Greetings

the imperfections of this volume than those who have had a part in making it. Yet with its defects, we offer it to the students and alumni of our Alma Mater, hoping that the hand of time which must dim the eyes that now mirthfully scan these pages will also render the mistakes less palpable. If, in remembrance, it renews old friendships; if it shall fire an undying loyalty and love for dear old Alma Mater; if to the loyal sons of William and Mary these pages serve to recall, in the sunset of life, sweet memories of the past, then we feel that our efforts have not been in vain.

The Tide of Pears

Break, break, O flood of years,
Thy restless waves upon yon shore;
Fling high thy spray of human tears,
And touch the heart of God once more
And give us peace.

Roll on, roll on, O flood of years,
And bear beyond the buoy bell
Our fright from awful wars and fears,
And pour them in the pits of hell,
And give us peace.

Sweep, sweep on, O flood of years, O'er tyrants sceptered and the See; Give peace again to sages, seers, Let statesmen set the people free, And give us peace.

Break, and roll, and sweep, O years,
Thy tide can not fore'er be flood;
The ebbing swelled with women's tears
And scarlet tinged with martyr's blood,
Shall give us peace.

Ebb, ebb, O tide of years,
Thou herald of sweet peace and calm,
Bind up our sores and wounds and fears
While tenders Love her soothing balm,
And give us peace.

NEYRON.

Bill is by far the wittiest fellow in the class and of the dry variety. Talk about a ladies' man, allow me to introduce you to the above picture. He's a hurricane with them. An artist—no—a teacher of art in the High School. Bill is Dean of the Model School of Williamsburg and also professor of drawing in the same institution. A hard student, an excellent companion, and a conscientious fellow, are the metals from which Bill is made. Luck to you. Bill!

PAUL NEYRON DERRING

NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

Sigma Upsilon; Colonial Echo Staff '15; President of Philomathean Literary Society '15; President of Y. M. C. A. '15-'16; Student Council '16-'17; Debate Council '16; Flat Hat Staff '16-'17; Literary Magazine Staff '16-'17; Colonial Echo Staff '16-'17; Delegate to Y. M. C. A. State Convention '15; Delegate to Southern Student Conference '16; Brafferton Club; Valedictorian of Senior Class; Orator's Medal '15; Declaimer's Medal '16.

Not long ago, l'aul wandered in from the grand old county of Surry and won the heart of every student in college. Paul is an orator, poet, student, and an all round college man. Not only has he won the love and admiration of his fellow-students, but he has a peculiar habit of winning honors in all activities in which he takes part. Paul is a gentleman and a scholar and an inspiration to all who come in contact with him. The c'ass of 1917 is proud to have him as a member and as a man with a fixed and steady purpose of mind and loved by all who know him. We raise a high glass to you, l'aul!

SAMUEL WESTLEY EASON
NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

Philomathean.

"Sam Eason," one of the best known characters around here and yet heard of less. He has a peculiar habit of sitting in the classroom as quiet and as still as if he were at a funeral, then suddenly breaking out, and supplementing the text with various theories of his own manufacture.

Eason is what we would call a humorist, rarely failing to see the Indicrous side of things even when they are not most favorable to him. "Sam," we hope that your humor may ever increase throughout life!

ANDREW LECKIE GARLAND

Warsaw, Virginia

Phoenix: German Club: Senior Normal Class: Rappahannock Club.

Now, fellows, since Leckie hails from Warsaw we must not think that he comes from the war zone, bringing with him the militaristic spirit. That's not Leckie. Everyone who knows him will testify that he is one of the best fellows on the campus and is liked by everybody, even by his professors from whom he often wrings A's.

Leckie is one of those fellows who have been doing double duty—instructing the youth of the land and pursuing a college course. Because of his irregular appearance at college, Leckie has not been able to play so prominent a part in college activities as some, but he must be recognized as a link in the chain. In his graduation the college loses one of its landmarks—a patient, honest, persevering and true friend.

Here's to you for success, Leckie! We hope to hear from you later.

DOUGLAS MERIWETHER GRIGGS

BIG ISLAND, VIRGINIA

Theta Delta Chi Fraternity; Spottswood Club '12-'13; Phoenix; Debate Council; Athletic Council; Magazine Staff '12-'13; Flat Hat Staff '16-'17; German Club '16-'17; Student Council '16-'17; Instructor in Physics '12-'13; Echo Staff.

"Davie" is the most conscientious man who has been in college for some time. Accordingly, his fellow students have elected him to practically every council and club in college. He is a man who does his best at everything he undertakes, and his best is generally better than anyone else's. No matter how small a college interest is, it receives the hearty support of Douglas. The class of '17 is fortunate in having a man of your ability and character.

VERNON MEREDITH GEDDY

WILLIAMSBURG, VIRGINIA

Kappa Sigma: A La Jefferson: Echo Staff '16-'17: Senior Class Prophet: German Club: Monogram Club: Football Team '15-'16: Baseball Team '15-'16: Graves' Scholarship '15-'16: Y. M. C. A. Cabinet '15-'16-'17.

"Bugs"—not because he lives in Williamsburg—but just a good nickname for such a gallant, amiable, and generous fellow like Vernon. The bright smile and cordial "hello" which greets you everywhere is indicative of that good old Southern hospitality which he has so freely shown the students in his home. Until the school for young ladies closed in Williamsburg. Bugs rekindled the fires at Cupid's altar each night, and now it is rumored that Mr. Johns in is complaining because of the heavy mails to Chatham, Va. Rise, Seniors, let us drink to Vernon Meredith Geddy, an athlete, a student, and a Virginia gentleman.

CECIL RANDOLPH HEFLIN

Broad Run, Virginia

Kappa Alpha; Sigma Upsilon; Manager Football Team '16; Baseball Team 15-'16-'17; Editor-in-Chief Flat Hat; Pan-Hellenic Council '15-'16; Senior Class Poet.

Cecil Randolph Heflin, better known as "Hef," is an important personage about this old institution. Besides pulling down "A's" and "B's" he has other things with which he may be proud of. The Flat Hat boasts him as its Editor-in-Chief; the football team claims him as its manager, and the baseball team as its third baseman. Not only does certain activities around college consume his time, but the ladies also use their allotted time. A student, athlete, and all 'round college man is "Hef's" middle name.

We predict for you editor's shoes, "Hef!"

JOHN WILMER HEDRICK

BANE, VIRGINIA

Southwest Club; Monogram Club; Football Team '13-'14-'15-'16; Philomathean; Teacher's Diploma '16; Ewell Annex Club; Excellency Medal in Philomathean '14; Captain Track Team '15-16; Business Manager Colonial Echo '16-'17; Baseball Team '16-'17.

Ladies and Gentlemen: We have before us the stately figure of this lad from the mountains of the Southwest. The fact that his Senior class ring was ordered size five and a quarter will convince you that he is a real "calico" sport. He loves the ladies. (We also wonder who has his sweater.) But you must not think that calico is his only line of work; for he is an athlete of no mean ability and at times a dangerous man in the lecture room. He finds it easier to make A's than to look after the finances of the "Echo" and at the same time keep "Mac" in the straight and narrow way.

In a word, J. Wilmer 's a good, honest, straightforward, in lustrious man.

FLOYD TALMAGE JOYNER

COURTLAND, VIRGINIA

Sigma Upsilon; Philomathean; Medal in Debate '15; Vice-President Philomathean; Magazine Staff '16-'17; Colonial Echo Staff '16-'17; Teacher's Diploma '16; Secretary Y. M. C. A. '15-'16; Treasurer Y. M. C. A. '16-'17; Delegate to Southern Student Conference '16; Brafferton Club; President Southampton Club.

We now present "Le Petit" of our class in the person of baby Floyd. Little perhaps in stature, but when we remember he has taken a sheep's hide in three years, we are forced to doff our hats to him. The Philomatheans are familiar with his voice and the Y. M. C. A. calls him her Hamilton, because of the good financial basis upon which he has placed the association. Both students and professors know Joyner to be a hard worker and a man of strong character, so we predict for him a brilliant future. Here's to you, Floyd!

ZELMA TALMAGE KYLE

GALAX, VIRGINIA

Phoenix; Teacher's Diploma '15; President Southwest Club '16-'17; Student Council Summer Session '14; President of Senior Class.

Kyle has a good many claims to fame. By his guidance the class of '17 is being led through an excellent year. He is thrice feared by the Faculty. With his intellectual prowess he baffles the most assiduous of question marks and he has physique enough to back up his utterances. Kyle is another Senior who has been doing double duty—teaching and attending college. Watch him; he will sure make his mark in any work which he takes up.

A hard worker, a true friend, and an influential student are the qualities we place upon you.

WALTER LEE McCORMICK

Pulaski, Virginia

Sonthwest Club; Ewell Club; Annex Club; Tennis Club; Doctor's Club; Echo Staff '16-'17.

