A YEAR OF LIFE IS A DIFFICULT THING TO PUT INTO A PACKAGE, BECAUSE

A YEAR CAN HAVE MANY DIFFERENT MEANINGS FOR MANY DIFFERENT

PEOPLE. ALL OF US AT WILLIAM AND MARY HAVE SHARED A GREAT NUMBER OF THINGS DURING THIS IMPORTANT YEAR OF OUR LIVES, AND YOU'LL

FIND MUCH PACKED INTO THIS 1950 ANNUAL THAT HAS MEANING FOR

YOU. THE PACKAGE WILL LAST, AND IN THE FUTURE YOU CAN OPEN IT UP

AND EXAMINE THE CONTENTS AGAIN.

DEDICATION

PRET THE PRESENT, FOR ENCOURAGING US TO GOVERN OURSELVES THROUGH HIS ACTIVE PARTICIPATION IN STUDENT GOVERNMENT AS A FACULTY ADVISOR, FOR HIS INTEREST IN THE INDIVIDUAL STUDENT, WE DEDICATE THE 1950 COLONIAL ECHO TO DR. HAROLD J. FOWLER.

THE CLASSES

TO THE CLASS OF 1950

THE Class of 1950 is a tremendous class, approaching in size that of last June. It is also the last of the so-called "veterans classes." During your senior year the majority of veterans in the College were members of the Class of 1950. Thus with your graduation the College, for the first time in a decade will return to a normal pattern.

The College during the post-war years has grown in strength and prestige, and much of this is owing to your contributions as members of the student body.

As Alumni, the College asks little of you. No academic institution is or can be perfect since it cannot, with limited resources, satisfy the demands upon it from every quarter. My hope is that, as the years recede, each of you will feel that the College has given more than it has received. If so, it will command your good will and your loyalty. These gifts it will treasure more than all else.

May each of you attain the goal you have set. The College will ever welcome you when you return.

THE STUDENT GOVERNMENT

The Student Government, this year as always, concerned itself with the usual number of problems, questions, investigations, and recommendations as its main and customary functioning.

Among the more or less routine problems and projects handled were sponsorship of Homecoming, final acquisition of a new campus bulletin board, investigation of the college schedule (with respect to vacation conflicts) and the "annual" cafeteria problem.

There was a considerable amount of introspection with regard to both policies and functional agencies. This was characterized chiefly by the reorganization of the Interclub Council and certain other constitutional changes. The old Interclub Council was reorganized in an effort to prove its efficiency, and policy in this respect was changed so that the new specific function was regulatory rather than administrative. The Student Government also brought about the Town Meeting Plan, entertained the Student Congress of Virginia Colleges and Universities and began laying the foundation for a campus radio station. The Town Meeting was proposed by the President at the Honors Convocation and was first implemented on the occasion of the Town Meeting on the Cafeteria Problem. In December, the College and Student Government were host to the Fifth Semi-annual Convention of the Student Congress. The delegates seemed impressed by the hospitality they received and the meeting proved both pleasant and constructive. The campus radio project, having been "kicked around" for several years, was finally the subject of positive action from the Student Government. The value of these actions remain as yet to be seen.

The year's activities seemed to indicate first that the Student Government can serve the students by initiating constructive projects and policies as well as by "registering gripes," and second, that the Student Government needs more or less continuous reorganization so that its policies and agencies will be contemporary with the problems with which it seeks to deal. Much of the year's activity was experimental and more than a sufficient share proved to be worth-while in the end.

MEN'S HONOR COUNCIL

One of the most cherished priorities of William and Mary is its Honor Council, put into effect in 1779. The Men's Honor Council investigates and tries reported breaches of the Honor Code.

The Honor Code is administered directly by the students, through the medium of the duly elected members of the Council. The Council seeks to encourage the advancement of the ideals of the system by a thorough orientation program for incoming students and by announcing the results of a trial.

DICK MATTOX, Chairman

The Honor Code offenses are cheating in several forms, and lying and stealing. The students of William and Mary are bound by honor to adhere to these principles upon matriculation at the college.

Chairman of the Honor Council for 1949-'50 was Dick Mattox, while Sam Lindsay served as vice-chairman and Hugh DeSamper as secretary. Other members were Ed Ward, Bill Watson, Chris Moe and Bernard Wittkamp. Three members are chosen from both the senior and junior classes and one is chosen from the sophomore class.

WOMEN STUDENTS' COOPERATIVE GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

NICKY DILLARD, President

The Women Students' Co-operative Government Association was organized to further self-government and student responsibility in the management of women students' affairs. The success of the three student councils depends upon each member's assumption of responsibility and cooperation in the spirit and ideals of the organization. Our aims can be accomplished only by the efforts of the women students to keep this association worthy of their confidence. Student government exists because it is believed in, and it is attempted to maintain it at a high level of efficiency.

Upon her entrance in college each woman a u t o m a t i e ally becomes a member of W.S.C.G.A. Its work is carried on through three councils of elected representatives: The Executive council, the Judicial committee, and the Honor committee. A faculty committee, composed of Dr. Adair, Dr. Fowler, and Dr. Gordon, is selected by the councils and meets with the Executive and Judicial councils to coordinate the ideals of the faculty, administration, and students.

The first Monday of each month is devoted to discussing the business of W.S.C.G.A. in meetings in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. This year the meetings have been efficiently conducted by the President, Nicky Dillard. Speakers are introduced, new legislation is started, discussed by the women and sent to proper channels, and announcements are made. Other members of the council were Sarah Enos, vice-president; Teddy Nicas, secretary; Rusty Davis, treasurer; Barbara Campbell and Nancy Kurtz, representatives at large; and Ginny Campbell, freshman representative.

The W.S.C.G.A. is a member of the Southern Intercollegiate Association of Student Governments, and members attend the yearly convention to study the student government organizations of other schools.

Orientation week in September was the first obstacle facing the W.S.C.G.A. on the return to school, and the new women were thoroughly orientated to their duties, responsibilities, and privileges as members of this organization.

In addition to its usual program, the W.S.C.G.A. established a scholarship fund of at least one hundred dollars per year to be used by a woman student of the college. The award will be based primarily on need and activities Also, the publication of student directories was instigated by this organization.

As in former years, the Executive council sponsored the May Day program which was considered a success by the school at large.

THE JUDICIAL COMMITTEE

The Judicial Committee is the body which administers the rules set up by the Women Students' Co-operative Government. Its activities are not limited to regulatory functions, however. The Judicial Committee has attempted through educational means to arouse interest and personal responsibility toward student government in each of the women students. That has been the keynote of the Judicial program for the year.

The presidents of the three large dormitories and Ludwell are members of the Judicial Committee and form the best channel between students and the committee. Any student who feels a rule is unnecessary or unfair may suggest a change in the regular student government meeting. If the motion passes, then it is referred to the Judicial Committee and their advisors who may pass it subject to administrative approval.

The committee tries to serve the women students.

THE HONOR COUNCIL

Believing that every student, upon reaching college age possesses honesty and integrity, the men of the College of William and Mary founded the first Honor System in 1779. Since this date, many other colleges and universities have adopted similar systems. The system plays an integral part in college life, both inside and outside of the classroom.

Upon matriculation at William and Mary, the student is entitled to the privileges of the system and, in return, accepts the obligations of maintaining and upholding the principles of the Honor Code. Violations of the Code include lying, cheating, and stealing, and are punishable in extreme cases by dismissal from college.

Breaches of the Honor Code are tried before seven members of the Honor Council, who are elected by the women students. The Women's Honor Council is not a governing body; rather, it investigates and tries cases placed before it.

In reporting breaches the student has one of two alternatives: He may challenge the student accused and offer him a chance to resign from college immediately, or report himself. If the accused fails to report himself, the accuser is obliged to notify the Council right away. On the other hand, the student may report the suspect directly to the Honor Council. Anyone accused of a violation of the Honor Code is entitled to a fair trial.

All scholastic work, whether in the classroom or not, comes under the Honor System. Reporting an offense should not be thought of as tattling. It is merely protecting our college community against persons who disregard and have no respect for the Honor Code under which we live.

This year, Patricia Jones was chairman, assisted by Lee Renander, secretary; senior members: Yvonne Hickey and Jeanne Payne; Junior members: Melissa Warfield and Mary Anne Woodhouse; and Sophomore member, Carolyn Forman.

Desamper, Adair, Bridges, Cleaver, Woodbridge, Stringham, Dayton

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE

The Publications Committee elects the editors of the three student publications as well as the business managers of the Colonial Echo and FLAT HAT. In addition, the Committee reviews elections and appointments of other staff members and, at its monthly meetings, concerns itself with staff organization and cooperation. It has no voice in the editorial policy of any student publication.

This year's Publications Committee was composed of Dr. Douglass Adair, elected by the Student Assembly; Dr. D. W. Woodbridge, representing the Student Activities Committee; Bud Bridges, editor of the Colonial Echo; Hugh DeSamper, editor of the FLAT HAT; Pat Stringham, editor of the ROYALIST; John Dayton, President of the Student Body; and Ann Cleaver, Chairman, elected by the Student Assembly.

We guess we know now how new parents feel about their first offspring; yes, Volume XXXIX, Number 1 came off the press just a few hours ago. We probably couldn't sleep anyway; the roar of the presses still haunts us. We've scrubbed at the ink with benzine, benzedrine, gasoline, and codine and still have half of Casey's ad printed on our elbows. At least we filled all the gaps even if every member on the staff did have to write a letter to the editor. We ought to write a letter of appreciation to every one who made Dean's List last semester; if we couldn't have listed their names we really would have been stuck. All we have to do now is pray that our readers don't remember King's column—hope the girls don't mind delivering the papers to all the dorms. We must get a circulation manager—better get a little sleep; two hours before the staff meeting tonight.

November 19

Spent the afternoon at the FLAT HAT office, and what an afternoon! It all started when we lost our Morgue Editor; someone finally had the bright idea to check the files, and there, crammed in between scissors and scotch tape sat Shirley. What an efficient staff she has!

It was pretty rough writing headlines with the radio on full blast; but, boy, that was a swell game! Unkie had a hard time fitting in that one; RUSH WEEK WILL BEGIN, LEX TO RAGAZZO TO HICKEY ON NOVEMBER 27, but he's awfully good at cutting. It's a wonder poor Jan didn't go completely berserk today; she was doing everything from answering Lou's mad, "Here, copy boy," to serving cokes, writing a theatre article and keeping everyone from jumping out the office windows. Fran had quite a time too, trying to make a twelve-inch story out of two hockey scores.

We're plotting to raid the files some night and write them down in our little black books. Jim Baker is working like a dog to try and get the news out. He told us he was planning a fourth fire in the Wren Building so the "Flat Hat" could have a scoop complete with pictures! Shirley Spain is still trying to get the Morgue in condition, and Gus Manatt is tearing his hair out because the table hasn't been cleaned for the circulation staff yet. Joan Carpenter is working hard on the advertising tonight. Maybe we can stay out of bankruptcy for another year.

