VIMS Dedicates New $4 Million Center

Watermen's Hall Properly Houses "Tradition Of Excellence"

The two-story, $4 million red brick building set on a high bluff overlooking the York River means something special to President Thomas A. Graves, Jr.

"Now we have a tradition of excellence properly housed," said President Graves at the dedication in late June of Watermen's Hall, a 40,330-square-foot building which will serve as the marine science research and administrative center for the Virginia Institute of Marine Science.

President Graves, Governor Robb and about 450 other dignitaries and guests attended the dedication of the new building which is the first major state-financed center built at VIMS in nearly 20 years.

Named for the Virginia watermen — "those hard-working, irreplaceable men who go down to the sea in ships," in the words of President Graves — Watermen's Hall includes an 8400-square-foot library which will house the institute's 33,000 bound volumes, three general classrooms and three science laboratories for biological oceanography, chemical oceanography and physical/geological oceanography. It also contains administrative offices and a 273-seat auditorium, which will help VIMS and the College's School of Marine Science attract an increasing number of national and international scientific meetings and symposiums. Two major symposiums have been scheduled for 1985.

Governor Robb, who praised the watermen after whom the building is named for their "fierce independence and unyielding self-reliance," said the new center will enable VIMS to "carry forward its important educational work, so that the Chesapeake Bay which has given us so much may continue to be one of Virginia's great environmental treasures."

President Graves said Virginia's watermen are the first to feel the effect of research conducted by VIMS and by the School of Marine Science. He called VIMS's work and its placement under William and Mary in 1979 "one of the most satisfying accomplishments" of his presidency.

In effect, the new building marks a turning point in VIMS's 40-year history which had been marred in recent years by aging facilities and equipment and shaky financial management exemplified by a $5 million deficit. Now, along with Watermen's Hall, Virginia's General Assembly has provided a new budget that eradicates the last of the deficit and provides $1.7 million for specific important research.

In addition to the help from the State, VIMS, under the administration of its new director and dean of the School of Marine Science, Dr. Frank O. Perkins, has launched a drive for private funds to help upgrade and replace scientific equipment at the institute.

One of the most significant gifts was announced at the dedication of Watermen's Hall. Lewis L. Glucksman '45 of New York City, a member of the Board of Visitors, donated a sophisticated side scan sonar system valued at $120,000 that will be used to study and map the bottom of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries. A related sensor device was donated by EG&G International Inc., manufacturer of the sonar and sensor equipment given by Glucksman. The Institute can use the equipment in waters as shallow as 10 feet and as deep as 3,000 feet.

The new financial stability, the new equipment and the new building "will help the Institute maintain its pre-eminent position as a leader in every aspect of marine science," said President Graves. "This day is a real celebration for the faculty, staff and students of the Virginia Institute of Marine Science."

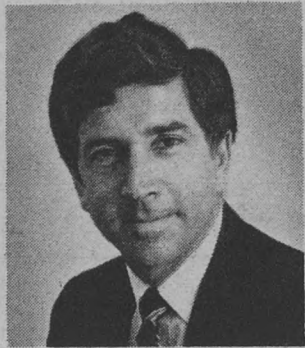

Governor Robb joined with Lewis L. Glucksman '45, a member of the Board of Visitors, to examine a $120,000 side scan sonar system given to VIMS by Mr. Glucksman. The system will enable VIMS scientists to explore the bottom of Chesapeake Bay.

The Real Risk In American Education

By Gary Ripple
Dean of Admissions

We have all been reading about the call for reform in American education. The most scathing document was titled "A Nation at Risk" and it contained language such as: "If an unfriendly foreign power had attempted to impose on America the mediocre educational performance that exists today, we might well have viewed it as an act of war." While I might not agree with the tone of such reports, a periodic review of American education is healthy because it focuses community awareness on the continual need to improve our educational enterprise, the most noble and ambitious ever conceived by a society. This public concern is especially important because there are fewer children today and, therefore, fewer parents to carry the banner for an improved public school system. We need the involvement of all citizens if our investment in the future leadership of democracy is to remain at an acceptable level.

On the other hand, I am greatly concerned by the possibly damaging effects of such a regular barrage of criticism in the media. How would I feel if I were a high school student graduating today, wondering if I had received a quality of education comparable to my elders and if I were in fact prepared to face the challenge of today's world? In truth, colleges are finding students to be capable of handling levels of work not presented to students just a generation or two ago. While it has always been easier to criticize our youth than to praise them, it might be time to focus upon the many positive aspects of the education they have received if only to offer them confidence in the face of the many challenges they must overcome in adjusting to college and the world of work. In my view, the only possible weakness in our philosophy of education in America is based on the fact that we attempt to serve all people to as high a level as they wish to aspire. At times, this taxes our resources beyond their limits and creates situations where quality is diluted to an alarming degree. As long as we believe in education for all students at all levels, we must continue to reaffirm our willingness to assume the burden of cost, and we must be willing to listen to teachers, students and parents who say that quality education should be a high priority in the allocation of public resources at the local, state and national levels. The real risks are in the quality of education Americans are willing to provide and the self confidence with which we equip our children to face the future.

Alumni Gifts Help Museum Expansion

11,000-Square Foot Muscarelle Second Phase Begins In Fall

Major gifts from individuals, including several alumni, corporations, and foundations have made possible the building of a new $1.3 million addition to the Joseph and Margaret Muscarelle Museum of Art at William and Mary. Construction of the two-story 11,000-square-foot addition, which will include five new galleries and will triple the exhibition space of the existing structure, is expected to begin in the early fall.

The expansion will allow the Museum to improve vastly its programs and display for the first time its permanent collection. The collection dates to 1732 and has grown to more than 1,000 works of art, serving as a major artistic resource for the College and the region.

The continued generosity of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph '27 Muscarelle, for whom the original building and the addition are named, made it possible for the planning and architectural work to proceed immediately following the opening of the initial phase in October 1983.

The entrance lobby, which will be expanded significantly with the construction of the addition, will serve as the focal point of the Museum's activities. The 1,200-square-foot lobby will link the original structure and the addition, will serve as the main reception area, and will be highlighted by important works of art.

The entrance lobby will recognize the major contributions of Philip Morris, Inc., of New York; the Kresge Foundation of Troy, Mich.; and Lucille '38 and Alexander M. Quattlebaum of Georgetown, S.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Quattlebaum, in addition to their contribution toward the new building, also have established the first permanent endowment for the Museum. A native of Conway, S.C., Lucille Godfrey Quattlebaum is an artist herself and she continues to paint and exhibit her works.

The first floor of the addition will include a 2,045-square-foot gallery for the display of major national and international traveling exhibitions to be named for the President of William and Mary and his wife. Designated the Zoe Wasson Graves and Thomas Ashley Graves, Jr., Gallery, the funds for the gallery in honor of the Graves are being contributed by friends.

Also on the first floor will be a 450-square-foot conference room to be used by students, faculty and patrons of the Museum. The room will be named in honor of its donors, Linda and D. Kent '58 Watkins of Washington, D.C. Watkins is president of U.S. Systems Corporation of Arlington.

The second story of Phase II will include a 750-square-foot exhibition gallery named for Leslie Cheek, Jr., of Richmond, in recognition of his major gift to the Museum. This gallery will be used for the display of old master and modern works of art from the permanent collection. Cheek was the founder and first chairman of the Department of Fine Arts at William and Mary prior to serving as director of the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts for two decades.

Next to the Cheek Gallery will be a 600-square-foot decorative arts gallery named for its donors, Sheila and James S. Ellis of Williamsburg. The Ellis Gallery will provide much needed exhibition space for the display of items from the Museum's permanent collection, including 17th and 18th century domestic and church silver. Dr. Ellis is a veterinarian and president of Shellis, Inc., a Williamsburg townhouse development firm. Mrs. Ellis is vice chairman of the Friends of the College organization.

Construction of the addition will mean moving the present Bernard B. and Enid W. Spigel Gallery to the second floor of the addition. This gallery, made possible through the generosity of Frederick '48 and Lucy Spigel '47 Herman of Norfolk and their children, Bernard Herman and Fredricka Herman Jacobs, is named in memory of the late parents of Mrs. Herman.

The Museum director's office, located in the initial phase, will be named for Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Hennage of Chevy Chase, Md. Hennage, president of Hennage Creative Printers of Washington, D.C., has also contributed an important collection of works, the Hennage-Marthens Library of Printing, to the College. The Hennages have been active in both College and Colonial Williamsburg activities and expect to retire in the Williamsburg area.

The 2,900-square-foot Main Gallery on the first floor of Phase I of the Museum, named the Edythe C. and Ralph M. Sheridan Gallery as a gift of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert T. Kinnamon (classes of '34 and '39) of Williamsburg, will remain in its present configuration.

A rendering shows how the Muscarelle Museum will look after its 11,000-square foot expansion.

Warm Memories Of A Rare Man

William and Mary's Oldest Living Alumnus Celebrates 100th Birthday

Stephen Ashby MacDonald shuffled to a table down in Montgomery, Ala., the other day, took a deep breath and blew out about a dozen of the candles on his 100th birthday cake.

There are many in Norfolk who wish him well, for as a teacher he was that rarest of combinations — a firm disciplinarian who was also a sensitive man. He is best known in Norfolk as the former principal of Ruffner Junior High School from 1922 until 1951.

"I have a lot of friends in Norfolk," he said when I phoned to offer congratulations "I'd like to be there yet. I haven't seen Waterside. I'd also like to see William and Mary again. I love that old college."

The old college loves him. And why not? He is the oldest alumnus of the College of William and Mary, from which he graduated in 1908. Always energetic — some said "scrappy" — he played three positions on the football team. He tackled and blocked with such verve that he was elected to the college's football Hall of Fame.

"We were furnished pants and a nose guard. That's all," he recalled of his gridiron days. "The rest of the uniform the players had to supply. Everybody wore nose guards. If you didn't, you'd get your head knocked off. I don't remember ever wearing a helmet."

William and Mary had nothing left to give him on his 100th birthday because he had already received the school's highest honor, the distinguished alumni award. But the college's president, Thomas A. Graves, Jr., mailed birthday congratulations.

MacDonald said he has no idea why he has lived so long. But he was happy. "I can eat just about what I like," he said. "I still read, mostly biography."

MacDonald doesn't move as quickly these days as he once did. He gets short of breath when inching around the yard of his daughter's home in his bathrobe and pajamas. "It's about my only exercise," he conceded.

But even after his football days were over, he was a walker. He moved briskly over the sidewalks near his home on Cambridge Crescent. That was his thinking time.

A friend once observed him on one of the walks long before daybreak.

"I just could not sleep last night for thinking about this boy and wondering what I could do to help him," MacDonald explained.

"So I got up and dressed and walked the street trying to think of a way."

He always found a way. During the Depression, if MacDonald learned that a student's family had no coal, he took them coal, paid for out of his own pocket.

"And if a child needed shoes, why he paid for that, too," recalled Reina Puckett, a former teacher at Ruffner.

But he was strict too, she remembered. And MacDonald would not tolerate truancy. Once, while verbally skinning the bark off a student who had been absent without excuse, he ended the scolding with a word of advice.

"The next time you want to play hookey, come see me. If I can let you, I will," he said.

Weeks later the scolded boy was in his office.

"The Yankees are coming to town. I want to see them play," he told MacDonald.

MacDonald gave the boy permission to attend the game. But he also asked how the student was going to get into the stadium. "Crawl under the fence," his charge replied.

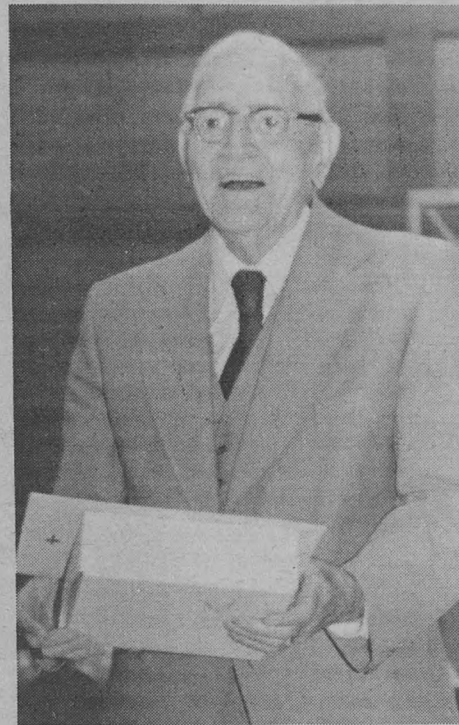

"Oh, no," the principal said. "You'll go in through the front gate." He then handed the boy money for admission.

"That was the happiest boy I ever saw. I never again had a minute's trouble with him," MacDonald later recalled.

During the worst of the Depression he told his cafeteria employees to cook more food in the students' cafeteria than was needed. After the meal was served to the students, the trays were filled for the poor of the neighborhood.

Small wonder that in 1949 the Cosmopolitan Club of Norfolk named him the city's first citizen. Also in MacDonald's birthday mail was a resolution from the club congratulating him on a lifetime of achievement.

"He inspired everyone who knew him," Miss Pickett said.

Stephen A. MacDonald '08, William and Mary oldest living alumnus at the age 100, was inducted into the William and Mary's Athletic Hall of Fame in 1977.

Cameron Gregory of Norfolk, a former student and MacDonald admirer, recalled that long after his retirement the church elder was downtown shopping when a thunderstorm broke.

Because he had no umbrella, MacDonald sought refuge in a theater, one that had shown first-rate films in the past but had converted to X-rated movies.

"Mr. MacDonald told me he stomped out of the theater when he saw what was on the screen," Gregory said.

"I wondered about the title of the film. 'What did you see?' I asked him."

Gregory said MacDonald shook his head like a terrier. "Son," he replied, "I saw everything!"

A 30-Year Love Affair With William and Mary

JIM KELLY '51 MARKS A MILESTONE IN HIS SERVICE TO HIS ALMA MATER

In 1954, a young DuPont management trainee was faced with a tantalizing choice: should he accept an interesting new job offer from the DuPont Company, or return to the alma mater he loved as executive secretary of the Society of the Alumni?

As he recalls today, James Sands Kelly '51 resolved the question by writing to a family friend. "I wrote down all the reasons why I shouldn't come back to William and Mary — that I was going back to my sophomore year, for instance.

"It must have been obvious, because I got a telegram right back. It said, 'Brer Rabbit said, 'Please don't throw me in the briar patch.'"

Jim Kelly and his wife, Beverly Simonton Kelly '53, drove straight to Virginia and right down Duke of Gloucester Street in Williamsburg. And they haven't left since.

This June marked a milestone for Kelly, who just completed his third decade of service to the College of William and Mary. From executive secretary of the Society of the Alumni, he was also appointed director of development in 1965 and, since 1971, has been assistant to the President.

His office in Ewell Hall is compact, and not much larger than a walk-in closet. But it is adjacent to the office of William and Mary president Thomas A. Graves, Jr., and as advisors to the nation's President have known for a long time, a closet close to the Oval Office beats plusher accommodations in the West Wing any day.

Kelly's office is filled with the memorabilia of a sentimental man, and one of varied tastes and interests. A wall of built-in bookshelves holds volumes such as Marine!, the Bible, Lee's Lieutenants, The Academic Life and The Virginia Way. A little ceramic figure of Donald Duck and a statue of an eagle share space with pictures of the Wren Building and the College campus. A handmade afghan, green and orange, rests on the back of a blue wing chair.

It is the collection of a lifetime of memories, and Jim Kelly remembers them all. Raised and educated in Bristol, Virginia, he had received a Congressional appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy, and was preparing in 1947 for a preliminary year at VMI before entering Annapolis. But as Kelly recalls, "Sometime around the middle of the summer of '47, I started thinking about something — it was one of my earliest thoughts," he adds wryly, "that I would have two rat years backed up to each other. Why should I do that? I suddenly announced to my family that I should go somewhere else than VMI."

The name of William and Mary came up, because Kelly's father had wanted to go to the College but World War I got in the way. A family friend called Dr. George Oliver in Williamsburg.

"Old Dr. Oliver came to the Admissions Office, put my application down on the desk of Dean J. Wilfred Lambert, then dean of admissions, and said, 'You remember little Jimmy Kelly — he wants to come to William and Mary.' So for four years, Dean Lambert called me 'little Jimmy Kelly', in which he took great delight."

Had Lambert ever met Kelly before? "No," says Jim Kelly, laughing.

That same summer Kelly's mother had by chance seen a feature in Ladies Home Journal which spotlighted several American teenagers, including Beverly Simonton of York, Pa. "My mother said,

Jim Kelly's mother first saw Beverly Simonton in a feature in Ladies Home Journal and told her son "Here's a nice young lady, you ought to meet her — she's coming to William and Mary." They were later married and settled in New York before Jim returned to the College as executive secretary of the Society of the Alumni.

"Here's a nice young lady, you ought to meet her — she's coming to William and Mary."

But as Fate would have it, Jim Kelly and Bev Simonton didn't meet until his senior year, in a lunch line at the Wigwam. Kelly was a government major, president of the senior class, a President's Aide and varsity track team member as part of his college career.

Simonton was an English major, and by her senior year, she would be voted president of the Women's Judicial Council, elected May Queen, to the Homecoming Court, Phi Beta Kappa, Mortar Board, and as Miss William and Mary.

At their first meeting, says Kelly, "I had lunch with her. She was working on a paper, and I'm sure I had a suggestion." When Kelly graduated in 1951 and left for military service, Simonton had two years left in college. "She contended I picked a sophomore so I'd have someone to visit on campus for two years, and to send me The Flat Hat," Kelly adds with a grin.

The Kelly grin can turn serious as he thinks back to his four years at William and Mary, and what they meant to him. The Naval Academy appointment lost its charm after Kelly came to William and Mary.

"As students, we were blessed right after the war with very good teachers. That was the gift of John Stewart Bryan (president of the College from 1934 to 1942) and Dr. Pomfret (John Edwin Pomfret, president from 1942 to 1951).

"In that war era — this was the Second World War — we were willing to make do. If there was ever a universal feeling among the students and faculty that William and Mary was the best of all places, we were going to make it the best. There were no fraternity houses, not enough classrooms and old Phi Beta Kappa Hall was obviously inadequate. But there was a 'make do' attitude.

"People pitched in to make sure every College dance was done in a very elegant way. The dances in the Sunken Garden and Blow Gymnasium had spectacular decorations, and we'd bring in the big bands, as big as any college was doing. We made sure to do the same as other name institutions in the East."

Sitting at his desk more than thirty years later, Kelly still names with respect the teachers of that era who made William and Mary great: "The Fowlers, Mortons, Davises we received our education from — and by mentioning just these names we're leaving out tremendous people like the Kernodles and Mosses, the Quinns and the Guys."

To go through a yearbook with Jim Kelly is to relive that era vicariously. As he leafs through the '53 yearbook — "one of the most beautiful yearbooks ever done" — he can name names and tell stories for almost every page. And in a sense, time stands still.

Kelly's favorite place on campus bears that out. "My favorite spot is just after sunset at the wall behind the Wren Building, just in front of the Sunken Garden. At that very magical moment, time doesn't exist. And in the twinkling of an eye, I can be in any year I want to be between 1947 and 1984."

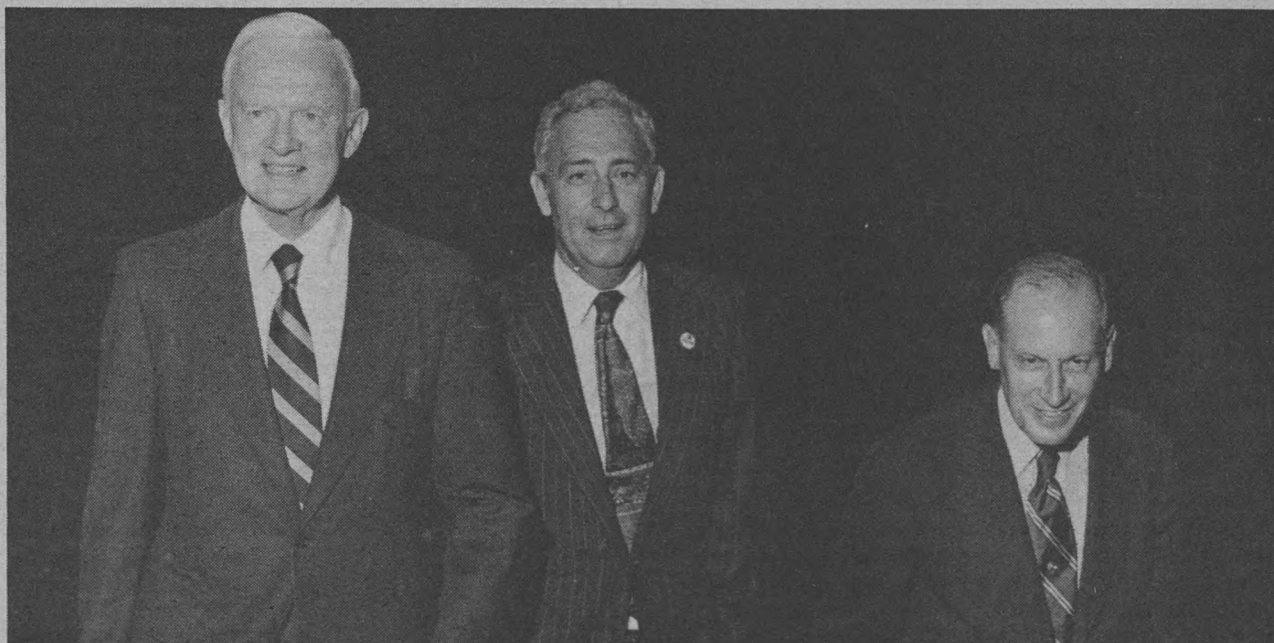

Some of those times have been bittersweet. Kelly's college suitemate and good friend Robert K. Benjamin '51, a fellow Marine, was killed in Korea. Other friends and classmates have passed away, but Jim Kelly hasn't forgotten them. He himself stayed in the Marines in 1953, and calls it a "fraternity." (He retired with the rank of Colonel.)

