o The Hitchcock Chair Company
Riverton, CT 06065

PLEASE type or print:

I enclose $_____ for _____ William and Mary chair(s) at $195 each, including freight charges to my door in the continental U.S.*

Please inscribe the following name and class:

NAME _____ CLASS _____

NAME _____ CLASS _____

Ship to:
NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

*Connecticut residents add 7% Sales Tax please.
(Special arrangements must be made for shipment abroad.)

Group. The job consists of marketing employee benefits to corporations, and I spent the month of April in group insurance school in Hartford -- an experience that made me glad to live in the Philadelphia area! I'd love to hear from any alumni living near here (or visiting, unlikely as that may be). Feel free to write, or call 609-784-9632, and have a great summer!

Cindy Bennett
1522 Americana Drive
Richmond, Va 23228

77 Hope everyone survived the rough winter. Some of you must still be snowed in. I have not heard a word from most of you. The warm, sunny areas managed to report in this month.

From Palo Alto, Calif., Jeanne Nicholson writes that she is now employed by the Redwood City Tribune Newspaper. Linda Steigleder is also in Palo Alto. She is working with the San Mateo County schools during the day and manages a community box office at night for arts management experience. She also finds time to volunteer at the Palo Alto Community Center installing art exhibits.

Not too far from Jeanne and Linda, in San Francisco, lives Nora Cassai. After working in New York City for awhile, Nora moved to San Francisco in November. She works as an instructor in a health spa giving exercise classes and workouts. She writes about how beautiful the area is -- "everything wonderful you've heard and more!" It is enough to make you pack your bags and leave rainy Richmond. Nora and Linda get to see each other frequently.

Don Haycraft writes from sunny Bradenton, Fla. He is presently a sailing captain of a 41-foot sloop. He writes that he has sailed mostly on the West Coast, but has made trips to the Yucatan Peninsula and to the Bahamas. His wife, Madaline Herlong Haycraft, '76, is a high school English teacher in Bradenton. Cathy Howard and Beth Johnson just got back from Daytona Beach, Fla. It was a welcome spring break from teaching for them.

Our delegation in New York is keeping me posted of their whereabouts. Carol Mallon has decided to pursue a career in nursing, "even with a history degree!" She worked as a nurse's aide during the fall and loved the field. She just entered the January class at Pace University's Graduate School of Nursing in Briarcliff Manor, N.Y. The two-year program she selected is a special one for liberal arts majors and leads to an M.S. in nursing.

Sharon Peake is currently in a two-year program at the State University of New York at Binghamton studying for her Master's in Business Administration in the arts. Her specialty is theater management. During the past summer, she worked for a community repertory theater as publicity director and company manager. She also acted in two of the five plays produced. After her arrival in Binghamton, she joined the opera workshop. She adds that the professor is from the New York City Opera. Somehow, Sharon has found time to enjoy many weekends in New York City -- seeing Broadway plays, the opera, shopping and visiting friends.

Al Whitley writes from New York City. He is working in the New York City office of The J. Walter Thompson Company. Al adds that W&M is well recognized up there -- equated with the seven sisters and Ivy League. Eli Alcalay is also in New York City at Columbia University working on a J.D./M.I.A.

Further North, Debbie McCracken is attending the University of Vermont working on her Master's in Cultural History and Museology. Also in Vermont, Jody Roberts passed the Real Estate exam in December. She is working for the Shea Agency in Bennington, Vt.

Perhaps the Class of '77 graduate the greatest distance away is Peter Tingley. He is in Tunisia teaching English to French and Arabic-speaking peoples.

Connie Ritter works for a travel agency in West Virginia. Bob Benson is attending the Washington College of Law at American University in Washington, D.C.

E. C. (Court) Snyder, Jr., and Bennett Richardson both attended the February meeting of the Houston Alumni Chapter.

Randolph Baynton is with the U.S. Marine Corps and is stationed at Camp

Lejeune with the 2nd Division.

Lynn Powell has been promoted to assistant cashier and manager of the East End Office of the Bank of Suffolk. He started with the bank in 1977 as assistant manager of the Plaza Office.

Mary Carroll has been commissioned as Ensign in the Navy after graduation from OCS in Newport, R.I.

Krista Dudley has received her M.B.A. from W&M and is now the Director of Development for John Yancey Management, Inc. Her primary responsibility will be working with motel management clients. John Yancey currently manages sixteen motels in Virginia, North Carolina, and Florida.

Second Lieutenant Karen Heck has graduated from the Marine Corps Basic School at Quantico. In the western part of the state, Don Thomson is presently working in Lynchburg as a management-trainee for Old Dominion Box Co., Inc. He completed a 2½ month, 12,500 mile car-camper tour of the U.S. and Canada this past summer.

Marion Roby married Mike Lugar in June. They settled in Richmond where Mike is working for Burrough's Corporation selling computers. Marion works as an interviewer-counselor in the personnel department of Southern States Cooperative.

Sue Harman married John Rickman, Class of '76, in August. She is a second grade teacher in Chesterfield County here in Richmond. On the southside of Richmond, Ward Richardson is working as a counselor at the Bon Air correctional school for girls. Alice Burlinson just moved down to Richmond from Ohio. John Walk is at T.C. Williams Lay School. Nan Weirup is working for Reynolds Metals here. Anne Ward travels a great deal in her job. Currently, she is teaching in Northern Virginia, but has taught for periods in Richmond and New Jersey.

