

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

Alumni Find Rewards In Helping People

Bacon Street, Battered Women Program Run By William and Mary Alumni

In today's economically-oriented society, success is often measured in dollar signs. Yet while the idealism of the Sixties has faded, there are still individuals who see success in terms of people. They face frustration, long hours and the battle fatigue called "burnout" to do what they do best: help others.

"Don't make me out to be Mother Teresa," jokes Teresa Suzanne Smith '78, director of the Williamsburg Task Force on Battered Women.

Contrary to any "do-gooder" stereotype, this William and Mary alumna says that anyone who works in the helping professions does so for self-fulfillment.

Smith is one of several William and Mary alumni involved in such work in the Williamsburg area. Cathy Reese '78 J.D. is co-coordinator of the Williamsburg Task Force on Battered Women, and Sandy Fagan '70, '72 M.B.A. is director of the better-known Bacon Street, a center for substance abuse prevention and treatment, whose staff includes three other William and Mary alumni -- Laura L. Townsend '77, '79 M.Ed., Robert E. Coleman '71, '77 M.Ed., and Lynn C. Flood '81 M.Ed. Further, approximately 25 per cent of those who work the Bacon Street Hotline are William and Mary students.

"There is something about William and Mary that promotes a sense of community and a loyalty to the community, and I think that gets translated into service orientation," says W. Samuel Sadler '64, dean of students who was a founding president of Alpha Phi Omega, a service fraternity.

A double major in theatre and religion, Terri Smith did post-graduate work for a year at St. Andrews University in Scotland. Originally, she had planned to do graduate work when she returned to the States, but it wasn't meant to be. "I decided to try to get a job doing something useful," Smith says. After years of schooling, she says, "I wondered if I had done anything practical at all for anyone but me -- so I joined VISTA."

Because she wanted to work with women ("It was something I could do honestly -- how could I relate to the experiences of migrant workers?"), Smith's path led back to Williamsburg. At the time, it had the only women's center with a job opening. Prophetically for Smith, a group of women had just joined forces to form an organization to help battered women.

The new Task Force was the outgrowth of a conference held in 1979, the year before Terri Smith came to Williamsburg as a VISTA volunteer. Although she worked in the Williamsburg Women's Center, Smith volunteered her free time to the Task Force. In May, 1981, she took over on a full-time basis as director of the organization.

The job description is a challenging one. Leah Hardenbergh, a co-coordinator with Reese, says, "She has to be dedicated to her work, very empathetic and very resourceful, because as director she has to deal with a lot of different areas of lives -- a woman who comes here may need a place to stay, food, a job, all kinds of things like that."

Because the Task Force doesn't have the money for these needs, Terri draws on many community resources in the Williamsburg area to assist women who are the victims of domestic violence and who ask for help. Only partially funded by the United Way, the organization also relies on donations of money, clothing, toys and the like to provide for the families it shelters.

The problem extends far beyond Williamsburg. It's estimated that 40 per cent of all women experience battering at some point in their married lives: "battery" is generally defined as any physical abuse which is recurring. Since May, 1981, the Task Force has helped more than 58 women, with a total of 87 children. Because children are so often involved, the Task Force also shelters them with their mothers and looks out for their interests.

"We are here to help women to do what they need to do," says Smith. That help is clearly non-judgmental, and emphasizes practical as well as emotional assistance. "Most men who batter are not psychos or sadists," Smith comments. "They have a problem, just like an alcoholic has a problem."

In the past, women were considered "sick" for staying in an abusive situation. "Now there has been a shift in who the person with the problem is," says Smith. Her voice takes on an added intensity when she talks about battered women: "You'd be amazed at the real sanity these women have -- they are usually wonderful mothers who will leave when the children are threatened, but not themselves."

Why would any woman allow her husband to act out his fears and aggressions on her, as these victims do? Often, battered women are strong, selfless people, says Smith. "They also have what we call 'learned helplessness' -- there's always emotional abuse along with the physical abuse -- and have been told, 'You don't know anything, you can't do anything.'"

These women reach out for help after something very severe happens, or when they are in the hospital. The Williamsburg Task

From left to right are Sandy Fagan '70, Lynn Flood '81 M.Ed., Bob Coleman '71, and Laura Townsend '77, all of whom work with Bacon Street in Williamsburg, a center for substance abuse prevention and treatment. Fagan is the director of the center.

Law School Receives $1.75 Million Gift

Lee Trust Grant Given To Establish Institute On Bill Of Rights Law

A unique institute on Bill of Rights Law will result from a cash gift of $1.75 million to the College that may eventually yield nearly $5 million to the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

The gift from the Alfred Wilson Lee and Mary I.W. Lee Memorial Trust Fund was announced at the April Board of Visitors meeting by Arthur B. Hanson '39, '40 B.C.L., a Washington, D.C., attorney who is one of three trustees of the Lee Trust Fund.

The School of Law will receive initially $250,000 per year for seven years, beginning with the first installment on May 15. But after an evaluation in the sixth year, the trustees may allocate an additional two to three million dollars to the law school in the final distribution of the trust monies.

The gift will support an Institute of Bill of Rights Law which will emphasize the First Amendment of the Constitution, the American history of jurisprudence, the study of ethical philosophy and the use of legal English so that, according to Hanson, "a body of lawyers will be created who can translate to the lay public in an understandable language what these inviolable rights mean to the people of our Nation."

In choosing the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, Hanson said the trustees had taken special care to seek out an institution of higher learning that could best administer the funds for the continuation of the principles set forth concerning the press in the First Amendment.

Hanson said the trustees had been particularly impressed with the contributions made to the Colonial United States by the first professor of law in the Americas, George Wythe, "who they believe had more to do with the preparation for the emergence of our form of republican constitutional government than any other individual in the history of our Nation."

"It is the trustees judgment," Hanson said, "that if the Institute lives up to its promise, it will serve as a research center not only for the citizens of Virginia, but for our entire Nation in this field."

Alfred Wilson Lee

Arthur B. (Tim) Hanson '39, '40 B.C.L., a Washington, D.C., attorney, explained to the Board of Visitors the reasons the Lee Trust had chosen the Marshall-Wythe School of Law for a $1.75 million gift to establish an Institute on Bill of Rights Law. At left is William B. Spong Jr., dean of the law school, who will head the Institute.

Speaking for the trustees, Hanson added that "we believe that in placing this special trust and confidence in the ancient College of William and Mary and in its Marshall-Wythe School of Law we may rekindle in the bosom of the people of our country an understanding of our Constitutions heritage.

"As scholars have noted, our Bill of Rights and particularly the First Amendment make our Country unique in the world in which more than 85 per cent of the people are governed by totally different concepts of law or no law at all."

The announcement of the gift followed extensive discussions between President Graves, Hanson, and William B. Spong Jr., dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, who will serve as head of the new Institute. Hanson emphasized that the trustees want the Institute to be an integral part of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, rather than a separate entity.

Spong, who said the Institute would mean at least three new professors on the law school faculty, said that "this magnificent gift from the Lee estate will fund additional professorships in constitutional law, legal history, and media law."

"The gift presents an exciting and historically appropriate challenge," he added. "It is fitting that an Institute to study the history and contemporary application of the Bill of Rights should be established in Williamsburg at the College of William and Mary.

Spong predicted that the law school would become a national center and resource for the study and research of constitutional problems related to the First Amendment and media law.

President Graves said the grant "reflects the present capabilities of the School of Law and demonstrates confidence in the great potential of this institution." In the announcement the Lee Trustees noted "particularly the substantial progress made both in the physical plant and in the faculty development at the law school, as well as the intellectual achievement of the School's graduates in recent years."

Herbert V. Kelly '40, a 1943 graduate of the law school, said he was "particularly pleased to see the national recognition implicit in the selection of the law school for this singular honor."

"This provides the school with special opportunities and challenges to extend its historic role in studying the basic concepts in the Constitution," Kelly said.

Lee Enterprises, which is headquartered in Davenport, Iowa, publishes a chain of newspapers in Illinois, Iowa, Montana, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Oregon and North Dakota. It also owns four television stations and four radio stations. Besides Hanson, who is counsel emeritus to the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the other trustees are Lloyd G. Schermer, the present president of Lee Enterprises, Inc., and Philip D. Adler, president from 1960 to 1970 of Lee Enterprises.

The $1.75 million gift is the largest in William and Mary's history, exceeding a $1.61 million gift in cash and properties from the Jay Winston Johns estate in 1975.

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

May 1982 Volume 49, No. 9

Publication No. USPS015520

Editor, Gordon C. Vliet '54
Associate Editor, S. Dean Olson
Class News, Frankie Martens
Typesetting, Sylvia B. Colston
Design, June Siefert

Established June 10, 1933, by the Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary, Box 60, Williamsburg, Va. 23185; monthly except January and July. Second-class postage paid at Williamsburg and Richmond. Subscription rates $5.00 a year.

Officers of the Society are: President Marvin F. West '52, Williamsburg, Virginia; Vice President James E. Howard '43, Richmond, Virginia; Secretary Jane Spencer '48, Grosse Point, Michigan; Treasurer Austin L. Roberts III '69, Newport News, Virginia; Executive Vice President Gordon C. Vliet '54. Board of Directors: To December 1982: Stewart Gamage '72, Alexandria, Virginia; John H. Garrett, Jr., '40, Irvington, Virginia; Denys Grant '58, Richmond, Virginia; Jane Spencer Smith '48, Grosse Point Shores, Michigan; Henry D. Wilde, Jr., '53, Houston, Texas. To December 1983: Marilyn Miller Entwisle '44, Meadowbrook, Pennsylvania; R. Stanley Hudgins '43, Virginia Beach, Virginia; Andrew D. Parker, Jr., JD '69, Chapel Hill, North Carolina; William A. Armbruster '57, Severna Park, Maryland; Marvin F. West '52, Williamsburg, Virginia. To December 1984: James W. Brinkley '59, Towson, Maryland; Audrey W. Harris '60, Richmond, Virginia; James E. Howard '43, Richmond, Virginia; Austin L. Roberts, III, '69, Newport News, Virginia; G. Elliott Schaubach, Jr., '59, Norfolk, Virginia.

The Lady Astor Scholarship

Little-Known Program Brings British Women To William and Mary

In 1964, a letter addressed to the "Dean of the University of Williamsburg, West Virginia, U.S.A." somehow found its way to Dr. W. Melville Jones, who was then dean of the College at William and Mary. Announcing the Lady Astor Scholarship, the letter was a rather inauspicious beginning for a program that has subsequently brought 17 young women to William and Mary to study for their advanced degrees.

While it is less well known than some of the other programs William and Mary has with England, the Lady Astor Scholarship is significant of the ties William and Mary -- and the Commonwealth of Virginia -- has with England.

The program is named for the first woman member of British Parliament. Born in Danville, Va., in 1879, Nancy Langhorne married Waldorf Astor, the great-great-grandson of American financier John Jacob Astor. Waldorf Astor served as a member of the House of Commons from 1910 until 1919 when he succeeded to his father's viscountcy. On Nov. 28, 1919, his wife, standing as a Union Conservative coalition candidate, was elected for her husband's constituency at Plymouth, and served in Parliament until her retirement in 1945.

When she died in 1964, Lady Astor's relatives established the Lady Astor Scholarship Program as a memorial to her ties with Virginia. At first, the program simply was intended to send a young English woman from the area of Plymouth to a Virginia university of her choice. But on two visits to Plymouth, Dr. Jones convinced the trustees, who include the Lord Mayor of Plymouth and the area education officer, to allow William and Mary to serve as the host institution.

The latest in the long line of Lady Astor Scholars is Lynn Russell, a petite and pleasant resident of Plymouth who graduated from Durham University in North England in modern history and took post graduate study at Rolle College in Exmouth where she received a teacher's certificate. She is now pursuing her M.A. degree in education at William and Mary which she expects to receive after attending summer session.

The Lady Astor program is intended as a cultural as well as an educational experience for the recipients. The restrictions require no specific curriculum.

"You can take whatever you want to take," says Miss Russell. "We are expected to communicate with the people of America and learn what the country is all about."

Consequently, she says she was determined "not to concentrate so much on my school work that I didn't get anything else out of the experience." She has traveled to Washington, D.C., four times, spent spring break in New York, and she has taken several trips to various parts of Virginia.

Lady Astor would undoubtedly approve of Lynn's itinerary. She deeply loved her native state, as evidenced by a letter she wrote to former Virginia Governor John Garland Pollard who had asked her to give a public address while she was in America around 1931. "It's only for Virginia that I will speak," Lady Astor wrote in the letter, which is currently on display in the Zollinger Museum as part of an exhibition of 60 years of "treasures and autographs" from the Swem Library manuscripts collections.

In 1928, the College awarded Lady Astor an honorary degree, and in 1947 at Alumni Day she gave the College portraits of King William III and Queen Mary II painted while they were on the throne. The portraits are now on exhibit in the Swem Library display.

Although she died nearly 20 years ago, Lady Astor is still remembered fondly in Plymouth, according to Miss Russell.

"She was very popular in Plymouth because of the issues she stood for," says Miss Russell. "She was often in Plymouth during her time in Parliament helping the people, especially during the German Blitz" of the seaside city.

Miss Russell, whose mother is a retired teacher and whose father is a technical author for an engineering firm in Plymouth, intends to enter teaching when she returns to England. Since her graduate courses in the School of Education are at night, she has been using her days to observe the schools in the Williamsburg area.

Since she has "no transport," she has to hitch a ride to the schools, but she says she has found that no problem. "Americans are really wonderful people," she says, "and they have been very helpful to me." She has been impressed by the excellent facilities and number of staff in the American schools, which she finds much more pressurized than their English counterparts.

Lynn lives at Thiemes, a former restaurant which the College bought and converted into graduate student housing a few years ago. She is one of 13 residents in the house, many of them foreign students like herself.

"I love it ever so much, which adds to the educational experience," she says.

In fact, she has found just about everything worthwhile during her stay in America. The education has been good, she says, because it emphasizes theory, whereas her studies in England emphasized the practical aspects of education.

"There is nothing I have learned here that has not been worthwhile," says Lynn, who notes she has made "lots of friends." She adds that "It is going to be so sad to leave in August."

Apparently that has been the experience of other Lady Astor Scholars as well. The 1980 recipient was Anne Langmeade of Plymouth who met her future husband while at William and Mary. They were married in Plymouth and then returned to Virginia Beach to live.

The value of the Lady Astor Scholarship is 3750 pounds per year, or approximately $7500, but the trustees informed Dr. Cecil McCulley, professor of English who coordinates the program, that they are considering an increase. They also told him in a recent letter that the Lady Astor Scholar for 1982-83 will be Jessica Crook of Plymouth, a student in modern languages at the University of Bristol.

Lynn Russell of Plymouth, England, is the latest of 17 Lady Astor Scholars to study at William and Mary.

The portraits of King William III and Queen Mary II were given to the College by Lady Astor at Alumni Day in 1947. She also received an honorary degree from the College in 1928. Above (right) is the 1980 Lady Astor Scholar, Ann Langmeade, who married a classmate she met while studying at the College. They now live in Virginia Beach.

Olde Guarde Day Attracts Nearly 200

Special Day Sponsored By William and Mary Emphasizes Sense Of Community

Olde Guarde Council members Suzanne Garrett Montague '25 (left) and Thomas Ferratt '26 share a pleasant moment with Elisabeth Ferratt.

Nearly 200 members of the Olde Guarde returned to William and Mary on April 15 to attend a special Olde Guarde Day sponsored by the College as a way of continuing to "link the generations, each to each."

Organized and administered on behalf of the College by the Alumni-Student Liaison Committee to the Society of the Alumni, the occasion brought about 40 faculty, students and administrators together with the Olde Guarde, which consists of alumni of the College who graduated prior to 1932. They shared a social hour, luncheon, choir concert, and listened to brief addresses from representatives of the various groups. Jere Shawver and Maria Romeo, both seniors, are chairmen of the Alumni-Student Liaison Committee and handled arrangements for Olde Guarde Day.

Noting that the purpose of the program was to bring the College of today to the members of the Olde Guarde and to continue to re-inforce the sense of community between alumni and William and Mary, President Graves declared that Olde Guarde Day would become an annual event at the College.

Speaking on behalf of the students, Lauri Brewer, senior class president, quoted from past Colonial Echos to emphasize that, while the College continues to grow and change, the consistency of community and the sense of the William and Mary family remain the same.

William Thompson Jr. '28, Virginia Beach, who is chairman of the Olde Guarde Council which conceived of the idea of Olde Guarde Day, presented a certificate of appreciation to Arthur J. Winder '25, Virginia Beach, who served as the first chairman of the Olde Guarde Council. Winder's class was the first to be inducted into the Olde Guarde at the 1975 Commencement. In addition to their activities at Commencement at which the Olde Guarde members are guests of the Society of Alumni, special events are organized at Homecoming each year.

Olde Guarde members came from as far away as Texas, Connecticut and Georgia to attend the April 15 ceremony.

Carolyn Finocchio '83 (left) president of the Senior Class of 1983 and a member of Kappa Alpha Theta, talks with Bettie Woodward James '23, first president of Kappa Alpha Theta.

In top photo Lauri Brewer '82, president of the senior class, enjoys lunch with William Thompson Jr. '28, chairman of the Olde Guarde Council, while (above) W. Samuel Sadler '64, dean of students at William and Mary, shares a moment with T. C. Clarke '22 and Dr. and Mrs. John '25 St. George. At right are William Deierhoi '12 (second from left), the oldest member of the Olde Guarde present, Emily Deierhoi (at his left), Mary Pulliam Maddox '31, (far left), Sally Copenhaver Southworth '30 and Dr. William Bickers '29, an Olde Guarde Council member.

Liaison Group Strengthens Alumni-Student Ties

Olde Guarde Day, Student Internships Result From Student Committee

The success of Olde Guarde Day at the College in April was a tribute to a new committee created by senior class officers and the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni a year ago to establish closer relations between students and alumni.

While the Student Liaison Committee to the Society of the Alumni did not conceive the idea of Olde Guarde Day, it did take responsibility for organizing and administering the event, which attracted more Olde Guarde members back to the College than any previous occasion.

Jere Shawver, a senior from Covington, Va., and Maria Romeo, daughter of Carmen Romeo '53, Richmond, who will become alumni themselves in May, serve as co-chairmen of the Student Liaison Committee.

Olde Guarde Day was one of two ambitious undertakings of the Student Liaison Committee during the past year. The second is a student internship program which will place William and Mary students in summer learning situations with alumni employers each year.

Both programs are outgrowths of the desire of the Board of Directors to show that alumni want to be involved in all aspects of the College, including the support and encouragement of the students, according to Austin L. Roberts III '69, chairman of the College Relations Committee of the Board of Directors, which worked with students to establish the Student Liaison Committee last April.

"We wanted to establish a direct line of communication between the student body and the alumni," Roberts said. "I feel that over the past several years the Alumni Society has embarked on a number of programs that directly benefit the students. It became necessary to have a student group to communicate the programs to the students and to contribute to the continued development of ideas through which alumni can work with the students and put the programs into effect."

Shawver said that the Board of Directors had worked with senior class officers prior to the creation of the Student Liaison Committee, but each year, because of graduation, the Board had to begin with a new group of students. Consequently, said Shawver, there was no continuity to carry several good ideas to fruition.

As a result, Roberts' committee got together with Senior Class President Lauri Brewer and established the liaison committee consisting of four seniors, two juniors, and two sophomores. In addition to Shawver and Romeo, the members are Matt Hogendobler of Virginia Beach, Marsha Percy, Manassas, both seniors; Scott Krein, Williamsburg, and Mary Evans, Richmond, juniors, and Brad Angevine, San Francisco, and Kimberly Smith, Rockville, Md., the sophomore members.

At their first meeting, the College Relations Committee and the Student Liaison Committee defined the mission of the student group and what the two committees hoped to accomplish together.

"They explained what they expected of us," said Shawver. "It was clear that they wanted to make the college experience more meaningful for students at William and Mary, and that alumni, both as individuals and as a group, wanted to do something for the students."

"It was also obvious to us," said Shawver, "that the Society of the Alumni has become increasingly active in recent years with students, and that they wanted to continue this trend so that alumni and students could come closer together."

With that mission in mind, the Student Liaison Committee, with help and guidance from the College Relations Committee, established two projects for the year: Olde

Jere Shawver and Maria Romeo, both seniors at William and Mary, served as co-chairmen of the Student Liaison Committee to the Society of the Alumni which works to improve communication between students and alumni.

Guarde Day and the Student Internship Program.

Working with the administration and President Graves, the students began organizing Olde Guarde Day in January by sending invitations to all alumni of the College from 1931 back. When it received a record turnout and an endorsement from President Graves, who announced Olde Guarde Day would become a permanent part of the College calendar, the students felt the committee was off on a good footing.

The Student Internship Program has met with the same positive response from alumni. The students wrote to more than 200 alumni, who had expressed an interest in such a program two years ago in response to a questionnaire distributed by the Society of the Alumni.

"Almost all responded," said Shawver, "and said they thought it was a good idea and hoped to become involved in some way in the future."

Through a winnowing process, matching employers with students, the Student Liaison Committee has lined up 10 sponsors this year for the Student Internship Program. These alumni will employ students in their businesses in "a meaningful work experience" during the summer holidays, providing important practical experience to go along with the theory the students have learned in the classroom.

Roberts, who was one of the individuals who conceived of the idea of the Student Internship Program, and Shawver, an honors accounting major, both have had practical experience with an internship program and vouch for its value.

Over the past several summers, Roberts, who is president of the First Peninsula Bank and Trust Co. of

Cont. on P. 8

Jere Shawver '82, Co-Chairman of the Alumni Student Liaison Committee, welcomes Agnes Winn Paschall '31 at the Registration Desk.

J. Curtis Jenkins '27 of Hendersonville, N.C., talks with Associate Professor of History, Craig Canning.

College To Award Four Honorary Degrees

DeVita, Trudeau, Steward, Barrett To Receive Highest Honor

Two nationally distinguished scientists, including a 1957 alumnus of the College, and a leading library scholar will join cartoonist Garry Trudeau as honorary degree recipients at the 1982 commencement exercises at 2 p.m., Sunday, May 16.

Dr. Vincent T. DeVita, Jr. '57, director of the National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Md., will receive an honorary doctor of science degree along with Frederick Campion Steward, an eminent botanist and cell biologist. Waller Barrett, author, lecturer, library scholar and former member of the University of Virginia board of visitors, will receive an honorary doctor of literature degree.

As head of the NCI, Dr. DeVita, administers a staff of 1,800 and an annual budget of nearly $1 billion for the federally funded institute.

A pioneer in the development of chemotherapy as a treatment for cancer, Dr. DeVita received his bachelor's degree in chemistry at the College and studied medicine at the George Washington University School of Medicine.

After residencies and clinical studies at George Washington, the NCI, and Yale-New Haven Medical Center, Dr. DeVita joined the NCI in 1966 as senior investigator in its solid tumor service.

At that time, Dr. DeVita and several of his colleagues suggested the use of a sequence of chemicals to stop the spread of Hodgkin's disease and other systemic spreading tumors or systemic cancers such as leukemia. The four-chemical regimen is known by the acronym MOPP, and has proven itself effective in the treatment of such cancers.

