

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

Schiavelli Named New College Provost Board Appoints Nancy Marshall As University Librarian

Dr. Melvyn D. Schiavelli, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences at William and Mary, has been named provost at the College, succeeding Dr. George R. Healy, who will retire on July 1 after 15 years in that position.

In addition, at its April meeting, the Board of Visitors approved the appointment of Nancy H. Marshall, associate director of libraries for public services at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, as the new university librarian at William and Mary.

President Verkuil called the appointment of Schiavelli, who joined the chemistry faculty at William and Mary in 1968, "the ideal choice."

"Mel Schiavelli brings the qualities of academic leadership, the personal style, and the commitments that are essential for the continued development of this increasingly complex institution," Dr. Verkuil said.

Schiavelli, 43, who served as chairman of the chemistry department from 1978 through 1984 when he was appointed dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, will serve as the senior administrative and chief academic officer of the College in his new post. He will be responsible for all educational programs, academic planning, and policies, and for budget planning and implementation with the vice president for administration and finance, Andrew B. Fogarty.

At William and Mary, Schiavelli has served as chairman of the long range planning commission, the planning and priorities committee, the search committee for the vice president for administration and finance, the committee on faculty affairs, the faculty liaison to the Board of Visitors, and the university advancement advisory committee.

A native of Chicago, he received his undergraduate degree in 1964 from DePaul University and his Ph.D. in organic chemistry from the University of California, Berkeley. He served as an instructor at Michigan State University for a year before joining the faculty at William and Mary.

The recipient of numerous grants and awards, Dr. Schiavelli is the author or co-author of more than 30 articles published in professional journals, and he has delivered more than two dozen presentations and invited talks at forums including the American Chemical Society, Bryn Mawr College, Oxford University, Cambridge University, and at universities in The Netherlands, Germany, Yugoslavia and Italy.

Ms. Marshall received her undergraduate degree in English from Ohio Wesleyan University and a master of arts in library science degree from the University of Wisconsin-Madison. As associate director of libraries for public services at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Memorial Library since 1979, she has been responsible for budgeting, planning, policy development and evaluation of public services activities for 11 service units and nine collection specialists in the graduate research library with major campus holdings in the social sciences and the humanities.

From 1983 to 1984, Ms. Marshall served as acting director of libraries at the University of Wisconsin-Madison, with responsibility for overall administration and management of the General Library System, including the main research library and 14 branch libraries, a budget of $10 million, collections of 3.1 million volumes and a para-professional staff of 197.

"We are very pleased to have someone with high-level experience with an outstanding research library," President Verkuil noted. "That experience will be important as Ms. Marshall leads the development of our library in coming years."

Dr. Melvyn D. Schiavelli, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, will succeed Dr. George R. Healy as provost at William and Mary on July 1. William and Mary's new university librarian is Nancy H. Marshall, who will come to the College from the University of Wisconsin-Madison.

Photo by C. James Gleason

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

VOL. 53, NO. 9

- 1 Schiavelli Named College Provost
Arts and Sciences Dean moves to top academic job at William and Mary.
- 2 Ten Nominated for Society Board
Elections are scheduled for five positions on the Board of Directors.
- 3 Alumnus Takes Charge at Berea
Berea College's new president John B. Stephenson '59 balances idealism and realism.
- 4 The Olde Guard Has Its Day
400 attend the fifth annual Olde Guard Day on the Alumni House Lawn.
- 5 Two Major Gifts to William and Mary
The class of 1935 endows a government professorship with a $220,000 gift while a husband honors his late wife with a $250,000 gift to the law school.
- 6 The Super Six
The six senior members of the men's gymnastics team combine brains and athletic ability.
- 7 Jeanne Foster - Ideal Gymnast
Freshman Jeanne Foster's potential seems unlimited after she wins a national title.
- 8 Homecoming Reservation Form
Plan now if you intend to come to Homecoming this fall.
- 11 The Sotheby's Auction
The New York Alumni Chapter holds its third Sotheby's Auction to packed house.

Editor H. WESTCOTT CUNNINGHAM '43
Associate Editor S. DEAN OLSON
Editorial Assistant . . . MARY ANN WILLIAMSON
Class News FRANKIE MARTENS
Composition SYLVIA B. COLSTON
Design JUNE SKALAK
Vital Statistics
Births & Marriages BETH C. MILLS '82
Deaths SUSAN A. DUNHAM '76

William A. Armbruster '57, President, Blackstone, VA; J. Edward Grimsley '51, Vice President, Richmond, VA; Lesley Ward '63, Secretary, New York, NY; Harriett L. Stanley '72, Treasurer, New York, NY; John S. Entwisle '44, Williamsburg, VA; Audrey Murray Harris '60, Richmond, VA; Vernon L. Nunn '25, Williamsburg, VA; Andrew D. Parker Jr. JD '69, Dallas, TX; William T. Prince '55, Norfolk, VA; Charles L. Quittmeyer '40, Williamsburg, VA; S. Warne Robinson '37, Williamsburg, VA; Ann-Meade Baskervill Simpson '65, Virginia Beach, VA; Helen Thomson Stafford '48, Princeton, NJ; Jerry Van Voorhis '63, Chatham, VA; Warren E. Winston '73, Upper Marlboro, MD.

Alumni House Staff
H. Westcott Cunningham '43, Executive Vice President; Frankie Martens, Information Officer; Susan Dunham '76, OWJ; John Phillips '78, Director of Alumni Affairs; Patricia Foran, Accounting/Office Manager; Elizabeth Cobbleddick, Executive Secretary; Benjamin Kellam '78, Director of Data Processing; Diane Hagemann '75, Chapter Programs Director; Bradford Dunkin '83, Merchandising Director/Alumni House Manager; Alfred Jackson, House Aide; Annette Taylor, Data Entry Operator; Queen Jefferson, Data Entry Operator; Beth C. Mills '82, Staff Secretary; Sandra C. Thomas, Data Entry Operator.

Inside Admissions

The Counselor's Critical Role In Education

G. Gary Ripple
Dean of Admissions

A study recently commissioned by the College Board has re-emphasized the critical role of counselors in improving the quality of our nation's schools. The Commission on Pre-College Guidance and Counseling has released an interim report with the findings that highlight its study of the level and kind of pre-college guidance currently offered by our schools. Significant discoveries included:

The importance of counseling has received little notice in recent national calls for educational reform.

Counselors' efforts to raise the sights of all youth and to offer the best guidance services are often constrained by an overwhelming number of other responsibilities.

Counselors play a particularly vital role in the development of a student's sense of self-worth and competence, especially for those from low-income or minority families.

Pre-college counseling must be initiated much earlier than the junior or senior year of high school, no later than the junior high years. Counselors can encourage students to select the right courses for keeping their post-graduate options open.

In previous editions of the Gazette, I have underscored the central role counselors play in the effective operation of a school. The report of the College Board Commission is one more example of the importance of counselors in our nation's schools.

Ten Nominated For Board of Directors

Four current members and six newcomers are candidates for five positions on the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni.

A nominating committee chaired by Dr. Marvin F. West '52, former president of the Society of the Alumni, chose the following individuals as candidates for positions on the Board of Directors:

Nominated for a second three-year term were Charles L. Quittmeyer '40, Williamsburg, the Floyd Dewey Gottwald, Professor of Business at William and Mary; Helen Thomson Stafford '48, a retired management consultant from Princeton, N.J.; Harriett L. Stanley '72, treasurer of the Society and vice president of Ehrlich-Bober and Company, Inc., of New York City; and Jerry Van Voorhis '63, rector of Chatham Hall in Chatham, Va.

Other nominees are: Mary C. Evans '83, King of Prussia, Pa., Philadelphia field sales manager for Busch Gardens; J. David Hubbard '77, Baltimore, Md., a sales representative for Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co.; William R. Murphy '48, Manassas, Va., judge of the General District Court of Fairfax and Prince William counties; Bernard J. Nolan '51, Cincinnati, Ohio, vice president of Proctor and Gamble Fund; Carolyn Todd Schaubach '59, Norfolk, Va., homemaker, fund raiser for community projects, and secretary/treasurer for Todd Electric Co., and Jeffrey B. Trammell '73, Washington D.C., senior vice president and legislative counsel for Gray and Company, Public Communications International, Inc.

Ballots will be mailed in the fall to all alumni who contribute to any of the recognized funds of the College, and results of the voting will be announced at the annual meeting of the Society of the Alumni on Friday, Nov. 14, 1986, during Homecoming Weekend.

Besides Dr. West, others who served on the nominating committee were Melissa Eastman '77, Leslie Fouts '80, James E. Howard '43, Milton Salasky '31, and Martha Leef Stout '65.

TO ALL FORMER MEMBERS OF THE QUEEN'S GUARD

1986 marks the 25th anniversary of the Queen's Guard. One of the Guard's special projects for this Silver Anniversary Year is to re-establish contacts with former Guardsmen. It is the hope of the present Guard members that a special reunion of the Guard can be held during the 1986 Homecoming Weekend on Nov. 14th and 15th.

This year's Guardsmen would like to find out what Guard alumni are doing and in turn let alumni know where the Guard is today and where it plans to go in the future. To help the Guard update its alumni rolls, please complete the attached form and return it to COMMANDER WILLIAM MATLACK '87, C/O THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI, P.O. BOX 60, WILLIAMSBURG, VA 23187.

Please take the time to complete the attached form. Thank you.

THE QUEEN'S GUARD

NAME _____ CLASS YEAR _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY, STATE, ZIP _____

TELEPHONE: HOME: _____ BUSINESS: _____
(AREA) (AREA)

YEARS SERVING IN THE GUARD: _____ TO _____

HIGHEST RANK HELD: _____

I _____ WILL/ _____ WILL NOT BE ABLE TO ATTEND A SPECIAL REUNION OF THE GUARD DURING HOMECOMING WEEKEND. _____ I WILL BE ABLE TO ASSIST IN THE PLANNING OF THE REUNION.

Berea College Photo

Berea's President: Balancing Realism and Idealism

BY LISA HEUVEL '74

Berea College's new president, John B. Stephenson '59, was the guest speaker recently at the fifth annual Higher Education and Public Policy Lecture sponsored by the School of Education at William and Mary.

Recently, John B. Stephenson '59 sat in the Williamsburg living room of his friends Wayne and Ruth Kernodle. It was an April homecoming of sorts: visiting Kernodle, professor of sociology at the College, appearing as distinguished guest speaker at the fifth Higher Education and Public Policy Lecture in the School of Education, and returning for the first time not only as an alumnus, but as president of Berea College in Kentucky.

Stephenson looks every inch a president and speaks compellingly on the subject of higher education; yet, he once wanted nothing more than to live his life on an island and, indeed, did so following his sophomore year at William and Mary.

Although he holds a Ph.D. from the University of North Carolina-Chapel Hill, was a Fulbright Senior Research Scholar in Scotland and special assistant to the chancellor of academic development at the University of Kentucky, this low-key sociologist never envisioned himself as a college president. "I've seen people in that position become so hard and 'realistic' that they've lost whatever sense of mission that made them teachers in the first place," says Stephenson. "They become battle-scarred and cynical."

Instead, Stephenson has struck a balance between idealism and realism. "It probably comes from having struggled against a huge tide running the other way in a large state university with 23,000 students, all by and large looking for careers and self-advancement.

"Then I found myself at a college that's small, about the same size William and Mary was when I came as a student, and populated by students who came for very different reasons."

Founded by ardent abolitionists in 1855, Berea College uses its resources for the advancement of blacks and of people who live in the Southern Appalachian Mountain region. Eight percent of its 1,500 students are chosen from that area and Kentucky. An integral part of Berea College's educational program is its unique labor program, which provides an opportunity for students to earn all or part of their expenses through student industries and jobs on the 140-acre campus.

Every student works at least 10 hours a week while carrying a full academic course load. Only students of limited means are admitted, and no tuition is charged.

At the same time, liberal arts for the foundation of its curriculum, within the context of a non-sectarian Christian commitment. One of Berea's six former presidents, William Goodell Frost, once said, "Berea College stands with a spade and a spelling book in one hand and a telescope and a Greek Testament in the other."

President Stephenson described the college's purpose a little differently in his first address to Berea students in September 1984, two months after assuming the presidency. "You may have thought that all you wanted from Berea was a good college education," he told them. "What I want to offer you, and what this college has to give you if you will take it, is more than just a college education.

"A college education is a commodity, something like a box of cereal you can buy from the grocery shelf.

What we want to give you here cannot be bought at the college supermarket. We want to give you what you need and what the world needs right now, an education for character and an education for commitment as well as an education for the mind and hands."

At Stephenson's right hand is his wife, Jane Ellen. Formerly the director of the Human Relations Center at the University of Kentucky, she is now using her talents on behalf of Berea, doing studies of continuing and adult education, coordinating programs for retired persons and planning the kind of events that brought more than 2,800 guests into the President's House last year.

The Stephenson's have three children: Jennifer, 21, a graduate of the University of Kentucky who works for U. S. Representative Larry Hopkins of Kentucky; Rebeca, 19, a dance major at Ohio State University; and David, 16, a 10th-grader at Berea Community School.

As a former director of the Appalachian center at the University of Kentucky and an Appalachian expert, John Stephenson brought a special sense of mission to another of Berea's goals: the preservation of Appalachian heritage.

In addition to its Appalachian Museum and Appalachian studies program, Berea has assumed publication of Appalachian Heritage, a quarterly journal of Southern Appalachian life and culture.

Stephenson also has a strong commitment to the Berea College students, who often overcome tremendous odds to achieve an education. Yet over a 60-year period, the second largest percentage of students going on to get Ph.D.s in the South have come from Berea, which also has one of the highest such percentages in the nation.

In November 1985, U. S. News and World Report rated 261 colleges and universities in the U. S., using presidents as raters. The institutions were categorized with the new Carnegie classification systems, and Berea found itself rated No. 1 among 168 similar comprehensive colleges and universities in the South and border states. Stephenson called that "very gratifying."

"It's not an easy decision for many of the students who come," he says, noting that college is simply not a tradition for many families, not just those in Appalachia. "Last spring at graduation, the college minister asked how many graduates were the first in their families to complete a college education. Seventy-five to 80 percent rose to their feet."

As the seventh president in Berea's history, Stephenson says that the vision he had for the college has been confirmed by his experience in that office over the last year and a half. "It sounds terribly prosaic to say that your highest aspiration for a college is to keep it on the same track, but there are terrible pressures to move it toward conformity with the rest."

He also sees national problems facing higher education: declining or stabilizing enrollments, escalating college costs, dispirited faculties and growing criticisms about the irrelevance of higher education.

Because Berea has a strong sense of its own identity and commitments to work, community service and education, Stephenson feels the college is in a fortunate position. "Our faculty is made up of incredibly decent, concerned and involved people whose philosophy of education is, 'We're here to take these students from where they are to wherever they can take themselves with our help.'" He describes the Berea students as "bright, eager and willing to work hard, and there's nothing to which a teacher responds more willingly than that."

Chosen from 175 candidates, Stephenson's pride in Berea shows, whether he's talking about a PRIME 9750 computer or a poultry farm. He's also frankly amazed that there aren't more colleges like Berea.

"There is no scarcity of people - young, old, urban, rural - who would be eager to take advantage of institutions which offer an opportunity like Berea does, to be part of a community which represents service and teaches service. I know they're out there. They're in inner cities and on Indian reservations, for example."

There is a Berea College in Korea, modeled after the Kentucky school, and two groups recently inquired about the possibility of using Berea as a model for colleges in Chicago and California.

"It would be difficult to do it, but not impossible," says Stephenson. "It would take the same tenacity and courage that it took for Berea's founders in the 1850s and '60s and faith in something bigger than we are as human beings."

Olde Guarde Gather For 5th Annual Alumni Reunion

The Olde Guarde, which includes all alumni prior to and including the class of 1936, received greetings from (clockwise) President Verkuil, Dr. Milton Salasky '31, chairman of the Olde Guarde Council, David Varner '86, chairman of the Alumni-Student Liaison Committee, and Capt. William Armbruster '57, president of the Society of the Alumni.

More than 400 Olde Guarde members and their spouses, including David '09 and Esther Sizer, joined members of the faculty and administration at Olde Guarde Day on the lawn of the Alumni House on April 11. President Verkuil welcomed Mr. Sizer who, at 100 years of age, was the oldest member of the Olde Guarde attending the annual event.

Director George Etheridge and the William and Mary Band provided spirited entertainment for the reception at the Alumni House (right) while (below, right) the William and Mary Choir continued its special relationship with the Olde Guarde by once again giving a performance that was one of the highlights of the day's activities.

The 5th Annual Olde Guarde Day brought members of the Olde Guarde and the College community together (left) for a festive day of fellowship and memories culminating in reception and luncheon on the lawn of the Alumni House.

Photos by C. James Gleason

Society President William Armbruster '57 and Dr. Lesley Ward '63, chairman of the Alumni Services Committee, present certificates of service to members of the Alumni-Student Liaison Committee. Receiving the award is John Golwen '86.

Dr. William Bickers '29 and Dr. Milton Salasky (front, left) join with the William and Mary Choir in singing the Alma Mater.

Photo by C. James Gleason

Several longtime faculty and staff members who are retiring this year were honored by the Board of Visitors at a dinner on May 25. They are (front row, left to right) George R. Healy, who is retiring after 15 years as provost and vice president for academic affairs; Harriet E. Reid, a staff member for 22 years who served both as associate dean of admissions and director of career planning; Howard M. Smith Jr. '43, a member of the men's physical education faculty since 1947 and former chairman of the department; and (back row, left to right) John S. Quinn, professor of accounting, who joined the faculty in 1949; Dennis K. Cogle '49, director of the budget and a member of the staff since 1958; John A. Moore, a member of the modern languages faculty since 1963, and Benjamin R. Cato, who joined the mathematics faculty in 1955. Also retiring are Carl R. Dolmetsch, a member of the English department faculty since 1959; H. Lester Hooker Jr. '43, director of William and Mary Hall, who joined the College in 1963 and served as director of athletics until 1972; and Margaret L. Hamilton, a faculty member in the government department since 1953.

Endowment Honors Memory of Former Law Student

A gift of $250,000 to the Marshall-Wythe School of Law Foundation at William and Mary will be used to create the Mary Siegrist Hinz Leadership Fellows Fund, a scholarship fund in memory of a former law student.

With the assistance of the Norfolk law firm of Vandeventer, Black, Meredith and Martin, the fund has been created with a gift by Mary Hinz' husband, Lt. Dan Hinz, U.S.N., and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Siegrist of Alexandria.

DECEASED LISTED

The following persons have been reported deceased. Although the Society has been unable to confirm the information, we will presume the reports to be accurate unless we receive word to the contrary.

Kathleen Lockhart Dickerson, Spec.
 Everett Waverly Major '23
 Robert David Cook '25
 Lulu Mary Brown Booth '26
 Mary McDonald Lawrence '28
 John E. Cox '29
 Claire Loudon Hargrove Knox '31
 Maude Nesslerodt '31
 Mary Boyd Hope '32
 Freda Shuman Rothenberg '33
 Samuel S. Vacchiano '33
 Anthony J. Bagley '34
 Mary Carter '34
 Mertie Bradley Cutherell '34
 Katherine Massie Sydenstricker '34
 Dorothy Maas Taubman '34
 John M. Fawley '35
 Virginia Haskell Shankland '35
 Frederick Hart Trevillian '35
 Laura Louise Lincoln '36
 Lois Wilhelmina McEwen Myers '36
 Everett L. Blake '36
 Janie Banks McDaniel Grant '38
 Doris Evelyn Ross '41
 Harriette Hughes Huff '42
 Nancy Marie Knowlton Benner '45
 Frank Haywood Ball '54
 Harry Edward Reynolds '72

The Mary Siegrist Hinz Fellowships will be used to provide merit scholarships to outstanding law students each academic year. "The scholarships will be awarded to individuals who meet the criteria established in recognition of the attributes that Mary Siegrist Hinz possessed: academic excellence, unselfish citizenship and athletic involvement," said Timothy J. Sullivan '64, dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

Mrs. Hinz had completed her second year at Marshall-Wythe in the summer of 1984 when she was struck and killed by a truck while riding her bicycle in Florida. She was training for a triathlon at the time. At 25, she had already distinguished herself in her academic, professional and personal life as a person of high intelligence, creativity and outstanding athletic ability, according to Sullivan.

"This generous gift by her husband and family will have a major impact on the school's efforts to bring distinguished young scholars into this special community," said Sullivan. "Simultaneously, it will recognize the qualities of character, intellect and spirit which Mary possessed and shared with us."

Beginning in the fall of 1986, entering students will be eligible to compete for the awards. Hinz Scholars will receive a grant equivalent to full tuition, which will continue throughout their careers at Marshall-Wythe subject to their making satisfactory progress toward a degree and continuing to exemplify the characteristics upon which the award was originally based.

During her two years at Marshall-Wythe, Mary Hinz was a superior student while continuing her extracurricular athletic pursuits. She was sixth in her class and a member of the Student Bar Association. She also clerked for Vandeventer, Black, Meredith and Martin during the summer of 1984.

In both high school and college, Mrs. Hinz distinguished herself on the playing field as well as in the classroom.

A long-time resident of Alexandria, she was recognized as one of the best female athletes to graduate from Mount Vernon High School. A Mary Siegrist Hinz memorial award is given each year to the school's outstanding senior woman athlete.

A summa cum laude graduate of Mary Washington College, she was also a member of Phi Beta Kappa. At Mary Washington, she founded and served as president and coach of the school's first softball club and was active in the college's student government organization and the honor system.

Class of 1935 Endows Professorship

Members of the class of 1935 have made gifts and commitments in excess of $220,000 to establish an endowed professorship in government at William and Mary.

Income from the permanent endowment will qualify for matching funds from the Commonwealth of Virginia Eminent Scholars Program and will supplement the state salary base of the professor.

In 1983, members of the class of 1935 looked ahead to their 50th reunion and initiated the most aggressive reunion campaign in the College's history.

The late Blake T. Newton Jr. of Washington, D.C., chaired the 50th reunion committee, with members A. Addison "Billy" Roberts of Philadelphia (chairman of the class gift committee); Ernest W. Goodrich of Surry; the late Ruth Weeks Harvey of Richmond; Anne Nenzel Lambert of Williamsburg; James E. Maloney of Wilmington, Del.; John A. Mapp of Richmond; and Virginia Mister Walker of Capeville.

"The success of the class of 1935 effort has become a landmark in alumni accomplishments," said Melvyn D. Schiavelli, dean of the faculty of arts and sciences, who has been named provost of the College. "By volunteering as a group such tremendous support of the faculty, these alumni have led the way for other classes planning reunion gifts."

The Class of 1935 Professorship in Government will bring to campus an expert on public and international affairs, who also will be designated the Director of International Studies and will administer and be responsible for the development and enhancement of academic programs in this area, says Schiavelli. Administration of the Office of International Studies on campus will continue to be carried out by Carolyn Blackwell, administrative director.

Members of the Class of 1935 hope the new position will help recognize the important role of William and Mary in training students for careers in public affairs. As young men and women entering William and Mary in the fall of 1931, class members knew more about hard work than many students. They lived through the Depression, and many worked their way through college.

Plaque Honoring War Dead To Be Unveiled At Homecoming

A plaque honoring William and Mary war dead between 1946 and 1976 will be unveiled at Homecoming during the Sunset Ceremony.

The names of 14 alumni who died either in the Korean War, the Viet Nam War or the Cold War will be placed on the plaque, which will be hung on the back portico of the Wren Building along with other plaques honoring war dead.

William J. Koziar '74, a captain in the U.S. Army and a member of the military science department at William and Mary, has arranged for the plaque, which will be made of Vermont marble.

The names of those alumni which will go on the plaque are, from the Korean War: Earl Lester Valentine Jr. '48, Otis Lee Garrison Jr. '49, Frederick Edgar Hummel Jr. '50, Robert Kendall Benjamin '51, Walter Edward Skonieczny '53; from the Viet Nam War: Donald Roberts Ashby '51; Charles Mills Sheldon '58; Richard John Curry '59; Glenn Dill Mann '62; William Louis Stewart Jr. '64, Byron Morrow Speer '66, Raymond Lester Conway '67, Raymond Paul DeLuca '70; and from the Cold War: Roger Henry Reid '52.

Alumni who died as the result of hostile fire or in a hostile zone while a member of the United States Armed Forces between the years 1946 to 1976 were included in the plaque. The dates for the Korean War were 1951 to 1953 and for the Viet Nam War 1962 to 1975. Reid, the only casualty attributed to the Cold War, died when his plane was shot down while on a reconnaissance mission near Siberia in 1952.

If any alumni know of other individuals whose names should be added to the plaque, they are asked to contact Capt. Koziar at the military science department at William and Mary (telephone 804-253-4368).

William and Mary's 'Super Six'

Senior Gymnasts Typify Scholar-Athlete Model

BY BOB JEFFREY '74

Photo by C. James Gleason

From left to right are the "Super Six" of the William and Mary men's gymnastics team: Noah Pierson, Stuart Schiffman, Dave Norehad, Bill Klunk, Scott McCrae, and Jay Daugherty.

In 1982 William and Mary men's gymnastics coach Cliff Gauthier thought he had the best group of senior gymnasts he'd ever seen - until the 1985-86 group came along. Since the five seniors of '82 were dubbed the "Fabulous Five," maybe this year's contingent should be called the "Super Six."

Not only did the six - Bill Klunk, Noah Pierson, Scott McCrae, Stuart Schiffman, Dave Norehad, and Jay Daugherty-lead William and Mary to a 9-1 dual meet record, an 11th consecutive state gymnastics title, and a second place finish in the South Regional, but all six excelled in the classroom, maintaining high grade point averages in difficult majors, exemplifying the scholar-athlete model espoused at William and Mary.

Five of the six also won individual state championships at some point during their collegiate careers. Ironically, only Bill Klunk, the team's leading scorer and probably the best all-around gymnast, failed to join the parade when he sprained both ankles the week before this year's state meet.

As a unit, the '86 team established a new standard for total points in the state meet with 259.45, snapping the old mark set by W&M in 1982. They also set an all-time team scoring record of 263.95 in a dual meet against Jacksonville State, despite new NCAA judging guidelines, which made higher scores more difficult to obtain. All-time W&M team records on parallel bars and rings also fell.

This extraordinary sextet boosted Coach Gauthier to NCAA Coach of the Year honors in the South. The last time he received such recognition was back in - you guessed it - 1982. Assisting Gauthier with coaching duties was Gary Breuning, a member of the "Fab Five" of '82. "Each time one of our guys would set a new record this year, it would push Gary and his group a little further back in the record book," joked Gauthier.

Ever since he arrived from Denver in 1973, Gauthier has molded one group of champions after another at William and Mary, as the gymnastics program has blossomed into a quiet dynasty. And without the liberal scholarship aid that many other schools offer.

Despite the difficulty of recruiting top-notch gymnasts, Gauthier's teams have exhibited the depth and closeness that allows them to overcome their flashier foes. "Our guys are hungry; they've got lots of character. That's why when we get in close meets, instead of coming out 50/50 like you'd expect, we win almost every time," says Gauthier.

"The neat thing about this year's group is that they weren't really that good as freshmen. Four years of hard work brought them this far."

The Super Six of '86 was led by Bill Klunk of Columbus, Ohio. Klunk not only led the team in total scoring, but also placed in the all-time W&M records in six of a possible seven categories. He is one of the few gymnasts in America to complete a one-handed handspring with two twists in the vaulting event. A dual major in philosophy and math, Klunk plans to use an additional year of athletic eligibility to compete as a diver on the swimming team next year.

The team co-captain in '85 and '86, Noah Pierson won a team-high total of 18 medals in state championship competition, including a new state record score of 52.65 in the prestigious all-around event, topping the 52.25 by W&M's Tom Serena in 1982. The chemistry major from McLean, Va., plans to stay an extra semester at the College to complete a special chemistry research project.

Scott McCrae of Red Bank, N. J., came to the gymnastics team as a specialist in the pommel horse, but a severe wrist injury forced him to drop his favorite event. After sitting out a full year, he transformed himself into a strong performer on the rings and high bar, eventually winning the state crown in rings. A computer science major, McCrae has also served as president of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity.

Stuart Schiffman was another comeback story. In 1984, Schiffman turned a hat trick at the state meet, grabbing titles in the all-around, pommel horse, and rings. Then a freak injury to his knee resulted in reconstructive surgery, almost ending his gymnastics career. After a year's absence from competition, Schiffman returned, able to participate only in events that put light stress on his knee. After taking his lumps early in the season, Schiffman ultimately recaptured his earlier state title on the pommel horse. "It was really kind of special," said Gauthier of Schiffman's comeback. The Oyster Bay, N.Y., native has also posted some impressive stats in the classroom, maintaining a 3.6 grade point average in his computer science major.

Coach Gauthier claimed that Dave Norehad was probably in the best shape of any gymnast on the team. "He's a Rocky look-a-like," says Gauthier. The economics major from Winnetka, Ill., used his great strength and good air sense to rack up state championships on floor exercises and vaulting.

Jay Daugherty of Lancaster, Pa., was another pommel horse specialist at the outset, but by his senior year had surpassed himself on parallel bars, winning a state crown in the event. "It was an amazing transition," Gauthier said. Tall for a gymnast at almost six feet, Daugherty is a computer science major.

The perseverance and dedication of the Super Six paid off with what Gauthier called a "textbook season." He said, "We came through with clutch performances in pressure situations while peaking perfectly for the championship meets at the end of the season."

While Gauthier enjoys the success and honors his program has achieved, he stresses the educational and personal benefits gained by the individuals who have participated. "When I think back on the gymnasts we've had here, I have to thank them for helping me solidify the scholar-athlete concept. As a result, William and Mary gymnastics is on the vanguard of what college athletics should be," he said.

"In spite of the fact that we may never have a top ten team, because of scholarship limitations, our program is great because it's representative of what an educational experience should be," said Gauthier. "When our guys graduate and do so well on their own, I think that's partially because gymnastics was a significant part of their educational experience. They committed themselves to both academics and athletics, and excelled in both," Gauthier said. The "Fabulous Five" of the '82 team seems to bear out what Gauthier says. Two of them, Tom Serena and John Jiganti, recently finished medical school at Penn State and the Loyola University in Chicago. Serena will specialize in plastic surgery while Jiganti plans to pursue orthopedic surgery. Another member, Doug Borden, works on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, while Gary Breuning, who assists Gauthier with the William and Mary team, works in the intensive care unit as a cardiac technician at Williamsburg Community Hospital. Before returning to Williamsburg, Breuning earned his master's degree in exercise physiology at the University of Virginia. The fifth member, Gauthier's brother Scott, is head gymnastics coach for both men and women at James Madison University.

Gauthier will miss the Super Six next season, but he will be welcoming back a nucleus of strong performers, including Bob Ross, Tim Morton, and Mike Ryan. By then a new super group should be ready to emerge in William and Mary gymnastics.

Jeanne Foster: The Ideal Gymnast

Members of the women's gymnastics team, front row, left to right, are: Kim Read, Kim Streng, Jeanne Foster, Lori Pepple; back row, left to right: Coach Sylvia Shirley, Lynn Dreylinger, Debbie Failia, Janet Lawson, Sue Kapp, Leann Crocker, and Coach Greg Frew.

Photo by Lawrence I'Anson

BY FRANCES BOBBE

Jeanne is the ideal gymnast. She's strong, graceful, attractive. She makes everything look easy."

Coach Greg Frew's description of his star pupil was amply borne out this year when Jeanne Foster won the all-around title at the NCAA Division II Championships at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, Colo. while leading her team to a seventh place finish.

For the fourth straight year, Lori Pepple, who had led the Tribe to an NAIA national championship four years ago, became an All-America, with a sixth-place 9.05 on bars, her second-highest score of the season.

The Colorado performance closed out a banner year for the William and Mary gymnastics team, which scored 170 or better in 13 out of 15 meets and won a bid to the NCAA Division II Nationals for the first time. On its way to the 1986 Virginia state title, the Tribe went 4-2 and won the George Washington Invitational, as well as a tri-meet with Towson State and James Madison. The team finished second at both the ECAC and the Southeast Regional championships.

For her part, Foster broke every school record and claimed 37 first-place finishes, including the state and Southeast Region all-around crowns.

Foster not only won the admiration of her coach, but of her teammates as well. Says fellow frosh Kim Streng of Foster: "I think the whole team envies Jeanne because she can put together incredible routines with such a laid-back attitude. She works well in pressure situations."

Among the top 6 percent of her class at Lee High School in Springfield, Va., not to mention SAT scores of 1269, Foster was admitted to the College on her own merits. Spurred by an interest in sports medicine, she listed pre-med as her intended concentration. With first-semester courses in chemistry, calculus, literature and psychology, she achieved a 3.36 grade point average.

"Being at a school like William and Mary where the academic standard is as high as it is, it helps me as a student," she says. "I work. I really do. But I can't say that I actually kill myself every day."

According to Coach Frew, Foster has had a similar effect on her teammates. "One of the interesting things about having that caliber of a gymnast in your program is that everybody else in your program rises. Jeanne is a catalyst."

As much as she challenges others, Foster challenges herself even more. "I am really pleased with this year," she acknowledges, "because, after high school, I was pretty much burned out of gymnastics.

I was really looking for a new perspective." She found one at William and Mary.

Two factors, in particular, gave Foster a fresh experience. The first, which was also new to the team as a whole, was a daily circuit. This was composed of 20 minutes of running and exercises, which made her stronger and improved her athletic skills. "When you go into a meet with that kind of feeling, you do better," she says.

The other factor, a hallmark of the Indian program, was team unity. "It's really the first time I've felt like I was on a team," says Foster. "Because we're close as a team, it adds to each individual performance."

One way in which the Tribe manifests togetherness is a ritual referred to as "energy." Before a routine, a gymnast will hold both of her teammate's hands and say a few words. As Foster describes it, "Every team member combines and gives her energy to the person who's up. You just try to say something positive to make her feel a little more relaxed, to let her know that the whole team is behind her."

Only a freshman, Foster can look forward to three more years of gymnastics competition for William and Mary, and her coach is naturally excited by the prospect. "She is really motivated," says Coach Frew. "Next year depends on what she does this summer. If she gets a job where she can work out, she will progress."

West Receives Merit Award

Millie West, director of athletics for women at William and Mary, has been awarded the special educational merit award for women by the United States Tennis Association, in recognition of her contributions to the expansion of tennis involving the nation's youth.

In addition to serving as the women's athletic director at William and Mary, Mrs. West previously served as women's tennis coach, compiling a 202-28-2 record. She was also the chairman of the women's physical education department.

Most recently, she was the tournament chairman for the 1983 and 1985 Wightman Cup matches. She is a former commissioner-elect for the Division II Championships for the AIAW Executive Board and has chaired state, regional and national Division II tennis committees.

She has been ranked in the Mid-Atlantic Tennis Association and still plays tennis regularly. She is listed in Outstanding Women in Virginia, Who's Who Among Women in the South and Southwest, Who's Who Among American Women and Who's Who Among Women in the World.

When the men's and women's athletic departments are merged this summer, West will become associate athletic director of the new program.

CHAPTER NEWS

ROANOKE

May 17

Spring picnic, Lochaven Country Club, $1.00 per person. Bring two of your favorite dishes. Beer, soft drinks, munchies and other essentials provided. Special guests: John Randolph '64, Bobby Dwyer and Coach Jimmie Laycock '71. Will be held rain or shine! Call Diane Ribble for more information: 703-268-5793 (H) or 703-387-6594 (O).

NORTHERN VIRGINIA

May 31

Theatre outing, West End Theatre, "1776." Theater located at 4615 Duke Street (Foxchase Shopping Center), Alexandria, Va. Dinner 6 p.m., curtain 8 p.m. $27.00 per person includes dinner, tax, gratuity and play. For more information, call Doug Wood at 724-7030 (W) or 476-4150 (O).

SOUTHERN CONNECTICUT

June 2

Reception for President Verkuil. Alumni, spouses, friends, parents and students invited. 6:30 Cocktails, 7:30 Dinner. The Silver Mine Tavern, Norwalk, CT. $18.00 per person includes a full course dinner. Contact Marshall Acuff after 8 p.m. at 637-4238.

TRIANGLE

June 14

Annual family picnic in Durham. Current W&M students and parents will be invited. Watch for flier.

NORTHERN NEW JERSEY

May 29

Gala cocktail party with special guest speaker John C. Jamison, dean of the School of Business Administration at the College. Old Mill Inn, Route 287/202, Bernardsville, N.J. $8.00 per person includes hors d'oeuvres. Cash bar. Questions, call Carolyn Rye at 201-239-2873 or Barbara Wheeler at 201-277-2938. Watch for invitation.

