... an expanding campus reflecting the strivings of the individual.

ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

They organize and manage the establishment. As individuals, intricate parts of a whole, they talk, understand, and feel, then lead our endeavors toward the right goals along the best paths.

Dean Jones chats with Dean Fowler before the Charter Day Convocation.

DEDICATION

Dean and Mrs. Melville Jones.

W. Melville Jones, Dean of the College since 1964, has served the College in various capacities since his appointment to the faculty in 1928 as Associate Professor of English. In 1958 he was appointed Dean of the Faculty. This year Dean Jones was the recipient of the Thomas Jefferson Award, given to the member of the faculty thought to embody the spirit and ideals of Thomas Jefferson. Because of his outstanding service to the College the 1966 Colonial Echo is dedicated to W. Melville Jones.

British exchange students meet for lively discussion with their "adopted American Father."

FRONT ROW: Charles K. Hutchens, Frank Ernst, Walter G. Mason, Davis Y. Paschall, W. Brooks George, J. B. Woodward—Rector, John P. Harper. SECOND ROW: Woodrow W. Wilkerson, Frank W. Cox, Hon. Thomas B. Stanley, H. Hudnal Ware, Jr., Hon. Walter S. Robertson, Ernest Goodrich, M. Carl Andrews, Judge Sterling Hutcherson.

THE BOARD OF VISITORS

Rector J. B. Woodward chats with President Davis Y. Paschall.

Since the College was chartered in 1693, the Board of Visitors has been the governing body of the College. Its duties include responsibility for maintenance of College property, approving the budget, setting tuition rates, fees, and the requirements for admission, appointing the President and other administration and faculty members, and establishing policies for the two year colleges—Richard Bland in Petersburg and Christopher Newport in Newport News. The Board consists of fourteen members appointed by the Governor to serve four years without compensation.

THE PRESIDENT

President Davis Y. Paschall

Dr. Davis Y. Paschall, President of the College since 1960, is also an alumnus of William and Mary. He has served the educational interests of the State as State Superintendent of Public Instruction and has been distinguished by many national awards.

Dr. Paschall's career at the College included membership in many of its honoraries and other organizations: Phi Beta Kappa, Eta Sigma Phi, Kappa Delta Pi, Kappa Phi Kappa, Phi Kappa Phi, the International Relations Club, the Biology Club, and the Philomathean Literary Society.

During President Paschall's six years as President of the College significant progress has been made in all areas of College growth and development.

President Paschall confers with Mr. E. E. Brickell, Administrative Assistant to the President.

In a moment of relaxation, President Paschall enjoys a football game at Cary Stadium.

Business Administration Master to be Established in the Summer of 1966

The Department of Business Administration publishes monthly two indices to report business and economic activities. Research for the United States Record Industry, the Virginia Travel Industry, and the Maryland Fisheries Industry as well as city planning for nearby Hampton were carried on by the faculty. This summer the Department will establish a Master of Arts program in Business Administration.

Dr. Charles L. Quittmeyer, Head of the Department of Business Administration.

Board of Visitors Creates New School of Education

Due to a decision of the Board of Visitors, the Department of Education was expanded to a full School of Education, and courses were opened to the undergraduate as well as the graduate. As a result, graduate enrollment increased and this year seven hundred and fifty students participated in the Master of Education program.

The English Department was awarded a grant of $45,000 by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to support a 1966 Summer Institute for Advanced Study in English, directed by Dr. LeRoy Smith. The Institute, lasting seven weeks, will offer two courses in advanced composition and a workshop for secondary school English teachers.

English Department films, scheduled to supplement various English courses, included "W. B. Yeats: A Tribute," and Tyrone Guthries' color production of Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex." The Wren Kitchen Series sponsored the production of Ben Jonson's Masque, "News from the New World and the Moon."

Construction Begun on Fine Arts Addition to PBK Hall

Mr. Thomas E. Thorne, Head of the Department of Fine Arts, gives one of his students a little practical advice.

The new Fine Arts addition to PBK Hall, begun this fall and due to be completed in the spring of 1967, will include new studios for ceramics, arts and crafts, and architecture, a complete audio-visual classroom for Fine Arts 200, and an Art Gallery, which will provide space for exhibits of importance to come to the campus.

Department of Ancient Languages Contributes to Classical Education

The Department of Ancient Languages is one of the original seven of the College. It has continued to maintain its high place in the teaching of the classics and Liberal Arts by emphasis upon Greek and Latin Literature even when the accent on science has tended to pervade the interests of modern education.