The author of more than 300 articles in professional journals, Dr. DeVita is an editorial adviser to journals in cancer research and radiation oncology, biology and physics.

He is a member of the board of the American Society of Clinical Oncology and has received a number of awards for his work including the Albert and Mary Lasker Medical Research Award, and the 1980 Griffuel Prize for cancer research from the Association for the Development of Research on Cancer, a French voluntary research organization.

In 1976, the Society of the Alumni honored Dr. DeVita with its Alumni Medallion, presented for service and loyalty.

Currently a scholar-in-residence at the University of Virginia, Frederick Steward has been called one of the top botanists in the world in the last 50 years. Steward is a leading expert in the field of plant physiology, and his work on somatic embryogenesis marked a milestone in scientific research.

Steward received both his undergraduate degree with honors in chemistry and his graduate degree in botany from the University of Leeds in England, where he was an assistant lecturer from 1927-1933.

His distinguished teaching career included being a Rockefeller Fellow at Cornell University, the University of California at Berkeley and the Marine (Laboratory of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, D.C.). From 1934-1947 Steward served on the faculty of the University of London, and in 1936 received a doctor of science degree in botany.

Cont. on P. 14

That Helping Spirit Lives

Students Still Volunteer At William and Mary

Are students turning their backs on volunteerism?

Not at William and Mary, according to the statistics. Approximately 30 - 35 organizations are regularly involved with service projects, and many more take on projects on a one-time basis. To be sure, the number of volunteers has fallen over the past five years, but that seems to reflect a nationwide trend.

"It's the same reason why the VISTA and Peace Corps programs have declined in numbers," says Kenneth E. Smith, Jr. '69, associate dean for student activities and organizations at the College. Even so, Smith says that many William and Mary students work on a regular basis as volunteers.

"Some do it because it ties in with a career possibility they are exploring, or it may tie in with a project they are doing for a course," Smith comments. "Some do it because they enjoy it -- because it is a good change of pace, takes their minds off of other things or allows them to stay in touch with the outside world."

Stanley E. Brown, director of the Office of Placement, offers another reason. "We encourage students very much to participate in volunteer work, because they can build skills in addition to their academic background," he says. "Employers look at extracurricular activities like volunteerism because they build the skills in human relations, communication, management and organization that we call functional skills -- skills that function in any job a student goes into."

Whatever their motives, students continue to volunteer their time, talents and energies to a wide array of local programs and organizations which need their help. Help Unlimited, founded in 1976, is the umbrella organization with needs in the community. Ken Smith, who oversees Help Unlimited, says, "The thing for me is seeing some program which otherwise would not be able to make it stay in existence through volunteers -- students' lives have been changed, and they have found careers."

One student whose future lies in the helping professions is Stuart Pickell '82, a history major who will be spending a year as a respiratory therapist at Williamsburg Community Hospital before going on to medical school. Pickell is the immediate past president of Circle K, a student service organization affiliated with the Kiwanis Club nationwide.

Circle K's ongoing projects are numerous: two Saturday recreation programs for underprivileged children, a teacher's aide program at Norge Primary School, volunteer work at the local SPCA, individual tutoring and the Senior Opportunities Program -- an "adapt-a-grandparent program," as Pickell describes it. 20 Circle K volunteers recently painted the Bacon Street building, getting pledges for each hour they worked for Project Concern, an overseas health organization.

The most honored Circle K project at William and Mary is the Williamsburg Area Tutorial Service -- "W.A.T.S." -- which has won the club two first place awards for single service at the international Circle K convention. Through its student volunteers, a pre-school is staffed for underprivileged children, letting them start out in first grade on the same educational level as other children.

Children are also a concern of Alpha Phi Omega, another service organization on campus. Its male members are staffing a child-care center at the Williamsburg Task Force on Battered Women during weekly group sessions, giving the children of battered wives stable male role models at a time when they're badly needed.

The Greek letter fraternities on campus also play a part in philanthropy and service, with Pi Kappa Alpha's Bike Marathon for Muscular Dystrophy and Sigma Chi's Derby Day as prominent examples. Derby Day raises money each year for Wallace Village, in Broomfield, Col., a school for children with minimal brain damage. Thomas Hale Trott '83, president of the Interfraternity Council, says "I guess part of the commitment to a fraternity is not just to have a good time, but partly to promote the College and community -- to do the best you can to improve them, in the best way you can."

Jean Marie Latu '83, president of the Panhellenic Council, agrees, citing Kappa Kappa Gamma and her own sorority, Alpha Chi Omega, for recent Easter activities with children at Eastern State Hospital (in conjunction with Sigma Phi Epsilon and Theta Delta Chi, two fraternities). Alpha Chi Omega members also volunteered to work at the Pines Nursing Home each week, while Phi Mu, in conjunction with fraternity Theta Delta Chi, raised money for the Emergency Medical Service of the Williamsburg Fire Department with a Spring "Fireman's Ball" at the Pub.

Not all projects are group-oriented at the College. Mike Landen, a senior pre-med major, recently won a volunteer service award for a pet therapy project he organized at Eastern State Hospital. The project is an intergenerational group program which, among other things, brings clowns to the hospital to perform for patients of all ages. "Mike's implementation of (the) . . . program is a fine example of his initiative, innovative ideas, effective use of community resources and collaborative skills," noted the award.

Mike Landen, a senior at William and Mary, received a volunteer award for a program he began at Eastern State Hospital.

Daily Press Photo

These are only a few examples of the many volunteer activities of the Greeks on campus, and Jean Latu voices her view that such projects come naturally. "It's just a very big thing with our sorority to have some kind of project, and it's meaningful to us."

That seems to explain why so many students, Greeks and non-Greeks alike, give of themselves to do something for other people, despite grade anxieties, economic pressures and their other commitments--and it's worthwhile.

A call that Dean Ken Smith got from a group in Williamsburg after their call for help was answered by student volunteers says it best: "We couldn't have done it without those kids and their enthusiasm."

Lisa L. Heuvel '74

William and Mary's "Do-Gooders"

College Alumni Help Others In Two Williamsburg Programs

Cont. from P. 1

Force's aim to help such victims of abuse to rediscover their own power over their own lives. "Sometimes the thing for a woman to do is to leave temporarily, until her husband can get counselling," says Smith. "Sometimes they can get back together, which is the goal if they love one another." Whether a battered woman chooses to leave permanently, for just a few days or not at all, the Task Force crisis counselors and volunteers simply seek to give her all possible options -- she makes the decision.

Terry Smith also says that changes in society have helped to bring domestic violence into focus as a problem. Although the Task Force is neither a feminist organization nor a political one, Smith feels that the women's liberation movement paved the way for its existence. "The women who started the shelters for battered women were feminists, and those women who had been battered," she adds. "Now, more and more, you find mental health professionals coming into this field."

The media have also brought what was essentially a grassroots effort by volunteers to public attention, changing the national consciousness as a result. "Even on the soap operas, there has been one story on a battered woman -- on All My Children last year," Smith says. "It was oversimplified, but still it's amazing that something once kept behind closed doors is now out in the open enough to appear in a soap opera."

The Williamsburg Task Force has had more calls lately, because of increased publicity about its services. Terri Smith describes her job as a "24-hour-a-day thing" in its level of responsibility. It's also emotionally draining and frustrating at times -- but satisfying at times. "It's the kind of work that's needed," she says simply. "I believe in the necessity for a service like this."

Reese shares that belief. As co-coordinator for the Task Force with Leah Hardenbergh, Reese is also a crisis counselor. Several Marshall-Wythe law students also work with the Task Force, one as a volunteer and two as staff members.

Only a few streets away is Bacon Street, Inc., with another William and Mary alumnus at the helm. As director of this center for substance abuse prevention and treatment, -- Sandy Fagan has strayed a long way from his undergraduate intent to develop a franchise operation. Fagan, who received his B.A. in management, became a volunteer for Bacon Street when he was in graduate school.

"There was a natural bridge from my interest in management and the psychology of work to working with people's problem in the general sense, not just work situations," Fagan says. He has been involved with Bacon Street since its inception in the spring of 1971, so he knows it from the ground up -- "the very ground," he says.

Interested in the problems of drug and alcohol abuse in the community, Fagan had heard that a meeting was being held to form a new organization. "I decided to go and see what I could contribute," he recalls. As it turned out, Fagan was trained as a group leader and then as a Hotline crisis counselor, serving as a connector between telephone callers in need and the appropriate sources of help in the Williamsburg community.

After graduation, Fagan went in the Army for a short time, and then came back to Williamsburg. He worked at nearby Ft. Eustis as a human resources trainer, and was asked to join the board of directors of Bacon Street. After two years in that position, he was invited to come to work as a counselor.

"A year later, I was promoted to clinical supervisor, and in January, 1977, I became director," Fagan says. "I love it -- the job is really ideal for me, because I'm interested in problems and in administration. That's what I was trained for."

The Bacon Street Hotline received 2,000 calls last year, answered by approximately 20 volunteers who are trained for their demanding work in seven sessions given by the Bacon Street professional staff. "Our purpose is to prepare the person to deal with whatever issue that comes up, and we can categorize almost every call that comes in."

Fagan says that it is critical to develop the volunteer's perception of being a "connector" between the person in need and the appropriate source of help -- not to try to solve problems themselves. "They do a direct service just by listening, and a substantial service," says Fagan. "We've learned that many of the callers are lonely people."

The Hotline is just one dimension of the multi-faceted Bacon Street programs, which include clinical services, school-based clinical services, consultation and training. Bacon Street serves four jurisdictions: two cities, two counties, and all of the intermediate schools therein. It has been a full member of United Way since its inception ten years ago, and is affiliated with the Mental Health and Retardation Services Board.

"Nowadays, most of our case load comes from direct intervention and referrals from the rest of the mental health system, the juvenile court systems, doctors, lawyers, social services -- they're all major ones," Fagan says. "Typically, we get a referral on a kid who's in some kind of difficulty -- for example, expulsion from school for possession of drugs." From the referral, Bacon Street's clinical supervisor assigns a family therapist who ideally works with the entire family, not just the young person referred. Last year, Bacon Street provided clinical services to approximately 250 young people and their families.

In the intermediate schools, prevention and early intervention are the key. "There are certain behavioral profiles of kids that place them in high risk categories for substance abuse and delinquency," Fagan says. In 1981, Bacon Street worked with 100 school children at the intermediate school level, in the school-based clinics.

Although drugs like marijuana, cocaine and heroin are entrenched in American culture today, the fact is that alcohol tops the list in substance abuse with both young people and adults. Of 110 clients in treatment for substance abuse last year at Bacon Street, 85 per cent of the cases primarily involved alcohol.

"Nothing can touch alcohol," Sandy Fagan comments. "It's the most accepted drug in our culture, and it's the one people have the easiest access to." He adds, "Alcohol's use as a drug in our culture goes back to the founding of this country, whereas drug abuse is relatively new."

Given the logistics and emotional demands of Bacon Street's diverse services, one wonders how its staff and volunteers keep going continuously and well. But they do, and William and Mary is well represented: Laura L. Townsend is a family counselor and Hotline supervisor at Bacon Street; Robert E. Coleman is also a family counselor and clinical supervisor of Bacon Street, and Lynn C. Flood is also a family counselor. Her husband, Richard G. Flood, is an associate professor of business administration at the College.

The majority of volunteers, including the 25 per cent from William and Mary comes from the community, providing a steady source of help year-around. "I think all of us who work here have internal mechanisms to cope," says Sandy Fagan. "It's a frustrating kind of work."

Despite the frustrations, one gets the feeling that Sandy Fagan truly likes his work. "You do have a tremendous amount of success when you accomplish something here, a genuine feeling of helping someone," he says.

For people like Terri Smith and Sandy Fagan, that's what it's all about.

Lisa L. Heuvel '74

Terri Smith '78 (right) is director of the Williamsburg Task Force on Battered Women while Cathy Reese '78 J.D. is a co-coordinator of the program.

Learning About Life After College

Alumni Share Ideas With Students In DOG Street Program

Some 20 per cent of the Senior Class participated in the Second Annual Life After Duke of Gloucester Street Program at the Alumni House in March to familiarize themselves with the practical problems of life they will face after graduation.

The program, which was organized and staffed by Diane Hagemann '75 and John Phillips '78 of the Society of the Alumni, brought alumni and seniors together in informal sessions to discuss matters such as financial planning, establishing credit, buying a car, purchasing insurance, leasing an apartment, choosing a lawyer or doctor, and achieving social adjustment in a new environment.

"These are matters not taught in the classroom," noted Gordon Vliet

'54, executive vice president of the Society of the Alumni, "and by bringing alumni who have experience in these areas together with the students we feel we have found a way of sharing ideas that will be valuable to the students."

Alumni chapters represented in the program were Richmond, Northern Neck, Norfolk, Lower Peninsula, and Williamsburg.

Senior and junior class representatives hosted each session of the program. Representatives from the Senior Class were Sharon Stryker '82, Belle Meade, N.J., chairman of the Life After DOG Street Committee; Ethel Wragg '82, New York City, vice chairman; and Lauri Brewer '82, president of the Senior Class. From the Junior Class were Caroline Fino-chio, Wyomissing, Pa., president of the Class of '83, and Sue Newman, Alexandria, vice president.

Two panels of five to seven alumni in various job fields participated in two sessions on each evening of the program. After the panel presentations, the students and alumni traded questions and answers dealing with student concerns.

Phillips and Hagemann said that student evaluations of the program "reflected a very positive and enthusiastic attitude" toward Life After DOG Street.

"The alumni who participated enjoyed coming back to William and Mary and sincerely enjoyed their discussions with the seniors," Hagemann said. "Many of the alumni could identify with the students concerns, as they had some of the same questions when they graduated."

In addition, Vliet noted, through the program "seniors had the opportunity to observe how alumni continue to serve the College and its students."

One response illustrated the feeling of the students about the program.

"Thanks for your concern," it read. "This is a very valuable program. It is reassuring to know that other William and Mary alumni have left college life, made mistakes, learned from them, flourished and survived, and stuck together. Now the world won't seem quite so intimidating!"

Olde Guard Day, Internship Flow From Committee

Cont. from P. 5

Newport News, has hired students from Mary Baldwin College and Hampton Institute.

"They have done a variety of things in the bank for us," says Roberts. "For instance, last summer a Mary Baldwin student updated all of the job descriptions in the bank, a job that was of great value to us, but to which we might not have dedicated the time or staff. The student learned all about banking and we received some very productive work from the relationship."

In addition, says Roberts, the Student Internship Program will have a positive value in the relationship between the College and the business sector.

"I have thought for some time that one of the things William and Mary needs is to gain a better relationship with business," says Roberts.

Shawver worked for four weeks over the Christmas holidays for Arthur Anderson, an accounting firm with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

"The experience exposed me to what I will be doing when I graduate," says Shawver, a 3.5 grade point average student who will go to work full-time for the firm when he graduates.

The Student Internship Program has not been without its problems to organize, says Shawver. One obstacle is the fact that William and Mary's student body is divided between 70 per cent state students and 30 percent out of state, and finding employers to match that ratio is difficult, since students want to work near their homes.

The contact at the College for participation in the Student Internship Program is Carolyn Blackwell in the Office of Extramural Programs. If any alumni want to get involved, they should write to Miss Blackwell at the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. 23185.

Lauri Brewer, '82, President of the Class of '82, introduces an alumni panel consisting of (from left to right): Doug Myers, '78, David Sisk, '74, Dr. Tom Powers, '68, and Austin Roberts III, '69.

Julie Brink, '82, seated left, and Ethel Wragg, '82 seated behind desk, Vice Chairman of the Life After Dog Street Committee, welcome seniors and alumni to one of the 8 sessions held at the Alumni House. Alumni standing behind desk from left to right are: Ms. Marged Harris, '76, Randy Crowther, '72, Dr. June Henderson, '68, Alvin Anderson, '70, Mark Riley, '76, and Fred Huestis.

Law Alumni Return For First Spring Reunion

Past Presidents Reminisce on Development of Marshall-Wythe School of Law

Alumni of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law held their first annual Spring Reunion on April 16-17. Organized by the Marshall-Wythe Alumni Association, the Reunion featured a program of legal education designed to update the law alumni on recent changes in the law.

In five seminars conducted by the law faculty during the weekend event, the alumni received an update on recent changes in constitutional law, criminal law, bankruptcy and tax law.

Following the seminars, more than 100 alumni and their spouses attended a luncheon in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, at which past presidents of the Alumni Association were invited to comment on the history of the law school.

Arthur B. Hanson, '39, '40 B.C.L., who served as alumni association president from 1961-62, told how intense political lobbying among influential judges and state political figures by Marshall-Wythe law students reversed a vote by the Board of Visitors in 1939 to abolish the law school. Hanson, a second-year law student in 1939, spearheaded a drive to sway public opinion through newspaper articles and personal appeals to members of the Board, including a visit to the deathbed of one of the rectors. Fair means and foul were employed, he said, noting "this was a fight for our lives!" A second Board vote not only reversed the earlier position, but went on to vote more money for the law library.

Part of the reason Marshall-Wythe was nearly abolished was the small size of its student body.

"We could hold whole class meetings in a rowboat on Lake Matoaka," quipped Ned Ferguson '39, '41 B.C.L., president from 1976-77. He added that the growth of the law school in size and reputation has been due in large part to the work of the association, which was an important factor in the construction of the new law school building. It also raised over $74,000 last year through its fund-raising campaign.

Past presidents of the Law School Alumni Association attending the Spring Reunion were (left to right) Mark Dray '68 J.D., Frank Morton '68 J.D., Jim Murray '74 J.D., Ned Ferguson '39, '41 B.C.L., Arthur B. Hanson '39, '41 B.C.L., Bill Hornsby '50, '52 B.C.L., and Robert Stackhouse '49, '51 J.D. In other photo, Professor John Donaldson '63 J.D. an expert on tax law, addressed the alumni in one of the several seminars held during the weekend.

George W. Campbell Jr., '69, '74 J.D., current president of the association, announced plans to make the Reunion an annual event. Campbell said he hope "that this gathering will become an annual event giving us the opportunity to enjoy Williamsburg's beauty in the Spring while benefiting from the legal education program presented by the law school faculty."

Currently serving with Campbell as officers of the Law Alumni Association are K. Maxwell Dale '70, '75 J.D., president elect; Robert C. Stackhouse '49, '51 B.C.L., past president; and William L. Lewis '76 J.D., treasurer.

ACT NOW! Limited space is still available on two 1982 Tour Programs

Enjoy a voyage to historic cities and art centers along Europe's Atlantic Coast and waterways or an unforgettable journey through the People's Republic of China.

Western European Passage (Lisbon & Brussels)
September 4-19
 $2,995.00 - 4,695.00 per person depending on cabin selection.

People's Republic of China
 (Tokyo & Hong Kong)
November 11-29
 $3,975.00 per person

For further information write to Alumni Educational Travel Club, c/o Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box 60, Williamsburg, VA 23187 or call John Phillips at 804-229-1693.

Tribe Coed Leaves Mark On Virginia Track

Jeri Daniels Dominates Shot Put, Discus Competition In State Championship

Before the recently held VAAW State Track and Field Championships, Jeri Daniels '82 had been training extra hard. "This will be my last chance to leave a mark in Virginia track and field," the Fairfax, Va. native had noted. Despite the heat and wind at the George Mason University meet site, Daniels left her mark, capturing her fourth consecutive state shot put crown and her third state discus crown.

For four years Daniels has outdistanced her opponents with her strength and technique. Since her arrival at William and Mary, she has held both the state and school records in both events, as well as the indoor shot put records. In addition to the state titles, Daniels has compiled 25 first place victories in both Division I and II competition.

Daniels would laugh to hear herself compared to a space shuttle, but the moment she steps into the circle to throw the shot or discus, her mind takes on the computer machinations required to monitor every muscle and nerve in order to guarantee that the launch will be perfect.

According to the men's assistant track coach Dave Derrick, who serves as the women's field coach, the shot and discus events are all mental, from the training to the release. "You are given an implement to throw for distance, and to do it, your mind has to know exactly where your body is and what it is doing," he explains. "The stronger you are, the farther you can throw, but you have got to have the right technique to match your strength."

While her strength and technique have dominated state competition rather easily, Daniels has pushed herself to enter the national level. Although she did not place at nationals as a sophomore, last year she came back from the AIAW Division II Nationals with two All-American titles for her fourth place efforts in both the discus and the shot put. With her 45'11½" school record in the shot put set at this year's Colonial Relays and her 147'6¼" school record in discus at the Carolina Relays, Daniels has qualified for this year's AIAW Division II Track and Field Championships to be held at Austin Peay University May 20-23.

Between now and the national championship, Daniels will be working extensively to be at her peak performance level, in addition to preparing for graduation. "Training is harder now, with finishing up college, but after graduation I'll have some time to rest up and get ready." Coach Derrick is particularly confident about her potential. "Right now, she is on the edge of breaking through her present level to the top of the class."

Daniels recognizes her potential and, after so much practice, she knows exactly what she wants to do. "I would really like to win nationals, especially in the discus," she says. Preferring the grace and fluidity of throwing the discus, Daniels believes she can make greater gains in that event, although most of her victories have been in the shot put. She points out, "With Coach Derrick's help, I have gone from 126' (in discus) my freshman year to my present level."

Although always a competitor, Daniel's bubbly, almost flippant outlook has helped her deal with the pressures of college and competition. With graduation looming, she is getting ready for life after college. A business administration major, Daniels would prefer to work her way into budget analysis and decision making, but for the moment she has been offered a graduate assistantship to coach track and field at James Madison University.

"That is something I hadn't ever dreamed of, but it's a challenge I

Jeri Daniels
Shotput and Discus Champion would like," says Daniels. "Coaching would give me a chance to try to give back to track what it has given to me--and that's a lot!"

by Skip Rowland '83

Miss Applebee Remembered

Portrait Hung In Adair At Special Ceremony

A special ceremony was held April 10 in Adair Gymnasium which recalled the warm affection that the First Lady of American Field Hockey felt for the College. A portrait of the late Constance M. K. Applebee, which she bequeathed to the College, was formally hung in Adair gymnasium. The portrait, by Bern Schwarz, pictures Miss Applebee holding a silver cup presented to her by a group of American woman's colleges commemorating the 50th anniversary of her introduction of field hockey to the United States.

Dr. Elizabeth Burger Jackson '34, a member of the W&M Athletic Hall of Fame; Nancy Porter-Engman, field hockey coach 1974-80, and James S. Kelly '51, assistant to the president, gave remarks at the ceremony, tracing Miss Applebee's association with the College.

The address of welcome was made by Mildred B. West, director of women's athletics, and the invocation and benediction were offered by the Rev. Thom Blair of Bruton Parish Church.

According to Jackson, who was coached by Miss Applebee as a member of the United States Field Hockey Squad for eight years, Miss Applebee never claimed that she started field hockey in the United States. But she did first demonstrate the game at Harvard in 1901, when hockey was considered by many to be too violent an exercise for young ladies. A native of England, she stayed on in the United States serving as Director of Outdoor Sports at Bryn Mawr from 1904-1929, helping found the United States Field Hockey Association, and starting a hockey camp at Mt. Pocono, Pennsylvania in 1923.