Geniality is the one word that describes the subject of this sketch. "Mae" is one of the wittiest fellows in college and when anyone wants to laugh they go around to hear him discuss various topics. He takes a delight in taking the hardest courses in college and then at exams he makes marks that most students would be glad to make on easy subjects. If you care to know more about "Mae" as a prospective philosopher, ask Dr. Geiger. Here's to you, "Mae," an agreeable companion, a good friend and a student par excellence!

THOMAS GRANVILLE PULLEN

Grafton, Virginia

Theta Delta Chi; Sigma Upsilon; Philomathean, Manager Baseball Team '16; Business Manager Flat Hat '16-'17; Colonial Echo Staff '16-'17: Interfraternity Council '16; Athletic Council; Teacher's Diploma '16; Cheer Leader.

Here is a man full of energy and "pep." As a business manager he is hard to equal, possessing a keen comprehension of plans as a whole, as well as a knack for working out their details. He is a curler as evidenced by getting his degree in three years, and a man of literary ability, as shown by the college magazine. In popularity he will never be wanting, for he easily makes friends. Success awaits you on the path of any car er which you may choose, and the class of '17 will boast your name among our number.

ARTHUR DOUGLAS PARKER

Portsmouth, Virginia

Phi Kappa Alpha; Treasurer German Club '15;-'16; President German Club '16-'17; Echo Staff '16-'17; Corcoran Scholarship '16,

"Diggie" Parker is a man in every sense of the word. One who is marked for his honesty, integrity, and sincerity. To know "Diggie" is to admire him. He's a quiet sort of a fellow, but a truer friend never was found. Incidentally, in his quiet sort of way, "Diggie" has been known to reach up and pull down one of those coveted scholarships. "Diggie" is proud of the fact that he is an alumnus of Portsmouth High, and William and Mary is proud of him. We hope that you may exchange your scholarships for honors in after-life. In fact, we are compelled to believe that you will.

ISAAC WILEY ROBERTSON

CALLAWAY, VIRGINIA

Sigma Upsilon; President Philomathean '16-'17; Business Manager Literary Magazine '15-'16-'17; Flat Hat Staff '16-'17; Editor-in-Chief Colonial Echo '16-'17; Athletic Council; Improvement Medal in Declamation; Excellency Medal in Oratory '16; State Oratorical Contest '16: Delegate to Southern Student Conference '16; Football Team '14-'15; Captain Basketball Team '16-'17; Brafferton Club; Southwest Club; Debate Council; Monogram Club; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet.

When he came to William and Mary three years ago his name was Isaac Wiley Robertson, but out of reverence for his namesake of Holy Writ he was soon dubbed "Ike." It was good that such a change was made, for it has facilitated matters so much about the campus. A man would faint from sheer exhaustion, if when asked who is the editor of the Echo, contributing editor to the Flat Hat, basketball star, orator in state contest, etc., ad infinitum, he should have to spit forth those jaw-breaking words, Isaac Wiley Robertson. Sober-minded, industrious, strong of character, and a loyal son of William and Mary are qualities identical with "Ike."

DAVID ORGAIN RASH

Rody, Virginia

Philomathean; Southside Club; Ewell Annex Club; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet '13-'14, '16-'17; Echo Staff '16-'17.

This young man is one of the very few who go to college for its real purpose—to learn. Rash is as steady as Gibraltar in his classes and a student from the S to the T. His quiet, reserve and genial smile has won him many admirers, and there is not a man on the campus whose respect he has not gained.

We entertain no fear as to your future success, and some day you will do credit to your Alma Mater and cause every man of class '17 to feel justly proud to call you classmate.

BEN HARRISON SEEKFORD

LURAY, VIRGINIA

Philomathean; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet '14-'15-'16; Second Place State Student Honor Roll '15; Instructor in Williamsburg Schools '16; Brafferton Club; First Place on State Student Honor Roll '15-'16; President Debate Council '16-'17; Asst. Business Manager Flat 11at '16-'17; Instructor in Physics '16-'17; Cheer Leader.

Yes, this is Big Ben, but not the one that wakes you every morning with an alarm. No, "Seek" is hardly ever heard from in a noisy way except on the festive occasion of a Brafferton initiation, but at that annual memorial service his alarms can be heard in the Capital Heights vicinity. As a rule Ben makes himself heard in a quiet way as he forces Mr. Pridges to keep up a monotonous writing of A's on his report cards. Genial, industrious, intellectually keen, and progressive are qualities that Seekford possesses, which should make his Alma Mater proud of him.

JENNINGS JUDY SWECKER

Monterey, Virginia

Phoenix: Doctor's Club; Ewell Club; Tennis Club.

One hand swinging a cane, a piedmont claiming the other, a "duc" cap on his head and a cheerful grin gracing his countenance and you have a perfect edition of Judy. To visualize this you must be on Main Street about five-thirty P. M., Thursdays and Saturdays, when Judy, in the aforementioned attire, goes to the post office to get a letter from the girl who promised to write every Monday. Along with this, Judy possesses the not-despised title of chief of duc-bucker. An overwhelming majority at the Freshman class election gave him this title. In spite of this seemingly cruel characteristic, Judy's heart is a warm one and his conversation a sure death to the "blues."

HEXRY HARRISON SIMMS

Lahore, Virginia

Phoenix; Excellency Medal in Debate in Phoenix '16; Debating Team '16; Vice-President Y. M. C. A.; President Phoenix; President Student Council '16-'17; Manager Debate Council '16-'17; Instructor in Williamsburg Schools '16.

Henry came up from the Academy three years ago, and thought he would show that a William and Mary man from ground up is like steam—bound to rise. Throughout his three years in college, Simms has been the standard bearer of the Phoenicians, and to say one word unfavorable about the Phoenix Society is to have him hurl a fiery philipic at you. He has been the champion, who for three long years has met every form of speaker in the intercollegiate debating arena and fought so gallantly the battles of his Alma Mater. Henry loves politics and is a good speaker, so we can't see anything between him and Congress. Here's hoping, Henry, that you will realize our ambitions for you.

WILLIAM BENJAMIN TILLEY

Norfolk, Virginia

Kappa Alpha; N. N. O. G.; German Club; Senior Class Historian; Manager Basketball Team '15-'16; Philo-Bennett Scholarship '15-'16-'17; Echo Staff '17; Pan-Hellenic Council '15-'16; Monogram Club; President Philomathean '17.

The bearer of the above cognomen is better known on the campus as plain old "Bill." The name speaks for itself, popularity, friendship, and in this case even more, a student and one of the best all 'round college men at this institution. For two years he has held a scholarship and has not been a grind to do it. He has found time to manage a basketball team and also a big man in other affairs. Then, too, "Bill" has a tender feeling for the other sex and this feeling is reciprocated. To "Bill" Tilley, a man, let us raise our glasses,

FRANK BOWIE TOLSON, JR.

URBANNA, VIRGINIA

Pi Kappa Alpha; Tennis Team '15-'16; German Club.

"Broadway Jack," as his name may probably suggest to you, is our vogue setter. In rain or shine his appearance is faultless, which item alone gives him a good half-hour start with the ladies. The natural result is that half of the young ladies of Williamsburg are suffering with heart trouble, liamsburg are suffering with heart trouble,

"Broadway" also does stellar work in his classes at times and is a very earnest college man. We take our hats off to Jack and only marvel that his accomplishments are not of wider scope. However, he is youthful yet and time will sooner or later disclose his possibilities.

Senior Class History

N THE annals of history of the class of '17 are recorded many things of living interest. The history of a class is personal as well as general, and we may well give a review of those really worthy activities in which the students of the class participated as well as things of monumental interest.

We began college as a class of seventy but now number barely twenty. Many and various reasons made it impossible for our former classmates to continue with us, notably Wallace, captain-elect of this year's football team.

We have been well represented in every activity in college. Paul Derring, a man of wonderful ability having to overcome many handicaps, put the Y. M. C. A. upon the map at William and Mary and made it a potent factor in student life. In the literary societies, we find such names as Simms, Derring, Robertson, Heflin, Eason, Kyle, and Rash, men who have done three or four years of literary work. To mention athletics one immediately associates the names of Heflin, Griggs, Geddy and Robertson with many thrilling contests in the major sports, Robertson being captain of this year's basketball team. Also we have among our numbers managers galore, managers of football, baseball and basketball teams, of the Flat Hat, of the Literary Magazine and of numerous other minor activities which we need not mention. Last, but not least, we have "curlers" and "skirt rushers" whose names will be forever remembered. It has also been said that the class has one of the grandest little politicians in its midst that ever put a political scheme through.

The members of the class of '17 have begun two things which will always remain a memorial to them, namely. Student Self-Government and the Student Co-operative Scholarship. The Student Self-Government was begun in 1916, the members of our class taking the major part. The plan culminated this year in the adoption of a constitution, drawn up by our classmates, Derring, Simms and Robertson.

