The Board of Visitors, the governing body of the College of William and Mary, is appointed by the Governor of Virginia. There are ten members serving on the Board plus the Superintendent of Public Instruction, an ex officio member. They hold this office for a period of four years, with five new members being appointed every two years permitting an overlapping in terms.

The chairman or rector of the Board presides over the meetings which are held three times a year. The rector may call any additional meetings which may be necessary. James M. Robertson served as Rector of the Board of Visitors for this year.

ALVIN DUKE CHANDLER

On May 15, 1953 at formal convocation, Alvin Duke Chandler was inaugurated as the twenty second president of the College of William and Mary in the presence of representatives from many universities, colleges, and learned societies in the United States and Canada. Among the honored guests at his inauguration were President Eisenhower and Governor Battle.

Although President Chandler has only been at the College for two years, one of the results of his capable administration is a new men's dormitory. Because the President feels that the College has an obligation to provide educational facilities for the community, night classes are being held on an experimental basis. Through out the year President Chandler has shown a sincere interest in student affairs. The aims of the President include strengthening the departments, encouraging better student faculty relations, and securing financial aid in order to build a Student Activities Building.

What makes the wheels of the Student Government of William and Mary turn? John Dalton, president of the student body for the past year, played a big role, but behind the student body president lies a network of councils, committees, and sub-committees.

At the top, so to speak, is the General Cooperative Committee, consisting of twenty three members representing faculty, administration, and students. The General Co-op discusses any complaints or recommendations which have been made by the Assembly. If the proposals are approved by this body, they are sent to the president of the College who approves them and puts them into effect. One of the main problems considered was the proposed student activities building. The chairman of this committee was Alvin D. Chandler; vice-chairman and presiding officer, J. Wilfred Lambert; secretary, Jean Madsen.

In between the General Cooperative Committee and the Assembly lies the Senate, acting as a liaison between these two groups. The ten members include the vice-president of the Student Body as presiding officer, the president of the student body, the presidents of the four classes, chairmen of the three divisions of the W.S.C.G.A., and chairman of the Men's Honor Council. Besides representing the Assembly on the General Co-op, a function of this group is to select the class ring. The Senate was presided over by Henry Wilde.

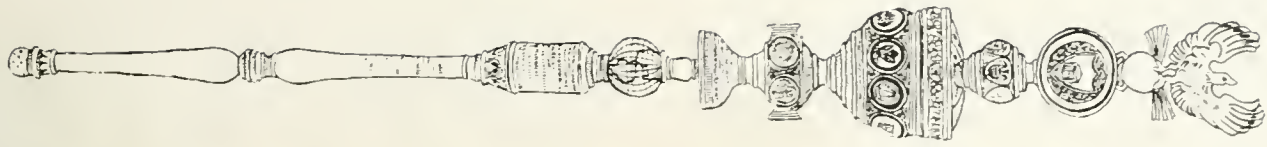

At the bottom of this trio lies the Assembly, the most important of the three and the true functioning body in the organization. Each of the four classes elects three men and three women to represent it on the Assembly, and one representative is elected from the graduate students. In addition, all members of the Senate attend the bi-weekly meeting of the Assembly. In order to function more efficiently, the Assembly is broken up into committees which study specific problems and present their findings to the Assembly for further action. Among these are the Cafeteria, Laundry, Building and Grounds, and Election committees.

It's big, but it works.

MEN'S HONOR COUNCIL

JOHN MUNGER
Chairman of the Men's Honor Council

One of the priorities which the College of William and Mary is proud to claim is the establishment of the first Honor System, which has been in effect here since 1779. This Honor System is based on individual responsibility.

The Men's Honor Council is invested by the student body with the power to investigate and try men students who are reported for infractions of the Honor Code. The four infractions are lying, stealing, cheating, and failure to report an infraction. The Council also sponsors a program to orientate freshmen to the principles of the Honor System. A duty of both the Men's and Women's Honor Councils is to sit at the polls at each student election, count the ballots, and announce the results.

This past year one of the major undertakings of the Men's Honor Council was the codification of the rules of procedure. In this task the Council was joined by the Women's Honor Council and aided by Dr. Woodbridge and Dean Lambert.

The members of the Council are elected each spring by the male student body. Members for 1952-53 were John Munger, chairman; Dwight Taylor, vice-chairman; Thomas Kenyon, secretary; Scott Petrequin, senior representative; Harry DeWalt and James Grant, junior representatives; and Otto Lowe, sophomore representative.

JEAN MADSEN
Chairman of the Women's Honor Council

WOMEN'S HONOR COUNCIL

Madsen.

Compared to the Honor System itself, the Women's Honor Council is a fairly young organization, for women were not admitted to William and Mary until the year 1918, and the Women's Honor Council was established soon after this date. The Council is a branch of the Women's Students' Cooperative Government Association, and its members are elected each March by the women students. Its function is to try women students who violate the Honor Code and to impose penalties.

