

Alumni Gazette

The College of William and Mary

March 1990 • Vol. 57, No. 6

Sevareid Says: America Needs Honesty, Sacrifice, Altruism

Describing his presence at Charter Day as "an unexpected and undeserved honor," Eric Sevareid, the 77-year-old white-haired former reporter, television commentator and anchorman, received a standing ovation after his address on the 297th anniversary celebration of the founding of William and Mary on Feb. 3.

Speaking from more than 38 years of worldwide reportorial experience, Sevareid offered his thoughts on the challenges facing the world and used words like "honesty," "character," "duty," "sacrifice" and "altruism" in suggesting how America should respond to them.

Sevareid, who recalled his early life on "the bleak stretches of northwestern North Dakota, just where the Great Plains begin the slow rise of the Missouri Escarpment," received an honorary doctor of humane letters degree in recognition of a career that took him to the battlegrounds of World War II, to the Oval Office of the White House, to the founding of the United Nations at San Francisco and to the convention halls where presidents were nominated.

"Your distinguished career has been driven by your desire for seeking out the truth and reporting it in an honest and fair fashion," read the citation.

Joining Sevareid in receiving an honorary doctor of humane letters degree was Dennis Thompson '62, Alfred North Whitehead Professor of Political Philosophy and director of the Program in Ethics and the Professions at Harvard University. Dr. Thompson, who delivered a lecture during the Charter Day Weekend under the auspices of the Public Policy Program, was recognized for his "many contributions to a better understanding of the nature of ethics and public policy."

Two distinguished and popular William and Mary professors received Jefferson awards at the ceremonies for their contributions to academic life at the College.

Journalist Eric Sevareid receives honorary doctor of humane letters degree at Charter Day ceremonies.

Morton Eckhause, professor of physics who joined the faculty in 1964, received the Thomas Jefferson Award for emulating those characteristics that Jefferson would have conceived as "essential to the intellectual, social and political advancement of mankind." Eckhause specializes in high energy and nuclear physics.

R. Heather Macdonald, associate professor of geology, received the Thomas Jefferson Teaching Award, which is given to a younger member of the faculty "who has demonstrated the inspiration and stimulation of learning to the betterment of the individual and society as exemplified by Thomas Jefferson." Macdonald, who joined the faculty in 1983, specializes in the study of shales in the Dakotas and Virginia. According to her citation, she has been described by many students as "the best instructor I have had at William and Mary."

In his address, Sevareid said "We are all familiar with the discomfiting litany of crime and illness and illiteracy and anonymity, and what seems to be a growing fragmentation by race and region and language. The great courage of total honesty will be required of those who truly turn to face the truth of our present era."

Recalling President Woodrow Wilson's admonition that "America will be surprised to find herself grown old, crowded, perplexed," he said that "the generation of the young" must lead the nation by acting with a sense of "duty" and "sacrifice," words that are rarely used today.

"There is a very real pressing sense in which history does now begin with the young," Sevareid said. "The political leaders of my generation are philosophically worn out. This new world is at the mercy of those now young. From them, too, must come the new definition of what has been called 'the American Way.'"

A native of Velva, N.D., Sevareid graduated from the University of Minnesota in 1935 and joined CBS in 1939 as a member of a news team assembled by the late Edward R. Murrow. As a newsman for five decades, he has been a war correspondent, radio news broadcaster, television commentator and columnist, as well as a newspaper reporter and editor for the Paris Herald and United Press. Since his retirement in 1977, Sevareid has been actively involved with CBS News by providing advice as a consultant, participating in CBS television and radio programs for interviews and discussions and representing CBS at official hearings and public functions.

Thompson is a summa cum laude graduate of William and Mary who took a first-class honors degree in philosophy, politics and economics at Balliol College, Oxford University, in 1964 and received a Ph.D. in political science from Harvard in 1968. Prior to returning to Harvard in 1986, he taught at Princeton University, where he served several terms as chairman of the Department of Politics. His most recent book, Political Ethics and Public Office, published by Harvard University Press, won the American Political Science Association award for the "best political science publication in the field of U.S. National Politics" in 1987.

Mr. and Mrs. Sevareid are welcomed to the President's House for a luncheon on Charter Day by Fran Verkuil '66.

"The generation of the young" must lead the nation by acting with a sense of duty and sacrifice, Eric Sevareid said in his Charter Day address to a capacity audience in Phi Beta Kappa Hall on Feb. 3.

Alumni Gazette

The College of William and Mary

March 1990 Vol. 57, No. 6

TABLE OF CONTENTS

- 1 Sevareid Speaks at Charter Day
Famed journalist calls for return of old-fashioned values.
- 2 Society Elects New Officers
Acuff, Entwisle, Montgomery and Schaubach to lead alumni.
- 3 The Governor's Spokesperson
Laura Dillard '87 named press secretary by Governor Wilder.
- 4 Campaign Passes Halfway Mark
Campaign for the Fourth Century passes $75 million as Clarke, McGlothlins announce major gifts.
- 5 An Expanded Alumni House
Campaign seeks $3 million to double size of Alumni House.
- 6 Durak Reaches Top Tier of Tennis
Danielle Durak overcomes obstacles to establish herself as top tennis player.
- 7 Ex-Tribe Stars Are Honored
Jack Cloud and Jeff Cohen receive special honors, while eight are named to Hall of Fame.
- 8 Alumni College Explores Changes in Communism
The "Changing Face of Communism" is this summer's topic for Alumni College.
- 9 Health Center Emphasizes Service
Student Health Center staff follows values of Center's namesake.

The Alumni Gazette and William and Mary Magazine are published eight times a year by the Society of the Alumni of the College of William and Mary. Address correspondence, Class Notes and Vital Statistics (Births and Marriages) to Alumni Gazette, P. O. Box 60, Williamsburg, VA 23187 (804) 221-1842.

Executive Publisher W. Barry Adams
 Editor S. Dean Olson
 Associate Editor Virginia C. Collins '77
 Design June Skalak
 Photography C. James Gleason
 Composition Sylvia B. Colston
 Director of Administration and Records Ben F. Kellam III '78
 Assistant Director (Society Services) Charles L. Kendrick '82
 Director of Alumni Affairs Lee Johnston Foster
 Assistant Director (Chapters) Richard D. T. Overy '88
 Assistant Director (Reunions and Campus Activities) Elizabeth S. Littlefield '86
 Assistant Director (Law School and OWJ) Suzanne Tucker

BOARD OF DIRECTORS

Society of the Alumni
 A. Marshall Acuff, Jr. '62, President
 John S. Entwisle '44, Vice President
 Joseph W. Montgomery '74, Secretary
 Carolyn Todd Schaubach '59, Treasurer
 Sarah Kemp Brady '64
 Vincent T. DeVita, Jr. '57
 Jane Ottaway Dow '55
 Joseph J. Ellis '65
 J. Edward Grimsley '51
 Anne Nenzel Lambert '35
 Lucy Jones Murphy '48
 Ann-Meade Baskerville Simpson '65
 H. Mason Sizemore Jr. '63
 Rebecca Beach Smith '71, '79 J.D.
 Henry T. Tucker Jr. '72

Riverside, Conn.
 Williamsburg, Va.
 Williamsburg, Va.
 Norfolk, Va.
 Arlington, Va.
 New York, N.Y.
 Grosse Point Farms, Mich.
 South Hadley, Mass.
 Richmond, Va.
 Williamsburg, Va.
 Merry Point, Va.
 Virginia Beach, Va.
 Seattle, Wash.
 Norfolk, Va.
 Richmond, Va.

RINGING FAR AND NEAR

Alumni College '90

Eastern Bloc Transformation Worth Exploring and Understanding

By Barry Adams

No doubt our alumni and friends who attended last year's Alumni College felt passionately about the theme "Exploring the Chesapeake Bay." The program was sold out and several of those who attended implored us to offer a sequel this year, "Exploring the Chesapeake Bay II." The success of the Rocky sequels probably means it would be a wise choice and so we probably will. But not this year.

Alumni College '90 instead will focus on a topic which challenges everyone's historical perceptions, if not their childhood comprehension of a world in the midst of a cold war. The "Changing Face of Communism" unveils a faculty that is itself recoiling from a transformation still incomplete, often disjointed and certainly unfathomable even a year or two years ago.

But traditionally scholars are the first to seek answers, critique situations and discuss scenarios. William and Mary faculty who teach in disciplines centering on Eastern Europe as well as those who study Latin America and East Asia are wonderful purveyors of understanding. As they adjust to the almost daily situations they must also explore the past circumstances and modifiers which have led us to this point in history.

It is without challenge one of the most monumental periods in our lifetime. Statements from the academic world are most dramatic in their interpretations. Professor Ann Henderson, who will be one of the faculty members for Alumni College '90, recently stated, "All the textbooks, even the most current ones, are totally inaccurate. You can't even use them as a credible basis for teaching any more because their predictions are all wrong. For instance, virtually every government textbook on Eastern Europe stresses that East Germany's and Czechoslovakia's political systems are unlikely to change because the governments are so conservative."

Another punch likely to hit home with alumni—especially for our baby boomers who grew up in the '50s and early '60s—is through an article by Walter LeFieber of Cornell University in a recent issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education. "The impact on historical studies and political science should be comparable to the becoming available for research and study, particularly in Eastern Europe.

Economic restructuring will likely begin unfolding very soon. Some international trade experts are hungrily viewing the events as opportunities. In a recent speech in Hampton, Va., Breaker Furches, chief executive officer of an international business and export management consulting company, was quoted as saying that the changes can mean a great deal to American corporations. "Put the Eastern Bloc, Russia and the European community together and we have 700 million consumers that need everything," he said.

In addition to the areas of political science, history and economics, other disciplines which face upheavals in their agendas include anthropology, environmental studies, religion, commerce, international finance and science and technology.

It would not be practical to attempt a comparison between last year's Alumni College and the 1990 offering. Like last year, the theme is one we all, sooner or later, will feel in our personal and professional lives. It challenges and perhaps totally voids some basic assumptions many of us have harbored since early childhood.

The "Changing Face of Communism" also will require all of us to readjust our own visions of the world. Please consider joining other alumni and friends June 21-24 in Williamsburg.

Please Note: see page 8 for registration information.

Society Elects New Officers at Semiannual Meeting

New officers for the Society of the Alumni Board of Directors were selected at the board's semiannual meeting Feb. 2 in Williamsburg. Marshall Acuff '62, who has served as president for the past year, will continue in that post. John Entwisle '44 was named vice president while Joe Montgomery '74 and Carolyn Todd Schaubach '59 were elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

The board welcomed four new members and recognized four retiring members. Newly elected members inducted at the conclusion of the meeting were Sarah Kemp Brady '64, Arlington, Va.; Mason Sizemore Jr. '63, Seattle; Rebecca Beach Smith '71, '79 J.D., Norfolk; and Henry Tucker Jr. '72, Richmond. Carolyn Schaubach began her second three-year term.

Acuff recognized retiring members for their dedication and service. Leaving the board after serving two three-year terms each were Charles Quittmeyer '40, Helen Thomson Stafford '48, Harriett Stanley '72 and Jerry Van Voorhis '63.

Among business discussed during the full board meeting was the adoption of new bylaws for the Society. The board agreed to hold a special meeting for all active alumni to vote on the bylaws later this year in Williamsburg. Details of the meeting will be announced in a future issue of the Alumni Gazette. Although the board endorsed the bylaws at their meeting last fall, a quorum was not present for alumni to vote at the Society's annual meeting in November.

Last year, the bylaws underwent one of the most thorough reviews in recent years. Changes were made in an effort to update language and policies and to strengthen the contents from a legal and stylistic standpoint. "It is important that we move ahead to adopt new bylaws more in keeping with the present-day mission and goals of the Society," said Acuff. "The legal and stylistic changes that were proposed will enable greater effectiveness and efficiency in our overall operation."

In other business, the board voted to award the Alumni Medalion to Stewart H. Gamage '72, John A. Mapp '35 and Paul R. Verkuil '61. These individuals will be honored at this year's Homecoming celebration. A feature highlighting their accomplishments and service to William and Mary will be published in the September issue of the Alumni Gazette.

A fourth individual also will receive special recognition during Homecoming 1990. Brooks George '32, joined by his wife Elizabeth, was selected to serve as this year's grand marshal.

The board adopted a proposed operating budget for 1990-91 and reviewed progress to date with the proposed expansion of the Alumni House, a $3 million project to be privately funded as part of the Campaign for the Fourth Century. In addition, a report was made on long-range computer requirements to support ever-growing information needs among members of the College staff who communicate with alumni.

Several College officials made presentations to the board's college relations committee. Bill Walker, director of university relations, presented an update on William and Mary's new visual identity program and answered questions relating to national groups that have popularized the process of rating colleges. Walker also discussed plans for a future publication to assist alumni parents and their college-age children in selecting a college, whether they are interested in William and Mary or another institution. The planned publication is part of an ongoing commitment to ensure that credentials for children of alumni are examined with particular care during the admissions process.

Barrett Carson, director of development, discussed the progress to date with the Campaign for the Fourth Century and reported on the successful regional campaign held in Atlanta in December. The next series of regional campaigns will be held in San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego in late April and early May.

Also guests of the college relations committee were Tim Sullivan, dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, and Deborah Vick, associate dean. They discussed the combined efforts of the law school and the Society of the Alumni to serve law alumni through a recently established position of assistant director of alumni affairs. Following their presentation, David Kranbuehl, associate provost for research, reviewed the research and grants results for 1988-89 and discussed the importance of research at William and Mary as it relates to teaching and educational opportunities for students.

In conjunction with Society staff members, the alumni services committee reviewed progress with a number of alumni programs, including Homecoming, the William and Mary New York Auction and Alumni College 1990. Based on the committee's recommendation, the full board agreed to accept bylaws proposed by the Young Guard Council. In addition, a policy was adopted clarifying selection of the annual Outstanding Chapter Award.

In planning future meetings, the board adopted a proposed schedule through 1994 with dates that coincide with other key meetings on campus. The fall meeting is scheduled for Oct. 4-5 in Williamsburg.

New officers for the Society of the Alumni are (l-r): Carolyn Todd Schaubach, treasurer; Joe Montgomery, secretary; Marshall Acuff, president; and John Entwisle, vice president.

Laura Dillard '87 Named Governor's Press Secretary

By Barbara Ball

For Laura Dillard '87, who takes on life with extraordinary vigor, opportunities don't go by unchallenged.

Something exciting and unusual was bound to happen sooner or later in such a lifestyle. But she couldn't have imagined that signing up for summer in Richmond with the Governor's Fellows Program would be the catalyst to catapult her into the public eye as the youngest press secretary ever to serve a Virginia governor.

In addition to Dillard, several other William and Mary individuals are serving in the new administration. Rob Tyler '87 is a speechwriter for Wilder, while Samuel E. Jones '80, the College's director of planning and budget, served in Richmond during the General Assembly session to assist in budget matters. Beth Shapiro '87, a classmate of Dillard, is special assistant to the Secretary of Health and Human Resources, and Eddie N. Moore Jr., College comptroller, is Wilder's new treasury director.

After graduating in 1987 Dillard looked forward to working with the Governor's cabinet as a respite before graduate school in religious studies at Yale. That's the way it started out, anyway. But when she began working for then Lieutenant Governor Wilder the die was cast.

"I was 21, and I wasn't going to hang around," she explains. "I didn't have to hedge my bets, so I could be frank and candid with him. I decided to ask him questions because all he could do was not answer them. But he was great. He likes to talk politics. He likes to talk strategy and is willing to hear different scenarios on issues. He loves it when you catch on. He is a wonderful teacher. I like working for a guy who really knows no fear, who has charted his own course, has tremendous political instincts and has the guts to follow those instincts."

After the summer, Dillard left for graduate school but was back again after a year to help with Wilder's campaign for governor. She says she knew when she signed on for the campaign that if Wilder won she would put other considerations on hold and join his administration.

In her third floor office in the capitol, right next door to the Governor's Suite, the diminutive Dillard is dwarfed by the grand style of the surroundings which have a massive masculine look. In the reception office there are large oil portraits of famous men, one on each wall, looking down from heavy gold rococo frames. Dillard's office is compact, and the portraits are of women, but again in the grand style. The one window looks out on a portion of the frieze of another capitol wing. There is no vista here — but then the occupant is too involved with work to notice anyway.

The thin row of books on the shelf includes Carl Bart's The Epistle to the Romans, one of the greatest theological works in the 20th century. Says Dillard, "I keep it there for inspiration." She plans to add Kierkegaard and Niebuhr. "Those guys really put what I do on a daily basis in perspective," she says.

On the window sill is a framed newspaper clipping, a gift to Dillard the day after the successful campaign. "Wilder's Press Aide Calls Coleman a Liar," the headline screams. Actually, says Dillard, I said I thought Coleman (Marshall Coleman, Wilder's Republican opponent) had lied, I did not call him a liar." She shrugs the controversy off to campaign politics. She got the nickname "Mad Dog Dillard," for her aggressive style during the campaign. The Governor, she says, calls her his pit bull. Recently the Richmond News Leader referred to the Governor's "drink of water divinity student."

Small with a fresh scrubbed look, Dillard wears no make-up. On a recent work day, she was dressed as if she were on her way to class, a tartan skirt, white cotton blouse, sleeves rolled up, and navy vest. She had returned the day before from a trip to help the Governor promote Virginia products at Bloomingdales in Washington; the week before she had been to New York. She was relieved when an aide came in to announce she didn't have to go back to Washington, and the Governor had decided against a Norfolk trip. She took off her glasses and rubbed her eyes. The day had started at 7:30 a.m. After a half hour reading the newspapers she went into a meeting with the Governor and his advisors. A secretary comes in and puts several telephone messages in front of her.

Her responsibilities are numerous and varied. She makes sure that the Governor's speeches, which she checks for content, are written on time. She insists on being apprised of items that could wind up in print. "If it is bad news I want to hear about it before it gets in the paper," she says.

Dillard and staff spend a lot of time relaying greetings or messages from the Governor. She carefully scrutinizes the many requests of Wilder for endorsements because, she says, "these are the kinds of things that can get you in trouble if you don't look at each one carefully." For instance, she turned down a request for "Bruce Lee Day" and wants to keep her boss from the kind of controversy that dogged an official in another state who unknowingly endorsed "Condom Day."

When Wilder first asked Dillard to work for him she said no. Describing it as "a wrenching decision," she explained that all earth, very witty and easy to work for."

"It doesn't mean we don't occasionally disagree," she adds, "but that never hinders

She got the nickname "Mad Dog Dillard," for her aggressive style during the campaign. The Governor, she says, calls her his pit bull. Recently the Richmond News Leader referred to the Governor's "drink of water divinity student."

what I hope is a healthy working relationship.

"He is a brilliant man, there is no question about that. He has an amazing capac-talk confidently. I want other people to know you have to seize the opportunity. Opportunities come by just working hard and displaying genuine interest and excitement and belief that you can do it."

Dillard believes she was in the right place at the right time. "I do not have any unique abilities. There are a lot of people from William and Mary far more intelligent than I am," she says modestly. She encourages people to seize opportunities and to appreciate that their education and other life experiences can stand them in good stead if they are willing to learn to listen and take advice.

Dillard says she had strong adult role models at home who had a strong interest in public affairs. "I had adults around me who were always willing to engage me in conversation about current events. My grandmother is very interested in politics. She calls me once a week to say 'hey, what's going on.'" In high school she developed an interest in state policies from a high school teacher, Mike Wildasin '72, who is now assistant director of the Virginia Institute for Law and Citizenship Studies at Virginia Commonwealth University.

When she came to William and Mary, Dillard thought she was going to major in government but instead switched to religion.

When Laura Dillard '87 was named Governor Wilder's spokesperson, she became the youngest gubernatorial press secretary in Virginia's history.

she had thought about for two years at William and Mary was admission to graduate school. But then she decided to delay graduate school and go to divinity school instead. "I never conceived of actually working, the thought of which scared me to death, since school is so secure in some ways. But I think people shouldn't get so set in a career path and so determined that they put blinders on and don't realize that you may eventually get to wherever you are going, but you can go off the beaten path occasionally."

"I watched people at William and Mary major in fields they thought would get them a job because they had to graduate and get a job and start making money. I watched people suffer miserably for two to four years, and I decided, 'Hey, I'm going to major in religion because I love it and if I am going to do it 18 hours a day, I am going to like what I am doing.'"

It is this independent spirit that carried her through the hectic days of campaigning and the equally busy days in office. "I like this job because it is very challenging," she says. "It's enormously time consuming, but there is always something new every day."

She describes Governor Wilder as a "very gracious individual, very down to distill them to handle the job at hand. He calculates his moves, his actions, his comments."

How does she feel press coverage has been? Dillard naturally likes to see positive stories, but she doesn't pick up the phone to thank a reporter for a positive story any more than she calls to complain about a story she feels has a negative slant.

"I don't do that one way or the other. I don't want them calling me every other day rating my performance. If there is something inaccurate I'll pick up the phone and tell them they ought to correct it. But in general I don't have any great complaints. I'm not going to have complaints over the four years. If I do, they will be things I blurt out at midnight to myself, not publicly. I don't have a public opinion any more. I represent Douglas Wilder and where I stand is neither here nor there."

"I think people look at me and say who is this kid? I know the Governor took some heat for hiring me as his press secretary because of my youth and inexperience. People think I'm young and overpaid. I don't worry about either one of those."

"I think it is important to be confident. I

"I think I got a very solid liberal arts education," she says. "I know how to learn. Once you have learned how to learn you can do whatever you want to do. I left William and Mary feeling like I had a pretty solid grounding in all those skills."

Dillard says she doesn't look too far ahead, and although she is fiercely loyal to her boss, she likes to contemplate other options in the future. When Dillard told Governor Wilder she would go back to the quiet pursuit of her books once her job with him was finished, he responded, "That's hogwash, no quiet pursuits for you."

"I'm not stupid," she says. "This will end as quickly as it began. Everyone knows my name because I know Douglas Wilder and that is fine. I don't mind that at all."

Dillard says her family is supportive but acknowledges that her mother would be happier to see her out of the fast lane and studying to be a professor of religious studies.

Would Dillard ever consider elected office? "I am not mature enough for that. I don't have the temperament for elected office but that could change, perhaps 20 years down the road. I'm enough of a politician that I'll never say never."

M-W Moot Courtroom Honors McGlothlin Family

By Melissa Gill '82

Woodrow W. McGlothlin, James W. McGlothlin, Nicholas D. Street and The United Company have made a joint commitment of $1 million to the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. In recognition of this commitment, the law school's moot courtroom will be named in memory of B.F. McGlothlin Sr. (1866-1948) and Annie L. Jackson McGlothlin (1871-1937), parents of Woodrow McGlothlin and grandparents of James McGlothlin '62, '64 B.C.L. and Street. The McGlothlins and Street are the owners of The United Company of Bristol, Va.

"This commitment will be added to Marshall-Wythe's unrestricted endowment," said Timothy J. Sullivan '66, dean of the law school. "The wonderful thing about unrestricted funds is that they generate flexible income that can be used as the needs of the law school change. Income from this endowment can be used wherever they are most needed, either for scholarship funds, library acquisitions or seed money for new program initiatives. By giving Marshall-Wythe this flexibility, the McGlothlin and Street commitment will permanently preserve the quality of our program."

The Moot Court program at Marshall-Wythe provides students an opportunity for developing and honing advocacy skills. Moot Court competitions involve researching and writing an appellate brief and defending it in an oral argument before a panel of judges. Each year, 10 teams of three to five students represent Marshall-Wythe in intercollegiate Moot Court tournaments. The 1989 National Moot Court team won First Place, Best Brief and Best Oral Argument awards at the 39th Annual National Moot Court Competition sponsored by the Association of the Bar of the City of New York, the profession's oldest and most prestigious moot court competition.

According to Woodrow McGlothlin, he and his sister, Mae Street, Nicholas Street's mother, grew up on their parents' farm in the mountains of Buchanan County in southwest Virginia. The McGlothlins had 14 children, no electricity and no means of refrigeration, so his father raised livestock, grain and vegetables and cured meat, while his mother canned meat and vegetables and made jams and jellies to feed the family.

Dean Sullivan, Former Dean William B. Spong, Jim McGlothlin, President Verkuil and Shepard W. McKenney '62 B.A., '64 J.D., president of the Law School Foundation, announce McGlothlin's commitment to the law school during Charter Day weekend.

His father owned and operated a country store and grist mill in order to supplement their income. Neither of his parents had much formal education; they were, however, strong believers in the benefits of education. Woodrow McGlothlin remembers lying in bed one morning when he was in high school and overhearing his mother tell his father, "Ben, we're going to have to sacrifice a lot to see that Woodrow gets a college education, but if it takes it, I'm willing to sell our home to see that he goes to college."

With his parents' encouragement and financial assistance, Woodrow McGlothlin was able to obtain a degree from Emory and Henry College during the midst of the Great Depression and fortunately his parents did not have to sell their home.

Four of B.F. and Annie McGlothlin's children became teachers and later business people. Among their descendants are doctors, lawyers, educators, business people, public officials and other professional people. The fact that the Moot Courtroom at Marshall-Wythe will bear their names speaks to the importance they placed on education, and what education has helped their family accomplish.

James McGlothlin, who is chief executive officer of The United Company, currently serves on the Board of Visitors and is a vice chairman of the Campaign's National Steering Committee and chairs the Corporate Gifts Committee.

T.C. and Elizabeth Clarke Support Business School, Scholarships

By Melissa Gill '82

A significant commitment to the Campaign for the Fourth Century has come from T. C. Clarke '22 and his wife, Elizabeth. The Clarkes' commitment is in the form of an outright gift and a testamentary provision.

The major portion of the Clarkes' outright gift will establish a Distinguished Chair in the School of Business Administration. The chair will be held by the dean of the school.

"Our business school has a reputation for excellence at the undergraduate level," said President Verkuil. "The existence of this named chair will help attract and retain an eminent scholar-teacher, helping to assure that the school will continue to improve the quality of its offerings.

President Verkuil visits with Mr. and T.C. Clarke after their major commitment to the Campaign for the Fourth Century was announced during Charter Day weekend at the College.

"T.C. and Elizabeth have been loyal supporters of the business school for many years; this gift will ensure that their name is visibly and permanently associated with the School and its programs."

Income from the endowment will qualify for matching funds through the Commonwealth of Virginia's Eminent Scholars Program.

The remainder of the outright commitment and the Clarkes' testamentary provision will support a variety of areas at the College. Scholarships at the School of Business Administration and the Marshall-Wythe School of Law established by the Clarkes in 1982 will be enhanced, and scholarships for student athletes with a preference given to football will be created. The Clarkes' commitment will provide a major boost to the effort to permanently endow the football scholarship program, thus ensuring a solid foundation for the future of William and Mary football.

A portion of the commitment will be used to meet the most pressing needs of the School of Business Administration. In recognition of this commitment, the Business School Medallion will be named in honor of the Clarkes. The medallion is given annually to the individual whose career represents the highest standards of professionalism and integrity, and is the most prestigious award given by the Business School.

The Clarkes have provided a portion of their commitment to meet the most pressing needs of the university.

"Unrestricted funds such as these are crucial to the ongoing development of William and Mary," said Verkuil. "The Clarkes' endowment will give the College the flexibility it requires to meet future needs as they arise and to take advantage of special opportunities as they appear."

According to Edward T. Allenby, vice president for university advancement, the Clarkes' commitment provides critical impetus to the Campaign for the Fourth Century as it reaches its midway point.

"We believe that the generosity of T.C. and Elizabeth Clarke will inspire others to make similar commitments in support of William and Mary's current operations and its future initiatives," said Allenby.

Clarke, the former owner and president of the Royal Crown Bottling Co. of Norfolk, is a member of the Campaign's National Steering Committee. He served as a member of the Board of Visitors from 1974 through 1982 and was vice rector from 1978 through 1982. Clarke also is a director of the School of Business Sponsors Board and trustee emeritus of the Endowment Association.

Profiles in Giving

Donors: Elizabeth and Charles '25 Pollard Williamsburg, Virginia

Gift Objective: To establish the John Garland Pollard Endowment in memory of Mr. Pollard's father. Income from this fund will be used to support the programs and activities of the Society of the Alumni.

Financial Objective: Retirement income

Gift Plan: Charitable Remainder Annuity Trust

- Benefits:
- income for life
  - immediate income tax savings
  - reduction of estate taxes
  - no investment or management worries
  - avoidance of capital gains taxes
  - satisfaction of making a significant and enduring gift to William and Mary while meeting important financial needs

Quote: "This plan made good sense in our situation. The trust provides a wonderful means to ensure the future of William and Mary while enhancing our financial well-being."

Robert S. Dutro, Esq.
Director for Estate Planning
College of William and Mary Development Office
Williamsburg, VA 23185

I may be interested in a William and Mary Pooled Income Fund (minimum age: 50; minimum investment: $50,000). Please send details.

Name _____ Class _____

Address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

Date of birth: _____
Month Day Year

Gifts to Campaign Exceed $75 Million

As the New Year rang in at midnight on Dec. 31, 1989, the Campaign for the Fourth Century officially reached its halfway mark. The Campaign has raised $75,069,113 toward its $150 million goal. Endowment per student, the true measure of the impact of endowment funds, has increased from $8,700 to $10,500, raising William and Mary to eighth among public institutions in America.

Of the total pledged, alumni have contributed 52 percent, or $38.7 million, with other individuals giving 20 percent, or $15.3 million, corporations 13 percent, or $10 million, foundations 10 percent, $7.3 million, and parents and other sources 5 percent.

Thirty-two new professorships have been created at the College since the inception of the Campaign while 65 new scholarships and fellowships have been funded through gifts to the Campaign. Various programmatic efforts in such areas as international studies and biological sciences have been substantially strengthened as well.

