It's Almost Here! The College's 300th

by Ray Betzner

The Liberty Bell cracked 240 years ago, the Declaration of Independence is 216 years old and the Statue of Liberty first lit up New York harbor 106 years back. When it comes to American institutions, the College of William and Mary stands out as one of the oldest, a survivor of almost 300 years that has not only overcome periods of adversity, but also developed an international reputation for quality education.

In just a few months, the College will celebrate its Tercentenary and its unique place in American history. The festivities begin Feb. 8, 1993, and carry on throughout most of the calendar year, with major conferences, lectures, symposia, publications, concerts and parties.

William & Mary

President Sullivan '66

"It's a universal human instinct to recognize milestones, and I can think of few that are more important than this one."

But before the festivities begin, it might be worthwhile to ask a simple question: Why hold a Tercentenary celebration?

"It's a universal human instinct to recognize milestones, and I can think of few that are more important than this one," said President Timothy J. Sullivan in a recent interview. "Perhaps just as important is that William and Mary has been a very useful institution—useful to its students, to the faculty, to the community and useful to the Commonwealth and the country. This anniversary deserves to be celebrated because of the things that William and Mary has achieved."

Henry Rosovsky '49, chair of William and

Mary's Commission on Tercentenary Observances, agrees with Sullivan. Rosovsky, former dean of the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at Harvard University, also knows about the power of such celebrations, since he helped guide Harvard through its 350th anniversary in 1986. Rosovsky presided over the last official meeting of the William and Mary commission in September, when the group gave its stamp of approval to the plans that have been laid for the coming year.

That plan calls for the first half of the celebration to focus on the future of liberal education, and the second half to highlight public service. Although events are scheduled throughout the year, the celebration will kick into high gear during two periods: Charter Week, Feb. 8 to 13; and Homecoming, Oct. 20 to 24. The events during these weeks have been designed to offer opportunities for everyone associated with the College to get involved, including alumni, faculty, students, staff and friends. "We want to permit everyone who wants to participate with an opportunity to do so," said Sullivan.

While Rosovsky has been a leader in Tercentenary planning for several years, Sullivan's perspective is that of a comparatively new participant. Although he was aware of the 300th anniversary plans during his tenure as dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, it wasn't until Sullivan was named president in the spring that he immersed himself in the details of the celebration. As a new president, Sullivan hopes the events will not only recognize the achievements of the past, but also help guide the College's future. "The past is a source of inspiration for future action. William Faulkner said, 'The past isn't dead; it isn't even past.' That idea is especially important at William and Mary," said Sullivan.

The new president said he is especially excited about contributions that could come from a conference on Thursday, Feb. 11, entitled "America's Investment in Liberal Education."

"I hope the conference can provide us with some guidance on where William and Mary will be headed in the next century," he said. Sponsored by the Thomas Jefferson Program in Public Policy, the one-day conference will examine the future of liberal arts education through the opinions of leaders in education, business and government. The day will end with a round-table discussion on the same subject hosted by television journalist Roger Mudd. The session will be videotaped for television broadcast. Two days after the conference, the College will hold the formal Charter Day Convocation in William and Mary Hall, with dignitaries expected from governments and universities around the world.

In the fall, leadership and public service take center stage, with programs such as "Beyond the Nation-State: Transforming Visions of Human Society," conducted by the Wendy and Emery Reves Center for International Studies. During the September conference, scholars, jurists, business leaders and public officials will convene to discuss the future of the nation state. "Leadership and public service are at the heart of what William and Mary has been about for 300 years. Those themes should also be the dominant themes in our future," said Sullivan.

Although their points of view may be different, Sullivan and Rosovsky also agree that amid all the thoughtful discussion should be plenty of opportunities to have fun. Homecoming '93 will exemplify the mixture of serious thought and amusement. Homecoming events include a series of faculty seminars on a wide range of topics, along with an enhanced Homecoming Parade, and football game. The weekend will be capped by a birthday party at Busch Gardens. It will not be difficult to keep the Tercentenary festive, Rosovsky said: "If William and Mary people know one thing, it is how to have a good time."

Let the celebration begin!

RINGING FAR AND NEAR

A Revised Addition of a 20-Year Dream

By Barry Adams

When it opened in 1972, there were less than half the number of William and Mary alumni as it serves today. In eight years there will be nearly three times as many.

In 1972 there were several hundred visitors the first year. By 1987 there were several thousand.

Only five years ago, a William and Mary alumni event occurred somewhere every four days. The estimated number of events and activities for 1992-93 will challenge the sanity of volunteers and staff — at least one event will likely occur every 24 hours.

The alumni records system has grown from "type and file" to well over 100,000 computerized corrections, updates and changes annually. Your 1992 alumni directory is one of its products. So is the law school alumni directory. It's likely that soon so will your M.B.A. alumni directory. Still others are planned.

The Alumni Gazette and William and Mary Magazine have increased pages and print more than 62,000 copies of each edition that are circulated to alumni around the globe.

On a yearly basis, hundreds of alumni, parents, students and faculty purchase items from the Alumni Gift Shop. Thousands more seek membership benefits through travel, insurance, job search and credit card services.

Class reunions contribute financially to the institutional endowments — approximately $500,000 last year alone. Soon class agents will determinedly cull their lists in support of the annual fund.

It serves special alumni constituencies. The Olde Guard and the Young Guard. The Student Alumni Liaison Council. Other groups involve military alumni, support African American involvement, serve an organization which has devoted scholarships, talent and leadership toward those students who work in food service. Still more groups utilize its space and seek assistance in planning their events. Former athletes, accountants, marching band alumni, the Greek Alumni Board and others have joined together under the roof of a building that began as a farmhouse and served as a fraternity house and as faculty apartments.

When it opened its doors two decades ago, the paint was barely dry on its walls before a number of alumni leaders began talking about enlarging its size and its capacity to better serve the alumni and the College. Today's plans represent at least the fourth time that the expansion of the Alumni House has received focused attention from the Society's Board of Directors.

At its September meeting the board voiced approval for revisions to the proposed expansion project begun in 1988 as part of the Campaign for the Fourth Century. The new Alumni Center study better addresses additional needs relative to parking, outside activity space, offices, storage and meeting facilities. The artist conception shown with this article depicts the view of the Alumni Center as you would see it from the west end of Zable Stadium. When funds from private donations are secured, it is hoped through the final year of the Campaign, the Society plans to move ahead with the processes necessary to select architects and solicit construction bids.

Few dreams, on any campus, have as much consistency and harbor as much patience as the Alumni Center expansion project. Obviously, from the revised edition of "this old house" it will be well worth the wait.

An artist's rendering of the proposed Alumni House expansion, part of the College's Campaign for the Fourth Century. The Alumni Society hopes to fulfill a 20-year dream in 1993 with the commencement of construction on the already existing building.

Students Promote State Bond Referendum

By Sara Piccini

News Flash: The College of William and Mary is Over-run By Student Activists!

Yes, it's true: student activism is alive and well on the College campus. But don't think that current students are mobbing the Brafferton in protest of the latest curriculum change. Instead, they're involved in promoting issues that will make a positive difference for the College and the world beyond Williamsburg.

This fall, in an effort spearheaded by the Student Association, students have come together to actively support passage of the General Obligation Bond Issue referendum, which will appear on the Nov. 3 ballot. "We are already aware of the issue and knew it would have a great impact on William and Mary," says Joe Price, president of the SA. "We wanted to do something to help promote it."

If passed, the measure will authorize the state to issue $472.4 million in general obligation bonds to finance construction projects on college campuses throughout the Commonwealth. Nearly $28 million of the bond funds are earmarked for construction projects at William and Mary, including a new undergraduate physical sciences building, Tercentenary Hall; the renovation of James Blair Hall to create more classroom space; and the upgrade of obsolete, substandard utility systems.

The SA has initiated a comprehensive campaign to promote the bond issue among the campus community and across the state, Price explains. Dan Rogers, vice president for Liaison Affairs, is heading up an ad hoc task force of about 25 students to carry out the campaign's work. "Dan Rogers has done a phenomenal job," says Price.

Students are especially effective in speaking on behalf of the bond issue, Price notes, because they know firsthand about the problems that need to be addressed. "Some things at William and Mary must be taken care of right away," Price says. "For example, our heating system is horribly old and collapsing."

"The money is going to have to come from somewhere," Price continues. "We don't want it to be taken away from things like faculty salaries or financial aid. We're trying to get the message across that it's in everyone's best interest to support the bond."

Price's words echo those of President Sullivan, who has remarked, in stressing the urgency of the issue, "Precious little time remains to build, renovate and equip the facilities we will need to provide the education on which our students' futures depend." The bond issue would help to address financial shortfalls brought about by state budget pressures: funding for higher education has dropped from 15.3 percent of the state's general fund budget for 1980-82 to 12 percent for 1992-94.

The goal of the SA's campaign is to spread the word about the bond issue through a variety of means—personal contact, mailings, speeches—so that people reached directly by students will take the message to people they know, and so on. Efforts on campus include placing articles in The Flat Hall and distributing brochures. The SA has also started a voter registration drive to get more students out to vote on election day. "We're off to a good start," says Price. "On the first day, we ran out of forms."

The group has also come up with the idea of having students vote on the bond issue during a regular student election: the actual bond language has been put on the student ballot. "We're using the mock ballot to gauge the level of student awareness and reaction," Price says.

"Although you raise concern among students any time you say 'new construction,' most of the student reaction so far has been really positive," Price says. "Students understand what the bond issue means to the College. They know that financial pressures threaten the status of William and Mary as a premier educational institution."

As part of the effort to raise awareness among the College community, the SA made a presentation about the bond issue to the Board of Visitors at its September meeting. Price says that BOV members showed great interest in the student perspective. He also noted that talking to groups is an excellent way to spread the message: members of the BOV, for example, will be able to go back to their communities to make personal appeals to business and civic groups.

The SA has already begun taking its message beyond campus as well. Students have met with state legislators to discuss their support of the bond; they've also taken their campaign design to student groups at other colleges and universities in Virginia.

A number of task force members will go on the speaker's circuit to bring the unique student perspective to community groups throughout the Commonwealth. The SA has already targeted about 60 civic, religious and other community organizations for student speakers to address.

The SA hopes to send a special message to alumni about the importance of the bond issue. "We hope to reach alumni as students talking to former students," Price says. "To so directly connect a person to the benefits of the bond should be very effective." The SA plans to design a pamphlet specifically aimed at alumni, which members will distribute at football games and other alumni gatherings. The group is also planning a mass mailing to parents and alumni throughout the state.

The SA's many activities stand to benefit not only William and Mary, but also colleges and universities throughout the state. And the group's efforts will have an unplanned benefit for the students themselves, Price notes. "Our work has given us a firsthand opportunity to learn how decisions are made on the state level," Price says. "For students interested in state government, it's a tremendous opportunity to get involved in an issue of this magnitude."

"I'm a public policy major," Price adds, "so for me personally, it's been a great experience to see public policy in action. I can see what I've been studying in textbooks in very real terms."

Muscarelle Celebrates 10th Anniversary

by Lisa W. Leek

While William and Mary is celebrating its 300th anniversary in 1993, the Joseph and Margaret Muscarelle Museum of Art will be observing its 10th anniversary as the official art collection of the College.

During its first decade, the museum has become an integral part of the William and Mary campus, and the College's academic mission. "The Muscarelle Museum of Art is a visual laboratory that allows first-hand observation for the study of art history and techniques. This is a vital educational resource for students working in the studio, for those studying the history of art, as well as a multi-disciplined environment for the benefit of all students," said Mark M. Johnson, who has been director of the museum since it opened. In addition, the fine arts department offers a laboratory course at the Museum that gives students hands-on experience.

As important as the collection is to College students and faculty, the Muscarelle

More than 50,000 visitors come to the Muscarelle Museum annually, to see such art treasures as Cottingham's Barrera-Rosa's 1985 (left) and Gerard de Lairesse's The Transfiguration of Christ (below).

Museum has also earned a place among area residents and visitors. Each year, more than 50,000 visitors come to the Muscarelle, the only museum between Richmond and Norfolk dedicated to the presentation and interpretation of all areas of the fine arts and all periods of history. Shows have ranged from ancient Chinese bronzes to Disney animation art, from 17th-century Dutch etchings to contemporary works by William and Mary's own faculty artists.

This October alone, the museum's schedule of shows feature late Medieval and early Renaissance illuminated manuscripts; Islamic ceramics from the collection of James L. Greaves '65; Robert Keyser's watercolors of a Persian bowl; and sculpture by Alexander Galt.

At the same time, the museum is the center for spring and fall children's classes which bring hundreds of local students to campus each Saturday. Music and film are also popular features of the museum. A popular Sunday afternoon chamber concert is scheduled at least once a month, and films about art and artists draw audiences from the campus and the Williamsburg community.

Tremendous diversity is also reflected in the Muscarelle Museum's permanent collection. The origins of the collection can be traced to 1732, when the third Earl of Burlington gave the College a portrait of physicist Robert Boyle. (Another of Boyle's gifts helped finance the early College's Indian School housed in the Brafferton, the building which continues to carry the name of the Boyle estate.) Since that gift, the collection has grown to more than 3,000 pieces of art encompassing a diverse group of objects from many cultures and historical eras.

The museum's first decade also prompted an important level of alumni involvement, especially from the building's namesakes. "Obviously, the most significant support over the years has come from Joseph '27 and Margaret Muscarelle, of Hackensack, N.J. They provided the first major gift for construction, as well as the impetus and encouragement to involve many others," Johnson said. In addition, the Muscarelles took a leadership role in the 1987 building expansion project that doubled the size of the facility. Before Joseph Muscarelle's death in 1989, the couple also provided an endowment to support the acquisition of artwork for the collection.

Closer to home, the Muscarelle Museum has also found a strong friend in Jeanne Kinnamon '39, a longtime Williamsburg resident. The Sheridan Gallery—the museum's largest exhibition display space—is named in honor of Kinnamon's parents. In addition, she is responsible for the attractive bricked plaza that links the Muscarelle with Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Kinnamon is not only one of the Museum's strongest supporters, but she is also one of its most frequent visitors. "I try to get to all of the openings, and then go back at least once to see all the things I missed the first time," she said. "I'm fascinated by artists and trying to understand how they do what they do. Being involved with the Muscarelle has helped me appreciate art more."

Not only does the museum's structure bear a strong alumni influence, but many pieces of artwork on display have come from the private collections of alumni. Frederick '48 and Lucy S. Herman, '47 of Norfolk collected their first artwork—an Old Master drawing—while students at the College. They have spent most of the intervening years amassing an exquisite survey collection of drawings from almost every period and school in European and American history. Art on loan or given as gifts to the museum is hung in the Spiegel Gallery (named for Lucy's parents) or in the Herman Graphic Arts Study Room. According to the Hermans: "One of the reasons we support the museum is so the students can view and study actual works of art up close and personal, rather than rely on reproductions as we did many years ago." The Hermans' interest will continue to be felt in the fall of 1993, when the Muscarelle will feature Arctic Inuit drawings from the Herman collection.

Other alumni—such as Lucille Godfrey Quattlebaum '38 and her late husband Alexander M. Quattlebaum of Georgetown, S.C., and Gene Alton Burns '52 and his wife May of Ho-Ho-Kus, N.J.—have established endowments for the acquisition of artworks.

With the continued support of alumni, students and the community, Johnson expects the Muscarelle Museum's next decade to continue to enhance the distinctive nature of William and Mary. "By College standards, the Muscarelle Museum of Art is still a youngster. But I have no doubt the museum will play a meaningful role in the College's fourth century," said Johnson.

The Muscarelle Museum of Art is open Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 4:45 p.m.; Saturday and Sunday from noon to 4 p.m. Admission is free. For more information, call 804/221-2700.

Gifts to William and Mary at year-end.

As the 1992 tax year rolls to an end, it is well to consider what advantages a gift of appreciated securities may be available to you. Gifts made in person or postmarked by December 31 are deductible on your 1992 federal income tax return. Gifts of securities may take longer to arrange, so notify your investment adviser as soon as possible to make sure your gift qualifies as a 1992 transaction.

There are good reasons to consider a gift of appreciated securities rather than cash because of extra tax advantages.

- You get a charitable income tax deduction if you itemize your taxes.
- You avoid paying tax on the capital gain. Note: If you are subject to alternative minimum tax, you may find that the tax consequences of your gift may differ. Ask your tax adviser.
- If you have owned the securities for more than 12 months, you may claim a tax deduction for the market value—rather than purchase value of your securities.

Generally, a charitable income tax deduction is allowed for the full value of the securities when they are given, including your original cost or other basis plus the increase in value, when the securities have been held at least a year and a day. Since there is no sale when the securities are given, capital gains tax is not due on the increase in value. With these two benefits working together, giving securities may result in an after-tax cost as much as 40 percent below a comparable gift of cash. The income tax deduction for a gift of appreciated securities is up to 30 percent of your adjusted gross income. Any excess may be deputed over the following five tax years.

If you are considering a gift of cash, a charitable tax deduction up to 50 percent of your adjusted gross income is available. Any excess may be deducted over the five following tax years.

HOW TO REGISTER FOR HOMECOMING '93 EVENTS

A complete schedule for Homecoming '93 will appear as a special publication in the May 1993 issue of the Alumni Gazette. That publication will include a registration form for all events. Some events will be free; most will include a charge. Complete details and ticket information will appear in the May issue.

HOW TO MAKE HOTEL RESERVATIONS FOR HOMECOMING

All reservations for designated William and Mary hotels, with the exception of Colonial Williamsburg hotels, must be made centrally through the Williamsburg Hotel and Motel Association. The number is 1-800/446-9244.

Colonial Williamsburg has installed a separate 1-800 number for William and Mary's Homecoming. Installation of the 800 number will enable alumni to call Colonial Williamsburg's conference housing department directly. In order to make a reservation at any Colonial Williamsburg Property, please call 1-800/231-4198.

PLEASE DO NOT CALL THE HOTELS DIRECTLY!

When calling the Williamsburg Hotel and Motel Association, please ask for the William and Mary 300th Anniversary Block. It will also facilitate your call if you have your credit card number ready along with your top three choices of hotels.

As you will note in reviewing the following list, three special groups—law school alumni, the Alumni Band and the Hulon Willis Association—have chosen hotels from this list where they are encouraging members to stay during Homecoming.

State Recognizes 20th Anniversary of OWJ

This Homecoming marked the 20th anniversary of the Order of the White Jacket. In honor of the milestone, Gov. L. Douglas Wilder recognized Oct. 15, 1992, as Order of the White Jacket Day in Virginia.

Twelve members of OWJ watched as Gov. Wilder signed the certificate of recognition in his office at the Virginia Capitol on Sept. 24. The certificate noted OWJ's success in promoting the "honor and dignity of the work ethic" and its support of students who participate in food service jobs as a means of financing their college educations.

"This proclamation is a splendid recognition by the top official of the commonwealth of Virginia of the honor and merit of prac-ticating the work ethic as long advocated by the Order of the White Jacket and its membership," said Jack Garrett '40, president of OWJ.

Tracy Humphrey, a member of Students OWJ, also was present for the signing. "I was proud to represent our group to the governor," she said. "OWJ's student scholarship program was how I was introduced to the group—that's a very positive aspect of OWJ's work."

OWJ was founded on Oct. 12, 1972, as a fraternal and service organization. Its membership roster now includes more than 650 individuals from all walks of life, representing classes from 1922 to 1995.

One of OWJ's biggest success stories is its student scholarship program. Beginning in 1978 with eight $125 scholarships, the group now awards $1,500 scholarships to each of 10 students at its annual Homecoming banquet each year. Funds are raised directly from members, who are asked to contribute $1 for each year since their graduation.

Alumni Medallion Nominations Invited

Alumni and friends are invited to submit nominations by Jan. 2, 1993, for individuals to be considered as recipients of the Alumni Medallion, the highest award given by the Society of the Alumni. The Society's Board of Directors will review nominations and select medallion winners at its spring meeting in April. Recipients will be honored during Homecoming 1993.

Presented annually to as many as five individuals, the Alumni Medallion recognizes outstanding alumni for exemplary accomplishments in their professional lives, service to the community, state or nation, and loyalty and commitment to the College of William and Mary. The award reflects the honor and credit that recipients bring to the university through their actions and contributions.

Qualified nominees must be members of a class that graduated at least 10 years prior to the awarding.

Information regarding each nominee and supporting statements must be submitted on a nomination form, which is available by writing Alumni Medallion Nominations, Society of the Alumni, P. O. Box 2100, Williamsburg, VA 23187-2100, or by calling 804/221-1165.

Remember, the deadline for nominations is Jan. 2!

Special Weekend Planned for Alumni Sweethearts

The second annual William and Mary Sweethearts Weekend is scheduled for Feb. 12-15, 1993, in Williamsburg. All couples whose love for each other includes a love of William and Mary are invited to be part of this special weekend getaway.

Cosponsored again by the Society of the Alumni and Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, the weekend will feature a relaxed, pampered stay in Colonial Williamsburg hotels, with breakfast included and champagne upon arrival.

Sweethearts Weekend coincides this year with Valentine's Day and Charter Day on Saturday, Feb. 13. All registrants for the weekend will receive a special invitation to attend the Charter Day convocation in William and Mary Hall, celebrating the 300th anniversary of the College's chartering. It will be a special way to combine a romantic weekend with William and Mary's historic anniversary celebration!

Further highlighting the weekend will be a brunch buffet at the Williamsburg Lodge on Valentine's Day, offering the opportunity to swap romantic stories and hear a talk by Judy C. Pearson, author of Lasting Love: What Keeps Couples Together, a book dealing with the interpersonal skills necessary for a lasting marriage. Pearson is professor of interpersonal communication at Ohio University and the author of numerous books.

Package prices range from $89-230 per couple per night. For information on what promises to be a spectacular weekend in Williamsburg, call 804/221-1174 or write Sweethearts Weekend, Society of the Alumni, P. O. Box 2100, Williamsburg, VA 23187-2100.

Attention, Parents of High School Children

The Student Alumni Liaison Council of the Society of the Alumni is hosting the fifth annual Student Host Program for children of alumni on March 25-26, 1993. If your son or daughter is a high school junior or senior interested in attending William and Mary, the program is a great opportunity to gain an "insider's view" of the College and campus life. Participants will have the opportunity to spend one day and one night at the College during spring semester, going to classes, taking tours and otherwise experiencing college life with members of the Student Alumni Liaison Council. If you are interested in this program and would like more information, call 804/221-1174 or write Student Host Program, Society of the Alumni, P. O. Box 2100, Williamsburg, VA 23187-2100. Participants will be selected on a first-come, first-served basis.

In Review: Alumni Board Holds Fall Meeting

Five members of the William and Mary faculty were honored with Alumni Fellows awards at the fall meeting of the Society of the Alumni, held Sept. 10-11 in Williamsburg. Members of the College's Board of Visitors, also meeting in Williamsburg, joined with alumni board members in hosting a dinner honoring the fellows on Thursday, Sept. 10. President Sullivan, College deans, department chairs and other members of the administrative staff also attended the event.

During the business portion of their two-day meeting, alumni board members discussed a range of topics and heard several presentations on alumni programs. Among highlights of the meeting:

- The board voiced approval for the revision of the Alumni House expansion preplanning study and unanimously expressed their desire for the project to continue as the Society's top priority and as one of the College's stated priorities in the Campaign for the Fourth Century. Private donors are being sought to fund the $3 million project.

The 1992 Alumni Fellows, cited for outstanding achievements academically and in the classroom, were jointly honored by the Society board and Board of Visitors. From left are David N. Nicol, Neal Devins, Francie Cate-Arries, Clayton Clemens and William DeFotis.

- The New York City Alumni Chapter was named Outstanding Chapter of the Year. Recognized with honorable mention awards were the following chapters: South Hampton Roads, Greater Metropolitan Washington, D. C., Williamsburg, North Florida, and the United Kingdom Alumni Club.

