THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

Above, J. Wilfred Lambert '27 led the Homecoming Parade as Honorary Grand Marshal. He served as Grand Marshal for 25 years from 1946 to 1970. He was accompanied by Mrs. Lambert, the former Anne L. Nenzel '35.

At right, Society President Denys Grant '58 (left), Gordon C. Vliet '54, executive vice president of the Society, and President Graves lead an impressive tribute to alumni who died in the past year in the Sunset Ceremony conducted from the rear steps of the Wren Building. The Queens Guard and the College choir participated in the annual memorial program.

Ron Barnes '52, Tempe, Ariz. and Jean Cogle '49, Williamsburg, (at right) won the Sandy Kelly Alumni Tennis Tournament. Celebrating the victory with them are Dennis Cogle '49 and Betty Bloxson Witherington '56, Weston, Conn.

HOMECOMING 1979

"... and this old College will endure."

On the eve of the 50th anniversary of the Homecoming Parade, Alumni Orator Edward E. Brickell '50, rector of the Board of Visitors, struck a responsive chord before nearly five hundred alumni at the Annual Banquet of the Society of the Alumni on Oct. 19 in William and Mary Hall.

There were signs all around on Homecoming Weekend of the permanence of the College -- and of Homecoming itself. Hundreds of alumni returned to Williamsburg for the annual affair to observe the Homecoming Parade on its 50th anniversary delight thousands of students, faculty alumni and tourists on its way down the Duke of Gloucester Street, with J. Wilfred Lambert '27, the very symbol of stability to thousands of alumni, serving as Honorary Grand Marshal.

The nostalgic weekend began with the annual Order of the White Jacket dinner at which Allen C. Tanner '46, Newport News, was elected to succeed Walter J. Zable '37, San Diego, as president of the group which honors alumni who worked their way through William and Mary as waiters in the colonial city.

At Friday evening's alumni banquet, the first held in William and Mary Hall, and a return to campus for the event after many years, Brickell regaled alumni with a heart-felt tribute to the College, which he said would continue to endure, although "around her proud and noble head will break storms of strife and discord, contention and dispute."

Besides Brickell, both Governor John N. Dalton '53 and President Graves addressed the banquet. Graves commended alumni for their involvement in the College, which he said included service by alumni on all of the governing boards and participation in the many fund-raising efforts over the past few years.

Alumni medallions, the Society's highest honor, were presented to Dr. Lee B. Todd '27, Quinwood, W. Va.; Ernest W. Goodrich '35, Surry, Va.; S. Warne Robinson '37, Pittsborough; and Colin R. Davis '50, Suffolk, Va.

In other highlights of Homecoming Weekend:

*Homecoming Parade Float winners were Kappa Kappa Gamma in the Sorority Division; Kappa Alpha in the Fraternity Division; and Barrett Residence Hall in the Open Division. The overall winner in the Parade and the first winner of the Lambert Cup was Kappa Kappa Gamma.

*Ann C. Patterson '80, a fine arts major, was crowned Homecoming Queen at halftime of the Rutgers-William and Mary game by President Graves who was assisted by Governor Dalton. Rutgers won the game, 24-0.

*Jean Cogle '49, Williamsburg, and Ron Barnes '52, Tempe, Ariz., won the Sandy Kelly Alumni Tennis Tournament. Bertha Sheeran '28, Williamsburg, and Dr. Jim Dryden '66, Washington, D.C., were runners-up.

*In the golf tournament, Mary Galloway, wife of Bob Galloway '49, Greenville, S.C., had the women's low gross score and Shirley L. Lowman, wife of Bob Lowman, J.D. '69, Radford, had women's low net. Winners in the men's division were David A. Stewart '66, Washington, D.C. (low gross) and Mike Eberhardt '69, Washington, D.C. (low net).

*Both the tennis and golf tournaments had full contingents of alumni participating, which symbolized the involvement of alumni in the many events scheduled for Homecoming Weekend. More alumni than ever attended the Young Guard Keg Party on the lawn of the Alumni House after the football game on Saturday afternoon, and the Alumni Jog from the Wren Building to the Capitol and back along the Duke of Gloucester Street attracted 70 runners.

*The Society named as Alumni Fellows for 1979 John H. Drew, associate professor of mathematics and computer science; Howard M. Fraser, associate professor of modern languages and literatures; Robert J. Hanny, associate professor of education; James J. Thompson, Jr., associate professor of history; and Robert E. Welsh, professor of physics.

Charting the Family Course

Dr. Ellen Rudolph Uses a Blackboard to Unlock Family Members' Perceptions

For Dr. Ellen Kean Rudolph '71 (M.Ed.) '76 (ACEA) '77 (Ed.D.), a blackboard is more than a memory of school days -- it's her key to unlocking people's perceptions of themselves and their family relationships.

For her students and the clients she works with it is an interesting, often inspiring means of seeing their emotional problems objectively for the first time.

An educational consultant and family therapist, Dr. Rudolph works on the staff of the Colonial Counseling Center in Williamsburg. The intricate diagrams that she charts on a blackboard for clients and students in her area classes are called "family genograms," which map out each person's relationships to other family members as he or she sees them to be. Assisting her this last year has been Kay Phillips Watson '70 who is completing requirements for a master's degree in psychology at William and Mary.

"People come in with problems, and they discover patterns," says Rudolph. "I help point out the existence of emotional triangles and multi-generational patterns which seem to engulf the person--the process of putting it on a blackboard puts a label on things that people have felt for years, but couldn't exactly describe."

After earning a bachelor's degree in sociology and humanities from the University of Minnesota, Rudolph came to William and Mary for graduate work in special education. She became the first diagnostic-prescriptive teacher to graduate from that program in the School of Education.

As a graduate student she also helped to write a three-year public education grant on diagnostic-prescriptive teaching that was virtually the first of its kind, approved by HEW. Such teachers are school-based specialists trained to work with teachers and other school personnel to meet the needs of children with special learning and emotional problems who attend regular classes.

Rudolph's current position at the Colonial Counseling Center as an educational consultant is one of the first non-psychiatric, non-psychological posts of its kind to be funded through the Virginia State Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

She is particularly excited by her job's potential and scope. "I do a great variety of things," says Rudolph. "I don't like to be boxed in by titles which are too limiting." Judging from the array of projects she's involved in, no one could debate her point. From a slide-tape presentation on the Fetal Alcohol Syndrome to be used state-wide by human service professionals of all kinds, to a monthly newsletter which she edits, Rudolph keeps exceptionally busy. The newsletter has been her special pride and joy this last year. "Hear and Now" was funded by a one-year HEW grant, and focused on a wide variety of community mental health issues. Sent to 500 professionals monthly, its readers included judges, attorneys, physicians, teachers, mental health and public health people, and members of the media.

Rudolph has also taught classes at Old Dominion University, William and Mary and Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, and lectures frequently in psychology and education classes at William and Mary. Her adult education classes have been very popular with area residents, to the point that one group of "graduates" requested that she teach a second, more advanced follow-up course on systems theory.

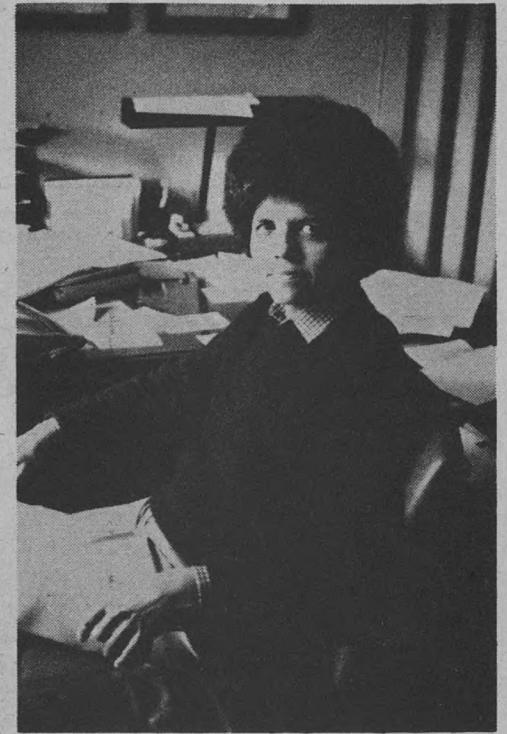

Both energetic and enthusiastic, Rudolph's main interest continues to be in the area of primary prevention in mental health. She feels in particular that the general public has little access to information about family relationship dynamics and how they can and do affect people's lives. Children, she says, most often grow up to repeat their parents' emotional and relationship patterns, mostly because those are the only real models children have for how a family interacts. The preventive thrust of her community classes is in the direction of helping people come to understand those old patterns and learn new ways of interrupting them.

Because she feels strongly that people are experts on their own families, Rudolph maintains a role of an astute observer and facilitator, asking questions rather than imposing her own opinions about a person's family background. The answers to her carefully posed questions form the basis for each "family genogram," which grows in complexity on the blackboard and changes as the person's perceptions change and evolve.

Obviously, there is strong potential for emotional responses as individuals and, in many cases, whole families examine family relationships past and present. "It engenders in the person a strong sense of peril at times," says Rudolph, "but the burden is on me to help with that sense of peril and calm it--to teach each person to see rather than simply react to old emotional stresses."

HOUSE NOTES

Two books have been added to the Paschall Library collection: A Special Day For Nessie, by Anne Moore Pratt '70 and illustrated by Charlotte Elder Marriott '64; and You Can Fight For Your Life, by Lawrence L. LeShan '42.

Dr. Carl A. Fehr, Chancellor Professor of Music, Emeritus, visited the Alumni House recently and brought with him a large collection of picture postcards showing the William and Mary Choir and Chorus over the past twenty or so years. He also generously donated a number of records of the Choir's concerts.

Dorothy Terrill Smithey '23 sent in snapshots of classmates taken in 1922 and Dr. Alexander Kallos, Professor of Modern Languages and Literatures, Emeritus, donated a number of yearbooks for use in the Alumni Office.

C. Shelton Baker '26 visited the Alumni House recently and brought a number of mementoes including a handsome framed collage of the College campus. The photographs were taken in the fall of 1923 by Mr. Baker's roommate, Barton W. Parker '24.

M. Carl Andrews '27, of Roanoke, was on campus for the annual Order of the White Jacket meeting and for homecoming. He brought with him his Memory Book containing photographs and mementoes of his college days and of his career. Mr. Andrews graciously donated this unique and valuable book to the Alumni House.

Other alumni attending homecoming brought memorabilia to share with classmates and donate to the collection at the Alumni House. Dr. Robley R. Goad '22, gave a framed photograph of the 1920 football squad, of which he was a member. He also gave old yearbooks, as did Dr. Caroline Baytop Sinclair '25.

Eulah Massey '27, brought leather bound programs of the 1927 Summer Finals and the 1928 Finals. Marjorie Brulle Shook '25, brought snapshots, clippings, and other memorabilia including a receipt for a donation to the fund for the purchase of a Mace to be presented to the College on the 229th anniversary of the conferring of the Royal Charter.

A handsome framed Notice from Miss Taylor's Bulletin Board was a gift of Mathilda Crawford Whitehouse '25, Elizabeth M. Walmsley '25, and Marjorie Brulle Shook, '25. The collage shows a photograph of Miss Bessie Porter Taylor, Social Director of Women, 1919-1934, and a photograph of "Dammit," Miss Taylor's dog. The notice reads: "Girls, what about the growing habit of hanging on the boys, or vice versa, on the campus and off the campus! Of course, if the boy or the girl is physically or mentally unsteady, no one will say nay! Let those of us who are sane and sound face life standing upright! Bessie P. Taylor."