Bryan Whitfield has a new identity. He is the GI Joe of the American Revolution. He is on duty at the Yorktown Victory Center every day, dressed in his Regimental red and blue, toting his Brown Bess musket. He went with the Victory Center in October, to plan a battlefield exhibit. He is now living it in the uniform of the time, the tent, and has even fitted out an identity for himself. He putters around the campfire doing things that soldiers of the time would do, giving information, showing the musket drill of Baron Von Steuben. He also served as an honor guard for the anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of Alliance between France and the Colonies. Also present were Governor John Dalton and the French ambassador, Francois de Laboulaye.

Anybody miss springtime in the 'Burg -- bike rides, jogging, sunbathing, and those tourists? Congratulations to Chip Mann on his appointment to the Board of Visitors. A special congratulations to Mr. Charles Varner on his 25th year at William and Mary.

Mrs. E. D. Etter
(Mary R. Spitzer)
486 West Market St.
Harrisonburg, Va. 22801

G Dr. Trevor Colbourn (MA '49) has been named the second president of Florida Tech University and will assume his new position in June. He is currently acting president of San Diego State University, where he has been since 1973 after receiving his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University in 1953.

Dr. Sharon Manning (MS '67), in addition to her new duties as president of Colorado Women's College, has been named a director of the United Banks Service Company in Denver.

Since a number of the departments at the College have formed their own alumni graduate groups and are issuing their own publications, there will be less news for our graduate column.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

H. Vincent Conway, Jr.
11048 Warwick Boulevard
Newport News, Va. 23601

Curtis Coward '74 JD, has announced his candidacy in the Lynchburg councilmanic election, running as an independent. He had served as Assistant Commonwealth Attorney in Lynchburg for two years before joining the firm of Bell, Coward, Morrison and Spies.

Tony Giorno, '76 JD, and Neil Vener, '77 JD, have joined the staff of the new Commonwealth Attorney in Lynchburg.

School of Business (MBA)

Dr. William E. O'Connell, Jr.
School of Business Administration
College of William and Mary
Williamsburg, Va. 23185

David S. Crooks, MBA '75, has been appointed Vice President for Financial Affairs of the International Picture Show Company in Atlanta, Ga. The company finances, produces and distributes motion pictures.

School of Education (M Ed)

Dr. John W. Sykes
Office of Educational Placement
College of William and Mary
Williamsburg, Va. 23186

All information for Vital Statistics should be addressed to:

Vital Statistics
THE ALUMNI GAZETTE
Box GO
Williamsburg, Va. 23185

Vital Statistics

BIRTHS

To: Allan C. Brownfeld, '61, a son, Peter Egill, March 18, 1978. Second child, first son.

To: Terry Price (Campbell), '64, a daughter, Amy Rebecca, February 14, 1978. Second child, first daughter.

To: Susan Roberts (Chadd), '65, a son, Edmund Hunt, October 31, 1977. Third child, third son.

To: Rusty Rollings (Stevens), '65, and Kent Stevens, '65, a daughter, Susan Elizabeth, May, 1977. Second child, first daughter.

To: Lorraine Benson (Hancock), '67, and William Hancock, '68, a daughter, Jill Alecia, October 1, 1977. Third child, third daughter.

To: Linda Beazley (Van Pelt), '68, a son, Joseph Samuel, March 1, 1978. First child.

To: Olivian Boggs (Boon), '68, a daughter, Jessica, June 13, 1976. Second child, second daughter.

To: Patti Gosnell (Woodle), '68, and E. L. Woodle, Jr., '67, a daughter, Anne Tyson, August 3, 1977. Second child, first daughter.

To: Joyce Hill (Stoner), '68, and W. Patrick Stoner, '69, a daughter, Catherine Rebecca, April 2, 1978.

To: Shannon Patterson (McCall), '68, and W. J. McCall, Jr., '66, a daughter, Meghan Aileen, March 2, 1978. Second child, second daughter.

To: Linda Watson (Wallace), '68, a son, Kelly Clark, December 18, 1975.

To: Lynn Andrew (Ellenson), '69, and David Ellenson, '69, a son, Micah Samuel, December 31, 1977. Second child, first son.

To: William L. Boyd, '70, a son, Charles Grayson, February 23, 1978. Second child, second son.

To: Betsy Calvo (Anderson), '70, and Alvin Anderson, '70, a daughter, Sara Paris, April 2, 1978. Second child, second daughter.

To: Kay Tucker (McGraw), '70, a daughter, Virginia La Vaughan, January 1, 1978. First child.

To: Andrew Brant Evans, '72, a daughter, Blair Elizabeth, January 24, 1978. First child.

To: Gail McLawhon (Snow), '72, and Donald Franklyn Snow, Jr., Grad., a son, Donald Franklyn, III, February 20, 1978.

To: Ann Price (Embrey), '72, a daughter, Allison Beth, March 16, 1978. First child.

To: Linda Reeder (Tuskey), '72, a son, Brian Patrick, February 1, 1978. Second child, first son.

To: Cheryl Bull (Douglass), '73, a son, Chadwyck Lynn, January 28, 1977. First child.

To: Anne DeGraff (Spencer), '73, and Robert Brew Spencer, '73, a daughter, Aileen Patricia, April 11, 1978. Third child, third daughter.

To: Jenny Miller (Owens), '74, a son, Andrew Lee, February 22, 1978. First child.

MARRIAGES

Elaine Abbott, '57, and William C. Fuqua, November 19, 1977.