The Student Co-operative Scholarship idea was worked out largely by our members, presented and accepted by the student body in its entirety and has met with State-wide approval.

But hold! Further space we cannot use to record other events of interest, for the Editor-in-Chief is getting fearfully afraid that we are going to claim all of Virginia's Colonial history as our own.

Historian.

RESIGNATION

Sometimes, upon the registrar's record book, The little truant Freshmen often look; Their eyes grow dim with sadness and dismay, Failing to see an "A."

And sometimes, in their study rooms, apart.

The little Freshmen take it heart to heart;

From their firm lips we seem to hear them say

Next time we'll make an "A."

Senior Class Prophecy

Prophet: "I would that my tongue could utter the thoughts that arise in me."

UT INSOMUCH as this Colonial Echo is to be presented to the public's eye, all swearing and cursing is to be debarred. But think, gentle reader, of this awful task assigned me by this distinguished, but thoughtless body of men, known as the Senior class of 1917.

Vainly have I sought to talk with some unknown spirit, or interview Saint Peter, or drink of some sparkling nectar that would open to me the gates of the future. Miles and miles have I wandered, seeking, I know not what, but hoping that in my madness some kind spirit would present me with some instrument, mirror, or anything through which I might obtain the gift of prophecy. All this I must get out of my system, before I tell you that tonight, January the 6th, 1917, I have been blessed.

About three hours ago, while I was seated in my room first cursing the word prophet and then trying to become one, a man knocked at my door, not a ghost, simply a man. But over his head a long black robe extended to the floor. I invited him in and very quietly he told me that he was a student at William and Mary, that he knew me well, and that he was well known by his fellow students. Immediately I began to question him, but he would answer me nothing. Then, thinking that it was some joke, I grabbed at his robe, but he drew away and told that he had come to aid me in my despair.

He then handed me a large book which he had concealed under his robe. On looking at the book I read its title, "Twenty Years Hence." Oh, that I could describe to you the feeling that came over me. "Take it." he said, "and read, and after you have finished, throw it from your window and there will be hands to receive it." Mad in my delight in having been so blessed, I forgot my visitor entirely and when I recovered my senses he was gone. But his wonderful book I have.

On opening the book, the name Zelma Talmage Kyle I plainly read. Under it was written: "Somewhere in the Mountains of Virginia." Then I read as follows: "Mr. Kyle is now President of our recently established Normal School for Women. Under his direction the supporters of this institution look forward to a brilliant future." Immediately it came into my mind that Kyle must have gotten his start as President of the Senior class.

The next name I read was Arthur Douglas Parker. Eager to know what was held in store for my old friend "Diggie," I read:

"Mr. Parker, the man known throughout the world as 'the man who does things,' has been appointed by the Government to the office of National Commissioner of Highways. Mr. Parker states that at the end of two years the construction of concrete highways, through all the states of the Union, will have been completed."

So far the class of '17 had a bright future and eagerly I read on.

"Paul Neyron Derring has just completed his latest book entitled, 'Why Did She Come?' It is urged that the title of this book be not confused with Miss Lucy Smith's latest novel, 'What did she come for?' for Mr. Derring's book is not mere fiction, but a philosophical study on why woman came into the world."

"Dr. Isaac Wiley Robertson is now editor of the American Medical Magazine. In the next issue he will disclose some startling discoveries recently made in the use of laughing gas."

"It is rumored that the firm of C. R. Heflin and T. G. Pullen, specialists in the field of politics, have taken up the campaign for the much talked of 'Dark Horse' in the coming presidential election."

"Dr. Walter Lee McCormick, scientific detective, has recently employed the services of John Wilmer Hedrick and it is believed that no mystery in the field of crime can baffle this combination. Although the complication of William Seymour Brent in the strange case of Miss Ophelie Hart has astonished the world."

"Ben Harrison Seekford is making great fame in the medical world as is Dr. Frank Bowie Tolson with his latest patented medicine for inertia."

"Attorneys Andrew Leckie Garland and D. M. Griggs, after much research and investigation, are now ready to prove that 'the thinking men of the country chew Picnic Twist,"

"In opposition to this assertion, the Reverend Dr. Floyd Talmage Joyner has begun a world-wide campaign against the use of tobacco."

"Mr. William Benjamin Tilley, President of the National Bankers' Association, says that the proposed banking system of Senator Henry Harrison Simus will be heartily endorsed by him."

"The Honorable Jennings Judy Swecker has just returned to his mountain home, after a visit to William and Mary Summer School at Dublin. Mr. Swecker made this trip in his recently purchased aeroplane. He states that he was delighted to find his two old friends D. O. Rash and S. W. Eason still faithful to the institution."

Now all these things are in this book, but whether they be true or not the prophet dare not say. But if he is permitted to live these coming twenty years he most assuredly intends to employ McCormick and Hedrick to solve the mystery concerning this book and his fellow student who presented it to him.

IESSE RAWLES BYRD

Philomathean

Quiet, unassuming and faultless in his appearance. He is a hard boy to know but worth the difficulty after you know him. Small in size but we hope a large bulk of success for you.

HERBERT GRAY CHANDLER

Theta Delta Chi

Chandler is one of those quiet, unassuming, literary cusses who wields a big influence among his fellows with the quill. If you don't believe it, just read the "Mag" and the "Hat."

CLARENCE LUCK CHARLTON

Phoenix

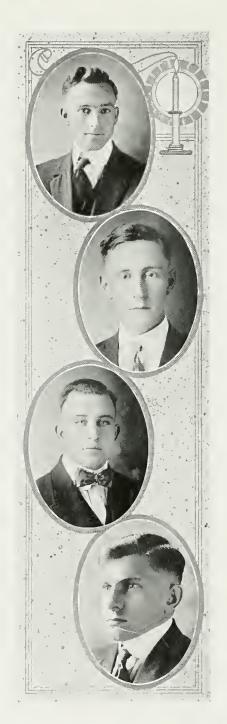

Here is the musician of the class. His lazy swinging walk and deep rooted smile has won many friends for him while here. He is a lightning express with a "gravy train."

RICHARD WATSON COPELAND

Kappa Alpha

Shake hands with "Copie," as the ladies call him, because they say it sounds so cute. Besides being a ladies man, Copeland is a football player of no mean ability. He is vice-president of his class, which position he holds down with distinction.

ERNEST LINWOOD CONNELLEE

Rappahannock Club

A northern necker, simple, studious, and a hard worker. He is from the land where oysters and boats grow on the same tree, and is proud of it. An English curler and a loyal son of the college.

HAMILTON BROADUS DERIEUN

Pi Kappa Alpha

This is not Alexander Hamilton, but Hamilton Derieux, an elongated tennis shark, a good student and a jolly fellow. May your honors pile up as high as you are tall.

ROB ROY DOSS

"Kid" Doss, formerly the terror of ducs, but somewhat milder in his views since the loss of his twin, Johnny Corbell, is the happiest man on the campus. Aside from curling the professors and playing football incidentally, he finds ample time to entertain his fellows around college. That's right, "Kid," make sunshine while the hay's easy.

HARRY HOOPER EDWARDS

Phoenix

"Fats" is a better name for this bag of wit and good humor. He plays football like a veteran, purrs around the ladies, and every term packs away about eighteen credits for later use. May you grow larger, "Fats," is our wish.

WILLIAM WILKINS FARMER

Philomathean

Agricola, or Gric. for short, possesses the most crimson dome that scarlet ever reddened, but it seems to be only a shield of a quantity of grey matter. Gric has never been known to ask a prof. for a dill, but he gets there always by steady pushing. Here's to you, Farmer.

GEORGE LYNN FERGUSON

Philomathean

"Goat" is our future lawyer. His untiring efforts on debates has gained for him the gentle art of persuasion to such a fine point that no girl has ever refused him yet. Keep it up, "Goat."

FRANK McCALL GARNET

Kappa Sigma

Speed King is a more appropriate name for this hurler. He has been instrumental in the capture of two baseball trophies and if not watched, will duplicate his trick again this year. We predict big circles for you, King.

JOHN PRESTON INCLE

Sigma Upsilon

The ramfod of the boarding department now asks your attention. He is giving out a notice—"you can get your laundry immediately after dinner." He also finds some time to store away credits for the reckoning day.

BENJAMIN ROSSER JAMES

Kappa Sigma

If there is anyone who can tell a joke better than Pete, lead me to him. His humor makes him a good fellow to have in the crowd, and his demon way on the gridiron makes the opposing team thankful for hospitals.

FLOYD FRANKLIN JENKINS

Phi Kappa Alpha

Jenks is the true type of an old country squire, genial in his nature, interested in everything for the common welfare, and holding a high conception of honor. Besides these qualities Jenks is a hard working student, and bids fair to make a worthy citizen.