By 1953, the Korean War had wound down, Bev Simonton had graduated, and Kelly joined the DuPont Company. "I didn't know much about companies, but I had learned to admire leadership," says Kelly. He found that at DuPont, and also a touch of the College. "While visiting, I walked into one beautiful office that had, over the desk, a picture of the Wren Building. When I saw that, I knew I was in safe harbor." Truman Welling '30 was the inhabitant of the office and told Kelly he'd like it at DuPont.

The Kellys were married and settled in New York (with Jim Kelly president of the N.Y. alumni chapter) when the offer came to return to Williamsburg and the College.

"In those days, you knew there were giants in the land," says Kelly. "We had alumni who had attended the College in the 19th century. There were just a few, so they were easy to get to know. I remember at a gathering of the class of 1898, one member wore a sign saying he was the oldest living alumnus of the College. I knew someone else, an alumnus of 1895 who was three years older and told him I was sorry." Adds Kelly, "He said it didn't matter, the other alumnus was always a showoff anyway."

The alumni of William and Mary have been near President Graves is the third president under whom Kelly has served since he returned to William and Mary 30 years ago. Shown with Graves and former United States Senator Harry F. Byrd Jr., Kelly came to William and Mary while Alvin Duke Chandler was president and later worked for Dr. Davis Y. Paschall '32, the 23rd president of the College.

Kelly is well-known to William and Mary's thousands of alumni including former Governor Mills E. Godwin Jr. '36. Says Kelly of alumni: "They are all, to a man and woman, their own men and women."

and dear to Jim Kelly's heart, second only to the spirit of the College itself. "If you've been around college where people truly love it, your days are always the good old days. Every once in a while, I have to remind alumni that the spirit of the College is still here. The Davises and Fowlers have been replaced manyfold by a new generation of great teachers. Each new generation, when it remembers, will have its own favorite memories.

"Their associations will be just as strong, just as beautiful and meaningful."

The association closest to Jim Kelly is his marriage to Bev. "Anytime a William and Mary man marries a William and Mary girl, that's the nicest arrangement," he says. Very much a family man, Jim is proud of their three children: Sharra, a teacher and coach at nearby Norfolk Academy (William and Mary class of '80) and 16-year-old Beverly, "Miss B." The Kelly's oldest son was Sandy, (James S. Kelly, Jr.) who graduated from William and Mary in 1977 and played on the tennis team there. The victim of an automobile accident several years ago, Sandy is remembered each year with the Sandy Kelly Memorial Tennis Tournament at Homecoming weekend. The alumni named it in his honor.

Also, Jim Kelly doesn't speak as freely of the honors bestowed upon him as he does of the College. Yet he is a past president of the Williamsburg-James City County Chamber of Commerce, the W-JCC United Fund, of the Colonial District Boy Scouts of America and the Williamsburg Area Red Cross.

He's a vice-president of the Robert Earl McConnell Foundation, a trustee of the Jamestown-Yorktown Foundation, and a recipient of the coveted Silver Beaver award given by the Boy Scouts of America.

Meanwhile Bev Kelly has distinguished herself as a specialist in early education and childhood development. She now teaches at Walsingham Academy in Williamsburg.

After thirty years, can Kelly categorize William and Mary alumni?

"They're gregarious extroverts, yet the minute you go trying to categorize William and Mary alumni, you've proven you don't know them. They are all, to a man and woman, their own men and women. They each feel free to give an opinion of what William and Mary is and should be. I think this is part of the College's strength. They think enough of the place to have an opinion — they call, they care very much. They communicate regularly their disappointment and their pride."

And last but not least, what of William and Mary presidents — past, present and future.

Leaning forward in his chair, genial, silver-haired Jim Kelly has this to say about that: "The history of the College is best described by the administration of each president. The Fates and the Board of Visitors have always chose wisely and given us the right man at the right time to keep us evolving toward that goal we all have — a William and Mary worthy of her heritage — which each president assures for his generation of students. These are the good old days."

Ambassadors Without Peer!

Choir Forms Lasting Friendships On 31-Day Tour Of Europe

On a 31-day tour through Europe this summer, members of the William and Mary Choir served as ambassadors without peer for their alma mater and gathered for themselves a string of friendships and experiences that will last a lifetime.

"It's the energy and vitality that they bring to the music," explained one British music teacher at a concert in Budleigh Salterton in Devon. "People are applauding them because they aren't used to hearing sacred music presented with such vigor . . . English choirs should take note." The choir's repertoire for the trip including a selection of both secular and sacred music.

"Really smashing aren't they," said a senior citizen who came to a noon concert at St. Mary-Le-Bow Church in the heart of London.

The 26-concert schedule, which included appearances in Notre Dame and Chartres cathedrals, Westminster Abbey, colleges, village churches and a country celebration in England, was augmented by a string of impromptu mini-concerts. The choir sang to passengers on the Pan American 747 from New York to Paris and they sang on the way back. Students serenaded Chief Steward Van de Riviere Odile of the English channel ferry Prince Laurent. Students sang on the boat across Lake Lucerne in Switzerland, so charming one passenger that she arranged her English trip to hear the choir when it performed at the British International Garden Festival in Liverpool under the sponsorship of the American Embassy.

Planning for the trip began about a year and a half before the choir left May 14. Choir members and their families voted for the trip which cost each participant approximately $1700 in travel costs.

The choir designed and sold Christmas cards and notecards, set up a singing telegram service on campus and held a pancake breakfast as part of their fundraising efforts to help defray expenses. Over $21,000 was raised which was divided equally among all members making the trip. The choir also received a generous donation from the Olde Guard of the Society of the Alumni.

As well as arranging an itinerary and concert schedule for the choir, director Frank Lendrim and his wife, Betty Jean, incorporated special "extras" which made the trip more of an adventure than just a sightseeing tour.

For example, there was a special lecture on decorative arts during the William and Mary period planned for the choir at the Victoria and Albert Museum in London, arranged by Mrs. Lendrim. Dr. Lendrim arranged a visit to the office of the Bishop of London where his chaplain showed the choir an original portrait of Bishop John Compton, first Chancellor of the College (1693-1700).

The Precentor of Westminster Abbey officiated at a brief memorial service the choir held at the graves of Queen Mary and King William in Westminster Abbey. The choir also

The choir performed at Britain's first International Garden Festival at the invitation of the U.S. Embassy which sponsored the trip to Liverpool. The choir sang in the main pavilion of the Festival which stretched for several miles along the River Mersey.

Lisa Bartlett of Newport News uses the sword of the City of Winchester to "knight" Dennis Ramsey of Madisonville, Va., as Mathew Blum of Silver Spring, Md., looks on. The choir was entertained by the Mayor and Mayoress of Winchester following its concert at Winchester College.

Michelle Phillips '81, a past member of the choir, brought her new husband along to meet choir director Frank Lendrim (left) and Mrs. Lendrim at their hotel in London where the couple was on its honeymoon.

Malcolm Miller, an internationally famous guide at the Chartres Cathedral, uses members of the choir to explain the concept of flying buttresses. Miller, who spoke at William and Mary last year, gave the choir a special tour of the cathedral where the choir performed a concert.

placed flowers on the tombs. Lendrim reminded the choir members that they were close to the tomb of British composer Henry Purcell, whose music was included in their concerts.

At the Church of the Holy Sepulchre in London students saw the grave of Captain John Smith of Jamestown.

Tea with the Dean of St. George's Chapel Winsor, Michael Mann, and his wife was an unexpected bonus. Tea was served in the cloisters and the Dean gave students a tour of his office, which contains the table upon which the body and head of Charles I were placed after execution. "I'm using the very same table," said the Dean, obviously enjoying his role as guide. Later the choir heard evensong sung in the Chapel by the boys choir. Students sat in the stalls used by the Knights of the Garter which are decorated with ornate family crests, banners and armor.

Morning coffee with the Mayor and Mayoress of Winchester included the opportunity to actually handle the sword, mace and other pieces of the city's regalia.

Malcolm Miller, who has devoted his life to interpreting Chartres Cathedral in books and through guided tours, gave the choir a special tour. Choir members may not remember all the details of his talk, but they will probably always recall how he used several of them to graphically illustrate the concept of flying buttresses. Miller spoke on campus earlier this year.

Nigel Nicholson, author and critic, whose mother, Vita Sackville-West, was a close friend of writer Virginia Woolf, gave the choir a tour of Knole where he grew up and which is, today, one of the grandest country homes of England. He hosted four students overnight at his present home, nearby Sissinghurst Castle.

Climbing the Eiffel Tower, visiting the palace at Versailles, the trip through the Alps to Geneva, the cruise down the Rhine, and shopping in Heidelberg were all highlights of the tour, but, for many students, the favorite stop on the tour was at the village of Bruton in Somerset, England, where the choir sang at St. Mary's Church, mother church of Bruton Parish Church in Williamsburg.

The Drapers' Company of London

Choir director Frank Lendrim (left) gave a framed Millington print of the Wren Building to Walter B. G. Simmons, a past master of the Drapers' Company with which William and Mary has a long-standing relationship. Established as an ancient guild of wool cloth merchants in London, the Drapers' Company today is a trustee of charitables and is a great charitable body in its own right.

invited the choir to visit Drapers' Hall where the choir was entertained at a sumptuous buffet supper. The hall dates back to the reign of Henry VIII when it was purchased by Drapers' Company.

Students were formally greeted by Walter B. S. Simmons, a past master of the Drapers, acting in the absence of Master Peter Hipsley-Cox. Among those on hand to greet the choir members were Mr. and Mrs. Eldrid who visited Virginia for the Yorktown Bicentennial and were guests of President and Mrs. Graves. Sporting a William and Mary tie was Mr. Hugh Farmar who came to help the College celebrate its 275th anniversary in 1969, along with Sir Anthony Packe, then Master of the Drapers. Organized in 1364 as a guild of wool cloth merchants, the Drapers' Company today operates as trustees of a great number of charities. It has maintained ties with the College for several years through a student exchange program.

Most members of the choir kept a daily journal. Each student catalogued the parts of the trip they liked best. For vivacious Sonia Sessoms of Petersburg, Va., this was her first trip abroad. Her bus buddies nicknamed her the "Whoa Girl" because she had an enthusiastic response to all she saw. One of the highpoints of the trip for her was the opportunity to stay with host families and learn about their lifestyles. "The people were very kind to us," she said, "and the choir gave them something in return. I looked out in the audience during one concert and saw someone crying while we were singing a spiritual. . . I'm very glad I came. Europe doesn't seem so far away now because we met people there and I can think of those people who were so nice to me. . . and those wonderful strawberry tarts in Geneva — Whoa! I can go back, but I'll never have these same experiences again."

"As a recent graduate, I feel that this trip is a round-off of my college career," said Debra Young of Uniondale, N.Y. "I've actually experienced other cultures instead of just reading about them. I was able to communicate in a foreign language (French) and that was a thrill in itself. More importantly, this trip has given me confidence in my abilities to handle new situations, people and places. I shopped with foreign currencies, learned public transportation systems in the cities, and conversed with a wide variety of people, sharing cultures and ideas."

After visiting the spartan facilities for students at Winchester College, one of England's prestigious prep schools, Debra said she was tempted to sing something from "Oliver."

It was also the first time in Europe for Mathew Blum, although he had won a trip to Egypt during high school.

"It has been a very enriching experience," he said. "It was an honor to sing in Notre Dame and Westminster Abbey." Matt was also impressed with the gardens in England. "No matter how small the house, there's a garden," he observed.

Paris and the Louvre Museum were top priorities for Kelvin Reid of Esmont, Va., before he started the trip. After he visited Geneva, Paris took second place. Kelvin said he used his knowledge of Spanish in Paris when he couldn't make himself understood in English. "It was an adventure being exposed to other cultures," he said. "If offered the chance, I will certainly come back again. It's as if we have been on the outside looking in, just a glance before we move on. It has whetted my appetite to come again."

Emily Clark of Hopewell Junction, N. Y., was one who thought the trip should have been more leisurely. She hints at this in her wish to be a future host for traveling singers. "I would feed them well, let them watch TV, give them washcloths and cook local dishes and native desserts for them," she said. Emily didn't like pickled beets and cabbage which appeared on the menu frequently in Germany, but she did enjoy Scotch eggs when she got to England.

Danny Michael of Arlington, Va., liked England and Westminster Abbey. "I didn't see anywhere that I would rather live than home, but it (Europe) would be a neat place for a honeymoon." During a discussion of audience response to the choir Danny added: "If people did think we were great and responded to us, then that's a tribute not to us but to our parents."

Along with all the highs, there were a few low spots connected with the trip. Kord Basnight, who had been one of the most energetic fundraisers for the trip, had to stay home because of a case of mononucleosis. In Paris several students fell prey to artful pickpockets. Mrs. Lendrim's well-stocked medicine bag proved adequate for most emergencies.

Part of the educational experience of the trip to Europe for the choir was learning about the culture. That included a good deal of shopping, as Emily Clark of Hopewell Junction, N.Y., illustrates as she crams her purchases into her purse before boarding a boat for a cruise down the Rhine River.

There are many American choirs that tour Europe during the summer. If all enjoyed as rich an experience as the William and Mary choir they were indeed fortunate. If all were received as warmly and responded as graciously as did William and Mary Choir members, the ties of international friendship have been strengthened.

Nick St. George '60: An MBA Case Study

Oakwood Homes President Turns Company Into A Winner

"Sometimes I feel like an M. B. A. case study." The self-characterization is apt. In 1978, Nick St. George '60, '65 JD was a young, bright, happy vice president of a growing Virginia-based company. Then came the unexpected. James LaVasque, the president of Oakwood Homes, on whose board of directors St. George had been serving, was killed in a plane crash. The rest of the board asked St. George to take over the company.

"When the board asked me to head up Oakwood," he recalls, "I was flattered but saw some real problems. Although Oakwood was doing OK, it was clear to me that the housing industry in general was in for a real bath. Housing starts had been falling for over a year. Interest rates were climbing. The Fed was turning down the tap on money supply. Manufactured housing — Oakwood's business — already had what appeared to be a built-in image problem. I had to ask myself: 'Do I really need all this?'"

St. George had good reason to hesitate. But he was accustomed to uphill battles. Born in Waltham, Mass., in 1939, he and a brother were raised by their mother, who worked long hours as a short-order cook to keep the family going. They moved to Pittsburgh just as Nick was entering high school.

He remembers that "college would just be a pipe dream unless I made it on my own. Luckily I was a fair athlete (he lettered in five sports) and a lot of coaches were interested in me, including Coach Harry Groves. I got a combination athletic and academic scholarship to William and Mary."

He recalls his first campus visit very well. "The truth of it is that I went to Williamsburg because I wanted to visit my brother, who was stationed in Norfolk. But I fell in love with the place. William and Mary was the first — and last — college I ever considered."

After graduating in 1960, St. George fulfilled a two-year ROTC obligation before returning to William and Mary to study law. He remembers the impact that Dean Dudley Woodbridge had on his thinking: "He was the best teacher I ever had. I still remember things he said to us — a great man." By 1966 St. George had migrated to Legg Mason Wood Walker, the Baltimore investment banking house, where he rose to become vice president. Even more important, his experience there taught him how to work with troubled companies.

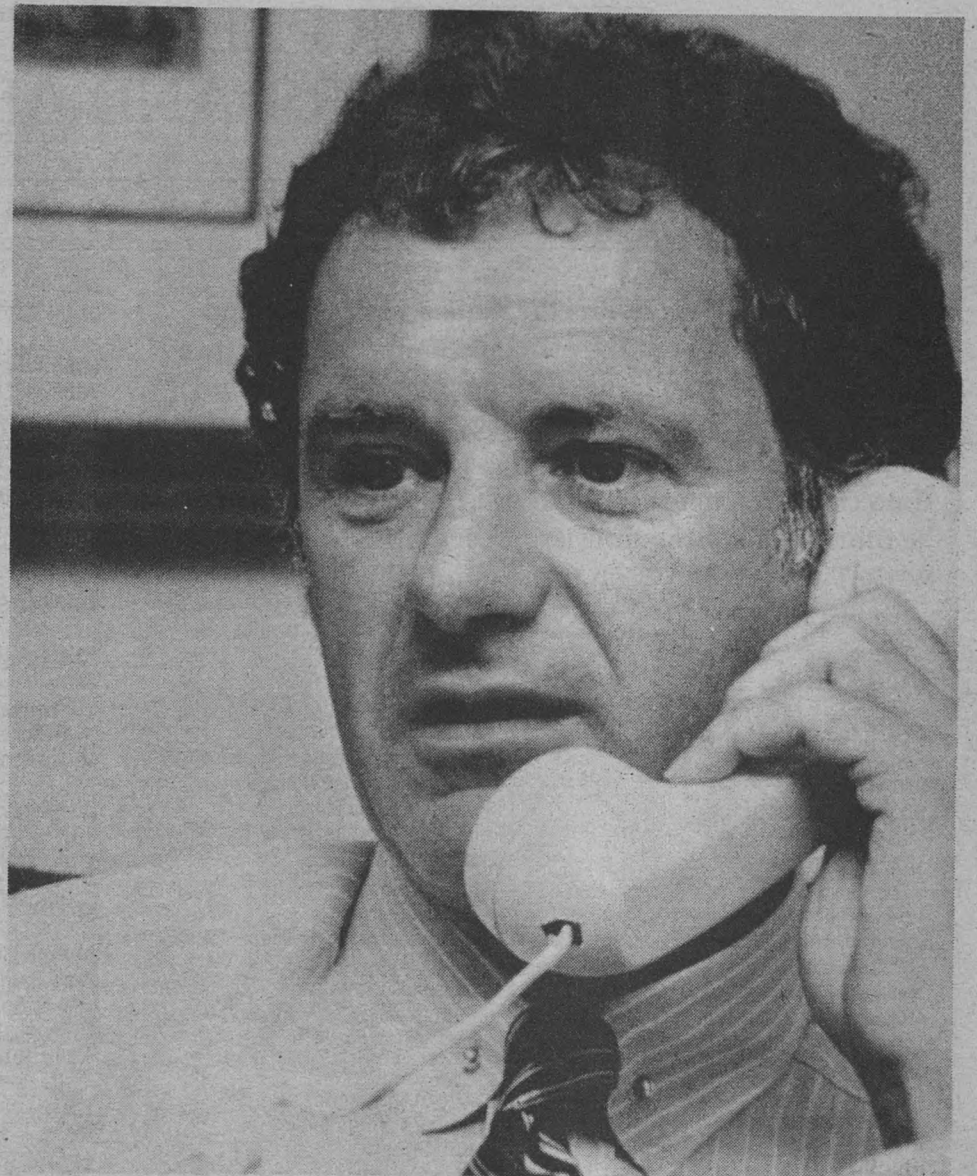

Addressing Oakwood's problem, St. George adopted the old cavalry solution (sometimes known as the John Wayne gambit). "I figured," he says, "that since they had us surrounded, we had them where we wanted them." He took the job and moved his family to Greensboro, N.C. "To me," he says, "Oakwood was the chance to run my own show. I had some pretty definite ideas about the manufactured housing industry that I wanted to try out. In a way, it was like breaking out of a diet."

Instead of becoming a lame duck president, St. George grabbed the helm and opened the throttle. "A lot of people are afraid of change," St. George says. "They see threat instead of opportunity. To me that's looking at it through the wrong end of the pipe. You can't treat a company that employs 700 people as if it were a carburetor." St. George decided that Oakwood's tentative efforts to integrate manufacturing, marketing, and retailing into one integrated operation should become the company's master plan.

History has validated St. George's wager. Not only has site-built home construction been outperformed by the manufactured housing industry, but Oakwood has consistently outperformed the industry as a whole. Nick St. George's Oakwood Homes has emerged as one of the economic bright spots in the Southeast, hailed by the Value Line investment service as "one of the sounder companies in the industry."

Since St. George took the reins, Oakwood has expanded its manufacturing, sales, and development operations. Today they operate 60 company-owned sales centers in six states (N.C., Va., W.Va., Tenn., S.C., Texas). Their three plants in North Carolina have a single-shift daily production capacity of 19 to 21 houses each. And, Oakwood is developing and managing six manufactured home rental communities, all in North Carolina, three of which it owns. In 1983, Oakwood made a recent public stock offering (600,000 shares) raising $9.8 million. Proceeds are financing expansion across the board. Seven new sales centers are planned, and expansion is in the works for manufacturing capabilities, personnel training, and distribution.

Nick St. George, a 1960 alumnus who received his law degree from William and Mary in 1965, has turned Oakwood Homes into one of the nation's leading manufactured housing companies. St. George took over the company after the previous chief executive was killed in a plane crash.