Dr. George J. Ryan, Head of the Department of Ancient Languages.

Department of Music Sponsors

Collegium Musicum Series

Always striving to improve quality both in programming and performance, the Department of Music sponsored its annual Collegium Musicum Series. This Series, supplementing the teaching of history, musical application on various instruments, and musical appreciation, introduced new and unusual repertoire and musical media. Among these performances was a piano recital given by Randolph Hokans whose program included a rarely heard Mozart Sonata and Mendelssohn's "Song Without Words."

Dr. Frederick D. Truesdell, Head of the Department of Music, takes time out from classes to work on an original composition.

Philosophy Department Moves Offices Into Swem Library

Dr. Frank A. MacDonald, Head of the Department of Philosophy, directs the Freshman Honors Colloquium on the nature of man.

The Philosophy Department moved its offices to the new library where seminars and colloquiums were held. The department played an active part in the annual meeting of the Virginia Philosophical Association. Elizabeth S. Reed was elected Secretary of the Association and James T. Leach and Glenn Pearce presented their papers. Professor Frank A. MacDonald spoke at the Opening Convocation of Old Dominion College.

Physical Education Department Stresses 'Total Fitness' Program

Mr. Howard M. Smith, Head of the Physical Education Department for Men, lists important facts in his lecture.

The main emphasis in the Men's Physical Education Department is "total fitness." Each semester all students are given a postural screening examination and the Harvard Step Test for cardio-respiratory classification index. Personal physicals are reviewed and the class instructor determines the proper amount of physical activity each student should have.

Field School to be Established For Archaeological Research

This year, due to an increasing number of concentrators, the Sociology and Anthropology Department has added new courses: sociology of religion, industrial sociology, small group sociology, and other advanced courses. The Department is part of the Marshall-Wythe Social Science Research Institute. Plans have been made to establish a research field school to offer students the opportunity to work on excavation of eighteenth century historical sites in the Williamsburg area.

And Mary Contest

One of the highlights of life at William and Mary is the "Miss William and Mary" contest sponsored annually by the Colonial Echo. Elections were held by each sorority, fraternity, and women's dormitory in October to nominate 26 semi-finalists, and on November 2, a general election was held to select the five finalists. A formal portrait of each finalist was then sent to Mr. John Wayne who selected the winner.

The Colonial Echo is very proud and grateful to have received the sincere interest and friendly cooperation of Mr. Wayne and those students who made the contest possible.

An outdoor concert featuring Peter, Paul and Mary opened 1965 Spring Finals Weekend Friday night and replaced the formal dance usually held in the Sunken Garden. Gene "Duke of Earl" Chandler and the Showmen headlined another big spring event, Greek Weekend, providing the music for the Friday night informal dance. Saturday afternoon the Impressions and Francois and the Angelos were in concert, and Saturday night fraternities sponsored combo parties. The Sunday Field Day games unfortunately were cancelled because of rain. Greek Weekend 1965 was sponsored jointly by I.F.C. and Panhel and arranged by Fred Palmore, I.F.C. social chairman.

Colorful academic hoods and somber black robes inspired in the graduating seniors of 1965 mixed feelings of pride and nostalgia. Baccalaureate ceremonies began at 11:00 o'clock on the hot humid Sunday of June 6 with the Rev. Ernest Gordon, L.L.D., Dean, Princeton University Chapel, speaking in front of the Wren building. Unpacking! The hardest part of Orientation Week involves putting everything where it can be found during the almost overlapping series of activities. Entering frosh enjoyed a welcoming speech from President Paschall and a briefing on the College's history by Dean Lambert. Affixing one's signature to the Honor Code pledge card is certainly the most momentous act for W & M Ducs. Signing caf cards does not inspire quite as much awe. Freshman games organized by sophomores helped unite the new class and arouse spirit. Although members of the class of 1969 worked hard to tote logs (like James Blair Terrace's 69-footer!) to the field behind Yates Dorm, the Fire of the Bells was sadly rain-drenched before it could fulfill freshman hopes and scorch the clouds.

Duc Week was hot this year. Sweltering, confused freshmen valiantly plowed through registration. Students Accustom Themselves To a Routine as School Begins

After Orientation and Duc Weeks school settles down to a more leisurely pace as students renew old friendships, make new ones, explore common interests, and recount summer experiences. As Indian summer lingers on, High's ice cream store becomes a community meeting place. Before long, trips to the post office are a daily ritual as anxious students await letters or those life-saving last minute checks from home.