NEW YORK

June 18

Private tour of the Manhattan Brewing Company 40-42 Thompson St. 6-9 p.m. $3.00 per person (Dues paying members) and $5.00 per person for all others. Free munchies. Cash bar with wide variety of drinks. For more info: call Susan Arnot, (212) 715-2790 (Day) or (212) 222-0268 (answering service). Watch for flier.

HOMECOMING 1986

NOVEMBER 13TH,
14TH, 15TH, 16TH

ROOM RESERVATION INFORMATION

RESERVATION INFORMATION - ALL CLASSES

All class members planning to attend the 1986 Homecoming Weekend, November 13th-16th, and requiring hotel accommodations should use the room reservation form on this page to secure their weekend reservations. All classes have been headquartered in specific hotels in the Williamsburg area. Members of a class having been assigned to a specific hotel will be given priority on reservations in that hotel. Hotels listed will not accept individual reservations. All reservations must be placed through the Alumni Office. No telephone reservations will be accepted. All reservations must be accompanied by a deposit check made payable to the hotel being requested. (Note: deposit checks for Brickhouse Tavern and Market Square Tavern should be made payable to the Williamsburg Inn.)

Some rooms have been designated general availability space. These rooms have been made available for individuals who do not wish to stay in their designated class hotels. These rooms are limited. To reserve a room in one of these areas, you must send in your reservation and deposit as stated above.

All reservation forms and deposit checks should be sent to HOMECOMING 1986, ROOM RESERVATIONS, C/O THE SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI, P.O. BOX 60, WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA 23187. DEADLINE FOR RESERVATIONS IS OCTOBER 1ST.

ADDITIONAL ROOM RESERVATION FORMS AND RESERVATION INFORMATION AND FORMS FOR ALL HOMECOMING EVENTS WILL APPEAR IN THE JUNE ISSUE OF THE ALUMNI GAZETTE.

For further information on the 1986 Homecoming Weekend, please contact the Alumni Office at 804-229-1693.

REUNION CLASSES	HOTELS	DEPOSIT
OLDE GUARDE	HOSPITALITY HOUSE	$95.00
1937	DAYS INN CENTRAL*	41.00
1938	DAYS INN CENTRAL	41.00
1939	1776	44.00
1940	1776	44.00
1941	1776	44.00
1944	HOSPITALITY HOUSE	95.00
1945	HOSPITALITY HOUSE	95.00
1946	HOSPITALITY HOUSE	95.00
1951	HILTON	70.00
1956	HILTON	70.00
1961	HOSPITALITY HOUSE	95.00
1966	1776	44.00
1971	HILTON	70.00
1976	HILTON	70.00
1981	HILTON	70.00
YOUNG GUARDE	HILTON	70.00
NON-REUNION AND GENERAL AVAILABILITY	HOSPITALITY HOUSE	95.00
	HILTON	70.00
A limited number of rooms are available in the following hotels regardless of class motel designations.	WILLIAMSBURG LODGE	60.00
	BRICKHOUSE TAVERN	60.00
	MARKET SQUARE TAVERN	60.00
	DAYS INN CENTRAL	41.00

NOTE: ALL ROOM RATES LISTED ABOVE REPRESENT THE COST OF THE FIRST NIGHT'S LODGING, EXCEPT FOR THE FOLLOWING HOTELS: THE WILLIAMSBURG LODGE, BRICKHOUSE TAVERN, MARKET SQUARE TAVERN. THE RATE LISTED IS A DEPOSIT ONLY. ROOM COSTS VARY BY OCCUPANCY AND STYLE OF ROOM.

*DAYS INN CENTRAL (formerly HOLIDAY INN WEST 902 Richmond Road)

ROOM RESERVATION FORM

Please send your room reservation form to the SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI, P.O. BOX 60, WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA 23187.

Please make HOMECOMING 1986 ROOM RESERVATIONS for me at _____ (Hotel)

I/We enclose a deposit check No. _____ in the amount of $ _____ to confirm our reservation.

Arrival Date _____ Number of Rooms Requested _____

Departure Date _____ Number of Persons in Party _____

NAME _____ CLASS _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY, STATE, ZIP _____

PHONE: (Bus.) _____ (HOME) _____
(AREA CODE) (AREA CODE)

CONFIRMATIONS WILL BE MAILED TO YOU BY THE HOTEL

BOUTIQUE SPRING 1986

THE BOTETOURT

Neckties high-lighted in school colors of green gold and silver. Royal cipher in green or navy. Indian logo in grey, green or navy. Coat-of-Arms in green or navy. $19.50

HUBS home cooked salted peanuts, 48 oz. can $10.00 (Please include $2.25 per can for shipping).

Foam Plastic Insulators one side features Indian logo and the other the Coat-of-Arms. Off-white with dark green print or dark green with gold print. $1.25 each $6.95 set of six.

Hand-blown Glass Mug each stamped with royal cipher taken from the college boundary stone. $12.00

Solid Brass Paperweight imprinted with coat-of-arms. $10.00.

Brass Trivet made by the Virginia Metalcrafters under the supervision of the Williamsburg restoration. 24.00

Elegant and Durable College Chairs and Rockers

Captain's Chair with Medallion	$195.00	Boston Rocker with Coat-of-Arms	$150.00
Lawn Chair with W&M Emblem	$ 29.95	Boston Rocker with Medallion	$185.00
Chair Cushions in Green and Black	$ 14.85	Captain's Chair with Coat-of-Arms	$160.00

Chairs and rockers made from birch and maple. Chairs are ebony with arms, rockers are all-ebony. Each is hand trimmed in gold. The coat-of-arms chairs and rockers have a gold coat-of-arms silk-screened on the back. Medallion chairs and rockers have a brass plate with raised coat-of-arms set into the back. Lawn chairs with reproduced bold W&M in gold and silver on dark green background.

"A WORD ABOUT CHAIR DELIVERIES: Because of an Interstate Commerce Commission ruling, it is possible for trucking firms to affix a surcharge to normal freight collect charges for delivery to a private residence. In order to avoid this surcharge, it is advisable to have chairs shipped to a business address. In addition, freight collect charges vary depending on the carrier used."

- CLASSIC BLACK
- Classic Black Ball Pen and Pencil Set $42.00
 - Classic Black Ball Pen or Pencil ea. $21.00
- 10 KARAT GOLD FILLED
- 10 Karat G.F. Ball Pen and Pencil Set $58.00
 - 10 Karat G.F. Ball Pen or Pencil ea. $29.00
- 14 KARAT GOLD FILLED
- 14 Karat G.F. Ball Pen and Pencil Set $84.00
 - 14 Karat G.F. Ball Pen or Pencil ea. $42.00
- CHROME
- Chrome Pen and Pencil Set $30.00
 - Chrome Pen or Pencil each $15.00

Item Description	No.	Size	Price	Total

Mail to: The Botetourt Boutique
P.O. Box GO
Williamsburg, VA 23187

Sales tax if applicable _____
Postage _____

Total enclosed _____
MAKE CHECKS PAYABLE TO "SOCIETY OF THE ALUMNI"

Name _____ Class _____

Street Address _____

Telephone Number () _____

Please charge to my Master Charge VISA

Card No. _____

Interbank no. _____ Exp. date _____
(MC only)

Signature _____

- These items are gifts and should have gift card enclosed and shipped to persons indicated in order blank.
- Ship immediately.
- Ship in order to arrive on or about _____ (Date)

Ship To _____

Address _____

Va. residents add 4% sales tax. Please allow 4 to 6 weeks delivery. Add $1.50 postage per item unless otherwise noted. Chairs are shipped freight collect. A $15.00 fee will be charged to cover freight when chairs are picked up at the Alumni House.

Alumni Notes

Alumni notes for odd numbered classes will be reported in the June issue. Please send your news to the appropriate reporter listed below.

1925

Mrs. J. Stuart White
(L. Helen Smith)
P.O. Box 966
Jetersville, VA 23083

1927

M. Carl Andrews
2814 Crystal Spring Avenue, S.W.
Roanoke, VA 24014

1929

Macon C. Sammons
Box 206
Shawsville, VA 24162

1931

1933

Mrs. T. Leonard George
(Betty Chambers)
5708 West Franklin Street
Richmond, VA 23226

John V. Holberton
10130 Chapel Road
Potomac, MD 20854

1935

Mr. and Mrs. H. Mason Sizemore
Box 126
Halifax, VA 24558

1937

Mrs. L. Gary Gee
(Mary Shackleton)
509 Dogwood Drive
Greenville, DE 19807

1939

Frances L. Grodecoeur
81 Howard Street
Monongahela, PA 15063

1941

John H. Prince
2063 W. Cheadle Loop
Yorktown, VA 23696

1943

Mrs. Joseph Patterson Jr.
(Virginia Curtis)
Box 162
Williamsburg, VA 23187

1945

Mrs. Herbert L. Smith III
(Martha Macklin)
3609 Seapines Road
Virginia Beach, VA 23451

1947

Mrs. C. William Heider
(Ellie Westbrook)
517 Richmond Road
Williamsburg, VA 23185

1949

Mrs. Charles Anthony Jr.
(Alice Baxley)
53 Hickory Place
Livingston, NJ 07039

1951

Mrs. Raymond G. Nielsen
(Jane Waters)
P.O. Box 744
Eastham, MA 02642

1953

Mrs. Harold J. Woolston Jr.
(Barbara Jo Mott)
116 Talleyrand Road
West Chester, PA 19382

1955

Mrs. Richard W. Kappel
(Elaine Elias)
104 Spring Forest Drive
Pittsburgh, PA 15238

1957

Mrs. James W. Scott
(Lee Hammer)
1009 Regency Circle
Penlynn, PA 19422

1959

Mrs. Peter K. Bommer
(Sollace Molineux)
995 High Mountain Road
Franklin Lakes, NJ 07417

1961

Mrs. Joseph K. Alexander Jr.
(Diana Titolo)
6410 Forest Mill Lane
Laurel, MD 20707

1963

Mrs. Donald Snook
(Judith Murdock)
1029 Sanderling Circle
Audubon, PA 19403

1965

Mrs. Andrew E. Landis
(Susan Stevenson)
405 Lake Drive
Daniels, WV 25832

1967

Cathleen Crofoot Murphy
17152 Sunset Drive
Chagrin Falls, OH 44022

1969

Mrs. Harold E. Williams Jr.
(Mary Chris Schmitz)
40 Cameron Glen Drive
Atlanta, GA 30328

1971

Craig Windham
P.O. Box 9506
Washington, DC 20016

1973

Jay Gsell
443 North Main Street
Winsted, CT 06098

1975

Mrs. David C. Larson
(Linda Cool)
805 Lakeshore Drive
Beaver Dam, WI 53916

1977

Mrs. David L. Satterwhite
(Cindy Bennett)
11801 Bollingbrook Drive
Richmond, VA 23236

1979

Mary E. Keen
3500 Colony Crossing Drive
Charlotte, NC 28226

1981

Kristen Esbensen Wagner
2332 Avenida Marejada
San Clemente, CA 92672

1983

Carolyn J. Finocchio
202 Crest Road
Marlton Lakes, NJ 08004

1985

Janet Reed
1911-G Hopkins Road
Richmond, VA 23224

GRADS

Grad
Mrs. E. D. Etter
(Mary Spitzer)
486 West Market
Harrisonburg, VA 22801

Law

Ellen Pirog
1005 West 42nd Street
Richmond, Va 23225

Education

Liz Acosta-Lewis
736 Scotland Street
Williamsburg, VA 23185

Lucien has his tucked away in a hollow so it doesn't mar the scenery.

Some people don't like to write and use the phone instead. That is great! Brooks Johnson Parker reported that she was expecting her second grandchild who has since arrived. Now there is a grandson and a granddaughter. Congratulations, Brooks! I also learned that her son has just been appointed a district judge. A proud moment for her, I'm sure.

Alton Overton called and gave an interesting account of a few happenings he has experienced since he left W&M and settled down in South Norfolk. Having had a job in the dining hall, he is eligible for the Order of the White Jacket, a distinguished group of alumni. He should join. In World War II he became a lieutenant commander in the Navy. Upon returning to civilian life he entered the supermarket business, acquired a motel and a laundry and became involved in real estate as a residential and commercial developer. Says he still works 14 hours a day, five days a week and enjoys it. What energy at 81 — more than most of us have, I'm sure. He has one son who is in business with him.

In answer to my question about his grandchildren, John Branch "Dauba" Green wrote that his son, John, an independent geological consultant, lives in a suburb of Denver, Colo., and has two sons, ages 9 and 6. His daughter, Elizabeth, lives in the Washington, D.C., area and has a daughter, age 19, and two sons, ages 17 and 15. Dauba and Betsy haven't been well recently. He spent most of January in the hospital. Had two operations in two weeks — just a week before his 80th birthday. Quite a feat! Says he is "slowly getting into passable shape." Dauba also reported the death of Thomas Johnson '32 and of Gordon Campbell. I also saw an account of the death of J. Harry Carmine who lived in Mathews County.

George Glenney of Pottstown, Pa., reported that his 10 years of retirement have afforded him the opportunity to visit either Europe or South America on a yearly basis. Over the years, he has served on the local boards of directors of several organizations including the YMCA and Salvation Army. He also is planning a Caribbean cruise. He keeps up with his W&M roommate, Bill Thompson, has fond memories of his college years, looks forward to receiving "Smoke Signals" and feels hesitant about returning to W&M because he has lost contact with most of his friends. The Olde Guard luncheons twice a year are wonderful times to renew old ties and to meet a large number of people with common interests. Please come. Maybe you'll be pleasantly surprised, George.

There was a nice article in the Richmond Times Dispatch in Feb. 1985 about Malvern Omohundro and his uncle, John Burwell Omohundro Jr. better known as Texas Jack — a contemporary and oft-times partner of Buffalo Bill Cody. Malvern is chairman of the board of directors of the Texas Jack Association, which is dedicated to establishing Texas Jack's "rightful place in the annals of history." According to the Times Dispatch and the Jan. 19 issue of the Denver Post Magazine, Texas Jack deserves to be remembered. Malvern's project seems to be an excellent one for his retirement years. Since he retired from developing subdivisions in Richmond, Malvern has taken several trips to Jamaica, Uganda, the Far East, Cody, Wyo., and Leadville, Colo.

Carlton Macon and his wife, Dottie, have been visiting in Siesta Key, Fla. To prove it, Macon, keep your tan until the spring Olde Guard luncheon. I hope to see a large number of the Class of '28 there.

Betty W. Lanier
17 Corling Street
Petersburg, VA 23803

Edward Trice
Drewryville, VA 23844

30

you can understand why I have such a sentimental attachment to you all.

Lucille Bell Richards has been very helpful transmitting news about some of our classmates. Lucille lives in Norfolk and presently is recovering from a successful cataract operation.

She writes that Daisy Sears Lamberti resides in San Diego and is running a book shop there; she is a widow. Rosena Bowers returned to her home in Toano after her teaching tour in Richmond. Rosena is a world traveler and is not found too often in Toano. Lucille also wrote glowingly of Susie Gallup Sears and Trittie Ware Geddy. Regrettably they are deceased.

Hilda Stephenson Woodall writes that 1985 was a good year for her despite the usual assortment of aches and pains. The high point of her year was the 50th anniversary of the Class of '35 at South Norfolk High School. It was the last class she taught prior to marriage. The demands were great that she be present for the festivities. It was a wonderful affair, but it took Hilda a while to recover.

28

Mrs. Raymond W. Gill
(Mary Land)
1658 Berkeley Avenue
Petersburg, VA 23805

What a joy it was to receive a nice long letter from Alice Chewing Weber. She and Stanley "Ducky" Weber married and lived in Massachusetts. When Ducky became quite ill, they moved to Warner Robins, Ga., to be near their daughter and her husband, Ducky, after being in a nursing home for several years, died in 1982. Seven years ago Alice had a pacemaker implant and she has been "ticking away at a steady 72" ever since. Last year she had successful microsurgery for a pinched nerve. Now, she is planning a Caribbean cruise in May — the best type of vacation for anyone our age.

From Boulder Creek, Calif., came some information from Lucien Hobbs who feels that "retirement is not the soft" life he'd expected for "more chores and duties descend than weakened shoulders can bear." After logging 90 acres in the Santa Cruz Mountains, he and his wife built a house — "the kind she wanted." They have two horses, a big dog, two barn cats and his very own house cat. With a satellite dish for a 40" TV, they get more programs than they "can look at, but it is a lot of fun and interesting." He even received some notoriety (used advisedly) in England. A friend, Ian Niall, writing in Country Life mentioned Lucien's TV project and made a plea "to keep the English hills free of these ugly dishes." I agree that it would be a shame to dot those lovely, green, rolling hills with unsightly satellite dishes. Hope

26

Andre Goetz
700 Ridgecrest Circle
Denton, TX 76205

1986 - 1926 = 60 YEARS

Now that is an impressive number. We congratulate you all on this, the 60th anniversary of our graduation. What a wonderful group we were moving out of Williamsburg to take over the world.

My association with some of you predates the college years as we were in high school together at Maury in Norfolk. Lillian Berlin Meyer, Lucille Bell Richards, Wilhemina Swan Goetz, Joe Perkins, Leah James, "Lap" Ferratt, Jackson Davis and Lomax Wells come readily to mind.

With some of your classmates I experienced a more intimate association as we faced the unknown world together. Johnson Moss, Pat Kemp, Joe Perkins and I had rooms with the same family as we tried to unravel the intricacies of the telephone company in Washington. Later, I moved to New York City to take over that town and landed in another nest of alumni. We lived together for mutual support and comfort: Bob Kelly, Bunny Norsworthy, Pat Murphy, Paul Keister, Payne Terry and me. It was a great experience; my head throbs with memory. Perhaps

HARVARD PUBLISHES HEENAN PAPER

David A. Heenan '61, president and chief executive officer of Theo. H. Davies, the North American holding company of Jardine Matheson, is co-author of an article "Thinking Ahead: Cooperate to Compete Globally" in the March-April 1986 issue of the Harvard Business Review. Heenan wrote the paper with Howard A. Perlmutter, professor at the Wharton School at the University of Pennsylvania.

'50 GRADUATE PROMOTED BY A. H. ROBINS COMPANY

A. H. Robins of Richmond has promoted Dr. Samuel A. Tisdale '50 to the position of director of the clinical research department in the Research and Development Division. Dr. Tisdale has been with the company since 1974. He previously served as director of medical therapeutics.

1985-86 FACULTY-STAFF GIVING EXCEEDS $50,000

With less than two months remaining in the current fiscal year, faculty and staff members have made gifts and commitments totaling in excess of $50,000 to a variety of funds and projects at the College. While many of the gifts have been designated through the faculty-staff campaign for student financial assistance, other areas, including the establishment of a new endowment fund, have received significant support as well. Duane A. Dittman, vice president for university advancement, said, "This significant level of investment from the college community reflects a strong concern for the activities of the institution and a vote of confidence in its mission."

Notes from Betty:

We just had two pieces of very interesting news from Tom Hart. Tom has just returned from a six-week visit to South America. He described it as a "nostalgic, non-tourist trip to see and visit old friends and remembered places. It was a voyage of yester-year and a marvelous reunion with friends and former colleagues."

His next piece of news calls for congratulations and best wishes. On March 9 Tom and Dorothy Carlstrom, an old friend, were married. They will continue to live in Seattle, just moving up one floor to Apt. 5Q.

We had a long letter from Lucy May Boswell Crymble of Kingsport, Tenn. She writes that her daughter is working on her Ph.D. and is teaching at the University of Central Florida in Orlando. She has just been invited to join Tau Beta Phi, an engineering honorary fraternity of which her father is also a member. Lucy's granddaughter is a freshman at Emory University. Lucy keeps busy with church, civic, and historical organizations in her area.

She also mentioned that she had heard from Sallie Byrd Farmer Lawrence of Nashville, Tenn., who is hale and hearty. Lucy had a pleasant telephone conversation at Christmas-time with Lucy Pilcher Jones in Fredericksburg, Va.

We recently heard from Louise White Johnson, who keeps busy these days with her interests in politics, bridge and travel, as well as with grandchildren. Her daughter has just been elected president of the Junior League of Raleigh, N.C.

By way of the Alumni Office, we had a clipping from the William and Mary Theatre Alumni News. In its winter issue it carried an article about Harriet Smith Warren, about whom we have written previously. Harriet is a retired artistic director from the Rochester Community Players and a founder, with her late husband, of the Little Theater, Jamestown, N.Y. To quote Harriet in this article, "At William and Mary, Althea Hunt and G. Glenwood Clark were each an inspiration for those interested in the theater and in writing."

It was good to hear from Alice Proudman Cochran, who is now living in Largo, Fla., after having retired from teaching in Pennsylvania. She is a widow with one son and two grandchildren, one at the University of Maine and the other in high school. Alice was in Williamsburg early this year for the 45th wedding anniversary of her brother and for a family reunion. Alice says, "Thanks for reminding me that I am an alumna. Class of 1930. It seems so long ago that I was a student at the College."

From Pittsburgh, Pa., comes a welcome letter from Virginia Nicholas Provost. We are delighted to hear that she is still very active in volunteer work with three hospitals, a garden club and her church. She takes one large trip a year, traveling either in the United States or abroad. She adds that she has wandered around the world here and there over the years. Some of you may remember that Virginia was very active in national work with Tri-Delta for many years. Now she is involved in helping compile data for a Tri-Delta history for their centennial in 1988.

We had a welcome note from Sue Cornick Barlow, who is now living in California.

Sotheby's Auction Raises $5,200

New York Chapter Sponsors Third Annual Event for Tricentennial Gift Fund

Below, Susan Arnot '79, president-elect of the New York Chapter, and Leslie Fouts '80, outgoing president, select door prize winners.

Katie Graverson and a friend display the football jersey of Tribe quarterback Stan Yagiello '86, which was one of the items up for sale. Gene Galusha '63 purchased the jersey.

Members of the New York Alumni Chapter who organized the third annual Sotheby's Auction were (left to right) board member Gene Galusha '63; Leslie Fouts '80, outgoing president; Carol Ann Hilton '80, secretary; Susan Arnot '79, president-elect; K. C. Hart '79, a board member of the chapter; and Joe Brinkley '50, treasurer. The auction, which was held March 19, raise nearly $5,200 for the chapter's Tricentennial Gift Fund, created to give the College a gift on its 300th birthday.

Auctioneer Annette Alvarez, a specialist in Japanese works of art at Sotheby's, auctioned off such diverse items as a pair of tickets to a Brahms concert in Carnegie Hall by the Oratorio Society of New York, a Long Island weekend, a weekend in Williamsburg, lunch for two at the New York Stock Exchange, and four tickets to the Cosby Show, which is taped in Brooklyn.

Artist Robert Miles Parker '61 visits with Jacquelin Crebbs '64, director of the William and Mary Annual Fund. Parker created a unique sketch of the Manhattan skyline for the auction program and then donated the original to the New York Chapter for the auction.

HICKMANS ENDOW HUMANITIES PROFESSORSHIP

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hickman of Williamsburg have established a permanent endowment at William and Mary to fund a new professorship in the humanities. The Mildred and J. B. Hickman Endowment Fund will support a named professorship in the humanities at William and Mary next fall and also will qualify for matching funds from the Commonwealth of Virginia Eminent Scholars Program. The Hickmans, co-owners of J. B. Hickman, Limited, which includes both a ladies' and men's fashion shop in Newport News, have been long-time supporters of university activities. J. B. Hickman has served since 1976 as chairman of the Friends of the College organization, a support group of area business people. As chairman of the friends group, Hickman has been responsible for spearheading fund-raising efforts among local businesses and individuals.

Soon after she moved west in 1981, she was in an automobile accident and has been practically housebound since. She spends much of her time decorating her new home. Sue mentioned that she and Millison Finney from the Eastern Shore keep in touch with each other.

Mary Parry writes that the weather and the terrorist element have kept her from travel recently . . . conditions which she hopes will change soon. She is sorry she couldn't make it to Olde Guard Day this year but will look forward to seeing us another year.

Mary keeps in touch with Anne McNulty Stone and occasionally sees Anne's daughter, who lives in New Jersey.

We are looking forward to seeing many of you at Olde Guard Day. Meanwhile, please send us news about yourself, your activities and your family.

Notes from Ed:

Since the first of the year I have sent 15 cards to male members of our class and I received four responses. One of these was from Ambrose Turner, our class chaplain. He reported that in February, he was invited to Martinsville to preach at Wesley Memorial United Methodist Church. He was the first minister of that church. He said that he and Mary Rebecca have always enjoyed the reunions they have attended and particularly our 50th anniversary celebration. We hope you two can be back some day.

A letter from Carl Gillespie reveals that he and his family have had an extremely happy and healthy life. He married Betty Ambler '31, and they have a son and two daughters, also two grandsons, both of whom are grown. His son, Carl Jr., practices law with him. Their younger daughter teaches in Tazewell County and has blessed them with two granddaughters. He states that he and Betty have done some traveling. He served three terms on the Virginia Board of Bar Examiners. We hope you two will join us some time at the Olde Guard functions.

A letter from Charles Easley questions whether or not I remember him. I surely do for I knew all of the male members of our freshman group. Charles states that he and Sam Hurley roomed together in Ewell Hall. Both of them were very studious. Sam was my roommate the next year; I was not that species student-wise.

Charles, after completing his required subjects in "pre-med," went to the Medical College of Virginia. Besides graduating there he also went through the residency program in surgery. He settled in Danville and established a practice there with another physician. He says, "I am not as active as I once was but I still work, hunt rabbits, doves and quail; I am also a skeet shooter." This is evident in that he has been runner-up to the Virginia State Champion skeet and the Virginia 12-Gauge State Champion. He and his partner in shooting were the 28-Gauge World Champions. Let it be said that Charles has busied himself with activities other than being a surgeon. He closes by saying he hopes he can make Homecoming sometime and to tell Sam he is still living and healthy.

I also received an interesting letter from Laurence Brewster. After leaving William and Mary he took post graduate courses at Princeton and received his master's degree from Columbia in 1932. During the depression years he taught in a boy's school in Florida and served as night clerk in a hotel. From 1935 to 1938 he pursued a doctoral program at Duke. Before completing this he served as research editor for the Historical Records Survey at Raleigh, N.C. Following that he took an instructorship in history and government at Clemson. He received his Ph.D. from Duke in 1942 and taught in the history department there until 1945. That year he was appointed professor and director of graduate studies in history at East Carolina, retiring to emeritus status in 1969.

A historiographer of the Episcopal Diocese of East Carolina, Laurence is affiliated with and is a member of several historical societies and civic organizations as well as Phi Beta Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi and Pi Gamma Mu. He has had several publications and numerous articles and reviews in historical and religious journals and magazines. He established a fellowship, lectureship and professorship in history at East Carolina, and he has been honored by having a building named for him. He has remained a bachelor and maintains his home among good neighbors and friends.

I saw Tom Pope recently in Drewryville, and he and his wife were looking fine.

I regret not being present at Olde Guard Day this time. It is my first "miss" since it was established in 1982. I have a brother ill in Jacksonville, Fla., and Bernice and I will be there for an indefinite period.

I hope to see you at Homecoming, and in the meantime if you have any news about yourself, send it to me.

We mourn the loss of one of our fellow correspondents, Cornelia Taylor Jones who passed away Feb. 12. She was the reporter for the Class of '31. I always enjoyed reading her report on her classmates.

32 Mrs. Thomas C. Bradshaw (Josephine Habel) 131 North Main Street Blackstone, VA 23824

Dear Classmates;

Spring is here and I hope all of you feel revived by the new awakening.

I have just returned from an Alumni Leadership Conference at the College, and I do feel greatly inspired with the wonderful opportunity the College is preparing for its alumni. It was the best organized and the most inspiring workshop I have attended. There are great things to come for all graduates if they wish to take advantage of the opportunities offered. William and Mary has taken up the challenge of leadership and is prepared to do great things for our country. Please all of you join the "Network." This is not a financial scheme, but one of service to all of us. If you know of gifted young people preparing for college please give them the facts of the opportunities at William and Mary and join the alumni chapter nearest you.

A few notes have come in from alumni. Pat Clark Fountain '31 of St. Augustine Beach, Fla., sent a clipping from the Jacksonville paper about the death of our classmate Kenneth Umlah who died in a local nursing home. He was a native of Massachusetts, but had resided in Jacksonville for many years.

Louise Fontain Baker of Richmond, Va., has retired from teaching and is enjoying world travel. She was in the South Seas last summer. She was active in the Theatre Guild in Richmond and still attends plays at William and Mary, V.C.U. and Richmond College.

Estelle Foreman Watner of Wilmeyle, Del., has retired after a long career in the theater. She has been in numerous plays in New England and the South as well as the west coast. She studied at Emerson School of Oratory and joined the Lake Shore Theatre Stock Company at Westford, Mass. (Summer Theatre). She has had excellent reviews. She was in TV at New York University, got her master's degree at Columbia and has lived in Nicaragua and Panama.

She is most grateful for the excellent foundation for all theater at William and Mary, where she was in plays with Martin Jurow, Howard Scammon '33 and Edgar

HARTFORD CHAPTER MEETS

The Hartford, Conn., alumni chapter enjoyed a brunch on Feb. 23 at the Town Farms Inn in Middletown. Special guest speaker was H. Westcott Cunningham '43, executive vice president of the Society. Among alumni attending were (left to right): Joseph A. Gianelli '32, Donna L. Brooks '82, and Harold B. Lewis '31.

Weigand '34. She also had a four months study and tour in Great Britain at Stratford and in Scotland.

John Tuthill had been in Vienna for his first Austrian visit in his new role as executive director and trustee of the American Austrian Foundation.

Capt. John L. Doniphan of Alexandria, Va., continues to travel. He has just enjoyed a trip to England, Scotland and Ireland. Also, a cruise to the Virgin Islands. He spent the winter in Florida and plans to be in Williamsburg for Olde Guard Day.

Capt. Selas Henri Emory says "Hooray! I am still living!"

Hope to see all of you at Olde Guard Day.

34 Mrs. Lawrence W. Lippincott (Dorothy Ford) 5404 Studeley Avenue Norfolk, VA 23508

Dear Classmate,

We've just finished our 1986 Great Decision sessions. This stimulating and timely study group is sponsored here by the World Affairs Council of Greater Hampton Roads and, nationally, is a program of the Foreign Policy Association. We met on Saturday mornings from 10 to 12 in the faculty lounge of Old Dominion University's Arts and Letters Building. Our last program was "How Foreign Policy is Made—The Case of Central America." Mr. Grant Mauser, ODU diplomat in residence retired from the State Department and now living in Williamsburg, was our speaker, and he was splendid. We were also privileged to hear a number of Old Dominion professors—each a specialist in his or her field. Among William and Mary alumnae who attended were Lois Leach '40, Emily (Toni) Quarrier McGee '37 and Kitty Blanton Seay.

Bruce Stewart '27, Portsmouth, Va., immediate past president of the Olde Guard, arranged a bus for all of us from this area to attend the spring meeting of the Olde Guard. Eugenia Portlock Joyce '27, Cary Baldwin Blade, Ruth Wilson James and Kitty Seay had all signed up early. Dottie Reese Smith '31 and Lee stayed overnight to visit with friends.

Our Edgewater Garden Club's annual garden week tour this year was to Northern Virginia, where we had lunch at Tides Inn, Irvington. Kitty, Eddie White, Eugenia, Larry and I were among this group. Half the fun is having husbands and friends join us.

Had a lovely birthday note from roomie Annie Pharr Goodykoontz, Louisville, Ky. Annie had just returned from a visit with daughter, Ann King Taylor, her husband, and Annie's newest grandchild, Susannah.

Sis, Pat Ford Updegrove '40, Texas City, writes that every city has planned a variety of activities for Texas' sesquicentennial year—in fact "every club and organization will be involved." Hope she got to see Prince Charles when he was in Houston for the opening ceremonies. Pat was busy helping with the AAUW exhibition in Texas City.

The Alumni Office forwarded a column from the William and Mary Theatre Alumni News giving some additional items about our '34 thespians. Annie Goodykoontz wrote that her First Presbyterian Church in Charleston had done "The Neighbors." She recalled how she had enjoyed her play production class with Althea Hunt. She was turned off by the language and plot of most of the plays she and Jack had seen in Louisville. They had shifted to ballet, orchestra and Bach Society and had enjoyed all three!

Ruth E. Proudman Biermann, Piqua, Ohio, wrote that many of her post-William and Mary activities have involved music—the church choir, a community choir and directing a 25-voice junior high girls' choir. She had also been president of the Girl Scout Council and of the United Methodist Women.

Templin R. Licklider, Northport, Mich., wrote that his theatrical activities included, "Pirate King," performed with amateurs while in Easthampton, Mass., and one play, each year, for 18 years with the Little Theater of Bloomfield Hills, Mich., as well as 10 years in charge of dramatics at the Cranbrook School there. All together, Temp has 43 years in theatrical activities. He recalled the delightful association with Miss Hunt and with Howard Scammon both on and off stage.

Robert M. Rodman, Newton, Mass., lawyer and law book author was involved in theatre work at Dartmouth. He wrote that he enjoyed having Scammon show his group around a few years ago and appreciated Howard's interest in their work.

The next four notes came from the Alumni Office.

Helene A. Donnelly, Vincetown, N.J., wrote that she still looks back with pleasure to our 50th reunion and the beautiful job the committee and the College did. She spent last May in England roaming around favorite places and once back home again, she was in Florida until late February.

Eldon James, Hampton, Va., wrote that one of his nine grandchildren is a William and Mary freshman and has pledged Theta, as had her mother and aunt. His youngest son has just become director of parks and recreation in King George County, Va.

Lucille Ozlin Mays, Orlando, Fla., wrote that she was well and had decided to stay in Florida, since she has been there since 1943.

Received a nice note from Ralph Levine from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where he and Elmore had spent the winter. They planned to return to Boston in April, but had found that they could not make the spring meeting of the Olde Guard. They do plan to be at the next Homecoming. They are planning a trip to Vancouver, British Columbia, this summer, and will probably wind up at Canada's Lake Louise. Ralph said that "both the weather and the golfing were great in Florida, this year."

Robert C. Vaden Jr., Gretna, Va. is a contributor of articles on the history of Pittsylvania County, Va., to The Quill Pen, the quarterly publication of the Pittsylvania Historical Society.

Elizabeth Leland Mason, Accomac, Va., wrote a lovely letter. She and Harvey are enjoying their retirement on the quiet and beautiful Eastern Shore of Virginia. "Keeping the shrubbery trimmed and growing healthy roses keep him busy while I enjoy working with the DAR, Delta Kappa Gamma and playing bridge with friends." Elizabeth planned to attend the DAR state convention in Richmond in March and the Continental Congress of the National Society of DAR in Washington in April.

Also received a lovely note from Harriet "Pitty" Pittard Beales, Boydton, Va. Pitty wrote that son Randolph '82 will graduate from the UVA Law School in May. She and Clara "Teenda" Thompson Knight, and Ken, Raleigh, N.C., planned to attend Olde Guard Day. Pitty also wrote that Elizabeth Burger Jackson, Farmville, Va., recently lost her husband, David. I'm sure all of you join me in expressing condolences to Libby.

Bessie Wilson Nelson wrote from Warrenton, Va., that she, too, hoped to attend Olde Guard Day. The Nelsons were to spend a week recently in North Carolina at one of the "Fair Share" deals. Bessie wrote that their son and daughter were happily married. They have five grandchildren and one great grandson. Phil has retired but keeps busy attending board meetings and appraising property. The picture on her card is one of their 1859 house, used as a hospital during the Civil War and which was headquarters for General McDowell for a while. It has al-

PROFESSOR MADDOCKS DIES

William J. Maddocks, professor emeritus of business administration, died on April 12. Professor Maddocks joined the faculty of the College in 1971 following his retirement from the Navy after 30 years with the rank of captain. He was promoted to the rank of full professor in 1980 and retired in 1985. He taught production and operation management, procurement management and information systems management at both the undergraduate and graduate levels.

WILLEY APPOINTED TO RED RIVER BOARD

Robert H. Willey Jr. '66 has been appointed to the Board of Directors for Red River Commodities, Inc., a company which processes and sells confection sunflowers from its plant in Fargo, N.D. Willey joined the company in 1983 as president and chief executive officer.