The Women's Honor Council, working closely with the Men's Honor Council, has attempted to carry out an educative program. During the fall orientation week, members of the Council hold small informal meetings with the freshmen women to explain the concepts of the Honor System and the privileges to be gained from it. At the end of each semester before exams begin, the members again give short talks to each of the women's large and small dormitories, reminding the students of their individual responsibility to uphold their pledge to the Honor System.

The members of the Women's Honor Council were Jean Madsen, chairman; Shirley Haabestad, secretary; Bettina Bass and Shirley Lyons, senior members; Elizabeth Lewis and Sarah Dean Spangler, junior members; and Jennifer Hilton, sophomore member. The Council's advisors were Dr. D. W. Woodbridge, Dr. R. Wayne Kernodle, and Mr. Richard B. Brooks.

WOMEN STUDENTS' COOPERATIVE GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

The purpose of the Women Students' Cooperative Government Association is to further self-government and student responsibility. To these ends, the Association is divided into three Councils: the Executive Council, the Judicial Committee, and the Honor Council. Representatives to these councils are elected each March by the women students.

The Executive Council consists of a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, senior representative, freshman representative, and representative-at-large. The Council handles all official business of the Association and conducts the monthly meetings.

The Judicial Committee is composed of a chairman, secretary, all house presidents, representatives of each class, and a representative-at-large. The Committee formulates and administers social rules and deals with violations of these rules.

The advisors of the W.S.C.G.A. are Dr. Douglas G. Adair, Dr. Kenneth M. Gordon, and Dr. Harold L. Fowler.

Every woman student upon entering the College automatically becomes a member of the W.S.C.G.A. Business meetings are held on the first Monday of each month in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. In addition to regular business meetings, speakers are often presented.

NANCY CHILD

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

In addition to its regular functions, the Executive Council, under President Nancy Child, also undertook several projects. The fall orientation program was planned and carried out by the Council and the Administration. Then came the sale of student directories in November, and in January the Council awarded its scholarship of one hundred dollars to a woman student on the basis of scholarship, activities, and need. May brought the biggest headache of all: the festivities of May Day. This year the Council worked jointly with the Assembly in order to make it a combined student government weekend, and to find new ideas for a successful May Day.

THE JUDICIAL COMMITTEE

The Judicial Committee's greatest contribution this past year was the complete revision of the women's social rules. Under the leadership of Chairman Beverly Simonton, the Committee revised the rules and penalties to make the system more uniform. On the social side, the Committee gave a tea in October for the housemothers as a gesture of appreciation for all the help they had given the Committee. Judicial suppers were held in the spring and fall to discuss rules with the advisors and the deans of the College.

PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE

The powers and duties of the Publications Committee are to elect the editors and business managers of the publications, to review the elections and appointments of other members of the various staffs, and to serve as a board for hearing and acting on complaints concerning staff organization and administration. While this group acts as a regulatory body for the publications, it has no voice in their editorial policies.

The Committee consists of the editors of the three student publications, the Colonial Echo, the Flat Hat, and the Royalist, one member of the student assembly, two faculty members, and the president of the student body. The chairman of the Committee for 1952-53 was Carmen Romeo.

1953 COLONIAL

This is your yearbook. In it, we the staff of the Colonial Echo have tried to capture the spirit of William and Mary. We have used a number of the popular features of the 1952 Echo and have added a modern approach, a new way of posing groups, and many more informal pictures of you. You wanted the lithograph cover.

Gathering, selecting, and compiling material for a yearbook is a stupendous job. At different times during the year students see evidences of yearbook work; Mr. Colonna's photographing, a pop of a flash bulb during a basketball game, the Beauty Contest, and of course, the bills.

COLLEGE OF WILLIAM AND MARY

This past year, the Flat Hat, under the editorship of Bob Hedelt, reached one of the highest peaks in the forty years since it officially became William and Mary's student newspaper. With the capable assistance of Jane Hale, associate editor, and Dick Dallas, managing editor, Bob brought the paper to first place in the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association Convention, held at Blacksburg in December. At the same time, the Flat Hat was awarded the annual trophy given by the Roanoke Times Herald for excellence in news writing.

In the all important post of news editor, Madge Cushing successfully "filled those holes" at Hedelt's adamant requests. Arnie Lubasch's tireless energy as sports editor gave those pages a precision and vitality infrequently seen in Flat Hat sports writing. Clever features by Sara Wachtman and her staff presented a "behind the news" view to Flat Hat readers.

The tedium of make-up never daunted junior editor Bettye Zepht, while Donnie Spotts kept the advertising—and the money—coming.

As business manager, Peggy Ives managed to make business a pleasure and always was able "to explain" to Mr. Gibbs. Circulation Manager Widdy Fennell faithfully punched the addressograph machine or, when that failed, got out his fountain pen.