- Resolutions were passed honoring several individuals. Board member Carolyn Todd Schaubach '59 was presented with a resolution recognizing her and her husband, Elliott '59, for their support of the Alumni Society. A resolution also honored Ben F. Kellam '78 for his 13 years of service as a member of the Society's staff.

- Resolutions also commended three groups of alumni celebrating anniversaries: the Order of the White Jacket for its 20th anniversary, the Student Alumni Liaison Council for its 10th anniversary, and the Class of 1967, celebrating its 25th anniversary.

- Ed McGuire '73 J.D., treasurer of the Greater Metropolitan Washington, D.C., Alumni Chapter, gave a brief presentation on the chapter's recent activities. The board graciously accepted a check for $5,000 from the chapter. The gift, part of a $50,000 Campaign pledge by the chapter, will be used toward a student scholarship endowment and the Society's endowment for chapter programming.

- Members of the law school alumni association spoke to board members and gave an update on their activities. Representatives announced that board member Alvin Anderson '70, '72 J.D. has been named an ex officio member of the law alumni group.

- START, a new service for alumni enabling them to save for retirement, was approved by the board. Further information about this innovative program, Spend Today And Retire Tomorrow, will be included in future issues of the Gazette.

President Sullivan concluded the Society's fall board meeting with a brief luncheon talk. Joe Montgomery, president of the Society, presented Sullivan with a specially inscribed copy of Traditions, Myths & Memories.

Society Services Provides Alumni With Everything From Golf Putters to Group Insurance

By Sara Piccini

Third in a series of articles commemorating the 150th anniversary of the Society of the Alumni.

An alumna in Dallas wants to give her grandson a William and Mary sweatshirt for his birthday. Who is she going to call? Society Services.

A recent grad needs temporary health insurance before he starts a new job. Who is he going to call? Society Services.

The director of alumni affairs needs to send a confidential document to the development office. Who is she going to call? Society Services.

Whether it's taking an order for the Gift Shop or helping an Alumni Society staff member ship a package, Society Services—a branch of William and Mary's Society of the Alumni—is constantly in demand.

"Our mission is to provide a wide range of services to the alumni of the College and to the Society itself," says Charlie Kendrick '82, director of Society Services.

What's especially noteworthy about the work of Society Services is that it all gets done by only three staff members: Charlie Kendrick, the director; Betsy Cobbledick, executive secretary; and Jimmy Jackson, Alumni House aide. Their headquarters can be found on the ground floor of the Alumni House.

SERVICES TO ALUMNI

Perhaps the most visible service provided to alumni by Society Services is the Alumni Gift Shop. In each issue of the Alumni Gazette and William and Mary Magazine, Society Services advertises selected items—everything from lapel pins to desk sets—that alumni can buy through the mail.

Society Services develops ideas for new products, and welcomes product ideas from alumni and friends of the College. Staff members are responsible for endorsing and working with suppliers who produce special William and Mary items, and for processing all orders.

"About 90 to 95 percent of our Gift Shop business comes through the mail, with the exception of Homecoming," says Kendrick. During Homecoming, many alumni are able to stop by the Alumni House and visit the Gift Shop on the ground floor staffed by Society Services. (If you're on campus, be sure to check out the new William & Maryopoly board game, where you can buy the Wren Building for $425!)

Society Services also originates and administers special alumni benefits, including the William and Mary MasterCard, insurance programs and a discount on long-distance phone calls with MCI.

Society Services has recently approved two new services: SkillSearch and START. SkillSearch is a unique database management company that matches alumni resumes with available positions in a variety of fields throughout the country. START (Spend Today And Retire Tomorrow) is a special merchandising program: participating companies, which include Eddie Bauer, Hertz, Club Med and Spiegel, among many others, will make contributions to an annuity established in the name of each START alumni member. The START program will be implemented in the near future.

For alumni brides- and grooms-to-be, Society Services plays a very important role: managing the rental of the Alumni House for wedding receptions, as well as for other functions. "A lot of alumni like to get married in the Wren Chapel and then have their wedding reception here at the Alumni House," says Kendrick. "It's a perfect place to start your life together."

The Alumni House was beautifully refurbished in the 1970s after serving as a fraternity house and faculty housing. Decorated with colonial antique furnishings, the Alumni House provides a warm and welcome setting for many different kinds of functions. "We help host sorority and fraternity parties, department receptions and community groups," says Kendrick. He estimates that the Alumni House is host to more than a hundred functions each year. "Fridays are crazy for us," Kendrick adds. "While most everyone else is winding down for the weekend, we're talking to caterers and brides' mothers and getting the house ready for the weekend's receptions."

Walk into the Alumni House on any day, and you'll see a staff literally racing to keep up with the work of serving 50,000 alumni. Society Services plays a big role in making sure all this work runs smoothly. They order supplies and do shipping, maintain the inventory of valuable furniture in the house, supervise cleaning and maintenance, handle courier services, and do any number of special jobs for the Alumni Society staff.

SERVICES TO THE ALUMNI SOCIETY

Walk into the Alumni House on any day, and you'll see a staff literally racing to keep up with the work of serving 50,000 alumni. Society Services plays a big role in making sure all this work runs smoothly. They order supplies and do shipping, maintain the inventory of valuable furniture in the house, supervise cleaning and maintenance, handle courier services, and do any number of special jobs for the Alumni Society staff.

Looking after the Alumni House is a special challenge, especially because it is literally "bursting at the seams." The staff has grown as the Alumni Society has continued to enhance its services to alumni, and the house is used more and more frequently for functions.

"We're looking forward to the expansion of the Alumni House," says Kendrick. Plans have been drawn up for the expansion, which will be supported through the College's Campaign for the Fourth Century.

C E L E B R A T I N G

(One role that Society Services plays is little known beyond the Alumni House: beekeeper. "We have some colonies of bees that live up in the attic. Every once in a while they venture down to the second floor," says Kendrick. "I'd like to get a real beekeeper over here—we could harvest some Alumni House honey!")

IN STORE FOR THE FUTURE

The demands on Society Services will undoubtedly continue to grow as the number of William and Mary alumni grows. "We're committed to expanding our services so that more alumni will benefit," says Kendrick.

Among Kendrick's plans for the future is to secure more sophisticated technology for the Gift Shop, to expedite order-taking, order-processing and inventory.

The Alumni House expansion will also have a big impact on the work of Society Services. "We'll have enlarged and improved space for receptions, plus a catering kitchen that will give our caterers a lot more flexibility," says Kendrick. He also plans to be able to expand the display space for the Gift Shop and make the Alumni House handicapped-accessible. Last but not least, Society Services itself will have some more breathing room (currently the staff works out of one office, with four constantly ringing phones).

As always, service will be the bottom line, whether it's through a long-distance phone call or a visit to the Alumni House. Kendrick views the Alumni House as a "home away from home" for visiting alumni, and sees its maintenance as his special mission. "We want the Alumni House to be a place where alumni know they're welcome any time. It's their house, whenever they're on campus."

So the next time you want to order a William and Mary coffee mug or plan a special 25th anniversary reception, who are you going to call? Society Services!

WHO'S WHO IN SOCIETY SERVICES

Charles L. Kendrick '82, director of Society Services, joined the Society of the Alumni staff in January 1990. Formerly the assistant director of administration and Society services, Kendrick was promoted to his current position last summer. He oversees the administration of all functions of Society Services, including the Gift Shop, the William and Mary MasterCard, the MCI telephone program, SkillSearch and START, as well as services to the Alumni Society.

Elizabeth Cobbledick, executive secretary, provides support for much of the day-to-day operation of Society Services. She has principal responsibility for the Alumni House rental program, including scheduling and meeting with clients. She holds the distinction of being the Alumni Society staff member with the longest record of service: she joined the staff in March 1979.

Jimmy Jackson, house aide, is responsible for a wide variety of operations in Society Services, including warehousing, shipping and maintenance. He provides courier service for all Society staff members, delivering sensitive documents to offices across campus. He joined the Alumni Society staff in July 1984.

Members of the Society Services team include Betsy Cobbledick (seated), Jimmy Jackson (left) and Charlie Kendrick. Also pictured are display cases which showcase current William and Mary products offered for sale by the Society.

Midfield senior Khary Stockton returns as the leading scorer on the Tribe men's soccer team.

Tribe Rebounds After Slow Start

By Bob Jeffrey '74

After losing three of its first four contests, the William and Mary men's soccer team appeared to be heading for oblivion. Instead the Tribe rebounded for a string of nine unbeaten matches, including a 0-0 tie with UCLA, the second-ranked team in the nation. Now at 9-3-2 and ranked in the top 25, the booters are in position to make a run at post-season action.

"That was our biggest result here in quite a while," said coach Al Albert '69 of the UCLA game. "I am very pleased, but not really surprised. We have a very competitive group of kids here and I knew we could hang in there against the best in the country."

The Tribe's performance against the Bruins, coupled with a 2-1 come-from-behind victory over San Diego State, gave W&M the title in the MetLife Soccer Classic at Old Dominion on Sept. 26-27. Trailing against San Diego State with 15 minutes left, the Tribe booters surged ahead on goals by Chris Scrofani and Christian Powers.

Senior goalie Scott Budnick kept the Tribe in the game against the Bruins with a save in the first minute of the contest. "They had their best chance right at the beginning of the game, a wide open shot, and Budnick made a great save," said Albert.

"It was important that we not fall behind early since UCLA is the best defensive team in the country," Albert said.

A second team All-CAA selection last season, Budnick missed the first game this fall after a freak accident caused the loss of part of a finger. Since his return he has been a steady force in goal, posting five shut-outs.

"He played his best game against Richmond (posting 11 saves in a 1-0 decision). Without question, that day he was an All-American. It's important that the team not rely on him too much," Albert said.

Prior to the big weekend in Norfolk, W&M won four home games at Busch Stadium, topping VMI, 7-0, Richmond, 1-0, Hofstra, 3-1, and West Virginia, 2-1, the latter two clinching its own Papa John/Tribe Classic.

Since then in league action, the booters have tied American, topped UNC-Wilmington, 2-0, and downed East Carolina, 3-1.

After losing six starters and 12 lettermen from last year's squad, Albert was uncertain how quickly this year's edition would gel. "We lost a few games early that we didn't need to lose because we're such a young team. But now we're in a position halfway through the season to be a playoff team, which I wasn't sure we'd be able to do," he said.

The rapid development of freshman talent has been the main reason. "We have freshmen who are playing 90 minutes now who in preseason we didn't expect to start," said Albert. Backs Andrew Petty and Greg Richards are playing extensively, along with Scrofani and Timmy Prisco.

Midfielder Billy Owens has become one of the team's marquee players. He was named MVP in the Tribe/Papa John Classic and made the All-Tournament team in the MetLife Classic.

One of the most talented freshmen, Paul Grafer, a Parade high school all-American goalkeeper, has seen only limited action since he's backing up Budnick.

The underclassmen blend with a solid veteran group to produce a well-rounded attack. Midfielder senior Khary Stockton, the leading scorer returning from last season, picked up where he left off, nailing a game-winner against Hofstra, and had a goal and an assist against UNC-W. Christian Powers and junior Jon Kamara have contributed goals and assists from the midfield positions.

Eric Dumbleton, a senior forward, has finished well, scoring the go-ahead goal at UNC-W, and another against ECU.

Sophomore back Chris Norris was cited for a tough defensive effort in the UCLA contest.

Gaining an NCAA tourney bid will be a battle, as the CAA has three extremely strong teams—James Madison, George Mason and Old Dominion—in addition to the Tribe. Albert is hoping that if the choice for a bid is close, that W&M's tie with UCLA will be a significant factor for inclusion.

The next challenge for the Tribe will be defending national champion and current number one Virginia at Busch Field on Wednesday, Oct. 21.

"Virginia is the defending national champion and has been unbeaten for 27 matches over the last two years. I hope our fans will come out and support us in this big match," Albert said.

Hakel, Green Make Redskins Roster

Chris Hakel '92 and Robert Green '92 have traded in their Green and Gold for the Burgundy and Gold of the Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins.

Hakel, who holds most of the single season passing records for the Tribe, made the Skins as the fourth quarterback, behind Mark Rypien, Cory Conklin and Jeff Rutledge. He was placed on injured reserve, meaning he does not use a roster spot. Both Rypien and Conklin began their careers on IR.

Hakel was impressive in preseason, completing 8 of 11 passes for 94 yards and a touchdown in a preseason scrimmage. His size, strength and strong arm make him a Skins style signalcaller.

Running back Green, who holds the Tribe career rushing mark, came to camp as a free agent, but quickly impressed the coaches, rushing for a touchdown against the Jets and catching a scoring aerial against the Dolphins in preseason.

According to Coach Gibbs, Robert had an outstanding training camp. He picked up things very well. His touchdowns definitely got him noticed.

Though he's listed third on the depth chart behind Earnest Byner and Ricky Ervins, Green has seen some action on special teams in the early part of the regular season.

Hakel and Green continue a William and Mary tradition with the Redskins where Larry Peccatiello '57 is currently Washington's line-backers coach.

Gymnasts Are Tops in Nation

Cliff Gauthier's William and Mary men's gymnastics teams have long dominated the Virginia gymnastics scene, winning 17 straight state titles. Now his gymnasts are excelling in another arena—the classroom.

For the second year in a row, William and Mary has been declared the national academic champion for men's gymnastics by the National Association of Collegiate Gymnastics coaches. The overall team GPA (grade point average) for the Tribe squad was 3.38 (4.0 scale). Kent State, Cornell, University of California at Berkeley and Ohio State round out the top five.

Lance Hoffman, a junior biology/pre-med major, achieved a perfect 4.0 GPA to share the top academic honors nationally with William Zopf of Illinois. Richard Mansfield, another junior biology/pre-med student, earned a 3.93. Marc Lim, a senior majoring in international studies, compiled a 3.85, and Randall Jewart '92, an English major, also made academic All-American at 3.69.

To be recognized as academic all-American each gymnast had to earn at least a 3.50

GPA while also attaining a minimum NCAA scoring average of 8.5 during the 1992 season.

Mansfield and Lim were repeaters from 1991, and Jewart made academic All-American in 1990.

Dan Krovich '92 and David Williams '92 just missed the cut with GPA's of 3.49 and 3.46. Both made academic All-American last year. Krovich and Williams are both attending Johns Hopkins University this fall, Krovich in molecular pharmacology and Williams in medical school.

Williams was honored by being selected as a finalist for the Nissan Award, presented each year to the outstanding senior gymnast in the nation.

Gauthier, who joined the honorees by being named the coach of the year for the East Region, attributes the academic success to the entire recruiting process. "I indoctrinate recruits and their parents with the notion of the scholar-athlete," said Gauthier. "I tell them point blank that to thrive here, your goals have got to match up with those of the program. I may even scare some good athletes away, but for those who decide to come, it's a good match."

Volleyball Team Impressive

The William and Mary women's volleyball team has been climbing the ladder of success for more than a decade. Coach Debbie Hill thinks this year's squad may have a chance to reach the top rung, an invitation to the NCAA tournament.

The Tribe has jumped out to an 11-5 start, including wins over Syracuse, Virginia and Georgetown. A couple of close losses to national powers Houston and Notre Dame have dimmed hopes somewhat, but an important road trip over fall break was to determine the team's fate.

From its inception as a "come-one, come-all" sport in the mid-1970s, Hill has guided the program up each succeeding step. "Our rise was slow and steady for several years, then took a steep jump when we combined the men's and women's athletic departments back in 1983-84," Hill said.

Playing in the Colonial Athletic Association, the Tribe has won the conference every season since 1985. In fact, it's been more than seven years and 54 matches since they've lost to a league foe.

The last three seasons have taken the development one stage higher. "Since 1989 we've received invitations to the NIVC, which is like the NIT of women's volleyball, featuring the top 20 teams in the country after the NCAA," said Hill.

"It's a matter of the history and tradition of the program and the expectations of the players that come into it. In '79 we expected to win the state tourney; in '89 we expected to win our conference and get a NIVC bid; and now we're fighting for an at-large bid to the NCAA," Hill said.

Thirty-two teams receive an invitation. Last season the Tribe ended up ranked 38th. "We're right on the brink of taking that next step," she said.

These great expectations are founded on the abilities of the Tribe's outstanding senior trio of Anna Agbe-Davies, Kirsten Schimke and Becky Eggering.

Co-captain Agbe-Davis is a tower of strength for the team. At 6-3, she can intimidate opponents at the net, as proven by career school records in solo blocks and total blocks, along with single season and individual game marks in blocks. She has developed over the years into a fine all-around player.

"As a freshman, all she did was block. She never played across the back line and we never got much offense out of her," said Hill. "She's improved her offensive game to the point where she's our third leading hitter as well as becoming a credible back row player," Hill said.

Off the court Agbe-Davis is also a standout. An anthropology major with a 3.85

GPA, she was named second-team Academic All-America last year. Agbe-Davies received the Martha Barksdale Award, which is given to the outstanding scholar-athlete among rising seniors.

Schimke, another co-captain, came to the College to further her academic goals. "She was at San Diego State, a top twenty school, on a full ride, when she just woke up one day and realized that academically she wanted more. She transferred here and has concentrated in Far Eastern studies," said Hill.

A left-handed setter, Schimke provides on-court leadership and playmaking ability. She turned in 999 assists and made first team All-CAA last fall. Schimke is a multi-dimensional threat, a leader in both kills and digs. "She's by far our best athlete," Hill said.

Becky Eggering and Anna Agbe-Davies

Eggering combines strong hitting with excellent defensive skills. She recorded 165 digs and 210 kills last season, even though she was sidelined with a shoulder injury for part of the season. "Becky is a fabulous back row player, even though she's 6' tall," said Hill.

Another fine student, Eggering is an English major who helps keep the volleyball team GPA above 3.0.

Indeed, Hill stresses academics before athletics. In a written message to her players, she states, "Volleyball at William and Mary is different. The game will enrich, not dominate, your life."

Hill is concerned that team members become high achievers in the classroom. "These are the kind of kids who belong at William and Mary, regardless of whether or not they were playing volleyball. Beyond all the won and loss records, this is the accomplishment that makes me most proud," she said.

News of '27 and All Prior Years

Dear classmates and old friends: If all went as planned for Homecoming, a remarkable book titled Traditions, Myths and Memories enjoyed brisk sales.

I am flattered to be one of those whose letter about events of the 1920s is part of the reading that covers "the age of the flapper, Oxford bags, raccoon coats, peekaboo hats, saddle shoes and knickers."

I hope many of you will enjoy reading some of my memories: encountering ghosts of Lord Botetourt, Jefferson and Washington on the campus, friendships, bull sessions, the Saturday night dances, pep rallies, excursions to Richmond on Thanksgiving and fond thoughts of faculty favorites such as John Garland Pollard, Richard L. Morton and Havilah Babcock.

Suddenly, the flood of memories threatened to become a book that had no end. I'm sure that each contributor had a similar experience. Among those of our era who share their memories in the book are Gladys Bennett Guy '24, William G. Thompson Jr. '28 and Elizabeth W. Lanier '30.

I'm positive that once you start reading this wonderful book, you will find it impossible to lay aside.

All of which reminds me: I was unable to attend Olde Guard Day on April 8, but 11 of you, from E. Ralph James '16 to five from '27, live close enough to make the trip. How I envy you!

My letter in the June Gazette, quoting at length a message from Mathilda Ely Crawford '25, roused memories of others, notably Elizabeth Palmer Thompson '27 (2800 Mt. Carmel, Waco, TX 76710). Like so many others, she admits turning first to the obituaries when receiving her Alumni Gazette. This time she mentions the loss of Carolyn Kelly Brewster '24 and Andre Goetz '26. Carolyn, nicknamed Cado, was initiated into Kappa Alpha Theta with Elizabeth. Recently, Cado's daughter sent Elizabeth her mother's Theta pin and guard to replace ones stolen several years before.

Elizabeth recalled a visit with Andre and Cado in 1979, following which Andre and his boyhood sweetheart, Wilhemina Swann, were married. The couple made their last home in Waco, Texas.

Andre had appealed to me to take over and combine his class with mine and others up to 1927 in writing to the Gazette.

"Whew! What a challenge!" writes Elizabeth, "You have proved more than equal to the commitment with your always interesting news and comments." (Thanks, I add.)

"For the last two years, 1990-91, I returned to my hometown, Independence, Mo., to attend the 70th and 71st reunions of my Chrisman High School Class of 1920," Elizabeth continues. "We survivors (11 of 65) enjoyed fond recollections of our 'happy, golden days' that kept bringing us together.

"I hope to follow that with a trip back to Williamsburg in 1993 for the 300th anniversary of our wonderful alma mater of which I'm a loyal and devoted alumna."

Closing this letter on a sad-glad note is no fun, but I'm sure you would like to know: Frank Hopkins '27 underwent surgery June 15 for successful removal of a large cancerous tumor. By this time he is home, fully recovered, and ends a hospital-written note to me and other friends with "Be of good cheer!". All the best, Frank, and hang in there!

Since the death of Joseph James last spring, our class has been without a class reporter. I have accepted an invitation to become your new class reporter and look forward to keeping in touch with you. Joe will be missed for his contributions to the College and to our class.

Several members of our class attended Olde Guard Day at the College in April. Among them were Ernestine Renn Boyce, Margaret Shreeves Bozarth, Elizabeth Jennings Hines, Minge Perkins Tennis and Agnes Brittingham Willard. Olde Guard Day '93 will be held Feb. 10-13 during Charter Week as part of the College's 300th anniversary celebration.

Please drop me a line and let me know your activities.

Extra! Extra! The class of 1931 has new class reporters. Milton Salasky decided to give up this job, and Ellen Tricer King and I are the new reporters. We hope you will help us by sending some news.

At the Olde Guard luncheon this spring, Ellen and I talked to Waller Smith, Elizabeth Allen Snead and Harry Paxton. Also present were Bartlett Burgwyn, Eleanor Vaughan Christian, Loula Connelly, Leigh Trotter and Bettie Smither Wayman, according to the Alumni Office. I hope that in the future all our class members can meet together!

I have just returned from a visit to my sister, Elizabeth Vieg '22, who lives in Pomona, Calif. Fortunately no earthquakes while I was there!

I chat with Martha Barrow Hatcher, who lives at the Virginia Beach oceanfront, when she comes to visit her sister at Westminster-Canterbury. There is an advantage in living at a large retirement home, especially when it is at the beach — lots of friends and visitors!

The son of Marion Handy Anderson phoned me in March to say his mother had died in Pocomoke, Md. Marion and I have been good friends since college, and I shall miss her. She had a son and two grandchildren who live in Marion, Md.

Also Dottie Reese Smith from Norfolk died this spring. She was in my junior high and high school class as well as college and always attended the reunions at W&M. She will be missed by many of us!

Ellen Tricer King's address is: Mrs. Stanley King, 5700 Williamsburg Landing Drive, Apt. 108, Williamsburg, VA 23185.

Hope you will drop one of us a card or note. We want to hear from you.

I look forward to serving you as your new class reporter and hope you will take a minute to drop me a card or note in the new future. My next deadline is Jan. 15—add me to your card list!

Ann Northington Westlow has to resign as our class reporter due to a long-term illness. Her husband conveys her regret at not being able to write the column for recent issues.

I've also volunteered to take on the duty of serving as your class agent for the Annual Fund, so you will be hearing from me about that as well in the future.