A large orange and black William and Mary banner was donated by Dr. John J. Reid '33 and Stuart H. Jenkins '36. Orange and black were the College colors from 1911 to the beginning of the football season of 1923.

Robert H. Land '34, brought gifts from Charles Post McCurdy, Jr. '33, a former Executive Secretary of the Society of the Alumni. Mr. McCurdy kindly sent bound volumes of the Flat Hat for 1929-1934, and a much needed bound copy of the Alumni Gazette for 1933-1938. He also donated a box made from a limb of the Live Oak Tree at the College Gate believed to have been growing there when the College was founded in 1693.

The Paschall Library is acquiring a nice collection of Flat Hats; however, still missing are issues from 1934-1943 and 1949-1956. If an alumnus can help fill in the missing volumes, please contact Frankie Martens, Society of the Alumni, Post Office Box GO, Williamsburg, Virginia 23185.

The Ideal Combination

Parkhill Recruits Top Basketball Players Who also Excel in the Classroom

Their academic credentials are impeccable. But ironically they were recruited to William and Mary by head basketball coach Bruce Parkhill not because they are among the top scholastic students in the east but because, in Parkhill's opinion, they may be the best group of athletes he has attracted to William and Mary "since I've been here."

All of them were high school honor roll students. One ranked second in his class, won the Civitan Key award, and gave the opening address at his graduation. Another ranked second in a graduating class of 308. Still another was elected to Who's Who, was a member of the National Honor Society, and served as a class officer. And a fourth finished third in his high school class of 340 and then went on to earn straight A's in junior college and finished first in his class.

No wonder Parkhill calls them "the best and a true credit to the meaning of student-athlete."

Who are these remarkable discoveries who will augment an already talented and young group of cagers who open the Tribe basketball season Dec. 1 without a single senior in their midst?

Brant Weidner, a 6-9, 255 lb. product of Allentown, Pa., was one of the most heralded big men in the East. He was named to several all star teams and had narrowed his choices to Princeton and William and Mary before making his decision.

The 18-year old standout ranked in the upper eighth of his class of over 550 and was a distinguished honor roll student throughout his scholastic career at Parkland High School.

Weidner played in the school band, was vice president of the Varsity Club and a member of the National Honor Society.

Michael Strayhorn is a versatile 6-5 forward from John Marshall High School in Richmond. The All-City performer, who led his team to the state playoffs, ranked second in a graduating class of 308.

Mike was president of the band, vice president of his school's National Honor Society and the Civitan Key Award winner. The articulate 18-year-old gave the opening address at his school's graduation, which was attended by the William and Mary coaches.

Richie Cooper ranked fifth in his class at Flint Hill, and the 6-1, all-prep guard was a distinguished honor roll student.

The Oakton, Va., native was selected to Who's Who, was a member of the National Honor Society and served as treasurer of his class.

Richie, who's father is a doctor, would like to pursue a medical career.

Rich Veres came to William and Mary from Frederick Junior College. A product of Akron, Ohio, the 6-2 point guard ranked third in a class of 340 in high school, followed by two years of straight A's and a number one class ranking at Frederick.

An all junior coach all-star in basketball, Veres has been active in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes both in high school and college. He was a member of the National Honor Society.

"I think it is obvious, by these individuals' credentials, the outstanding caliber of young men we have in our program and I'm proud of every one of them," stated Parkhill.

The Indians open their 25 game season on December 1 at home against Johns Hopkins and Parkhill is growing more optimistic each day about the year's outlook.

"We have no seniors on the team so we will be looking for an underclassman to emerge as the floor leader," commented Parkhill.

The team loses only one starter, co-captain Billy Harrington (6-1 guard) who averaged 8.7 points last year.

Heading the list of returnees are starters Scott Whitley (junior, forward), Ken Bowen (sophomore, center), Dale Moats (sophomore, forward) and Billy Barnes (sophomore, guard).

Whitley and Bowen led the team in scoring (12.4 and 10.7) and rebounding (4.8 and 4.7) respectively. "Wit," a two year letterman, finished strong, averaging 20 points in the final five games. Bowen stepped in for the injured Ted O'Gorman, who missed the entire season because of a knee injury, and started every game at center, providing the Indians with a "very solid season," according to Parkhill.

Barnes won the starting second guard berth early in the season and never looked back. A poised, confident player, "Good News" sparked the Tribe with some dazzling offensive maneuvers inside and was the top defensive player on the squad. He led the team with 44 steals and seven blocked shots.

Moats worked his way into the starting forward slot at mid-season and the talented first year player gained confidence and consistency with each game.

Juniors Guy Courage (forward) and Tim Wagner (guard) made significant contributions and will be vying for starting berths in '79. Their abilities and two years of experience will be vital to the Tribe's success whether they start or come off the bench.

"I don't think there is any question we are an improved team in just about every phase of the game. The way the kids are working in pre-season makes me feel pretty darn good about our prospects for the 1979-80 season."

Five Elected To Board

Four incumbents were returned to the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni and one new member was elected to succeed a retiring member who had served the maximum of two terms.

Stewart Gamage '72, executive assistant to the lieutenant governor of Virginia, is the lone new member. Elected to second terms were Denys Grant '58, Richmond, president of the Society; John H. Garrett Jr. '40, Irvington, vice president of the Society; Dr. Henry D. Wilde Jr. '53, Houston; and Jane Spencer Smith '48, Grosse Pointe Shores, Mich.

Miss Gamage, an Alexandria, Va., resident, will succeed Elaine Elias Kappel '55, Pittsburgh, secretary of the Board, when Kappel's second term expires in December.

HOMECOMING 1979

For the first time in many years, the annual Society of the Alumni meeting and banquet returned to campus where it was held for the first time in William and Mary Hall (left). As an added feature (above), students at the College performed an original cheer for the 1979-80 William and Mary Fund drive which has as its theme "Making the Eighties Our Best Years Yet!"

More than 70 runners left the Wren Yard on the Duke of Gloucester Alumni Jog at 8 o'clock Saturday morning. They jogged to the Capitol and back through the early morning fog which later lifted in time for the Homecoming Parade.

On the Way to an Undefeated Season

Surprising Field Hockey Squad Wins First Eight and Gets Set to Win the Rest

The women's nationally-ranked field hockey squad at William and Mary had just captured its eighth straight victory and seniors Pixie Hamilton and Claire Campbell talked about the undefeated team in between gulps of water.

"I think our team is the best in a long time," reflected Hamilton. "I think all the players who came back have improved and the freshmen have filled in the spots we needed."

Campbell, the team captain, added, "The talent is a lot more spread, it's not just in a couple of people. Our strength is the whole team."

Strength in SCORING is what differentiates this year's stickers, and varsity coach Nancy Porter admitted, "We've never had this many goals before." The Indians have topped their opponents 41-5 in goals and 180 to 35 in shots on goal to date. The fast, physically strong William and Mary squad has the ability to sustain the attack and wear down its opposition. The Tribe is currently ranked twelfth in the nation.

As a tradition, William and Mary has fielded fundamentally strong squads. In 1975 and 1976 the Tribe won the regional tournament and finished fourth and eighth at nationals. But two years ago the Indians lost in overtime at the regional tournament and last year they were defeated in two overtimes and three sets of penalty strokes in the state tournament.

But this year, the Tribe hopes things will be different when six teams compete in the Division I Regional Tournament, which William and Mary will host Nov. 16-17. The Indians will need to finish first to win a trip to nationals.

The Tribe's awesome offense will be the key to the national tournament. In a game against the University of Richmond, junior Bevin Engman cracked a square pass to the top of the attacking circle, Susan Shoaf aimed a drive at the cage and Basia Deren put it away off the goalie's pads. While it is unusual to have two assists in scoring one goal, the Indians have many strong scorers that make up a balanced attack.

The biggest offensive spark this year has been Deren, a freshman from Moorestown, NJ, who leads the attack with 15 goals and three assists. "Basia's speed was what we really needed on the forward line," said Porter. "She's very aggressive and has a sensitivity to the game in passing and moving." Deren started off right scoring nine goals in three games and four of her goals have been unassisted to date.

The steady-spirit of the team is Campbell whom Porter describes as a "very intelligent, hard-working player." Campbell has shown her desire by knocking in eight goals, with the last a picture-perfect dodge past the sweeper and drive into the corner of the cage against Bridgewater.

No one is more surprised than junior Susan Shoaf that she is the third highest scorer. "I've never scored like this before," she admitted in amazement after a game. Shoaf has five goals and three assists so far from the center halfback position.

Hamilton is probably the biggest motivator to the group as her enthusiasm is contagious and cannot be contained. She has put in two goals and aided the scoring effort with a whopping seven assists. "Pixie has great speed and endurance and is a real leader on the field by action and word," said Porter.

A freshman from Setauket, NY, Susan Aldworth has punched in four goals and two assists at left wing. Porter describes her as "very strong physically" and with a "great deal of potential."

The highest scorer last year with eleven goals is junior Betsy Frick, but she has been slowed by a back injury but has still scored one goal and five assists. Fast and aggressive, senior right wing Sharra Kelly has scored two goals and four assists while sophomore Sue Brown has added one assist.

On Friday and Saturday, November 16-17, sixteen teams from Virginia, North and South Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee will be in Williamsburg competing in three divisions for berths to nationals.

Games will be played from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. on Friday and the Division I Championship will be at 2:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Karen Smith

Smith To Lead Netters

New Yorker Becomes Best Player in Virginia

In the spring of 1976, David Smith was a budding tennis star who had achieved All American recognition at Cresskill High School. Earlier he had won the New York State Junior High School Championship.

Now, in 1979, David has blossomed at William and Mary.

In October, Smith established himself as the top collegiate tennis player in Virginia by capturing the number one singles title at the Virginia Division I Intercollegiate at the University of Virginia.

Although the spring season does not start until February 29, when the Indians travel south to play nine matches in eight days, Smith will be taking very little time off from his game. He is hoping to compete on the National Indoor Championships circuit over Christmas break, which would take him to such places as UCLA and Princeton for tournaments.

26 I had anticipated reporting on the Homecoming in this letter. The Class News Editor has thought otherwise. Get it up by October 4, or else. I feel as though I am still active with duPont.

From what we hear, preparations are well under way for that "Sentimental Journey" to the Homecoming. "Caddo" Kelly Brewster, '24, telephoned last night that she was going from Wilmington, Del., to Williamsburg by train. Now that should prove to be an interesting experience. Do you suppose the C&O still runs those orange-colored cars? Wilhelmina Swann Trammell and Elizabeth Palmer Thompson report that they will be up, as they say in Texas, "come hell or high water" and they have had high water down there.

We recently received a delightful letter from Tom Lawford. Tom practiced in the Newport News area for forty-five years before calling it quits. He is interested now only in the ailments of his garden. He was in a chatty reminiscent mood. William and Mary, he remarked, was the only college in Virginia that would accept him as a special student. Tom had been a high school dropout and had served a trick in the Hospital Corps of the U.S. Navy during World War I, when he finally arrived at Dean Hoke's door. Luckily, the dean saw things that the other schools missed.

Tom worked in the Infirmary under Dr. King. Miss Fortune was the nurse. Tom's predecessor had been a chap named Fitz. Hence, the adage of a visit to the Infirmary producing "fits or misfortune." The bandying of names did not stop there. Tom struck up a close, personal friendship with "Chesty" Cain, of fond memory. Since there was a strong physical resemblance between the two, the nickname "Abel" was hung on Tom. Tom is grateful to the College and its people for making it possible for him to obtain the education necessary for the study and practice of medicine, his life's work.