Alice Virginia Annon, '66, and Sayyed L. Miri, December 29, 1977.

Theresa Thompson, '67, and David T. Stitt, October 30, 1976.

Lynn M. Greenwood, '71, and James H. Friscia, '71, June 11, 1977.

Diane Stanton, '71, and Frank M. Monroe, Jr., July 23, 1977.

Elizabeth Stone Thiele, '73, and Earle Wilson Martin, June 4, 1977.

Laura Ruth Bechtel, '74, and Frederick C. Meltzer, February 19, 1978.

Elisabeth Vermilye, '74, and Stephen Jay Maatsch, November 25, 1977.

Bruce A. Brown, '75, and Mary C. Donohue, November 27, 1976.

Kathleen Burke, '75, and Joe Dictor, October 1, 1977.

Charlotte Earnest, '75, and Richard Hibbs, December 10, 1977.

Veronica L. Hurwitz, '75, and Richard S. Townsend, Jr., July 30, 1977.

Bob Lamberson, '75, and Pamela Burnop, December 23, 1977.

Janet Phillips, '75, and H. Lee Jones, III, October 1, 1977.

Betsy J. Thomas, '75, and Paul Douglas Guion, November 5, 1977.

Janice Scott Wampler, '75, and Armistead P. Booker, Jr., July 31, 1976.

Daniel Gordon Wilcox, '75, and Joyce Ellen Shafer, August 27, 1977.

Sandra Jeanne Wilson, '75, and Scott Garris Yancey, Jr., '74, November 19, 1977.

Susan Kaye Hedrick, '76, and Nathan Smith White, III, '77, January 21, 1978.

Lydia Gai Lin Loo, '76, and Steven Y. T. Tam, October 8, 1977.

Pamela Gayle Waddle, '76, and Eric Michael Furr, '75, November 1, 1975.

Teresa-Anne Marie Cloyd, '77, and Michael D. Estes, July 23, 1977.

Donna Gayle Smith, '77, and Charles William Byrd, Jr., '75, June 4, 1977.

Lisa Williams, '77, and Ted Miller, '75, June 4, 1977.

DEATHS

Fletcher James Barnes, II, '27 A.B., April 11, 1978, in Nassawadox, Virginia.

Kenneth Bowers Beatty, '28 A.B., February 11, 1978 in Upper Montclair, New Jersey.

Norma Elizabeth Fuqua (Stickel), '28 B.S., March 3, 1977, in Bradenton, Florida.

Margaret Semmes (McKillop), '28, March 21, 1977, in Glen Allen, Virginia.

Robert L. Speight, '28, February 20, 1978, in Suffolk, Virginia.

Charles Harrison Stickel, '28, October 19, 1977, in Bradenton, Florida.

Stuart Jefferson Townes, '29 A.B., February 18, 1978, in Amelia, Virginia.

Marion Elizabeth Moncure (Duncan), '35, April 15, 1978, in Alexandria, Virginia.

Olive Abbott Smith (Schmidt), '38, March 19, 1978, in Newport News, Virginia.

Dorothy Ellen Swan (Moslo), '40 A.B., January 2, 1978, in Lakewood, Ohio.

Habib Elisa Doumar, '43 B.A., February 22, 1978, in Norfolk, Virginia.

Robert Benjamin Eten, '46 B.A., August 25, 1977, in Chesapeake, Virginia.

Paul David Cahill, '78, April 16, 1978, in Richmond, Virginia.

Gary Neal Altman, '79, April 14, 1978, in West Point, Virginia.

Glenn Robert Balas, '79, April 14, 1978, in West Point, Virginia.

Graham John Tancill, '79, April 14, 1978, in West Point, Virginia.

FOR ALUMNI, PARENTS OF STUDENTS, AND FRIENDS

THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI
COMMISSIONS BULOVA TO CREATE A DISTINCTIVE TIMEPIECE

An open letter to Alumni, Parents of Students, and Friends of William and Mary:

It is my pleasure to inform you that the Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary in Virginia has commissioned the Bulova Watch Company, recognized the world over for precision craftsmanship and dependability, to create a most distinctive and elegant timepiece.

This superb watch, crafted solely for alumni, parents of students, and a select group of friends of William and Mary, is being made available at this time only and will never be offered again.

Through the Master Engraver's art, a stunningly detailed and richly dimensional re-creation of the historic Coat of Arms of the College of William and Mary has been hand-sculpted, struck, polished and highlighted to obtain the brilliant 14 kt. gold-finished dial which graces the face of each timepiece. Behind each regal dial is the trusted reliability and guaranteed in-use accuracy that has made Bulova technology the international standard for others to emulate.

The Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary Watch is being made available in three classic styles as illustrated on the back cover of this issue of the Alumni Gazette. The men's and ladies' wristwatches offer the dependability of the electronic Bulova Accutron[®] tuning fork movement. Both are water resistant with a sweep second hand and fully grained brown strap. The Hunting Case pocketwatch, featuring the new Bulova Accutron Quartz movement, comes with a matching chain. Each timepiece is guaranteed to keep accurate time to within one minute per month and carries Bulova's warranty against defects in parts or labor for a full year, backed by the largest service network in the world.

The watches will be individually crafted and recorded in the name of the owner. It is important to note that for guaranteed acceptance, your order must be postmarked no later than May 31, 1978.