During an interesting year, the Flat Hat tried to keep student abreast of events with a balance of news and editorials. Many things are recalled from "Inside Flat Hat"—Hedelt's editorials and Jane's "Halestones"; Arnie's free lance "Sportswhirl," and Dick's talent for perfect phrasing when everything seemed to go wrong. Strong letters to the editor and controversial play reviews, long hours at the Gazette, hated Tuesday evening meetings, and the inevitable blank space at press time kept the staff hopping.

There were disappointments and mistakes, good issues and impossible ones, but there was never a bad time, and from Hedelt's loud horse laugh to Dallas' chuckle to Hale's frenzied leer the keynote of the year was fun.

T H E R O Y A L I S T

This year, suppressing the desire to reprint cartoons from the New Yorker, the Royalist staff searched the campus high and low to discover literary masterpieces that were new and different. In fact, they went so far as to publish a new and different magazine . . . still under the title of Royalist, but with a new format and a new make-up.

For the first time in many years, photography was featured in the magazine. Working closely with Mr. Sherman, the art staff selected photography which was unusual and interesting from a viewpoint of technique and originality. In fact, a much more varied program of art work was made possible by the change in format, so that there were many clever line drawings as well as excellent full-page engravings. The art staff also concocted a cover that was the latest word in modern cover design.

In an attempt to broaden the experience of the staff members who might be interested in furthering their careers as rising young journalists, a new system of critical sessions was devised. All the material was read by each member before the Thursday afternoon meeting so that at that time the lively criticism was much more meaningful than it would have been if they had been pressed for time. Each manuscript was carefully "mulled" over by the staff, and selected according to its reader appeal and literary merits.

ART STAFF

EDITORIAL BOARD

Another re-inauguration of the Royalist was that of articles on such things as new books in the College library, new records and various musical functions on the campus, and a humorous column.

All in all, it was quite a prosperous and fruitful year for the Royalist under the capable leadership of Editor Nan Evans. Of course things didn't always go smoothly—like the time Barry Wilson read his own story aloud and was accused of exaggerating the meaning of the supposed author—but the result was literary achievement to be proud of.

The appreciation of the staffs goes to all those who contributed time and talent to make this year's issues possible, particularly Mr. Gibbs who helped with the finances, and Mr. Jones who again gave his valuable opinions.

William and Mary is proud to claim the first chapter of Phi Beta Kappa, founded at the College on December 5, 1776. Since then the Society has become recognized as the most eminent of existing honor societies. On December 5, 1952, the Chapter celebrated its 176th Anniversary. At this occasion Professor Robert Penn Warren of Yale University presented an original narrative poem concerning Meriwether Lewis, and Professor Paul Bigelow Sears, also of Yale, gave an address entitled "In Pursuit of Innocence."

The President's Aides, outstanding students in various phases of college life, act as personal assistants to the president. Ten students are automatically appointed as Aides: Student Body President, Senior and Junior Class Presidents, Chairmen of the Men's and Women's Honor Councils, President of the Executive Council of W.S.C.G.A., Chairman of the Judicial Council, Presidents of Omicron Delta Kappa and Mortar Board, and Flat Hat Editor. In addition, there are two members at large, one boy and one girl.

THE PRESIDENT'S AIDES

Omicron Delta Kappa, National Leadership Honor Society for Men, was the first college honor society of national scope to accord recognition for eminence in extracurricular activities. The society has a three-fold purpose: to acknowledge high achievement and efficiency in collegiate activities; to bring together representative men from all phases of college life for cooperation in worthwhile endeavor; and to unite members of the faculty and the student body on a basis of mutual interest and understanding.

First Row: Dalton, Munger, Wilde, Dallas, Dr. Miller, Dr. Southworth. Second Row: Carrithers, Foster, Besse, Risjord, Mahaffy.

It is traditional for Mortar Board, the national senior honor society for women, to tap its new members at the spring convocation. Women are selected on the basis of service, scholarship, and leadership in college life.

During the summer Mortar Board welcomes incoming freshmen with the booklet, "Here's How at William and Mary." This year the group continued its tutoring service, sponsored a fashion show, and held the annual "Smarty Party" for girls outstanding in scholarship.

Since the spring of 1938 when the first Varsity Show was presented by the Backdrop Club, it has grown in popularity until it is now one of the most anticipated events on campus. The Varsity Show is also becoming well-known off campus, being rated eighth in the country among student written, directed, and produced musicals. It's not all work for the Club, though; a dance was given in February in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, and the annual picnic was held in the spring.

This year the Varsity Show was a fantasy in hell. The script was written by Bill Farley and Barry Wilson, and the music was handled by Al Richardson and Giles Quarles. With the aid of excellent scenery and fine lighting effects, the audience was led through a fantastic hell with the hero. Angels and devils abounded, and a great time was had by all.

The show was directed by Bill Farley, with Lou Biggs doing the choreography and Al Richardson directing the music. Frances Dale was costume mistress, Bill Abelow was technical director, and Sam Keyian designed the sets. The business end of the Club was handled by its officers: Meade Johnson, president; Margie Lee, vice-president; Mary Helfrich, secretary; and Bob Neuville, treasurer.