"The public-private partnership created through the Campaign will join public support with private resources to make William and Mary the premier small public university in the country," says President Verkuil.

CAMPAIGN FOR THE FOURTH CENTURY

An artist's rendition shows how an expanded Alumni House would look.

Society Seeks $3 Million for House Expansion

By Melissa Gill '82

For almost 20 years, the Alumni House on Richmond Road has welcomed alumni back to campus for Homecoming celebrations and wedding receptions, for award dinners and class reunions. Its location is ideal: on Richmond Road (easy to find after years away from Williamsburg), close to the football stadium (perfect for tailgate parties) and, appropriately, at the entrance to campus. In form it fits the William and Mary image: stately, traditional and welcoming.

But time is bringing changes to the Alumni House. As the number of William and Mary graduates has grown, the activities of the Alumni Society have grown apace and, after almost two decades of use by the Society, the Alumni House needs to expand. As part of the Campaign for the Fourth Century, the College and the Society hope to raise $3 million for an expansion that will double the size of the house.

Founded in 1842, William and Mary's Society of the Alumni is the sixth oldest alumni association in the United States. According to W. Barry Adams, executive vice president of the Alumni Society, the Society's primary purpose is to find avenues through which the College can help alumni and alumni can help the College.

"It's definitely a reciprocal relationship," says Adams. "The Society helps strengthen ties between alumni and their alma mater through a variety of programs and services. We also represent College graduates in a variety of forums, including the Campaign for the Fourth Century, William and Mary's tercentenary celebration plans, and the day-to-day administration of the College."

Originally known as the Bright House, the Alumni House served for many years as the home of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. The building was acquired by the Society of the Alumni in 1971 and was renovated to house Society offices and rooms for alumni meetings and receptions.

The Society of the Alumni has grown a great deal in both size and function since it first found a home in the old Bright House. Today, the Society comprises nearly 50,000 individuals, and the Alumni House is a very busy place.

The Society oversees chapter activities and class reunions, administration of the class gift program, the annual Homecoming celebrations, the educational travel program, continuing education programs such as Alumni College, and publication of the Alumni Gazette and the William and Mary Magazine. These programs and activities are designed to maintain and enhance the relationship between William and Mary and its graduates.

Other Society programs bring alumni and students together to discuss life after college. The College's annual Career Exploration Day features presentations by selected alumni on a variety of professions. "Life After D.O.G. Street" annually brings alumni to campus to share practical advice about life outside of campus with members of the senior class. In conjunction with the Office of Career Services, the Society sponsors the Alumni Career Advisory Service, which maintains files of alumni who are interested in discussing career paths with undergraduates.

Because of its location at the edge of campus, the Alumni House also serves as source of information for the public. "Parents of students and perspective students use the Alumni House a lot for information and direction around campus," says Adams. "We really begin serving alumni from the first moment they step on campus as students." The Student Alumni Liaison Council, a group of 20 students who help coordinate Society programs, meet weekly in the Alumni House. Fraternities, ROTC, and other student groups also use the house for conferences and meetings.

The house itself serves as the principal depository for all non-academic alumni records. These records and a sophisticated computer system help staff keep track of the College's alumni. The Alumni House's Paschall Library contains over 300 books by alumni authors and several hundred other books related to the College or the Williamsburg area. Back issues of the Colonial Echo, The Flat Hat, College catalogs, and other reference materials are among the library's holdings as well.

A social gathering place, archive, and administrative headquarters: the Alumni House serves many functions. Last year over 15,000 people used the facility in one way or another. The fact that it has outgrown its present quarters is perhaps the most telling sign of the Society's success and vitality. "After careful study by our alumni board, staff and architectural consultants, we decided that the best way to rectify the space dilemma was to simply expand on a good thing, and renovate the existing Alumni House," said Adams. "The Alumni House will remain essentially the same, but the expansion will enable us to increase and enhance our educational and social offerings and accommodate our burgeoning records. In fact, we usually refer to it as the 'Alumni Center' to more accurately reflect its role on campus."

The planned renovation will cost approximately $2 million, with an additional $1 million needed for an operating endowment to support furnishings, operations and maintenance. These funds are being sought through the Campaign for the Fourth Century. Groundbreaking is planned for Homecoming 1990 and the renovation is scheduled for completion in 1992, to coincide with the 150th anniversary of the Society and be in readiness for William and Mary's tercentenary celebrations in 1993.

The addition will be built onto the west side of the existing building. The first floor will contain a conference room, a gallery, and a large meeting hall that will comprise almost 30 percent of the expansion. A patio will adjoin the meeting hall so functions can be held outside in pleasant weather. The patio will accommodate up to 1,000 people for receptions, while the new hall will be able to host dinners for approximately 100 and receptions for 300. "The addition will provide one of the few sites for large gatherings on campus," says Adams. "Our conference services will be able to expand. The Alumni Center will also fill an important need on campus as a site for departmental meetings and staff retreats."

The second floor of the new wing will house staff offices and the office of the executive vice president. For the first time, all of the administrative offices of the Society will be located in areas separate from the public rooms of the Alumni House. According to Adams, this should create a more efficient workplace and allow more social functions to take place at the House during working hours. Plans also are under way to landscape the front of the Alumni House with shrubbery, flowers, walkways and convenient seating.

The renovation of the Alumni House will enable the Society to increase its programs and services, while simultaneously offering more room for alumni to meet and celebrate. The expansion will provide a center for alumni and for gatherings of students, faculty and other members of the College community.

"We're all very excited about the changes coming to the Alumni House," says Adams, "and we're looking forward to showing off the new Alumni Center on the 150th anniversary of the Alumni Society in 1992."

TRAVEL PROGRAM

ALUMNI AND FRIENDS

EAST EUROPEAN SAMPLER

Sept. 24-Oct. 8, 1990

15 days, $3,295 from New York

The Society of the Alumni is pleased to announce this special 1990 addition to its educational travel program. Join other alumni and friends on a journey taking you to East and West Berlin, Potsdam, Leipzig, Dresden, Prague, Vienna and Warsaw. This special adventure departs from New York in October and is priced from $3,295. Travel begins in Warsaw, Poland, and includes some meals, deluxe accommodations, sightseeing activities, cultural performances and all transfers. NOTE: This tour has been added as a replacement for Castles of Ireland cancelled earlier by the tour operator.

---

Name _____ Class Year _____

Address _____

City, State, Zip _____

Daytime Telephone (____) _____

I'm interested in further information, as it becomes available, on the following tours.

Oberammergau Passion Play, Aug. 5-16 1990

East European Sampler, Sept. 24-Oct. 8, 1990

Wings over the Nile Adventure, Oct. 30-Nov. 12, 1990

Please send to: Alumni Travel Program, Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box GO, Williamsburg, VA 23187. Phone (804) 221-165

Durak Battles to Top Tier of Tennis

East Region singles champion Danielle Durak (inset) shows the form that has made her the 15th ranked player in the nation.

By Marty Benson

Back in March of her freshman year, you would have had a three-set battle convincing any college tennis guru that Danielle Durak would be the East Region singles champion and ranked 15th in the nation as a senior. As late as the November weekend of the 1989 Rolex Intercollegiate Tennis Coaches Association (ITCA) Eastern Region Tournament, you might have had to go to a tiebreaker getting Danielle herself to buy it.

Not that she didn't have the tools, but before she could become a card-carrying member of college tennis' upper echelon, she had to overcome two dogged opponents, one physical, the other mental.

The way her William and Mary career started, though, no one could have known that it would stray from a path to prominence. The story seemed almost cliché in tennis circles. A native of the North (suburban Detroit) moves to sunny Florida (St. Petersburg, to be exact) to practice and live with a tennis coach (Billy Stearns) as a high school junior. She meets future Tribe Head Coach Ray Reppert, who was then coaching youth in the area, at a tournament, and when the time comes to choose a college, she becomes Reppert's top recruit in his third year as Tribe head coach. As a freshman playing in the number three position (there are six singles positions in tennis, one being the best), the highest of a group of four freshman members of the Tribe's "top six," Durak posts a 12-9 record through the first part of the season.

It seemed too perfect, and it was. Danielle's back was bugging her, but no one could figure out why. Around Valentine's Day, she could go on no more. She needed an answer, but not until her parents flew her back to Michigan to see a back specialist did she get one — she had a bilateral fracture of the fifth vertebra. No one knew the cause. Might as well have come from some child doing a tap dance on a sidewalk crack for all she cared. What it meant was that for three months she would be imprisoned in a body cast, able to take it off only to shower.

Where did this leave her tennis? Doctors told Reppert that Danielle ought to give up the game and try another racket. The quick twisting motions in tennis aren't prescribed therapy for an injured back. The Tribe coach, for his part, expected Durak, whom he calls one of the most committed athletes with whom he's ever worked, to return.

"I knew she would come back," says the sixth year Tribe coach, "but at what level?" Naturally, Durak's mood was less than cheery.

"There was a lot of frustration," Durak says. "It was hard being a part of it and then having to watch my friends leave to go on the road and not being able to go."

After the cast came off in June, she had to take things slowly. She says it took six months to get back to full strength. Once she got there, the old Danielle, maybe even a new-and-improved one, emerged.

She posted a 17-7 singles record as a sophomore, finishing second in the Colonial Athletic Association second-flight championship. In doubles, she was even more impressive. Teaming with then-junior Julie Kaczmarek, she went undefeated in the regular season at number one, winning the CAA championship and earning a trip to the NCAA tournament.

The next year was even better. Danielle went 26-3 while playing number two singles and 19-8 in doubles with Kaczmarek, helping lead the team to its first-ever NCAA tournament bid. She also qualified for the individual doubles tournament for the second straight year.

With Kaczmarek, the Tribe's number one singles player for the previous two years, graduating, Durak was to ascend to the position she had sought since she was a freshman. Although she had yet truly to play in the number-one position (she had met number-one players in tournaments, but not in a dual-match format), she was ranked 46th nationally in the ITCA's pre-season rankings.

Danielle won her first two matches in dual meets against American and North Carolina, then traveled to the ITCA Eastern indoor team championships in Princeton, N.J., with an unblemished record.

The trip turned out to be one of the greatest weekends in Tribe history, but a personal nightmare for Danielle. By defeating Harvard (8-1), Princeton (5-4), and Brown (6-3), the team earned the right to represent the East region in the ITCA Indoor National Championship in March. While she was happy for the team, Danielle didn't feel like jumping over the net. She was the "one" in the 8-1 win over Harvard — and one of the "four" against Princeton — and one of the "three" against Brown.

"Her concentration is unequalled. That's what brings down most of her opponents. She exploits every opportunity the opponent provides her."

That's "oh-for" the weekend. Three losses. Remember, this is a player who lost three singles matches all last year.

"It shook me up," she says. "My teammates were supportive, but I felt terrible. I had a long talk with Ray about it, and he made me realize that if I just relaxed and played my game, I would be fine."

Reppert says his top player's problem was upstairs. "Playing number one puts more pressure on a player than any other position, or at least number one players have a tendency to think there is more pressure on them," says the Tribe coach. "You have to be able to concentrate totally on your match. You can't be preoccupied with the team and go in thinking 'I have to win this for the team.'"

"For her style of play, she needs to go in to a match with freedom of desire; she can't have anything compromising her ability."

Two weeks later, before the ITCA Rolex East Individual Qualifier, she was still plagued by self-doubt, despite the talk and having rebounded by winning the eight-team Wake Forest Invitational flight A singles championship the previous weekend.

"I wanted to call my Dad (a former Michigan State baseball player) and tell him I just wanted to come home," she says. "Normally I do call my parents before my matches, but this time for some reason, I just said no."

Given her admitted superstitious ways, she may never call home before a match again.

After three two-set victories, Danielle won the tournament with a 7-5, 4-6, 7-5 three-hour decision over third-seeded Karen Gallego of Virginia, who incidentally, transferred to W&M this semester. Had the battle with her future teammate not been so taxing, Durak may have added the doubles championship trophy to her collection. Playing with senior Kirsten Caister, she dropped an exhausting 2-6, 6-2, 7-5 three-and-a-half-hour war to Penn State's Cara Karabedian and Kelly Erven in the finals.

"It wasn't so much her winning the (singles) tournament (that was impressive), it was the fact that she played the entire tournament without ever being caught playing too tentatively to win," Reppert says. "I was totally delighted in that she played this tournament with the controlled abandon that we try to promote as our style of play."

Danielle, an intense perfectionist who receives good-natured needling from her teammates because she smiles as often as a student taking GMATs when she's on the court, was just plain happy.

"I still look at the trophy sometimes and say 'I won!'" she says with a proud grin.

Yet even with her prize to remind her of her talent, Danielle still possesses an overachiever's modesty. Asked at what point in her career she began to think she was good, she allows with a laugh that "I don't know if that's happened yet."

Others in the know don't doubt her talent, namely Reppert, who has trained with professional stars such as Steffi Graff and John McEnroe. He says that Danielle, who wants to take her all-court style of play on the satellite circuit, a "farm system" for earning points to get into bona fide professional tournaments, has the potential for success at that level, although she needs to add some upper body strength.

Danielle Durak

"Her concentration is unequalled. That's what brings down most of her opponents. She exploits every opportunity the opponent provides her. In most games, you can catch a player down at some point. It's very rare to catch her down. It's not the fact that she hits the ball hard that makes her good, it's that she concentrates harder."

Beyond that, Reppert says that to make the professional ranks, Durak, who hasn't lost since the ITCA Team Championships, just needs to believe in herself.

With only the person on the other side of the net battling her, that's much easier these days.

May 14, 1990 Shearson Lehman Hutton W&M Pro-Am Date is Set

The Shearson Lehman Hutton William and Mary Pro-Am Golf Tournament, which last year raised a record net of more than $34,000 for William and Mary Olympic sports programs, will be held May 14, at the Golden Horseshoe Golf Course in Williamsburg. Last year's event, the seventh annual, drew a record field of 84 amateurs and 21 pros, including such stars as Deedee Lasker, Sherin Smyers, Muffin Spencer-Devlin and Cindy Rarick.

Ex-Tribe Stars Honored in Several Ways

By Bob Jeffrey '74

Old times and great deeds were not forgotten at William and Mary as three sets of athletic immortals were honored for their contributions to Tribe tradition during the past month. Jack Cloud '50, fullback on the powerhouse Rube McCray grid teams of 1946-50, was named to the National Football Foundation's College Hall of Fame; Jeff Cohen '61, second leading career scorer in W&M basketball history, became only the fourth player to have his number retired; and a new class of eight was inducted into the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame.

"Flying Jack" Cloud

"Flying Jack" Cloud is acknowledged by most as the greatest running back in Tribe football history. A bruising 215-pounder, Cloud pounded his way to 45 career touchdowns, a Southern Conference record. His career marks for most points (270) stood until eclipsed by kicker Steve Christie this past fall.

Legendary sportswriter Grandland Rice called Cloud "the best football player in America" in 1948. He was named All-Southern fullback three times and All-America by Rice's own New York Sun in 1948.

Cloud was the centerpiece of a ferocious single-wing offense that propelled William and Mary to top 20 rankings and New Year's day bowl appearances in 1948 and 1949. As fullback, Cloud usually received the snap. "I usually got to punch it into the end zone after Henry Blanc or Buddy Lex made a nice long run," Cloud recalled.

Jeff Cohen

After graduation, he played for the Green Bay Packers for three years and the Washington Redskins for two.

Following a stint as head coach and athletic director for the Norfolk Tars at the Norfolk Naval Station, Cloud headed to Annapolis, where he has served ever since.

He coached the lightweight and plebe teams, was assistant coach for the varsity and became an associate professor in the physical education department.

Cloud does radio color commentary for Navy football and hosts the coaches' show for Home Team Sports.

Selected for the National College Football Hall by the foundation's 12-man Honors Court, Cloud joins an elite group of 11 former All-Americans that also includes Jack Ham, Earl Campbell and Jim Plunkett among this year's honorees.

"It gives you something nice to remember," said Cloud of his recognition. But even more he has enjoyed the calls from former teammates like Tommy Thompson '49, Knox Ramsey '48, George Hughes '49 and Tom Mikula '48. "The friendships," said Cloud, "that's what it's really all about."

Cohen, a 6'7", 235-pound center, was the prototype of the power player. "He just took the ball and muscled his way to the basket," said classmate Fred Clayton '61.

Cohen's tough brand of play dominated the Southern Conference for four seasons under coach Bill Chambers. He averaged over 24 points per game in his final two seasons and was fourth nationally in rebounding (18.1) in 1961, when he was named Southern Conference Player of the Year and Honorable Mention All-American. Cohen remains one of the few players in NCAA annals to score over 2,000 points and haul in more than 1,000 rebounds.

In an incredible performance against haupt '78 and Keith Cieplicki '82 had previously had their numbers retired.

After his professional basketball career, Cohen earned graduate degrees in international relations and education and was only several hours away from his doctorate at the time of his death. He taught delinquent youths at a correctional facility in Orange County, Calif.

The W&M Hall of Fame received eight new inductees at the annual dinner in the Person Room at William and Mary Hall on Feb. 10.

Dr. James Barton '69, halfback, played for the Marv Levy team that upset Navy, 27-16, in 1967. Barton earned second-team AP All-America honors in his senior year and the College's Algernon Sydney Sullivan Medallion and the James G. Driver award for outstanding scholarship and athletic accomplishments.

Barton earned his degree in medicine from the Medical College of Virginia in 1973 and has been an emergency medicine physician at Williamsburg Community Hospital. He is currently on the staff of Williamsburg Urgent Medical Care as well.

Pixie Hamilton Capelli '80 excelled in field hockey and lacrosse. She holds school records in lacrosse for career goals in a season (64) and goals average for a season (5.1) and career (4.2). She was named All-American in 1979 and led the field hockey team that advanced to the NCAA National Tournament. In addition, she was the first W&M player to make the U.S. National Racquets Association, president of the Virginia Women's Field Hockey Association and vice president of the U.S. Field Hockey Association. She is currently executive director of the U.S. Women's Lacrosse Association.

Tom Rozantz '79 was twice named AP Honorable Mention All-American at quarterback. In one of his greatest games, the 1977 Oyster Bowl, Rozantz guided the Tribe to a 21-17 victory, passing for two touchdowns and running for the third. His scoring run attracted national attention when a man in street clothes leaped off the East Carolina bench to tackle Rozantz in the end zone.

Now a supervisor at Roadway Express, Rozantz and his wife operate a thoroughbred training center in Fairfax, Pa.

Eric Tipton spent his summers playing professional baseball and the school year coaching football and baseball at W&M. He was associated with Tribe football for 18 years, coaching backs like Jack Cloud. As an undergraduate at Duke, Tipton played for the 1938-39 team that went undefeated and unscored upon before losing the Rose Bowl to Southern California.

In 1957 Tipton became baseball coach and lightweight football coach at the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. He is retired and lives in Williamsburg with his wife, Gertrude.

The patron saint of track and field is what some people might call Randy Hawthorne '67. As an undergraduate, he ran Inducted into the Hall of Fame were (l-r): Randy Hawthorne, Pixie Hamilton Capelli, Al Irving, Caroline Haussermann, Robert Hobson, Eric Tipton, Tommy Rozantz.

Richmond in 1961, Cohen poured in right and left-handed hook shots to establish a single game record of 49 points in a 105-84 victory. In 1960 he outdueled Jerry West to lead the Tribe to an upset win over nationally ranked West Virginia, 94-86 (breaking the Mountaineer's 56 game winning streak) and scoring 36 points.

After graduation, Cohen played professional basketball for the Harlem Globetrotters rival, the Generals, and for the Hawaii Chiefs in the fledgling American Basketball League. He died in 1978 after a bout with cancer.

A committee of friends and classmates conceived of an endowed scholarship to honor Cohen's memory. "Jeff was a very close friend and a fellow Sigma Nu," said committee co-chairman Wayne Cheek '61. "Nostalgia hit pretty hard when we saw Jeff's jersey."

The scholarship award was announced to coincide with the retirement of Cohen's number 52 at halftime of the W&M-East Carolina game on Feb. 17. Junior center John Leone will be the first recipient of the Cohen scholarship.

Only Chet Giermak '50, John Lowenlacrosse team (1978-81).

Today, Pixie is a senior hydrologist at the U.S. Geological Survey. She is married to Gregory Capelli, an associate professor of biology at William and Mary, and is the mother of two children.

High jumper Al Irving '77 still holds the Tribe record in his event ('71"). He finished fourth in the NCCADivision I Indoor Track & Field Meet. Irving also set a school record in the decathlon in 1975 (6,420 points). He teaches school and coaches basketball and track in Sacramento, Calif.

Teacher and coach Caroline Haussermann built the women's field hockey and lacrosse programs to the level of national prominence from 1965-70. Under her tutelage, six Tribe players achieved All-American status. "Caroline was an exceptional coach and motivator," said Associate Athletic Director Millie West. "She was instrumental in the development and growth of field hockey and lacrosse programs at William and Mary."

Haussermann is a nationally recognized figure in sport, having served as president of the U.S. women's Lacrosse Association, president of the U.S. Women's Squash cross-country, but since then he has engaged in a range of activities to help support the sport, from fund raising, publishing the Track Talk newsletter, to officiating track meets. Hawthorne has raised money for endowed scholarships and track and field operations. Every Tribe runner knows he has a home at the Hawthornes.

Professionally, Hawthorne is a partner in the Williamsburg accounting firm of Granger, Lent & Hawthorne. In addition to an undergraduate degree in accounting, Hawthorne holds a law degree and a master's in law and taxation.

Grappler Robert Hobson '71 won four consecutive Southern Conference and Virginia State wrestling championships in the 158-167 pound weight class. Hobson was named outstanding wrestler of the Southern Conference in 1968 and 1970. His overall record was an astonishing 90-7-1, with two-thirds of his wins coming on pins.

After teaching in the public school system, Hobson completed seminary training. He is assistant chaplain at Eastern State Hospital in Williamsburg.

Alumni College Looks at Changing World Scene

Extraordinary events and dramatic changes in the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and other locations have made the daily news a continual drama — with scripts still being written. Understanding the themes, players and sequence of events taking place on the world stage is the goal of this year's Alumni College sponsored by the Society of the Alumni. Promising thought-provoking speakers and topics, the program is set for June 21-24 on the William and Mary campus.

Interested alumni, joined by family members and friends, are invited to examine "The Changing Face of Communism" with a carefully assembled panel of faculty experts and guest speakers. Over the course of four days, participants will gain general overviews into the past, present and future of world governments where communism is losing its tenacious grip. Furthermore, discussion will focus on how these unprecedented events are influencing U.S. policy and affecting Western life in an ever-shrinking world. Classroom lecturers will emphasize the social, economic and political upheavals taking place.

The schedule includes ample time for questions and dialogue with speakers. As a balance to this mentally challenging program, several special events have been planned. A ballet performance and an international dinner, plus the showing of a special film, will offer unique and entertaining cultural additions to the program.

Plan now to join fellow alumni, members of the faculty and special guests for this exciting return to academic life at William and Mary.

Cost — $325 per person includes all meals, lodging on campus in Jefferson Hall (recently renovated and air conditioned), tuition, fees and activities. For participants who do not plan to stay on campus, the cost is $250 per person, which includes all meals, tuition, fees and activities. Information on non-campus lodging is available by calling the Williamsburg Hotel and Motel Association, 1-800-446-9244.

Payment — Accepted forms of payment are check, VISA or MasterCard. Payment in full or a deposit of $50 per person is required with the registration form. Full payment is due by June 1, 1990, to guarantee your reservation. Early enrollment is encouraged!

Cancellations — Cancellations made prior to June 15 are subject to a $25 cancellation fee. Cancellations made after June 15 are non-refundable.

Further Information — For a brochure with more details, write Alumni College 1990, Society of the Alumni, P. O. Box GO, Williamsburg, VA 23187. Telephone 804/221-1174.

Registration Form

Alumni College 1990 "The Changing Face of Communism"

Please complete and return this form with payment, either by check made payable to Society of the Alumni or by credit card. Mail to Alumni College 1990, Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box GO, Williamsburg, VA 23187.

Full payment is due by June 1, 1990, to guarantee your reservation. Cancellations made prior to June 15 will be subject to a $25 cancellation fee. Cancellations made after June 15 are non-refundable.

1. Please reserve _____ spaces in Alumni College 1990.

Full Name _____ Class Year _____

Spouse's Name _____ Class Year _____

Address _____

City, State, Zip _____

Telephone: Home (____) _____ Work (____) _____

Name(s) that should appear on nametag(s) _____

2. Please list names of other members of your party attending Alumni College whose payments or deposits are included with this form.

Full Name _____ Class Year _____

Name that should appear on nametag _____

Full Name _____ Class Year _____

Name that should appear on nametag _____

3. Campus Accommodations (Jefferson Hall)

_____ No. of rooms required

_____ single _____ double

Requested roommate assignments _____

4. Method of Payment

_____ Enclosed is my check for $ _____ as payment in full.

Check No. _____

($325 per person when staying in campus housing, $250 per person when staying off campus.)

_____ Enclosed is my check for $ _____ as a deposit.

Check No. _____

($50 per person.)

_____ Please charge my VISA _____ MasterCard _____ for $ _____ Account No. _____

Expiration Date _____

Signature _____

For Office Use Only

TD _____ / _____ 90 AC _____ RN _____ 305672

Registration Deadline: June 1, 1990

Schedule

Thursday, June 21

3 p.m. Registration and Check-In
6 p.m. Informal Dinner at the Alumni House
8 p.m. Film: "The Unbearable Lightness of Being" at Williamsburg Theatre

Friday, June 22

8-9 a.m. Breakfast
9-10:30 a.m. Prague Spring '68 and Perestroika Today
Ilja Kostovski, Lecturer in Modern Languages
10:45 a.m. -12:15 p.m. The Crisis of Communism in Eastern Europe: Challenges and Opportunities for the West
Anne Henderson, Instructor in Government
12:15-1:30 p.m. Lunch
1:30-3 p.m. The People of East Germany: Where They Were, Where They Are, and Where They Are Going
Elsa Diduk, Professor of Modern Languages and Literatures
6 p.m. Dinner
8 p.m. "An Evening of East European Dance"
Performance by the Chamber Ballet of Williamsburg with Guest Speaker Istvan Ament, Associate Professor of Dance, Old Dominion University

Saturday, June 23

8-9 a.m. Breakfast
9-10:30 a.m. Latin America: Revolution or Reform?
George Grayson, Class of 1938 Professor of Government
10:45 a.m.-12:15 p.m. A View from China: Personal Reflections
Ling Yang, Master's Candidate in History, University of Richmond
12:15-1:30 p.m. Lunch
1:30-3 p.m. Is the Cold War Over?
Ed Crapol, Professor of History
6 p.m. Reception at Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies
7 p.m. International Dinner featuring dishes from Eastern Europe, the Soviet Union and Latin America
Guest Speaker: Robert Heisterberg, Senior Vice President, Alliance Capital Management, New York

Sunday, June 24

9 a.m. Brunch at the Alumni House
Special Guest to be announced

* Schedule is tentative and may be subject to slight modifications.

Drs. June '68 and Cliff Henderson form husband-and-wife team in the student health center, which treats over 25,000 patients annually.

Health Center Continues Its Tradition of Service

By Lisa Heuvel '74

In the College Archives, there are folders that contain memories of Dr. David J. King: a hand-captioned photo of him on a fishing trip holding a prize catch; another of him sitting in the College Infirmary, a microscope at his elbow; a 1935 obituary listing his accomplishments and family.

However, it's the doodles that may capture his personality the best. They are a series of animals lightly sketched on his prescription pad pages, made during a 1928 housecall to a young patient. The College's physician for 19 years (1919-34), this mustachioed man in spectacles often doodled for youngsters.

Dr. David J. King's name has graced two of William and Mary's student health buildings, one in 1936 and the current facility constructed in 1972.

Today, as the physicians, nurses and ancillary staff of the Student Health Center treat over 25,000 patients annually, that sense of warmth and compassion hasn't been left behind in the Archives.

When they enter the glass and brick facility on Gooch Drive, near Cary Field, a trail of footprints taped to the floor leads cold and flu sufferers to the popular self-help "cold pack" stop. There, by filling out a form that's checked by the nursing staff, they can quickly get conventional over-the-counter remedies without a long wait.

A television, magazines and drink machine punctuate the groupings of upholstered chairs and sofas, along with bulletin boards and rows of health education flyers.

It's a comfortable setting, and that's part of the idea: to encourage students away from their families and family physicians to place their trust here, with people who care.

"The College community is different from a regular community, because the maximum we can have a patient is seven years," notes Dr. June S. Henderson '68. "A lot of the rapport doctors build with their patients in private practice, we don't have. Frequently, good rapport is not built up until after several years — but it's nice to deal with young, healthy people who can be helped."

Henderson is one of four full-time physicians at the Health Center: its director, Dr. Juliette S. Karow, Dr. William J. Perry, and the latest addition (who also happens to be her husband), Dr. Clifford E. Henderson.

Dr. Cliff Henderson is completing a transition from his private family practice in Williamsburg with Drs. Thomas J. Powers Jr. and Richard B. Theis. Despite a double-job workload since last fall, he's enjoyed the change of pace.

"In my office, I see more long-term illness common to older people, like angina, high blood pressure and other chronic diseases. That's delightfully absent here," he says.

This is not the first husband-wife teamwork for the two Dr. Hendersons, who met and married in medical school. They worked together, studied together, and, as residents, shared an office. "Egos never got in the way," says June Henderson. "We always consulted one another on the problems we had." A biology major at William and Mary, she likes being back in the university atmosphere. Since the couple also has two sons (Colin, 12, and Grayson, 8), she also likes having some control over her hours.