St. George's and Oakwood's success have already attracted national attention. In April, 1984, Nick was the subject of a profile story in Forbes Magazine, and the July 3rd issue of the respected DLJ (Donaldson, Lufkin & Jenrette) Report told investors that "Oakwood is considered to have one of the strongest management teams in the manufactured housing industry, with its strength emanating from the top. Since 1979, president Nick St. George has been viewed as an industry spokesman."

Nick's venturesomeness is matched by his commitment to his own product. A case in point is a new industry showcase publication, "Style," featuring a photographic essay on "The Country Squire," one of Oakwood's popular models. The featured home is St. George's own.

Tribe Likes Taste Of Success

Winning 1983 Campaign Expected To Propel Indians This Fall

After a taste of success last season, William and Mary's football team is hungry for more. Head coach Jimmye Laycock '70 is hoping that the impetus from last fall's winning record, the Tribe's first since 1974 will carry over into the upcoming campaign.

"I'm optimistic," said Laycock. "We're coming off a good year (6-1 against Division AA opponents, 6-5 overall) and we hope that will help us," he said.

Winning definitely helped over the off-season in recruiting and team morale. "We used to talk about being successful. Now we've shown that we can be successful," Laycock said. "Now we're hoping to build on last year's performance."

The 1984 edition of the Tribe should be an exciting outfit, if past performance holds true. Quarterback Stan Yagiello will return to lead the offense and free safety Mark Kelso will anchor the defense. Both players have been tabbed by The Sporting News as pre-season All-Americans, quite an honor for any school.

This season's schedule also signals William and Mary's transition towards integration into the newly formed Colonial Conference. Member teams Colgate and Lehigh make an appearance this fall. By 1986 a full slate of five conference games will be in place. Other member institutions are Bucknell, Lafayette, and Holy Cross.

The big eye-catcher on this year's schedule, however, is a September 22 date with nationally ranked Penn State at State College, Pa. Coach Laycock is trying not to let his team focus on that game too much. "We can't let that game affect our attitude towards the rest of the schedule," he said. "We'll just take it when it comes along."

Four home games this fall feature VMI, Temple, Boston University, and Homecoming against Lehigh on November 3. All contests at Cary Stadium start at 1:30 p.m.

Over the course of his five years at William and Mary, coach Laycock has developed one of the most explosive passing offenses in college football. Last season the Tribe threw the ball an average of almost 40 times per game, completing over 63 percent. Stan Yagiello, a starter two years ago and outstanding in four games last season before going out with an injury, will be back to guide the attack.

Yagiello will have an experienced receiver corps available, including split end Jeff Sanders (47 catches last year) and powerful tight end Glenn Bodnar (45 receptions, a team leading 7 td's). Flanker Mike Sutton, who caught 66 passes for a William and Mary record 930 yards, has moved on to the NFL's Pittsburgh Steelers. Senior Dave McDowell and junior Ron Gilliam will contend for the flanker position.

Despite their passing prowess, the Tribe will not neglect the running game. "We passed a lot last year," said Laycock, "but we also averaged nearly four yards per carry on the ground. This year we'll still throw a lot, but we're looking to achieve a more balanced attack," he said.

Mighty mite Michael Clemons, only 5'5" and 160 pounds, should inspire Tribe fans with his quick bursts. Last season's rookie-of-the-year rushed for 5.2 yards per attempt while backing up the now departed Dave Scanlon. Durable fullback Bobby Wright returns, while Merrit Gibson and Andy Huggins come off promising performances in spring practice.

After being injured during the 1983 campaign, Stan Yagiello will provide the firepower in the Tribe offense.

The primary area of concern for the team will be the offensive line. There the Tribe graduated three top players, including All-America guard Mario Shaffer (also drafted by the Steelers) and starting tackles Ray Bisczat and Chris Huge. However, co-captain guard Lee Glenn and center Bob Solderitch provide experience up front.

While the offense naturally gets much attention, Laycock contends that a consistent defense is the real key to a winning season. "We switched from a wide 6 to a 4-3 last season, and it was like on-the-job-training," said Laycock. "Some people might not have noticed it, but we got a lot better defensively last year. It was especially noticeable against teams on a comparable level to us," he said.

When you mention defense for William and Mary, that means Mark Kelso, first and foremost. The senior free safety already holds career marks for interceptions (17) and tackles (369), and was named the Tribe's most valuable defensive player for the second time by the William and Mary Quarterback Club. Kelso was also honored as an academic All-American. "There is no better free safety at any level of college football," Laycock said.

An experienced group of linebackers is led by Jimmy McHeffey and Karl Warnecke, second and third in tackles last year behind Kelso. Bob Crane at tackle and Jon Thomas at defensive end return as starters on the line.

Overall, the outlook for Tribe football looks very good. After a few lean years, things appear on the upswing. Coach Laycock wants to make sure the trend continues in that direction. "We're progressing very well now," he said. "We have the potential to do good things here in athletics without sacrificing anything on the academic side."

Private Support Saves Six Sports

Board Votes Reprieve For Next Year

Thanks to contributions from alumni, financial support from the Board of Visitors, and a plan suggested by concerned students, the six varsity sports earmarked for discontinuation this fall have been saved, at least for the duration of the upcoming academic year.

Men's swimming, lacrosse, fencing, and riflery, and women's golf and fencing got a reprieve when the Board of Visitors agreed on April 28 to provide half the minimum operating budgets for each sport, provided the coaches and staffs could raise the other half by June 30. All six were successful in raising the money. The Board pledged to make up the remainder, drawing from the Intercollegiate Athletic Reserve Fund if necessary.

The sports were originally scheduled for discontinuation in January as a means of balancing the athletic department budget. A revised budget including the six sports will be submitted to the Board in October. At that time the Athletic Department officials are expected to propose their own plan regarding the future of the sports.

According to Jerry Jebo '67, vice rector of the board and chairman of the athletic policy committee, the board was influenced to mitigate the decision at least in part by the strong show of student support. Student leaders were also credited with submitting the plan eventually adopted by the Board.

Coaches and backers of the sports now have an additional year to secure sources of financial support. Raising enough money to create an endowment is seen as the only sure way to ensure permanent continuation of the teams.

So while the future is still uncertain, for these six sports and their supporters, there will be at least one more chance.

Giving The Society Of The Alumni Its Dew

Review Of 1983-84 Year Shows Society Carries Out Founder's Mission

Introduction

Its founder, Thomas Roderick Dew, would take a justifiable pride in his creation 142 years after its founding. Founded on July 4, 1842, by Dew, who was president of the College at the time, the Society of the Alumni completed its 142nd year in hearty and fit condition, carrying out its mission of serving William and Mary alumni throughout the nation and the world. In its many programs and activities, the Society continued to promote a sense of community and family among the 55,000 alumni — a link not only between the generations but a link among faculty, students, friends and alumni as well.

Under the excellent leadership of Austin Roberts, III '69 of Newport News, who is serving his second term as president, and its 15-member Board of Directors, the Society of Alumni administered programs that ranged from organizing tours to different parts of the world to organizing reunions at William and Mary. Homecoming, chapter programs, publication of the award-winning Alumni Gazette, the merchandising of William and Mary through the Botetourt Boutique, the maintenance of more than 55,000 alumni records, Burgesses Day — these were but a few of the programs carried on by the able staff working in the Alumni House on the William and Mary campus.

Following are some highlights of the 1983-1984 fiscal year:

Alumni Office Operations

The base of an effective alumni program is its records, and in 1983-84 the Society continued its efforts to upgrade its record-keeping system. The Society is in the process of installing a minicomputer system to support the maintenance of its alumni data base, which consists of 55,000 names. The system will use up-to-date equipment and will be compatible with equipment used in the Office of University Advancement. System access will be provided to several College offices and foundations which continually use alumni information. The projected date for conversion of the new system is January 1, 1985.

As an adjunct to the class programs, seven records search committees were created during the past year to assist in the location of lost or deceased alumni. These committees worked closely with the records office and were responsible collectively for the location of over 2,000 lost alumni. Additional records search committees will be formed for each class committee.

Austin L. Roberts III '69 of Newport News, pictured with President Graves and the Homecoming Queen and her escort, served for a second term as president of the Society of the Alumni. The 1983 Homecoming Weekend, which spanned four days and provided over 100 events, proved to be the largest yet. The Society's Homecoming Weekend has become one of the largest in the nation.

Chapter Program

The chapter program of the Society of the Alumni seeks to develop a network of chapters across the country, their purpose being to preserve the memories of college life, to perpetuate and enrich the blessings of college friendship, to produce understanding of the goals of William and Mary, to promote a feeling of unity toward those goals, and to become an effective instrument of service as well as a source of leadership for the College.

In order to realize these purposes the chapters conduct a variety of projects and programs that are appropriate to the size of the alumni population, to the proximity of the chapter to the College, and to the regional flavor of an area.

In the fiscal year of July 1, 1983, through June 30, 1984, the program operated as follows:

1. Alumni Society representation exists in 45 areas of the United States and Great Britain, with the largest number of chapters in Virginia (11).
2. Official chapter representation is expanding into the following areas: Fredericksburg, Gloucester, Southeastern Virginia, Florida, Wisconsin.
3. Four chapters have been chartered: Williamsburg; Northern New Jersey; Seattle, Washington; Southern Connecticut.
4. Several chapter areas have been revitalized and/or reorganized: Hartford, Connecticut; San Francisco, California; and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
5. Eighty alumni events were held during the course of the year: four directly related to fund-raising, ten to athletics, eight to admissions. College representatives were chief speakers at fourteen events. Six were Old Dominion Day parties. The rest were of a social or cultural nature.
6. Highlights of the year's activities included the Philadelphia Old Dominion Boat Cruise, New York's auction at Sotheby's, Northern Virginia's night with the press corps, Muscarelle Museum director Glenn Lowry's tour of three chapters, Charlottesville's James Monroe Birthday Party, Lynchburg's tribute to Walter Mason, Williamsburg and San Francisco's Charter Day Birthday Parties on opposite coasts.
7. In addition to the regular, all-chapter programs, individuals within groups were involved in other projects or programs related to the College: producing directories of local membership, Career Planning and Placement — Exploration Day and Speaker Series; Admissions Network.
8. Northern Virginia won the Outstanding Chapter Award; Philadelphia was runner-up.

Continuing Education

Continuing education for alumni of the College is currently available in the following ways: associate memberships with existing programs in local areas, alumni travel program, Society publications (THE WILLIAM AND MARY MAGAZINE), educational speakers (faculty) at chapter meetings, Office of Special Programs, the Center for Executive Development (through the Business School), and the Women in Business Program.

In the early summer of 1985 the Alumni Society will sponsor an Alumni College. The theme will be "A Celebration of the Liberal Arts" and will consist of five days of lectures, dialogue with faculty, varied entertainment, and opportunity for interaction with one another. Alumni will be housed on the old campus, eat meals in the newly refurbished Trinkle Hall and attend classes in the Wren Building. It is hoped that such a program might become an annual event.

Several distinguished members of the national press corps gave a seminar at the Northern Virginia chapter meeting in Arlington this spring, one of the highlights of the Society of the Alumni Chapter Program.

Class Programs

The reorganization of the Society's Class Program which began in 1979 was completed during fiscal 1983-84. With the establishment of class committees for the classes of 1949, 1954, 1959, 1964, 1974 and 1979, the total number of class committees now stands at forty-seven. This figure represents forty-five individual class committees plus the Olde Guard Council (representing the classes of 1934 and earlier) and the Young Guard Council (representing the five most recent graduating classes). The activities of these committees are increasing steadily with work in the areas of reunion planning, address and biographical record updates, annual giving and special class capital support projects. Through the activities and support of these class organizations, William and Mary's Class Program has become state-of-the-art among major universities.

Homecoming

The Society's Homecoming Weekend has become one of the largest of all college and university reunion weekends. Spanning four days and providing over one hundred events, Homecoming Weekend is the largest single event on the College calendar. The 1983 Homecoming Weekend proved to be the largest to date. Reservations were up across-the-board with the primary attendance focus being on the Class Hospitality Suites. Homecoming is continuing to be developed as a campus-wide event involving alumni, undergraduate and graduate students, faculty and administration.

Fiftieth Reunion Program

The Fiftieth Reunion class induction, held during Commencement Weekend in the Spring of each year, has become one of the most popular of the Class Programs. With an approximate forty percent participation level of fiftieth reunion class members in the fiftieth reunion weekend, the percentage attendance is the highest for all Society events. With the induction of the Class of 1934, the membership of the Olde Guard has grown to over 3,600 members.

Olde Guard Program

Under the direction of the nineteen member Olde Guard Council and the Council's new chairman, R. E. B. Stewart '27, the activities of the Olde Guard are being continually expanded. In addition to the annual luncheon and hospitality suite events sponsored by the Council during Homecoming Weekend, the Olde Guard members meet in the spring at the annual Olde Guard Day celebration sponsored by the College. The Council is currently sponsoring travel opportunities for its members including a very successful Egypt tour in 1984 and a planned Carribean Cruise in 1985.

Burgesses Day

Sponsored by the Society in cooperation with the College, Burgesses Day commemorates the meetings of the House of Burgesses in the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Held in the fall in conjunction with a home football game, Burgesses Day brings prominent legislators, state officials and friends of the College to the campus. Attendance at this annual event increased substantially in 1983 due in most part to a statewide alumni network working to promote and gain recognition for the unique mission and quality which William and Mary represents. The event serves to honor retiring elected officials of the Commonwealth for their service through the entry of their names into the Book of Burgesses at special ceremonies held during the day.

The Board of Directors

Five men and three women have been nominated for seats on the Society's Board of Directors. Candidates for election for three-year terms are: Robert A. Beason '70, of Durham, N.C.; J. Edward Grimsley '51, of Richmond, Va.; Audrey Murray Harris '60, of Richmond, Va.; William S. Hubbard '46, of Roanoke, Va.; Ellen Ticer King '31, of Alexandria, Va.; Vernon L. Nunn '25, of Williamsburg, Va.; William T. Prince '55, of Norfolk, Va.; Elizabeth Bartlett St.

Clair '51, of Wilmington, Del.; Warren E. Winston '73, of Upper Marlboro, Md.; and Douglas S. Wood '63, of Reston, Va. Ballots were mailed in late August to each active member of the Society, and the results of the election will be announced at the Annual Meeting of the Society on November 2.

The Alumni Medallion

The Alumni Medallion is the highest honor the Society can bestow on its alumni for distinguished service and exceptional loyalty to their College, community and fellow citizens. During Homecoming in October 1983 the following alumni were honored with the Alumni Medallion: Richard J. Davis '42, Howard H. Hyle '48, Raymond A. Mason '59, and Harold W. Ramsey '27.

Alumni Admissions

The Alumni Office assists children of alumni in the application for admission process. For the 1984-85 session, 203 applicants (children of alumni parent(s) applied for admission to William and Mary, 118 were offered admission, and 74 have indicated they will enroll for the fall term.

The Paschall Library

The Paschall Library, located in the Alumni House, honors Dr. and Mrs. Davis Y. Paschall (classes of '32 and '31). The library houses approximately 300 books by alumni authors and another 200 or so books relating to the College or to the area. COLONIAL ECHOES, FLAT HATS, College Catalogs, and other reference materials are also among the library's collections.

The Alumni Gazette

The Society of the Alumni continues to communicate effectively with its alumni through the Alumni Gazette which is published in two forms: as a 24-page tabloid newspaper eight times a year and as a 32-page slick magazine twice a year. The tabloid newspaper, which contains classnotes on the activities of alumni, as well as information on the College and expanded alumni activity, goes free of charge to all alumni of record. The William and Mary Magazine goes to all alumni who have made gifts to the College during the past fiscal year.

The William and Mary Magazine this year reached a new standard of recognized excellence when it was named one of the five best collegiate magazines in the nation by the Council for the Support for Advancement of Education (CASE). The CASE award was made on the basis of excellence in design and editorial content.

Prominent legislators, state officials and friends of the College came to campus in October to attend Burgesses Day, sponsored by the Society of the Alumni in cooperation with the College to commemorate the meetings of the House of Burgesses in the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Attendance at the 1983 event, increased substantially, due in most part to a statewide alumni network working to promote and gain recognition for the unique mission and quality which William and Mary represents.

Life After Dog Street (Duke of Gloucester)

This popular Society-sponsored program allows successful alumni to share their expertise and knowledge with members of the Senior Class. The program was developed in 1981 as a service to help seniors solve problems they may face after graduation by offering practical advice. In 1984, twenty-two percent of the Senior class attended the program, held over a period of three nights at the Alumni House in February. Selected alumni from chapters in Richmond, Williamsburg, Lower Peninsula and Norfolk/Virginia Beach served as panelists. They discussed such topics as obtaining credit, buying insurance, selecting a doctor or lawyer, buying or renting a house or apartment, buying a car, and adjusting in a new town — practical information not usually taught in the classrooms. The Senior Class president appointed a LADS committee and Monica Johnson and Anne St. Clair as co-chairmen.

Educational Travel Programs

The Educational Travel Programs sponsored by the Society have taken alumni again in 1983-84 all over the world in an unhurried, comfortable, and comprehensive manner. Locations visited this year include Egypt/Morocco/Tunisia, the countries of the Rhine/Moselle River valleys, and islands of the Caribbean. The general numbers of participants have increased from the 1982-83 figure.

The Alumni-Student

Liaison Committee

The Alumni-Student Liaison Committee continues to be an outstanding way to bring alumni and undergraduates of the College together through the programs of mutual interest to facilitate better understanding of what being alumni means and to help alumni learn about College life today. The stature and reputation of the Committee increased considerably in 1983-84. During the selection process in March, over 50 students applied for eight positions on the Committee. After screening out the applications, forty were interviewed in the final process. All applicants were greatly qualified and eager to learn about the Society. The activities in 1983-84 in which Liaison Committee members participated included: sponsoring freshman receptions during the summer at the Roanoke, Lynchburg, and Charlottesville chapters; sponsoring a freshman watermelon feast at the Alumni House during orientation week and a senior class party at the Alumni House the first week of classes; planning and co-sponsoring Olde Guard Day; making presentations at spring chapter admissions receptions in Northern Virginia, Lower Peninsula and Norfolk/Virginia Beach chapters; and assisting the Alumni House staff in all phases of the 50th Reunion weekend, Commencement, Burgesses Day and Homecoming activities.

Career Exploration Day

Career Exploration Day, a program funded by the Society of the Alumni through the Office of Placement and Career Planning, took place on February 18, 1983. The career-oriented program, which attracts several hundred William and Mary students from all classes, was highlighted by presentations from selected alumni in various occupations discussing career paths. Discussions again centered around what curriculum to pursue to obtain certain jobs, what the jobs are actually like, possibilities for advancement in various fields, and job opportunities. A popular program with students and alumni alike, it brings successful alumni back to campus for a positive intermingling of thoughts and ideas.

Merchandising Program

The merchandising program of the Society of the Alumni makes William and Mary oriented-merchandise available to Alumni while at the same time earning revenue for Society programs. Over the years the program has grown from offering only a couple of items to eighty-seven different types of memorabilia — a full range of items including decorative items for the home, books, jewelry, apparel, handicrafts,

The Society's Homecoming Weekend has become one of the largest of all college and university reunion weekends. Spanning four days and providing over one hundred events, Homecoming Weekend is the largest single event on the College calendar. The 1983 Homecoming Weekend proved to be the largest to date. Reservations were up across-the-board with the primary attendance focus being on the Class Hospitality Suites. Homecoming is continuing to be developed as a campus-wide event involving alumni, undergraduate and graduate students, faculty and administration.

Fiftieth Reunion Program

The Fiftieth Reunion class induction, held during Commencement Weekend in the Spring of each year, has become one of the most popular of the Class Programs. With an approximate forty percent participation level of fiftieth reunion class members in the fiftieth reunion weekend, the percentage attendance is the highest for all Society events. With the induction of the Class of 1934, the membership of the Olde Guard has grown to over 3,600 members.

Olde Guard Program

Under the direction of the nineteen member Olde Guard Council and the Council's new chairman, R. E. B. Stewart '27, the activities of the Olde Guard are being continually expanded. In addition to the annual luncheon and hospitality suite events sponsored by the Council during Homecoming Weekend, the Olde Guard members meet in the spring at the annual Olde Guard Day celebration sponsored by the College. The Council is currently sponsoring travel opportunities for its members including a very successful Egypt tour in 1984 and a planned Caribbean Cruise in 1985.

Burgesses Day

Sponsored by the Society in cooperation with the College, Burgesses Day commemorates the meetings of the House of Burgesses in the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Held in the fall in conjunction with a home football game, Burgesses Day brings prominent legislators, state officials and friends of the College to the campus. Attendance at this annual event increased substantially in 1983 due in most part to a statewide alumni network working to promote and gain recognition for the unique mission and quality which William and Mary represents. The event serves to honor retiring elected officials of the Commonwealth for their service through the entry of their names into the Book of Burgesses at special ceremonies held during the Day.

The Board of Directors

Five men and three women have been nominated for seats on the Society's Board of Directors. Candidates for election for three-year terms are: Robert A. Beason '70, of Durham, N.C.; J. Edward Grimley '51, of Richmond, Va.; Audrey Murray Harris '60, of Richmond, Va.; William S. Hubard '46, of Roanoke, Va.; Ellen Ticer King '31, of Alexandria, Va.; Vernon L. Nunn '25, of Williamsburg, Va.; William T. Prince '55, of Norfolk, Va.; Elizabeth Bartlett St.