From circuses to "meller-dramers" to fantasies in hell, its always a good show.

DR. CARL A. FEHR

Living up to the national reputation which it has established for itself, the College Choir again presented a varied and interesting program to its many ardent supporters. The group opened its concert season with the annual Christmas concert in December, and in response to the overwhelming demand this concert was a repetition of the preceding year's pageant of familiar carols and hymns.

Th spring concert, high-lighted by the compositions of Bach, Randall Thompson, and Jean Berger, was a rewarding experience to the members of the choir, as well as being rich and exciting to its listeners.

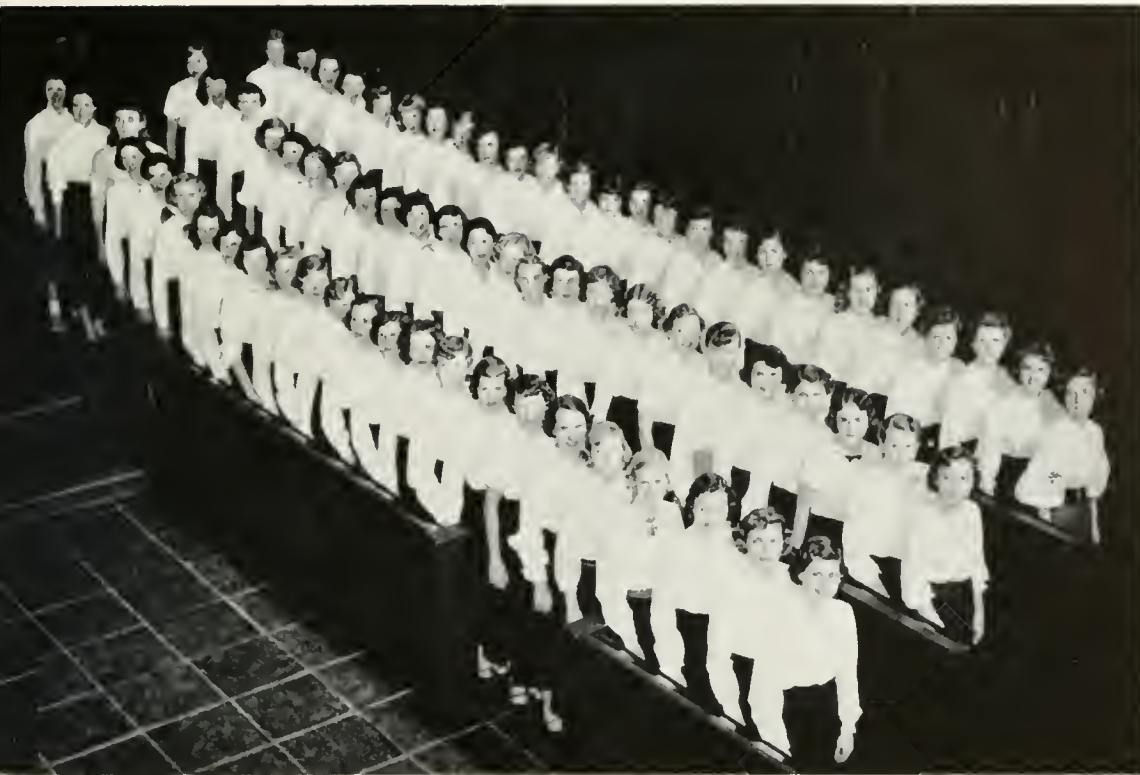

Under the direction of Dr. Carl A. Fehr, the choir has established a standard of virtuosity that is surpassed by few singing groups of its kind in the country, and it is from this group that is drawn the nucleus of the choir which sings in the annual production of Paul Green's symphonic drama, "The Common Glory."

The William and Mary Chorus, also under the direction of Dr. Fehr, is composed of one hundred fifty girls. It provides a fine opportunity for those who enjoy singing as a group, and the varied types of music, religious, classical, and popular, make the chorus an enjoyable experience for everyone.

The ROTC of William and Mary has, within the past few years, become a prominent organization on the campus, with enrollment rising at approximately three hundred cadets, a record number at William and Mary. The primary function of this unit is to produce men capable of holding positions as commissioned officers in the Field Artillery. The course is composed of two phases, each two years in length. The basic course for freshmen and sophomores is an introduction to the basic elements of Field Artillery. In the advanced course, for juniors and seniors who have been selected on the merits of their scholastic record, the men are taught the more fundamental principals of Field Artillery. Classes are held twice weekly and each Wednesday afternoon a two-hour drill period is conducted. During this weekly drill period, supervised by the cadet officers, the cadets become acquainted with the rudiments of drill and the cadet officers acquire experience of directing and working with a group of men.