The class of 1937 had a good representation at the Olde Guard luncheon in April: Anna Virginia Dickerson Baker, Ralph Terrill Baker, Esq., Thomas Cornell Berry, Betty Hunter Beveridge and husband Cab, Elliott Bloxom and wife Margie, Robert Coakley and wife Janine, Marjorie Edmonds and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Snead, Minnie Franck, Ellen Latane Gouldman, Connie Land Hardenbergh, Frances Maddrey Healey, Linwood James and wife Peggie, Dorothy Pierce Ladd, Marguerite McMenamin, Aileen Barclay Renn, Fay Bryant Savedge, Sarah Morse Snyder and husband Joe, John F. Wall, Oscar Ward and wife Catherine, Anne Reynolds Wood and Bertie Courtney Zuger.

An impressive retirement summary has been received from Lt. Col. Shale L. Tulin, U.S.A.F. (ret.), who retired from the U.S. Air Force after serving 23 years, having been in World War II, Korea and Vietnam. He has received the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star, French and Belgian Croix de Guerre and the French Medaille de l'aeronautique.

A resident of South Norwalk, Conn., Shale has been extremely active in boating circles: he founded the Norwalk Seaport Association and its annual Oyster Festival; he writes a column for the Norwalk News; and on weekends he broadcasts a radio program from his boat,

"Shore Lines," with information on boating, fishing and weather on Long Island Sound. For 17 years he has served as military band concert chair for the town. He has also been a volunteer at the Norwalk Hospital and a substitute teacher in the high schools.

In addition, Shale is working on his master's thesis for Indiana University on "How we got into a war without knowing it...the Vietnam debacle." He is a lecturer on World War II in the European theater and on musicology at Norwalk Community College. That's not all, but this sampling should provide a picture of Shale's very active retirement.

I occasionally have lunch with Connie Land Hardenbergh when she takes the ferry from Surry over to Williamsburg. Anne Reynolds Wood, when she came for the Olde Guard board meeting in June, stayed with me. Anne is the new vice chair of the Olde Guard.

As I get our class letter off to an early start, I realize how far back I am going in my reporting, but such is the stuff of which deadlines are made. Since I'll be on a tour, "Literary Heritage of the British Isles and Ireland," and not back home until early September, I am writing well in advance of the Aug. 28 deadline for the October issue.

It was good seeing Dot Spence Druckemiller in April when we had a delightful dinner and evening at the Scottsdale, Ariz., Camelback Inn, one of the really old hostels abounding in genuine Southwestern charm. Dot enjoyed Christmas in Williamsburg with relatives and plans to return for Homecoming this fall and, of course, the annual '39 reunion.

Jordan Sizemore wrote in June, saying he's been in touch lately with Tina Gravely, Horace Dyer '38 and Frank Thompson. Though he retired several years ago, he is doing some work for a local realtor. Jordan is also working on a major project trying to locate a literary agent who would be willing to submit a story about Peter Francisco, an American revolutionary hero, to a major film company. He would appreciate any suggestions or recommendations from our classmates who might be helpful to him in the project.

My annual "touch base" catch-up visit with Barbara Wastcoat Carter and Chuck was cut short when I had to return home unexpectedly due to family illness in June (on the mend now, happy to say). My dog, Maggie, had a great time at their place in the country. They should bottle that East Aurora air.

Peggy Prickett Miller and Miley will see yet another grandchild (No. 3) at William and Mary this fall. I never was able to handle statistics very well (especially that required course in economics) but am willing to venture a guess that there's a sizable and growing number of the Prickett/Miller connection who have graduated from our College or are now attending. Peggy, her sisters Polly Prickett Roberts '41 and Ginger started the "dynasty," offspring carried on the tradition and now theirs are continuing it. Peggy, we must have a head count!

Jim Bailey thoughtfully sent me the obituary on the July 30 death of Janet Billet Kennedy, who gave so much of herself to William and Mary and to the Class of 1939. It was noted that she graduated with the school's first degree in drama, that she was head of St. Catherine's drama department in Richmond from 1939 until 1942 and that it was in New York while Jan spent the summer looking for a break as an actress that she met Thomas C. Kennedy, a civil engineer and an actor (and, I might add, a playwright). They later married in Texas. Many of you who attended our annual reunions probably met Tom, a "Yalie" who felt warmly about Jan's alma mater. Though I had known Jan for years and shared living quarters with her at the Alpha Chi Omega house, I didn't know about the above facets of her life. My last memory of Jan is watching her dance so proudly with one of her sons at our 50th reunion. She was having a marvelous time.

Have a pleasant fall season — and fun at Homecoming. Please let me hear from you!

Greetings from Maine from your recycled class reporter! When no one else had offered to take over the column after Dave's death, I volunteered. However, its success depends on each of you, and I would hope that there is enough news coming in to fill a few paragraphs in each of the three columns expected from me each year.

A mutual friend entertained Nancy Guptill Searle '43, her husband Bob and me earlier this summer. It was a happy reunion and a time to catch up on nearly 50 years of news. The Searles are avid sailors, with the Maine coastal waters providing ample opportunities for them to enjoy their boats.

Both Kay Hoover Dew and Mike Stousland took time from their busy lives to respond to my pleas for news. Mike professed not to have any news but then went on to say that he and wife Betty '42 were awaiting the arrival of their first grandchild. Betty is head docent at the Miami University museum and co-president of the Oxford Arts Club. Mike stays busy with his silver jewelry work and enclosed his brochure Happy Things of Sterling Silver Handcrafted in the Moonlight by an Independent Elf. The illustrations are enchanting and the prices most reasonable. If any of you are interested in acquiring a piece of his work, I am sure he would be happy to hear from you. His address: 107 E. Central, Oxford, OH 45056.

Kay's note brought news of a recent visit from Gervais Wallace Brekke '40 and Nils recently. The Brekkes celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in late July. Others whom they have seen or heard from and who will be celebrating their golden anniversaries this fall are Betty Boyd Parsons and Bob as well as Kitty Britton Norton and her husband, Larry. (Surely there are others in the class who have or will be reaching that milestone soon. Let's hear from you!) Kay and Bob '40 attended the Olde Guard luncheon and Council meeting in the spring. Bob is on the committee to raise the funds for the W&M Choir endowment from the Olde Guard.

Here's a late-breaking request from Houston "Tex" Ashworth: Does anyone out there have an extra 20th reunion banner for the Class of '41 that he could add to his collection? He would be forever grateful if you do. Please write him at: 4 Fenwood Place, Yardley, PA 19067.

And now a brief comment on my life. My husband was diagnosed 11 years ago with Alzheimer's disease. Last fall it became necessary for me to place him in a nursing home which specializes in the care of these patients. I sold our home of 45 years and moved into an apartment (address above) and with the encouragement and support of the Alzheimer Center staff, drove east in May to spend the summer at our lake-front cottage in Maine and will return home in early October.

Greetings from the Gentle City. Traditions, Myths and Memories is a collection of factual and fanciful and farcical memories of alumni of the last 70 years. Due for release at Homecoming, the book should rejuvenate the spirit of all who read it. Ira Dworkin remembered his arrival at the train station and the offer of a ride to his dorm by an upperclassman, who deposited him at Eastern State Hospital, telling him this was Old Dominion. No comments, please, from former residents of OD. Milt Greenblatt met Dean Lambert very early in his freshman career after standing at College Corner yelling "Yankee spy" at the passing cars of visitors. So let's shake up the brain cells in our memory banks and remember the good times in our innocent youth.

Dr. Phillip R. Thomas was named "Suffolk's First Citizen of 1992," an honor richly deserved. He had been named medical examiner by the Commonwealth of Virginia in the early 1970s. Phil serves on committees, works at clinics and maintains a busy medical practice; in addition he sings in his church choir. He and Mary Lou have two daughters, three sons and eight grandchildren. Congratulations on all of these accomplishments.

The Buffalo News ran an article on Buster Ramsey, the original coach of the Buffalo Bills. Buster was All-American at the College and is a member of the Athletic Hall of Fame.

Jean Norris Daniels had a most enjoyable trip through the Maritimes. She had also attended a Florida W&M beach party near her home. Also there were Jane Christiansen Walker and Barbara Sanford Viehman '45.

Joe and I went on a wondrous journey through the beautiful parts of Spain, France

CANON DONATES EQUIPMENT

Canon Virginia Inc. has donated approximately $100,000 in equipment for the modern languages department and the Language Learning Laboratory at William and Mary. Incorporated in 1985 and located in Newport News, Canon Virginia Inc. gave the College an NP 2020 copier, a facsimile machine, an electronic typewriter, still video cameras, portable word processors, bubblejet and laser jet printers, computers and other high technology business machines and computer hardware and software. The gift will enhance language studies at the College, which include Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Portuguese, Russian and Spanish.

As you can see, your secretary has made her move. Late in April I visited Sarasota once again. While I was here, I received an offer for my house in Hopewell which I accepted. I started looking in Sarasota and found a townhouse which I liked very much, made an offer and completed the deal shortly after I returned home.

On July 6 my cars and I started south with a cat-loving friend. We arrived in Sarasota on July 8. My closing was the 15th, and I moved in a few days later. As I write this in late August, I am still getting settled. I am enjoying my new life very much and am trying to get used to south Florida summer weather. I have a guest room and look forward to hearing from any and all of you who venture this way.

Your secretary is sorry that she is unable to attend this year's Homecoming and hopes that those members of the class who do will report.

Class of '45 plans for Homecoming '93 are in process. While '93 is not a year for a regular '45 reunion, there will be a special celebration as part of the year long commemoration of the College's 300th birthday, and I hope our class can take part. Watch this column for details. Preliminary hotel reservation information was published in the June Gazette.

Eddie McChesney Ker wrote me just too late for my last letter. She was off to Holland and an eight-day barge tour. A few days in Amsterdam were to include Floriade, a huge international horticulture show held there every 10 years, and three nights in Ghent with side trips to Bruges and Brussels.

Eddie's activities this year have revolved around the Society of Women Geographers and the building they bought in December for their international headquarters. Eddie was on the interior design committee and spent many hours and miles driving around looking for such things as fixtures, wallpaper and accessories for the powder room, as well as consulting on carpet, paint, etc.

Slizie Jones Price wrote in June that she and Tom had been cleaning out the lovely old stone house in the country from which Tom's parents had moved to a retirement home. The Prices were planning a month's vacation in England and looked forward as well to a visit with Nancy Keen Norman.

Willie Anne Boschen Wright and Jack were also involved in a move in July. In their case it was Jack Jr. and his family returning to Atlanta from central New Jersey where they had been living for a couple of years.

From Marion Lang Van Dam came news that the Van Dams finally sold their vacation home at the Jersey shore. Marion wrote that while they had had four years of fun there, they no longer wanted the responsibility of two properties. Marion and Ted had no specific plans for the summer but were expecting a number of house guests. Marion had received a card from Betty Willcox D'Agostino who had made still another trip to France.

Ruth Weimer Tillar, our president, came through with news as she always does. Ruth expected to confer with Fran Loesch Brunner and make some preliminary plans for our special '45 get-together during Homecoming '93. The Tillars had had several visits with W&M friends: Jeanne Schoenewolf Preston and Page, Jean Boyd Lacy '44 and Ben, Fran Loesch Brunner and Bob, and Sunny Trumbo Williams '44 and Rolf.

In April, Ruth attended the D.A.R. Continental Congress and roomed with Nancy Barker Squire and Jackie Jones Myers, both '52, who were concentrating on plans for their 40th reunion.

The Tillars were looking forward to a busy fall, including Homecoming and the W&M and Virginia Tech football games.

Fred Veader was planning August visits to the Saratoga Performing Arts Center in Saratoga Springs, N.Y., to hear the Philadelphia Orchestra and to Tanglewood in Lenox, Mass., for concerts by the Boston Symphony and the Mostly Mozart Orchestra.

Jean Andrews Lee '43 and Mike sent me a "new home congratulations" card. The Lees moved to Allentown, Pa., last year to be near one of their sons and his family in Pompton Plains, N.J. Another son, Gary, lives in Rockford, Ill.

I had a most pleasant visit with Sunny Manewal Murray Connor at Sunny's home in Bradenton, which is immediately north of Sarasota, a week or so after unpacking my bags. Sunny had had some surgery and was recovering nicely.

One other personal note, I have been informed that my contribution to Traditions, Myths and Memories, which all of you may have read about in the Gazette, was accepted and will be included in the book. That is all I will tell you since I am sure each of you has ordered a copy!

I am exceedingly sorry to end my class letter with the sad news of the untimely death of Marabeth Dowd Rice in an automobile accident this spring. Details appeared in the last issue of the Gazette. I know that all of her classmates join me in extending deepest sympathy to her family.

Start making plans for Homecoming '93. In the meantime, remember your secretary sitting in Florida waiting for news from you. Do send me a Christmas card at least. My next deadline is Jan. 15, 1993, for the March issue.

Mea culpa! In my last newsletter I said Dr. Fisher was George Rafey's '44 chemistry professor — should have been Dr. Guy. Actually, I did it on purpose so some eagle-eyed reader would pick it up and write. (No such luck.)

Starting this early on a Delta flight between Atlanta and Los Angeles, Carol Achenbach Wright '49 and I go on a two-week bike trip to England on July 27 so time is of the essence.

A recent issue of the Richmond Times-Dispatch mentioned the retirement of Harry "Red" Caughron '49 as athletic director at Woodberry Forest after 31 years. From 1960 to 1991 his record was 217-56-7, and he won 15 Prep League titles. Great job, Red! Just think how you could have helped the Green Bay Packers.

Mentioning Richmond, I looked in the phone book, and there was a listing for Garland Isaacs. Our '47 class directory showed him as deceased. Garland is retired as a steamfitter from the Seaboard Railroad and is very much alive. He was pleased when I gave him the addresses of Guy Moates '43 and Abe Ferris '43.

Richmond again: as Carol and I left the Mosque and "Les Miserables," I saw R. C. Williamson '45 on crutches after a recent surgery. Last saw him in 1942 at W&M where he was a Kappa Alpha and friends with Audrey Hutchison Saunders '50 and Dick '50 (in fact, their best man!) and Nancy Norris Foster '44 and Dixon who live in our area. R. C. started at W&M in 1941, and lived in Taliaferro Hall on a six-year state of Kentucky Scholarship with two years at W&M, two years at the University of North Carolina and two years at M.I.T. He lives in Richmond and is president of the Natural Gas Co. of Virginia.

We just returned from the Spoleto Festival in Charleston, S.C., where Carol's "rickshaw peddler" was Louis Nelson, class of '90 at W&M. He was to be married in 39 days. I wore a W&M T-shirt on the Isle of Palms, and "Stump Britton" stopped me and wondered if I knew "Punchy" May '48 and Bill Klein '45. He grew up with Bill and both went to John Marshall High School in Richmond.

On arriving home there was a great letter from Millie Foster Lewis '46 who lives in Mt. Pleasant, S.C., next to Charleston. She has lived there for 34 years and been a widow for 17 years. She didn't know where Kilmarnock was until I called her. Betty Aurell Schutz '45 and Henry '44 (or "Schultz" as Jack Freeman '44 calls him) have visited her, and she keeps up with Marvin Bass '45 as he used to coach at the University of South Carolina. Millie has four children, with three in the area. Millie, we don't want everyone to know where Kilmarnock is located, as three traffic lights are all we can afford. I tried to call Nonnie Fehse Zettler twice in Simpsonville, but no luck. We couldn't remember the name or number of the husband of Jo Parker '45.

IBM DONATES WORKSTATIONS

IBM has donated 14 new super-powered computer workstations to William and Mary that will support undergraduate research in mathematics and the sciences. The workstations, which have a total value of $411,731, will be used by students in biology, chemistry, geology, mathematics, physics and computer science. Other workstations will be distributed among the science departments and connected to each other as well as to computers at William and Mary's Virginia Institute of Marine Science in Gloucester Point. According to an IBM spokesman, the machines are part of IBM's AIX systems—the most powerful engines available for desktop computers.

Coach Jimmy Laycock and Assistant Director of Athletics Bobby Dwyer attended and spoke at our recent Lower Northern Neck Alumni Chapter dinner meeting. Coach Laycock discussed the upcoming '92 season, the future quarterback and being affiliated with the Yankee (Wow!) Conference. He brought a current headgear (helmet) and compared it with mine of 1946. Knox Ramsey '48 wore the same type and has knee problems, but I suspect we were both damaged between the ears. Some attendees were temporary bachelors like Bill Bangel '48 and Bill Murphy '49 plus the Jere Buntings '49, Audrey and Dick Saunders '50, and Everett and Patty Wachtel Fairlamb '49 who moved to the area from Richmond. Discovered that Everett and I entered the service together in Richmond in '43. Joe Rego '46 was in charge of his car on the troop train to Nashville.

Must be the Virginia wine, but I even dream William and Mary. Lou Hoitsma '48 had the lead in My Fair Lady with Olivia de Havilland. Bill Smith '44 took tickets, and Don Ream '44 walked off with my newspaper.

Attended the W&M July Fourth picnic in Williamsburg and saw Betty and Howard Smith; Jim Macon '43; Mary Zimmerman '53; Ted Bailey, who is a retired Episcopal minister; and the 'Big Guy' James Kirkpatrick '50 and wife, Marsha Mackenzie '50.

Carol and I were at the W&M graduation with Lucy Jones Murphy '48 and Bill and saw Tom Mikula '49 and John Dayton '50. Our local hospital benefit attracted the Moe Maddoxes '53, T. Wallers '40, Dr. Richard Winelands '77 and the Fairlambs and Knox Ramseys. Tom Whitmore '49 was in town for Memorial Day as we saw him at Mass.

Wore a W&M cap at our grandson's graduation at Cal-Berkeley where Jeff Stayton '80 was serving punch. Talked to Roy '49 and Olive-Anne Hasty Shelor '46 in L.A. where Roy is wearing an advanced pacemaker. They are planning a return trip to the Caribbean soon. Roy, there is no substance about Betty Lu Brann Ramsey '50 thinking Knox was an intruder back in '49-'50 in South Pasadena. No shots were fired, but still Knox has a limp!

Lucy Jones Murphy '48 had a 65th birthday party recently, and Bill celebrated by playing his bass fiddle with no jacket while Henry Shook played the jazz organ. Lots of W&M people and golfers while we tennis folks were country cousins.

No more — no mas! Off to England, tennis camp in New Hampshire and a 463rd Bomber Group (B-17's) reunion in Omaha, Neb. Hope some of you were at Homecoming where Aubrey Mason was honored as everyone's Grand Marshal. Call collect or write to Wright.

Harry Wenning, now a partner in Wenning Associates, an architectural and engineering consulting firm in LaGrange, N.Y., was inducted this past spring into the Bloomfield, N.J., High School Hall of Fame. In 1944, Harry was captain of the Bloomfield High School football team which won the state championship. He then played football for four years at William and Mary, receiving All-State and Southern Conference honors. After graduation, he was drafted by the Washington Redskins to play professional football, but he chose instead to attend the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and earn a degree in architecture. Since then, he has established Wenning Associates and has been nationally recognized in the field of solar energy — its application has been used in almost all of his designs. He has been published in Macao's, Better Homes and Gardens, The New York Times and Vacation Homes Guide. Harry still enjoys sports — skiing, tennis and swimming. He and his wife Doris have a daughter and a granddaughter.

Herb Bateman has been a Republican U.S. Congressman from Virginia's 1st District for the past 10 years. After graduating from William and Mary and serving in the U.S. Air Force for two years, he became a criminal investigator with Naval Intelligence and earned his law degree at Georgetown University at night. He earlier served in the Virginia State Senate as a Democrat. Under Virginia's redistricting plan, the 1st District now includes the Fredericksburg area, Williamsburg, Hampton Roads and part of the Eastern Shore. Herb is married to the former Laura Yacobi and they have two children.

Raleigh Cooley has been appointed to the board of directors of the Piedmont Bank Group. He is a partner in Compton and Cooley, attorneys at law in Hillsville, Va., where he has been practicing law since 1951. He has previously served as mayor for the township of Hillsville and was a founding director of the Bank of Carroll in Hillsville.

Anne Beckley Waldo and Mark '48 have built a bed-and-breakfast in Montgomery, Ala., called Red Bluff Cottage. Mark has now retired after serving as rector of Ascension Church from 1961 to 1989. Dot Dettmer McLaughlin and Ben '47 are happily making plans for the new home they're building in Ford's Colony, Williamsburg. They expect to retire and move there from New York City next spring.

Elaine Campton Baker and Harry Tanzer are among those whose memories of college years are included in the book Traditions, Myths and Memories, just published by the Society of the Alumni in celebration of the College's Tercentenary.

Robert N. Tiffany, who has lived in Naples, Fla., since 1971, owns and operates Naples Floor Coverings. Bob has been active in local politics, the Chamber of Commerce and his church. He served 12 years as a member and chair of the Naples Airport Authority, and is now on the Hospice board of directors.

After graduating from William and Mary, Bob was in business in the Chicago area and received an M.B.A. degree from the University of Chicago. Since moving to Naples with his wife, Jody, and their four children, Bob has seen the city's population grow from 35,000 to 160,000.

The Tiffanys' two sons, Scott and Bob, live and work in Naples. Their daughter Susan is married to an attorney in Monroe, N.C. Their other daughter, Pam, graduated from W&M in 1986 and will receive an M.Ed. degree from W&M in June 1993. She lives in Richmond where she teaches elementary school.

Bob said he often sees Tommy Boys '52, a tennis pro in Naples, as well as Bernie Nolan, John Dayton '50, and Bill Fox when they visit Naples. He reported he had a nice reunion not long ago with his old roommate, Mark McCormack.

Virginia Gallaher Sharp, who lives in Rockford, Ill., wrote that her husband, Ed, a surgeon, retired three years ago and that the Sharps remained in Rockford where they are both active in Young Life, a nondenominational Christian outreach ministry to high school and junior high students.

Virginia said Ed is the leader for one high school, and she runs an after-school tutoring program for one junior high. This is a pilot program using only volunteers from the community. Virginia also will be a discussion leader in Bible Study Fellowship this fall.

The Sharps have four grown daughters and four granddaughters.

Virginia said her mother, who had been known by many of Virginia's W&M friends, passed away last February.

Thomas J. Johnson Jr. has been active in teaching and coaching since leaving William and Mary. Tommy taught United States history and government at Staunton Military Academy for 23 years. He coached football there for 17 years.

Since 1976, he has been teaching at Massanutten Military Academy in Woodstock, Va. Tommy wrote: "I have just completed 60

More than 3,400 applicants applied for admission to the 1992-93 first-year class at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law at William and Mary, according to Faye Shealy, associate dean of law admissions. Describing the entering class as the most competitive in the school's history, Shealy said that less than 17 percent were offered admission, with one space for each 19 applications. The entering class consists of 80 women and 93 men who received undergraduate degrees from 84 different colleges and universities. Minority students comprise 15 percent of the class, and 11 have earned post-baccalaureate degrees including a Ph.D. in biochemistry, a master's degree in history, a master's in mechanical engineering and others in subjects as diverse as counseling psychology and Spanish.

consecutive years playing baseball and softball. Most of my physical efforts these days involve swinging at that little round ball." Occasionally he plays with Tom Burke '52.

Over the years, Tommy has been active in the Jaycees, Elks and American Legion.

Imogene Praddle seems to stay on the go these days. She sent a post card from Bizerte, Tunisia, where she had gone to purchase wrought-iron items to sell in her shop in San Diego. She described the beaches of Tunisia as being "the most beautiful in the world" and the men of that country as being "the most handsome in the world."

Donald Ransone Taylor recently retired as director of Gunston Hall, the colonial plantation home of George Mason, after nine years. He has been named director emeritus by the Gunston Hall Board of Regents. He wrote that "it has been a wonderful and productive nine years and we hate to leave our native Virginia."

The Taylors are, however, returning to their son and two granddaughters and to the home they built in 1964 in New Bern, N.C. Their other son lives and works in Elizabeth City, N.C. Both sons are in marine fisheries.

Donald said he looks forward to traveling and gardening and hopes to be called on for consulting work in the museum field. He also hopes to maintain his ties with W&M by continuing to serve on the Committee to Furnish the President's House.