Miss Applebee first became acquainted with William and Mary when Martha Barksdale '23, Marguerite Wynne-Roberts '31, and her sister, Edna Clements, attended her Mt. Pocono camp in 1925. Afterwards, Miss Applebee spent considerable time in Williamsburg helping Miss Barksdale develop the hockey program at the College, and following her retirement from Bryn Mawr spent many winters in Williamsburg where the College's origins and British associations appealed to her.

After her retirement at age 90 to her home in Burley, near Richmond, England, she stayed in touch with friends in America. The William and Mary women's field hockey team visited her at her home during a tour of England in the spring of 1978, and among Miss Applebee's most prized possessions was a set of Jefferson cups, each decorated with the William and Mary coat of arms, which were a gift from the William and Mary Women's Athletic Association.

When the College established the Martha Barksdale Scholarship, Miss Applebee was a major contributor to the fund, and in the fall of 1980 she was inducted into the W&M Athletic Hall of Fame. Upon her death at age 107 in January, 1981, Miss Applebee designated part of her estate towards establishing a scholarship fund at William and Mary with scholarships "on a first priority for deserving students enrolled in physical education courses for women." This scholarship will ensure that her influence will continue at William and Mary for many years to come.

Present at the ceremony to hang Miss Applebee's portrait in Adair Hall were (left to right) Laurie McAvoy '82, field hockey captain; Millie West, women's athletic director; Jim Kelly '51, assistant to the president; Nancy Porter-Engman, former field hockey coach; Dr. Elizabeth Burger Jackson '34, and the Rev. Thom Blair of Bruton Parish Church.

Tribe Golfers Finally Win State Title

McCormack Gift, Agee's Perseverance Resurrect Links Program

Joe Agee '52 is a testament to patience. Before this season began, Agee had coached golf at William and Mary for 17 years without winning a major title. But that all changed this spring when Agee's golfers won the Virginia Intercollegiate Golf Championship, placed second in the Seascape-Old Dominion Golf Tournament at Nag's Head, N.C., and took first and third places in the William and Mary-Kingsmill Golf Tournament in Williamsburg.

Agee's success this year is a testament not only to his own patience and endurance, but to the faith of a famous William and Mary alumnus and former collegiate golfer, Mark H. McCormack '51, president of International Management Group, the Cleveland-based firm that handles promotions for famous people, including many sports figures around the world. (McCormack is currently in charge of promoting the trip to England by Pope John Paul II). Six years ago, McCormack committed $100,000 to women's tennis and men's golf at William and Mary for scholarships and operating expenditures.

In the past three years, the women's tennis team has finished sixth, third and fourth nationally in the ALAW tournament. Says tennis coach Candi Cowden: "We never could have done it with the support from Mr. McCormack." And this year, it was the golf team's turn to show the benefits of the McCormack gift.

Eight of Agee's top golfers are on partial scholarships funded by McCormack's grant. They include his best golfer, Billy Musto, a junior from Pittston, Pa., who shot a six under par 65 in the Seascape tournament, the best score by a William and Mary golfer in Agee's 17-year reign, and probably the best in Tribe history.

Agee has two players on his team from Scotland, one of whom McCormack helped Agee recruit. He is Gordon Dalgleish, a sophomore who is now playing fourth on the team. The other Scottish golfer is Gordon Weir who is also on a partial grant funded by the McCormack gift.

Agee says the McCormack grant turned his program around, although it has taken four years to see the results, as the golfers attracted to William and Mary through the scholarships matured as players.

"It enabled us to attract some first-rate golfers who were good enough academically to get into William and Mary," says Agee.

Because of its academic standards, Agee said it is particularly difficult to attract good golfers to William and Mary.

"Your best amateur juniors are not your best students," says Agee.

"They want to become professional golfers and consequently they would rather spend their time on the golf course than in the classroom. They are seeking schools where the academics are minimal so that they can devote more time to improving their golf game."

Despite that handicap, Agee, who never played golf in college, was confident he could turn the William and Mary program around with the proper financial support. So when an angel, in the form of McCormack, descended on the program with a major financial gift six years ago, Agee established some goals for the team. The first was to accomplish something the William and Mary team had never done before: win the State championship.

Before this year, no school other than the University of Virginia or Virginia Tech had won the state title in the past 28 years. And, in fact, Agee was not confident William and Mary could win the title so soon. "I think we are about a year ahead of schedule," says Agee, who adds that he believes his benefactor, Mark McCormack, would agree.

But something nice began to happen to the team over the Spring break. Competing in the Duke University golf tournament, Agee's golfers tied for ninth among 24 teams. That may not seem like much, but the way Agee explains it, the finish was a major accomplishment for the Tribe golfers.

"When you go South and butt heads with the Southern boys, you are in golf country," says Agee. "The competition is much keener, and to tie for ninth among 24 teams means you are doing well."

In their next tournament at Camp LeJeune, N.C., again playing against some major Southern powers, the Indians competed well again. While they did not win the tournament, they did tie for fourth with Temple University. And although Agee had expected to finish as high as third, he was still encouraged that his program was on track.

The big surprise came in Agee's own tournament, the William and Mary-Kingsmill golf tournament on the Kingsmill course in Williamsburg. As the host team, the Tribe could enter two teams, and what happened in that tournament, with 16 teams from 15 schools, was almost unique in collegiate golf. Agee's linksters won the tournament -- but the second team, rather than the first team, captured the championship. Agee's first team finished third. A member of the second team, Mike Gregor, shot a two-day total of 149 (74-75) to become the medalist for the tournament.

"We were completely elated to learn we had that much depth," says Agee.

"I expected to win the tournament, but not with my B team."

Winning with the B team was nice, but it also caused some problems for the coach, albeit pleasant problems. With the state tournament coming up at Hot Springs, Va., the following week and with his initial goal of winning that title in sight, who would Agee, who could take only one team, enter?

Based on their Kingsmill performance, Agee promoted Gregor and one other member of the B team, Kevin Sullivan, to the first team and headed for Hot Springs. William and Mary won the title by three strokes over second place Virginia and Old Dominion, shooting a two-day total of 600 for an average of 75 for eight rounds of golf. While Gregor shot the high score for the team, Sullivan teamed with Glenn Lapkin, a senior from New Jersey, to spearhead the winning charge on the final day of the tournament with scores of 73 and 74 respectively. Musto carded a 76 and freshman Larry Larsen posted a 78.

The following weekend, Agee's team completed its season with an even stronger performance at Nag's Head, N.C. Although the Tribe finished second behind Temple in the Seascape tournament, Musto shot his record-breaking 65 and the team as a whole shot a second round six-under-par. Musto's performance convinced Agee that he may have another first on his hands as a William and Mary coach. "He is the first player," says Agee, "who has a chance to make it on the pro tour."

Now that he has accomplished his initial goal of winning the state title, Agee says he now wants to "maintain his stronghold" in the state before moving onto higher goals.

"We are champions for only 1982," says Agee, "but in order to prove we are the best in the state we have to maintain our supremacy for more than one year."

Agee also has a goal that goes beyond winning championships -- the development of his players as individuals.

"Golf is a great teacher," he says, "because it requires so much self-control. If you can control your emotions in golf you can control them anywhere."

Mark McCormack '51

After 17 years, these young golfers have made Joe Agee '52 a winner. Front row, left to right, are Agee, Larry Larsen, Mike Gregor, Duncan Weir, Gordon Dalgleish, and Kevin Sullivan. Back row, Glenn Lapkin, Brad Love, Kent Erdahl, Jim Connor, Bill Musto, Mark Tomlinson, and Jim McKeon. (Photo by Stuart Wagner '82)

WANTED: A New Career

Alumnus Finds Changing Careers Requires Courage, Stamina

If Babe Ruth had remained a bartender, or Albert Einstein a patent office clerk, the world would never have known of their superlative talents. Yet not everyone has the stamina to pursue an inner longing for change, nor the courage to trade job security for the uncertainty of a new profession.

Labor statistics indicate that today at least 50 percent of working Americans are unhappy with their jobs, and in the next four years, one out of four college graduates will not be able to find a job that fits his abilities or expectations.

Such statistics don't surprise Dr. Fred L. Adair, professor of education, and his associate Dr. Kevin E. Geoffroy, who together created a career development program eight years ago at William and Mary to help Tidewater Virginians take a more rational approach to career evaluation and change.

"Work is probably the single most important thing that people do," says Adair, "but they are frequently terribly unhappy in their jobs and begin to look upon work as an enemy. A lot of people work to make a living and put bread on the table, and they look to other things to provide them with interesting things to do. They use their work for money and their avocations for fun."

Among those people willing and able to make a career change, there are a hardy few with the determination to go one step further: back to school for years of study and preparation. William and Mary alumnus John L. Tarver, Jr. '59 made that choice when, at 27, he exchanged a successful career with IBM for the prospect of four years of hard study in dental school.

After majoring in economics at the College, Tarver graduated to learn about computers and sell them for IBM. With the fulfillment of his dream to become a dentist, Tarver went into politics. Still a practicing dentist, Tarver is now happily involved in what he calls his "next career" -- hybridizing and exhibiting new varieties of roses and daffodils that have already won him local, state and national awards.

"Dentistry was always in the back of my mind," says Johnny Tarver, who loves working with his hands and cites that as a factor, along with the respect he felt for his own dentist. Dentistry offered two more incentives: the opportunity to stay in Hampton, Virginia, and the flexibility to pursue other interests, like politics.

As an analytical computer programming expert, Tarver's natural reaction to the idea of changing careers was "to sit down with a pencil and paper." Applying to dental school meant selling his house, his Thunderbird, and returning to William and Mary to take courses in biology, chemistry and physics.

Despite the sacrifices it would mean, Tarver opted for dentistry. He says that he was greatly influenced by older people he'd known who were sorry that they didn't follow their hearts.

"If you try to do something, and you fail, you can't have regrets," Tarver comments. "But if you want to do something and you don't try, you will have regrets, and that's very sad."

Even facing stiff pre-dental courses at the College, Tarver says that he was lucky. "I had a good solid background from an excellent institution -- William and Mary." He adds, "The broadness of an education from William and Mary gives you the ability to appreciate many different things -- even if you don't know or understand different fields, it gives you the self-confidence to believe you can learn."

At the same time, his employers at IBM not only wrote letters of recommendation to the Medical College of Virginia, they also recommended him to the College to teach computer programming. He taught at William and Mary, VCU and several other colleges from 1964 to 1969, and did a statewide educational television series for high school business teachers concerning computer programming.

Tarver continued to teach while he was a student at the Medical College of Virginia in Richmond, and kept a part time job as well. Somehow he also found time for politics, going to the Democratic State Convention as a delegate in 1968.

"It was fun, and exciting," Tarver recalls, adding that he worked on the campaign of Senator William B. Spong, Jr., now dean of the Law School at William and Mary.

As a practicing dentist in Hampton, Tarver became president of the Young Democrats and in 1974, won election to the Hampton City Council, where he was elected vice-mayor.

Already, however, new plans were literally blossoming in Tarver's mind. "I remember, when I was about seven years old, the man next door asked me if I would weed his flower bed for a dime," says Tarver. As he recalls, his first reaction was to go home and ask his mother if she thought the man would let him have some flowers instead of the money.

John L. Tarver, Jr., '59

In recent years, Tarver has returned to his boyhood love of flowers, and has been seriously growing and exhibiting roses and daffodils for eight years as a hobby. Like most hybridizers who grow their own varieties, he dreams of creating the perfect red rose or the perfect daffodil.

"You know you'll never achieve it," Tarver says, "but you have fun trying." In October, he won four trophies in national competition in Washington, D.C., for the miniature roses he exhibited.

A loyal alumnus, Tarver has found a way to combine his interest in the College and his avocation. He has been busy this winter rooting miniature roses in his greenhouse for William and Mary's biology department.

--Lisa L. Heuvel

SCOREBOARD

MEN'S SPORTS

LACROSSE 2-11

F&M 10	W&M 8
W&M 11	St. Mary's 6
Denison 14	W&M 8
W&M 13	Union 7
Maryland 26	W&M 3
Salisbury 23	W&M 16
C.W. Post 13	W&M 10
Delaware 22	W&M 12
Baltimore 21	W&M 6
W & L 15	W&M 10
Guilford 21	W&M 12
Loyola 30	W&M 11

TENNIS 13-9

Charleston 6	W&M 3
W&M 9	UNC-Wilmington 0
S. Carolina 8	W&M 1
W&M 8	Francis Marion 1
W&M 6	Atlantic Christ. 2
W&M 9	VCU 0
W&M 7	Geo. Washington 2
Penn State 5	W&M 4
W&M 6	Harvard 3
ODU 6	W&M 3
Cornell	W&M 4
N. Carolina 9	W&M 0
Navy 5	W&M 3
W&M 9	Lynchburg 0
W&M 6	JMU 3
W&M 8	Towson State 1

W&M 9	GMU 0
VPI 6	W&M 3
W&M 9	Hampden-Sydney 0
W&M 7	U. of Richmond 2
Virginia 6	W&M 3
W&M 9	W & L 0

BASEBALL 12-24

W&M 5	American 15
Georgia Southern 9	W&M 3
American 7	W&M 4
W&M 12	American 10
James Madison 16	W&M 5
James Madison 12	W&M 9
Georgia Southern 7	W&M 0
W&M 5	Eastern Tenn. 9
UNC-Wilmington 5	W&M 2
W&M 13	West Liberty St. 2
W&M 5	Christopher-Newport 2
Richmond 11	W&M 2
W&M 4	Lock Haven 3
George Mason 4	W&M 2
James Madison 2	W&M 1
James Madison 2	W&M 1
Virginia 12	W&M 4
East Carolina 8	W&M 2
W&M 6	East Carolina 4
Virginia Wesleyan 10	W&M 4
Niagara 8	W&M 7
W&M 6	Fredonia State 5
W&M 4	Liberty Baptist 2
UNC-Wilmington 17	W&M 3
W&M 14	Va. Commonwealth 11
Richmond 8	W&M 6

Longwood 17	W&M 4
ODU 13	W&M 4
ODU 14	W&M 3
Va.-Wesleyan 6	W&M 2
W&M 8	Apprentice 7
VPI 8	W&M 7
VPI 15	W&M 5
W&M 6	W & L 3
W&M 15	W & L 0

GOLF RESULTS

Fripp Island Intercollegiate	12/20
ECU Spring Tournament	9/12
Duke Spring Tourney	9/24 (Tied)
Camp Lejeune Intercollegiate	4/16
Kingsmill/W&M Spring Tournament	1/16
State Intercollegiate	1/19
ODU Spring Tournament	2/12

WOMEN'S SPORTS

TENNIS (8-1)

Princeton 6	W&M 3
W&M 8	Rutgers 1
W&M 5	Richmond 4
W&M 8	Penn State 1
W&M 8	James Madison 1
W&M 7	Virginia 2
2nd State Tournament
W&M 9	Old Dominion 0

GOLF

- 1st Kingsmill Invitational
- 1st Sweet Briar Invitational
- 5th UNC-Wilmington Invitational
- 7th Duke Invitational

LACROSSE (9-1)

W&M 11	Old Dominion 4 1/2
W&M 19	Richmond 6
W&M 11	James Madison 8
W&M 8	Old Dominion 3
Penn State 11	W&M 9
W&M 13	Virginia 8
W&M 8	Maryland 4
1st, State Championship
W&M 11	James Madison 6
W&M 14	Virginia 6

FENCING

17th AIAW National Championship

TRACK

4th State Championship

WOMEN ANNOUNCE NEW COACHES

Ethel Barnhill and Jean Stettler have been appointed as the new women's varsity lacrosse coach and field hockey coach at William and Mary.

The Botetourt Boutique

Chairs

- Boston Rocker (Medallion/ebony) ..... $150.00
- Boston Rocker (Coat of Arms/all ebony) ..... 120.00
- Captain's Chair (Medallion/cherry arms) ..... 160.00
- Captain's Chair (Coat of Arms/cherry arms) ..... 130.00
- Chair Cushions (Green) ..... 14.85

Coat-of-Arms Rocker

NEW ITEM! The Society is now offering Keytags displaying a big bold "W&M" in gold on a dark green background. These Keytags offer an exclusive 24-hour worldwide locator service to help recover your keys if they are misplaced or lost. They are also excellent for identifying and protecting all types of property: luggage, attache cases, sports equipment, and anything else you carry with you. Each tag comes with a ball chain for keys and a permanent nylon fastener for luggage. PRICE: $3.00/each.

Brass Medallion

Neckties

- W&M Coat of Arms (Navy/Green&Gold Stripes) .... 15.00
- W&M Coat of Arms (Navy/Silver & Gold Stripes) ... 15.00
- W&M Coat of Arms (Green/Silver&Gold Stripes) .... 15.00
- W&M Coat of Arms (Wine/Green&Gold Stripes) ..... 15.00
- W&M Feather Logo (Navy, Drk. Green, or Silver) ..... 15.00
- W&M Cipher (Drk. Green or Navy) ..... 15.00

Jewelry

- Belt Buckles
  - "Fighting Virginians" ..... 14.50
  - William and Mary Monogram ..... 14.50
- Blazer Buttons, gold filled ..... 25.00
- Cipher Charms, silver ..... 14.00
- Cipher Necklace, silver ..... 26.00
- Cipher Pin, silver ..... 20.00
- Cipher Tie Tac, silver ..... 14.00
- Cufflinks, gold-filled/enamel coat of arms ..... 13.50
- Stick pin, gold-filled/enamel coat of arms ..... 10.00
- Blazer Badge (Drk. Green or Navy Background) ... 16.00
- Coat of Arms Tie Tac, pewter ..... 4.00
- Coat of Arms Necklace, pewter ..... 5.50
- Indian Logo Tie Tac, pewter ..... 4.00
- Indian Logo Necklace, pewter ..... 5.50
- Indian Logo Earrings, pewter ..... 5.00
- OWJ Logo Tie Tac, pewter ..... 6.00

Stained Glass

Decorative Items for the Home

- Crewel Kit (Coat of Arms) ..... $21.50
- Cross Stitch Kit (Wren Building design) ..... 5.00
- Cross Stitch Kit (OWJ Logo) ..... 5.00
- Cross Stitch Kit (Indian Logo Design) ..... 5.00
- Needlepoint Kit (Coat of Arms) ..... 28.95
- Trivet, brass King William and Queen Mary cipher ..... 24.00
- Harris Print (Wren Building) ..... 8.00
- Millington Print (Old Campus) ..... 4.00
- Stained Glass Coat of Arms ..... 18.50
- Cold Drink Foam Insulators ..... 1.25/ea. or 6/6.95
- * Brass Tulip Candlestick, 11" high ..... 35.00
- * Brass Easton candlestick, 7 1/2" high ..... 35.00

Needlepoint & Crewel

Coat-of-Arms Chair

Brass Trivet

Foam Insulators

JAMES G. DRIVER FOODS

ROCKINGHAM SMOKED TURKEYS*

Weights range from 8-12 lbs.; PRICE: $2.85 lb.; Add $4.50 postage and handling per turkey.

GENUINE SMITHFIELD HAMS*

Cooked hams range from 9 to 12 lbs; raw from 12 to 16 lbs.

BAKED HAMS: $4.75 lb.; RAW HAMS: $3.50 lb.; Add $4.50 postage and handling per ham.

SMITHFIELD HOSTESS BOX

Contains 2 jars of sliced, baked ham and 3 jars of deviled ham. PRICE: $14.50; Add $2.50 postage and handling per box.

SMITHFIELD BACON*

PRICE: $3.00 lb.; Add $4.50 postage and handling per slab. Weights available from 7-9 lbs.

HUB'S HOMECOOKED PEANUTS

PRICE: $7.50 per can; Add $2.25 postage and handling per can.

VA. SHELLED PEANUTS

3 lb. bag: $3.90; 5 lb. bag: $6.50; Add $2.25 postage and handling per bag.

USINGER SAUSAGE PRODUCTS

ASSORTMENT #1: Contains 7 assorted sausages, cheese, and rye bread. PRICE: $25.00; Add $5.00 postage and handling. ASSORTMENT #2: Contains 3 assorted sausages, cheese, and rye bread. PRICE: $15.00; Add $3.00 postage and handling.

Please allow 3 weeks for delivery.

*Specified weights of Rockingham Smoked Turkeys and Smithfield Hams and Bacon may vary. If variance exceeds one pound above or below the requested weight, purchaser will be billed or reimbursed for the cost difference.

Mail to: The Botetourt Boutique
James G. Driver Foods
P.O. Box 60
Williamsburg, VA 23187

Item Description	Quantity	Size	Price	Total

Sales tax if applicable _____
Service charge _____

Total enclosed _____
MAKE CHECKS PAYABLE TO "SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI."

Name _____ Class _____

Street Address _____

Service charge is $1.50 for each item ordered except chair, unless otherwise indicated. Chairs will be shipped freight collect, or if picked up at the Alumni House, will be charged $10.00. For all items delivered in Virginia, please add 4% sales tax. Please allow 2 to 4 weeks for delivery on all items except chairs, which require 8 to 10 weeks for delivery.

Please use for food or gift orders.

Please charge to my Master Charge [ ] VISA [ ]

Card no. _____

Interbank no. _____ Exp. date _____
(MC only)

Signature _____

[ ] These items are gifts and should have gift card enclosed and shipped to persons indicated in order blank.

[ ] Ship immediately.

[ ] Ship in order to arrive on or about _____ (Date)

Ship To _____ Address _____

Every product is guaranteed as represented, and a full refund will be made on any unsatisfactory item if promptly returned.

From Coaching To Lobsters

Former Tribe Track Coach Dave Watson '70 Supplies Delicacy To Tidewater

Ask the typical American gourmand to name his all-time favorite food, and he'll likely point his fork at a cannibal. All seafood lovers put lobster high on their list of priorities, but no one loves to nibble on lobster more than another lobster. For every good reason the crustacean has long been known to lobstermen and gourmets alike as the Delectable Cannibal.

Anyone who sits down to a plate of lobster in Williamsburg can credit David Watson '70 for supplying the delicacy. In June 1980, Watson opened Passa Inc. at 607 Industrial Park Dr., 10 miles from Williamsburg in the northwestern tip of Newport News. The business is 99 percent wholesale, has 50-70 customers, and is the sole supplier of all restaurants in the colonial capital that serve lobster.

There are no more than a half dozen here, Watson said, because lobster is an increasingly more difficult commodity to come by due to a number of factors. He is the exclusive supplier of Lafayette Restaurant, The Whaling Company, Lobster House, The Canterbury and the overall Colonial Williamsburg food service, plus Kingsmill Restaurant during golf tournaments.

The reason for Watson's virtual monopoly in this area can be attributed to his ownership of the only lobster holding system on the Peninsula between Norfolk and Washington, D.C. Considering that his initial investment was enormous and geared only toward keeping his specialty product alive, he decided not to bother with other goodies from the sea such as oysters, crabs or shrimp.

Unlike some other seafoods, oysters in particular, lobster is available 12 months a year. But the supply is obtained far from Virginia, in the far colder waters off the coast of New England and specifically in the bone-numbing ocean washing the shores of Maine, easily the world's lobster capital.

This means, of course, that Watson does not catch his own. He buys them from a supplier in Stonington, Conn., near the quaint village of Mystic, trucks them here and distributes them for the delight of tourists and locals alike who fancy nothing more than a hideous-gorgeous Homarus americanus. That's the big-clawed, frigid water North American creature of the northeast, not to be confused with its smaller European cousin, Homarus gammarus.