Autumn Days are Prologue To Pleasures and Problems

After registration, students were welcomed by comrades in the discouraging line at the old Bookstore. Coming out with books piled to the chin and duc caps in hand, ducs fended their way back to dorms and buses, stopping to pay their respects to Lord Botetourt. Long in storage, the statue finally saw the light as he was transported to his place of honor in the Botetourt Gallery of the Earl Gregg Swem Library.

Life in the dorm could never be called dull. A quiet corner provides a pleasant study nook for some, but after hours, parties help "let off steam." Men's dorms become the scene of friendly tests of skill with shaving cream or guitars, while the girls chat and hold frequent popcorn parties. The tradition of Old Dominion Dorm, the newness of duPont, study and fun, all this serves to make life in our campus homes an unforgettable four year experience.

The Alumni have returned! Homecoming activities of October 23 began at 9:30 a.m. with the annual parade. Originating on Jamestown Road, the procession floated past Jockey Corner, down Duke of Gloucester Street and back. Grand Marshall J. W. Concert, Dances, Yule Log Compose Christmas Whirl

The Spirit of Christmas emerged as students gathered in the Wren Courtyard for the Yule Log Ceremony and the singing of carols. All enjoyed Mr. Scammon's reading of the Christmas Story, a distinctive addition to this year's ceremony. After Bill Weiland told of the "Tradition of the Yule Log," the evening ended with each person throwing a sprig of holly symbolizing his sorrows onto the blazing Yule Log. The Greeks sponsored parties for orphans, as well as dances, during the last weekends before vacation. The season reached its climax as charmed audiences listened to the Choir and Chorus sing great songs of Christmas and a medley of carols.

Self-Governing Agency

The Student Association, composed of elected representatives, is the medium through which the student body of William and Mary governs itself. Through the S.A. students may seek to bring improvements in the College environment or changes in administrative policy. The meetings of the Student Association provide an opportunity for effective co-ordination of the activities of various campus organizations.

Homecoming, Spring Finals, hootenannies, and concerts are social activities organized by the S.A. The Faculty Reception and book fairs are means by which the total college community comes in contact with S.A. endeavors. The S.A. enables students to serve the larger community by raising money for worthy causes through the yearly Campus Chest Drive.

The nation's first Honor System, established at the College of William and Mary in 1779, is based on the integrity of the individual student and has been effective through individual support and participation. The Honor Councils, elected annually, investigate and try breaches of the Honor Code brought to their attention by members of the College community. The 1965-66 Councils, in addition to performing their judiciary functions, emphasized their capacity as an educational unit. By letters to campus leaders and by using a number of assistants from the student body during Orientation Week, the Honor Councils worked to infuse each William and Mary student with the spirit of his Honor System.

Affectionately referred to as WDA, the self-governing Women's Dormitory Association, composed of all women living in college dormitories, functions on the principle that women students should have the responsibility of defining and maintaining their own social code. WDA helped select house presidents, counselors, and Orientation sponsors, offered scholarships to deserving women students, and introduced freshmen and transfer students to the association rules. This year three WDA women, Pat Patterson, Barbara Parrott, and Susan Baskerville, attended a Women's Student Government Convention at the University of Maryland.

The William and Mary Theatre provides colorful, dramatic entertainment for the College and community. The plays presented are an important cultural activity, providing a source of satisfaction for the numerous students who participate.

Theater Offers Varied Programs

Members of the cast of Dark of the Moon gather to witness the ill-fated marriage of John the witch-boy (Bob Henninger) to Barbara Allen (Jodie Baumgaertel).

Variety Is Key Word in WILLIAM AND MARY

A typical day in the country store is portrayed in a scene from Dark of the Moon.

Jere Rapp uses some free moments to study his cues for operating the stage lights.

John and Barbara of Dark of the Moon discuss the problems of their hopeless situation.

John Kirkpatrick makes use of the theatre's well-stocked costume room.

THEATRE Productions

Under the direction of Mr. Howard Scammon and Mr. Frank Staroba, a variety of four plays was presented by the William and Mary Theatre, including Folklore, Shaw, and Shakespeare, as well as a current play by Robert Anderson.

The first production, Dark of the Moon, utilized choral and technical effects to tell the poignant tale of John the witch-boy and his tragic attempt to become human.