The September issue of The Alumni Gazette noted the death of "Tiny" Grove, '27. Tiny, as you may recall, was a likeable, six-foot, six-inch, rangy, strong mountaineer from Southwest Virginia. He came out for football and, although not blest with agility, could handle things coming straight at him. Coach Tasker always wanted to see Tiny play when angry, but Tiny was fearful of hurting someone. I personally thought the coach should leave well enough alone as I wanted no part of Tiny in a tantrum. The first time we played Syracuse we were "whomped" 61 to 3. In the second half, the coach was reaching into the bottom of the barrel for substitutes and came up with Tiny at left tackle, me (132 lbs.) as a defensive back. Tiny attracted the crowd's attention as he stood head and shoulders above the other players. Vic Hansen, the right end for Syracuse, had made the All American Team the year before and, on their subsequent two offensive plays, had no trouble out-maneuvering Tiny, to the amusement of the crowd and Tiny's growing annoyance. On the third play, he was too sure of himself and came straight at Tiny to ride him out of the play. It was acceptable practice at that time for a defensive lineman to use the heel of his hand against the helmet of an opponent. When Tiny hit Hansen it was like "the shot heard round the world." Archibald Stadium was suddenly silent and Vic Hansen was sprawled on the ground. He did not stay there long, but as the two teams converged, jumped to his feet, rushed at Tiny brandishing his fists and yelled, "Do you want to play football or do you want these!" Tiny did not back off one inch shouting, "It's your choice." I was greatly relieved when the coach intervened and removed Tiny from the game. He had had his wish to see Tiny play angry and I did not think a Donneybrook on that field with those angry behemoths was any place for Mrs. Goetz's boy.

28 Received some very interesting information about Julia Zisgen Heavey of Oakland, N.J. She is the mother of four children -

John, an attorney; Gerald, a financial officer of a New York corporation; Thomas has his own business, managing bicycle travel tours for teenagers in New Hampshire, and he has just published a book, Twenty Bicycle Tours in New Hampshire. Her only daughter, July, is at Ramapo College. Julia also has 10 grandchildren. Julia began her real estate business in 1952 and continues active in that business. She was the recent subject of a newspaper article in the Paramus, N.J., Post newspaper.

Dorothy Broughton Brennan enjoyed reading news about the Class of 1929 reunion since so many of the names among those attending were familiar to her. It reminded her again of the pleasure of attending the Class of 1928 reunion.

Mary Craig Wornom of New York City took great interest in reports from friends who attended our 50th reunion in 1978, and wishes she could have been there. She is well pleased with the directory.

Iola Johnson Maloney of Richmond, Va., and her husband, a VMI graduate, have been quite active in attending the football games and reunions of VMI and William and Mary. They have made two trips to Europe. They enjoyed traveling on the EuRail. They have one son and three grandchildren. The son, a graduate of Woodberry Forest, Yale University and the University of Virginia, is a Richmond lawyer.

So delighted to receive a letter from Eliza Hunter Trainham of Newport News. Eliza made a 13-day tour of Canada. On her way home she spent the night with Mirian Silberger Goodman. Both Eliza and Mirian plan to attend Homecoming. Eliza made my day by writing that she thoroughly enjoyed the news of the Class of 1928 in The Alumni Gazette.

I received a beautiful picture postcard from George R. Whitley of Falls Church, Va. The card was postmarked at Vail, Colo. George was on a tour of Colorado. The postcard showed a picture of the marker showing the Continental Divide which I found most fascinating. George expects to attend Homecoming. Another card from George arrived nearly a month later on September 7. This card was from Bethlehem showing the Church of Nativity.

30 A letter from Peggy Nininger Bailey was received too late for the May issue of the Gazette and regretfully overlooked in August, but the news will be as welcome now as it would have been months ago. Peggy has been practicing a skill she did not major in or even have a class in in college--surveying! Her husband, besides being a professor, has several real estate developments. When he calls for help in laying it out, she responds and lends aid in all kinds of weather. They work together in politics, too. He was state chairman of the G.O.P. and she assisted and was official hostess for Ronald Reagan in the last presidential campaign. She is still on his band-wagon! Their youngest daughter, Lynn, got her musical education at the University of Colorado. She became friends with Linda Lavin when they were both involved with theatre-in-the-round in Beverly, Ma. Lynn has made several records (country western and rock); had her own band; and now has been with Donna Fargo's band about a year. Floyd and Peggy also have a married son and another daughter and seven grandchildren. Their 50th wedding anniversary will be in 1980 so we will add that to our celebration of our 50th class reunion in May.

Addison H. Baker is retired and is living in West Yarmouth, Ma. Ten years ago he was living in Rhode Island. Give us some more news of what happened in the meantime.

Mildred Moore Nixon spent some time in England in July and enjoyed making some brass rubbings at Canterbury Cathedral, Westminster Abbey, and St. Margaret's. She has 13 grandchildren and keeps busy with church, family and friends in Mt. Dora, Fl.

Lucy May Boswell Crymble says she is looking forward to her first retirement but she doesn't say from what. The statement was provoked by her remark that her husband Carter has retired three times. The last time was from his own consulting engineering practice and from the State Board of Examiners of Architects and Engineers of Tennessee, which he served for 12 years. They have two children and six grandchildren and continue to enjoy living in Kingsport, TN.

Ms. Storm Named to Board of Visitors

Harriet Nachman Storm '64, former president of the Society of the Alumni, has been named to the Board of Visitors to fill out the term of Joseph E. Baker '50, a Norfolk attorney who was appointed to a judgeship. Baker, incidentally, was one of three members from the class of 1950 on the Board of Visitors. The others are Edward E. Brickell, Virginia Beach, rector of the board, and Colin R. Davis, Suffolk, former president of the Society of the Alumni.

The All-Night Vigil of a TV Anchorperson

She's attractive and thousands of people in the Norfolk, Va., area see her every weekend. But Judith Baroody '75 says her social life is just about zilch since she assumed the demanding position of anchorperson for WVEC-TV's all-night weekend newscasts. In a feature article in the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot, Ms. Baroody tells writer Carol Herwig that "working the all-night shift on weekends is more like living in the ozone where nobody else is alive." She joined WVEC-TV in 1976 after a year of travel through Europe, the United States, and Canada. The station, she said, "was the only station willing to take a chance on a young, completely inexperienced reporter whose degree was in French and political science."

34 Greetings! Adolph Banks, Kitty Blanton Seay, Lucy Britt Baker, Lillian Carmine Sterling, Carlton Casey, Andy Christensen, Alice Cohill Marquez, Charles Davis, Jr., Jeff Davis, Jr., Annie L. Felts Whitehead, Cecil Harper, Frances Spindleharris, Edith Hester Lovelace, Marian Holl, Emil Johnson, Gilbert Kinnamon, Henry Land, Bob Land, Ralph Levine, Jack MacDonald, Elizabeth Leland Mason, Evelyn Maynard Harris, Anne Page Moreland Dickinson, Harriet Pittard Beales, Edith Pope Howitz, Edith Pope Dix, Helen Ridgely Kennedy, Margaret Ross, Howard Scammon, Helen Singer Dau, Anne Spratley Dice, Clare Thompson Knight, Joseph Turner, Elizabeth Wiley Toll, W. Gordon Williamson, celebrated the 45th Homecoming Reunion of our class. There was lots of "quality" but a pretty small "quantity" from a class of 37 classmates (& many spouses). We missed you! Where were you?

We learned with regret of the death of Otis Southern, our class president.

Meeting for the Alumni Banquet in spacious William and Mary Hall was members from other class reunions, and yet to unite under the '34 Banner in our own little niche. The gracious service by William and Mary student waiters was reminiscent of the old days. And the program was splendid.

One of the highlights, as always, was the luncheon on Saturday on the lawn of the Alumni House. There were happy reunions of old friends under the class tents, and of course - the reunion class pictures.

As we so well know, our class started out in "hard times" and has sailed through some rough waters. However, suddenly after 45 years our spirit is beginning to rise collectively (there have always been hard-working, faithful individuals). The realization has hit us that we will celebrate our FIFTIETH in June 1984--less than 5 years! Let's start planning now for a "super-colossal" get-together. Come back and join us for Homecoming to get in practice. Write to your classmates, write to us for the column. We need lots of news, news, news-----big and little. Frances and I are waiting to hear from you. We need lots of help. We can't do it alone!

In a separate future letter questions will be raised concerning a suitable gift to be donated on the occasion of our fiftieth reunion. Meanwhile, any ideas or suggestions will be appreciated.

A few news items from Alumni House:

Elizabeth Young Clark of Bluefield, W.Va., writes that she has been promoted to assistant professor of English at Bluefield College by the trustees of the college.

Clara Thompson Knight of Raleigh, N.C., tells us that her husband retired June first, and that they planned to attend her 45th reunion in October.

Carleen Loeffler Sims of Washington, D.C., recently finished two years as President of the Metropolitan Washington Chapter of ARCS Foundation, Inc. She now hopes to play some golf and spend more time with her grandchildren.

Elizabeth Burger Jackson of "Burmont" in Farmville, Va., received the Distinguished Alumni Service Award from Longwood College Alumni Association. Elizabeth retired from Longwood as Board of Visitors Distinguished Professor of Natural Sciences.

Mrs. Robert G. Babson (Sara Shelton) 16636 Pequeno Place Pacific Palisades, Calif. 90272

36 Trudi S. Topping, the class news editor of The Alumni Gazette, wrote to me suggesting that I become the new Reporter of the Class of 1936. "Red" Kranke had suggested that someone else take this job. I will be glad to do this provided the members of the Class will help me. Please write and tell me where you are and something about yourself. We care! Please write.

Richard Velz was persuaded by John Stewart Bryan, former president of the College and publisher of The Richmond News Leader, to go into the newspaper business. He served on the editorial staff of the News Leader and was a correspondent for the Associated Press and the United Press. He became Director of Public Relations at W&M and was bureau chief for the News Leader in Williamsburg. He then became program director for radio station WRNL in Richmond. Then he went to work for A.H. Robins Co. where he worked for 18 years, retiring as vice president in 1976. His career was interrupted three times by military service. He holds the rank of Captain, U.S.N.R. (retired); however, he continues to work on many important projects.

Adele Stephenson Burgess retired with her husband Ralph to a country place in 1975. She is president of Pittsfield Figure Skating Club and vice president of Becket Arts Center. Her address is Fred Show Road, Becket, Mass. 01223.

Alice Crutchfield Wadsworth wishes to send greetings to any W&M alumni who remember her back in 1932 and 1933. She has pleasant memories of W&M. She is an alumna of the University of Pittsburgh College, 1936.

Sara Shelton Babson lives in Pacific Palisades, Calif., with her husband Captain Robert Babson, a retired TWA airline pilot. "We travel a great deal. Our last three trips have been to South Africa, Rio de Janeiro, Tunisia, and China."

Mrs. Erling B. Hauge (Jane Speakman) 503 Ivydale Road Wilmington, Del. 19803

38 What a delightful predicament! There are so many letters from you classmates that I'll have to edit in order to meet the space requirements of The Alumni Gazette!

Harvey Shuler writes from his summer home in northern Michigan: "I have been retired for eight years but had a stroke in February, 1978, which has left me without the use of my left arm. However, I am playing golf one-handed now--not too well, but well enough to go out again. We have bought land at Keowee Key in western South Carolina and will probably spend the winters there sooner or later. I missed Homecoming in 1978 for the first time in probably 40 years, but am hoping to make it this fall." We missed Harvey at our fortieth reunion, but we surely hope to see him for many more to come.