March 17

Here it is the night of the spring hop and here we sit. We had swell dates all lined up, but today is Friday and we had to go over to the "Flat Hat" office. We worked so hard that on returning to the dorm, we were too tired to go to the dance. We broke our dates, and our ears are still buzzing from the comments we got. Maybe we had better look for dates on the "Flat Hat" staff! Saw Dick Sayford, the Sports Editor, today. He tells us he is having the same trouble. But anyway, the paper will go to press on time. We really will be sorry though when we're through. It was a tough grind at times, but, well worth it.

THE ROYALIST

William and Mary's literary organ, The Royalist, has thrashed through another aesthetic year in its dim, smoky alcove near the roof of Marshall-Wythe. The magazine was ably edited by Pat, the Stringham, whose qualities of Trebmal said. "Grasp convenience by the fore-lock; it whistles but once."

As the quagmire may pull us deeper, we pause at this point to thank Mr. W. Melville Jones for his help and advice. Without him The leadership, energy, and intelligence, and something quite intangible (no one has any idea what) has carried the standards onward, ever upward. Please try to imagine what I mean. Anyway, the most drastic change she made this year was the addition of a number of pages to the magazine, but printing only three issues. It boils down to the same thing, though much more convenient, and as the Hindu prophet Royalist might have—well, that is—you sec—Arggh! It's too horrible to talk about. With that last sentence in mind, let's move on to the Associate Editor, a charming girl named Kitty Trass, or Track, or something. Someone had to associate with the Editor, and this brave girl volunteered.

Leaping frivolously to the Editorial Board, we see that insulting Bridges fellow, a cast-off of some pamphlet called the Echo. Impossible to overlook are Dick Lee and Chris Moe, two Theatr' people, m'deah. They give the Board that certain low tone. The girl Trapp, or Tragg. has been mentioned, I believe. Next come Keimling, Lambert, Finn, and Waters, breaking bottles and throwing chairs. So were Carter and Hutcheson; with the latter we became better acquainted with T. S. Eliot. Jug. Jug. It took both Jackson and Roeder to restrain S. A. H. Taylor, so easily made violent by new material.

THE COLONIAL ECHO

SPORTS STAFF Ashby, Finn PHOTOGRAPHA STAFF Smith, Kilbourne, Cooper

Getting a yearbook out isn't as simple as people think. When the Colonial Echo editors disappeared from the campus for the year '49-'50, everybody assumed that the Honor Council had finally caught up with Bridges, or that Keimling had decided to become a study-recluse. But, blinking our eyes, we crawled out from under our rock in mid-May to present the 1950 Echo.

Special thanks are due Bill Kepner for his tireless service as Staff Photographer; Jack Kilbourne, Photography Editor; Phyllis DeHaven, Business Manager; Joan Kohler, Class Editor: Bruce Crowell, Organizations Editor and All-Around-Handy-Man; Don Ashby (ably assisted by M-J Finn), Sports Editor: Jeannette Keimling, Make-Up Editor: Bill Williams, Art Editor; and, last but not least, Sue Hines, Associate Editor.

As for the individual staffs:

ORGANIZATIONS STAFF

This staff tried, usually in vain, to get pictures of all the student organizations - fraternities and sororities, religious groups, and interest groups-and the corresponding write-ups telling about what the specific groups are doing. The staff members this year did their job soon enough. But what with some photography troubles here and there, in fact almost all over, a great deal of it had to be done again. Thanks to Bill Kepner, who took over the job of staff photographer in January, the uncompleted work finally saw the light of accomplishment. Thanks to most of the organizations, the write-ups were in in plenty of time and off to the printer two months ahead of schedule. Photographs were in ahead of time, much to our surprise, and despite some weird groupings on one page (one group in summer clothes, and the other in overcoatsthe weather was mighty changeable this year) most of the pictures turned out pretty well. Thanks to a willing staff, the work was easy for all concerned. Orchids to our typists, Adelaide Jennings, Frances Thatcher, and Lee Renander, who put in long, finger-warping hours at the Echo typewriters getting out the copy; to those same three and George Emerson, Connie Zuidema, Ellen Ringer; Evelyn Cox, Peyton Morriss, and Roger Reid for those long afternoons shaping groups for pictures, our hearty thanks.

CLASS STAFF

"Are you a senior?" was the first question asked by the Class staff this year as they sat in Taliaferro filling out forms for all those having their faces photographed—then long weeks of waiting for the glossies to return and Julia to get the groups alphabetized. Now the work really hegan, and the week before Christmas was spent in the office—with no heat—typing endless forms for the innumerable students. When we found that we could go home Christmas if we completed the work, even more was accomplished. Sallie edited the forms and Stevie, Ann, Buddha, Muriel, Gloria, Dot, Ginny, Nancy, and Connie typed to the bitter end no fingers. "Who has heard of John K. something or other? I can't make out his name." Or, "What field of concentration is Topic No. 1?" "Only 799 more names to type and we'll be through." After sealing the envelopes for Classes, Sororities and Fraternities, (since it was all she could do!, Joan's only statement was. "Next year someone else can lick the envelopes."

BUSINESS STAFF

The Business Staff got off to a great year with the addition of eight new members and, of course, the "faithfuls" of last year. Two hectic weeks of scheduling and taking pictures and then months of trying to collect for them. (It seems as if no one has money.) Audrey and Phyl tramped around in the rain getting patrons, and with the able assistance of Ferne Doss, Assistant, and: Dick, Sue, Joanne, John, Pam, Roy, Walt, Tom, Betty, Barbara, and Jean we collected our money and paid our bills.

SPORTS STAFF

The magnanimous two, or the sports staff of the 1950 Colonial Echo, began its many struggles against deadlines and conquered them with no little perspiration and ingenuity.

Mary Jo Finn, serving in the capacity of Editorial Assistant, proved herself capable of commendable work, and pulled the staff along on a shoestring. M.J.'s efficiency and ability certainly could not have been done without.

Don Ashby, the Sports Editor, added wrinkles to his brow and grey hairs to his little pointed head. Running down people for pictures, stealing an occasional typist from Organizations, scheduling pictures, nightmaring-up arrangements for action photos, and diverse other activities all combined to make M.J. and D.A. very weary.

Much patience was given by the photographer, Bill Kepner, and assistance was ventured by Dottie Lenham, Jim Devitt, Mark McCormack, and Bill Lehrburger. When the battles were finally over, the staff was very, very tired, but also very happy.

PHOTOGRAPHY STAFF

In spite of numerous scrabblings about sloping roofs, faking thrill shots and attempting great scenics where no material existed, we are glad to report no broken fingernails, no insurance collected. What is a lack of technical information compared to the great beauties of the soul which demand expression? Little litanies of "we do"-"we don't" added to the general atmosphere of frustrated Raphael-like attempts at balancing the Wren building with an off-the-cuff shot of the lower end of the sunken garden taken at twilight. Color, or its lack, added to the experiences; it is amazing how a chartreuse blouse conveys the impression, in a black and white, of pale red or purple. Not the least of the considerations may have been found in many attempts to think of those cute captions. Then, there were the beauty queens to gather, and the many disappointed to keep out of the office. Here the Staff proved invaluable. Must say the administration has proved most cooperative. Not a single picture was submitted over twenty years old. Scheduling, as always, can be proved statistically to be metaphysically mixed up (the wrong way) with the 'laws' of chance and probability. When did they ever work out to the convenience of those who attempted to put them to work? All in all, somehow, the thing has fallen together, perhaps of its own weight, but, ain't it gorgeous?

Crowell and Jennings

MAKE-UP STAFF

After a negligible 3 weeks, Make-Up finally tutored the rest of the staffs in the difference between manuscript and copy paper and the meaning of "deadlines." Copy was always late because "I ran out of ink," "It rained," or "Why can't I copy what you printed last year?" But then make-up had fun. With maniacal glee write-ups were cut or padded.

Two old gremlins were back, Tita and Nan, and the rest of the staff benefited from their vast experience. Andy, Ellie, Bob, Doris, and Clarence couldn't read so they pounded Remingtons unmercifully. Ralph, Nancy Leigh, Bruce, Anne and Alice proofed mountains of seemingly incoherent glop. Jonesey was in charge of "cheer." And the two editorial assistants Nancy and Glenn ably assisted. Operations "Pancake" were directed by Jeannette.

ART STAFF

In past years the art staff has endeavored to present the comic side of campus life through cartoons which took sly digs at our alma mater. This year, however, we feel that some of the more serious memories will be of interest to those who peruse the Echo in later years when Junior finds it in the attic amidst other relics of the past. With this aim the art staff sauntered about the campus peering into the Sunken Garden, viewing wih wonder the statues of King William and Queen Mary, squinting at the exciting perspective which the President's House presents the passerby, and trying to catch the fleeting aesthetic moment which students must have had in the early days of William and Mary. Even the cannon which guards Lord Botty was given the sketch treatment. We hope that our aim was accomplished; it has been if, when you look over the Echo, you are reminded of the small but beautiful scenes which make up the Green, Gold and Gray Campus.

FRATERNITIES

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

The Inter-Fraternity Council is composed of the president and one elected representative from each of the eleven member fraternities. The objects of the Council are to promote better relations among the fraternities by providing a common medium through which to act, to encourage scholarship, athletics, and intellectual attainment, to cooperate with the faculty and administration, to promote the general welfare of the college, to establish rules for general inter-fraternity activity, and to organize and integrate the interests of fraternity activity with the general program of student life on campus.

This year's offices, filled on a yearly rotation basis, were held by Harold Bernstein, Pi Lambda Phi, as president, and Bob Stevens, Pi Kappa Alpha, as secretary. This year, the second in the lodges, found last year's spirit of fellowship and cooperation continued, leaving the future bright for the fraternity system here at William and Mary.

The main function of the Pan-Hellenic Council is the compilation of rules governing rushing, pledging, and initiation for sorority women on campus. Other functions include the sponsoring of a Pan-Hellenic workshop and the awarding of a plaque to the sorority whose pledge class has attained the highest scholastic average.

Officers for 1949-'50 were Yvonne Hickey, president; Sue Brooks, vice-president; Nancy Black, secretary; and Ruth Barnes, treasurer. The chairman of the Alumnae Council was Miss Thelma Brown.

The Minerva Lion, along with her Sig Alph sons, roared again in '49-'50—a year which proved superlative from every angle for SAE.

Highlighting a year reminiscent of many good times, were such functions as beer parties, a gambling party, dances, a party in Richmond thrown by our Tau brothers, and of course, the inevitably fine weekend parties and get-togethers at the lodge. As usual, this year the lodge was always jumping with people who were looking for a good time and knew where to find it.

The chapter had the privilege of being host to the other chapters in this province in February at the Province Convention, which had a three-day stand in Williamsburg.