Always encouraging new work, the Theatre presented in December The Days Between by Robert Anderson as part of the American Playwrights Theatre plan. The play concerns a presumed writer-college professor who learns one must live "the days between."

Mr. Howard Scammon, Director, surveys the on-stage results of many long, hard hours.

Ted Seares (Keith Taylor) listens as Barbara Ives (Judy Hein) pours out her troubles in The Days Between.

The intricacy of the stage designs was a highlight of The Days Between.

Jim Williams contributes to the behind-the-scenes activities by operating the curtain ropes.

The important pre-performance job of making-up actress Patty Hartleben is efficiently handled by Ann Chancellor.

MISALLIANCE and THE MERCHANT OF VENICE Conclude the Season

George Bernard Shaw's Misalliance provided comic relief in the schedule of plays. Set on the country estate of a middle class underwear manufacturer, the humorous play has as its theme the lack of communication between generations. The final production of the season was Shakespeare's The Merchant of Venice.

This scene from Misalliance depicts one of the many discussion sessions—this time on the subjects of democracy and freedom.

Judy Mitchell and Carri Anthony operate the lighting controls.

"Express it like this!" Bob Weeks illustrates for Paul Ritchie.

During a practice session, Patty Hartleben rehearses her part in Misalliance.

BAND and MAJORETTES Display Talent in

Under the direction of Charles R. Varner, the band led a varied musical life during the year. In the fall it performed as a marching group during the halftimes at both home and away games, and after Thanksgiving joined a concert band and went on tour. In addition, these William and Mary musicians presented two informal concerts in the Wren Courtyard and their annual formal concert at Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Membership in the band is determined by private auditions which are open to any student who plays an instrument.

Halftime Performances

Six lovely high-stepping young ladies were an attractive addition to the William and Mary Marching Band as they appeared at pep rallies, parades, and football games. Supplied with tassels and batons, the majorettes performed their intricate and hard-practiced routines before the crowds at Cary Stadium in delightful halftime shows.

Additions to the majorette squad are selected in the spring by those already in the marching group. The girls trying out are judged on the basis of grace and precision in individual baton-twirling performance. Once chosen, the majorettes begin practicing new routines immediately and by fall are ready to help add color and pageantry to the William and Mary football field.

These beaming faces relay the excitement of a football game performance.

A pep rally offers a good opportunity for the majorettes to do their part in encouraging school spirit.

CHOIR Performs in Eastern U.S. While on Tour

In its twenty-first year under the direction of Dr. Carl A. (Pappy) Fehr, the William and Mary Choir has continued a hard-won tradition of musical excellence, acclaimed by the college, state-wide and out-of-state audiences, and television viewers.

The Choir's expanding prestige has gained for its members many exciting experiences, but this year they were hard-pressed to surpass the excitement and honor of singing for the Virginia Day celebration at the New York World's Fair in May, 1965.

CHORUS Members Prepare Varied Music for Concerts

This year the Chorus numbered over seventy girls, all of whom worked every Tuesday and Thursday to sing the artistic music for which their fine reputation has been established. Throughout the school year the Chorus contributed in many ways to the events on the college's musical calendar. They prepared six carols for the Christmas Concert. Then, until May, the Chorus prepared their music for the Spring Concert. These pieces were varied, in keeping with Dr. Fehr's aim to give the girls an education in singing and appreciating the different types of music.

Members of the Chorus use their fingers to help practice the correct mouth position for singing.

COUNCIL Hosts Marshall-Wythe Debate Tournament

The Debate Council is an organization for students with interest and ability in forensics. The Council, headed by President Ed Shifman, debated this year's national topic, "Resolved: That law enforcement agencies should have greater freedom for the investigation of crime." The highlight of the year was the Marshall-Wythe Debate Tournament held at William and Mary in early February with approximately forty schools represented. The W & M debaters also hosted two Cambridge students who debated the topic, "Resolved: That American culture is debased and debasing."

TREASURER—Bob Beers

A high point of the Young Republicans' year occurred in October when they sponsored a lecture by Linwood Holton, Virginia's Republican gubernatorial candidate. The group deserved this attention from the higher members of the Republican Party, for they were active during the campaign passing out pamphlets, running the local Republican headquarters, and canvassing the Williamsburg area for Republican votes. On election day the young members of the GOP helped man the polls and held an election night party to follow the returns.