The Student Health Center operates 24 hours a day, with a registered nurse always on duty. The staff physicians are there from Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. During the night and on weekends, the nurse on duty makes a preliminary examination. As head nurse Patricia Buoncristiani points out, "If the nurse thinks a doctor is needed, she'll have the student come back when the doctors are here or she'll call one if it's an emergency."

Severe problems do come through the front door, from malaria and tumors to rheumatoid arthritis. Because the center is a primary care facility, many of the problems may have previously gone undiagnosed.

Infectious diseases from flu to urinary tract infections are among the most prevalent that staff members see, along with psychosomatic illnesses such as nervous stomach and headaches. According to June Henderson, the staff treats 95 percent of the students who walk in and refers five percent to local doctors, to the Medical College of Virginia and Eastern Virginia Medical Hospital.

In addition to its quartet of family practitioners, the center has a full-time pharmacist, eight registered nurses, a health educator, lab technician and housekeeping staff. The facility has four examining rooms and 12 inpatient beds. Laundry, regular meals and special meals are provided in-house by the housekeeping staff. Speaking of the kitchen, Buoncristiani says, "We're routinely examined by the Health Department, and I'm proud to say that we scored 99 percent out of 100 on the last surprise inspection."

She's also very proud of the staff. Head nurse for almost a decade, Buoncristiani says, "I think that when I took this job, some of my goals were to integrate us more with the College, to enhance our image with the faculty and staff and in general, increase our quality of service. We've got a terrific staff with a very low turnover in any department, because people enjoy working here."

Two treatment rooms complete the facility tour, where allergy injections are given.

Suturing, wound irrigation and dressing are done there, along with eye and ear washing. "Essentially, we see what you'd see in an emergency room in a community of 6,000 patients, plus primary care," says Buoncristiani. Everything here is extremely confidential."

The College Health Association is the health center's link to other universities and colleges. Its periodic meetings are attended by the nursing staff and physicians.

As the staff continues its efforts to best serve students, it is looking ahead. A student survey was recently completed and other goals lie in wait. Despite a 1,120-square-foot addition in 1980, exam room space is tight due to the sheer numbers of students seen. "We're shuffling now," says Cliff Henderson. He also speaks of other goals.

"We want to work closely with the athletic department and trainers, to have good communications with them because of the number of folks in athletics and the things that happen to them. Our long-term goal is to do research — and get the time to do it." A planned computer room will help the staff doctors to exchange data with the Medical College of Virginia on infectious diseases such as mononucleosis.

For two and a half years, Cynthia B. Burwell, M.S., has been improving and expanding health education at the College.

In a semester, Burwell will see between 700 and 1,000 students. While she does individual counseling and education on alcohol, health and nutrition, she also directs three peer education teams, students trained to speak to other student groups on sexuality, alcohol and related health topics.

Another activity has led to a new honor for William and Mary. Out of approximately 300 colleges and universities, the College's October '89 Alcohol Awareness Week activities stood out. William and Mary was one of six finalists for a grant given by the Interassociation on Alcohol and Other Substance Abuse Issues.

It was a thrill for Burwell, who says, "I think my whole goal is to try and give factual information so students can make informed decisions on things that affect their health."

"I'm not here to do preachy teachy things, but to do things in a creative way that makes a point."

That fits in with Dr. June Henderson's message to students: "That we're here — and here 24 hours a day."

Transcript Requests

To obtain transcripts from the Registrar's Office, you must make your request in writing and include the following information:

- Name (current name and name as student, if different)
- Social Security Number
- Date of birth, if attended before 1970
- Complete address where transcript is to be sent
- Address and telephone number where you can be reached if there are any questions concerning your request
- Dates of attendance or date of graduation and your degree

Official transcripts may be sent directly to you. They will carry both the College seal and registrar's signature and will be marked "issued to student."

There is no charge for transcripts, and processing time is three to five days after the signed request is received.

Telephone requests cannot be accepted! If it is more convenient, the university's central fax number is 804/221-2988. Transcripts will not be sent by fax, however, under any condition. If verification of your request is needed, please include a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Any questions concerning transcripts may be answered by calling 804/221-2813 or 804/221-2814 during regular business hours (8 a.m.-5 p.m. EST Monday through Friday).

Nominations Invited for Alumni Board

As mentioned in the winter issue of the William and Mary Magazine, all alumni are encouraged to submit names in consideration for the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni. Information and supporting materials regarding each nominee should be submitted on a Board of Directors nomination form, available by writing Alumni Board of Directors, P. O. Box 60, Williamsburg, VA 23187, or by calling 804/221-1165. Nominations must be received by April 1, 1990.

Suggested nominees will be reviewed by the Nominating Committee, whose members include: Joe Montgomery '74, chairman, Williamsburg; Elizabeth "Tish" Paschall '64, Richmond; Lacey Compton '62, Woodbridge, Va.; John Mapp '35, Richmond; and Cynthia Bennett Satterwhite '77, Richmond.

The committee will nominate two persons for each of the five board vacancies that will occur in 1991. The slate will be published in the June issue of the Alumni Gazette, and the election will be held this fall. All alumni who contribute to a recognized fund of the College will be eligible to vote.

In Brief

CASE Scholarship

Jennifer Stowe of Springfield, Va., a junior English major at the College and chairman of the reunions and campus activities committee for the Student Alumni Liaison Council, was awarded a conference scholarship by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE). Stowe attended CASE's district III conference in Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 18-21. She participated in sessions on alumni programming and university advancement.

Stowe has served as an alumni liaison for the past two years. The 20-member Student Alumni Liaison Council sponsors programs linking students and alumni, such as Life After D.O.G. Street, and assists the Society of the Alumni with Homecoming, Olde Guard Day and other programs.

Financial Seminar

Alumni and friends who are retired or approaching retirement and interested in ways to protect and enhance their financial situation are invited to attend "Investment, Retirement and Estate Preservation Strategies for the '90s" on May 18 at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. Speakers include experts in financial planning and charitable gift and estate planning strategies. This continuing education program, which costs $10 per person, is sponsored by the Society of the Alumni in cooperation with William and Mary's estate planning office. For more information write Society of the Alumni, P. O. Box 60, Williamsburg VA 23187, or call Bess Littlefield, assistant director of alumni affairs, at 804/221-1174.

Olde Guard Day

The College will honor alumni whose classes graduated 50 or more years ago at the Ninth Annual Olde Guard Day on April 18 at 10:30 a.m. in William and Mary Hall. In addition to a reception and luncheon, President Verkuil will speak and the William and Mary Choir will perform. At 2:30 p.m. the classes of 1930 and 1935 will hold receptions to celebrate their 60th and 55th reunions.

The Olde Guard Council held its semi-annual meeting Dec. 6 at the Alumni House. Members approved changes in their bylaws that increased terms of office for class representatives from five to seven years and for members at large from two to five years.

In addition, the Council adopted a project to raise funds in support of the Choir's European Tour this summer. The gift will be presented to the Choir during Olde Guard Day.

Invitations to Olde Guard Day were mailed in early March, and reservations are due to the Society of the Alumni no later than April 10. If you have questions, you may call the office of alumni affairs at 804/221-1172.

Gazette Award

The Alumni Gazette earned a Special Merit Award from the Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) in its district periodicals competition. It was the first-ever CASE district recognition awarded the Gazette. Published six times a year by the Society of the Alumni, the Gazette is distributed as a primary source of news and information to more than 60,000 of William and Mary's alumni and friends.

CASE is a leading professional organization representing more than 13,500 individuals involved in institutional advancement at more than 2,800 educational institutions. William and Mary is one of approximately 500 universities, colleges and independent schools in nine southeastern states that belong to CASE district III.

The award represents the second honor that the Society has received for alumni communications in recent months. In December the Society's communications plan for Homecoming 1989 received an honorable mention award in the International Association of Business Communicators "Best in Virginia" competition.

SOUTHERN CONNECTICUT/
HARTFORD

March 6

Reception honoring Mel Schiavelli, provost of the College, at the Holiday Inn Crowne Plaza, 8 p.m. $12.50 per person. Come out and join us for a wonderful evening of fellowship and catch up on all the latest news from William and Mary. For more information, contact Pam Lunny at 212/661-4608.

NEW ORLEANS

March 14

Reception with Sam Sadler, vice president for student affairs. This will be a great chance for area alumni to get together and find out what is happening at the College. For more information, contact Ronnee Morton at 504/482-3183.

GREATER METROPOLITAN
WASHINGTON, D.C.

March 15

The William and Mary Choir will perform at Mount Vernon High School at 8 p.m. The performance, as always, guarantees a variety of wonderful music and a great deal of talent. For more information, contact Ed Walinsky at 202/455-8960.

March 19

The William and Mary Choir will perform at Columbia Baptist Church in Falls Church, Va., at 8 p.m. If you are unable to make it to Mount Vernon High School on the 15th, here is another excellent chance to enjoy a first-rate performance. For more information, contact Ed Walinsky at 202/466-8960.

NORTHERN OHIO

March 16

A presentation of the "Unsinkable Molly Brown" starring Debbie Reynolds at Playhouse Square in Cleveland. There will be an informal gathering for cocktails and dinner at Getty's at the Hanna beginning at 6 p.m. The play will follow at 8 p.m. Cost of the theatre ticket is $23.50 per person with cocktails and dinner on a pay-as-you-go basis. Come out and join a wonderful evening of entertainment and fellowship. For more information, contact Greg Althans at 216/781-3700.

Upcoming Chapter Events

WILLIAMSBURG

March 16

Dinner at Shield's Tavern. This chapter function promises to be a lot of fun. It will be a full-course dinner at Colonial Williamsburg's newest tavern. A cash bar will be available beginning at 6 p.m. and dinner will be served at 7:30 p.m. The cost for the evening is $15 per person, which includes dinner, tax and gratuity. Chapter dues of $5 also may be paid at this time. For more information, contact Elaine Baker at 804/565-1354.

YORK, PENNSYLVANIA

March 16

All alumni in the York area can look forward to seeing the William and Mary Choir on tour. Alumni in this area will be receiving details in the near future, so watch your mail and don't miss this wonderful opportunity.

NEW YORK/NEW JERSEY

March 24

An "Artist's Saturday" beginning with a tour of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. After lunch, you will be transported by bus to the Bergen Museum of Art and Science in Paramus, N.J. This is surely to be an enjoyable day spent with alumni and friends. $25 per person including lunch. Mark your calendar and plan to join us now. For more information, contact Fran Gretes at 212/535-7472.

TAMPA

April 1

Old Dominion Day in Tampa. Time and price TBA. Look for further details in the mail in mid-March or contact Karen Valentine at 813/222-2241 if you have questions.

METROLINA

April 1

A reception honoring Mel Schiavelli, provost of the College, at the Charlotte Country Club. Noon. Price TBA. Come out and join us as we welcome Provost Schiavelli to the Metrolina area. This will be a great opportunity to catch up on all the news from the College. We look forward to seeing you there! For more information, contact Mike Stacks at 800/438-4055.

BALTIMORE/ANNAPOLIS

April 5

The chapter will be holding its annual meeting. Further details to follow. For more information, contact Bob Newman at 301/637-4359.

June 9

Our annual cruise aboard the Clipper City. 8 p.m. A cash bar and complimentary hors d'oeuvres will be available. For more information, contact Doug Brinkley at 301/337-7300.

HOUSTON

April 20

Houston International Film Festival at the Museum of Fine Arts. A champagne reception will be held in the gallery at 7 p.m. with the screening beginning at 8 p.m. Alumni and friends will be guests of Jon Hunter Todd III '61, producer. This will be a very entertaining event and a great opportunity for alumni from the area to share a wonderful evening. If you have questions, call the Festival Office at 713/965-9955.

Career Exploration Day Deemed Success

More than 50 alumni and several hundred students participated in the annual Career Exploration Day on Saturday, Jan. 27, at the College. Sponsored by the Society of the Alumni and the Office of Career Services, the daylong event included panel presentations by alumni in various occupational fields.

"It really helps to hear about the careers from people that are doing it. It makes it more real," said one student who attended.

Another commented, "This program serves to increase students' knowledge about their options and opportunities. It's very worthwhile."

Alumni who volunteered their time and knowledge in their respective fields were:

Accounting/Financial Management: Randall L. Gillett '72, Amy Thompson Furman '85, Moira Holly Monk '81. Adver- tising/Public Relations: John Adams '79, Adam Anthony '87, Beth Comstock '82. Applied Mathematics and Sciences: William E. Weiser '80, Cathi M. Callahan '86, Candace Carlisle '83. Arts: John Reese '62, Jaquelin W. Crebbs '64, '71 M.E.D., Linda M. Kiisk '79. Banking/Investments: Devin I. Murphy '82, Victor K. Branch '84, Linda M. Csellak '83. Business Management/Consulting: Richard B. Sayford '52, Barbara Pate Glacel '70, James R. Taylor '69. Communications: Steve Row '68, Christopher Phillips '81, Bill Sizemore '71. Computer Science/Information Systems: Lisa Grable-Wallace '75, Paul H. Chapman '85. Counseling/Psychology: Troilen G. Seward '63, '80 Ed.S., Deanna Kraus '80, Harry M. Leichtman '72. Education: Margaret Brooks '62, Katie Walline Brumfield '69, Robert W. Gray '67, '70 M.A. Government/

Public Policy: Jay A. Gsell '73, Birdie H. Jamison '79, '82 J.D., Kelly Metcalf '87. Health Sciences: Thomas W. Eppes '74, Bruce W. Jay '75, Dawn Ferree Miller '81. Human Resources/Personnel: Jane Ackiss '71, Walter B. Cooke '74, Chris Geschickter '87. International: Alexander Patino '68, Elias M. Shomali '72 M.B.A., Lynn M. Whitlock '78. Law: Ronald F. Bianchi '76, Avery T. Waterman Jr. '79, Lisa K. Wells '83. Life Sciences: Reid H. Graves '73, '78 M.A., W. Jerrold Samford '77. Marketing/Sales: Patrick C. Hill '82, Andrea J. Miles '83. Museums/Historic Preservation: Francis D. Roche '72, Karen Stuart '84 M.A., Mary Miley Theobald '74, '80 M.A. Publishing/Publications: Bland Crowder '73, '76 M.A., Caroline B. Bolte '81. Social Services: James A. Fitzsimmons '71, Lexine D. Lowe '71, Mitzi K. Stallings '81.

Charles Kendrick '82 Named Assistant Director

Charles L. Kendrick of Williamsburg has joined the Society of the Alumni as assistant director of administration and society services. His responsibilities include coordinating and supervising alumni programs for educational travel, merchandise and specialized services offered through the Alumni Society such as rental of the Alumni House, the William and Mary bank card and insurance programs for recent graduates.

Formerly an assistant conservator with the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, Kendrick is a 1982 graduate of William and Mary where he earned a bachelor's degree in chemistry. As a junior, he was awarded a yearlong scholarship to study at the University of Muenster, West Germany.

Kendrick is an adult leader with Bruton Parish Church's Young People's Fellowship and a director of Theta Delta Chi fraternity's Epsilon Association. He is a native of Spartanburg, S.C.

Charles L. Kendrick

It's Magic!

Homecoming will cast its special spell Nov. 1-4 with the theme, "William and Mary Magic." Reunion committees met Jan. 20 at the Alumni House to begin planning weekend events and hotel arrangements. Classes celebrating milestones will be 1945, 1950, 1955, 1960, 1965, 1970, 1975, 1980 and 1985. In addition, the classes of 1937, 1938, 1939, 1940 and 1941 will hold their annual get-togethers. If you are celebrating a reunion this year, watch your mail for a letter with complete details from your reunion committee chairman. A weekend schedule of events and registration form will be published in the September issue of the Alumni Gazette.

Class Notes

27 M. Carl Andrews
2814 Crystal Spring Ave.,
S.W.
Roanoke, VA 24014

News of 1927 and all prior years

If it were not for the Old Faithful of '27 this would be an extremely short report. So many have forgotten how to write.

First of all, back to Homecoming: Ralph James '16 of Hampton always heads the list of those attending. Then, there was R.E.B. "Buzzy" Stewart of Portsmouth. Unfortunately, I'm unable to cite the entire list of those in attendance.

I'm grateful for Christmas cards from Rolfe "Sleepy" Kennard '24 and six members of '27 — Tom Yates, Frank Hopkins, Bill Morrow, Ed Wilshin, Stewart and Margaret Holman McCoy, plus widows of two beloved classmates: Jean Rawls (Dr. E. Cotton) and Margaret Muscarelle (Joe).

Ed and Blanche Wilshin observed their golden wedding anniversary June 24. Their two sons arranged a party attended by more than 80 friends and relatives. Somewhat ruefully, Ed mentions an operation every year since 1980 but now lays claim to good health. Like the rest of us, he hopes to be around for the College's 300th in 1993.

William H. Morrow writes from Greenfield, Mass., that 1989 will be remembered for his trip to Ireland and Scotland where he saw castles and picturesque villages and tried unusual foods. Bill notes with pride that he didn't kiss the Blarney Stone along with 40 million other tourists, despite the fact that the stone is washed four times a day with antiseptic. He expects another great grandchild for Valentine's Day. Good for you, Bill!

A matter of pride: Bill's portrait by Bachrach was unveiled in the Moore Cottage at Northfield School upon his retirement, a fine compliment for over 50 years of service.

Margaret Holman McCoy writes from Westminster-Canterbury in Richmond that fellow residents include Mary Ribble and Mary Cabaniss Bridges '29. She is "grateful and happy to remember that our generation has witnessed so many great and wondrous things, although our years at William and Mary were not so confused and I'm thankful that the College is able in these days to help students meet the complicated demands of our society."

Thomas A. Hart '30 writes from Seattle in similar philosophical vein: "We are living in great and wonderful times when the peaceful revolution in Europe, producing the shouts, rather than shots, heard 'round the world — happenings that cause smiles, laughter, singing and dancing rather than blood, sweat and tears. Hope is a word that marks these events. The future looks bright with peace assured." Let us pray you are right, Tom.

Frank S. Hopkins, last of our class of '27 to celebrate 80, is spending much of his alleged "spare" time writing biographical accounts of prominent ancestors among the Hopkins, Hepburns, Snowdens and Lloyds of eastern Virginia and Maryland. Such devoted work deserves a place in the archives of Swem Library.

Frank's father, N. Snowden Hopkins, his uncles, Joseph W. Hopkins, Gerard Hopkins and Charles L. Hepburn, all attended William and Mary. Frank's grandfather, Gerard Hopkins, was a nephew of the famed Johns Hopkins.

Powells and Lloyds were ancestors of Frank's mother, the most outstanding being Lt. Col. Leven Powell (1737-1810) who was with Gen. George Washington at Valley Forge in that memorable winter. He later became a member of Congress. A Powell wed the Rev. Sewell S. Hepburn '27, progenitor of actress Katharine, Frank's first cousin.

Biography is fascinating to me, and I envy Frank's patience while delving into the records.

One of the most delightful surprises I've had in many moons occurred one evening after New Year's. Who was calling but Anne Townsend Dudley '26 from New York? I hadn't heard her lovely voice for over 63 years!

Sorting through memorabilia, Anne had found not only a Colonial Echo but pictures and clippings from College days, including proof that we had dramatics in the first decade of coeducation. She was asking advice on whom to contact to make a presentation. Happily, I was able to furnish the address.

We had a nice, long chat about many things. One was the Deanery, the small building which housed Kappa Kappa Gamma, since replaced by the Student Center. Mainly, however, we talked of pioneer dramatics and old friends.

The conversation sent me to pull the 1926 Colonial Echo from my file to freshen memories of Anne, basketball, tennis, work on The Flat Hat and many other activities. (She was sponsor for The Flat Hat and a beautiful one.)

Why don't more of you old grads out there follow Anne's example and drop me a few lines? That's what makes a column worth reading.

Homecoming 1989 boasted an intriguing slogan: "The Best of Times," because it could apply to the 1920s as well as the 1980s with the 1990s coming up.

My chief criticism was that too many events overlapped. The Board of Visitors didn't help things by meeting over the weekend.

Probably the most moving event of Homecoming is the annual Sunset Ceremony held between the Chapel and Great Hall wings of Wren. The lengthening roll included 29 alumni from the classes of 1913 to 1927, most of whom I knew personally in College days, including five classmates.

The reading of the roll accompanied by the tolling of the bell is always impressive. The singing of "Deep River" by our magnificent choir added much, as did the Queen's Guard and trumpeters. This is indeed "the bond that knits the generations each to each."

This time I remembered especially my good friend Charles Harmon Schepmoes '13, who until Sept. 28, was our oldest alumnus. How many can brag of playing golf until 96?

Leonard L. Born '27 provides my closing note with a clipping from L.M. Boyd's "Grab Bag" column in a San Francisco newspaper entitled "The Evolution of the Mortarboard."

"The Mortarboard, that distinctive headgear of the commencement ceremony, originally was two separate hats — a skull cap and another of stiffened material in several variations. They were attached 400 years ago. A tassel was added 300 years ago."

Bet you didn't know that, although all of you wore one on "state occasions." It was news to me.

One more thing: If you enjoy reading this report, please help by sending some news of your own, even just to say you're alive and kicking! The next copy deadline is April 10 for the June column.

Wishing all a blessed Passover and Easter.

29 Joseph N. James
5707 Williamsburg
Landing, No. 38
Williamsburg, VA 23185

31 Dr. Milton Salasky
7342 Millbrook Road
Norfolk, VA 23505

I have not received any personal items to report, so I use this opportunity to remind all members of '31 that next year will be our 60th reunion. Each one gets more precious; so are you. So having enjoyed 60 years of glorying in the tradition and prestige of your alma mater, plan to make the reunion. You are always pampered, but 60 is an elite, pridelful number. Come enjoy your rightful reward.

33 John V. Holberton
10130 Chapel Road
Potomac, MD 20854

Lucie Grossman Titus, a widow for 16 years, is active in Petersburg civic activities. She is president of the Petersburg unit of the American Cancer Society.

Flora Willcox Berkeley, class secretary in her senior year at the College, is another civic-minded Petersburg resident. She is on the board of the Petersburg Home for Ladies. One of her grandsons was a member of the William and Mary class of 1985.

Jean Hyatt Holcomb had a stroke in 1985 and has not fully recovered.

An examination of the Colonial Echo for 1933 shows that women were a large majority of the graduates. That year, 128 women and only 55 men were pictured.

35 Ann Northington Westlow
1594 Heritage Hills Drive
Richmond, VA 23233

A New Year! A New Decade! And finally, the old mystery is solved. I believe I have all the names of those who escorted Mrs. Roosevelt at the 1934 inauguration of College President John Stewart Bryan.

Jane Gilmer Wilhelm wrote that Mrs. Roosevelt spent two days in Williamsburg sightseeing, while President Roosevelt arrived by train at a later date. Harriet Council Mead agreed that there was little communication between the president and his wife. Her romantic soul couldn't tolerate such a failure!

Harriet Jane Dill Tapp and Frances Gilliam Vasilov were selected as guards for Mrs. Roosevelt. Leona Yoder Sangster also accompanied the first lady. I believe that completes the list of guards, but if you should be included, drop either of us a line.

Harriet Mead also told me that her 98-year-old mother passed away. We sympathize with you, Harriet. She hopes to make it back for the 55th class reunion this year, however. 1990 also marks the 50th anniversary of Harriet and Berne's marriage. Was it really that long ago that Berne proposed while Glenn Miller played in the Sunken Gardens?

Hazel and Mason Sizemore, faithful as always, tell of their wonderful trip to Denmark. Hazel and her sister, Charlotte Abel '38, say this was their early roots. Mason had cataract surgery at Johns Hopkins and is seeing better.

William John Miller writes of the slow recovery of his wife Adelaide Mason who had a stroke last September.

A memorial concert was held at the Williamsburg Regional Library in honor of Margaret Hildebrandt MacDonald for her support of the Wednesday Morning Music Club.

The Aiken, S.C., branch of the American Association of University Women announced a $500 donation from the A.A.U.W. Educational Foundation in honor of Margaret Hedgecock Ogburn for her loyalty and devotion to the group.

Pauline Stanley Ogden and husband Cam, Dorothy Elia Mustian, David and Jane Biggs Agnew, Richard and Fontaine Velz and Ed and I enjoyed seeing each other at the Olde Guard luncheon during Homecoming. John Mapp did a good job presiding over the affair.

Evangeline Klug was also at the luncheon. She has retired after 45 years as a chemistry teacher. She invites everyone to stop in and visit her in Naples, Fla.

Chester Starkey writes that he has a new son-in-law! He spent his fall watching football games with friends.

Anne Lambert says she is enjoying her work on the Alumni Society board of directors. She visited Amsterdam and Vienna in September. She urges everyone to come back for our 55th anniversary! Hope to see you there.

Yetive Winslow Bryant suffered a heart attack on her birthday but has recovered with the help of family and friends. She also heard from Ed Boisseau.

Now for my tale! I had to have my kidneys examined. Before my X-ray, my doctor gave me a shot which caused an allergic reaction. My ears turned red, my blood pressure shot up and I thought my chest was going to cave in. I began praying quietly though.

As soon as I put myself in God's hands, I relaxed. My leg uncramped and the pressure in my chest went away. After it was all over, I met Ed who wanted to know where I had been for three hours to take one X-ray. I told him the whole story later.

I never cease to thank God for His wonderful mercy, and I am glad to be around so I can serve as your reporter for a while longer. Thanks for the many letters. Write me when you can.

37 Cornelia Land
Hardenbergh
General Delivery
Spring Grove, VA 23881

The "regulars" who attend Homecoming always enjoy seeing classmates again and reminiscing over the good times we had in our college days. At the Olde Guard luncheon there were not as many as usual. Among those attending were: Daisy McMenamin, Elliott and Marge Hoskins Bloxom '39, Elliot and Helen Young Cohen and Anne Wood. At the hospitality suite were: Bertie Courtney Zugar, Ellen Latane Gouldman, Doris Campbell Desmond, Harold Gouldman, Reese Russell, Elliott and Marge Bloxom, Warne Robinson and Dr. Oscar Ward, accompanied by his attractive son and daughter.

Those joining us from the Class of 1936 were: Kitty Smoot Mason '36 and husband George, Crichton McCutcheon and Thomas Crist. If I have left anyone out, please excuse me — and blame it on my poor memory.

A Christmas greeting from John and Mary Jane Trueheart included the following account of their recent travels: "We boarded a ship in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and cruised across the Atlantic and through the Mediterranean to Athens. Among our shore excursions we visited Nassau, Medina, Lisbon, Cadiz, Gibraltar, Barcelona, Monte Carlo, Pisa, Rome and Capri. It took 26 days and was a marvelous trip." On the cruise they met someone who knew and worked for Walter Zable. Mary Jane wrote they now have 13 grandchildren!

Cary and Carolyn Richardson McMurrin were in Germany during the summer. While there Cary gave eight programs with a violinist. They were mostly in the Black Forest area. They were based in Nuremberg where Cary taught at a conservatory. Carolyn served as page turner — not an easy task, she says. On leaving Germany they spent a week in Paris.

Since Homecoming, Doris Campbell Desmond has visited a sister in California and a daughter, son-in-law and grandson in Montana.

This past summer Elliott and Marge Bloxom drove to Seattle where they embarked on a cruise to Alaska on the Holland American line. As they had colds on the ship, they enjoyed the cross-country trip more than the cruise.

Two alumni of William and Mary are among 20 recipients of the Gigaflop Performance Award from Cray Research Inc., which designs, manufactures, markets and supports large-scale, high speed computer systems for scientific and engineering applications. The awards to Jules J. Lambiotte '67 M.S., and Geoffrey Tennille '78 M.S. were announced at a ceremony in Reno, Nev., in conjunction with the Supercomputing '89 conference. The awards went to computational researchers who are doing real-world work on Cray Research machines at speeds of more than one billion calculations per second (one gigaflop). Lambiotte and Tennille work at NASA Langley Research Center in Hampton, Va.—Lambiotte in the analysis and computation division and Tennille in the computer applications branch.

W. Bruce Lincoln '60, professor of history at Northern Illinois University, has just published his eighth book on Russia—Red Victory: A History of Russia's Civil War. Published by Simon and Schuster, the book analyzes the complex ways the Bolsheviks, despite great odds, overcame virtual worldwide opposition to their revolution and, from their small power base in Moscow, transformed Imperial Russia into the Soviet Union, a nation today of 15 republics covering one seventh of the earth's surface. The book concludes Lincoln's trilogy on the civil war and the formation of the U.S.S.R. The 637-page, illustrated volume sells for $24.95.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Sprouse of Brentwood, Tenn., have made a commitment of $200,000 to William and Mary to establish a need-based scholarship fund for deserving undergraduate students. Sprouse, a member of the class of '54, is president of Public Risk Managers Inc. in Brentwood, while Mrs. Sprouse, an audiologist, does volunteer work with hearing-impaired, the American Diabetes Association and the American Cancer Society. According to W. Samuel Sadler '64, vice president for student affairs, the scholarship will help promote diversity, an essential characteristic of an outstanding student body. As part of the $150 million Campaign for the Fourth Century, the College is seeking a total of $35 million for student support, including $10 million for need-based scholarships.

39 Frances L. Grodecoeur 810 Howard St. Monongahela, PA 15063

To "steal" a line from Herb and Dot Hosford Smith's delightful holiday greeting, "good luck for the whole year thru" to all '39ers—even though you will be reading this in late March. Deadline date was Jan. 15, so all the news going back to late summer and through December comes to you belated.