CHARLES LESLIE MAJOR

The laughing boy from the land of Rappahannock; he laughs at everything at college, even Practice teaching. You cannot down Major.

BENJAMIN BURRUSS MITCHELL, JR.

Phoenix

B. B. is one of the hardest students in college. He will tell you and even bet that he cannot make a course and when the exams come he pulls down A's. May your results keep flourishing and your thoughts harmonize with them.

ALFRED JOHNSON MAPP

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Here's to Alfred Johnson, the poet of his class, a reticent fellow, and one of the most intellectual men of this number. Press forward, old scout, and we will hear from you again.

ARTHUR LEE MADDOX

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Arthur Lee is this fair prodigal's name when at home, but to us he is just "Mooks." He has been our leader for the past two years and some claim that this is due to his oratorical ability. He uses his oratory for everything from curling the profs to persuading the fair sex. He also claims to be an athlete.

ARTHUR PEMBERTŌN ROBIN-SON

Theta Delta Chi

You can hear A. P. as far as you can see him. Every time a player on the opposing eleven hears his bass voice he trembles because a crash follows such an ontpour.

ENNOLS EUGENE STEPHENS

Pi Kappa Alpha

"Giraffe" is a man, both physically and mentally. If you desire to know more of his prowess just ask A. P. May you use this ability for greater things.

Inniar Class History

"History repeats itself!" This may be true in some cases, but the Junior class has something new. It has also been said that "all history is a lie," but that which this class has made during the past three years is self-evident and does not have to be taken from hieroglyphics or wall paintings. Not casting any reflections at all upon myself, however, you must remember this is history.

The history of the Junior class began in the Fall of 1914, with a membership of seventy-two green "ducs." We do not claim to be the original Freshman class of three years ago, because some have fallen by the wayside; some, by attending the Summer School, have made their degree in three years; and this year finds us with a membership of twenty-two "curlers"—the survival of the fittest.

Many pages could be written by giving a detailed account of each Junior, but being limited to one page, I can give only a general review of our many accomplishments and honors.

In the beginning our class was well represented in all college activities and continues so to the present time. We are not here simply to listen to lectures, but a class of real active human beings, ever adventuring into the more miraculous deeds of men.

We feel that we, as a class, are worthy of a history. We can boast of our athletes and monogram men, having given star players on the gridiron, on the diamond, and on the basketball and tennis courts. We can boast of having furnished some of the best debaters in the triangle debates, and many of our men have won distinction in Declamation and Oratory.

In our number there are prospective theologians, lawyers, physicians, journalist, and teachers. Indeed, we are "many men of many minds." I might add that we are well represented in the finer art—"calico" and many other clubs too numerous to mention.

In conclusion, let us hope that by continued effort we may return next year as full-fledged Seniors; and when we shall go forth as graduates, may our future records do honor to the class of 1918, our esteemed Faculty and Alma Mater.

Freshie's Exams

I came to college in the Fall,

To have a good time, that's all;

Surprised to know the "profs" didn't care,

I soon began to shoot hot air,

As for monthly marks, I cared not, Because I knew my air was hot. But just before exams, you see, They hurled a string of D's at me.

So soon, the dreaded exams came around, And dates had I with girls in town.

Marks came in, and I couldn't refrain

From catching the five-thirty train.

Sophomore Class History

After surviving the perils of the Freshman year, we have again answered the call of William and Mary, and have registered as members of the Sophomore class of '16-'17.

More than half of our class returned to college this session and we are earnestly trying to carry out the work begun last year. Those who stumbled by the wayside last year are coming back strong this year and making some of the more successful ones hustle to maintain the pace.

The burden of "Duc" training in former years has fallen upon the shoulders of the Sophs, but this year the "loving stick" has not been wielded as frequently by members of the Sophs as in the days of "Auld Lang Syne."

The loss of "Spotswood" to the Freshmen was the outcome of the "cannon scrap." The Freshmen had the advantage in numbers, having nearly two to one in the "scrap," but we put up a strong fight against the odds, and caused the Freshmen to earn their victory.

That much dreaded word "Flunk" looms up in exaggerated proportions just before exams, but with us it gradually merges into the magic "Passed," as the record for the term is reported. The Soph class of '16-'17 may not go on record as a curling class, but we claim the premium as the busiest and hardest working class of years.

This industry is not entirely without its reward and under the leadership of our president we are establishing a record which, if continued, will be pleasant to reflect upon even after we cease to register at William and Mary.

However, our activities are not confined to the classrooms. We are ably represented in the Y. M. C. Λ ., in the literary societies, in athletics and among the "calico sports."

In football we did our share and in basketball some of our members bid fair to win monograms. The prospect in baseball seems bright and judging from present appearances, our class will not be backward in furnishing material which gives promise of playing an important part towards winning the championship this year.

This closes our history for this session and we hope that next session may show our record richer and with more lasting results.

HISTORIAN.

Knock, knock, In thy old one-lung Henree!

And I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me.

O, well for the fast trolley car,

That it shoots without noise or delay;
O, well for the farmer lad,

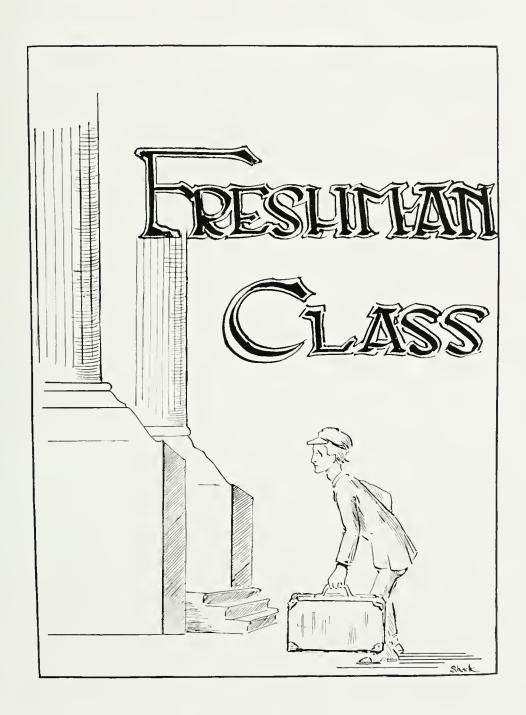

That he sings as he saddles the bay.

And my Detroit "tank" limps on To the garage under the hill. But O for the touch of a vanquished roll When I pay Captain Kidd for his bill.

Break, break, break,
From thy "shoes" to windshield, Henree!
But the coin I've spent for the upkeep and gas
Will never come back to me.

A World-Win Proposal

VER the tall oak trees of a calm and serene campus, through the quiet streets of the ancient town of Williamsburg, and into the woods around, the college bell spread its deep intonations, tolling the knell of parting care-free days of the Seniors of sweet '16.

The academic procession filed slowly out of the ivy-covered chapel, in which the graduation exercises had been held. Old "Prex" was at the head. Beside him walked the orator of the morning, who had dealt out the conventional line of stuff, which can be summed up as follows:

"Young men, you who are about to bid adieu to your college course to begin the coarse course of life, remember that Rockefeller and Shakespeare had nothing on you when they commenced. In fact, you have the edge on them, the ace in the hole being your college education. Let your watchword be Excelsior, and your motto Eureka."

Following these two learned gentlemen came the high-browed, dignified faculty, and then some twenty or more self-conscious Seniors, each with a be-rib-boned, be-autographed insignia of intelligence tucked under his arm, with James Alexander, in whom the main interest centers, occupying, on account of his inherent indolence, the usual position of the steam calliope.

Having reached the campus the procession disbanded, and, after throwing his cap and gown into the discard, Jimmy went out on a still hunt for his lady. The old college bell brought back memories of the past, but for James Alexander there was a new college belle, who had awakened in him a few sentimental thoughts of the future. Let us not blame him for leaving the campus so hurriedly on this graduation morn. It was not that he liked his Alma Mater less, but he loved his Alma Moore.

And Alma Moore, we might take occasion to interpolate, was all there when it came to weight and measure. If you ever gave her the once-over, you would have surely paused to bestow upon her fair face and form the double O.

To resume our embroidery work, Jimmy found Alma, finally, on the front porch of the old homestead. A hammock built for two, and everything was cozy.

Page Sixty-eight

"Alma," said Jimmy, "today is the last of my college career, and forth must I go into the cruel, cruel world to make my mark."

"What are you going to do," replied she, "join a Black Hand Society?"

"Come on, come on, Alma, this is serious," answered Jimmy. "Here I have been working for four long years for this sheepskin, and I fear that, after all, it is only a scrap of paper. A. B. or no A. B. that is the question. Whether or not to endure the slings and arrows of outraged professors to be rewarded with this symbol of learning, is quite beyond me, but now that I have it I am going to wend my way to little old New York and attempt to buck the journalistic field."