Operating under a new constitution this year, the Young Republicans held meetings at which they heard such noted speakers as Representative Joel Broynhill and John Dalton, State GOP leader.

The Young Republicans brought gubernatorial candidate Linwood Holton to the campus for one of its most interesting meetings.

The annual Christmas dance is one of the many social events enjoyed by Keplar.

Keplar members listen to the order of business at a weekly meeting.

Keplar, a men's fraternal organization, took a big step forward this year when President Paschall formally granted it the status of colony. The group moved closer to affiliation with a national fraternity as the members considered seven well-established Greeks as possibilities. Keplar held a Christmas dance, and, for the first time, held formal rush in February.

CANTERBURY CLUB Is Center of Activity

PRESIDENT—Dave Baldwin
VICE-PRES.—Harry Krauss
SECRETARY—Leonora Owre
TREASURER—Jeff Camp

The religious organization for Episcopal students, the Canterbury Club, provided a center for fellowship and Christian education for its members. Programs for the year included speeches by Dr. Joseph Brent and the Rev. Robert Whitman, and a play, "Let's Play Devils," performed by the members. The club also had two religious services a week to complement the Sunday morning services at Bruton Parish Church.

Members of the Canterbury Club seem entranced as the Reverend Robert Whitman explains a fine point in the discussion.

Christian Fellowship officers gather to plan the programs for the year.

Athletic Department Puts Stress on Expansion and Improvement

Expansion and improvement were the keys to William and Mary's Athletic Department in 1965-66. Highlighting the year were the Southern Conference title captured by William and Mary's Track Team under the direction of Harry Groves, and the school's first winning football season since 1953, led by Southern Conference Coach of the Year Marv Levy. Besides adding Soccer as a varsity sport, William and Mary's athletic program showed improvement in all other varsity and freshman sports.

Marv Levy, Southern Conference Coach of the Year for the second straight season, directed William and Mary to its first winning season since 1953 and to second place in the Southern Conference. The Indians, led by co-captains Jim Dick and Tom Feola, lost only four games, including one to Conference champions West Virginia.

The season's highpoint came when the Indians beat Southern Mississippi, the number one defensive team in the country, in the Oyster Bowl. The Tribe, strengthened by sophomore quarterbacks Dan Darragh and Mike Madden and a tough defensive line, played well in every game. With a predominantly sophomore team, the future looks bright for the Tribe.

Senior George Pearce represented the squad on the All American second team as a defensive end. He also was tapped for the All Southern and All Conference teams and as the Southern Conference Player of the Year. Other Indians receiving awards were Tony Buccino, All Conference and lineman of the week; Jim Lofrese, All Conference and MVP at the Oyster Bowl; Tom Feola and Bob Gadkowski, All Conference; Dan Darragh, second team All Conference and back of the week; and Joe Neilson, Jim Dick, and Mike Weaver, honorable mention All Conference.

William and Mary's football program continued to build this year. The freshman team, under Coach Joe Agee, showed the effects of Varsity Coach Levy's recruiting program, stretching a frosh winning streak that covers three seasons and eleven games. Agee, in his first year of coaching football, turned out a top-notch defensive squad that stopped its opponents until the offense, a slow-starting team, could get going. With the biggest and best freshman team in recent years, the Reservation can look forward to many more successful campaigns.

Second in Conference

The 1965 Cross Country Team undoubtedly was the strongest ever fielded at William and Mary. Following dual meet victories over Virginia, Virginia Tech, Navy, and VMI, and losses to Tennessee and the Quantico Marines, the harriers won their third straight Varsity State Intercollegiate Championship. The team finished second in a Southeastern United States Invitational at Callaway Gardens, Georgia; second in the National Collegiate District Three Championship; and was runner-up to Furman in the hottest Southern Conference Championship in many years, with the Conference meet becoming, in essence, a dual meet between William and Mary and Furman.

Jimmy Johnson, the Tribe's star distance runner, set course records in winning three championships. He lost only to Bob Reddington of Tennessee in the regular season and was sixteenth out of a field of over two hundred at the National Championships. Other top performers were Terry Donnelly, Ned Hopkins, Joe Philpott, Paul Bernstein, and Steve Jackson. The Freshman Team, led by George Davis and Chop Jordan, posted a five and two record and was second in the state.