The men's and ladies' wristwatches are $175 each, the pocketwatch is $195. Your remittance may be made payable to the Society of the Alumni Watch, or may be charged to American Express, BankAmericard/Visa or Master Charge. A reservation form is provided below for your convenience.

I must emphasize that this offer is being extended only to alumni, parents of students, and friends of William and Mary and that this unique opportunity will never occur again. The watch will not be sold in even the finest of jewelry shops. Thus, it is certain to be a treasured family possession for generations to come.

Parents of students may wish to purchase the timepiece as a thoughtful and meaningful gift for their son or daughter. It will assuredly provide a lasting remembrance of The College of William and Mary. The Society of the Alumni Watch exists for those select few who proudly share the mutual bond of ownership—there is no other watch in the world like it.

Please keep in mind that for guaranteed acceptance, your watch reservation must be postmarked by May 31, 1978. Since the watches will be shipped in the sequence orders are received, I urge your immediate consideration.

Sincerely,

Gordon C. Vliet '54
Executive Vice President
The Society of the Alumni

Reservation Form

SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI OF THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY WATCH

Please accept my order for the following Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary Watch(es):

QUANTITY Ladies' Bulova Accutron Wristwatch @ $175* each

QUANTITY Men's Bulova Accutron Wristwatch @ $175* each

QUANTITY Bulova Accutron Quartz Pocketwatch
(including matching chain) @ $195* each

*Pennsylvania residents, add 6% state sales tax.

I wish to pay for my watch(es) as follows:

By a single remittance of $_____ made payable to "Society of the Alumni Watch", which I enclose.

By charging the amount of $_____ to my credit card indicated below:

American Express BankAmericard/Visa Master Charge

Full Account Number

--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--	--

Valid from _____ through _____

Address orders to:
ALUMNI WATCH
Post Office Box 511
Wayne, Pennsylvania 19087

NOTE: For guaranteed acceptance, reservations must be postmarked by May 31, 1978.

Please ship my watch(es) to:

NAME _____

STREET ADDRESS _____

CITY _____

STATE _____ ZIP CODE _____

SIGNATURE: _____

Please allow 8 to 10 weeks from closing date for shipment.

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

VOL. 45 No. 9

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA 23185

MAY 1978

Illustrated: Men's Bulova Accutron wristwatch, Bulova Accutron Quartz pocketwatch and Ladies' Bulova
Accutron wristwatch.

Watches shown smaller than actual size.

THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI OF THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY WATCH

A precision Bulova Accutron® timepiece available for a limited time only.

Distinctive 14 kt. gold-finished medallion dial featuring the Coat of Arms of the College of William and Mary.

Available in wristwatch and pocketwatch styles.

Entire edition reserved exclusively for Alumni, Parents of Students, and Friends of the College.

For guaranteed acceptance, orders must be postmarked by May 31, 1978.

This offer will never be repeated.

FOR ORDERING INFORMATION, PLEASE SEE PAGE 23.

POSTMASTER: Send Form 3579 to
P.O. Box 1693, Williamsburg, Va. 23185

Second-class postage paid at Williamsburg, Va.
and Richmond, Va.

REFURBISHING MONROE'S "CABIN CASTLE"
SEE PAGE 12

Development Report Supplement

Campaign for the College

News and Notes • May 1978

President Graves (above) will speak at a number of the alumni functions being organized for Campaign by Bill McGoldrick (below).

National Campaign

Alumni Canvass Begins in Fall

How do you personally involve 40,000 parents, friends, and alumni in a $19 million fund-raising campaign.

That's the challenge facing William P. McGoldrick, William and Mary's director of special gifts, over the next half-year. And the answer he gives reminds one of the riddle of the 400-pound gorilla: "Very carefully."

In McGoldrick's case, however, the "very carefully" refers to pinpoint, meticulous organization. Since last fall, that is exactly what McGoldrick has been working on in approximately 20 different cities around the country. His efforts will culminate this fall and winter in a series of programs and phonathons that will seek to personally reach all of the William and Mary Family.

McGoldrick's efforts represent the third and final phase of the 3-year Campaign for the College that is well beyond halfway toward its $19 million goal. In the first phase, the College received 100 per cent participation from those with the closest ties to the College -- members of the Board of Visitors, Endowment Board, and directors of the Society of the Alumni. In the second phase, which is still in progress, faculty and administration have given or pledged more than a quarter million dollars.

In the third phase now being organized by McGoldrick, the College will seek at least $1.5 million from alumni, friends and parents - both from their annual gifts and special one-time gifts to College endowment.

In addition, says McGoldrick, the College will ask alumni, parents, and friends to consider William and Mary in their estate plans.

To prepare for the appeals, McGoldrick has divided his campaign into three parts.

In the first part, he is organizing programs in 8 cities in Virginia through which he hopes to reach most of the approximately half of William and Mary's alumni who live within the Commonwealth. In the second phase, the College will hold programs in seven cities outside of Virginia with a great concentration of William and Mary alumni -- with a goal of reaching another 5,000 individuals. In the third phase, McGoldrick hopes to reach the remaining alumni through phonathons during October through December.

The regional programs begin with a kickoff dinner in Williamsburg on Sept. 7.

"Like any phase of a campaign," says McGoldrick, "you have to begin at the wellspring. The College is the source and reason for the whole campaign, and I think it is appropriate that we begin on campus."

Other programs are tentatively planned for Roanoke, Lynchburg, Richmond, Newport News, Hampton, (to be held at Williamsburg), Charlottesville at Ashlawn, Norfolk, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Washington, D.C./Suburban Maryland, Northern Virginia, Houston, Atlanta, Boston, and New York.