As in former years, SAE was well-represented in every field of student activity. Brothers on McCray's Big Green were Cloud, Randy and Bob Davis, Filer, Hughes, Hilling, Lewis, Lex. Mark, and McNamara. On the basketball team were Allen, Benjamin, Bunting, McMillan and Ozenburger. Jack Hogan and Terry Mahloy represented us on the tennis team, while Hugh DeSamper ran cross-country. Ed Pierce was head cheerleader. SAE was well represented on the Student Assembly with Ed Ward, Roy Slezak, Joe Mark, and "Perk" Perkins serving on that body. Members of the Honor Council were Ward, DeSamper, and Bill Watson. Tom Palmer was vice-president of the Senior Class.

Hugh DeSamper was named editor-in-chief of The Flat Hat in February, with Dick Sayford as Sports Editor. Don Ashby was sports editor of the Colonial Echo and has also been known to dabble in poetic efforts. Ray Cooper became a Phi Bete, and George Hughes was made ODK. Fraternity presidents were O. B. Root, first semester, and Randy Davis, second semester.

The fraternity lost ten men in February graduation but replenished their numbers by taking twenty-eight pledges during Rush Week. This year's rushing left little to be desired. Roy Slezak had the arduous duty of pledge master.

The Christmas dance was a huge success due to the unbounded efforts of Red Sheehan. Martha Ann Hogshire, a member of Pi Beta Phi, was chosen chapter sweetheart.

The year went out to the strains of that campus hit. "Bring Out the Old Silver Goblet with the SAE Upon It."

Vive la old K.A.! Long live the Order. Long live that particular brand of camaraderie which it symbolizes.

Foremost among the perennial greats of the past few years was Salty Geddy. This makes the third straight issue he's made solely on the strength of his beef stories. Probably the man most likely to succeed Chucko was Harry the Horse, with his Beegeeful armful right there to substantiate everything. Contenders for third place in this department were Willie the Weightlifter and Cheboygan King, who also had entrance points in the Nasty Remarks, Off-Key Lead and Open Pocketbook departments.

Three men stood out in Cupid's ranks of Shaft Receivers: Limerock, Little Caesar, and Charlie the Sheik. Still spellbound were Senior Class Prexy Scofield, Junie, the Horse, the Bleecewtailed Fly, Odal and Russell the Muscle. A few odd cases were those like Brother Bruchey's and Brother Bussell's, the only m.o.c who could string three at a time. And, of course, ole Hoax will forever be interested in the condition of Texas. 'Course, Brothers Bonney, Geddy, and Huff had little choice.

Among the Theta House Auxiliaries were Calves Kostel, Paducah King, Professor Ashman, Wild Bill Sinton, the Horse, Ding Ding Tony, and the Hoax. How that sorority preserved its social standing throughout the year will always puzzle us.

This writer snuck out of the Casino d'Hamel before the payoff. Methinks the Brothers Hamel didn't reckon with the gin genius of Brother Frederick. Definitely a detriment to the scholarship program.

Who'll forget Herbo's tie-rack and his four and twenty-thousand ties; Wild Bill's better half, Ned; Vinnie's silence; Mad Dog: "Have-you-taken-the-smoke-test" Withrow; Leapin' Lew Lepper. O.A.; R.A.; S.S.; Bitsy of the Varsity Five; Dapper Drake: Lump-lump and his Boy's Club; or the fall crop of pledges, Rocky, Nick, Si, Bob. Jim, Mary, and Hop.

With about half of the above men returning next year, a lot of people will be missed and thought of often. Before we pack up, then:

> Ye Knights of Alcohol, arise And Chorus cheers up to the skies And vow again fraternal ties; Vive la old K. A.!

No doubt about it! Yep, 1949-'50 was the biggest and best year which Phi Tau has enjoyed since, well at least since 1948-'49! Parties, banquets, and balls were accorded top priority on the calendar ... following exams, classes, and Jockey Corner of course! The year was to be remembered for the fact that it saw the long awaited graduation of The Grand Old Man of Intramurals, the one, the only Gene "I can't Get a Date on Campus" Rambacher. Also falling by the wayside with sheepskins (at this writing anyway) were many other Phi Tau old-timers. For names check the Senior listings, can't tell if they'll make it or not.

Huzzahs to Johnny Warner who controlled the driver's seat for the first half of the year. And to Jav Sawyer too, who recovered sufficiently from the North Carolina weekend to take over after February exams. Fratres Gerrie and Harcum did the jobs on the financial end and the recording end. And Harcum made Phi Bete at the same time.

Mike and Bill were Phi Tau's answer to Leon and Eddie when it came to making little maitre-d'hotel. The estimated-calculated always held its own!

"Weepy" Lorenz performed a job comparable to The Rube himself, bringing Phi Tau higher up in Intramurals than anytime since 1938. The work of Rambacher, Lam. Spencer, Kelly, Schroeder, Poland, et al. (including Senator J. A. Thomas) made "Weepy" and the rest of us proud, indeed.

John "Boss" Dayton wound up his college career in a blaze of glory, Prexy of the Student Body (not the one with the baton) for his graduating year. And he still found time to build more furniture with his assistant-in-charge-of-whatever-John-hasn't-time-to-do, Sammy Banks, Gene Crow would have made Elsa Maxwell jealous with his performance when it came to handling Rush Week and the dances! And Miles Rudisill's touch to initiations was one of perfection.

Saturday nights at the Lodge would not have been the same without George to sing "The Cat Cum Back" and our perennial visitors. "Ace" and Little Brown Doug, on hand. The all-time KOB. Zale Dumption reigned supreme on these festive occasions.

Yep, the year has come and gone. Alpha Theta is left in good hands for the next three years with the world's grossest pledge class ready to take over. And now, let's start preparing for our 50th Reunion in the year 2000!

This has been a busy year for Lambda Chi . . . The letdown following the graduation of many of the more colorful Faithful was forgotten during the hurried activities surrounding the Homecoming Monkey Making Machine . . . Apparently, it made monkeys of all of us! ... We don't know what the Lodge's Saturday night "Candlelight Services" have to do with it, but the pinning percentage is on the upgrade ... Why doesn't Bill Bogg paper the Lodge walls with stamps? At least, it would keep the rest of us from falling over the packing boxes all the time ... Would also answer the picture problem ... Flash! Woman-Hater Mears turns over new leaf ... How come no rain at either the Beer Party or Christmas Dance? Wha' Hoppon-... Not so for the Screnade. More members gargled than sang that night ... Since when does Ronnie Moore attend Chapel-and on Friday nights? ... The track team continues with success anew ... Only for a woman would Dick Hutcheson abandon That Moustache ... One more hunk of junk in Dick Lee's room and he'll have to move into the hall ... Pass the cigars! Bob Engel gained a whole pound ... Orchids to all the Officers for a fine job and a successful Rush Week ... Are the Brothers glad that they don't have to go through the Pledge Training System! ... Why does Bob Carter buy so many glasses? . . . We hope that the spirit(s) of the new Pledges will endure . . . Ed Extract did the unpardonable. He bought a hat . . . How come the sudden appearance of married Brothers and Brothers married? ... Cheers to Wild Bill, our answer to "Jeep" ... "WSEX" ... Louie "It-Do-Make-a-Difference" Lipoli can still sling an apt phrase . . . We ought to call our chapter history "With Gin and Woman Through Darkest Lodge Party" . . . Fletch Ewell's term as Treasurer has equipped him for a circus career, either as a tight wire artist or juggler ... And so ends another year, and with it (mercifully), another write-up of Lambda Chi!

It's not an easy fact or matter To mention every single frater. Yet, in the given limited space Hark! To Phi Alpha's private rat race.

With the beginning of the school year, the fires of fellowship were once more kindled as Phi Alphans returned to 16 Fraternity Terrace to prove again that "Friendship is a sheltering tree."

From his home in the wilds of New York came Howlin' Marty Herman to once more thump the gavel and shout for order.

Leaving the swamps of Martinsville, Joe "the Kid" Levy brought his horse Gesundheit to a halt before the lodge, "The Kid" was back to lead sports-minded Phi Alphans across the battlefield, with Arnie "Hooks" Conn globe-trotting on his heels.

"Hooks" Conn globe-trotting on his heels.

Back came Neil "Mesmer" Eisen, "Stickin'" Kenny Gutterman, and Dave "Epicurean" Eisenberg to wind up their William and Mary daze. When Dave wasn't "calling China," he was pining for the Gem of Jefferson.

Once more in the midst of the merry-making at the eastle were Herby the Rothfeder, Hank "Mighty Mouse" Hannelin, and Channel Swimmer Ross. Tanzer, "The Head," was telling tails of his trip via flying saucer to Massachusetts. Ronnie—Bedroom Eyes—Hanft ran around searching for Anacin; pandemonium was giving him the shakes.

Gallopin' Gene Gurlitz and Larry—the Silent One—Blum sat stunned by the eloquence of Litigatin' Bernie Goldstein who had just won another case for bureaucratic government and adequate garbage disposal. Harris (late-again) Verner leaned on the piano listening to Bernie "Long Legs" Howard play, "Come Along Babs and We'll Munch Some Nabs."

Howlin' Herman still thumped away with the gavel, but to no avail, 'Madgine that!!

Dynamite Peimer faked a faint as the Lodge Committee Chairman reminded him of a forty-five cent debt from last year, Bob Bumpkin Greenfield lugged him into the powder room for a whiff of fresh air.

Beyond the front door, General Jack "The Ripper" Bloom was drilling the pledges while attempting to appease a luscious brunette who felt neglected. He ordered the pledges to snap out of their haphazard attention and sing. So they sang: and as they sang. Howlin' Herman banged the gavel. Ronnie was soothed by his Anacin, Legislatin' Lenny Silverman sat on Kid Levy's saddle reading "Robert's Rules." He could not be disturbed for love nor Phi Beta Kappa. Marty "Gimpy" Rosenerans put on a record of "Ghost Riders in the Sky," hoping that it would slow down the stampeding herd, while Walter "Laredo" Stern lay in a corner "Wrapped in white linen and cold as the clay."

And outside the pledges were still singing:

"Down in Colonial Williamsburg
Where the devil rules,
You'll find Phi Alphans with
The rest of the fools,
You'll find 'em up in Heaven
In the sky above,
With their wings locked together
In Brotherly love."

Now on your right, ladies and gentlemen, you see the historical old Theta house. That's "Mother" Rigg sitting there on the historical old rock in the front yard. Someone told her that if she sat there long enough, the thing might hatch. Quack!

As we proceed into the living room, you see in the corner the only perpetual motion machine in existence—the Theta bridge table. That's Tex there in the corner, laying down her hand and claiming she has all the rest. Out here on the sun-porch, Cook is still trying to teach Leo how to jitterbug, while Sue Green and Ginny Tague put the finishing touches on the "great campaign." Walk quietly through the study room, please. That's B.G. engrossed in "The Proper Care and Feed of the Horse," and Bev with her nose in a volume called "Body Rest," one of her own works.

We'll stop for a minute in the kitchen for a cup of coffee. The gal brewing it is Ginny Crosby, the only person in existence who was born with a silver coffee-pot in her mouth. That's Jan Richardson across the table, studying the morning papers to see if the West Point of the Air Corps is going to be in Virginia.