Five professors and an undergraduate student at William and Mary have received awards from the National Endowment for the Humanities. Four of the professors have been granted full-year fellowships from NEH. They are James L. Axtell and Dale E. Hoak, professors of history, who have been awarded fellowships for independent study and research; and Robert J. Scholnick, professor of English, and Don A. Monson, professor of modern languages, who have been awarded fellowships for college teachers. In addition, Christopher MacGowan, assistant professor of English, has received a summer stipend, and Sharon Clarke, a junior majoring in history, has been awarded a younger scholars grant from NEH.

ways been in Phil's mother's family, and it was his last job of restoration before retiring. It was a lovely print, Bessie. I'm so glad that you shared it and its history with us.

Also received an interesting note "to say hello" from Frances Henry Crouch '30. Frances has moved to McKinney, Texas (R.D. 2, Box 322 A, Dublin Road, 75069), to be near Holly and Doug. She enjoys her house in an orchard, bicycling and big lakes in which to swim. She would be pleased, I'm sure, to hear from college friends.

In January, my friend and neighbor Kitty Blanton Seay enjoyed an interesting trip to Argentina and Brazil. The trip was sponsored by the Spanish Club of Old Dominion University. Kitty wrote "I found Buenos Aires to be a very large city with many fascinating things to see, among them were the mausoleum of San Martin, liberator of Argentina, Chile, and Peru in the wars of independence from Spain and the mausoleum of Eva Peron, who had died of cancer in her early 30s.

"From Buenos Aires we went north to spectacular Iguacu Falls, larger than Niagara, to Bariloche, magnificent and internationally known ski resort, where soldiers are trained for service in the Antarctic. We rode the ferry down the clear blue lakes bordered on either side by the spectacular snow-covered Andes. In one section were three peaks, one in Argentina, one in Chile and the middle one marking the international line between the two.

"Best of all, though, was Rio de Janeiro, the only city visited in Brazil and considered one of the most beautiful cities in the world. Unlike Argentina, the populace of Brazil is more diversified with Portuguese, blacks (many brought over originally as slave laborers), Indians, Germans and Italians. It is the largest country in South America and the only one that is Portuguese-speaking. In both countries, the main problem is an economic one with inflation running as high as 230 percent in Brazil with its large areas of extremely poor.

"When we visited Rio, we found it a pulsating city busy with preparations for Carnival, a nationwide festival preliminary to the beginning of Lent. It was an exciting trip, but difficult to exchange the warmth for the cold upon returning." Many, many thanks Kitty, for sharing another fabulous trip with us!

What a lovely surprise! I had a call from and a delightful chat with Henry Land, Alexandria, Va. Henry and Marjorie '36 were in Norfolk visiting friends and relatives. It was fun talking about mutual friends and places of interest. The Lands had spent many pleasant summers at Willoughby Beach. Marjorie has her 50th anniversary this year and she and Henry are looking forward to her induction into the Olde Guard in May. Marjorie keeps busy with her Market Square Shop in Alexandria, which deals principally with decorative fabrics. They are planning a trip in early September with a group with whom they have gone on several tours before, led by Rev. Douglas Pitt, an Episcopal minister from Baltimore. They will stay at the Savoy in London and their itinerary includes Chichester, Torquay and the Channel Island of Guernsey. We hope to see Henry and Marjorie when they are next in Norfolk.

Take care! Have a happy summer!

36

Sara Shelton Babson
16636 Pequeno Place
Pacific Palisades, CA 90272

Eleanor Hooker Boisseau of Richmond, Va., is active in Richmond Theatre Guild. She took dramatics at William and Mary extension and is presently president of Sunshine Circle Children's Hospital. She has been president of Sleepy Hollow Garden Club and a church officer. She is a member of the Virginia Museum Council and Tuckahoe Club officers.

Emily Sneed McGuire, Fairfax, Va., writes of the career of her daughter, Anne Lindsay McGuire '75 who received a master's in vocal performance from St. Louis Conservatory and School of the Arts. Miss McGuire played Phillis in "Iolanthe," Victorian Lyric Opera, Washington, D.C., in February; went on spring tour in "The Beggar's Opera," Opera Theater of St. Louis, to San Antonio and Los Angeles; and had a role in "The Woodlanders," world premier, Opera Theater of St. Louis in June. Currently she is in Graz, Austria, at American Institute of Musical Studies. Mrs. McGuire recalls, "Miss Hunt — her love of the theatre."

38

Mrs. Erling B. Hauge
(Jane Speakman)
211 Willow Valley Square
Apt. D105
Lancaster, PA 17602

Dear Classmates,

Since my last letter I have attended two meetings of our class reunion committee, and I am even more enthusiastic about the plans for the reunion and about our gift to the College. We surely will be honored and pampered during those festivities in '88. Initially I was disappointed that we would not be making a tangible gift to the College, with "Class of 1938" in large letters. Now, however, I'm convinced that our dollars spent on supplementing the salary of an eminent professor is the best way we can show our love for William and Mary. This gift will give recognition to our class in perpetuity, something no tangible expression can provide. When the endowment is fully funded, the income will be fully matched by the Commonwealth of Virginia, and we have confidence that we will reach or surpass our goal of $200,000 by May 1988. The University of Virginia has 250 such eminent professor programs, William and Mary only 16. By our endowing such a program we are attracting or retaining the most talented scholars for the College. Mark your check "Class of 1938 Gift Fund," Office of University Advancement, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, VA 23185.

How many of these people do you remember?

Tom Forsyth writes: "I retired with disability from the U.S. Marine Corps and from my own business in Boca Raton, Fla. I'm now living on Beach Mountain, N.C., alone with a beautiful collie dog, painting some portraits and doing a few writing pieces as guided by the magic persuasions of Dr. Harrison."

From Jane McEnally Randle: "My news is of grief, as I lost my husband, Jay, to a massive heart attack on Nov. 13, 1985. The adjustment isn't easy. . . . Our son, Jay William, came home from Lebanon — for good — with his charming Lebanese wife, Reem. He is currently looking over various job possibilities in the U.S., with the hopes of a permanent position in the fall of '86, teaching in the field of architecture."

William Trusler reports from Manassas that he retired from the furniture business in 1970, became a director in First Virginia Bank and in Piedmont Savings and Loan Association and is presently involved in banking.

A nice letter from Carl Buffington: "I haven't any real news. Back in May 1980 you published a long letter from me. In it, I said I expected to retire that year. I didn't. At the request of my company, I stayed on two more years — heading the corporate public relations function the first year and working part time as a consultant the second year. After I retired in 1982 I did public relations work for a private school in Westport, Conn., for two years. I have now settled down to gardening and some other hobbies I enjoy. . . . Leslie Cheek has sent me a copy of his photography Living by Design, which was published by the Society of the Alumni. It brought back happy memories of the College and Leslie's many significant contributions to the arts at William and Mary. He is a truly remarkable man, and I believe that you and others who knew him will enjoy reading his book. I was pleased to see that it includes a couple of quotes from the chapter I wrote for The William and Mary Theatre: A Chronicle, which was published in 1968."

Dorothy Herron can now be reached at the Christian Science Rest Home, Lynn House, 4400 W. Braddock Road, Alexandria, VA 22304. Many thanks to Mary Smith Bettinger '39 who called me with the news that, following a car accident, Dottie has suffered two strokes. When I spoke to her on the telephone I learned that she still has the use of her right arm and is her usual alert self. I know that she would welcome messages and calls from all of you.

I trust that you all noted the interesting article by our own E.T. Crowson in the winter issue of the William and Mary Alumni Magazine.

From "Boe" Royall in Tazewell: "Doris and I returned to campus for the memorial service and other activities at Homecoming. Due to weather, luncheon was not held under tents; consequently we failed to find classmates and friends as usual. The memorial service with music was very impressive. One of those honored was my sister-in-law, Mary Bell Hyatt Royall '37. We are semi-retired but still active in the energy field — coal and natural gas — in Southwest Virginia and southern West Virginia. We enjoy traveling and gardening. Recent additions to our garden are a waterwheel and gazebo." In a later note, he wrote, "We are the proud great-grandparents of Whitney Nicole Dean, born New Year's Day." The great-grandparent part really gave me pause! How many more of you are there?

I was surprised to receive this letter from Annapolis from Gil Randall: "It is highly unlikely that you would remember me. I am listed as a member of the Class of '38, but never really was. Actually I was sort of a special student that year, getting secondary education credits. I had attended W&M in the summer of '35 and the fall of that year. I returned to St. John's here and got my degree in '36. . . . I read in the Alumni Gazette that you had heard from Jack Murguro, and I would appreciate your sending me his address. I have seen him a few times over the years, and once he visited with us while I lived in New York. Jack was a fraternity brother (SPE) and shared a room with me for some months. We had sort of frat house next to the dining hall. . . . I am retired now, or partially so. For many years I directed Maryland's tourism development program. I retired in '77 but continue to earn a few dollars writing and editing a senior citizen newspaper and a column for a local paper." Gil is too modest. He enclosed a reprint from the July 1984 Reader's Digest titled "Letter to a Tobacco Company" in which he makes a strong and well-written case against smoking.

The next items I have "borrowed" from the December 1985 issue of William and Mary Theatre Alumni News. Herbert G. Cobb Jr. is a member of Franklin, Virginia, Little Theater in which he has played Grandpa in "You Can't Take It With You" and served as props chairman for "Annie" (over 200 props counting the buckets and mops for the orphans!) In the 1950s he wrote, produced and directed a play, "Chanco: A Real American," which was given at Scout and 4-H camps in Virginia and North Carolina and later at the Old Fort in Jamestown for the 1957 Jamestown Festival. He now enjoys fishing and spending time on Carolina's Outer Banks. He recalls "J. Leslie Cheek's cast party galas — what affairs they were! Althea Hunt once had trouble with me getting the correct stage and English pronunciation of the word 'been' — 'bean' not 'ben' as I said it. She had me recite over and over 'I have bean up to London to see the Queen!'"

Elizabeth Rumsey Weber is a retired tax law specialist and an Episcopal minister's widow. While a minister's wife, she wrote and produced secular and Biblical musical plays; since widowed she has been active in Northern Virginia and Washington theater groups and in musical reviews for church groups and retirement homes. She has won several speaking contests of Toastmasters International, was with W&M tour to Russia, with G.W. (where she got her master's) to France and Greece, also visited Spain, Scandinavia and Mexico, has been a lay reader at nursing home services and involved in Meals on Wheels. At W&M she recalls being in "Gondoliers," being understudy in "Mikado," telling Margaret Williams to stay in school and keep the part when I was offered it, speaking with a Swedish accent and telling off Carl Buffington in "Night of January 16" and making animal masks for "Noah" under the direction of Leslie Cheek. As for performing, "my husband once said when he let me drive many miles weekly for music lessons, 'It's cheaper than a psychiatrist.'"

Margileth Meyer Anderson has helped with Doctors' Day and other medical association entertainments and church functions. Son Frank, in Minneapolis, does TV commercials, print work and has been in summer stock in Maryland, upper New York and Minnesota. She remembers "assisting Althea Hunt in 'The Mikado' and acting in 'Death Takes a Holiday' and 'The Cradle Song.' I wouldn't give anything for those years."

After our committee in March I talked briefly with Bob Simpson and learned that he has become an avid golfer. He had played earlier but stopped because of the pressures of time and legal matters. In '82, with retirement, he took up the game again and in the last year has become even more enthusiastic and, he claims proudly, better than he was in the peak of his youth. Right on, Bob!

I've also learned that on June 9 Bert and Bob Sheeran will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. Heartiest advance congratulations to the Sheerans from all of us in '38.

Even though it's six months in the future, let's start planning for Homecoming, Nov. 14-16. Think of it as a warm-up for our 50th, just 1 1/2 years later. In addition to the usual festivities, we hope to have a hospitality suite with the class of '37 and a breakfast just for us on Saturday before the parade. It all sounds like fun and it's already on your class reporter's calendar.

Annabel Hopkins Mitchell has suggested a survey of our class members whose children have attended the College. Send me a postcard with your youngsters' names, dates of attendance and field of study and I'll list them in a future letter.

40

Mrs. Franklin D. Henderson
(Bobby Clawson)
P.O. Box 186
Irvington, VA 22480

So nice to be included in Hope Bitting Szabo's mailing list and receive also the snapshot that really had me stymied when I first looked at it. Dawn came and I got a huge laugh. It was taken at our class dinner at Homecoming during the showing of my Dad's movie of our graduation. Dad's best

ALUMNUS IS AUTHOR OF TWO NEW BOOKS

John Fitzhugh Millar '81 M.A. is the author of two new books published by Thirteen Colonies Press of Williamsburg, Va. A Complete Life of Christ combines a complete amalgamation of the four Gospels, following the latest scholarship, in modern English, with other facts that are known about the life and teachings of Christ. The second book, Elizabethan Country Dances, contains a brief history of country dancing, which was the principal recreation for Elizabethans of all social classes.

shots were taken with the camera turned on its side (like his old Kodak) and Hope's picture showed all these heads bent over watching this ridiculous film — the Nuernbergers, Al Chestnut and John Walton!

Hope and George spent Christmas in Hawaii and were leaving on Easter for Europe, returning May 15. They'll be home until the end of August and apparently have another trip planned for fall. She writes "if our return from Spain in the fall coincides with Homecoming, we may go to Williamsburg." Thanks so much, Hope, for your newsy letter and the snapshot — and happy traveling!

A lovely Easter card from Janet Wood Chestnut and note commenting on the same letter and picture she got from Hope Szabo. Her description of "that silly picture of the Nuernbergers, etc. 'hanging upside down' to look at the hilarious film you had of our graduation. Can you imagine a whole room full of twisted heads!"

Janet and Al were going to Natchez for Easter but because of Al's mother's critical illness they had to cancel and will likely spend some time in Boston. They are already looking forward to our 50th! Great!

Had a chatty letter from Jack Purtill. He reported that the effects of snow and cold let up enough for the growing Central Connecticut Chapter of Alumni to have a brunch at the Town Farms Inn in Middletown, attended by 40 alumni and spouses and Scotty Cunningham who drove up from Williamsburg.

Notes from the Alumni Office:

Stan Ebb retired from work the last day of 1985. Do hope you'll enjoy your leisure, Stan.

Tommy Cartwright enjoyed a wonderful trip in October to Australia and New Zealand with Dottie Hammer '46 as their tour guide. You're very faithful to all those tours that Dottie directs. Think it's super, Tommy.

Bud and Mary Holmes Hall spent February and March in Naples, Fla. They enjoyed seeing classmates at our 45th reunion so much. And we enjoyed seeing YOU, Mary!

Lucy Baker Richardson writes that their daughter, Lois, and her husband presented them a super valentine in the form of a new granddaughter, Catherine Lucy. With one granddaughter fast approaching 21 and four grandsons in between they seem to span a generation. Lucy spent six weeks this past fall catching up with them and dodging Gloria and Juan!

Some notes gleaned from the William and Mary Theatre Alumni News sent from the Office:

James Talley of Fredericksburg, Va., is retired and now a volunteer counselor. For years he's been a member of the Theater Guild in Washington, D.C.

'Mac' Trotter lives in Ft. Worth, Texas, and is professor of art at Texas Christian University. He has painted and taught since 1948, had one-man shows in New York, one group exhibition at the Guggenheim, a number of regional shows and one international show.

Noel Patricia Lambert is a retired medical librarian in Atlanta, Ga.

Dorothy W. Synder is a retired elementary school administrator living on St. Simons Island, Ga.

Frank and I spent a delightful but chilly month in Florida this winter. We visited Epcot for several days as well as Frank's brothers in Ft. Pierce, his sister in Key West and friends in Naples.

We had a wonderful surprise on Easter when our elder daughter who now wants to be called Barbara (instead of "Bambi") and husband, John, arrived unexpectedly from Charleston, W.Va. Our Ann and Steve and children came as planned from Richmond plus two other friends. Fortunately our dinner was stretchable, and we all had a grand celebration together.

I do so appreciate hearing from each of you. Please join in and let me hear from you!

42

Mrs. Irvin L. Malcolm
(Joyce Mathes)
1063 Chestnut Drive
Escondido, CA 92025

Nancy Jorden Parker retired last year after 42 years with the health department. She was assistant director of the lab for five years and director for the last three.

Vincent A. Lascara has been named to the board of The Future of Hampton Roads. He is with the Jonathan Corporation.

To quote Stanley Archer Thompson "Been fully retired since 1981. We spend our summers in Indian River, Mich., and winter at Myrtle Beach, S.C. I'm still trying to break 80 on the golf courses here, but that number is very elusive. I just can't seem to find it. It's a tough life but somebody has to do it." Amen to that.

Ellie Nottingham Dudley writes that she and her husband have retired in Williamsburg. They find life as exciting and as much fun as their student years, but in a different way. The activities and opportunities of the College and Colonial Williamsburg are fun, and they find it great to be back.

Mary Ruth Black Dowling continues to serve her community on several boards. When her husband retires this year, they expect to have more time for community activities and seeing their grandchildren.

According to the Dec. 1985 issue of the W&M Theatre News, Susan S. Dinges is associate professor of theatre and director of creative drama and children's theater at the University of Missouri at Kansas City. Bette Smith Elliott is a freelance writer and TV and radio producer in Raleigh, N.C. Richard and Harriet Murray Mears are at Drury College, Springfield, Mo., where Richard is professor of literature, and Harriet was costumer of the Drury College theater for 15 years.

Two of my roommates, Jeanne Jefferson Brown '41, and Louise Julius Greene paid me a visit last week. We looked over my old wedding album, as they were also two of my bridesmaids. My how we've changed.

44

Gwen Kehl Parker
232 Monce Road, Unit 3
Burlington, CT 06013

Jean Bulette Boggs is sorry she missed the 40th reunion, and says "we were traveling in the Middle East — Tunisia, Egypt, North Yemen and Jordan's Turkey. Now getting ready to go to USA in March to see Halley's Comet."

Winifred Gill Geesey comments, "Don and I just returned from visiting our son and his family in New Zealand. Explored the wonders of Australia from Alice Springs to Tasmania."

Jerome E. Hyman reports, "from Dec. 1982 to Jan. 1984, in addition to remaining a partner of my law firm, Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen, and Hamilton, I also served as senior vice president and general counsel to Pam American Airways, Inc. I was recently elected president of the Harvard Law School Association of New York City."

Pauline Walker Hubler says that there were two 1985 weddings in the family. "Eldest son, Lloyd III, married Julie Paek, May 18. The next day they both graduated from Ohio State Law School! Both are now employed in Columbus as lawyers. The youngest son, Carl, married Carol Dunham on Sept. 7. In 1984, Carl and his brother Paul both graduated from Wright State University.

PETER NEUFELD '58 ESTABLISHES ENDOWED SCHOLARSHIP FUND

Peter Neufeld '58 of New York City has established a new scholarship at William and Mary to honor two friends from his years as a student at the College. Income from the permanently endowed Thomas Harland Llanso and Alan Clarke "Smokey" Sherman Scholarship Fund will enable a rising senior at the College to undertake an independent research program in one of the pre-medical sciences during the summer between the junior and senior years. The scholarship is named for two of Neufeld's college friends who died as young men. Neufeld is a successful Broadway producer whose long string of credits include "CATS," "Song and Dance," and "Precious Sons."

Paul finished summa cum laude and is now employed by NCR in Dayton."

Winifred E. Jester writes "still residing in Virginia Beach — semi-retired — doing limited work as investigative consultant. Wife, Jayne, Ohio University 1943, engaged in voluntary work at Virginia Wesleyan College Library. Son Douglas, Virginia Wesleyan College grad, and son Curtis, William and Mary '77, both married. Doug resides on farm on Eastern Shore of Virginia, and Curtis is a CPA at CIA headquarters."

Travel news from Patricia Howard Parry. "I had a great trip this time last year. My Pi Phi friend and I flew to Athens via London. Boarded the Golden Odyssey to Israel, Egypt, India, and the Malaysian Peninsula. Flew home from Singapore, a long Christmas day. Bill would have loved Luxor and the Taj Mahal. "Put more miles on my Skylark this summer visiting children in Nebraska, and Colorado on to Mt. Rushmore. I did Washington and Oregon."

Excerpt from December issue of William and Mary Theatre News: "Rev. John Paul Carter Ph.D., D.D., Ellicott City, Md., Episcopal minister, directed and participated in plays in the 1950s when he was Episcopal chaplain to the University of Texas.

"Joan Worstall Carter '45 worked on stage crew at W&M.

"In addition to pastoral duties, he [John Paul Carter] continues to teach graduate courses on aesthetics and education at UVA. This fall lecturing on C. C. Jung at Southwestern University, Georgetown, Texas, and at a parish near the University of Texas, Austin. At W&M he recalls 'the honesty and high standards which Miss Hunt required. The theater work was far better training for public speaking than any courses I have had on the subject at any level.'"

A letter from William M. Ditto, D.D.S., states "I have practiced in Greensboro, N.C., for the last 32 years and have four children, all of whom have graduated from college and three of them have master's degrees. Unfortunately, none returned to William and Mary, but I do have one daughter who is in academic life as dean of students at Greensboro College.

"This year I have been elected to a national office and currently am serving as president of the College of Diplomates of the American Board of Orthodontists. This is a national group composed of orthodontists who have been certified by the American Board. My meeting will be held on the Monterey Peninsula in California in July so tell the classmates to come out and join me for a round of golf."

William O. Morris writes, "I was fortunate to have been designated the official representative of both the University of Illinois and West Virginia University at the inauguration of the new president at William and Mary. It was an impressive function, and I did see a couple of our classmates."

He also reported that an anonymous donor recently presented the College with a bronze plaque to be mounted in William and Mary Hall. The plaque will annually honor a student wrestler for exceptional accomplishments as a scholar and athlete. The athletic department has named it the William O. Morris Award.

Bill modestly comments "I understand that the award was named after me because of my wrestling, not because of my scholarship."

On Feb. 22, 1986, the University of Texas honored Bill in San Antonio by awarding him the Certificate of Merit for his contributions to dental jurisprudence. Previously he received the Medal of Merit from Nicholas Copernicus University in Torun, Poland, for contributions to legal education. The Georgia Dental Association honored Bill similarly.

His book titled Dental Litigation is widely used in this field as well as the articles he has written in journals all over the world.

After 40 years as a professor of law, Bill is planning to retire to Florida in one more year.

46

Mrs. Allison G. Moore
(Barbara Nycum)
Rt. 2, Box 161
Waverly, VA 23890

The weather for April in Virginia has been superb! So, it must be the same everywhere, and everyone is spending all their time outdoors and failing to write their class correspondent. News for this issue is sadly lacking, but one item of utmost importance — our Big 40th reunion is coming up the weekend of Nov. 14, 15, and 16, and it is definitely time to start making plans and including these dates in your itinerary! Please do keep these dates in mind and you will be hearing further news before long.

Frances Young sent a note to the Alumni Office right after Christmas, stating she had an enjoyable holiday with her sister and husband in Arlington. Frances is the personnel administrator for the Norfolk Health Department.

Two classmates were quoted in the William and Mary Theatre Alumni News. Richard Bicks is a physician in Memphis, Tenn., where he is very active in the productions there of the Metropolitan Opera. He was president for three years of Opera Memphis and an associate member, National Council, Metropolitan Opera. His wife has been president of the Memphis Opera Guild, and his eldest son is equally interested and serves on the board of Theatre Memphis. Richard credits his association with the William and Mary Theatre which "kindled a lifelong love affair with the performing arts, especially live theatre."

Elizabeth M. Lutz is a teacher/librarian at William Penn Charter School, a Quaker school for children K-12 in Philadelphia. She reports having enjoyed small ensemble work in parent/faculty shows at her school. Elizabeth and her husband have done Little Theatre work in supporting and leading roles.

In response to a letter and article I sent Susan Claypool Vukich in Edmonds, Wash., I received a long, newsy letter. Thanks, Susan, and I wish I could expect the same on another such try. She heads the state alumni group, which meets twice a year, and although they are small in number, they have such a good time. She makes frequent trips to Chicago in connection with her position of the Council on Volunteers of the American Hospital Association, serving the last year of her three-year term. For the next year or two, Susan's primary responsibility is assuming the presidency of the board of directors of the Puget Sound Kidney Center. She also serves on the Northwest Kidney Center Board and on the board of trustees for her church.

I spent a week in Williamsburg recently, actually playing the tourist — what fun! I met Priscilla Fuller Downs for lunch one day at the new DeWitt Wallace Museum. It is a real credit to Williamsburg and should be included on everyone's schedule. Pris mentioned she and Mac are planning a trip to Scotland in May — sounds like an ideal time.

Last column until fall, so have a great summer and please let me know what exciting things you have planned!

48

Mrs. William R. Murphy
(Lucy Jones)
Box 329
Manassas, VA 22110

'77 ALUMNA NAMED TO OUTSTANDING WOMEN

Melissa Anne Eastman '77, president of the Philadelphia Alumni Chapter, has been selected as the Outstanding Young Woman of America for 1985 for the state of Pennsylvania. Ms. Eastman, who was a member of the nominating committee to select candidates for the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni, is an administrator and counselor who currently serves as regional director of admissions for the University of Pennsylvania. She holds an M.Ed. from William and Mary as well as a B.A. in psychology and English.

Congratulations to Eddie Dunbar, who has just become president of Roanoke Gas Company! Eddie, who has been senior vice president—finance and secretary, has been with the company for 29 years. He is 60. The last time Bill and I had the pleasure of being with the Dunbars was about 10 years ago when our daughters were in college together at Mary Baldwin. E. Carlton Vaughan (Bubby) was there with us frequently, also with his Mary Baldwin College daughter. Bubby and Eddie are brothers-in-law.

From the William and Mary Theatre Alumni News (12/2/85) we have word from Jim Bray. Jim has, among other things, written the 100th anniversary play for Pi Kappa Alpha, published 10 one-acts and directed plays at high schools, including nine years at Salem College. For 20 years Jim has been the director of the Governor's School of North Carolina, a summer program for the talented. Many of you will remember Jim's wife, Virginia, who, I believe, met Jim when they were together in "The Common Glory."

Howard W. Gilkeson writes that after 32 years in the Presbyterian field, he has been doing interim pastorships.

Charles S. Baker III retired from teaching last June and moved to Florida. Now, in the sun and for fun, he hopes to fish, travel and do all those things he has put off all these years. We wish you the very best, Charles!

From the Lambda Chi Alpha Cross and Crescent, we learn that Herb Tucker has been elected to the board of governors and chaplain general of the Descendants of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence. Herb is the fourth great-grandson of Richard Henry Lee who introduced the resolution declaring the colonies to be "free and independent states." A Virginia tradition is carried on.

Bill and I had an interesting experience on the first Sunday in Lent when we decided to drive over to Christ Church (1666) at the Christ Church Boys' School to hear Jere Bunting preach. We heard a grand sermon and in addition witnessed Jere's christening of his grandson Gregory Douglas Farr. It was a very impressive occasion and a wonderful way to begin Lent. On our way out of the church we met Kitty Bryant of Stingray Point who told us that she is "an old grad" too, class of '40.

We have discovered that wherever we go we find William and Mary friends. It's a small world!

Keep me posted and plan to attend Homecoming in the fall!

50

If you would like to serve as class reporter, contact Frankie Martens at the Alumni House.

52

Mrs. Jeff B. Davis
(Taffy Lay)
138 Junefield Drive
Cincinnati, OH 45218

Sitting here on a gorgeous spring Sunday afternoon with bits and pieces of news scattered before me, all I need now is to figure out how to assemble and condense it. Sorry about the blank space in our last issue — my only excuse (and a valid one) is that in the rush of the holidays, the deadline got right past me. So some of the news will be a bit old, but hopefully, of interest.

Where to begin? I'll start with Lt. Col. Ernest V. Cooke, Dallas, Texas, who will have completed his second year of work toward an M.A. in religious education at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Ft. Worth. His future plans are to go into church administration.

Janet Buckner Waldman reports that she is currently production coordinator of a magazine (name of which I could not make out) and its subsidiary, Prince William Type-setting. As happens to all of us, her children are gradually leaving the nest. I prefer to call my situation "the revolving door syndrome!"

Thelma Rucker and her husband are both electrical engineers — matter of fact, they work for the same company — Litton Guidance and Control Systems. Pretty impressive, huh? Their daughter received her M.B.A. at California State University, and their son is a fourth-year medical student at the Medical College of Virginia.

Please forgive me, Elaine; your letter wasn't dated, but I know your news will be fascinating to all. Elaine Diehm Guilfoyle wrote that she and husband, Joe, had recently returned from a four-week tour of the Orient, including Japan, Taiwan, Hong Kong and China. Their daughter, Beth, was involved in a five-month project on hepatitis B for the Taiwan government. What an opportunity! Beth will do her residency at Georgetown University Hospital. Elaine has retired from the work force and is looking forward to time to pursue her own interests and friendships.

According to a newspaper clipping, Hetty Alvarez Roos is assistant manager of a travel agency, as well as a tour coordinator in San Francisco. Don't know how she has managed all this, but she has directed plays in Mexico City and acted in a Mexican production of "Anna Karenina." In addition, she has four children and lived in Europe prior to moving to San Francisco in 1979. She is now actively involved with the San Francisco Opera House. Her husband is still active in Little Theatre in Mexico.

Betsy Graves Smith has been in the Fairfax County Public Schools for 25 years and is now subschool principal. How well I remember her math aptitude! Betsy, I'm injecting a personal message — how about a line to your former roommate?

I'm sure you're all familiar with this news, but it bears repeating! Joe Agee is really a household name at W&M and has just about done it all athletically. After compiling quite a record in his two years as a basketball player (20 plus points per game average) he returned to a coaching career in 1958. He's been the golf coach at W&M for the last 20 years. Also, he has played second base at W&M, tried his hand at officiating basketball and is an officer in the Marine Reserve. Good going, Joe!

Willis Burton Jr. and wife, Janey, are still living and working in Fairfax County, Janey in schools and Bill in public works. They enjoy sailing in their 27-foot boat in the Northern Neck. Retirement plans to Kilmarnock are getting closer.

Doris Hasemeyer Smith sent quite a long epistle. Her first granddaughter arrived last June. She and Wendel had a lovely trip to Europe last summer, taking in England, Holland and Brussels, where sister Ruth is living while on a job assignment. Their tour also included Germany, Austria and a side trip to France. Oh, to see Paris again! (Just something I threw in, as I think it's the most beautiful city in the whole world.)

Well, friends, I'll close by saying that I'll look forward to more updates. Do take the time, if only to jot a few lines. As for my own update, I'm looking for a rewarding new venture and enjoying all the possibilities. Still trying to decide on moving to Florida or remaining here — wish I could have the best of both worlds! Oldest daughter and my 5-year-old granddaughter (who live in St. Pete) just spent a week here, and it was so hard to see them leave. Youngest daughter moved back to Florida in January, middle daughter is in Raleigh, N.C., and son is here in Cincy.

Don't like to close on this note, but do want to mention how saddened I was to learn that Johnette Braun passed away in January. We went through high school together in Mt.

Lebanon. My deepest condolences to her family.

Please write and, in the meantime, HAPPY SPRINGTIME!

54

Mrs. Philip Johnson
(Peggy Morgan)
2315 Danbury Road
Greensboro, NC 27408

Many thanks for your notes and words of encouragement for this column! It is good to know that you are reading it, but even better to have information from which to write. Keep it coming! A dozen of you know that I am actively soliciting information through personal notes to randomly selected classmates. Please answer, if only with a short paragraph.

Marjorie Beam and Jim Shrader reside in Woodland Hills, Calif., and she writes, "Your last issue on everyone's physical fitness activities inspires me to write. Jim ran in and finished the Los Angeles Marathon this month (March) — his third one since the Marine Marathon in D.C. on the day after our W&M reunion in October. We calculate he has run 26,000 miles in 10 years. He also recently completed a two-year study in certified financial planning, while I finished a master's in management. I'm working at home with a computer, writing instructional material, which I take or send in on floppy disk or modem. I guess that makes me a telecommuter."

Another 1954 husband-and-wife team, Harriett Rasmussen and Carol Baskett, answered "the call" with a good letter of news. Carol continues to practice as a solo tax lawyer in Norfolk, providing legal services in business matters, tax disputes and estate planning and administration, primarily to individuals, close corporations, trusts and estates. Harriett gives lectures, demonstrations, and offers classes in clothing construction, and is about to publish her book on tailoring with ultrasuede. Daughter Cynthia Karen Baskett J.D. '79 practices family law in Tidewater Virginia, and is also the organist and choir director at their church, Hope Lutheran in Virginia Beach. Daughter Virginia Grace will graduate in May from the College with a B.A. in French, and son, William Carol Jr., is completing his sophomore year at the College. He composes and performs music on electronic synthesizers. I'd say that is a REAL William and Mary family!

The Basketts are neighbors of Russ and Page '53 Gills and report they frequently see and work with many other W&M folks in the area. Also, Joseph Kinder and his wife Lyn, who reside in Bristol, R.I., and have a son at Old Dominion, visited the Basketts in 1984.

Marilyn Nelson has recently published a very timely book about Central America titled, They Want More than Bananas. After graduating from W&M, Marilyn earned a master's in Latin American studies from Tulane. She writes, "In the past 30 years I have spent about half my time in that area — primarily Venezuela, Mexico and Nicaragua. I am now back in South Carolina (Greenville) hoping to arouse the public to the fact that we are rapidly getting involved in another Vietnam in Central America." Marilyn is now making speeches in connection with her book which is in the Paschall Library at the Alumni House, and is available in book stores through Carlton Press, N.Y. Congratulations, Marilyn!

I received more information than contained in the newspaper clipping about the Gordon Vliets after we last went to press. Besides working with his Health Ventures programs, Gordon has been helping wife, Lee, get her psychiatry practice, Health

COLLEGE SEARCHES FOR NEW VP FOR ADVANCEMENT

An eight-member committee headed by Andrew B. Fogarty, vice president for administration and finance, has been appointed by President Verkuil to search for a new vice president for university advancement to succeed Duane A. Dittman, who will retire from the position later this year. Alumni on the search committee are Jacquelin W. Crebbs '64, director of annual support programs in the development office; John S. Entwisle '44, chairman of the Endowment Association's development committee; and Lewis L. Glucksman '45 and James E. Ukrop '60, both members of the Board of Visitors.

Strategies, Inc., going and developing culinary skills as well! Lee also teaches at Eastern Virginia Medical School in the Department of Family Medicine. The Vlietses took another trip to Italy last spring, working on plans for the renaissance woman programs. They report that they like traveling and have "learned to enjoy more while seeing less." think that's where I've gotten, also.

CORRECTION: Last issue I had Ren Henry in Los Angeles. He is in New York City (330 East 80th Street). And before I leave the subject, how about all of you updating your addresses if there are changes. I'm sure the Alumni office would be happy to have them, but I'll be glad to make correction: since I keep the old P.C. hot all day!

No letter has been received from former class reporter, Marge Huff Brown. However the December issue of the W&M Theatre Alumni News reveals that Marge is past president and current board member of the Northern Virginia W&M Alumni chapter. Her statement for that publication was that "the W&M Theatre satisfied some need that nothing else has. If I could re-live anything in my life, it would be W&M Theatre." Marge's daughter, Kathy, followed in the tradition appearing in "Carousel." Quite a tribute.

The same theatre publication brings news of Leonard Schneider, who resides in Lawrence, Kans., and has a varied and active career as a film-maker, theater director, and painter. He did graduate work at Boston University and received an M.A. in directing from the University of Kansas. Leonard has held lead roles in several plays and directed for the Lawrence Community Theatre. For Independent Educational Films he has been writer, producer and director and has won 10 national and international film festival awards. In his painting career Leonard has studied at the National Academy of Design, N.Y.C., and exhibited nationally and locally, in group and one-man shows. His wife, JoAnna, is a N.Y. actress with credits from TV, radio, Broadway, off-Broadway and various Kansas theater groups. Sons, Paul Miles and John March, are both actors, Paul having majored in theater-voice at U. of Kans., and John having lead roles in six educational films to his credit. Leonard says that "W&M training was, for me, a lucky break."

A note from Jay Birnbrauer sounds so inviting that I will reproduce it in its entirety. "It once was a joke to tell people to call in when in the neighborhood, but now that Cottesloe is the grandstand of the America's Cup it's time to let old, and potential new, friends, know that I'm here and would welcome hearing from them. This is my home now (64 Napier St., Cottesloe 6011, Western Australia) after seven years of being on the psychology faculty of Murdoch University, and before that U.W.A. Why? Because I'm 15 minutes from the most beautiful beaches anywhere and it's mostly sunshine and dry heat. We even have the odd concert or two, TV and movies." Thank you, Jay. I hope you aren't overrun with company!