From Phyllis Hornsby Stevens, in a letter to a classmate, came news of the trip she and Wynne took in August—a two-week cruise around the British Isles, winding up in London. She referred to our 50th reunion as a weekend she will treasure (won't we all!). Phyllis, how about a report on your trip—please share the fun with us.

Jim Bailey's booklet, "Pictures of the Past: Petersburg as Seen by the Simpsons, 1818-1895," received a laudatory review in the Petersburg Progress-Index, on Aug. 6, 1989. Jim compiled and wrote the booklet as the Fort Henry Branch's contribution to the 1989 centennial celebration of The Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. From the booklet "one gets a good view of what 19th-century Petersburg was like," according to the article.

Tony and Lucille Haynes Wagener look back on our 50th reunion as one of the high points in their life. They praised the program from beginning to end, giving a great deal of credit to all those who worked so hard to make such a perfect weekend.

Last year was one of travel for the Wageners. Upon returning home from the 50th, they took off for a month in Scandinavia and visited all four Nordic countries. They write that they got "all the way up to the North Cape and snaked down the coast to Norway on the Troll Road. The fjords are indescribable. We loved the cathedrals, Slav churches and palaces." Once home again, they caught up on laundry and left for their annual sojourn with their three sons and four grandchildren at their cottage in northern Wisconsin.

Not getting enough of Williamsburg during the 50th, Elaine Wooddy Walker returned in late summer for a shopping spree, then later took a trip to the Western National Parks. She and three friends flew to El Paso, then traveled by motor coach for 3,500 miles and visited Carlsbad, Santa Fe, Mesa Verde, the Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone Park, Mount Rushmore and Denver. Whew! That is an ambitious tour, but well worth it, I'm sure, for the beautiful scenery and weather they enjoyed. On her return, Elaine stopped in Missouri for a family visit.

Attention: Jean Warren Stewart—again! Gordon Vliet, who read about your interest in Jack Morpurgo's book in the preceding '39 column, wrote me that American Excursion may be obtainable from the Alumni Society. Along with this valuable information, Gordon sent his best to '39 and congrats on the 50th reunion group turnout. Thanks very much, Gordon.

For their holiday card, Herb and Dot Hosford Smith ran through the alphabet, touching on their activities, travels, etc. But what could one do for Q? Move to California, of course. They said, "Of quakes we've only had a few. Damage? Just some 'pics' askew."

It seems that many of our reunion group headed in all directions after the big celebration. I spent a week in June at Myrtle Beach, catching up on sun and lazy living, did more of same in Bermuda in July, then headed for France, England and Scotland for a month in August/September.

A very special part of my stay in France (Seine cruise and Paris) was the day I spent with Claude Hartog, his wife Marcelle, and their son, Nicolas, who lives and works in Paris. They picked me up at the hotel and took me to their handsome home about 30 miles from the city. Before meeting them in Paris, Claude had reached me by telephone on the new cruise ship, Normandie. It was quite a thrill receiving that unexpected call, which took much effort on Claude's part in tracking down our location.

We had a superb midday meal, during which a mixture of English and French was spoken. While Claude prepared a delectable pate, Marcelle and I spoke French while we sipped champagne. I confess that my French is very limited; Marcelle's is beautiful, of course, so we managed quite nicely and created a warm rapport.

Little did I know that during Claude's year at William and Mary he taught a French conversation class (how did I miss that?). What is more, he met with Dr. Bryan every Tuesday morning over breakfast at the President's House to converse in French with him. Upon his return to France, Claude received a gift on shipboard from Dr. Bryan, which he treasures—and which he was wearing when I saw him. The engraved gold cuff links have been, and still are a permanent part of Claude's wardrobe.

It was interesting to talk with him about his World War II experiences, during which time he served as an officer in the French Army at one time assigned to an American unit because of his expertise in shipping. He also served in Holland and Algeria.

Nicolas and I enjoyed talking with each other about books and paintings. He had read the book on which the movie "Dangerous Liaisons" is based, and in which William and Mary's Glenn Close '74 stars. Later that day, the Hartogs drove me by Maisons-Laffitte, the setting for that film. Claude was pleased to see photos of our 50th reunion and regretted that he and Marcelle were unable to join us.

Another 50-year celebration was held in September, when on the 23rd Frank and Peggy Prickett Miller renewed their wedding vows. Their original wedding music was played. All of their children and "grands" were with them, many having roles in the service. All seven of Peggy's surviving bridesmaids were present, among them Barbara Westcoat Carter, Annabel Hopkins Mitchell '38, and Fran Grodecoeur. At the church reception following the service, were others from our class: Jeanne Kinnamon, Lucille Eldridge Harkless, Lee Shimberg and his wife, Esther, not to mention more William and Mary representation—Peggy's two sisters, Polly Prickett Roberts '41 and Ginger Prickett Cage '45. Peggy and Miley's daughter, Peggy Miller '74, and another family member who is a recent graduate but I can't, I'm sorry to say, come up with her full name. I may have missed others, if so, my apologies.

It was one gala weekend, undaunted by Hugo's blast which played havoc with the party tents in the Miller's backyard. Not to worry—they all pulled together and had everything in place for the day following the storm. About 500 meals were served under those tents over a three-day period.

I would like to mention the presence of someone very special for this glorious celebration and would classify her unofficially as an honorary member of the Class of 1939. She is "Gamma" Prickett, Peggy's wonderful mother, who gave a generous gift to our 50th Class Reunion Fund for the Artist-in-Residence/Visiting Scholar Program, which got under way late last year.

It was a special thrill for Peggy to see the first recipient's stage production at the College since this unique program was her brain child.

In closing, we come to a time of remembrance for our classmate, Harry Gravely, who died Aug. 7, 1989. We will remember him for his kindness, strength and courage over many trying years. How fortunate we were to have him and Tina with us for the 50th reunion. I know that all of us in the Class of 1939 send our deepest sympathy to Tina Jordan Gravely and their four children.

41 John H. Prince 202 Cheadle Loop Seaford, VA 23696

I have definitive information regarding the make-up of the Class of 1941's 50th reunion committee. Yes, I'm talking to you, gentle reader. Fiftieth! The members are Al Chestnut, chairman; Sonny Almond, Kay Hoover Dew, Ella Hurt, Austin Roberts Sr. (He wasn't Sr. when we knew him, though, so don't be confused. In fact, he had no children to speak of then.) Hank and Frances Knight Whitehouse, Bob Hornsby and John Prince.

In addition, Carter Holbrook has been prevailed upon to accept the position of gift chairman. Austin Roberts and I will be co-editors of the ReEcho class book. Either I asked Austin, and he agreed; or I intended to ask him, and he intended to agree.

You might be thinking up an autobiography dating from 1941 to the present, or into the future, if you wish. Keep it reasonably brief if you can. There are to be space limitations. I'll let you know what they are when I find out.

And now to the subject you've all been dying to hear about—the Homecoming. It was the usual wild, swinging, raucous affair, just as we've become conditioned to expect. Responsible journalism prohibits my going into detail, but those of you who've been there know what I'm talking about. You others will just have to use your imagination. There were a few changes. Our center of operations was at the Days Inn a little past the old Theta Delt house. After the football game there was an informal buffet for us and the Class of 1940. You could come as you were after the game. It was a pleasant affair, I thought.

This is due today, and I don't feel like writing more anyway.

43 Virginia Curtis Patterson P.O. Box 162 Williamsburg, VA 23187

Greetings from the Gentle City! Jean Norris Daniel, Caroline Wiley Gray and I were among those present at Mury High School's Class of '39 50th reunion in Norfolk last October. It was great seeing so many classmates we had not seen in several decades. It was also comical at times as people tried to identify each other through the camouflage of years. But it was a memorable weekend filled with happiness.

Jean's brother, Harry Norris, and my aunt, Bradshaw Lovitt, were honored as two of the three remaining faculty from the period. At least they were the only three that could be found.

I had a nice note from Jean Clark Ford '45 and her husband Virgil. Virgil is serving as organist and choirmaster at their church in Foxboro.

A line or two would be nice.

45 Martha Macklin Smith 3609 Seapines Road Virginia Beach, VA 23451

A toast to the '90s! A new decade has burst upon us with such energy and activity that it is both breathtaking and mind-boggling. Trying to keep abreast of the history being made in front of our eyes is awesome. Whoever said that history was dull should be around for this decade.

Back in October, I received a letter from Bill Spillane—too late for that issue of the Gazette. He sent an article about the late Lawrence F. Giordano Sr. Bill called him "Skeets." Skeets was 67, owned his own company for 40 years, and had served in the Army during World War II. He was survived by his wife, Connie, two sons and three daughters.

I received a wonderful note from Marion Lang Van Dam. She and Ted met Warren Spratley and wife last summer aboard the Crown Odyssey. (Yes, Marion, his parents and mine were very close friends. Em and Mother were at Hollins together.) Marion and Ted's trip started in London and included: West Germany, Gdansk, Leningrad, Scandinavian countries, and finally, Holland—their favorite place.

Marion said she never saw a smile the entire day they were in Leningrad and was horrified at the condition of the Hermitage with those irreplaceable art works.

Marion had a long letter from Jeannie Boyle Herbert who lives in Missouri. She and Tom were in Florida for November. Betty Wilcox D'Agostino and Marion chatted recently via telephone. And she ended her note by saying that she had gone into New York for the Thanksgiving Day Parade where it was cold and snowy but such fun!

45th Reunion

Nov. 1-4, 1990

Dinny Lee McAlinden wrote to say that she would be serving on our 45th reunion committee, so I look forward to seeing her again after such a long time. She had a great visit with Slizie Jones Price and Tom in Baltimore last year. They plan to attend our reunion.

Dinny spent Christmas atop Lookout Mountain in Tennessee with her favorite cousins. She is enjoying her grandchildren, not quite 5 and 2.

Floss Metius Johnson and Dwight went to Russia last July. Unfortunately, Floss got sick and ended up in one of their hospitals, which was a very bad experience for her. Last year, son Russ and daughter Cindy presented the grandparents with two more grandsons. They now have six! Floss says that Dwight is making noises about retiring, although he's taken no action yet.

What a delightful surprise! I received a Christmas card from Adele Hetherington Wildman, my freshman roommate. Adele is retiring after 11 years as a staff member of Goodwill Industries. Husband Bob retired two years earlier. Their three children have made them grandparents seven times. Adele and Bob live in Charlestown, W.Va. Why don't you plan to join us for our 45th, Adele?

Ruthie Weimer Tillar is our 45th reunion leader. With her at the helm, you can bet we are going to have a great reunion. She and Cato had a busy fall. In September they were in Reno for the Championship Air Races. Then in November they journeyed to Pensacola for the Sundowners Squadron Reunion.

Last May, Ruthie added another accolade to her already long list. She was honored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority as the "First Lady of the Year." Ruthie was the unanimous selection by a panel of judges of a number of nominees submitted by local clubs in the area. It is not surprising a bit.

Her list of accomplishments is staggering. To quote the article: "Ruth is a truly dedicated volunteer in every way. Perhaps one of her most outstanding achievements has been the work she has accomplished while president of the Greenville Memorial Hospital Auxiliary." She was instrumental in establishing the local Lifeline program, which links an individual to the emergency room 24 hours a day. Ruthie has accumulated 2,500 hours of volunteer work for the auxiliary! What a record! Congratulations, Ruthie, from all of us. We are proud of you.

Owens-Illinois Inc. and its Williamsburg subsidiary Owens-Brockway Glass Containers Inc. have made a commitment of $100,000 to William and Mary to support the new $1.2 million soccer-intramural mini-stadium, which was dedicated last fall. Owens-Illinois and Owens-Brockway have been generous supporters of the College since the corporation first opened its plant in the Williamsburg area in 1980. Gifts from the company have supported annual operating expenses at the College and have benefited the physics department. The company is also a sponsor of the basketball program and patron of the Tribe Golf Classic and the William and Mary Pro-Am.

John Delos, professor of physics at William and Mary, has been named Virginia's Outstanding Scientist for 1990 by Gov. L. Douglas Wilder. As part of the honor Delos was introduced to both houses of the Virginia General Assembly in Richmond. Delos, who has been invited to give major presentations at more than 65 universities in 11 countries, is known for his work in theoretical atomic and molecular physics. His research has focused in part on the study of chaos, the order hidden in the seemingly chaotic behavior of atoms, a subject he explored in the Winter 1990 issue of the William and Mary Magazine. The outstanding scientist award is sponsored by the Science Museum of Virginia.

Ferguson Enterprises Inc. and approximately 2,000 employees of the firm have made commitments totaling $250,000 establishing the David L. Peebles Professorship in Business Administration at William and Mary. The professorship honors Mr. Peebles, who stepped down as president and chief operating officer of Ferguson, a subsidiary of United Kingdom-based Wolseley P.L.C., and now serves as chairman and chief executive officer. "This professorship honors in perpetuity David Peebles, his career and his affection for William and Mary," said John C. Jamison, dean of the School of Business Administration. "We are very grateful to the people of Ferguson Enterprises for their generosity, which will assist the school in its efforts to retain outstanding teachers and scholars and offer exceptional education in business administration." Peebles has provided leadership to William and Mary since 1983, serving as a director emeritus of the School of Business Administration Sponsors, a member of the Endowment Association and a member of the President's House Committee.

As for me, I will be heading to Vero in February for the month. I can't wait to get to a warmer temperature. I went to Orlando for the Citrus Bowl. That was quite an experience, although the game was a disappointment to us Virginians.

Thanks for your news for this letter. Loved hearing from my regulars and especially our new contributors. Keep the notes coming. Most importantly, start planning to be in Williamsburg next fall for Homecoming and our big 45th Reunion. We had so much fun at our 40th, you just know this one will be as good or better.

47

Mel Wright
Route 1, Box 1504
Kilmarnock, VA 22482

Greetings! An ex-football player from Monongahela, Pa. ('41-'46) finally comes home to Virginia and is your new class reporter. The gap in attendance was spent flying B-17s on 58 missions with the 15th A.F. in Italy. I married Polly Krotts '46 on entering the FBI and before cancer struck, we spent 38 years together with eight children who currently reside in California.

I attended the first Dixie-Delta Bowl football reunion in April '88 where I met Carol Achenbach Taylor '49, a former cheerleader. We were married at St. Bede's on April 15, 1989. If someone had told me 40 years ago that Jack Freeman '44 was to be my brother-in-law, I would have keeled over. This makes Jane Achenbach Freeman my new sister-in-law.

Carol was a Connecticut widow with three children, and I had lived in California for 40 years, but the pull of old William & Mary outlasted Fresno State. We started out with 11 children and 10 grandchildren. Our wedding and rainy reception at our Kilmarnock home was a small version of the football reunion. It has been recounted in other class news, but four of my old bomber crewmates flew in from California among others.

Betty Lu Brann '50 and Knox Ramsey '48 are neighbors. Bill Klein '45 is building a new home nearby while Charlotte Seldon '49 and Dave Bucher '44 are in Wicomico Church. Lucy Jones and Bill Murphy, both '48, Dixon and Nancy Oliver Foster '44, Dick '45 and Audrey Hutchinson Saunders '50, the Buddy Clarkes '46 are also in the area. We also see Lou '48 and Audrey Allein Hoitsma '49 and Joan Wattles Spencer quite often. Williamsburg is our second home now since it's only one hour away.

Following the opening of the special loan exhibit, "Contemporary Inuit Drawings," Frederick '48 and Lucy S. Herman, longtime and founding benefactors of the Muscarelle Museum of Art, announced that an important collection of art work will be given to the museum. In a letter to Museum Director Mark M. Johnson, Mr. Herman wrote, "Lucy and I have irrevocably decided to donate our collection of Native American Art to the Muscarelle Museum of Art. This donation will consist primarily of Inuit drawings but will also include drawings by Aleuts (American Eskimos), Inuit carvings, Northwest Coast Indian drawings and carvings as well as other material from Central America. At the moment there are over two dozen drawings and a dozen or so carvings."

Starting with the May issue I intend to run an in-depth capsule of certain classmates and other class news. I hope it will be a new concept, so help me and get on the bandwagon with your background data.

We're all looking forward to the next football reunion March 23-24. We feel very strongly about the need to support the College financially and hope our 1947 classmates will participate in a big way and also support the Fourth and Goal. Happy New Year. SEND NEWS!

49

Alice Baxley Anthony
(Mrs. Charles Anthony)
53 Hickory Place
Livingston, NJ 07039

It was a record turnout for our class when we celebrated our 40th reunion during Homecoming weekend in November. The large number of Tri Deltas were probably the best organized group there due to the efforts of Gretchen Erb. Among those present were Jodie Felix and Johnnie Wright Massaro (who traveled together from New Jersey), Gene Griffin, Ruth Volkert, Mary Scott Wall and Eric, Jane Uhlendorf Kempzell (who has recently retired to Virginia), and Claire Brinley Berner and Bill. Claire has continued her interest in Tri Delta by holding various national sorority offices and serving several times as chairman of national conventions.

A number of our classmates have chosen Williamsburg for their retirement. Mary and Harmon Hoffman have moved from New Jersey, where he was a corporate research director for Meadox Medicals, and have built a house at Port Anne, a residential development in Williamsburg. Mary has a studio in their home and is able to pursue her interest in art, while Harmon enjoys singing bass in the choir of the Presbyterian church.

Elaine Campton Baker and Jim retired to Williamsburg a few years ago and have recently moved to a townhouse. When they're not traveling, Elaine keeps busy singing in a women's chorus, serving as a deacon in the Presbyterian church and working in the church library.

Jean Canoles Bruce and Jack are enjoying their life at Kingsmill, where he's able to do a lot of golfing. (Jean has 13 relatives who are alumni of the College — this must surely be a record!)

Audrey Allein Hoitsma and Lou '48 moved to Williamsburg not long ago and Dennis Cogle and Jean are also in Williamsburg.

Some others seen during Homecoming weekend were Lou Bailey and Jeannette, Charles Sanderlin and Shirley (he's now retired from the FBI and has become a private investigator), Jay Hardison, Sallie Adams McBride (who's working as a travel consultant), Jan Axford Foster and Clifford (still mourning the loss of many of their trees in last fall's hurricane), Jane Rogers Murgatroyd, Carol Achenbach Wright and Mel, Natalie Allen (who's now retired from teaching and living in New Jersey), Eva Kafka Barron, Dot Dettmer McLaughlin and Ben, Lou Hostetter Winder and Gus, Mary Wilcox Rietman and Jerry, Gill Greer (now selling real estate), Ginger Hawkins Riordan, Chris Jones, Janet Pierce, Jack Hickman (recently moved to Virginia), Bob Cartwright (who wrote me a much appreciated letter after the weekend), Bob and Mary Willis Doll, Bobbie James Mears and Harry, Dixie and Nancy McFadden Walker and Nancy Adams Berge (now retired to Vermont).

From the reunion surveys which I received, I learned that our class members are interested in such diverse activities as travel, golf, grandchildren (three of the most popular), flying, horticulture, volunteering, photography, studying abroad and bird-watching. Write and tell me more news about yourselves so that I can include it in the next column.

51

James W. Baker
510 Spring Trace
Williamsburg, VA 23185

Chuck Redding and his wife, Bobbe

Lamont '52, have moved to Williamsburg after more than 35 years in the nation's capital. Several years ago Chuck retired from C&P Telephone as public relations manager. The Reddings, who say Williamsburg is a great place to live, enjoy many activities at the College — lunches, theater, concerts and the like. Chuck even took a course in conversational French.

Chuck and Bobbe like to travel and recently participated in two Elderhostel programs in Greece and France. In 1988 they went on a hiking trip in the Carpathian mountains of Poland. They plan a bicycle trip through the Loire valley of France this summer. Meanwhile, Chuck is working on his golf game and Bobbe is an advisor to the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Anne Reese Carson of Franklin, Va., a former writer of this column, sent a long, interesting letter about herself and family. Unfortunately there's only space for the highlights. Anne and her husband, Bev, the pharmacist-owner of Jones Drug Co., moved back to Franklin from Roanoke Rapids, N.C., in 1976. The Carsons have three grown children, all graduates of William and Mary. Tom received a B.A. in fine arts in '79. Beverley earned a degree in history in '82. And Mary graduated from W&M in '83 with a degree in history.

Anne herself stays busy as a volunteer in church and club work now that she is no longer teaching. For 13 years she taught in five school systems in three states. She said she and Bev do not travel a great deal because of his business, but they have made trips in recent years to Indianapolis and Honolulu.

She had made several day trips recently and they both hope to travel more in the future. The Carsons live in a house nearly 100 years old in the middle of town.

Anne wrote that she tries to get back to Homecoming each year and frequently sees Gwen Batten Perkins and Perk '52 as well as Jackie Jones Myers '52 and her husband Averette who graduated from MCV with Anne's husband in 1953.

Anne also said she has been visited by her former roommate Doris Hamilton Jones, a widow, who retired from teaching Spanish at Amelia Country High School in June 1989. Doris has a grown son and daughter and one granddaughter. Anne also saw Betty Cox Scott in Charlottesville. Betty and her husband John live in Pavillion IV on The Lawn at the University of Virginia.

Ross Lawrence Goble, president of Results Based Management Systems in Osprey, Fla., has been a full-time management consultant since leaving the position of School of Management at Clarkson University in 1980. He wrote that retirement is not on his agenda in the near future because his work is challenging, exciting and brings him in contact with people who are interesting and fun.

In addition to his work, Ross and his wife are active in the Church of the Palms, Presbyterian, where he serves as an elder and chairman of all social events. He is also on the board of Life, an adolescent substance abuse treatment program in Osprey. The Gobles are looking forward to taking their granddaughters, Sarah and Rachael, on a Caribbean cruise during their Easter vacation.

Hugh DeSamper of Williamsburg recently received the Order of the Pineapple Award given by the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation to selected employees each quarter. Hugh was nominated by his co-workers who wrote: "Hugh epitomizes hospitality and courtesy every working day of his 35-plus years with CW." Hugh and his wife Carol Raymond DeSamper '54 live in Williamsburg and have two grown daughters. Hugh is senior director, corporate communications, with the foundation.

James Edward Grimsley and his wife

Ann made a two-week trip to the Soviet Union recently. Ed, editorial page editor of the Richmond Times-Dispatch and former president of the William and Mary Society of the Alumni, was with a journalistic group. He and Ann visited Helsinki before traveling on to Leningrad, Moscow and Tallinn, capital of Estonia.

53

Barbara Jo Mott Woolston
1116 Talleyrand Road
West Chester, PA 19382

Cold weather again is upon the Philadelphia suburban area, but spring will be with us all as you read your Alumni Gazette in March.

Charles Poland ran unopposed as commonwealth attorney in Waynesboro, Va., this fall. He has served as prosecutor for 20 years and has lived in Waynesboro since 1957.

The Trident, Tri Delta's alumnae magazine, listed Pam Hall Huth as alumnae Panhellenic Association president for Fairfield County, Conn.

It was great hearing from so many of you at holiday time. I do appreciate your taking time to keep me up to date. Nancy Ruth Adair and her husband visited with Anne Howard '54 (who has married) when Anne's daughter graduated from West Chester this past spring.

Several of you probably received Scott and Caroline Young Petrequin's "Holiday Edition" with photos of children and grandchildren. How do you ever find time to compile these letters filled with interesting facts?

Bill Farley's card showed him acting in a production of "Troilus and Cressida" for the Riverside Shakespeare Company in New York City. Bill enjoyed renewing friendships at Homecoming and at the reunion for William and Mary Theatre and "Common Glory" people. Chris and "Cadsie" Forman Moe also attended the Theatre Reunion. Cadsie's note told about Chris's sabbatical leave and their year spent mostly in London.

My roommate, Harriet Willimon Cabell, surprised me with a welcome note from Alabama. Now, if I could decipher her writing! Ben and Harry's youngest son is home after working in Japan for three years. He is a Sparks Scholar at Penn State. The Cabells are grandparents now with a granddaughter in Miami. Harry's daughter is a trade specialist in Kansas City, Mo. This sounds like my family with children settling in different states.

Harry will be at Chauncey Center this June in Princeton in addition to handling her duties as associate dean of adult students in Alabama. She has traveled to England and Scotland and this March will take students to Ireland. She and Ben did manage a trip to Germany and Budapest. I hope to hear from her when she comes east.

Jim and Bev Simonton Kelly announce the birth of their first grandson! Their son-in-law is the interim rector of Christ and Holy Trinity Episcopal Church. Bev and Jim's daughter will be graduating from the College this year.

Dan and Emmy Ketterson Smith's Christmas letter as usual was filled with fascinating details about two weddings and family happenings in Maine. Emmy is vice president of the new University of New Hampshire foundation and will be putting her master's degree to the test. No problem there!

Ed and Ginnie Gary Lupton had their daughters, their husbands and grandbabies with them in Florida for the holidays. Son Gary is working in South Carolina for a forestry service. This summer at the wedding of Betty Gayle Jeter's son, Ed and Ginnie had a mini reunion with Shirley Smith Whitehurst, Joann Lore Kersey, Martha Parker Stanley and Betty Ann

William H. Rehnquist, chief justice of the United States, has been named the first Carter O. Lowance Fellow at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law. Rehnquist will be on campus Oct. 17-20 to meet with students and faculty in a variety of formal and informal settings. The chief justice was chosen for the Lowance Fellowship by a select panel consisting of Mills E. Godwin Jr. '36, former governor of Virginia; William B. Spong Jr., former U.S. senator and former dean of the law school; W. Roy Smith of Petersburg, former member of the Virginia House of Delegates; Rodney A. Smolla, director of the Institute of Bill of Rights Law; and Timothy J. Sullivan '64, dean of the law school. The sole criterion for selection is distinguished public service. The fellowship is named in honor of Carter O. Lowance, aide to six Virginia governors in seven administrations and former executive vice president at William and Mary. Mr. Lowance died last November.

Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder will deliver the 1990 commencement address and receive an honorary doctor of laws degree at William and Mary Sunday, May 13. "As a state university, it is especially fitting that the College recognize and honor individuals who represent the highest standards of distinguished public service," President Verkuil said. "We are proud to honor Governor Wilder and pleased that he will address our graduates and their families at such a pivotal time for the College and the Commonwealth." Wilder, 59, received a B.S. degree from Virginia Union University in 1951 and a J.D. degree from Howard University School of Law in 1959. He is a former founder and partner of the law firm of Wilder, Gregory and Martin. A member of the Virginia Senate from 1969 to 1985, Wilder was elected lieutenant governor in 1985 and served as chairman of the National Democratic Lieutenant Governors' Association and chairman of the National Conference of Lieutenant Governors' Drug Interdiction Task Force. He took office as the nation's first elected black governor in January.

Wills Wallace.

The Luptons stayed with Jim and Terry Carter at Homecoming and spotted Marge Huff Brown, Russ and Page Beck Gills, Quinby Hines and Bev Kelly. They also spent a day in Suffolk with Bob '51 and Jessie Wilkens Parker '50.

Ed, as usual, busily prepared their boat for the Cocoa Beach lighted boat parade at Christmas. The yearly boat trip this time was sailing up the inland waterway in Florida with a stopover to explore historic St. Augustine and then down the St. John's River almost to Orlando.

We hope to see Bill and Ginny Campbell Furst this month when they visit Philadelphia to absorb the Flower Show and visit area points of interest such as Brandywine River Museum, Longwood Gardens and nearby Winterthur in Delaware. Ginny's real-estate company now is Prudential where she remains at the top as a multi-million seller. Jay and I were glad to hear from Jim and Barbie Schwartz Smith from Connecticut.

Please keep writing, and have a happy spring and summer.

55

Elaine Elias Kappel
104 Spring Forest Drive
Pittsburgh, PA 15238

With a large green and gold mark, please note on your calendars the weekend of November 1-4 . . . our 35th reunion at Homecoming. Details of planned class events will come this year! Hope to see YOU!

According to Yolanda Grant Harrell: "It pays to advertise in the Gazette." Barbara Brown Harman saw Yolanda and Skip's new address and after corresponding, planned a visit and had a super time. Barbara's husband Arlie has taken early retirement and they're house-hunting in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The Harrells also spent a week in Duck, N.C., with Bob Forrest and his wife Violet. Yolanda has started a fascinating job with Clemson's Black Heritage project. She interviews elderly blacks in the state who are in their 80s and college graduates.

35th Reunion

Nov. 1-4, 1990

She enclosed a clipping written by Steve Biondo titled "Movies Can Change a Life, Making Living Sweeter" in which he interviewed Yolanda about her love affair with movies. She had answered his question about a character actor in his column last fall.

For belated holiday news Helen Male Katze's Christmas note told of the worldwide travels of husband Chuck, son John, daughters Margaret and Nancy, and the forthcoming wedding of son Dave. Helen is still employed in the social work field. She also said she was looking forward to "the gathering of our class" come November.

Elsa Stromberg Bandi and Fred sent their best wishes and Joan Mattson told of her good year, travel clubs and keyboard lessons.

Florence DeHart Burns visited Williamsburg in the fall and nostalgically visited the bookstore where she purchased W&M sweatshirts for her grandchildren. She had lunch with her French professor, Marcel Reboussin, whom she said looked quite good. (They spoke French!) Florence continues with her interests of tennis, violin lessons, Spanish Club and Phi Mu Alumni. Her four children and three grandchildren spent a ski weekend together near Stowe last year. Floie mastered the bunny slope!

Bunny Scheie Belford has a new job closer to her home which she enjoys. She also has two new kittens which are delightful and loving. She plans to return to Alumni College and Homecoming this year.

My faithful previous reporter, Anne Lunas Vincent, wrote how much she enjoyed her son Andy's wedding. She wore a dress made from silk Andy brought to her from Thailand when he worked there in a refugee camp.