Clair '51, of Wilmington, Del.; Warren E. Winston '73, of Upper Marlboro, Md.; and Douglas S. Wood '63, of Reston, Va. Ballots were mailed in late August to each active member of the Society, and the results of the election will be announced at the Annual Meeting of the Society on November 2.

The Alumni Medallion

The Alumni Medallion is the highest honor the Society can bestow on its alumni for distinguished service and exceptional loyalty to their College, community and fellow citizens. During Homecoming in October 1983 the following alumni were honored with the Alumni Medallion: Richard J. Davis '42, Howard H. Hyle '48, Raymond A. Mason '59, and Harold W. Ramsey '27.

Alumni Admissions

The Alumni Office assists children of alumni in the application for admission process. For the 1984-85 session, 203 applicants (children of alumni parent(s) applied for admission to William and Mary, 118 were offered admission, and 74 have indicated they will enroll for the fall term.

The Paschall Library

The Paschall Library, located in the Alumni House, honors Dr. and Mrs. Davis Y. Paschall (classes of '32 and '31). The library houses approximately 300 books by alumni authors and another 200 or so books relating to the College or to the area. COLONIAL ECHOES, FLAT HATS, College Catalogs, and other reference materials are also among the library's collections.

The Alumni Gazette

The Society of the Alumni continues to communicate effectively with its alumni through the Alumni Gazette which is published in two forms: as a 24-page tabloid newspaper eight times a year and as a 32-page slick magazine twice a year. The tabloid newspaper, which contains classnotes on the activities of alumni, as well as information on the College and expanded alumni activity, goes free of charge to all alumni of record. The William and Mary Magazine goes to all alumni who have made gifts to the College during the past fiscal year.

The William and Mary Magazine this year reached a new standard of recognized excellence when it was named one of the five best collegiate magazines in the nation by the Council for the Support for Advancement of Education (CASE). The CASE award was made on the basis of excellence in design and editorial content.

Prominent legislators, state officials and friends of the College came to campus in October to attend Burgesses Day, sponsored by the Society of the Alumni in cooperation with the College to commemorate the meetings of the House of Burgesses in the Sir Christopher Wren Building. Attendance at the 1983 event, increased substantially, due in most part to a statewide alumni network working to promote and gain recognition for the unique mission and quality which William and Mary represents.

Life After Dog Street (Duke of Gloucester)

This popular Society-sponsored program allows successful alumni to share their expertise and knowledge with members of the Senior Class. The program was developed in 1981 as a service to help seniors solve problems they may face after graduation by offering practical advice. In 1984, twenty-two percent of the Senior class attended the program, held over a period of three nights at the Alumni House in February. Selected alumni from chapters in Richmond, Williamsburg, Lower Peninsula and Norfolk/Virginia Beach served as panelists. They discussed such topics as obtaining credit, buying insurance, selecting a doctor or lawyer, buying or renting a house or apartment, buying a car, and adjusting in a new town — practical information not usually taught in the classrooms. The Senior Class president appointed a LADS committee and Monica Johnson and Anne St. Clair as co-chairmen.

Educational Travel Programs

The Educational Travel Programs sponsored by the Society have taken alumni again in 1983-84 all over the world in an unhurried, comfortable, and comprehensive manner. Locations visited this year include Egypt/Morocco/Tunisia, the countries of the Rhine/Moselle River valleys, and islands of the Caribbean. The general numbers of participants have increased from the 1982-83 figure.

The Alumni-Student Liaison Committee

The Alumni-Student Liaison Committee continues to be an outstanding way to bring alumni and undergraduates of the College together through the programs of mutual interest to facilitate better understanding of what being alumni means and to help alumni learn about College life today. The stature and reputation of the Committee increased considerably in 1983-84. During the selection process in March, over 50 students applied for eight positions on the Committee. After screening out the applications, forty were interviewed in the final process. All applicants were greatly qualified and eager to learn about the Society. The activities in 1983-84 in which Liaison Committee members participated included: sponsoring freshman receptions during the summer at the Roanoke, Lynchburg, and Charlottesville chapters; sponsoring a freshman watermelon feast at the Alumni House during orientation week and a senior class party at the Alumni House the first week of classes; planning and co-sponsoring Olde Guard Day; making presentations at spring chapter admissions receptions in Northern Virginia, Lower Peninsula and Norfolk/Virginia Beach chapters; and assisting the Alumni House staff in all phases of the 50th Reunion weekend, Commencement, Burgesses Day and Homecoming activities.

Career Exploration Day

Career Exploration Day, a program funded by the Society of the Alumni through the Office of Placement and Career Planning, took place on February 18, 1983. The career-oriented program, which attracts several hundred William and Mary students from all classes, was highlighted by presentations from selected alumni in various occupations discussing career paths. Discussions again centered around what curriculum to pursue to obtain certain jobs, what the jobs are actually like, possibilities for advancement in various fields, and job opportunities. A popular program with students and alumni alike, it brings successful alumni back to campus for a positive intermingling of thoughts and ideas.

Merchandising Program

The merchandising program of the Society of the Alumni makes William and Mary oriented-merchandise available to Alumni while at the same time earning revenue for Society programs. Over the years the program has grown from offering only a couple of items to eighty-seven different types of memorabilia — a full range of items including decorative items for the home, books, jewelry, apparel, handicrafts, commemorative pewter plates and cups, glassware, recreational items, and an assortment of specialty foods. In addition to this merchandise the Society also makes available limited edition offerings which will certainly appreciate in value over time.

Society of the Alumni merchandise is available for direct sale at the Alumni House from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on weekdays and special events (i.e. Homecoming) or it can be ordered through the mail using order forms available from the "Botetourt Boutique" advertisements found in the Alumni Gazette. A debt of gratitude is owed to William and Mary alumni, parents and friends who have generously and enthusiastically supported the program and have made possible its expansion over the years.

The Alumni House

The Alumni House serves as the home base for the Society of the Alumni. The Alumni House, originally the Bright House, was acquired by the Society of the Alumni in 1971 and renovated to house Society offices and public rooms for meetings and receptions which are used weekdays, evenings, and weekends.

The Alumni House serves not only as a focal point for Society functions but as a useful facility for College faculty, staff, administrators, students, and community or civic organizations.

Over the past fiscal year the House was reserved for forty-eight Society related functions, thirty-three student meetings and social functions, thirty-one departmental functions, thirteen Town and Gown luncheons, six Board of Visitors meetings, two Elderhostel receptions, two Society Board of Directors meetings, and one hundred twenty-five community and civic group meetings and receptions.

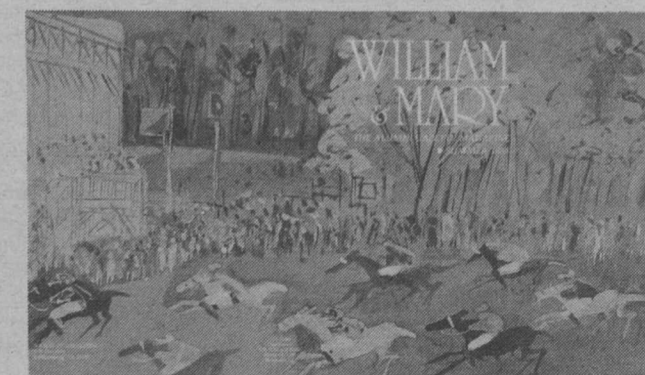

William and Mary alumni can take great pride in this beautiful and historic house which serves alumni, the College, and the community in a variety of useful ways.

Order of the White Jacket

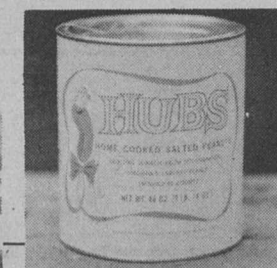

The Order of the White Jacket has continued its steady rate of growth, with active memberships totalling over 630. In addition to the Scholarship/Project Fund, Norman Moomjian Memorial Fund, and Ed O'Connell Memorial Fund, OWJ now has three other memorial funds, in memory of John Demarest, Lee Todd, and Harvey Johnson. Also, Walt Zable '38 made a generous and substantial gift of stock, which was subsequently sold to form the Walter J. Zable Scholarship Fund. Last fall, six scholarships were awarded to deserving students: four regular scholarships of $350.00 each, a $500.00 Moomjian Memorial Scholarship, and a $500.00 O'Connell Memorial Scholarship.

Significant Board action included the fall 1983 vote to limit the number of consecutive terms which a Board Member may serve to two, effective with the 1985 elections for the term beginning January 1, 1986. Also, at the spring 1984 meeting, the Board voted that the president should appoint three additional committees: an executive committee, a budget committee, and a committee to study reducing the size of the OWJ Board.

The officers for 1984 were the same as those for 1983: President, Colin R. Davis, '50; First Vice President, Deborah S. Dalton, '72; Second Vice President, J. Coleman Anthony, '52; Third Vice President, Owen L. Bradford, '43; and Secretary-Treasurer, James S. Kelly, '51.

The William and Mary Magazine, which is published twice a year by the Society of the Alumni, was named one of the five best collegiate magazines in 1983-84 by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE). The magazine goes to all contributors to William and Mary.

The Homecoming calendar for 1984 has the Olde Guard luncheon scheduled at the Hospitality House at high noon, November 2. The event was unusually good last year because of effective programming. It promises to be even better this year, since the planners have had a full year to sharpen their ideas. Last year, those without reservations could not be accommodated. A word to the wise (Class of '26) is sufficient. October 5 is the deadline.

The Olde Guard, becoming a bit sensitive at being shunted out of alumni activities, has pulled itself together and has two candidates running for a seat on the board of the Society of the Alumni: Vernon Nunn '25 and Ellen Ticer King '31. Although there are fifty classes junior to our latest Olde Guard group, some concentrated voting should put one or both of our candidates on the Board.

Our days were brightened by the receipt of a letter from an alumnus. Not from the Class of '26 to be sure, but from the Class of '79. His letter was in response to my last news report on leaving Texas this spring and noting the inability to find William and Mary alumni. He finds a similar situation exists in Oklahoma City, although he has located five contemporaries. The young man studied geology at William and Mary and headed west on graduation. His first job had the impressive title of "mud logger." He now travels the area in the never-ending search for and production of petroleum. I was flattered by the letter.

There's an adage (note I did not write "old adage" because there are no new adages) that names make the news. So, if there's nothing else to report say so in a message for the class notes and sign your name. Your name is news.

By the time this appears we will be very close to the autumn gathering on Alumni Day in early November and will be almost halfway to the 1985 Olde Guard Day. I can report that what I have heard of plans for the OG luncheon at the Hospitality House are exciting.

Warren H. Russell writes that he's taking it easier after a heart attack in February, followed by quadruple bypass surgery last July. He enjoys seeing George Whitley from time to time. Both live in Arlington. The Whitleys are ever on the go to interesting parts of the world. A card from George earlier in the summer was postmarked Sydney, Nova Scotia. From there it was on to Montreal. Nova Scotia reports fewer lobsters since their visit.

Lucille Eastham Michie, of Charlottesville, is enjoying her second retirement in order to put more time on her book, Bits and Pieces. It will be about her native Charlottesville: memories of life there and its people. Her latest work was as school psychologist for Fluvanna County.

Fellow classmate and fellow incurable punster, Lucien Hobbs, has lost none of his exuberance in the California climate. While I prefer the ad lib (often add lip) puns, Lucien collects the classical. Latest example: "My Munny Dun Ptolemy." Well, Elmund Gosse (English) said it was the very best he ever had met with." I send Lucien in return a triple pun. Three brothers went west, bought a vast expanse, split it into three parts. They would have one office, one processing plant, etc., and produce meat, one producing beef, another lamb, and the third, poultry. They would have a brand name for all. They could agree on no name for the ranch, so they called Mama. A name? That's easy. Call it "Focus, where the sons raise meat."

Paranomasia, we two are afflicted.

"My wife, Pat," Lucien writes, "retired and she has to have a project. She has started building a house on 80 acres we own near Boulder Creek (California), about 15 miles from here, Los Gatos." He explains it is hard to reach and is apparently too rural to his liking. Still, he gets around, like to the Harrah's Club in Reno, where for a quarter of a century he has conducted a study of a branch of mathematics. "The secret is to know, actually know, when you have a lucky streak going. They DO happen."

A great gathering of the Olde Guard assembled in Portsmouth to see fellow OG'er, Meb Davis, of our class, inducted into the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame, on the same night Jack Cloud was inducted. Present were William E. Warren '29, Billy Ruddy Renn '32, E. Carlton Macon '28, Harry C. Paxton '31, Calvin J. Charnock '31, Leon Lasting '27, Judge Walter E. Hoffman '29, Justice Lawrence W. I'Anson '28, Dr. John R. St. George '25, Charles F. Harper, Jr., '29, R. E. Bruce Stewart '27, T. C. Clarke '22, William G. Thompson '28, Dr. Julius Caplan '28, John Lagon Hudson '28, Thomas L. Farrett '26, and Gordon Campbell '29. I had made a reservation, but had to cancel.

The recent increase of alumni of all eras, and with current students, is encouraging to the Olde Guard. Many have commented on it as well as on the blend of alumni nominated by the selection for voting upon in the upcoming election. Ellen Ticer King '31 and Vernon L. Nunn '25, among them.

In awarding honors at graduating time to top seniors, Norfolk's Maury High School remembers students of distinction from past years. Among those cited this year was Edwin L. Lamberth, former Norfolk superintendent of schools.

Again, please, names and news. Which reminds me of a note of thanks postscript I received from Jackie Crebbs '64. She's director of annual support. I had mentioned that the fund appeal and other promotion left out one of my middle initials. Her note: "Computer, 'Wendy Wang,' has accepted both middle initials. Hope we don't lose them again. J."

E. Carlton Macon's Dorothy, known to all of us, attended the fiftieth reunion of her class at St. Mary's Female Academy. Her smiling image graced a local news page. Carlton has been smiling ever since, but no picture yet in the paper.

HOUSE NOTES

STORIES OF THE STATES, MAKERS OF VIRGINIA HISTORY is a recent gift to the Paschall Library from R. E. B. Stewart, Jr. '27. The book was published in 1904 and was written by J. A. C. Chandler, an alumnus and 19th president of the College.

Robert Miles Parker '61 has a new book published in May 1984 by Harcourt Bruce Jovanovich. It is entitled L.A. and is a pen-and-ink tour of Los Angeles' architecture. A copy has been given to the library.

Another recent gift is THE DEVELOPMENT OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION AS A FIELD OF STUDY AT WILLIAM AND MARY, WITH RELATED OBSERVATIONS, by Charles L. Quittmeyer '40. Dr. Quittmeyer is the Floyd Dewey Gottwald Professor of Business Administration.

Parke Rouse, Jr.'s A HOUSE FOR A PRESIDENT has been placed in the library.

Charles J. Davis '34 has given a copy of the HMS PINAFORE program put on by the Music Department in the 1930's.

William Stanley Wilson '59 has generously donated four bound volumes of THE FLAT HAT covering the years 1955-56 to 1958-59. The Society is grateful for this addition to the reference library.

BUSCH MAKES $100,000 GIFT

The Anheuser-Busch Companies have made a gift of $100,000 to William and Mary for the establishment of a new professional resource center in the School of Business Administration. Continuing support for the resource center, which Dean John Jamison said "fulfills the number one need of our students and faculty for access to current data and information," will be provided by the Class of 1937 as its 50th year class project, and will be carried out in the name of the late Dr. Charles Marsh, former director of the department of business administration and former dean of the College faculty.

RADIO STATION CELEBRATES 25TH ANNIVERSARY

WCWM, the campus radio station at William and Mary, will celebrate its 25th anniversary this fall. The Alumni Gazette is preparing an article on the anniversary and would appreciate alumni of the station sending in their memories on WCWM. Please address materials to the Publications Office, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. 23185.

DOUTHAT NAMED ALBION VICE PRESIDENT

James E. Douthat '69, has been named administrative vice-president at Albion College in Albion, Mich. Douthat is former vice-president of student life at the midwestern college. Prior to his coming to Albion in 1980, he was dean of student life at Duke University in Durham, N.C. He holds a M.Div. (magna cum laude) from Duke University Divinity School (1972) and an Ed.D. degree from Duke (1977). In his new position, Douthat will be the chief internal operations officer for the college including being in charge of the student life area and the business and financial offices. He will also be secretary to the college board of trustees.

Notes from Ed:

A note from Bill Fields, a native of Baltimore who now resides in Florida, states that over 50 years seem a long time to be away, but he is hoping that he and his wife will get to Williamsburg in 1984. The dates to look forward to this year are November 2 and 3, Homecoming weekend. The Olde Guard luncheon will be November 2 at 12:00 noon in the Empire Room at the Hospitality House, across the street from the Alumni House. See you there.

Addison Baker writes that he has retired to Cape Cod, Massachusetts. Why not come to Homecoming and enjoy the fun?

Not only is Simon Shubitz ministering to the needs of humankind through his profession as a medical doctor, but he has given of his financial resources in perpetuating his work through the establishment of the Simon M. Shubitz Cancer Prize and Lectureship in cancer research at the University of Chicago Medical Center. Congratulations, "Si," and best wishes to you and your lovely wife. Plan to join us this year at Homecoming.

The Olde Guard Day festivities on Friday, April 13, were well attended. There were about 20 members of our class present. Among those was Sam Hurley, my roommate in Taliaferro Hall during our sophomore year at the College. I had not seen him since our 50th Reunion. I believe all will agree that this meeting in front of the Wren Building was the best yet because of such an appropriate setting, the fine food for both the brunch and the lunch, the entertainment by the delightful William and Mary choral group, and last, but not least, the fine fellowship.

At this time we mourn the loss of two of our classmates, Lucile Burke Smith and Wilbur Davis Bailey. Lucile had been a regular attendant at both the Olde Guard luncheon and Homecoming festivities. She was a fine friend of Bernice and mine. For several years when her husband, Jack, and I attended the school administrator's meetings in Roanoke, she and Bernie enjoyed playing bridge.

Wilbur Bailey was one of the older members of our class who after working several years came to William and Mary and received his degree in 1930. He was a dedicated teacher and a talented musician.

Notes from Betty:

We are sorry that more of you couldn't make it to the Olde Guard Day this spring. We had a great time as always. We were delighted to have a larger number than usual, even though we didn't get a chance to talk to everyone.

By the way, the Olde Guard has two candidates for election to the Alumni Board. We do hope you will support Ellen Ticer King '31 and Vernon Nunn '25.

We were delighted to have news (via the Alumni Office) of Thelma Ironmonger Hansford. We received clippings from two publications featuring stories about Thelma. According to the Yorktown Crier, "Her life shows a love of history and a pride in York County's heritage." After two years at the College Thelma began teaching, then married and wrote for the Daily Press of Newport News during the depression. After World War II she taught school again, and in 1947 she received her B.A. degree in political science. In 1955 she received her M.A. degree in education. It was during her teaching years at York High School that she began her research in uncovering York County's past. As a result of her research, she developed a unique course for her government class, later widely used by other teachers. Today Thelma's course outline and notebooks filled with treatises help fill the shelves of York County's public library. Historians and government officials refer to her work regularly. Thelma's greatest interests are history and genealogy. Among her writings is a manuscript entitled "It Really Happened," a collection of tales about York County people and their experiences on the waterways. Thelma is a widow and has a son and three grandsons.

Recently we had a good letter from Susan Carpenter Carter. She enclosed a clipping from a Boydton paper which carries a column written by her. In this issue Susan has written for Mother's Day a very beautiful tribute to her mother. Her column, "Treasures of Gold," is well named.

Do send us some news about your summer activities for our next issue. Editor's Note: The Alumni Office has copies of "My Memoirs," by Susan Carpenter Carter and will be pleased to send a copy to anyone requesting it. Please address your request to Class News Editor, Society of the Alumni, Post Office Box 60, Williamsburg, VA 23187.

The same old story — "Please let me hear from you!"

I have a few faithful friends in my class and I am most grateful.

I didn't hear from Mack and Eva Britton and I am disappointed. He usually keeps me up on the news from Florida.

I received a letter from Jane Jolliffe Palmer saying she was in Williamsburg recently for a retired teachers meeting. She will be in Blackstone this fall. I am also looking forward to having her for a visit. Jane is the president of the association and has held many important offices in other organizations in the state.

We enjoyed seeing Elizabeth and Brooks George at a wedding in Blackstone recently. They both look great!

I enjoyed having lunch with Mildred Hall Carter at the Olde Guard meeting in Williamsburg. It was great to see Pearle Young Reynolds and her husband; also Mildred Layne, Agnes and Pat Paschall, Elizabeth and Brooks George, and many others.

I will be on my way to Iceland for a short visit next week, then to Amherst, Massachusetts, for a photography meeting.

Hope to see many of you at Homecoming in the fall.

Dear Classmates: Those of us who attended our 50th reunion have many, many happy memories to share. (We do wish each of you could have been there!)

Our first note, this time, was from C.J. Davis, Jr., Rocky Mount, Va., who wrote, "The reunion was perfect and, much to my surprise, I recognized quite a few classmates." He enclosed an "HMS Pinafore" program, which he had found among his papers and which I was happy to forward to the Alumni Office.