Under the leadership of Colonel Polk J. Atkinson and his staff of officers, the cadet corps is organized into an artillery battalion, composed of a Battalion Staff, a Headquarters Battery, consisting of the Drum and Bugle Corps and the Drill Corps, and four batteries, "A," "B," "C," and "D." Frequent parades in the Sunken Garden give the college students and visitors an opportunity to witness this organization functioning as a precise military unit.

The six weeks summer camp, this summer being held at Fort Sill, Oklahoma, is a prerequisite for a reserve commission upon graduation. This camp must be attended during the third and fourth years of advanced ROTC. The six weeks period is a highly concentrated review of the techniques taught at school and an introduction to advanced techniques to be mastered during the final year.

The ROTC unit plays a notable role in the lives and futures of many William and Mary students. We are proud to accept it as an integral part of campus life.

"Football Hop," pep rallies, Homecoming Queen's float . . . these bring back memories to all students. But they were only a few of the varied activities sponsored by the Pep Club. In September, the second hand bookstore was opened. The "Football Hop," held before the Wake Forest game, was both a financial and a social success. In January a dance was held with the Varsity Club.

The big project of the year was the construction of the Homecoming Queen's float which was pictured afterwards in many neighboring newspapers. The pep rally before the Homecoming game with the University of Richmond was sponsored by the Pep Club. This rally included a bonfire and snake line, and was broadcast and televised over a local Richmond station.

The Club tried to gain more support for baseball and track events, sponsored half-time entertainment during the basketball games, and showed movies of all off-campus football games to the students.

This year's officers were Mickey MacCoy, president; Bart Helmuth, vice-president; Bebe Fisher, secretary; and Ruth Page, treasurer.

The cheerleading squad brought louder and better cheers from the students this year under the enthusiastic leadership of Willie Willingham. The squad was on hand at all the home football and basketball games to lead the cheering section and boost school spirit. Each year the cheerleaders travel to several football games to add their pep and spirit. This year they attended the V.M.I. game in Roanoke, the V.P.I. game in Blacksburg, and the Navy game in Annapolis.

The squad helped to sponsor the pre-game and the half-time entertainment, the bonfires and snake lines, and the pep rallies. Every spring tryouts are held to fill the vacancies left by the graduating members, and special awards are given to the outstanding members of the group for service each year.

This year's squad included Dot Bailey, Bev Barnes, Bette Bodley, Jan Flippo, Tex Wilde, Jack Parker, Mickey MacCoy, and Winkie Wilde.

WILLIAM AND MARY BAND

McCleskey, Young, Scheie, Crosset

The William and Mary Band was sparked by a new director this year, Mr. M. A. Quinto, director of the Peninsula Band, who took time off from his duties to reorganize and improve it. Under his leadership the band instruments were put into good shape, a new uniform closet was built, and new and different marching formations were practiced. Mr. Quinto also instigated a practice of selecting student directors, so that they might have an opportunity to gain skill and confidence as leaders. The band was a colorful and lively addition to the home football games. It also contributed its spirited music to all the pep rallies, as well as marching in the Homecoming parade.

The William and Mary Band was led by Ruth Hase-meyer, drum major. Adding a touch of pep and glam-our were majorettes Mary Ellen McCloskey, captain; Caroline Young, Barbara Crosset, and Marilyn Scheie.

The Varsity Club was initiated into campus life at William and Mary in 1914. Its primary purpose was the furthering of college interest in intercollegiate athletics.

Activities conducted by the club this year included the presentation of movies of football games, entertainment of visiting athletic teams, and correspondence with similar organizations in other colleges and universities. Special projects which have been successfully completed in the past few years have been the drafting and adoption of a new creed for William and Mary athletes, which incorporates such necessary qualities as character, leadership, scholarship, cooperation, and perseverance to aid in maintaining high standards among all athletes on the campus; the revision of the constitution concerning admittance of members whereby the qualification standards were raised; and the purchase of a public address system for the gymnasium. This past year the special project of significance was the placement of a folder stand in the entrance hall of Blow Gymnasium. This stand contains pictures of all the present and past intercollegiate teams.

The predominant social event of the year was the Varsity Club Dance, sponsored jointly with the Pep Club. Of major importance also was the crowning of the Basketball Queen. The annual club picnic was held in the spring.

This year's officers were Jim Shatynski, president; Sonny Cowling, vice-president; Scott Petrequin, secretary; and Al Kersey, treasurer.

Participating in formal intercollegiate debating at William and Mary, the Debate Council has played a significant part in college activities during the past and hopes to do so in the future. Since the Council strives to stimulate free thought and discussion on campus, it sponsors varied discussions which are of interest to all students. In addition, high school debate teams are invited to participate in annual Marshall-Wythe Debating Tournament, sponsored by the Council.

This year an Open House was held in September to welcome the new freshmen, at which President Alvin D. Chandler was the guest speaker. A brief, informal debate on the national election followed his address. The Council also presented debates on the cafeteria situation, and religion at William and Mary.