While living up to pre-season predictions of a third place finish in the Southern Conference, the William and Mary Basketball Team went through a period of frustration in December and January before finally playing up to their predicted potential. Coach Chambers, who registered his sixth winning season in nine years, coached a team that made up for its weak attack with defense and rebounding. The turning point of the season came when the Indians downed arch-rival Richmond. Losing only twice more in the season, the Tribe went on to take seven of its last nine games.

Finishing a half game behind second place West Virginia in the Conference, William and Mary played well in a Southern Conference tournament that went as expected. After beating sixth place Furman 78-73, the Tribe fell to West Virginia in a tough defensive battle.

After David Walker became eligible in the second semester, the Indians operated with seven starters. Led by All-Southern Conference Player Ben Pomeroy, who led the Southern Conference rebounding with 12.5 per game, the Indians usually started junior Pomeroy, seniors Walter Wenk—the team leader, Larry Paffrath, and Tim Walter, and sophomore Jimmy Rama. Sophomores Walker and Ron Panneton played much of the time. With four starters returning and additions from the Freshmen, next season should see continued improvement in William and Mary Basketball.

Future Varsity Leaders

The 1965-66 Freshman Basketball Team became the first such squad to concentrate on beating the William and Mary Varsity rather than the freshman teams from other schools. In spite of the new experience of learning the techniques of college basketball, the Papooses notched a respectable 6-5 record. The Freshman Squad, coached by first-year man Dave Corley, showed much promise for future William and Mary basketball teams with its good defense and rebounding. Leading Varsity prospects were Jack Downing and Dave Daugherty.

Indoor Track Team's

The 1966 Indoor Track season was the most successful in William and Mary's history. Coach Harry Groves, with the able assistance of Bob James, and equipped with a new banked board track, molded the squad into Southern Conference Champions and also State Champions in both Varsity and Frosh divisions.

The team's depth became apparent early in the season during the Tribe's dual meet with a strong Navy team, and when experience was added by competition in big meets up and down the East Coast, the squad rounded into championship form.

With men placing in every event in the state meet, winners were Jimmy Johnson—mile and two mile, Rodger Bates—shot put, John Prentice—broad jump, and the mile relay team of Fred Anspach, Mike Holland, Rich Olsen, and Phil Dillard. At the Southern Conference, which saw Indians placing in ten of the twelve events, championships went to Johnson—mile and two mile, Prentice—broad jump, and Jim Jancaitis—high jump.

Second Place in Conference Championship Meet

William and Mary's Wrestlers, in their second season, won a fifth in the Southern Conference with a total of twenty-two points. The team scorers in the Conference Championships were Bob Ellis, Phil Arberg, Jim Dick and Jim LoFrese.

Senior Co-Captains Woody Caine and Lynn Dievendorf led the team to a four-and-seven overall dual meet record which included a win over R.P.I. Due to lack of personnel, the grapplers were often forced to forfeit three matches in a dual meet. Woody Caine led the team with six pins for the season. Bob Ellis, "our best wrestler" according to Coach Dick Besnier, ended with a personal overall record of 11-3. Freshman Scott Curzi completed the season undefeated with a record of eight wins. Coach Besnier has five returning lettermen: Dick Randa, Bob Ellis, Jim Miela, Phil Arberg, and Sam Graham. Started in 1960 by a Draper's scholar, the W & M team is strengthened by the addition of five English students, seniors Martin Burrough, Brian Clarke, Guy Temple, John Tudor and sophomore Mike King-Harmon. With most of its members back from last year's winning team, including seniors Ralph Hancewicz and Bob Audley, juniors Tom Davis and Jerry Jebo, and sophomores Bruce Kerr and Pete King, the team planned another successful season in William and Mary's only non-varsity sport.

Baseball Team Faces Season With Both Defense and Speed

The 1966 William and Mary Baseball Squad put its emphasis on tight defense and speed during the season. Keynoting the Tribe's program of development for future seasons was the stress put on youth, with nine members of the twenty-man unit playing their first year of varsity competition. Coached by Athletic Director Lester Hooker, who returned to baseball this season after spending several years solely in administrative work, the squad played like it would move up the ladder in Southern Conference Baseball.

The Tribe's pitching staff showed much potential both for this season and for future campaigns. Led by senior Keith Taylor, who posted the best mark last year, the pitching squad consisted of juniors Tom Niles and Tom Trautman, and sophomores John Medlin, Joe Power, and reliefer John King.