Sitting next to Jan is Jeannie, who is vainly trying to find another athlete to complete the third-string hop-scotch team. If you were watching you could have seen her just drop two more vitamin pills in Jan Summers' coffee.

This is the chapter room. The glass shower doesn't work. That's B. J. over there, studying "Hoyle's Official Rules of Charades." That's Irma on the bed. and the words she repeats as she fitfully sleeps are "gentlemen prefer blondes." That's Barnes in there washing her hair, about to be immortalized by Nancilyn and her flash-bulb camera.

Finally, there's Lelia and Ginger in the nursery. Lelia has just offered to trade Ginger five fraternity pins for one diamond ring. No sale.

September rolled around, ending an eventful summer, but bringing a more eventful nine months ... Nine months for studying-although its definition is not always that of Webster's, and for participating in social events—the Homecoming Parade came early in October, but the Phi Mus were ready with "Their Majesties' Verdict" of "Hold That Line;" our pledge banquet at the lodge, where we were entertained by the pledges themselves (well, what else could you call it when nine girls try to sing together?) was followed soon by a Christmas party, where we found Santa (whom we noticed has changed sexes, hmm!! Ella Mae): the two wings of Great Hall were used for the two of the greatest occasions . . . Initiation and our most wonderful and successful dance of the year: but we didn't let a little thing like the city limits stop us, for we had a well-remembered picnic at Yorktown, finally the rounds were made of Williamsburg when the Senior Banquet was held at the Inn. The result being many pleasant memories as well as memorable events.

Ginny's futile attempts to wake up Dot for her six hours of classes on Monday mornings ... Marie and Nancy K, rushing back from swimming with their wet hair, debating whether to appear in the cafeteria for lunch or not ... Bev. and Mary relaxing after lunch by trying to shag to slow and moody music ... Little Audrey and her only problem, that of deciding whether to date the boys or draw her maps ... Anne dragging in late from Chem, labs hoping to find some morsel left in the Wigwam . . . Connie and Dare looking forward to June and its important ceremony | the wedding, Oh. I mean graduation) ... Mama Fleetwood adding her advice to the long-drawn-out bridge games as well as participating in them ... #### LIFE BEGINS AT EIGHT FORTY: A saga of life and subterranean habitation at the Alpha Chi house

Life begins before 8:40 for some of us; in the hushed stillness of the early dawn only the dainty footfalls of little Sarah, our fleet-footed nymph, erash the silence. Would that she were anywhere but over our heads at 7:30 a.m.

The breakfast hour is a pleasant one. The air is spicy with the aroma of boiling coffee, burning frying pans, and cries of "who stole my butter?" As soon as the merry breakfasters have cleared the room. Dundy, armed with apron and cook book, comes to start Claud's lunch. (Sandwiches again!)

The postman's friend, Jane S., gathers her mail and staggers up the steps. It's a wonder those dispatches from Baltimore don't have to go second class.

The rest of the day is inconsequentially spent attending classes a real bother to these intense scholars. Late at night the clan assembles in the second floor hall: Barb the "Beskit boll" kid from Jersey who was such a grand president (i.e., precedent); little Ressie, the Wakefield Nightengale, whose tongue is the closest thing to perpetual motion we have ever seen: "Vinegar Joe" Seiler, the gal with the silken locks, passes through with a bottle of shampoo in each hand, gingerly stepping on the bridge players; Doris strolls in, having just awakened from her afternoon nap; Betty punctuates her bridge playing alternately with, "your voice hurts my eardrums," and "I'm commencing to be hungry!" With that, the mad rush for the kitchen is on, leaving poor Anne to find a second, third, and fourth for bridge. Reinforcements arrive in the form of Liz, looking as if she wintered in Florida: Lois, who pleads in her best Buffalo drawl for "one more usher for Wednesday night:" and "Dimples" Gallaber, the cartographer's friend. There's Pat, the Bell Telephone Girl of the Year at her favorite pastime; and dear Jane H., the soprano-with-a-future, cutting pictures out of magazines to hang on her wall.

It's been a great day and a fabulous time, this year-long house party. We'll never forget the good things—our wonderful Mrs. Duvall, and the bad—little Niagra, nor especially, the cold war between second and third floor. All that's left now is to wonder: Did Carol and Sid hear us that 3 a.m. we rigged up the can and string and knocked on their screen?

DOINGS IN THE DELTA SHELTER

Last summer the domestic Deltas (or so they tell us) kept up their usual record in promoting that wonderful institution called marriage.

However, our new class in the fall decided that the name of "Domestic Deltas" should be changed to the Dangerous Deltas. They were going to be footloose and fancy free. Then what hoppened, we ask ourselves! Was it the sudden spring weather that caused six of our girls to be pinned in one week? How about it Jeannie, Janie, Terry. Yvonne, Maggie, and Peggy?

Although we are reputed to have 35 pledges this year, we really have 36. Our newcomer is Ignominious Aloysius, Peggy's 'turtle who recently transferred from Florida. Incidentally, Iggie caused one of our most uproarous moments this year when he decided to get himself lost. Maggie was accused of having eaten turtle soup for lunch on the day of Iggie's disappearance. Of course, there was no peace until Peggy found the chagrined "Chelonia" behind her bed.

Our six philosophers and psychologists reside on third floor. Edic, Wanda, Evic. Nancy. Jane and Peggy W, have a really novel interpretation of Freud and Plato! Marianna and Fran spend hours reciting Shakespeare in preparation for their next play. We don't mind it girls, but must you scream "Out, out brief candle" every time you turn out the light?

Nan J., Margie, and Gay are our "beavers." Their official motto seems to be "work is good for the soul." They will be singing "Blue Skies" during exams tho' and delinquent Deltas (the ones who think quiet hour is strictly for hospitals) will be singing "Stormy Weather."

Mother Tig is still our benevolent guardian, and how we love those treats at night during exams, especially after reading a semester's work in some weird course like Econ. 5001, subtitled "The Rise and Fall of Cafeteria Prices."

Our Lee has made a wonderful leader, and we don't like to think of the year ending. Anyway, here's to good days ahead for Tri Delta in '50.

Phi Beta Kappa was founded at the College of William and Mary on December 5, 1776, as "a society for intellectual and social intercourse." Since that time the Society has extended over the United States and has become the most eminent, as well as the first, existing honor fraternity. The 173rd Anniversary of the founding was celebrated in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Building on December 5, 1949, with a poem by Mark Van Doren and an address by Louis B. Wright.

Mortar Board, the National senior honor society for women, was founded at Syracuse, N. Y., in 1918. The Alpha Club on the campus of William and Mary was the forcrunner of the local chapter which became a member of the national organization in 1928.

The purpose of Mortar Board is to "provide for the cooperation between societies, to promote college loyalty, to advance the spirit of service and the fellowship among university women, to maintain a high standard of scholarship, to recognize and encourage leadership, and to stimulate and develop a finer type of college woman."

In the spring, the outstanding Junior women are tapped on the basis of service, scholarship, and leadership in college life; as Mortar Board members they carry evidence of a successful, well-rounded college life.

Mortar Board assisted with the fall orientation program, continued the tutoring bureau, repeated a spring training program for campus officers, awarded a scholarship plaque to the Sophomore with the highest average, and gave its several "smarty parties" honoring high scholastic achievement.

In 1935 John Stewart Bryan, president of the college, initiated the procedure of giving recognition to certain men students who were most outstanding in the various phases of college life. He appointed a group known as the President's Aides, the selection of which individuals has become an institution at the college. President Pomfret established a precedent when, in appointing the Aides for the 1948-'49 college year, he included women in his selection to provide a wider and more democratic representation.

These men and women serve primarily as the president's personal aides in receiving and entertaining guests of the college. They occupy a position in the academic procession, and in recognition of this honorary appointment each member receives a medal designed by President Bryan.

At the Honors Convocation of November 16th, Charles Scofield, Chief Aide to the president, introduced the Aides appointed for the 1949-'50 session. They were: Patricia Jones, Nicholls Carra Dillard, John Dayton, Harvey Chappell, Marcia MacKenzie, Nancy Kurtz, Dick Mattox, Louis Bailey, Hugh Haynie, and Chester Giermak.

RESERVE OFFICERS'

The field artillery unit of the Reserve Officers Training Corps at William and Mary has in only three years firmly entrenched itself on this campus.

Working from headquarters in the rear of Blow Gymnasium, the three regular Army officers assigned to the unit have watched it grow until its peak of 220 students, enough to comprise a battalion of two batteries, was reached this year.

The unit is commanded by Colonel Giles R. Carpenter, professor of military science and tactics. Colonel Carpenter, a West Point graduate, commanded artillery units of the famed 42nd "Rainbow" Division during World War II and served as military commander of Salzburg, Austria, during the early days of the occupation.

The unit prepares enrollees for commissions in the Officers Reserve Corps. Veterans with more than one year service are enrolled directly in the third year of the course. For non-veterans the first two years are prerequisite to the last two.

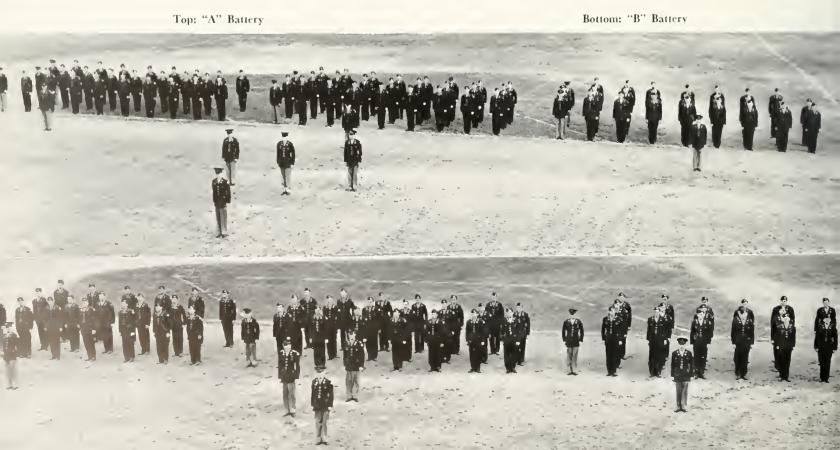

A requirement for completion of the course is the student's attendance, between his third and fourth years of ROTC, at summer camp, this year and last at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, largest artillery base in the world. Fourteen men from William and Mary attended the camp during the 1949 session with more than 500

students from twenty schools throughout the South and East

Training at Fort Bragg was largely an application of the artillery techniques taught at William and Mary. ROTC students worked with airborne field artillery units of the 82nd "All-American" Division, Classes and field problems were interspersed with many large scale demonstrations by the 82nd Division and Army

TRAINING CORPS

Field Forces Board No. 1. Among these were mock battles employing six to eight hundred troops, blank ammunition and all the spectacle of a full scale attack, illustrating fully the power of the airborne and the speed with which it can be effectively employed. Other demonstrations were performed of standard and experimental weapons, ranging from the 75mm. recoilless rifle to the new mobile 8" gun.