She said Janet Shaw Teim '57 and Bill were there. They had been like second parents to Andy since his first year at Georgetown. She is still teaching Lamaze for Birthright and has taken up aerobics and is very encouraged with its results with her weight.

Marge Willard Duer and Jack are planning their spring fling. We enjoyed an evening with them, along with daughter Julie, at this year's Homecoming and had a great time reminiscing with a few of our Egyptian trip fellow passengers.

Allison Sandlass Carr and Pete have just celebrated the wedding of daughter Jessie. Mary Lou Riggan Baird was one of the wedding guests. The Carrs were celebrating Christmas in New England with "their Yankee kids."

Diane Broderick Hamilton and Will wrote that they will be in Idaho for three to six months beginning the first of the year on a consulting assignment. All of their children are married and Diane says her far-flung family has her playing the role of the "flying grandmother."

Dick and I attended Homecoming and thoroughly enjoyed the festivities. I ran into Ann Callihan Hines, who was celebrating Quimby's reunion, and we had a nice chat. I also heard that Martha Wren Briggs, Joe Campagna and Larry Young were there, though I didn't see them. It is super that the class of '55 will be reuniting in the first year of the Gay Nineties. I hope to see you at Homecoming!

57

Lee Hammer Scott
1009 Regency Circle
Penlynn, PA 19422

Patricia Moyer Allred is a special education teacher and educational diagnostician for Gloucester County Public Schools. She teaches blind and visually handicapped children. In 1984 she was named Teacher of the Year by the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens. Patricia is married to William, a professor at Hampton University and has three children.

59

Sollace Molineux Bommer
995 High Mountain Road
Franklin Lakes, NJ 07417

Bev Harris Olsen wrote of her initiation into "grandmotherhood" — a grandson Marty. With her husband Ric's retirement this year, they plan more camping trips. Last year they took a trip to Big Sur. Bev reports, "it was one of the most beautiful spots I've ever seen." A Hawaiian cruise was a highlight of the year.

Gary and Charlotte Etgen are looking forward to a busy 1990 — their elder son John will graduate from Stanford with a Ph.D. in geophysics and will be married in March. Their second son, Gary Jr., is in graduate school at the University of Texas and is to be married in June. Charlotte has assured me this is all planned by her so that the boys will not move back home after college!

We would really like to hear from some of you. Since Peter and I did not make Homecoming this fall, news is sparse. How about it?

61

Johelen A. Martin
2144 Laurel Lane
Altavista, VA 24517

Happy New Year! How about making one of your resolutions to drop me a line on your birthday this year so we can keep in closer touch during this first year of the '90s. I did have two interesting letters come my way with news about a number of our classmates.

First, Fred Clayton writes from Bon-sall, Calif. He and Dee were in Baltimore in October for the National Federation of Republican Women's convention. Dee was a "delegate at large." Fred reports President and Mrs. Bush dropped in for lunch during the course of the convention to the delight of the delegates.

He took advantage of his time in the area to visit Wayne 'Chico' Cheek and his wife Marge Guessner. Chico took Fred on a tour of one of four of Chico's corrugated cardboard manufacturing plants which are spread from Pennsylvania to Georgia. Margie spends several days each week doing volunteer work with a Baltimore area museum.

Fred and Dee were met at Dulles Airport by Mike McCall and wife Joyce who took them to the Cheeks for dinner. On the Claytons' final evening on the East Coast, the McCalls, Cheeks and Claytons had dinner at Nick "the Greek" Belair's restaurant, the Prime Rib. (This is the same Nick from "Corner Creeks.")

Fred also sent an update on the Jeff Cohen Memorial Permanent Endowment Scholarship Fund. This effort was led by Sigma Nus — Wayne Cheek, Jim Porach, Dave Fiscella, Ira Lebenssen, Fred Clayton and Jimmy Seu '56. The sum of $100,000 will be dedicated in Jeff's memory this winter at a W&M basketball game. Since this group began its efforts with the athletic department, 10 other fully endowed sports scholarships have been created.

Fred is semiretired and has several hobbies. One is doctoring his thoroughbred race horses when they get injured. He has two horses doing fairly well at Santa Anita and Hollywood Park race tracks. He has managed a volunteer project — to complete a large rec hall for his church, Grace Presbyterian. Dee is a deaconess.

Fred had also crossed paths with Ron Monarch who runs a company in San Diego. Fred and his son Tony, a senior at University of Nevada, visited with Dan Henning '63 at the Chargers locker room before the Giants game.

In her Christmas letter to me and my husband, Barbara Beckman Schaaf related some of her most recent adventures. Her big birthday (we all know which one, don't we?) began with a surprise party at work, continued that evening with a roast accompanied by a clever video, and culminated when Susan Griffin Ricketts and Martha Cawley Doughtie (Barbara's W&M roommates) arrived in Oakland for a long weekend. Barbara works at Children's Hospital where she accompanies Santa as he makes his rounds on Christmas morning.

She survived the earthquake without injury or serious property damage, but noted it was very scary and sobering. Her condo had broken windows and extensive wall and ceiling cracks, all uninsured! Barbara made trips to Italy and Nairobi in June. She went on two safaris.

Bill and I are looking forward to the May graduation of our youngest, Marie, from VCU. No more tuition checks, but one less deduction for Uncle Sam. There's no way to win, is there?

Keep in touch. Slip my address in your wallet and drop me a postcard as you find a moment in the next few months.

63

Judith Murdock Snook
(Mrs. Donald Snook)
1029 Sanderling Circle
Audubon, PA 19403

A reminder from Joan Lee — the United Kingdom Chapter of the Alumni invites anyone in the area to join them. Contact Joan at 228-5862 or write her at 38 Mallinson Road, London SW11 1BP.

Katherine McGinnis Block continues to be involved with dance. She attended the International Early Dance Institute at Goucher College and participated in the Aston Magna Academy through a National Endowment for the Humanities grant at Rutgers University.

Sharon Hall McBay decided to remedy the brevity of our class column and wrote a long, much appreciated letter. She has two teenagers. Sharon is fashion coordinator/owner of Ski Chalet in Washington, D.C. Last summer they had a wonderful trip to Australia and Hawaii. She included all sorts of news — beginning with:

Pat Farrell Franklin deserves the title "voluntaire extraordinaire" with her varied activities, especially as chairman of the Virginia Forum editorial board (a non-partisan news service organization. Pat and her husband Jay toured Budapest while their daughter Kim was an exchange student there. The Franklins joined Sharon and her family for an Aspen ski trip last spring.

Jackie Murphy and her husband Bob have a little girl, Janie. Jackie has returned to her system engineer position with IBM.

Ann Harvey Yonkers and Sharon toured the Pearl Buck Farm and Foundation in Bucks County, Pa., with Yulan, a Chinese friend they met through Pat Farrell Franklin. All of them felt they learned much from Yulan before her return to China. Several friends took Yulan to the Women in the Arts Museum in Washington. Ann mentioned that she has catered large (500+) parties there!

Mary Frances Bonner Koltos has "retired" from HSS. She was the president of the D.C. Private School Parents' Council and volunteers at Children's Hospital weekly. She has been redecorating their new home.

Sharon talks with her William and Mary roommate, Sarah Kemp Brady, who recently moved to a new house which she loves.

Judy Beers Trelogan has been with Arthur Young for over five years and got her M.B.A. in December.

Sue Spillers Reed is living in Houston with her two teenagers.

Diane Stuart Perrine has begun her own graphics/advertising design company called Ad Mar.

Diane LeFerrie Auburn is now Dr. Diane with a Ph.D. in psychology. She lives in Ventura, Calif. She is a counselor at a California state mental hospital for physically and psychologically abused children.

Thanks for all the news, Sharon! On to Christmas card news:

Betsy Holland Lunger continues to be the teacher at the Temple in Louisville, Ky. George is still at Reynolds Plant No. 3 but is now production supervisor on a rotating shift. Their daughter Marie graduated from the University of Kentucky and son John will graduate from the U.S. Naval Academy in May.

The Lungers stayed with Dale Harris Cohen and Dick '61, for the Army-Navy game. They also spent a night with Karen Harkavy Toker.

Pat Thomas Ogren and her two chil-

CHOIR ON TOUR

The William and Mary Choir will be performing at various locations in the Northeast during their annual spring tour. Dates and times are as follows: March 15 - Mount Vernon High School, 8515 Old Mount Vernon Road, Alexandria, Va.; March 16 - West York Area High School, York, Pa.; March 18, 10 a.m. - Rye Presbyterian Church, Rye, N.Y.; March 18, 7:30 p.m. - St. Mark's Church, Melvin Ave., Catonsville, Md.; March 19 - Columbia Baptist Church, 103 W. Columbia St., Falls Church, Va.

IVY SELECTED AS MANAGER

William Ivy '77 M.B.A. has been appointed manager of disposables distribution for Vitek Systems Inc. in St. Louis. He is responsible for supervising the distribution of test kits and other disposable materials to Vitek customers throughout the world. Before joining Vitek, Ivy worked for two years as a construction project manager for the McDonnell-Douglas Information Systems Co. He previously spent five and a half years with the Seven-Up Co. as project manager in corporate engineering. Ivy earned his bachelor's degree in building construction engineering from Hampton University. He currently lives in Ellisville, Mo., with his wife, two daughters and son.

PENCE PUBLISHES BOOK ON ETHICS

A book by Gregory Pence '70, Classic Cases in Medical Ethics: Accounts of the Cases that Have Shaped Medical Ethics, was released in January by McGraw-Hill Book Publishers. Pence holds joint appointments at the University of Alabama-Birmingham in the School of Medicine and department of philosophy. He serves on university committees on human experimentation, AIDS and animal research as well as on the executive board of Birmingham AIDS Outreach. He also published Ethical Options in Medicine and has written articles for the Journal of the American Medical Association, American Philosophical Quarterly, New York Times, Newsweek and the Wall Street Journal.

dren spent a white Christmas in New Hampshire and Maine.

Sherry Parrish Swan is still in sales and travels all over the southern part of the United States as far west as Little Rock. Al is still running the bank and very involved with trying to lure the Olympics to Atlanta in 1996. All of their children are working on college degrees and beyond! They traded up to a larger sailboat, the Independence, a 52-foot ketch. They keep her on the Chesapeake Bay and down in the Bahamas.

Someone in the Barnes family sketched a portrait of the family for their Christmas card so I can report that all four, Bonnie Higgins Barnes, Joe and their two children look well and happy (with big grins, and in the case of Joe — a beard!).

Vi Sadlier Huse reports great enthusiasm for the art gallery she and Ron have formed. Continued good luck, Vi.

Sally Siegenthaler Luchtenstein spent Christmas in Florida with her parents and Pete '61. Sally has filled her time with volunteering, mostly with the Rehabilitation Service of North Central Ohio as the newsletter editor, auxiliary president, and co-chair of the annual Chili Cook Off.

Rosemary Brewer Philips and Charlie spent a week in London and Dublin when Charlie officiated at the Pitt-Rutgers football game in Dublin. Rosemary and Lee Williams McBride got together before Lee left for Hong Kong last May.

Lee reports that her whole family loves Hong Kong. She is taking two art history classes at the University of Hong Kong — one in Chinese art and the other in Japanese art. The political situation makes Mike's work interesting.

Our daughter, Sharon, has graduated from Boston University. Don '61 was recently profiled in Modern Health Care.

65 Susan Stevenson Landis
405 Lake Drive
Daniels, WV 25832

Mark your calendar now to save the dates of Nov. 1-4, 1990, for our 25th reunion celebration! It promises to be a super weekend and we want you there with us.

Janet Thurman Murphy reports that their twins are now in college. After graduating last June from Kingswood-Oxford School, Kelly has gone on to Colgate, and Maureen to Holy Cross. Bob, Janet's husband, still owns the Five Star Company which produces electrical coils. Janet received her master's degree from Trinity College, Hartford, in May 1988. She works as a research assistant for a professor in history and women's studies. Janet also has begun a small consulting business with two friends; they arrange collections for small museums and give lecture/demonstrations about archives for various organizations. Janet also volunteers at the Connecticut Historical Society and serves as archivist for the Stowe-Day Foundation. She received training for this position at the National Archives last spring. Janet still has time for additional volunteer work at the neonatal intensive care unit at the University of Connecticut Health Center where she provides "cuddle time" by holding little babies.

25th Reunion

Nov. 1-4, 1990

Joe Ellis continues as dean of the faculty at Mount Holyoke in South Hadley, Mass.

Diane Bright Manning and Larry and Lisa are living in London; Larry is an attorney with an international firm. Ellen Reynolds Brouwer and Dirk still live in Fairfax where the twins Suzanne and Katherine are now attending junior high school. Dirk works for the Department of the Navy and Ellen works part time for a law firm. She also has become very involved with the town's annual arts festival. Like the Murphy family, Mary Chichester lives in Glastonbury, Conn. She teaches in the local school system.

Micki Leef Stout and Rich Kraemer are in charge of the Class of 1965 reunion activities for the coming fall. Micki's husband Pete '64, a judge in the Richmond area, still continues all of his William and Mary activities. Their daughter Ashley is a senior at the College while Kennon is a freshman at Roanoke College. Laurie Yingling Soleau spent Christmas with the Stouts. Laurie lives in Connecticut, selling real estate in the Hartford area while considering a return to the teaching profession.

Susan Roberts Chadd and Chuck have spent a busy year with work and watching their two sons' sports activities. Chuck has been serving as the managing partner of his law firm. John will be going to college next fall.

Michael J. Debranski is currently principal of Suffolk High School in Suffolk, Va. The 68-year-old faculty will close in June and Mike will become principal of the new Lakeland High School. He has been working with the local schools since 1965, starting as a teacher at Suffolk High School and working through several administrative positions before taking the helm at Suffolk High in 1985. He holds a master's degree and a certificate of advanced study from Old Dominion University.

Jean C. Lavid received a specialist in education in educational administration and supervision from Wichita State University last May.

Kate (Kathy to most friends at the College) Power Fallis and Stan are still in Colorado but have a new address (5721 Green Oaks Dr., Littleton, CO 80121). Stan is working as CFO for Boettcher and Co., owned by Kemper Financial Companies in Chicago. Their daughter Jennie is a college student in Los Angeles majoring in elementary education and participating in various choral music activities. The Fallis family enjoyed a new year's vacation in Wailea in Maui.

Mary Liz Smith Sadler and Sam stay ever busy in Williamsburg. Daughter Leslie graduated from Wake Forest and is working as a high school residence life coordinator at the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem. Erin is a high school senior and involved in theater activities both at school and within the community.

I think about returning to the paid work force in spare moments between board meetings for the WMCA and Theatre West Virginia. Drew is in junior high school and needs a full-time chauffeur to get him to his various activities; I qualify. His major interest is in the WinterPlace Junior Ski Team; all winter we attended weekend races in Virginia, North Carolina, West Virginia and Pennsylvania. I would love to hear from more of our classmates. Send news — a post card will do!

67 Mrs. Thomas C. Murphy
(Cathleen Crofoot)
17173 Overlook Drive
Chagrin Falls, OH 44022

I hope all of you enjoyed a wonderful winter season and are remaining faithful to your New Year's resolutions! I wish more of you would resolve to send news!

I received a nice note from Betsy Rice Keahey. She's busy, happy and delighted in her second year of married life with husband Ray and two wonderful stepdaughters — one a junior at Syracuse, one a sophomore at Pennsylvania. Betsy was selected Virginia's National Distinguished Principal for 1989 and honored at a White House awards ceremony in October. A Washington Post article on Oct. 26 lauded the warmth and high standards Betsy's school enjoys. Betsy, in turn, attributed her recognition to her staff, the students and involved parents and community members.

Betsy has been principal at Spring Hill Elementary in Fairfax County for the past six years and has been in the Fairfax school system for 22 years. (We couldn't have been out that long!?) She earned her master's from the College of St. Thomas in Minnesota.

Mary Frohn Ward had a busy holiday season. She is involved as a trustee of her county library system on the steering committee for a $12 million bond issue. Mary's husband, David, stays busy with his law practice. Her daughter Margaret, 16, is beginning her college search, and son Ross, 14, dreams of making his fortune as a rock guitarist.

I received a press release on Michael Holland, a Marine Corps Reserve colonel living in Fairburn, Ga. He participated last fall in Operation High Roller, an exercise designed to provide a realistic scenario to test combat readiness of one active duty and four reserve fixed-wing squadrons and one Marine air support squadron.

Richard McCluney, director of Colonial Williamsburg Foundation's audiovisual department, produced a half-hour television special on the Virginia Governor's Mansion. The program aired in late September.

The Fredericksburg, Va., Free Lance Star carried a wonderful article on Sept. 23 on Sam Smart, a Fredericksburg optometrist, who with wife Laura Daughtry '68 and four other Fredericksburg Baptist Church members, visited Chile last fall on a mission to provide ophthalmic examinations, prescriptions, disease detection and nearly 1,200 pairs of glasses to needy Chileans. They saw an average of 110 people a day. With a very high national literacy rate, those they were able to help were delighted to be able to read once more. This was Sam's second visit to the country. What rewarding experiences!

I also received the Nov. 15 Virginia Gazette article featuring Bob Sheeran, who has been radio broadcasting Tribe football games for the last seven years. The November 18 game against Richmond marked Bob's 200th consecutive game in affiliation with the College. WOW! He was W&M's sports information director from 1972 to 1985 before moving into the broadcast booth. I certainly remember him as a more colorful classmate on campus, and the article touched on some memorable moments in his career, including the time the broadcast booth phone line got crossed with a fraternity house line whose callers were employing all kinds of expletives at the frustration of the confusion. Bob managed to talk his way around the situation, blaming technical difficulties and finally having to disconnect the line.

You don't have to be written up in the newspaper or be the subject of a press release to get any ink in our column, so please take the time to send me news to share with our classmates for the next column.

69 A. Winslow (Win)
Whitehurst
3200 Chamberlayne Ave.
Richmond, VA 23227

Homecoming 1989 was a great time for all who attended. I hope you were there, but if not... much of the following information came from along the parade route! Unfortunately, Milton's mother was in the hospital, so we only stayed until noon on Saturday. As a result, I didn't get to talk to as many people as I would have liked.

The Gamma Phis were holding a mini-reunion in front of Binn's. Lynda Wyrick, Liz Ramsey, Ruth Johnson McLaughlin, and Susi Smith Stewart were there, along with Don McLaughlin. Liz is still in Lexington teaching high school social sciences. Ruth and Don are in southwestern Virginia, where Don has had the dubious distinction of being the judge who has had to "manage" the striking Pittston coal miners. That must have been a thankless job at best, and apparently he's done a very good job of it. Let's hope the next judicial year will be less stressful. Susi and Ron Stewart '70 are now in Jacksonville, N.C., where Ron is battalion commander for an engineering company that is going to Honduras in January to build roads, schools, hospitals and bridges. They have two growing children, Megan and Andy.

Suwannee Schmoie Shuntich and her husband Lewis '70 J.D. were back for the first time since graduation. They now live in Philadelphia, where he is a lawyer, and she is taking a break from banking to raise a year-old daughter.

Chris Taylor Nance is in Richmond where she is director of response planning for the Martin Advertising Agency. She lives in the Fan area with children Megan, 9, and Oliver, 11.

Steve Wing is an attorney in New York. He told me that there were 20+ Pi Lams back, but he is the only one I saw.

Peggy Merritt Thornton and her husband Keith were there from Dallas. They get to Williamsburg frequently and were planning to chaperone a group of teenagers the weekend following Homecoming. That's dedication.

Glenda Bowery Walker is now in Charlotte, N.C., where she teaches English and is working on her Ph.D. She has two children.

I also bumped into Leslie Davis, Linda McIndoe (who lives in Richmond, I discovered) and Katy Walline, but I didn't get a chance to talk to any of them.

The Chi O's had a mini-reunion brunch with a good turnout: Anne Bradstreet Smith and husband Les '65; Missy Galloway Parker and husband Andy '69 J.D.; Ginger Graef Smith and husband Jake '66; Anne Nelms McDowell and Steve; Sharon Reeder McCarthy and Burk; Kaye Pitts Long and Langdon; Carrington Sally Baker; Peggy Rioridan Murdock; Carolyn Lawhorne Ethridge; Janet Berglund; Janet Ackroyd Ellis; Linda Kalen Trice; Mary Ruth Price Oastes; Judy Chase Kahn and SuSu Williams Villarsosa.

(Hope I didn't miss anyone!) Arriving too late to eat were Jan Ernst Meyer and Glenn '66 Brodie.

Everyone is doing about the same things, except Carrington who is returning to Emory Law School in January to get her LL.M. in tax. She will be commuting weekends to Florence, S.C.

Jan Brodie is an assistant county attorney in Fairfax, and Glenn is on the drug czar's team, doing anti-drug work for the Navy at the Pentagon. Linda Trice's older daughter is a freshman at W&M, and Anne Smith's twin daughters are first years at U.Va. Missy's older daughter is a freshman in Dallas — are we really old enough for all these college-age children?

Three distinguished Virginians have been elected to the board of directors of the School of Business Administration Sponsors Inc., which provides private financial and other support to William and Mary's business school. They are J. T. Shropshire, chief of staff of Gov. L. Douglas Wilder; Charles Augustus Banks III, president of Ferguson Enterprises Inc. of Newport News, and Frederick Deane Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of Signet Banking Corp., Richmond.

Mary Chris Schmidt Williams sent me several items, including news that her mother died suddenly right before Homecoming. All of our sympathy to Mary Chris.

She included news that Mary Lucy Mapp Beilsmith lives in Dunwoody, Ga., with her husband John and two children. She has her master's in French and teaches high school.

Nancy Harkrader is also near Atlanta, and is working on her master's in psychology.

Carol Hammerson Garrard and her husband published "Inside the Soviet Writers' Union" last July. It examines the union that controls all literature in the USSR. John is a professor of Russian literature at the University of Arizona.

Phyllis Kline Appler sent me her Christmas letter (in September — great planning, Phyllis!). She and Dave '68 are in New Hampshire, where he is an optometrist and she teaches 10th grade biology. They have a daughter and son in 8th and 7th grades and are active in school, Scouts, sports and church. They both even managed to find time to take courses last summer.

The Alumni Office sent the following information:

In August James Dorsey was named supervisor of historical interpretation at Jamestown Festival Park. He spent 20 years in the U.S. Army before joining JFP in 1987 as an interpreter. He currently serves on the James City County Board of Parks and Recreation, the Board of the Coalition for Quality Growth and is president of the Williamsburg chapter of the Archaeological Society of Virginia.

Alexander Monroe was involved last summer in a study of Civil War ships wrecked in the James River Channel for the U.S. Naval Historical Center. His work and report were commended by the executive director of the Port of Richmond and the Secretary of the Navy. Way to go!

And, Quentin Van Meter, formerly "among the missing" wrote to say that he and Kathy '68 are indeed alive and well, and living in Alameda, Calif., where he is serving his 18th year as an active-duty Navy pediatrician at the Oakland Naval Hospital. They will be in Williamsburg this spring for a medical convention and plan to bring their four children, ages 2-14. It's never too soon to start exposing children to "the Burg."

Bob Holmes is in Bowling Green, Ohio, where he teaches law, writes law texts and enjoys flying his plane.

Bob and Bobby Henry Todd are in New Jersey, where he is the director of human resources for Parke-Davis, division of Warner-Lambert. They have three children and are active in the New Jersey Alumni chapter.

Bill and Cathy Webb '70 Clarke are in Chicago, where Bill is national retail marketing manager for Sears, Roebuck & Co. They have two children. If you judge by our monthly Sears bill... he's doing a great job!

Mary Sue Wine France teaches geometry and algebra in Fairfax County, Va., after a nine-year "break" to raise two children. Her husband David '68 is controller for Guiffre Distributing Co.

Dick Miller is an associate professor at Butler University. After graduation he received a Ph.D. in ecology from the University of Georgia. He and Ellen enjoy traveling and are active in several environmental groups.

Russell and Debbie Woods Smeds are (overseas, I think) with the U.S. Army. Russ is a lieutenant colonel with the Corps of Engineers, and they have three children.

Becky Vaughan Gillette is a language consultant to the Virginia Department of Education and to C&P in Richmond. She earned her M.Ed. in education administra-

Entries from William and Mary have received a total of five awards in the 1990 CASE District III Communication Competition, sponsored by the Council for Advancement and Support of Education, the national professional organization for college and university advancement professionals. In addition to a special merit award to the Alumni Gazette (see Alumni Society Today page), published by the Society of the Alumni, the College won a grand award in fund-raising publications for its poster and series of brochures for the William and Mary Annual Fund; an award of excellence for the 1988-89 President's Report, a special merit award for photography for the Case Statement for the Campaign for the Fourth Century and an award of excellence in the category of "General News Story" for coverage of the dedication of the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies.

tion and supervision from Virginia State University in '78. She and Walker (remember UR football?) have two sons, and he is a marketing consultant with Martin Publishing.

Jane Spence Catterton is the medical director of the Team Evaluation Center in Chattanooga. She got her M.D. from MCV and is a pediatrician. Her husband is director of neonatology at UT, and they have two children.

Katie Walline Brumfield is director of the Williamsburg Montessori School and active in environmental groups. She has one son and is married to the master gunsmith for Colonial Williamsburg.

Penny Alexander Caran is marketing manager for Centaur Inc. in Richmond. She has two sons and enjoys travel and sailing.

Sandy Camden McDaniels is a senior social worker in Chesapeake, and is working on her master's degree in counseling at ODU. She and Roger have four children.

Sally Barner Leslie earned her M.S. in sports management from the University of Massachusetts. She and Gordon are now in Richmond, where he is branch manager of Royal Insurance. They have three children.

Chip Smith is also in Richmond where he is vice president of Data Systems Corp. and past president of his civic association. He received his M.S. in business from VCU. His wife Sherry is a buyer with Thalhimers.

Louis Tonelson is principal of Plaza Junior High in Virginia Beach, having received his Ed.D. from VPI. He and wife Anita have two children and are active in community affairs.

Ray and Pam Allison '70 Barger are in Del Mar, Calif., where he is senior vice president of Spectragraphics Corp. Pam teaches fifth grade and they have two children.

Susan Crampton is a CPA currently serving as secretary of the Vermont Agency of Transportation in Jerico, Vt. After W&M she attended the University of Vermont and the JFK School of Government at Harvard. Her husband is an attorney and they have two children. Susan is also serving on several boards and active in state and community affairs.

Bill and Mary Ellen Allen '70 Turville are in Jacksonville, Fla., where Bill is a commander in the Navy. Mary Ellen is a tax accountant and they have two children. Bill is active with Boy Scouts and Junior Achievement. He said they would have loved to come to Homecoming, but was deployed at the time. Maybe in '94, Bill.

Sandy Harris works part time at the Williamson County Library in Franklin, Tenn., where she, husband Lynn and three children live. Lynn is a speech pathologist.

John Frece and his wife Priscilla live in Annapolis, where Johnny (sorry, old habits die hard!) is the State House bureau chief for the Baltimore Sun. They have two children and Priscilla writes children's books — look for "Chadwick books," and support her writing!

Thelda Kestenbaum is a dermatologist at the University of Kansas Medical Center, having earned her M.D. at U.Va. In addition to medical interests, she is active with the dance theater, KC track club (she's won a couple of runs), and environmental issues.

John and Nancy Feil Lowry are in Charlottesville where he is a broker with Wheat First Securities, and she is a paralegal. Their eldest son is a senior at W&M (there are two younger sons), and John is adjunct faculty at Piedmont Virginia Community College.

Janet Watkins Jendron and Bob '71 are in Columbia, S.C., where Janet is very active in La Leche League International (currently serving on the board), and writes articles on parenting for national magazines. Bob is assistant U.S. attorney. They have four children.

Dan and Joan Southall Mills are in Wytheville, where he is director of the Virginia Center for Innovative Technology, and Joan is an adjunct faculty member of the VCU music department. They have two children and are active in the community.

John Lina is director of Info Services — Europe for Tenneco, currently living in Chantilly, France. He and wife Carola have three children.

Ronnee Repka and James Taylor are in the Chicago area where she is vice president of marketing research for Information Resources Inc., and he is vice president of La Salle Partners Real Estate. Ronnee got her M.S. in advertising from Northwestern, and Jim got his M.B.A. from Miami of Ohio.

Fran Pollock Grochmal is living in Virginia Beach with her husband David and two children. David is director of general services for the city of Virginia Beach, and Fran is busy with community activities. She and Bobbi King Hart had wanted to contact all the Thetas, but I didn't receive their note until December. So ... Thetas, if you did not get in touch before Homecoming, please call Fran (804) 424-5371 or Bobbi (804) 282-7765. They are trying to locate all the Thetas from our class.

Henry and Yvonne Peters Hoyle are in Alexandria where he is senior staff scientist (computer software engineer) for DSC Corp. They have three children and are active in community and church. Henry earned his M.S. in computer science from GWU.

Ron Neblett and his wife Evelyn are in Lynchburg, where Ron is senior vice president and treasurer of First Federal Savings Bank. He is a CPA, active in many community organizations, and the father of three — including twin daughters. Ron is looking for Bill Montgomery. He was formerly from New Jersey. If anyone knows where to locate him, call Ron at (804) 384-7654 or write 2228 Surrey Place, Lynchburg, VA 24503.

Jean Perkinson Tudor is vice president of branch operations for the Virginia Credit Union Inc. in Richmond. She is also treasurer of the Virginia Capital Area March of Dimes.

Milton and I are busy as ever. I've had a "mini-promotion" and am now personnel coordinator, as well as recruiting coordinator for the law firm, so I'm hiring staff, as well as attorneys now. With the legislature back in session, Milton is in the middle of the budget process. Maybe we'll see each other in April! The house renovation still takes up our weekends. We have a new granddaughter born in October, so we are anxious to get to Cincinnati to check her out this spring.