Mark McCormack was the subject of a major, full-page-plus article in The Daily Press of Newport News. Mark is president of the International Management Group and as such, the newspaper article said, "presides over a juggernaut that generated $700 million in 1990 alone, according to Sports Illustrated, and which is still growing." The paper reported that Mark "is a millionaire many times over and has parceled some of his time, money and considerable business acumen to his alma mater."

Joseph B. Benedetti of Richmond, a Virginia state senator and the senate majority leader, is forming a committee to explore running for lieutenant governor or attorney general of Virginia next year, according to an article in The Richmond News Leader. Joe was also featured in a Richmond Times-Dispatch article about politicians striving to be role models as fathers in spite of their careers.

David W. Otey Sr., an attorney in the Williamsburg firm of Otey and Otey, has been elected to the board of directors of the Virginia Chamber of Commerce. Otey, a partner in his law firm since 1973, serves as the Williamsburg counsel for Anheuser-Busch, Busch Properties and the Busch Gardens theme park. His law practice deals primarily with real estate.

I hope that many of you were able to attend Homecoming '92 and see the inauguration of Timothy J. Sullivan '66 as our 25th president.

Jack Martin's name has been mentioned or his picture shown in our recent Alumni Gazette articles. Congratulations to Jack upon being elected vice-president of the northern region of Florida's newly chartered Tampa Bay/Suncoast Alumni Chapter. He and his wife, Thelma Jamison, hosted the chartering reception at St. Petersburg Beach with more than 100 in attendance. This was the largest Chapter meeting in Florida history! Betty Zepht and her husband were among those who attended.

The Martins now are official residents but still have their black angus cattle at High Rock Farm near Manassas, Va. Jack also is president of the Association of 1775, the newly formed military alumni group of the College, chartered through the Society of the Alumni. It represents alumni, students, faculty members, and spouses of deceased persons who serve or have served in the military. If you have questions concerning eligibility, please contact me so I may forward Jack's address to you. He would appreciate your interest and cooperation. Finally, Jack has talked and visited with Col. Pete Hino (ret.), Albuquerque, N.M.; Ed Lupton '52, Cocoa Beach, Fla.; Jim Barber '52, Richmond, Va.; Col. Dave Klinger '51 (ret.), Leavenworth, Wash.; Pete Klinger, who lives in Washington, D.C., and has retired from IBM. He now works for the EPA.

Thanks to Bettina Bass Menzel for her welcome letter from Bristol, Tenn., where she is clinical director at a mental health clinic. "Tina" attended graduate school at the University of Iowa, where she and Joan Danskin Kemble '55 became friends through the psychology department. Tina was a psychologist in Dade County, Fla., before moving back to Tennessee. Her husband has retired from the Miami VA Hospital where he was chief of audiology. She enjoys keeping in touch with Beth Forrester Hanson, who has spent several years in Oslo, and with Emmy Ketterson Smith in New Hampshire. Ron '52 and Betsy Skinker Barnes '54 visited the Menzels en route from Arizona. Champe Summerson Hyatt '56 and her husband are friends of Tina's. They operate a lovely bed-and-breakfast called the Summerfield Inn in Abingdon, Va. Apparently it is a busy spot, especially during Abingdon's Highlands Festival celebration held yearly in August. Tina sends a special note to Ann Buckles Orteig '51, who originally hailed from Kingsport, Tenn., and now lives in the Burg.

Ruth Hasemeyer Young is thoroughly enjoying playing in a handbell choir in Pennsylvania.

John H. Harding has retired from his dental practice in Burgess, Va. Both his successor, Stephen Radcliffe, and Dr. Radcliffe's wife have received degrees from the College.

Remember, now is the time to mail in your room reservations at the Williamsburg Hospitality House for our 1933 40th Reunion. Believe me, it is not too early to be making your plans. Review Carmen's letter and act upon it. We need to talk with each other to find out what we're doing besides retiring! Please write with news of this year's Homecoming and send along your thoughts for our reunion for next October.

We are really fortunate this month with news! I'll begin with the news sent to me from the Alumni Office.

Rear Admiral Henri B. Chase was on campus recently to talk about leadership with students in management class in the kinesiology department. A native of Kilmarnock, Henri received an M.S. degree from George Washington University. Describing himself as an operations flag officer who preferred working with people to fighting, he drew upon his own experiences to talk about the importance of integrity in leadership. Questions from students brought some sharp responses as to the need for more morality in the industrial sector and less politics and bureaucracy in the services. Admiral Chase said he was spending his retirement writing two books, one of them on espionage. His career has included command of the assault carrier USS Belleau Wood and several assignments with the Royal Navy. Before retiring he was deputy comptroller in the Office of the Secretary of the Navy and director of the Naval Center for Cost Analysis and deputy to the assistant secretary of the Navy. Admiral and Mrs. Chase make their home in Weems, Va.

Mary Lou Riggan Baird's letter was the first of several telling of the Alumni College weekend. Mary Lou drove to Williamsburg with Alison Sandlass Carr on Saturday to have lunch at the Inn with Elsa Stromberg Bandi, Bunny Scheie Belford, Joan Mattson and the surprise guest, Marcia Seffrin Wennberg. Elsa enclosed two pictures in her letter. One picture showed the group of gals enjoying each other's company at lunch while the other depicted the classroom and the academic atmosphere. Elsa's letter told of lectures in the afternoon and evening plus trips to museums, boat trips and lectures plus the theme for next year, which is Thomas Jefferson (just in case this has stimulated any of you all to attend).

Joan Mattson had prepared a videotape of the 1957 European trip she and Elsa had taken together which Elsa really appreciated. Bunny Scheie Belford's letter noted that for three of them attending the Alumni College it was the fifth straight. Bunny related that Marcia Seffrin Wennberg works for a travel/tour agency and will be leaving soon with a group for Africa. Marcia lives and works in Birmingham, Ala. Mary Lou Riggan Baird is still working for the FBI and living in Norfolk. She has changed positions and now is a drug intelligence analyst, which she says is "fairly interesting." She has adopted a golden retriever from the Norfolk SPCA and he keeps her fairly active.

BOOK OFFERS SELF-HELP ADVICE FOR STUDENTS

Phillip W. Meilman, director of the Counseling Center at William and Mary, is the co-author of a self-help book for students called Beating the College Blues: A Student's Guide to Coping with the Emotional Ups and Downs of College Life. Published in hardback by Facts on File, the book uses a Q&A format to help students through the emotional minefield that comes with living away from home for the first time. Questions cover a wide range of issues, from dealing with a roommate for the first time or telling mom that twice-a-day calls are too much, to surviving a lost love, coping with date rape and deciding whether to become sexually active. Meilman's co-author is Paul A. Grayson, director of the University Counseling Center at New York University.

Mary Lou keeps in touch with Pat McClure Caplice who lives in West Simsbury, Conn., with her husband, Mike. They have five children. Ruth, the Caplice's oldest, is in Germany teaching school for military dependents; son John is married and living in Richmond; Colleen is married with a little boy; Chris recently married and is in Lexington, Va., and Sean has graduated from West Point and is in Fayetteville, N.C., in the U.S. Army.

Pep McLaughlin Logan, also a correspondent of Mary Lou's, married her high school sweetheart, Jimmy Logan, an attorney in Englewood, N.J., and they live in Tenafly, N.J. They have two married children. The last two Mary Lou told of were Barbara Coogan Kledzik, who is still living in Virginia Beach and working, and Jane Kessler Upshur, who is a doctor and married. That was one GREAT NEWSY letter Mary Lou.... How's about the rest of you?

In closing I must tell you all that we have again become parents... No, it is not what you think! Warlord's Kylee Von Kappel, a red Doberman pinscher weighing all of 14 pounds, has found her new home here in our house, and life has changed for us. It has been 13 years since puppyhood in the Kappel home. Needless to say, we're busy! Also, may I encourage you all to purchase a copy of Traditions, Myths and Memories from the Alumni Society. Bill Prince and I both have "memories" included along with those of alumni from the decades of the '20s through the '90s. The book really makes our College's Tercentenary memorable to all alumni.

The highlight of this column is news of Phyllis Galanti. Phyllis is the wife of Paul Galanti, who was held prisoner in Vietnam for seven years. During these years Phyllis led a national movement seeking the return of American POWs. She became an outspoken advocate for the humane treatment of POWs. Paul was released in 1973 but Phyllis' activism did not abate. She chaired the National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia and is now chair of the Virginia Judicial Inquiry and Review Commission. Both Phyllis and Sarah Brady '64 spoke at the Virginia Women's Conference sponsored by the Women's Resource Center at the University of Richmond.

Anne Marshall Huston has written a new book, Understanding Dyslexia, A Practical Approach for Parents and Teachers (Madison Books). Anne is professor of education and human development at Lynchburg College. She also serves as director of reading programs and director of the reading clinic. In addition to her work, she is active in her church, several professional organizations and even finds time to participate in the Republican Party, the local D.A.R. chapter, a gourmet eating group, a hunt club and the local W&M alumni chapter! In addition to her undergraduate degree, Anne earned a master's in education from William and Mary in 1967 and a doctorate from U.Va. in 1977.

I hope some of you were able to attend Homecoming this year. The BIG Homecoming for those of us in the Class of 1963 will be the following fall, when we will join in celebrating the College's Tercentenary. Look for information on attending Homecoming 1993 and let's all come out in full force!

Homecoming should closely coincide with the arrival of this issue of the Alumni Gazette. A book, Traditions, Myths and Memories, is being published by the Society of the Alumni in celebration of the College's Tercentenary. It should be available by Homecoming. One section of the publication contains memories of alumni from the 1920s through the present. Dick Weber and Bob Andrialis represent our class... don't miss their contributions.

Robert M. Gates, director of the CIA, returned to the College last April to discuss security issues. After we graduated, Bob went to Indiana University to earn a master's degree. He joined the CIA in 1966 and earned his doctorate in Russian and Soviet history from Georgetown University. He served three presidents in five years on the National Security Council, and then returned to the CIA.

Please include me on your Christmas card list or forward copies of annual sorority newsletters. Even a postcard with a brief update will be appreciated by your classmates. Please write!

Congratulations to William Ivey Long who won a Tony award for costume design this spring. He was nominated twice in the same category! Bill's success has gotten me interested in Broadway again — but this time to reading the credits!

Louis Tonelson wrote to the Alumni Society this spring. He was named principal of Kempsville High School in Virginia Beach last summer. Previously he had served seven years as an assistant principal there, three years as a junior high principal and a year in the "central office." He loves this challenging new job, and says he is fortunate enough to send five to six students a year to W&M. He attended a conference on "Leadership and Site-Based Management" this year at Oxford University in England. Another participant was Wayne Ralston '70.

Our class is well represented by Natalie Hill Zung in the new book about the College, Traditions, Myths and Memories, which is now available from the Alumni Society. I won't give away her memory — so buy the book! — but it did take me back to some sights and sounds of our freshman year. Good for you, Nat, for contributing a piece. It's very good.

The Alumni Office sent me a nice clipping on Paul Hildebrand from the Staunton Sunday News Leader. Paul moved to Staunton in 1979 and is the founding artistic director of ShenanArts, a non-profit organization that focuses on play and screenwriting programs, performance programs and Paul's specialty, theater education for youth. He tries to involve youth who are at risk, as well as truly talented youth, in a program to provide outlets for

TERCENTENARY POSTER AVAILABLE

A poster featuring a previously unknown illustration of Williamsburg drawn during the American Revolution was unveiled recently at William and Mary in connection with the Tercentenary celebration of the College. The illustration was drawn by George Daniel Flohr, a German soldier serving in the French Regiment Royal-Deux-Ponts from 1780 to 1783. Flohr's illustrated account is the only known journal written by an enlisted man in General Rochambeau's army. The poster is part of a series celebrating the 300th anniversary of the College's charter in 1693.

MELLON FUNDS PUGLISI RESEARCH

Michael J. Puglisi '82 M.A., '87 Ph.D. has received a grant from the Mellon Funds at Emory & Henry College to study ways of improving knowledge of the frontier period in the history of Washington County in Southwestern Virginia. An assistant professor of history at Emory & Henry, Puglisi will set up a computerized biographical data base to delve into a variety of historical resources and, ultimately, to reconstruct the biographies of a selected group of persons who resided in the county during part or all of the period spanning from the 1770s to the 1820s. Puglisi has taught at Emory & Henry since 1988 and has special expertise in frontier history and the history of contact between white settlers and Native Americans.

expression and teach teamwork. Paul's program is one that is credited with helping to lower the "risk factors" for teenagers in the Augusta County area. Before coming to the Shenandoah Valley, Paul worked for the National Endowment for the Arts and was founding artistic director of the New Playwrights Theatre of Washington, D.C. He has also directed for the New England Ensemble for Early Music, including The Play of Daniel which has received international acclaim. After leaving W&M, Paul earned an M.E.A. at Catholic University. I will remember Paul's talent. It's wonderful to know that he has continued to use it and to shine!

Les '65 and Anne Bradstreet Smith have moved this summer from Newport News back to Williamsburg. Anne is a department head for York County and attended the Senior Executive Institute at U.Va. this summer. Their daughters Amanda and Carrie are in their last year at U.Va. and son Brad is starting his freshman year at Radford this fall.

Anne Morris Clay '66 kindly sent me Marianne Brittingham's address, but no information about her! Marianne — write!

Anne Nelms McDowell sent me Steve Jaggard's address. He is in commercial real estate development in Houston, and Anne's husband had known him professionally for some time. Anne is still weathering the real estate depression in California, but is keeping in good spirit by going to Australia in September to dive the Great Barrier Reef (I hate her!). They're planning to spend time on Hayman and Lizard islands and dive a place known as Cod Hole, because it is home to 200 to 300 pound yes, pound codfish. They apparently are very friendly to divers, so I expect to see a photo of Anne snuggled up to a 300-pound Charlie-the-Cod!

Had two notes from Toni Biordi this summer. She and Charlie went to Oakland in the spring for the U.S. National Ice Skating Championships, which they thoroughly enjoyed. Their son spent the summer in Morgantown, taking chemistry and working in the entomology lab. It sounds terrible to me, but he loved it.

Susu Williams Villarosa called recently when she was in town. She told me that Susan Campbell has recently married and is in banking in Texas—Houston or Dallas? Susan, congratulations, and write! SuSu was in Richmond helping her parents get ready to move to a smaller home. I'll miss having them as pseudo-neighbors, but hope to continue to see SuSu when she's in town. She is a lawyer in New Jersey, specializing in worker's comp, and may move to a different office this fall.

Milton and I had a much-needed and fun vacation in July to the Bahamas. We took a dive cruise to Bimini and Andros and dived the second largest barrier reef in the world. It's the first time in my life that I've resented coming back to work afterward. Gotta buy more lottery tickets! Otherwise life in Richmond continues the same for us.

And that, folks, is all I've heard in the last three months. When you get this issue of the Gazette you will either be leaving for Homecoming, or just getting back. If the former... please look for me on DOG Street at the parade — notebook in hand near Binns', of course — and tell me what's going on with you. There are more than 600 of us in the class, so let's get those cards and letters flowing in. Which brings me to the "Where are they now" part. Does anyone know how to locate the following: Randolph M. Bell, Jane DeFrees, Pamela Jamerson Wright, Stephen F. Rowe, Cynthia Sue Smith Powell, Donald Joe Wingo, Virginia Jessie Augeri, Thomas Edward Drake, Brenda Carol Hazlett McFallon or Samuel E. Roakes Jr.?

And one final word. I'm writing this two

William and Mary: Looking Back After 25 Years

By Carol Jones Horner '67

The Class of 1967 celebrated its 25th reunion this Homecoming. Carol Jones Horner provides the following memories in the Colonial Re-Echo, a commemorative book published for the reunion. Horner is a reporter with the Philadelphia Inquirer where she has worked since 1979. Among the noted personalities she has interviewed are George Bush, Virginia Gov. L. Douglas Wilder and singer Randy Travis.

Maybe we had to leave it to love it. Oh, most of us probably loved it then, in our way—The College of William and Mary in Virginia. But, to really appreciate it, perhaps we could use a little perspective—like 25 years. We know now, if we didn't then, that it was truly A Class Act, and were fortunate to have had our turn on that stage.

We were the players of the Class of 1967, the last to go through all four years with the College acting in loco parentis. How quaint it all seems now—outright strange to our children—those rules most of us accepted, or found ways to wriggle around. No slacks for women! Raincoats over gym clothes, even picking our way through mud to the new Adair Gym! Women in their dormitories by 11 o'clock weeknights, but for senior girls, nine 1 o'clock lates per semester. Signing in and out. No cars.

It was a different world, certainly different from the one we stepped out into. Within a year of our graduation, national passions were inflamed in the Nixon-Humphrey-Wallace presidential contest. Martin Luther King and Robert F. Kennedy were shot dead. Police officers and demonstrators were tangling violently in Chicago at the Democratic National Convention. The country, and many of our families, were anguished, and torn, by the Vietnam War. Some of our classmates died there, others were changed forever. The once impenetrable walls of racial segregation were crumbling, finally. Women, their consciousness raised, were challenging the limits society placed on their roles and horizons.

Facing all that as beginner adults, we carried in our bank of experience those years amid the tall trees, green grass and weathered bricks of the Old Campus—and amid the ubiquitous mud, wobbly plank walks and shiny chrome of the developing New. It's time to stir that pot of quarter-century-old memories, and see ourselves and our classmates against that backdrop. Where have we been, and where have we come?

Where we've been:

To Jefferson and Ludwell and Brown and

Yates in late summer 1963, unpacking the so-carefully-chosen new clothes, the pens and notebooks, the typewriters, the record players (Say what, Dad? No computer? And by the way, what's a record?). To the old bookstore to load ourselves up with the likes of A History of the Modern World or The Norton Anthology of English Literature. To the solemn meetings of Orientation, and on to the fun gatherings of Duc Week. Better memorize those priorities: First College in the United States in its antecedents, which go back to the College proposed at Henrico (1619). First College to establish an inter-collegiate fraternity, the Phi Beta Kappa, December 5, 1776.

And then on to class. Football physics, for the unscientifically minded who had to dispense, somehow, with the science "distribution" requirement. Freshman English, maybe held in the Wren Building—historic ambiance but not exactly built for comfort. Language labs, a step up for many, from the monotonous drills of high school classrooms. Maybe a brand new subject, like sociology or German or geology or lacrosse? Fencing?

In the long hot Indian summer common to Williamsburg, we got used to roommates, formed close bonds with classmates who were also away from home for the first time, found activities that compelled us—the choir or William and Mary Theater or student government or the Flat Hat—and tried to make ourselves study a whole lot longer and harder than we ever had before. Some of us found romance, the first of many, or one that would last a college career or a lifetime.

New terms found their way into our vocabulary. The Green Machine. The caf (remember the time someone put up a hand-lettered sign declaring s/he had found "a machine part in my iced tea" and demanding reparations?). The Greeks, Corner and Middle. Rush rules. The Wig. The Fourth Point—the Honor Code's "will not lie, cheat, or steal or tolerate those who do." Jockey Corner. BCWCBL*. Desk duty. The Dirty Drug. The Clean Drug. The Sunken Garden. (Boy Called Will Call Back Later*)

People, too, impressed us, in that first year and the three to follow. Dr. Davis Paschall. Dean Birdena Donaldson. Dean J. Wilfred Lambert. Martha Barksdale of women's physical education. Howard Scammon of the theatre. And Fowler's Henry VIII or Dr. Ludwell Johnson's Civil War—or with a kind word, an incisive comment, or even a figurative kick in the seat of the pants. Different ones meant something to different ones of us. Let's hope they know who they are. (If we haven't told them, and if they are still around, maybe we'll still have the chance.)

Of course, freshman year was marked by one stunning moment, a few days before we broke for Thanksgiving—early Friday afternoon, Nov. 22, 1963. Certainly all of us remember where and how we heard that President John F. Kennedy was dead. The next day many of us gathered at the Wren Building, to share sorrow with the college community and connect, for that moment, to the world beyond.

Highlights of the rest of Freshman year, which would set the tone, and some of the traditions, for the years that followed: Yule Log and cider and a wishful toss of our troubles in a sprig of holly into the flame. Reading period and our first final exams. First semester grades, good news or bad. TV's Hootenanny, banned by college officials during exams leads to Protest which leads to rescheduling in February. We see Trini Lopez, the Brothers Four and ourselves on television.

Second semester sorority and fraternity rush—thrills for some, disappointments for others. "Who cares?" for yet others. Snow, ice, and cold, followed by the long, lush Williamsburg spring. What a perfect time it was to study, or daydream, in the Palace Garden, using that special pass that enabled us to feel superior to the tourists.

Freshman year may stand out most vividly. It represented so much change. But other highlights were to come. In sophomore year The Drifters appeared at the November Interfraternity Council dance; and Peter, Paul and Mary closed the year on Cary Field at Spring Finals. In our junior year Earl Gregg Swem Library was officially dedicated, and we picked our way through the woods to find not only light and space, but also—Lord Botetourt! A new bookstore opened, too. Bryan complex burned, 18 inches of snow fell, and Marv Levy brought in the first winning football season since 1953, not in that order.

Faster than had seemed possible back when we looked ahead from Duc Week, it was (almost) over. Senior year forced us to focus on the future. Some of us got engaged, and were thrown in the showers in observance. The men faced decisions about the military, and an increasingly controversial war. Graduate schools beckoned. We were emerging into a new world that would shortly be in social revolution. We didn't know that, but we did know that our time on that particular stage was finished, that the curtain was coming down on our Class Act at the College of William and Mary, that it was for us to move into new roles.

And so, onto the second question. Where have we come?

Earlier this fall, approximately 13,000 alumni received in the mail a readership survey from the Society of the Alumni along with the Society's Board of Directors ballot. If you received a survey and haven't had a chance to complete it yet, there's still time! Designed to take only 15 minutes to complete, the survey is an important tool for the Society to obtain feedback from alumni and suggestions regarding its two primary publications, the Alumni Gazette and William and Mary Magazine. Results of the survey will be published early next year in the Alumni Gazette. If you did not receive a copy of the survey but would like to share your opinions, please request a copy by writing: Readership Survey, Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box 2100, Williamsburg, VA 23187. The deadline for returning the survey to the Office of Alumni Communications is Nov. 2.

For a taste of the good life, San Francisco-style, just stroll into the wine bar co-owned by Mike Savage. Follow the queue of nervous prospective tenants through a beaded curtain into a smoky back room with a lazy ceiling fan. There, with his feet up on a table, is Mike, alternately sipping from a glass of Zinfandel and dragging on a Cuban stogie. His matched set of belt-mounted cellular phones rings constantly, to keep him abreast of the Bay Area real battles he wages in his job as an attorney. Despite his imposing presence, he insists he never hassles his tenants, "as long as they pay the rent on time." Mike has mellowed somewhat since getting married. He has even taken up golf and claims he shoots in the low 80s. "If it gets any hotter than that, I don't play."

Gary Hayden drives a hard bargain in his work as an attorney for Ford Motor Company in Dearborn, Mich. He defends the giant automaker in civil litigation.

Jim "FUMA" Wheat is the proud owner of Auto City, a car dealership in Newport News. Even though he is no longer connected with the former Villa Roma (a.k.a. Short Stop), there is still a FUMA sandwich on the menu. (It originally weighed 2 pounds, but the new owners have down sized the mouth-busting monstrosity because of the tough economic times.)

Urban blight in Williamsburg? Kim Craig Lambey thinks so, so she and her family are thinking of moving to Arkansas. Kim teaches, and her husband runs a tree-moving business.

Raymond Anderson has been named president of DuPont Korea.

Norman Familant works in the anti-trust division of the Justice Department and lives in Arlington.

Sue McGowan is with the Gas Company of Atlanta.

And Bob Nay is director of marketing for the Roanoke and Botetourt Telephone Co.