Tau Kappa Alpha, the national honorary forensic fraternity, is composed of students who have participated creditably in the forensic program of the College. The Society encourages ability and interest in speech activities.

This year's officers of the Debate Council were Arnold Lubasch, president; Paul Weinstein, vice-president; Allan Seif, treasurer; and Althea Iliff, secretary. The Council was sponsored by C. Harper Anderson.

Scabbard and Blade is a national honorary military society represented on one hundred college campuses throughout the nation. Membership is drawn from outstanding members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and this year totaled twenty seven. The local chapter is Company K of the Eighth Regiment, organized at William and Mary in 1949. It has taken the place of the Centurion Club founded by earlier members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps. Thus in its ideas and aims it is a combination of the National Society of Scabbard and Blade and the Centurion Club.

The Society works to increase student interest in the military department of the College as well as in the military affairs of the nation. It also aims toward military preparedness in the event of an emergency, and a greater understanding and cooperation between military and civilian groups.

The group frequently takes time out from its military affairs to hold social gatherings. The outstanding social event of the past year was a banquet.

This year's officers were Carmen Romeo, captain; Hosey Hearn, first lieutenant; Tom Guthrie, second lieutenant; and Dudley Martin, first sergeant.

MURRAY FOSTER
President of the Interfraternity Council

The aim of the Interfraternity Council, as set forth in its constitution, is to promote cordial relationships among the men's social fraternities by providing a common medium through which to act. The Council encourages interfraternity athletics, as well as scholarship. It establishes rules governing both general fraternity activities and rush, including pledging and initiation. The rushing rules cover the dates of rushing, formal rushing regulations, eligibility, and initiation. The Council has the right to conduct trials if there is any violation of these rules.

The Council works as a service organization not only to the College but to the community as a whole. During orientation week of the fall semester, a general meeting was held to explain the fraternity system to all entering students to aid them in understanding and observing rushing rules. In addition, the Council cooperated with the Red Cross in sponsoring a blood drive each semester. A new project adopted by the Council was the collection of clothing for Eastern State Hospital. Throughout the year the group worked to solve the problems of the fraternities and to improve such conditions as overcrowded lodges on weekends.

Each of the eleven fraternities is represented in the Council by its president and a second member elected from the fraternity. Officers of the Council are elected from these second representatives for a term of one year. The president of the Council for the past year was Murray Foster.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

Seated on couches: Bozarth, Lang, Curry, Stone, Kyster, Henderson, Ingoe. Back Row: Schulse, Murphy, Fisher, Rassmussen, Bowman, Bradley, Ash, Hancock, Robinson, Egger, Kramer, Griffith.

The Pan-Hellenic Council consists of two delegates from each of the nine sororities on campus, who meet regularly to discuss questions of interest to the College and to the fraternity system. It cooperates with the National Pan-Hellenic Congress in maintaining high ideals of scholarship and promoting inter-sorority relations within the College.

The Council regulates and governs both fall and February rushing, as well as pledging and initiation of sorority women. This year it attempted to improve the quota-limit system by restricting the system to freshmen only and by eliminating unsatisfactory elements of the original system. In addition, the group worked on the problem of changing the dates of formal rushing in order to avoid the loss of time in academic work.

Each year a plaque is presented to the sorority whose pledge class attains the highest scholastic average. The Council also continued its project, initiated by the 1951-52 delegates, of awarding a scholarship to an outstanding sophomore woman. To raise money for this scholarship a talent show was sponsored during the second semester in which the pledge class of each sorority presented a skit.

During the fall a tea was held for members of the Council and alumnae of the various sororities.

The officers for 1952-53 were Lee Bradley, President; Judy Robinson, vice-President; Barbara Bowman, Secretary; and Nona Schulse, Treasurer. The advisors were Miss Marguerite Wynne-Roberts and Dean J. D. Farrar.

COACHING STAFF

Herb Miller, Eric Tipton, Gil Joyner, Jack Freeman, Boydson Baird, Tom Mikula, Johnny Clements.

C O A C H E S

William and Mary opened its 1952 football season with its third head football coach in three years. Following in the footsteps of Rube McCray and Marvin Bass was likable Jackie Freeman, who had been backfield coach last year under Bass. Freeman was himself a graduate of William and Mary and had played tailback in the old single wing before the war. He left college in 1942 and joined the Navy a year later. When he was discharged in 1946, Freeman returned at once to William and Mary and finished his one last season of eligibility by playing tailback on a McCray coached outfit that won eight out of ten games. After five years of coaching in Pennsylvania, his native state, Freeman came back again in 1951 and was promoted to the position of head coach in less than a year.

Freeman also assumed the post of Athletic Director when he took over as head coach. It was then up to him to co-ordinate the various sports at William and Mary, but first he had to get a competent coaching staff to assist him on the gridiron. Already on hand were Herb Miller and Eric Tipton. Easygoing "Neepie" Miller was brought to the Reservation by Bass and had remained throughout the turmoil that had followed his resignation. "Neepie" coached the line under Bass and continued in this position under Freeman. Tipton returned for his thirteenth season as backfield coach at

William and Mary after the season began.