So there it is, folks, all the news from the Alumni Office. If you have not returned your form, it's not too late, and they will send it to me for the next Gazette. (My next deadline is April 1.) Please tell us where you are and what you're doing. In particular, I'd like to hear from Chris Sherman, Chris Robbins and Lydia Jeseule Bulynko. Here's hoping 1990 will be the start of a wonderful decade for us all... and one full of letters to me!

71 R. Craig Windham
P.O. Box 9506
Washington, DC 20016

"What's next... golf with Dan Quayle?" That jab from Mike Campana was just the first in what proved to be a flurry of ribbing over my "jogging with George" picture in the October issue. Frank Bacskay wrote "Windham, you'll never beat me in the mile run on anyone's track!" Some anonymous soul noted "Just think, you could have knocked the leader of the Free World right on his duff." And from Steve Harvith: "Bush appears to be talking in the photo and you are clearly laughing. Is this the 1980s version of our late '60s anti-establishment tactics?" (Actually, he was cracking an off-the-record joke.)

Frank Snowden Hopkins '27 has donated to University Archives at William and Mary a letter written by Charles L. Hepburn while he was a student at the College in 1894 to Hopkins' grandfather Charles Leven Powell, a retired school teacher living in Alexandria, Va. Hepburn describes the revival of the Phi Beta Kappa chapter at William and Mary, an event he thought would be of interest to his grandfather who was a member of the Yale University chapter. At the time of the revival in 1893, only faculty members were elected to PBK membership, and the students at the College hoped that the chapter would honor the brightest graduates with membership as was done at Harvard and other northern colleges.

Steve adds that John Morecock is living in a Buddhist commune near Denver and loving it. "He served as cook for a year and will soon work as a therapist. Nearly enlightened."

Steve Shrader has found Nirvana in Sewanee, Tenn., of all places. That's where he put down roots 13 years ago after accumulating several advanced degrees. He and his wife and two children live in a huge antebellum mansion just a short walk from the University of the South, where he is an associate professor and chairman of the music department.

Steve writes "I attribute my lack of wordly success to the fortuitous circumstance of being assigned to Taliaferro Hall as a freshman!"

Another of the Taliaferro prodigies is LTC "Colonel" Kerry Buckley, who's now stationed stateside after a sojourn in the Orient. He's deputy staff judge advocate of the Military District of Washington, but the adjustment hasn't been easy. "Seems nothing happens that doesn't involve a general or some senator or congressman. Things can get very interesting in one heck of a hurry. But as for the Washington area, it sure beats Uijongbu." Kerry says he's already looking forward to our 20th(!) reunion in 1991.

That also goes for Gary and Jeannine Morrison Hayden, who are planning to make the trip from Ann Arbor. After raising two children, Jeannine earned a master's in social work from the University of Michigan, and she is now working as a therapist at a substance abuse facility, a job she finds challenging but quite stressful at times.

Gary is an attorney with Ford Motor Co. specializing in appellate litigation. He's also the leading contender so far in our "Who's the Last Class of '71er to Turn 40?" Contest. He doesn't cross over until Sept. 17 this year. What's his secret? "I'm busy increasing my running schedule, hoping to stave off the aging process as long as possible." As for the reunion, preparations have already begun. More later.

Navy Cmdr. Hal Hardaway got a glimpse of history in the making when his ship, the USS Blue Ridge, took part in the first "friendly and courtesy" visit ever by U.S. Naval vessels to Shanghai last year. He witnessed the beginnings of the Chinese student demonstrations that eventually resulted in the massacre in Tiananmen Square. Hal wrote of being "surrounded as we strolled the streets by growing throngs of Chinese demonstrators. They were friendly and extremely curious." The last time a U.S. ship had been in Shanghai was to evacuate Americans in 1949 as the Communist forces were overrunning the city.

Your reporter spent the fall witnessing disasters (Hurricane Hugo and the San Francisco earthquake) and marveling at the way people rise to such challenges. But the closest I got to the Berlin wall was the display of "guaranteed authentic" concrete chips being hawked at Bloomingdale for $15 a pop. Now it's springtime for Capitalism in Germany and the rest of Eastern Europe. It's going to be an interesting decade. Enjoy your spring, and please take time to write.

73 Jay A. Gsell
320 Schley St.
Cumberland, MD 21502

Well here we are in the kinder, gentler 1990s with our military invading Panama, Colombia, possibly downtown Miami and a few other neo-communist enclaves south of Tijuana. At least the Eastern Europeans

DEVITA AWARDED HAMMER PRIZE

Vincent T. DeVita Jr. '57, physician-in-chief of New York's Memorial Sloan-Kettering Cancer Center and a member of the Board of Directors of the Society of the Alumni, has been named a recipient of the Hammer Prize for cancer research. DeVita was cited for his pioneering role in the development of curative chemotherapy for Hodgkin's disease, for his continuing contributions to the principles of combination chemotherapy, and for his "inspired leadership of the National Cancer Program during his tenure as director of the National Cancer Institute." The prize was established in 1982 by Dr. Armand Hammer, the noted industrialist, philanthropist and longtime supporter of cancer research. DeVita shares the 1990 prize with Dr. Emil Frei III of the Dana-Farber Cancer Institute at Harvard Medical School.

are making their own democratic decisions — wait until the 1992 Olympics. So much for the political comments and mindless patter. Is there any difference? This is our first offering of the New Year and new decade, and some of you stalwarts have sent some tidbits.

First my apologies to Andy "the Italian Stallion" Mosney for the name typo in our last report. The pride of Glen Rock, N.J., probably didn't even recognize the reference and you're probably all wondering who the "H" Andy Mashey is/was.

Another ex-jock and scholar Scott Moyer (a grappler) is now living in Altoona, Pa., and was recently on a government reorganization committee when the city switched from a commission form of government to a council/manager hybrid. Good luck with the new regime, Scott.

I see where Bob Gottke helped a group of D.C. area alums put the "alumni" to some Cavalier and Hokie grads in softball. Nice going, Bob. Another ex-King dorm survivor, Al Sullivan, is now in Easton, Conn. (41 Flat Rock Rd., 06612). Al has been an assistant cameraman for "60 Minutes" where he followed the meteoric career of our current president. Al is currently writing up a storm and looking for a top-notch agent to make him the next Woodward or Bernstein or maybe Philip Roth.

Viola Osborne Baskerville has recently been appointed to the board of visitors for Longwood by now ex-Gov. Baliles. Viola was also a Fulbright Scholar in West Germany and then earned her J.D. from the University of Iowa. The Richmond native is married to Dr. Archer L. Baskerville (who, no doubt, keeps the Hounds). They have two sons, Tim, 13, and Sean, 9. Viola is a member of a number of auxiliaries and associations. She also helped restore two homes in their travels.

News from Southern Pines, N.C., reveals that Dr. John Dempsey, is now president of Sandhills Community College. He previously served as president of Belmont Abbey College near Charlotte. The Navy vet also served at the College of Charleston and in the federal OMB in Washington. John also has degrees from Notre Dame and the University of Massachusetts to go with the sheepskin from W&M. The Wyoming, Pa., native is married and has two sons.

From the alternative lifestyles files, W&M GALA, a group of students, alums and friends, some 300 strong is now entering its fourth year and making headway in the battle against misunderstanding, prejudice and for total equality for all in the College community. The W&M GALA is part of a national network of gay/lesbian alumni/ae groups.

That's all the new news for this next to last school year 89/90 edition of "All that Fits, I'll Print." This is a brand new decade and a momentous one for the College (300 years in 1993), so let's hear from all you horny toads and toadesses (?). My pithiness can carry this newsletter only so far before it gets stuck in the green ooze of Crim Dell. Peace.

75 Linda Cool Larson
211 Hollowtree Court
Greeneville, TN 37743

The holidays have come and gone. What a great stack of cards we received this year from so many of you. It makes me feel guilty that Dave does all the card writing in our house (but not that guilty). For those of you who missed it, Cosmo Barshis, dog of Darr and Susan, made his seasonal splash as a Christmas tree on their card this year. The rest of you have beautiful children who, by the way, are looking very old. Don't feel bad. Ours do too!

Since we're on the subject of age, several

ANNE PRATT '70 NAMED TO NEW POSITION

Anne M. Pratt '70, director of foundation relations at William and Mary, has been named acting director of advancement programs in University Advancement at William and Mary. Her primary responsibilities will be to supervise the functions of special events, donor stewardship and advancement writer, to coordinate special initiatives for a number of constituencies including the Endowment Association, the Student Advancement Association and Friends of the College and oversee the Commission on Tercentenary Observances. John Neville, former director of the Tercentenary Observances commission, established to plan the College's 300th birthday celebration in 1993, left the College Jan. 1. Dr. Pratt recently completed an assignment for Gordon S. Davies, director of the State Council of Higher Education, as staff director for the Commission on the University in the 21st Century.

of you reminded me that our 15th reunion is fast approaching. A reunion planning committee is already hard at work, and you'll be hearing from them soon. Van Black is chairman and other members are Gene and Karen Kennedy Schultz and Barbara Nowicki Dwinell.

Wayne and Melissa Wright Johnson sent greetings from Lynchburg. No major changes reported, except Melissa is now teaching full time at the private school her children attend.

Clare Monahan Hamman wrote to say she and Boyd are expecting in February (in keeping with the Northern Virginia baby boom). Chris McKechnie had a baby girl in October, and Alison Williams Duncan is due at the end of April. She also said that Barb Bingham is getting married in May.

Congratulations, one and all!

Payne and Marilyn Ward Midyette are thriving in the Midwest. Marilyn is still with U.S. Sprint, but in a new capacity as field sales support. She's trying to "fix" the system in Illinois, Indiana and Wisconsin. Payne is still enjoying his work in real estate investment for pension funds at Lasalle Partners.

Jerry Johnson reports that Garfield Heritage Farm and Museum just had its best year ever. They've added acreage and an assistant director. Jerry has been active in the Chicago Alumni Chapter. In Febru-

And that's really all I have. Be thinking of Homecoming '90, and keep those cards and letters coming.

77 Carol Baranofsky Pugh
810 South Providence Road
Wallingford, PA 19086

I hope that everyone had a happy holiday season and a pleasant transition into the new year! By the time this column is printed, it will be almost springtime — a comforting thought, given all the cold temperatures and snow we have had this winter! With several letters from folks, clippings sent to me by the Alumni Office, and of course, Christmas greetings, I have a few things to report.

A letter from Sheila Klatt Lockmuller reports that in February 1988, she left RehabCare and went into private psychotherapy practice with the Sentara Psychological Group and has enjoyed the change. In August 1988, she married Paul Lockmuller (a Catholic University graduate) and moved to Windsor, Va. Sheila was expecting their first child at any minute when she wrote last November — has anyone heard whether she had a boy or a girl?

Sheila also mentioned that she had been in touch with Joyce Downey and Linda Vorhis James recently. Joyce is doing well, and Linda had a little boy this past spring.

Bill Myers also wrote in November with job news. In June 1989, he left the office of Sen. Al Simpson for a position in the Department of Justice as an assistant to the attorney general. The attorney general is the chairman of President Bush's Domestic Policy Council, and Bill staffs for this duty. The council consists of cabinet members and provides advice to the President on a variety of domestic issues. Congratulations, Bill!

Carol Wills Rosenblum and her husband Jerold are the proud parents of twins, Nicholas and Daniel. Carol has decided to stay home with the twins for a while. Carol worked in International Management Group's New York office as licensing executive.

Denise Adams McDonald and her husband Travis are both working at the Corporation for Jefferson's Poplar Forest in Bedford County, Va. Denise is responsible for public relations and marketing, directing tourism promotions, media relations, publications and special events. Travis is a U. Va. graduate and is researching the techniques used by Jefferson to build Poplar Forest. He will oversee the reconstruction of the interior of the building. Poplar Forest should be quite a showplace of Virginia history when the work is completed.

Mike Barnes was one of 57 people last year who successfully completed the requirements to become a fellow of the Healthcare Financial Management Association (HFMA). Mike currently serves as assistant director of the Virginia Hospital Rate Review Program in Richmond. HFMA provides recommendations and assistance on legislative proposals and regulatory issues. Its members serve a wide variety of healthcare provider and service-to-provider organizations.

Among our Christmas cards were greetings from people we haven't heard from in a while. With the arrival of their son Jonathan this past November, Davis '79 and Gita Vasers Massey are now the proud parents of two boys. Gita returned to her practice in pediatric hematology-oncology at the Medical College of Virginia shortly after Christmas. Davis continues to practice dentistry and to gain a lot of on-the-job carpentry skills while renovating their log cabin in Richmond.

Karen Claussen Shields and her

BUSBEE NAMED PARTNER IN CHARGE OF TAX SERVICES

Howard J. Busbee '65, '67 J.D. has transferred to the Richmond office of Coopers & Lybrand to become partner in charge of tax services. Specializing in corporate income taxation and financial planning services, he was formerly a partner in Atlanta where he was an active member of the business and civic communities. Among his activities at William and Mary, he is a member of the Law School Foundation, the Tax Conference Advisory Council and the President's Council. He also belongs to the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. His oldest son, Jay, is a senior at the College and, like his father, a member of The Flat Hat staff. Busbee lives in Richmond with his wife Mary, two sons and a daughter.

husband Mark also added a second son to their family in December. In addition to Ian's birth, Karen and Mark had a busy year which included a new job for Mark (still in Northern Virginia) and travels to such diverse places as Vancouver, B.C., Klosters, Switzerland, and Saginaw, Mich. The latter was no small feat with number one son Andrew, a very active toddler, in tow!

We also heard from Pam Walker. Pam is in the midst of her second year of teaching high school. She is especially enjoying her class of French IV advanced placement students.

Tim Schoepke also wrote to say that he has nearly completed the requirements for an M.L.S. at the University of Maryland and is considering going right back for more advanced studies at Georgetown University! Since November, he has been working in the Office of Toxic Substances of the Environmental Protection Agency. Tim handles questions concerning agency rulings, administrative dockets, and congressional legislation and hearings.

Zack and Judy Sirota Perdue sent greetings from Harrisonburg. Zack has a new associate, so now there are three people in each of their groups (Zack is a neurologist and Judy is a pediatrician). Between their practices and raising two children, Katherine and Michael, they keep busy.

Guess that will wrap things up for this column. Please write so I will have some material for next time.

79 Mary E. Keen
3500 Colony Crossing
Drive
Charlotte, NC 28226

From all reports, Homecoming 1989 was a smashing success. Maybe I'll manage to make it to number 15! Remember to send me some updates and tidbits from Homecoming.

Chuck McMath and wife Meredith Bean are restoring an old (ca. 1819) home in Hillsboro, Va. The new McMath residence was formerly known as Birkett's Tavern. Chuck is a senior software analyst for Management Systems Designers Inc., while Meredith is a full-time mother to their long-awaited baby, Palmer Lee. Palmer arrived June 28, 1989, and according to his mom, is the image of his dad, complete with red hair.

Jeff Harris is currently with Georgia Federal Bank in Atlanta. He is vice president-counsel for the loan closing department.

David Krantz and wife Susan Jennings have recently moved to Delaware, where David is assistant professor of oceanography at the University of Delaware. He received both his M.S. and Ph.D. in marine science from the University of South Carolina. Susan most recently has been a kindergarten teacher with the Richland County School District. She was nominated for the 1988-89 school teacher of the year. She also received her M.A. from the University of South Carolina.

Mike Chase is currently living in Orange Park, Fla., where he is an F18 instructor and Navy pilot. He and wife Debbie have two sons.

Sheri Duff is currently living in Richmond, where she is working for Virginia Hospital Shared Services Corp. as the vice president/COO. Shari is the director for group purchasing.

Brad Eure and wife Chris Smith live in Charlottesville where Brad operates his own company, Eure Communications. Chris stays busy caring for their two sons and serving on various committees.

Andy Lark is currently living in New

15th Reunion Nov. 1-4, 1990

ary the chapter was to take a behind-the-scenes tour of the Lyric Opera House.

Shelley Nix is still thriving on Abbey Road, London, and is traveling the world for business and pleasure. This year she managed to log time in Denmark, Sweden, Italy, Germany and Spain, not to mention the good old U.S.A.

If Don Fergusson ever gets tired of heading up Rust-oleum, he can make his living as a writer. As a matter of fact, he can have this job anytime he wants it. His letter was full of chuckles and news of alums.

On a trip to Tokyo, Don and Cathe spent a week with Bruce Pflaum and wife Becky. Bruce recently received a promotion and is now in charge of First Chicago's Far East treasury operations.

Michael Tang is living on the north side of Chicago in a vintage home he and his wife, Diane, gutted and remodeled. Michael is vice president of Tang Industries.

Mac McClure is in Staunton, Va., managing some construction projects and is very involved in the Sigma Chi organization.

Don and Cathe themselves have had a busy and productive year. Besides Japan, they've windsurfed in Hawaii and Jamaica, tasted wine in France, fished in Manitoba and gambled in Vegas. Not bad!

A sheep has returned to the fold! Craig Dukes has written to catch us up on the last 15 years. After leaving William and Mary, he went to University of Michigan where he completed his Ph.D. in physics in 1984. He then went to Geneva, Switzerland, to work on an elementary particle physics experiment.

He managed to find time to ski, mountain climb, speak French, and do a little research on the side. He just returned to the States this fall, by way of China, Australia, New Zealand and Hawaii, and is now in Charlottesville, Va., as an assistant professor of physics. Craig is single, and though suffering from culture shock, is glad to be home.

PRINCE APPOINTED MAGISTRATE

William T. Prince '55, '57 J.D., '59 M.L.T. has been selected by the judges of the Eastern District Court of Virginia as a U.S. magistrate in Norfolk. As magistrate he will preside over a wide range of criminal and civil proceedings. His appointment is for eight years. He succeeds Rebecca Beach Smith '71, '79 J.D., who was appointed to a federal judgeship. Prince is a member of Williams, Worrell, Kelly, Greer & Frank law firm. He was former president of the Virginia State Bar and has served as a lecturer at Marshall-Wythe School of Law. He is on the Virginia Law Foundation's board of directors and is a member of the American Bar Association's House of Delegates. Prince lives in Norfolk with his wife, Ann '55. Four of their six children are William and Mary alumni.

LAYCOCK NAMED COACH OF THE YEAR

Tribe football coach Jimmie Laycock '71 has been named College Coach of the Year by the Portsmouth (Va.) Sports Club. Ranked 10th in the nation in Division I-AA, William and Mary finished its 1989 regular season with an 8-2-1 record before losing in the first round of the I-AA tournament. Laycock has a 58-53-2 overall record in 10 years as head coach at the College.

HERITAGE MORTGAGE NAMES COCHRAN PRESIDENT

Robert J. Cochran '79 has been appointed president of Heritage Mortgage Corp., a provider of residential first trust mortgages in the Washington, D.C., metropolitan area. Cochran joined Heritage in 1987 as vice president, chief financial officer. Cochran previously was employed with Horizon Financial Corp. as senior vice president and chief financial officer. He is a member of the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and a resident of Annandale.

York, where he is partner in the law firm of Lark and Sullivan. He is also co-trustee for the Frances and Edwin Cummings Memorial Fund. Andy, in addition to being on our reunion committee, is involved in numerous charitable and professional activities.

Janette Hansen and husband John Haynes are living in Silver Spring, Md., where they recently bought a home. Janette is a geologist with the EPA, while John is a geologist with the NUS Corp. Janette is working in the EPA's municipal solid waste program.

Mark Meuschke and wife Andrea are living in Laurel, Md. Mark is a self-employed manufacturer's representative. Andrea is a teacher at the German School in Washington.

Anne Stephan Henkel and husband Merle are living in Richmond. Anne is the director of leasing with Faison Associates. Merle is a vice president with Central Fidelity Bank. Anne also stays involved with the Junior League and enjoys time with son Robert.

Lisa Ferentinos is an agronomist at the University of Hawaii, where she is also studying for her M.S. in agronomy. Lisa is coordinating a research project on taro production in the Pacific Islands.

Richard Efford is presently on the professional staff of the House Appropriations Committee of the U.S. House of Representatives. Richard and wife Wanda Strickland live in Woodbridge with their three children.

Beth McMath and husband John Byam '78 returned from their sojourn in Brussels and have settled in northwest Washington, D.C.

Susan Arnot is currently marketing services manager for TAXI magazine in New York. Susan, who has been in publishing for 10 years, joined the staff of TAXI in June 1989.

Lynn Brewster Wingard and husband Bob are residing in their new home in Annapolis, which they built with their own hands. Lynn is working for the U.S. Geological Survey as a physical science technologist and completing her Ph.D. dissertation at George Washington University.

Linda Hill and husband Paul Sundquist are living in Harrisonburg. Paul is the assistant controller with Procorp, and Linda is a full-time mother and homemaker.

Charles Hammaker and wife Dale live in Houston, Texas, where both are lawyers.

Keith Williamson and wife Sylvia Greimel have recently moved to Issaquah, Wash., near Seattle. Keith is a systems analyst with Boeing Computer Services; Sylvia is at home with their two children, Eric and Kristin.

Chip Austin serves as pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church in Newport News. He received his master's of divinity from the Lutheran Theological Southern Seminary in 1984.

William Silkworth and wife Leslie Staton are living abroad, due to William's job as a foreign service officer with the U.S. State Department. The Silkworths have two children, Amanda and Christopher.

Jim Shaffran is working as an interlibrary loan librarian with the Mitre Corp. in McLean, Va. He is also a professional singer/soloist with the Washington Opera and the Wolf Trap Opera Company.

Kelvin Ransey is a geologist, employed by the Delaware Geological Survey as a research associate.

Celeste Joyner and husband Ronald Hall live in Glen Allen, Va., where Celeste is a high school guidance counselor with the Hanover County Public Schools. Ronald is the minister of youth and education for Lakeside Baptist Church.

Bob Bryant received his master's in divinity from Nashotah House in 1988. Bob lives in Capitola, Calif., where he is assistant rector at the church of St. John the Baptist, Episcopal.

Dave Rizzo is the branch manager with IBM in Charlotte. Wife Rebecca is a full-time mom, caring for sons Paul and Sam.

Paul McLeod is an exploration geologist (metals) with Cominco American. Paul received his M.S. in geology from the University of Montana in 1987 and lives in Missoula, Mont.

David McKinney received the Dumas Malone Memorial Fellowship for the current academic year. This will enable him to travel abroad to pursue independent research. David is a Ph.D. candidate at U.Va. in the field of architectural history.

Maggie Vincent is a dance/movement therapist at the Woodbourne Center Inc. in Baltimore. She received an M.A. in expressive arts therapy from Goucher College and now teaches selected courses there.

Kellie Fleming Johnson is director of business development for Hudgins Construction Co. Husband Larry is an agent with Allstate. The Johnsons live in Williamsburg with son Logan Buford.

Susan Warren and Lt. Cmdr. Allan Nadolski were married on Dec. 10, 1988. Allan is with the Navy. Susan is manager of the Washington office for Westinghouse Electric Corp.

David Hopkins is senior systems analyst for the U.S. Department of Agriculture. David is also one of the founding partners in the Potowmack Investment Club, which is made up of a core of 1979 W&M alumni. David and wife Donna reside in Fredericksburg with son Zachary. Donna is a physical therapist with the Fredericksburg City School System.

Kathy Dalton Mika is currently a pediatrician in Culpeper. Husband David is a psychiatrist. The Mikas and their two children live in Charlottesville.

Chip Dempsey is living in Jacksonville, Fla., and working as a financial consultant with Harden and Associates Inc. Chip is a charter member of the recently formed Jacksonville Area W&M Alumni Chapter.

Paul Robinson is living in Providence Forge and working as a real estate broker with Francisco Real Estate. Paul also is serving on the New Kent County Board of Supervisors.

Thomas James is currently living in Crozet, Va. He and wife Mary founded one of the country's first private counseling agencies solely for Vietnam Veterans. It is presently one of the few private, non-profit, non-affiliated centers left in the country. The agency COVER (Community Outreach to Vietnam Era Returnees) serves 20 counties in central Virginia.

That's all for now. Take time to send me an update.

81 Pamela Pritchard Padgett
311 Ashbourne Drive
Orlando, FL 32811

Happy New Year, but first some happy news to close the eighties.

Best of luck and love to Laurie Nicholson who married Richard Albert Spencer on Nov. 5. Laurie and I were roommates our first two years at W&M, and I want to wish her all the best. Laurie, I hope to hear from you soon!

Also newlyweds in 1989 were Cynthia Friedman and Troy Gene Wilson on Aug. 19 in Vienna. The couple live in Alexandria where Cindy is a news editor and her husband a systems analyst at Gannett Co. Inc.

Charles Davis married Elizabeth Boozer in July in New Orleans. Jeff Forbes '82, Jim Hill '83 and Marty Keck were all in the wedding party. Charles is in his third year of accounting Ph.D. studies at University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. Elizabeth is an accounting Ph.D. studying at Duke University.

Janet Cratsley Ateson was selected by the Outstanding Young Women of America program. The program recognizes the achievements, abilities and outstanding civic and professional contributions of women between the ages of 21 and 36.

The trustees of the Institute of Chartered Financial Analysts have awarded the CFA designation to Richard Veres. Congratulations, Richard, for this outstanding achievement.

As of Aug. 30, 1989, Navy Lt. David E. Grogan reported for duty with Commander, Fleet Activities, Yokosuka, Japan. Dave and Sharon Bowen Grogan had a baby girl, Erin Alise, in October. This is wonderful news to me, and I'd love to hear from the new family.

I was happy to hear from Bill Down '78 and wife Nancy Graham Down '80. Bill is a dentist in Scotia, N.Y., and Nancy is doing real estate paralegal work. Bill and Nancy had their first child, Carrie Michele, on Sept. 6, 1986, and are proud to announce Christopher Patrick, born Feb. 22, 1989. Congratulations and great to hear from you!

Best of luck for the '90s, and let your friends and classmates hear from you soon.

83 Carolyn J. Martin
202 Crest Road
Marlton Lakes
Atce, NJ 08004

Happy New Year and New Decade! From the sound of things, it looks like the '90s promise a lot of excitement for everyone. Along the homefront, my husband Bryan and I are beginning 1990 with a big decision to build a new house in Bucks County, Pa. Our current home in New Jersey is "Up For Sale," and we're targeting to move sometime in May. Lots of decisions, lots of fun and lots of money! Anyhow, enough about me, what about you. . . . Looks like several of you are also experiencing the joys of home ownership.

Connie Whiteside and husband Dave are enjoying their home renovation projects on their historic home in downtown Newport News. Both work at Newport News Shipbuilding, where Connie is a programmer analyst. Connie also writes that Barbara Baffer loves life in D.C. where she works as a legal assistant.

Speaking of Newport News, the same location was also the meeting site for Cheryl Jacobs '82 and Aaron Park. Writes Karen Butler, Cheryl met Aaron through work at the Newport News Shipyard. Following a December wedding and Caribbean cruise honeymoon, Cheryl and Aaron are busy settling into their new house in Newport News. Besides Karen, Caroline Watkins was also able to attend the wedding. In addition to attending the Jacobs/Park ceremony, Karen and Caroline also made it to Sally Locantore's marriage to Joe Monaghan in Princeton, N.J. Sally and Joe are both attorneys, practicing in New Jersey. Also at the Locantore/Monaghan wedding were Karrie Hess (who just bought a house in Dallas), Susan White, Paul Boykas and Lynne Shannon Healy '82.

Back to some more home renovation stories. Cate Agnew and husband Mike, after gaining enough fluency in Minnesota to feel comfortable in social situations, are now picking up construction dialect as well, as they continue their home renovations. (I certainly can relate to that. How many tapes of THIS OLD HOUSE do you have?) Anyhow, Cate is finishing her work toward professional designation for commercial real estate appraisal and is sitting for her comprehensive exam in February. Mike still works for Pillsbury. Reports Cate, Joy Camacho-Murdoch '82 gave birth to a boy Troy last February. Joy, Troy and husband Steve are happily settled in Virginia Beach.

Other baby notes: Amy Young Locklear and husband Shawn celebrated the birth of their first child Christina last July. Amy is retiring from her job as assistant editor for Decision Sciences to become a full-time mom as well as a free-lance editor. The Locklears are moving to Sumter, S.C., to live at Shaw AFB. Amy also notes in her letter that former suitemate Erika Holzbauer-Howland '82 is also expecting.

Also welcoming a first child in 1989 are Karen Anderson Panchision and husband Robert. Joshua was born last May. Karen continues work with the U.S. Postal Service as well as with their landscaping business. In Carol McGuire's note, Carol mentions that Phil and Lisa Dawson just had a baby boy Christopher, and Beth George McNamee and husband Joe also just had a son. Unfortunately, Bryan and I missed Carol's wedding last May but W&M was still well-represented: Ted Fauls (who read) and wife Alison, Phil and Lisa Dawson, Mary Evans Suski and husband Mike, Barbara Cline and husband Hal, and Rob Bryant (who started law school at W&M).

Just playing catch-up with some '88 baby news: Dee and Steve McHenry celebrated the birth of their daughter Kelly Anne in December '88, and Martha Newsom Smith and husband Harvey welcomed their daughter Catherine Elizabeth in August '88.

I think I've exhausted the baby news, so let's move onto weddings/engagements. Tom Trott was married in September to Janice McPhail in San Diego; those making the trek to California included Scott Wolf. The Trotts now live in Bethlehem, Pa. In August, Dr. Vicki Molnar married Dr. Douglas Weiss, a fellow classmate from optometry school at the State University of New York. The Weisses were headed to Honduras in January to do eye exams for the needy.