A Reunion Rumination from Kathy Plasmati Baldwin: "We have now lived more of our lives as friends than we did before meeting each other in the fall of '67. And now many of us have children of our own nearing that same pivota point in life. We are a tolerant group of people who treasure the times during which our lives have intersected."

Your reporter was slightly wounded by a piece of cinderblock that intersected the path of his car during the Los Angeles riots. But even more hazardous to health and well-being were the mind-numbing political ramblings of the conventions and the campaign. (How did I spell relief? Alaska: a wonderful pilgrimage to Homer, hometown of Tom Bodette.)

Santa's bag of class news is nearly empty, so please take a few minutes to write as you savor the holiday season. We'll leave the light on for you.

Greetings from America's heartland. This year's Field of Dreams weekend in Dyersville features a team of past baseball greats coached by my favorite, Mickey Mantle, the Kansas phenom. In the aftermath of the Olympics and the failure of the Blue/Red channels, life has been pretty comfortable here in Iowa. The kids are back in school — Chris is a freshman at the local community college, and Claire starts the sixth grade in the middle school with the "older kids." Ann Marie just finished assistant directing Nunsense and is looking to audition for Blythe Spirit in the fall.

Now for the real reason for this missive — our fellow 73'ers. Since the U.S. presidential campaign seems to be in the news, I will start with the Arkansas Razorback, John Pagan, a King Dorm survivor. John, a law professor at the University of Arkansas, was quoted in a Knight-Ridder report about the "most qualified non-candidate," Hillary Clinton, and her popularity in her adoptive state. John, to the best of my recollection, has always been just a heartbeat away in the political game.

Now to a more scholarly segment. Mary Edwards Wertsch, former Daily Press reporter, has just seen her book, Military Brats: Legacies of Childhood Inside the Fortress, go into paperback (Fawcett Columbine, 480 pp.) The book has gotten favorable national reviews. Also in the publishing vein: John R. Vile, chair of the political science department at Middle Tennessee State University is publishing his second book on the U.S. Constitution, this time focusing on the amending process. This book is the culmination of a 10-years of work. By the way, John received his Ph.D. from the University of Virginia in 1977 and taught at McNeese State from 1977-89, where he was also chair of the department of social sciences for eight years. Wife Linda Christensen puts up with all this scholarly thought, along with daughters Virginia and Rebekah.

Swinging over to the West, we find Chris Bracken in San Antonio, Texas. Dr. B. and his recent bride, Mary Ann Gurkowski, are Assistant professors of anesthesiology at the University of Texas Health Center. Chris has been there five years. The first-time newlyweds are planning to move into a big new home to start off 1993 and in the meantime can be reached at 6838 Spring Manor, San Antonio, TX 78249.

William Rutledge, now a technical writer for the Unisys Corp. outside Philly, relocated from the Plains, Ga., area with his wife and two children. Bill worked in an outreach program in "Carter Country." He also acquired an M.S. in library science from the University of Maryland, now the home of our own "Coach," Mark Duffner '75.

Michael Strickler, a 1971 VMI grad and 1973 W&M master's grad, has been promoted to public relations director at Lexington, Va.'s, "other" school. Mike was SID at VMI for the past 15 years and his new position will combine duties from other positions in a streamlining process. Williard F. Robbins III, a.k.a. Bill, writes from Chesapeake, Va. (P.O. Box 6738, 23323), that his CPA firm in the Deep Creek section of Chesapeake has a hotline to the IRs, which he and his wife Karen (a Longwood College grad) will need when their eight deductions start the second through eighth tuition payments. Eldest son, Brad, is now a sophomore at the College.

From here in the Midwest, Cheryll J. Bull Leonard (1711 S. Raisin Center Highway, Adrian MI 492221) writes for the first time in 19 years. Cheryll and her husband, the equine veterinarian, live on a farm 30 miles south of Ann Arbor with their three sons, Andy, David and Chad — all teen-agers. They share the farm with a menagerie of horses, cats and dogs and possibly a future foster daughter. Cheryll pursued a graduate degree in clinical psychology, worked in Toledo, Ohio, in the juvenile court system and then found true love the second time around in Michigan. She also keeps her voice in tune in church choirs and a local opera company, which recently presented La Boheme and Carmen. Any W&M Choir alums should get in touch with Cheryll or, better yet, stop by Adrian for a few arias and a horseback ride.

Brian T. La Ferriere gets the long-distance award this time from London England (3 Bedford Road., London W4 1JD, United Kingdom). Brian hopped over from Zurich about two years ago and is currently in charge of marketing planning/automation for American Airlines, European Division. Despite the fast-paced, dog-eat-dog world of airline competition, Brian is planning on a little R&R at Homecoming '92.

This brings us to our final note: Our 20th Reunion is only a short 13 months away. A planning committee has been formed of classmates, chaired by the barrister, Andy Purdy. The august (?) group includes yours truly, Charley Wayne Banks, Dennis Belcher, Kermit Dance, Susan Harris Dovell, Peter Fitzgerald, Lorraine Gentile, Debra Prillaman, Jeffrey Trammell and Carolyn Craig Williams. Oct. 20-24, 1993, is just around the corner. Our headquarters hotel will be the Fort Magruder Inn. The planning committee will gather for the first time on Nov. 7, 1992, to start the ball rolling to a Monster Bash, or will it be Mash at No. 20? We'll keep you posted. Any suggestions are welcome.

Hey let's do this again on or around Jan. 15, 1993, for the March 1993 issue. Drop me a line or give me a call. Now that you all have your new Alumni Directory, the phone numbers should be easy. So don't be shy, give corresponding a try. Peace.

Greetings, everyone, from Badgerland, where fur coats have been more appropriate than bathing suits this summer. I'm just hoping my tomatoes ripen before the first snowfall.

One couple who may be able to identify with our summer, or lack thereof, is Happy and Ernie Copley. They've been living in Cumberland Center, Maine, since October '91 when Ernie became president of Brunswick Federal Savings. They were previously in Vienna, Va., for four years where Ernie was working for the Office of Thrift Supervision and getting his M.B.A. from George Mason. Happy was working as an information specialist for the Clearinghouse on Child Abuse and Neglect Information and became project director right before the big move. Happy is still consulting for Clearinghouse from Maine and hopes to find a library job in the near future.

The Copleys love the Maine lifestyle with no traffic, no crime and L.L. Bean only 10 minutes away. They've unearthed several alumni also within the boundaries of the state. Tracy Walker Wyman and David, with sons Jonathan, 13, and Benjamin, 8, have visited several times and provided tips on frostbite, snow shoveling and seasonal affective disorder. Joan Harrigan and husband Bill Butler live five hours north in Perry. Bill has a surgical practice in Calais. Cindy Garman was due for a visit from Lancaster, Pa., in August, and Carol Kendrick Vargo was in touch from Ohio wondering if anyone was coming to the 1993 reunion.

Mary Jordan Gregory Conway and her husband Mac (both '74) just moved from St. Louis to Moline, Ill., so Mac could take a job with John Deere. Welcome to the fold, or is that "herd," Mac, and thanks to the Copleys for all the news.

Another tale of pulling up stakes comes from Jim Harmon, who after 17 years is leaving New York City for Southampton, N.Y. He and his wife, Ann, are expecting their first child. Jim plans to continue his work as a recruiter for Wall Street, and Ann will transfer within her brokerage firm where she is a broker.

News came from Tom Markham of a great trip to Spain. He enjoyed the Expo in Sevilla and Olympic Village in Barcelona as well as beach time in Sitges and Palma de Mallorca while managing to do curriculum development for Goddard College in Vermont. Tom also mentioned hearing from Spanish House roommate Armando Justino '74, who is living in Fredericksburg, Va., and working in Milwaukee. Wife Martha Powell Justino '77 is holding down the fort, and coincidentally, she wrote about the same time with a request for any news of the whereabouts of Bob Conley, known to friends as BC. The Justinos' new address is 6109 Providence Court, Fredericksburg, VA 22407; 703/898-4575. Can anyone help?

Erik Rasmussen sent greetings from Lizard Island, Queensland, Australia. His wife and 3-year-old gave him a one-week pass to dive and snorkel there, and it's the best thing he's ever done!

Bill Smyth wrote that he is now coordinating all social studies programs for the 72 Charleston County schools and teaching at The Citadel and the College of Charleston. He and his wife, Frances, now have two daughters, Rebekah Carter Randolph, 1 1/2, and Sarah Allston DuPre, born in May.

Wedding bells rang for several classmates. Jerry Johnson married Ann Marie Brack on March 20, 1992. They live in Elburn, Ill., where Jerry is the director of the Garfield Farm Museum. Dr. Karen Rae Trimmer married Dr.

Richard Curtiss Ruebens on April 7, 1992. Karen has been a self-employed physician in Newport News and her husband is an oral surgeon from Seattle.

Elaine Justice married William Spinks Jr. on Jan. 25, 1992. Elaine is a media relations specialist at Emory University in Atlanta, and her husband is an account executive at Arkwright Mutual Insurance Co.

Edmond Dukes married Catherine Rivers on July 11, 1992. Edmond is an assistant professor of physics at U.Va.

John Gerdelman has become president and CEO of MCI Services Marketing Inc., a telemarketing firm formed by the merger this year of Pioneer TeleTechnologies Inc. and the telemarketing arm of MCI Telecommunications Corp. John has been with the company since 1989.

The Virginia Shakespeare Festival at W&M included two classmates this year. David Dudley served as technical director and production manager, and Tric Wesp '76 was production manager.

We are reminded by the Alumni Office to watch Mark Duffner as he builds a new football program at Maryland. Mark has stated that in addition to a program of honesty and great integrity, his ultimate goal is to graduate his players.

And finally, don't forget that Christmas cards are the perfect way to let us know what's going on with you. Include pictures, gossip, locks of hair, anything! Does anyone have a really good story about turning 40? On that note, I leave you until January.

Judging from the volume of mail (or lack thereof) I have received since the last column, I would have to guess that everyone had a busy summer. I hope folks weren't too busy to take part in the Homecoming festivities this month!

I did receive a letter from Kitty Dichtel Heffington in Newport News, where she and her husband Terry remain active with work, civic and community groups, and church activities. Kitty has been working at National Education Centers Inc. in Newport News since 1983, and has been executive director since 1985. The Newport News campus features medical and business curricula, with an average enrollment of 400 to 425 students. Kitty was nominated for the 1992 Virginia Peninsula Chamber of Commerce Small-Business Women in Business Advocate Award this spring. She and Terry attended an education reception at the Governor's Mansion in July.

Once again, the Alumni Office has helped me fill in what may have otherwise been one of the shortest columns in the history of the Alumni Gazette! While students at W&M, Beth Rutgers and Scott Wheeler '78 worked in the Williamsburg hospitality industry. They later used this experience and their expertise to start a small business called Hotelvision 11 years ago in Williamsburg. The enterprise is now known as the Vacation Channel, and it provides information about local attractions and dining options and other attractions and opportunities for tourists via a closed-circuit channel in more than 40 Williamsburg area hotels. The informational video program is followed by the 1957 cinematic classic, Williamsburg: The Story of a Patriot. Another branch of the Vacation Channel provides similar services for the Outer Banks of North Carolina. The parent company for the Vacation Channel is Metro Video Productions, which has offices and studios in Williamsburg and Richmond. Metro Video Productions produces sales and marketing programs, training videos and TV commercials.

Peter Spellmeyer is another classmate who has used his college part-time work experience as a means to develop a full-time career. Peter began working at Shaia Oriental Rugs while a student at W&M. After graduation, he worked his way up through the ranks, and is now the owner of Shaia Oriental Rugs of Virginia Beach.

Joe Vasapoli of Arlington announced his candidacy for Virginia's 8th Congressional District earlier this year. Joe previously served as counsel for the Energy and Commerce Com-

ALUMNUS CHAIRS STATE BAR SECTION

Michael F. Urbanski '78 of Roanoke has been selected chair of the Virginia State Bar's Antitrust, Franchise and Trade Regulation Section. Urbanski graduated from the College with high honors and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He later received his law degree from the University of Virginia. After serving as law clerk to The Honorable James C. Turk, U.S. District Court, Western District of Virginia, Urbanski worked for the law firm of Vinson & Elkins in Washington, D.C. He has been an associate for Woods, Rogers, & Hazlegrove since 1984 and was previously a member of the section's board of governors.

STOTTLEMYER NAMED COMPANY VICE PRESIDENT

Todd Stottlemeyer '85 has been promoted to vice president of government and public affairs and corporate attorney at BDM International Inc. headquarters in McLean, Va. Stottlemeyer graduated with a B.A. in government and was elected to Phi Beta Kappa. He continued his education at Georgetown University Law Center where he graduated cum laude. BDM International Inc. provides professional and technical services to public and private clients in national defense and security, transportation, communication, energy, logistics, product distribution and certain other areas. In his new position, he is responsible for BDM's government relations, public affairs and media relations, and he serves as chair of the BDM political action committee. Stottlemeyer is currently a member of the Professional Services Council's Government Affairs Committee and the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce's board of directors. He is also chair of the Northern Virginia Technology Council's Legislative Affairs Committee and is a graduate of Leadership Fairfax.

mittee in the U.S. House of Representatives and as a policy adviser to the U.S. Department of Energy.

On the state government level, Malfourd "Bo" Trumbo, of Virginia's 22nd Senatorial District, was the guest speaker for the annual Memorial Day observance at Birchlawn Cemetery. Bo and his family live in Fincastle, where he has served as a teacher and coach at Bath County High School and president-elect of the Bath County Education Association. He began his legislative career in 1983 after being elected to the House of Delegates. In 1991 he was elected to the State Senate and currently serves on the Court of Justice, Transportation and Rehabilitation and Social Services committees.

Jefferson K. Teass of the Vinton Chiropractic Clinic in Vinton, Va., is president-elect of the Virginia Chiropractic Association. The VCA is the largest statewide association in Virginia representing doctors of chiropractic. Jeff is currently serving as vice president and will begin his term of office as president in January 1994. He received his doctorate of chiropractic from Palmer College of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa.

I have two final tidbits about members of the Class of 1977. Jerry Samford has been promoted to principal of Virginia Geotechnical Services in Richmond. Mee Cotrill Economou has returned to the hallowed halls of our alma mater to work toward a master's degree in museum education.

That's all I have for this time. I hope to get a lot of firsthand news from many of you at Homecoming. If for some reason you don't make it to Williamsburg for our 15th reunion, you can still see your name in bold print if you drop me a short note at the address above. My next deadline is Jan. 16, so let me hear from you before then!

Can you believe that fall is upon us already? It seems like it was just Memorial Day and now it is time for Homecoming! Time does fly. ...

Everyone please note the new address — I finally made it back to the Burg! The students certainly look younger than WE did.

I recently had a visit from Meg Lewis and husband David Sebberson. Meg and David live in St. Cloud, Minn., and were visiting family and friends en route to a D.C. conference. Meg is a professor of economics and thoroughly enjoying life in the Midwest.

Cheryl Morris Mounce is celebrating 10 years as comptroller for an investment firm in Richmond by taking a trip to Bermuda. Cheryl and husband Dale, who is a commercial egg producer, reside in Richmond with their two children.

Nancy Nielsen Sital and husband Ed '77 welcomed their second child, Owen Edward, this past March. Young Owen weighed just under TEN pounds. The Sitalers currently live in beautiful Manassas.

Nelda Casper Clelland and husband Jim have been settled in Catonsville, Md., for several years and had their second son, Philip James, on April 15, 1992. Nelda has taken an indefinite leave from full-time engineering to concentrate on Philip and 3-year-old Douglas. She does find time for two part-time jobs and to head up the Westinghouse National Corporate Running Team in conjunction with Jim. Nelda is the organist at Catonsville Presbyterian Church and a field hockey official for schools in Baltimore County. She also keeps in touch with Bruce Jones, who is in Chicago and recently became a father for the second time.

Martha Schirmer Struxness and husband Greg moved from D.C. to Portland, Ore., in May 1991. Their first child, Abigail, was born June 19, 1991, and is proud to be a native Oregonian, like her Dad. Martha loves Oregon and is happy to have both sets of grandparents in the same state.

Judge Birdie Hairston Jamison was named a Richmond general district court judge, effective December 1991. Birdie, who also received her law degree from the College, had been a Richmond deputy commonwealth's attorney since July 1990. She previously worked in private practice and as an assistant commonwealth's attorney in Roanoke. She has also been an assistant in the criminal litigation division of the state attorney general's office. Birdie was this year's keynote speaker at the annual Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. celebration held at the College. She received the Drum Major for Justice Award Plaque from the school.

Dave Rizzo has been named president of the newly formed Heron Inc., a technology services company headquartered in Charlotte, N.C. Heron Inc. will specialize in technology consulting, project management, systems integration, training and documentation. Dave has been with IBM Charlotte since 1986 and involved with Junior Achievement of Charlotte, the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce and United Way.

Jeri Watts gave a reading of her short stories at a Local Writers Reading program at the Rockbridge Regional Library. Jeri teaches elementary school in Lexington and writes humor, non-fiction articles and children's stories.

Susan Arnot Heaney wrote with news of her recent New York City wedding. A week-long blizzard ended two days before the March 28 event and brought sunny and warm weather. Fellow Phi Mus attending the wedding included Missie Murdock Kates '78, Laura Fisher DeFlora '80, Bonnie Pobiner '80 and Deidre Mullane '80. John Adams was in Spain producing a TV commercial but flew to New York ahead of schedule to make it to the wedding. Susan and husband Kevin honeymooned in Florence, Italy, and have settled into a new and very large apartment.

Have a great fall and send me news!

This will be my last column as your class reporter as I cede the position to classmate Patti Stevens Hazard. Patti also lives in Orlando with her family and is a founder and first president of the Central Florida Chapter of the William and Mary Alumni Society, a position I will be taking for the 1992-1993 year.

In other news, author Kathryn Thompson is finishing her law degree at John Marshall Law School in Chicago. Kathryn was a speaker at the Patrick Hayes Writer's Festival at W&M on April 8-10. She is an author of published poems and other fiction including her first book, Close Your Eyes and Think of Dublin: Portrait of a Girl.

Laird Lile has joined the law firm of Goodman Breen and Lile with offices in Naples, Fla., and Marco Island, Fla. Laird is a board certified estate planning and probate attorney and holds an L.L.M. in estate planning from the University of Miami.

Lynn Norenberg Barry was inducted into the Athletic Hall of Fame at William and Mary earlier this year. After her many athletic achievements and awards at W&M, Lynn went to the NCAA working as an enforcement representative and now is assistant executive director of USA Basketball. Lynn married basketball Hall of Famer Rick Barry last August and resides in Colorado Springs, Colo.

Margaret Ann Samuels Garner was recently named marketing officer at the National Bank of Fredericksburg.

Roxie O. Rosemond became an associate of the firm of Joel Cunningham, Halifax Attorney. She has been employed as an assistant commonwealth's attorney in the cities of Norfolk, Chesapeake and Portsmouth. Roxie plans to work in the private sector and concentrate mostly in the areas of criminal law, personal injury and bankruptcy.

Christopher B. Hockett has become a member of the San Francisco firm of McCutchen, Doyle, Brown & Emersen. He specializes in commercial litigation antitrust laws and appeals.

Debbie Watson Campana and Jeff Campana have moved again. Since graduation they have lived in Pittsburgh, Pa.; Alexandria, Cambridge, Mass.; Royal Oak, Mich.; and Pleasanton, Calif. They headed back to Michigan where Jeff works for General Motors Pontiac Division and Debbie will seek a part-time position in telecommunications system analysis. Jeff and Debbie have two sons: Brian, 5; and Kyle, 2-1/2.

Nancy Barbee Candeto and her husband Jim live in DeBary, Fla. with their sons Jason, 3, and David Russell, born in February.

Susan Helms Bingham writes that she graduated with her J.D. from Stetson University College of Law on May 9. Susan lives in St. Petersburg, Fla., with her husband Bruce, a dog and a cat, and at last word was studying for the Florida bar exam and job-hunting. Susan wants to find out where Jan Scongers is hiding... Congratulations, Susan.

Bill and Cheryl McCulla were due to return to the United States in July after living in Port Moresby, Papua New Guinea for two years with their children Evan, 7, and Nora, 5. Bill worked there as a foreign service officer at the U.S. Embassy. They are returning to the U.S. for language training (Polish) before Bill's next position at the U.S. Embassy in Warsaw. If in the U.S., they are going to try their best to make it to reunion No. 15! Thanks for writing!

On that note, I will close with best wishes. I have enjoyed this experience for the last eight years and thank everyone for keeping in touch, personalizing their letters to me, and keeping our shared bond of William and Mary together. So keep those cards and letters coming to Patti Stevens Hazard at: 2845 Tech Drive, Orlando, FL 32817-2465.

Late summer greetings to everyone! By the time you read this edition of the Alumni Gazette, fall will be here and the holidays just around the corner. It's hard to believe that my daughter Marissa Jo, will celebrate her first birthday on Dec. 2 and that I've been back to work since July. I still recall (vividly, I might add) being pregnant. Well, enough rambling about me...

Since I unfortunately missed the last column deadline (sorry, folks but you took a back seat to Marissa), there's lots of news to report. However, before launching into a great report from classmate Ramona Kledzik Williams, I wanted to start plugging our 10th-year class reunion. No, it's not this year (1992), but since next year's Homecoming Weekend is also the College's 300th birthday celebration, work has already begun on the 1993 class reunions.

By now, you should have received a note from me regarding the preliminary schedule for Homecoming 1993, including a special birthday celebration at Busch Gardens. Since this event occurs on Saturday evening, class events ordinarily scheduled for Saturday will be held instead on Friday. So plan now on getting an early start to the Burg to catch our class event. As far as that goes, I've received enthusiastic responses from several classmates to serve on the reunion planning committee. Besides myself, committee members are: Elizabeth Young-Kirksey, Bob Newman, Chrys Lonick-Dermody and Sue Newman. I continue to receive additional offers to help, and if I haven't gotten back in touch with you personally, one of the committee members eventually will take you up on your offer to help in some way (contacting other classmates, publicizing the event locally, etc.). Again, thanks for all the offers.

I've asked committee members to start soliciting ideas regarding what type of reunion activity is appealing to most folks, so if you have any ideas, please let one of us know. We're scheduled to attend a reunion planning workshop in November and would like to come armed with a lot of ideas. Also, over the next several months, you'll receive more letters from the committee with specific details as they develop. Remember, this is your event; we're just facilitating the planning process, so it's up to you to let us know what you're interested in doing. And finally, remember to return those hotel reservations early.

Now back to the news from Ramona. In 1988, Ramona married Mark Williams, who actually flew her to Paris to propose. The Williamses moved to Charleston, S.C. where Mark completed his residency and Ramona had her own PR firm. Last year, Ramona and Mark relocated to Macon, Ga., where Mark opened his medical practice. Over the years, they've done some traveling, including Eastern Europe when the wall "came down." Besides East Germany they also visited Poland. As Ramona describes, "imagine a place where hardly anyone even has a telephone" (which is very hard for me to imagine, given my nine-year career with Bell of Pennsylvania) and where all the shops are empty, toilets don't work, and there is no coffee, let alone sugar. On a much more positive note, Ramona shared her biggest news that she and Mark celebrated the birth of their first child, Olivia Alice, in April.

Regarding other classmates, Ramona had more news to offer. Actually, both she and Sue Newman (in a separate conversation) mentioned that Judy Spooner Carpenter and husband Rob just had their third child, John Robert. Rob is finishing up his general surgery residence in Rochester, N.Y., and will be beginning his plastic surgery fellowship at Johns Hopkins next year.

Ramona recently got together with Donna Hajost Jacobson in Atlanta, where Donna indicated that she and husband Jeff were expecting their first baby this winter. In more Atlanta news, Greg Park got married in April and is living in a beautiful new home that he and his wife had built. Similar story for Ann Durant, who got married earlier this year and has also made Atlanta her home.