Non-lobster lovers can make an equally strong case for the ocean denizen as the ugliest monster since the brontosaurus. Jonathan Swift is alleged to have said, "He was a bold man that first eat an oyster," later amending that judgment to include the lobster as so horrifyingly eye-shattering that "none but the brave first dared taste him."

Not only eye-shattering to the uninitiated, this aggressive crustacean possesses the personality and temperament of a wounded cougar. Cannibals from the moment they're hatched, lobsters' ferocity and insatiable appetites tend to discourage any attempts to raise them in captivity. Some hardy souls, however, persist in trying. Success could lower the prices, now gastronomical and unlikely to get lower in the foreseeable future.

As recently as 1945 lobstermen sold their catch for as little as 45 cents a pound. Those days are gone, Watson said. Current retail prices are $4.50 a pound for small ones, called chicks, about 25 cents higher than last year. Selects (1½ to 3 pounds) presently go for $5.50 a pound, and for the big spender it's $11.25 for cooked, picked lobster meat. The latter, according to Watson, is the biggest bargain of all, even though bargains seems an inappropriate word in the world of lobsters.

Watson said that he is now selling 8,000-10,000 pounds a month, "which is roughly 6,000 lobsters." His average specimen rarely runs more than five pounds, though he once weighed in one jumbo at 13 pounds. He pooh-poohed the suggestion that the latter could be called a giant and noted that the world record behemoth tipped the scales at slightly more than 42 pounds.

Peering into his chilly holding tank, I asked him if the lobsters he had were big enough to be dangerous. He replied by explaining that all captured lobsters had their claws secured with rubber bands to keep them from tearing each other to shreds. Then he said, "Watch this."

He netted a three-pounder from the tank, slipped off the rubber band while gripping it firmly behind the danger zone, and then poked at it gently with a hard plastic ballpoint pen. The claw shot out like a boxer's jab, crunched down on the pen and cracked it like an eggshell. The question was unavoidable. What, I wondered aloud, could that 42-pound champion do to a human leg?

Watson clucked his tongue, shook his head and said, "Don't ever ask."

Despite getting an occasional painful nip now and then, Watson wouldn't trade his present life for his old. After he graduated from William and Mary with a degree in business administration in 1970, he went into education for a time. He was at

Dave Watson '70

Lafayette High School when it opened in 1973, teaching bookkeeping, business law and general business for three years.

Then, back to his alma mater, where he was an assistant track coach for four years before making the big decision to go into business for himself.

How often do he and his wife have lobster for dinner? Watson's eyebrows shot up at such a dumb question. "At these prices? Hell, man I can't afford lobster. We have to settle for steak."

—Jack Priest
The Virginia Gazette

House Notes

Among members of the Olde Guard visiting the Alumni House recently were William Deierhoi '12, who donated his copies of the 1909, '10, '11 and '13 yearbooks, and Caroline Sinclair '24, who left her Memory Book of her college days as well as her 1924 COLONIAL ECHO.

Connie Coen Cohen '51 and daughter Leah '80 stopped by during their visit on campus to see Joe '82. Connie added to the memorabilia collection with a 1942 and a 1954 NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC, which issues featured Williamsburg and the College.

Kitty Dunlap Weaver '32 is the author of RUSSIA'S FUTURE, THE COMMUNIST EDUCATION OF SOVIET YOUTH, published by Praeger Publishers in 1981. The Paschall Library has a copy of her earlier book, LENIN'S GRANDCHILDREN, PRESCHOOL EDUCATION IN THE SOVIET UNION, published in 1971.

Viking Press has recently published a new book by Desmond Guinness and Julius Trousdale Sadler, Jr. '44. It is NEWPORT PRESERVED, ARCHITECTURE OF THE 18TH CENTURY, a pictorial tribute to Newport's restored colonial buildings and the story of their rescue. Books by Julius Sadler in the Paschall Library are: AMERICAN STABLES: PALLADIO, A WESTERN PROGRESS; THE ONLY PROPER STYLE, GOTHIC ARCHITECTURE IN AMERICA; and MR. JEFFERSON, ARCHITECT.

A limited number of out of print yearbooks are available from the Paschall Library. The cost is $6.00 per copy, which includes postage. All proceeds go to the Paschall Library fund to purchase books by alumni authors. Interested alumni may write to the Paschall Library, Alumni House, Post Office Box GO, Williamsburg, Virginia 23187. Checks should be made payable to the Society of the Alumni.

Four Receive Commencement Honors

Garry Trudeau To Address Graduates May 16

Cont. from P. 6

During World War II, Steward left the University of London when his lab was destroyed during the Blitz. From 1946-50, he was professor of botany and eventually chairman of the department at the University of Rochester.

From 1950-73, he served as professor of botany at Cornell University, during which time he was named director, Laboratory of Cell Physiology, Growth and Development there.

In 1965, Steward was named the Charles A. Alexander Professor of Biological Sciences at Cornell, and upon his retirement from the university in 1972, Steward became Alexander Professor of Biological Sciences, Emeritus.

Since his retirement, Steward has served as adjunct professor in the Department of Cellular and Comparative Biology for the State University of New York at Stony Brook, and in 1974 was named a Scholar-in-Residence at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, where he makes his home.

The recipient of numerous academic awards and honors, Steward is a Fellow of the Royal Society of London and a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts & Sciences.

He has received an honorary degree from the University of Delhi in India, and in 1973-74 was visiting professor at the University of Madras in India and a visiting lecturer in 1975 at the University of British Columbia.

Author, lecturer and bibliophile C. Waller Barrett has been called "the most vital and prominent book collector on the American scene." He has devoted his life to the acquisition of rare American books and manuscripts and to the advancement of libraries.

Barrett has served as a trustee or as an officer or board member of friends groups to most of the major libraries across the nation.

Perhaps his greatest gift to the literary world, however, was the donation of his life's collections to the University of Virginia to form the C. Waller Barrett Library of American Literature, considered to be the best and most complete collection of American literature in existence.

The Barrett Library contains almost one half million books, manuscripts, letters and memorabilia of about 1,500 American authors and is worth an estimated $15 million.

Alumni Notes

Alumni notes for even numbered classes will be reported in the June issue. Please send your news to the appropriate reporter listed below.

- 25 Mrs. J. Stuart White (L. Helen Smith)
140 Towne Square Drive
Newport News, VA 23607
- 27 M. Carl Andrews
2814 Crystal Spring Ave., SW
Roanoke, VA 24014
- 29 Macon C. Sammons
Box 206
Shawsville, VA 24162
- 31 Mrs. Cornelia T. Jones (Cornelia Taylor)
Box 168
Dover, DE 19901
- 33 Mrs. T. Leonard George (Betty Chambers)
5708 West Franklin Street
Richmond, VA 23226
- 35 Mrs. A. E. Harvey (Ruth Weeks)
5707 West Franklin Street
Richmond, VA 23226
- 37 Mrs. Henry H. Hardenbergh, Jr. (Cornelia S. Land)
Spring Grove, VA 23881
- 39 Frances L. Grodecoeur
81 Howard Street
Monongahela, PA 15063
- 41 John H. Prince
2063 Cheadle Loop
Yorktown, VA 23692
- 43 Mrs. Joseph Patterson, Jr. (Virginia Curtis)
Box 162
Williamsburg, VA 23187
- 45 Mrs. Wadsworth Bugg, Jr. (Martha Kight)
5503 Toddsbury Road
Richmond, VA 23226
- 47 Mrs. C. William Heider (Ellie Westbrook)
211 John Pinckney Lane
Williamsburg, VA 23185
- 49 Mrs. Charles Anthony, Jr. (Alice Baxley)
53 Hickory Place
Livingston, NJ 07039

- 51 Mrs. Raymond G. Nielsen (Jane Waters)
P. O. Box 744
Eastham, MA 02642
- 53 Mrs. Harold J. Woolston, Jr. (Barbara Jo Mott)
116 Talleyrand Road
West Chester, PA 19380
- 55 Mrs. Charles E. Sumner (Barbara Regan)
43 La Cuesta
Orinda, CA 94563
- 57 Mrs. Aubrey H. Fitzgerald (Shirley Richardson)
Five Poindexter Place
Newport News, VA 23606
- 59 Steve C. Oaks
2247 Chilton Road
Houston, TX 77019
- 61 Mrs. Joseph K. Alexander, Jr. (Diana Titolo)
6410 Forest Mill Lane
Laurel, MD 20707
- 63 Mrs. Donald Snook (Judith Murdock)
1029 Sanderling Circle
Audubon, PA 19403
- 65 Mrs. Andrew E. Landis (Susan Stevenson)
405 Lake Drive
Daniels, WV 25832
- 67 Mrs. Robert L. White (Bonnie Hamlet)
1011 Harriman Street
Great Falls, VA 22066
- 69 Mrs. Harold E. Williams, Jr. (Mary Chris Schmitz)
40 Cameron Glen Drive
Atlanta, GA 30328
- 71 Craig Windham
12 Hesketh Street
Chevy Chase, MD 20015
- 73 Jay Gsell
2815 Morningside Drive
Eau Claire, WI 54701
- 75 Mrs. David C. Larson (Linda Cool)
5280 Crestview Hghts. Drive
Bettendorf, IA 52722

- 77 Mrs. David L. Satterwhite (Cindy Bennett)
1529 Front Royal Drive
Richmond, VA 23228
- 79 Meg Lewis
7710 Adelphi Road #1
Hyattsville, MD 20783
- 81 Kristen Esbensen
2454 Clearcrest Lane
Fallbrook, CA 92028

OLDE GUARDE

1693 - 1931

Lord Botetourt

Charles Hunter Hamlin '14 is living with his son in Fulton, Missouri. He taught over 50 years at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson, NC, and in 1972 the Student Center at Atlantic Christian was named the Hamlin Student Center. Thomas C. Clarke '22, of Norfolk, has completed two terms of service on the Board of Visitors at the College and was ineligible for reappointment by the Governor. T.C. went on the Board in 1974 and was vice rector 1978-82.

Dr. F. Clyde Bedsaul '24 retired in February, after having practiced medicine 56 years--50 of them in Floyd County, VA.

Hugh T. Hancock '24 and Alice took a 7-day cruise to the Caribbean last November. They had a wonderful time and Hugh says "Fly while you still have wings."

A resident of the Newport Convalescent Center in Newport News, VA, is Anne V. Parker '24.

Carolyn Baytop Sinclair '24 had a busy fall working with the Bicentennial celebration in Gloucester and has been hard at work on the Rosewell preservation project. She moved to Westminster Canterbury in Richmond early this year.

Elizabeth DeShazo Whitlock '24 retired in 1969 as consumer specialist for the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Retirement brought an increase in her activities as a registered professional parliamentarian and she is serving ten state and national organizations as parliamentary advisor. She keeps up with her church activities, both on the local and conference level, and writes, "As is obvious, my husband gets plenty of 'wholesome neglect,' but is most supportive."

Members who returned to campus for Olde Guard Day on April 15th were:

- William H. Deierhoi '12, E. Ralph James '16, William W. Farmer '20, D. Gardiner Tyler '20, Catherine T. Dennis '21, T.C. Clarke '22, W. A. Dickinson '22, Mary Holman Curd '22, Mabel Murphy Owen '23, Charlotte Shipman Brooks '23, Maude C. Copeland '23, William J. Cox '23, Bettie Woodward James '23, Marion Fields Tyler '23, Thomas J. Young, Jr. '23, Gladys Bennett Guy '24, Hugh T. Hancock '24, Carter H. Harrison '24, James L. Hatcher '24, Eugenia Nealon Krueger '24, Roy E. Kyle '24, Elisabeth Robinson Cowne '25, Anthony F. Everett '25, John C. Fuller '25, Edward Islin '25, William B. Marks '25, Suzanne Garrett Montague '25, Vernon L. Nunn '25, Charles P. Pollard '25, Marjorie Brulle Shook '25, Caroline B. Sinclair '25, John R. St. George '25, Rose R. Vipond '25, Helen Smith White '25, H. I. Willett '25, Arthur J. Winder '25, Jeannette B. Yates '25, Nancy Pretlow Bozarth '26, Blanton M. Bruner '26, Eldon W. Christopher '26, Fearn Cabell Ferneyhough '26, Thomas Littelle Ferratt '26, Stanley King '26, W. Stirling King '26, Elsie Everett Kramer '26, Ruth Neale Lane '26, Thomas C. Lawford '26, Elizabeth Palmer Thompson

'26, Ellen Moody Wright '26, Fairfax M. Berkley '27, Sewell H. Hopkins '27, Maxwell Brockenborough Houghland '27, James C. Jenkins '27, Eugenia Portlock Joyce '27, J. Wilfred Lambert '27, C. Alton Lindsay '27, Eulah A. Massey '27, Gay Burruss Meisel '27, Margaret Holman McCoy '27, Harriette A. Patteson '27, Anna Withers Rollings '27, Mary Hess Rowe '27, J. F. Slauson '27, Calahill "Spike" Smith '27, R. E. B. Stewart '27, Lee Todd '27, Marie Hofmeyer Tuttle '27, Edward L. Wilshin '27, Virginia Vaiden Bowen '28, James Eason '28, Mary L. Gill '28, Ellen Glasscock '28, Edwin L. Lamberth '28, Ralph K. T. Larson '28, Carlton Macon '28, Brooks Johnson Parker '28, H. Clyde Smith '28, William G. Thompson, Jr. '28, William C. West, Jr. '28, William Bickers '29, Myrtle Piland Brizendine '29, Polly Hines Brown '29, Gordon E. Campbell '29, Arthur P. Henderson '29, Dorothy Smither Lamberth '29, E. Raymond Lewis '29, E. Armstrong Smith '29, William E. Warren '29, Agnes Brittingham Willard '29, Virginia Wise '29, Willard M. Entwisle '30, Geraldine Rowe Fedors '30, Eunice L. Hall '30, Vernon Hayman '30, Elinor Hall Haynie '30, Elizabeth W. Lanier '30, Fay P. LeCompte '30, Mary Ludford Owens '30, Lucile Burke Smith '30, Sally Copenhagen Southworth '30, Mary Rigby Tinkham '30, Edwin L. Toone, Jr. '30, Harvey Trevillian '30, Edward M. Trice '30, C. Ambrose Turner '30, Frances Griffin Waters '30, Sarah Everett Woolford '30, Amy Reid Bibb '31, Jerome P. Carr '31, Elizabeth Griffin Conkling '31, Margery Dameron Edmonds '31, J. Kenneth Graham '31, Martha Barrow Hatcher '31, Cornelia Taylor Jones '31, Ellen Ticer King '31, Mary P. Maddox '31, Helen Lorenzen Mark '31, Agnes Winn Paschall '31, Milton Salasky '31, Elizabeth Allen Snead '31.

26

Andre R. Goetz
Sills Mill Road
R.D. 3 Box 344
Kennett Square, PA 19348

"My cup runneth over!" Notes and references concerning five good brothers of the 1926 vintage were received and I have a clear mental image (a self-compliment) of each one. It is a pleasure to have my synapses "shook."

DeLancey "Tony" Provost wrote to us from his home in East Dennis, MA. The note must have come out by dogsled judging from reports regarding the winter up there. Tony was delighted to inform us that his apple crop last fall had been exceptional and prices good. I was much interested in his husbandry as Tony was one of those blithe spirits of the 1926 class who gathered in New York City and the "Village" for mutual support and comfort. Tony married and got down to business. He was active in radio and television work and in 1958 was rated "Man of the Year in Broadcasting" by Variety for his contributions to education through television.

From Upper Montclair, NJ, Harrison Rats" Wesson informed us that he finally retired in 1979 from active practice of medicine. "Rats" is a terrible nickname to hang onto a person, but he probably would not answer to any other and we do not know him by any other name. We do know he held the College high jump record at 5'8" in 1926 which was good considering the rules covering that event in those days. "Rats" studied medicine at the University of Virginia and did his graduate work in surgery at the Mayo Clinic. He is an avid golfer and like all lanky players laces the ball a mile down the fairway into the woods.

From a place closer to the College, Center Cross, VA, John DeShazo wrote to tell us that he and Eldon "Cutie" Christopher lunch every Tuesday at Lowery's in Tappa-

CHAPTER MEETINGS

RICHMOND

20 May, 5:30 p.m.

Cocktail party at Valentine Museum, 1015 E. Clay St. $10.00 per person. Contact Donna Byrd 257-1602.

DALLAS-FT. WORTH

23 May, 4:30 p.m.

A western barbecue Old Dominion Day Party at Bear Creek Country Club. Cost $15.00 per person. Cash Bar. Contact Ed Horton '64, 243-5330.

BOSTON-NEW ENGLAND

1 June, 6 p.m.

Alexander Parris Room, Quincy Market Building, Boston. President Graves will speak. Contact Bill Allison (o) 723-7750 (h) 237-9887.

CHICAGO

1 August

Old Dominion Day for all Virginia schools. A family day with food and games on the grounds of Lake Forest Academy. Call Esther Aldige (h) 475-0232, (o) 565-5959, Ext. 2489.

GRADS

GRADS

Mrs. E. D. Etter (Mary R. Spitzer)
486 West Market
Harrisonburg, VA 22801

LAW

Robert Emmett, III
Box 398
Williamsburg, VA 23187

BUSINESS

Dr. Franklin B. Robeson
School of Business Administration
College of William and Mary

EDUCATION

Dr. Paul Clem
School of Education
College of William and Mary
Williamsburg, VA 23185

MARINE SCIENCE

Fred C. Biggs
Virginia Institute of Marine Science
Gloucester Point, VA 23062

SOPHOMORE WINS TRUMAN AWARD

A William and Mary sophomore, Mark M. Rogers, Bryn Mawr, Pa., has been named an at-large winner of a 1982 Harry S. Truman Scholarship. Sponsored by the Harry S. Truman Scholarship Fund as an official memorial to the 33rd President, the award offers up to $5,000 yearly to winners for the final two years of undergraduate schooling and two years of graduate study for applicants interested in careers in public service. Clay Clemens '80, now a student at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University, is a previous winner of the Scholarship.

hannock. John said the "obits" in the local newspaper are checked if one or the other fails to show. I am not certain he intended to extend an invitation to lunch with them on Tuesday, but I do think it would be a delightful experience. The company, at least, would be exceptional.

From Southbury, CT, Cooper Ponton advised us that he and wife, Virginia '29, have moved into Heritage Village, a retirement community not far from Westchester County, NY, where they lived for the past thirty-five years. His wife thinks the new location will at least be a safe place for their furniture as they tend to head for Virginia and then further south as the winter weather moves in.

Cooper spent his career in public relations and advertising as the New York representative of C.B. Fleet Co., Inc. He enjoys writing poetry. We had a good example of his work in the 1926-76 Re-Echo. He also has been active in the work of his Episcopal parish. This brings to mind a terrible pun to the effect that where four Episcopalians are gathered one can always find a fifth. We ask Cooper's forgiveness.

The joy, while away in school, of receiving a letter from home was considerable. It may be likened to the pleasure and relief felt by any class note reporter receiving mail from a classmate.

Bill Bolton long was on the anxious end faithfully serving as the news gatherer. So he knows, and knowing, has sent along a plethora for his substitute. It is good news to all of us that he has quite recovered his health and would be even better news for me if he would take back his old assignment. It has been fun, in many instances, to put some news and sometimes "non-news" together, but enough is enough, both for writer and for reader.

The vitality and abilities of our classmates continue to be manifest. Lucile Eastham Michie is an example. Gov. John Dalton, '53, appointed her for a second term to the Virginia Board of Psychology and she was selected chairman of the group as well as to the vice chairmanship of the Virginia Board of Behavioral Sciences. Further, Lucile has been appointed instructor in the Clinical Psychology Institute at the University of Virginia by the University Board of Visitors. In a national scope she has been selected to attend the Olympia Conference in Wisconsin as the only school psychologist serving as a chairman of a psychology board in Virginia. Among her hobbies are collecting of dolls and coins.

Another accomplisher is Laura Starbuck Whitehead Young, whose new book was mentioned in the last '28 letter. Bookbinding & Conservation by Hand I notice is gaining superlative reviews in publications relating to the subject, all over this country as well as England. (I am gearing up to write a well-deserved feature story about this member of our class who is regarded as the top authority in her field.)

News of successful marriages of our classmates continues to come in, now that we are in the age of golden anniversaries. Latest is that of Emma Waring and her husband, Thornton Walbridge. The Walbridges celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on August 1 at their son's old country home in Libertyville, Illinois, where they had lived for 35 years before moving to a nearby apartment. (Ah, no grass to cut!). Relatives came from 16 states and from Japan and Greece, spilling over to the porches and lawns. They have four children and eight grandchildren.

For the past half dozen years or so they have been spending their winters in Austin, Texas, for a milder climate and to be near a daughter and small grandchildren. Going farther this past winter, they projected a trip through the Panama Canal and to places in South America. Looking ahead, they plan to return to Williamsburg for our 55th reunion.

"I'm sorry," writes Emma, "that I didn't know more of my classmates due to the fact that I spent both sophomore and junior years in France, staying after a summer tour with Dr. Fitchner in 1925. Back on campus for my senior year I had to work hard on required courses and I had little time to get around to know classmates. However my 'French Connection' and years of teaching French have had their rewards."

Praising Bill Bolton for his contributions to his community and to William and Mary Alumni activities, she said they would stop by to see him at Fredericksburg next year, but hope also to see him at the 55th.

The Walbridges' eldest son Edward Waring is an astro physicist and he was featured on the program of scientists and Navy officers at Virginia Beach this past winter. His subject, "laser beams and satellites."

And now for a joyous piece of mail from Bill Bolton, his letter:

Dear Kit: I want you to know that I thoroughly enjoy reading your William and Mary news. I was not in touch with you during this past year of 1981 due to the fact that I was more or less recuperating from being hospitalized several times the previous year. Glad to be able to tell you that my health has improved considerably. For some months I have been going to my office regularly in the afternoons and this past December 14 I drove up to my old hometown of Galax alone. This was the first time in a year that I had driven any distance alone, but I had no difficulty whatever. Back in the winter of 1941-42 I had helped start a Lions Club in Fries. Now this very same club was celebrating its 40th anniversary and had invited all of its living founders for a banquet and program held at the Colonial Inn in Fries on December 15. It was bad weather to be travelling, freezing rain and heavy snow. I stayed at the Midtowner Motel in Galax where I have many friends. The meeting of the Lions was a delightful affair. I was joined there by my niece, Frankie Bargar Richardson. Several friends of longstanding were present including Pete Spraker and his wife, Enid Rhudy, also Vincent Writth and Lorene Carrier Davis, among others. Due to the snow the speaker failed to show up so I served as speaker. After the dinner I visited briefly with my brother Jim Bolton who attended William and Mary during the mid 30's. The next day I drove back to Fredericksburg.

During the past months and especially during the recent holiday season, I heard from many of our classmates. I thought it would be nice to pass on all this news to you.

Hayden Gwaltney of Petersburg, VA, continues to keep busy with church work and volunteer work at the hospital.

Received a card from George R. Whitley and his wife Edna of Falls Church from Irkutsk, Siberia. George and Edna were on a tour of more than four weeks, Norway, Mongolia, Leningrad and Moscow. Of all his tours, George seems to have enjoyed best New Zealand and Australia. George graduated from the high school at Isle of Wight in 1924. There were five in the class. This past August the class had their first reunion after 57 years. All five were still living and attended the reunion and had a wonderful time.