Annie P. Goodykoontz, Louisville, Ky., wrote to say "how wonderful it all was and what a great job the committee did." She added, "Everything was enjoyable, except graduation," which she thought was disgraceful, and I'm sure most of us agreed and thought the behavior of some of the graduates — though few in number — was deplorable. We were fortunate in having Jack and Anne drop by for a short visit after the reunion when they were staying with Kitty E. Howard and Bill.

Virginia Hurdle Adams, Portsmouth, Va., called to say, "It makes you feel good to know that many people are still interested in their college and in higher education." She was happy to note that attendance was greater for our 50th than for any previous class. Virginia left early to spend Mother's Day with her son, Snake, a VMI graduate, and his family in Richmond. Virginia is a member of the choir of Green Acres Presbyterian Church and the Students' Club of Portsmouth. She also enjoys the Virginia Symphony Orchestra where she is seat-mate with some of our good Edgewater neighbors.

A nice note from Donald Gordon, University Park, Md., said, "The 50th was really an outstanding affair. Norma and I both enjoyed it greatly." Since reunion, the Gordons have been to Florida to visit their elder daughter and her family. They are planning to spend mid-August in London and north Wales.

Anne Moreland Dickinson wrote from Hampton, Va., "Our reunion was just wonderful. I have never enjoyed anything so much. It was a great occasion and the Society of the Alumni did a super job." Four Gamma Phi sisters, Catherine Blanton Seay, Norfolk, Va., Ruth Proudman Bierman, Piqua, Ohio, Frances Culbreth Deane, Charlottesville, Va., and Ruth Jett Staton, Roanoke, Va., were also there. Back at home, Anne worked on the Hampton High reunion, which included the classes from '27 to '37. Dr. Oscar W. Ward, Jr. '37 was planning a big barbecue for all.

The Alumni Office has forwarded an interesting release from the April 8 Newport News Daily Press about Anne and her sisters, Pete (Mrs. William F. Thomas) '38 and Frances (Mrs. Raymond Lewis) '36. All are members of the Tidewater Virginia Daffodil Society, which held its 22d annual show this year, in conjunction with the middle Atlantic regional show of the American Daffodil Society. According to the article, tidewater Virginia has a good climate for growing daffodils, and its daffodil society puts on "one of the finest local daffodil shows in the country."

Eleanor Buchanan Crouse, of Paducah, Ky., wrote that she had to cancel her reunion reservations at the last minute because of the illness of her husband. Fortunately, tests disclosed a condition that can be cured with medication. She hated to miss seeing everybody again. Every year the Crouses are away from January until mid-April cruising on the Sagafjord. The rest of the year they are usually home and "the latchstring is out."

Alice Cohill Marquez wrote from Clear Spring, Md., "Oh, what a glorious reunion! I loved every minute of it." Since then so much has happened, she added. Helen Singer Dau had been with them for the June wedding of her nephew. The Bob Lands and the Henry Lands had driven over from Alexandria to see them. "We so much enjoy having our dear friends with us — old friends are wonderful." A sentiment with which we all heartily agree, Alice.

Elma Watkins Johnson, Ponte Vedra Beach, Fla., wrote, "The reunion was one of the most enjoyable events I have attended in a long time." Elma is secretary of her local DAR chapter and has received an invitation to join the Jamestown Society. She is busily engaged in locating the necessary genealogical material for the latter. Her traveling this year has been to Atlanta to visit her son, Jeffrey Johnson, a Delta pilot, and her three grandchildren. Elma's other son, Donald Alston, whose father, her first husband, was lost in a submarine during WWII, is with the Red Cross. Raymond W. Johnson, her present husband, was also in submarines. Upon retirement from the navy, he spent twelve years with the Jacksonville Shipyards. Their daughter, Joyce, is a 1968 graduate of William and Mary. Elma writes that they have been in Ponte Vedra for nineteen years, that the ocean is almost across the street, and that she lives on the golf course. How lovely, Elma!

Annie Felts Whitehead wrote from Murfreesboro, N.C., that she, Lucy Britt Baker, and Elma Bradshaw Bryant had a super time at our 50th reunion. They came together and enjoyed "catching up" on their families en route. Annie added, "We salute the splendid organization, delicious cuisine, and southern hospitality throughout the weekend." Annie's son, Dr. Eley Whitehead, a UNC alumnus, was most impressed with all the gracious Virginians. He was pleased that he had offered to chauffeur the group on such an auspicious occasion.

Kitty Seay and I had the pleasure of seeing Annie and meeting Eley when our garden club visited Murfreesboro during garden week. We were most impressed with the Heritage Festival, the friendly North Carolinians, and the restorations being made there — many by the residents themselves!

From Faith Bugbee Vogel, San Rafael, Calif., came this letter, "What fun we all had at that wonderfully organized Class of '34 fiftieth reunion! The hours of planning put in by the committee and the Alumni Office certainly paid off. The spouses enjoyed it almost as much as the class members." Sisters of Kappa represented, in addition to Faith, were Nancy Davis Upshur, Virginia Horton Beckett, Carlene Loeffler Sims, and Bunny Refo Carr. Faith and Fred visited Helen S. Dau after the reunion was over, as did Alice Cohill Marquez. It was, Faith said, an ideal time of year to be in Williamsburg. The Vogels also visited friends in the Washington, D.C., area and were delighted with the pink dogwood and azaleas.

Margaret D. Ross wrote from Ridgewood, N.J., "The 50th was a great old time and it was wonderful meeting all my classmates once again." She has moved in Ridgewood to 625 Wyndmere, 07450, but is still not settled, since she seems to be "on the road" all the time. In July she attended the Scottish Highland Games at Grandfather Mountain in North Carolina. It was the annual meeting of the Clan Ross. Margaret is a member of the board, a historian, and a writer of articles on Scottish history. There are now five hundred members of her clan in the United States. In September she plans a month's vacation with her sister, Jean (also a William and Mary graduate), in Great Britain. They will visit the Shetland and Orkney islands and then drive from the far northern Highlands of Scotland to Cambridge. She'll be home again in time for the Highland Games at Stone Mountain, Ga. It's easy to see why she is not yet settled!

A card came from Temp Licklider, Northport, Mich. Temp said that "among other things, we were both impressed by the unobtrusive concern for us Old Guard types." A sentiment with which we all agree, Adelaide and Temp.

Sue Lancaster McLean wrote from Pearisburg, Va., that it was great seeing so many college friends again, and added her congratulations to the planning committee for a "job well done." Sue planned a trip to Europe in August that included visits in Germany, Austria, Switzerland, and Liechtenstein with the highlight being the Passion Play in Oberammergau.

PERRY ELLIS '61 WINS CUTTY SARK AWARD

Perry Ellis '61 has won the Cutty Sark Award as best U. S. menswear designer for the second year in a row. Ellis received the award in New York's Ziegfeld Theatre before 800 people who cheered when the Portsmouth, Va., native was handed the silver trophy — a replica of the clipper ship Cutty Sark. Ellis announced that the $5,000 scholarship that goes with the award will be given to William and Mary.

ALUMNUS WINS EMMY

Justin Deas '70, who plays Tom Hughes in the soap opera "As The World Turns," has won an Emmy Award as best supporting actor on daytime television. Deas has been a member of the cast of the CBS-TV show for several years.

ALUMNUS NAMED ASSOCIATE DEAN

Andrew B. Evans '72 has been named associate dean for management, finance and development for the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University. Evans, who joins Tufts from the Asian bureau of the U.S. Agency for International Development (AID), will be responsible for the school's day-to-day administrative operations, personnel management and financial affairs. As controller for AID's Asia Bureau for the past two years, Evans managed a $570 million budget of AID program activities involving developing Asian nations.

The following three notes were forwarded from the Alumni Office: Ruth Jett Staton wrote that "the 1984 50th reunion was great in every respect. I enjoyed seeing everyone and every minute."

Emily Dunleavy King, Newton Heights, Mass., wrote that she couldn't make the 50th but was waiting to hear all the news. (There was a nice picture and biographical sketch of Emily in the Re-Echo. Dot Littlepage Allen had certainly done a grand job of all of the sketches!)

Nancy Cary Dickinson's, Virginia Beach, Va., note said that she had retired as a navy regional librarian in 1978. Prior to that she annually visited ships homeported in Norfolk to indoctrinate sailors and library officers in the operation of the libraries. She also instructed and advised navy library personnel in Maryland and North Carolina as well as Virginia. Before and since retirement she has traveled a lot in both Europe and the Caribbean.

At reunion we were all welcomed to the Olde Guard by Bruce Stewart of the Class of '27. Now that we are the "youngest" members of this august group, we were urged to vote for members of the alumni board. Two members of the Olde Guard are candidates: Vernon Nunn '25 and Ellen Tice King '31.

Received a thrilling call from our Gift Fund Committee Chairman, Emil O. Johnson, Irvington, Va. Emil said our Class of '34 gift to the Library Endowment Fund had topped $42,400 and funds were still coming in! He said that the drive had gone well from the start both "from the standpoint of participation and contributions." How pleased we all are, Emil, that you were able to top both goals — the greatest class contribution so far, but most important, the greatest percentage of contributors. Emil also said that we were the first class to more than fill the Great Hall of the Wren Building for our banquet by needing the long gallery as well. Emil and Cornelia have purchased a home near Austin and are planning to move to Texas in a few months. Both daughters, Cornelia, '61, and Christine, and son, Charles, live near Dallas. We'll be sorry to have Virginia lose them, but Emil says he will return to Homecoming and Olde Guard meetings from time to time. And he said to remind you that contributions to the Library Endowment Fund are still very welcome.

A delightful note arrived from the Alumni Office immediately after our big weekend saying that the 50th reunion was quite a success and that the Alumni staff is looking forward to seeing us at Homecoming, November 2 to 4. Reservation forms were included in the June Gazette, as were our reunion pictures, which I hope you all enjoyed. So, "thanks" again to Bob Land and the entire Reunion Committee and to the Society of the Alumni for a memorable and a very happy occasion.

Mildred Daly Milton went to the World's Fair in New Orleans in June. She took her ten-year-old granddaughter to Ireland in July. Mildred enjoys trips, so she also has planned to tour the Adriatic Coast in September, visiting many spots in Yugoslavia. Bon Voyage, Mildred.

Margaret White Winchester retired from teaching in 1981, after having taught for twenty-five years. Her husband, Dean, died in 1980. She has been traveling since her retirement. She has visited Europe three times, including France, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, and Austria (Alpine Tour). She went to Spain in May. She also took a Caribbean cruise to Mexico and a cruise to Alaska. Margaret has three sons, all of whom attended the University of Virginia.

Frances Moreland Lewis and her two sisters, Anne Page Moreland Dickinson '34, and Martha "Pete" Moreland Thomas '38, all of Hampton, Virginia, are very interested in flowers, especially daffodils. All of them are members of the Tidewater Virginia Daffodil Society, which hosted its 22d annual show in April in the Williamsburg Room of the Hampton Holiday Inn. This show is also the Middle Atlantic regional show for the American Daffodil Society (ADS). Fran became a charter member of the Daffodil Society in 1962. Her husband, Raymond, is producing his own specimens through hybridizing. He recently had his first daffodil accepted by the Royal Horticultural Society. A reverse bicolor trumpet, it is named "North River" for the waterway at the Lewis home. Fran and Raymond work together and exhibit under her name. Both are accredited ADS judges. They work year-round on daffodil matters, corresponding with other growers in the United States and abroad. He particularly is interested in perfecting daffodil soil. Fran is a member of the Garden Club of Gloucester and of one in Mathews, and is on the ADS miniature committee. Anne Page's husband is also a daffodil exhibitor and a past Daffodil Society president. The sisters and their spouses are very friendly competitors.

Dear Classmates: I must start with an apology. A note from Wilbur Morton informs me that I inadvertently conferred the wrong rank on him in the May letter. "Thanks for promoting me in retirement, but I am not an Admiral, U.S. Navy Retired, but correctly a Commander, U.S. Navy Retired." Sorry about that, Wilbur, and thanks for keeping the record straight.

"Pete" Moreland Thomas and her two sisters were featured in an extensive article in the Newport News Daily Press last spring. All three are graduates of the College and are active members of the Tidewater Virginia Daffodil Society. Pete also plays duplicate bridge, volunteers in the Meals on Wheels program, and is a member of DAR and a garden club.

Frances Merrill Graef writes: "I retired as principal of Poquoson Elementary School in 1982. I took bridge lessons to brush up on my game and am now playing that, doing volunteer work, and, one day a week, babysitting my three grandchildren."

From Ned Keiter: "I retired in January 1984 from my position as director of engineering for the Pfaltzgraff Company. My wife Carol (Gouldman), '37, is also retired and we're still living in York, Pa., as we have for the past twenty-nine years. Our son John '69 and his wife, Anne (Hitt), also '69, are living in Hong Kong, where John is a lawyer for DuPont."

And from Carol McCoy Auer: "I spent a wonderful winter season in Hobe Sound, Fla., and returned to Greenwich, Conn., for the summer where our family (children and grandchildren) are nearby. I paint in my spare time and Bernie plays with local politics."

As I write this in mid-July, Nick and I are preparing to embark on our second Elderhostel, this time in England and Scotland for three weeks, and then an extra week in London on our own. We're excited about it. Could it be that we're perennial sophomores?

Gifts to date to the "Class of '38 Fund" are a little over $3,500 and a member of our class has arranged a challenge grant through a trust to match gifts to this fund up to approximately $25,000. This is a good start, but much more needs to be done to assure a meaningful gift to the College on the occasion of our 50th reunion. Robert G. (Bob) Dew, Box 849, Kilmarnock, VA 22482, telephone (804) 435-1444, has agreed to act as chairman of a fund-raising committee that is presently being formed. You will be hearing from this committee, but in the meantime, Bob suggests that if each class member would make a contribution of at least $100 to this fund now and a similar gift each year including 1988, the results would be most rewarding. WILL YOU HELP? Send your gifts to the College marked to the "Class of '38 Fund." There are many areas in which William and Mary could use our gift: scholarship endowments, faculty support, chairs in various fields, building programs, campus beautification, and the list goes on and on. If anyone knows of a specific project that should be considered for funding by the Class of '38, please let Bob Dew know, since plans in this area have not been finalized. MORE LATER.

Thanks to those of you who have responded to our plea about unlocated classmates. I'm noting the next one on the list, and if you know about any of them please notify me or the Alumni Office. Albert Cournal, Louise Cowie Klinne, Annabel Cowles, Sally Crenshaw Sutherlin, E. Daniels, Martha Davis Saxton, Mary Davis, Virginia Davis, William Davis, Panchita deGogorza Clive, Jeanne Dennis, Phyllis Diamond, Harold Dinges, Jr., Margaret Doran Firth, Thomas Doyle, Jr.

I received THE nicest letter in April from a very thoughtful spouse of a classmate, namely Patricia Ward Tanner, wife of Lynn Tanner, Jr. She said how much she and Lynn enjoyed reading our Class of '40 notes and she thought I might like to know some news of Lynn — isn't that the greatest? They live in Aberdeen, Maryland, and he practices law in Harford County where he is the senior member of a five-attorney law firm. They often see Virginia (Forwood) and Ed Wetter and have known Jean (Clarahan) Bratton, through her husband, for about 30 plus years. "Ned Ferguson, Law Graduate '39, who lives and practices law in Suffolk, married my next door neighbor and best childhood friend in Salisbury, Maryland, so you can see we still have a few ties with LTD's Alma Mater." I do so appreciate your writing, Patricia, and do hope this will inspire others to do likewise.

A card from Elizabeth "Cookie" Cason says that she and "Casey" were in Panama visiting Casey's son, Jim, and his family when we went through Bradenton in March. Sorry we missed you but know you had a fine time.

Frances (Wolf) McCabe wrote that she was spending the month of June in China and in August will participate in a "dig" of Roman ruins in Yorkshire, England.

Willette Chambers Rogers writes that her husband, Howard, is retired. They spend their winters in LaJolla, Calif., to be close to their grandchildren and children. Their home is still in Evanston, which they like very much. When it's hot they go across the Lake to Ludington, Michigan. Nice to hear from you, Willette. I remember when you had this job, ages ago.

Carolyn Moses Lucardi was elected mayor of the town of Brookneal in the May 1 election. She will be the first woman mayor of the town, which is great! Her husband, Vince '41, was mayor for seven years before his death in 1983.

"Billie" (Holmes) Slaughter retired in June as a teacher with the Wilmington Area School System. She's planning a driving trip in Ireland in July and hopes to get to Williamsburg more frequently in the future.

Since Nils and Gervais Wallace Brekke are both retired, they plan to travel west this summer in their VW Camper.

Virginia Garrett of Williamsburg was the guest of honor at a dinner at The Islander on Gwynn's Island following her retirement in June from West Point Elementary School. The affair was hosted by the faculty and staff of the school. Virginia taught school for three years before starting the Williamsburg business office of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Co., where she worked for 26 years. She has been librarian at West Point Elementary School for the past 15 years.

On May 19 Frank and I were among the 3,000 plus attending the consecration of the Reverend Peter J. Lee as bishop coadjutor of Virginia at the Washington Cathedral. We had the honor of representing our Region 2 as ushers in the south transept, so we were in a fine location to see all the pomp and pageantry of the event.

From there we proceeded to Charleston, W.Va., where we helped our daughter, Barbara "Bambi" Slack, celebrate her 40th birthday. It was rather shattering for us, but no more so than the fact that her son, Mark, will be twenty on July 12! Heading home we spent a delightful weekend with Jean Clarahan Bratton, my freshman "roomie," in Emory, Va., and a very pleasant overnight with George and "Dede" Allen Bunch in Lynchburg where we met their very appealing grandson, "Georgie," who was covered with chicken pox! We stopped for a chat with Charles and Helen Strange Patterson on leaving Lynchburg. She showed me a copy of a book that she (with help from a church committee) compiled and published in September '83. She sent the Alumni Office news of it so I have the facts to pass along: "The History of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church of Bedford County, Forest, Virginia. Historical Records and Registers from 1824 to 1915; Cemetery Records from 1824 to 1980." The book has been well received, especially by genealogical libraries throughout the U.S. — the index includes over 650 surnames. She wrote that "since all who worked on the book were volunteers and as all proceeds go to our church, I would appreciate any advertisement you could give us." The book sells for $15.95 and can be ordered from the church, Box 98, Forest, VA 24551. How is that for advertising, Helen?

Jack and Ann Garrett have recently spent a week in Haines, Alaska, where they had a second reunion with a group of navy photo-interpreters who were stationed at Adak in the Aleutians in 1942. They rafted down a mountain stream, went by boat to Skagway, where the prospectors took off for the Klondike, and were there for the summer solstice — the longest day of the year — altogether a glorious time with mighty congenial people.

Mid-July our son, Daniel ('81 LTD), and his wife, Ann, arrive for their final visit before departing August 1 for Holland. They'll be living in The Hague, headquarters of the insurance firm Daniel is with, for the next three years.

I do hope everyone has a fine summer and I look forward to hearing from lots of you come fall.

A Guide for Parents

PLANNING BOOK AVAILABLE

The American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU), in cooperation with the accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand, has published a 40-page booklet that outlines a number of financial planning techniques, including the use of tax shelters, that can help middle-income parents provide for their children's college educations. Copies of Early Planning for College Costs: A Guide for Parents can be purchased for $2.00 each from Early Planning for College Costs, P.O. Box 467, Rockville, MD 20850.

Europe during that time. More of that later.

Several classmates have written about the superb job that Margaret Kelly Dunham did in organizing the 40th reunion festivities. On her committee were Dot Hogshire Harper, Marion Pate Macon, Don Griffin, Vince Lascara, Regina Williams, Connie Curtis Laws, Eleanor Ely, Jane Fergusson Perkins and Terry Teal Crutchfield. Terry sent along the following tidbits from the party. Margaret Lucas Montgomery and Frank divide their time between Honolulu, Hilton Head, and San Francisco. Alice Black Patterson lives full-time in Florida and is busy with local library organizing. Theo Kelcey Dean has just had a two-year stint as president of the Garden Club of Westfield. She and her sister, Jinny, enjoyed a two-week art history tour of Paris given by Drew University last summer. Mary Figley Willoughby has written a children's book in her spare time from her full-time job with the California Republican Party. She used up her vacation in Mexico and couldn't come east in November. Ginny Dopke Myers and George joined the fun at the 40th. She has been president of Mental Health for three counties near Three Mile Island for the past year. Her son, George, Jr., has published a book of poetry and most recently a survey of modern poetry. Claire Hulcher McMullan has some exciting news — triplet grandchildren in February. Thanks again Terry, you are a godsend. (The period before this — nothing!) Patti Nichols Curcuro did a great job of MC-ing the reunion, and read the following poem at the banquet.

Welcome Class of '42 -
Memories I'd share with you -
Memories of John Stewart Bryan
A President we could rely on,
Tiny Warren-Landrum (Grace)
Who kept the women in their place -
Favorite profs, Pate, Southworth, Guy
Whose patience we did sorely try;
Tipping caps to Botetourt
The girls who graced Sorority Court
And all the Greeks and independents
Who helped our class in its ascendance.
To Miller and the Dorsey beat
We synchronized our dancing feet -
To show how rapidly time flies
Then, Old Blue Eyes was Young Blue Eyes.
Ah, times were surely simpler then —
Do you remember when
To ride in cars without a parent
Was something that we really daren't.
When Coke was quaffed instead of sniffed
And grass meant green and not a lift,
When chaperones were not passe'
But still the order of the day.
And signing out and signing in
Left us little time for sin.
How swiftly passed those golden days
Before we went our separate ways -
Time now to terminate this poem
And warmly wish you "Welcome Home."