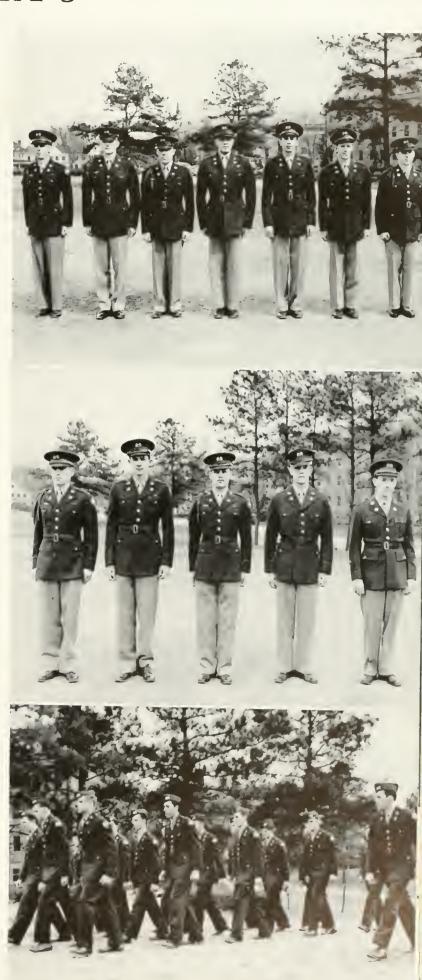

The camp is actually a highly concentrated review of the techniques taught at school and an introduction to advanced techniques to be mastered in the final year. This review is accomplished by assigning each man in the battery a different capacity each day, so that a man may one day find himself battalion commander and the next day a cannoneer. The weeks of field problems, classes, demonstrations and drills were climaxed at the end of camp by a 36 hour exercise under simulated battle conditions.

The social side of camp life was not neglected, however. Once a week there was a dance for ROTC trainees with hostesses from surrounding towns and cities. Weekends were free for the trainees and they made the most of them. For those with transportation there was the resort life of surrounding beaches in North and South Carolina and Virginia.

Most of the trainees reluctantly admitted that barracks life was an almost welcome change for the few short weeks of camp. To the veterans it was a brief return to the old, old routine. To the non-veterans it was a new experience, a way of life altogether different from any most of them had lived. To all it was a common experience which bound the William and Mary artillerymen together with an esprit de corps brought back to the William and Mary unit.

This year the second group to successfully complete the course will receive their commissions as second lieutenants in the Field Artillery Reserve. The group includes: Marvin C. Adams, James C. Anthony, Jr., Roy E. Balthis, Archer P. Coleman, Randall T. Elliott, Earl C. Graham, Lewis Lepper, Samuel M. Lindsay H. Ray D. Orr, Anacletus Renzi, Waldemar M. Riley and David M. Steck.

The College of William and Mary, as a state-supported institution, has no courses in religion and no chaplain. Feeling that men and women most need the guidance and care of the Church during their college years when they are undergoing important intellectual, emotional, moral, and spiritual adjustments, the Canterbury Club offers to Episcopal students and their friends a program of Worship, Study, Service, Fellowship, and Personal Counselling by the Club's Chaplain.

With these main aims in mind, the Canterbury Club attempts to bring the Christian outlook to its members. It believes in a common communion with God and with our fellow man.

The fencing season started off with a bang this year with seven members carrying over from last year. Instead of the usual fall tryouts, they were not held until spring inasmuch as there were no fall fencing classes. In addition to spring try-outs, the Fencing Club held an open fencing tournament.

The annual alumnae meet was held on March 18th. At this time the Tri-Weapon Club of Baltimore also participated. The climax of the season was a trip to New York to fence with a prominent women's school there.

GERMAN CLUB

The German Club was organized a number of years ago for the purpose of sponsoring two semi-formal coed dances a year. Mrs. John E. Pomfret is the club's sponsor. Each girl who joins the German Club receives a membership card which entitles her to buy the dance tickets at reduced prices, and to enjoy the privileges of the club.

The club's dances are usually in the late Fall and early spring, and are well attended.

The success of the German Club's dances depends upon each member's cooperation and contributions of ingenuity and workmanship, Nancy Black served as president this past year.

THE BACKDROP CLUB

The Backdrop Club, producers of the annual student-written, directed, and acted musical, was first organized in the Spring of 1938 when three industrious, theatre-minded students got together and decided to put on a show. Since that time the Varsity Show has grown in popularity, until now the Backdrop Club is the largest and perhaps the most active organization on campus. Its Varsity Show has been filling Phi Beta Kappa auditorium to capacity at every performance. We are always amazed that a large and heterogenous bunch of over-worked and ultimately exhausted students can pull such a number of diverse elements together into a coherent pattern.

Disbanded during the war, the Club had little trouble re-establishing itself on campus with its 1947 production of THE HEAT'S ON. This was followed in '48 by TAKE YOUR TIME and last year by CARRY ME BACK, a production with the most exciting music, the largest cast, and most unique script heretofore in Backdrop Club history. The show proved not only a hit here in Williamsburg, where it played three nights to packed houses, but was produced in Richmond as well.

This year once again, the Club has outdone all its predecessors. Added to the three campus performances and the showing in Richmond's WRVA theatre, was a half-hour television broadcast of the highlights of the show. The scripters, Glenn Garrison and Bruce Crowell, with Bill Harper, called for elaborate and fantastic scenery designed by Blair MacKenzie. MacKenzic was the technical director of the show as well. The entire production was directed by Harper, a standby from former shows. The music, once again published by Broadcast Music Inc., was ably handled by Dick Hutcheson and Marty Herman, while Garrison and Crowell wrote the lyrics. The Chorcography was originated and directed by Bob Smith. The publicity, ticket sales, out-of-town arrangements, etc., were under the direction of Tommy Brummer, the Club's business manager.

"Picture any old stage, clutter it with four or five dozen humans, talking, shouting, gesticulating, dancing, singing, interfering, hammering, painting, sewing, blowing loudly on various instruments, pounding on drums and each other, blinking lights, pulling curtains, hanging scenery, moving props, listening to Harper's directions, sleeping at odd moments here and there, memorizing parts—well, there you have it. And yet, out of chaos a unified whole suddenly emerges much to everyone's surprise, blinks at the first night audience, and another Varsity Show is born."

The National Society of Scabbard and Blade is an honorary military organization represented on one hundred college campuses throughout the nation. Membership in the society is drawn from outstanding members of the college's ROTC unit and officers of the various components of the Armed Forces.

Dedicated to the furtherance of military education and national preparedness, the group this year through several efforts endeavored to maintain student interest in the ROTC, as well as in military affairs of the nation.

This is the first appearance of Company K, Eighth Regiment, as the local chapter is designated, having been organized for only one year. It is hoped that in coming years it will increase in size and enthusiasm.

Edward D. Brown. Jr. was the unit's captain. Other officers included Otis Lee Garrison, first lieutenant; Archer P. Coleman, second lieutenant and James C. Anthony as first sergeant. Lieutenant Colonel Roger M. Page was the faculty advisor.

According to comment from villagers who have seen the William and Mary Band organize and split many times, the 1949 football season occasioned its greatest year.

We have this year, we believe for the first time, initiated an organizational spirit, nourished it with a load of common experiences and good times and watched it carry us on to greatly appreciated performances. That was our goal.

It was a lot of work sometimes, especially during the first three weeks. At times it looked as though the whole project would bog down, After our initial appearance at the V.P.I. game, however, the old adage about a good band at William and Mary being wishful thinking sneaked out the back way.

We're not the kind of organization that dotes on sentiment. But being concerned with "putting on a show for the folks" we have inherited something of the showman's fondness for good memories. Not many of us will forget the Wake Forest trip, when we really got to know each other, party-wise and otherwise; the West Point parade through the woods; the near rainout in Richmond, or the march up the Sunken Gardens after the disappointing Carolina game.

One of the main reasons for a happy outlook regarding next year's band was the traveling we were able to do, however limited it may have been. We got around somewhat this year and were able to compare our band with others, gather ideas and dream of at least as good a band next year.

Wait and see!

WILLIAM AND MARY CHOIR

When Warren Sprouse was confronted with the task of directing the William and Mary Choir this year, he had a real job on his hands. For this group had become one of the finest choirs in any college in the country, and to maintain its excellent reputation was not to be easy for a young man in his first year at such work. But the Choir is still the excellent group it has been in the past few years. Climaxing its year were the Christmas concert in conjunction with the Chorus, and the annual Spring concert and wide tour following. Its nation-wide popularity spreading even further, this group and its youthful leader must be congratulated on a season of unsurpassed singing.

The Chorus means different things to different people here at William and Mary. To its hundred-odd members it means hard work and satisfaction with a great deal of enjoyment in the bargain; to the campus it means music that is always enjoyed. For this is the starting point for future members of the Choir, and from its ranks come the star soloists you will be hearing in the next few years. Under the able direction of its new leader, Warren Sprouse, the Chorus has sung in numerous Wednesday night chapel services, and participated in two excellent Christmas concerts, as well as the Spring concert. The enthusiasm of its members is carried over into the music they sing, and the group's performance mirrors the success Warren has had in his first year at the belm.

THEINDIANS

Football season rolled around early in 1949 for the Big Green Indians of the College of William and Mary. With the presence of new teams such as the University of Ilouston, the University of Pittsburgh, and Michigan State College on the schedule, the season promised to be a good one for the team and the fans as well

After the first win over the University of Ilouston, which had a team that was reputed to be an up-and-coming power in the Southwestern Conference, it was apparent that Coach Rube McGray was heading for a good seasonal record. Back on the squad were many experienced veterans of gridiron battles under the green and silver. Stellar performers comprised the first team. Such stalwarts as Jack "The Flying" Cloud, big Lou Creckmur, and Joseph "Buddy" Lex graced the team, along with other men who had performed and made bids for football fame and honors.

Bruising battles followed one another for the most part of the season, and the team hit a slight slump. Then, against weaker Richmond University Spiders at their Homecoming, the Green started to roll along Victory Trail once more. Through the remainder of the season the Indians played fine football, although they dropped a heart-rending contest to the University of North Carolina Tarheels in bulging Cary Stadium, the record of the season was saved.

The University of Arkansas fell in defeat before the rampaging Indians, as did North Carolina State. The Indian-Wolfpack game produced the finale to the William and Mary home game schedule and was a fitting climax to the football careers of nine varsity men.

Many of the seniors who were playing their last games in William and Mary football uniforms provided the crowd with displays of football know-how that they had learned and executed under the tutelage of Coach McCray. Buddy Lex passed all over the field to Vito Ragazzo, who will make strong bids for All-America selections this year. The Lex-to-Ragazzo combination turned out to be one of the outstanding offensive duos throughout the entire season. Lex connected with touchdown passes to Ragazzo for the most profitable scoring machinery of the offensive attack.