Freeman rounded out his coaching staff with three new men, although it is hard to classify Tom Mikula in this bracket. After a year on the sidelines, Mikula returned to the staff. Completely new to the college were Johnny Clements and Boydson Baird. Clements worked with the backfield and Baird handled the J.V. gridders.

After shellacking V.M.I. at Roanoke in the season's opener, the Indians returned to Cary Field and Wake Forest. "Bullet" Bill Bowman is shown here racing the opening kickoff back in a flashy 30 yard return.

It was an up and down season for the Big Green. They started off by whipping V.M.I. and then proceeded to drop four in a row to Wake Forest, Penn State, Navy and Boston University. Victories over Richmond, V.P.I. and North Carolina State followed before Virginia dropped the Indians in the season's finale. William and Mary was never badly beaten all year as the scores will readily indicate. Their worst defeat came in the Navy game when the Middies won a convincing 14-0 victory. Yet the Tribe ran wild in winning, piling up large margins in four games during the year. Final statistics showed that the Indians were far and away a better team than the won and lost record indicated. They out-rushed the enemy, scored many more points, and were well ahead in the first down department. The final record was four up and five down, but the Tribe and Jackie Freeman deserved a better fate.

On the brighter side, Co-captain Ed Mioduszewski played a brilliant game at quarterback and wound up his college career by being chosen on the Associated Press second string All-America team, an honor that a William and Mary player had not received for many a year. His loss posed a serious problem for Freeman, a gaping hole in the offense to fill. Other players received post-season honors besides Mioduszewski. Guard, Linwood Cox, and halfback, Tommy Koller, were honorable mentions in the A.P. poll. John Kreamcheck, along with Koller and Mioduszewski, was mentioned on the United Press club. Including Bib Six and Southern Conference selections, such men as linebacker and center, Bob Lusk, end Dick Ivanhoe, backs, Bill Bowman and Bruce Sturgess, end, Walt Brodie, and linemen, George Parozza, and Steve Milkovich received post-season awards.

WILLIAM AND MARY 34, V.M.I. 13

The Tribe opened the season with a bang by swamping the Keydets under the lights at Roanoke. Many had expected trouble from this V.M.I. club that had beaten the Indians for two years running, but after a tight first half the Big Green turned on the steam and won going away. Tommy Koller scored the first touchdown of the year in the first period to put the Tribe ahead, 7-0, before the home team came to life and built up a 13-7 lead at the end of the first quarter. Koller bucked over before the half ended, and when Quin-by Hines had his kick blocked, the teams walked off the field at the half in a 13-13 deadlock.

The second half was an entirely different story. Quarterback, Ed Mioduszewski, led the team deep into Keydet territory and went over himself on the "keep" play. Soon after he bowled over again on a quarterback sneak, and later Bill Bowman, the Plunging fullback, ripped through the line, cut into the clear, and raced 67 yards for the final tally. Hines converted on all three extra points.

Little did the Big Green gridders realize that after V.M.I. they would go five long weeks before they would win another football game. The Demon Deacons started them on the road to distraction by breaking a 21-21 deadlock midway in the fourth quarter and going on to win. William and Mary got the better of the statistics in this tilt, but as many of the players sadly remarked after the game, the Deacs captured one vital section: points scored.

Wake Forest opened the encounter as if they were going to grind the Indians to a pulp. Within two minutes of play they tallied when Bruce Hillenbrand galloped 60 yards to paydirt. Minutes later Billy Churm ran around left end for another tally, and the Deacs led, 14-0. The Tribe finally came to life when Bruce Sturgess bulled through the line for a score just before the first period ended. Mioduszewski passed to Walt Brodie for the equalizer, and after Larry Spencer streaked 95 yards through a flying wedge to put the Deacs ahead again, "Meadows" went over on a quarterback sneak to tie the encounter. Automatic Hines converted every time. When Sonny George went over for the visitors he put the game out of reach, and the Tribe had lost its first home game.

PENN STATE 35, WILLIAM AND MARY 23

Now followed a string of three away games, the opener being against the Nittany Lions of Pennsylvania State College. Coach Rip Engel had a big, experienced squad which wore down the Big Green as the game progressed. The game was a thriller for 45 minutes. The rest was an anti-climax, as Penn State, trailing 16-14 at intermission, broke loose and made a shambles of the game.

The Indians completely outplayed the Nittany Lions during the first half. Led by the power-running "Lonesome Foursome" and the artful toe of Hines, William and Mary played some of their best ball of the season. Trailing 14-13 with ten seconds remaining in the period, Freeman sent in Hines and the little kicking specialist deftly booted a field goal giving the tribe a half-time lead.

The second half was a different story. Engel kept trotting in talented material, and the Indians began to wilt. Tony Rados and Bob Szanja alternated at quarterback, and Jesse Arnelle, a giant Negro end, caught everything in sight as the Tribe slid gracefully down to defeat.