And for Beverly Bridge Coleman: "I retired this year as a library cataloging assistant at Marymount College here in Arlington. I have been a fairly active golfer/duffer for some years. We built a house on the Eastern shore of Maryland near St. Michaels and go there on weekends." Bev uses the word "dullsville" to describe her life, but it sounds very pleasant to me.

Did you know that one of our classmates is a judge? Bob Simpson is one of the judges of Virginia Beach General District Court, after having served a term as President of Commonwealth Attorney Association and for 12 years as prosecuting attorney for City of Virginia Beach. He adds: "My home is in the resort area overlooking the ocean. I try to keep in condition by swimming and jogging on the beach and the nearby state park. I also play a little golf and racquet ball."

Sally Robbins Carmalt reports that she and Woolsey "like to travel near, to visit children (four) and grandchildren (four) and far--when we get a chance. We had a leisurely two-month trip through the Southwest this past spring. We have stayed on in Washington as there is so much to do in winter and in summer we are here in northern Pennsylvania."

I feel that I barely keep up with one house, but here's someone else who is managing two. Ella Lee Fulton Manning writes: "Last year Chuck and I bought a small home in Redington Shores, Fla., where henceforth we will be during the winter, returning to Maryland in the azalea season."

There was a glowing letter from Jean Pollard and Dick Harvell. Dick recounts: "Our first winter in Naples, Fla., turned out even better than we'd hoped. We made lots of friends and played a lot--golf, tennis, swimming at the beach, canoe trips and nature trips. There was some work, too, getting legally established as residents, work on the house and grounds and cutting wood for the fireplaces. We headed north in May, visiting friends and family along the way. There's plenty to do here in Maine, too. I'm still building the house and among other things have hewed (with an adze) beams for the ceiling, made plank doors and done other interior pine work. We use lots of wood here, so wood cutting is almost a way

Miles Chappell '60 Is Harvard Fellow

Dr. Miles L. Chappell Jr. '60, associate professor of fine arts at William and Mary, will spend the first half of 1980 in Florence, Italy, as a Fellow at the Harvard University Center for Italian Renaissance Studies. He will work on a catalogue of paintings by the Early Baroque artist Lodovico Cigoli and initiate work on an exhibition of paintings and drawings planned for 1985 and entitled "Cristofano Allori and the Court of Cosimo II de Medici in Florence."

58 Alumni on Danube Cruise

Fifty-eight alumni participated in the Danube River Cruise and Istanbul Escapade in August sponsored by Alumni Educational Travel Tours of the Society of the Alumni. They were caught in this happy pose by Gordon C. Vliet '54, executive vice president of the Society, who accompanied the tour group with his wife, Dr. Lee Wadkins Vliet '68. The group visited Austria, Hungary, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Rumania, and Turkey.

Royster Wins Rockefeller Award

Charles Royster, an assistant professor of history at the College from 1977 to 1979, has been awarded the first annual John D. Rockefeller III award for his book manuscript "A Revolutionary People at War: The Continental Army and American Character, 1775-1783."

The award, consisting of a certificate and a check for $1,000, was presented to Royster at a conference of the Great American Achievements Program, which is sponsored by the Bicentennial Council of the Thirteen Original States Fund, held at Saratoga Springs and Albany, N.Y., Sept. 16, 17.

of life with me. There's good sailing and we also have two canoes and three other small boats for the lakes and streams not far away. We are only a few feet from the high tide line and can see seals most days and all kinds of waterfowl. It's an idyllic existence with not enough time to do all we would like to." It couldn't happen to a nicer couple!

Will Tuggle says that July first marked his fortieth year with Universal Leaf Tobacco Company and the thirty-third year in Richmond. He still doesn't find time to work out retirement plans or play all the golf or do all the fishing he would like.

Hester White is now back in Richmond, after 25 years in Greenville, Pa. She can be reached at 345 N. Laburnum, Apt. 4.

Another classmate who has moved is Mollie Waters Christie. She and Bill are now in the mountains of western North Carolina, and they love the people, the scenery, the weather, the lower cost of living and their church. Mollie still misses teaching and says she should have stayed another five years. At the time of writing they had had 12 sets of houseguests in the ten months in their new home! Nothing daunted, Mollie adds, "We have plenty of room and will welcome any William and Mary friends who come to our part of the country."

Helene Stein Brandon and Tom of Lakehurst, N.J., must surely tie Harvey Shuler's record, having been to every Homecoming since 1938, except two during World War II! She says, "Last year we tried a new route to the old town--by boat. We docked at the marina across the bridge from Yorktown and after Homecoming weekend we continued our cruise to our winter haven in Marathon, Fla. It worked out so well that we shall do it again this year, the good Lord willing."

Nancy Adams, now Mrs. Hill Shine, is still living in Lexington, Ky., but more in the country than previously. When she wrote, she and Hill were harvesting their large garden and Nancy dubbed it "the year of the cantaloupe." She is no longer working at the medical clinic where she was involved for a long time and, other than volunteering for Meals on Wheels once a week, has few outside activities. "I love my life as it is," she comments, "but feel guilty because I can't work up any zeal for a cause."

And from Annabel Hopkins Mitchell: "Please send me any contribution you wish to make to the Class Fund for a gift to the College. It will be put into a savings account I have already started." Her address is: 2110 Foley Road, Star Route, Havre de Grace, Md. 21078. On that subject there is an exciting new development. One of our classmates has offered to match 40 cents of every dollar contributed to the Class Fund, with a goal of $50,000. A very generous offer indeed! We are hoping that others may come forward to pledge matching amounts. If a person would take 10 cents of the matching fund, his contribution (if the $50,000 were raised) would be $2,500--only $250 a year for the next 10 years. Please let Annabel Mitchell or Horace Dyer, our Class President, hear from you. Horace's address is Box 4547, Martinsville, Va. 24112.

I hope to hear from you, too, with your news and doings.

40 A most appreciated letter today from Len Owen - and with a deadline tomorrow! Many thanks, Len. We are so sorry, though, that we won't be seeing him and Alice at Homecoming, but Len is chairing a committee to celebrate the 175th anniversary of the First Baptist Church of Manassquan, N.J., that weekend. He retired from Civil Service in January and became a part of the committee the same month, finding the committee work more than a job. Now he feels he should return to a job to get some rest! Otherwise he has enjoyed retirement. His plans are to put Homecoming first next year as it is a big one. Delighted, Len!

Ben and Jane Wild Brandt have begun to build a house in Hound Ears, a resort near Blowing Rock, and look forward to being at Homecoming.

Dorothy Schmitz Chalmers, who lives in Largo, Fla., is now head of information services at the Dunedin Public Library, Dunedin, Fla.

Noel Lambert of Atlanta is enjoying retirement--travelling and gardening.

Bud and Mary Holmes Hall are proud to announce the arrival of their first granddaughter, Lauren Alison Janetos, January 18, 1979, born to their daughter, Deborah Hall Janetos, '70.

George McComb retired at the end of June from the Lynchburg public school system. He had been assistant superintendent for personnel services since 1972 and had hired over 1,000 employees. George went to the Lynchburg system in 1965 as secondary education supervisor.

42 Will any member of this Class who is interested in writing the news please contact the Alumni Office.

Following are a few notes received at Alumni House.

Natalie Rogers Mabry of Fairport, N.Y., visited Hawaii in February. She moved to a townhouse in July and enjoyed the summer at their cottage on Canandaigua Lake.

Edgar J. Fisher, Jr., of Richmond, Va., was elected an Elder at St. Giles' Presbyterian Church; appointed to the Hunger Task Force at Hanover Presbytery; and is chairman, Public Relations Committee, Virginia League for Planned Parenthood.

Elizabeth Douglas Conwell of Swarthmore, Pa., is still part-timing in physical education. Her family is scattered--1 married, 1 grandson, 4 unmarried seeking graduate degrees, youngest a junior at Trinity College, Hartford, Conn.

On June first, Mildred Sheffield Stanger of Norfolk, Va., opened a new and larger interior design store in the Shoppes for Ghent Square, on Olney Road.

Don Axon of Ann Arbor, Mich., wrote that his family was home together for the summer. His older son has been in Taipei four years. He and the younger boy have been touring Asia and Europe (mostly India) for eight months.

Joyce Mathes Malcolm of Escondido, Calif., had a marvelous trip to Africa this past summer. She stayed in Nairobi, but went on 3 safaris in Kenya.

44 Don has consented to become the Class Reporter. We are delighted and do hope that you classmates will send him your news items however important or unimportant they seem to you.

Sunny Trumbo Williams writes that the Danube Cruise was an outstanding alumni cruise. Some of those in the group were Pat Howard, Tarry and Bill, Ann Bruce Saunders and Dick, and Dot Hogshire Harper and Pat.

The class project for raising money for the Alumni House patio is halfway to its goal. Send your contribution to Class of '44 Gift, care of Alumni House. Approximately $2000 is needed to complete the funding.

Carolyn MacNeill Gettings of Sarasota, Fla., was widowed in January '78, and is currently studying law at Stetson University College of Law at St. Petersburg. She says that she is the oldest student on campus!

Olive Anne Hasty Shelor of Gibsonia, Pa., writes that Roy has been transferred from Dallas, Tex., to the Rockwell International Corporate office in Pittsburgh (in July). Their oldest son, Bill, was graduated from the University of California at Santa Barbara in June and was married in September. Their youngest son, Rick, will be graduated from the same university next June.

Frances Tompkins Fletcher of Chapel Hill, N.C., writes that her twin sister, Julia (Judy) Tompkins Ramsey, also '46, and she enjoy a reunion just for the two of them once in a while. Judy lives in Brevard and they meet somewhere in between. On their last birthday, June 27th, Judy's granddaughter arranged quite an event. She has 3 grandsons too. Frances has one grandson.

48 Although the news deadline for us "evens" is October 4, I shall have pen and pad ready when I see you on October 19 and 20 at Homecoming! Maybe I'll get lucky and run across some of you at the Oyster Bowl the weekend before Homecoming. At any rate, I should have more news next time--although it may be a trifle old.

An interesting article appeared in The Richmond Times Dispatch on September 17. Jean Canoles Bruce, who is a member of the Class of '49, but is married to Jack Bruce, a member of our class, served as co-chairman of "Families and Education," one of six task forces within a state task force examining the status of Virginia families in contemporary society. Jean has, I understand, published a book on this subject. We would like to adopt you, Jean, into our class for your worthwhile service and on the strength of your good connections--husband as well as brother "Buddy" Canoles, Class of '48.

Thanks again to Trudi, I have news for you of Wicky Wierum Bennett, who lives in Baltimore and is still working for the former

"Nessie" Comes to Life
In New Children's Book

Anne M. Pratt of Williamsburg, M.A. '70, and Charlotte E. Marriott, B.F.A. '64, of Virginia Beach, have written a whimsical children's book that puts the Loch Ness monster in a class with Paddington the Bear, a character for those who would like to believe.

A Special Day for Nessie suggests that once upon a time there was a Mr. and Mrs. Monster who had a baby girl they called "Nessie." Nessie, like many lively offspring, gets into trouble because she doesn't listen to what her parents tell her. She eats a blow fish although her parents warn her of dire results and gets a monster-sized stomach ache. But all ends well, however, and Mr. and Mrs. Monster and Miss Nessie conclude an eventful day with a peaceful nap.

Mrs. Pratt, who is working for her Ph.D. in education at William and Mary, wrote the text and Mrs. Marriott, an art teacher in Virginia Beach, drew the illustrations.