"I mean," explained James Alexander, "I mean to tread in the paths made famous by Bennett and Greeley, and, I might say, rendered notorious by Hearst."

"I see," she said, "but I am afraid that, to misquote Horace Greeley, you are going south, young man, going south."

"Never fear," answered our hero modestly. "It will only be a short time before I place my footprints upon the sands of the Times, World, Journal, or some other news dispensary. But before I go I would a word with thee."

"Deux mots you may have," quoth Alma, "that is, if they are bon-mots."

"Marry me," said Jimmy.

"You lose," Alma replied. "Oh, Jimmy, if thou wouldst have me, two things shall I ask of thee. First, you must leave this college whirl immediately, and, like your illustrious ancestor, sigh for another world to conquer. After you have made good in the world, send me such a proposal as Burns would have written to his Highland Mary, as Petrarch to his Laura, as Dante to his Beatrice, as Poe to his lost Lenore, and I will be yours forever and a day."

"That's a rather large order," answered James, "but I'm the little boy who's going to try to fill it. It's nearly train time, so farewell—until the return."

As he left the house Alma and the phonograph gave him these parting words, "Good-bye, good luck, God bless you, that's all that I can say."

By the long arm of coincidence James Alexander and the north-bound express train for New York left Williamsburg at the same moment. (Note—There is no express train from Williamsburg to New York, but what do we care? Possibly, it was a local.)

After a few weeks Jimmy, aided by the twin brothers, Push and Pull, succeeded in landing a reportorial job. He then set himself to the task of out-pointing the ancient celebrities in the composition of rhythmic words of love. Soon afterwards Ahna received the following note:

New York, July 16, 1916.

ALMA DEAR:

Here it is, right off the bat:

O Alma Mater and Alma Moore, One I love, and one adore, One for the past, one for the future, Tell me, think thee I'll suture? O Alma's pater and Alma Moore, One I ask, and one implore.

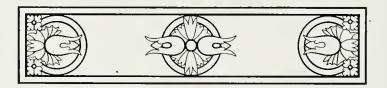

Alma, beloved, only creature, Let's be one, I beseature.

P. S.—Burns, Dante or any of the others might have written that if they had thought of it first. Have conquered the New York World. Is that sufficient?

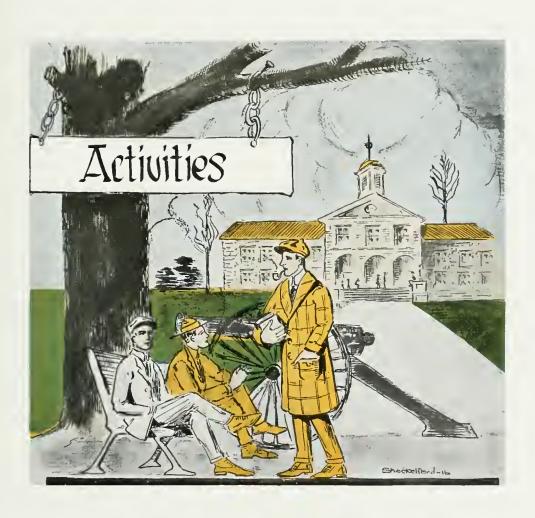

[IMMY.]

It was.

y. M. C. A. Notes

Nem's Christian Association has had one of the most prosperous and helpful years of service since its organization at William and Mary, we do not mean to cast the slightest reflection of discredit upon the preceding cabinets, for it is only on firm foundations that high and lofty structures can be reared. It is on this foundation built by the out-going cabinet that the present administration has sought to build up an institution fostering high and lofty ideals in the student body, and thereby rendering a real service to society.

When Paul Derring became president it was generally understood that something was going to be done, and that fertile brain of his immediately began to plan work that would put the Y. M. C. A. on a higher plane in college life, and show the students that in its rich tone of fraternal fellowship it holds a prominent and unique place among the college activities. The idea of a club room was conceived. It was the purpose of the association to equip this room with such games and periodicals that would furnish the students with a home like and wholesome environment in which to enjoy their leisure moments. Though not entirely realized yet, the idea is still alive and such additions have already been made to the room as to make the students actually visualize a work of the Y. M. C. A. and see that it is an activity conducted unselfishly for their benefit.

Realizing what the Southern Student Conference means to Y. M. C. A. men in college life, movements were put on foot to send a strong delegation to this conference held at Blue Ridge, N. C. The Board of Visitors was petitioned for aid and responded with an appropriation large enough to help pay the expenses of the delegation. As a result Derring, Robertson, Ingle, and Joyner went to Blue Ridge and enjoyed ten days of helpful and inspiring training.

One of the first events of the year was the annual reception given in our handsome and spacious dining hall. Very fortunate indeed were we in being able to have Mr. Langston, Prof. Keeble, Pres. Tyler, Dr. Hall and Hon. A. J. Montague to speak to us on this occasion.

Bible and Mission study classes have been organized on a different basis from heretofore. The committees have made arrangements for them to be conducted in conjunction with the various churches in town instead of having them held in the college chapel. This plan has worked admirably and there are now four Bible study classes taught by the professors of the college, each having a large enrollment and attendance of the students.

Another innovation this year is the monthly Vesper Service held the second Sunday afternoon of each month in the college chapel. At each service some speaker of wide reputation is secured to make an address. In addition to this the music furnished by the college quartet and glee club and outside talent tend to make the program helpful and attractive. These services have been well attended and the cabinet feels sure that it has started a custom that will grow in importance and attractiveness commensurate with its existence.

One of the greatest events at the college this year was the Campaign for Christian Living, conducted by Dr. W. D. Weatherford, in December. Dr. Weatherford gave a series of powerful addresses on student life and the problems a young man must face. As a result several students signed decision cards for a cleaner and more conscientious life, and the student body as a whole was greatly benefited.

The administration has very wisely followed the custom of past years in presenting a series of life work lectures. Dr. Bennet gave a lecture on "Teaching as a Life Work," and Dr. King, on "Medicine as a Life Work." It cannot be doubted that these lectures do a great deal in helping a thoughtful young man arrive at a conclusion as to what he is best fitted to do in life.

For the benefit of the club room the famous Hampton Quartet from the Hampton Industrial Institute recently gave a most enjoyable entertainment. This quartet makes a specialty of old plantation melodies, and for harmony they are the equals of any colored quartet in the South. This was their second visit to our college and those who heard them hope to hear them again.

The Y. M. C. A. has done an excellent work during the past year and the new cabinet is fully capable of accomplishing still more. Many possibilities lie before them. The Y. M. C. A. is now on a solid foundation, its reputation is undisputed, its fellowship is universal; and it invites every young man to be at home in its halls.

Alpha Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa

WILLIAM AND MARY

FOUNDERS

John Heath Thomas Smith Richard Booker Armistead Smith

John Jones

The Phi Beta Kappa Society was organized at the College of William and Mary, December 5, 1776, and was a combination of a Greek letter fraternity and a debating society. From this humble beginning has grown the widely-known honor society, having upon its rolls the names of some of the most distinguished men in America.

The mother chapter's first period of existence was brief. In 1781, the scene of war shifted to the Virginia peninsula and when the college closed its doors, the few members gave up their archives and minutes into the hands of the college steward. The Society slumbered until 1849; the papers disappeared, but finally fell into the possession of the Virginia Historical Society which restored them to Alpha in 1893.

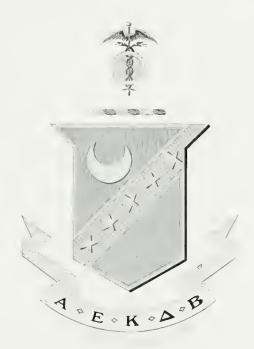

In this same year, Col. William Lamb revived the Society; the faculty were initiated; and a new era of prosperity began. Chapters had been established in the leading Northern colleges where they throve from the first, and did much to elevate the fraternity to its present high rank.

For its size (there are about two hundred names on the rolls). Alpha of Virginia, is one of the largest, strongest chapters, numbering among its members the most distinguished scholars and litterateurs of Virginia.

At William and Mary there are two classes of members; men distinguished in letters and science whom the College wishes to honor; and former students who have gone out into life and shown promise in literary or scientific paths. Any student on the rolls has it within his power to wear the key and win the honor that is so highly esteemed among educated and cultivated men of this land.

Phi Beta Kappa is not a secret fraternity, competing with other fraternities, but a "brotherhood of scholars."

Colonial Echo Election

Most Popular Man—Robertson wins first place with Geddy a close second. Greatest Nuisance—College was full of them, and it was not until the home stretch that Forehand emerged ahead, followed closely by "All American" Cook.

Greenest Man—There was no doubt from the first that "Foots" Tyler was the winner for first place. Second was the scene of interesting racing but before the final ballot Doyle had completely outclassed his opponents and easily captured the second place.