Younger backfield men gained their shares of the glory through the season. They proved themselves proficient to the tasks of running the William and Mary team. To be sure, the experience gained by these men who came up from the freshman ranks will prove to be very useful and necessary in the seasons to come.

Although the backfield of the Indian team gained many honors through the season, it cannot be denied that their glory was in part made possible because of the fine line play produced by men who were big and experienced gridders. The Indian line was one of the best in the team's history. It was as heavy and as fast as any in the Southern Conference. The aggressiveness exhibited by the huge men in the line proved effective for the use of the single-wing formation that Coach Rube McCray employed.

In post-season bowl contests William and Mary was well represented by four seniors. Buddy Lex, George Hughes and Lou Creekmur played in the Blue-Gray classic in Montgomery, Alabama. They turned in their usual good performances. Jack Cloud played in a later game—the Senior Bowl game at Jacksonville, Florida. The "Chief" played a fine defensive game.

Looking back over the season, one can see that the William and Mary Indians carried their colors onto the gridiron well and exhibited the fine competitive spirit that characterizes the sport.

CHEERLEADERS

William and Mary's twelve-member cheering squad led the student rooting sections through turbulent football and basketball seasons during the year. Their best accomplishment was undoubtedly the pep and spirit they stirred up at the North Carolina pep rally at Jockey Corner and in the stands during the game.

Sue Hines and Shirley Green, ranking members of the squad, accompanied the team to East Lansing, Michigan, for the Big Green-Michigan State game in October.

Bruce Henderson, Roy Anderson, Dave Wakefield. Bob Boyd, Bob Parker, and Becky Roche joined the squad at the beginning of the football season. The squad will lose Sue Hines and Shirley Green at graduation.

Ed Pierce was the head cheerleader of this year's squad.

R. N. "Rube" McCray, Head Coach and Athletic Director

The regular coaching staff of Rube McCray's Indians was enlarged by the addition of three former William and Mary players. Lou Hoitsma and Harry Caughron, co-captains of the 1948 Big Green team, and Tom Mikula, blocking back of the 1947 squad, all returned to their alma mater to coach.

Eric Tipton, backfield coach; Tom Powers, line coach; Al Vandeweghe, end coach: and Barney Wilson, assistant coach, all turned in their usual exemplary performances in assisting Rube McCray with the Redmen.

The great improvement of the team's numerous sophomore players throughout the course of the season was further testimony of the excellent jobs these coaches did.

THE COACHING STAFF

PEP RALLIES

This was a year of bigger and better pep rallies and bonfire-gatherings at the Reservation. Head-cheerleader Ed Pierce and his helpers, many garnered from the new Freshman class, hustled for the first big pep rally preceding the University of Richmond game. Jim Anthony and the band joined in with Sam Banks and John Dayton to promote a radio program of the rally from the auditorium of Phi Bete. Our pep rally was broadcast to the students on the Richmond campus, and in turn, their rally was aired to the William and Mary campus. Cheers and band numbers, with speeches of traditional challenge rounded out the program—the first of its kind—which will in future years become a popular pregame institution.

The pep rally before the North Carolina game proved to be the largest of the year. It enjoyed much spirit on the part of the student body on college corner. The band performed, and the usual pep talks and cheering succeeded in putting the students in a high spirit which was carried into the stands for the game on Saturday, Much credit should go to all concerned with making these honored campus activities possible.

The William and Mary Indians opened their 1949 football season by squeezing out a tough 14-13 victory over the Houston Cougars. Two short bucks by Cloud brought the touchdowns, and Buddy Lex added both extra points. Alan Neveux's passing and Jack Golden's running almost embarrassed the Indians in the second half, when the Cougars put on a two-touchdown rally that fell a point short of a tie.

A trip to Pittsburgh ended in defeat for the Redmen as the Panthers combined an Indian fumble in the first period and a sustained drive of sixty-eight yards to score a 13-7 win. The only William and Mary score came on a Lex to Ragazzo pass.

The Indians returned to Cary Field to humble two state opponents, V.P.I. and V.M.I., on successive Saturdays by 39-13 and 54-6 scores. The Lex to Ragazzo passing duo clicked for three touchdowns in the two games, two against the Techmen.

scored first, but the Indians held a first-quarter lead of 14-7. For the rest of the game, however, it was all Wake Forest, Ragazzo gathered in three scoring passes, running his season total up to eight.

In Richmond the Indians trimmed the Spiders handily by a 34-0 margin. Buddy Lex tossed to Vito Ragazzo for three scores as the lanky junior passed the old national record of nine scoring catches in a season and set a new mark of eleven.

The next week the Green Team played inspired football though dropping a 20-14 decision to the North Carolina Tarkeels.

With a week's rest the Tribe traveled to Arkansas for a 20-0 win over the Razorbacks. After a bruising, scoreless first half in which the Indian line made two great goal-line stands, the Indians marched 77 yards to a late third-period score, Ragazzo taking another Lex scoring pass. Two Arkansas fumbles deep in their Weber carries while Mark takes out VMI tackler.

A trip to East Lansing, Michigan, proved disastrous as the Michigan State Spartans scored early and late for a 42-13 drubbing. A three-touchdown first-quarter splurge and two more scores late in the fourth period turned the game into a rout. Buddy Lex tossed for both Indian scores, one to George Heflin and one to Vito Ragazzo, his fifth scoring catch of the year.

The following week, the Big Green, in their worst game of the year, took a 55-28 beating at the hands of the Demon Deacons of Wake Forest. The Deacons own territory gave the McCraymen their remaining scores, Cloud plunging over for both.

For the fourth successive Saturday Rube McCray's team turned in an excellent performance, the last time beating a good North Carolina State team 33-7. Buddy Lex passed for three touchdowns, two to Ragazzo and one to George Heflin. Dickie Lewis scored the fourth touchdown on an end run, after his passes to Cloud had set up the play. Paul Yewcic passed to Heflin for the final score.

WILLIAM AND MARY, 14; NORTH CAROLINA, 20

The William and Mary Indians met the Tarheels of North Carolina in Cary Stadium for the last game of the series between the two rivals. A capacity crowd saw Lex pass to Ragazzo for a touchdown in the first quarter for the initial score. The point-after-touchdown was made, and the hard-fought first half ended with the Big Green out in front by that lone seven points.

Quickly in the third quarter a William and Mary fumble proved costly, because the Tarheels recovered and scored soon after on a "Choo-Choo" Justice pass. A good conversion knotted the score at seven-seven.

Minutes later, Justice took a Lex punt and exhibited real All-American running for seventy-two yards and another score. The conversion was missed and the Carolinians led the Tribe by six points.

Coming back with fine football tactics in the fourth quarter, Lex passed to Magdziak for a second William and Mary score. The crowd waited breathlessly as Lex's conversion went up and through the uprights. Jubilation broke forth as the Green went ahead by that one point, with only a few minutes before the final whistle.

However, the Tarheels rolled again. Passes to Weiner clicked, and the big end snared one for a heart-breaking touchdown that proved to be the clincher. The point was good and the score stood at twenty to fourteen, with less than three minutes left.

The Indians came back with fine spirit and determination: but before the scoring machine could move, the great ball game was over. Because the game was great, it was chosen Game-of-the-Year.

A void that will be hard to fill up has opened in the team roster with the loss of these nine players. All stellar performers, a few of them recipients of many of football's mythical honors, the Tribe will long remember the contribution they have made to William and Mary's football reputation both in Southern Conference and out-of-conference play.

Jack Cloud, Buddy Lex, and Lou Creekmur have made enviable reputations for themselves in the sport. But the school will not soon forget the outstanding, unsung contributions of Frank O'Pella, Sonny Davis, George Hughes, and Ralph Floyd.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

A fine freshman football squad helped to make Lou Hoitsma's debut as a coach a success. The Papooses of William and Mary played five games and came through with three wins, one loss and one tie.

The young Indians opened their schedule with a 19-0 victory over the Georgetown University freshmen. Then followed a 6-6 draw with a very good Navy Plebe squad at Annapolis. The Papooses travelled to Durham. North Carolina, and though they led the young Dukes 2-0 at half time, the Little Blue Devils, a great team, seored two touchdowns in the last half to win 13-2.

The Little Green then defeated a favored Wake Forest team at Cary Field by a count of 13-0. The William and Mary team scored the first time they got their hands on the ball and then again in the last quarter. At the Peanut Bowl in Suffolk, the Papooses could tally only 13 points in the first half against Richmond's Baby Spiders, but scored five times in the second half to record a 47-0 triumph and gain revenge for a tie that an underdog Richmond freshman team had gained in the 1948 Peanut Bowl game.

The modest Hoitsma leaves the credit of the team's success to the excellent spirit, hard work and all-round ability of his squad. Much credit must go to the assistant coaches Henry Blanc and Jim Brakefield, who came here from Center College, Kentucky.

The 1949 freshmen were big, rugged and fast and should provide excellent rebuilding material for next year's varsity squad, which graduates nine key men.

CHET GIERMAK

1 9 5 0 B A S

William and Mary's Chet Giermak and Company ran through its schedule for the season in expected form—form that saw the Indians clinch the State championship and go to the semi-finals in the Southern Conference Tournament

The great pivot man of the Indian team continued making his mark in basketball at William and Mary. Chet poured through the hoops more than 500 points for the season, for an average of about twenty-one points a game—a good average in any man's league.

Next in the point-scoring parade was Ed "Fireball" McMillan—as good a guard as the William and Mary fans have seen in many a moon. This is to take nothing away from the other stellar guard, Jere Bunting. Jere has been a regular for several years now, and he has proved his worth many times over. His ball handling with the Fireball is noted throughout the Old Dominion. The two play-makers added spark and class to the club.

Bob Benjamin and John Renfro held down the forward posts, rounding out a good allround team of ball-handlers and gunners at the hoops. Bob Benjamin turned in stellar performances throughout the season in the defensive capacity. He was usually assigned the oppositions' high scorers and did fine work in holding them to minimum scoring. John Renfro came to be noted for his tremendous drive. "Blind John" turned in some spectacular ball playing at times during the season.

Bitsy Lewis came off the bench, almost for good this season. His ball-hawking and defensive abilities under the backboards kept him often in action. Many of the other reserves gave good accounts of themselves during the season when asked to do so.

The Indians rolled on through their schedule, beating state and conference teams. Virginia Tech was whipped here, but only after a tough battle all night. Later in the season, the Gobblers gained revenge by beating the Indians in Blacksburg.

Richmond, George Washington, VMI, Washington and Lee and others in the state were met and defeated. The Indians travelled to Seton Hall and Siena over the Christmas holidays. The road trip proved to be a disappointing one, as the Big Green lost to Siena 57-50, but whipped Seton Hall badly. The Indians also lost to Akron University and John Carroll. The record for the entire road trip was two wins and three losses.