The regional programs will consist of a dinner or reception, an address by President Graves, a slide/sound presentation on the College today and a talk on the objectives of the Campaign.

McGoldrick stresses that "no solicitations will be made at the regional programs."

"They are for information purposes only," he notes. "We want to arouse greater excitement and interest in the college and in the campaign through the programs."

The programs will be followed by personal visits by volunteers and by regional phonathons to ask for a gift to the Campaign. All alumni, friends, and parents within each area will be contacted.

Whatever the success of the solicitation, McGoldrick feels the contact with alumni will have additional long-range benefits for the College.

"It will serve as another way of personally involving our alumni and friends in the life of the College," he says.

More than $30,000 in Cash and Pledges

Faculty Contributions Reach $280,000

Faculty at William and Mary have contributed almost $30,000 in cash and pledges to the three-year Campaign for the College.

Substantial testamentary commitments from faculty bring the total faculty commitment to the Campaign to more than $280,000.

One commitment to the Campaign was by a former advertising executive and faculty member in the School of Business Administration who decided to pay back William and Mary for all the hours of teaching he experienced at the College.

T. Carter Gleysteen, who retired in 1976 after teaching courses in advertising and marketing for seven years at William and Mary, has pledged one dollar to the Campaign for the College for every hour he was in the classroom teaching. The total gift comes to $1,365.

Gleysteen, who currently lives with his wife in Gloucester County, is a member of the Campaign's National Development Council and has helped to formulate plans for spreading news about the College's fund raising efforts to alumni and friends of William and Mary across the nation.

The unusual gift from Gleysteen is just one of 144 pledges made by faculty to the three-year Campaign. A 39-member committee of faculty volunteers began the college community solicitation in December. Approximately 38 per cent of the faculty have made donations totaling more than $280,000. Several departments and the Marshall-Wythe School of Law have yet to report donations from faculty members and are expected to do so in the near future.

As of April 1, strong support has been received from several departments, including classical studies, economics, men's physical education, religion, and the schools of business administration and education. The average cash pledge to the Campaign is $183.

Only one administrative branch, the Office of College Development, has been solicited to date, reporting 100 per cent participation. The Campaign received 21 gifts totaling $21,691.

Frank A. MacDonald, professor of philosophy emeritus, who is serving as chairman of the faculty campaign committee, says that "all things considered, I think the solicitation is going very well. I hope a greater percentage of faculty will make contributions in the near future."

Campaign For The College Third Year Emphasizes Faculty Support

Consider the case of Dr. John Doe at William and Mary.

He came to the College in 1972 as an assistant professor, and through a combination of his regular 10-month salary, summer school, and some minor miscellaneous income he grossed $14,280 that year. He had a wife and one child. After various taxes and other deductions, his take-home, real disposable income in constant, 1967 dollars was $9,250.

Now consider Dr. Doe five years later -- with a wife and two children. He has received excellent evaluations, a promotion to associate professor, and raises that now give him gross income of $20,600.

But in real disposable income, based on 1967 constant dollars,

Dr. Doe actually earns nearly $300 less than he did in 1972 -- $8,953 as compared with $9,250 in 1972. His income decreased 3 per cent during a period in which the average American had a 12 per cent increase.

For a related story, see Page 1 of this issue of the Alumni Gazette.

Dr. Doe, of course, is not a real person, but his profile, as worked out by an internal college study, was designed to be representative of the situation of faculty at William and Mary.

"In the third year of the Campaign for the College" says Warren Heemann, vice president for College Development, "we plan to emphasize support of the faculty, one of the three original goals of the Campaign, in order to help correct this sad situation."

William and Mary consistently has not compared well in terms of salaries even in Virginia. A recent study showed that eight Virginia colleges, including such schools as Norfolk State, ODU, once an extension of William and Mary, and Hollins College, ranked higher in two or more categories in average faculty salaries.

"Our faculty are certainly well above average in everything but salary and fringe benefits," says Heemann. "We hope that the success of the Campaign in the coming year will help alleviate that deficiency."

Recent Gifts Help Academic Program at W&M

The College has received three recent gifts that will have a significant, immediate impact on the educational program at the College.

The largest is a $61,000 grant from the Virginia Environmental Endowment that promises to make the Marshall-Wythe School of Law one of the country's leading centers for environmental law studies.

Other grants have come from the Frost Foundation of Shreveport, La., which gave the School of Education $2,000 for a research project sponsored by Professors Robert Maidment and Ronald C. Wheeler entitled "Improving the Quality of Life in Schools," and from E. I. DuPont DeNemours & Co., which gave the Department of Chemistry a $6,500 grant to help William and Mary improve the strength of its instruction in chemistry.

The gift from the Virginia Environmental Endowment will be used to sponsor four environmental law conferences and to establish a special law library on environmental matters.

All four conferences will focus primarily on environmental issues related to water, according to William B. Spong, Jr., dean of the law school. They will be structured to interest a broad range of individuals, including those concerned with industry, labor, health and other related fields. The first conference will be held next fall.

The Endowment designated $21,000 for the creation of one of the nation's most extensive environmental law libraries, which will support specialized research on the management and protection of estuarine and "close-in" coastal resources.

Give More Than $16,000 Alumni Support W&M Theatre Book

More than $16,000 in pledges and contributions has been raised to publish a definitive chronicle of 50 years of the William and Mary Theatre.