Tobacco Bum—Votes showed that G. G. Sommers had "bummed" more of the weed than any other two men in school; they showed that Garber had a bad habit also,

Eccentric Man—Seekford and Faison were the only hot contestants for this place. In the last "go round" Faison won out. The result is attributed to the fact that Faison wore a "full dress" while Ben neglected this until too late.

"Calico" Sport—Of course "Pete" James won first place by a large majority. The surprise came when Addington won second place, due to the solid vote of the "Ducs."

Loafer—Another close race. "Pig" Williams had not been caught in his room which no doubt won for him first place, but Spencer made a noble effort for the said honor only to fall behind by a close margin, which puts him in second place.

"Curler"—A place envied by many. In fact it was envied by some to the extent that they voted for themselves. However, on real merit and without personal voting, W. Wilson won first and W. F. C. Ferguson, the latest of the trio, captured second.

Freshest "Duc"—Votes were cast for nearly every "Duc" in school but they finally concentrated on Grizzard and Hobson, Ugliest Man—Farmer holds down his old place but pushed by Harrison, who easily won second.

Best Orator—Simms and Ferguson, old running mates and colleagues, got first and second, respectively. Both have persuasive ability, especially with the fair sex.

Best Athlete—Goslee played on all three teams and is consequently the man for first honors. Geddy also has great athletic ability.

Page One hundred thirty-two

Most Handsome Man—A place no doubt politiced for but the "great multitude" cannot be fooled and French and Geddy are our beautiful boys. However, neither are for sale.

Most Awkwark Man—Connor first and Waldrop second was found on every ballot,

Best Baseball Player—Garnett's pitching ability polled for him a large vote, while Hellin's all-around work ran "Big Chief" a close second.

Best Prose Writer—Derring can wield the pen and Pullen can spread it too.

Lady Hater—For this position we have to put the old veterans in again— Brent and Garland.

Slowest Man—The invisible "Cannon Ball" Saunders ran in first, closely followed by "Flat Head" Sommers.

All-Round College Man—Robertson polled a heavy vote and won first place. Simms is a good man to have around college also.

Best Basketball Player—Murry's goal getting puts him high in the eyes of the student body, while Geddy can toss them, too.

Best Football Player—"Prex's" romping around on Cary Field puts him first. Close's punts cinches second for him.

Business Man—Hedrick is the only man for the job because of his handling of the Echo. Pullen will also be a business man some day.

Grind—Van Pelt and Farmer are the only boys who really mean to study hard.

"Dill Picker"—Seekford was the only man for first place. The running mate of Seekford is "All American" Cook. However, it is generally conceded that in a close combat Cook could not carry a light for Ben to gather up his "dills" by. B. H. Seekford won third place.

Bull Slinger—G. L. Ferguson and Rives were the popular selection and had no close contestants.

"It"—Heflin and Hutcheson grabbed this in whole.

Jokes and Grinds

Editor's Note: It is to be strictly understood that the jokes found on these pages are true and you are, therefore, urged to believe in them. They have passed the Board of Liars, which body weeded out all those which were false.

Then, Dear Sweetheart and Loving Mother, first, we would ask you to please not read these pages, for fear that you will find the pitfalls into which he has fallen. But, by mistake, should you chance to read them we ask you, in his behalf, to forgive him. There's a slight chance for some of them yet.

Garland (in Zoo, III class)—"Doc, what do you think of this slide?"

Dr. Davis—"Very poor, Mr. Garland; yiss-yiss, very poor, better make it over."

Brent (with same slide a few minutes later)—"Doc, how is this slide? It looks good to me."

Dr. Davis (after examining very closely)—"Yiss-yiss, Mr. Brent, very good, very good—yiss, one of the best you've made."

Garland—"Damn."

Simms—"What chemical reaction do you get when you heat water?" Jovner—"Hot water, you feel."

Seen in Cooper's notebook after having completed Chemistry V—"Iodine soluble in water but not soluble in H_oO.

Dr. Wilson (in History class)—"Mr. Nicholson, whom did Henry VII send over to America?"

"Snapshot Bi I" Nicholson—"John Jacob Astor, Doctor."

Dean Murry (having his veracity doubted by a stranger while on a basket-ball trip)—"I'll have you to understand, sir, that I belong to William & Mary, and do not lie."

Stranger—"l'ardon me, sir, but from your 'line' I thought that William & Mary belonged to you."

Young Lady (having passed the drug store with "Prex" Wilson)—"That candy surely did look good."

"Prex"-"I'm not in a hurry; you may walk back and look again if you wish."

Dr. Keeble (in Physics I)—"What is work?"

Class—No answer.

Dr. Keeble—"I'm demonstrating it now trying to get information out of this class."

Young Lady (to "Giraffe" Stephens)—"Why is it that you do not dance?" "Giraffe"—"There are just two things that keep me from dancing." Young Lady—"What are they?" "Giraffe"—"My feet."

"Mag" Lewis (entering Hugh Parker's room after Nov. 1st)—"Hugh, 1 smell fumes of liquor around here."

Hugh—"Oh, that's just the wind blowing from Baltimore."

Senior (absent on night of preliminary debate)—"How was the debate—was it a heated one?'

Duc-"You bet it was; it was all hot air."

Connellee (in dining hall on ground-hog day)—"What in the devil is a ground-hog, anyway?"

Garland (pointing to his sausage)—"My God! vou're eating one now."

Dr. Tyler (in Political Science 1)—"Mr. Ingle, who was the tenth president of the United States?"

Ingle (matching pennies with Ben Seekford)—"I didn't understand the question, doctor."

Dr. Tyler—"Next. Mr. Fentress."

Fentress (preparing next lecture)—"Didn't hear the question, doctor."

Dr. Tyler-"Pay attention, sir. Mr. Williams."

Williams—"1 don't know. What's the question, doctor?"

Dr. Tyler-"You haven't anything on me, I don't know what the question is either.

H. C. Parker (seeing Williams in deep study)—"What's the trouble, 'Judge?'

Judge" Williams—"Well, 1 tell you, Parker, if this temperature doesn't stop changing so fast around here, it's going to ruin every thermometer in this d--- town.

Scientific Belerium

When I had reached this college town, And creeped into my Freshie gown, My name, put I, on the Registrar's book, As a science pursuer with an empty look.

For Physics and Zoo, they put my name. And French and Drawing, it is a shame To mix a fellow up so much as that, When they know gray matter is scarce under hat,

I soon found out that it was my task, (And by the way, no questions were to be ask'd)
To find the am't of work done by a lump of starch
En passant through the point of sight while on the march.

Or the number of watts there would be In a molecule of Agar gotten from the sea. And to calculate the torsion of suspension Of two skeletal bones with zero tension.

There was no use in trying, I couldn't get 'em straight, And as for the Faculty, they just wouldn't wait. I thought that I wouldn't act rude and uncouth, So I left college to instruct the youth.

Records Were Broken When-

"Baby" Joyner knocked Faison through the ropes.

Seekford picked forty dills in three lectures.

"Mooks" Maddox emptied eight syrup containers in two meals. Pullen slung the "bull" forty days and nights without stopping. "Gric" Farmer sung before a huge audience.

AND THEY WERE NEARLY BROKEN WHEN-

Goslee and Saunders had a two round bout on Cary Field.

Liver successfully invaded L'hotel a la Moncure.

Two made French I.

Farmer asked Prof. Ferguson if Bryophytes had briars on them.

Page One hundred forty

Me Mould Swear To These

Simms—"Ben, Caesar must have been a powerful man."

Seekford—"Why, Henry?"

Simms—"I have just been reading here where he pitched his tents across the river in one night."

Seekford—"That's nothing, Henry; I have heard Heflin 'sling the bull' for nine months and never complain of being tired."

Carneal (in Smithsonian Institution on March 4th —"Whose skeleton is that?"

The Guide—"George Washington's."

Carneal (to Pullen)—"Whose skeleton is that little one there?"

Pullen—"That was George Washington's when he was a boy."

Carneal—"Oh, yes, I believe I did hear Dr. Tyler say something about that in class the other day."

Due Hobson (selecting a Christmas present for the little girl he left behind)
—"Mr. Friend, what have you in the way of presents suitable for a young lady?"

Mr. Friend—"We have some nice books, Mr. Hobson."

Duc Hobson—"I don't want no book. She has one of them."

The space in this book heretofore devoted to comments on John Tyler's feet will henceforth be used for Dr. Davis' bow-legs.

Duc Bibb (at football game, nudging McCormick after Sommers had made a spectacular play)—"How much does that count for us?"

(As the teams came off the field at the end of the first half Bibb further inquired)—"What inning is this?"

Duc Waldrup (leaving Cary Field after first football game)—"Who whipped?"

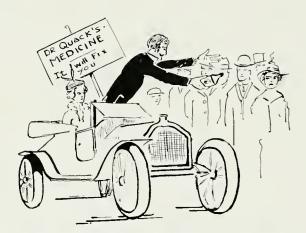

Prof. Hubbard (sighing after returning from one of his Academy classes)—"A fool can ask more questions than a wise man can answer."