PHILLIPS '24 PRESENTS RARE BOOKS

Jesse C. Phillips '24, Harrisburg, Pa., presented several rare books recently to the Earl Gregg Swem Library at William and Mary where he previously established the Richard Lee Morton Fund for the purchase of history books. The Fund honors Dr. Morton, who was an outstanding teacher and scholar for 40 years in the History Department. Mr. Phillips is seen giving one of the books to Clifford Currie, Librarian, in the accompanying photo.

Mary Land Gill of Petersburg made a trip to East Africa last year in February and then in June went to England and Scotland.

Elizabeth Lam Vieg of Claremont, CA, and her husband spent four weeks in Europe in September and October.

Rose Mountcastle Flannery and her husband Vern of Mesa, AZ, made a 22-day trip to Europe including an 8-day cruise to the Greek Isles. They also visited Yugoslavia.

Miriam Silberger Goodman and her husband Jesse of Washington, DC, were planning to go on the alumni trip to Germany.

Bill and Mary Thompson made a trip to California, their first time to Malibu. Said that last Homecoming was super!

Ed and Kitty Hill of Plymouth, NC, hope to attend Homecoming this year.

Received a card from Lucian Hobbs of Los Gatos, CA. He had been on a Caribbean cruise at which stops were made at four ports.

Art Matsu of Prescott, AZ, made a pact sometime back with Harry Light '30, that they would attend Homecoming at William and Mary this fall. Art is very anxious to see many of his friends at Homecoming.

During the holiday season Herman Wornom of Riverside Drive, New York City, visited relatives in Richmond, York County, Hampton and Newport News.

I am very thankful to the many who sent me Holiday Greetings. Among those were Dorothy Bundy Turner of Waynesboro, VA, Julia S. Carson of Ashland, VA, Mary Shotton Browning of Ashland, KY, Elizabeth Glenn Hartman of Arlington, Helen Moore from Sparta, Thelma Stinnett Griffith and her husband Dick from Bandy Station, Alva Yeary of Danville, KY, Eliza Hunter Trainham of Newport News, Harwood B. Owen of Richmond, May B. Reilly of Roanoke, Dr. Ed Williams of Coral Gables, FL, Hammon Branch of Toano, VA, Warren Russell of Arlington, Harold (Doc) Glenney of Pottstown, PA, R.W. "Bull" Durham of Glen Allen, Mavin and Dr. Stanley H. Powell of Portsmouth, George C. Chenault of St. Stephens Church, Virginia and Seibert Simpkins of Christiansburg, Lena Waldrop Jennings of Crozier, VA, Geno Miles Thornhill of Greenbelt, MD, John Logan Hudson of Hampton, Mildred Eaton Baumgarten of Duluth, MN, Freda Nightengale Brockwell of Newport News, Trudy and Norm Johnson of Colonial Heights, and Rachel H. Thomas of Martins Ferry, OH.

Due to bad health I have not been able to attend Homecoming any of the past few years; however, I certainly hope to make it this coming fall.

Keep up the good work.

Best wishes,
Bill Bolton '28

30

Betty W. Lanier
17 Corling Street
Petersburg, VA 23804

Edward Trice
Drewryville, VA 23844

Letter from Betty: News about the distaff members of our class is scarce this time. We will certainly appreciate it if you will take a few minutes to drop us a line to let us know what's new with you and yours.

Thanks to Sally Copenhagen Southworth for keeping in touch. Sally was at our 50th reunion and according to her, she loved every minute of it. Sally's children, grandchildren, church work, and D.A.R. activities keep her busy these days.

We were delighted to hear from Dot Lankford Bradford that she and Ned are well and enjoying life. Dot had a wonderful trip recently to the Alpine countries, West Germany, Austria, Switzerland, and northern Italy. Dot and Ned wish to be remembered to everyone. They are so very sorry that they had to miss the Olde Guard luncheon in April as they were in Florida with their son and his family.

Your "lady" reporter will add a note as news is on the skimpy side this time. She will make her fifth trip to the British Isles in May concentrating on English manor houses and gardens in southwest England and Wales. Richard Rennolds of the A.P.V.A. staff in Richmond will accompany the group of thirteen. Richard is a William and Mary graduate, class of '81.

From Ed: While Bernie and I were in Florida in February, I visited Harold "Skimp" Ashby, one of the many members of our class from Eastern Shore. "Skimp" was a science major and had planned a career in that field, but as we well remember job offerings were almost nil in 1930. He said after much searching he got a job with the Prudential Insurance Company in New Jersey. He spent his working days with them and was later transferred by request to Jacksonville, where he is spending his retirement years with his wife Frances. I thought I had waited longer than any of my classmates to be married for I was thirty-seven when Bernie and I "tied the knot." "Skimp" broke the record--he was forty. He and Frances have two children and are grandparents.

A note from LeRoy Ober states that he is still active in business, Junior Achievement of Tidewater, and Sales Marketing Executives. LeRoy was on the tennis team at William and Mary and was captain in 1930. He is still playing tennis regularly. He was active in church activities while in college and is still teaching Sunday School. He has been quite active in Civitan Club work and he ends his resume by writing "... Still going. . . on. . . on. . . Keep it up, LeRoy."

Word from Fay LeCompte states that on his trip to Egypt the "curses of the pharaohs" were not visited upon him. He wrote a very vivid description of his trip for the group that sponsored it. You will remember that Fay was the editor of the LITERARY MAGAZINE his senior year and certainly he has not lost any of his finesse as a writer. I always enjoy the portion of his writing which I understand and I assume the rest is good, too.

Classmates, we plead with you to let us hear from you. You may not think so but we are still interested in you and your activities.

32

Mrs. Thomas C. Bradshaw
(Josephine Habel)
131 North Main Street
Blackstone, VA 23824

Pearl Young Reynolds writes asking why we don't have more news in the Alumni Gazette. The reason is I don't hear from very many of you and I am not gifted at inventing news. Classmates, there are some people who like to know what you are doing. If you are not coming to the 50th reunion, how about sending a note to the Alumni Gazette telling us where you live and what you are interested in. Please share with us!

Pearl says her husband is retiring from active medical practice and they are looking forward to enjoying life. She plans to be at William and Mary in May.

Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, president of the College for eleven years, was honored in a ceremony in which his portrait was hung in William and Mary Hall. The greatest period of growth in the College's history was during his administration.

Mary Dabney's sister was in our office last week and gave me Mary's address in Lynchburg, VA, 308 Warwick Lane. I hope she will join us in May.

ALUMNI HONORED FOR TEACHING

Two alumni who teach at Virginia colleges have been honored recently for outstanding teaching. Dr. Arthur F. Conway '68, assistant professor of biology at Randolph-Macon College in Ashland, has received the Thomas Branch Award for Excellence in Teaching. Dr. Kenneth R. Garren '65 M.A. has received the 1982 William C. Lowry Outstanding Mathematics Teaching Award for the college level from the Virginia Council of Teachers of Mathematics. Dr. Garren is professor of mathematics at Roanoke College.

Sylvia Margolis writes that she participated in the U.N. Mid-Decade World Conference For Women in Copenhagen. She represented the American Association of University Women and the Jewish Women's Organization. She spoke on "World Peace" using her training for public speaking she received at William and Mary under Professor George Brooks.

HOMECOMING '82

YOU'RE INVITED

Nov. 5-6

I was back in Williamsburg on March 13th for a Reunion Committee meeting. We missed Lelia Chewning Ratcliff who could not be with us due to the illness of her husband. We all wish him a speedy recovery. Mildred Hall Carter was asked to serve on the committee to fill the spot vacated by Lee, and Mildred Layne was appointed the new vice chairman. The schedule for the big weekend has been completed and it sounds like a fun time. There will be time for socializing and reminiscing, so "come all to the festival." We will be looking for you.

The Alumni House has a special meaning for our class since it is the result of the vision of two of our classmates, Brooks George and Pat Paschall. The Committee made a major commitment to the expansion of the House and gifts of any amount (made before or after the reunion) are welcome. All contributions are tax deductible. To date we have raised over $14,500, but we still have a way to go and we encourage those who have not made a contribution to do so. With the new addition many functions for alumni, not now possible, can be held at the College.

Please remember to send news to the Gazette or to me. Hope to see all of you May 15th.

34

Mrs. Frederick J. Dau
(Helen Singer)
47 Winster fax
Williamsburg, VA 23185

After a very cold winter we are again enjoying a beautiful Virginia spring -- the dogwood will soon be out in full glory.

News items passed on to me by the Alumni Office: Ada Kelly Hudnell, "Enjoying retirement at Paradise Farm near Kilmarnock, VA. Welcome mat is out to any W&M folks coming through this area. Currently serving on Board of Directors of Mary Ball Washington Museum and of Lancaster Co. Library, Inc., where I staff the lending library one day a week. A real delight to work with Anne Burrows, Exec. Secy. there. Also serve on Board of Directors of Northumberland Historical Society where I work on the Annual Bulletin."

Lillian Carmine Sterling writes, "Having toured New England, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia last summer, my husband Lester and I vacationed 'close to home' this year. Our daughter Carolyn ('67) and family of Albuquerque, NM, spent several weeks vacation with us. Lester and I attended the 1931 Sesqui-Centennial Returnee Reception at the Yorktown Bicentennial. We were both in two different pageants there 50 years ago. I was in the William and Mary Gym class pageant. We plan to visit our grandson and wife at Fairchild AFB, Spokane, Washington in the spring."

From Donald Gordon, "Have retired after 35 years on the faculty of U. of Md., College Park, MD."

NOMINATING COMMITTEE NAMED

James E. Howard, '43 of Richmond has been named chairman of the Nominating Committee for the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni. Other Committee members are: Mrs. Alice Jordan Viessman '56, Norfolk; Col. John Hodges '39, Williamsburg; Mrs. Sandra Dixon Bowen '63, Richmond; Mr. W. W. Kale '66, Williamsburg. Any alumni wishing to nominate persons for the elections to be held in the fall, should submit names to Mr. Howard, Box 60, Williamsburg, VA 23187.

The Pope twins: Edith Pope Howitz states, "We are really enjoying Sarah's (Pope Dix) retirement (from teaching). We had a delightful trip to Europe this summer."

From Henry S. Wolf: "I leave today for Sophia University in Tokyo where I will be a visiting professor for the spring semester. This has been arranged by the University of Charleston, West Virginia, where I have taught since the end of WW II. I anticipate with pleasure this experience but also eagerly look forward to my return and, with Robert Vaden, still another visit to Italy. I have been visiting Europe regularly and have lost count of the number of times but think it is in excess of thirty. At Sophia University I expect to present some piano recitals, a desecration on the piano literature that I have imposed on my small public for half a century."

As for me, I have just returned from a long drive to San Antonio, Texas. I expect to take my 10-year old granddaughter to spend Easter with Alice Cahill Marquez in Clear Spring, MD.

We've located a few classmates and have heard from acquaintances in other classes. Here are more names of "unlocated" '34'ers. Write in if you have any information. Virginia Bowman, Charles W. Braband, Louise Eubank Broaddus, Mary Helene Brown, Murray Cox Brown, Reuben Brusuen, Elizabeth G. Burruss Woodard, Jean Calloway Trivett, Alfred Cantor, Ellen Consuelo Capo, Mortimer James Carr, Curtis James Carter, William John Casey, Isaiah Cash, Beulah Chalfant DiSalvo, Frances Eleanor Chambers, Paul Chiarky, Virginia Eldred Choate Arwine, Carolyn Yvonne Christian Iverson, Parker G. Clark, Jr., Kathryn Jane Cleveland Ward, Cassandra Henrietta Cline Harris, Lillian Coates, Ellwood Cohron, Ethel Bertha Colbrunn, Helen Thomas Collings Massey, Roberta M. Copenhaver, Catherine Helen Costello, Albert Atkerson Cox, Martha F. Coyle Ely, Phyllis Craig, William John Cramer, Alice Roberta Cridlin.

Since this will be the last letter until fall, have a happy, healthy summer.

36

Mrs. Robert G. Babson
(Sara Shelton)
16636 Pequeno Place
Pacific Palisades, CA 90272

Mary Jane Roth Kuhn says that she is still keeping her home on Lake Erie. She is leaving soon for a motor trip through England. This will be her first trip in that country.

Edith W. Lubben writes that on her vacation, she visited her son in Georgia and her friends in Florida. She says that she is still working in the First National State Bank of New Jersey where she works mostly on student loans.

J. Bruce Bredin has just finished serving two terms as a member of the Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary. He was ineligible for reappointment as he has already served two terms.

38

Mrs. Erling B. Hauge
(Jane Speakman)
503 Ivydale Road
Wilmington, DE 19803

Such fascinating letters as I have to share with you! They make me very proud of our classmates, as I'm sure you will be.

From Bill Fairbank: "My wife Pat and I are retired here in Venice, FL. We like this

ALUMNA INVOLVED IN CANCER RESEARCH

A team of scientists which includes a William and Mary alumna has published new evidence which strengthens the case that a virus has a role in causing a type of adult leukemia. Published in Science Magazine, the new evidence was reported by a team of scientists from the National Cancer Institute, including Dr. Marjorie Robert-Guroff '65, and from three universities in Japan. Scientists have long suspected that viruses were involved in human cancer, but prior to the NCI study, evidence had been elusive.

area, just south of Sarasota, very much and I put the 'retired' above the quotes, because if we are not careful our retirement activities may make us busier than our working years ever did. For 25 years before retiring I worked for the Arabian American Oil Company in Dhahran, Saudi Arabia. It was challenging and interesting work, and, because of the location, when vacation time came we had many wonderful opportunities to see the world. My daughter Wendy, who graduated from William and Mary in 1969, is married, has two daughters and lives in Italy. My son Bill is unmarried and works for the Arabian American Oil Company in Saudi Arabia as I did. We get to see him about once a year when he comes home on vacation. We saw my daughter and family this last fall when they came over from Italy and we all had a wonderful time. . . I have attended several Homecomings over the years. The last one was in 1980 during which I met my freshman roommate, Fred Brown, for the first time in almost 40 years. I have many pleasant memories of the College, Taliaferro Hall, Tyler Hall and the fellows who lived there."

From Lester Wilson: "In 1942 I graduated from the Medical University of South Carolina in Charleston (one hundred years to the day after a great-grandfather and thirty years after my father), spent the next four years in the Army Medical Corps during the war and after that a year of pathology and five years as resident in obstetrics, gynecology and endocrinology at Duke University Hospital. Marriage to Lillian, whom I had known a very long time before the war, was followed quickly by a girl, two boys and a girl. In 1951 I left Duke to join the faculty at the University of Virginia School of Medicine in Charlottesville, becoming a Professor in 1964. In addition to a very heavy practice, I have been in charge of the student education program in our department and have been closely involved with the training of residents and with modest research and administrative responsibilities. After a severe coronary in 1975 and a most successful quadruple bypass in '77, it has seemed prudent to slow down a little. Charlottesville is a lovely place to both work and play, but we do get back to our home on the beach near Charleston for superb golf, several kinds of fishing, long walks on the beach and just plain loafing. In Virginia, in addition to a penitential four or five mile walk each day, I look after 400 rhododendron and azaleas, most of which I propagated in the '50s, or mess around (and I mean mess around) with watercolor. Friends of Miss Hunt's will be interested that I was in a play at the Dock Street Theater during my first year in medical school with near disastrous results. The dean, an old family friend, suggested that I get to work or get the hell out. Work won out and I graduated AOA. . . Our children were all educated at U.VA (polite disdain for both the old in Williamsburg and the new in Durham), with graduate degrees in such places as Utah School of Violin, Emory, Virginia, Edinborough and Harvard. They are a magnificent group of loyal, marvelous people. As a professional violin maker, the best school-marm in the valley of Virginia, a formidable Commonwealth Attorney and a budding Episcopal minister, they all serve well. . . Retirement approaches and there are what I believe to be reliable rumors that the University will set up a teaching award in my name, to be presented to a resident each year who is voted by the students as being the best teacher in our department. I like that."

In addition to those goodies, here are two quick notes. From Chatham, NJ, Ethel Weiss Haislip writes: "Ed and I are enjoying our new roles as grandparents. Our first grandchild, an adorable little girl, Alison Fesq Haislip, was born on February 6, 1981, President Reagan's seventieth birthday. On September 21, 1981 we were blessed with our second grandchild, Richard Drake Haislip." And from Bill and Margaret Woodland Davies in Morehead City, NC: "All our contemporaries seem to have retired. We're still hard at work running our own small business (selling boats, motors, trailers). We're not getting rich, but we're staying busy and well!"

What a great class we have! Keep those letters and notes about yourselves coming.

40

Mrs. Franklin D. Henderson
(Bobby Clawson)
Box 186, Irvington, Va. 22480

It is always reassuring to know that class members read this column even though I hear from comparatively few of you. I received a letter from Eldridge Brown in March saying that I had mentioned Elmo Legg in the last issue of the Gazette and asked me for Elmo's address. Fortunately my good neighbors, Ann and Jack Garrett, subscribed to the Alumni Directory so it was easily obtainable. Eldridge entertained me with a few of his and Elmo's escapades in the years '36 and '37 which by today's standards were mighty tame, I'm glad to say!

Our class is honored to have one of its members elected rector of the Board of Visitors. Herbert V. Kelly replaces E. E. Brickell whose term expired. Herb graduated from The Marshall-Wythe School of Law and was the board's finance committee chairman before his election as rector.

Virginia Wilson Halliday is enjoying retirement and grandchildren. She was delighted with the piece on the Fine Arts Department recently in the Gazette.

Virginia E. Garrett says she is still very happy in her position as librarian in the West Point (Virginia) Elementary School and commutes everyday from Williamsburg where she still lives.

THE VICAR'S VICTUALS, Favorite Recipes of The Rev. Canon Alfred L. Alley, has just been received from the publisher and is being offered for sale by St. Clement's Church, of which Al served as Vicar for nine years. The proceeds from the sale of the book will benefit the Organ Fund of the church. The book contains 275 well-tested recipes along with interesting comments about many of them and also some up-to-date basic cooking information. Al would be delighted, I'm sure, if you'd like to place an order, through the church at 2376 Zinfandel Drive, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670. Pretty good free advertising, eh Al?

42

Mrs. Irvin L. Malcolm
(Joyce Mathes)
1063 Chestnut Drive
Escondido, CA 92025

Marion Pate Macon keeps busy with church work and running the children's church library. Son Bobby is a neurosurgeon in Boston, and daughter Susan is a junior at Collegiate High School in Richmond. Her husband, James B. Macon '43, is retired from the telephone company, and is now a tax preparer.

Edith Rathbone Bell writes that she and her husband, Loyd, had a wonderful trip to Scotland last summer. They spent two weeks at St. Andrews University, and a week driving in the north and west of Scotland. He has retired to full time farming, but Edith is still teaching and acting as guidance counselor. They spend their weekends visiting their children and seven grandchildren.

1958 REUNION COMMITTEE MEETS

The Class of 1958 Reunion Committee met at the Alumni House to plan 25th Reunion Weekend, October 21-23, 1983. Seated from left to right are Jim Rosenbaum, Carolyn Scheele Fakadej, Walt Leyland. Standing from left to right are Polly Johnson Rowlett, Bobbie Ramsey Brooks, Polly Stadel Wrinkle.

MCV HONORS 1927 ALUMNA

Harriette A. Patteson '27 has been named Outstanding Alumnus of the year by the Medical College of Virginia's School of Nursing. She served on the school faculty for many years and has been instrumental in developing the oral history of the school; was the initiator of the Continuing Education Program for Nurses; and has assisted in the development of the Geriatric Nursing Assistant Program at Westminster-Canterbury House, a retirement home in the Richmond area.

Eleanor Ely Mackey Ferguson and her husband, John, just returned from an interesting Quaker Tour of Britain. They visited many historical spots, including some of "William and Mary." They hope to use the information and inspiration for future writing about Quakers.

Mary Ruth Black Dowley has acquired the rank of grandmother. She received the Peterson Award for outstanding contribution of a woman volunteer in service to the community, and continues on several Boards including Girl Scouts, United Way, Community Chest, and State Association of Parliamentarians.

HOMECOMING '82

Nov. 5-6

Our grand daughter, Leslie, visited us in February with her parents. We just don't see her often enough, as she lives in Indianapolis. When I was in Africa almost three years ago, I met a delightful lady who was the registrar for the Nairobi branch of the United States International University. This semester, she traded jobs with her counterpart in San Diego, so I am having a marvelous time showing her around this area. It has been a rewarding and a revealing experience to become such a close friend of a woman from another culture, and to see how beautifully she has fitted into our white world.

44

Mrs. Joseph B. Martin
(Hallie Rennie)
2185 Tremont Rd.
Upper Arlington, OH 43221

46

Mrs. Allison G. Moore
(Barbara Nycum)
Rt. 2, Box 161
Waverly, Va. 23890

Thanks to those few who responded to the Alumni Office, there is a bit of news to report. Rebecca Harris Dangle writes from Nashua, N.H. that she and Dick celebrated their thirtieth anniversary in Bermuda last fall. Their daughter, Susan, was graduated magna cum laude and Phi Beta Kappa from William Smith College last June and was married the following month. John, their son, is a third year law student at the University of Southern California.

June Sellars Strader Harris was widowed in 1975 and has recently married retired USAF Colonel William Bruce Harris. They are presently living in Burlington, N.C. and Myrtle Beach, S.C.

It sounds as though Thomas Dingle is enjoying his freedom. Tom retired after twenty years with Sears and they will move to New Smyrna Beach, FL. after selling their property in Illinois. Golf every other day is a good way to continue enjoying that nice freedom.

Dr. Robert W. Bryant is in his twentieth year on the faculty of the United Theological Seminary in New Brighton, MN. His wife, Christine Rentsch '48, has varied interests in social work, the church and community activities. Bob and Chris have three children.

An announcement in the Newport News Daily Press in January noted that Caroline Talbot Egelhoff is a new board member of the Occasion for the Arts, Williamsburg's annual outdoor salute to art, music and dance. And two months later, in the same publication, the news that Governor Charles Robb has appointed Carol to the college's governing board. Our congratulations, Carol. One of those whom the new appointees replace is Pam Pauly Chinnis who was ineligible for reappointment after serving two terms.

My travel plans haven't materialized as yet - still in the dreaming stage. We're anticipating two big events in the coming months, a new grandchild and a new daughter-in-law.

Please keep in touch. You won't see '46 in print again until the September issue and what may occur between now and then? Have a good summer.

48

Mrs. William R. Murphy
(Lucy Jones)
Box 329
Manassas, VA 22110

I am writing this from "Farview" at Merry Point where I will be for a week's holiday with my cat Junior. We, Junior and I, plan to rest and sleep much of the time and I hope to play golf a time or two. If Bill has a short docket on Wednesday or Thursday, he hopes to come down and bring our boat around to our dock for spring and summer. The weather refuses to acknowledge that spring is here, however, so we may have to leave the "Short Docket," which is the boat's name, in winter storage until it does.

I have good news from all of you members of the class of '48 if no news is good news. Bill tells me that he did see Jackson Simmons yesterday when our house guest, Judge Selwyn Smith of Manassas, and he dropped by Jack's law office in White Stone.