The money will be used to publish a 400-page book by Howard Scammon, professor emeritus of Theatre and Speech and the long-time director of the William and Mary Theatre.

Titled The William and Mary Theatre: 50 Years, the book is due out this summer and will chronicle in pictures, programs and in Scammon's inimitable prose the history of the William and Mary Theatre from 1926 through 1976.

The hard-cover book will sell for approximately $13, and as a result of the success to raise the publication costs, all proceeds from the sale of the book will go to the Althea Hunt Theatre Enrichment Fund, which is used to bring visiting productions to William and Mary.

Linda Lavin '57, the award-winning actress and star of the top-rated television series "Alice," is special chairman of the fund-raising project for the book.

"Linda and all of the people we have asked to help have just been wonderful," said Scammon. "The response to our appeal has been simply great."

Scammon has taken a personal role in the fund-raising project. He initially surveyed Theatre alumni in classes from 1924 to 1980 to determine if they would be interested in a history of the William and Mary Theatre, and if so, if they would support the project financially.

Based on the positive reaction to the survey, Scammon wrote more than 500 letters to Theatre alumni. In addition, he made a trip through the Northeast to visit with alumni who have been especially good friends of the William and Mary Theatre.

Scammon's personal appeals have brought in a number of gifts in excess of $100, which qualifies a donor for a complimentary copy of The William and Mary Theatre: 50 Years.

Peter Logan '75, a former Theatre concentrator now associated with Colonial Williamsburg, is assisting in the production of the book by editing tapes of Scammon's comments on the Theatre's development from 1926 to 1976. The book chronicles more than 200 plays given during that period with an original play program, a photograph from each play, and Scammon's comments.

"By printing the programs," said Scammon, "names of all of the Theatre's participants both on-stage and backstage are listed, as a tribute to all of the people associated with the growth of the William and Mary Theatre."

Anyone interested in contributing to the project should contact Howard Scammon, Drawer 1693, Williamsburg, Va. 23185.

The Theatre in the Twenties

Howard Scammon's solicitations of friends of the William and Mary Theatre have brought in more than money for his 50-year chronicle of the William and Mary Theatre. Several alumni have reminisced about their association with the Theatre at William and Mary.

One especially interesting recollection will not be included in the book since it predates the year 1926 when the William and Mary Theatre was started. It comes from J.C. Phillips '24 of Harrisburg, Pa., a long-time friend of the College. It bears repeating here.

"For the record, however, the problems and near disasters recounted by the various authors do not include the one that involved the campus group that put on a minstrel show in the spring of 1922. A local citizen, of obscure background and remote connection with the theatre, was retained to provide the material and put the show together. All went well until the afternoon of the final rehearsal in the auditorium of the State Hospital before the opening night performance. No director. Finally, about four o' clock, probably led by a strange aroma, we found him completely blotto, a condition that could only be induced by a combination of paragonic, lemon extract and Ed Pinaud's Hair Tonic. (Thanks to Prohibition) And he was the interlocutor. We hauled him to the shower in the basement of Taliaferro dorm where by cold water and hot coffee from the dining hall, we got him on his feet by seven o' clock. As the curtain went up he was propped in his chair, center stage, his glassy eyes shining like two diamonds. He never missed a cue. But as an endman, I was in a cold sweat until it was all over. The show was a great success."

Howard Scammon, author of book on the William and Mary Theatre.

One Gift Totals $1 Million

New Campaign Gifts at $1.3 Million

Testamentary gifts of nearly $1,300,000, including a gift of one million dollars, have been designated for the Campaign for the College since February.

Two of the gifts, including $500,000 of a $1,000,000 gift from Hinton T. Smith '18 of Boykins, Va., have been placed in a special trust that will increase the College's endowment by $150 million by the year 2076 when the nation celebrates its Tricentennial.

Mr. Smith's gift and one of $50,000 by Thomas P. Duncan of Newport News have been placed in a special Tricentennial Fund, the value of which should be approximately $150 million by 2076 when income from the fund will become available to William and Mary.

Mr. Duncan was the first major donor to the new fund, which was created by the College's Endowment Association to insure the College of a strong financial standing in the long-range future. If invested at a compound interest rate of 7 per cent, Duncan's donation should be worth a thousand times the number of dollars it is today -- or $50 million -- when the trust matures in 2076.

Smith's testamentary gift to the Campaign is in three parts. His will states that the College will receive $25,000 of unrestricted funds upon his death. It also calls for half of his remaining estate to be placed in a residuary trust, which should be valued at approximately $1 million. The income from the trust will be turned over to the College's Endowment Association.

Half of the trust will be used to establish the Hinton T. Smith Scholarship Fund for athletic scholarships. The remaining amount, or $500,000, will be added to the Tricentennial Fund of the Endowment Association. If the College draws a predicted 7 per cent interest rate starting in the year 2000 as an exchange, the gift should be worth approximately $100 million by 2076.

Other testamentary gifts have come to the College from:

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brinkley of New York City. Mr. Brinkley '50, an economics major at William and Mary, is Associate Executive Director of New York Society for the Blind, and Mrs. Brinkley, the former Virginia Northcott '48, an English major at the College, is a freelance editor.

D. Jack Martin '53, an economics major at the College, who is owner of Dudley Martin Chevrolet, Inc., in Manassas, Virginia, and a member of the President's Council at the College.