"Pete" James-"That's why I flunked so many of my exams."

The Wanderful Medicine Men

Flourish of Cornet; Sleeping Williamsburg Awakens

ACT I—SCENE 1

Benjamin Bite Easy (in the fore front of excited crowd): "Come on, boys, let's see what the excitement is."

Crowd: "Hey, what's up?"

Dr. Quack (standing in automobile on street corner): "Right this way. Everybody gather close around the automobile."

Benj. Bite Easy (hollering through his rands): "Come on, fellers. Golly whack, you don't see this every day."

Dr. Quack (bowing courteously to the crowd): "Ladies and gentlemen, we're going to give you a little entertainment entirely free of charge. First I shall ask Madam Mockingbird to sing us a little song. (Turning to the lady seated in the auto): "Would you mind singing for us, Madam?"

M. Mockingbird: "Why certainly not." (Arising she sings):

He wore hot socks and checked suit,
Blood red tie and fancy shoes,
A jocky sport renowned was he
Who thought a bet he'd never lose.

CHORUS

I hate to see my baby lose
Though desperate he will be;
He'd go the limit with his cash
And stake his ties and socks and shoes,
Oh, how I hate to see my baby lose.

Crowd: "Hurrah! Great! Do it again!"

Benj. Bite Easy (clapping his hands vigorously): "Crack 'o day! Well, what about that, boys!"

Dr. Quack (holding a small package in his hands): "Ladies and gentlemen, I hold in my hand a bottle of Disease Vanisher, made solely from roots, barks and herbs, prepared by my own hand, containing nothing harmful or (helpful). It is guaranteed to cure aches, pains, rheumatism, headaches, nervousness, biliousness, fevers, chills, sores, cuts and croup and all other ailments with which the human family has ever been afflicted. In five minutes I am going to give away one hundred bottles of this remedy absolutely free of charge. But, ladies and gentlemen, I do not want anyone to take a bottle who will not use it. To show you that I mean what I say, I am going to give you these bottles (passing out five or six bottles).

Billy Hipkins (elbowing his way through the crowd): "Gosh, I knows my old lady wants one."

Benj. Bite Easy (whispering to himself): "This is a blamed good chance to cure my left leg of the rheumatism. Say, Doc, pass me out one."

Dr. Quack (interrogating the intelligent looking students with his usual questions): "You are sure that you are going to use it, are you?"

Benj. Bite Easy (emphatically): "Yes, sir."

Dr. Quack: "And you really want it?"

Benj. Bite Easy: "Why sure, if I didn't want it I wouldn't take it."

Dr. Quack (addressing the crowd): "This medicine sells for one dollar per bottle, but to get my business advertised I have given these bottles away free of charge. Now, to show that you appreciate the worth of this invaluable remedy, I am going to ask each person who received a bottle to give me, just for one moment, a dollar for which I will give you in return two dollars."

Benj. Bite Easy (seeing his chance to make a dollar): "Here you go, Doc." Hipkins and others follow suit.

Dr. Quack (extracting a dollar from his pocket, folds the two together and turns to M. Mockingbird: "Hold this just a moment please." Turning to the crowd: "Ladies and gentlemen, you have manifested your faith in my medicine, true to my word, I am going to give each of you another bottle of the great Disease Vanquisher, which, as I have said, is worth one dollar. I thank you for your kind attention."

A Duc's Letter Home

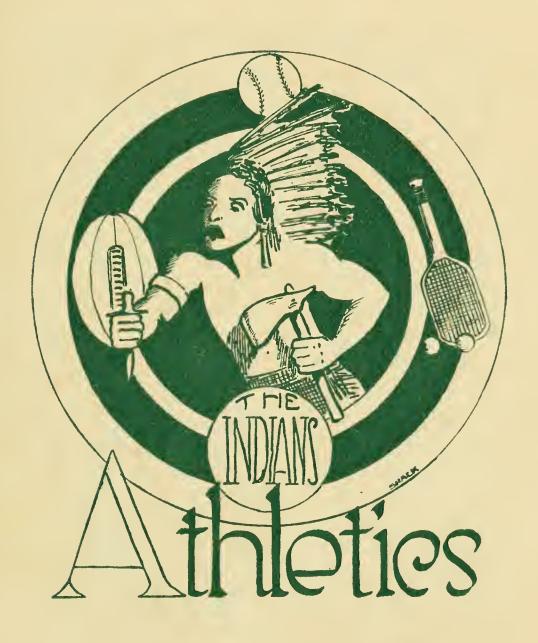

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 1, 1916.

Dear Pa: Please let me come home on the next train that run out of this place. You see these folks down here don't teach nothin' that I know no way. The teachers go around here all stuck up with a collar all built up around their necks so stiff that I bet they couldn't spit through a crack in the floor with a funnel. They call themselves doctors, too, and, Pa, I sware they aint, because they don't never know what to give you for the belly-ache. Pa, everything is so different here. Every morning for breakfast they have got a dish full of things that looks like sawdust. By gosh, Pa, but they're good and I want you to order some from Sears & Roebuck the next time. They put handkerchiefs at your plate whether you have a cold or not. Things don't suit me here no how. They all wear shoes so sharp that you could split rails with them, and Pa, tell Ma not to send anymore of them home made shirts for everybody down here wears store shirts. I traded off my last quart of white-lightening for a valler one which I have had on ever since. The lites down here is awfully funny things, you just hafter turn a screw and they shine, but Pa, you can't lite your pipe with them cause they are all caged up with glass. I had to throw my old corn-cob away because everybody smokes store eigarets. Pa, you wanted me to git into society, so I went to a dance the other night. The fe lers had on long tail coats just like that old preacher wears and they were huggin' the girls all over the floor. I met an awful pritty gal and when I tried to dance with her the floor was so slick that I set down so hard that I felt worse than Uncle Jake when that new ram you bought lifted him across the fence. So now, Pa, you see how it is and please let me come home as soon as I git vour letter.

Your miserable son,

P. GREENE.

Football and Baskethall History

The football season of this year was only moderately successful. Beginning with a team of little experience, Coach Hubbard, assisted by G. A. Dovel and W. B. Lee, finally whipped it into such shape that in the latter part of the season it evolved into a formidable fighting machine.

The loss of Captain-elect Wallace and "Dick" Gayle, last year's stars, left gaps which were hard to fill. But with the letter men, well recruited from the Academy, and finding some good material among the Freshmen, the season began. The exhibition games were played,—a victory, a defeat, and a tie was the outcome. Then came the championship games with three disastrous, consecutive defeats, followed by a wonderful "come-back," showing the "never-say-die" spirit of William and Mary. Randolph-Macon was defeated 14-7, Richmond College was battled to a standstill, and Hampden-Sidney was allowed to score only nine points. All through the season hard fighting characterized the play of the Indians rather than team work.

In the unique selection of All-Eastern Virginia Intercollegiate e'even by means of votes by the four coaches of the association, "Prex" Wilson for center and "Monk" Ellis for backfield were unanimously chosen. Copeland also received a majority of votes for the guard position. Close made an enviable record, being selected by Park H. Davis, football's foremost statistician, as second best punter in the country, as well as having his name heralded abroad among the footbal heroes of 1916 who made winning plays in crucial battles.

Among others who deserve mention are Goslee and Edwards, the former for his slashing interference and tackling, and the latter for his consistent guarding.

By contrast with last year's basketball season this year's could hardly be called successful. But this was owing to the necessity of having to build up practically an entirely new team on account of the loss of Jones, Stryker, Gayle, Zion and Zehmer. Captain Robertson was the only member of the former championship quint to return.

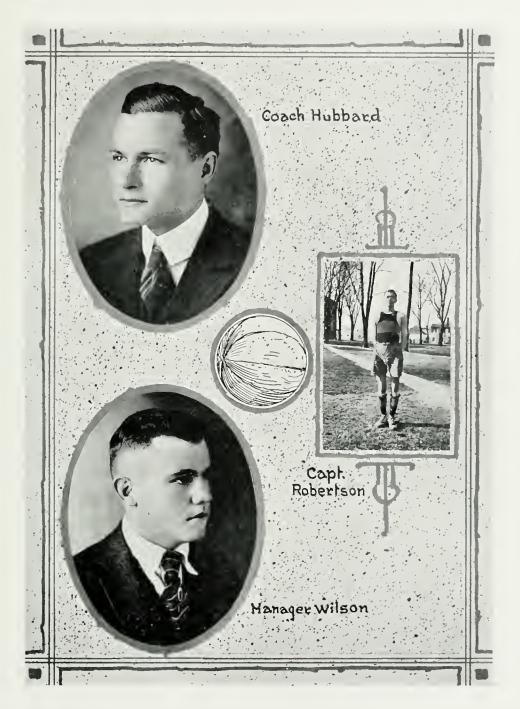

Owing to the lack of height of the new men, Robertson had to be shifted from guard to center, and consequently the last line of defense was greatly weakened. The other members of the team were unusually light for the gruelling championship contests and their inexperience told when the final count was taken.