Phyllis (Shu) Struse Shook and husband Henry '47, came home to Virginia Beach last Monday after an exciting vacation at Ft. Lauderdale and on the William and Mary sailing trip to the Islands.

Here is the list of members of our class who attended Homecoming last fall: Nora and Bob Chandler, Peggy Ballentine Stock, John W. O'Neill, Jane Spencer Smith, Betty Harrison, Ray O'Connor, Hansi Kane Wright, Bill Lucas, David Pulley, Elizabeth Pulley, Ed Belvin, Barbara Bechtol Garrison, Shu Shook, Bill Murphy, Lucy Jones Murphy, Iris Tolley McCoy. Let's plan to have a larger turn-out next year!

I, incidentally, would like to purchase a copy of Ed Belvin's book (autographed, of course), entitled GROWING UP IN WILLIAMSBURG, FROM THE DEPRESSION TO PEARL HARBOR. (Editor's note: Persons interested may write to Mr. T. Edward Belvin, 106 Semple Road, Williamsburg, VA 23185)

50

Mrs. Louis D. Bailey
(Jeannette Keimling)
One University Place
New York, NY 10003

52

Mrs. Jarrold C. Patterson
(Liz Beard)
5025 Elmhurst
Royal Oak, MI 48073

Reunion fever is rising! Jane Kerwick Beil of Norfolk responded to our March column writing, "My enthusiasm for our reunion in November is growing and if I could find out if some of my friends will be in Williamsburg I might persuade myself to make reservations at Hospitality House, too! . . . I'd like to think maybe November will give me an opportunity to renew pleasant friendships." Jane has the right idea - our reunion is your opportunity to renew college friendships. If each of you would contact personally one classmate whom you have not seen in a long time and arrange to meet them at our reunion we will have a great representation gathered in November in Williamsburg. Jane wrote to me asking for a classmate's address so she could arrange such a reunion. I do have an address file from the College and will be more than happy to be your official mini-reunion bureau. But, write to me soon. Time is moving along.

Another enthusiastic response to our 30th reunion plans came from Camille Grimes and Bruce Henderson of New Canaan, Conn. Bruce's profession has him globe-trotting for the Manufacturer's Hanover Bank, N.Y. Camille goes along when possible. Fortunately, the reunion date of Nov. 6-8 suits them perfectly and they plan to attend. In May Camille is to receive her Ph.D. in psychology. Congratulations! She continues to work full time as a psychologist at Silver Hill Foundation in Conn. She travels with Bruce when she can. The dates, Nov. 6-8, of our 30 Reunion suit the Henderson's busy schedule perfectly, and they intend to be in Williamsburg for our festivities. As for their family, daughters Libby and Barbie graduated from Mt. Holyoke last May. Libby was married in August. Barbie graduated with highest honors in journalism, and she is engaged to be married in August '82. Daughter Leslie is also engaged to be married late in '82. Son Tom is in College.

Congratulations to The Rev. Edward A. Wisbauer, Jr. on his being instituted in October, 1981 as Archdeacon of Suffolk County, the largest archdeaconry in the Diocese of Long Island, New York. He is the rector of St. Mary's church in Suffolk.

Soon you will be receiving a letter from your reunion committee giving specific details of our plans for your reunion. We need your ideas of what you want to do that special week-end. We also want your suggestions for a class logo for communications purposes before and during Homecoming. Submit your drawings, mottos, etc., to me at the above address before June 15.

The Class of 1952 also has the opportunity to participate in the Homecoming Parade. Anyone have an idea? and be willing to work on it? Send your ideas to me, please.

HOMECOMING '82

Nov. 5-6

A class directory will be made available to everyone at Homecoming time. It will be as interesting and complete as you help it to be. Please cooperate with this project. Fill out the biographical form and mail it as soon as possible after receiving it.

Thanks to those of you who have already expressed willingness to help with our reunion. There is room for more helping hands and heads - so let's hear from you.

54

Mrs. J. Mitchell Brown
(Marge Huff)
6720 Deland Drive
Springfield, VA 22152

No news is good news? Not so! Your class reporter needs material. Make a point of jotting a brief note or postcard this very week.

The lovely new home of Charlotte and Jim Lewis was written up and pictured in the Washington Post. It is something to see!

The Northern Virginia Chapter hosted the College Choir on March 29 in Arlington, where they did themselves proud. Some of us had the good fortune to get to know some of the members of the Choir, staying over, as they did, one night in our homes. We found that we have quite a few choir alumni in this area.

We are very busy doing College-related activities, such as having Dean Gary Ripple come to our local high school to be on hand to answer questions and speak to the high school seniors who have just received their acceptance letters from William and Mary. Then, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Virginia will be our guest for our annual dinner in May when we announce the new officers of the chapter. This will bring my term of office to a close. I have thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

'56

It's time to take a break from spring raking, planting and other back-bending activity, for a couple of last looks at our reunion weekend. Tricia Kizzia Landon, Shad White, Nancy Hilton Wentzel, Margot Ketcham Shriver were all there. Hike Abdella and his sweet Sue were all over the lot. Mary Jo and Tom Rink appreciated coffee Sunday morning, as we had to hit the road a bit early.

It was easy to identify Joan Laurent Windsor when we unexpectedly met at a Williamsburg shop recently. She's still slim, still lovely, with a smile in her voice.

Lois Ludwig Foster is teaching government and American history in the Learning Disabilities/Self Contained program at Fairfax High School. She and Paul celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary by taking a trip to Nova Scotia. Scott is a third year student at the University of Virginia and Polly is a junior in high school.

A. Jarrell Raper reports that the family, which includes three teenagers, lives in the historic Fan District in Richmond. Oldest son, Thomas, is at V.P.I. Anne is currently college shopping.

Pat Best Rainey is an assistant manager in the boys and young mens wear department of a clothing store in Red Bank, N.J. Her husband, Russ, is with McGraw Hill Corp. as a senior district manager. Kathy will graduate this spring from Duke with a major in history. David is a sophomore at Bucknell in civil engineering. Rich is a freshman at Red Bank Regional High School.

Margaret Camp Davis is employed as a bank teller, but somehow manages a family of three children; judges the Northampton County Junior Miss Pageants, and takes an active part in dramatics at the Pennsylvania Playhouse, as well as with church productions. Her daughter is a dental hygienist. One son is a music major graduate of Penn State, and the other a high school student who will major in theater production, also at Penn State.

Gail Mulcahy Richards passed along the sad news of her husband's unexpected death February 28th. We hope the memories of your happy times together will carry you through the difficult period of adjustment. Gail works at the Gloucester High School as secretary to the principal. Her son Will is a sophomore there. Holly is working on the West Coast with a professional modern dance group. Julie is in her last year at V.P.I., studying to be a mechanical engineer.

Sarah Grey Wallace Bonnaville says that she and Jack find things just fine in Columbia, S.C. They recently celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, too. Their son Bill graduated from the U. of South

DR. DEBORD DIES

Dr. Richard E. DeBord, a Williamsburg physician who served as the College doctor for 19 years, died recently at the Williamsburg Community Hospital. Dr. DeBord served as the campus physician from 1954 to 1973.

BATTLE FOR NO. 1

Dave Murphy (left) and Stan Yagiello quarterbacked opposing teams in the Spring Game on April 17 which concluded Spring practice. Yagiello completed 11 of 16 passes for 135 yards and one touchdown in leading his team to a 24-6 victory over Murphy's team. Both quarterbacks are vying to succeed graduating Chris Garrity, and Yagiello seemed to get a leg up in the race by being voted the top offensive player in the game. Meanwhile, head coach Jimmye Laycock '70 announced he had completed a successful recruiting year by signing 17 players to grants-in-aid. Since William and Mary has been moved to Division I-AA status by the NCAA, Laycock's team must reduce its roster to 75 by the Fall of 1983. Laycock signed a number of large linemen, which was his no. 1 priority.

Carolina and was admitted to the MBA program. Jim was initiated into Phi Beta Kappa and Beta Gamma Sigma. Marian, a senior working toward her B.A. in education at the U. of South Carolina, has announced her engagement. Jack is Vice President of International Affairs at Wilbur Smith and Associates. The entire family lived in Australia for three years. Now, back home, Sarah is Director and teacher at a week-day pre-school.

62

Mrs. James R. Henry
(Nancy A. Sinclair)
1096 Meadowbrook Drive
Bedford, Virginia 24523

L. Warren Haley has been named vice president for corporate planning and business development at Systems Management American Corporation. Warren assumes the responsibility for developing and implementing marketing and communications programs at SMA. Warren has previously been with Control Data Corporation and the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. He and his family reside in Gloucester.

William F. Overacre, vice president/secretary of Acree-Bailey & McCarty, Inc. was elected first vice president of the Virginia Association of Realtors at its recent convention in Bermuda. Bill is a past president of the Lynchburg Board of Realtors.

Georgianne Baber Cedarblade lives in Burke, Virginia, in an old house full of character. She has two daughters, 17 and 13. Karen, the elder, is looking forward to applying to The College this year. Georgianne works at the Fairfax Nursing Center as executive secretary and manager of Volunteers International, a refugee relief organization for the Indo-Chinese.

Ortve J. Haff and family live in Chester, Virginia. His wife, Karan Koerner '63, received her Masters in Social Work from VCU in 1979. Ortve received a Masters in Personnel Administration from Central Michigan University in August, 1981. He is the Assistant Personnel Officer at Defense General Supply Center in Richmond. The Haffs have two children, Kathy, a senior in high school, and Steve, a seventh grader.

Larry Suitors has recently been appointed Chairman of the "Blue Ribbon" Committee by Arlington County Board, Arlington, Virginia, to review present County Manager Form of Government and recommend changes or modifications to present structure of local government in Arlington County, Virginia.

Norma "Sis" Murray Ayers is working in the Pentagon for the Department of the Army as a budget analyst. She lives in Springfield, Virginia, with her husband Robert and son Robbie.

Margaret "Murph" Weirick has returned to her hometown in Pennsylvania. She has been elected a councilwoman for the borough council. She is teaching an introduction to Music at Teer Challenge Institute. She is also singing with the Susquehanna Valley Chorale. She is also becoming a very successful gardener.

Natalie Terry Somer lives in Stockton, California, with her husband Dick and sons Eric and Scott. Dick is district manager for American Buildings Co. Natalie shares a job at an insurance claims office from Monday thru Wednesday. Eric is a freshman at Delta College studying electron microscopy. Scott is a freshman in high school. Last September Natalie spent a weekend in Ashland, Oregon, with her "roomie," Ann Thomas Mills and her husband, Nelson. They all attended the Shakespeare Festival. The Mills live in Corvallis where Ann heads the math lab at the Oregon State.

Mary Ellen Lytton Draper is working on a Master of Liberal Studies degree at Georgetown University and is also doing freelance writing. She is a member of the Songwriters' Association of Washington and is into Szechuan Chinese cooking. Her husband David is an architect and a partner in the firm of Collins & Kronstadt-Leahy-Hogan-Collins-Draper in Silver Spring, Maryland. His name appears in Marquis' Who's Who in the East and last year he served as president of the Maryland Society of Architects.

David Jr. is a 10th grader who plays tournament tennis. Recently he was chosen to appear on "It's Academic"--TV Channel 4. Darryl is a 7th grader and an aspiring cartoonist. He has received recognition for his cartoons and illustrations and last year was chosen to design the invitation to the Arts Fair sponsored by the Division of Aesthetic Education of the Montgomery County Public Schools in Maryland. The entire family has spent its summer weekends for the last six years on the Chesapeake Bay with their boat.

HOMECOMING '82
YOU'RE INVITED

Nov. 5-6

Now thanks to Ann Smith Hughes the following news comes from the Annual Theta Newsletter. The Theta House has been refurbished from new carpeting to remodeled kitchen. Ann also writes that her husband Jim is self employed now and has many of his drawings in shows. He was in the final judging for the Duck Stamp Contest. They spent time in Jamestown with 10 other families in October to experience the Yorktown Bicentennial firsthand. Both of their boys play Little League football. Ann continues to work at the temporary job experience and squeezes in PTA, Women's Club, room mother, carpooling, bowling and bridge activities.

Cynthia Isemann Buxton, Don, Deanna and Gary are still living in Herndon, Virginia. They vacationed at Busch Gardens and Ocean City in 1981.

Kay Christian Sills and family are in Traverse City, Michigan. Kay is on the Newcomer's Board, is active in A.A.U.W., volunteers in the Library, enjoys aerobics and plans to have her masters completed by this summer.

Pril Nash Brown and family are still in Florida and in the Hickory Farms business. Pril and her husband Seab often find themselves working seven days a week. Evan and Alden are 8 and 4 and busy with soccer and Cub Scouts.

Lynn Eads Black and two daughters are living in Brownsville, Texas where she is the Director of the Episcopal Day School. She sold the house and moved into an apartment. She has also begun her Masters in guidance. Sara is a freshman in high school and Kiley is in the 6th grade.

Margie Heiney Stouffer and family have moved from McLean, Virginia, to Jacksonville, Florida. John, her husband, is Chief of Staff for COMCARGRU 6 in Mayport and spends most of his time at sea. They added to their family with nine Labrador pups.

Susan Griggs Braman and her husband are living in Florida. E.J. has retired from the Air Force and is now with Planning Research Corp. at the Kennedy Space Center.

Martha Walton High is serving her last year as a Vestryman of St. John's Episcopal Church in McLean, Virginia. She is also President of the Langley Swim and Tennis Club and has just been installed in P.E.O. Jack is still Director of Government Affairs for Univac. Their son Lance is 6'4" at 15 and plays JV football for Landon and Martha Elizabeth plays field hockey for Holton Arms.

Donna Floyd Fales has taken a year off from coaching tennis and is helping her husband Gordon do a major art show--the Western Art Show--in New York in 1983.

Sue Oakley Nelson and family are still living in Durham, N.C. Larry, her husband, played in the Duke Children's Classic and won it for the second year in a row. Kara is a busy 7th grader and Chip is Sue's "free spirit."

Dorcas Miller Lounsbury and family are still in Escondido, California. Dorcas works a ten month year as departmental lab technician in microbiology at Palmer College. Ken is now serving on the Hospital Board of Trustees and the Boys and Girls Club Board. Anne is now a freshman at The College and Dan is 16 and a sophomore and plays JV football.

I hope all of you are well and happy. I enjoyed doing this news for the column. You were so good in sending in your cards and letters this time. I knew you were out there somewhere. Now for all those classmates we haven't heard from in years, we know you are out there too. The next column is reserved for YOU!

The Henry Family is fine here in Bedford. We have a contract on the house in Alexandria, Virginia, and hope to go to settlement by the end of April. We have adjusted to small town living but we do miss all the great cultural events in the Washington area.

Have a nice summer and remember to jot down a note or two and send it to me before July so I can get it in the next column.

64

Mrs. C. Philip Tutschek
(Joanne Arnette)
80 Melrose Road
Mountain Lakes, NJ 07046

Karen Back Backman is in solo pediatric practice in Wayland, Mass. She and her husband and two daughters, 9 and 5, live in a solar house in Wayland.

Joan Dudik Gayoso lives in Falls Church, Va. with her husband Antonio and four children: Steve, a freshman at Virginia Tech, Margarita, a freshman at Barry College in Miami and two boys in high school. Joan gave a seminar in 1981 at the College for students interested in economic development. She has worked for the U.S. Agency for International Development in Washington, D.C. for twelve years. She managed African programs and the U.S.'s largest development programs in India and Bangladesh ($200 million each annually). As Assistant Director, Asia Bureau, Office of Development Planning, she attended the U.N. Conference on Least Developed Countries in Paris, 1981 and assisted in the negotiation of an international special new program of action for the least developed countries. Joan's responsibilities have meant travel all over Africa and Asia.

Prior to joining AID in 1969, Joan graduated with High Honors from the University of Maryland and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. She also served as an Economic Research Assistant to President Johnson's cabinet committee on price stability. Joan's husband Antonio also works for AID. A native of Cuba, he worked in the ministry of finance after the revolution. He left Cuba in 1961 to come to the U.S. He is an economist and expert on agrarian reform.

Gary L. Workman and his wife spent three weeks in Peking, China where he lectured at the Beijing Institute of Technology on Microcomputers and applications in August.

Lt. Col. John Slifka III is currently living in Springfield, Va. with his wife Pat and is working as a logistics analyst for the Defense Intelligence Agency. John will be moving to Stuttgart, Germany in June, 1982 for a three year military assignment.

Mary Green is working for the E-A-R Division of Cabot Corp. as manager of

58

Mrs. N. Davis Wrinkle, Jr.
(Polly Stadel)
7741 Rockfalls Drive
Richmond, VA 23225

The Society received an interesting article which appeared in the Lauderdale News and Sun-Sentinel featuring the outstanding work Barbara Holcomb Lange has done as Corporate Director of Community Relations at the Art Institute of Fort Lauderdale, Florida. Barbara was one of the originators and the driving force behind and in front of the camera on a cable television show called "From a Woman's Point of View." Congratulations, Barb!

Another article received at the Alumni Office was one by Jerry Sparks concerning "client/agent understanding" which appeared in a recent issue of the trade magazine Rough Notes. Jerry is president of Sparks, Crawford & Sparks, Inc., of Rockford, Illinois, an agency which represents a number of insurance companies.

John Weston writes that he is still chairman of the history department at Boston State College, Boston, Massachusetts. He is living in Rockport and is doing a lot of sailboat racing. John said, "We visited William and Mary this fall and it looks as lovely as ever."

My "old" suitemate, Marjorie Gourmours Snyder, is teaching science and math at Spring Creek Junior High in La Grange, NC. She has three children at the University of North Carolina and one in fourth grade. It was great to hear from you, Marjorie!

Marion Hurd Linthurst is working in the field of oral surgery. Her husband Randy has recently published his fourth book on the subject of minor league baseball.

My deepest apologies to Beth Meyer Fox and her husband Ned. Ned is the head of Charlotte Latin School--not Country Day as I reported in my last letter.

Davis and I took our fifteen year old son to New York recently and the three of us had a delightful dinner with Peter Neufeld. Peter is still "lighting up Broadway" and has new shows coming up constantly. Peter made arrangements for us and friends to have after-the-theater reservations at one of his favorite "haunts." What a way to introduce your teenager to New York!

My mailbox has not been overflowing with ideas and suggestions for our 25th reunion. Remember, we want you to come up with an idea for a logo and/or a slogan for the '83 reunion. Please think about this and submit your entry to me by August 1982. A prize will be awarded at Homecoming for the winning entry. Come on now. We have such talent in our class! We all remember your "cartooning," Jay Schreiber. Come on, you all. Write!

60

Mrs. John A. Coffey
(Mary Ellen Carlson)
14101 Manorvale Road
Rockville, MD 20853

Mary Ellen will write the class column beginning with the September issue.

JOHN CANNON DRAFTED

John Cannon, William and Mary's stellar 6-4, 245-pound lineman, was drafted by Tampa Bay in the third round of the National Football League draft in late April. Although Cannon played in only four games in his senior year because of knee injury, he became the first Tribe player ever selected as high as the third round. The previous best under the current draft system was wide receiver David Knight '73 who was selected by the New York Jets in the 11th round.

planning and market research. Mary lives in Watertown, Mass. and is active in local archaeology projects.

Richard Wilfong is still the principal at Nelson County High School. His wife Faye is the Guidance Director at Nelson Junior High School and their daughter Cathy is now four.

Lynda Walker Warren continues as an associate professor of psychology at California State College, San Bernardino. Lynda is on a sabbatical leave this year catching up on writing and research. Her husband David continues as Dean of the College of Humanities and Social Science at the University of California, Riverside.

Steph and Marynell (Roberts) Gordon are in Virginia Beach, Va. where Steph has changed careers - from the family retail business to being Vice President of Solar One, a solar manufacturing company based in Virginia Beach. He is really enjoying his work in this exciting industry. Steph and Marynell continue to work on the Board of Virginia Stage Company, Tidewater's regional professional theater. Marynell also stays busy with the Junior League, tennis and two active sons aged 13 and 9.

Lynn Jensen Harris was married on May 11, 1980 to Ross Harris in Manning Chapel at Brown University. Lynn is a periodicals librarian at the Providence Public Library, having received her M.L.S. from the University of Rhode Island. After several years in law enforcement, Ross is now a student at Boston College Law School.

Daniel Armour was recently installed as president of the United Way Family Center in Virginia Beach, Va. Dan is a partner with Business Controls of Richmond. He also received the President's Award for outstanding service as a volunteer.

Dr. Richard L. Cherry, Associate Professor of Business Administration at Stetson University, conducted a seminar for Pennsylvania State University's Executive Human Resources Management Program on "The Role of the Internal Organization Development Consultant." Before joining Stetson's faculty last fall, Cherry served as director of international quality of work life at General Motors Corp. in Detroit, Michigan for three years.

Thomas B. Elliott is currently teaching microbiology at the George Washington University as well as a course in microbiology for gifted students for the Maryland Academy of Sciences. He is serving as President for 1981-1982 of the Washington, D.C. Branch of the American Society for Microbiology. He and his family, Toni, Stephanie and Kevin visited Jamestown and Yorktown in August.

66

Mrs. Arthur P. Henderson, Jr.
(Nancy Rhodenhizer)
921 Winthrop Drive
Virginia Beach, VA 23452

Thanks to the following classmates who sent in their latest happenings. I need your help in making the articles as interesting and newsworthy as possible.

Grace Guin Schiff gave birth to her second son, Cameron Crockett, this past summer. We'll all be hearing from Grace, since she is to be our 1982 class agent.

Maureen Baber Parel is enjoying life in San Antonio, where her husband is head of the Maxillofacial Prosthetics Department at the University of Texas Health Science Center Dental School. She plays lots of tennis and is suffering the traumas of building a new home and trying to brace herself for the approaching teenage years of her children, now 12 and 13.

Alan White, his wife Marja and their three sons left in January for a one year stay in Japan. Alan will be working at the Nansei Laboratory near Hiroshima on effects of toxic algae ("red tides") on marine fish larvae. Prior to this, he was in St. Andrews, New Brunswick, engaged in fisheries research with the Canadian Department of Fisheries and Oceans.

Marie-Celeste Brewer has been teaching art in two Montgomery County, Maryland, elementary schools, since finishing a year of sabbatical leave in 1979-1980. Marie also is doing some freelance writing for data base programs.

Bruce Caine has been selected for promotion to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the United States Army. He is now assigned to the First Infantry Division at Fort Riley, Kansas. His wife Pam is an honor student in landscape design at Kansas State University.

Martha Wessells Steger has been appointed Director of Communications for the Virginia State Travel Service. She will be responsible for writing and editing feature articles and news releases for various publicity programs. In addition, Martha will be editor of their monthly tourism marketing newsletter that is distributed to Virginia's travel industry.

Frank Turner is an associate professor of history at Yale University. His field is British and European intellectual history, and he also is serving as the Director of the Special Programs in the Humanities at Yale. The Yale Press has published his most recent book, The Greek Heritage in Victorian Britain.

Keith Dauer participated in the Fulbright Hays exchange program, teaching school in the United Kingdom. He lectured in comparative politics, geography, and general studies in Arnold and Carlton CFE, Clarendon CFE, and West Bridgford CFE, all in the Nottingham area. CFE schools are roughly the equivalent of our community or junior colleges. While on the exchange, Keith used last summer to travel all over Europe.