Eleanor Kanter of Portsmouth writes that she stays very busy with writing and caring for her elderly mother. She had a Passover story accepted by the children's magazine The Shofar, is planning a spring trip to New Zealand/Australia in search of Halley's Comet and preparing for a bat mitzvah (delayed!) with a class of adults at her Temple. She comments that "hard work is gratifying!" Let's sell that one, Eleanor.

President and Mrs. Verkuil were guests recently of John Tucker who hosted a reception for them at his home on the grounds of Norfolk Academy where he is headmaster.

Gilbert Parmele and wife, Anne, live in Simsbury, Conn., where Gil's sports talk show recently received the station's top rating. Anne continues to enjoy her work as a fashion coordinator, and oldest son, Jack, left

ALUMNUS NAMED COMPANY CONTROLLER

Owens-Corning Fiberglass Corp. has named Warren D. Knowlton '68 controller of the insulation operating division at the company's headquarters in Toledo, Ohio. Knowlton, who holds his masters degree from the University of Utah and his juris doctorate degree cum laude from the University of Toledo, joined Owens-Corning in 1977.

for Maine in January where he is working outside Bangor as a full-time disc jockey. David, the second son is "extremely happy" as a freshman at the College. That is always good news!

Since my last column our daughter Lee, who recently finished at Wake Forest, took off for Anchorage where she hopes to put her radio/TV training to work. If any of you have "children" out there, let me know!

Thank you all for writing, when you receive a postcard from me. And even without one, take a minute and share your whereabouts and activities with your classmates!

56 Mary W. Warren
RD 1, Box 795
White Stone, VA 22578

Dottie Guthrie Wilson, world traveler, returned from Mexico, repacked her bags and went off to Egypt. What a gal. Thank you for the postcard. As a graduate gemologist, Dottie is now a licensed jewelry appraiser. It all sounds so exotic.

Via Dottie, we hear that Pat Ewell Johnson and her Allan are well. Pat plans to retire from the "wedding business" with the marriage of her youngest daughter.

Margaret Bunting Jenkins has completed Ph.D. requirements in human resources management/organizational psychology. She reports she is an active Toastmaster and enjoys developing seminars. A busy person.

M. Allan Clark happily passes along the news of his David's graduation from the College and attendance at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. His Susan is in her third year at the University of Richmond. As if that weren't enough, Kathy recently entered college. Would you like a tin cup and a station on a busy city corner?

While the rest of us struggled through the cold, Pat Best Rainey found life in Marco Island, Fla., quite satisfactory. Good for you, Pat.

It may be spring now, but look out, it's not too early to think about our big Homecoming and 30th reunion. See you in the 'Burg!

58 Mrs. N. Davis Wrinkle Jr.
(Polly Stadel)
7741 Rockfalls Drive
Richmond, VA 23225

My mailbox is overflowing with class notes this month. This has been a great winter. I have heard from many of you for the first time. Thank you for writing.

My "old" roommate Ad Atkins Green writes that she had been an instructor of reading/study skills at Delaware Technical Community College. She is presently teaching English in a public high school. She says her first-born, Ellen, graduated from UVA in environmental science and is working as a tax paralegal in a New York City law firm. Ad says she is entering her 15th year with Little League Baseball!

Ginny Kendall Cooper writes from Palo Alto, Calif. She is administrative services manager at Hewlett-Packard. She has three children: married daughter, Kim, graduated from Evergreen; son, Ken, is a senior at UC San Diego; daughter, Carrie, is attending Foothill Junior College.

Eve Mapp Davis married Bernard W. McCray Jr. last October. Her daughter, Holly Davis, is a junior at Hollins College. Eve's son, Hugh Davis, entered UVA Law School last fall. Florence J. (Polly) Rowlett was promoted to vice president at Paine Webber Mortgage Finance, Inc. (Fairfax Virginia Branch). Congratulations, Polly!

Martha Billardt May is busy working in Democratic politics and with a local recycling committee. She would love to hear from any alumni who have helped to make a local recycling program effective. Her address: 20 Kimball Street, Chatham, NJ 07928.

James Angle, professor of English at Ferrum College, received the Distinguished Alumni Award recently in recognition of his service to Ferrum College. For the past 13 years he has served as a pastor in the Roanoke District of the United Methodist Church and since 1976 has been pastor of Goodwin Memorial United Methodist Church in Salem.

Anne Richardson Tankard's elder son, Ed, graduated in May from Hampden-Sydney College. Her younger son, Richard, completed his freshman year at Davidson. Both sons are members of Kappa Alpha.

Norma Taylor Mitchell wrote from Troy State University, Troy, Ala., where she has been promoted to professor of history. Norma has taught there since 1970, specializing in early American and women's history. She is married to Frank Joseph Mitchell, also a Duke Ph.D., who is professor of religion and philosophy at Troy State. Their daughter, Anne, attends Birmingham-Southern College.

It has been a long time since I have heard from Dick Clay. He is an Episcopal priest serving a parish in Pulaski, N.Y., and also teaches in the local gifted and talented program at Pulaski Academy. He has recently married Jacqueline Carol Holdene, and together they have seven children. Congratulations, Dick!

A bulletin from Praeger Scientific announces the publication of With Charity for All: Welfare and Society, Ancient Times to the Present by classmate Merritt Ierley. It is a study of the roots of welfare society. Merritt, author and former journalist, has had extensive experience in government from the municipal level to the federal. He has worked for New Jersey Senator Fairleigh Dickinson Jr. and Congressman Frank C. Osmers Jr. He has also worked with the task force on natural resources of the Council of State Governments in Washington.

Alice Osborne Lukac represented the College at Rio Grande College and Community College in Rio Grande, Ohio, at the inauguration of its 16th president. Alice's husband, George J. Lukac, is vice president for development there.

Bill Althans and his wife Judy Carling '59 are now living in Ellicottville, N.Y. (ski resort), and Cape Hatteras, N.C. (winter/summer). He reports two new grandchildren in Montana. Their daughters live in Raleigh and Greenville. Bill is still in the aviation business. He writes that they are in Williamsburg frequently. Do you take winter/summer reservations for "classmate/guests," Bill?

A bulletin from the Fulton County, Georgia, Employees' Association featured Eleanor House Pemberton. Ellie is a librarian in the new popular library section of the Atlanta Fulton Public Library. Her husband, Tom, and son, Bob, moved to Atlanta in 1976. Tom served in the military for 20 years during which time the family lived in Germany six years and traveled extensively.

The April 1984 Forbes Magazine featured Alan Miller, the chairman of Universal Health Services. The article chronicles Alan's meteoric rise to success with the founding of UHS, based in King of Prussia, Pa., the fifth-largest hospital management concern in the nation. Alan has again honored our class by his recent appointment as trustee for a three-year term on the Board of the Endowment Association of the College. We are proud of you, Alan!

Faithful correspondent, Ginny Holsinger, wrote a wonderful card with news of '58 classmates who attended her 30th high school class reunion (Washington-Lee, Arlington, Va.) in Sept. 1984. Our freshman year at William and Mary, 75 of these W-L classmates matriculated, writes Ginny. Carol Norstrom, Mary Dykeman Leshner and Brad, Carolyn Scheele Fakadej and D. A. Anderson Rosenfield were among our '58 classmates attending. Carol wrote that Mary and Brad are currently living in Hong Kong. Carol wrote that U.S. Aid had sent her to India to look at dairy operations there she said "some were very modern but the milk collection systems were a microbiologist's nightmare. The Taj Mahal was everything I'd ever imagined it was — but sadly air pollution is getting it, too." Forgive me for entering your letters so late, Ginny.

In California, Mary Jane DiZerega Hamerland and Jack continue to enjoy living in the East Bay where they are busy with the Oakland Museum. Mary Jane is a history docent there, and Jack joins her in giving bike tours on the history of Oakland. Their son, John Jr., is a CPA in Denver, and their daughter, Sue '82, is with an advertising firm in Richmond, Va.

Our nest is empty after years of immersion in baseball, football and basketball games. Everyone said we'd love it, but we don't! Our elder son, Davis Stadel, graduates from Hampden-Sydney College in May. Our younger son, Geoffrey, is a freshman at Princeton University. We continue to enjoy life in Richmond. Nothing is more fun than to get a call from a classmate in the area. Please call and keep writing! It has been wonderful to hear from so many of you.

60 Mrs. John A. Coffey
(Mary Ellen Carlson)
14101 Manorvale Road
Rockville, MD 20853

Nancy Lee Hanson Ziese spent 1985 in graduate school (Iowa) getting a specialist certificate in gerontology and beginning a Ph.D. in higher education. She was president of the Board of Friends of Iowa Public Television in 1985 and is currently serving on the Council on Aging Board, Foster Care Review Board, and the Iowa Episcopal Diocese Task Force on Aging. She is also a self-employed counselor and lecturer on women's careers. Nancy and her husband have a 3-and-1/2-year-old daughter!

Perry Cobb Jr. and his wife would love to hear from anyone in the Wexford, Pa., area, where they have lived for the past four years. Their eldest son, Howard, received his B.S. from Hampden Sydney and his master's from the University of Richmond and now lives with his wife in Greenville, N.C. In January their second son, Gordon, graduated from Penn State. And their youngest, Shannon, has just started at Edinboro in Erie, Pa.

Ann Patterson Willoughby writes that her husband, Bill, has started a manufacturing business, Cleveland Track Material. Their son Bill graduated from West Point in May 1983 and their daughter, Mary Glenn, graduates in May from Notre Dame. Son John is a high school senior.

From the William and Mary Theatre Alumni News comes word that Pat Fojt Glover is in her fourth year at Dartmouth Medical School.

Joe Alexander has been appointed to the position of deputy chief scientist at NASA, where he began a research career in space science in 1962. He and his wife, Diana Titolo Alexander '61, have three children and reside in Laurel, Md.

We go to our first college graduation in May when Jack graduates from James Madison, where Beth is also a freshman. A month later Susan will be graduating from Rockville High, and Cindy will be doing the same from Wood Junior High. At least, we don't have any June brides!

ASSOCIATE HONORS LOUISE B. FORSYTH

Louise B. Forsyth '43 M.A. of Quincy, Mass., has received the 1986 Gilbert and Kathleen Wrenn Award for a Humanitarian and Caring Person from the American Association for Counseling and Development. The award annually honors one AACD member who demonstrates the qualities of a humanitarian and caring person and who contributes time and talents without thought of personal gain.

62

Mrs. James R. Henry
(Nancy A. Sinclair)
1096 Meadowbrook Drive
Bedford, VA 24523

John Reese received a fellowship from the National Endowment for the Humanities to study Shakespeare with the Royal Shakespeare Company and the Shakespeare Institute in Stratford, England, during the summer of '85. He is in his second year of teaching theater at Deerfield Academy, Deerfield, Mass. John's son, Christopher, is a sophomore.

Virginia Yoder Antevil resides in Alexandria, Va., where she is a computer data-base researcher for an on-call information service.

Stephen Bellon lives in Los Angeles, Calif., where he is the chairman of the English department at the Oakwood School. He received an M.A. in 18th-century English Theater from USC and has taught theater and directing. He was the co-founder of the Company Theatre in Los Angeles.

Erik Howell, also, lives in Los Angeles where he is currently on ABC's "General Hospital." He has been writing and developing new night-time television series.

Helen Marie Pearson Krueger is a substitute teacher in Green Bay, Wis. She is active in Girl Scouts, the American Cancer Society and a church camping program.

Kenneth Jay Sklakman changed his name to Kenneth J. Stuart. He has been practicing law in Denver, Colo., for the past six years but is now going to return to New York City as a partner with the firm of Lane & Mittenhoff, specializing in corporate finance and securities matters. One of his sons, Eric, is a sophomore at Wesleyan University and the other son, Douglas, is a senior in high school.

William F. Mirguet Jr. has given up banking after 22 years and has opened a new business, Gourmet Market, in Newport News, Va. Bill's new business will offer everything that people would need in order to complete fine meals and fine entertaining.

The following news comes from The Theta Newsletter. Pril Nash Brown and Seab live in Sarasota, Fla. Their Hickory Farms business is flourishing. Their sons, Evan and Alden, are both into soccer. Evan will take the SATs this year as part of the Duke Talent Search program.

Paul Bankes and Dorcas Brown Bankes reside in Wynnwood, Pa. Paul continues to be busy in his law firm. Dorcas is continuing work on her second novel and, on the strength of submitting a portion of it, was accepted at Bread Loaf Writers' Conference in Middlebury, Vt., this past August. Dorcas and Paul had a major exhibit of their African stone sculpture at Michigan State U. and at the Fleisher Gallery in Philadelphia. Their daughter Jesse is a freshman at Macalester College in St. Paul, Minn. Heather, their older daughter, is graduating from college in June and has applied for a teaching assistantship in Japan for next year.

Kay Christian Sills and children live in Traverse City, Mich. Kay continues to substitute teach. Buddy is a senior, and Carey is a freshman in high school.

Cynthia Isemann Buxton and Don reside in the Great Falls area of Fairfax, Va., where they have just bought a new home near the historic Colvin Mill.

Bunny Becker Harrington lives outside of Charlottesville, Va., at Crozet. Bunny revised two books last summer and took the fall semester off from teaching at the University of Virginia to do some research projects. She and her husband were planning a trip to Guatemala and a visit to New England.

Susan Griggs Bramer and E.J. are doing well in Titusville, Fla. Last year Susan enrolled in a graduate course offered by the

A. H. ROBINS APPOINTS
ROBERT P. WOLF '64

A. H. Robins Company of Richmond has appointed Robert P. Wolf '64, '66 J.D. as vice president, general counsel and secretary of the Company. Wolf joined A. H. Robins in 1973 as an attorney in the law department. He was named assistant general counsel in 1978, was elected assistant secretary and assistant general counsel in 1979, and was elected secretary and assistant general counsel in 1981. Since December 1983, he has served as vice president and general manager of the Medical Instruments Division.

JAMES J. CLEARY '76
NAMED CORPORATE PRESIDENT

James J. Cleary '76 has been named president of Sonat Subsea Services, a subsidiary of Sonat Inc. of Houston, Tex., a subsidiary of Sonat Inc. Cleary joined Southern Natural Gas Company, also a Sonat subsidiary, in 1979 as an attorney. He was promoted to staff attorney in 1982 and to senior attorney in January 1984. In July 1984 he joined Sonat Offshore Drilling Inc. as assistant secretary. Cleary received his J.D. degree from Boston College Law School in 1979.

communications department at the University of Central Florida in Orlando. By summer she had decided to go for a master's degree.

Martha Walton High and Jack had all the Northern Virginia Theta alumni over to watch the Redskins and the Steelers play football on TV and enjoy delicious fare. Martha is very active in her church work on the diocesan level and was named to the board of directors of Longwood College by then Governor Charles Robb. Jack is a vice president at Sperry. Martha, their 16-year-old, was present at the party to help her mother. Their son, Lance, is a sophomore at Dartmouth and plays on their football team. He is 6'5" and 265 lbs.

Ann Smith Hughes always sends the Theta Newsletter each year so that I can fill our column with all the happenings of the Thetas. I am ever so grateful to Ann each year. She and her family are still in Vienna, Va. She and Jim celebrated their 20th anniversary by taking a cruise to Bermuda and Nassau. The boys are in high school. Jimmy is a junior and plays varsity football and wrestling. Scott is a freshman and also loves football and wrestling.

The Henrys continue to be very busy here in Southwestern Virginia. Jim has been selected to represent the Episcopal Diocese of Southwestern Virginia at the annual clergy conference of the Diocese of Bradford, England, in April. He will be at York Minister and in the general area for 10 days. My teaching keeps me busy with my "living history" approach in social studies. I continue to do my quilting under "The Parson's Partner." I have gone to special orders only because time is limited and I was not able to keep my quilted items stocked in the shops that handled them. Ryan turned 12 years old in March and has become the experienced camper with his Scout troop. He continues to commute 25 miles to Lynchburg to Holy Cross Regional School.

Many thanks to all of you who took time to write the news for this column. Keep those cards and letters coming!

Joy Walker Browne and T. C. (Thomas C. Browne '66) have moved from Atlanta, Ga., to Darien, Conn. T. C. is now director of eastern region sales for Private Satellite Network, N.Y. Joy is tutoring children with learning disabilities.

Mary E. Green is the manager of planning and market research for the E.A.R. division of Cabot Corporation.

James R. Bennett, a lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army, has been awarded the Legion of Merit. Jim, who is currently the deputy director for logistics at Brooke Army Medical Center in San Antonio, Texas, was cited for exceptionally meritorious service from Aug. 1981 to May 1985 as deputy for material operations, U.S. Army Medical Material Center, seventh Medical Command, Germany. According to his citation, "Colonel Bennett's brilliant management of the largest medical logistics operation in the United States Army resulted in dramatic improvements in supply support for peacetime customers and significant gains in medical wartime readiness."

Jim has a master's degree from Baylor University in Waco, Texas, and is married to the former Sue Watkins of Leavenworth, Kans. They have two children, Amy, 12 and Dawn, 11.

Richard C. Goodwin is in private practice in Annapolis, Md. He is very active in community affairs and serves as class agent for the College.

Claire Bethel Buckle has a son, Chris, who is a junior at William and Mary and who is spending this year in Germany at school in Munster. Her son, Peter, is a junior at Lafayette High School in Williamsburg and has worked with the Virginia Shakespeare Festival for five years. Claire's husband, Dave '63, works at CEBAF in Newport News, Va., and Claire is a secretary at a law firm.

The 1973 men's cross country team was inducted into the William and Mary Athletic Association Hall of Fame. John Randolph was inducted into the Hall of Fame as the coach of the 1973 team, which was ranked fourth nationally and first in the East.

tor of development. His direct and supervisory responsibilities include all fund-raising, alumnae relations and public relations.

Dottie Gilbert Jordan and Tom moved in November from White Plains, N.Y., to Glens Falls, N.Y. As of March 9, they had not seen the ground, and the local newspaper stated Glens Falls had received 90 inches of snow this winter. This move and change of climate has afforded them the opportunity to learn skiing, ice skating and tobogganing, all of which their 12-year-old son, Adam, loves. Tom is now director of sales and marketing for the Sagamore Hotel and Resort, splitting his time between two offices in Manhattan and Glens Falls. Dottie really misses her eight-year-long job at a private school in Westchester County and presently is bidding her time doing volunteer work and car pooling. They plan to come to Williamsburg in the fall for our 20th reunion.

Robert Mooney has been living in Richmond since 1981 and is presently a partner with Coopers and Lybrand, a national CPA firm.

Judy Sullivan McKnight lives in Fairfax with her husband, Randy, who is a teacher in the Arlington County Public Schools, and sons Sully, 12, and Shawn, 9. Judy works for Fairfax County as director of finance and administration for the Office for Children.

Robert Sigafos is still practicing dermatology at Scripps Clinic in La Jolla, Calif. He mentions enjoying the national attention William and Mary has had this year as a "public ivy."

Stephen Snell has joined the American Financial Services Association's staff in Washington, D.C., as marketing manager. Stephen will be responsible for evaluating and marketing existing AFSA services and products and will also develop new ones. In addition, he will be in charge of membership development; the promotion and advertising for Credit Magazine, the association's bimonthly publication; and recruiting exhibitors and sponsors for AFSA conventions and conferences. Prior to joining AFSA, Stephen served as director of membership development at the American Advertising Federation in Washington, D.C.

This is the last issue of class news until next fall. Over the summer, please write me a note of your happenings and start thinking of our 20th Homecoming reunion next fall.

64 Mrs. C. Philip Tutschek
(Joanne Arnett)
80 Melrose Road
Mountain Lakes, NJ 07046

James R. Gaines is working for Bell Atlantic in Silver Springs, Md. His son Jim is a freshman at Virginia Tech and his son Willy is a high school senior who excels in varsity wrestling.

John Gravely is an investment banker and assistant branch manager with A. G. Edwards & Sons, Inc., in the Norfolk, Va., office. John and his wife, Mona, have a new baby daughter, Anna Elisabeth, born last April and a son, Matthew, 4. John's two oldest children are in college. David is a sophomore at Old Dominion University, and Terri is a freshman at Virginia Tech.

Sandra Tolbert Absalom has a daughter, Laura Michelle, who is freshman at William and Mary this year. Laura played varsity soccer for the College.

Barbara Drucker Smith operates her own word processing business, Word Processing by Barbara, in Newport News, Va. She serves as president of the Newport News branch of the American Association of University Women for 1985-87. Barbara spent five weeks in Israel visiting her daughter, Lisa, who works with new immigrants at the Association for Americans and Canadians in Israel (AACI) in Jerusalem. During her trip, Barbara also went to Egypt and took a cruise on the Nile. Barbara also volunteers as a docent at the Mariner's Museum. Her son, Eric, lives on the ocean at Virginia Beach and is a land developer.

66 Nancy Rhodenhizer Henderson
13 Flax Mill Road
Newport News, VA 23602

Lindsay Stewart Avebury and her husband, Eric, welcomed the birth of their son, John William, last August. Lindsay has enjoyed being a full-time parent, especially after many years of working. Before John's birth, she worked for 10 years for the British section of Amnesty International and for the last five years was their refugee officer. Lindsay writes she had the pleasure of meeting President and Mrs. Verkuil several months ago at a gathering of alumni in London.

Joel Zaba was a featured speaker at the 1986 mid-winter meeting of the Montana Optometric Association. He lectured on current research and trends regarding the emotional problems of children with vision problems, the relationship of learning disabilities, vision problems and juvenile delinquency, and the problems of adults who have grown up with learning-related visual difficulties. Joel has lectured extensively throughout the United States, is a visual consultant to the Norfolk Public School System, a consulting editor to the Journal of Learning Disabilities and was interviewed in December on numerous national broadcasts regarding the relationship of toys, child development and vision.

After working in the alumni and development programs at Lynchburg College for 12 years, Ed Story has joined the staff at Converse College in Spartanburg, S.C., as direc-

68 Mrs. Fred L. Simmermon
(Sandra Abicht)
2656 Quincy Adams Drive
Herndon, VA 22071

It's always nice to receive newsy letters from classmates. Commander J. Michael Johnson writes, "Since leaving college I have been gainfully employed as a pilot in the Navy. For the past 15 years I have lived in Jacksonville, Fla., flying the A-7 light-attack single-seat jet. I am currently the executive officer of Attack Squadron 86 at the Naval Air Station, Cecil Field, and will take the reigns of the squadron as commanding officer in June. Our squadron has 12 A-7 Corsairs and over 250 officers and enlisted personnel assigned. We deploy overseas on-board the USS Nimitz. Since joining the Navy, I have made seven deployments overseas to all parts of the world and have logged landings on over eight different carriers. I made one deployment to Southeast Asia during the Vietnam conflict earning two Distinguished Flying Crosses, three individual Air Medals and three Navy Commendation Medals while flying over 120 combat missions into North Vietnam." Mike married Jackie Chandler, a graduate of Baylor, in 1972, and they have two children Jeremy, 9, and Morgan, 7. Mike would like to hear from classmates in the area.

Lee Wadkins Vliet, M.D., passed the psychiatry boards in December. She divides her time between Health Strategies, Inc., a private practice she has begun, and Eastern Virginia Medical School. She is director of behavioral medicine and assistant professor with the Department of Family Medicine at Eastern Virginia. She is also the psychiatric consultant to HealthMax, a lifestyle improvement center. Lee is program coordinator for three seminars offered by the College's Special Programs. She and her husband, Gordon, live in Norfolk.

Baroline Hodge Bienia also lives in Norfolk and works for Eastern Virginia Medical School. She plans and evaluates curriculum and teaches two courses with her husband, Richard. The Bienias have two daughters, Holly, 16, and Lee, 13.

From Virginia comes news of other classmates. Diane Lynch Abdelnour has been nominated by Delegate Shirley Cooper for Juvenile and Domestic Court judge in the ninth circuit. She was endorsed by the York County Bar Association. Stephen G. Borleski has been transferred to Richmond by the Dupont Company. Marsha King Carter is an educational diagnostician/special education coordinator in Chesterfield County. Her husband, Reid, is the vice president for marketing and research for an advertising agency. Their sons are 9 and 11 years old. William Keith Brown is vice president of RPK Corp., a computing and engineering firm. He lives in Gloucester Point.

Robert A. Blair has been selected for inclusion in the Marquis Who's Who In American Law. He is a partner in the Washington, D.C., firm of Anderson, Hibey, Nauheim and Blair. Bob works in local and national activities of the Democratic Party and in numerous civic affairs. He and his wife, Linda, have two sons, Rob and Thomas.

Jane Marsella Drake is working for the Visiting Nurses Association of Baltimore, Md. Ronni Green Cristol is a homemaker in Atlanta. Her second child, Kate Allison, recently celebrated her first birthday. Cecelia Jacobs Braddon is taking accounting and law courses. She will sit for the CPA exam in 1987.

Richard Meredith Smith is chief executive officer for Rotex Company, a small manufacturing firm in Dallas. Dick and his wife, Debbie, have three children, Meredith, 15, Kimberly, 13, and Travis, 11. After living in Wisconsin for three years, the Smiths were glad to return to Texas.

Robert Drake works for the Department of Defense. He earned his J.D. in 1984 and passed the Maryland Bar Exam the same year.

The following news comes from the Dec. 2, Theatre Alumni News.

Albert W. Morris Jr. of Washington, D.C., is president of Theatrical Technicians, Inc. He has done set and lighting design for Equity Dinner Theaters and has had similar responsibilities for the Touring Company of the National Ballet of Washington. From 1972 until now he has done lighting for network news (ABC, CBS, NBC, UPITN, Metromedia), documentaries, specials (Barbara Walters), 20/20, Weekend, and GMA. He has been production gaffer for feature films and commercials and done theater work at the Kennedy Center, Ford's, National, Wolf Trap and Capital Center. His wife, Linda Kintz, is a ballerina.

J. R. Tompkins of Roanoke, Va., is banking manager of First Federal Savings and Loan Association Savings Department and has appeared in amateur theater in Roanoke. Selman I. Welt lives in Johnson City, Tenn., and is an obstetrician/gynecologist.

Steven Ziglar resides in Lenox, Mass., and is the co-owner of Walter Peterson, Too and the Underground Gallery. He is a partner in Salsbury/Ziglar Marketing Associates. He has sung the lead in productions of Light

GROUP HONORS '61 ALUMNUS

I. Donald Snook Jr. '61, president of Presbyterian-University of Pennsylvania Medical Center, has been named the 1986 Health Care Marketing Innovator of the Year by the American College of Healthcare Marketing for significant achievement in healthcare marketing. Snook developed and established the HotelHospital concept, a low-cost medical facility that functions like a hotel with support personnel, medical observation and a menu of "a la carte" medical services. He has also just co-edited a HotelHospital book, which will teach other hospitals how to develop such a facility.

Opera of Manhattan and has sung for the New York City Opera, New York Grand Opera and the New Jersey Lyric Opera. He also has been a recitalist with Epiphany Artist Series, N.Y.C.

Paul Hildebrand of Staunton, Va., is founder and director of Shenandoah Valley Performing Arts Cooperative in the Shenandoah Valley, which includes Shenandoah Valley Playwrights Retreat. He is artistic director of the New Playwrights Theatre of Washington and freelance director and teacher/stage director for New York's Ensemble for Early Music.

Have a good summer!

70 Mrs. T. Thomas Van Dam
(Randy Pearson)
215 Myrtle Street
Haworth, NJ 07641

Charlotte and Jim Newsom's daughter, Diana Grace, arrived last spring and has celebrated her first birthday. Son, Chris, 12, up for the most valuable player trophy for basketball, is a five-time All-Star in the Boys' Club League. Chris is in the gifted program at his school and, taking after his father, excels in math. Charlotte and Jim are in their 13th year of teaching math at Tidewater Community College. Jim also teaches a computer science course at Virginia Wesleyan College in Norfolk. In the summer of 1985, Jim was chosen one of 30 mathematics teachers nationwide to attend a summer math institute on discrete math (for computer science) at Ricks College in beautiful Idaho, not far from Jackson Hole and Yellowstone, Wyo.

Arthur ("Artie") Roach, formerly of Williamsburg, has joined the staff of Interchurch Medical Assistance, Inc., in New Windsor, Md. Artie will fill a new position, corporate relations assistant, and will assist the executive director in all phases of corporate donation development. Prior to this, Artie had been with the Martin Agency in Richmond, where he was also minister of music at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church. While in Williamsburg, he taught English at Tabb and Bruton high schools. Artie was also a tenor soloist at Bruton Parish Church and sang with the Williamsburg Madrigal Singers. Artie's graduate studies were at Wesley Theological Seminary and Catholic University in Washington, D.C.

After attending MCV Medical School and Vanderbilt University for residency, Elizabeth Pierce practices pediatrics in Goodlettsville, Tenn. Living in Nashville, she is married to James C. Gay, a pediatric nematologist on the faculty at Vanderbilt.

Norman Spurling is now with Automated Sciences Group, Inc., Silver Spring, Md., as the PDMS data coordinator.

"In the Heart of the Atom — Atomic Traffic Cops Love High-Speed Collisions" was the title of an article in the Daily Press, Oct. 20, 1985 (Hampton, Va.) by Warren Buck. Warren is associate professor of physics at Hampton University and is a member of the users group of the Continuous Electron Beam Accelerator Facility (CEBAF). His article discussed accelerator physics and the CEBAF (designed to probe details of nuclei) being built in Newport News this year.

Donna and Jeff Thiel will be moving back to the New York area from San Francisco about June this year for his promotion to national sales manager of Cone Mills Marketing Company, working in New York headquarters. Son Trent, 4, and golden retriever, Bandido, were pleased with the arrival of Jeff and Donna's son Carter last summer.

Early this year the Life Insurance Company of Virginia promoted R. Allen Bowen to systems manager, information management group. This new position will give Allen responsibilities equivalent to those of a vice president. He joined the company in 1984 as applications manager and was promoted to second vice president, information systems, in May 1985. Before he joined the oldest major life insurance company in the South, Allen was a computer specialist for the U.S. Army Computer Systems at Fort Lee.

Diana Deane Carr, M.D., was inducted Feb. 21 as a fellow of the American Academy of Orthopaedic Surgeons during ceremonies at the group's 53rd annual meeting at the Convention Center in New Orleans, La.

Geoff and Nancy Remine Trego had their second son, Garrett Douglas, on St. Patrick's Day 1986. Garrett's middle name, Douglas, is in memory of our classmate Doug Franks who died in New York City last January. Garrett joins his elder brother, Jamie, who is two years old.

72 Mrs. David B. Gould
(Peggy Corso)
13906 Edgcomb Court
Centreville, VA 22020

By the time this news is printed, everyone will be enjoying the summer — kids out of school, gardening, sunburn. Sometimes college days seem pretty distant, but I'm glad the good old Alumni Gazette keeps us together.

This will be old news for readers of the W&M Theatre Alumni News (since it appeared last December) but there are a good number of us involved in the world of the arts. Sally Nuernberg Budd, living in Hammond, La., is a lighting designer. She received an M.F.A. from the University of Texas and a Ph.D. from LSU. She has done summer stock, worked with local groups in Austin and Baton Rouge, consulted on lighting for high schools and night clubs and worked with TV and movie companies filming in Louisiana.

Susan Hillard Chase, in Hartsdale, N.Y., is a national training manager for the Coty division of Pfizer. Her theatrical credits include Lake Wright Theatre in Norfolk. She was the fine arts coordinator in the City of Chesapeake and executive secretary of the Federated Arts Council in Richmond. She now holds the top training position with Coty.

Jon Gilbert Fox is a photographer in Stratford, Vt., and he is the author of a new book, Vermonters, published by Countryman Press. He was a theater and dance photographer in Washington, D.C., from 1973 to 1977 for Wolf Trap Farm Park for the Performing Arts, National Folk Festival, Washington Ballet and Smithsonian Folklife Festival. Plus, Jon was a high school forensics coach in Rockville, Md.

And if any of you saw or plan to see the First National Company presentation of Cats, you'll see Calvin Remsberg playing Old Deuteronomy. Calvin is an actor with many appearances at the Kennedy Center and Wolf Trap Farm Park in Washington to his credit. He has been the director of theater at the Madeira School in McLean, Va., appeared as the Beadle in the First National Company production of "Sweeney Todd" with Angela Lansbury, filmed for cable TV, and appeared in "Oliver" and "Pirates of Penzance" with the Pittsburgh CLO. He's also made a few commercials (and is most grateful for the residuals) and is just beginning a new career in writing.

Kathleen Bacskey, active in the theater program in college, lives in Lorton, Va., and is a computer systems analyst.

The Air Force inherited at least two of our number. John Averett is a captain stationed in Alaska where he is the Area Defense Council for Eielson A.F.B. He and wife, Marguerite, eight-year-old John and five-year-old Marguerite, have been enjoying the beauty of Alaska and they visited Hawaii this year.

Richard Beard, also a captain, is a B-52 aircraft commander but is considering flying with the airlines. He and wife, Elizabeth, a former Air Force officer and nurse, have two children, Cassandra, 9, and Jennifer, 7.

Raj Richardson sent a one-liner. He's teaching ROTC at Kent State University in Ohio.

Alice Heartley Malone's daughter, Virginia, is in school three mornings a week, so Alice now has some "free" time to pursue her part-time career selling real estate in the North Shore area of Chicago. So, if any of you patronize the Jean Wright real estate agency in Winnetka, you can ask for Alice.

Joanne Bird Randa and Rich '71 live in Madison, Ala. They have two children, Mollie, 9 months, and Carrie, 6. Joanne stays busy teaching French and Italian cooking classes through the Officers' Wives Club, and she works with local Brownie and Girl Scout groups.

After 10 years with the Environmental Protection Agency, Debbie Dalton has joined a small nonprofit firm, Clean Sites, Inc., in Alexandria, Va., as director of their Community Involvement Program. She got married in 1983 — no children yet, but she and Michael have two dogs. Debbie is in her second year as president of the Order of the White Jacket, and she encourages class members who worked as waiters in the Commons, Trinkle or anywhere in town to join. OWJ funds nine scholarships for students who work at the College or in town as waiters. Thinking back 14 years (ooh, has it really been that long?), we can all remember how helpful a scholarship would have been. There are now only five OWJ members from our class so she hopes others will consider joining.

Frances Nettles Boyd and family moved to Winchester, Va., this spring. She is anxious to meet other classmates in that area.

In February, Harriett Stanley was named treasurer of the Society of the Alumni for 1986-87. She is a financial consultant and vice president of Ehrlich-Bober and Company, Inc., of New York City.

Stewart Gamage will continue as director of the Virginia Liaison Office in Washington, D.C., under Virginia Governor Gerald Baliles. She held this position in former-Governor Robb's Administration as well. An editorial in a Newport News paper described her as "the governor's eyes, ears and brains in Washington."

Its almost sounds like Christie Yeack Linnenkohl is retired, but actually she resigned as an IRS agent and is attending DePaul in the master's in taxation program. This past year she and husband, Dave, traveled to Tampa, Phoenix, San Diego, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Orlando. She asks how her freshman suitmates at Ludwell are — Cindy Viau, Patty Buckles, Donna Ireland, Martha Burton and Edie Cooke? We'd all like to know.

That's it for now. Have a nice summer.

74 Mary Miley Theobald
5 Countryside Court
Richmond, VA 23229

After reading the column for the last dozen years, Bob Dickinson finally got around to writing with some news of his own. After graduation, Bob got his Ph.D. in pharmacology at Yale and returned to the D.C. area where he works at the National Institute of Health. He is in the medicine branch, studying breast cancer and hoping to escape the perils of Gramm-Rudman. His work causes him to travel a lot, which he enjoys. Bob is still single and still drives his big old "early 70s" car. He occasionally sees other Pi Lambs (Joe Zimmerman '73 and Mike Stanton) but would like to hear from long lost friends.

GARY BARNES '70 NAMED TO GEICO POSITION

L. Gary Barnes '70 M.L.T. has been named associate treasurer of Government Employees Insurance Company (GEICO), an insurer primarily of private passenger automobiles and homes. Barnes joined GEICO as tax director in 1978 and served in that position until November 1983, when he was promoted to associate controller.

3102 Lee Street, Silver Spring, MD 20910 will find him!

A number of our classmates were recently inducted into the W&M Athletic Association's Hall of Fame: Greg Miller, Ron Martin, Bill Louv and Joe Montgomery. The first three were on the cross-country team (Ron Martin still holds the W&M records in the one mile and three mile!), and Joe Montgomery was on the football team.