I'm a little late to help Annette Warren Sirmon publicize the Annual Fund Drive, but I am sure she was a very effective class agent, and will add my thanks for her efforts. It is a big job.

Edith Rathbun Bell tripped to Scotland, Wales, and Cornwall last summer. She is a grandmother of eight who range in age from fifteen down to two weeks.

Serving as a director of the Order of the White Jacket is Harlie H. Masters of Spring City, Pa.

Jean Reiff Hailey writes that she retired in 1981 after 39 years as a reporter, staff writer, and editor of the Washington Post. Widowed many years ago, she has traveled around the world, and hopes to keep on going. She has a nice little glass house in Hollin Hills near Mount Vernon, and would welcome visitors.

My European jaunt was prompted by our family hobby of collecting antique dolls. The World Doll Congress was held the end of March in Monaco for three days. The rest of the trip was spent driving over 4000 miles through eight countries and visiting countless museums and wonderful private collections. I was the sole driver, and my companions were well-known authors of doll encyclopedias and books. Their contacts all over Europe gave us some marvelous entrées to view collections rarely otherwise seen. An exhausting but rewarding trip for me. One plus after this trip has been the receipt of a contract to do a book on doll research along with my parents. My next trip will happen any day now when I receive news of the birth of our second grandchild in Indianapolis.

Notice arrives from the Alumni Office that a deadline is fast approaching, and the "In" file is dangerously low — in fact almost nil! Just how does one write a column of interesting news with that prospect? The antics and activities of our grandchildren would soon tire you (although they are a bundle of laughs). Allison and I did enjoy a wonderful tour of the Benelux countries in June, including a two-day stop in Paris. The attractions, the scenery, and the weather couldn't have been any better. We also met Pris and Mac Downs for dinner recently and are looking forward soon to a repeat performance.

Sue Claypool Vukich has just been named to serve on the editorial advisory board of the Volunteer Leader and the American Hospital Association's Council on Volunteers. This appointment is for a term of three years. Sue is director of volunteer services, Northwest Hospital, Seattle, and has also served as president of the American Association of University Women and the Seattle Lady Lions. She is currently vice-president of the Puget Sound Kidney Center. Congratulations, Sue, on this newest honor and thank you, too, for upholding the honor of our class with some news.

I shall continue to plead for your help in compiling these notes; I know of no other way! When summer is o'er, sit down and write a few lines of all the exciting things you have done — I expect my mailbox to be crammed full!

As class correspondent, I have a card file on the members of the class of 1948. As I thumbed through looking for Bill Helseth's address for his cousin and for the correct spelling of Hoy (Hoye?) — as in Jack, I wondered what has become of so many of you in the 36 years since we were graduated from the College of William and Mary. Where are you Bette Hotopp Van Aken? Sara Fowlkes Oliver, are you still in Kansas City? Hooky, do you ever remember our days in Chi Omega there in Connecticut? Of course, everyone would like to know all about each and every one of you. Let me hear from you!

Bill and I enjoyed being with Knox and Betty Lu (Brann) '49 Ramsey on the northern neck of Virginia on Derby Day. Knox, who is site manager of Imperial Chemical Industries (Americas) and Betty Lu have purchased a track of land in Ditchley, near Kilmarnock, where they hope to retire.

Knox provided interesting information on Jack Hoy (Hoey) who is president of People's Gas of Pittsburgh. Bob Sherry, who lives in Richmond, is vice-president of Human Resources of James River Paper Company.

He was promoted to staff attorney in 1982 and to senior attorney in January 1984. Cleary, a native of Merrick, N.Y., earned his J.D. degree from Boston College in 1979.

Short sketches on the following people were mailed to me by Frankie: Elizabeth Pasco Keen writes that she and her husband, Bill, moved to Seminole, Florida, four years ago and love it. They have four children, all of whom are attending college, and four grandchildren.

Nancy Hynson Tallant Albright writes that after Dick Tallant's death in 1973 she continued to live in Wilmington. Two years ago she remarried. She has a son living in Tulsa who is father to her twin grandsons! Her son, Tom, is in Wilmington and her daughter, Anne, is in Alexandria and plans to return to Wilmington as soon as her husband finishes school.

Charles Warner writes that he is enjoying life at "Accakeek," his estate in Richmond County, with his wife Anne Hagerty Harp Warner. He continues to write the Historical Bulletin of Essex County. Could you send me one of these, Charles?

Ed Griffin wrote me an interesting letter early in June describing his enjoyable visit to Williamsburg to attend his daughter Amy's graduation. Jim and Elaine Baker (Elaine Campton Baker '49) had a cookout and among those present were Nancy (Easley '47 Cox) and Fletcher Cox with whom he enjoyed reminiscing.

Also at the candlelight service Ed ran into Bill Greer whose daughter was also being graduated. Walt Raymond, who was in town for the same reason, was staying at the same motel as Ed, and they enjoyed a nice chat. Walt is on the National Security Council.

Ed continued to write that the William and Mary choir gave a concert in the Wren Chapel the day before the group was to leave for a European tour.

By the way, Knox, my file says Jack Hoey spells his name H-O-E-Y, not H-O-Y.

Y'all keep those notes coming!

There's good news and there's bad news. First, the good news. Yes, there really is a class of 1950. And now, the bad news — I'm your class reporter.

I would like to hear from as many of you as possible. Don't feel you have to write anything exciting or witty. If you've been up to some dull stuff that's okay. But please don't send in any news about your grandchildren. Dull's okay but boring is out.

By the way, please make a note of my telephone number: (419) 756-5015. It is really much easier than writing. So, assuming you don't have to go down the hall to use a pay phone, try giving me a call. If I'm not home, my trusty assistant, a.k.a. Cindy, will be pleased to note your latest triumphs.

Congratulations to: Jack Cloud for induction into the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame on April 27 in Portsmouth. There's no need to recount Jack's fantastic contributions to William and Mary football. If you don't remember what they were you must have been comatose for four years. And to George Heflin for induction into the William and Mary Hall of Fame in February at the 'Burg. George was outstanding on the successful football teams of our era as well as lettering in track for four years. And to Guy Daugherty of Howell, Anninos, Daugherty, Brown and Lawrence in Norfolk for being cited as one of the top members of the bar as listed in The Best Lawyers in America. And to John Dayton, Chester Giermak and Randy Davis for being elected to serve as directors of The Order of The White Jacket.

Business Notes: Randy Davis has been with Hobbs-Adams Engineering Company in Suffolk since May. And Herb Chandler moved to Mansfield, Ohio, in March where he is Vice President of Marketing for The Lumbermens Mutual Insurance Company. Herb very thoughtfully took his wife, Cindy, with him so that she could type this column for the Alumni Gazette.

Mailbag: Joanne (Jonscher) and Dick Scofield are planning a fabulous vacation to Hong Kong, Peking, Singapore and Bangkok. It sounds to me like Dick must have figured out the combination to the company safe. Joanne teaches piano and just wound up her teaching year with a recital for 35 of her pupils. If she has to listen to the Minuet in G one more time she will definitely be ready for the funny farm. Henry Blanc writes that he is still "laboring" in the lumber and building material business while his wife teaches German in high school. Walt Raymond writes that he and Vi (Marsland) '52 celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary on St. Barths in the Caribbean. Eddie King '47 writes that he is recovering nicely from the whiplash he incurred in the break dancing semi-finals at Sandy Spring, MD. Unfortunately, one of the laces on Eddie's new Keds got entangled in his beard, causing the mishap. Eddie expects to be ready for the finals at the Kennedy Center in mid-September. Ray O'Connor '48 has been working with the Pentagon as part of the Balistic Laser Activated Scrumch Team (BLAST). Obviously, Ray can't reveal too many details, but apparently BLAST can nuke everything on the planet but whales and pussy willows. Bellinda (Gump) and Joe Zass advised that they had spent a week with Maryann and Jim Sutherland '48 at Tara II in Penhook, Virginia. Maryann's zucchini and strawberry souffle won first prize at the Penhook Fair and Jim was very excited about getting the right front tire of his '72 pickup recapped.

From the Phone Booth: Ruth (Maroney) and Duke Isaacs '49 plan on attending Homecoming this year. In preparation of the event Duke is going to have some of his wide ties narrowed. I'm not surprised, Duke always was on the leading edge of fashion. Who can ever forget his appearance in white tie, tails and saddle shoes at mid-winter's dance? Eat your heart out Perry Ellis '61. Jack Gulley '48 called me on Father's Day with the news that his paternity suit had been successfully adjudicated, or as Jack so aptly expressed it, "I beat the rap." He was pleased with the outcome but felt badly about returning all the nice gifts he'd received that day. By the way, Jack graduated from William and Mary law school in '50 so we can claim him for our year. All Gulley fans please watch this space. Cindy and I are looking forward to a visit from Liz (Mylander) and Jim Bowman '48. Jim is retired now and to those who closely observed Jim's work ethic in his sophomore year knew that retirement would be a natural. In my next report I'll fill you in on their visit and any other dull items — also a count on the silverware.

Important Notice: This Homecoming is your thirty-fourth anniversary! And if that item is not scary enough to knock your socks off, think about this one. In just 16 years we'll be ready for the Olde Guard. However, my point is not to scare the daylight out of you but merely to get you back to the 'Burg while you can still walk and talk. And, of course, the critical importance of the thirty-fourth year is so that you will be warmed up for your thirty-fifth year. So, make your plans now.

Warning: Please give me some news for my next report. And remember, if I don't hear from you I can always hire some guys in pin striped suits who will come around and break your legs. So think it over, the cost of a phone call (419-756-5015), or postage is bound to be less than the deductible on your hospitalization.

NEW APPOINTMENTS

Thomas M. Finn, professor of religion, has been named Dean of Undergraduate Studies for the faculty of arts and sciences at William and Mary while Edgar Allan Toppin, a graduate dean and professor at Virginia State University, is the 1985-86 James Pinckney Harrison Professor of History. Virginia K. Laycock '71, assistant professor of education, has been named acting associate dean of the School of Education, and Timothy J. Sullivan '66, professor of law, has been designated the John Stewart Bryan Professor of Jurisprudence. Sullivan has been on a leave of absence while serving as an assistant to Governor Robb.

STEPHEN H. MAIER '69 NAMED GRAND UNION ASSISTANT TREASURER

Stephen H. Maier '69 has been promoted to the position of assistant treasurer of The Grand Union Company, one of the nation's largest supermarket chains. Maier formerly served as controller of the company's eastern region in Landover, Md. Maier received his MBA from William and Mary in 1971.

LINDA AREY '66 APPOINTED DOT EXECUTIVE SECRETARY

Secretary of Transportation Elizabeth Hanford Dole has announced the appointment of Linda Lugenia Arey '66 as Executive Secretary of the Department of Transportation. In her new position as head of the Executive Secretariat, Arey will advise Secretary Dole on the status of internal and external communications, and will ensure a prompt response for official correspondence of the Secretary to the public, White House and Congress.

Mrs. Jarrold C. Patterson
(Liz Beard)
5025 Elmhurst
Royal Oak, MI 48073

Someone cares! What a humdinger of a letter I received from one of our classmates — one whom I did not really know until our 30th reunion. (See what you missed by not attending). The letter begins: "Don't do it (Liz Beard)!!! Sacrifice vacations, your family, any free time, to keep the news flowing. Before you leave your distinguished and very, very thankless assignment reflect a bit on all the cheer you brought to all of us as we tried each quarter to recall who that name really was or 'Can you imagine that? That drunk is a brain surgeon?' 'She spent the best years of her life with her husband in Sri Lanka?' . . ." He promised a news note two years ago. At least he kept his promise. He claims he has kept his children waiting for certain things longer than that. (What's your excuse?) Who is this appreciative, and also creative classmate? His letter is typed personally on smashing and personally designed stationery. First he tells of wife, Judy, (also at reunion as an interested participant, tho' not an alumna), who has become one of the most sought-after field hockey and lacrosse referees in the East (USA). She was the first female official ever to referee a game at West Point, and the chairman (and sole department member) of the Phys Ed department of Rockland Country Day School. Son Matt is a sophomore at Vanderbilt and daughter Alexandra is a high school student. Eugene, oops, I let out the secret, has been designing settings for television commercials for all these years since resigning from being Art Director at N.Y. PBS Channel. The Greek Tycoon was the last feature film he art directed. Next summer he will be art director for a major television docu-drama on the Constitutional Convention of 1787. He teaches design at the New School, a university in New York City, and he guest lectures annually at the drama school at Yale University. He hopes to get back into more theatrical activities during the next few years, while continuing in film. That's Eugene Gurlitz's talent we're going to be on the lookout for on TV and stage!

From an Alpha Chi alumnae bulletin sent to me from the College, word is received about Ann McCoy Gibson. She and her husband, Charlie, live in Chapel Hill, N.C. She is associated with the Cardiology Dept. at N.C. Memorial Hospital and Charlie is employed by Silver Burdett Company Publishers. (We'd love to know more specifics of your jobs.) Ann enjoys playing tennis, traveling and needlework. The Gibsons have a daughter recently graduated from Univ. of N.C. and a son a junior there. Another Ann heard from, former column contributor and Reunion attendee, is Ann Beattie Recknor, who has resigned from Notre Dame Prep School after 14 years there. She will go into business for herself soon. We'll be waiting for details of your career change and venture, Ann. We wish you well.

A fine letter also arrived from another Gene, Gene Burns. In November of 1983 Gene was elected to the position of corporate executive vice president of CPC International, Inc., with continuing responsibility as Chief Financial Officer of the Company and also being named to the Chairman's office, the senior policy and planning arm of the corporation. In December, 1983, he was elected a director of The United Jersey Bank, the third largest bank in New Jersey with assets in excess of $3.6 billion. Among his many outside activities, he is a national trustee of the National Symphony Orchestra, Washington, D.C.; member of the International Advisory Board of Columbia University Graduate School of Business; and member of the corporations committee of Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center Fund, Inc. His older son is a lawyer and his younger son, an '83 graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, is a doctoral candidate in piano. Gene's acclamation that he is proud of his William and Mary heritage and trusts that he is making a contribution to society is certainly harmonious with each of our feelings about the College and about what we are doing with our lives.

One of the classmates I nominated to succeed me was Doug Ryder, whose humorous columns you certainly have not forgotten from Flat Hat days. The next edition of the Alumni Gazette told of his death at Christmas, '83. He had written his usual humorous Christmas letter and sent it off without a hint of his own illness until I looked back on it. Our sympathy to his wife and family.

It seems fitting to close my column with another quote from Gene Gurlitz's priceless letter. "Certainly, we shall be at the next reunion. The New York Alumni Chapter is filled to the brim with beautiful young career executives, thus keeping many of us attentive and active. It is depressing that the college has been accepting such young students these days. It is also depressing that our Alumni Notes are moving closer and closer to the center of the Alumni Gazette. But I am sure I shall see you before we get together as Old Guardsmen." He's also happy for me that I can return from my name (Liz Beard) to Liz Beard. Actually, Gene seems to be very talented in the writing category. As a compliment to him, maybe he'll agree to become (Gene Gurlitz)-only if the Gazette would promise to print his name as creatively as on his stationery.

There is a time and season for everything on earth. I have had my time and privilege of corresponding with and for you. There has been glad news, sad news, funny news, proud news, newsy news — I've loved hearing from everyone who has taken the time and caring to write and share your news. Thanks, also to those who intended to write. Send it to whomever my successor is so he/she will have a column. Remember, support your college, William and Mary, by contributing to the William and Mary Fund or whichever fund of the college you prefer; write to President Graves and thank him for his great contributions to the status of William and Mary; Write to your class secretary! Let it be known that "our hearts are with you, dear William and Mary, however far we stray."

Hello, Everyone!

Reunion time rapidly approaches. We're looking forward to a grand turnout. It can only happen if you plan ahead and get reservations made.

Bobbie Wadley Goodwin (believe it or not, we were in third grade together) has been a California resident for some time. She is working as a free-lance editor and teaching two writing classes. She's considering launching herself into UCLA Law School, to which she has been admitted. She has been widowed for many years and has recently gone through a long period of illness, but she's making it on her own and putting her son through college.

Last fall she saw and visited with Beth Wood Bowers when Beth was visiting her son.

An interesting note: Bobbie said at UCLA they adjusted her undergraduate grades up a bit "because William and Mary is a tough school."

The Virginia Gazette ran an article about Bill Royall, who is a printer working with them in Williamsburg and who graduated in 1954 from the College, but who got his degree on the GI Bill at night school. He remembers working at the Virginia Gazette before World War II, though he has held other jobs in other places. He is a member of "Williamsburg before 1944," a group of oldtimers who meet once every two years.

Another newspaper article has come my way from and about Peggy Wells Stiles, or Martha Bennett Stiles, as she is known through her writings. She is continuing to write, with seven books to her credit, plus many short stories, poems and articles. She also continues the enjoyment of living in the Kentucky horse country where her husband breeds thoroughbreds and teaches chemistry at the University of Kentucky.

Her latest accomplishment of note is a short story, "Winter Love," for which she was honored by the Frankfort Arts Foundation in April. It was published by the Foundation in a chapbook included with the work of another Kentucky author.

Pat Christine Perrine let us know that her son, Chad, graduated from the College in 1980, and last year finished Marshall-Wythe Law School. "Just continuing in the family tradition," she says.

I'll see you all in November. I can hardly wait.

Lou (Bud) Fisher traveled to the Far East in January with his youngest daughter, Joanna, age 11. He participated in a war powers conference in Taiwan for a week and then spent two weeks giving talks for the USIA in the Philippines and Malaysia. His subjects: Congress and foreign policies, presidential war powers, and the loss of the legislative veto. He also managed to spend time in Hong Kong and Honolulu. Bud is still at the Congressional Research Service of the Library of Congress, where he has finished a book for Princeton University Press. He has begun another on constitutional law for Random House.

Carolyn Smith, an administrator and teacher in the Arlington, Va., Public Schools for more than 20 years, recently was appointed as the school system's Mathematics Curriculum Supervisor by the Arlington School Board. Among her varied experiences are years of teaching for the Department of Defense in Morocco, North Africa, and Germany. According to the picture that accompanied the newspaper article about her success, the years have treated Carolyn graciously and kindly.

D. Thomas Reel has been named to the Board of Directors of the American Lung Association of Lancaster County, Pa. In addition to serving in this capacity, Tom has been active in other community affairs, previously serving as First Vice President of the Leola Area Jaycees, Publications Chairman of the United Fund, and as a Marketing Advisor with Junior Achievement. And by the way, he also earns a living with American Medical Laboratories, is Regional Supervisor for Laboratory Services, and reports home to his wife and three children. Whew.

Dottie Guthrie Wilson, our global social butterfly, sent a postcard from Italy en route to Sicily. Dottie, m'dear, do notice the address at the top of column and come home soon.

Take some time off from the '84 political conventions, the Olympics, whatever, and send along news of your summer activities. The deadline for the November issue is October 1, so you have a few minutes to collect your notes.

Richmond, VA 23225

Jim Pittman has won three awards at the Fifth Virginia Watercolor Society Juried Exhibition. Jim has been painting scenes of the Tidewater area for the past 15 years and is represented in galleries in Richmond, on Nantucket, and in Maine. In addition to his art activities, Jim is an active officer of Pittman Chrysler-Plymouth Corporation in Williamsburg.

Jim also wrote that Brig. Gen. Tom Lightner was honored with a reception at the College on May 11th. Colonel and Mrs. Carson invited a few local ROTC classmates, including Denys Grant, Sid Pauls, and Jim, for a small dinner party afterward.

I received a nice letter from Rony Morton '59 and John who were disappointed to miss the 25th reunion. They are hopeful that they can make Rony's 25th in the fall. Rony says, "I find it interesting that our son, John, who will be a senior next year, is named after his father and their classes are just opposite — '58 and '85. John has loved William and Mary as we did, and he is on the Alumni Liaison Committee; thus he has met a lot of our friends!" Thank you for writing, Rony.

Carole Chase is now an associate professor of religion at Elon College, where she has been teaching religion for eight years. Carole is an ordained Presbyterian minister. She has a Ph.D. in Christian ethics from Duke University.

News is sparse this month. Please send a note or postcard, especially those of you who didn't get in touch at our reunion. We want to hear from you!

Mrs. John A. Coffey
(Mary Ellen Carlson)
14101 Manorvale Rd.
Rockville, MD 20853

W. Bruce Lincoln, a Northern Illinois University history professor, has been awarded a 1984 grant-in-aid from the American Council of Learned Societies. He plans to use his grant to conduct research on Russia in the Great War, 1914-18.

The Williamsburg Gazette had a nice article about Frances Score Mitchell in April. She is the illustrator of the First Little Golden Book, My Little Book of Poems, the newest in beginning stories for toddlers. Frances has two non-toddlers — Erik 14, and Matthew, 13.

Judi Urian Lownes writes that she has passed her test and is now a Real Estate Broker and Rental Manager for Seven Lakes, N. C.

Shiras Elliott Guion is currently working at Johns Hopkins University Applied Physics Laboratory in Maryland as an Analyst and Programmer. Her husband, Bill, is with NASA at Goddard. Their children are Susan, 14, and Peter, 12. Besides working outside the home, she is involved with soccer, Scouts, and other activities with her children. She finds time for two favorite hobbies which are machine knitting and pattern design.