Since many of you were unable to attend Homecoming last November, you did not get a chance to read the biographical sketches sent in by classmates and printed in the Colonial Re-Echo. I have included the first half of these and will put the remaining sketches in the September issue. I did not include any sketch of a classmate mentioned in my last article about Homecoming.

Edward Baptist is a senior research scientist for Southern Medical and Pharmaceutical Corporation and resides in Lutz, Fla., with his wife Lynda Hamshar '68; Bill and Louise Borden Greer are in Newport News, where she is a high school guidance director and he is a clinical psychologist; Jim Breeden is a lawyer with Kopesak, Breeden and Hubbard in Irvington; Nancy Combs Maffett teaches Western Civilization part time at the University of Colorado at Colorado Springs; Roy Cooper is in Burnsville, MN., where he is personnel director of Control Data Corporation; Sharon Cosminsky Kern and Dick '64 moved to Greensboro two years ago and Sharon is a housewife and professional volunteer, currently president of the local Newcomer's Club; Anne Cox Collins received her Ph.D. in anthropology in December 1980. She spent last summer in Guatemala teaching in Tulane University's summer school and currently lives in San Francisco doing freelance editing and co-authoring a book on writing; Carolyn Drinard Grinnan is a part time reading teacher with the Henrico County Schools.

Jim Dryden earned a DDS from Georgetown University and has his private practice in Annandale, devoting most of his time to the restorative phase of general dentistry; Ron Eliasek is the Richmond manager with the Internal Revenue Service; Mary Faul-

COLLEGE NAMES CORPORATE RELATIONS DIRECTOR

A former vice president for marketing with one of the country's Fortune 500 companies has been appointed director of corporate relations at William and Mary. E. Parker Cummings, former vice president for marketing and sales and a member of the Executive Committee of a division of National Gypsum Company, has joined the staff of the Office of University Advancement. Cummings is a member of the President's Council and his daughter, Victoria, is a 1972 alumna.

stich Siegel has been busy with her smocking designer business, Little Stitches, in Atlanta; Dorothy Gilbert Jordan and Tom are in White Plains, N.Y. Dottie is administrative assistant with the Mohawk Country Home School and Tom is director of sales for Omni International Hotels LTD.; Mike Greenwood and his wife Julia Ann Dickin-son '67 live in Richmond, where Mike is operations manager of Plywood and Plastics, Inc.; Gene and Betty Bishop Griffin '67 are in Williamsburg, where Gene practices law; Sterling Gunn has his own company, Colonial Marketing Associates, Inc., which designs, writes and sells programs to financial institutions on such topics as training and marketing. He is married to the former Margaret Barnhart '61 and they live in Midlothian.

Judith Hein Harrell and Alan '67 live in Richmond, where Judy teaches English; Bill Heins is a choral director at a high school and church in Fort Wayne, In.; Gladys Holland Tankersley and Ron '65 are in Newport News, where Gladys is a homemaker and busy mother; Karen Horneij Brown is a housewife in Marietta, Ga.; Dorothy Hutton Tudor and John are in Columbia, S.C., where Dorothy is a programmer and consultant to academic users of the computer system of the University of South Carolina. John is high school supervisor for the South Carolina Department of Education and is near completion of his doctorate; Bob Jenkins is an attorney in Ahoskie, N.C.

I hope you have a pleasant summer and please send me any news for the next '66 class article in the fall. The deadline will be early July. I'll include the rest of the biographical sketches from the Colonial Re-Echo in that issue.

68

Mrs. Fred L. Simmermon
(Sandra Abicht)
1112 Bedford Avenue
Norfolk, VA 23508

It was nice to get information from so many people. Judy Faust Mueller wrote from San Francisco where she is financial manager of a photographic supply corporation. Villnoss, Italy was the setting for Judy's marriage to John R. Mueller, a well known poet in northern California. The birth of their daughter Christina is celebrated in John's book, Venus. Judy says she and John are adjusting to the demands of work, creativity, and child raising.

Margaret Whitley Keator wrote to say she is running for Newport News Va., City Council as a Democrat. Maggie has worked in local politics for the last ten years in addition to teaching government in high school.

Judy Helmes Budner has taught eleven years. After spending the 78-79 school year in Madrid, she received an M.A. in Spanish literature from Middlebury College. She has remarried, has two stepsons, and resides in Bluefield, Virginia.

In May 1980, Kat Atkins Kemper received a Master's degree in public administration with a concentration in public policy analysis. For the past year she has been working in public relations for Norfolk, Va., Public Schools. This entails writing and producing the major publications of the school system, covering state school board meetings, and doing legislative work relating to the Virginia General Assembly. In her spare time, Kay does volunteer work for the Children's Hospital of the King's Daughters and jogs.

Paul M. Dainer is a Commander in the U.S. Navy Medical Corps and is stationed at Naval Regional Medical Center Charleston, S.C. He is staff hematologist-oncologist.

Mary Louise Shannon is a professor at Florida Junior College in Jacksonville, Fla.

She received an Ed.D. degree in 1978. After serving as a U.S. Naval officer for 30 years, her husband has retired. Her son, 28, is serving as a navy physician.

Practicing law in Dyersburg, Tenn., is Bill Jordan. He is married to the former Evelyn Hendrix and has three children: Jim, Brandon and Brandy.

Richard Lunsford and his wife, the former Joan Hemmevich, live and teach in Fairfax County, Va. Rick teaches biology and his wife teaches string orchestra.

Camilla Gardner Levien is in San Diego, CA where her husband is the commanding officer of the USS John Young. While he was on deployment last year, Camilla met him in Hong Kong and the Philippines. She also visited her cousin Janice Cassada '70 and her husband, Jim Ferry, '70 in Kyoto, Japan.

Carol Bagley Amon is Assistant U.S. Attorney Eastern District of New York in Brooklyn, N.Y. She is also Chief of the General Crimes section, and resides in New York with her husband and two sons.

Jean Michael Shick Malcolm '69, and their three year old daughter Laura returned to Maine in June 1980 from a ten month stay in Plymouth, England. While on a sabbatical from his position as Associate Professor of Zoology at the University of Maine, Malcolm conducted research at the Institute for Marine Environmental Research.

Enjoying the wide open spaces of Wyoming and Montana is John B. Todd who lives in Cody with his wife Beverly and son Jay. John is district sales manager for Nalco Chemical Company.

Nancy Allen Kurtz lives in Gaithersburg, Md., with her husband and sons. Scott is in fifth grade, Matthew is in kindergarten and Nancy is in third grade as a teacher's aide.

W. Keith Brown is a scientific programmer for LTV Corporation in Hampton, Va. He lives in Gloucester Point with his wife, seven year old daughter and five year old twin sons.

The director of the Roanoke Transportation Museum is Edwin Watson. Edwin also teaches a course in American history at Virginia Western Community College and lectures on oriental rugs. He resides in Roanoke with his wife Jennifer Riley, '67, and their sons, John (6 years) and Thomas (1½ years).

Kenneth Smith, associate dean of students at the College of William and Mary, is first vice president of the Occasion for the Arts, Williamsburg's annual salute to art, music, and dance. He will be the producer of the Occasion to be held Oct. 3 on Merchants Square.

Have a pleasant summer, and please take time to send a note for next fall's column.

70

Mrs. T. Thomas Van Dam
(Randy Pearson)
215 Myrtle Street
Haworth, N.J. 07641

As spring arrives, Tom and I find ourselves amidst boxes and paintbrushes as we move into our new home. . . Note new street address, same town, same zip!!

Daralyn Gordon Arata earned her JD at Marshall Wythe School of Law, '75, an LLM in taxation at George Washington University, '78, and presently, practices with a private law firm on Connecticut Ave., Washington, D.C. Daralyn married Joe Arata, an economic analyst for Congress, in the Wren Chapel on March 3, 1979.

Still hiking, skiing and running a lot, Debbi Ostergard is a geologist for Pangaea in Denver, Colorado.

Charlotte Thompson Campbell, having finished medical school at Duke, an internal medicine residency and a subspecialty in pulmonary, currently does a part-time practice in Goldsboro, N.C. Her husband is a radiologist and they have two children--Beth, 2, and John, 1.

ODU LEAVES ECAC

Old Dominion University, an arch-rival of William and Mary in basketball, recently announced it would join the Sunbelt Conference and pull out of the Eastern College Athletic Conference. The move will not affect William and Mary's intentions to stay in the ECAC for at least two more years, nor its intention to maintain a rivalry with ODU. ODU's withdrawal still leaves six schools in the Southern Division. The winner of the ECAC tournament gets an automatic berth in the NCAA playoffs.

Besides teaching physical education and health, Jim Green is head football coach and assistant track and basketball coach at Heritage High School, Lynchburg, Va. Jim and his wife have three children.

Prior to her present position as manager of a Devoe paint and wallpaper store, Betty Sue Grombacher Shane spent six years in various aspects of the real estate business in Tampa, Fla. She wrote that she sees Delaine Baylor Holsopple, who lives nearby in Odessa.

Living in New Castle, Delaware, with husband David and sons Michael, 4, and Joseph, 1, Pat Sweezy Taylor is now a full-time Mom. Having taught English for seven years to high school juniors and seniors, Pat was department chairman at William Penn High School for three of those years. She received an MA in English from University of Delaware in '75 and married the same year. Dave, a teacher, graduated from University of Delaware Law School in 1981, has passed the Delaware Bar Exam and hopes to practice law soon.

Had a great letter and update from Jean Muench Lippett who graduated Fall, 1969. She immediately headed to Ghana with the Peace Corps to teach science for two years in a teacher training college. Returning to the U.S., Jean worked as a computer programmer for the IRS, while taking night classes. In 1974, she entered Richmond's MCV Medical School. In July, '77, she married Warren ('72, MS, M.I.T.). Warren found a job in Chicago, so Jean did her residency in pediatrics at Michael Reese Hospital, 1978-81. November 14, 1980, their daughter Florence was born. Once again in the South, Marietta, Ga. to be exact, Jean recently opened a pediatrics office. Warren, her office manager, is also a nuclear engineer for INPO, Institute of Nuclear Power Operators.

Jean thoughtfully sent news of other classmates. . .

Janet Smith, in Washington, D.C., is managing editor for several publications of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Dr. Ken Armstrong finished residency in pathology and a fellowship in bloodbanking at MCV. Ken now practices in Richmond, where he lives with wife Cai Vaiden, '69, and children Alison, 6, and Jamie, 3. Cai is a volunteer docent/guide at Maymont, a Victorian home in Richmond.

Theresa Liedtka left the College after the fall semester, 1969, graduated from a New Jersey college, married John Kashna in 1976, and is teaching school.

I look forward to hearing from more of you over the summer!!

72

Peggy Corso
5767 Reading Avenue, #263
Alexandria, Virginia 22311

I hope everyone is having a nice spring--after it finally arrived. I'm happy to say I've heard from lots of people!

From David Boerner comes the good news that he has just begun his medical practice in internal medicine and pulmonary medicine in Raleigh, NC. Mary Geils Boerner continues to work as a sales manager for Pitney-Bowes in Eastern North Carolina. Lynn Meredith Amende writes that she graduated with a Ph.D. in zoology from the University of Maryland in 1979, followed by a postdoctoral fellowship at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, MD. She is currently a national Research Council post-doctoral fellow in Bethesda. Along the way, she met Ed Bird, a graduate student at the University of Maryland, and they were married in May, 1981.

Tom Mueller now resides in Merrill, Wisconsin where he works at an adolescent correctional facility and teaches at a branch of the University of Wisconsin. Frank Roach became the project manager of the inventory of the collections at the National Museum of American History in January. For the past year and a half, he had been the collections manager of the museum's "1876: A Centennial Exhibition" at the Arts and Industries Building. The American History inventory is part of a Smithsonian-wide effort mandated by Congress. When any of you play tourist in Washington, think of Frank.

HOME COMING '82
YOU'RE INVITED

Nov. 5-6

Debbie Dalton got her M.S. in biology in 1975 and taught at the University of Virginia the following year. Since 1976 she has been an Environmental Scientist with the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency. Her current project involves the cleanup of abandoned hazardous waste dumps. She was awarded the Bronze Medal for Commendable Service by the EPA (the Agency's third highest award) for designing and implementing a program to review pesticides and toxic substances enforcement programs in the ten regional offices.

I got a nice note from Mary Woodward Houston who is teaching photography at South Lake High School in Reston, VA and is also involved in the yearbook and art/library magazine production. She has been selected to teach photography this summer at the renowned Interlochen National Music Camp in Interlochen, Michigan. Mary, husband Craig Houston, and three year old daughter are looking forward to indulging themselves in such a creative environment during the summer. Meanwhile, Craig has established his own structural design and remodeling company in Northern Virginia.

Grace Marvin is finishing her dissertation for her Ph.D. in sociology from the University of Virginia with the hope of being more "marketable." She's also enjoying her last year as a sociology instructor at the University of South Carolina at Spartanburg. She'd like to hear from any of her old friends at 114 Scenic Drive, Spartanburg, SC 29302.

Jackie Sivertsen Wooldridge and husband Bob Wooldridge are in Northern Virginia. Bob is a lawyer in Fairfax with the firm of Boothe, Prichard & Dudley and Jackie is a mechanical artist for promotion with Time-Life Books. Their daughter Meg has somehow gotten to be 18 months old!

Lane Pruett Jacobsen lives in Falls Church, VA with her 3 1/2 year old son and husband. Tom, a transportation economist for a D.C. consulting firm. They're all looking forward to January and the birth of their second child.

Kevin Moberly, wife and son moved to Calgary (that's in Canada for those of you who didn't know where that was either) where he is the Franchise Development Manager for Canada for Pepsico Food Services International. He'd like to hear from Kathy Tully, Frank Finn and Bruce Chapman from the class of '71 and Greg Feller from the class of '72. Kevin's address is 369 Brae Glen Cr, S.W. Calgary, Alta T2W 1B6, Canada.

Judy Sisson Hynson and husband Alan were married in 1973 and had a son in

Jones

ALUMNI NAMED VICE PRESIDENTS

Two banks have recently announced personnel actions involving William and Mary alumni. Detroit Bank Corporation announced the appointment of Allen T. Nelson Jr. '73 M.B.A. as vice president, controller, and Central Fidelity Bank of Richmond announced the election of William H. Jones Jr. '63 to vice president.

Nelson

August, 1980. She taught art for six years in Westmoreland County, VA at the junior high level, and for the last three years, has worked part-time at Stratford Hall Plantation as Custodian of Records.

I got a note from CAZ (?), mailed from Pennsylvania, that read "In San Antonio, Texas, Linda Ann Heck was sighted driving her antique 1955 Thunderbird in the El Dorado area. The car had a new chrome and paint job done and it looks like a bird floating in air. I don't know if she was headed for or from an antique car show."

If any of you besides Peggy Drake live in the Patterson Place neighborhood of Southeast Baltimore, you might have seen her there. She bought a house there and has been redoing it for the past two years when she isn't involved with her community organization or the volunteer organizations she's a member of. One of these is the William and Mary Alumni Chapter and Peggy is the Communications Chairperson. At the alumni picnic she ran into Mary Berrell MacNemar, '71. When Peggy isn't busy with all these activities she is a Human Services Planner for the City of Baltimore.

Mary Brant Dent and husband John had their second child on June 21, 1981. Mary is taking a year's child care leave from her job as a high school Spanish teacher in Burke, VA and loves being home with her children. Her husband is a vocational coordinator for the handicapped in the Fairfax County School system.

Otis Vick, recently in Williamsburg on a business trip, paid a brief visit to campus and the Alumni House. Otis is Program Administrator for the Portsmouth (Virginia) City Schools.

Martha Burton will become Martha Burton Huie on May 8, which is probably before all of you will read this. She met William Huie in Sarasota where he is a lawyer, and his uncle was a professor at the William and Mary School of Business; his name is T. Carter Gleysteen. Besides all this, Martha worked hard on a master's from Virginia Commonwealth University (thesis still not finished!) and then moved to Sarasota, FL. She's working for a large development company on Longboat Key, a nice island on the Gulf of Mexico, for Arvida Corporation. In this "year round tan" kind of climate, she and William stay busy playing racquetball and sailing on weekends, but she still misses the magnolias in Williamsburg. Now that sounds like a great place to live--or even visit.

Joanne Randa and Rich ('71) moved to Heidelberg, Germany for a three-year tour in the Army. Their daughter is now 3 years old. For those of you who have been in touch, their new address is 229 66 0139, Hq. USAREUR - DCSC-E, APO N.Y. 09403.

That's it for now. I hope everyone is planning on coming to Williamsburg for HOMECOMING in the fall. It's going to be fun seeing everyone and it'll be here before you know it!

'74

Mrs. James W. Theobald
(Mary Miley)
4205 Booth Drive
Sandston, VA 23150

Starting off the class news this issue is Sarah Tolson, who, in January of 1980, married Richard Glassco, a computer/energy analyst in Washington, D.C. Sarah is working part-time at the Ramsay Nature Center in Alexandria as a naturalist. Their spare time is more than filled with museum visits, canoeing, travelling, church work, and the music courses they take together.

Cary Glass Massa and her husband Robert were married in 1979. Cary is the Assistant Director of Continuing Education at Schenectady, (N.Y.) County Community College.

Sam Royall's second child was born last August 14. Their second daughter was named Samantha Taylor Royall . . . after her father, no doubt!

Susan L. Chittum is a second year medical student at Eastern Virginia Medical School in Norfolk. Susan is in the midst of her hospital rotation at Portsmouth Naval Hospital in OB/GYN. She lives in the Ghent area in a big house with lots of room and would love to have visitors.

Mickey and Carol Owens Outten are living in Ridgeley, West Virginia with their daughter Elizabeth. Mickey is the commanding officer of the U.S. Naval Reserve Center in Cumberland, Md., where he is responsible for the administration of the reserve program for the tri-state area of West Virginia, Maryland, and Pennsylvania. Carol keeps busy with settling into their new house and taking care of their two-year old girl.

In her capacity as a member of the music faculty at Kentucky State University, Darlene E. Fauver is nothing but BUSY! She teaches two music history courses, a music literature course, a piano class, and runs the music library. Her Musicology thesis is nearly completed and she finished her masters degree in library science, with a 4.0 average, at Indiana University in June of 1980. Darlene obviously thrives on the hectic pace!

Alice Sizemore Graves and husband Pat ('71) live in Roanoke where Pat is a realtor. Alice finds that being a mother more than occupies her hours. Their daughter Stacy is 4 and son Bryan is 1. Alice writes that she sees Kitty Crush Tate on occasion, and says that Kitty expects her second child in August.

We thought we'd seen the last of Jenny Miller Owens for a while when she, her Coast Guard pilot husband, and their two sons left for a two-year assignment to Alaska. But Jenny and the boys are taking advantage of a special air fare and flying home to Ashland, Virginia for a month-long visit in June. Jenny has been working part-time as a librarian in the local grade school. Although the day that one of the children dumped several drawers of the card catalogue on the floor was not one of the highlights, Jenny enjoys her job and the contact with such a wide range of children.

Cary Childress Hoagland is doing editing/copyreading/layout work for the Federal Trade Commission part-time, and part-time in private industry. She finds her work very satisfying. Evening and weekends are filled with German literature classes, and she still tutors occasionally. For relaxation, Cary sings and plays guitar with a vocal quartet.

I am still with good ol' Colonial Williamsburg. I was promoted last month to Manager of Historic Area Products, which involves the research and development of everything sold in the eight stores in the Historic Area. Our ninth store will open in the fall, so I am kept very busy. Jim and I are planning a trip to Spain and Portugal in May, and have been unsuccessfully trying to recall some of our college Spanish. Since the chances of becoming fluent between now and Mary look rather grim, we are counting on the Spaniards to speak English!

If you are taking a special trip this summer, include me on your postcard list so I can pass along the news.

76

George W. Duke
721 Sturgis Drive
Richmond, VA 23236

This is the last column before the summer, our 7th summer by the way as alumni. You all have a good one and let me know what

HAYS T. WATKINS HEADS SPONSORS

Hays T. Watkins (center), chairman of the board of CSX Corp. of Richmond has been elected the new chairman of the School of Business Board of Sponsors, Inc. of the School of Business Administration at William and Mary, succeeding W. Brooks George '32 (right) chairman of the board of Larus and Brother Co., Inc., of Richmond. At Mr. Watkins' right is Charles L. Quittmeyer '40, dean of the business school. New members elected to the Sponsors board include former governor John N. Dalton '53 of Richmond, T. C. Clarke '22 of Norfolk, and Michael G. Essman '64, Birmingham, Ala. S. Warne Robinson '37, Williamsburg, was elected vice chairman of the board.

MAILING CHANGE

Because of increases in mailing costs the Alumni Gazette is now being mailed third class instead of second class. We anticipate the effect on delivery time will be minimal.

you're doing so we can pass the news along to everyone else.

Susan Vann-Chenault is working in Stockton, Cal. for the Defense Logistics Agency following three years in New Jersey as a Management Analyst for the Army. She had met her husband Tim in New Jersey, and he is currently a civilian attorney with the Army. They say Cal. is quite a change from New Jersey, but they are settling in by building a home which should be finished by Easter. Susan also had lots of news about other alumnae. Sue Hall Zolnick is in Baltimore with Seagrams and is working on her Masters. Vicki Warner works in personnel for the Navy and lives in Fredericksburg.

Linda Johnson has been employed since graduation by RACAL-MILGO, Inc., an international telecommunications company. In her current position as manager of Regional Sales Administration, Lynda has seen a lot of the country in traveling to the Company's regional sales offices. Also, she has nearly completed her Masters of International Business degree. Jeff Goodrich is also in Florida, with his wife Barbara and daughter Ansley. He is self-employed as a real estate developer at Crescent Beach, Fla.

Harriet Griffith is currently a 1st Lt. in the USAF in Korea. But this summer she will enter undergraduate Pilot Training at Williams AFB in Arizona. Rolf Williams has returned to Norfolk after spending a year overseas, in Norway. Prior to that he spent three and one-half years in New York.

In northern Virginia, Gregory Fletcher is pursuing his MBA from George Mason Univ. Further south in Richmond, Rob Billingsley is associated with the law firm of McGuire, Woods and Battle, following completion of a one year clerkship with a U.S. District Court Judge in Roanoke.

Also in Richmond, Nancy Mathews is a social worker with foster care children in Chesterfield Co. Her husband Hal is a first-year resident at MCV in orthopedic surgery. Susan Dunford Dixon teaches seventh grade English in the Richmond area. She and her husband Charlie were expecting their first child in February.

Dave Slavin is in Central New Jersey as a quality assurance auditor with C.R. Bard, Inc. He reports seeing Dan Riina, Stan Walters and Mac McClure on a camping expedition in the Shenandoah Valley. Kay Rouse is Assistant to the Director of the Lexington Opera House in Kentucky and also works as a volunteer for the Lexington Children's Theater.

Raymond Bleday has moved back to Chicago and will be teaching as an instructor at the Illinois College of Podiatric Medicine. Nancy Jo Weiner McMahon is also in Chicago area, as a Supervisory Management Analyst at Great Lakes. Her husband Kevin is a lawyer for the Navy at Great Lakes Naval Training Center. Nancy says they love the Chicago area but they are not too excited about the cold winters. Kevin, by the way, is Pat McMahon McCutcheon's brother.