Dr. West Named Secretary of MCV Alumni Association

Dr. Marvin F. West '52, a member of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni, has been named Secretary of the Medical College of Virginia Alumni Association for 1980. Dr. West is a Williamsburg dentist.

dean of The Johns Hopkins Medical School. Wicky's job involves much exciting travel. She, with her husband John, will be visiting Australia, Bangkok, and Hong Kong this fall. The Bennetts have three children. Woody, their oldest, is a lawyer; David, the number two son, is an architect; and their youngest, a daughter, will be a freshman this year at Duke.

Maybe Watson Walker of 800 San Luis Rey, Coronado, Ca. 92118, writes that she and her husband are both retired now and having a great deal of difficulty finding time for all the fun projects that they like to do. Maybe is treasurer of the Coronado hospital auxiliary and registrar of their local D.A.R. chapter, not to mention her activities involving house, yard, three Scottish terriers, needlework, tennis, and the like, all of which makes them wonder how they ever had time to work in the first place! It sounds great and that time is approaching for all of us. We should plan it now.

At last we have news of one-half of the Bray Twins! Jim is living in Winston-Salem, N.C., and still working in education. He is a national leader in the education of the gifted. He has written numerous articles and has served on committees from California to London. Now if we could only check up on Ben!

An interesting note about Julia Woodbridge Oxrieder, daughter of the late Dean Woodbridge, tells us that she attended, in early summer, the 125th anniversary of the Villa Marie school in Montreal, where she spent her junior year in high school.

Henry and Shu Shook's son Marc and Cindy Schulte of Red Bank, N.J., were married on September 7. Among the guests was William E. Simon, Cindy's godfather, who wrote the book A Time For Truth, a book that everybody should read at least once!

Now you must hear about Bill's and my trip to England and Europe. After all, what did you expect? The last time I sat down to write my newsletter I could think of little else; you might have guessed you'd be in for it!

We left on July 21st and returned on August 7, nineteen marvelous days. After seeing the highlights of London and visiting Windsor Castle, we crossed the North Sea to Holland. Our journey through Europe took us from here to the Mediterranean via Rome, Nice, and then north to Paris. Besides our steamer trip across the North Sea, we travelled by canal boat in Holland, on a sightseeing boat on the Rhine, by train to Nice and the Cote d'Azur, by hovercraft across the English Channel, but mostly by bus, which was our preferred mode of travel. We left our excellent Globus escorted tour and our erudite guide in Paris and made our way back to London where we stayed a few more days to see Winchester, Salisbury, Stonehenge, and many pubs. Bill had a good time, too, and is even talking about "next time" - we hope to go back to the British Isles and visit -- you guessed it -- especially Ireland.

After this account, I expect more news of all of you so that you won't be subjected to any more of my travels!

50 Dr. Rae Harcum has recently published a paperback book which gives clear straightforward basic principles of psychology for the layman. It is ideal for parents, young adults, supervisors, teachers, volunteer workers, etc. It concentrates on normal behavior. The title is Psychology for Daily Living and is published by Nelson-Hall Publishing Company.

Please send in your news so that we may have a longer column. Please!

52 My bushel basket was not empty at deadline time! The William and Mary Fund return envelopes have been an excellent, easy means of communication for the following classmates with news for us:

Orrie Rosado Strubinger is now working as Publications Editor for the Metro-Dade County Office of Transportation Administration in Florida. The work is exciting because of the rail rapid transit system being built in Miami by her county office. Rosie's sons David, 19, and Eric, 16, are still living at home in Miami.

Doris Hasemeyer Smith (a former class reporter) accompanied the Marietta, Ga., High School Band to Mexico City last April. An international reciprocal vacation resulted with her family hosting three of the Mexican guides in their Marietta home; and Doris' family is looking forward to being the Mexicans' guests in December.

Dr. Tom Burke is serving as chairman of the Shenandoah County School Board of which he has been a member for the past 13 years. He lives in Strasburg, Va.

Kathleen Smith Hilmo's husband, former Lt. Col in the Army, died at Fort Leavenworth, April of 1975 and was buried at West Point. Kathleen returned to El Paso, Tex., where she obtained her Master's of Education degree at the University of Texas. Currently, she is teaching a pilot reading program there. Her daughter Ann is a third-year medical student; her son Bob is a first-year law student.

Thanks for taking time to contribute two ways at once! Hope others will follow suit.

From the College I have been notified that Dr. Marvin West has been named secretary of the Medical College of Virginia Alumni Association for the calendar year of 1980. He was elected at the June annual meeting of the Medical College of Virginia.

Via personal letter, Claudia Richmond Harman wrote to say that she has completed one year of a two-year program in Medical Record Technology. She worked this past summer in the Medical Records Department of the Arlington, Va., Hospital. Her daughter Susan '77 married John B. Richman '76 of Richmond a year ago. Susan is teaching school in Chesterfield County and is working on her Master's degree. Claudia's son Tom graduated Magna Cum Laude from Duke University in 1979 and is a freshman at University of Virginia's Law School. Claudia's daughter Susan is a freshman at Wake Forest.

Rusty Davis Schumacher and I occasionally chat via phone. On a recent hunch that she might have some news for "the column" I called her at her home in Ann Arbor. Imagine my pleasant surprise. She was waiting anxiously for a reply to her application for a Fulbright Scholarship; but, she would not know the results in time for my September newsletter. Several weeks ago I received a postcard from her stating, "I have been chosen and will be one of eight Michigan teachers to spend six weeks in Japan (October 8-November 18)! Must sacrifice some Big Blue's football season but figure it's a once-in-a-lifetime chance!"

Jerry and I attend all of the University of Michigan home games (Jer's M.S. and M.D. from there) and love the excitement. We decided to attend also the much heralded Slippery Rock - Shippensburg game because we had known that Joe Mark '51 was the coach of the latter team. A week before the game we called the Shippensburg Athletic Office to arrange to meet Joe in Ann Arbor. We were a year too late. He coaches at University of Virginia. Not thinking to inquire as to his replacement, we went on to the game and Sunday morning read in the paper that Vito Regazzo '50 is the Shippensburg coach. Sorry we missed him.

Last winter Jerry was elected to the Board of Directors of the Royal Oak Boys Club. This particular club has won the most national awards for outstanding youth programs; thus a very active board. I am serving my second year on the Royal Oak Youth Assistance Citizens' Committee, an effort to provide programs which aid in the prevention of delinquency and to assist mature growth of youth and family life in the community. I also continue substitute teaching in the public schools of Royal Oak.

My next deadline for sending news to The Alumni Gazette is in January. I will be looking forward to receiving lots of news from you at Christmas time to share with everyone in February, 1980.

Johnson Receives Conservation Medal

Dr. Gerald H. Johnson, professor of geology at the College, has received the Daughters of the American Revolution National Medal for Conservation, given to only a few of the nation's most respected conservationists. Johnson, who is the first Virginia recipient of the medal, was honored for his efforts to make the public more aware of erosion problems, the geological history of the Peninsula, and the importance of conservation. Presenting the award is Mrs. Joan Orton of the DAR, with President Graves and Rector E.E. Brickell '50.

the Fairfax County School System. Daughter Kathy is a sophomore at the College. Another daughter having been at the College, but now graduated, is Lisa Swickley, daughter of Shirley Geddes Swickley. Both Molly and Shirley are residents of my community, Springfield. Small world!

60 I received a nice note from Bob Moneyhun who is presently with the U.S. Army in Washington, D.C. Over the past years he has lived in New England, the Rocky Mountain states, Southeast Asia and Korea. His daughter Renne just completed her first year of pre-med at the University of Virginia. Daughter Sara has won numerous awards in gymnastics and son Daniel is a high school student.

Marge Briscoe Hoffman who lives in Springfield, Va., writes that her son has been accepted at the College for the fall semester.

My husband Bob was among 70 American educators who were selected to attend the American Council on Education's Fourth Annual Institute for College and University Administrators in Vail, Colo. He had many interesting and exciting experiences which included a raft ride on the wild white rapids.

70 A whirlwind '78 saw Lynda Murphy Connally's husband Michael running for U.S. Senate and ending up as the elected Secretary of State of Massachusetts! Having enjoyed six months of leisure with sons John (6) and Justin (3 1/2) at the beginning of '79, Linda returned to teaching law courses (Litigation and Corporations) in June.

For the past nine years, David Winn has been teaching Latin at Spotsylvania High School in Fredericksburg, Va., where he is presently chairman of the Foreign Languages Department. David also taught Latin part-time at Mary Washington College for the past two years. Over the summer, he taught Latin at William and Mary. David lives with wife Bryn and 3 year old Jason in Fredericksburg. Bryn completed graduate work in education last summer in an off-grounds program of the University of Virginia.

Guner Gery Burkhardt has been named temporary operations manager at the Fulton Opera House in Lancaster, Pa. She had previously been the administrative assistant to the operations manager, who resigned in May. Guner also teaches creative dramatics to youngsters age 8-13 at Lancaster Institute of Fine Arts and Lancaster County Day School. (Guner did graduate work in theater management and children's theater at Penn State. In 1964, Guner was named technical director of the Fulton Theater and in 1965 was named one of three co-managers of the Opera House.) Guner is divorced and lives with 4-year-old Andrew in Lititz, Pa.

Last June, Carl Grimm received a Master's of Science degree in Art Conservation from the University of Delaware.

Law Professor Drafts International Document

Walter L. Williams, Jr., professor of law at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, drafted "The Declaration on International Cooperation," issued by the Madrid Conference on the Law of the World in late September, and distributed worldwide. The declaration was based largely on issues raised in a paper he presented to the conference on the need for narrowing the developmental gap and transferring technology to developing countries.

Shriver Receives Appreciation Award

Mark Shriver '71, former president of the Atlanta Chapter of the Society of the Alumni, received a special appreciation award at the luncheon before the football game against Georgia Tech. Shriver worked to make the Atlanta Chapter one of the most active and creative alumni groups in the country. He received the award from the current president of the award-winning chapter, Ruth Sours '67.

Elder Marriott, '64, is a children's paperback book about the Loch Ness monster. The book is selling at Busch Gardens, near Williamsburg, and local eastern Virginia bookstores.

Through a cooperative program with Florida Institute of Technology, Captain John Robison received a Master's of Science Degree in logistics at the U.S. Army Logistics Management Center at Ft. Lee, Va.

Diana Carr was the subject of an interesting article in the Atlanta Herald. After earning her MD from Medical College of Virginia, then doing a surgery residency at Case Western Reserve, Cleveland, Diana presently is doing a residency in orthopedics at the Medical College of Georgia. Diana also has her private pilots license, and is working on her commercial license. If that were not enough to keep her busy--she is keeping up with her collection of mystery novels and her membership in the "Baker Street Irregulars."

Reid Williamson, still doing management studies for the Army, is now at the Seventh Corps Headquarters in Stuttgart, Germany. Reid previously was doing the same studies at Picatinny Arsenal in New Jersey.

Reid wrote that Diane Nesley is still with the Internal Revenue Service in Washington, D.C., and living in Arlington, Va.

Fred Hoener recently completed 3 3/4 years of service with the Peace Corps-Smithsonian Institute Environmental Program in Lesotho, Africa, where he worked as the research botanist for Sehlabathebe National Park. During his last 15 months there, he also served as the park manager. His stay there ended November 1.

In August, Tom and I had the opportunity to spend a weekend with Don and George Ann Devilbiss Gowan in Kent, Conn. Their children Don, Jr., 6, and Anna, 2 1/2, are charming. George was looking forward to a watercolor course given by artist Edgar Whitney in October.

That's it for now. . . Remember The William and Mary Fund. . . Remember our TENTH reunion coming up next fall. . . Happy Thanksgiving!!!