Beth Poole Radford sent a postcard from Germany where she and her family are on vacation. Her husband, Wade, also works at Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory in

ALUMNUS JOINS FOREIGN SERVICE

Thomas A. Shannon Jr. '80 of Arlington, Virginia, has been sworn in as an officer of the United States Foreign Service. Shannon, who earned a master's degree in politics from Oxford University in 1982 and a doctor's degree of philosophy in politics from Oxford in 1983, will serve in Guatemala City, Guatemala. Shannon is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and was a Draper's Scholar. He also received an Overseas Research Award in 1982 and 1983.

BERNIE J. NOLAN '51 HONORED

Bernie J. Nolan '51, manager of contributions and vice-president of the Procter & Gamble Fund and a member of the board of directors of the Society of the Alumni, has been named the 1984 recipient of the Service Recognition Award by the United Negro College Fund. The award noted that Nolan's service to UNCF has spanned a decade, including his chairmanship of the fund's Corporate Advisory Committee in 1981 and 1982. He is shown in the accompanying photo with Christopher Edley, president and chief executive officer of the United Negro College Fund, at its recent black-tie dinner at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York City.

Maryland. Wade and their son, Richard, participated in a volksmarch (7 miles) while in Germany.

Dave Gatti and Michael Hogan Gatti '63, are living in Columbia, S.C., with their two daughters, Gina, 17, and Evan, 12. Gina is a senior at B. C. High School and Evan is at Northside Middle School. Dave is in a group practice of general and vascular surgery.

William F. Mirguet, Jr., a former senior vice president of Sovran Bank, will become president and chief executive officer of Virginia Commerce Bank and Trust Co., Ltd., a new business-oriented bank in Newport News, Virginia. Congratulations, Bill!

Louise Martin Doyle wrote that she just lost her husband, Bill. Bill was retired from the Army, and he and Lou took care of her parents on their Virginia farm. Lou continues to commute to Washington, D.C., as a United flight attendant from Raphine, Va. Our deepest sympathy to you, Lou, on the loss of your husband.

We need more news from you. Take my address on your vacation and drop me a postcard with a message for the next column.

Mrs. C. Philip Tutschek (Joanne Arnett) 80 Melrose Rd. Mountain Lakes, NJ 07046

Fred W. Bowen, Jr. is manager of the NASA Resident Office at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif. He recently received NASA's Exceptional Service Medal. Fred served as chairman of the Los Angeles Combined Federal Campaign in 1983-84 and 1984-85.

Jimmye Lubin D. Angell lives in Walla Walla, Wash., where she continues to enjoy her private practice in psychotherapy. She has a new foster daughter, and has made trips to Sun Valley and Mexico recently. She is completing a cabin in the Blue Mountains and says the welcome mat is out to all classmates who would visit the beautiful Pacific Northwest.

Dave Curling is in Jacksonville, Fla., with William Cook Advertising. His oldest son, Greg, just finished his first year at William and Mary. He hopes that sons Todd, 15, and Mark, 8, will follow.

Barry Tinsley recently completed two large sculpture commissions for the State of Illinois and held an exhibition in June and July in his hometown of Martinsville, Va. Barry's friend and classmate, Paul Mattox, was instrumental in organizing the sculpture show in Martinsville. Barry is also completing a commission for the Borg-Warner Corporation in Chicago, where he lives. The Tinsleys have a new daughter, Ashley Elizabeth, born December 16, 1983.

We enjoyed a day with Phil and Mary (Van Lear) recently relaxing on their beautiful lake. Their daughter, Larissa, spent a week at the College in June as a participant in a program to acquaint prospective students with life on campus. The Van Kirk family then embarked on a two-week trip to England.

It's time to make reservations for our 20th reunion. I hope to see many of you in Williamsburg. Philip insists we are bringing our two year old, Elizabeth, as well as Spencer, 13, so we'll be recognizable as the couple chasing the toddler at all the activities. It should be a very special Homecoming for us of 1964.

In her new position as head of the Executive Secretariat, Linda will advise Secretary Dole on the status of internal and external communications, and will ensure a prompt response for official correspondence of the Secretary to the public, White House, and Congress. Prior to her new appointment, Linda was Special Assistant to Deputy Secretary of Transportation Jim Burnley. She has also been a Special Assistant at the Department of Justice, 1982-1983, and Special Assistant to the Executive Secretary at the Department of Education, 1981-1982. Linda received her law degree from the University of Richmond School of Law and a Master of Arts degree from Wake Forest University.

I really appreciated a letter from Jeff Arnold, who resides in Winter Park, Fla., and practices law in Orlando. He is currently President of the Orange County Bar Association, which serves the Orlando area and consists of over 1,300 lawyers. His oldest son, Kirk, will be captain of the football team, which last year made it to the semi-finals for the State Championship. It is hoped and expected they will remain Central Florida's best team. Jeff also has a son, age 7, and a daughter, age 4. Through his law practice, Jeff has had the opportunity to work with Mike Madden '68, Jim Breeden, John Sours, and John Wagstaff '67. In addition, he has visited with Mike Reese, Donald Beck '64 and Arthur Louise '67, during their vacations to Walt Disney World and Central Florida. Lehn Abrams '70 works with Jeff in his law firm and other attorneys in the Orlando area are Greg Presnell '63 and Brad Davis '67.

Alice Annon Miri sailed with her family on the QEII for Southampton in May. Their vacation plans include London, Istanbul, Geneva, and Amsterdam. Alice is a full-time mother to 3 year-old, Jonathan, and her husband, Sayyed, works with the World Bank.

Susie Romans is renovating a Victorian house in Brooklyn. She works for Citicorp as an internal consultant on productivity and quality service. This job has her traveling a great deal.

Cheryl Johnson Ratts is now back in the States after living in England for three years. Her husband, an Army LTC, worked at RAF Mildenhall in host nation support, and Cheryl taught English for the University of Maryland branch located there. During their three years in England, they traveled a lot and welcomed the birth of their third child, a son, Michael, now age two.

Jerry Johnson is a systems engineer with Electrospace Systems, Inc., of Richardson, Texas. He is currently engaged in a sub-contract with Hughes Aircraft Company for the developmental test and evaluation of their MILSTAR satellite communications terminals. Jerry's wife, Billye, is a member of the Greater Dallas Writers' Association and is free lancing for Plano Magazine. They are both active in various committees at the Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration in Dallas.

By the time you read this issue, we will have closed on our home in Virginia Beach and be renting in Newport News. Hopefully building will have started on our new home.

The November issue, with an October 1 deadline, will be the next issue with '66 news. Hope to hear from you.

April Teitelbaum is practicing hematology and oncology in Anaheim, Calif.

Edwin W. Watson is executive director of the Transportation Museum in Roanoke. His article, "Technology as Art: Museums Should Not Ignore the Beauty of Industrial Artifacts," appeared in History News (Feb. 1983).

Donna Gorman Dancy has been named vice president of the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond. After graduation from the West Virginia School of Banking, Donna joined the Federal Reserve Bank in 1973 as a computer programmer. She has held several positions with the bank including coordination of systems and procedures, assistant cashier, and assistant vice president.

Alfred G. Yates, an attorney in Pittsburgh, Pa., is counsel for the Western Pennsylvania Chapter of the Lupus Foundation.

Jim Jancaitis is executive manager of the federal mapping department of Intergraph Corporation. Intergraph is the world leader in sales of interactive computer mapping systems. Jim lives in Huntsville, Ala., with his wife, Lois, and their three children; Amy, 10, Jean, 7, and Mary, 3.

Bob Blair is certainly busy. He is the managing partner of the law firm Anderson, Hibey, Nauheim and Blair in Washington, D.C. He is also active in the Democratic Party. He has been appointed chair of the Democratic National Committee's Potomac Group. This group provides financial support for the Democratic Party's political activities and helps shape party policy. Bob is special counsel to Democratic National Finance Chairman, Peter G. Kelly.

Janet Pernice Lundy wrote for the Congressional Research Service, a part of the Library of Congress. As a legislative analyst, she assists congressional committees and offices on health legislation. Before joining the Congressional Research Service in 1975, Jan was a management trainee for HEW. She has been a budget analyst, a program analyst, in planning and evaluation, and in personnel. Jan and her husband, Jeff, and their son Michael (7 months), live in Vienna, halfway between her job in D.C. and his job with IBM in Manassas.

At Norfolk's Harborfest, I visited with Carole Greene Gelfeld, who came south from her home in Rockville, Md., for her sister's wedding.

My stay in Norfolk will end before this column goes to press. My family returns to Northern Virginia reluctantly. Please note the change in address, and let me hear from you before October 1 when the next column is due.

Mrs. T. Thomas Van Dam (Randy Pearson) 215 Myrtle St. Haworth, N.J. 07641

In late June, Tom and I had a great visit with Buddy and Janice (Savage) Gardner here in Haworth. Buddy was "up North" for a dental seminar on the temporal mandibular joint in Ft. Lee, N.J. Janice and I met Kathy Kearny and Judy Rader for a three hour Circle Line Tour of Manhattan. . . a perfect way to spend three hours gabbing about the past 14 years, while boating around Manhattan Island! Kathy, living in Manhattan, is finishing a Ph.D. in clinical psychology, while working as a psychologist at Tappan Zee High School in New York State. Living a couple of blocks away from Kathy, Judy is with a computer consulting firm in New York City. At the moment, Judy is on assignment with Con Edison in Manhattan. Janice and I spent another day in New York City and met Barbara Johnson '69 and Joanne Walthal '69 for lunch. Unfortunately, we did not see Michele (Cayot) Abrams, but I did have a couple of good conversations with her. She and husband, Dan, and four year old Josh, live on an acre in Millington, N.J. Michele, District Engineer for AT&T in Piscataway,

PROFESSOR MCCULLEY

Cecil Michael McCulley, professor of English emeritus at William and Mary, died recently at the age of 66. A member of the faculty since 1948 and a full professor since 1963, Dr. McCulley specialized in English, American, and modern European drama, and Renaissance literature. He also taught classes in advanced writing. Dr. McCulley, who retired from the faculty in May, was honored by the College for his contributions as a scholar and as a teacher with the Thomas Jefferson Award in 1970.

GOAD FAMILY MAKES GIFT

The family of Dr. Robley Goad '22 has presented to the Society of the Alumni a framed original watercolor of the Alumni House by artist Paul N. Norton in memory of Dr. Goad. In the accompanying photograph, President Graves and H. Westcott Cunningham '43, executive vice-president of the Society of the Alumni, observe the watercolor in the parlor of the Alumni House where it is hung.

N.J., manages computer systems that support the telephone network.

Now at home in Arlington, Va., Bill Price and wife Gayle, the former Gayle Armstrong, (married Nov. 12, '83), participated in the reenactment of an auto race which took place in 1909 from New York to Seattle. They drove a stock 1921 Model T Ford touring car about 3600 miles coast-to-coast along with 30 other Model T Ford owners and their cars. The race, July 19-August 12, was sponsored by the Model T Ford Club International of which Bill is a member of the Board of Directors.

An update from Cheryl (Scott) Rome. . . In '83, she "reunited" with Mary (Couper) and Jeff Lischer on the occasion of a trip East by Denny and Susan (Swearingen) Burke. . . "Absolutely no aging and no 'Big Chill'" according to Cheryl. March 20, 1984, Cheryl's second child, Elizabeth Scott Rome, was born. Her first child, John Dozier Rome, will be two on December 13.

Justin Deas won an Emmy Award, June 27, this year, as "Best Supporting Actor in a daytime drama," for his performance on CBS's "As The World Turns." He has been playing Tom Hughes on the daytime drama since 1980, and is filming his first major film, "Dream Cover," during a leave of absence from the show.

Everyone is invited to Virginia Beach to see John Fletcher who lives on 55th Street. When he isn't hanging around the beach, he is a partner in the law firm of Tavss & Fletcher, P.C., in Norfolk. No wife, no kids, no news to speak of and he's feeling fine.

Pam Liipfert was married on August 8, 1981, when she worked in Fairfax County Public Schools in the program for the emotionally disturbed. In January of 1984 she moved with her husband, an attorney, to the Atlanta area.

From the medical side of the house, we hear that Floyd Griffith earned his doctor of optometry degree from the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in 1979 and completed a post-graduate medical education program in eye disease at the Armed Forces Institute of Pathology in 1981. Tomeka Watkinson Gipsen is still at Pitt County Memorial Hospital but now manages the Chemistry Section in the Department of Pathology. She and her husband recently moved about 20 miles outside of Greenville to Grifton, North Carolina.

Anne Iarrobino Barter and family are living for a few years in Birmingham, Alabama. She stays busy with young children, tutoring algebra and doing some volunteer work.

Now the Counsel, TRW, Electronics & Defense Sector, Karen Lerohl Richardson, received her Master of Laws degree from George Washington University in 1982.

Karen Gill Generoff is living in Oakton,

Virginia, and working for the U.S. Department of State. She sees Karen Domabyl often — they keep in shape swimming at the local recreation center after work. They were wondering what had become of their freshman year roommate, Shelley McInnis??? The last they heard, she was in Australia.

Annette Talton Fisher and husband, Jim, have lived in Herndon, Virginia, for ten years. She is a partner in a home-based business, TINY T's INC. She designs and sells, through home parties, appliqued children's clothing.

For the last three years, Kathleen Keller Bacskay has worked for a Maryland consulting firm doing computer systems work. She currently manages a six-person project at the State Department working on their Personnel Information System. Otherwise, she stays busy with her nine-year old son Stefon's schedule of soccer, bowling and baseball. She and husband, Frank '71, divorced in March of 1983.

Bob Kemp is thriving in Potomac, Maryland, with four children — ages 1, 4, 6, and 8. Since earning his MBA in Finance & Investments from George Washington University in 1975, Bob has become the president of Epic Mortgage, Inc., in Falls Church. Sounds like he put his education to work for him.

The People Column of the Roanoke Times & World-News tells us what's happening in Calvin Remsberg's theatrical career. He is playing Deuteronomy in "Cats," a very successful stage play at the National Theater in Washington, D.C. Later this year, Calvin will appear in the Los Angeles production of "Cats." The play is a Broadway hit and a Tony award winner. The paper mentions that Calvin was friends with Glenn Close '74 when he went to the College of William and Mary, and she helped him get a part in the Showtime production of "Sweeney Todd." She was in the movies "The Natural," and "The Big Chill."

Now living in Winchester, Massachusetts, Andy Evans was recently appointed as Associate Dean to the Fletcher School. Formerly, Andy was controller of the Asia Bureau of the U.S. Agency for International Development before filling this newly-created position as associate dean for management, finance and development. A career Foreign Service officer at AID for the past ten years, he served as a budget officer and in several positions overseas. Two years ago, he was presented with AID's Meritorious Honor Award for superior performance and more recently received the agency's highest honor, the Superior Honor Award. Andy is a certified public accountant and has an MBA degree from George Washington University.

This is it for now. Keep the news coming.

Homecoming APBs: Calling all Pi Phi! Lynn Cole and Barbara Grover Hess would like to encourage all their Pi Phi classmates to attend the tenth reunion. They are trying to arrange a time and place for a special get-together — if interested, call or write, (Barbara's address is 10407 Huntley Ave., Silver Spring, Md., 20902; Lynn's address is 441 Castenada, San Francisco, Calif., 94116.) Barbara is a computer systems analyst for the U.S. Navy in Arlington. She got her MBA from the U. of Md. last spring and is working on an M.S. in Information Systems. Lynn works for a law firm in San Francisco and shares a house with her brother Randy and his wife, Pat Hand Cole. They'd love to hear from A'ele Mulford, Nancy Nordstrom, Tucker Gray, Marsha Montgomery, and any of their old crowd.

New jobs: Joseph W. Morris, a Lynchburg native, was named supervisor for public tours at the Anheuser-Busch headquarters brewery in St. Louis. He joined the company in 1975 and was their on-site manager of the Anheuser-Busch pavilion at the 1982 World's Fair in Knoxville.

Geologist Robert W. Custard was named superintendent of Grand Caverns Regional Park in Virginia. His previous job at the Clean Water Action Project was in Washington, D.C., so he'll be going from the big city to country living with this job change. I can't remember exactly where the Grand Caverns are — I did visit once long ago — but the newspaper clipping with this information came from the Harrisonburg Daily News-Record, if that can be considered a clue.

Charles H. "Bert" Wilson was named director of marketing services for Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Virginia in Richmond. He joined the company in 1975 after receiving his M.Ed. from William and Mary in that year.

Byrd Smith Heaton was named accounting officer at Union Trust Bank in Baltimore. She had only been there for three months when the promotion was announced — fast work! Byrd has an MBA and previously worked for Virginia National Bank in Norfolk.

New babies: Bob and Anne Williams Daniel had their second child this spring, but I've not heard any details. No details on Tom Karow's second child, born this past spring. They have a son, Patrick, 3. Val and Tom Eppes' second child will be here by the time this issue reaches you. Their first, Andrew, (Class of 2004) is nearly 2. Tom sent a cute picture of young Andrew wearing his father's "duc cap" from freshman year. . .Egad! that cap is 14 years old! Mark Ritter and his wife expect their third baby in December.

Carrie Glass Massa and Bob expect their first in August. Carrie is Assistant Director of Continuing Education at a local community college in Schenectady, N.Y.; Bob is Asst. Dean of Students at Union College, a small liberal arts school. Bonnie Thacher Guari won't be at Homecoming this year — their first is due in September. Karen Schorschinsky Donohoe's second son, Patrick Joseph, was born in February. Now if you all will just include me on your birth announcement list when these babies are born, I'll put in in the Gazette and the Alumni Society will send a cute little T-shirt for the new arrival — it's called early recruiting!

Tom Eppes wrote that he ran into Cyndie Heishell in Atlanta a few months ago. She is enjoying teaching at her parents' school while working toward her master's, helping with a Republican Senate campaign and a Democratic gubernatorial campaign (both successful), and working with Right to Life. Cyndie had news of Priscilla Adams and husband who now live in Philadelphia, and of Lem Tucker, now in Mississippi heading a gospel ministry that is evidently very successful. Tom didn't mention what he does for a living himself, but did say that he was on the Board of Directors for Lynchburg's Alumni Society chapter — the pinnacle of success, Tom! He plans to attend Homecoming this year.

I've received several newspaper and magazine articles on the movie star of our class, Glenn Close. Her role in "The Real Thing" on Broadway won her a Tony Award in June. Are there any other classmates in "show biz"? No! just acting, but singing, writing, producing, etc.? I've heard that Mark Young and his wife Sabrina are in Hollywood where he works in the television industry, but I don't know any specifics. Who else?

MJ Gregory and Mac Conway plan to be at Homecoming. MJ wrote that Mac was recently promoted to Investment Officer at Center Trust Co. in St. Louis. She does a little substitute teaching but devotes most of her energies to their son, Jamie, 2.

MJ writes that DeeDee Bazan is a research attorney on Capitol Hill and spends spare time training herself and her horse for shows. Tom Karow and family moved to Gloucester, Va., a few months ago. Tom works for Anheuser-Busch in Williamsburg. Marsha Clarkson Reiss is a "part-time wife" — she lives and works in Boston while her husband, Mark, is in Middlebury, Vt. They are trying to find jobs in the same area and, I hope, have done so by now. Vacation marriages must be the pits.

Jim and I spent a nice weekend recently at a lake near Charlottesville with some classmates at Lynn Adams Hostetler's family home and passed around lots of gossip. I mean, news. Susan Early is finishing her surgery residency at George Washington in D.C. and is thinking of further study in plastic surgery. Shannon Odom Allonier has one son, Jake, 3, and one due very soon. She and her family live in Charlottesville, as do Sarah Beeler and Mike Hudson. Sarah does anesthesia research at U.Va.'s hospital and Mike is a partner in a GE dealership. They just got back from a trip to Austria, without young Matt, age 2½. Juanita Benton Roe works for GE in inside sales and runs a real cat house — she and Paul have 8 or 9 or so . . . I forget. They live in Roanoke County, Va. John and Lynn Adams Hostetler were down from Chambersburg, Pa., with their two children, Brian 5½, and Katie, 3½. Their new house is located just a few miles from Gettysburg, so stop in and say hello if you're touring that historic site. Jenny Miller Owens and husband, Lee, and sons, Andrew, 6½ and Christopher, 4½, were in Virginia visiting family during June. The Coast Guard has stationed them in Alaska for about four years and they only get back to Virginia every two years. All of us had our children with us for the weekend; all of them are remarkable geniuses and models of proper conduct, of course.

Please read the Homecoming information in this issue carefully. There are so many events, it will be a super time for all of us.

I hope everyone enjoyed a fun summer — it seems like this one was really short. We had a few bits of new come in over the past few months so let's get on with the stories.

ARMED FORCES: Harriet Griffith is moving up in the world as she is now a C-141 pilot for the USAF. She frequents the resorts of Europe, Alaska and the Caribbean, flying passengers and cargo around the world. She says that friends in the area can reach her at Brown Mills, N.J. John Metz has said he has had enough of the service as he got out of the navy in August and is returning to D.C. via the northern route. He and his wife are also the proud parents of a second girl, Ashley Marie. Barbara Baker Creech is in the army where she plans to stay for a while. She is a computer programmer, having completed an 18-month internship at Computer Systems Command. She and her husband Richard, who received a B.S. in nurse anesthesia from GWU, will be moving in November to Texas where Barbara will be assigned a permanent job at CSC. Will you be the one who has to sound the alarm, Barbara? They report seeing his sister and her husband, Barbara (Creech) and Bert Kramer '74, who live in Centerville. Bert is a procurement specialist with the navy at Crystal City and Barb is personnel specialist for the CIA in Rosslyn.