I heard from Lin Kroeger who stays more than busy with her own consulting business, The Communication Link Company, Inc., and teaching part time at a local college. She is living in New Jersey I think — at least when she's not traveling to New York, Dallas, Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington, Miami, New Hampshire or Northern Virginia on business. Lin says her business is booming — she's hired a vice president and several part-time employees recently and moved to a new office. She sent news of Mary Lively, who is in either New Hampshire or Vermont, singing professionally, working with a children's museum in public relations and collecting antique clothing.

Planning a May wedding are Dr. Susan Early and Juan Pablo Otero, a vice president in the international division of American Security Bank in D.C. Susan is a resident in plastic surgery at Nassau County Medical Center in Long Island at present. Congratulations!

Anybody see the Feb. 1986 issue of Reader's Digest? On page 82 there is a short and amusing story by Deb Pulliam.

Rip Scherer is the new offensive coordinator at Georgia Tech, where he has coached since 1980. Rip is married to Michele Ragone '72.

Page Ramsey works at the Export-Import Bank of the U.S. as a loan officer in the Asia division. Might that position lead to a few trips to the Far East?

Recently wed: Judy Anne Melchiorre to Glenn Larsen in 1984. In the wedding were Janis Clark Augustine, Yvonne Casteel Carroll and Dr. Carol White Nottingham. The Larsens moved to Richmond in Oct. 1985 where Judy works as an investigative counselor for the Richmond Juvenile Court and her husband as an accountant for Best Products.

William P. Kitterman and his wife have three children: Parker, 6, Margaret, 3, and Mary, 1. He teaches behavior to disordered students and also does psychological testing with an alcohol and drug treatment center.

Fred and Janet Wingo Cousins both received their M.B.A.s from the U. of Richmond last year. That's togetherness!

Lynn Bradford-Elliott has worked for the Virginia Employment Commission as a labor market analyst for the past 11 years. She is currently the president of the Richmond chapter of the National Organization for Women, treasurer of the legal defense and education fund and treasurer of Richmond Womensbooks, a nonprofit organization that makes available women's literature. A regular at W&M football games, Lynn occupies the same seats that her father has had for about 35 years — a real family tradition.

Jim Newell, wife, Janet, daughter, Stephanie, 4, and son, David, 1, live in a small German village between Frankfurt and Luxembourg. They love it — who wouldn't? Jim is there with the Air Force to set up the first ground-launched cruise missile base in Germany.

A press release late last year named Pauline Kamen Miller director of the Career Development Center at Albany Law School of Union University. Pauline had been the director of the Career Development Center at Russell Sage College in Troy, N.Y., for several years prior to this job change. She has just completed a two-year term as president of the board of directors of the Albany YWCA and lives with her husband, Frederick A.

CHIP MASON II '76 NAMED SOVRAN VP

Walter G. (Chip) Mason II '76 has been named to the position of vice president and retail area manager for three Sovran Bank branches in Lynchburg, Va. A former assistant vice president of the real estate finance division, Mason joined the bank in 1977.

Miller, a management consultant and president of Kaleel Jamison Associates in Delmar, N.Y.

Don Garber is an accountant at Whittaker General Medical in Richmond and a volunteer treasurer for Theatre IV, a nonprofit children's and adult theater company.

Joe Inscoc is also in Richmond and associated with theater—but as an actor. Since 1978 when he began acting in dinner theaters, he has had a good acting career. Joe regrets his stage fright which prevented him from taking advantage of W&M's excellent theater department but enjoys his career on stage very much now. He has also appeared in TV commercials (Coke and Hardee's) and an MTV video. Stardom is just around the corner!

76

George W. Duke
110 Riverwood Drive
Franklin, TN 37064

This is the last column before summer, so those folks who have not been included this year will have until July 15 to get your news in for the first fall column.

CHOIR: Maureen Cash Moffett is living in Abingdon with husband, Bill, where she taught choir for eight years before retiring to raise her year-old son, Christopher. She still teaches piano privately and is choir director for three choirs at Sinking Spring Presbyterian Church. In 1983 she received her master's degree in choral conducting from Radford University.

Alice Wheeler Meilman lives in Teaneck, N.J., where she is a hospital social worker and takes care of her daughter, Anna. Rick Koonce is now living in D.C. and is a marketing rep with AT&T.

Although he was not a choir type, Jim Catlette has a musical personality and today we find him teaching history at St. John's College High School in D.C. Former band member Larry Allen studied music in Germany for a while and has now surfaced in Northern Virginia, presumably doing something musical.

Frances and Ed Walkinsky are in D.C. with daughter, Lauren. Many thanks to Frances for supplying the above information. She takes care of their three-year-old daughter, and Ed is an attorney in D.C. Ed is officially in charge of incorporating the W&M alumni band, so he is welcoming all ideas, time and $$$$$$. Their address is 7308 Statecrest Drive, Annandale, VA 22003.

Ed also has some information on those from INTERHALL: Pam and Steve Haner are in Roanoke where Steve works for the Roanoke Times as the David Broder of the Valley, covering political and Jerry Falwell issues. Pam teaches and supervises their two children. Remember who sold us refrigerators for a couple of years while we were at school? He has now graduated into pricier merchandise with a line of Mercedes Benz in Rockville, Md. Paul Jost lives in D.C. where he is still single.

Ann Worthington and Bill Kusterbeck live in Falls Church with their son. Bill is a veterinarian, having received his degree from Georgia (how 'bout them Dawgs!), and Ann works for the Navy in research. Ann's twin, Mary Worthington, and Phil Bowers are in Chicago where Mary is in the health care field and Phil works for Kemper.

Ron Bianchi obtained his law degree from Catholic University and now works for a consulting firm in D.C. Scott Castle is also a lawyer, working for the Army and most recently stationed in Hawaii.

Tricia Chogich is a salesperson for Connally in Northern Virginia. Claudia Carson is librarian at Albion College in Michigan, and Julie Phillips is still a physicist for Bell Labs in New Jersey. Pat Golden manages the Yorktown Victory Center and still lives in the 'Burg. Charlie and Charlotte Wilkes are both doctors in the Norfolk area, where Charlie is an ob-gyn with Tidewater Physicians.

Trevor Smith is now the pastor of the Kishwaukee Community Presbyterian Church in Stillman Valley, Ill. He is married and has a two-year-old boy, Colin. Michael McGrath completed his M.B.A. at UNC in May 1983 and after two years in field sales with Eli Lilly's pharmaceutical division, is now at corporate headquarters in Indianapolis.

Lynne Moravitz Butler is currently the manager of rates and tariffs for Cable and Wireless North America. She has been working for long-distance phone companies for the last seven years and received her M.S. in telecommunications from George Washington University in 1982. She is also a volunteer with the National Park Service regional archaeology program. She and her husband, David, have two dogs.

Finally, Janice Marshall has left her job in D.C. at the Visitor Program Service to go with her husband of less than one year to Philadelphia. She says she will look for a job there only after unpacking.

GAMMA PHI BETA: Katrina Kipp recently got a job with the EPA in Region 1 (Boston) and now lives in the Boston area. She is the coordinator of the Narragansett Bay (R.I.) Project, which is a program to determine and correct the sources of pollution in the bay. She is really enjoying the job and being back in the area where she went to grad school.

Louise Hicks is living in Fairfax, Va. She teaches junior-high-school biology in the Fairfax school system. She is also working on a master's degree in microbiology at George Washington U.

Jean Blackwell is a junior partner in a law firm in Indianapolis. She has a house and two dogs.

Bonnie Beckroge Elkins is married to Gary Elkins, and they live in Norfolk where Bonnie teaches elementary school. They are renovating an old house, which takes all their free time.

Judy Wascher Novack and her husband, Tom, just moved to Alabama where Tom got a job as a clinical psychologist (he recently finished a Ph.D. and residency). Judy had been teaching elementary school but hasn't since they moved. They have two children, Bryan and Laura, and are expecting a third this fall.

Molly McGhee Blasko got married to Dennis Blasko last year, and they moved to California where Dennis is in the Army. Rumor is that they are now stationed in Hong Kong.

Barb Roberts is working for Phillip Morris in Richmond in personnel and likes it.

Cathy Collins Burke and John live somewhere in Virginia. John is a lawyer, and Cathy stays home and takes care of their three children.

OTHER GREEKS: Kathy Orrick and Kay Rouse have both hit it big in the theater in New York. Katy has been a puppeteer with Jim Henson and had a stint on "Muppets Take Manhattan." She graduated from NYU with an M.F.A. in lighting and before that was production manager with the Met, New York Philharmonic and Boston Pops. Kay is a personal assistant to Glenn Close in New York and has had various volunteer roles with various groups around Lexington, Ky.

Laurie Falck Rolliseu has set up her own law practice in Woodbridge where she lives with her husband, Jack, a newly elected delegate to the Virginia General Assembly. They had their first child, John Adams Rolliseu IV, in August and currently live in a guest house on a historic estate in Woodbridge. Laurie reports having seen Kathy Kent who is a legislative assistant for the Virginia General Assembly.

COMPLEX NAMED FOR W&M ALUMNUS

Hartwick College in Oneonta, N.Y., has named a new housing quadrangle for Miller A. F. Ritchie '42M.A. Dr. Ritchie served as president for Hartwick from 1953 to 1959 when he became president of Pacific University, Forest Grove, Ore. He retired in 1970 and was named president emeritus. After retirement, he served for five years as professor of higher education at the University of Miami, Coral Gables, Fla., followed by seven years as special consultant to Marylhurst College for Lifelong Learning, Marylhurst, Ore.

Elaine Roethe Fust is also in Richmond again, following the untimely death of her husband. She is working as a legal assistant for the firm of Cowan and Owen and taking evening classes at the University of Richmond. Gene Grubbs sent me a quite interesting letter. My only problem is that I'm not quite sure which parts are for real, so I'll have to take my best guess at it. Gene, an optometrist with the U.S. Navy, is married and has a 15-year-old daughter. He is also "into running, submarine computer war games and pet schnauzers." He presently lives in Bremerton, Wash., but says that could change any day.

Finally, for the geeks, Floyd Tilley was the mystery man referred to in our last letter. Believe it or not, Floyd had tried "bungee diving" off the Crim Dell bridge while in school. Thus he was not really thrown into Crim Dell by someone else, but rather it was by his own choosing. The memory that haunts him is the fact that on the cold Feb. 22 Sunday evening of the Cat Stevens Concert in our senior year, his rubber band broke. The Flat Hat was covering Cat's concert and missed out on informing us of Floyd's mishap.

MISCELLANEA: Mac Collins and Brendan Gallaher were inducted into the W&M Athletic Hall of Fame as members of the 1973 first-ranked team in the East in cross country. Brent Zeller is not a runner, but he is "alive and well and living in Marin County, Calif."

Becky Kuykendall and Wayne Johnson are in Colonial Heights, Va., where Wayne is a minister of education at Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church. Janet Levinson Frank left her job in December to stay with son, Jeffrey, who was born in August. Before leaving work at Ft. Eustis as a writer-editor, she received her 10-year pin for federal service. And Janice Hight is still with Dun and Bradstreet as a software consultant, where she has been employed for the past eight years.

I hope everyone has a fun summer. Remember Homecoming this Fall!

78

Margaret Bowen
8713 Rolando Drive
Richmond, VA 23229

Martin Leclerc and his wife, Cary Holladay '80, live in Salisbury, Md., where Martin is vice president and branch manager of the Salisbury Dean Witter Reynolds office. He is a member of the board of directors of the Newtown Historic Association and treasurer of the Chipman Foundation, a local nonprofit organization devoted to preserving a historic church. Martin also serves as campaign manager for Robin Cockey J.D. '81 in his bid to be the youngest member of city council. Cary teaches English at the University of Maryland and at Salisbury State College. She is active in the Eastern Shore Writers' Association.

Chris Weglarz and Meg Graham were married in June 1985. They are living in Pittsburgh where Chris is working for Beecham Products as a brand manager, and Meg is employed by Shearson/Lehman American Express.

Dave Urban has moved to Falls Church, Va., where he has his own practice in family dentistry. Dave sends the following news about some of our fellow classmates:

Tom Smith and his wife, Faye, are now living in Madison, Va. Tom commutes to Charlottesville where he works as a CPA with Robinson, Cox and Farmer Associates. They have one son, Stuart.

Stu Blain and his wife, Lynne, are both attorneys in Richmond. Stu is with Maloney, Yeatts and Barr in tax law, and Lynne is with Browder, Russell Morris and Butcher in litigation law.

John Byam and his wife, Elizabeth McMath '79, daughter, Danni, and cat, Charlie, have been living in Brussels, Belgium. John is working for the international law office of Cleary, Gottlieb, Steen and Hamilton.

David Seitz received his M.D. from Southern California in 1984 and spent most nights and days the next year as an intern at County General Hospital in Los Angeles. He is currently a first-year resident in psychiatry at the V.A. hospital in San Diego. According to Dave Urban, David is living near the beach and enjoying the weather and the nurses!

Bob Dunker will complete family practice in June. He then plans to apply to seminary school.

Becky Ritte is living in the Newport News area where she attends graduate school in museum studies at Hampton University (formerly Hampton Institute). Becky is a jeweler and has worked as costume designer for a local theater. She enjoys softball and traveling.

Lee Mumpower married Deborah Estep. They have two children, Christiana and Meredith. Lee is the director/counselor of the educational talent search program at Mountain Empire Community College in Big Stone Gap, Va.

John Cooper is marketing manager for Genie Home Products in Akron, Ohio. He married Lisa Gustafson in April.

Karen Hanson Padella is living in Vienna, Va., with her children, Elisa and Christina. She is working part time as a consultant to an environmental consulting firm.

In August, Karen Lee Wilson married Tom Wiese, a recent Wharton graduate who works as a senior financial analyst for Embassy Suites Hotels. Karen was promoted to manager of Advantage Co-op (frequent flyer) Programs at American Airlines.

Mike Urbanski graduated from UVA law school in 1981. He served as law clerk for Judge Jones C. Turk, Western District U.S. Court, in 1981-82. During 1982-84, he was an associate with Vinson and Elkins in Washington. He is currently an associate with Woods, Rogers and Hazelgrove in Roanoke, Va.

Marjorie Dunbar Dufek is the controller for Harte-Hanks Direct Marketing in Norfolk, Va. She is pursuing an M.B.A. at Old Dominion University.

Harriet Love lives in Columbia, S.C., where she is an insurance consultant for PMS, a computer software division of Seibels-Bruce.

Julia King is working on a Ph.D. in American civilization at the University of Pennsylvania. She is also teaching part time at St. Mary's College in Maryland.

Bob Fania married Lisa Leone '79 in Nov. 1984. Bob received a master's in architecture from Carnegie-Mellon in May 1983. He is a project manager for Preiss Breismeister Architects in Stamford, Conn. Lisa received her M.B.A. from Fordham University in May 1984. She is cash manager for Pitney Bowes Credit Corporation in Norwalk, Conn. They reside in New Rochelle, N.Y.

Robert and Sheryl Lukasik Bass are the proud parents of a new daughter, Jessica, born in December. Robert's practice is going well. He is also an active board member on the Mid-Atlantic Vision Service Plan Board. Sheryl is active in the League of Women Voters, the auxiliary to the Virginia Optometric Association and the Manassas Junior Women's Club. In February, the family attended a five-day convention in Atlanta. Jessica is already becoming a well-traveled young lady!

Carolyn Good Parker graduated from MCV School of Nursing in 1980. She is working part time as an intensive care nurse at Retreat Hospital in Richmond, Va. She and her husband, George, recently added a second son to their family, Jonathan, born in January.

'84 ALUMNUS HEADS DARTMOUTH GROUP

Patty Zillian '84 has been elected president of the Student Board of the Amos Tuck School of Business at Dartmouth College. Now in her second year of the two-year graduate program, she is the second woman and first Virginian ever to be accorded the honor. The Amos Tuck School is the oldest graduate school of management in the United States.

80

Pam Lunny
43 Travis Avenue
Stamford, CT 06905

Hello! I hope you can forgive me for missing the last deadline — it's been a busy time for me lately at work, since I recently assumed my new position after spending six months in the internal audit department. I am now officially the manager of corporate accounting. It may sound rather dull to some, but it has been interesting thus far. Who knows what the future may bring?!

I have quite a bit of news, a lot of which came through the Society of the Alumni and from Homecoming in a rather abbreviated form. It seems as if the individual letters aren't coming as often as they used to. Please, please, continue writing. I'll do my best to pass on your news as soon as I can. If you have news of classmates and friends, send that along as well.

Dana Dyer wrote with news of a big event in her life — last June, she married Richard Schalk. Dana and Richard are now living in Burke, Va., where she is a regional marketing officer for First Virginia Banks, Inc.

Lori Matthews Brown writes from New Orleans, home of the Mardi Gras. I was supposed to extend an invitation on Lori's behalf to stop in and visit if you were in the area. I apologize for the tardiness of the invitation — maybe next year? Lori and her husband, Tom, have a beautiful son, Tray, who was one year old in December. This year, Lori expected that Tray would be a bit more active at Christmas since last year he was only two weeks old. Lori works in the land department of the Eastern Gulf Coast Regional Office of Transco Exploration Company and loves her work because it always provides plenty of excitement.

Lori and Tom had some visitors for the World's Fair in 1984 — Mary Devore and Kim Suddith '81. Since that time, Mary has gotten married. Kim is teaching school in Virginia Beach. While at the fair, they ran into Eleanor Andrews who had recently graduated from law school and begun work at a law firm in New Orleans. Eleanor has also married since that time. Unfortunately, I don't have any more details. Lori mentioned that she sees Sharon King Lyon '79 and her husband, Bob, quite often. Both Sharon and Bob are geologists for Amoco in New Orleans.

Sarah Peyton Weiser wrote with the news that she had finally completed the long path through graduate school. Sarah received her Ph.D. in sociology from Purdue University this past summer. Her area of research was health care and the health care delivery system; Sarah wrote her dissertation on adolescents' use of the available health services. Her husband, Bill, was to have completed his Ph.D. in analytical chemistry in March. Now that school is finished, Sarah and Bill are looking for jobs. Although they would like to come back East, they may stay in the Midwest since that's where most of the job opportunities appear to be.

You may have heard from either Sarah or Bill this past year. They've been busy as class agents for the W&M Annual Fund. It was a job that they enjoyed immensely. In between everything, they had the opportunity to take an extended vacation last June in the Southeast. Among the places they visited were Nashville, Churchill Downs, Chattanooga, Atlanta, Savannah, Stone Mountain, The Cloister at Sea Island in Georgia, Knoxville and Asheville. They also made a stop in Cincinnati where they visited Beth Barnes.

Sue Butler Niblock and her husband, Tom, were recently reassigned to Jakarta, Indonesia, where Tom is an economics officer at the embassy. Sue and Tom received this assignment after completing their tour with the State Department in Malabo, Equatorial Guinea. Laura Kelsey Rhodes graduated from the University of Michigan Law School last August. When I heard from Laura, she was planning a move to Capitol Hill, where she is working for a judge on the D.C. Court of Appeals.

ALUMNUS TO HEAD HEALTH SERVICES

Dr. Robert B. Stroube '68, former assistant commissioner for the office of Health Protection and Environmental Management for the Commonwealth of Virginia, has been named director and administrator of Public Health Services in Chesterfield and Powhatan Counties. A native of Newport News, Dr. Stroube received his masters degree in public health from Johns Hopkins University and his M.D. from the Medical College of Virginia.

Martha Sedwick Mavredes and her husband, James, are the proud parents of Stephanie Anne, born this past October. Congratulations! Stephanie weighed in at a healthy 8 lbs., 14 1/2 ozs. Martha wrote while on maternity leave from the auditor of public accounts for the state of Virginia, where she is an audit supervisor. Good luck going back to work, Martha!

William and Mary had two representatives at the Officer Indoctrination School at the Naval Education and Training Center in Newport, R.I. Both Navy Lt. j.g. Rob Lyden and Navy Ensign Victoria Shelton completed the six-week course. The schedule for the course sounds quite rigorous. It covered personnel administration, naval history, military law, close order drill and various other military subjects, as well as application of their respective civilian professions within the Navy.

News of a few marriages: Nancy Keller married Randy Bryant in April 1985. Barbara Anne Harris married Larry Clayton in Oct. 1984. Barbara Anne and Larry met at Southeastern Virginia Training Center where they both work.

David Johnson and Stephanie Noffsinger '81 were married in 1984. They recently bought a house in Silver Spring, Md. Both Dave and Stephanie work in Bethesda — Dave for IBM and Stephanie for Electronic Data Systems.

Stacey Isaacs wrote with the news of Sandra Proffitt's marriage to John Heard, a law graduate of the University of Richmond. Stacey was the maid of honor for Sandra. W&M, specifically Lodge 6, was well represented; Beth Merchant, Ann Patterson, Suzie Piedmont and Carol Humphries and her husband, Kyle, attended the wedding.

Kay Jones and Carl Meyer announced the birth of their first child, Matthew. Congratulations! I think Carl has Matthew already enrolled at W&M in the class of 2007! Kay has retired from teaching in the classroom to supervising Matthew's learning at home. Carl is working for Merrill Lynch in D.C. as an account executive.

Jeanne Lull and John Hopke had their first child last October — a new son, John Ford. Congratulations to the proud parents! Jeanne was working for Central Fidelity Banks, Inc., and John is manager of computer systems at Magoon/Guernsey Architects in Williamsburg. John received his master's degree in architecture from Virginia Tech in 1983.

Gray Newman is living in Washington, D.C., where he is an attorney with Arent, Fox, Kintner, Plotkin and Kahn. Howard Kelin is practicing law in Richmond with the firm of Hunton and Williams, after graduating from the University of Virginia School of Law. Baltimore is also lucky enough to have a W&M graduate: Stephen Carney is practicing commercial real estate law with the firm of Venable, Buetjer and Howard. Stephen also noted that he purchased a sailboat and successfully completed his first season of sailing.

According to the W&M Historian, Brett Roach was a candidate for the M.A. in history at George Washington University; I believe he's probably completed the requirements by now. Brett also finds time to work at Marymount College as assistant to the registrar.

Cary Holladay Leclerc is currently teaching English at the University of Maryland, Eastern Shore and at Salisbury State College. She has been extremely busy with her writing; in the last year, Cary has had a poem, two stories and several articles published. She also found time to give a lecture on Sinclair Lewis to the Lower Delaware Library Association. I hear that Cary is planning to write a book on historic Salisbury this summer (a little advance publicity from her husband, Martin Leclerc '78), so be on the lookout! Martin is the vice president and branch manager of the Dean Witter Reynolds office in Salisbury. He is active in several local organizations, including the Chipman Foundation and the Newtown Historic Association. Martin is also the campaign manager for Robin Cockey Marshall-Wythe '81 in his bid for a seat on the city council. If successful, Robin would be the youngest member of the council. Good luck to both Robin and Martin!

Ann Dalton is working for the Bank of Virginia in Richmond as a cash management officer. Ellen Foody was promoted to audit manager in the Philadelphia office of Arthur Young. Ellen has been with Arthur Young since graduation. She is also active in the South Street Dance Company. Doug Ackerson has been studying international management in Brussels. Doug plans to finish his degree at Boston University.

Kathleen Overby is beginning her third year as pastor of the Greensville United Methodist Charge in Emporia. Recently, she was ordained an elder in the United Methodist Church and received into full connection in the Virginia Annual Conference of the UMC. Helen Richmond was promoted to the position of director of accounting for the Mason Hirst Companies. She now lives in Centreville in a new townhouse. Several W&M Indians helped Helen christen her new home — Pat Curren, Bruce Eills and Cincy Crampsey. Helen also mentioned that she participated in the United States One-Day — 100-Mile Endurance Ride last year. Lucille Nisca Shufflebarger also wrote with the news of a new house in Alexandria.

Last fall, W&M offered a Career Speaker Series. One of the speakers for the seminar titled "Careers in Journalism" was Brice Anderson. Brice is a copy editor with the Richmond News Leader. Rosemary Harold is presently working for the Miami Herald, where she covers theater and other cultural events. After completing her master's degree in journalism at the University of Missouri, Rosemary was editor of the Missouri State Teachers Association magazine and freelance drama critic for the Columbia Daily Tribune. She then moved on to the Austin, Texas, American Statesman, where she was the entertainment editor. Rosemary seems to really enjoy the Miami Herald. She also won an education writers' award for a story on the children of alcoholics; the prize included a trip to New York to see "Barnum."

Patty Pazoga Todd was recently named product developer for the reproductions program of Historic Charleston Foundation. Before that, Patty was responsible for product development for nine retail outlets for the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. Her job encompassed various phases of development from researching product authenticity to the design of the packaging. At the Historic Charleston Foundation, one of Patty's first jobs was the coordination of the Historic Charleston reproductions catalog.

George Stukenbroeker was recently awarded United Press International's Virginia Journalist of the Year for 1985 for his work on a series on espionage in the Tidewater region (prior to the Walker case), the ten-year aftermath of the kepone poisoning of the James River and problems faced by aging military veterans in Phoebus. George wrote the series while a special projects reporter at the Daily Press/Times-Herald, where he also covered police activities and the courts in Hampton. In November, he became a staff writer for the Richmond Times-Dispatch in their Williamsburg office. Congratulations on the award, George!

Lesley Brown Heslop writes from Nürnberg, West Germany, where she and her husband, Capt. Jeffery Heslop, are stationed.

COLLEGE COSTS INCREASE 5.5 PERCENT

The cost of attending William and Mary will increase by 5.5 percent — to $5,754 for in-state students — and by seven percent — to $9,986 for out-of-state students — for the 1986-87 academic year. Tuition will go up by 10.9 percent for Virginia students and by 9.8 percent for out-of-state students, but room and board costs will rise by only 1.5 percent, moderating the overall increase. The Board of Visitors approved the new fees at its April meeting.

Jeffery, who is a graduate of Davidson College, completed his M.B.A. at William and Mary last August. Bill Childs works for Hallmark Cards in Kansas City as a product marketing manager. Helen Robbins is living in sunny San Diego where she has been a business administrator for TRW for three and a half years.

Susan Austin graduated from Marshall-Wythe in 1984 and is now practicing law with Semmer, Bowen and Semmer in Baltimore. Lisa Russell is assistant dean of admissions and financial aid at Roanoke College and training for the position of director of financial aid. Before this job, Lisa worked solely in admissions at Roanoke College. It sounds as if Lisa has been busy.

I have a few more marriages to report: Mark Schalk married Sherri McCandless '79 in Sept. 1983. Mark and Sherri are enjoying their new home in Centreville. Sherri is a custom decorator for J. C. Penney, and Mark is the director of finance and administration for Access Engineering Corporation, a start-up telecommunications firm located in Reston.

John Dickinson married Mary Lee Hammond '81. They are living in Durham, N.C. where John is a research technician at the Duke Eye Center and Mary Lee teaches eighth-grade math in the Durham school system. John completed his M.S. degree in marine biology at UNC-Wilmington last year.

Stuart Burnett married Cynthia Davis in May 1981 and now resides in New Kent. Stuart works for Amdahl Corporation in Richmond as a hardware/software engineer on large computers, while Cyndi teaches physical education and coaches gymnastics for the New Kent school system.

If you've been back to the government department at William and Mary, you'll notice that there's a new face in the department, that of a fellow classmate — Clay Clemens. After completing his graduate degree at the Fletcher School in Boston, Clay spent one and a half years in Bonn, West Germany, doing research for his thesis. He is now a professor at the College, teaching U.S. foreign policy. Clay now has a chance to see things from a different light; he offered a few bits of advice in a recent Flat Hat issue. Overall, it sounds as if Clay enjoys teaching and is glad to be back in "Billsburg."

Kathy Graham is the technical director for the Washington Ballet and, before that, spent three summers working for the Park Service at Wolf Trap and a year as facility manager at The Barns of Wolf Trap. She recalls her experiences in the W&M theater department as providing a wide variety of exposures and the ability to work with a high caliber of faculty and students. Kathy Brown is a student at the Eastern Virginia Medical School in the class of '88. She and her husband, Jack '81, own and operate a small chain of convenience stores — the One-Stop Food Stores — two of which are in Williamsburg.

Greg Terman received his Ph.D. in physiological psychology from UCLA where he studied on a predoctoral university fellowship. Greg spent six months as a visiting fellow at Australian National University during his graduate work. He was selected for a Ph.D. to M.D. program at the University of Miami Medical School. After two years of intensive medical training, Greg will graduate with an M.D. His area of research is the physiological and psychological bases for pain.

Carol Ann Hilton has accepted a new job as the director of annual giving for the School of Engineering and Applied Science at Columbia University. Carol Ann and Leslie Fouts are two of the driving forces behind the New York Alumni Chapter. Constance Foran wrote from Washington where she and her husband, A. Robertson Hanckel, are stationed with the Navy. They married in May of 1985, and both are lieutenants.

'68 ALUMNUS TO COMMAND ATTACK SQUADRON

J. Michael Johnson '68, a commander in the United States Navy, will assume command of Attack Squadron Eighty-six at Naval Air Station Cecil Field in Jacksonville, Fla., in June. Now the executive officer of the squadron, Commander Johnson has lived in Jacksonville for the past 15 years and flies the A7 light attack single seat jet airplane. His squadron has 12 Corsairs and over 250 officers and enlisted personnel. It is deployed overseas onboard the USS Nimitz, a nuclear powered aircraft carrier based out of Norfolk Va.

Well, that's about all the news that I have for now. Be sure to write and let me know what you've been up to. Can't wait to hear from you! Until next time, relax and enjoy the summer!

82

Laura Brewer
1401 61st Street South
St. Petersburg, FL 33707

This is to be the last issue of the '82 class notes I'll be authoring. It's been great keeping in touch with you all over the past three — who believes it — years since we graduated. While I'll definitely miss getting all the mail, I look forward to seeing you at Homecoming or around the country in years to come. Law school is taking its toll on my free time — not to mention my writing hand — and besides, I think it's time for a change. I hope you agree and will give the new class reporter much to write about over the coming years. I sure will miss getting letters.

I just found out that Linda Lynch is across the Bay from me in Tampa, Fla.! She moved from sunny L.A. to sunny Florida, and I look forward to getting in touch with her after finals are over on May 8. I've been relegated to a lowly "snowbird" (tourist/newcomer) again in Florida, and would love to hear from other W&M "natives" (minimum seven-year residency in Florida) in the area. I know Martha Dickens was stationed in Florida and is a second lieutenant in the Air Force. Greg Nelson already practices law in Miami. Any more W&Mer's in the state?

In an equally warm area of the sunbelt, Tom and Dana Disque Hearn are enjoying newlywed life in Dallas. Dana wrote of her nostalgic reunion with Jan Howarth Perkins who visited there on leave from Navy pilot school! The Hearn wedding seems to have been a reunion itself as their wedding party guests included Patti James, Beth Comstock Manderfield, Kim Pine Burke and Meg Hunter. Jim Newton, Bill Scott and Greg Miller were there for the groom. Also present for a "pledge-dance-like" group picture were Beth Alford Wolfe, Shireen Hayes, Stacey Alexander, Buddy and Sherri Phillips, Doug Cochrane, Doug Martini, Mark Patterson, Doug Borden, Rob Mills and the list goes on and on! Patti James caught the bouquet, is now engaged to a fellow lawyer and will be married in June!

Lucy Thackara married Kevin Kennedy in April of last year and is beginning her third year with ROLM Corporation as an account representative on the "IBM Team." Kevin Doyle was "inspired" by the last issue of the Alumni Gazette to write and let us know he's getting married to Jacque LeTendre in September. Jacque transferred from W&M in 1980, but I remember Kevin being smitten even then! Kevin is completing a post-master's degree in counseling psychology at JMU. He is also an assistant to the intramural sports director there (which doesn't surprise me either).

After marriage, you've got to have a place to live. Amy Ross Crane and her husband just bought a 140-year-old house! She is an accounting manager for Delta Queen Steamboats in New Orleans.

Besides Jan Howarth and Martha Dickens, 1st Lieutenant Georgina L. Murray received her parachutist badge from U.S. Army Infantry School in Georgia and joins the ranks of W&M military graduates at the head of their class. She is at Ft. Meade, Md.

One of the greatest aspects of being class reporter has been my vantage point in watching the Class of '82 build careers and families since graduation. We're a very special group of people, and, as I think past and present columns indicate, we're going places!

Christian and Evelyn Andree have moved from Italy to the south of England, near Portsmouth. Evelyn says it reminds her of Tidewater, Va.! Both Andrees are working for IBM — Christian as a production controller and Evelyn as an asset accountant. Evelyn's only complaint is of the "ridiculous pub hours." Al Kloeden has no complaints about his legal education at Catholic University. He won a place in the oldest moot court competition in America. Frank Robert Jr. is an assistant to the dean of admissions at William and Mary but is contemplating law school. (Frank, I've got an Emmanuel's study outline for every subject you need, available after May 8!) John Fleming is working on his Ph.D. in social psychology at Princeton. I hope he's still finding time to tip a few at their local "Dirty Deli" between classes.

Sandra Cummings is enjoying the Grand Canyon out west where she is working as a mental health aide before going back to school full time this fall to get a special education degree. Susan Meredith just bought a townhouse in Norfolk where she is project manager/supervisor in her family's construction business. She supervises six subcontractors and a construction crew of three to 10 people (mainly men!) in the renovation of old apartment buildings. Also, her family recently added Maple Hall to their collection of historic country inns. It sounds like a romantic place to spend a weekend away from the modern world.

David Crank, having completed a graduate degree in design from Carnegie-Mellon is the scenic/costume designer at Theatre Virginia. Bev Carson is now a Syntex medical representative in Fairfax, Va. Her company sent a two-page press release out about Bev — she must have aced their training program (and the three-week trip to San Francisco at the end of it probably was a great incentive!)

Patty Loisch recently completed her M.A. in occupational therapy and is working in Philadelphia. Laura Akerheim has switched from IBM data processing to IBM product marketing and loves it. She also wrote to make sure I knew that "sungoddess" Linda Lynch had moved to Tampa.

Neal O'Mara, after graduating from the Nassau County Police Academy, is now a "flatfoot" on Long Island. (O.K. who really knows what that means!) Jeff Barham recently entered a Jesuit candidacy program. He is taking a leave of absence from MCV to do so. He hopes to incorporate the health sciences into his ministry with the Catholic Church. Grace Brook is in her third year of med school and "loves" the 5 a.m. - 1 a.m. surgical rotation. She's keeping her fingers crossed that she'll be able to spend part of 1986 in England doing a psych clerkship. She also hopes to catch the W&M Choir on their trip next cross-country or overseas tour, as she misses singing with them.

And, last but not least, the latest "baby alumni" news — Dave and Lauri McAvoy Hissey have a new son, appropriately named David McAvoy. Congrats!

It's been fun writing on behalf of the class, and I wish you all the continued success and good fortune I've been reading about in your letters. From here at Stetson U. (where Joan Veccioli has three weeks left before she graduates and I have three years yet to go). I wish you the best. Keep in touch, okay? And I'll do the same.

84

Joanna Lee Ashworth
4 Fenwood Place
Yardley, PA 19067

Wedding bells continue to ring. . . . What a wonderful wedding in Carlisle, Pa. Linda Reynard married Kord Basnight '85. The ceremony was romantic, and I was surprised at the variety of people there. A couple

TOUR GUIDE ALUMNI PROGRAM

An effort is underway to establish a program for alumni who served as tour guides for the undergraduate admission program at William and Mary. "We would like to establish an alumni guide program to help alumni keep in touch with us," said organizer Jill Rathke, a sophomore guide at the College. "We are compiling a list and are hoping to begin a newsletter." Interested alumni are asked to contact the Office of Admission, Tour Guide, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. 23185, or call Jill at (804) 229-9394 or 253-4223.

from Hawaii even brought Kord and Linda some leis. There were guests from Japan, Germany and, of course, William and Mary.

Mary Obata is working as a staff accountant for Peat Marwick and Mitchell. She lives with Suzanne Sweeney and Meg Hunter, who is planning an August wedding to Bill Scott. Diane Hawley, Ed Grisson '85 and Alison Hawley, as the maid of honor, served as attendants. (By the way, Alison caught the bouquet!)

Martha Feathers '85 sang at the ceremony, as did the groom himself. More singing at the reception was a highlight at the wedding. The Sigma Chi serenaded Linda with "The Sweetheart of Sigma Chi." Joining in on the singing were Dave Varner '86, Mike Johnson '86, Rob Cobol '85, who is planning his December wedding to Patty Erb '85, Dave Maxwell '86, Chad Gunoe '86, Steve Richards '86 (whose famous car, FiFi "died" on the trip up), Paul Calamita '87, Corey Richards '87 and J. P. Fitzpatrick.