Behind the plate the Tribe had two experienced catchers, Ken Williams and Rick Newman. The infielders, who all played heads-up defense, were veterans George Pearce, Bob Bradenham, and Bart Steib, and newcomers Jim Rama, Ben Womble, Bobby Wilner, and John Baen. In the outfield, returnees Pinky Henderson, Chuck Sievers, and Butch Dibling were backed-up by sophomores Tron Brekke and Bill Somers.

Varied Intramural Program Allows for Year 'Round Sports

The 1965-66 Men's Intramural season was marked by the hottest competition in many years. The end of football competition saw Lambda Chi with an 11-0 record and the Intramural Crown. PiKA moved to the Intramural Championship in basketball. The other individual and team sports included by Intramural Director Ed Jones were badminton, bowling, free throws, golf, handball, horseshoes, softball, swimming, tennis, track and field, volleyball, and wrestling. The action for the fraternity overall Intramural Crown was dominated by PiKA, Lambda Chi, and Sig Ep.

The 3-4-1 record of the William and Mary Women's Hockey Team is not indicative of the skill of the team, which faced one of the most difficult seasons in its history. More indicative of the calibre of the team, coached by Miss Caroline Hausserman, is the fact that seven girls were chosen for the All-College Team of Virginia, with Mary Hurn, Jo Carol Sale, and Pat Foster being placed on the Tidewater Team, and Pat Foster being named to the first All-Southeastern Team.

The 1965-66 William and Mary Women's Basketball Squad, under the direction of Patricia Crowe, was a frustrated team. Despite many fine individual performers, such as Jean Lusardi, Kay Barrett, Clevie Youngblood, and Lynn McLeod, it could not get started until the second half of every game and posted only a one and six record. With only three players graduating, prospects are bright for the future.

Facing the toughest schedule in its history, the William and Mary Women's Swimming Team continued its undefeated record for the second straight season. Led by undefeated sophomores Suzanne Bolton and Becki McColpin, the squad out-scored each opponent by at least twenty points in dual meet competition. Other standout performers on the predominantly underclass squad were Gail Littlefield, Laurie Roberts, Tricia Hiegel, and Linda Freeman. The season was climaxed by a lopsided victory in the state Six-Way Championship.

Successful Season in

Under the direction of President Bruce Edel, the Women's Athletic Association continued to plan the women's athletic activities in 1965-66. The joint board of the WAA, headed by Elenor Corbett and composed of Mildred Barrett, Evangeline Davis, Gladys Baker, Patricia Crowe, Martha Barksdale, Kathy Green, Bruce Edel, Jean Lusardi, Laine Bannerman, and Kay Rodgers, organized the intramural program and planned the schedule of the varsity and freshman athletic teams.

The WAA's intramural program was a great success, bringing competition on the sorority and dorm level as well as on an individual basis. At the beginning of the year, the Gamma Phi's quickly showed their athletic ability, capturing first places in hockey, swimming, and volleyball, as well as a fourth in tennis on their way to the WAA Championship.

CLASSES

We are a large massed entity, composed of separate parts. Each of us has his own ideas, plans, wishes, and desires. Together we are a generation strong and active.

SENIOR

The Class of 1966 entered enthusiastically into life at William and Mary in its freshman year, and by 1965-66 was capable of effectively handling positions of school leadership. Their senior year was one of diligent study, job applications, graduate record exams, and the final enjoyment of warm college friendships. In their four years at the College the members of the Class of 1966 were able to observe their own academic growth as well as the school's rapid development and expansion.

Having reached the peak of their college careers, the juniors were able to look back over three years of intellectual endeavors and social development. At home on the campus, familiar with the faculty, and more capable of acceptable college achievement, they developed a greater feeling of class unity as they worked, studied, and relaxed together.

PRESIDENT—Larry White
VICE-PRES.—Roberta Ramsey

After class small talk in the shiny halls of the physics building.

The Sophomore Class plunged enthusiastically into a year filled with great responsibility and new opportunities. It was a year which buzzed with social activities but also demanded intensified study. The class worked together and partied together, advised the freshmen, renewed old friendships and developed new ones. Sophomores declared their majors in the spring semester and prepared themselves for the positions of leadership which will be their responsibility in the coming two years.

Members of Class of '69 Are First to Occupy

Pam Roberts, Linda Freeman, Ed Kellam, Will Hooker.

Sunshine and speeches welcomed the Class of 1969 to William and Mary. An overwhelming class spirit was the trademark of the Class of '69. From their first day here the freshmen supported and promoted the College; some enthusiastic '69'ers helped found the new Booster Club. Before the year passed the freshmen were ready to take their places in the ranks of students who call William and Mary home.