Still staying with the Atlanta theme but not part of Ramona's news, I received word from the Alumni House that Jennifer Wrigley Farnham and her husband have also moved to Atlanta. The Farnhams have two daughters: Kimberly (born in March 1991) and Sarah (born in July 1992).

Back to Ramona's letter. News of classmates' pregnancies included Becky Rogers Voslow and her husband Mike, who are expecting their first baby in a few months, and Amy Hunt, who lives out West on a ranch with her husband and daughter Kathleen, and is pregnant with their second child.

Celebrating recent births are Jeff Carr and

To all of you who carry and use the William & Mary MasterCard

Did You Know?

Your support of the William and Mary MasterCard helps to support alumni programs and services like Homecoming, chapter events, faculty and student awards, and even this Alumni Gazette.

Thank you to all who carry and use the William and Mary MasterCard. For information on how you too can support William and Mary in this unique way, contact the Office of Society Services, Society of the Alumni, P.O. Box 2100, Williamsburg, VA 23187-2100 or call 804/221-1170.

Now you can hear the play-by-play action of Tribe football and basketball. Through a service called TEAMLINE, you can dial an 800 number and listen to the live broadcast from William and Mary's sports radio station. Here's how: At game time dial the TEAMLINE at 1-800-846-4700. Then simply follow the computer prompts and punch in on the phone keypad, the information requested for the Tribe. The extension number for William and Mary is 1097. Have your VISA or MasterCard available and listen as long as you like to the live action of the Tribe. The longer you listen, the less it costs. You are charged by the minute on a declining retro-active rate card. (The first minute is $.50; if you listen for two minutes, they are both $.4985; and so on.) A three-hour football game will cost $35.60, and a two-hour basketball game will cost $30.50. Stop by simply hanging up, and pay for your calls on your next credit card payment. Call back as often as you wish. There is no minimum call length or subscription fee. The TEAMLINE is available at any time.

his wife Laura. Their child, Dabney Jefferson Carr V, will go by "Quint." Bob Laverty and his wife Beth had their second son this spring. Monique Miller Bonner is enjoying being a mother to Kelsey, who is about a year old now. Monique is working as an occupational therapist. Her husband Keith is a trial lawyer, and they live in Bethesda, Md. Rob Schmidt is also happily married and living in Colorado, where he is an emergency room physician and his wife is finishing up her residency in pediatrics. Also in Colorado is Laura Gaudian Kastetter and her husband, Todd. Both are attorneys and have recently become homeowners in Denver.

Still reporting from Ramona's letter, John Johnson, after getting married in July, will be starting the M.B.A. program at the Wharton School (in my neck of the woods) this fall, but he still doesn't like vegetables. And finally, Ramona reports that with the opening of her company's new London office, Carolyn Scott is becoming an international jet setter. She commutes back and forth, handling Micro Analytic's marketing on both continents.

Since Ramona concluded her note by asking me about the whereabouts of Betsy Beasley Zolper, let me share some news from Betsy herself. Writes Betsy, she and husband John have bought a house in Albuquerque with a hot tub (very important for after-ski soaks). The Zolpers celebrated the birth of their baby boy, John Carey Zolper Jr., last April.

I also received a birth announcement from Rita Ward Fucella and husband Joe. Child No. 3, Timothy Joseph Fucella, was born in March. The Fucellas expect to be in Charlottesville until May 1993, while Joe is at U.Va. working on his Ph.D. in environmental sciences.

News from another W&M couple: Karen and Glenn Ruffner. Can you believe that their daughter Helen turns 9 this year and that they celebrated their 11th wedding anniversary! Glenn still works for AT&T in Herndon, where he enjoys his job as a software developer; Karen absolutely loves home-schooling their five children: Helen, 9; Nathan 7; David 5; Anne 3; and little Mary, 1.

News from the Alumni Society included articles about several classmates. Dorothea Shannon, Greenville County superintendent has been appointed by Gov. Wilder of Virginia to his Workforce 2000 Advocacy Council, charged with providing and promoting greater interaction between business and education. Sounds like a neat opportunity!

John Mitrovic, director of the Williamsburg Physical Therapy and Sports Therapy Center and a licensed physical therapist, is now a certified athletic trainer after completing rigorous exams as well as a 1,500-hour internship over a two-year period. Congratulations, John!

Also in a neat position, Sue Newman is now director of communications with the corporate offices of the YMCA in Walnut Creek, Calif. Her responsibilities include all internal and external communications, media relations and press relations. Thanks to the Macintosh, I'm receiving very creative, artistic letters from Sue, complete with computer-generated pictures inserted in all the paragraphs.

Speaking of pictures, I received such a beautiful wedding snapshot from Tracey Brownlee Carney '85. Tracey and Clay Carner were married last October on a gorgeous autumn day. The two met at Price Waterhouse.

I also received a very interesting letter from Jonathan Streeter, who's been working with the federal government for more than eight years. He is currently an international marketing specialist at the Commerce Department's International Trade Administration, where he concentrates on helping U.S. high-tech firms gain access to foreign markets, most notably Japan.

Despite the long hours and hard work, Jonathan has been very active in community volunteer work. For a while, he taught English at night to Hispanic immigrants, and for the last four years, he has been working with people with AIDS. As part of his job, Jonathan has done quite a lot of traveling. This year, he has already been to London, Paris, Madrid, Vienna, Budapest, Montreal and New York. His travel schedule reminds me of Michele Martin Grossman's itinerary. Michele and her husband Bob visited our Bucks County home in June, when Michele had a break in her schedule before preparing for a month's stay in Barcelona during the Summer Olympics.

I think I've exhausted all the news for now. My next deadline is Jan. 15, so I hope I receive lots of holiday cards before then. In the meantime, take care and be good! Remember, our 10th-year reunion is just around the corner.

Thanks for all of your letters. We have a lot of news this time...

Ron and Annette Blackman Harlow have moved to Atlanta with their 3-year-old daughter, Melissa, and their new son, Austin. Great contacts for the Olympics!

Laurie Cogswell Barbagallo has been busy since graduation. She married Michael Barbagallo in July 1988 and they had a son, John William, on May 31, 1991. Laurie teaches math at Loudoun Valley High School and lives in Bluemont, Va.

Brad Staubes is now living in New York after a stint in Washington, D.C. While in D.C. Brad sang with the Washington Opera for several seasons, along with Lance Humphries '84 and several other alums. He also sang as a cantor at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception on the campus of Catholic University. In addition, he taught private piano and voice lessons.

Brad gave up life in the nation's capital for life in the Big Apple where he never seems to stop working. Brad conducts an all-girls high school choir, cantors at a Catholic Church, works in two antique stores and SHOPS. Actually, Brad works for an interior decorator and hunts for antiques, fixtures, fabrics, wallpaper, etc. Brad himself recently purchased a 1928 reproduction of a William and Mary period schoolmaster's desk, used in the Wren Building until at least 1955. Brad bought the desk at the W&M - New York auction at Christie's in February, where he saw Gary Cowling '84.

Dwight Smith is now also an alumnus of the University of North Carolina. He graduated from the Kenan-Flagler Business School with an M.B.A. this spring. While in the program Dwight spent a semester in Montreal at McGill University on exchange. Last summer he toured British Columbia as a break between his first and second years of studying.

It was great to hear from one of my freshman hallmates, Kelly Jackson Higgins. Kelly married Darcy Higgins three years ago in September. Darcy worked as an environmental consultant for a few years and in 1989 got his master's in physical therapy at ODU. After working as a reporter for Communications Week, Kelly is now a free-lance writer for various publications. And, in exciting news, Kelly and Darcy are expecting their first child Oct. 8. They now live in the Charlottesville area. Kelly keeps in touch with freshman roommate Anita Straupeniaks, who is an accountant in Seattle.

Another hallmate, Kieran Gorman, is a radiology resident at Case Western Reserve University Hospital in Cleveland. She married Danny Cross (whom she met at the Green Leaf!) at the University of Virginia chapel. Danny and Kieran live in Bratenahl, Ohio.

The Kappa Alphas have been busy making babies: Chip Tsantes '80 and his wife, Miriam, have a new baby, Alyssa Miriam, born in July. Jeff Kane-Seitz '83 and his wife, Marie, also have a newborn, Zachary Andrew, born in May. Steve Waltrich '81 and his wife, Peggy, had a son, Joseph, this summer, who will hopefully be a seafaring lad. Bob Nicol '83 and his wife, Shelley, have a second daughter, Kimberly.

Catherine Kelly Andrews has an M.A. in chemistry from Montclair State College in New Jersey. In 1988 she married Stephen Andrews and this past May they had their first child, Virginia Marie.

Laura Cushman is a newlywed. She married David Sturdevant this past June in Gloucester, Mass. Attending the wedding were: Lynne Jackson, Susan Kren Cook and her husband Ed, and Maria and John Schisa. Laura and David bought a house on Cape Ann and are planning on staying there a long time!

Arlene Armilla Campbell is a new mother.

Kenneth E. Powell '83 M.L.T., an attorney with the Richmond law firm of Hazel & Thomas, recently traveled to the Republic of Georgia with a 14-member delegation of American businesspeople to examine the country's transitional phase toward a market economy. Responsible for surveying the climate for the development of small businesses, Powell and others established three priorities to assist the Georgian economy, including creation of an enterprise fund that will attempt to generate money inside Georgia, and from the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund; establishment of an information clearinghouse that will provide practical information about a free enterprise system; and creation of a commission composed of small businesspeople and government officials that will report directly to the legislature. The team spent five days acclimating themselves to the country prior to meeting with top-level government officials to discuss topics that ranged from agribusiness to manufacturing, tourism, financial services and communications.

She had her second son, Luke Armilla, in April. Her elder son, Shane, is now 2 years old. Arlene received a visit from Nan Shanley Cunningham '86, her husband, Jay, and their toddler, Lindsay. Arlene is living in Charlottesville where her husband, Pat is finishing up law school.

Jeff "Zeke" Brockman is a full-time master of divinity student in Louisville, Ky., and pastor of the Rolling Fork Baptist Church. After graduation in May 1993 Jeff will pursue either a Ph.D. in theology or work in a nontraditional, nondenominational church setting. For vacation this year, Jeff traveled in Switzerland, France and Italy in May.

Jim Chappell and his wife, Kim '88 moved from Virginia to Vermont. Kim finished her M.A. in education at W&M and is now certified to teach secondary school social studies. Jim received his M.D. from Eastern Virginia Medical School. Jim is now in surgery residency at the University of Vermont. They would love to have visitors as they are within 45 minutes of eight major ski areas.

Jim and Kim visited Kent '86 and Kathy Redmond '87 in San Francisco recently. Kathy is now a manager for KPMG Peat Marwick, and Kent is a supervisor in the claims adjustment division of Amica Insurance.

Jim and Kim also attended the wedding of Pilar Astruc '88 to Jack Moore in Richmond. After honeymooning in Spain, Pilar and Jack returned to their jobs as accountant and computer systems guru, respectively. Jim and Kim also see a lot of Leigh Derickson Lazaron '90 and her husband Lou (Marshall-Wythe '89). Leigh is an accountant in Norfolk and Lou is an attorney. Jennifer Sanford '88 and her husband Rick also live in Norfolk. Jennifer works with NView and Rick is an aviator with the Navy. Mike Zwickbauer is now in his fourth year of surgery residency at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center.

Nancy Hildreth is now a newlywed. She married Jim Anthony this past May in Fairfax, Va. Her attendants included Raiford Thompson Black and Cathy Ondis. Among the guests were Mary Kaye Benton Cochran '83, Alison Chapple Scott and her husband, Ed, and Jeanne Lindner Koch. After honeymooning in Europe for three weeks, the couple returned to Centreville, Va.

Robert Zaza is serving as an intelligence officer at Camp Casey, Korea, but expects to be stationed at Fort Hood, Texas, in October. In December 1989 he attended the commissioning of David Platte '87 as an ensign in the U.S. Navy. David got his pilot's wings this March and will be flying A-6s. Before leaving the States, Robert spent some spare time helping Chris Bell '87 with herpetology projects at Northern Arizona University. Chris has a master's in quaternary studies and was recently accepted to the doctorate program in integrative biology at the University of California in Berkeley.

Ginger Baskett had the honor to be part of the Fulbright Teacher Exchange Program. She will spend a year teaching English as a second language in Verdun, France, while her counterpart from France will live in Ginger's apartment in Norfolk and teach French. Ginger will be teaching kids at the 10th to 12th grade level.

Michael Patrick recently received his master's degree in architecture with highest honors from the University of Texas. Michael originally spent one semester at Rice University School of Architecture after graduation from W&M. He then traveled through 40 states with his friend Michael Burns. His next adventure was as a "custom kitchen designer," the trade he used to put himself through grad school. Michael is hoping to find a job overseas.

Susan Scharpf married Rusty Gentry in February 1991 at the Wren Chapel. Laurie Thornton '84 was the matron of honor, having flown out from Colorado with her husband, Ernie Stefely. Susan finished her residency in family practice at Overlook Family Practice in Summit, N.J., this summer and moved back to Richmond. Susan will be joining two other women family physicians at Village Green Family Medicine. Her husband, Rusty is in electrical/technical work. Susan is looking forward to being right down the road from her friend Kay Gross, who is a practicing veterinarian in Richmond.

Dwayne Petty is back in the U.S. after spending two years as a Baptist missionary in Korea.

While in Korea, Dwayne met his wife, and they now have a 7-month-old son. Tony McNeal was Dwayne's best man. Dwayne is now living in San Francisco, where he is the pastor of a mission church and is attending seminary.

Leigh McDaniel, who was also in Korea, married Elias Sahiouny in February in Louisville. My news from her is rather old, but I hope her attempts at learning Arabic and belly-dancing are going well...

Marna Ashburn Krajieski is still at home with her 20-month-old daughter, Ellen, squeezing in some free-lance writing when she can. Her husband, Paul, was recently on the McNeil/Lehrer report in a segment about Army force reductions. He is a captain in the U.S. Army assigned to the Old Guard.

Marna and Elena traveled to Montana and Indiana to visit relatives this summer. She reported that Marsha Youngblood Clinton and her husband, Steve, had a second baby, Joseph Williams, in March. Mary Willis Jones Page is pregnant and due in March. She and her husband Tommy took a trip to the Caribbean this summer.

Angela Hussey Owens is anticipating her third child! She, her husband Kevin, son Sam and daughter Molly live in Ft. Lewis, Wash., where she says "it rains all the time." Kevin and Angela went to Hawaii for 10 days while grandma watched the kids.

Jonah Stein and Donna Duka Hurwitz are also expecting. Kris Wagner Rarig moved to Colorado Springs with her husband, Jeff, and children, Amy and Katie.

Wendy Thomas passed the bar in California and is moving to L.A. Nancy Krafft Moyer is still working long hours at Mid-Atlantic Cable Co. Susan Hudgins Hood is busy studying for her R.N. degree in Fayetteville, N.C. She also has a job teaching ice skating at the Ft. Bragg rink. John Bessler lives down the street from Susan at Ft. Bragg. Marna ran into Alex Cochran '86, who is living in Northern Virginia with his wife, Irene. Mary Ellen Wogend is getting married next month.

Alan Ashworth was awarded the Chartered Financial Analyst designation by the trustees of the Institute of Chartered Financial Analysts.

Jeffrey Doyon married Frances Mixon in July in Greenville, S.C. Jeffrey is a project manager for CSX/Sea-Land Logistics in Alexandria, and Frances is a special education teacher in Falls Church.

Julie Palmer married Jeff Kipers last December at the Ft. Eustis Memorial Chapel in Newport News. Jeff is a captain in the U.S. Army and the couple moved to Germany in May. Attending the wedding were: Carolyn Hayes '89 and Joan Palmer (bridesmaids), and Cheryl Toth '90, Gwen Newman Finchman '89, Kristin May '89, Tasha Norris '91.

Mark Kelso was in the news again. He finished second to Cincinnati offensive tackle Anthony Munoz in voting for NFL Man of the Year. Mark is a free safety for the Buffalo Bills.

Margaret Harwood is engaged to John Cowan and planning a February 1993 wedding at the Wren Chapel. Margaret works at Global Asset Management, while John owns his own photography company in New York.

John Matthews received a Ph.D. in the history of science at Duke University in May.

Eric Peterson, living in Philadelphia and working as a computer specialist, recently finished a term as conductor of the Philadelphia Freedom Band by organizing a concert in conjunction with the national conference of Lesbian and Gay Bands of America, which the band hosted. The concert featured a massed band of LGBA members from around the country, which Eric conducted in the premiere of John Caldwell's "Threnody," an AIDS memorial.

Mary Mitchell was recently promoted to vice president, management supervisor at Ogilvy & Mather Advertising in New York. Her roommate, Kathy Fillipone, is working in the rare books and manuscripts department at Christie's auction house. Kathy saw Jen Cox, who was in town for a business meeting. Jen still lives in Louisville, where she is a counselor.

Anne Sorensen Shaver and her husband, Dave, are back from Singapore and living in New Jersey. Anne started school in June for a master's in education.

LEE S. PIATT ADDRESSES BULGARIAN OFFICIALS

Lee S. Piatt '77 recently traveled to Sofia Bulgaria to participate in a seminar entitled "Rebuilding Law and Life on a Firm Foundation." After earning his bachelor's degree from the College, Piatt received his law degree at the University of Pennsylvania Law School. While in Sofia, Piatt met with Bulgarian lawyers and discussed the possible formation of a Bulgarian-American legal association to facilitate relationships between the Bulgarian and American legal communities. He is a partner in the law firm of Rosenn, Jenkins & Greenwald in Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and resides in Dallas, Pa., with his wife, Meryth, and their children, Abyson and Caleb.

ALUMNI WILL RECEIVE TERCENTENARY CALENDAR

All alumni and close friends of the College will receive a beautiful 28-page, 14 by 10 inch four-color Tercentenary year calendar as a gift from William and Mary in December. Primarily historical in orientation and focusing on the Sir Christopher Wren Building and the Ancient Campus, the calendar will also contain a schedule of Tercentenary events. The calendar, which has a message from President Sullivan, will be mailed to alumni and friends in mid-November.

Ann Searle is back in New York from Ogilvy & Mather's Paris office and currently living in Greenwich Village.

John Boyd and his wife, Amy Caramanica Boyd, are moving from Charlottesville to Tidewater. John is a senior account representative with Vitex Packaging; Amy works for a bank. Tom '87 and Julie Wallace Dunn '88 moved to the Big Apple at the end of the summer. Tom is a recent graduate of Duke Law School and Julie of the UNC/Chapel Hill Business School.

Mike Bracken '86 and his wife, Jen, had their first child, Christopher Michael, in March. Maryellen Farmer Feeley and her husband, Ed, had a baby girl, Caroline, in April. Mary Kach Chapin and her husband, Doug, also had a girl, Ellen Jean in January. Mary Hallahan Kushan and Jeff had a girl, Catherine Elizabeth, in February.

Valerie Stiffler Suessmith '84 and her husband, Hank, who are living in Atlanta, had a boy, Donald Charles Suessmith III, in June. Also in June, Dan and J.J. Johnson Head had a son, Brian Daniel.

Megan Dowd and her husband had a little girl, Kate, in April. Cynthia and Bart Edmunds had a baby girl, Morgan Adair, in May. And last but not least, Scott and Lilo Ukrop are expecting their bundle of joy in the fall.

Henry Garnett Plaster III and Elizabeth Christine Bruns tied the knot in Washington on May 30. Mark Franko served as best man, ushers included Dan Head and Bart Edmunds; Alison Sellin and Tracy Sinnott offered their singing talents. The gathering included lots of W&M guests: Doug Neal '86 flew in from Hawaii with Hawaiian orchid wedding leis. Bill Sykes '87 was getting ready for his move to Virginia Beach where he'll be working as a stockbroker. Other W&M notables included Judy Norman, Jim and Karen Rogers Calpin '87, Dave Redmond '86, Adam Anthony, Andy Morse '80, John and Amy Boyd, Gregg Crump and soon-to-be Tricia Gertsner Crump, Rob and Lori Selden Haslip '84, J.J. Johnson Head '84, Scott and Lilo Ukrop, J. D. Neary, Doug and Mary Kach Chapin, Momo and Jane Knott Powell, Jeff and Mary Hallahan Kishan, and Chuck and Tracy Krauthelm Murray. Henry and Christi flew to Wyoming for their honeymoon. Then it was back to work, Henry at the White House where he is working in legislative affairs, and Christi to the World Business Council where she plans international conferences in exciting places like Italy and Morocco.

J. D. Neary and Tracy Sinnott hosted a picnic lunch before Henry and Christi's 6 p.m. wedding which was attended by many future W&Mers including: Katharine Kushan, daughter of Jeff and Mary; Jeffrey Powell, son of Jane and Mike; Ellen Chapin, daughter of Mary and Doug; and Spencer Murray, son of Chuck and Tracy K. Murray, who at 8 months had completely mastered the art of walking. Unfortunately, Claire Haislip had a previous engagement but her Mom and Dad, Rob and Lori Haislip, did have a great "brag book" complete with photos of Claire coming home from the hospital on Christmas day in a stocking!

Lisa West '84 married Mark Alpert, a Princeton grad, on June 6 in Harbor Springs, Mich., at Deck of the Little Traverse Yacht Club with the sun setting over Lake Michigan as background. Among the guests were Mary Mitchell; Margie Krebs; Scotty Olsen; Judy Kavjian, who was maid-of-honor; Julie O'Neill Kloof, who's busy with her two beautiful boys, Jay and Ian, in Pittsburgh; Julie Berringer, who's a banker in Chicago; and Sandy Desilvio, who's expecting her second baby, soon to join daughter Megan. Sandy and her husband are both podiatrists in Toledo, Ohio.

Gregg Crump and Tricia Gerstner were wed on June 27 in Stamford, Conn. Many alumni were on hand for the event. Bill and Susan Davis Garvey flew in from Charlotte, N.C., to spend some time in the Big Apple with Alison Sellin before heading north for the nuptials. Susan had just passed her seventh (in a series of 10) insurance exams, so a little celebrating was called for! Bill is very happy working in sales for International Paper.

Also on hand for the big event were: Bill Sykes, who drove up from Virginia Beach; Henry Plaster (whose wife of three weeks, Christi, had to be away on a business trip);

Tracy Sinnott and J. D. Neary came from D.C. Lori and Rob Haislip and Lilo and Scott Ukrop came from Richmond, Tom and Julie Clouser Simpson came from Philadelphia, Dave and Anne Sorensen Shaver came from New Jersey, Amy and John Boyd came from Charlottesville, and Mary Mitchell came from the Upper East Side. A reception followed the wedding at the Stamford Art Museum. The W&M group photo was taken by a 10 foot-high and very interesting sculpture of a devil! Lucky Gregg and Tricia honeymooned in Greece.

Waiting in the wings in the wedding category is Jeff McQuilkin, who's engaged to Suzy Apperson and is planning an April 1993 wedding in Washington.

News from Washington, D.C.: All reports are good from Michael and Jane Knott Powell and their little boy, Jeffrey, who's now 3 years old. Mike will be clerking for a federal judge in D.C. when he graduates from Georgetown Law School next spring. Jane is still working away in convention and expo planning in Northern Virginia and is active with the Stevan Greenwood Foundation.

Jane and Mike were out in Southern California last year and spent some time catching up with Paul Libassi.

Tracy Sinnott, who's still with Aetna working on legislative affairs, recently bought a house in Alexandria. She was very involved again this year as an organizer for the Washington, D.C., "Race for the Cure" — a 5K with an anticipated 25,000 runners — to aid breast cancer research.

Tracy Wright has finished law school and is back working in D.C. and living in Arlington.