At their wedding, Martha Stetson Clarke '84 served as a bridesmaid, and sister Elizabeth Molnar '86 was maid of honor. Kathleen Raley, after six years of sometimes grueling lab work, classes and teaching, received her Ph.D. from the physiology department of the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Her research involved studying the mechanisms underlying brain damage resulting from a lack of oxygen and nutrients. Kathy and husband David Susman have relocated to California, where Kathy is doing her postdoctoral research at Stanford.

Time for some reunion activities. Clips from a September article in the Virginia Gazette reported that former roommates Dave Friedman and Brian Mount were reunited at the starting line of the 10th annual Carter's Grove Country Road Eight Miler. Speaking of reunions, I went to my high school's 10th year reunion during the Christmas holidays. Unfortunately, fellow Wyomissing High and W&M classmate Tyler Leinbach wasn't able to make the trek from Reno, where he and wife Sunshine Meredith live. Also high school and college classmates Sue Newman, Courtney Hunt and Mark Farkas attended their 10th year reunion this year as well. Reports Sue, Laura Zinni '84 started Stanford's M.B.A. program. During another trip to the East Coast, Sue visited Rob and Judy Spooner Carpenter and their two little girls, Rachael and Heather.

Now for some news on the job front: Gary MacDonald left in January for a four-month trip around the world, working as a communications director for the Semester at Seas program. Captain Jeff Connor was transferred from Kunsan Air Base, South Korea, to Hanscom AFB, Mas-

DELANO NAMED MEMBER OF RICHMOND LAW FIRM

Robert B. Delano '78, '81 J.D. has been named a member of Sands, Anderson, Marks and Miller law firm in Richmond. He works in the litigation department and practices in the areas of insurance defense litigation, employment law and products liability law. He previously served as law clerk to Justice W. Carrington Thomson of the Virginia Supreme Court and U.S. District Judge Jackson L. Kiser in Danville, Va.

SATTERWHITE SELECTED AS PARTNER

Cynthia Bennett Satterwhite '77 has been named a partner in the international accounting and consulting firm of Coopers & Lybrand. A member of the firm since 1977, Satterwhite transferred in December 1989 to the Tidewater region as partner in charge of general practice. She will direct the Norfolk and Newport News offices' efforts in mergers and acquisitions, real estate, retail, distribution and not-for-profit. She is a member of the Virginia Society and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. She is treasurer for the Virginia Special Olympics. Satterwhite lives in Richmond with her husband David '75 and two children.

MORRIS WINS TECHNICAL THEATER AWARDS

Bert Morris '68 received two awards in the 1989 juried Scenography Exposition held by the Chesapeake Region United States Institute for Theatre Technology. Morris won in the technology category for his patented "Perfect-Pickup" followspot sight, which enables any operator to make pickups on performers with pinpoint accuracy. Morris began making the sights in 1979. By 1985 he was selling the Perfect-Pickup® throughout the world by word-of-mouth advertising. Morris also was selected as winner in the publishing category for his operator's handbook, Getting the Most From Your Followspot. It is used in both educational and professional theatres and has been endorsed by the theater union. Morris is president of Theatrical Technicians Inc. in Washington, D.C. He received the awards at the Terrace Theatre, John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts on Dec. 22.

achusetts, where he is chief of military justice. Joy Davis Kuchma is a child therapist at a mental health clinic. Philip Gross graduated from Vanderbilt Law School in 1986. Philip is a tax associate in the New York law firm of Chadbourne and Parke. Speaking of law school, Tracy Houck started law school at T.C. Williams in Richmond. And finally, Kurt Baumberger, after graduating from the Fuqua School of Business at Duke, six weeks traveling the Greek Islands, sailing down the Nile, and going on a safari in Kenya, now works for Trammell Crow Corp., a real estate development firm in Orlando. Any real estate needs in Orlando, Kurt would love to hear from you.

Brad Dunkin called recently, mentioning his return to the Philly area. Also, Rani Anne spent some time with Bryan and me before the holidays. Rani graduates from med school at University of Virginia this year and is currently working at a hospital in India for a couple of weeks before returning to the States. Following graduation, looks like Rani will be spending some time at the Massachusetts General Hospital for her residency.

Well, that's about all for now. As always, take care and be good!

85 Janet L. Reed
2918 Everleigh Way
Fairfax, VA 22031

It has been five years since graduation and a lot has happened. Grace Vorsteg Morrison and Eric have been busy since their graduation last spring from dental school at the University of Maryland. Grace received the following awards: Alumni Senior Thesis Medal, American Association of Women Dentists Award, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, and member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon Honorary Dental Society (the most prestigious dental society in the nation).

Eric racked up the awards as well while graduating magna cum laude: member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, Academy of General Dentistry Award, Irving Abramson Endodontic Award, American Academy of Gold Foil Operators Certificate, Frank C. Jerbi Award (for the student who excels in removable partial prosthodontics), and the Harrah Teledyne Certificate (the best of the best in prosthodontics).

The couple bought a condo in Columbia, Md., so Grace can commute to Baltimore to continue her studies to receive a specialty degree in periodontics as well as a Ph.D. in pharmacology. Eric entered private practice with his father and brother in Bethesda.

Congratulations to Shelly and Bob Nicol '83 on their wonderful Christmas present — their beautiful baby, Julie Marie.

Sandy Brubaker Ward graduated with her Ph.D. in school psychology from Penn State University last summer, then she and her husband, Tom, moved to Williamsburg and purchased a house. Sandy is a professor in the School of Education at W&M and teaches graduate classes in the school psychology and counseling programs. She just couldn't stay away!

Jennifer Campbell McGary and her husband, Tim visited Williamsburg over Labor Day and stopped in for a cookout. Sandy and Tom went to the Oyster Bowl game with Nancy Taylor Montgomery and her husband, Michael, who live in Virginia Beach.

It was great to hear from Terry Hall Gur, who is the proud mother of year-old Emily. Terry's husband Michael is working on his doctoral dissertation at the University of Illinois. Terry reports that Becky Russell is at Virginia Tech working on her master's in arts administration.

Wendy Thomas is enjoying law school. She represented American law students at a Bar Association conference in Hawaii in August. Terry would like to get in touch with Mary Parke Spalding, wherever she may be.

Liz Larie completed her M.B.A. in marketing in December 1988, after working on it evenings since 1985. In September Liz went to work for Kobs & Draft Direct Marketing in Manhattan, where she is an account executive on the Home Box Office account.

Mary Martin Spangler and Liz Besio

5th Reunion

Nov. 1-4, 1990

appeared before the state Supreme Court in Richmond in November to be sworn in as new attorneys. Mary is living in Falls Church.

I received a letter from the crazed shopper Arlene Armilla, who married Lt. Patrick John Campbell, USMC, in November 1988. They were high school classmates at Langley, but met for the first time at a Christmas party in 1987 through a mutual friend. W&M graduates at the McLean wedding were bridesmaids Mary K. Campbell '83 and Nan Shanley Cunningham '86. Guests included Matt '84 and Marta Madero Morrison, and Missy and David Snyder. The couple honeymooned in the U.S. Virgin Islands and now live in a townhouse in Reston. Arlene works for the federal government and Pat is assigned to 8th & I Marine Barracks in S.E. as the platoon commander for the Silent Drill Team. And they are expecting their first baby next month!

I ran into a few people at Homecoming with exciting news. Thornton Burnette married Eve in September on a plantation in Wilmington, N.C.

Jim and Jody Vitale Hunter are expecting their first baby this month. This spring Todd '82 and Lindsey Stravitz are moving to Richmond, where Todd will do a fellowship at MCV in gastroenterology, and Lindsey will be an attorney at Hunton & Williams.

Graeme Miller moved to Atlanta where he is with Circuit City. He lives with Rick Muller '88 and Tim Ruotolo and the three of them are having a blast doing the Buckhead scene.

Dan Smith graduated from U.Va. Law School in May 1988 and is now working for Gurman, Kurtis, Blask & Freedman, a communications law firm in D.C. He married Susan Marshall '87 in November 1988 in the Wren Chapel. Bob Cormier '84 played a song in the ceremony that Dan wrote. Also attending were Jim Hurt '89, Monica Baroody and many '87 grads. The couple honeymooned in Hawaii and have now purchased a townhouse in Centreville where they live a semi-peaceful life with their kitten, Hobbes. Dan was an usher in Bob Cormier's '84 wedding last August in Baltimore.

Also joining the married crowd is Marna Ashburn, who wed fellow officer Paul Krajewski last June. One of her bridesmaids was Angela Hussey Owens, who is now at Fort Bragg, N.C., with her husband. Angela is expecting her first baby next month. Also attending the wedding were Mary Willis Jones, Nancy Krafft and Debbie Frey '84 with fiance Darren Williams. Marna and Paul took a 10-day Caribbean cruise for their honeymoon. In September she was temporarily assigned at Fort A.P. Hill in Bowling Green, Va., and was happy to be able to visit a lot of friends.

Kris Wagner Rarig, her husband Jeff, and 2-year-old daughter Amy are living in Alexandria where Kris is a financial aid counselor at Northern Virginia Community College. Labor Day weekend Paul and Marna attended the wedding of Debbie Frey '84 and Darren Williams at Bolling AFB. The reception was at the Officer's Club, where Marna ran into Mary Willis Jones, Wendy Thomas and Marsha Youngblood Clinton. Marsha and husband Steve had their first child, Natalie Diane, on Thanksgiving.

Marna reports that a number of friends are stationed at Fort Bragg, including Angela Owens, John Bessler, Janet Payne and Susan Hudgins Hood (with her husband Tommy). Marna will be getting out of the Army in June and is then off to south Germany with her husband for three years.

John Abbot was promoted last July to city editor of the News-Virginian in Waynesboro. John has been a reporter for the newspaper since 1986.

Jacqueline Waymack was graduated from Marshall-Wythe and is now a law clerk to federal Judge Michael Lesniak in Hampton. Jacqueline won the American Jurisprudence Award for International Environmental Law and is a member of Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity.

James Lonick, his wife Debbie and daughter Abigail are now living in Shawano, Wis., where James is general manager of The Gathering, a banquet facility.

Bryan Dooley is now a chartered financial analyst, after passing exams and proving that he is ethical!

Kimberly Johnson Harris is executive director of the non-profit Lafayette Educational Fund.

C. Kevin Jones received the 1989 Maximilian Wallach Scholarship Award last June for his work in the life insurance business. Kevin is associated with Jones, Morris & Associates, affiliates of Jefferson-Pilot in Arlington.

As you all know, this fall we will celebrate our five-year reunion. If you have any ideas or would like to help out, please let me know. My next deadline is April 10, which does not give you a lot of time. Feel free to call me, if that is more convenient.

87 Karen Sheehan
23 Wilshire Drive
Syosset, NY 11791

89 Colleen Finnell
7600-C Lakeside Village
Drive
Falls Church, VA 22042

Hard to believe it's 1990! To start the year off with a bang, John Fedewa and his William and Mary alum siblings, Kris and Eric, threw their 8th annual New Year's Eve party. This year it was held at McClean Gardens in Georgetown. It was an amazing function and a great way to catch up with people.

John is selling advertising space as an account executive for Arundel Newspapers in Reston, Va. John was active on the Flat Hat and says that Swem Archives and the Library of Congress recently put the Bottom Line Anthology (Vol. 1) on (respective) circulation shelves.

Vincent Howell was living it up. He enjoys his Coopers & Lybrand job — even during busy season. He has been enjoying the company of Deb Calusine and Betsy Gagliano. They live together in Tysons Corner. Deb is also working for Coopers, and Betsy is working for MCL.

Suzanne Lime and her fiance Eddie were dancing up a storm. They are looking forward to their October wedding.

Lynne Bushy and Anson Christian found some time to chat during the band's break. Lynne is enjoying her Northern Virginia job. Anson likes his job in contract administration at Newport News Shipbuilding and is looking forward to grad school in the fall. He also provided some information on his friends:

Niels Christensen has moved to Rutherford, N.J., and is happily dating Kathy McCartney.

Jim Smith is enjoying his job at First Virginia Bank and living in Arlington.

Greg Perigard is attending law school at George Mason University.

Alan Adenan has just returned from a fun-filled voyage to Indonesia and is planning to settle down on the East Coast.

Christiana Choate loves her NY job and is sharing a place with Lori Kogut. Former roommate Jennifer Douglas has transferred to Baltimore.

Chun Rhee should be returning soon from Moscow (USSR will never be the same).

Rob Wilson is enjoying graduate school in urban planning at UNC-Chapel Hill.

Rita Sampson wrote and mentioned that she was actually attending 8 a.m. classes at Wake Forest Law School.

Steve McCleaf is living in Hagerstown, Md., and pursuing East Coast job possibilities.

John Vorhees was partying at the Fedewa and is currently attending grad school.

Jen Bidlake and Mike Cooper were wed in August and are loving "married life."

Jerry Bowers is an admissions representative at Ball State University. John Loving is in admissions at Loyola.

John Boyd and John Powers are enjoying their auto sales jobs in Northern Virginia.

Anson also heard a rumor that Karen Hoke and Jim Whiteside recently tied the knot! Congrats!

Marnie Mitchell writes that she is working for Peat Marwick in D.C. as a consultant and is living in Crystal City. Her letter was great and very newsy:

Vernon Jones is working for Woodies at Tysons Corner and is living in Crystal City with Tim Dragellin and Mark Murtaugh, who is with Ernst & Young. Jen Palmer is also working for Ernst & Young.

Debbie Queeney is working for Arthur Andersen, as are Chris Hahn and Jeanne Foster. Jeanne is living with Kim Streng and John Powers.

Jay Austin is living in Norfolk and working for the Virginia Center for World Trade as a public relations person, as is Scott Grasso.

Jeff Kelly works for Price Waterhouse in D.C. and Boyd Bullock is working for Price in Richmond after a training session in sunny Tampa with classmate Brian Camillo.

Heidi Ann Rolufs is working for CMI in Crystal City.

John Bradford and Alicia Merckstroth are with the IRS in D.C.

Melissa Houser is teaching French at Norfolk Catholic. She is engaged to Bart Bodee, who is in W&M Law.

Mary Ann Love is working for Peterson & Co. Consulting in Chicago and has a "part-time" job for National Kappa Delta. Leah Barker is also working for Peterson and has done some traveling to Kentucky.

Elizabeth Sinclair and Sarah Kelly are living in New Jersey.

John Newsom is in New York as an intern for Dell Bantam Doubleday. Michelle Furman is also in NYC working for Macy's.

Doug Kossler is in Boston — working? "Cornbread" has a great teaching job somewhere in the Midwest at some school.

Jeremy Blank is teaching at the Kenstone Forest School in Blackstone, Va.

Karen Framheim is living in Florida with Karen Johnson. The first Karen has a job as a methadone counselor.

CAREER SERVICES OFFERS "PHONE PURSUIT"

The Office of Career Services at William and Mary has developed and implemented a program known as "Phone Pursuit," which enables callers to learn more about the services offered by the office. Installed on the College's new IBX telephone system, the program provides callers with a menu from which to choose particular information they are seeking. They are instructed to press a button on their phone to receive any of the following: an introduction to Career Services; information on career counseling; information on internships and shared experience; schedule of Career Services seminars and special events; information on the Career Library; instructions on setting up a recommendation file; employer recruitment and seminar schedules, or current job information. The telephone number is (804) 221-3238.

PRESIDENT NAMED TO GOVERNING BOARD

President Paul Verkuil '61 has been elected to the board of trustees of the Atlanta-based Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. The 27-member board acts as the administrative body of the regional accrediting organization, which is one of six such groups nationwide.

JAMES CITY COUNTY NAMES TAYLOR DEVELOPMENT COORDINATOR

Keith Taylor '66 has returned to the Williamsburg area where he is James City County's new economic development coordinator. He previously worked for two private development firms in Northern Virginia and for the Fairfax County Economic Development Authority where he helped develop and manage a national marketing strategy. His duties with James City County will be to implement development strategies adopted by the board of supervisors. He will work in conjunction with the Virginia Peninsula Economic Development Council and the Virginia Department of Economic Development to attract new primary commercial and industrial investments to the county.

JoAnn "soon-to-be-rich" Adrales is in Charlottesville working for Central Fidelity Bank and will marry Colin Ruh in August.

Catherine Cappolla is working for a law firm in D.C. Emily West has a job with TRW in Northern Virginia. Margie Garber is at Emory Law.

Corri Ulmer, Ashley Anders, Dave Smithgall and Jen Bracken are at U.Va. grad school. Ash and Jen are at Med School.

Cindy Cameron is working for SRA in Rosslyn.

Shaunti Redinger is working in D.C. Mia Arrigoni is living in Northern Virginia.

Paula Murphy and Sean Connolly are in Alabama at Fort Rucker Aviation School.

Jodi Boyce is living with Melissa Sutton. Jodi teaches in Chesapeake. Melissa teaches in Virginia Beach.

Kristin May is working for Peat Marwick in Norfolk.

Marion McCorkle is working for a political consulting firm in D.C. She's living with Alicia Nulty, who's working for the American Hospital Association.

Delta Helmer is working on Capitol Hill. So is Shannon Watson. Shannon works for Sen. John Glenn of Ohio.

Jen Catney wrote a great letter. She is part of a touring theatre outreach program called Sho Wagon which takes theatre to 7th and 8th graders in city schools.

Sherry Adams and Laurie Maxwell are sharing an apartment in Burke, Va. Sherry is working for the recreation department of Fairfax County. Laurie is teaching theatre to 7th and 8th graders.

Lisa Baldwin is living in the Burg, teaching classes at Contemporary Ballet as well as dancing in their company.

Teresa Tetley is busy as ever in NYC at Juilliard creating costumes.

Curtis Shumaker is playing Bottom in the national tour of a Midsummer Night's Dream. He was able to bring in the new year at the Fedewas'.

Jennifer Piech is one of two acting interns at the Walnut Theatre in Philadelphia.

Kathy Fassett is teaching elementary school in New Jersey.

Kathy Handron is at Syracuse University studying education.

Michele Sokoly is working hard at the graduate program at Vanderbilt.

Beth Blanks is doing well in Charlottesville. She writes that she is working for Information Research Corp., a software developer. She is still dating Greg Stokes. Greg is working on a farm in Charlottesville waiting to go to grad school.

Gamin Bartle is an au pair for a family in Switzerland.

Tanya Doherty married Bill Reagan (VMI) in June and lives in Germany. John Headley and Lisa Voelker were also married in June. Congrats!

Richard Austin is working for an accounting firm in Norfolk.

Lori Piper and Jorn Ake '86 were married in Norfolk on Oct. 28. Chris Chase '86 and Pete Enko '86 were groomsmen. They moved to northern Virginia in December because Jorn has a job in D.C.

Tom Evans and Wendy Hoadley were married on Oct. 14 in D.C. Phil Davis was a groomsmen.

Elizabeth Rosser is teaching for the Roanoke County School System. She teaches French for one-half day at high school, then math for half a day at junior high. Although work takes up all her time, she is very happy in her Roanoke apartment.

Eleanor Carroll and Colleen Finnell spent some time together in New York at Thanksgiving. El is working crazy hours at IBM and takes training trips to Atlanta.

She is still haunting the Sea Port for the perfect daiquiri.

Not only did an earthquake hit California, but Tracie Mertz is there as well. Luckily she arrived after the quake! She is loving the sun is working at Villanova Prep School.

Joel Luen has a great job in Pennsylvania doing promotional work for the Pirates.

Beth Vogel is working in Williamsburg and is living in Newport News. She and Louis Dudney '88 got engaged in September and are planning a December '90 wedding.

Samantha Wessel is working for Peebles and was transferred to Florence, S.C., where she met Hugo, the hurricane.

Tim Tantillo is still with Arthur Andersen in New Jersey. He and his wife are expecting a baby in April.

Freddy Wood and Jim Taylor are sharing quarters in Falls Church. Freddy is working on Capitol Hill.

Jonathan Harris is traveling to northern Virginia to job search. He finally realized that's where the action is and can now cheer for his favorite hockey team, the Capitols.

Laurie Pearce, Ruth Phillipp and Lisa Simpson have thrown many a party at their place. Laurie is thinking about pursuing a degree in archaeology. Ruth is with Price Waterhouse Consulting. Lisa is working for Kingsbury Day School in D.C. for emotionally disturbed children.

Tony Spears has been up to northern Virginia a few times. He is doing well and hopes to have a job soon.

Susan Morrison and Lisa Applegate are living together in Fairfax. Sue is working for Mobil Oil and gets to travel to L.A. on occasion. Lisa is working for First Virginia Bank.

Adam Beck and Matt Williams are living together in Philadelphia. Matt is still working in advertising.

Mary Suchenski and Laura Absalom are living together in Centreville. Laura is working for Media General Cable, and Mary is pursuing a job in publications.

Joey Tysinger and Dan Giddons are living with a friend from their freshman hall who wishes to remain nameless. They have a nice place out in Fairfax. Joey spends some of his free time coaching boys' basketball with his nameless roommate.

Becky Pike is working for Perpetual Bank in the marketing department.

Mary Ann James is living with her sister Patti and is working for First Wachovia Bank in the mortgage department.

Charlotte Webb is in France visiting Kristin Zimmerman.

Maureen Flaherty and Kim Hogue are working in Richmond at the Trolley Restaurant.

Linda Harteveld is selling Hondas in Williamsburg and is still dating a cute Pika named Matt.

Sarah Mendelsohn and Adria Brenner are living together in Northern Virginia.

Elmer Bigley and Roy Wright are regular live entertainment at a club in Arlington called Fins. Their band is called B.W. and they play a special tribute to Bowheads.

Lisa Weiss was on the cover of a military magazine as an outstanding woman of America. That is great, Lisa!

As for me, I'm still living in Falls Church with Laura Siminds '88. We have a new puppy that is keeping us busy. My job at Peterson & Co. Consulting is also keeping me busy. In my spare time I can be found at Whitey's.

I can't thank all of you enough for all of the letters that you have sent. You are definitely a great help in putting this column together. Please continue to update me at the above address.

VIMS

Mo Lynch
VIMS
Gloucester Point, VA 23062

Steve Atran '86 M.A. has recently left the Florida Game and Freshwater Fish Commission and is now working as a fisheries management analyst with the Florida Marine Fisheries Commission. Steve was recently elected software librarian for the Computer Users Section of the American Fisheries Society.

Dave Burris Ph.D. '85 is a research chemist with the U.S. Air Force and has just been appointed to the School of Marine Science associate faculty. Dave is at Tyndall A.F. Base, as is Tom Stauffer '69 M.A., '87 Ph.D.

Morgan Wells, head of NOAA's diving program, has moved his office from Rockville, Md., to Fort Eustis. I expect we will be seeing him at the "York River campus" (Williamsburg's campus name for the Gloucester Point facility).

Clear your calendars for the weekend of Sept. 7-9. That's the time for the big 50th anniversary celebration. On Friday, there will be seminars featuring distinguished VIMS alumni (if we can find any — volunteers or nominees are welcome). Saturday will feature speeches from VIP's such as the governor and President Paul Verkuil, an open house and "the EVENT," a bash for alumni, students, staff and friends of VIMS.

This should be all the Marshall House Blasts and Zeigleramas rolled up into 50 years of sea stories. You will be getting a more formal announcement if your name is in the alumni guide. It's being updated this year, so send in any address or name changes soon.

GRADS

Mary Spitzer Etter
486 W. Market St.
Harrisonburg, VA 22801

Sharon Honaker '88 M.B.A. has been appointed administrative director of marketing for the Wythe County Community Hospital. Originally from Poquoson, Sharon moved to the New River Valley last year after accepting a position as a research analyst in the marketing department at Radford Community Hospital. Sharon lives in Christiansburg with her husband who attends Virginia Tech's School of Architecture.

Peter E. Jesse '86 M.B.A. has been promoted to director of the Colonial Williamsburg Fund of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. Formerly manager of the fund, he has overall responsibility for the direction of a fund-raising program which is expected to raise $4.5 million through 45,000 donors. This will make possible a wide range of Colonial Williamsburg's educational programs.

Dr. William Zamer '79 M.A. has joined the faculty of Lake Forest College as assistant professor of biology. He is a graduate of Juniata College and earned his master's degree from William and Mary and his Ph.D. in biology from the University of Maine. He will teach animal physiology, physiological ecology and marine biology.

Kevin M. Quinley '77 M.A. has been promoted to vice president of claims for Medmarc Insurance Co. in Fairfax, Va. His book, Time Management for Claim Professionals was published in June by Roberts Publishing Co., New York, N.Y.

Louise Gray '64 M.E.D. took part in the Eighth Annual Chesapeake Writers' Conference in October. She shared her ideas on how to write regional essays and experiences. She is the author of A Patchwork Quilt, a regional book on life in King and Queen County between 1910 and 1920. For many years Louise was a guidance counselor and head of the English Department at Middlesex High School. She also has written a history of her church in King and Queen County.

Louis Lawrence Boyle '71 B.A., '73 M.A.Ed. has written "Electrifying Solutions for the Shocking and Disparate Treatment within Product Liability Law," which was published recently in Dickinson Law Review, a scholarly publication of the Dickinson School of Law, Carlisle, Pa. Louis is a graduate of Dickinson School of Law.

Valley Furniture Shop in Watchung, N.J., hosted a special Williamsburg program in October, entitled "Tampering with the Classics? Evolution of Williamsburg Interiors in the 1980s." This was a slide and lecture presentation by Elizabeth P. Gusler '85 M.A., teaching curator for the department of collections at the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation. As teaching curator, Ms. Gusler is responsible for decorative arts training of historical interpreters at Colonial Williamsburg and is an adjunct lecturer for the fine arts department of the College.

LAW

Suzanne Tucker
Office of Alumni Affairs
Marshall-Wythe School of Law
Williamsburg, VA 23187

Frederic H. Bertrand '67 has been elected to Burlington's Chittenden Corporation's board of directors. He currently serves as chairman and chief executive officer of the National Life Insurance Co.

Charles F. Midkiff '70 and his wife Sue had a daughter, Erica Cristen, on Oct. 11. His firm, Midkiff and Hiner, has six lawyers and specializes in commercial litigation and energy issues.

John Bagwell '74 is practicing in Grundy, Va. He recently lectured to Marshall-Wythe's debtor/creditor class and continues to lecture on Virginia Collection Law for continuing legal education seminars. His license plate reads "WE LEVY."

Anita O. Poston '74 has been elected to chair the Virginia State Board for Community Colleges. At present, she is a partner in the Norfolk firm of Vandeventer, Black, Meredith & Martin.

John Beckman '77 was named Outstanding Young Lawyer for 1987-88 by the First Judicial District Bar Association in Colorado. The award was given in recognition of his many contributions to the public. In addition to his regular civil law cases, Beckman teaches high school students about the legal system through mock trials. He is also a member of the Colorado Lawyers Trust Account Foundation which provides funding for people who cannot afford legal services.

Jim Hanagan '77 and his wife Mary, have a son, Jon Michael, born on May 3.

Leigh Frackelton Jr. LL.M. '78 received his certificate as a certified public accountant. At present, he works for Massey and Frackelton, PC, and is an assistant professor of business at Mary Washington College in Fredericksburg.

Joseph W. Milam Jr. '80 has transferred to the new Danville, Va. office of Woods, Rogers & Hazlegrove. He has been a partner in the firm since 1983. In addition, he is a member of the board of directors of the Roanoke Vocational Education Foundation.

Gary S. Cook '80, LL.M. '81 has been named a member of the Richmond firm of Sands, Anderson, Marks & Miller. He works in the tax section of the business law department and was previously an associate of the firm, which he joined in February 1987.

ALUMNI DONATE MEMORABILIA TO ARCHIVES

Homecoming 1989 meant gifts for the University Archives. Two members of the class of 1944, Margaret Horn Booth and Marilyn Miller Entwisle, and one member of the class of 1945, Joan Worstell Carter, donated scrapbooks which they kept during their college years. Mrs. Carter also donated several notebooks and drawings done for art history and costume history and design classes, as well as two football programs. The scrapbooks contain letters, photographs, sorority rush invitations, concert and play programs, and other memorabilia detailing life for women at the College during World War II. Shortly after Homecoming, the Archives also was given a William and Mary women's gymnastics jacket by Patricia Berger Siegel '70. Student scrapbooks, letters and other memorabilia are important resources for College history, and the Archives is most happy to receive these recent additions to their collection.

Cynthia Page Cobbs '81 and her husband, Jim Ludwig, celebrated the birth of their second son, Jordan Thomas, on Oct. 27, 1988.

Diane Thompson '81 has become counsel to the Norfolk firm of Hofheimer, Nussbaum, McPhaul & Samuels. She specializes in estates, gifts and trusts, and federal estate and gift taxation.

Elliott Moorman III '82 has opened his own practice at Mathews Court House, Va. The Gloucester native is practicing general law, particularly land use and development, zoning and corporate law.

Kathleen S. Wilson '83 has been appointed branch manager and counsel of Lawyers Title Insurance Corp., Washington office. She transferred to the branch from the Fairfax office of Real Title Co. Inc. Kathleen is a member of the Virginia State Bar, the District of Columbia Land Title Association and the Virginia Land Title Association.

Paul McCulla '85 has been hired by the Fauquier County, Va., board of supervisors as deputy county attorney. Prior to this appointment, he was acting county attorney for Fauquier County where he handled litigation and wrote ordinances.

Robin K. Kutz '86 recently reported for duty at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London, Conn. He has been a member of the Coast Guard since 1973.

Doug DeMoss '86 and Mike Gardner '86 were selected by the ABA as two of the five outstanding military lawyers for 1989.