Glenn Johnson is in family practice residency at the Univ. of Texas in Houston after graduating from MCV in 1981. P.H. Fitzgerald has completed an LL.M. degree at the Univ. of Exeter in England and is now in the Corporate Law and Litigation Dept. of IBM in New York. Ralph English is also in New York as a 1st Lt. in the USAF Reserve Chaplainery at Plattsburgh Air Force Base.

I received a very interesting letter from Doug Hill, who is currently coordinating publicity for the Augusta Heritage Arts Workshop to be held this summer in Elkins, West Virginia. It is a five-week program in the traditional music, crafts, dance, and folklore of the Appalachian Region. Doug says that it will definitely be a great summer in Elkins! His wife Pam teaches Special Education at a local elementary school.

They're hoping to buy some acreage soon and build a house in harmony with the beautiful surroundings of the area. He also mentioned that he had heard Gayle Yamada one morning on National Public Radio's "Morning Editor," with a news spot from Florida. Oh, some of the courses that will be offered at the Workshop this summer include bobbin lacemaking, rug braiding, bushcraft, herbs I & II and many more. Ya'll stop by!

Speaking of rural areas, Floyd Tilley was seen recently at the annual Martin Chapel's barbecue in Joelton, Tennessee. He is trying to open a baseball card hobby shop while taking night courses in American literature and Organizational Behavior at Vanderbilt University. Also in school, Jim Robertson is completing his third year at Emory Law School in Atlanta. And Greer Sullivan has completed her medical internship at Baylor Hospital and is currently in Houston. Beth Gregory Thornburg is in nearby Dallas with the law firm of Locke, Purnell, Boren, Laney, and Neely.

Jeff Sconyers will be graduating from Yale Law School this May and has accepted a position with the law firm of Davis, Wright, Todd, Riese, and Jones in Seattle. His wife Lynn has been working as a medical social worker in the emergency room of the local hospital. Heading south, Heather Hollowell has been working for Harcourt Brace Jovanovich since graduation. She turned down a transfer to Orlando with the company's new offices and may return in the near future to graduate school in journalism. In Pennsylvania, Steve Handzel is the Manager of Financial Reporting for American Consumer Industries.

Debbie Limburg Mefford taught 7th grade science in Richmond for 5 years before "retiring" last year to stay home with her new daughter, Wendy. Her husband David is a lab manager of a custom photo processing lab and they live right around the corner from Annie Hoppe Eide. Debbie says she keeps busy teaching Sunday school and working in her parents' family business one day a week, not to mention learning how to be a Mom.

From the radio arena, Sue Romaine works as an account executive for WGAY radio in Washington, while living in Silver Spring, Md. Ben Ball is the morning DJ at WCMS radio in Norfolk. Mike Budahn works there, too. And Fred McCune is chief engineer at WUNC radio in Chapel Hill, while his wife Joyce is working in real estate there.

From the cultural arena, Nancy L. Restuccia has been appointed Executive Director of the Northeast Museums Conference. In 1981 she finished graduate work at the Winterthur Program in Early American Culture, where she completed her Master's Thesis. Chris Loftus was a member of the costume crew of the play, Ruddigore, held at William and Mary in January before rave reviews.

Finally, Mary Borden-Neary, George Duke, John Ford, Jo Ann Gordon, Coke Hall, Vanessa Popa, and Anne Stephan are all in the first year class in the graduate business school of Mr. Jefferson's "other university." In recent class elections, Anne Stephan was elected Vice President of the Student Body, and George Duke was elected President.

Does anyone know about Patty Logan or Betty Browning?

appreciated. This will be our final column until the fall so be sure to send news this summer!

Ben Kellam is still actively involved in William and Mary life. He recently portrayed the ghost of Sir Roderick Murgatroyd in the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, "Ruddigore." He is also employed in the records room at the Alumni House.

Shawn Reilly Williams is working as museum curator in Clarksburg, W.Va. and studying public history at West Virginia University. Her husband Walter is an associate in the law firm of Steptoe and Johnson.

Karen Pitts is teaching art to kindergarten through 6th graders at Salem Elementary in Spottsylvania County and living in Fredericksburg.

Wayne and Glenda Long Humphreys are living in Va. Beach where Wayne was recently promoted to Ass't. Vice President-Loans for the People's Bank of Chesapeake. Glenda is an employee relations representative for the Va. Dept. of Corrections. She is personnel director for a medium security correctional center.

Joey Jacoby is completing her final year in the masters program for landscape architecture at Ball State University. Last summer she worked outside of Washington, D.C. as an intern for the Maryland National Capital Parks and Planning Commission.

Kevin Sweeney graduated from the George Washington University Law School in the spring of 1981. He accepted a position with the firm Grove, Jaskiewicz, Gilliam and Cobert in Washington, D.C.

Holly Wilson was also in the D.C. area finishing a masters in library science. She has taken a job with the Dept. of the Army and will be working in Heidelberg, Germany.

Richard A. Lloyd is attending the graduate school of Fine Arts at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Cissy Wilson is a supervisor in the Atlanta regional office of Prudential Property and Casualty Insurance Co. She is enrolled in the graduate program in insurance at Georgia State and is seeking her CPCU designation.

Doug Taylor is a certified senior accountant with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell, and Co. in Roanoke.

Beth Bowen has completed her third year of studies at the University of Maryland Law School.

Karen Wilson will leave her job at the Social Security Administration in Baltimore to go back to graduate school for a master's degree in public sector management, with a special emphasis on international commerce and finance.

John Phillips, employed at the Alumni House as Director of Class Activities, was recently appointed to the Board of Directors of the Williamsburg Community Center.

Chris Kelley has completed his program at New York Law School, worked as an assistant to the Town Attorney in East Hampton, and is preparing to leave his job as a personal injury defense lawyer to study for the bar exam. In the fall, he will join an East Hampton law firm and teach a course on Environmental Law at Southampton College. Chris recently sent a letter to our class to remind us of our pledges to our senior class gift. Be sure to send your contribution this year and keep the college up to date on any changes of address!

Have a great summer and keep in touch!

news earlier this year. I've enjoyed hearing from everyone. This is our last column until the fall, so be sure to keep me up-to-date over the summer!

Debbie Hymes writes from San Francisco, where she's working for Project Data Systems, a computer software firm. Debbie's involved in marketing and advertising. She's been living in San Francisco for about a year and seems to love the West Coast. Debbie's sharing an apartment with Deirdre Conley. Deirdre had been working in Washington, D.C. at the World Bank before moving to California; she is now working at a travel agency which primarily arranges tours of the U.S. for foreign groups. It sounds like California has been treating Debbie and Deirdre well!

Jeff Bakewell has been busy since graduation. Jeff took a three-month trip around the U.S. - he visited forty states in all - and has been to Europe, Florida and Seattle in addition. He was working in the construction industry for about six months and, when I heard from him, he was looking for a job as a flight instructor or as a private pilot for a corporation. On top of everything else, Jeff has started a custom furniture business and was considering joining the Air Force. But Jeff's biggest news is that he became engaged last fall to Lori Norford. Lori spent her first year at William and Mary and is now finishing school at James Madison.

Kim Lopdrup has been working with Procter & Gamble in Cincinnati, Ohio as an Assistant Brand Manager for the High Point brand in the Advertising Department. Kim spent several months in Seattle before assuming the position. Kim likes Cincinnati for its small-town atmosphere, and enjoyed following the Bengals.

Donna Hollar is teaching kindergarten at her alma mater, Portsmouth Catholic Elementary School. Donna's also been busy working towards her masters degree in Early Childhood at Old Dominion University. Even though it takes up a lot of her time, Donna seems to enjoy the work.

Bruce Davidson wrote that he and Jon Dubois recently completed a house restoration in Bethany Beach, Delaware. It was a nineteenth-century farm house originally marked for demolition, but with some swift bargaining it was soon purchased and relocated onto a new foundation. Restoration proceeded almost smoothly from there with the moral support and workmanship of Colin Steele, Jim Coogan, Everett Boyd, and Eric and Tamara Vance.

I heard from another classmate who moved out to the sunny west coast. Cathy Hartsog wrote from San Francisco; she is in her second year of the economics PhD program at Stanford University. It sounds like she won't want to come back from California! Some bigger news - since I heard from Cathy, she's recently been married to Steve Turnbull. Steve is also in the economics program at Stanford.

This fall, Natalie Haugh moved to Virginia Beach from Washington. Natalie is now working for Resource Consultants Inc., as a management analyst. She'll be doing a lot of travelling, both within the U.S. and abroad, and is looking forward to the travel.

Jamie Brown is at the University of Virginia working on his graduate degree in Slavic languages. Mark Ardino recently completed his MBA at the University of California at Berkeley, and will be working in the San Francisco Bay area. (It seems like San Francisco has a good size contingency of William and Mary Indians!)

Suzanne Eagle graduated from the University of Texas at Austin in December, where she completed her Master's degree in special education. She is now teaching in Houston at a special school for learning-disabled children. Suzanne was engaged this past summer to Bruce Forgive, whom she met at the U. of Texas.

78

Margaret Bowen
1531-K Honey Grove Drive
Richmond, Va. 23229

80

Pam Lunny
166 High Line Trail
Stamford, CT 06902

We have a few new names in this column! It is great to hear from all members of our class. You have consistently been sending in information for the column and it is greatly

I hope everyone's doing well. I have quite a bit of news, some of it is a little old so I must apologize, but I was swamped with

DR. PERKINS APPOINTED

Dr. Frank O. Perkins, who has been acting director of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science and acting dean of the School of Marine Science since July 1, 1981, was appointed permanent head of the Gloucester Point facility by the Board of Visitors in April. Dr. Perkins succeeded Dr. William J. Hargis Jr. who returned to full-time teaching and research. Dr. Perkins, 44, has been on the faculty at VIMS since 1966.

Susan Rappe is enjoying her new job with Lord Corp. as a Technical Service Representative in the marketing division. Prior to that, she had been working in Philadelphia for Dupont as a chemist. Susan and Keith Sullivan are engaged and will be married in May. Keith is a sales representative for American Hospital Supply and was recently transferred to Pennsylvania, where he and Susan will be living. Both are keeping busy with their new jobs, in addition to all the plans for the wedding.

Susan had news of several other people - Conny Johann Mincks is working for General Motors in Detroit while her husband John finishes medical school at Wayne State. Diann Dodd, Steph Jones and Linda Anderson are sharing an apartment in Arlington. Both Lynn Lieder and Carol Humphries are completing their last year at UVA in the chemical engineering program. Carol is engaged to Ky Lindsay. Tom Holmberg is working in Chicago and is also engaged to be married this summer. Mike Schmidlein is working for Philadelphia National Bank.

Steve and Mary Sue Libassi are the very proud parents of a new baby boy, Nathan Albin Libassi. Congratulations on the new addition to the family! Nathan was born just before Christmas and is growing by leaps and bounds. Steve will be finishing his MBA at Virginia Tech in June and will be working in a marketing research position after graduation. He and Mary Sue have enjoyed the time they've spent in Blacksburg, but the Tech spirit is a little overwhelming!

ALUMNI RETURN FOR BLACK STUDENTS RECEPTION

Viola Osborne Baskerville '73 (left) and The Reverend Brian K. Blount '78 (right) share a moment with Dean of Students W. Samuel Sadler '64 and Black Student Organization President Elizabeth Young, a junior at William and Mary, recently. Mrs. Baskerville, who received her J.D. degree in 1979 from the University of Iowa, and The Reverend Blount, who is a graduate of Princeton Theological Seminary, spoke at a BSO senior reception at the College in April.

Howard Kelin was recently promoted to the position of assistant chief interpreter at Jamestown Festival Park, where he has been involved in the preparation for the 375th anniversary of the Jamestown landing later this spring. Sergio Galvis is in his second year of law school at Harvard. Sergio worked this past summer in Caracas, Venezuela for an international law firm, Baker and McKenzie.

Ann Brandt is attending law school at American University. This past June, Ann was married to Eric Meyer (class of 1981).

Ann and Eric are living in Loudon County where Eric is managing a farm.

Michael Coster is also in law school, he is in his second year at George Mason. Michael has been working in D.C. for a small California law firm, and also started his own property management company. Sounds like he's been busy! William Clark was recently engaged to Lynn Chariton. William is teaching at Prince George High School. George and Lee (Greeneison) Betz are now living in Denver, Colorado.

Well, that's all the news I have for now. I hope you've enjoyed reading this as much as I have enjoyed hearing from you all. Be sure to keep all the letters coming. Until the fall, have a great summer!

Vital Statistics

MARRIAGES

Lynn Katherine Jensen, '64, and Ross Harris, May 11, 1980.

Paul M. Dainer, '68, and Monica Christine Meason, February 19, 1981.

Judith Faust, '68, and John Mueller, July 21, 1979.

Richard Lunsford, '68 and Joan Hemmervich, August 9, 1980.

Betty Jaeger (McMillan), '71, and Bernard P. Harvilla, April 19, 1980.

Mary Carol Perkins, '77, and Jonathan C. H. Slaton, September 22, 1979.

Nancy Lee Kent, '78, and Jack Hines Cleland, November 14, 1981.

Lee Ann Englert, '79, and Jonathan M. Regan, October 10, 1979.

Catherine Eva Hartsog, '80, and Steve Turnbull, January 2, 1982.

Lisa Ann Brown, '81, and John Michael Buchanan, '81, August 25, 1981.

Catherine M. Jones, '81, and Rick A. Gunderson, September 19, 1981.

Richard L. Fenstamaker, '82, and Kathy Boush, March 6, 1982.

BIRTHS

To: Betty Smith (Krikorian), '64, a son, David, June, 1980. Second son.

To: Grace Guin (Schiff), '66, a son, Cameron Crockett, June 29, 1981. Second son.

To: Carol Bagley (Amon), '68, a son, Graham, December 30, 1978. First child.

To: Carol Bagley (Amon), '68, a son, Christopher, September 2, 1981. Second child, second son.

To: Kathy Cracraft (Hendrickson), '68, a daughter, Rebecca June, December 23, 1981. Third child, third daughter.

To: Judith Faust (Mueller), '68, a daughter, Christine Marie, March 10, 1981. First child.

To: William F. Miller, '68, a son, Christopher McKenzie, February 8, 1982. First child.

To: Kathy Netzley (Franco), '70, a son, John Carlos, October 12, 1980. Second son.

To: Patricia Louise Turner (Schneider), '71, a son, Scott Arthur, June 18, 1981. Second child, second son.

To: Nancy Joyner (Horrom), '72, and Michael H. Horrom, '71, a son, Alexander Michael, June 19, 1981.

To: William C. Giermak, '73, a son, Andrew Thomas, October 1, 1981. First child.

To: Belita Mustain (Short), '74, and Phillip Aden Short, '77, a son, Phillip Aden, Jr., December 20, 1981. Second child, first son.

To: Sam F. Royall '74, a daughter, Samantha Taylor, August 14, 1981. Second child, second daughter.

To: Martiscia Stouffer (Davidson), '74, a daughter, Helen Martiscia, December 7, 1981. First child.

To: Judy Wascher (Novack), '76, and Tom Novack, '76, a son, Bryan Paul, March 19, 1982.

To: Mary Carol Slaton (Perkins), '77, a daughter, Jessica Dawn, March 18, 1981. First child.

To: Mary Sue Magee (Libassi) '80, a son, Nathan Albin, December 20, 1981.

To: Richard W. Stern, '80, a son, Robert, August 8, 1981. Second child, first son.

DEATHS

J. EDWARD MAGRUDER TUTWILER ADDISON, '17, of Eastville, Virginia, died October 26, 1979. At William and Mary he was a member of Kappa Alpha and the football team.

ERNEST WILLIAM DAVIES, '23, of Belleair Bluffs, Florida, died September 9, 1981. A member of the football team at William and Mary, he is survived by his wife Frances.

JOHN WESLEY PARKER, JR., '24, of Seaboard, North Carolina, died October 9, 1981. A member of Sigma Nu at William and Mary, he earned his M.D. from the Medical College of Virginia in 1927. He moved to Seaboard in 1928, serving that community as a general practitioner from then until his death. During his 53 years in Seaboard, he was affiliated with both the Roanoke Rapids Hospital and Halifax Memorial Hospital. A member of numerous medical associations, he also served for 34 years on the Northampton County Board of Education, 16 of them as chairman. He was a past president of the MCV Alumni Association, and in 1981 he received MCV's Alumnus of the Year award. Survivors include his wife Josephine.

NANCY BELLE GARY, '25 B.A., died in March 1982 in Richmond, Virginia. In addition to her undergraduate degree, she earned a Master's degree in education, from Columbia University. She began teaching English in the Richmond public schools in 1917 and taught in various schools until 1941, when she was transferred to Thomas Jefferson High School. There she served first as an English teacher and later as head of the English Department, the position which she held until her retirement in 1967.

JAMES WILLIAM SOMERVILLE, '25, of Chevy Chase, Maryland, died November 9, 1981, following an operation for a spinal injury. A member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon at William and Mary, he earned both his A.B. and his LL.B. from George Washington University, and his LL.M. from National University Law School. He was a trial attorney in private practice for most of his career, but he also served for several years as Senior Attorney for the Social Security Board. A member of various bar associations, he was a former member of Senator Carter Glass's secretarial staff and also the Alumni Association's Board of Managers. He was the author of Gratianus in Jurisprudence. Survivors include his wife Elizabeth.

BONNIE KEMP JOHNSON (WARREN), '26 A.B., of Newton Grove, North Carolina, died February 7, 1982. A native of Suffolk, Virginia, she taught school for 35 years in both Virginia and North Carolina. An active member of various civic and social organizations, she was the wife of the late Earl Warren. Survivors include two daughters.

MAE DOUGLAS MUIR (SCHONER), '26 A.B., of Maplewood, New Jersey, died November 6, 1980. She was a member of both Pi Beta Phi and Phi Beta Kappa at William and Mary; and she continued her education at the College after graduation, earning her A.M. in 1927. She is survived by her husband Franklin.

ROGAN LATIMER MILLAR, '27, died March 14, 1982 at his home in Norfolk, Virginia. A member of Sigma Phi Epsilon at William and Mary, he began working for the Western Union Telegraph Company in 1925 and retired as a District Sales Manager in 1962. He wrote a number of articles for Virginia Cavalcade and Reader's Digest. He was married to the late Louise Moore Millar, and his survivors include one daughter.

LOUIS BERNARD ARONOW, '29, of Newport News, Virginia, died February 21, 1982. A member of Phi Alpha at William and Mary, he was a representative of Pilot Life Insurance Company for 40 years. He was a widely-known Peninsula civic leader and a past chairman of both the Virginia and the Tidewater March of Dimes. A member of the Order of the White Jacket, his survivors include his wife Lillian, and two daughters.

HERBERT GREYSON DAUGHTREY, '30 B.S., of Norfolk, Virginia, died March 31, 1982. A member of the varsity track team at William and Mary, he earned his M.A. from the University of Michigan in 1942, and did his doctoral work at the University of South Dakota. He began his teaching career in 1929, coaching track and baseball in the Richmond public schools. He then taught in the Norfolk secondary schools for about ten years, and from 1932 until 1938, he also coached varsity track and swimming at the Norfolk Division of W&M. At consular request, he outlined a physical education program, which was published in 1938, for the Republic of Panama. From 1943 until 1945, he owned and directed Camp Lynnhaven, a private summer camp. From 1948 until 1953, he served as Assistant Director of Health, Physical Education, Safety and Intramurals for the Norfolk Public School System, and in 1954 he was named Director, the position which he held until his retirement in 1975. A nationally-known advocate of "sports for everyone," he was active in numerous health, safety and physical education associations and a charter member of the Order of the White Jacket. He was the editor of Directions, a physical education publication; the author of two college textbooks, Physical Education and Intramural Programs and Effective Teaching in Physical Education for Secondary Schools; and the author of numerous articles on physical education. He received numerous awards and citations for his work, including a special citation from the National Safety Council for his outstanding safety education program. Survivors include his wife Anne.

CLARA IONE SMITH (POTTER), '30, of New Kent, Virginia, died March 16, 1981. After attending William and Mary for two years, she transferred to the University of Virginia, where she earned her B.S. in Nursing Education. From 1934 until 1940, she served as a nursing supervisor in several Richmond area hospitals; and from 1940 until 1945, she was an industrial nurse with the Liggett-Meyers Tobacco Company. She later worked for the New Kent Public Health Service, and finally as a nurse in the Richmond School System, from which she retired in 1970. Severely injured in an automobile accident in 1971, she lost both of her legs. Nonetheless, after months of hospitalization, she regained a considerable amount of mobility by the use of a wheelchair and a vehicle known as a "Chair-E-Yacht," and she remained quite active until her death. She was married to Charles C. Potter; her survivors include two children.

GARLAND EDWARD OLIVER, '32 A.B., of Athens, Georgia, died December 27, 1980. A member of Phi Kappa Tau at William and Mary, he was also a member of the Order of the White Jacket. At the time of his death, he was Professor Emeritus of Educational Administration at the University of Georgia. He is survived by his wife Alice.

JANE COURTNEY OEWEL (MOORE), '35 B.S., of Wytheville, Virginia, died February 7, 1981. A member of Pi Beta Phi at William and Mary, she was married to R. Brent Moore. Survivors include two sisters, Mary T. Oewel, '33, and Margaret Oewel Harkins, '43, and three sons.

EARL WAYNE CALL, '56 B.A., of San Diego, California, died March 11, 1982, following a brief illness. At William and Mary he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau, the Accounting Club, and the Colonial Echo staff, and treasurer of the Society for the Advancement of Management. A Marine Corps veteran of the Korean conflict, he received both the U.N. Ribbon and the Naval Occupation Ribbon for his service. He was a certified public accountant, and he served for 20 years as controller for Data Electronics, Inc. He is survived by his wife Drucilla and one sister.

The William & Mary Scarf

The Society of the Alumni is pleased to present an elegant William and Mary scarf for ladies. Featured in hunter green on a natural oyster background are familiar campus favorites: the Wren Building, the President's House, the Brafferton, Alumni House, Barrett Hall, and Lord Botetourt. Designed exclusively for the Society of the Alumni, the 22" x 22" Scarf is polyester crepe-de-chine for easy care.

TO ORDER YOUR WILLIAM AND MARY SCARF, FILL OUT THIS SLIP AND RETURN IT WITH YOUR CHECK FOR $12.00 PLUS $1.50 POSTAGE TO:

THE BOTETOURT BOUTIQUE, POST OFFICE BOX 60, WILLIAMSBURG, VA 23187

Enclosed is my check  Visa/Mastercard  as payment in full for _____

W&M Scarves for a total enclosed of $ _____, at $12.00 each + $1.50 postage per scarf.

Virginia residents please add 4% sales tax.

PLEASE PRINT

NAME _____

STREET ADDRESS _____

VISA/MC NO. _____

INTERBANK NO. (MC only) _____ EXP. DATE _____

SIGNATURE _____

Society of the Alumni
P.O. Box 1693, Williamsburg, Va. 23187

Non Profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid
Permit No. 1390
Richmond, VA.

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

MAY 1982

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA 23185

VOL. 49, NO. 9