Ms. Joan F. Degenshein '49 of Newton, N.J. An English major at William and Mary, Ms. Degenshein is manager of sales communications for Revlon, Inc.

Elizabeth Lanier of Petersburg, Virginia, a 1930 graduate of the College who studied English and who is a retired high school teacher.

Marguerite McMenamin '37 of Hampton, Virginia.

Charles W. Bryant '49 of Richmond, an accounting major at William and Mary, who is with the firm of Weinstein and Weinstein.

Mrs. Margaret B. Kellogg of Dana Point, California, who made her gift in memory of her brother Henry B. Daniels, a member of the class of 1934.

Derris Raper of Chesapeake, Va., a member of the class of 1966.

And three anonymous gifts.

Campaign Receives $100,000 from Rev. Withers in Remainder Trust

A gift of $100,000 in the form of a charitable remainder trust has been made to the Campaign for the College by the Reverend Robert E. Withers Jr. of Farmville, Va.

Income from the trust will be used for the support of Reverend and Mrs. Withers during their lifetimes, after which the assets will endow a scholarship fund in memory of the Reverend Withers' father who was the first secretary-treasurer of the Aluminum Company of America. Preference for scholarship assistance from the Withers Fund will be given to students from the counties of Appomattox, Buckingham, Cumberland, Prince Edward, and Wythe.

Reverend Withers attended William and Mary in the early 1920's and was ordained an Episcopal minister in 1933. He retired in 1968, after serving churches in Appomattox, Buckingham, and Cumberland counties for 25 years.

May marks the second anniversary of the College's $19 million Campaign for the College which was initiated in 1976 in a ceremony in the Great Hall by several individuals prominently associated with the College, including (left to right) President-Emeritus Davis Y. Paschall, President Thomas A. Graves, Jr., the late J. Edward Zollinger, and former rector of the Board of Visitors, John R. L. Johnson, Jr. Roy R. Charles (inset) of Norfolk replaced Mr. Zollinger as national chairman of the Campaign after Mr. Zollinger's untimely death. After two years, the Campaign has raised $11,131,866, or 59 per cent of its $19 million goal.

W&M Fund Gifts Reach $270,000

Gifts and pledges to the 1977-78 William and Mary Fund exceeded $270,000 as of late April, reported Jess Cloud, Acting Director for Annual Giving.

"On April 24, the total reached $273,070, of which $250,922 represented cash receipts and $22,157 were in pledges," said Cloud.

A special drive is being mounted to all those who gave in previous years but who have not yet made a gift to the 1977-78 campaign. This will be combined with an appeal to alumni to fulfill their pledges by June 30, 1978.

"As this year's campaign enters its final months, there is a vital need for generous support on the part of alumni to reach, and if possible, exceed our goal of $300,000," Cloud stated. "That will mean a new high in contributions to the William and Mary Fund."

Among the various classes, the Class of 1936 has contributed $13,127, the highest total to date. It is under the leadership of James Nicholas Savedge, Class Chairman. The Class of 1935, chaired by Dr. Claudine Moss Bryant, is second with donations of $9,587. Third highest is the Class of 1942, led by Douglas Robert Robbins with $9,021.68. The Class of 1940 presently stands fourth highest with gifts of $8,975.00; Mrs. Helen Gudebrod Legrande serves as chair-person. The Class of 1949 has contributed $8,645 to date. It is under the leadership of B. Walton Turnbull.

The top five classes in number of donors to date are: 1968 (135) with Dr. Paul M. Dainer as Chairman; 1949 (128) chaired by B.

Walton Turnbull; 1971 (121) led by Mrs. Susan Cunningham Thompson; 1967 (118) chaired by Fred W. Palmore, III; and 1970 (117) under the leadership of Linda Barbour Burke.

Serving as National Co-Chairmen of this year's William and Mary Fund drive are Fred L. Frechette, '46, of Williamsburg, Mrs. Barbara Berkeley Ukrop, '61, of Richmond, and Mark O. Shriver, IV, '71, of Atlanta. Frechette represents the classes up to 1955; Mrs. Ukrop the classes from 1956 to 1966; and Shriver from 1967 to 1977.

Hagedorn Gift Over $40,000

More than $40,000 in unrestricted money has been given to the College since 1958 by the Hagedorn Fund, established by William Hagedorn of New York City in memory of his wife Tillie.

William and Mary is one of several institutions that have benefited from the Hagedorn Fund, which has three trustees: Gilbert C. Freeauf of Chatham, N.J., Ruth Hagedorn, City Island, N.Y., and the Manufacturer's Hanover Trust Co. of New York. Miss Hagedorn is the daughter of the founder.

Mr. Freeauf's son, Ronald Peter, ("Pete"), is a 1955 graduate of William and Mary, and it was through the senior Mr. Freeauf's efforts that the College received support from the Hagedorn Fund.

The fund makes contributions to religious, educational and charitable institutions, most of which are in New York and New Jersey.

Campaign for the College Scoreboard

Great Hall Event Initiates Law Fund Drive

This year's campaign for the 1978 Class Gift to the Marshall-Wythe School of Law began with a reception in the Great Hall for members of the graduating class.

The event, hosted by Chairpersons Connie Frogale and Bill Ginivan, was highlighted by the appearance of Dean William B. Spong.

In his formal remarks, Dean Spong focused on the areas to which the 1978 Class Gift will be applied. These include library acquisitions, student research, assistants for faculty, placement services, instructional support as well as unrestricted support which can be spent at the Dean's discretion to meet the most pressing needs of the School. Wayne Lee, National Chairman for the 1978 Law School Fund, also encouraged loyal alumni support.