RELIGION: Robert and Mallory Boyd have moved to Schuyler, Va. — the original Walton's mountain, where he is the pastor of New Faith United Methodist church. He says

INSTITUTE NAMES NEW PRESIDENT

Margaret DeBoe '68 MBA, who was the first woman to graduate from William and Mary with a master of business administration degree in finance, has been elected the first woman president of the District of Columbia Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Founded in 1923, the D.C. Institute is the professional society of CPAs in the Washington area.

SCHOOL OF EDUCATION RECEIVES $84,000 GRANT

The School of Education at the College of William and Mary has received $84,145 from the U.S. Department of Education for the first year of a three-year program to train students for administrative leadership roles in the field of special education. The work of eight full-time doctoral students in education will be supported by the grant.

PATRICK STONER '69 SELECTED FOR NATIONAL CRITICS' INSTITUTE

Patrick Stoner '69, the critic-at-large for WHY-TV, Philadelphia/Wilmington, is one of twelve critics selected from across the nation as critic fellows of the National Critics' Institute. The Institute is the only professional level training program for critics in the country, and it is supported by the Eugene O'Neill Theatre Center with grants from national funding agencies, CBS and ABC. The National Critics' Institute met at the Eugene O'Neill Theatre Center in Waterford, Connecticut for the month of July.

the area reminds them of the TV show and sometimes Mallory says at night "good night, Bob-boy." Deanne Peters is working full-time on the staff of Young Life in Corpus Christi. She had gone to a seminary for one year in Austin and is now working on her master's degree from Fuller Seminary in California. Rachel Tedards will complete her master of divinity in Christian education this December at Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. She was also chosen an outstanding young woman in 1983.

LAW: Jim Cleary is a senior attorney with SONAT and has recently been named assistant secretary of SONAT Offshore Drilling, Inc. He had received his J.D. degree in 1979 from Boston College. Margaret Moler Sullivan has recently joined Kilpatrick & Cody, one of the largest law firms in Atlanta. Rae Ann (Lindberg) and Jeff Puff (law school '78) are in New Jersey, where Jeff has his own law practice and is opening a Spa and hot tub business. Rae Ann works part-time as a learning specialist, testing students for learning problems. She also takes care of 2 1/2 year old Adam on a full-time basis.

VIRGINIA: Jeanne Lipfert Netherton is working for Honeywell in McLean as a systems analyst. She and husband Bill live in Springfield with their 3-year-old son, Bill. Also in Northern Va. is Dru McCloud-Stancampiano, where she works in downtown D.C., at the National Geographic Society. Her husband, Joe, is a camera technician, and they have traveled frequently, most recently to England, Wales and Scotland, where they visited the ancestral McCloud castle on the Isle of Skye. Since school she also earned a graduate certificate in administrative management from GWU, taking final exams 2 days before their wedding — a real lesson in management! W. Kent Miller is currently working for the periodical, The County Line, in Richmond. This follows degrees in English at William and Mary and journalism at VCU. He says he is getting lots of good experience. In Tidewater, Linda Dudnall Dise is working at the social security office in Newport News, Va., and Maria Ruiz Butterworth lives in Smithfield with her husband and brand new twins.

BEYOND: Steve and Diane Huebner are in Milford, Conn., where he is on the staff of Waterbury Hospital. They had dinner recently with Tom Rozantz '79, who is the quarterback for the USFL Pittsburgh Maulers. He was starting his first game the following night. Also joining them were Bob and Pat (Giermak) Millea '77. Tom's agent is Joe Montgomery '74. Steve says anyone passing through Connecticut should look them up.

And looking up is what we should do this Homecoming as we look up friends at our 9th Homecoming as alumni. And while you're doing that, drop me a few lines for the column. I'll be glad you did.

I have moved again! This time I hope to stay at this address for quite a while as I am buying this house. It is a good feeling to have a home of your own. I am also finding out very quickly how much work it is.

I believe the next deadline for class notes will be in late September. I hope many of you will write with news for our fall issue.

Anne Guion is living in southern California and working as a technical writer for a savings and loan.

Paul Everson Skydell joined Butcher & Singer, Inc., as an account executive in the Manhasset, Long Island, office. He was previously with First Coinvestor, Inc., as a numismatic advisor.

Lt. Ralph Pene and his wife, Linda Siler

'80 are moving to San Diego where Ralph is beginning his internship in Pediatrics at the San Diego Naval Regional Medical Center. Ralph graduated from the New Jersey Medical School in May.

Deborah Howard Bobotas is living in Laconis, N.H., where she is teaching and looking into educational administration. She is active in local music groups and associations. In October she married Stephen C. Bobotas.

Deborah Waterman is practicing business and tax law in Huntington, West Virginia, with the firm of Jenkins, Fenstermaker, Krieger, Kayes & Farrell.

Martin G. Leclerc has been promoted to Associate Vice President, Investments, with Dean Witter Reynolds, Inc. He is Assistant Branch Manager of the 42-broker McLean, Va., office. His wife, Cary Holladay '80, is working as a writer in the circulation department of U.S. News & World Report in Washington, D.C. They recently vacationed in San Francisco.

Stanley Yeskolski owns and operates the Wayfarer Tavern in Norfolk. His wife, Beverly English '81, recently graduated from the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. She is practicing in Virginia Beach.

Karen Wilson completed her MBA at Northwestern in June. Since then she has been working for American Airlines in Dallas in the finance department.

Nancy Singer Smith has joined William Byrd Press in a position which allows her time at home with her infant son. She was originally with Heritage Savings & Loan.

Wayne and Stephanie Tsacoumis Meyer are living in Silver Springs, Md., with their daughter, Christina (born March 31). Stephanie is an associate attorney with the law firm of McKenna, Conner & Cuneo in Washington, practicing financial institution and corporate law. Wayne is in his final year of internal medicine residency at George Washington University Hospital.

Best wishes to Heidi Campbell and Ron Robinson in their marriage, August 25, in Durham, N.C.

Brenda Hiatt Barber studied Wildlife Science at Texas A&M for three years following graduation from William and Mary. While there she met her husband, Keith Barber. They were married in June, 1981. Keith is in the U.S. Army, and his assignment has taken them to live in Hawaii at Schofield Barracks. They have a daughter, Bethany Grace, born Sept. 11, 1983. They hope to return to San Antonio, Texas, in September.

As summer draws to a close, it also signals the start of the Gazette again. I hope everyone was able to enjoy the summer — unfortunately, we have to work a good portion of it! I started the summer off right by taking a trip to England (never made it last year!) It was my first trip overseas, so it was an experience for me. I visited London, Bath, York, Edinburgh, Inverness (the Loch Ness monster's hometown!), Chester, and Ipswich — most of the real touristy areas. I could have easily stayed several more weeks; I guess that's the next trip! I did notice several buildings designed by none other than Sir Christopher Wren. Work has been pretty busy for me. I helped a bit with the new Southwestern Connecticut area alumni chapter as they're getting off the ground. If there's anyone up in my neck o' the woods, be sure to drop in on one of the meetings!

Last I heard, Nancy Cunningham was working as a junior chemist for Cord Laboratories, Inc., in Colorado, where she is testing new drug formulations for a generic pharmaceutical manufacturer. In her spare time, Nancy is taking advantage of Colorado's beautiful scenery through hiking, horseback riding and skiing. Kathleen Fitzsimmons was named Director of Capital Projects at Goucher College in Baltimore, where she will be responsible for the various phases of several capital improvement projects being undertaken. Before that, she was working for American Scientific Products, a division of American Hospital Supply Corp. Kathleen was also working on her MBA at George Mason University.

Bill Grayson received his masters in international business from the University of South Carolina in May of 1982. As part of the program, he spent eight months working in Brussels, Belgium. Bill is now a contract executive with British Aerospace, Inc., in Washington, where he is responsible for negotiating the sale of various aircraft.

John O'Hanlon called me recently to bring me up-to-date on what he's been doing. He is now working at Century 21 United in Fairfax. He started the job this past spring and really seems to enjoy it! So, if you're on the market to buy a house in the Fairfax area, be sure to keep John in mind. (Century 21's colors are none other than green and gold!)

George LoBiondo graduated with honors from George Washington Law School and is currently working at LoBiondo Brothers Motor Express in Rosenhaven, New Jersey.

Mark Dennett received his law degree from Harvard Law School and passed the bar exam in the spring of 1982. He is now an attorney for the Office of Contracts and Property Law under the U.S. Postal Service in Washington. Last fall, Mark was a guest speaker for the Career Speaker Series sponsored by the Office of Career Planning at William and Mary; he gave a presentation on careers in law and the government.

Connie Foran has done a bit of traveling with the navy since graduation. She spent eighteen months on tour in Sicily and six months in Denver — luckily during ski season! Connie is now back in the D.C. area for a three-year tour where she is doing work in the naval intelligence field. However, she hopes to be able to go back overseas!

Last fall, Rodney Williams performed in DANCEVENT at William and Mary, making his third appearance for the program in as many years. Dancevent presents works choreographed by the dance faculty at William and Mary. Rodney is a music and dance teacher in Richmond under the Elementary Program of Arts and Humanities. He also appears on the weekly program, The Gospel Truth, for WXEX-TV in Richmond.

Gunvor Weirick is also in Richmond, where he has finished his third year of medical school at the Medical College of Virginia. Donna Hollar writes from Portsmouth, where she is teaching kindergarten at Portsmouth Catholic Elementary, her alma mater! It sounds like she loves it. Donna received her master's degree in early childhood education from Old Dominion University last May. Her summer plans included a relaxing trip to Florida and to New Orleans to visit the World's Fair.

Cindy Darcy writes from D.C. where she works as a volunteer for the Mennonite Central Committee, a Christian organization committed to community involvement and social justice. Cindy serves as an advocate for native American issues on Capitol Hill, representing the Friends Committee on National Legislation, a Quaker lobbying organization. She lives with four other volunteers in the inner-city and is enjoying work and life in D.C. immensely.

Last May, Sheryl Meyer Rauer and her husband, Jim, moved back to Annandale. Jim was transferred to the D.C. office of the National Credit Union Administration. They're very excited to be back home. Mary Lee Bateman was married to Michael Bennett this past June and is now living in Roswell, Georgia.

Judy Ragsdale-Huff received her master's in divinity degree from the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky this past May. Nancy Scott is an assistant athletic trainer for the women's athletic program at William and Mary. She received her masters in education from UVA.

First Lieutenant Duane Williams was married to First Lieutenant Deborah Whitman this past spring. Duane is stationed at Fort Knox, where he is a counterintelligence officer for the 517th Military Intelligence Detachment. Deborah graduated from Penn State University with a degree in law enforcement and correction. She is a counterintelligence officer for the 902nd Military Intelligence Detachment in Fort Leavenworth, Kansas.

Marty Dickens is living in Tacoma, Washington, where she is stationed in McChord Air Force Base. She survived basic training and spent some time in Wichita Falls, Texas, where she did some work in accounting and finance. Before joining the Air Force, Marty taught school and coached sports in Virginia. She enjoys the Air Force, yet does miss coaching.

Becky Riddle returned to her alma mater, Halifax County Senior High School, only this time it was to give the commencement address to the 1984 graduates. Becky is a broadcast journalist with WDBJ-7 in Roanoke.

Chris Wenzel wanted to pass along a note to all those from the Deutsches Haus who didn't make it to her hochzeit on April 30th. Those who came, who included Marie, John, Glynis and Ella Gertrud, had a wonderful time and enjoyed the viel spass.

I guess that this about wraps it up for now. I am saving a bit of news for the next column, since I haven't been hearing from as many people lately and I don't want to miss one month because I don't have any news! So, for those of you from whom I haven't heard anything, please let me know what you've been up to all these years, and everyone else, be sure to give me an update. I hope to be hearing from you soon! Until next time, take care and enjoy the last few days of summer.

I heard it through the grapevine. Since I haven't heard from too many people yet, most of this information comes through the "grapevine." So, please drop me a line soon!

The most exotic job that I have heard about belongs to O. T. Trumbo. He will be travelling to Burma to work for the C. I. A. Ben Lowe has taken a job with Ferguson, Inc., in Raleigh, N.C., and Susie Musciano will be working in Atlanta for an accounting firm. But both of them are enjoying their summer before entering that "real world." I saw them at Diane McGimpsey and Rob Lind's wedding on June 2 in the Williamsburg Presbyterian Church. They will be living in Norfolk; Diane will be working for an accounting firm and Rob will be going to Eastern Virginia Medical School. While on the subject of med school, Steve Hall will be attending MCV in Richmond, and Joe Cornett will be attending UVA med school. Lori Etkin will be going to graduate school at Wake Forest to study chemistry, and Terry Bockhorn, after touring Europe with the choir, will be entering Notre Dame Law School. Melissa Justice will probably be moving to Philadelphia soon, and Susan Conn will head for D.C. Jeff Bishop will start work in D.C. as well. After working as a security guard for Busch Gardens for the first half of the summer, he will begin his new career with TRW Computers in McLean, Va.,

ALUMNUS NAMED COMMANDING OFFICER

Robert W. Reighley '63 has been named Commanding Officer, USS BERKELEY (DDG-15), whose home port is San Diego. Reighley holds the rank of Commander, U.S. Navy.

'80 GRADUATE JOINS NORFOLK CHURCH

The Reverend Roger Thomas Schellenberg '80 has been appointed Assistant to the Rector of St. Andrew's Church, Norfolk, Virginia. While at William and Mary, Fr. Schellenberg worked for Residence Hall Life for three years as a Resident Assistant, and was a brother of Pi Lambda Phi Fraternity. After graduating, he attended the General Seminary in New York City, where in addition to studying for his degree, he worked in a Times Square mission house for bag ladies, served as a Guardian Angel for a year and started his own mission for the homeless in another section of Manhattan. Fr. Schellenberg was awarded a Master of Divinity degree cum laude this May and was ordained a deacon in the Episcopal Church at Bruton Parish here in Williamsburg in June.

on August 13. It sounds like D.C. is the place to be!

But the place to be on July 7 was Wilmington, Delaware, where Anne St. Clair married Scott Woron, Penn State '84. The Radisson Hotel may never recover from the invasion of William and Mary. Survivors include Kim "Kimbo" Staples, maid of honor, who will be attending JMU graduate school in the fall. Not far away was Bobby Harris, who is working in a law firm in Richmond for the summer, and waterskiing in his free time. Greg Hundley is also working in Richmond and enjoying his Rappahannock river house on the weekends before attending MCV med school in the fall. He'll be rooming with Steve Hall. By the end of the wedding reception, we could all sing the Kappa songs. Amy Marcos left for Europe on July 10, along with Kim Rabenberg. Watch this column for wild stories from their trip. They even plan to meet Andy Kane in Paris, and, of course, Kim will see Blaise Dagilaitis '82 in Germany. Anne "Hilliard" Golwen '83 was a bridesmaid and is currently working for the House of Rep's in D.C. Karen Koleck '83, Linda Cottle '83, Becky Rogers '83 and Sherri Dorsheimer helped to lead the Kappa tunes. Mrs. St. Clair, also a Kappa at William and Mary, was all smiles! Betsy Pendleton will soon begin work in Richmond with Sovran Bank. Sarah Williamson is off to Denver for a five-week publishing course and will then venture to the Big Apple to begin her career. Amy Anderson is currently working with the Department of Agriculture in Washington, and living in Kensington. Dabney Carr is back in the 'Burg working for the C.W. Foundation. Ann Kuhn is at home in Arlington working at a veterinary clinic, and David Brand is on Martha's Vineyard for the summer. Brad Angevine, after an exciting vacation to Colorado, and then Yardley, Pa., has begun work for the Export-Import Bank of the U.S. in Washington, D.C. My bridesmaid's outfit made a great disguise for my true mission: to seek William and Mary gossip. After Anne and Scott return from honeymooning in St. Thomas, they will live in State College, Pa.

A honeymoon in Wintergreen followed the wedding of Al Robinson and Elaine Bogan on June 16 at the Epiphany Lutheran Church in Richmond.

While shopping in Wilmington I ran into Doug Lagarde, the famous former holder of the tribe towel. We are both looking forward to Suzanne Alvis and Ray Bisczot's wedding on July 21 in the Wren Chapel. It will be nice to see Williamsburg again, but this time through the eyes of an alumna. I also saw Pete Atwater '83, who is working for Morgan Bank in Wilmington. And I even met Alice Myers '59 at the Lobster Shanty in Wilmington. You never know where you'll see a fellow William and Mary grad! Finally, through the grapevine, I heard that Will Gimpel is working at Theta Delta Chi national headquarters, reorganizing the fraternity's archives.

As for me, I am working as an assistant buyer for Strawbridge and Clothier in Philadelphia, commuting to D.C. on the weekends! But what are you doing? That's what I want to know! Hope to hear from y'all soon.

DEATHS

FLOYD FRANKLIN JENKINS, '18 A. B., of Richmond, died July 7, 1984. At William and Mary he was a member of Pi Kappa Alpha and Phi Beta Kappa, and president of his senior class. A Navy veteran of World War I, he was a retired superintendent of Nansemond County and Southampton County public schools, having held that position for 28 years. Prior to becoming superintendent, he had been principal of the Chuckatuck and Whaleyville schools. He had also been director of finance and administration and research and planning for the state Department of Education. In addition to his William and Mary degree, he held a degree from Columbia University. He is survived by his wife, Virginia.

WEEKEND EVENT

HOMECOMING '84

INFORMATION

Dear Class Members:

It's time to check those graduation years as Homecoming 1984 means reunions for the Classes of 1939, 1944, 1949, 1954, 1959, 1964, 1969, 1974 and 1979 and for members of the Olde Guard and the Young Guard. And as always, non-reunion class members are invited to attend the weekend.

Homecoming has expanded tremendously over the last few years. With many new events being added and old events being revamped, we feel William and Mary's Homecoming weekend is the finest you will find. We have tried to make the events more personal with more time to see your friends. We have come up with a weekend we know you will enjoy.

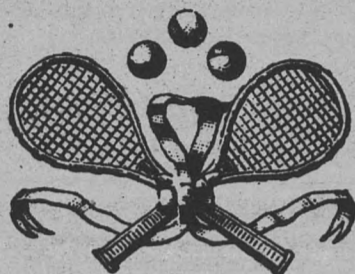

To help us in planning the weekend we are requiring that all reservations for catered events be on a prepaid basis only. All reservation information for events and hotel accommodations is included in this advertisement. Please use these reservation forms to make all of your weekend arrangements. You are encouraged to send in your reservations early to ensure space availability and to help facilitate processing.

If you have questions regarding the weekend activities or any of your individual class events, please do not hesitate to contact the Alumni Office at 804-229-1693. We look forward to seeing you in Williamsburg, November 1st - 4th, 1984.

The Sunset Ceremony will be held at 5:15 p.m. in the Wren Courtyard (Rain: Wren Chapel). All alumni, friends, students, administration and faculty are welcome. The ceremony will include the William and Mary Choir, Queen's Guard, members of the Alumni-Student Liaison Committee, and the reading of the memorial roster.

Saturday, November 3, 1984:

Alumni Campus Run

The 1st Annual Alumni Campus Run will begin at 8:00 a.m. at the Alumni House. Persons wishing to participate should gather in front of the Alumni House by 7:45. The course across campus will be clearly marked with runners ending at the President's House. All alumni, family members and guests are encouraged to enter.

Homecoming Parade

The Homecoming Parade is truly a campus-wide event with student, alumni and community involvement. This year's parade Grand Marshal will be Linda Lavin '59. The theme is "Injun-eering a Tribe Production." (The football game is against the Engineers of Lehigh University). The parade will begin at the Colonial Capitol Building, continue on the Duke of Gloucester Street up Richmond Road, turn at Dillard Street and terminate at William and Mary Hall parking lot. Starting time is 10:00 a.m. sharp.

Luncheon-on-the-Lawn

Luncheon will be served at the Alumni House Lawn and buffet lines will open at 11:00 a.m. and close at 1:15 p.m. (Rain: William and Mary Hall). Reunion class pictures will be taken then. Entertainment provided by the Ed D'Alfonso Dixieland Band. Cost per person is $7.50.

RESERVATION INFORMATION - ALL CLASSES

All class members planning to attend the 1984 Homecoming Weekend, November 2nd, 3rd and 4th, and requiring hotel accommodations should use the room reservation form in this advertisement to secure their weekend reservations. All classes have been assigned to specific hotels in the Williamsburg area. Only members of a class having been assigned to a specific hotel will be given room reservations in that hotel. Hotels listed will not accept individual reservations. All reservations must be placed through the Alumni Office on the attached form. No telephone reservations will be accepted. All reservations must be accompanied by a deposit check made payable to the hotel being requested. (Note: Deposit checks for Brickhouse Tavern and Market Square Tavern should be made payable to the Williamsburg Inn.) All reservation forms and deposit checks should be sent to HOMECOMING 1984 ROOM RESERVATIONS, C/O THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI, P. O. BOX 60, WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA 23187.

Deadline for all Room Reservations is September 14th.