Deane Murry proved to be our star at forward, tieing for first place in the total number of individual points scored in the association, with Graham of Hampden-Sidney, and getting second place in number of field goals made. Geddy also played well at forward, as did Robertson at center.

Baseball

Of the five major sports, William and Mary has been the most successful in baseball for the past three years. Champions of the Eastern Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Association in 1914, deadlocked with the other three members of the association in 1915, and again champions in 1916, is a record of which we are justly proud. Credit must be placed where credit is due, and we can rightly say that faster and harder hitting aggregations of college ball players are seldom collected together than those from whom the championship was not wrested in three years.

At the time of writing of this article the Indians have just left their home camp to invade the western part of the state on their annual training trip, and as yet but one game has been played. Victory has been ours at the start, but we are seriously handicapped by the loss of several letter men of sterling quality. Zehmer and Coombs, both catchers of ability, also "Red" Williams and Newton, fielders, have been lost by graduation. Both Mortimer Williams, who played first, and Stryker, who played second, left us to study medicine. "Pete" James had the misfortune to injure his arm seriously during the football season and will not be able to pitch this year.

The letter men who returned are Goslee, Geddy. Heflin, and last, but not least, "Big Chief" Garnett, all who have been potent factors in our past victories. Around these men the team is being molded from likely candidates, among whom the most promising are Garber, Close, Cato, Murry, Love, Fentress, Hedrick. Johnson, Crigler and Richardson. It is a pretty safe assertion to add that some of them will stand the test of the gruelling championship battles to the glory of William and Mary.

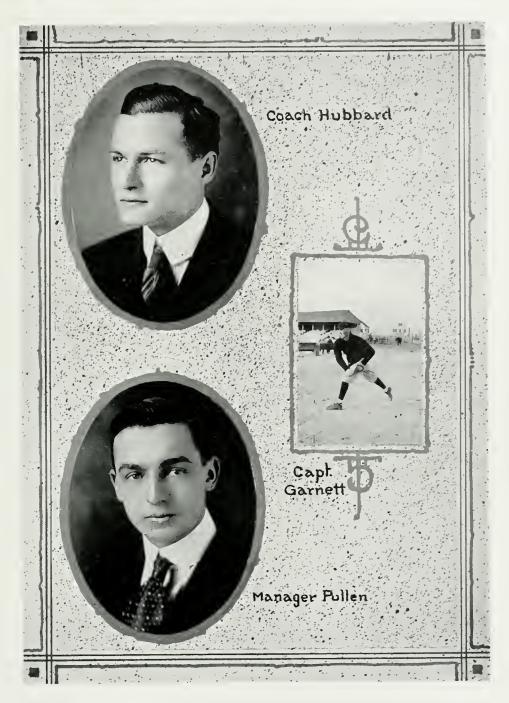

A prediction of who is going to win the Eastern Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship seems at this time of the season to be folly. This much we can boldly assert: that when the final reckoning comes, Captain Garnett leading his braves will be struggling in the first line of trenches for a strangle hold on the cup of '17, directed by the brains of Coach Hubbard from a nearby communication trench.

Academy History

It is indeed a great pleasure to look back upon and record our past history; and with a list of deeds so large and illustrious as ours, the task of the historian must necessarily be an incomplete one since to record separately each exploit would be impossible in this short space.

This has been an epoch making year in the history of the Academy; records of which all are proud have been won in every phase of work; the student body coming through the cross-fire of mid-term exams, with colors flying, proving invincible even in the face of "Red's" English and Math. Curling has become an art, and Acree, Bridges, Hudson, Gunn, Weikert and West are its devotees. Yet with these attainments the past session must be characterized chiefly as an invaluable period of preparation for still greater achievements in the future.

While work in the Jefferson has not been up to the standard, a great many changes are being made and we predict that finals will find the society in its old time form.

As we have heard a few words of the department of study, so let us turn to a more pleasant topic—athletics. Our football record for the past year is unique. The beginning of the session found us with only one veteran on hand, and yet, through the skillful training of Coach Ferguson, our green eleven was transformed into a creditable football machine. The backfield, led by Weikert, was a winning combination of speed, weight, and power, playing behind a strong line, that had for its keystone Malcolm Stout, the steady center. This team played high class ball throughout the entire season, only dropping two games.

The basketball team barely developed to its greatest efficiency, owing to lack of veterans and limited gymnasium facilities. However, it made up in "pep" all that was lacking in skill.

With a good supply of new material on hand this year, it seems that our baseball team will be classed with the best teams that appear on the schedule. Captain Gruver, an extra good fielder and batter, is very much pleased with the outlook, while Coach Ferguson is working carefully to select a fast and well balanced nine.

The writer feels that the task of historian, although pleasant, is beyond his ability to do justice to such an interesting topic, and in conclusion, let me entreat you not to be content with past victories nor to rest upon the glories which are already yours, but to keep an eye for the goal and your accomplishments will be manifold.

Professor Hubbard—"Perry, on what grounds did the Irish revolt?" Perry—"On their own grounds."

Professor Williams (in English class)—"What is the plural of mouse?" "Duc" Thomas—"Rats."

Professor—"Gray, where did Napoleon meet his Waterloo?" Gray (blankly)—"I dunno, sir."

Henley, having gotten off the train at Newport News, walked toward several cab drivers. One of the drivers approached him and said, "Hansom, Mister! hansom!" "I know it," replied Henley, "here's a nickel."

Professor Hubbard—"Sproul, tell me quickly, who founded St. Petersburg?" Sproul (excitedly)—"Saint Peter."

Thomas, at home on his Christmas vacation, was walking at the side of his fair one, when she suddenly asked: "Mr. Thomas, is the curriculum at William and Mary very high?" "Yes," replied Thomas, "if you climb to the top of it you can see the James river."

Professor Hubbard (in History class)—"What lands did we acquire by the Spanish-American war?"

"Duc" Hedrick—"The British Isles and North Carolina."

"Billie Sunday"—"Weikert, don't you think men are becoming more effeminate every day?"

Weikert—"Speak for yourself, Billie."

Sproul—"I had a dream about you last night, Weikert."

Weikert—"How was that?"

Sproul—"I dreamed that I was in Heaven and I thought I saw you there. Then I knew it was a dream."

Decker (looking wise)—"We have a scrub team."

Stout—"Pulley, I want to write some letters—lend me some millinery."

Bibb—"No. it would probably empty it."

A Spring Morn

Once more the sun peeps o'er the eastern rim, And rosy dawn hath turn'd to golden mist, While robin red breast sings from every limb, And sunny nature seems to stop and list.

The silvery brooklet leaps in playful glee.

And bids the thrush to take his morning bath
In shiny waters as they flow to sea,

O'er rocks and pebbles of an ancient path.

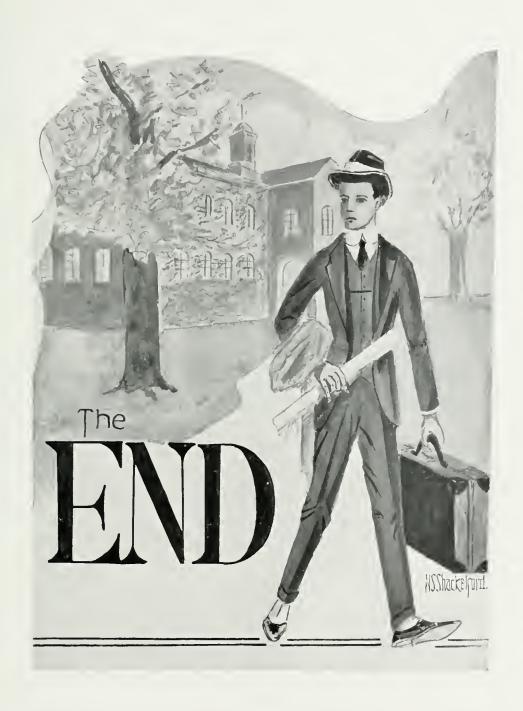

The tiny flowers even nod good-day.

And form for Mother Earth a velvet spread
Of golden hue for chilly nights in May.

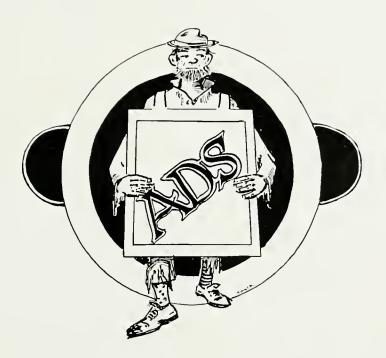

And give the sparkling dew a downy bed.