Jeff Mosher is an environmental scientist with Wade Miller Associates in Washington; he and his wife Liese Cochran Mosher bought a house in Alexandria.

J. D. Neary is the legal assistant coordinator at Akin Gump Hauer and Feld, the firm he's been with for seven years.

Tom Brooks is with an environmental consulting firm in Roslyn and living near Oriole Park in Baltimore.

Jim Lovegren is going into the wine business in Syria, Va.

Chip Puskar (a.k.a. Chip Esten) was in Washington performing the lead role in "Buddy" at the Kennedy Center. Chip and Patty Hanson Puskar toured across the United States and Canada with the show beginning in January and finishing up in September in Toronto. Then they'll head back to Los Angeles. Chip got rave reviews for his performance of Buddy Holly, and while he was in D.C. he was a guest speaker at his high school and elementary school in Alexandria. In March, Chip and Patty were in New York where Chip was a guest on the British television comedy show Whose Line Is It Anyway? Look for the hilarious improv show on the Comedy Network; in the audience you'll be sure to see Patty Puskar, Mike and Jen Spanar, and Alison Sellin. While on tour, Patty has been putting her creative juices to work designing, making and selling hats at art fairs and country markets. Patty and Chip also report that Cathy Puskar '90 will start law school in the fall.

John and Mary Coates Bennett are living in Richmond with their little daughter, Erin, who's a year old now.

Beth Sala was transferred to Londonderry with Shearson Lehman Brothers, trading medium term notes; she was recently elected senior vice president.

Betsy Danbury is living in Los Angeles and finished working in Seattle on the feature film American Heart, which stars Jeff Bridges.

As for us, Dwight '83 and I vacationed in Arkansas in July. We enjoyed the scenery and wonderful hiking. Then in September we spent two and a half weeks in Wales. If only we could vacation all year!

Thanks for all the letters. Keep it up.

I would like to thank everyone for their notes and letters since the last issue. I could not write this column without your help!

Many in our class have been busy with weddings in the past few months. Judith Michele Taylor married Carl Everett Johnson on Feb.

15 in Blacksburg, Va. The Johnsons now live in Richmond where Judith is employed with Central Fidelity Bank and Carl is with Virginia Ventures Corp.

Brooke V. Wanner married John W. Lucas on Feb. 29 at the Wren Chapel. She is working for Kaiser-Permanente in the Springfield Medical Center as the facility business office coordinator. The Lucases reside in Woodbridge, Va.

Glenn Bodnar married Tina Carmichael on May 23 at St. Bede's Catholic Church in Williamsburg. The couple lives in Columbus, Ohio, where Glenn is pursuing a master's in environmental science at Ohio State University.

Mark McLachlan '88, and Julie Stefaniw '86, were married in Williamsburg on May 23.

Williamsburg was full of our classmates for those two weddings. Mariellen Alesso served as a bridesmaid for Julie. Also in Williamsburg were Dave Otto, Billy and Donna Pinkus, Kevin Looney, Susan Koester, Dave Murphy, Mario Schaeffer, Jim McHeffey, Eric Pickens, Cathy and Glenn Gormley, Mark Ianuzzi and Rob Larimore.

Charlottesville was the site for the nuptials of Thomas E. Carpenter of Chesapeake, Va., and Margaret Ann Bishop. The Carpenters live in Chesapeake, where Thomas works for United Service Automobile Association (USAA).

R. Scott Graham and Holly Ann Henderson were married on June 13. Holly, who received a master's from U.Va. in accounting, is employed with KPMG Peat Marwick in Richmond. Scott is in his residency at MCV in neurosurgery.

June 13 was also the wedding date for Karen M. Yablonski in Whitehouse Station, N.J.

Kimberly Ann Arbogast and Garrett Robert Wu were married June 20 at Bethany United Methodist Church in Hampton, Va. The couple lives in Fairfax where Garrett is a consultant at Andersen Consulting in D.C., and Kim is with the Department of Labor in D.C.

Joseph Handel Callicott married Susan Slaughter in Norfolk on June 27.

Linda Seiden is busy planning her January '93 wedding to Michael McGurne in Florida. The couple, and Marshal Fishburne Lycan and husband Dan, recently visited Brian and Andrea Romig Burns in San Francisco over Labor Day weekend.

Logge 6 of '87 writes that they would like to know the whereabouts of Mariellen Alesso. If you get a chance, write me, Mariellen!

Susan Koester will be in Williamsburg celebrating our five-year reunion. She writes that Kendall Ramsey Delorier and husband Pete, are moving to the Morehead City, N.C. area. Kendall just finished her master's in counseling from North Carolina State University.

Kevin Looney has moved to Alexandria from L.A. He saw Shawn Anderson, who is working in pharmaceutical sales in Hoboken, N.J.

Karen Jordan is in Winston-Salem, N.C., working for Sara-Lee Inc. in the marketing division for Leggs' Hanes Pantyhose.

Mike and Karen McDaniel just had a baby boy, Will. Mike and family are headed for the seminary in Tennessee where Mike will study to become a minister.

Jay Black recently joined the firm of Davenport and Co. in their Middle Peninsula office in Gloucester, Va.

Susan Maynard married Chris Scales on May 30. Susan had attended Cornell University for an M.B.A. in marketing, and met Chris during her second year (he was an engineer from Brown University). Alicia Locheed '88 served as her Delta Gamma big sister's maid-of-honor, and Susan Van Nuys was a bridesmaid. The Scales live in St. Louis, where Susan works in marketing for an environmental consulting firm and Chris works for Emerson Electric.

Dave Edwards finished his master's in education at the University of South Carolina, majoring in student personnel services, in May '91. Since October of last year, he has been the director of student activities at High Point University, N.C. He has a contract through the 1992-93 school year and invites those in the area to contact him.

Fred Franko received his Ph.D. in classical studies from Columbia University. Fred has begun teaching Latin and ancient history at Randolph-Macon Women's College in Lynchburg, Va.

Matt Hartnett '88 is beginning his dissertation in classics at Columbia University, and John "Taco" Tortura '88 is entering his second year at Columbia Business School. Sean Redmond '88 is also in N.Y.C., living in Astoria and studying classics at New York University.

I received a letter with lots of good news about Stephen Bommer. After receiving a graduate degree from the College of Insurance in New York City, he joined and bought a large independent insurance agency in northern New Jersey where he now holds the title of vice-president. He married Maureen Dzialga in September after an engagement which got its start on Crim Dell Bridge! The newlyweds are now calling Ridgewood, N.J., home.

James Gomez received his doctor of optometry degree from the Pennsylvania College of Optometry in Philadelphia in June.

Gregory Herczeg of Richmond received a M.B.A. degree from the Darden School at U.Va. on May 17. Gregory was the recipient of a Faculty Award for Academic Excellence. He is currently working as financial analyst for Allied-Signal Inc. in Morristown, N.J.

Bill Klunk has been named as associate of the Society of Actuaries (ASA) after completing a series of examinations. He is currently a consultant with Chalke Inc. of Chantilly, Va., and lives in Falls Church.

Trey Harris is quite the favorite of his students at Greenwood Elementary School in Denbigh. His primary role is that of gym teacher but it seems he holds the interest of students with his talent as a magician! The local paper ran a feature article about Trey, who still works part time at the Magic and Masquerade Shop in Williamsburg and performs at functions for both children and adults. But his greatest magical production? According to Trey, it is his baby daughter, Cory Lynne!

Leanne Parker has been named executive director of Alternatives for Abused Adults Inc., a private non-profit organization serving abused women, children and men in Staunton, Waynesboro and Augusta County. Leanne received her M.Ed. in counseling from W&M and began work with the Family Institute of Virginia in Richmond. There, she co-authored an article published in the spring of 1991 in the Journal of Couples Therapy. Prior to assuming her new position, she served as project director of the Homeless Prevention Program in Norfolk.

Laura Dillard, a public relations consultant and state government lobbyist, is a senior public affairs specialist for the Richmond-based Public Relations Council Inc.

Christopher Bright is working as one of three legislative aides to Tom Davis III, chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. Chris joined the office last summer after completing his master's in foreign affairs at U.Va. Chris will concentrate mainly on the issues of budget and education.

Eva Issavi is a caseworker with Capitol Regional Mental Health Center in Hartford, Conn. She offers support services as part of the state's plans to move more than half its patients out of its three major mental hospitals over the next five years. Eva is the youngest caseworker in the center and began work there in 1988 after she received her degree from W&M in biology and psychology.

I received a letter from Ellen Sullivan Blair with lots of news about Northern Virginia classmates. Ellen was married in October 1991 to Tom Blair (her high school sweetheart) and now lives in Arlington. She is teaching special education classes to third and fourth graders while working toward her M.Ed. in learning disabilities at George Mason University.

ALUMNUS GETS SNEAK PREVIEW OF TERCENTENARY VOLUME

Thomas Wong '82 was able to witness the binding of the Tercenary book, Traditions, Myths and Memories: 1693-1993 in Hong Kong, where the large-format, full-color book was printed. Wong is in practice for himself in Hong Kong as a chiropractor and acupuncturist. He was recently elected honorary secretary of the Chiropractors Association, and he is able to keep in contact with the U.S. through annual visits to California where he is also licensed. As a memento for his visit to the bindery, Wong was presented with the first bound copy of the book. He says, "The printing is excellent and those pictures brought back so many memories!"

GRADUATE SCHOOL OF BUSINESS EMBRACES COMPUTER AGE

This year the William and Mary School of Business introduced a computerized application for candidates interested in applying to the M.B.A. Program. In so doing, the school acknowledges the computer literacy of its applicants and recognizes that most people have easier access to a computer than to a typewriter. Michael Plater, director of admissions and student services commented, "Beneath the colonial atmosphere of Williamsburg, the School of Business strives to be on the leading edge of technology. We believe the introduction of an application diskette is a logical and necessary step for a top program competing in a competitive marketplace." The Class of '94 is comprised of 104 students representing 70 colleges and universities from 20 states. The M.B.A. program continues to attract top-notch students from around the globe. Nearly 90 percent of this year's class had previous full-time work experience. Median starting salary for the Class of '92 was $39,200, with some students receiving offers as high as $60,000.

The Young Guard: 1988-1992

Venice, CA 90291

Hi, everyone! Hard to believe that another summer has come and gone and that Homecoming is right around the corner! Here's the latest on your classmates:

Julie Devish writes that she received her master of education and counseling degree in May. It's a change from her undergraduate business degree but she really likes it. She is hoping to find a job in Galveston after graduation. Robyn Lady '90 received a similar degree from U.Va. in the spring. Robyn, Julie wants to know what else you have been doing.

Julie's boyfriend Stewart Tatem, finished his third year of medical school at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston in May. He is thinking about specializing in pediatrics. Stewart hears from Jody Vaughn, a third year med student at MCV, and Kay Endriss, who both seem to be doing well. Julie sends a hello out to Kyle Worsham who is in med school at U.Va.

Julie's former roommates, Sherry Adams and Laurie Maxwell, are still in Northern Virginia (NOVA). Laurie is a junior high school teacher and really likes her work. She is also working on her M.Ed. Sherry is planning to go to graduate school for an M.F.A. in theatre/directing next fall.

Jack Cummings '90 works at the Hedgerow Theatre in Wallingford, Pa. He misses Virginia and looks forward to returning in May.

Julie's Kappa Delta little sister, Ellen Painter '90, is living in D.C. and working in a social services agency. She seems to like her job and life in general. Another sister, Tanya Dougherty Reagan, is headed home to the U.S. this year from a three-year stay in Europe with her husband, Bill. Welcome home Tanya!! Julie has been happy to hear from sister Paula Jeffrey '91 who is working on the Interservice Christian Fellowship staff at Holy Cross in Worcester, Mass. Also on staff with IVCF is Jeff Trollinger at Virginia Tech and Radford.

Julie misses keeping in touch with Melanie Martin, who is working in theater in Atlanta. Hi, Melanie! Julie also wants to say "Hi" to all of her old improvisational theatre buddies.

Alan Snoddy will be going to Fordham University in N.Y.C. in the fall to work on an M.B.A. He is living with Scott Movers and Charlie Carr.

Elizabeth Colucci (i.e. Elizabeth C. for all you Gazette Trivia players) is engaged to Ralph Mooz after seven years of dating. Ralph is a graduate of U.Va.'s engineering school. (They were engaged in the spring and married in August.) Elizabeth completed George Mason Law School in May, and Ralph got out of the Navy at about the same time. So an August wedding was perfect for them.

Elizabeth's former roommate, Beth Hovis, is engaged to Mark Burrows. Their wedding is set for Dec. 5, 1992. They just bought a beautiful townhouse in Northern Virginia (NOVA).

Margie Garber finished law school at Emory and will be working for a law firm in Roanoke beginning after the bar exam. Catherine Nelson is loving the single life and working as a residential lighting consultant in NOVA. She is also looking to buy a condo. In the meantime she is living with Pam Busch in Chantilly. Pam just completed the classes portion of her master's degree in psychology and was busy looking for an internship. Catherine's sister, Karen Nelson Maisto '87, and Johnny Maisto '87 are both pursuing graduate degrees at the University of Maryland and just got a new kitten, Toby.

Christina Glad had just been promoted to research assistant at the Center for Arms Control and Treaty Assessment in NOVA. Doug Mandel and his wife Elizabeth are still the happy newlyweds and are living in D.C. Another newlywed alumnus, Anne Ferrell Leggett, works parttime in a library in Richmond and loves it. Kim Hadney is still working in N.Y.C. for Random House and is living in Merrick, N.Y. Ann Buckley recently moved into her first apartment with a high school friend and is working at Maryland National Bank. Romelda Harvey is working at a chemical association in D.C. Amy Weatherford Brown and husband Mike bought their first house and are living in Warrenton, Va.

Erin Ptachick is alive and well. She received her M.A. in counseling psychology from Marist College, New York, in May of '91. For the past months she has been the staff psychologist for the traumatic brain injury and spinal cord injury programs at Sunnyview Hospital and Rehabilitation Center in Schenectady, N.Y. She hopes to complete courses for her certificate in advanced studies in school psychology in the fall. She stays in touch with Julie Kaczmarek, who when not playing in the professional women's tennis circuit is home-based in the Burg writing for the W&M Smokesignals.

Jerry Bowers has quit his job in admissions at Haverford College near Philadelphia to move with his fiancée to Bloomington, Ind., where he will begin classes for his Ph.D. in American history at Indiana University. Hopefully he will get to see more of Valerie Dean, who is starting to work on her dissertation. Jerry writes that Dave MacDonald is enrolled in a master's program in journalism at UNC-Chapel Hill. He is planning to visit sometime soon. Jerry's little brother, Jon Biedron '90 is working hard at Harvard Law. His other little brother, John Eller, is working as the director of research for Ash Lawn — Highland in Charlottesville.

Lynn Dreylinger Forster writes that she and hubby Kevin attended Scott Cook's wedding in Statesborough, Ga. He married a Georgia girl, Sara Radcliff, and they will be living in Atlanta. There were many ex-Tribe football stars on hand. Kevin and Allen Fortney were groomsmen. Allen and his wife, Janey, are moving to Colorado Springs. Tommy Lewis and Harry Mehre were guests; they arrived with Reggie Clark '75. Tommy is working in Florida, and Harry is finishing up his M.B.A. at the University of Georgia. Harry was also one of five students from University of Georgia to travel to Atlantic City to compete in the Ninth Annual Rutgers-Camden M.B.A. Case Competition in April. Congrats! Reggie is moving to Orlando to continue working with Paul Verkuil. Craig Argo and his wife, Jackie, were also there. They live in Conyers, Ga., a suburb of Atlanta. Lynn and Kevin have moved to Greenville, S.C. Lynn went to the 1992 Virginia State Collegiate Gymnastics meet in March where she saw Jeanne Foster. Jeanne is living in NOVA and working for MCI.

Laurie Gabig married Tim Dragelin on Oct. 12, 1991, and the couple will be celebrating their one-year anniversary at the time of this printing. Believe it or not, married life has not been the biggest change for Laurie. She has been teaching French to eighth-graders in Fairfax County. The teaching has been a gigantic task and when she compares it to married-life adjustments, there is no comparison!

Laurie and Tim often spend time with Steve and Sallie Wellons McOwen. Sallie is a first-year Spanish teacher in Stafford County. Steve is finishing up his second year at George Mason Law School. Laurie often talks to Megan Pratt Carter who is enjoying motherhood in Richmond. Megan and husband Frank had their first baby, Mary-Stuart in July. Charlotte Webb is still working/studying hard at Virginia Tech. She is busy with her master's program.

Laurie Pearce is doing well. She is too far from California, but besides that, things are great with her. She is working in Massachusetts and really DIGS her job (she is working on archeological fact-finding missions). She was in NOVA for Suzanne Hartley's bachelorette party in August. Suzanne is marrying Steve Abbott in September in the Burg. Laurie beached the boat of a car and has a new vehicle to cruise around in, although I was rather fond of climbing in through the driver's side to get to the passenger side! I miss you, Savage!

Martha McGlothlin writes that she received her M.B.A. from the University of Texas and is

CHEERLEADERS PLACE WELL IN CAMP COMPETITIONS

The 1992-93 Tribe cheerleaders recently brought home trophies in all three categories of Universal Cheerleading Association camp competitions among Division I schools. This accomplishment represents the squad's strongest showing at camp in three years. The squad placed second in the fight song, fourth in the cheer, and fifth in the sideline competition. The cheerleaders intend to use this momentum to help generate an exciting and successful season of William and Mary athletics. They encourage all alumni to join in support for the TRIBE.

returning to W&M in the fall for law school. Her two former roommates, Carolyn Lampe and Sharon Fisher, are really busy. Sharon spent the entire summer in Czechoslovakia to teach English and study. She will return to the University of Pittsburgh in the fall to finish her master's degree in Eastern European studies. Carolyn graduated from George Mason Law School and will be clerking for a judge in Lafayette, La., in the fall.

Beth Blanks married Greg Stokes on June 6 in Charlottesville. Several W&M friends attended: Hiram Cuevas, Jono Harris, Karen Sheppard, John and Lisa Headley and Gamin Bartle Gianakos. They are living in Charlottesville where Beth works for U.Va.; Greg is finishing his master's degree in exercise physiology.

Debbie Queeney has some interesting updates: Kristin May married Jim Coulter on June 27 in Norfolk, Va. They spent their honeymoon in Bermuda and are living in Annandale, Va. Kristin transferred to the Tysons office of Peat Marwick.

Bridesmaids in the wedding were Lara Shister and Gwen Newman Fincham. After graduating with her master's degree from George Mason in December, Lara got a job with Federal Express in Memphis. Gwen is living in Orange, Va., and working with handicapped adults. Julie Kaczmarek, Stella Crane, Tierney Weinhold Little and Debbie were all at the wedding. Stella got engaged to Darrell Alexander the night of Kristin's wedding. He is an M.B.A. student at Duke, and she is an audit senior for Ernst and Young in Richmond. Tierney is still working in the audit division of Prince Waterhouse in Baltimore. As for Debbie, she is working as a tax consultant for a small CPA firm in Fairfax City, but she is hoping to get a job and move to Charlotte, N.C., in the near future.

Martha Giffen has been in two weddings this year. Her college roomie Mei Tan married Stephen Irons '90 on May 23 in San Francisco. They had fun roller-blading on the beach and goofing off the week before the wedding.

Other W&M folk in the wedding party were Marla Howell, Nena Manzo, J.B. Wilson '90, Andy Herrick '90 and J. Eric Holloway '90. Marla just finished law school in San Diego and is studying for the California bar. Nena is still working as a tax librarian for Price Waterhouse in D.C. Martha also sang for the wedding of Jana Gill '84 in the Wren Chapel in April. She is scheduled for two more weddings this year! All those years in the W&M Choir have paid off by getting her many jobs as a wedding singer.

Anne Abbruzzese finished getting her master's degree in linguistics at Georgetown University this spring and is planning an exciting move to Germany in the fall. Martha is only halfway through her M.A. in English literature at George Mason; summer-school classes currently keep her up late in the library on all those humid Virginia summer nights.

In March, Dickson Benesch '90, Chris Walters '90 and Bruce DePaula '88 ventured down to Atlantic City, N.J. Dickson is currently managing the world's money at JP Morgan, Chris is trading foreign puts, calls and equity securities for a Japanese bond brokerage house, and Bruce is working for a law firm in Garden City, N.J. During their Atlantic City trip they met Steve Breiseth '90, Mike Plechy, Dane Snowden '90 and Doug Greger at Caesar's Palace. When they were not reminiscing about their unforgettable times at Sigma Chi and W&M, they were enjoying varying levels of success and misfortune at the tables. Suffice it to say that Plechy did beautifully playing craps and Dickson ran a 15-minute string of throwing without having their future wages garnished.

Mary Ann Love writes that all is well with her job at Barrington Consulting in D.C. She spent December through May in Cape Canaveral/Cocoa Beach to work on a construction site. She was lucky enough to see both a shuttle launch and an Atlas rocket launch during her stay. In her off time MA can be seen biking. She rode in the multiple sclerosis bike event which was 100 miles; the ride toured through the beautiful (and hilly) Virginia countryside.

MA writes that Marnie Mitchell is living in Coronado, Calif., and is working with Peat Marwick. Marnie adores the coast and wouldn't trade it! Jenny Shrader married Bill Palmer on April 4 in Williamsburg in Wren Chapel. Her bridesmaids were Susie Spear Hubbard '88 and Susan Weeks '90. For their honeymoon they took Bill's Jeep to the Carolinas via the scenic route. Melissa Houser Boodie and her husband, Bart, had their first child, Rebecca Catherine, in late January. All in the family are doing well. Melissa is serving as a national officer for Kappa Delta sorority. She oversees KD's Alpha province, which includes W&M. Kari Ardolino '90 was accepted to Yale's Master of Fine Arts program for theater management. She starts in the fall.

Jesse Alexander and Kim Caruthers Alexander are still living in Austin, Texas. Jesse recently resigned his commission as first lieutenant in the U.S. Army and is now a buyer for a computer network manufacturer, Thomas Conrad Corp. Kim is still putting in many long but rewarding hours as a child protective services social worker. August found them celebrating their second anniversary!

Mark Ratzlaff returned from Peace Corps Guatemala in January. While Karen Jordan was on her second visit down there last summer, she and Mark got engaged at a beautiful hot springs cabin in the mountains of Guatemala. They are planning an October wedding at the Wren. They will both be heading to grad school in the fall — Mark for a master's in social work and Karen for a masters in fine arts in playwriting. Their choices are between Columbia or schools in Boston.

Kim Martin has finished her second year at U.Va. Law. She worked in Atlanta this summer.

Jim English is living and working in Brooksville, Pa., as an international sales rep for a lumber export company. The job gives Jim the enviable opportunity to travel around this country, to Europe, and soon to Asia! Karen Framhein is still living and working in Orlando as a counselor at a substance abuse treatment center. She's working on a graduate counseling degree. Karen and Mark have lost track of Ty Walker and would love to hear from him! They saw Curtis Schumaker bartending with great skill at Murphy's in Old Town.

I had the pleasure of catching up with Rich Hurlburt '88 before he left for Germany for two weeks with Mike Deagle '88 after he had taken his Virginia bar exam. Rich had an unfortunate incident with his car, let's just say he is still FIRED up about it, and is now sporting a Harley.

I received a misdirected '88 piece of correspondence from Cindy Hill. She was able to attend a get-together of W&M friends in May in Virginia. Included in the gathering were Alicia Domzalski, Ann Godwin, Pam Foster and Toni Cicala — all '88 grads. They began in NOVA sitting around and catching up on each other's lives, then drove to the Burg to do a few of their favorite college things; relaxing on Jamestown Beach and going to Berret's.