LILE BECOMES PARTNER IN FLORIDA FIRM

Laird A. Lile '81 has become a partner in the law firm of Mershon, Sawyer, Johnston, Dunwoody & Cole, one of south Florida's oldest and largest law firms. Lile, who is based in the Naples office of Mershon, Sawyer, has been with the firm since 1984. He specializes in the practice of trusts and estates law. Lile graduated from William and Mary with a bachelor of business administration degree. He received a law degree with distinction from Ohio Northern University, where he was a member of Law Review, an officer of Moot Court and inducted into the Order of the Barristers. Lile holds an LL.M. in estate planning from the University of Miami and is a certified public accountant. Lile is an active member of bar committees at the local, state and national levels, including the Florida Probate Rules Committee and the American Bar Association Committee on Generation-Skipping Drafting.

Randy D. Singer '86, is now working for the Norfolk firm of Willcox & Savage.

Tom Cook '87 has relocated to Raleigh, N.C., from Washington, where he worked for the U.S. Tax Court. He is now with the firm of Poyner & Spruill. In May 1989, he received an L.L.M. in taxation from Georgetown University Law Center.

Susan Droppleman '87 married John Duff on Sept. 3. Classmate Kathryn Williams Smith '87 served as one of the bridesmaids. Another classmate, Sharon Separ '87, also attended the wedding. Susan works for Romberger, Kirk, Caldwell, Cabannis, Burke and Wechsler, P.A. in Orlando, Fla. She specializes in legal malpractice defense and commercial litigation.

Brian K. Jackson '88, joined the firm of Hirschler, Fleischer, Weinberg, Cox & Allen, P.C. in Richmond last February.

Helen K. Young '88 recently completed the Officer Indoctrination School at the Naval Education and Training Center in Newport, R.I. She joined the Navy in October 1988.

Elizabeth A. Deininger '89 has been named an associate with Alembik, Fine & Callner in Atlanta. She will work in the general civil trial law area of the firm.

Timothy M. Richardson '89 is an associate attorney with the Virginia Beach firm of Huff, Poole & Mahoney, P.C. He specializes in litigation, particularly in products liability and insurance defense.

Vital Statistics

Marriages

William Robert Bland '66, '71 J.D. and Sarah Bridges Ford, Dec. 30, 1989.

Nell Marie Patterson '72 and James G. Kvetko, Nov. 18, 1989.

Sally Ruth Sims '72 and Samuel Newton Stokes, Nov. 5, 1988.

Frances Mills Neal '73 and William Douglas Smyth '75, Dec. 30, 1989.

Michael B. Hingerty '75 and Jennifer L. Hernandez, Oct. 21, 1989.

George Robert Leach '75 and Guion Pelot '88, Dec. 2, 1989.

Mark Preston Riley '76 and Bonnie Sue McAllister, Dec. 2, 1989.

Gloria Ann Whittico '79 and Thomas Randolph Burkett Jr., Nov. 14, 1989.

Wanda J. Carver '80 and Michael J. Watson, Oct. 21, 1989.

Charles Davis '81 and Elizabeth Boozer, July 1989.

Cynthia Diane Friedheim '81 and Troy Gene Wilson, Aug. 19, 1989.

Laurinda Leigh Nicholson '81 and Richard Albert Spencer, Nov. 5, 1989.

Cheryl Jacobs '82 and Aaron Wayne Park, Dec. 9, 1989.

Mary Catherine Lewis '82 M.B.A. and William Robert Fralich, Dec. 2, 1989.

Lisa Long '82 and David Hothem, Sept. 16, 1989.

Peter John Shea '82 and Linda Anne Sullivan, Oct. 21, 1989.

Alan Cozart Taylor '82 and Mary Elizabeth Bartlett, Nov. 11, 1989.

Elizabeth Carol Trefzger '82 and Frederick Karl Mueller, Oct. 28, 1989.

Victoria F. Molnar '83 and Douglas F. Weiss, Aug. 13, 1989.

Thomas H. Trott '83 and Janice L. McPhail, Sept. 30, 1989.

Leslie Cornell Bones '84 and Jeffrey Donald Maclay, Oct. 21, 1989.

Debbie Frey '84 and Darren Williams, Sept. 2, 1989.

Elizabeth Ann Keating '84 and Ali Isik Tezel, June 24, 1989.

Shelley R. Meister '84 and James Robert Piedmont, Oct. 7, 1989.

Arlene Armilla '85 and Patrick John Campbell, Nov. 26, 1988.

Marna Ashburn '85 and Paul Krajieski, June 24, 1989.

James Edward Chappell '85 and Kimberly Ann Norris '88, June 3, 1989.

Susan Lindsey Cousins '85 and Kenneth Lee Blunt, Oct. 27, 1989.

Jorn Ake '86 and Lori Piper '89, Oct. 28, 1989.

Susan Marie Johnson '86 and Jeffrey Wayne Breeden, Nov. 18, 1989.

Linda Marie Schooley '86 and Mark Madison Engleman, Sept. 30, 1989.

Brian Briscoe Shull '86 and Lisa Renee Williams, Sept. 30, 1989.

Patricia Lyn Banks '87 and William Scott

Russell, Sept. 23, 1989.

Ann Walker Fletcher '87 and Malcolm Leon Fletcher, Dec. 3, 1989.

Andrew Lynwood Jiranek '87 J.D. and Elizabeth Drake Updike, Nov. 25, 1989.

Christopher S. Edwards '88 and Merita C. Webster '89, Dec. 16, 1989.

Christine Louise Hartwell '88 and Charlie Walter Markham III, Nov. 18, 1989.

Rebecca Lynn Harvey '88 and Donald Edward Nichols, June 10, 1989.

Preston Cleland '89 and Melody Ashburn, Dec. 2, 1989.

Stephen Michael Klugewicz '89 and Mary Pontillo, Jan. 6, 1990.

Births

To: Patricia Butler (Read) '70, second child, first son, Jeffrey Cliff, Aug. 19, 1989.

To: Stephen J. Corner '72, third son, Scott Chesney, Jan. 11, 1989.

To: R. Richard Rowland Jr. '78, '83 M.B.A. and Susan Olsen (Rowland) '78, first child, Richard "Douglas," Aug. 4, 1989.

To: Rudolph E. Tucker Jr. '75, first child, a son, Peyton Thomas, Oct. 30, 1989.

To: Caren Maccubbin (Leach) '76, '85 M.B.A., first child, a son, Andrew Lawrence, Feb. 5, 1989.

To: L. Kyle Hedges '77 and Susan O'Connor (Hedges) '78, second child, first son, James Potomac, March 12, 1989.

To: Beth Hutzler (Brennan) '77, third child, third son, Joseph James, Sept. 20, 1989.

To: Marion Roby (Lugar) '77 and J. Michael Lugar '77, second child, first son, John Michael Jr., Aug. 30, 1989.

To: Gita Vasers (Massey) '77 and Davis Massey '79, second child, a son, Jonathan, November 1989.

To: William W. Waller III '77, '85 M.B.A., a son, William Washington IV, Dec. 23, 1988.

To: Carol Wills (Rosenblum) '77, twin boys, Nicholas Paul and Daniel Aaron, Aug. 9, 1989.

To: Meredith Zablackas (Stanton) '76, first child, Sarah Ashley, Oct. 16, 1989.

To: Karen Claussen (Shields) '77, second child, a son, Ian Charles Lorence, Dec. 1, 1989.

To: Bill Down '78 and Nancy Graham (Down) '80, a daughter, Carrie Michele, Sept. 6, 1986, and a son, Christopher Patrick, Feb. 22, 1989.

To: Eric R. Pelander '78 and Evalyn Gates (Pelander) '80, third child, first daughter, Kendall Elizabeth, Oct. 27, 1989.

To: Richard Henry Salmon Jr. '78 and Leslie McMahon (Salmon) '79, second child, first son, Andrew Thomas, Sept. 5, 1989.

To: Meredith Bean (McMath) '79 and Charles McMath '79, first child, a son, Palmer Lee, June 28, 1989.

To: Janine Reter Propst '79, first child, a son, Andrew Marshall, Nov. 17, 1989.

To: Janet Evans (Braun) '80, a son, William Evans Hundley, May 9, 1988.

To: Phyllis Holcomb (Holmgren) '80 and John S. Holmgren '80, second child, first son, Stephen Paul, Sept. 28, 1989.

To: Barbara Kepchar (Dysart) '80, second child, second son, James Norman, Dec. 1, 1989.

To: Beth Nass (Benjamin) '80, first child, a son, Miles Christopher, Aug. 5, 1989.

To: Stephen T. Trumbo '80 and Susan Bodenheimer (Trumbo) '81, second child, second son, William Baker "Will," July 15, 1989.

To: Kathleen Overby (Webster) '80, a son, Joel Thomas, Oct. 28, 1989.

To: Sharon Bowen (Grogan) '81 and Dave Grogan '81, first child, a daughter, Erin Alise, October 1989.

To: Steven K. Mittwede '81, fourth child, fourth son, Luke Andrew, May 20, 1989.

To: Lois E. Korb (Peterson) '81, first child, a daughter, Lois Elizabeth, May 7, 1989.

To: Jana Blue (Hopper) '82, first child, a son, John Duke, Aug. 11, 1989.

To: Edie Longenbach (Churchill) '82, first child, a daughter, Sarah Ellen, Oct. 8, 1989.

To: Kathryn Derr (Kohler) '82 J.D., and William W. Kohler '82 J.D., a son, Kevin Vincent, Aug. 13, 1989.

To: Russell W. Hicks Jr. '82 and Elizabeth Foor (Hicks) '83, first child, Bryan Thomas, April 26, 1989.

To: Rebecca Lewis (Saunders) '82, third child, first son, Timothy Lewis, Aug. 22, 1989.

To: Melissa Contos (Clark) '83 and Ralph Raymond Clark III '83, first child, a daughter, Kristen Athena, Dec. 1, 1989.

To: Juergen Kloof '83 and Julie O'Neill (Kloof) '84, second child, a son, Ian Paul, May 5, 1989.

To: Caroline Muller (Cooley) '83, first child, a son, Paul Andrew, Oct. 21, 1989.

To: Steve Clinton '84 and Marsha Youngblood (Clinton) '85, a daughter, Natalie Diane, Nov. 23, 1989.

To: Lynne Helms (Foreman) '84 and George Foreman '84, first child, a son, Alexander Robert, Aug. 3, 1989.

To: Lucy Martin (Wysong) '84 and Mark Wysong '84, third son, Thomas Patrick, Sept. 29, 1989.

To: Amy Sue Barta (Wall) '86 and James David Wall '86, third child, second daughter, Molly Mae, Dec. 12, 1989.

To: Pam Dore '86 M.B.A., first child, a son, Frederick Hudson "Eric" III, Jan. 6, 1989.

To: Clayton Beck '89 M.B.A., first child, a son, Austin Lee, Dec. 8, 1989.

Obituaries

WILLIAM EDWIN DAVIS '22 of West Boyford, Mass., died Jan. 7, 1990. He was former chief of radiology at Melrose-Wakefield Hospital and founder of Shawsheen Radiology Associates. He received his training at Harvard University. He was a member of the Audobon and Zoological societies. While at the College he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Kappa Alpha fraternity. He is survived by wife Naomi, two sons, a sister Eloise '24 and four grandchildren.

STUART CARLTON SWIFT '23 of Bumpass, Va., died Oct. 1, 1989. He was a retired farmer and former master of Murray Masonic Lodge No. 175. Survivors include a son, sister Polly Swift Slate '31 and five grandchildren.

RUTH KENNON YEAMANS CUDLIPP '27 of Richmond, Va., died Aug. 19, 1989. She was a member of the Women's Club of Richmond and worked with the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts. She sat on the board of trustees of Southside Day Nursery. While at William and Mary, she was elected to Phi Beta Kappa and Mortarboard, was a member of the Phi Mu sorority, Phi Kappa Phi and Pi Gamma Mu honorary fraternities, and the Debate Council. She was also president of the YMCA. She is survived by her husband, William, and two children.

JESSE FREEMAN SLAUSON SR. '27 of Williamsburg, Va., died Aug. 26, 1989. Before retirement, he was an agent and director of the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Co. He is survived by his wife, Helen, two sons, Jesse '65 and William '66, and a daughter, Patsy '69.

MELVIN CLYDE "MEB" DAVIS '28 of Richmond, Va., died Dec. 16, 1989. He was affiliated with Pollard and Bagby Real Estate Brokers and previously had served as the College's head freshman football coach from 1930-34. He was a member of the Richmond Rotary Club's board of directors. He was a charter member of the William and Mary Hall of Fame after distinguishing himself in football, basketball and track as a student. In 1977 he was honored at the Tobacco Bowl game, and in 1984 he was named to the Virginia Sports Hall of Fame. At William and Mary, he was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, president of the Varsity Club and vice president of the Honor Council. He also served as president of the Richmond Alumni Chapter. Survivors include his wife, Eulalie, a daughter and two grandsons.

JAMES MERRILL "SUEY" EASON '28 of Hampton, Va., died Feb. 5, 1989. He retired as director of recreation for the City of Hampton in 1972. Earlier in his career he served as football coach for Hampton High School and led his team to three state championships. He wrote a book, The Crying Towel, about coaching. He was twice selected Man of the Year by the Peninsula Sports Club and inducted into the William and Mary Hall of Fame in 1971 for his participation in football, wrestling and baseball. He was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity and Omicron Delta Kappa honor society. He is survived by wife Margaret and son James.

MARTHA LOWRY HALE FIELD '28 of Galax, Va., died Nov. 4, 1989. While at William and Mary, she was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Survivors include a daughter, a brother, two sisters and two grandchildren.

Vital Statistics

ARTHUR ROCHESTER GORDON '28 of Williamsburg, Va., died Dec. 26, 1989. He was retired from Metropolitan Insurance Co. He helped organize Central Fidelity Bank in Williamsburg and Williamsburg National Bank (now Jefferson). He was a member of Williamsburg United Methodist Church, Lions Club and the Middle Plantation Club. Survivors include wife Nannie, a daughter, a brother, two sisters and four grandchildren.

BILLIE EMMA SHELTON HARRISON '28 of Chatham, Va., died April 13, 1989. While at the College, she was a member of Eta Sigma Phi Greek and Latin honorary fraternity, YWCA, The Flat Hat staff, German Club, Literary Society, Monogram Club and Red Cross Club. She played field hockey and softball and was also a member of the archery and track teams. In 1973 she served as Literary Class Agent. She has no known survivors.

EVELYN BROOKS JOHNSON PARKER '28 of Franklin, Va., died Dec. 28, 1989. She was a retired Southampton County teacher and served on the Franklin YMCA board. She was a member of the High Street United Methodist Church and the Franklin Book Club. Survivors include her husband, George, two sons, two sisters, a brother and two grandchildren.

LOUISE JOHNSON ANDREW '30 of Honolulu, Hawaii, died Oct. 1, 1989. She is survived by her husband, David.

RUBY POWERS PENDLETON '30 of Chesapeake, Va., died Aug. 31, 1987. She is survived by a daughter.

RAPHAEL LIEBMAN '31 of Miami Beach, Fla., died Dec. 1, 1989. He was the former owner and operator of Frankfort Paper Company in Frankfort, Ky. He was a member of the Kiwanis Club. Survivors include wife Barbara, two sons, two brothers including Herbert '49, two sisters and two grandchildren.

JOHN A. LUTTRELL '32 of Yorba Linda, Calif., died July 20, 1989. Throughout his life he taught at Ohio University, Case Western Reserve University and U.C.L.A. He earned a master's degree from Ohio University. He was engineer editor for North American Aviator. He belonged to the Modern Language Association and the Institute of Radio Engineers. Among survivors are his wife, Elinor; a daughter; a brother, Burrell '39; and three grandchildren.

CLARENCE D. "RED" MAXEY JR. '32 of Virginia Beach, Va., died Nov. 11, 1989. He was a retired assistant pier master for Norfolk and Western Railway Co. While at the College, he was a football standout, winning All-State and All-Conference honors. He played pro and semi-pro football for a few years after college. In 1969 he was inducted into William and Mary's Athletic Hall of Fame. He was a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and Freemason Street Baptist Church. Survivors include his wife, Harriette, two sons, two sisters, a brother and three grandchildren.

ARCHIE GARNETT SMITHER JR. '32 of Suffolk, Va., died Oct. 30, 1989. He had retired from optometry practice after 25 years. While at William and Mary, he was a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternity and captain of the track team. He received his master's degree from the University of Richmond and his doctor of optometry degree from the University of Montreal. He was a Navy lieutenant commander during World War II, a member of West End Baptist Church and a longtime volunteer for the Republican Party. He also served as a Boy Scout leader for many years. Survivors include his wife, Dorothy '33, a daughter, a son, a sister, two brothers and four grandchildren.

MARY FRANCIS WILSON LATTIMORE '33 of Cheriton, Va., died Oct. 6, 1989. She was a homemaker and member of Northampton Chapter No. 2 Order of Eastern Star. At William and Mary, she was a member of Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She was a member of Cheriton United Methodist Church. Survivors include a daughter, two sons, a sister and five grandchildren.

EDWARD MAZEENE PLUMMER '33 of Newport News, Va., died Dec. 30, 1989. He was a retired free-lance commercial artist. He previously was an editor of Ford Magazine for overseas countries. He is survived by a sister and a brother.

BRUCE ALBERT JACOBI '34 of New York, N.Y., died May 31, 1989. He worked as a real estate executive. He attended graduate school at Carnegie Institute of Technology and served as a lieutenant in the United States Navy during World War II. In 1977 he was vice president and trustee of the International Council of Shopping Centers. Survivors include his wife, Arlene.

BYRD MONCURE GRAVATT JONES '34 of Washington, Va., died Dec. 20, 1989. She maintained a small apple orchard after operating a large family orchard with her husband in Rappahannock for many years. She served on the Rappahannock County school board and was a member of the Library Committee. While in school she was active in Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She was a member of the President's Council from 1987-89. Survivors include two daughters, one son, three sisters including Frances Gravatt Crowder '32, one brother and seven grandchildren.

THOMAS ARTHUR VAUGHAN JR. '34 of Franklin, Va., died Oct. 26, 1989. He was controller of the Fine Paper Division of Union-Camp Corp. until his retirement in 1976. While at William and Mary, he was president of both Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and the junior class. He was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternity, the FHC Society, the 7 Society and the 13 Club. He was also treasurer of the Cotillion Club. Survivors include his wife, Carolyn, and his daughter, Margaret Vaughan Hooker '80.

LEROY W. DAVIS '36 of Richmond, Va., died Jan. 12, 1990. For 33 years he served as a United Methodist minister after attending Boston and Westminster theological seminaries. He was former president of the Middlesex County Kiwanis Club and a member of the Grassfield Ruritan club. He is survived by his wife, Mary, and a son.

IRENE GERTRUDE VALENTINE '36 of Norfolk, Va., died July 13, 1989. She was a retired teacher with Norfolk public schools. Survivors include two nieces.

ALBERT T. HAWKINS '38 of Wilmington, N.C., died Jan. 30, 1989. He is survived by his wife, Marie.

HARRY C. GRAVELY II '39 of Martinsville, Va., died Aug. 7, 1989. After graduation, Gravelly was employed by Allied Chemical Co. for five years. In 1945 he abandoned a successful career as a chemist to join the family business, Gravelly Furniture Co. Gravelly worked his way through the ranks, becoming president of the company in 1961. Formerly the producer of occasional furniture, the company became the nation's leading manufacturer of grandfather, grandmother and granddaughter clocks in just five years under Gravelly's leadership. In 1965, Gravelly was the recipient of the "American Success Story Award" presented by the Free Enterprise Association. He served as director of the Virginia Manufacturing Association, the Education Committee of the National Association of Manufacturing, and in 1977 was elected president of the Southern Furniture Manufacturers Association. In 1980, he was the recipient of the Southern Furniture Industry's highest award, the James T. Ryan Award. He also was presented a citation honoring his "leadership and development of the floor clock at a time when it was dominated by the Europeans; also for his civic, church and College of William and Mary alumni work." Joined by his wife, Tina '39, Gravelly was a longtime supporter of William and Mary's alumni and athletic programs. In recognition of their 50th reunion celebration, the Gravellys were instrumental in their class raising the largest ever 50th-reunion gift to endow a Visiting Artist/Scholar-in-Residence Program at the College. Gravelly also was instrumental in raising funds for a library in Martinsville, and served as chairman and president of the United Way. He was a founding director of Piedmont Arts Association in Martinsville and in 1983 was named a trustee. He held positions as trustee of Memorial Hospital of Martinsville and Henry County from 1966 until 1978, and served as president of the board from 1975 until 1978. He was a director of the First National Bank of Martinsville (now Crestar) from 1970 until his death; served as a director of the Virginia Council of Health and Medical Care; and was a member of the Furniture Library Association. Gravelly was active in the Martinsville and Henry County Chamber of Commerce for many years, serving as vice president, president and director-elect. In recognition of his community service, he was awarded the 1982 Heck Ford Award by the chamber. Gravelly was a member of the Martinsville-Henry County Merger Study Committee, the Lions Club and the Elks Lodge. At First United Methodist in Martinsville, Gravelly was a member of the administrative board and served on many church committees. An accident in 1972 left Gravelly paralyzed from the waist down. A friend recalled his determination in the face of adversity: "Gravelly was proof that living is about 90 percent mental. Hospitalized for months, he was determined not to become a cripple in the classic sense, so he dove back into the mainstream. Always a physically active man, what he missed most were playing golf and deep-sea fishing, he once said, but his remarkable readjustment was attributed in part to his keen analytical manner, his ability to size up a problem and figure out the solution." Determined that he and other similarly afflicted people remain as independent as possible, Gravelly became a member of a statewide board to get legislation passed requiring new public buildings to eliminate as many physical barriers to the handicapped as possible. What would be Gravelly's last project was chairman of a fund-raising committee to raise $1.5 million for a cancer center at Memorial Hospital of Martinsville and Henry County. In addition to his wife, Tina '39, Gravelly is survived by two sons, two daughters, a brother, four sisters and six grandchildren.

JULIAN WILLIS MCCLURE '39 of Memphis, Tenn., died Aug. 25, 1985. He worked for the U.S. Navy Supply Corps. He is survived by his wife, Martha, and a sister, Lucy McClure Joshua '42.

WILLIAM HOLM PURSELL III '45 of Petersburg, Va., died Jan. 11, 1990. He owned and operated Parkhill Service Market in Petersburg until he retired in 1971. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II. As a student he was a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is survived by his wife, Gladys, and a son.

KEITH ANNE GAMBLE DUNCAN '46 of Coraopolis, Pa., died Aug. 24, 1989. She was a former research assistant at the Library of Congress. She served as class agent for a number of years and was a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority. Survivors include her husband, Thomas '46, two sons, including Thomas G. Duncan '74 and two grandchildren.

HARRY EDMOND WEBB JR. '46 of Arlington, Va., died Oct. 7, 1989. He was former chief counsel to the U.S. Indian Claims Commission, which he served from 1968 to 1978, when the commission was disbanded. While at William and Mary, he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. He served in the Army during World War II and earned the rank of captain. He received his law degree from Washington and Lee University in 1950. He was an elder in the Church of the Covenant. He is survived by his mother.

CHANNING MOORE HALL JR. '47, '54 J.D. of Williamsburg, Va., died Dec. 24, 1989. From 1954-85 he operated a law office in the area. He served three terms on the Williamsburg City Council beginning in 1956. Before attending the College, he enlisted in the U.S. Army during World War II. He also participated in the Korean Conflict. Throughout his life he held offices in many community organizations, including chairman of both the Williamsburg Selective Service Board (1955-75) and the Williamsburg Social Service Bureau (1964-75), vice president of the original Williamsburg Chamber of Commerce and a board member for both the Peninsula Bank and Trust Co. and United Virginia Bank. As a student he was a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and Phi Alpha Delta law society. He was a former president of the William and Mary Law School Alumni Association. His paternal grandfather, John Lesslie Hall, was professor of English at the College and was one of the legendary Seven Wise Men who helped reorganize the College in 1888. Hall is survived by his wife, Ida, two sons including Channing III '85 J.D., '86 M.L.T., and a sister, Susan Hall Godson '53.

EDWIN O'GRADY ALLEN JR. '48 of University Park, Md., died March 3, 1989. He was vice president and half owner of Metropolitan Medical Inc. in Sterling, Va. He attended Virginia Polytechnic Institute for three years before serving in the Army Air Corps during World War II. He completed his education at the College where he joined Sigma Pi fraternity. He is survived by his wife, Helen '49, a son, a daughter and three grandsons.

LAWRENCE RAYMOND LUHRING '50 of Kill Devil Hills, N.C., died Oct. 20, 1989. Before retiring, he was vice president of Luhring Motor Co., Norfolk, and owner and operator of Scandia Cheese Shop. He was past treasurer of the Tidewater Heart Association and a member of the Chamber of Commerce and City Commission. He served in the Army during World War II. Survivors include his wife, Susan, two daughters, two sons, two sisters, a brother and two grandchildren.

FRANCES BLAND JACKSON KEITH '51 of Washington, D.C., died May 15, 1989. She is survived by her husband, Hastings.

THOMAS HOWARD HAMILTON '55, '60 M.Ed. of Urbanna, Va., died Dec. 22, 1989. A retired educator, he served at various points in his career as headmaster of York Academy, superintendent of Middlesex County Schools, principal of West Point Elementary and administrator with several schools in Pittsylvania County. In addition, he served as vice president and branch manager of Bank of Middlesex from 1979-82. He was chairman of the Urbanna United Methodist Church administrative board and charter member of the Middlesex Kiwanis Club. As a student he starred on the football and baseball teams and was elected to the William and Mary Athletic Hall of Fame in 1979. He was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity. He is survived by his wife, Betty '56, two daughters, a son, a sister and a brother.

WILLIAM DODD BICKLER II '57 of Wilton, Conn., died July 15, 1989. He had been a manager in the information product division of Business Volumes Planning. Previously he worked for IBM for 32 years and was a U.S. Army veteran of the Korean Conflict. As a student, he was a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity, the Wesley Foundation, the golf team and the Pep Club. He is survived by his wife, Connie.

MARY CASTINE '57 M.Ed. of Portsmouth, Va., died Sept. 19, 1989. She was a retired teacher. While at William and Mary she was a member of Kappa Delta Pi. She earned her undergraduate degree from Mary Washington College. Survivors include her sister.

ROGER ADOLPH BUSCH '63 of Colts Neck, N.J., died April 25, 1989. For the past nine years he worked with Robert A. Schwartz Associates in New York. He received a bachelor's degree in architecture from Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1967. He was a member of several organizations including the American Institute of Architects and the American Consulting Engineering Council. He is survived by his parents and a sister.

PETER PAUL LUSARDI BROCCO-LETTI '67 J.D. of Arlington, Va., died July 6, 1989. He was self-employed and previously served as an international affairs officer for the Federal Maritime Commission. He was a member of the Law Review, the Student Bar Association and Phi Alpha Delta honor society. His undergraduate degree was from the University of Notre Dame.

FRANCES HAWKINS NELSON '67 M.Ed. of Newport News, Va., died Jan. 1, 1990. After completing her education, she accepted a position as a lecturer at William and Mary in 1968. She was promoted to assistant professor of education in 1972 and retired from that position in 1979. She was an active member of the Williamsburg Presbyterian Church and held an honorary life membership in the Women of the Church. In 1960 she was named Peninsula Woman of the Year. While enrolled at the College she was a member of Phi Delta Kappa, the Student Association and Kappa Delta Pi education honor society. Survivors include a daughter, a sister, three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

ROBERT PHELPS COTTINGHAM JR. '69, '72 M.Ed., '77 A.C.E. died Dec. 1, 1989. For 16 years he was employed by Newport News Schools, most recently as assistant principal at Denbigh High School. Before entering the field of education, he earned the rank of major in the U.S. Marines after serving in Korea and Vietnam. He was the first Eagle Scout in Williamsburg and a member of Williamsburg United Methodist Church. Survivors include his wife Alice '51, three daughters including Carol Cottingham White '81, a sister, a brother and five grandchildren.

JOHN LEE YAHLEY JR. '73 of Richmond, Va., died April 10, 1985. He transferred from the College to Virginia Tech in 1973 where he received his degree in 1974. Among survivors is his brother, Robert '77.

CLARENCE EDWARD CARROLL '82 of Atlanta, Ga., died Nov. 26, 1989. He was a member of the choir and Sigma Chi fraternity while at the College. He is survived by his parents, two brothers and a sister.

JOHN HERBERT JAMES '84 M.L.T. of Hartfield, Va., died Aug. 6, 1989. He received his law degree from the University of Pennsylvania in 1948 and his bachelor's degree from Harvard in 1943. He was self-employed as an attorney.

FACULTY

LLOYD ALLING DOUGHTY died in the fall of 1989. He began teaching at William and Mary in the fine arts department in 1939 after graduating from Cornell University in 1937 with many honors, including Phi Beta Kappa. After serving in World War II, he began work with the New York architectural firm of Kahn and Jacobs. He retired from the firm in 1979. He is survived by his wife, four children, including Michael '72, and eight grandchildren.

Alumni College 1990 “The Changing Face of Communism”

June 21-24

Timely topics ... thought-provoking speakers ... entertaining special events. It's all part of this year's Alumni College program sponsored by the Society of the Alumni. Plan now to join fellow alumni, faculty and special guests for this intellectually stimulating return to academic life at William and Mary. For further details, see page 8.

Society of the Alumni
P.O. Box 60, Williamsburg, VA 23187

Non-Profit Organization
U.S. Postage Paid
Permit No. 1390
Richmond, VA

Alumni Gazette

THE ALUMNI GAZETTE

THE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

MARCH 1990

VOL. 57, NO. 6

SPOKESMAN FOR THE GOVERNOR
See Page 3