The Indians engaged Maryland, Bowling Green. Quantico, North Carolina, North Carolina State, Wake Forest, and the University of Virginia cagers, among others. One of the thrillers of the season came when the Indians beat the North Carolina State Wolfpack powerhouse—Sam Ranzino and Dick Dickey, Inc., in packed Municipal Stadium in Norfolk. The game was a real scuffle all the way, and the Indians gained a superlative victory.

Late in the season, the William and Mary hoopsters lost a tough decision to North Carolina in Williamsburg. Good rebound work by Nemo Nearman of North Carolina and deadly accuracy of shooting by Hugo Kappler, a member of last year's Southern Conference tourney team, proved to be too much for the off-night Indians.

William and Mary secured a berth in the Southern Conference Tournament held at the Duke stadium in Durham. The Indians engaged North Carolina in the first round and downed them without a great deal of difficulty. In the second round, the semi-finals, the Indians met Duke University. The William and Mary cagers made a rather miserable showing all evening, and lost to a team which should have been the breather that would have pushed the Indians into the finals with North Carolina State. State romped over Duke the next day in the finals to win another Southern Conference Championship.

Finishing-up the season, the Indians again traveled to Norfolk and met the Cavaliers from the University of Virginia. By beating them 76-58, the William and Mary men gained supremacy in the state. If the Indians had lost, the honors would have gone to the Gobblers of Virginia Tech, a team which beat W&M during the season, and which hazarded all opposition throughout the season. Tech had the misfortune of being paired with the Wolfpack in the first round of the Southern Conference Tournament.

By beating Virginia in the finale of the regular season, William and Mary gained a berth in the Invitational tournament held in Cincinnati. Also in the tournament were Xavier, Cincinnati and Morris-Harvey. Morris-Harvey's high-scoring King was paired against William and Mary's Chet Giermak, playing his last basketball in a Big Green uniform.

The Indian varsity hoopsters of 1949-50, coached by Barney Wilson and Tip Downing, were strong, with the influx of new material in John Renfro, Jack Hord, and Fred Allen, the return of regulars, and the usual rise of men from the bench to active duty. Chet Giermak was holding down the pivot spot for the Indians for his year and making his bid for basketball fame in the state, conference and nation. He consistently scored for our cause with his undefiable hook shots. Guards Jere Bunting and "Fireball" McMillan quickly developed into the ball-handling combo that they had worked to perfection in the past year.

Forwards Bob Benjamin and Renfro added height and drive respectively to the squad. Bitsy Lewis conducted a personal battle with Renfro through the season for the starting position, Dick Forrest replaced Giermak at the pivot and gave the fans a glimmer of hope as to who will fill the shoes of Chet after this season. With a bit more experience behind him, "Barrel" Forrest might possibly live up to those expectations. Chester will be missed greatly, as will the great little play-maker, Bunting, when they both graduate this lune

Jumping against the Wolfpack

Nonononono . . . NO!

The little Indian cagers, under the instruction of Coach Osborne, finished up a long, hard schedule with a little better than fifty-fifty average for the season of nineteen forty-nine—fifty. The team played upwards of twenty-three games, most of them with service teams in the near vicinity of the college.

Much talent was to be found on the frosh squad this year. Many of the men had been chosen from basketball areas of the country. They will be welcome additions to the varsity next year. The boys received much experience in playing difficult teams who had many veterans of basketball campaigns. Most of the competition was against service teams. Those teams had servicemen who had played on college varsities before entering the service. This tough competition is the answer to the problem of the fifty-fifty average.

One of the best games the Papooses played was against the North Carolina State freshmen. The young Indians lost by only fifteen points to a team that beat its varsity twice before the season began. The Wolfpack later went on to another Southern Conference championship. It seems quite evident that the Indian frosh played a good game of basketball that night.

The freshmen played the freshmen from the University of Richmond twice and split with them. The Apprentice School of Newport News also was played during the season. Out of the three games played with them, the Indian frosh won two and lost the other.

The remainder of the schedule, except the loss to the Virginia freshmen in the last game of the season, was played for the most part against various service teams. The quintet from Fort Eustis was engaged, as were several naval teams from Norfolk. In these contests the Indian frosh held their own, winning and losing in balance.

In all, the season for the Indian freshmen basketballers was a good one. Much experience was gained, and this experience is almost certain to pay off in the coming few years, when the varsity men will be graduating.

Coach Howard Smith's baseball squad faced another tough season in nineteen-fifty because of the loss of many of the capable and experienced men of last year's team. Many of them are back, but also, just as many have left. Among those who were most missed were Tommy Korczowski and Harry Robison. These two men were the biggest men at the plate for the Tribe last year, and their lusty bats were greatly remembered and longed for. They are both starting up the ladder of professional baseball.

Coach Smith did not find a completely bleak picture when his men reported to him at the beginning of the season. Many men who have had several years of experience in Indian uniforms returned. "Hi" Wardwell returned to share his part of the pitching duties, Practically an entire infield returned. Jim Onove, Paul Webb, and Bob Ward made strong bids for first-team positions.

Other men who have swung the hickory for William and Mary returned to the ranks again, Bud Grady, Olaf Hedman, Harry Hilling, and many others rejoined the squad. Their abilities and experience were all thrown into the melting-pot to make a well-balanced, powerful club. Coach Smith needed much patience and fortitude to build the 1949-50 Indian team. However, he fielded a club that was as good as any that was present in the conference.

Last year's record of sixteen wins and eight losses was brought under fire by the Indians. Coach Smith and his charges fought their way to the top in baseball throughout the state, and represented themselves and their school well in out-of-state, conference and non-conference play. They exhibited the true spirit of the game: playing and promoting a great sport under organized rules and regulations, in competition with other men; all striving for the honor of their schools.

Whether in victory or in defeat the William and Mary Indian baseball club played good ball. Much of this should be attributed to the fine coaching of Howard Smith. Coach Smith handled the team in the head-coaching spot for the first time. Fresh from duties as swimming coach and intramural director, he took over the team, which seems to have been in a sort of transitional stage because of graduations and shifts in coaching staffs, and with hard work and confidence, made it into a ball club that really had the "click" in it. Much credit, therefore, should be due to Coach Smith. It is hoped that he will remain in the capacity of head coach since he has taken over the job and succeeded in getting the team into good form.

Credit should go to all those men who gave up free time and other pleasures to work and train for the team. They deserve much praise for having worked so well under their coach in developing into a first-division team. All the men who made the first nine, and more so, the ones who came in as freshmen and from the ranks of last year, deserve high tribute.

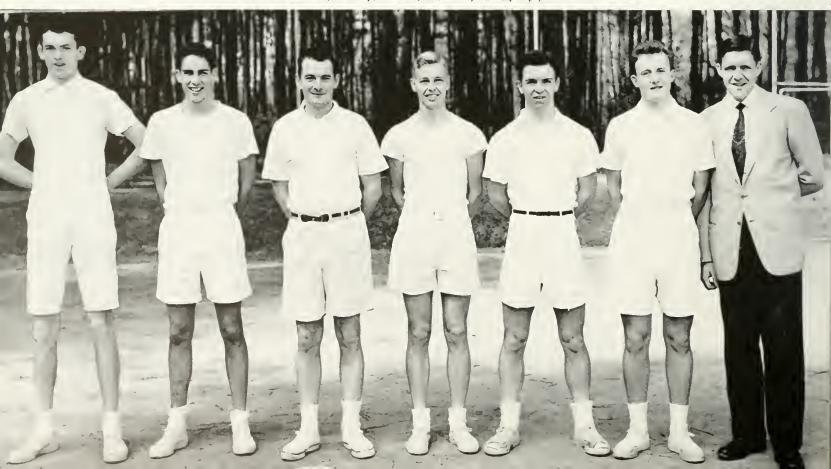

"How much longer will it continue?" This question has been asked time after time about the 1949-50 William and Mary net team, which this year will be defending the longest winning streak ever recorded in intercollegiate athletics—74 consecutive wins. Tennis coach Sharvey Umbeck, who helped the team break the standing inter-collegiate record and then set the new one, is gone. In his place is a man who should prove to be just as competent in his job of building on the string of wins. He is Bren Macken, former William and Mary tennis ace and Canadian Davis Cupper.

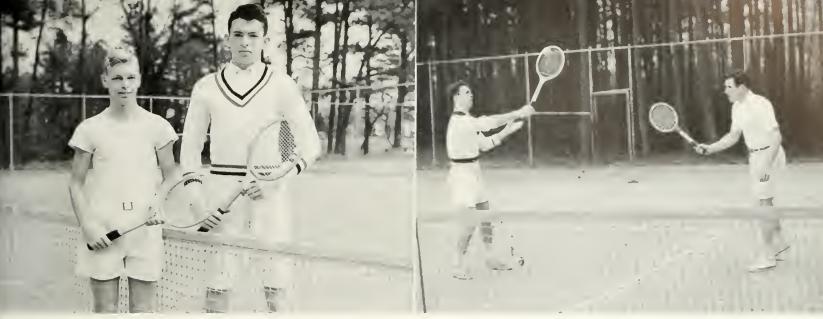

Coach Macken will find it a bit tough building a team that can successfully beat off defeat from such powerful teams as Cornell, Miami and North Carolina, Other tough teams will make the season shaky for the Indian netters. Among them are Michigan State, Princeton, Duke and Virginia, All in all, the schedule consists of fourteen matches, with very few of them being actual breathers.

Many of the stalwart racket swingers of last year and the year before have left the William and Mary tennis ranks. Fred Kovaleski, last year's number one man, has gone, along with Jim Macken, Dick Randall and others. Coach Macken will have to build a team of practically all new material. This is not to imply that the team will be completely shy on experience. Many of the boys are young, but for the most part they have tournament experience with them.

Lyman Chennault and Sam Woods

Bren Macken, Coach, and Howe Atwater

Howe Atwater is a returning letterman, and he will play in the number one spot this season. Howe has played a lot of tennis and he will probably need all of his experience to beat the number-one men of the teams on schedule. Tommy Boys is a newcomer who appears to be headed for a top position. "Dugan" is tennis-wise and he hits a mean tennis ball.

Ronnie Barnes shows promise for singles duty. With some more tournament and match play he should round into a fine tennis player for the Indian cause. Garner Anthony swings a good racket and should certainly figure in for much action in singles and doubles. He has lots of reach and a good, steady service.

Doubles assignments will probably go to Jack Hogan and Sam Woods, along with George Larkin and Lyman Chennault. The doubles matches might very well mean a lot toward winning some important contests this year. Strength down the line saved the victory skein from breaks last year, and it will mean a great deal this season. Cornell's Big Red will be gunning for us again this year. They have their first two men back again and they should prove to be trouble once more. Those two men won their two matches here last year. It is fairly certain that they will repeat. That will leave only the hope that the men along the line will win to take the match. Cornell should prove to be the most difficult team to beat.

Pre-season workouts were held in the gymnasium. The much faster surface made it possible for the boys to perfect their eye a bit and improve their ground game. Steady work on the boards put them in decent shape to go outdoors on clay. This fast practice period inside should benefit the team.