Also enjoying the festivities were Mike Cousins, Laurie Kearns '85, Beth Henry '85, Laurie Raymond, Alison Horrocks, Rietta Stoneman '85, Brad Angevine, Dan Head '85, Howard Bos and Kathy '85 (married in April).

Both Doug Anderson '85 and Drew Dolson took some time out from law school and made the trip up from Marshall-Wythe. After a wonderful reception, Kord and Linda spent a week in Jamaica. Kord will be attending law school in the fall, and Linda plans to continue teaching.

Alyne Rucker wrote of her April wedding plans. She married Michael J. Faughnan, her high school best friend's older brother. Ginger Abbott was a bridesmaid in the double-ring ceremony in Vienna, Va. Michael's father is an Episcopal priest and officiated at the ceremony. Michael and Alyne planned a honeymoon in the states before leaving for Germany.

Weddings in the works include Linda Ritter and Joe Carroll, set for May in Northern Virginia. Rob Haeslip and Lori Selden planned to wed in April in Charlottesville. Liz Sommers and John Ottoway are planning their September wedding. Scott Anderegg and Lisa Krizan '85 are busy making plans for their August wedding in Pittsburgh, Pa. Julia Scarborough '86 will serve as an attendant.

Barbie Jerome and Rob Marchbank were married last April and are living in Williamsburg. Rob works for Ferguson Enterprises, and Barbie works for Badische Chemical Company. Karen Smith married Kenny Martin '83 last April and they are also living in Williamsburg. Karen works for the Williamsburg Hilton as a conference coordinator. Susan Allen married Bob Burnett, and they currently reside in Arlington.

I received a note from Sharon Jones, who will be working in Radnor, Pa., for the summer on a legal clerk program with Sun Company. She'll also be busy planning her September wedding to Dave Bumgardner, who graduated from Dickinson Law School last year. Sharon will be graduating from Dickinson in May of 1987.

Karen Stone Slothouber writes that she married Louis Paul Slothouber '83 in Williamsburg last September. Louis is in the computer science Ph.D. program at William and Mary, and Karen is working for System Development Corporation as a systems programmer.

Greg Briscoe and Carla Connette were married in June of last year. Greg is finishing his second year of medical school at the University of Kentucky College of Medicine. Carla, who is from Lexington, Ky., is finishing her first year of medical school there.

Margi Gula sends a big hello to everyone from Switzerland! After graduation, Margi worked in costume for CW for a year. Since last July, she has been working in Zurich as an "au pair." She takes care of an adorable 1-1/2-year-old boy and travels on the weekends. She has seen most of Switzerland and a glimpse of France and Germany. She says she'll miss Switzerland when she returns to the states this summer.

LAW STUDENT NAMED DRAPERS' SCHOLAR

Gregg H. Lehman of Fort Worth, Tex., a student at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, has been selected as the 1986-87 Drapers' Scholar. Lehman's selection reestablishes an international exchange program between the College and the Worshipful Company of Drapers of London, which existed from 1958 through 1980. A third-year student at Marshall-Wythe, Lehman will do a year of post-graduate law study this fall at Queen Mary College of the University of London. The Drapers' Company will select a student from Queen Mary College to study at William and Mary, also beginning in the fall of 1986.

After returning from their honeymoon in Germany, Catherine Luman writes that she and Matthew are enroute to Pensacola, Fla., for Marine Flight School.

Lt. Chris Sell is also in Germany. He is working for the U.S. Army as an infantry platoon leader. He is stationed at Ferris Barracks in Erangen, Germany. The hours are long, but Chris says he is learning a lot about himself and others. He finds the work very rewarding. He has also had time for fun — skiing in the southern Bavarian and Austrian Alps. He has also brushed up on his German. Chris writes that Lt. Doug McKay '83, a fellow PiKA, married a Dutch girl recently. Lt. Linda Ives also tied the knot last month, in Hawaii. In Chris' words, "they are going down like bowling-pins!"

2nd Lt. Melanie Johnson has received the parachutist badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School in Fort Benning, Ga. Her training included jumping from 34-foot and 250-foot towers and a night jump as well! Melanie is scheduled to serve with the 84th Ordnance in West Germany.

2nd Lt. Paul Forgrave Jr. and 2nd Lt. Harold W. Reeves are members of the 60th Infantry at Fort Lewis, Wash., and are participating in the multi-national peacekeeping force and observers (MFO) in the Sinai. The unit will provide support to the primary U.S. military contingent that is operating posts and reconnaissance patrols along the Sinai peninsula. Paul is currently a platoon leader, and Harold is serving as an intelligence officer.

Kelly McDaniel is living and working in Williamsburg. She is currently the coordinator of the Association for Retarded Citizens for the Greater Williamsburg Area. John Kellogg is keeping busy back at the ol' College of Knowledge. He is teaching and coaching at W&M. Also in Williamsburg is Douglas Schmidt. He is finishing his master's degree in sociology at W&M. This will be his sixth year in the 'Burg. Who believes it? Doug plans to continue his education by pursuing a Ph.D. at either Harvard, Yale or Princeton.

Jim Lonick is in graduate school studying sociology and hopes to teach after completing his master's. Adam Frankel is doing graduate work at the University of Hawaii.

I ran into Jeanne O'Keefe and Sonia Sessoms at the George Mason basketball game in January. They are both working for the Department of the Army. Jeanne is a management analyst intern for the U.S. Army Manpower and Documentation Agency. She traveled to Texas in February to conduct a manpower survey. Sonia is on an internship for the Criminal Investigation Command and is getting ready to travel to the southwestern states as a member of a review team. I also visited with Kate Unteidt during the game. She is working as a junior analyst and industrial hygiene technician for Science Applications International Corporation, and she loves it.

Kate, Sonia and Jeanne caught me up on some other William and Mary friends. Robin Haley and her husband, Kevin, are living in Richmond. Jeanne Coppola is engaged to John Dennis. Anita Moon married Russell Rhee in California. Penny Oglesby is working for the Peace Corps in Kenya, Africa.

Chris Kosnick is also serving in the Peace Corps in Zaire, Africa. Will Gimpel is with the Peace Corps, in Ghana, Africa. Hanif Moledina recently flew over from Africa for a visit. He is living in Nairobi, Kenya, working in the family business exporting coffee and tea. He says that college was a vacation compared to the real world!

STUDENT WINS TIME COMPETITION

An essay on the importance of fluency in a foreign language has won for Christina Luman, a junior at William and Mary, the honor of being named one of Time magazine's college achievement winners for 1986. Miss Luman received a certificate of merit from Time and was honored at a banquet in New York City along with 100 other recipients of the achievement award. A French major, she spent last year in Montpellier, France, enrolled in William and Mary's foreign studies program.

Linda Sturm is working in the Peace Corps in Costa Rica as a forestry extensionist until Feb. 1987.

I hear that Carol Diane Walyko is living in Herndon and working as a computer programmer for TRW. Tim Steeg is also in Northern Virginia, working as a photo editor for the Northern Virginia Sun. Elle Dahoney is working at an advertising agency in the D.C. area. Mei Jeanne Wagner is also working for an advertising firm in Tysons Corner. Betsy Dolan is a programmer at Renaissance Federal System, a government programming contract-work firm in Old Town Alexandria. Dana Purdy is employed by the government in Langley, Va. On the side, she is keeping busy with bicycling and skiing.

On the side, David Macauley is keeping busy writing. I hope that you all read his recent article in the William and Mary Alumni Gazette Magazine, January/February issue. His article was entitled "The Animal Rights Movement: Pythagoras' Heirs or the New Luddites of the Left?"

The other morning I ran into Pat Vaughn on the metro. He is working for the Wyatt Company downtown. Also working at Wyatt is Carla Tadem '85, who is employed as an analyst. She is living at home and saving for her new car.

Andrew Applewhite is employed as a teacher in the New York City public school system. He teaches English at the high school level. John W. Matheson Jr. is with the copier division of Copy Data Group in Virginia Beach. Ellen Bumgardner has joined the staff of United Virginia Mortgage Corporation as a mortgage loan processor. A little farther south, Edward M. Foster is enrolled as a graduate student in economics at the University of North Carolina. He says that he continues to masquerade as a productive member of society.

Daniel Simon writes that he is working in a real estate internship with ERA in Nashville, Tenn. This summer he plans to sell books with the Southwestern Company and in the fall will be starting business school. Last I heard, Christopher Myers was not yet working in the real world, but was hiking on the Appalachian Trail from Georgia to Maine and trekking in Kashmir.

Mr. and Mrs. David Marlowe write that they are residing in Pacific Grove, Calif. David is studying Arabic at the Defense Language Institute in Monterey, and Mary is working as a personnel assistant at the Lodge in Pebble Beach. They are both attending graduate school at night, working toward their master's degrees in human resource management and development. They had a nice Christmas in Virginia with their families.

I ran into Beth McGaffey recently and she told me that Susan Conn is working in New York. She is employed as an editors' assistant at Cambridge Press. Susan has been having lots of fun with Michelle Martin '83, Heather McDonald '85 and Theresa Thon, who are all in New York as well.

K. Page Larson has recently accepted a position with Mary Ball Washington Museum and Library, Inc. She will be the new curator, and it is a coincidence that Page will be working with a fellow W&M grad, Mrs. Ann Lewis Burrows '51, who is the executive director.

Valentines Day provided for a big gathering of William and Mary alumni in Rosslyn, Va., at the Westpark Hotel. Greg Park '83 and his fellow Rehoboth Beach housemates threw a big bash. I ran into George Crusier, who was wild as usual. Mark Ford '83, who is working for Coopers and Lybrand, was dancing up a storm, as was Haley Mace.

St. Patrick's Day was also a big day for W&M alumni. The William and Mary Choir performed in Reston, Va. I ran into Liz Beales and Bill Joyner, who especially enjoyed the part of the concert when choir alumni joined

COCHRANES MAKE $150,000 GIFT TO W&M

Mr. and Mrs. J. Harwood Cochrane of Rockville, Va., have made a gift of $150,000 to William and Mary. The gift will be used in three different areas of the university, with one-third to support areas of most pressing need in the School of Business Administration, one-third to help fund the master plan of the campus, and one-third for acquisitions by the Committee to Furnish the President's House. A native of Goochland County, Cochrane is chairman and chief executive officer of Overnite Transportation Co. of Richmond, one of the nation's major trucking companies, with over 6,000 employees and operations in 33 states. He was a recipient of the 1982 Business Medallion for William and Mary's School of Business Administration.

in on singing "Shenandoah" and the Alma Mater, too!

Tim Meell sent me a great letter telling me about his W&M buddies. Hilton Head, S.C., is the home of Mario Shaffer, who is working for Russell E. Browne and Associates. He is selling timeshares, quartershares and full-ownership properties. Mario is living with Chris Huges. Dave Murphy continues to be an aspiring stockbroker with E. F. Hutton. Mike Murphy is climbing the corporate ladder with Ferguson Enterprises. He was recently transferred to the D.C. area. Guy Crittenden is studying at the Art Institute of Atlanta. Ray and Suzanne Bisczat are not far away in Augusta, Ga. They have recently bought a house and Ray is doing well with Procter and Gamble.

ZAMORA ELECTED ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT

Dr. Mario D. Zamora, who is on leave from William and Mary's anthropology department as Visiting Fulbright/Hays Professor of Anthropology at the University of Trondheim in Norway, has been elected president of the Virginia Social Science Association for the coming year. The last William and Mary professor to serve as president of the association was Dr. W. Warner Moss, who served in 1949-50.

That's about all for now. After a winter with a little skiing and lots of charades and trivial pursuit games by the fire, I am definitely ready for the summer and lots of sailing and cookouts. Alumni events will be fun this summer, so keep your eye out for them. Don't forget to let me know how things are going in your area. Hope to hear from you soon!

Vital Statistics

BIRTHS

To: John Gravely '64, a daughter, Anna Elisabeth, April 12, 1985. Fourth child.
To: Ronni Green (Cristol) '68, a daughter, Kate Allison, Jan. 21, 1985. Second child.
To: Jim Newsom '70, a daughter, Diana Grace, April 4, 1985.
To: Jeff Thiel '70, a son, Carter, Aug. 13, 1985. Second child, second son.
To: Anne Bedford (Tamea) '71 and Conrad D. Tamea '70, a daughter, Laura Lee, Nov. 2, 1984. Third child, second daughter.
To: Judy Newcomer (Birkett) '71 and Kenneth Birkett '70, a son, Christopher Reed, Nov. 25, 1984. Second child, first son.
To: Michelle A. Trahan '71, a son, Paul Trahan Taylor, Dec. 30, 1985. First child.
To: Gail McLawhon (Snow) '72 and Donald Franklyn Snow J.D. '72, a daughter, Allison, Nov. 23, 1985. Third child, first daughter.
To: Frances Nettles (Boyd) '72, a son, Leslie James, Jan. 14, 1986. Second son.
To: Judith Sisson (Hynson) '72, a son, Jay Michael, Aug. 22, 1985. Second son.
To: Donna Bailey (Miles) '73, a son, Taylor Reid, May 24, 1985. Second child, first son.
To: Beth Bliler (Kenagy) '73 and Robert T. Kenagy J.D. '77, a son, Robert Franklin, Feb. 25, 1986. Third child, first son.
To: Edwin Roberts Downum '73, a daughter, Brittney Charlene, Dec. 6, 1985. Third child.
To: Colleen Whiting (McCall) '73, an adopted son, Lee, born Aug. 17, 1984.
To: Betsy Behringer (Butts) '74 and John Walker Butts '74, a son, Josiah Tyler, Dec. 16, 1985. First child.
To: Teresa Cousins (Shankman) '74, a daughter, Laura Susan, May 23, 1985. Second daughter.
To: James C. Kennedy '74, M.B.A. '76, a daughter and a son, Kelly Jacqueline, June 10, 1983, and James Alexander II, June 23, 1985.
To: Jim Newell '74, a son, David Ryan, Nov. 29, 1984. Second child, first son.
To: Richard Dean Orrock '74, a daughter, Janet Ellen, March 24, 1986. First child.
To: Linda DeBolt (DuBose) '75, a son, David Scott, Jan. 24, 1986. Second child, second son.
To: Martha Elmquist (Sherman) '75 and John C. Sherman '75, a son, Joseph Very, April 2, 1986. Second child, second son.
To: Christine McKechnie '75, a son, Conor Daniel Altier, Feb. 12, 1986. Second child, first son.
To: Jane Pusch (Franks) '75, a son, Joseph Brian, Feb. 20, 1986. First child.
To: Cheryl Chestney (Poling) '76 and T. Craig Poling '76, M.A. '78, a son, Bryan Thomas, Feb. 2, 1986. Second child, first son.
To: Jennie Clouser (Beckley) '76, a daughter, Katherine Lynn, Jan. 16, 1986. First child.
To: Lawrie Falck (Rollison) '76, a son, John A. IV, Aug. 18, 1985. First child.
To: Janice Hight '76, a daughter, Nicolene Hight Jensen, Jan. 20, 1984.
To: Becky Kuykendall (Johnson) '76 and Wayne F. Johnson '76, a daughter, Letise, July 4, 1982. Second child, first daughter.
To: Vicki McKee (Crow) '76, a daughter,

Kelly Lyn, Sept. 3, 1985. First child.

To: Nancy Wonnell (Mathews) '76, a daughter, Emily Wonnell, March 12, 1986. First child.

To: Nancy Nugent (Cheely) '77, a daughter, Elizabeth Peyton, Sept. 10, 1985. Second child, first daughter.

To: Joanna Blair Patterson (Enoch) '77 and Michael Joseph Enoch '78, a daughter, Blair Elizabeth, Oct. 18, 1985. First child.

To: Jane Ellen Rehme (Mims) '77, M.A. '80 and William C. Mims '79, a daughter, Katherine Grace, Feb. 26, 1986. First child.

To: Willard Sanders Smith Jr. '77, a son, Charles Jacob, Dec. 1, 1985. Second child, second son.

To: Karen Yanity (Darch) '77, a son, Matthew Curran, Oct. 15, 1985. First child.

To: Elizabeth Ann Fisher '78 and Bruce LaVerne Akey '77, a son, Austin Joseph Akey, Sept. 26, 1985.

To: Sally A. Goetz (Rainey) '78 and T. O. Rainey III J.D. '78, a daughter, Kelly Alexis, March 21, 1986. Second child, first daughter.

To: Deborah Johnson (Scott) '78 and David Bennett Scott '77, a son, Justin Johnson, March 14, 1986. First child.

To: Susan O'Connor (Hedges) '78 and Lewis Kyle Hedges '77, a daughter, Elizabeth Kyle, Jan. 9, 1986. First child.

To: Issac O. "Chip" Perkins V '78, a daughter, Courtney Elizabeth, July 19, 1985. First daughter.

To: Susan Walters (Wachter) '78, a son and a daughter, Brian, April 3, 1984, and Sara, Dec. 29, 1985. First and second child.

To: Thomas A. Dick '79, a daughter, Meredith Paige, Feb. 6, 1985. First child.

To: Beth Faber (Ledwith) '79 and James Joseph Ledwith '79, a son, Michael James, Oct. 27, 1985. First child.

To: Cynthia Floyd (Page) '79, a son, Aaron Samuel, July 4, 1985.

To: Paula G. Fultz (Brown) '79, a daughter, Amy Denise, March 9, 1984. First child.

To: Mary Ann Cobbledick (Bennett) '80 and David R. Bennett '78, a daughter, Sarah Elizabeth, March 18, 1986. Second child, first daughter.

To: Therese Hiebert (Chaplin) '80, a son, Timothy Edward, Jan. 10, 1986. First child.

To: Jeanne Lull (Hopke) '80 and John Hopke '80, a son, John Ford, Oct. 1985. First child.

To: Rashna D. Contractor (Kowalski) '81 and Gerald Mark Kowalski '80, a son, Nathaniel John, Feb. 25, 1986. First child.

To: Marie Cruz (Adams) '81, a son, Christopher, Feb. 28, 1985.

To: Elizabeth Lynn (Perraud) '81 and Arthur Perraud M.B.A. '82, a son, Louis Allan, Jan. 20, 1986. First child.

To: Steven K. Mittweide '81, a son, Peter Nathaniel, Dec. 18, 1985. Second child.

To: Glen Welsh Smith '81, a son, Joshua Galen, Sept. 28, 1985. First child.
To: Carole Yurchak (Dorr) '81, a son, Jason Edward, Sept. 5, 1985. First child.
To: Laura Mooney (Nary) '82 and Kevin Nary '82, a son, David Edward, Sept. 28, 1985. Second child.
To: Kevin D. Norwood J.D. '80, a daughter, Katherine Duffy, June 18, 1985. First child.

MARRIAGES

Tom Hart '30 and Dorothy Carlstrom, March 9, 1986.
Michael E. Campana '70 and Donna Jean Packard, Dec. 27, 1983.
Barbara A. Monick '73 and Richard J. Matsko, Aug. 30, 1985.
Jane Pusch '75 and Joseph A. Franks, Sept. 18, 1982.
Wayne P. Wright '75 and Holly Lee Brown, Aug. 17, 1985.
Lawrie Falck '76 and John A. Rollison III, Nov. 26, 1983.
Victoria Ruth Coughlan '77 and Robert Czarnek, Sept. 14, 1985.
Bruce Webb Parker '77 and Allison Blair Cornwell, Dec. 21, 1985.
Nancy Lynn Weirup '77 and Kenneth Stewart, Aug. 27, 1983.
Brenda Whitesell '77 and Brian Douglas Berry, Feb. 18, 1984.
Irene Farley '78 and Randy Willis, Oct. 26, 1985.
Debbie Van Bibber '78 and Dale Armstrong, Aug. 1983.
Paula G. Fultz '79 and Pennie L. Brown, June 28, 1980.
Marc Cambridge Hines '79 and Pamela Corinne Westfall, Nov. 22, 1985.
Sharon Jacobs '79 and Anthony James Devico Jr., April 27, 1985.
Lisa H. Leone '79 and Robert M. Fania '78, Nov. 1984.
Audrey Lynn Bender '80 and Colin Winston, June 1985.
Stuart Rutledge Burnett '80 and Cindy Davis, May 2, 1981.
Stephanie Catoe '80 and Matthew J. Kress, Aug. 11, 1984.
Dana Ellen Dyer '80 and Richard A. Schalk, June 29, 1985.
Elizabeth Vaughan Miller '80 and Scott Wyatt Campbell, Oct. 12, 1985.
Andrew P. Nierenberg '80 and Ronda Lyn Vincelli, Aug. 5, 1983.
Teri Peitso '80 and Bill Holbrook, Dec. 7, 1985.
Beth Ellen Turbyfill '80 and Mark William McCray, Dec. 28, 1985.
Sarah Baird '81 and Bruce Arthur, Sept. 1985.
Lisa Jarvie '81 and Steve Wyngarden, July 6, 1985.
Nancy Ann Mullin '81 and Patrick Michael Cahill, June 1, 1985.
Patricia Schmid '81 and John Homan, May 1985.
Catherine Fern Wilson '81 and Edgar Thomas Arnold Jr., Aug. 24, 1985.
Carole Ann Yurchak '81 and Bruce W. Dorr, Sept. 15, 1984.
Christian Robert Benjamin '82 and Stephanie Ellen Calos, Dec. 7, 1985.
Margaret Joan Lockhart '82 and William K. Balzer, June 1, 1985.
Mary Ann Sanderford '82 and Robert B. Delano Jr., March 8, 1986.
John Anthony Stewart '82 and Jennifer Goodson, Sept. 28, 1985.
Michele Denise Morrow '83 and David Sherman Cade '82, Aug. 24, 1985.
Katherine Powell '83 and Gregory James Rhine, Nov. 30, 1985.

ALUMNUS COMMANDS SAFETY CENTER

Rear Admiral Henri B. Chase '55, USN, is currently commander of the U.S. Naval Safety Center in Norfolk, Va. He is the Department of the Navy's principle safety advocate and is responsible for readiness through safety for all naval air-surface-sub-surface and shore activities.

Susan Ann Statler '83 and Scott J. Jenkins '82, Jan. 7, 1984.

Greg Briscoe '84 and Carla Connette, June 7, 1985.

Linda Reynard '84 and Kord Basnight '85, March 22, 1986.

Alicia E. Rubi '84 and Richard DeMarco '83, May 25, 1985.

Alyne Rucker '84 and Michael J. Faughnan, April 5, 1986.

Rebecca A. Spragens '85 and John D. Shefler '84, Nov. 1985.

Todd A. Stottlemeyer '85 and Elaine Thomasson, Dec. 28, 1985.

F. Daniel Rock M.B.A. '79 and Angela Averett, June 1, 1985.

OBITUARIES

CHARLES HUNTER HAMLIN '14 A.B. of Fulton, Mo., died Dec. 2, 1986. He earned his M.A. from the University of Virginia in 1917 and his Ph.D. from George Peabody College in 1941. From 1920 until 1925 he taught at Culver Stockton College in Canton, Mo. In 1925 he became a professor of social studies at Atlantic Christian College in Wilson, N.C.; he remained with the school for 51 years, retiring in 1976. In 1972 the student center at Atlantic Christian was named the Hamlin Student Center in his honor. He was the author of numerous books and articles, including Propaganda and Myth in Time of War (1973); A Scrapbook of Reflections (1957); Ninety Bits of North Carolina Biography (1946); Lobbyists and Lobbying in North Carolina (1933); and Educators Present Arms (1939). Active in various historical, service, and peace organizations, he was the recipient of numerous awards, including the D.A.R. Award of Merit in 1957 and the Sertoma International Service to Mankind Award in 1964. He was both a charter member and a life member of the Order of the White Jacket. Survivors include a son.

PHILIP WARREN SPRATLEY '17 of Virginia Beach, Va., died Feb. 24, 1986. A U.S. Army veteran of World War I, he served with the "Rainbow Division" in France. After the war he worked in the mercantile business in Surry and Lee Hall and then went to work for Curtis Motor Company in Lee Hall. In 1930 he founded the Spratley-Rogers Motor Company in Hampton; he retired from the automobile dealership in 1966. He was an active member of various church and civic organizations, as well as the W&M Athletic Educational Foundation. Survivors include his wife, Emily, and two sons, one of whom is Philip Warren Spratley Jr. '45.

FREDERIC WALDEMAR COOPER '22 of Melrose, Fla., died Aug. 23, 1985. A member of Sigma Nu at William and Mary, he was a realtor with Cooper and Sperry Real Estate and Insurance Company. He is survived by his wife, Edna.

HENRY IRVING WILLETT '25 B.A. of Richmond, Va., died March 20, 1986. A member of Phi Beta Kappa at William and Mary, he earned his M.A. from Columbia University in 1930. For the next 12 years, he served in the Virginia public school system as a teacher, principal, director of instruction and assistant superintendent. In 1942 he became superintendent of schools for Norfolk County. He took over as superintendent of schools for the city of Richmond in 1946, holding that position until his retirement in 1969. Following his retirement, he served as a consultant and professor of education at Virginia Commonwealth University; he was the university's acting president in 1977. He served as chairman in 1955 of the U.S. delegation to the International Conference on Public Education in Geneva and was the recipient of numerous honors and awards. An active member of the College community, he was a member of the Alumni Board of Directors from 1956 to 1962, serving as president from 1958-1960. He received an Honorary Doctor of Laws degree from the College in 1955, and in 1966 he was awarded the Alumni Medallion. Survivors include his wife, Dorothy, and two sons, one of whom is Thomas D. Willett '64.

EVERETT ENGLUN COX '26 A.B. of Virginia Beach, Va., died Feb. 16, 1986. A member of Phi Kappa Tau at William and Mary, he was a high school administrator and college teacher. He was active in his church and in various civic organizations. He is survived by his wife, Suzanna.

VIRGINIA ARMISTEAD HARDY (THOMAS) '26 A.B. of Roanoke, Va., died Aug. 14, 1985. At William and Mary she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma and was the 1925 Queen of the May. She was the widow of William Stephenson Thomas and is survived by a son and a daughter.

ROBERT LOMAX WELLS '26 B.S. of Naples, Fla., died Jan. 9, 1986. At William and Mary, he was a member of Sigma Nu, Omicron Delta Kappa and the FHC Society and editor of the Colonial Echo. He earned his M.D. in 1930 from the University of Virginia Medical School and taught medicine at Georgetown University and the Naval Medical School in Bethesda, Md. He also served as general medical director of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone companies, retiring in 1970. Following his retirement, he served as an independent consultant in occupational medicine. He was the author of numerous articles published in medical journals, and he was active in many professional organizations. His name appeared in a number of biographical listings, and he received many honors and awards. He is survived by his wife, Helen.

OLGA MYRA DROZDOV (HACKMAN) '27 A.B. of Leesburg, Fla., died Dec. 27, 1985. A member of Delta Delta Delta at William and Mary, she was a biology teacher for many years, retiring in 1984. Survivors include her husband, Norman, and a daughter, Betty Scull '50.

FRANK L. SWADLEY '27 of Mesa, Ariz., died Jan. 28, 1986. A member of Lambda Chi Alpha at William and Mary, he also attended the University of Virginia. He was a hotel manager in the continental United States, Hawaii, Bermuda and the Bahamas. In 1952 he made a world survey of hotels for Pan American World Airways and the Intercontinental Hotel Corporation. Following his retirement from hotel management, he was a consultant for the Small Business Administration in Mesa. He is survived by a daughter and two sisters.

JOHN LOGAN HUDSON '28 B.S. died March 6, 1986, at his home in Hampton, Va. An aerospace research scientist with NASA, he worked for 34 years with Langley Research Center as assistant director and chief engineer, retiring in 1969. He was an active member of his church and the Order of the White Jacket. Survivors include a daughter; two sons, one of whom is John L. Hudson Jr. '52, two sisters, and a brother.

GRACE IRENE OSBORN (GAY) '28 died Jan. 23, 1984, at her home in Suffolk, Va. A member of Pi Beta Phi at William and Mary, she was for 16 years the secretary of the Blacksburg Presbyterian Church. She is survived by her husband, William, a daughter and a son.

DOROTHY PAYNE BOON (WIMMER) '29 of Greenville, S.C., died Feb. 22, 1986. The widow of Ralph Wimmer, she was a retired saleswoman for Smartwear-Irving Saks, Inc. Survivors include a son, two brothers and two sisters.

SAN DIEGO CHAPTER MEETS

The San Diego Chapter entertained President and Mrs. Verkuil at a gala champagne reception in the home of chapter President Gigi Schiff. Top to bottom and left to right are: President Verkuil '61, Paul Lapolla '41, Fran Verkuil '66, Pat Sell '58, JoAnne Lapolla, Dorcas Lounsbury '62, Dave '50 and Becky Weiss, Ernie Peak '52, Marion Wornall '29, Basil "Monty" Woolley '49, Robert Sigafos '66, Al Whitmey '77, Babs Anderson '63, Cindy Malinick '80, Ken Lounsbury '61, Gigi Schiff '66, Joellen Jacoby '78, Ann Woolley.

JOHN HARRY CARMINE '29 A.B. of Port Haywood, Va., died March 25, 1986. After earning his master's degree from the University of Virginia in 1936, he worked as an elementary education specialist in the public schools of Gloucester, Mathews, Smyth and Botetourt counties for more than 40 years. He served for several years as headmaster of the Lower School at Fork Union Military Academy and retired in the 1960s, after also serving as principal of Ocean View Elementary School in Norfolk. Following his retirement, he served on the Mathews County school board from 1966 to 1972. Survivors include four sisters, one of whom is Lillian Carmine Sterling '34, and a brother, Claude I. Carmine '34.

VIRGINIA ANNE HARPER (MEEKS) '29 A.B. of Columbus, Ohio, died Feb. 5, 1986. At William and Mary she was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, the Spanish Club and the Glee Club and manager of the basketball team. From 1930 to 1939 she was bookkeeper at the National Headquarters of Kappa Kappa Gamma in Columbus. Survivors include two sons.

ADDISON H. BAKER '30 B.S. of West Yarmouth, Mass., died March 6, 1986. A former traffic manager for Greyhound and claim agent for the United Transit Company, he was secretary-treasurer and part-owner of Transit Service, Inc., in Providence, R.I. He retired in 1971. He is survived by his wife, Ellen.

NANCY DUPUY JOHNSTON (LIGHTNER) '30 B.S. died Dec. 21, 1985, at her home in Richmond, Va. At William and Mary she was president and treasurer of the Women's Athletic Council, president of the H2E Club and a member of the field hockey team and Alpha Chi Omega. An active member of her church, she was also an active volunteer with the Boy Scouts of America. Survivors include her husband, George, two daughters, two sons, a sister and a brother.

ARTHUR GUNNAR READ '32 of Charlottesville, Va., died July 4, 1985.

KENNETH ELLSWORTH UMLAH, '32 B.S., of Jacksonville, Florida, died March 10, 1986. At William and Mary, he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau, Alpha Kappa Psi, and the Cotillion Club. He earned his degree in business administration from the College, and then served until 1946 as administrative officer in the War Department for the Secretary of War at the Pentagon. He later joined the Western Electric Company in New York City. In 1954 he moved to Florida, and in 1960 he formed Premium Foods, Inc., serving as president of the company until 1976, when he sold the business and retired. An active supporter of the College, he was a former secretary of the New York Alumni Chapter, and a member of the President's Council.

WILLIAM HARDEE COLHOUN '34 of Virginia Beach, Va., died Sept. 21, 1983. A member of Theta Delta Chi at William and Mary, he was a retired attorney. He is survived by his wife, Anne.

MAXINE DUVEL (TUVE) '34 A.B. of Silver Spring, Md., died Nov. 10, 1985. She transferred to the College from George Washington University. At William and Mary, she was vice president of Chandler Hall, assistant manager of the hockey team and a member of Kappa Delta, the swim team, the German Club and the J. Leslie Hall Literary Society. She is survived by her husband, Richard.

WINFIELD SCOTT HAMMOND JR. '34 of Pearl River, N.Y., died May 5, 1985. At William and Mary he was a member of Sigma Pi, the Clayton-Grimes Biology Club, Glee Club and the Choir. Following his graduation he worked with Hercules Power Company until 1938. He then attended the University of Pennsylvania, earning his master's degree in 1939. For the next six years, he was associated with the National Drug Company, and in 1945 he accepted a position with American Cyanamid Company. He remained with the company until his retirement in 1977, working in the Lederle Laboratories Division, first as a microbiologist and later as an administrator. He was active in his church and in several fraternal organizations. Survivors include his wife, Ann, and one son.

ETHEL LEE CROSS (BLANTON) '35 of Williamsburg, Va., died Dec. 7, 1985. She was a member of Kappa Delta at William and Mary. Survivors include a son.

EARL LANGFORD JONES '35 B.S. died Feb. 11, 1986, at his home in Greenville, Del. At William and Mary, he was a chemistry major and a member of Sigma Rho. Following his graduation, he joined Hercules, Inc., as a chemist at the Hopewell plant. He was appointed chief chemist in 1948, and two years later, he moved to Wilmington, Del., to work in sales in the coatings and special products department; he was named a general manager in 1962. He was elected to the Hercules board of directors in 1966 and served as vice president from 1972 until his retirement in 1974. Survivors include a son and a daughter.

JOSEPH JEFFREY '42 of North Harpswell, Me., died March 31, 1986.

EDWARD FRANCIS LODGE JR. '48 B.A. of Wilmington, Del., died Aug. 12, 1985. He received his M.B.A. in 1949 from Wharton Graduate School, University of Pennsylvania. From 1953 to 1956, he was general traffic manager for R. M. Hollingshead Corporation. He later joined Atlas Powder Company in Wilmington, retiring from that company as director of traffic. He was a member of various professional organizations. Survivors include his wife, Rosemond.

MARY LEE CARTER '49 B.A. of Winston-Salem, N.C., died Nov. 18, 1985. She was retired from General Motors Acceptance Corporation after 30 years of service. Survivors include her mother.

JOAN MARGARET BLATT '66 B.A. died Feb. 28, 1986, at her home in Newport News, Va. She was employed by the Yorktown Naval Weapons Station for 11 years. She is survived by her mother and two sisters, one of whom is Joyce B. Jones '65.

KIM ARTHUR STRONG '73 B.A. of Richmond, Va., died March 22, 1986. He attended William and Mary on a basketball scholarship, but developed an interest in acting and became very active in the W&M theatre. Following his graduation he pursued acting as a career. He worked for 1 1/2 years on CBN's daytime drama, "Another Life," and he performed frequently at the Barksdale Theater, the former Haymarket Dinner Theater and the Swift Creek Mill Playhouse during 10 successful years of acting in Virginia. To supplement his income he also made television commercials and employee training films. In the year prior to his death he had been seeking larger acting roles in New York. Survivors include his parents, two brothers and two sisters.

DOROTHY HELEN SAMET M.Ed. '59 of Newport News, Va., died July 14, 1984. A retired counselor, she earned her B.A. in 1934 from Boston University. She is survived by her husband, Arthur.

The Society of the Alumni is pleased to announce that it is the exclusive distributor of
HARK UPON THE GALE
 An Illustrated History of
 The College of William and Mary
 by Wilford Kale (Class of '66)
 In two handsome editions

The second-oldest institution of higher education in America now has a comprehensive illustrated history, which spans the efforts of its first president, the Rev. James Blair, in 1693, to the events of 1984, containing for the first time, all the known views of the college from 1695 to 1865. It's the most exciting publication in many years, and we're pleased to offer it first to you. It contains over 350 fully-captioned photos, maps, and illustrations in crisp black and white and rich sepia tones, and a concise, entertaining text covering the major events in the evolution of the college. For example: did you know that Thomas Jefferson proposed that the Virginia legislature close William and Mary and establish a network of community colleges; that the first student secret society, the first fraternity, and the first intercollegiate Greek letter society were all at William and Mary; that as late as 1881, the college had twelve students?

No alumnus of the school can fail to be moved by this unique and exciting 8½-x-11-inch coffee table book. It will be a treasured possession to be passed on for generations. Beautifully printed and bound, Hark Upon The Gale comes in a regular edition with dust jacket, and a special leather limited edition of 250 copies with slipcase, each signed and numbered by the author, each increasing in value each year.

MAIL TO: Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box GO, Williamsburg, VA 23185

_____ copies of the regular edition at $25.00 per copy _____ copies of the limited edition at $100.00 per copy

NAME _____

ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE _____ ZIP _____

Check or money order payable to The Society of the Alumni. Please enclose $1.50 postage for each book ordered. Total enclosed _____ Va. residents add 4% sales tax.