72 I have received several newsy letters from classmates who noticed a lack of news from our class. It was nice to hear from so many of you.

Karen Gray Burnett and Louis, '73, are living in San Diego after both earning Ph.D.'s from the University of South Carolina. Lou received his degree in Marine Science and then spent seven months at the University of Aarhus in Denmark doing postdoctoral research. Karen earned her Ph.D. in Biology and has begun a three-year postdoctoral fellowship at the University of California at San Diego. Lou is an assistant professor of biology at the University of San Diego.

The Burnetts have been busy with visitors from William and Mary. Pete and Sharon Hall DeFur visited them this summer with their two daughters, Erica, 5, and Kirsten, 3 months. Sharon has received her M.A. in Special Education and worked as a learning disabilities specialist. Pete returned to William and Mary in 1975 to earn his M.S. in Biology and in 1977 they moved to Calgary, Alberta, Canada, where they currently are living while Pete finishes his Ph.D. in Biology at the University of Calgary. Lou Campbell and Marsha, '73, also dropped by to visit while they were on a tour of the West. They are living in Fincastle, Va. Lou graduated from Marshall-Wythe School of Law and is in private practice in the firm of Wiegandt, Ladenheim and Campbell P.C. In his spare time he is active on the Fincastle Planning Commission and the local Masonic Lodge as well as being an advisor in the local DeMolay chapter.

Also encountered during the Campbells' visit was "Raf" Rafanelli who lives in Carmel, Ca., where he is an actor with the Hidden Valley Professional Theatre Group. Thanks to Karen Burnett for all the news!

I also received a nice letter from Kathy Shriver Sheridan. She and Paul, '73, moved this summer to Salt Lake City. They live only a short distance from Snowbird and several other ski resorts and invite anyone who will be in the area to stop by or call them at (801) 943-8972. Kathy and Paul have three children--Jennifer is in the first grade, Katie is three years old and Patrick is two.

Sharon and Randy Gillett are living in Richmond where Randy is a senior internal auditor for Carter Hawley Hale Stores, Inc., based at Thalheimer's in Richmond. He has served as the president of the Morgan Car Club of Washington, D.C., and they are annual participants in the club's meeting in Luray, Va. Before their first child was born in August, Sharon taught junior high school and she and Randy chaperoned a group of her students on a trip to England and France in April 1977.

Michele Ragone Scherer and Rip, '74, have moved from Hawaii to Charlottesville, Va., where Rip is coaching quarterbacks at the University of Virginia. They became proud parents in July. Michele writes that Ann Taylor Moorman is fine and became a mother in July also.

I also heard from Loyd and JoAnne Rawls. They moved from Texas to Wisconsin last winter when Loyd accepted a position as Education and Training Director at the Heritage Mutual Insurance Co. They have a five-year-old son, Gordon, and a five-month old son, Thomas. Loyd and JoAnne are both

Atlanta Alumni
Dial for Dollars

Atlanta area alumni staged a special William and Mary Fund phonathon the Monday night after the Georgia Tech-William and Mary game in Atlanta. Members of the award-winning chapter, led by President Ruth Sours '67, met at the office of Bob Steidtmann '67 in downtown Atlanta to make the calls. Pictured are callers (back row left to right) George Sullivan, Jr. '47, Ruth Sours '67, Bob Steidtmann '67, Judy Heald '63, Jeanne Bedell '65, Bob Shay '68, John Sours '66, (front row, left to right) Alison Kelly '79, Ann Watkins '79, Debbie Smith '79, Marilyn Midyete '75. The phonathon was organized by Lester Limerick '79, a member of the development staff.

Honored by Scientists

Dr. Hans von Baeyer, professor of physics at William and Mary, was honored along with the Alumni Gazette in an impressive ceremony at the meeting of Corporate Associates of the American Institute of Physics in Schenectady, New York, in mid-October. Dr. von Baeyer received an award of $1,500 and a certificate of congratulations for an article he wrote for the magazine edition of the Gazette earlier this year. The article on Albert Einstein and the wonders of gravity was judged the year's best piece of scientific writing by the Institute. The Gazette received a certificate for carrying the article.

quite involved in teaching the Bradley Method of natural childbirth. JoAnne would like to hear from Valerie Kaskela, so if you read the paper, Valerie, please contact her at 166 Rochester Drive, Sheboygan Falls, WI 53085.

Debbie Edwards is an assistant general counsel for Rockwell International Corporation. Last year she was an assistant professor of law at the University of Dayton law school. From 1975-1978 she served as a staff attorney from Westinghouse Electric Corporation in Pittsburgh after she received her law degree from Ohio State in 1975.

Eric Shoemaker received his M.S. in Administration of Justice and Public Safety at Virginia Commonwealth University in May 1978. He is now an investigator at the school's Department of Public Safety, assigned to the Special Services Division. Judy Self is also in Richmond where she teaches seventh grade social studies at a middle school. This past May she received her Master's of Education degree from William and Mary.

Bob and Sally Breedlove Byrne, '73, are living in Washington, D.C. Bob has left the management consulting field to take a position as a Research Associate for the Urban Land Institute. He is doing research and writing publications on urban affairs and the real estate development industry.

Grady and Vanada Reynolds White, '73, are living in Gaithersburg, Md., where Grady is a physicist at the National Bureau of Standards and Vanada is a statistical aide at Tektronix, Inc. Grady received his Ph.D. in Physics from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill this past December.

Recently completing Chief Residency in Internal Medicine at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, Scott Key started a cardiology fellowship at Walter Reed in July. Robert Brewer graduated from the Williamsport Hospital Family Practice Residency and is moving to East Brady, Pa., to serve in the National Health Service Corps as a family physician.

Anne Iarrobino Barter and her husband Jim moved to Durham, N.C., in June. They will be there for four years while Jim continues his medical residency. Frank Roach has taken a position as Assistant Director of Routing Tours for Ringling Bros. Barnum & Baily Circus at their corporate office in Washington, D.C. For the past three years he was the Assistant Director of Hampton Coliseum. Frank and his wife Julia live in Woodbridge, Va., and have two daughters.

Allen Grant and his wife Chris are in the D.C. area. They will be moving to Maryland since Chris will be attending school there. Jackie Hill Wyche and husband Hunter are living in North Carolina where he has completed his second year of law school at Campbell College. They became the proud parents of a daughter in March of this year. Cindy Wieboldt Taylor and her husband Mike live in Marietta, Ohio. Mike is teaching at Marietta College and they have a daughter.

This wraps up our news for now. It was great to hear from so many people.

74 Jim and I were in Alexandria in August for Tom Watkins' marriage to Wendy Reeves. For the past two years, Tom has been getting his MBA at the University of Chicago and he is presently working for a management consulting firm in Chicago. He and Wendy bought a house in suburban Evanston. We saw Milt Mooney at the wedding and got to meet Mark Ritter's wife Sandy and their new son. Doug, '75, and Donna Follini Reichert attended, as well as Tom Wilke, '75, Bob Blenner, '75, Jack Blush, '75, Bill and Mary Ann Richeson, '73, and Ed Burnett, '75.

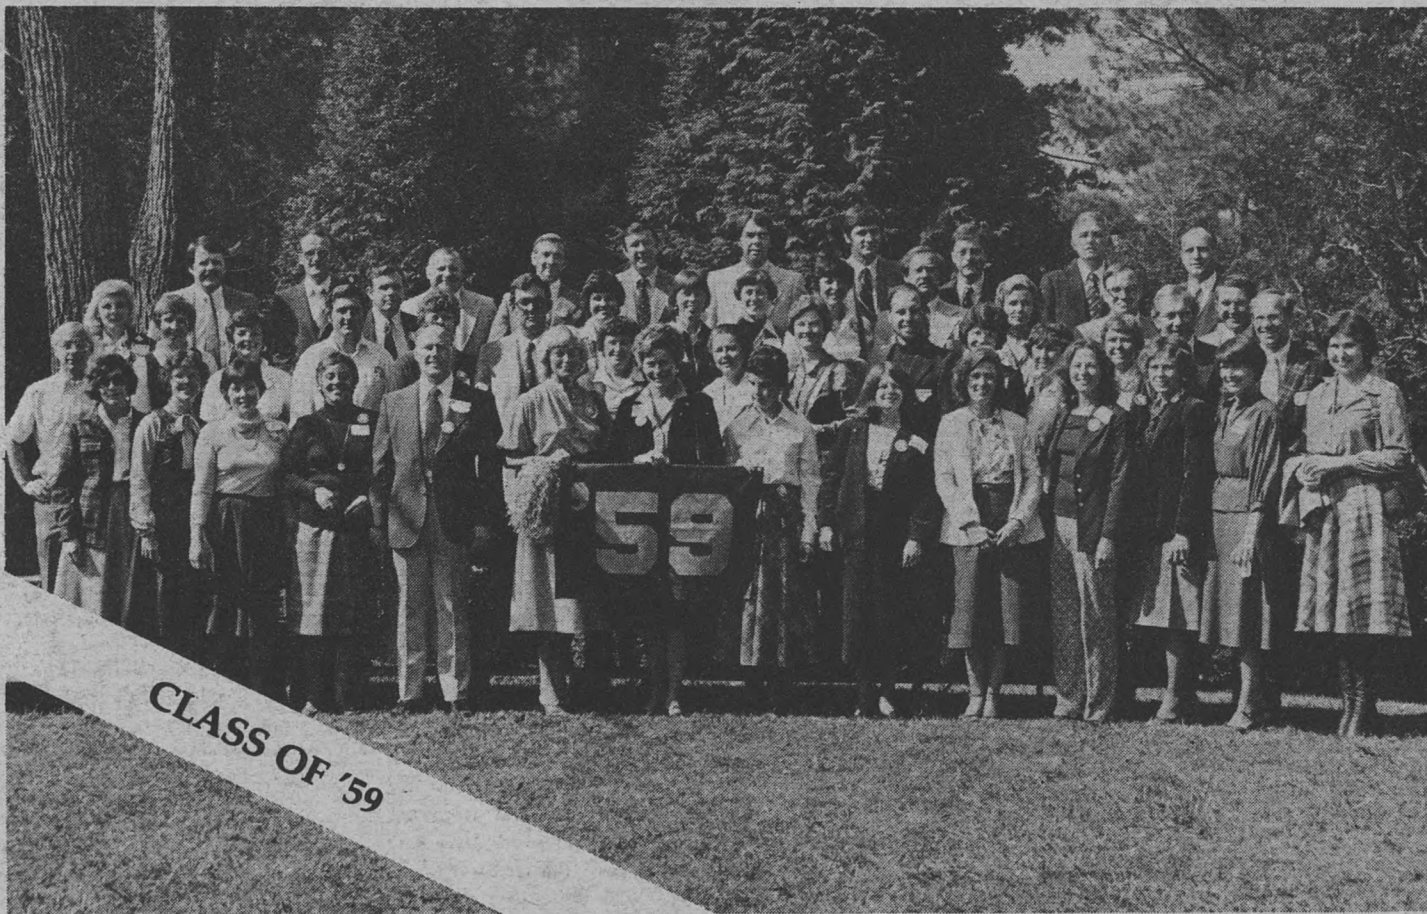

By coincidence, Dave Oelberg, Tom's freshman roommate, was married the same month in Maryland, where he attended medical school. Dave's wife Debbie is a nurse. They have returned to Galveston, Tex., to live while Dave finishes his pediatrics residency. Their wedding turned into a reunion too. Dave Hinder, '73, Warren Smith, Frank Marotta, and Bob Dickson were among the ushers.

Randy Mathis was married in July to Lynne M. York of Richmond. They are living in Richmond where Randy is working towards his Master's in Education.