Coach Macken has a tremendous job to perform this year. He has the responsibility of building up a strong team, with much new and somewhat inexperienced material, into a tennis team that will win. He should surely do the job.

The years to come will see some of the youngsters make names for themselves in the world of tennis, both in college and in later life. They have the heritage and honor of playing on a team which has withstood challenge and defeat longer than any other college athletic team has ever done. This heritage is in their hands now, and it is up to them, with the best coaching from Bren Macken, to carry on the victory string and continue, even in possible defeat, the honor of the sport and of the college.

TRACK

Lou Hoitsma, former Tribe athletic star, took over the helm of the track team this year, succeeding Al Thomas. On hand is the terrific distance corps that has been running roughshod in dual-meet competition for the past two years. Sam Lindsay reigns as State Champion in the mile and half-mile runs, while Dick Scofield, last year's captain is the number two half-miler in the state. Clyde Baker backs up Lindsay in the mile, and along with Bullet Lawson, puts the two-mile run in capable hands. Other than the distances, the outlook is rather dim for the Indians, as they have gaping holes in too many events to field a strong dual-meet team.

Last spring the team ran up a mark of three wins and six losses. Several of the losses were close ones, while the Tribe was in the wrong class for three meets. Stars of the team were Lou Hoitsma, who won the shot put event in the Inter-conference Meet in Atlanta, Lou Creekmur, who broke four records in the shot put, including the 18-year-old Big Six mark. The new one is 48 feet, 8½ inches.

Sprinter Chuck Williams, quarter-miler Bill Garrison, Dick Reymer in the pole vault, high jumper George Sheehan, and Harry Wenning in the Javelin were consistent point-makers. Strength in the distances and weights, with George Hughes being the third man in the latter, was the Tribe's outstanding asset. The team finished third in the State Meet and fifth in the Conference Meet.

COACH HOITSMA

Sam Lindsay, Clyde Baker, Bob Lawson

The 1949 cross-country team, although compiling a not-too-impressive record, nevertheless was the strongest team of recent years. The Harriers took one meet, over the Quantico Marines; tied two, N. C. State and Richmond; and dropped three others, to Maryland, Davidson and Georgetown. Their two-year winning streak was shattered in the opening meet at six straight.

Lacking the overall balance of last year's team, the Indians produced the State co-champions in Sam Lindsay and Clyde Baker, who tied for first in the State meet, cracking the old record. In a way, the team was all Baker and Lindsay, as the two co-captains were consistently outstanding all season, providing a powerful onetwo punch. They smashed two course records together: Lindsay broke two alone and Baker one more.

Showing much improvement over last year was the number three man, Bullet Lawson, pushing Baker and Lindsay several times. Other varsity positions were held by Bob Carter, Hugh DeSamper, Biil Simonson, Peyton Hatcher and Tex Hopkins. Although the Indians bettered their previous scores in the Southern Conference Meet they could do no better than fifth, but were the top Virginia team in the conference, Lou Hoitsma and Ralph Burkhart coached the squad.

The freshmen won their lone meet, against Richmond. Several good runners were developed, namely John Munger, Bob Larsen, George Southwell and Sam Woods, Jr. Others were Dwight Babcock and Mark Eubank.

Under the able coaching of Howard Smith, the 1949-50 tankmen began in October to prepare for a schedule which was made difficult by the cancellation of two meets with Richmond, one with the Apprentice school; and the addition of one meet with the University of North Carolina.

Leading the team in points was Jim Hall, up from last year's freshman squad, and doing a fine job in the 200-yard freestyle and 200-yard breaststroke. The other mainstay was Vic Janega starring this year in the 50- and 100-yard dashes, after a great season the year before. Tom Burke in the diving and dashes. Tom Stevens, also a sophomore, in the backstroke, and Ed Friedman in the gruelling 440-yard freestyle followed as leading scorers. The team was rounded out with Wally Riley in the 220-yard freestyle, Jim Stone in the 140, Al Evans in the breaststroke, Jack Morgan in various freestyle events; and Bill Lehrburger, Carl Pirkle and Don Ross as utility men, swimming where needed, Coles Saunders and Hugh DeSamper also swam in fill-in spots.

The freshmen were led by Don Woulfe and Scott Petrequin in the 200-yard freestyle and the dashes, and the squad included John Kris, Pete Spivey, Tex Wilde, George Kilpatrick, Ray Peck and Norm Risjord,

At mid-season the varsity record stood at one win, over George Washington, with hard-fought losses to such top Southern Conference teams as Duke, North Carolina State and North Carolina University, plus losses on narrow decisions to Randolph-Macon and Norfolk Division, Remaining meets were with VMI, Washington and Lee, VPI, and a return meet with the Division.

A highlight of the home season came when Jim Thomas of North Carolina established here at Blow pool two new national intercollegiate records in the 440-yard freestyle and the 300-yard individual medley.

Under the able tutelage of Coach Smith, and with this year's improved varsity, most of whom will return next fall, and good varsity prospects among the freshmen, next season should come out with better results in the victory column and new interest in swimming throughout the college,

The William and Mary golf team of 1950 has, at present, a rugged schedule of fifteen matches with several more yet to be added. Among the probable opponents are several of the better teams in the country including North Carolina, Wake Forest, Navy, Duke, Dartmouth and North Carolina State.

Along with several promising sophomores, five returning lettermen had another year's experience under their belts, and the Indian linksmen, in spite of the opposition should well have a very successful season. Three juniors, Doug Weiland, Mark McCormack, and Bob Hendrich, will team up with two seniors, Ward Donohue and Jim Weeks to make a successful attempt to better the team's last year record.

The 1949-'50 intramural season was perhaps the most successful in the history of William and Mary. Veterans were few in number on campus, and their shoes have been filled with younger and more anxious material. The Flying Vets is a name of the past and our few older men have massed under the title of the Henpecked Husbands.

The year's activities began with the tennis tournament. George Larkin, a freshman independent, beat Jerry Jaffe in straight sets in the finals. The matches of the quarter-finals, semi-finals and finals were played in Blow gym because of the bad weather preventing outdoor play. Sigma Rho, with men like Paul Webb and Jim Onove sparking them, went through the touch football season with an unmarred record. The classic battle was, as usual, between PiKA and Sigma Rho. The Rhomen scored late in the game to win 6-0. Gene Rambacher of Phi Kappa Tau was elected by the loop managers as the most valuable player.

The swimming meet this year was a real spine-tingler up to the last few minutes. This year, SAE won the relay and with it, the meet. PiKA, KA, and Theta Delt showed top form and were constant threats. Tom Burke of PiKA set new records in the 60 and 100 yard dashes. Sigma Rho breezed through a ten-game volley-ball schedule behind the booming fist of Jim Smith to add another championship to their seemingly endless string. The Rhomen now have two legs on a three-year trophy, and unless they are beaten consistently for the remainder of the year seem sure to clinch it. Bowling was again on the intramural card this year, and at this writing Kappa Sig and Sigma Rho are tied for first place.

Basketball promises to be a toss-up right down to the wire. Most of the teams have been strengthened and no one team is expected to have an unbeaten season. PiKA. SAE, and Sigma Rho are supposedly the strongest teams, with Lambda Chi and Theta Delt as dark horses. Handball, table tennis, and horseshoe tournament entrants have already set a new record in numbers, and each of these sports is without a favorite. Lambda Chi will be defending champs in softball. However, they will not be favorites. Golf has been added to this year's agenda and it will close out the "perfect" year of intramural competition at William and Mary.

This year can be considered nearly perfect, because more men have been given opportunities to play their sports in clean competition for a worthwhile cause.

Holding a two-win, one-loss record early in the season, the women's intercollegiate basketball squad showed excellent improvement under the conscientious coaching of Miss Martha Barksdale.

The Squaw sextet lost 35-24 to Notre Dame of Baltimore, rebounding with a 42-30 victory over RPI and a 31-24 triumph against Sweet Briar. Other games were played against Westhampton, Ursinus, and Beaver College of Philadelphia.

Co-captained by guard Fran House and forward Anne Huffman, the team was built around a nucleus of veteran cagers—Juanita Pomeroy and Lee Riggins at forward and playing managers Avery Leavitt and Betty Riggins at guard.

Newcomers to the squad included forwards Sally Eger, Bebe Fisher, Bebe Hammond, Carolyn Pulley, Claire Rankin, and Liz Sacalis. Guard candidates were Jeanne Carmondy, Sunny Davenport, Dottie Lenham, and Beth Morrison.

Fed by her teammates at every opportunity, Bebe Fisher proved to be a dead shot from anywhere on the court and never failed to score less than twenty points a game.

Betty Riggins developed with amazing accuracy and skill a method of retrieving her opponent's bounce on the downbeat of the second dribble. With this advantage and steady, welllearned tactics, the trio of guards thwarted every offense.

In addition to basketball, four sports made up the women's intercollegiate sport program at William and Mary.

Coached by Miss Marion Reeder, the hockey team boasted a three win—two loss record. Victorious 4-2 over R.P.I., 4-0 over the Petersburg club, and 2-0 over Notre Dame, the team dropped one game to Sweet Briar, 7-0, and another to Westhampton, 8-1.

Captain Betty Jane Bennett and Joan Allison shared scoring honors with four goals each. Tink Bell, Liz Sacalis, and Carolyn Bell scored one goal apiece, bringing the team total to eleven goals as against opponents' seventeen.

Full tuition, two-week scholarships to the Mount Pocono Hockev Camp, directed by Miss Constance Appleby, founder of hockey in America and a visitor at William and Mary, were awarded to Betty Jane Bennett and Gina Bell.

Organized on a state-wide instead of a national basis, two telegraphic swimming meets were sponsored by William and Mary, February 23 and March 9. The mermaids were coached by Dr. Caroline Sinclair and captained by Avery Leavitt.

The Fencing Team sponsored a Sports Day and a tri-meet with the Weapon Club of Baltimore, Janet Pierce, Shirley Lyons, Peggy Wayne, and Sally Obitz.

In a duel with the alumnae, Jo Jonscher, president. Sue Biederman, and Betty Riggins triumphed 5-4.

The Tennis Team looked for a promising season with quite a few veterans returning. Last season's line-up included Ruth Barnes, Elinor Hanson, and Jane Copland at singles and Laura Lowe, Marion Hough, and Peggy Harmon at doubles.

ORCHESIS

After try-outs were conducted the first two weeks of the fall semester, the new and old members of the Modern Dance Club together with their president, Nancy Leigh Hall, and advisor, Miss Sophia Saunders, began to make plans for the annual modern dance recital to be held in the Spring.

The group decided to trace through a series of period dances indicative of the evolution of dance, starting with the primitive mode of dancing and ending with the modern. Much research on choreography and costumes was necessary to make the dances as representative as possible,

After many hours of rehearsal the performance was given March fifteenth and sixteenth in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The dances included in the unusual program were a gypsy dance, a medieval comedy, a Viennese waltz, and the ballet. Some of the dances called for individual solos or paired work, skillfully performed.