Visa/MasterCard No. _____ Exp. Date _____

Signature _____

Society of the Alumni
 P.O. Box GO, Williamsburg, Va. 23187

Non Profit Organization
 U.S. Postage Paid
 Permit No. 1390
 Richmond, VA.

Alumni Gazette

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

MAY 1986

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA 23185

VOL. 53, NO. 9

THE SUPER SIX
 See P. 6

Focus on Faculty May 1986

INTERIM

The College of William and Mary

A LETTER FROM THE PRESIDENT

"A Year of Fulfilled Promise . . ."

Dear Friends:

This has been a year of fulfilled promise for the College.

The Virginia General Assembly approved virtually all of our budget requests. We received the highest percentage increase in faculty salaries of all colleges in Virginia. We received full funding for a much-needed new physical education facility. We received monies to refurbish Ewell Hall for the music department. We received funds for administrative computing to allow us to plan for a new financial accounting system. The Virginia Institute of Marine Science received support for a water studies model as well as funds for renovating Byrd Hall. The General Assembly also appropriated funds in support of celebrating the bicentennial of the Bill of Rights at Marshall-Wythe School of Law.

William and Mary benefited from national attention too. Newsweek noted that half of the College's freshman class this year had graduated in the top 10 percent of their senior high school class. Richard Moll had already dubbed William and Mary a "public Ivy" in his new book by that title. And Newsweek agreed: "William and Mary is probably the most selective of the public Ivys and the one closest in spirit to their private namesakes."

In two national ratings, William and Mary placed high. In a poll of college and university presidents by U.S. News and World Report, the College ranked 17th among 192 major universities. Also, the College's undergraduate accounting program ranked 12th in the nation according to Public Accounting Report, the profession's newsletter.

This has been a banner year for private support of William and Mary. To date, gifts for all purposes are 50 percent ahead of this time last year, led by 21 major gifts to the College, each in excess of $50,000. The William and Mary Annual Fund surpassed the $1 million mark in early March. In addition, the number of alumni contributing to their alma mater increased by 75 percent. And the fiscal year is not over!

This issue of the Interim Report features faculty and volunteer leaders at William and Mary who help to make all of this possible. They are the substance behind the image. They are the creativity and hard work behind an idea. They are the commitment behind our ideals.

We are well-endowed with talent and energy for teaching and learning. The Commonwealth gave us the equivalent of a generous public endowment to maintain our excellent standards. Yet, it is our private endowment that will sustain in perpetuity the distinctive higher education that is William and Mary's hallmark.

To the faculty, administration, students, alumni, and friends of the College, I thank you. If this year is any indication, we will meet our 300th year with vigor and strength.

Sincerely,

Paul R. Verkuil

Paul R. Verkuil
President

FOCUS ON VOLUNTEERS

William and Mary is a singular state-supported institution. But it cannot – and does not – rely simply on biennial appropriations from the legislature and upon tuition and fees. To maintain its quality, to plan ahead, to survive in a competitive environment, the College must have a steady infusion of private funds.

And over the past few years, this funding has indeed been steady and generous. Much of the credit for developing and sustaining this vital private support comes from the energy, dedication and business acumen of key volunteers working with the College's own development staff and helping direct the major fund-raising activities.

This year, seven of these individuals demonstrate the kind of dynamic qualities and organizational leadership that assure William and Mary's fiscal and educational future well beyond the approaching tricentennial.

ROBERT AND SARA BOYD

AN ENTHUSIASM FOR WILLIAM AND MARY

Robert Friend Boyd
Chairman, Estate Planning Committee
Sara Miller Boyd
Trustee, Endowment Association

Robert Boyd has had an active and distinguished career in law for nearly three decades now. He finished his undergraduate studies at William and Mary in 1950 and received his J.D. degree from the Marshall-Wythe School of Law the following year, in the midst of the Korean War. He served two years as a captain in the U.S. Marine Corps, including an assignment as chief trial counsel for the General Courts Martial Board, putting his legal training to early use.

His extensive and diverse career includes continuing work as Commissioner in Chancery: Circuit Courts, for both the City of Norfolk and the City of Chesapeake. He is presently president and senior attorney for Boyd, Payne, Gates & Farthing in Norfolk. His wife, Sara Grace Miller Boyd, is an alumna of the College, having received her A.B. degree in 1955. She is currently a member of the Endowment Association Board and a past president of the Virginia Lawyers'

Wives Association. The strong family affiliation with William and Mary continues in a new generation. Two of the Boyd children (Robert Jr. and Mary) have graduated from the College; another son, James is a law student at Marshall Wythe; and David is a graduate student at VIMS.

During his years at William and Mary, Boyd was active in Kappa Sigma, TKA (an honorary forensic fraternity), and head cheerleader. In 1958, he was named Outstanding Young Man of the Year in Norfolk. He is presently a trustee of Virginia Wesleyan College, a trustee of Randolph-Macon Academy, and director of Walk Thru the Bible.

A member of Free and Accepted Masons, Boyd has served on the Endowment Association Board, and he and Sara are Honorary Lifetime Members of the President's Council.

JAMES AND DANA BRINKLEY

STRONG TIES AND LOYALTY

James W. Brinkley, Dana Brinkley
Alumni Co-Chairs, William and Mary Annual Fund.

It would be hard to imagine people better qualified or more enthusiastic to direct the William and Mary Annual Fund this year than Jim Brinkley and his wife, Dana. Both have strong ties and loyalty to the College extending back to their undergraduate days, and both have served on almost every conceivable voluntary committee or board supporting the institution.

James Brinkley has been associated with the brokerage firm of Legg Mason Wood Walker of Baltimore since its early days and last year was named president. He and his longtime friend Raymond A. (Chip) Mason established the company with borrowed capital 23 years ago and together have built it into one of the country's largest regional brokerage and investment banking firms, with current assets valued at about $160 million.

Brinkley graduated from the College in 1959 with a degree in economics, and during his years on campus participated in a wide variety of activities, including service as an aide to the president, vice president of the student body, the Student Senate, Scabbard and Blade and Sigma Alpha Epsilon. After graduation he completed military service as a captain in the airborne rangers and received several commendation medals.

Throughout his career with Legg Mason, Brinkley developed extensive professional and civic affiliations in the mid Atlantic states. He is a director of Buttonwood Capital Corporation and of Collings Legg Mason, Inc., a member of the New York Stock Exchange and the National Federation of Financial Analysts. In Baltimore, he has been director of the Jaycees and holds membership in the Merchants Club, the University Club, and Virginians in Maryland.

Dana Brinkley was a 1960 graduate of the College and has been active in a range of alumni and endowment activities. All three of the Brinkley children have continued the family connection with William and Mary: Robert graduated in the class of 1982; Douglas will graduate this spring; and Susan is a member of the class of 1988.

Brinkley has served on the Society of the Alumni Board and has been a trustee of the AEF. Since 1982 he has held membership in the President's Council and is presently on the Endowment Association Board and the Board of Visitors.

FOCUS ON VOLUNTEERS

JOSEPH J. PLUMERI II

THE VALUE OF THE LIBERAL ARTS

Joseph James Plumeri II
Trustee, Endowment Association

Joseph Plumeri still puts great value on the broadening experience of his liberal arts education at William and Mary, where he received his B.A. in history in 1966. As a senior officer at Shearson Lehman/American Express, he draws upon his background in the humanities to help give him perspective on the complex challenges of the national and international financial scene. And he has willingly shared his knowledge, and his spectacular view of Manhattan, with William and Mary students considering careers in business during recent visits arranged with Stan Brown, the College's director of placement.

Upon graduation from the College, Plumeri moved to New York and subsequently received his LL.D. degree from New York University. Beginning work on Wall Street with the brokerage firm of Hayden, Stone, he rose to become senior vice president and national sales director before joining Shearson Lehman. Currently, he is senior executive vice president/marketing for the $1.32 billion company with over 14,000 employees. He is also a director for Shearson Lehman.

Plumeri retains his close personal ties with the College and visits Williamsburg regularly in the course of his volunteer alumni and fund-raising activities. In 1984, he addressed M.B.A. students and talked informally with them about business careers.

Presently a trustee of the Endowment Association Board and a member of the President's Council, Plumeri has also been active in gaining Shearson's sponsorship of the LPGA pro-am golf tournament in Williamsburg to benefit women's athletics and helped arrange the donation of library books to the School of Business Administration by Shearson.

While at William and Mary, he played both baseball and football, and also found time to participate in theatre and serve as rush chairman of Pi Kappa Alpha.

He and his wife, Nancy, have two children and live in Scotch Plains, N.J.

DAVID D. WAKEFIELD

A RAPID RISE IN BANKING

David Dean Wakefield
Chairman of the Board, Endowment Association

The early months of 1986 saw David and Carolyn "Lee" Wakefield with a house in Wilmington, Del., and an apartment in New York City. David recently became senior vice president of Morgan Guaranty Trust of New York. During the week you'll find the Wakefields in New York, while most weekends are spent in Wilmington. Prior to the New York appointment, David had served as president and chief executive officer for Morgan Bank Delaware. This most recent appointment only highlights Wakefield's distinguished career with Morgan Guaranty Trust Company in New York, which began in the 1950s. He served consecutively as assistant treasurer, assistant vice president, and senior vice president before being selected as president of the subsidiary in Delaware.

Following his graduation from William and Mary in 1952, Wakefield served two years as an army officer and then joined Procter and Gamble from 1954 to 1956. While working at Morgan, he completed his M.B.A. degree at New York University.

During his years at William and Mary, Wakefield was active in a variety of organizations, including the student assembly and senate, the interfraternity council, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Scabbard and Blade. He served as chief president's aide and was president of the student body.

Wakefield's other affiliations include service as a director of Continental Life Insurance Company; director, Recording for the Blind, Inc.; and trustee of the Winterthur Museum, Inc., in Delaware.

The Wakefields were married in 1954 and have a son and a daughter.

Carolyn G. Bradley "Lee" Wakefield graduated from the College in 1953 and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. Her college activities include service as president of the Pan-Hellenic Council and membership in Kappa Alpha Theta, the music club and the Red Cross Unit.

MARK H. McCORMACK

A SPORTS AND ENTERTAINMENT EMPIRE

Mark H. McCormack
Chairman, President's Council 1985-86

It's possible that Mark McCormack heard about John D. Rockefeller's succinct advice to a Harvard graduation class some years ago: Get capital! In any case, McCormack, as president of International Management Group in Cleveland, now directs a sports and entertainment empire that generates revenues of more than $300 million a year. His current clients include sports figures Arnold Palmer, Martina Navratilova, Herschel Walker, and Jim Rice, as well as opera singer Dame Kiri Te Kanawa and Kingsmill golf pro Curtis Strange.

McCormack's lifelong interest in sports began in college, where he was the top player on the William and Mary golf team and met his first client, a young golfer from Wake Forest named Palmer. After receiving his A.B. degree from William and Mary, McCormack went on to study law at Yale University, receiving his degree in 1954, and returned to his hometown of Cleveland, Ohio, to begin practice. He spent some of his spare time looking over sports contracts and conceived of the basic idea for IMG—the rest is history. Palmer was signed in 1960, and Jack Nicklaus soon followed.

While at William and Mary, McCormack was active in the student association, became a member of Theta Delta Chi and served as sports director for both the Colonial Echo and the Flat Hat. In 1969, he was named to the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame, and he continues to support men's and women's sports at the College.

His other alumni activities include the chairmanship of and honorary lifetime membership in the President's Council, trustee emeritus of the Endowment Association Board and receipt in 1981 of the prestigious Alumni Medallion. McCormack's daughter, Mary Leslie, is a member of the class of 1988 at William and Mary.

McCormack's recent book, What They Don't Teach You at the Harvard Business School, has been a best-seller, with translations into 15 languages.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

ARMAND J. GALFO, Heritage Professor of Education

The Classic Example of the Citizen-Soldier

In 1980, when the National Defense University was looking for someone to help assemble and analyze the pro and con arguments for an all-volunteer force in the United States, it seemed only logical that they would select Colonel Armand J. Galfo (USAF Ret.) to do the job. He is the classic example of a citizen-soldier. Galfo has divided much of his adult life between service in the U.S. Air Force Reserve and teaching. For over a quarter century he has been a member of the faculty of the College, professor of educational research and statistics, and in 1985 was named Heritage Professor of Education.

A high point in Galfo's twin careers came in April 1981 during colorful ROTC ceremonies at Barksdale Field with Governor Dalton, President Graves and other college officials watching. Galfo marked his retirement from the Air Force Reserve and was presented with the prestigious Legion of Merit award by then-Major General Cleveland, vice commander of the USAF training command.

Now, sitting in his office at Jones Hall, Galfo recalls another moment that evoked equal nostalgia for him late last year. He was on the train en route from Brussels to Berlin to participate in the first annual conference on Global Issues in Education.

"As we passed through the snowy landscape," he recalls, "my mind drifted back some 40 years to the days I had flown over this same terrain as a 20-year-old radio operator in a B-17 bomber." The circumstances, however, were just a bit different. This time, he would be presenting the results of a summer-long educational study that he had done in Great Britain about students' attitudes toward the NATO alliance and the Warsaw Pact. "It was a strange feeling," Galfo says, "heading for Berlin again, but now to talk to international educators about what a new generation thinks of war, and peace."

Galfo is casually dressed in a tan tweed jacket with leather patches on the elbows, a green shirt and western string tie with a silver clasp at the neck. Memorabilia from his 20 World War II flying missions are displayed proudly, along with educational certificates and awards mounted on cork-board panels. He's proud, too, of his family pictures of his wife, Mary, and his two sons. Chris graduated from William and Mary, received his Ph.D in physics from the University of Virginia and now works in the computer industry in the Silicon Valley area of Northern California. Greg is a professional photographer in West Palm Beach, Fl., and some of his artistic color photos also decorate the office.

During the summer of 1985, Dr. Galfo conducted an extensive survey of students ages 13-19 in Great Britain to determine their attitudes, perceptions and knowledge about NATO and its opposite Warsaw-Pact nations. For the past three decades and more, these alliances have exerted great influence on the course of politics and history in Western Europe, and Galfo sought to sample what students were learning and thinking about the organizations.

"One major conclusion," he says, "was that the kids had not been 'indoctrinated' or 'brainwashed' by teaching and discussions of peace and war. On the contrary, they had become much more interested in the issues, and quite well informed." Outside learning, including newspapers and TV, and parental attitudes obviously played a role in the process, Galfo adds, "but the schools themselves had stimulated interest in further reading and viewing and played a vital art in the whole democratic process." Full results of the study will be published later this year by the University of Leeds' Journal of Educational Administration and History.

Galfo's own research interests began early in his life as he worked toward advanced degrees in education and followed Air Force Reserve training. "People sometimes forget," he says, "that education is one of the major jobs of the armed forces today. It's amazing the extent and complexity of the educational activities of all branches of the service." The U.S. Coast Guard Training Center at Yorktown, for instance, he notes, has an excellent and extensive campus and the most modern equipment and teaching facilities. He is, of course, keenly aware of the synergistic relationships between military and civilian education programs, and throughout much of his life he has moved easily between the two worlds.

"Clearly, the two systems are interrelated," Galfo says. "We all know poor students in high school who go on to find themselves through military service, training and education programs. And at the other end of the continuum, we've seen a good many career military men move on to a second career in teaching and school administration after retirement." While serving at Langley Field for 17 years, he personally counseled a number who returned for further study and higher degrees at William and Mary.

Galfo's own teaching career began in the Buffalo, N.Y., area where he was a high school science teacher, completed his undergraduate and graduate degrees (Ed.D 1956) at the University of Buffalo, and where, on a mild June evening (Friday the 13th) 1947, he met his wife, Mary.

"We met at a sorority dance, out at the beach," he remembers. "That may seem a little odd for Buffalo," he admits, thinking perhaps of someone's description of summer there as "three weeks of bad ice-skating." "We didn't get married until three years later - in 1950."

"Mary was then studying medical technology and later moved into teaching science. In Williamsburg, she taught chemistry, physics, biology, and general science at Walsingham Academy and Queens Lake."

Galfo joined the Army Air Corps Reserve in 1947 and embarked on a productive career which saw him rise to full colonel by 1973, a rank he held upon retirement. He served in various capacities along the East Coast, including duty at Ft. McNair and in the Pentagon.

Reminiscing about his long career at William and Mary, Galfo thinks about the many changes in the College over the years, and especially about some of his colleagues who helped develop and shape the School of Education as it expanded from a small department in the 1950s to a separate school: George Oliver, the department chairman, whose son is now a Williamsburg physician; Howard Holland, another chairman, who went on to the American University in Beirut and later died overseas; and, more recently, former deans Richard Brooks and James Yankovich.

"We've come a long way, haven't we?" he muses. "From the times when the Charter prescribed that the place should consist of, what was it, 'one president, six masters or professors, and a hundred scholars,' more or less?"

Galfo remains intensely loyal to the College. He and his wife consider it their adopted alma mater and in 1984 established the Armand J. and Mary Faust Galfo fund for research in education, to help support an outstanding graduate student each year. Royalties from some of his texts are earmarked to help sustain the fund.

THE HERITAGE PROFESSORSHIP

In 1967, President Davis Y. Paschall spoke to the Board of Trustees of the Endowment Association about the need for funds to support faculty supplements in order to retain outstanding faculty. The trustees responded by creating a quasi-endowment entitled the William and Mary Heritage Fund for the purpose of annual faculty supplements to outstanding faculty.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

WILLIAM H. WARREN, D. Hillsdon Ryan Professor of Business Administration

Experience in the Marketplace

The Newport News Shipbuilding yard was alive with the excitement and urgency of World War II when young "Rusty" Warren began his apprenticeship there in 1942. As he learned the precise and demanding skills of a machinist there and later in the Navy, he never imagined that thirty years later he would return to the same company as consultant in management and director of labor relations.

During the intervening years, Warren completed military service in the Navy, graduated from the University of Richmond, married, and started on a continuing odyssey that found him shuttling across the 650 miles from the Tidewater area to West Lafayette, Ind., as he studied for two advanced degrees at Purdue University and also worked as salesman, journalist, production manager and expert on labor relations.

Now, after intertwined careers in business and education, William H. Warren, D. Hillsdon Ryan Professor of Business Administration, sits in his Chancellor's Hall office and reflects with equal satisfaction on both experiences. "I guess I hold some kind of a record for the longest A.B.D. at Purdue," he says with a smile. "It was about nineteen years from the end of Ph.D. coursework to receiving the degree. But I accomplished a lot along the way."

Warren is dressed comfortably in a rust-brown coat, gray slacks, white shirt with maroon tie and loafers. Beside him on the floor is an enormous leather sample case crammed with papers, books and print-outs. "It's my portable desk," he notes, "goes everywhere with me." Various airport tags hanging from the handles document his past travels to national meetings, labor arbitration sessions and professional consulting assignments. Bookcases line the walls, interrupted by a compact blackboard full of notes. A computer terminal and printer stand at the ready.

Is practical business experience essential for a professor of business administration? Warren answers quickly, "No, I don't think so. Working in a business or industry won't necessarily make anyone a good teacher. Some of us have benefitted from it, others haven't. My various jobs helped give me a better understanding of problems companies face, but how to transmit this knowledge to students is, in many ways, a separate skill to learn." It is important, he emphasizes, to be able to bring students a sense of how businesses operate, how the corporate psyche works.

Warren's long teaching career began in the early 1950's when he was assistant professor and director of placement for the School of Business Administration at the University of Richmond. From there he moved back into the "real world" as plant personnel and public relations manager for the Albemarle Paper Company in North Carolina (then a division of Ethyl Corporation), subsequently to Richmond as director of industrial relations and then as plant production manager at Albemarle's Richmond container plant. After nearly a dozen years of varied business experience, he returned again to Purdue as an instructor and associate professor, finally completing his doctorate in industrial and organizational psychology and industrial relations in 1969. In 1970, Warren joined the College of William and Mary faculty and served as associate professor and professor of business administration until 1979, when he was named to the prestigious Ryan professorship.

Just about ten years ago, Warren gained national prominence with his innovative telephone interview project that linked students in his William and Mary business policy classes with top executives around the country.

"One day (former dean) Charlie Quittmeyer, Marvin Stanley, and I were at lunch discussing some new ways to get this business school better known. We hit on the idea of bringing some big name speakers here," Warren says. "But since costs and travel ruled out visits by most of them, I modified that to setting up long-distance phone interviews of dialogues - it worked out exceptionally well, and it benefitted both the students and the College itself."

"Within a relatively short time, there were widespread stories about the project in such national publications as the Wall Street Journal and Business Week and features in corporate magazines like U.S. Steel News and Exxon Manhattan. Newspaper and TV reporters covered the phone interviews with such business leaders as Kemmons Wilson, chairman and founder of Holiday Inns, and Sheik Yamani, the oil minister of Saudi Arabia."

Beyond the success of its public relations objectives, the program also became a useful long-term teaching device, producing casebook studies of policy formulation and strategy that are currently being widely used in textbooks. When Warren began to invite his past speakers to visit William and Mary, it developed into an annual event called "Meet the Presidents Day." In more recent years, the project has evolved into the Executive Forum, directed by the M.B.A. students, which now attracts corporate leaders to the campus for personal appearances.

Reflecting on the current crop of business school students, Warren believes they continue to be of consistently high quality. Most go on directly to responsible staff positions in business and industry. How do the courses prepare students for the pressures and conflicts between office and family?

"They don't," Warren says. "Not specifically. Of course, we talk about it in classes and discussions. The students are well aware of the demands that will be made on them as corporate leaders. But we don't usually take it up as a separate topic."

"I think most of them understand the challenges that will come, and that they will have to establish their own priorities. It usually works out."

"It did in Warren's own case. Though his wife, Virginia, had not finished her undergraduate degree at Richmond when they married in 1948, she moved with him to Purdue and received her degree there. In time, they had two sons and three daughters, one of whom, Connie, graduated from William and Mary (class of 1975), married Trellis chef and partner Marcel DeSaulniers and is now a business executive herself, working as promotion manager for Busch Gardens."

As he contemplates the approaching 300th anniversary of William and Mary's founding, Warren speculates about what Mr. Jefferson might think of the College's expansion into professional schools.

"I'm not sure he would approve of a business school per se. But on the other hand, I suspect that he would understand how we have adjusted to the practical realities of the times. How, for example, we have come to use technology to help us generally in education." Warren pauses. "The computer in particular is a tool of great value that Jefferson would no doubt relate to. The question is, do we yet know how to use computers to their best advantage in the basic practice of educating people - I'm not sure we do. But we're working on it."

THE RYAN PROFESSORSHIP

D. Hillsdon Ryan, chairman and executive officer of Minit International S.A., and his firm established the D. Hillsdon Ryan Professorship Endowment in 1979. The endowment provided for a teacher-scholar whose primary interests are in the context of free enterprise in Europe and the United States with an orientation toward entrepreneurial management or business policy. Ryan is a member of the Class of 1950 and resides in Geneva, Switzerland. He received an honorary Doctor of Laws from the College in 1982.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

CHARLES H. KOCH, Dudley Warner Woodbridge Professor of Law

A Contagious Enthusiasm for Teaching

Two objectives in Charles Koch's second-floor office at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law seem to command equal attention. The first is a bas-relief copy of the extinct reptilian bird, Archaeopteryx, mounted on the wall, symbolizing Koch's keen avocational interest in fossilizing. The second takes up six inches of shelf space in his expansive library: a handsomely bound two-volume landmark treatise on administrative law that he published this past year through the prestigious West Publishing Company.

His functional quarters are brightened by a multicolored glass parrot on a circular perch that hangs near the window to catch the light. A coffee mug decorated with a rampant Maryland terrapin stands on the modern, uncluttered desk. Koch (rhymes with book) sits at the desk, flanked by a computer terminal and its ancillary equipment. "I think that within five years, maybe less, every lawyer and law office will be equipped with a computer. More and more students have them, of course, and we use them extensively here."

He's wearing a blue-and-white pin-striped shirt, repp tie and tan slacks and talks with special animation about his research and writing in the field of administrative law. It's clear that this contagion carries over into the classroom.

"What makes a good teacher?" he wonders aloud. "Hard work. The ability to generate interest, give and take, dialogue. You can't simply rely on lectures and reading assignments. The interchange between teacher and class is essential."

What, then, makes a good student? "Again, hard work," Koch says. "The ability to do problem-solving. Often, students with good math backgrounds do very well in law; they have the analytical qualities you need."

This seems to be compatible with Dean Timothy Sullivan's introductory remarks in the 1986 viewbook for prospective students. He says "legal education at Marshall-Wythe has been designed to help you acquire the habits of mind and special skills required to be a great lawyer." Sullivan goes on to say that "we place more than ordinary emphasis on legal writing and advocacy skills." Koch adds, "Writing - good writing - is critically important to our students. Everyone must take a first year course in legal writing, and during all three years students continue to polish their abilities through research papers, and of course, exams."

"Our graduates do very well in the market-place," Koch says, noting placements with major law offices up and down the East Coast and high employer satisfaction. "Some of the biggest firms have the resources and the interest to visit top campuses regularly, all over the country, and we see our share here at the college." Koch believes that William and Mary's long tradition of quality has an obvious effect on attracting faculty and students. Recent figures indicate that some 70 percent of the graduating class is recruited for employment before graduation.

"Our faculty is young, maturing, stable," he says. "And I think we now have excellent facilities," he adds with obvious pride, looking out at the modern red-brick structure, completed in 1980. "But we could still benefit from a couple of more classrooms, perhaps some interview rooms and a big conference room."

"Koch is now completing his seventh year at Marshall-Wythe and says he was attracted to the school because of its excellent reputation and small-town atmosphere. Just a year ago, Koch married his wife, Denise, after a "long-distance courtship" between Williamsburg and Virginia Beach, where she was teaching. Now she teaches Spanish closer to home, at Lafayette High School.

In his current courses, Koch teaches his specialty, administrative law, as well as corporations, securities regulations and economic analysis of the law. In addition to analyzing, interpreting, and transmitting the intricate subject matter of all these courses to his students, Koch is particularly interested in dealing with administrative law in a way that will "be most useful to both practitioners and scholars," and his new book is designed with just that in mind. He also continues to develop an instructional program to be used with his casebook, an approach that, again "seeks to make administrative law more realistic."

After receiving his B.A. from the University of Maryland in 1966, Koch travelled to the District of Columbia to study for his J.D. degree, which he received from George Washington University in 1969.

During the early 1970's, he spent five productive and challenging years as a staff attorney with the Federal Trade Commission in Washington, at a time "when the tide of consumerism was running high," he notes. This work also enabled him to spend a little spare time visiting the Smithsonian Institution and the Museum of Natural History to advance his study of fossils. On a field trip in suburban Maryland he once discovered some Cretaceous era fossils in an area soon to be paved over for a shopping center. Today, to his chagrin, the remains lie beneath the Landover Mall, preserved, perhaps, for posterity.

Koch moved to the Midwest to study for his LL.M., which he received from the University of Chicago, and in 1975 he joined the faculty at DePaul University, where he remained until coming to Williamsburg.

During the past decade, he has carried out extensive research and written for such publications as the Duke University Law Journal, the Georgetown Law Journal, and George Washington Law Review.

Koch offers a few concluding thoughts about the recent trend at some colleges and universities to hire law deans and professors as presidents. He observes that "the combination of legal discipline and administrative experience makes an ideal background for a chief executive officer."

"Furthermore," he adds, "such men and women have been trained in dealing wisely with controversy, in negotiating, and especially in dealing with people."

THE WOODBRIDGE PROFESSORSHIP

In the early 1970s, the Law School Association initiated a campaign to endow a chair for the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. In 1975, an endowment was established that honored the memory of the late Dudley Warner Woodbridge, dean of the Department of Jurisprudence from 1950 to 1953 and dean of the Marshall-Wythe

School of Law and Chancellor Professor of Law from 1953 to 1962. In combination with the bequest of Agnes F. Donaldson, these funds provide for a scholar-teacher of law and qualify for matching funds from the Commonwealth under the Eminent Scholars Program.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

THADDEUS W. TATE, William E. Pullen Professor of History

The Man With Two Hats

In his quarter century at the College of William and Mary, Thaddeus W. "Thad" Tate has always worn two hats: one as a full-time member of the history department, where he is in his third year as William E. Pullen Professor of American History, and the other as an editor and now full-time director of the Institute of Early American History and Culture. He has been its director since 1972, but continues to make time for teaching and assistance to the College. Recently, Tate was chairman of the search committee for a new provost for William and Mary.

This year the Institute celebrates its 29th year of book publications on all aspects of early American life, from social development to military and economic affairs. It's been sponsored since 1943 by the College and the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. One of the unusual aspects of the Institute is that research and publication offices usually have their own research libraries, but IEAHC does not. Housed in the Earl Gregg Swem Library, it draws on those resources as well as those of the Colonial Williamsburg research library.

"It's a little unusual to have a research institute whose primary focus is publication," says Tate, who received the Thomas Jefferson Award at Charter Day this year. "Our postdoctoral fellows come for a two-year appointment, and this is considered a very prestigious appointment. They're working on their own research and writing in a setting where scholarly publication is going on." Tate also describes IEAHC as probably the only such center dealing with the entire field of history before 1820.

Although teaching and administration take up much of his time, Tate has continued his research on colonial Virginia. The latest product of that research is a collaborative effort between Tate, John Selby, who is chairman of the College's history department, and Warren Billings, a William and Mary alumnus who is now professor of history at Louisiana University. Their work together resulted in Colonial Virginia: A History, which is a new one-volume history published by Krous International Publishers, the final volume in a series that surveys the history of each of the thirteen colonies.

"To be really frank, being director of the Institute takes 100 percent of my time. Teaching and my scholarship are add-ons," says Tate. But like many William and Mary professors, he seems to have found a way to make each day longer than 24 hours. He has taught every year in residence at the College since 1961, teaching a variety of courses including at an earlier point in his career freshman sections of introductory European history. Tate's main interests are American environmental history and colonial history, and he now teaches a course a year and works with graduate students and undergraduate honors students.

Tate has had two leaves of absence for research, the first as a Fellow of the American Council of Learned Societies in 1970-71 and the second as a Fellow of the National Endowment for the Humanities in 1982-83. The second leave also included a semester research leave awarded him by the College.

"If you're going to be a fairly productive scholar, two leaves in 25 years is fairly minimal," says Tate, "I'm glad to have had them, but obviously, you need somewhat more teaching support given the heavy teaching load here. A lot of faculty members are involved in research areas where they need to travel. I'm fortunate in that I don't need to travel to do research on early Virginia history."

Tate also feels that in the last 25 years, the William and Mary faculty has evolved in strength. "There were good people when I came, but if you take the average level of attainment of the faculty, its scholarly quality has grown over the years. That's another reason why the faculty need support: I think people in some numbers are prepared to do good work."

With a historian's eye, Tate has also noticed the beginnings of a national phenomenon in higher education. "There has been a lack of new jobs in teaching because the number of people who came 10 to 15 years ago have stayed and are now senior faculty. They'll start turnover for retirement years down the road, and by the mid 1990s, there will be a critical shortage of faculty members. That coincides rather neatly with the 300th anniversary of the College, and if you look ahead, that's not very far away. William and Mary should be prepared to be competitive."

THE PULLEN PROFESSORSHIP

In 1979, the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore, Maryland established the William E. Pullen Professorship Endowment. The fund honored William E. Pullen for his distinguished service as chairman of the board and chief executive officer of U.S. Fidelity and Guaranty Company. Bill Pullen attended William and Mary in the early 1920s and later received his law degree from the University of Indiana. His remarkable career spanned more than fifty years in the insurance industry. At the death of Louise and Thomas Pullen, relatives of William E. Pullen, their bequest added to this endowed, Eminent Scholars professorship. Eminent Scholars professorships are eligible for matching funds from the Commonwealth of Virginia.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

JAMES C. LIVINGSTON, Walter G. Mason Professor of Religion

Striking the Right Balance

In 1968, James C. Livingston came to the College of William and Mary as founding chairman of the Department of Religion. Since then, he has watched it grow from two to seven full-time faculty members. Their teaching specialties cover a wide spectrum both historically and religiously, from ancient Indian and Greco-Roman religions to modern religious thought.

Livingston served as dean of the College's undergraduate program from 1973 to 1978. He has held three fellowships: two at Cambridge University in 1967-68 at Clare Hall and in 1972-73 from the American Council of Learned Societies. The other fellowship was held at Oxford University in 1979-80, from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

He has written or edited six books. His Matthew Arnold and Christianity has just been published this year, and he is currently finishing another titled Anatomy of the Sacred.

At the core of Livingston's professional activities is teaching, and, like many of his colleagues, James Livingston works hard to strike the right balance between teaching, research, serving on College committees, going to faculty meetings and having a personal life.

It's a challenge, to say the least. "Senior professors in many, if not most, of the departments at William and Mary still have a nine-hour teaching load - which can mean three different preparations each semester without a graduate student assisting them," says Livingston, who holds a master's degree and a Ph.D. degree from Columbia University and a master of divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary in New York.

"The positive thing about the College is that we still are devoted to undergraduate teaching and to spending a lot of time with our undergraduates."

For example, one of the courses Livingston teaches is an introductory course each fall, which averages 120 students. He gives at least three exams in this course, and when assigning papers for courses, he knows that it will take him one hour to read, grade and comment on each student paper. At many other universities, a graduate assistant would be grading those papers, not the senior professor teaching that course.

The Honors course that Livingston teaches covers 12 new books, one per week, and he, of course, must read them in preparation. More time is spent revising his lecture material each semester and keeping up with the masses of new literature constantly coming out in his field.

Yet one thing this professor stresses is that he is not unique in this kind of crowded schedule, although he is often singled out to give a perspective on the College and its faculty.

"We're very sensitive to the fact that there are a lot of people here who aren't properly honored - as I have just been. Some of the faculty are continually asked to do this, that and the other. Yet a lot of these people here go year in, year out, teaching and being productive, but they don't get a lot of public notice or publicity."

Because they're also expected to be fairly productive in research and publication, Livingston feels that the faculty is under added pressure. "Therefore, it's terribly important, as long as there's a high demand on both teaching and research and publication, that there be opportunities for the faculty to regularly have research leaves where they can work without interruption on a book or research in progress."

If one of William and Mary's unique qualities as an educational institution is its commitment to undergraduate teaching and to a high caliber of teacher-scholars, then it follows that its faculty members have some special qualities, too.

Says Livingston, "You've got to be fairly resilient, be able to concentrate your energies on one thing intensely and then shift to another."

"It takes a person who can discipline his use of time very carefully, because he constantly has to run off to meetings. It can be frustrating to run from a class to a meeting and also find time for research, so it can't be a person who is easily frustrated."

THE MASON PROFESSORSHIP

In 1978, Walter G. Mason, distinguished businessman of Lynchburg, Virginia, and members of his family established the Walter G. Mason Chair of Religion. Originally, the endowment enabled the College to invite to campus distinctive lecturers in the field of religious studies. The Mason family continued to contribute to the endowment over the years and in 1986 committed to establishing a full-time professorship in perpetuity. Walter Mason, who received an honorary Doctor of Laws from the College in 1983, has served as a rector of the Board of Visitors and is a life trustee of the Endowment Association. Four Mason children also attended the College. The Mason Professorship qualifies for matching funds from the Commonwealth under the Eminent Scholars Program.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

LILIAN R. FURST, William R. Kenan, Jr. Professor of Humanities

No Doubt About the Value of the Liberal Arts

Lilian Furst is unabashedly a zealous missionary for the liberal arts. She has devoted her life to teaching and scholarship and her accomplishments attest to her success. Professor of comparative literature at the University of Texas in Dallas, she was William R. Kenan Jr. Distinguished Professor at William and Mary for 1985-86.

Although a dedicated teacher, she doesn't overburden her students with work. Her reading assignments are lighter than most teachers give out, but Lilian Furst is nevertheless looking for quality, albeit in an unhurried manner.

"I assign few books so students will read more carefully," she explains. "I want people to discover the delight in reading. As for papers, I am always looking for quality, never quantity."

During her career, which has included visiting appointments at Harvard University (1983-84), Stanford Humanities Center as the Marta Sutton Weeks Fellow (1982-83), Stanford University (1981-82), Case Western Reserve and Dartmouth College, Miss Furst has taught a number of different courses in the field of comparative literature, and the common theme that runs through them has been the importance of teaching students how to deal with a text and know the pleasure of having the humanities in their lives.