The Marshall-Wythe School of Law, the oldest and one of the most highly selective law schools in America, increased its enrollment to capacity this year. The School presented a mock-trial in order to give the student body a view of the American judicial system. This mock trial also helped the law students prepare themselves for their practice. The Dean of the Law School, Joseph Curtis, and his faculty, including Dean Emeritus Dudley Woodbridge, continued their excellent instruction on a level compatible with the school's fine reputation.

Law Student Aldric J. LaBell experiences the tedium of long hours of graduate research.

INDEX

Metaphorically, our lives here are summed up by an index. For what more is college than an indicator, an all encompassing pointer which directs thoughts and molds minds for the future.

Acknowledgments

This year we have tried to do something different. The 1966 Colonial Echo has broken many of the traditions of previous volumes, hopefully for the better. For the first time in 70 years, the yearbook was printed by offset rather than by letterpress, allowing the book to be expanded by 80 pages and giving more freedom of design. This was the first year that the staff has created all the layouts, producing a freer and more lively format. We have tried to include many more candid pictures of student activities in order to capture the spirit and life of the College. It is hoped that these efforts have resulted in an interesting and accurate record of life at William and Mary for 1965-66.

The task of producing a 400 page book is certainly a large and complex one and could not have been accomplished without the cooperation of many people. To all those that helped in compiling the 1966 Colonial Echo, I wish to express my sincere thanks. First and foremost, I want to thank the members of the Photography Staff for their conscientious efforts throughout the year. Without the diligent work of Tom Cory—Photo Editor, Torrey Froscher, and Martha Berger, the book could not have been assembled. To my Associate Editor, Carol Jones, I would like to express my gratitude for her help on the Introduction and Division Pages, for her many hours spent in proofing, and for her help with special problems throughout the year. The efficient work of Business Manager Ron Woerle was an essential but behind the scenes part of getting out the book, and I am indebted to him for his cooperation. I want to thank Organizations Editor Betty Bishop and her staff for their hard work in compiling the largest, most interesting, and complete record of the activities of the myriad of organizations on Campus. Bonnie Robinson and her Class Staff have produced the most lively, varied, and complete summary of the classes at William and Mary, and their efforts are much appreciated. A special note of thanks is due Copy Editor Dickey Barron for her untiring help in preparing the copy for the 1966 Echo and for the time she gave during Thanksgiving Vacation and Semester Break.

Sports Editor Pat Butler has compiled a very complete and thorough record of athletic events during the 1965-66 school year, and he deserves much recognition for the outstanding job he has done. The Student Life section was very ably guided by Jane Brower, whose originality has produced a vital part of the book. The Echo is indebted to Layout Editor Steve Ziglar and his staff for their aid in preparing the varied and original layouts used in this year's edition. I wish to acknowledge Judy Morris for editing an unusually lively and complete Sorority Section. Dee Boren has done a superb job of conducting the Miss William and Mary Contest, and we are grateful to her for her efforts. Don Hall and Nikki Wakerlin have worked hard in writing the copy for the 1966 Echo, and their assistance is much appreciated. A special thanks is reserved for Florence Fraser, Administration and Faculty Editor, Index Editor and Editorial Assistant, whose devotion to the 1966 Colonial Echo has been surpassed by no one and whose advice, help, and support have aided me in countless ways throughout the year.

I also want to thank Dean W. Melville Jones for his help with the Administration section and Dean J. W. Lambert for his aid in solving many problems throughout the year. The Echo is indebted to Mr. Warren J. Green for the use of the yearbook office, and to Mr. Dudley M. Jensen for supplying IBM lists for use in the Class Section and Index. A special thanks is expressed to Mr. W. T. Reece for his continual advice on financial matters. Mr. Thomas L. Williams also merits special acknowledgment for his many photographs of student activities and organizations. We are also indebted to Mr. Alexander of Colonna Studios for his untiring cooperation in taking class portraits.

The 1966 Colonial Echo was printed by Taylor Publishing Co. of Dallas, Texas, and our gratitude is expressed to Mr. Pete Peterson and Mr. Dan DeFalco of the Richmond office for their help all year. Also I wish to thank Mr. Joe Carson of the Dallas office for his continual assistance regarding production matters during the year, and Mr. Norman Dowdy for his help in preparing the cover and title and contents pages.