John Finta is living in Arlington where he is working in law enforcement, "dealing with drunks and keeping the streets safe for democracy," he writes. Larry Diehl received his JD from the Dickinson School of Law in Carlisle, Pa. Susan Chittum is still teaching high school freshmen in Virginia Beach and dividing her time between Chesapeake and Nags Head. Susan says she's in both phone books and would welcome any visits from old friends.

The new executive director of the Voice of Calvary Ministries is Lem Tucker. Located in Jackson, Miss., the VOC is a black community development organization and Lem's job is to direct its daily operations and to coordinate the various projects of the ministry. Lem has been with the VOC since 1977.

Alan '72 and Cathy Schlenz Hooker are also involved in the ministry. Alan is the rector of Christ Episcopal Church in Canaan, Conn. He and Cathy have been married since 1974 and are the parents of two children, Alexander, age 3, and Virginia, age 1.

Society Greet "New" Members

The newest associate members of the Society of the Alumni are six professors emeriti who were inducted at the Homecoming banquet. Welcoming them are Edward E. Brickell '50, rector of the Board of Visitors (left), Denys Grant '58, Society President, and President Graves (right). The inductees are (left to right) Richard K. Newman, fine arts; William F. Swindler, law; Alex Kallos, Modern Languages; and Anthony L. Sancetta, business administration.

Not shown is Alan C. Stewart, music. Also inducted during the evening was Carl A. "Pappy" Fehr, music, who was inducted prior to leading the alumni banquet attendees in singing the Alma Mater.

The Society will induct all emeriti faculty in recognition of their lifetime of service to students and the College.

"This old College will endure. . ."

(Following is an excerpt from an address by Dr. Edward E. Brickell '50 at the Homecoming Banquet.)

"Nothing like us (the United States) ever was before, in the entire history of the world.

We have accomplished more than any other nation in the history of the world; we have accomplished things that no other nation even dared to attempt.

If we have some failures, and we do, it may just be because we attempt so much, and we try so valiantly, and we dare so greatly.

I would hope that this institution, and all in it, will always accept the challenge of trying valiantly, of daring greatly, so that the charge given us by those early leaders will be carried out fully, to the everlasting glory of this old College and all who love it.

And at the same time, we must never lose the sense of proportion, the perspective that enables us to view events over the long reach of history, confident that come what may, this old College will endure.

Around her proud and noble head will break storms of strife and discord, contention and dispute, but this old College will endure.

State and national governments will regulate and impose and hinder and burden and direct and push and shove in all directions, but this old College will endure.

Boards of Visitors will meet and study and deliberate and legislate and occasionally pontificate, but this old College will endure.

And presidents will lead, some well or some not so well, and be the focal point of praise or the center of condemnation. Tenure in office will be brief or tenure in office will be long, but this old College will endure.

And faculties will hold forth, some good and some not so good; some outstanding and some not so outstanding; a few great and a few not so great, but this old College will endure.

Students will come and go, through the classrooms and dormitories, the libraries, the playing fields, the laboratories; and there will be a million individual and a thousand collective protests and revolts against tradition or practice or procedure or regulation or policy or method-- sporadic (but sincere) outbursts against every single aspect of academic life, but this old College will endure.

And from these portals graduates will go forth into every nook and cranny of this great nation, bearing the indelible mark of William and Mary on their minds, their characters, their very souls. And to the home, the classroom, the laboratory, the marketplace, the church, the legislative halls. And in years to come, when the realization of the transiency of things temporal sits heavy upon them, when they've heard the whispers of their own mortality and suffered an inward tremor at the sound, when in quiet moments of meditation they summon up remembrances of things past, and when they long for the snows of yesteryear, they will look back with pride, pleasure, and satisfaction, resting secure in the knowledge that whatever else befall, down through the ages, this old College will endure.

In an ephemeral world stands this rock of permanence; in an uncertain life stands this certainty of living. In the maelstrom of struggle stands this bastion of strength; in the darkness of ignorance stands this beacon of knowledge. This old College will endure. This old College will endure."

Mary Thomasch writes that she is alive and well and living in the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina. Each day she crosses the state line into Tennessee to provide and coordinate mental health services for the population of a rural Tennessee county.

Claude and Denise Love Alexander have enjoyed themselves this summer on several canoe trips. They are hoping to visit Ireland in the fall to see Denise's sister and brother-in-law who are living there.

The new Assistant Dean of Student Affairs at Hendrix College in Conway, Ark., is Karen Wagner. Karen will direct the Career Counseling and Placement Center. Before she landed this job, she was a graduate intern in the Office of Student Development at Richmond's VCU, where she received her Master's in education.

Cary Hoagland has moved to Arlington and says she loves her new neighborhood. She is presently working for the federal government. Carol Lavoritano also moved this past year, to a new house in Bala Cynwyd, Pa. Carol is still working as a senior analyst for the transportation authority in Philadelphia.

Pat Sullivan finished his MS in Engineering in 1976 at George Washington University at NASA/Langley; and is currently working in Manassas as a sonar systems engineer. He appeared as an extra this past summer with the Royal Ballet of London in "Romeo and Juliet."

Paul Kessener's job -- or rather, its location -- has me really jealous. Paul is Bucyrus Erie's Far East Regional Manager and his headquarters is Singapore. His territory goes as far north as Korea and Japan, and as far south as Bali . . . must be nice!

76 Quite a bit of mail has piled up since our last report so let's get on with the news. A note from the reformed light bulb eater Richard Garmon reveals that he is in Roanoke teaching third grade and refereeing soccer for area recreation clubs and schools. He says his work is challenging and rewarding except for all of the form filling, of which he has had so much. Graduate courses also keep him occupied along with his new wife. Following graduation from college, Janet Grayson Cofer also taught in that area for 2 years at Radford High School. In June 1978, she moved to Houston, Tex., where she is now employed as a claims examiner for Hartford Insurance Group. Her husband Bill is a structural engineer for Brown & Root, Inc., and designs offshore oil pipelines.

A quartet of teachers has news for us - Kevin Barnes is teaching and coaching football, wrestling, and track in Hillside, N.J. The football team finished last year with an 8-1-1 record, the best record in 30 years, says Kevin, and on that note he has been promoted to Phys. Ed. Department Chairman. His wife Karen also keeps physically fit as head coach of the girls' cross country and track teams. Jim Firebaugh is an earth science instructor at the Mathematics and Science Center in Richmond. His wife, Debbie Monfort Firebaugh, is also a teacher at Highland Springs High School here in the fashionable east end of the city. And Diann VanVladricken teaches art to 7th graders at Whittier Intermediate in Fairfax County.

Fellow accountant Paul Kruis has been working the past three years for the public accounting firm of Laventhol & Horwath in Harrisburg, Pa. Also in an accounting position, Bruce Russell has been employed by Philip Morris in Richmond and has risen to the position of assistant controller. He has also just completed his MBA degree at the Univ. of Richmond - must have been a busy 3 years, Bruce.

Susan Mariani is still working as a systems engineer for a firm in Dallas. She has also managed to buy a townhouse, do volunteer work for status offenders, and play tennis, softball, and golf. Sue Gillis is a little bit farther west in Denver, working as Registrar for the Colorado Historical Society. She is also working toward her M.A. thesis at the Univ. of Denver.

Bill and Maureen Cash Moffett have moved to Abingdon, Va., as Bill graduated from Washington & Lee Law School in May and accepted a job in Abingdon. Maureen has plans to either teach music or work on her Master's at Radford. Nash Bilisoly has also just graduated from law school at Tulane University. He plans to return to Norfolk to work for the law firm of Vandevender, Black, Meredith, & Martin. Also in the legal field, Jeff King worked this summer for the law firm of Brown, Wood, Ivey, Mitchell & Peby in New York City. Jeff expects to receive the combined MBA and JD degrees from Duke University in May, 1980.

Teresa Sulich has now graduated from Columbia University's School of Engineering with the Master's Degree in Chemical Engineering. She has also found a job as a polymer engineer with Corning Glass Works at their corporate headquarters in Corning, N.J. Janet Hanlon is going in the opposite direction as she leaves her job to return to school - at the Wharton Business School to study for her MBA. her husband Bill, '75, has received a second BA, with honors, from Oxford and this past June graduated with his JD from the Univ. of Pennsylvania, cum laude, and is working a one-year judicial clerkship with Judge Adams of the U.S. Court of Appeals, Third Circuit, in Philadelphia.

There's news from three members of our class who have already begun or finished their Master's. Deborah Federhen is finishing hers at the University of Missouri - Columbia, researching her thesis this past summer at the Library of Congress. She was given a museum assistantship at the Museum of Art and Archaeology in Columbia for next year and was nominated for Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges. She says she hopes all of her friends will write. Peyton Wilhoit Miller received a Master's in Biology from U.Va. She is currently working with an oilfield service company out of Denver, monitoring gas content of geological formations as oil wells are drilled. Ralph English received the Master of Divinity degree, cum laude, from Andover Newton Theological School in Newton Centre, Mass. He will serve as a pastor in the United Church of Christ.

There must be some strange goings-on up in the Northern Virginia area as I have had an unprecedented plethora of mail received from that area in just the last week. We'll begin with some international news. Kyle Peters, working for the World Bank, was leaving for a mission to South Africa as he wrote this note: Bob Cumby, finishing his Ph.D. in economics at M.I.T., and Earl Devanny, who just completed an MBA at U.N.C., spent almost three weeks in August canoeing the Salmon and Snake Rivers in Idaho. Erik Rasmussen, '75, went along as the third musketeer, and informed sources reported that grey matter was dripping from Cumby's ears. Also, Devanny found that life was impossible without a calculator and Rasmussen lost his new canoe and what was left of his mind. The river trips were sponsored by Cumby, Rasmussen, and Peters, all founders of the W&M chapter of the Order of the Green 'Stache. Kyle serves as Rector of the Order. Laurie Anne Johnston is the other foreign correspondent as her assignment is consular officer at the U.S. Interests Section in Baghdad, Iraq. Beginning in January, 1980, she will be assigned to the U.S. Embassy in Lisbon.

Priscilla Brown, '77, wrote that a number of grads have turned into serious intellectuals? A bunch has been streaking through rivers around the country. As members of the Washington Canoe Club, War Canoe Crew, Kerry Deerfield, '74, Dodge Havens, '75, Keith Havens, '76, Bruce Hartzler, '77, Priscilla, Kathy Kelly, '79, and Glen Anderson, '79, -- armed with paddling blades -- brave heat, ice, rapids and killer rabbits in order to beat the competition. With inspiration from cheerleaders Gail Fox Deerfield, '74, and Jo Carol Butler, '78, and coaching from two Olympic gold-medalist Havens, crew members have won and placed in numerous races. Keith and Dodge did exceptionally well in the August national competition. Additional war canoe finesse exhibited in a recent "race" by Julia Saunier, Patty Logan, and Janet Hammond has helped to elevate the expression, "Wow, another William and Mary grad!" above "Have a nice day" among Potomac fish. (Editor's note to those of you who may think of starting canoeing as a hobby - based on the above two letters, I think it does something to your mind as well as your body.)

Bob Cavaliere is working as an actuary for the Wyatt Co. in D.C., doing consulting on pensions and other employee benefits. Bob and Sue went to Bermuda on their honeymoon this summer. Beginning this fall, Sue teaches Spanish in Warrenton, Va. Sue Hedrick is still with the Secret Service and has recently spent 2½ weeks in Puerto Rico working at the Pan American Games. She had news on Nancy Weiner, who is employed with the GAO in D.C. Pat Kreuger just finished law school in New York City and will be working for a law firm there. Karen Maples is one of many in northern Va., employed now with C&P Telephone Co. Kathy Henry is an Intelligence Research Specialist for the Secret Service also. She works in the Domestic Branch of the Intelligence Division. And Teresa Sato is still working in Charlottesville, planning to do some graduate work at U.Va. this year.