"Reading books is not a very useful occupation, it is not going to make money, or further your career, but the value of it is twofold," she asserts. "Reading, writing and speaking well are the hallmarks of an educated person. They are basic to anything else one wants to do in life. . . . You need to be able to explain yourself and to deal with written texts and not be fooled by them. The humanities can teach you another dimension, the sheer pleasure and enrichment of life that comes from including books and music and painting. There is a late-19th-century saying, 'Art bakes no bread.' That may be true, but men and women do not live by bread alone. . . . They do live by the riches of the humanities."

Miss Furst admits that she gets a real "high" out of teaching and revels in the opportunity to pass her enthusiasm along to her students. It is hard to imagine that she once doubted her choice of profession. After what she describes as "three miserable years" at Cambridge University in England, she decided to try to get a job in business. She was rejected because her background did not include any business training. Once she began teaching, however, she knew that she had found her life's work.

Miss Furst received an honors degree in modern languages from the University of Manchester in England and a Ph.D. from Cambridge University. She also holds a degree in Italian, bestowed by the Italian government. She was born in Vienna, Austria, but left her native country for England when World War II broke out. She came to the United States in 1971 and became an American citizen in 1977.

After beginning her teaching career as an assistant professor of German at Queen's University in Belfast, she became professor of romance languages and director of the graduate program in comparative literature at the University of Oregon from 1972 to 1975. Since 1975 she has been a member of the faculty at the University of Texas. During the 1982-83 academic year, she was the recipient of a Guggenheim Fellowship.

She is the author of eight books, the latest Fictions of Romantic Irony, was published in 1984 in London by Macmillan and also in Cambridge, Mass., by the Harvard University Press. She is currently doing research for a forthcoming book, The Authenticity of the Illusion, a study of the presentation of place in realistic narratives.

Miss Furst's special campus style includes a series of monthly luncheons with faculty members in Tucker Hall, where she has her office. Seeking an interchange of ideas between different disciplines, she invites faculty members from all departments to participate.

This semester Miss Furst taught a course on adolescence in 20th-century literature. Using such works as the play "Equus," by Peter Schaffer, The Loneliness of the Long-Distance Runner, by Alan Sillitoe, The Bell Jar, by Sylvia Plath, and The Diary of a Young Girl, by Anne Frank.

Miss Furst explored the experiences of adolescents and how they are manifested in different cultures and environments. "We looked at adolescence as a search for identity, at rebellion and anger, the generation gap, the awakening of sexuality, the whole rite of passage from childhood to adulthood. We looked at how adolescents weather the passage and what makes a successful transition, why some come to grief and how literary portraits reflect the findings of psychologists, sociologists and our own experience." While the theme appeals to college-age students, the underlying purpose of the course goes back to Miss Furst's primary objectives - to teach people how to deal with a text and get pleasure from reading it, as well as spot ironies and learn how to deal with them.

Because of her background, Miss Furst is interested in both European and American educational systems. One of the problems of the American system, she feels, is that students do not do enough work in high schools and are not well prepared when they come to college and have to catch up. "There is a tendency," she says, "to try and squeeze too much into four years and bludgeon them with a huge quantity of work." The flexibility and openness of the American system, however, has advantages over the European system, she adds.

THE KENAN PROFESSORSHIP

The William R. Kenan Charitable Trust Foundation established this professorship in the humanities in 1981. Mr. Kenan, who died in 1965, had strong convictions about education and stated in his will: "I have always believed firmly that a good education is the most cherished gift an individual can receive, and it is my sincere hope that the provisions of this Article will result in substantial benefit to mankind." To support and perpetuate his wishes, Kenan provided for the William R. Kenan, Jr. Charitable Trust. The trustees, in keeping with Kenan's desires, established a professorship in the humanities at the College which qualified for matching funds from the Commonwealth's Eminent Scholars Program. The primary purpose of the professorship is to encourage excellence in teaching at the undergraduate level by supporting a professor with preeminence as a scholar and teacher.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

CIRILA DJORDJEVIC, Garrett-Robb-Guy Professor of Chemistry

"I Like Young People"

Dr. Cirila Djordjevic came to William and Mary in 1968 as a visiting professor in the chemistry department. She stayed on to teach and do research, and now, in 1986, finds the swift passage of time "incredible."

Since 1982, 19 undergraduates and five master's degree candidates have participated in her current research project, which focuses on the complex compounds relevant to the biochemistry of vanadium and molybdenum.

Djordjevic grew up in Slovenia, Yugoslavia, and moved to Zagreb after the German occupation. As a high school student, she first wanted to study math and music but decided on chemistry after graduation.

Her studies took her to the University of Zagreb and then to University College in London, England, for her Ph.D. degree. She returned to the University of Zagreb to teach, which was the next-to-last step on her path to William and Mary.

"I like young people, I always did," says Djordjevic. "I had many opportunities to work at research institutions as a scientist, but I wanted to be in teaching. The combination of science and students enhances teaching and research."

To this teacher-scientist, it's obvious that the two activities are inseparable. "In the sciences, it's my firm conviction that, at the university level, good research goes with teaching and good teaching goes with research."

Through the years, she has learned much about the students. Undergraduates need more attention and graduate students are more independent, but in essence, she feels, they're very similar. Her students go on to graduate school, medical school and industry, and later on, others go as Ph.D.'s to teaching or industry. She hears from many of them, and stays in touch.

"I was blessed with excellent students all through these 18 years, and there were very many students. Of these seniors and graduate students, I couldn't think of a single one that I didn't like as a human being or young co-worker. That's an incredible thing to say for an institution."

"In those 18 years, Djordjevic has also watched the chemistry department grow. There have been dramatic changes; we've progressed a lot and moved into a new building.

"Eight years ago, she got interested in metal-biochemistry, utilizing all of her previous research experience.

"Research is a lot of hard work, and is very demanding. There's always a kind of a thread connecting your research, and you branch into different areas as you mature in research and life."

Djordjevic says that she runs from one deadline to another. Used to a large research university, she has adapted to the limitations in supply services of a small university.

Another thing she's adapted to is time limitations. "I solved this by not doing much else, by working long hours and weekends. I've sacrificed some of my family time for it. The temptation is always there, she says, to go do other things: "There's such a beautiful countryside in Williamsburg."

THE FRIENDS OF THE LIBRARY

Generous Benefactors, Led by C. Waller Barrett, Help Sustain Swem Programs

The Friends of the Library of the College of William and Mary in Virginia was incorporated as a support organization of the College on May 1, 1985. In the last year, sustained by a number of generous benefactors but most of all by its honorary chairman, Jesse Choate Phillips '24 and Mrs. Phillips, the group has grown considerably from the earlier, and informal, program which began under the guidance of C. Waller Barrett. During the period, the Friends of the Library has promoted a series of book-related lectures, exhibits and receptions with a common purpose: the reintroduction of Earl Gregg Swem Library, already a splendid educational and research facility, as a focus of social as well as intellectual activity and a place for the display of its Special Collections. The present Friends' year will conclude with a string and pianoforte concert of Mendelssohn's works, with two special points of interest: it will celebrate the gift to the library of the Mendelssohn-Bartholdy family collection of books, presented by Ralph H. Wark, a founder-member of the Friends' board, and it will inaugurate in the Botetourt Gallery a piano which is contemporary with the Mendelssohn-Bartholdys' collecting period and which once belonged to and is signed by the Polish master, Paderewsky.

No Friends' organization could have had more expert or more thorough founding advice. It was because of a close family connection with the College in an earlier generation that Waller Barrett, a loyal alumnus and benefactor of the University of Virginia, responded to the request of President Thomas A. Graves Jr. that he help with the foundation of the group.

In accordance with Waller Barrett's advice, the Friends plan a fall-winter-spring program of lectures, book auctions and sales excursions, receptions and other book-related activities and gatherings. (The Friends will receive book and periodical gifts on behalf of the College and, with the consent of the donor, will sell unneeded items for the benefit of the Library.) Due notice of these events will be given in a twice-yearly Newsletter. Most meetings will take place on library premises and will be centered upon the handsome Friends' Room, with its Georgian-style display cases built with funds bequeathed by the late Admiral J. Lesslie Hall.

As the Friends gain momentum, however, the directors believe that there may be occasions for regional meetings. For example, last year the New York Chapter of the Society of the Alumni heard a presentation on the Special Collections of the Library and their extension and preservation. The directors have already resolved to do their best to make sure that the board is nationally representative and includes a good proportion of William and Mary alumni.

Membership is $25.00 per year, including a spouse, and is tax-deductible. If you are interested, please respond to The Friends of the Library, c/o Earl Gregg Swem Library, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va. 23185.

GARRETT-ROBB-GUY PROFESSORSHIP

In 1985, Mrs. Gladys B. Guy gave to the College the home in which she and her late husband, William George Guy, had lived for many years. Upon the sale of the house and in accordance with her late husband's wishes, the proceeds went to establish a professorship in chemistry. The professorship honors three men who chaired the department in this century: Van Franklin Garrett, Robert Gilchrist Robb, and William George Guy. These three men made a distinctive mark on the Chemistry Department and on the College through their fine scholarship and teaching. The Garrett-Robb-Guy Professorship is eligible for matching funds from the Commonwealth under the Eminent Scholars Program.

FOCUS ON FACULTY

1984-85 Grants and Research Report

1984-1985 GRANTS AND RESEARCH HIGHLIGHTS

- * Expenditures for research and instruction from public and private grants totalled $6.4 million in 1984-85, a 33 percent increase over 1983-84.
 - * Expenditures for externally sponsored faculty projects in arts and sciences, business, education and law were in excess of $3.3 million in 1984-85, a 60 percent increase over 1983-84.
 - * This $1.2 million increase in expenditures exceeds the total amount of $1.05 million expended in 1977-78, when the Office of Grants Administration was reorganized.
 - * Externally sponsored research support at VIMS, after enduring three difficult years of program cutbacks, grew 11 percent in 1984-85.
 - * Federal, state and private grant support for academic programs is equivalent to an additional $1,000 per student and represents 15 percent of the total Education and General Budget for the university.
 - * Approximately one-fourth of the university's faculty members received some support from external agencies for their research interests.
 - * Over 70 faculty members received compensation, including summer research salaries, from grants.
 - * Over 150 students received at least partial support from research grant funds.
 - * Indirect costs included in these awards provided $239,000, or over half of the amount needed to support the Summer and Semester Research Grants programs:
 - * 32 faculty members received Summer Faculty Research Grants.
 - * 21 faculty members were awarded Semester Research Assignments.
- These funds are a direct result of the initiative of the university's faculty members and their ability to compete on a national level for these awards.

David Kranbuehl
Director, Grants and Research Administration

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY EXPENDITURES FOR SPONSORED PROGRAMS 1984-1985

Faculty of Arts and Sciences	$2,711,810
School of Business	229,058
School of Education	175,949
School of Law	13,070
School of Marine Science	2,334,922
Student Affairs	809,484
Other (Public Service, Library, Museums, Bus. Affairs)	95,561
TOTAL	$6,369,854

RESEARCH PROJECTS

FEDERAL FUNDS

Faculty of Arts and Sciences

- Andersen, Carl, mathematics; "Tire Nonlinear Model," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $75,389 (10/16/84-10/15/85)
- Austin, John, physics; "Stratosphere Sounding Unit Data and Nimbus 7 LIMS Measurements to Perform Photochemical Investigations of the Stratosphere," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $33,200 (7/1/84-5/31/85); $3,200 (6/1/85-8/31/85).
- Bartlett, Karen, biology; "Biogenic Modulation of Methane in the Global Troposphere," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $22,337 (7/1/84-1/31/85); $42,618 (2/1/85-1/31/86).
- Benner, Chris, physics; "Halogen Occultation Experiment Investigation," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $59,325 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Benner, Chris, physics; "High Resolution Spectroscopy of Support Atmospheric Measurements," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $57,502 (4/1/85-3/31/86).
- Brewer, Dana, chemistry; "Development and Evaluation of Analytical Models for Space Station Systems Analysis," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $56,580 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Bynum, William, computer science, and Jagdish Sanwal, mathematics; "A Software Toolbox for Robotics," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $42,987 (10/15/84-10/14/85).
- Carli, Bruno, physics; "Task Assignment Number 6," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $23,000 (4/20/84-4/30/85).
- Champion, Roy and Lynn Doverspike, physics; "Negative Ion Detachment Cross Sections," Department of Energy, $84,000 (3/1/85-2/28/86).

- Collins, Robert and Robert Noonan, computer science; "The Specification, Design, and Implementation of a Toolset Command Language Via Rapid Prototyping," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $8,307 (11/1/84-5/31/85).
- Collins, Vernon, chemistry; "Task Assignment Number 1," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $7,428 (7/1/84-9/30/84); $25,100 (10/1/84-12/31/85).
- Delos, John, physics; "Elementary Processes of Chemistry," National Science Foundation, $51,800 (6/1/85-12/31/86).
- Eckhause, Morton, John Kane, Robert Siegel and Robert Welsh, physics; "Experiments on the Interactions of Muons, Kaons, Antiprotons and Sigma Hyperons," National Science Foundation, $431,694; NSF Office of Advanced Scientific Computing, $19,000 (1/1/85-6/30/86).
- Finifter, David, economics; "Support Services to Assist the Job Training Longitudinal Survey Technical Advisory Panel," Department of Labor/Westat, Inc., $7,184 (12/15/84-3/15/85).
- Gapczynski, John, computer science; "Analysis of the Thermal and Momentum Budgets of the Stratosphere Utilizing the Nimbus Seven Satellite Temperature Data," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $12,629 (7/1/84-4/30/85).
- Gordley, Larry, physics; "Data Inversion Algorithm Development for the Halogen Occultation Experiment," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $113,101 (12/1/84-10/31/85).
- Hubbard, Harvey, physics; "Large Wind Turbulence Acoustics - Phase V," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $27,234 (7/1/84-11/30/84); $50,057 (12/1/84-11/30/85).
- Kemp, William, Jr., computer science; "Wall Interference Assessment in Three-Dimensional Slotted-Wall Wind Tunnels," National Aeronautics

- and Space Administration, $17,616 (7/1/84-9/30/84); $44,544 (10/16/84-10/15/85).
- Kincaid, Rex, mathematics; "Task Assignment Number 10," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $1,844 (7/15/85-7/26/85).
- Krakauer, Henry, physics; "Electronic Structure, Geometry, Equation-of-State, and Structural Transition of d-band Surfaces and Solids and f-band Metals and Compounds," National Science Foundation, $73,600; NSF Office of Advanced Scientific Computing, $76,000 (12/15/84-5/31/86).
- Kranbuehl, David, chemistry; "Characterization of the Relationship of the Cure Cycle Chemistry to Cure Cycle Processing Properties," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $28,000 (7/9/84-11/30/84); $84,828 (12/1/84-11/30/85).
- Kruszewski, Edwin, physics; "Development of a Unified Dynamic Structural Mechanics Theory for Beams," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $43,100 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Li, Peter and Roy Champion, physics; "Task Assignment Number 4," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $5,927 (7/1/84-9/30/84).
- Mangum, Charlotte, biology; "Adaptability of Blood Oxygen Carriers: Mechanisms and Evolutionary Origins," National Science Foundation, $30,284 (3/1/85-8/31/86).
- McGehee, John, computer science; "Task Assignment Number 8," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $22,372 (7/1/84-2/28/85).
- Miller, Keith, computer science; "Specifying and Developing Image Processing Software Using Algebraic Abstract Data Types," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $29,632 (10/25/84-10/24/85).
- Morgan, Philip, history and Institute of Early American History and Culture; "The World of an Anglo-Jamaican in the Eighteenth Century," National Endowment for the Humanities, $45,000 (8/1/85-12/31/86).
- Namkung, Min, physics; "Study of Static and Dynamic Stress Effects in Nonlinear Solids," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $23,311 (7/1/84-11/30/84); $50,980 (12/1/84-11/30/85).
- Orwoll, Robert, chemistry; "Radiation Effects on High Performance Polymers," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $8,206 (6/1/85-9/30/85).
- Prosser, William, physics; "Task Assignment Number 7," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $4,110 (7/1/84-8/31/84).
- Runyan, Harry, physics; "Program of Research in Helicopter Aerodynamic Theory," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $3,778 (7/1/84-10/19/84); $28,900 (10/20/84-10/19/85).
- Schone, Harlan, physics; "U.S.-Hungary Cooperative Research on NMR in Amorphous Metals," National Science Foundation, $20,300 (2/15/85-7/31/88).
- Scott, Joseph, biology; "Comparative Nuclear Cytology in the Red Algae," National Science Foundation, $33,294 (10/1/84-3/31/86).
- Scott, Joseph, Charlotte Mangum and Norman Fashing, biology; "Acquisition of a Transmission Electron Microscope," National Science Foundation, $59,375 (11/1/84-4/30/86).
- Siegel, Richard and Roy Champion, physics; "Task Assignment Number 9," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $2,192 (6/24/85-8/15/85).
- Vahala, George, physics; "Nonlinear Magneto-hydrodynamics," Department of Energy, $18,000 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Vahala, Linda and George Vahala, physics; "The Effects of Alpha Particles on CO₂ Laser Scattering from a Fusion Plasma," Department of Energy, $9,305 (7/1/84-12/31/84); $16,600 (3/15/84-12/31/85).
- Welch, Christopher, physics; "Quantitative Non-Destructive Evaluation Imaging," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $83,456 (7/1/84-4/30/85); $103,109 (5/1/85-4/30/86).
- Yost, William, and Rolf Winter, arts and sciences; "Ultrasonic Diagnosis of Skin Burns on Humans," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $34,192 (7/1/84-9/30/85).

School of Marine Science

- Austin, Herbert and James Colvocoresses, "Development of an Index of Juvenile Striped Bass Abundance of the Chesapeake Bay System," National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration/Council on the Environment, $28,000 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Bender, Michael, "A Survey of Potential Problems Related to Toxic Organic Chemical Contamination of Aquatic Environment," National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $77,627 (8/1/84-12/31/85).
- Burrenson, Eugene, "Oyster Pathogens, Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $28,100 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Byles, Richard, "Design of Turtle Transmitter," National Marine Fisheries Service, $5,700 (3/22/85-6/30/85).
- Byles, Richard, "Sea Turtle Monitoring," National Marine Fisheries Service, $25,000 (7/1/84-6/30/85).
- Byrne, Robert, "Geological and Geotechnical Study of Chesapeake Sediments and Paleo-Channels,"

- Office of Naval Research, $34,258 (7/1/84-12/31/85).
- Byrne, Robert and Scott Hardaway, "Shoreline Erosion Assessment," Army Corps of Engineers, $24,955 (2/19/85-8/31/85).
- Castagna, Michael, "In Situ Studies of Ocean Quilting Artica Islandica Growth in National Populations," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $2,135 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Chu, Fu-Lin, "Acquired Immunity in Oysters," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $40,472 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Diaz, Robert, "Field Validation of Benthic Microcosm Test System," Environmental Protection Agency, $350,000 (10/22/84-10/21/85).
- Diaz, Robert, "Relationship between Subject Resource and Sediment Input into the Chesapeake Bay," Corps of Engineers, $9,600 (3/1/85-TBA).
- DuPaul, William, "Marine Advisory Services," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $419,908 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Ellis Lee, "Cryopreservatives in Bivalves," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $30,783 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Hargis, William, "Menhaden Disease Project," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $1,000 (5/1/85-12/31/85).
- Hargis, William, "Preparation of a Report on Tumors in Aquatic Animals," National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $1,000 (TBA).
- Hargis, William, "Report on Marine Diseases in Fish Population," National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $2,400 (3/5/85-6/28/85).
- Hobbs, C. H., "A Cooperative Study of the Marine Geology of the Chesapeake Bay and Continental Shelf," U.S. Geological Survey, $24,950 (7/1/84-12/31/85).
- Hobbs, Carl, "Fossil Shell Resources," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $28,408 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Kator, Howard, "Self-Purification in Shellfish," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $50,100 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Loesch, Joseph, "Multivariate Analysis of Meristic Characters of Juvenile Alosa," National Marine Fisheries Service, $11,900 (7/1/84-9/30/85).
- Loesch, Joseph and William Kriete, "Study of Alosa Stock Composition and Year-Class Strength in Virginia," National Marine Fisheries Service, $89,700 (2/14/85-2/14/86).
- Loesch, Joseph and J. Colvocoresses, "Study of Striped Bass/Commercial Fisheries and Juvenile Abundance," National Marine Fisheries Service, $121,600 (10/1/84-3/31/86).
- MacIntyre, William, "Investigation of Deviations in the Two-Liquid Phase of Medium Molecular Weight of Hydrocarbon Mixtures and Water," U.S. Air Force, $43,245 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Musick, John, "Determinants of Nekton Community Structure in Shallow Marsh Habitats," Environmental Protection Agency/Virginia Commonwealth University, $33,405 (4/85-5/86).
- Musick, John, "A Summary of Lift and Drag and Related Drag Reducing Mechanism in Fishes," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $16,000 (11/84-4/86).
- Neilson, Bruce, "Assessing an Index for Management of Oyster Growing Waters," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $9,000 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Neilson, Bruce and Robert Huggett, "Mainstream Water Monitoring and Sediment Sampling," Environmental Protection Agency/State Water Control Board, $167,930 (3/15/85-12/31/85).
- Neilson, Bruce and Robert Huggett, "Monitor Water and Sediment Quality in the Virginia Portion of the Chesapeake Bay," Environmental Protection Agency/State Water Control Board, $92,785 (7/84-3/31/85).
- Olney, John, "Biological Relevance of Patterns of Larval Fish," National Science Foundation, $54,999 (4/85-6/86).
- Olney, John and Bruce Comyns, "Predators and Striped Bass Eggs and Larvae," Fish and Wildlife Service, $70,496 (4/22/85-10/22/86).
- Olney, John, "Relative Contribution of Three Virginia Rivers to Spawning Activity of Striped Bass Morone saxatilis, 1983," National Marine Fisheries Service, $15,000 (7/1/84-12/31/84).
- Orth, Robert J., "Abundance of SubAquatic Vegetation," National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration/Council on the Environment, $18,035 (8/85-TBA).
- Orth, Robert J., "Shallow Water Habitats for Crabs," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $38,200 (1/1/85-12/31/85).
- Perkins, Frank and Patrice Mason, "TEM Studies on NASA/LRC Materials," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $7,957 (7/1/84-9/15/85).
- Webb, Kenneth, "Automated Enumeration of Planktonic Organisms by Digital Analysis of Pattern Recognition of Color Video Images," Department of Defense/U.S. Navy, $132,000 (9/84-8/85).
- Weeks, B. A., "Effects of Environmental Pollutants on the Cellular Immune Response of Fish," Sea Grant/National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, $14,000 (1/1/85-12/31/85).

FOCUS ON FACULTY

STATE, LOCAL AND REGIONAL FUNDS

Faculty of Arts and Sciences

- Byrd, Mitchell, biology; "Endangered Species Program," Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, $79,470 (7/1/84-6/30/85).
- Kranbuehl, David, chemistry; "Characterization of the Relationship of Dynamic Dielectric Properties to Cure Cycle Processing of High Temperature Composite Resins," Center for Innovative Technology, $14,000 (3/1/85-9/30/85).

School of Marine Science

- Anderson, Gary L., "Public Beach Advisory," Department of Conservation and Economic Development, $58,549 (7/1/84-6/30/85).
- Austin, Herbert M. and Howard I. Kator, "Factors Affecting Recruitment of Virginia's Critical Fish Population," Council on the Environment, $91,770 (7/1/84-6/30/85).
- Austin, Herbert M., Howard I. Kator, and Bruce J. Neilson, "River Circulation Studies for Revitalization of James River Seed Oyster Industry," Council on the Environment, $393,976 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Barrick, Susan, "Update and Maintain Chesapeake Bay Bibliography," Maryland Department of Natural Resources, $25,000 (6/85-11/87).
- Bender, Michael, "Kepone Analysis," State Water Control Board, $7,150 (7/1/84-6/30/85).
- Bender, Michael, "PNA Analysis of Sediment Samples for the Compostella Bridge Project," Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation, $580.

- Byles, Richard and John Musick, "Monitoring Sea Turtle Migration," Virginia Department of Highways and Transportation, $42,842 (3/20/85-12/31/85).

- Byles, Richard, "Mortalities, Activities, Behavior, and Migratory Pathways of Sea Turtles in Virginia," Virginia Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries, $52,000 (6/26/85-TBA).

- Defur, Paul, "Development of Advanced Toxic Analysis, Detection System and Data Base," State Water Control Board, $198,605 (2/1/85-6/30/86).

- Defur, Paul, "Sediment Organic Tributary Monitoring," State Water Control Board, $11,381 (2/1/85-9/30/85).

- DuPaul, William, "A Seafood Quality Program for the Mid-Atlantic Region," Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, $30,963 (1/1/85-12/31/85).

- Grulich, Ron, "Development of Economic Data Base for Describing Virginia Commercial Harvest Sector," Council on the Environment, $9,000 (5/1/85-11/1/86).

- Huggett, Robert, "James River Core Samples," Richmond Regional Planning District Commission, $4,863 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Huggett, Robert, "Toxicant Organics in Sediment from the James and Appomattox Rivers," Richmond Regional Planning District, $15,854 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Kator, Howard, "Ammonized Nitrate Oxidizing Bacteria from Waters and Sediment of the James River," Richmond Regional Planning District Commission, $28,594 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Mann, Roger, "Lipids and Metamorphosis in Bivalves," Sea Grant/Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute, $5,625 (3/1/85-TBA).

- Mann, Roger, "Metamorphosis in Wood-Boring Molluscs," Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute/Office of Naval Research, $32,175 (2/15/85-9/86).

- Neilson, Bruce, "Measurement of Sediment and Oxygen Demand in the Upper James River," Richmond Regional Planning District Commission, $15,600 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Roberts, Morris, "Evaluation of the Contaminated Sediments in the James River," Richmond Regional Planning District Commission, $37,681 (7/1/84-9/30/85).

- Webb, Kenneth, "Cost Effective Water Quality Determinates," University of Maryland, $7,200 (9/1/84-8/31/85).

- Wright, Don, "Mud Underflow Dynamics in the Bohai Peninsula," Louisiana State University/Office of Naval Research, $13,637 (3/1/85-7/31/86).

PRIVATE FUNDS

Faculty of Arts and Sciences

- Conradi, Mark, physics; "Condition Jump NMR in Solids," Jeffress Memorial Trust, $17,250 (7/1/85-6/30/86).

- Drown, Debra, psychology; "Battered Women: Attributions of Causality, Responsibility and Blame," Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues, $500 (2/15/85-12/15/85).

- Hill, Trevor, chemistry; "Preparation of Chemical Intermediates," Mobil Chemical Company, $3,533 (1/1/85-5/1/85); $102,000 (6/17/85-5/16/86).

- Hoegerman, Stanton, biology; "Identification of Individuals with the Fragile X Syndrome," Eastern Virginia Medical School, $5,536 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Kranbuehl, David, chemistry; "Characterization of High Performance Materials," General Electric Company, $42,266 (5/1/84-4/30/85).

- Rice, Gary, chemistry; "Development of Element Specific, Multi-element Detectors for Chromatography," Petroleum Research Fund, $15,000 (9/1/85-8/31/87).

School of Marine Science

- Bender, Michael and Morris Roberts, "Chemical Uptake by Oysters," Norfolk Southern Railroad, $2,200 (5/1/85-9/85).

- Bender, Michael and Morris Roberts, "An Evaluation of Effect of Coal Particles on the Eastern Oyster," Norfolk Southern Railroad, $22,528 (2/11/85-4/30/85).

- Diaz, Robert J., "Radiological Sampling, 1985," Newport News Shipbuilding, $6,158 (5/85-TBA).

- DuPaul, William, "An Economic and Marketing Analysis of the Dogfish Industry in the Atlantic Region," Mid-Atlantic Fisheries Development Foundation, $14,957 (1/1/85-9/30/85).

- Gammisch, Sue, "The Chesapeake: Prologue to the Future," Year of the Ocean, $5,000 (3/85-9/85).

- Gammisch, Sue, "Teachers Resource Packet," Year of the Ocean, $4,870 (4/19/85-6/19/85).

- Grant, George, "Analysis of Water Samples," James R. Reed and Associates, $330 (7/1/84-11/30/84).

- Huggett, Robert, "Interlaboratory Calibration Exercise for Organic Chemicals," American Petroleum Institute, $2,883 (1/1/85-3/30/85).

- Kator, Howard, "Evaluation of Menhaden Process Wastes and Waters for Production of Methane," Standard Products, $6,675 (8/84-12/85).

- Roberts, Morris, "Mixed Function Oxidase Enzymes of Spot or Croaker," Virginia Environmental Endowment, $21,466 (4/1/85-3/31/86).

INSTRUCTION AND PUBLIC SERVICE PROJECTS

FEDERAL FUNDS

Faculty of Arts and Sciences

- Scherff, Susan and Norman Barka, anthropology; "Intergovernmental Personnel Assignment to Fort Monroe," Department of the Army, $29,980 (9/1/84-8/31/85).

School of Education

- Prillaman, Douglas, "Interrelated Regular and Special Education Doctoral Administration Training Program," Department of Education, $84,145 (6/1/85-5/31/86).

Marshall-Wythe School of Law

- Levy, John, Marshall-Wythe School of Law; "Post-Conviction Assistance Program," Department of Justice, $4,200 (10/1/84-9/30/85).

- Levy, John, "Elderlaw Project," Legal Services Corporation, $80,000 (7/1/85-6/30/87).

Student Affairs

- McCormick, Edward, Office of Student Financial Aid; Pell Grant Program, $407,521; College Work-Study Program, $142,781; National Direct Student Loan Program, $43,706; Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, $46,580, Department of Education (7/1/85-6/30/86).

Other

- Barnes, Carson, Office of Special Programs; "Our Future in the Cosmos Series," National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $23,292 (7/1/84-1/15/85).

- Holmes, Carolyn, Ash Lawn; "Museum Assessment Program II," Institute of Museum Services, $1,000 (3/1/85-2/28/86).

- Holmes, Carolyn, Ash Lawn; "General Operating Support," Institute of Museum Services, $40,466 (7/1/85-6/30/86).

- Kale, Louise and Glenn Lowry, Muscarelle Museum of Art; "Conservation of Prints and Drawings," Institute of Museum Services, $7,420 (10/1/84-9/30/85).

- Robinson, Dale, Affirmative Action/Equal Employment Opportunity; "Graduate and Professional Study Fellowship Program," Department of Education, $77,700 (9/1/85-8/31/86).

STATE, REGIONAL AND LOCAL FUNDS

Faculty of Arts and Sciences

- Ayisi, Eric, anthropology, and Berhanu Abegaz, economics; "The Crisis of Transition in Modern Africa: Story of a Human Tragedy," Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy, $4,500 (6/7/85-1/31/86).

- Barka, Norman, anthropology; "Phase I Archaeological Survey of Grove Neighborhood," James City County, Virginia, $1,747.50 (April 1985).

- Kornwolf, James, fine arts; "A Symposium: Modernism in American Architecture," Virginia Commission for the Arts, $1,500 (7/1/85-12/31/85).

- Palmer, Richard, theatre and speech; "Virginia Shakespeare Festival," James City County, Virginia, $1,100 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Palmer, Richard, theatre and speech; "Virginia Shakespeare Festival," Virginia Commission for the Arts, $3,500 (6/1/85-8/31/85).

- Palmer, Richard, theatre and speech; "Virginia Shakespeare Festival," Williamsburg Commission for the Arts, $3,000 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Palmer, Richard, theatre and speech; "Virginia Shakespeare Festival," York County, Virginia, $1,000 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Rohrbaugh, Michael and Neill Watson, psychology; "Practicum in Family Therapy," Williamsburg-James City County Public School System, $5,000 (9/16/84-6/15/85).

School of Business

- Maidment, Robert, William Bullock and Robert Hanny, School of Education; and William Warren, School of Business Administration; "Manpower Development and Training Services," Virginia Department of Personnel and Training, $11,200 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

School of Education

- Adair, Fred, "Family Counseling Program," Peninsula Area Cooperative Educational Services, $13,000 (9/1/84-6/30/85).

- Gulesian, Mark, "Eastern Virginia Writing Project," Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy, $25,000 (4/1/85-6/30/86).

- Maidment, Robert, William Bullock and Robert Hanny, School of Education; and William Warren, School of Business Administration; "Manpower Development and Training Services," Virginia Department of Personnel and Training, $11,200 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

Student Affairs

- Hardy, Carroll and Samuel Sadler, "1985 Virginia Student Transition Program," State Council of Higher Education in Virginia, $58,350 (4/25/85-6/30/86).

Other

- Haskell, John, Jr., Earl Gregg Swem Library; "Serial Conversion Project," State Council of Higher Education in Virginia, $25,000 (5/15/85-6/30/86).

- Holmes, Carolyn, Ash Lawn; "Ash Lawn Summer Festival," Virginia Commission for the Arts, $3,000 (6/15/85-8/18/85).

- Holmes, Carolyn, Ash Lawn; "The Making of President James Monroe," Virginia Foundation for the Humanities and Public Policy, $5,500 (6/5/84-2/28/86).

PRIVATE FUNDS

Faculty of Arts and Sciences

- Rohrbaugh, Michael and Neill Watson, psychology; "Assistantship in Clinical Psychology," Health Care International, Inc., $5,000 (10/1/84-6/30/85).

- Scholnick, Robert, English and American studies program; "Science and the American Imagination," GTE Foundation Lectureship Program, $4,000 (9/1/85-4/30/86).

School of Business

- Holliday, Kathryn, Management Consulting Group; "Survey of Mount Vernon," $700 (4/9/85-6/30/85).

- Leverenz, Julia, "Center for Executive Development," Public Agencies, Private Agencies and Companies, $112,598 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

- Leverenz, Julia, "Women in Business," Public Agencies, Private Agencies, Companies and Individuals, $50,491 (7/1/84-6/30/85).

FACULTY FELLOWSHIP AWARDS

- Beck, Ruth, biology, 1985 Summer Stipend, Virginia Chapter, The Nature Conservancy.

- Braxton, Joanne, English, 1984 Summer Seminar, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Braxton, Joanne, English, 1984 Mellon Scholar-National Fellow, Mellon Foundation.

- Bynum, William, computer science, 1985 NASA/ASEE Summer Fellowship, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

- Chappell, Miles, fine arts, Travel to Collections Grant, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Coleman, Randolph, chemistry, 1985 NASA/ASEE Summer Fellowship, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

- Donaldson, Scott, English, 1984-85 Fellowship for College Teachers, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Ewell, Judith, history, 1985 Summer Stipend, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Fowler, Mark, philosophy, 1985 Summer Seminar, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Fuchs, Alan, philosophy, 1984 Summer Seminar, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Greenia, George, modern languages and literatures, 1985 Summer Seminar, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Greenia, George, modern languages and literatures, Travel to Collections Grant, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Hallett, Ronald, modern languages and literatures, 1984 Summer Seminar, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Harris, James, philosophy, Travel to Collections Grant, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Holmes, David, religion, Travel to Collections Grant, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Kiefer, Richard, chemistry, 1985 NASA/ASEE Summer Fellowship, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

- Livingston, James, religion, 1984 Summer Stipend, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Mackey, Steven, music, Guggenheim Fellowship, John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation.

- Mather, Clare, modern languages and literatures, 1985 Summer Seminar, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Miller, Keith, computer science, 1984 NASA/ASEE Summer Fellowship, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

- Morrell, Larry, computer science, 1985 NASA/ASEE Summer Fellowship, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

- Nettels, Elsa, English, 1984 Fellowship for College Teachers, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Oakley, John, classical studies, 1985 Grant-in-Aid, American Council of Learned Societies.

- Palmer, Robert, Marshall-Wythe School of Law, Bill of Rights Institute, 1984 Summer Stipend, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Rublein, George, mathematics, 1985 NASA/ASEE Summer Fellowship, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

- Sanwal, Jagdish, mathematics, 1985 NASA/ASEE Summer Fellowship, National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

- Schiavelli, Melvyn, chemistry, NATO Travel Grant, North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

- Sullivan, Vinson, anthropology, Fulbright Award, Malaysian-American Commission on Educational Exchange.

- Tabor, James, 1985 Summer Seminar, National Endowment for the Humanities.

- Thompson, David, chemistry, NATO Travel Grant, North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Research by faculty at William and Many translates directly into excellence in teaching. Federal, state and private grant support for academic programs is equivalent to an additional $1,000 per student and represents 15 percent of the total educational and general budget for the College.