Cindy's former roomie, Ann Godwin, is living in the Burg attending W&M grad school in education. She is still together with Rich Savage, a W&M law school grad who is in North Carolina now going for his M.B.A. Alicia is living in NOVA, working for a D.C. law firm. Pam is also in NOVA and working as an economist for the Korean Embassy. Toni and Cindy, both being from New Jersey, unfortunately don't get to see the others as much as they would like. Toni is living in New Jersey and commuting to New York where she works for an insurance company as an underwriter. Cindy is living in N.Y.C. She is beginning New York University's physical therapy program.

Jonathan Kent has been living in Winston-Salem since just after graduation and is now nearing the end of his third year of studies in his biochemistry Ph.D. program at Wake Forest. He is done with all his coursework and now heads to the lab to do his research on protein kinase C isoenzymes in human neutrophils.

As for social activities, Jonathan likes to spend his time with his girlfriend, Linda Baldwin (University of Tennessee veterinary student) and he plays softball — he's looking to add a second championship title to his glove! He added a black lab/retriever pup to his family, Fenway. Good luck through that chewing phase! Jonathan is also very active in his church, Redeemer Presbyterian, where a lot of Wake students can be found.

THOMPSON NAMED VICE PRESIDENT

Robert E. Thompson '77 has been named vice president and general manager of the telephone company operations division of North Supply Co., a Sprint Company. In his new role, Thompson will lead North Supply's marketing, sales and technical support efforts for customers in the local and long distance telephone company business nationally. Thompson brings more than 15 years of experience to his new position. He previously held positions with United Telephone, Bell Atlantic, AT&T and C&P. He has served on the boards of directors of the state telephone associations of Virginia and New Jersey. He has also been active in charitable and civic organizations. He and wife Nancy Rasmussen Thompson '78 will relocate to Kansas City with their two children.

George DeShazo earned a master's degree in development economics from Oxford, and will be enrolled as a doctoral candidate at Harvard in the fall. He figures he has about three years of work to complete the coursework and a dissertation in applied economics and economic policy. He has traveled to Israel and Pakistan and went to Mozambique to conduct a survey to determine water needs. He was awarded the job of constructing water systems for the country after submitting a bid as a private consultant.

Here come the wedding announcements:

Christine Philipp and Jack Calandra were married on May 30 in Williamsburg at St. Bede's. Christine is account manager for Ralph Lauren Honda Collection in New York. Jack is a full-time M.B.A. student at Columbia.

Sarah Gibson is engaged to marry Richard Hylton '91 M.B.A. in November. Sarah is employed by the Dinwiddie County School Board. Richard is employed by NAS-Oceana.

Amy Johnson and Mike Ford were married in June in Tennessee. Amy received her master's degree in education from East Tennessee State University and is employed by the Country Club of Bristol. Mike is employed by the Bristol Regional Medical Center. They honeymooned in St. Maarten and are living in Bristol, Tenn.

Amy Underhill and Mike Lythgoe were married in June in Roanoke. Amy is employed by Hunton and Williams law firm in Richmond. Mike is a VMI grad and is employed by Waldenbooks in Richmond.

Delta Helmer and David Pelgrim became engaged on Christmas Day 1991 and are planning to be married in Williamsburg in February. Delta is employed by Congressman Chris Cox, David is a University of Maryland grad and is employed by Grotheer and Company. They live in the D.C. metropolitan area.

Lisa Storm and William Hogge were married in May at the Wren Chapel. She is a case manager for the Hampton-Newport News community services board. He is a Virginia Tech graduate and is a tennis instructor at Kiln Country Club in Newport News.

Erin Kelly married Gerald Braley in June in Lynchburg. Erin is pursuing a master's degree in French literature at the University of Illinois.

Julie Palmer got married in December to Jeff Kipers, who is a captain in the U.S. Army stationed in Ft. Eustis. They got married five months after he got back from serving in the Gulf; he was there for a year! In May they moved to Germany for three years with the Army. Carolyn Hayes and Joan Palmer '85 were bridesmaids. Cheryl Toth '90 was a reader at the wedding. Gwen Newman Fincham, Kristin May and Tasha Norris '91 attended the wedding. Carolyn is working for First Virginia Bank in Richmond.

The "old-ball-and-chain" (John Waggoner) and I had the pleasure of attending an alumni function at the beach in Palos Verdes. We played volleyball with Mike "get me a beer" Kilgore and Bud Phillips '82. I have to apologize to Mike because his name has been butchered in the column in the past (yep, add another one to the ranks). He is getting a complex. Sorry, Mike. Mike has the third largest Rocketeer collection in the nation!

Bud and wife Sherry Sell Phillips '83 are the proud parents of 5-month-old Samantha. Sherry works for Bullocks in Southern California. Mike and Angie Moses '87 were also at the alumni gathering. They live in Pasadena. He is attending seminary school and she is working for a small consulting firm. Kudos go to Linda Mischka '85 for putting together a great day!

Maggie Margiotta '88 and Ruth Philipps went to Europe for a couple of months this past summer. Maggie is doing consulting work for a college in NOVA, and Ruth is a teacher of math in NOVA.

Kerry VerStreate and Sean Murray have become biking enthusiasts. They have been seen with Greg LeMonde touring the roads of Virginia and North Carolina. Sean had a summer internship with the IBM plant in North Carolina. He heads back to Darden to finish his second and final (YEAH!) year of business school. Kerry was kind enough to house Wags and me while we stayed in Richmond in September. Actually, it was her cat, Tigger, who invited us.... Kers, next time we bring Flash and Bailey! Thanks for a fantastic time!

Ken Collins and Kim Streng only have a few more months until they become husband and wife! Their big day is Dec. 5 in the Wren Chapel. Ken spent his summer managing a plantation in Maryland. Strenger is still working with AMS and is active in gymnastics.

As for the Waggoners, we have moved YET AGAIN. I am really sorry about this, but we were baking in Valencia (it got to over 100 degrees, honest!) and we were pretty bored. So now we are six blocks from the beach and the biking/rollerblading paths. We have seen quite a few good concerts (James Taylor, Elton John/Eric Clapton, Jimmy Buffett) and are still settling into California life. So far, the highlight of our time in L.A. has been taking a trip back to Virginia in September to catch up with friends!

One last thing, I just wanted to wish Bob a very happy anniversary. It will be one year on Nov. 9. Even though we have suffered through unemployment, transcontinental moving, riots, earthquakes and floods, I would do it all again if we could get another dog! Have I told you lately...

Next deadline is January. Keep writing!

Hello again! Once again it is time to update you on the lives and loves of your classmates. Thank you to everyone who has shared news from their friends as well as themselves. I cannot write back to you individually, but I do appreciate each and every letter I get!

Billy Fondren earns the honor of being mentioned first in this column for his diligent letter writing. Billy left Colorado this summer to go home to Memphis, where he is thinking of returning to school. He is also planning on checking out the blues musicians on Beale Street and attending a couple of Southeastern Conference football games.

Class president Reg Jones wrote from Germany where he is stationed as a platoon leader in the U.S. Army. He is having a great time tooling around in his 1979 red Mercedes-Benz 280E and has visited Amsterdam, Paris, Versailles, Prague and even Euro-Disney. His fiancée, Becky Beebout, visited in July. They are planning a fall wedding.

Lora Lynn Flattum was crowned Miss Virginia 1992 recently, winning a scholarship and new Chevrolet Beretta (complete with car phone!). Part of the competition required her to come up with a plan to deal with an important social issue. Lora Lynn's ideas to help combat abuse of the elderly, coupled with her talent on the piano, brought her the victory. After her reign as Miss Virginia, she plans to go to medical school and become a pediatrician.

Carol Garrison and Brad Pincombe have announced their engagement. Carol is attending U.Va. while Brad works for Price Waterhouse in Chicago. Their wedding will be in April.

Gregory Bole is studying genetics at the University of Pennsylvania (Philadelphia). He is also working as a researcher/technician on a project for the department of human genetics.

David and Debra Bryan Pearson were married by Father Charles Kelly on June 13, 1992, in the Wren Chapel. Brent Moody '92 was the best man, while Christina Sitterson and Ann Skjei '92 were bridesmaids. Also attending were Tim Doyle '90, John Grunder '90, Susan Vancuyk '90, Jim '90 and Beth Kinney Low, Carol Mullen, David Alexander and Shelby Hiller '90. Debra is now in her second year of law school at W&M and David is an accountant with the State Corporation Commission.

Jennifer Crawford and husband Rod were also married on June 13, 1992. The wedding took place in Alexandria, followed by a reception at her home. Jennifer and Rod will be moving to China in 1993 to pursue missionary work. Melissa Kinnan '92 was one of the bridesmaids; others attending included Stacey Young, Paulette Blair, Chris Simpson, Arette Zitta '90 and Debbie Levine. Debbie got engaged to Kurt Snyder while in Myrtle Beach, S.C., for the summer.

Kelly Phagan and Steve Welty spent an exciting six weeks in Europe this summer! Kelley

ALUMNI AND FRIENDS SPREAD WARMTH TO THE NEEDY

The Society of the Alumni and the Williamsburg Alumni Chapter joined the efforts of Virginia Power's Sweater Recycling Project on Saturday, Sept. 12. Responding to the call to bring old, usable sweaters to Zable Stadium during the W&M vs. VMI football game, alumni and friends contributed nearly 500 sweaters to the total 76,044 netted from the entire project. Members of the Williamsburg chapter who helped were (from left): Bob Coleman '71, Keith Reagan '88, Lisa Reagan and Laura Stapleton '92. Sweaters will be distributed throughout Hampton Roads to deserving recipients through qualified health and human service agencies. Thanks to everyone whose efforts helped make the project a success.

NASH TAKES ON NEW DUTIES

Joseph H. Nash Jr. '67 has joined the corporate business development staff of Arthur D. Little Inc. to expand the company's federal business in the environmental, health and safety area. Arthur D. Little is a 106-year-old engineering, science and policy services firm with more than 2,400 employees and 27 offices worldwide. He will be located in the Arlington (Crystal City), Va., office. Nash lives in Fairfax Station, Va., with his wife, Janis Callaway Nash '67, who is an employee relations specialist with the U. S. Geological Survey; son Scott Nash '92, who is a computer systems analyst with Information Systems Solutions International in Bethesda, Md.; and son Joseph, who is a junior at Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology.

has been going to school part time since last fall so she can earn a teaching certificate for Maryland. She plans to teach high school English after she finishes in May.

Robyn Thompson Tremaine and husband David were married Aug. 15, 1992. After a honeymoon in England, Robyn and David returned to Fairfax where they are both teachers.

Anne Leigh Kerr spent the summer running a fund-raising golf tournament for her uncle, Delegate Watkins Abbott, and his friend Delegate Ted Bennett. She has returned to her old job in Williamsburg as legislative assistant and political consultant for Delegate Billy Moore, a Democrat from Portsmouth. Anne Leigh is living at the Midlands with Anne Gambardella, who is attending W&M law school. Anne Leigh saw Melinda Summerlin in North Carolina this summer. Melinda is preparing for her November wedding to Jason Hancock. Anne Leigh also spoke to Lee Sjostrom recently, who is living in Atlanta with Chris Brown and Scott Grillo. They all split their time between going to work and attending various sporting events.

Chris Sterling is in Richmond, studying urban planning at VCU. He also holds down a job with the city of Richmond Public School System in the financial department. Chris and Anne Leigh saw each other at the Shockoe Bar and Grill where the band BS&M was playing.

Jeff and Stephanie D'Atre Sacker are enjoying married life in paradise — Hawaii, that is. They moved to Oahu in February, where Jeff is stationed as a lieutenant in the U.S. Army.

Tim and Amy Brown Harris got married at Bruton Parish Church in May. It was a true W&M wedding: participating were Jason Kahara, Todd Walter, Charles Ryals, Kris Haber, Lisa Rein, Pam Revell and K. C. Becker. Tim and Amy are now living in Austin, Texas.

Beth Spencer wrote with lots of news to share. Actually, that's her job! She's a reporter for a weekly newspaper, The Times, in Smithfield, Va. Beth says Paulette Blair is working for the U.S. Postal Service in Newport News.

Joanne Arnold is working with Habitat for Humanity in Georgia. She is helping coordinate a project called W.A.T.C.H. (Women Accepting the Challenge of Housing) for women to build houses without the help of any men.

Larry and Sandra Lee Lewis celebrated their first wedding anniversary in Houston, Texas, where they were both chemistry graduate students at Rice University.

Shanti McCrie Rallet and her husband Jean-Marie moved back to France in the spring. They met when Shanti spent her junior year studying abroad.

Kristie Wolf coached gymnastics at a camp this summer and is going to Kent State to pursue a master's degree in library science.

Jill Shenk works for Arthur Andersen in Richmond. She spent a one-week vacation in Russia earlier this year!

Jennifer Broderick is in the Peace Corps in Mali, West Africa. Beth says that Jennifer was trying to grow a garden to balance her diet, but had to chase the frogs with a stick every night to protect her crops!

Beth Sadler should be back in the U.S. now after a year as an au pair in Valencia, Spain. While there, she acquired a taste for those famous Valencian oranges.

As for me, I am still having fun in northern Virginia. The big news in my life is my engagement to Michael Graves. Michael surprised me by coming up for the Fourth of July weekend from Florida where he attended flight school for the Marine Corps. After a barbecue held at the new home of Susanne Stagg, Mark Compher, Aaron Pomerantz '92 and Michelle Desmond, we headed for the fireworks in D.C. with Beth West, where Michael proposed. (Beth somehow managed to miss the whole thing, although she was standing only a couple of yards away.) After the finale over the Washington Monument, we all enjoyed a "romantic" ride back to Alexandria on the Metrorail.

That's all for now! Unfortunately, I will be unable to go to Williamsburg for Homecoming this year. Please drink a beer for me at the Green Leaf, and write to me before Jan. 15 so that I can include everything in my next column. Keep in touch!

The big local news is the reorganization. No more divisions to do research and subfaculties to do academics. We now have departments that do it all. Three of the five department heads are VIMS alumni. Bob Huggett '77 Ph.D. heads environmental sciences, Bob Orth '71 M.A. heads biological oceanography and Carl Hershner '77 Ph.D. heads resource management and policy. The other two departments, fisheries and physical geological, chemical oceanography are headed by Roger Mann and Don Wright respectively. As part of the reorganization, Bill DuPaul '68 M.A., '73 Ph.D. was named associate director for advisory services.

Mal Green '87 Ph.D. returned to campus from the Bullard Laboratories, University of Cambridge, in June to continue his collaboration with John Boon '68 M.A., '74 Ph.D. Mal gave a seminar on North Sea storm waves during his stay.

Kathy Kavenaugh '91 M.A., is now studying for her Ph.D. at James Cook University, Townsville, Queensland, Australia. Kathy is the recipient of a very nice fellowship from the Australian government.

Evon (John) Ruzecki '79 Ph.D. mentioned he had a very nice visit with Nick Taimindes '71 M.A. in Greece this summer. Nick is chair of the Eastern Mediterranean Fisheries Council.

ALUMNI SOCIETY INVITES WILLIAM AND MARY TRIBE FANS TO FOLLOW FOOTBALL TEAM TO JAPAN

Fans of William and Mary Tribe football can cheer for their team in Tokyo if they join the Alumni Society on a special tour offered Jan. 3-10 in conjunction with the Epson-Ivy Bowl. The Society of the Alumni began planning the tour soon after the athletic department formally announced the decision to take the football team abroad for a Jan. 9, 1993, game against the Nippon University team, the Japanese national champions. The tour features overnight visits to Kyoto and Hakone. Other highlights include city and shopping tours of Tokyo, a visit to Kamakura, attendance at the opening bowl banquet and a reception for President and Mrs. Anne Sullivan hosted by the Society's Japan Alumni Club. The cost of the tour includes transfers, hotel, airfare and breakfast daily. Priced at $2559 for the Japan portion with an add-on charge of only $450 for Hong Kong (double occupancy rates), the tour is open to any friend or fan of William and Mary. The special tour extension to Hong Kong will allow participants to spend four days and three nights in the last Royal Colony of the British Empire. Space is allotted on a first received, first served basis. To receive an informational brochure, contact the Society of the Alumni at 221-1165.

Wisconsin, Madison studying for a D.V.M. degree. Jonathon Mintz and Jill Goodman appear to have jobs at VIMS, and Paula Hill is working at a research position at U.Va.

Let me know what is happening with you. How about sending me a note on whether the info in the new VIMS/SMS Alumni Directory (September '92) is correct. If you didn't get the directory, we probably have an incorrect address. The prize for a corrected address is a copy of the directory.

OBITUARIES

JANET COLEMAN KIMBROUGH 21, '90 L.H.D. of Williamsburg, died July 30, 1992. She was a retired civilian employee of the U.S. Army, having practiced medicine at Fort Lee and Fort Eustis from 1952 to 1970. In 1971, she received the Alumni Medallion from William and Mary and was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of Humane Letters at the 1990 Commencement. She had also served as a past class agent and was a member of the President's Council. She entered the College in 1918, the first year that the school began admitting women and went on to become one of the first women inducted into Phi Beta Kappa. While at William and Mary, she joined Kappa Alpha Theta sorority and the Literary Society. She also participated in field hockey, basketball, swimming and the YWCA. In 1926, she earned her medical degree at the University of Virginia Medical School, once again being one of the first females to achieve that distinction. Dr. Kimbrough was instrumental in founding the Williamsburg Historical Records Association and for the preservation of the Tucker-Coleman collection of manuscripts at the Earl Gregg Swem Library. She was a member of Bruton Parish Episcopal Church, Colonial Dames, the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities and the Virginia Medical Society. Survivors include a son, Raymond Devan Kimbrough '53; a daughter, Cynthia Kimbrough Barlowe '55; six grandchildren, including Charles Kimbrough Barlowe '83, and five great-grandchildren.

IRVING HAMILTON WHITE '22 of Richmond, died June 20, 1978. He was a retired lecturer in English at the University of Richmond and former chair of the English department at Boston University, where he had specialized in drama and the works of Shakespeare during a 36-year career. While at William and Mary, he served as secretary to President Julian A.C. Chandler and also was inducted into Phi Beta Kappa. Both his master's and doctoral degrees were earned at Harvard University. He served in the U.S. Army during World War I. Surviving are his wife, Nina Brunk White 30, and a son.

ROBERT DeBLOIS CALKINS '25 B.S., '42 LL.D. of Ithaca, N.Y., died July 6, 1992. He was a former president of The Brookings Institution in Washington, D.C., where he was credited with establishing or expanding programs on social sciences and public policy for business and government leaders. He also had served as chair of the economics department at the University of California at Berkeley and as dean of the business school there and at Columbia University. At William and Mary, he was a member of Omicron Delta Kappa, Pi Gamma Mu social science fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi, and Beta Gamma Sigma business fraternity. Inducted into Phi Beta Kappa, he also joined Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He received master's and Ph.D. degrees from Stanford University, in addition to an honorary doctor of laws degree from William and Mary. In 1967, he was a recipient of the College's Alumni Medallion. Dr. Calkins was an adviser to several government agencies over the years, including the War Department. He also was a former member of the board of directors of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co., the Washington Center for Metropolitan Studies and the Salzburg Festival in American Studies. He was a member of the Cosmos Club, serving on its board and receiving the club's distinguished service award. He is survived by a son, a daughter and five grandchildren.

FRANCIS OSBORNE ADAM JR. '26 of Ruston, La., died Aug. 5, 1992. He was a retired Spanish professor at Louisiana Tech, and bequeathed his private library of more than 1,500 volumes to William and Mary at his death. An avid coin and stamp collector, he is survived by several nieces.

THOMAS LITTELE FERRATT '26 of Herndon, Va., died June 9, 1992. He was a certified financial analyst; he retired from Reconstruction Finance Co. as head of the municipal bonds division. During his undergraduate years, he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, the Phoenix Literary Society and the Interfraternity Council. He also played baseball and football. In 1963, he was awarded the Chartered Financial Analyst designation and was listed in Who's Who in the South and Southeast. He had taught finance at Old Dominion University for several years. He held memberships in the Washington, D.C., Financial Analyst Society and the Institute of Chartered Financial Analysts. Surviving are three daughters.

HELEN CABELL PHILLIPS '26 of Richmond, died Aug. 15, 1992. She had been a principal of several schools in the Richmond area, including Highland Park, George Thorpe and J.E.B. Stuart. Prior to her first post as principal, she taught biology at John Marshall High School for 15 years. In 1935, she earned a master's degree from Columbia University. She was a former member of the Women's Club and the Virginia Council of Administrative Women in Education. At William and Mary, she belonged to the Backdrop Club.

ELIZABETH SCHMUCKER STUBBS '26 of Williamsburg, died July 24, 1992. She had worked for Colonial Williamsburg for 45 years, retiring in 1975 as administrative assistant to the treasurer. In 1926, she was a research assistant to the architectural company overseeing the restoration. After joining the Williamsburg Holding Company in 1930, the forerunner of the Colonial Williamsburg Foundation, she held a variety of positions including corporation secretary, assistant to the treasurer and general assistant and auditor for the treasurer. At the College, she was active in the Literary Society, the YWCA, the Dorm Council and the Student Association. She also was tapped into Phi Beta Kappa. As an alumna, she participated often in Olde Guard Day. She is survived by a sister.

ANNA MARY WITHERS ROLLINGS '27 of Suffolk, Va., died July 28, 1992. A lifelong Suffolk resident, she was a member of the Suffolk Book Club, a former member of the Suffolk Library Board and a member of the Nansemond River Garden Club. During her William and Mary years, she joined the Athletic Association, the Literary Society and Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority. She was the last resident of Riddick's Folly, now a museum of Greek revival architecture, before it was sold to the city of Suffolk in 1967. She is survived by two daughters, including Mary Rollings Stevens '65; a sister; and four grandchildren.

John H. Willis Jr., professor of English at William and Mary, is the author of a new book, Leonard and Virginia Woolf as Publishers, The Hogarth Press, 1917-41, published in October by the University Press of Virginia. Willis' book tells the story of the Woolfs' personal publishing enterprise which began with the installation of a handpress in the drawing room of their Hogarth House in 1917 and ended with Virginia's suicide in 1941. Along the way the Woolfs published 474 titles, including works by T.S. Eliot, Katherine Mansfield, John Maynard Keynes and a host of others and introduced the English-speaking world to the great Russian novelists and Sigmund Freud. The book is available in bookstores or from University Press of Virginia, Box 3608, University Station, Charlottesville, VA 22903, telephone 804/924-3468, for $29.95 in cloth edition.

Traditions, Myths & Memories: "A Book That Defies Description"

We wondered how good Traditions, Myths & Memories: An Illustrated History of the College of William and Mary is so we asked an alumnus for his reaction. Here is what he said:

"This book defies description. Whatever the era, you are there! And those you knew are there! Like no other, it captures the golden thread of Spirit that unites and links the generations each to each.

"Whether measured in happy reflection on days that were, or in eager anticipation of those to be, one's very soul echoes the tolling of the Wren bell and senses deeply the 'Call of Alma Mater.'

"To me, it is, indeed, a refreshing renewal of the basic quest of my degree—a search for a worthy immortality through service! You will feel the same, and proudly share it with others."—Davis Y. Paschall '32, President Emeritus.

WILLIAM AND MARY GOLF PUTTER

The classic mallet head, exhibiting the William and Mary emblem, has been retained. The weight has been redistributed by inserting a solid brass bar in the middle of the head to bring the center of gravity and 75 percent of the total weight to the center of the putter, thus giving the golfer better feel and accuracy. The crooked "S" shape in the shaft gives the putter perfect balance. This club is impervious to moisture and will not tarnish. Used by professionals in the Masters and the PGA, this is clearly one of the finest putters on the market today.

- B12 William and Mary Golf Putter .. $65.00

FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE, THE ALUMNI GIFT SHOP WILL BE OPEN UNTIL 12 NOON ON DEC. 23.