Ron Bianchi worked for a lab in Springfield, Va., for 8 months, but, as Ron reports, received some unnecessary radiation and left to sell Florida property for General Development Corp., without even having seen the property. Finding this hard to do, Ron started to work for the government, as a management analyst intern for the Adjutant General Center in D.C. (chosen, by the way, from over 200 applicants). Finding that the bureaucratic style was not for him, he started at the Columbus School of Law at Catholic University this fall. Ron welcomes any past alumni/friends but limits his visiting hours to Tuesday nights (no class), Friday nights (too dead to do anything else), and Sunday afternoons (game time). Ron adds a romantic note - he met his wife back on Christmas Eve, 1976, at the Grand Union grocery store (in the frozen foods section of the dairy case).

We had a request for some people out there, if you know where they are: Nancy Seawell, Janet Hamilton Davison, Fiona Baxter, Debra Harris, Diane Turman Clift, Nancy Richeson, Sue Eldridge, and Harrell Tweedy. Catch you guys at Homecoming!!

78 As you can see by my address, I have moved again. I am finally settled in Richmond and don't anticipate any more changes for a while. Homecoming was great - I hope all of you who were able to attend had a super weekend. We missed everyone who couldn't be here.

I'm so pleased that many of you are taking the time to write with news for our column! Karen Taylor Rose sends news from New York. She and her husband Steve live in Ithaca, N.Y., on an 80-cow dairy farm which they are restoring. Karen is working as head teller in a local bank and helps Steve with the farm in her spare hours. She also writes that Lynn Whitlock Ashworth and her husband Ken are in Ithaca, N.Y. Lynn has left her work in the records office of the Alumni House and is now administrative secretary for the Peace Studies Program at Cornell University Center for International Studies. Ken is attending Cornell. Karen also had word on several others in our class. Will Rives is working as a management trainee for Drug Fair. Laura Kelly has been touring Europe and waitressing at the Williamsburg Peddler while living in Yorktown. Donna

Perkins is living in Richmond and working for an insurance agency. Kevin Schrack did some physical therapy work in Culpeper, then attended classes at VCU this summer. He is doing graduate work this fall at ODU. Cookie Degnan has been living in California and is working in the Menlo Park area. Kathy Brewster is living and working in Washington, D.C.

Pat Miller is living in Charlottesville - thanks for the list of recent weddings! Skip Sacks is also in Charlottesville in his second year at UVa law school. He writes that he and Terri-Lee Ellis of Norfolk were recently married.

Others in graduate work: Mark Grygier writes from San Diego where he is working toward his PhD in marine biology at Scripps Institution of Oceanography. His field of study involves working with ascothoracian cirripedes. John Wise is in his second year of law at SMU. Chris Kelley is also a second-year law student at NY Law School. He has started an environmental law society with several of his classmates and is assisting the firm of Twome, Lathern and Schmitt in preparing briefs in opposition to the licensing of Jamesport nuclear power plants. Beth Riddle attended paralegal training in Philadelphia. This summer she toured England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

Paul Schmidt married Catherine Bayruns in May. They are living in Va. Beach where Paul works for the US Fish and Wildlife Service at Back Bay National Wildlife Refuge. His position is outdoor recreation planner which involves such things as organizing an environmental education program with the area school system and writing newspaper articles. He finds this quite rewarding and an enjoyable application of his degree in biology. Catherine attended William and Mary for 3 years and received a degree in nursing from MCV. She is now working at Chesapeake General Hospital.

Richmond seems to be a popular location these days! Emily Hunsicker and Debbie Schumacher recently moved to St. Johns in the southside. Emily is working for the Covington Travel Agency and Debbie is teaching in New Kent Co. Fran Farmer, who also lives at St. Johns, is now working at Manhattan South. Debbie McIntyre is teaching second grade at the Collegiate Schools. She married Ensign Charles Bryan Hunter, Jr., this fall. Mary Harasek is living in the Hawthorne Hall apartments with Anna Piercy, '77. Nearby, Wanda Davis is teaching 5th grade in Prince George County. She is living in Hopewell.

Sue Olsen has moved from NY to Norfolk. She is working for Va. National Bank in credit analysis and is taking some MBA courses at ODU. Steve Mitchell taught high school English in Va. Beach last year. He has since moved with plans to do some form of social work.

Joe Agee is selling "time sharing" condominiums and properties in Hilton Head, S.C. The investor purchases a condominium, for instance, and then exchanges time in that for time in similar arrangements around the world in various resort localities. This gets my vote for the most interesting line of work in our class. I believe that Gail Agee, '79, is also living and working in this same area.

Betsy McCaffree Antanitus and her husband Dave are stationed in Holylock, Scotland, for a 2-year tour. Dave is an assistant operations officer on the staff there.

Sue Buzzell is an assistant buyer in cosmetics living in Arlington. For her first vacation she travelled to Dallas and Mexico.

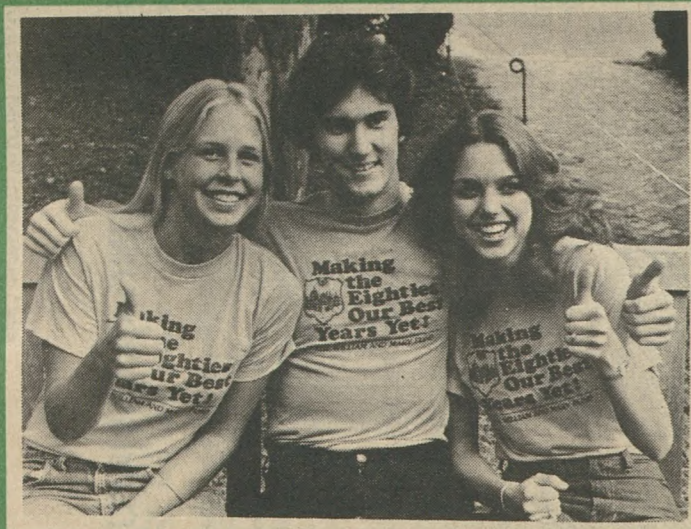

Rick Rowland is in Norfolk in a management trainee position with Va. National Bank.

Elizabeth Wagner worked this past summer with the Bureau of Financial Institutions of the State Corporation Commission as a Bank Examiner. Through her work she was able to travel throughout the state. Elizabeth also had information on several others: Rhoda Bland is thoroughly enjoying medical school at UVa. Anne Gore is at Garfinkel's. Craige Keith is with Burroughs Corp. in Philadelphia; according to Elizabeth, he's making so much money he doesn't know how to spend it! She also says that she heard that the brothers of Pika have moved to D.C. and she wants to know when they are moving into Congress?

Joellen Selora Jacoby is enrolled in the Master's of Landscape Architecture program at Ball State University in Indiana.

I hope everyone in graduate work from our class is having a great second year! Good luck to all job hunters--don't stop looking until you find something you are really interested in pursuing. I hope all of you have a safe winter. Keep in touch. There are lots of you from whom we haven't heard. How about some new names for our spring issue!

Wine, dark green or navy blue necktie with W&M Coat of Arms, $14.50.

MARSHALL PRINT

A rare and unusual print is now available to all alumni and especially to graduates of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. The Society has located a unique two-part woodblock engraved in 1903 by Gustav Kruell, one of the outstanding wood engravers in the history of the art. This engraved portrait of John Marshall provides an excellent example of Kruell's extraordinary talent. There are no known copies of this print in any museum or private collection. Among the many engraved portraits executed by Kruell are those of Darwin, William Lloyd Garrison and Abraham Lincoln.

Each print will be printed directly from the original blocks. Measuring approximately 11-1/4" x 14-1/4" and printed in black on off-white heavy hand-laid 100% rag paper, the prints will be numbered and limited to 750 if the blocks will permit that total. A descriptive statement will be furnished which may be affixed to the back of print after framing. Sales will be processed in order of receipt. The first ten copies will be withheld for appropriate distribution by the Society.

PRICE: $50.00 PER PRINT
POSTAGE: $3.50 PER PRINT

Hand-blown glass mugs created with the same tools, techniques and materials used by craftsmen at the Jamestown Glasshouse in 1608. Combining elegance with tradition, each has been stamped with the William and Mary cipher taken from the College boundary stone. $10.95.

The W&M desk organizer designed to hold pencils and letters is now available in either a reddish mahogany or a rich pine wood color. Each desk organizer is designed in the shape of the W & M and is sure to be a most unique office accessory. $11.00. (specify wood color preference)

From the bookshelf, a selection of interesting reading. American Excursion by J. E. Morpurgo, $15.00; Present State of Virginia (paperback) $1.75; Their Majesties' Royall Colledge, by J. E. Morpurgo, $25.00; The Story of the Royal Charter of the College of William and Mary (paperback) $1.50.

The William and Mary Cipher enhances this handsomely designed log carrier. Handcrafted of genuine leather, each log carrier is created exclusively for the Society by Chase Leathercraft, located in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia. $39.00.

ROCKINGHAM
Smoked Turkeys

These smoked Rockingham turkeys come ready to carve and eat—an unsurpassed contribution to an American tradition in Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday eating. With their unique flavor and savory delicacy attained by an old process of spicing and hickory smoking, and their ready to serve convenience, these turkeys make a thoughtful and appropriate holiday gift to the most discriminating friend or food connoisseur. In addition to serving as a never forgotten main entree, every ounce may be used to bring new and different flavors to hors d'oeuvres, sandwiches, creamed dishes and soups. Weights range from 10 to 16 pounds. Weighed after smoking.

PRICE: $2.50 LB.
POSTAGE $4.50 PER TURKEY

Genuine Smithfield Hams

It is said that a cousin of Captain John Smith, along with several neighboring planters, laid the foundations of the early export business in Smithfield Hams. Since 1752, they have been on the board of the reigning English Sovereigns.

World-famous Smithfield ham is undoubtedly Virginia's supreme contribution to the art of fine eating. Carefully selected from peanutfed pedigreed porkers, these hams are meticulously cured through a treasured centuries old plantation process that takes one year or longer to complete. Slowly smoked over smoldering applewood, hickory and oak and finally baked in wine, these baked hams come gift wrapped, ready to carve and serve. These distinctive Smithfield flavored hams also may be purchased raw, with complete instructions for cooking. Either baked or raw, these hams require no refrigeration and may be shipped anywhere. Cooked hams range from 9 to 12 pounds; raw from 12 to 16 pounds.

BAKED HAMS: $4.75 LB. RAW HAMS: $3.50 LB. POSTAGE $4.50 PER HAM

Fine Virginia Peanuts

Ready for roasting shelled peanuts are available in 3lb and 5lb bags. Each bag is furnished with old fashioned recipes you may use in your own kitchen. These king sized peanuts prepared to your personal taste can be a trademark of your entertaining, in the best Virginia tradition.

The famous Hubs' "home cooked" salted peanuts are truly different from any others. They are crunchy and have a full rich peanut flavor brought out by a special and difficult water blanching process. They will keep in the freezer indefinitely regardless of how often the container is opened. We offer the large 46 oz. resealable can for weekend entertaining and snacks around the house.

PRICES:

5 lb bag shelled peanuts $5.00 + 1.75 postage
3 lb bag shelled peanuts $3.00 + 1.75 postage
46 oz. can of roasted peanuts $6.50 + 1.75 postage