Each year members of the graduating class make a commitment to Marshall-Wythe. Following are the graduates from the Classes of 1974-1977 who have made such three-year pledges.

Marshall-Wythe School of Law Three-Year Pledges

Class of 1974

Charles R. Allen, Jr., Timothy N. Atherton, Allen A. Barna, Phillip C. Barr,

Gene P. Balardi, David E. Bishop, Robert Frederic Boutcher, George W. Campbell, William J. Carter, Thomas H. Cave, Bruce Taylor Clark, Susan F. Cornelius, Curtis McFall Coward, John J. Curry, Jr., Lawrence D. Diehl, Eleanor Spence Dobson, Stephen Edwards, Richard G. Evans, Jerry R. Fisher, Rebecca April Fitch, Edward L. Flippen, Carole Frantz, Gregory Giordano, Charles Linwood Gregory, Leslie Hoffman, David P. Holmes, Lelia Baum Hopper.

Mary Schmiedel Hutton, Paul S. Hutton, Jerry Kenneth Jebo, David R. Johnson, Stoddard D. Jones, Robert Alan Karch, Waverly T. Knowles, James Windfield Lewis, John H. Lhost, Ross J. Lloyd, R. Bruce Long, John C. McDougal, Stephen W. McGrath, George R. McInturff, Stephen C. Miller, William F. Miller, James B. Murray, Russell Pitts, Gregory M. Pomije, Stanley W. Preston, Lewis B. Puller, Jr., Thomas K. Purcell, Bryan D. Rosenberger, Gary Franklin Roth, Daniel Zachary Shapiro, Tom Cain Smith, Jr., Douglas J. Stanard, David R. Thompson, Raymond G. Tyburski, Jr., John Bruce Walter, Daniel A. Ward, Clifford R. Weckstein, George L. Wells.

Class of 1975

Evan E. Adair, Nora J. Bailes, Kevin J. Barry, Frank L. Benser, Jerry L. Bowman, Charles H. Burr, Louis Kerford Campbell, Kenny Maxwell

Dale, Craig A. Fisher, Timothy L. Forbes, W. George Jameson, Wayne M. Lee, Donald L. Lewy, Ann Perinchief Palamar, Randal C. Palamar, Steven R. Perless, Charles Stanley Pompey, Charles S. Prentace, James T. Pye, Laura Anne Quigley, Louis K. Rothberg, James R. Sheeran, Michael Gregory Shephard, Robert D. Sichta, Mark L. Tunnel.

Class of 1976

Darrel Weldon Bender, William John Bridge, David Charles Canfield, John Nelson Crist, James R. Cromwell, Lawrence Gordon Cumming, Latricia Jeanette Cunningham, John Lockley Deal, Jackie Ray Denning, Heather Lynne Dorion, John Irwin Ellis, Jr., Donald C. S. Elmore, Eugene Albert Fereri, Jr., Eric Karl Gould Fiske, Richard Edward B. Foster, William Charles Friedery, Robert Maurice Galumbeck, Anthony Paul Giorno, Lawrence Hoyt Glanzer, Robert Bachrach Goldman, Elisa Joan Grammer, George Wallace Grayson, Terry Noland Grinnalds, Richard V. Guardino, Jr., Michael Stephen Hacskaylo, Joanne Beckett Hickcox, Ingrid Michelsen Hillinger, Gary A. Howard, Antje Elske Huck, Maston Thompson Jacks, John G. Jackson, Dwight Franchester Jones, Douglas Eugene Kahle, Stephen J. Kalista, John Bruce Kempksi.

Walter Leslie Kilduff, Jr., John Harlow Klein, Kenneth Carl Leonard, Jean

Hoppe Lewis, Leo Howard Lubow, James Albert McAtamney, John Gilmore MacConnell, K. Dane Mills, John Charles Morehead, Dianne Elizabeth O'Donnell, Debra Jean Prillaman, John Michael Renfrow, Kenneth Thompson Rye, Richard Norman Seaman, Mark Edward Slaughter, Charles A. Smith, John Randolph Smith, Sandra Peavler Spooner, Guice G. Strong III, Randolph C. Turberville, Judith Miriam Wall, Leonard A. Wallin II, James Page Williams, Michael D. Willis, Paul L. Wilson.

Class of 1977

Ronald Lloyd Anderson, Gary Philip Arsenault, John David Beckman, Roy Barrow Blackwell, James Philip Bohnaker, Charles Lorraine Cabell, Stephen Craig Conte, Rhetta Moore Daniel, Karl L. Drews, Jesse Michael Estes, Johnny Mack Farmer, Edwin Grier Ferguson, Peter John Goergen, Frederick Sasscer Gore, Margaret Ellen Askew Gregory, Robin Caskie Gulick, Ala Hamilton, Robert Edward Henley III, Judy Lyn Humphries, Sally Anne Larrabee, Edward W. Lautenschlager, Susan Elizabeth Magnotti, Michael Edward Mares, Patrick B. McDermott, Willafay H. McKenna, Anthony Joseph Nicolo, Donald Otto Pembroke, Virginia Dante Perry, John Stephen Roberts, Darell Lee Sayer, Richard Raymond Siegel, Delia White Stroud, Michael Everett Untiedt, Frank Lester Willard, John Edgar Wine, Joseph Michael Young.