NAVY, 14, WILLIAM AND MARY 0

The Annapolis game was a festive occasion, as hundreds of students left Williamsburg to visit Admiral Chandler's alma mater. The Middies were polite and friendly until game time, when they proceeded to out-class the Indians in all departments. The Tribe was shut out for the first and last time in this encounter, spending a good part of the damp afternoon getting repulsed by Navy's goal-line stands.

Playing under the arcs at Fenway Park in Boston, the Big Green rocked the Terriers with a stirring comeback in the second half which almost brought victory to the Tribe. Trailing 27-7 at halftime, the Tribe rallied to seize the lead, 28-27 in the last quarter, stunning the screaming crowd of 18,855 Boston fans.

Soon after the third period had begun, the Big Green came to life. Koller and Sturgess scored touchdowns to pull within six points of the enemy. In the final quarter Ed Mioduszewski and Bowman combined their running talents to take the ball to the eight, whereupon Sturgess flipped to Brodie in the end zone. Hines put the Tribe out front, but this advantage was short-lived, as "Golden Greek" Harry Agganis came right back, flipping to end, Tommy Gastall, for the deciding marker.

WILLIAM AND MARY 42, RICHMOND 13

Homecoming was truly Homecoming this year for the Indians. Festive-minded alumnae looked on as the resurgent Big Green ended a disastrous four game losing streak by crushing the hapless Richmonders. The Spiders, well on their way to a dismal season, fell quickly before the Big Green. With just a few minutes gone by, Mioduszewski, trapped behind the line of scrimmage, dodged five enemy tacklers and raced to the Spider nine. Bill Bowman plunged over and Hines converted. After Richmond was forced to punt, Meadows flipped a perfect pass to end Jack Lewis on the Spider 43, and Lewis ran all the way for the touchdown.

The trend of the game thus set, the fans sat back and watched the slaughter happily. The Indian offense totalled 509 yards as the rampaging "Lonesome Foursome" ripped through gaping holes in the offensive line. The Big Green added five more touchdowns and with Quinby Hines' seven conversions in a row, were finally on the comeback trail.

WILLIAM AND MARY 35, V.P.I. 15

Two weeks later the Tribe was on the war-path again, and this time the Gobblers of V.P.I. bore the brunt of the Indian wrath. For the first time of the season Mioduszewski took to the air as his primary means of offensive attack. William and Mary's ace quarterback completed 14 out of 20 passes for a total of 237 yards to wrap up the game for the Big Green.

It was a tight first half, as the Gobblers put up a valiant fight, but the Tribe had too much steam to be stopped for long, however, and Bruce Sturgess gave them a 14-9 halftime advantage by going over for a touchdown. In the second half, William and Mary pulled far ahead, methodically ploughing for score after score. The defensive backfield played their finest game of the year in this contest, and Moe Maddox caught his first touchdown pass in three years.

Officials signified that Tommy Koller had scored the Indians' first touchdown against Virginia.

WILLIAM AND MARY 41, N.C. STATE 6

After another week's rest, the Big Green demolished hapless North Carolina State. The famed "Lonesome Foursome" backfield of Mioduskewski, Koller, Sturgess and Bowman was finally rested as a unit, the first time in eight games. Within five minutes after the opening whistle the Tribe was away and winging behind a 14-0 lead. They added to this margin almost at will, and late in the third quarter when Freeman mercifully put in the second stringers, William and Mary was the proud possessor of a 41-0 lead.

Sonny Cowling sparkled at defensive end, blocking two kicks and holding up his end of the line with savage tenacity while "Killer" Koller paced the backfield with three touchdowns.

The Big Green finally cooled off after three wins, and unfortunately they picked the climatic encounter of the year in which to do it. The Cavaliers had humiliated the Tribe in 1951, and it was no secret that William and Mary had been pointing for this game all season long.

The only score in the first half was a sensational 81 yard run to paydirt by speedy halfback, Gerry Furst, who took a handoff from quarterback Charlie Harding and raced through the Indian defenses. The Cavaliers counted again soon after the second half opened when Harding flipped a pass to end, Bill Chisholm, for a 14-0 lead and Mel Roach booted the extra point. Finally the Tribe came to life with a 78 yard march, capped by Tommy Koller's touchdown. It gave Tom an even dozen for the season, and he clinched the Bix Six and Southern Conference scoring crowns in so doing. Hines had his kick blocked, and minutes later Virginia put the game on ice when Harding tossed a pass to Pete Potter for the score. Despite a Sturgess touchdown later in the game the Big Green could never recover and lost, 20-13.

Cavaliers' Bill King went high in the air to intercept a Mioduszewski pass in the end zone

TO THE HAPPY HUNTING GROUND

With the end of the 1952 season eleven big Indians hung up their green and grey for the last time. The top loss will be Ed Mioduszewski, who was the main cog in the Tribe attack for two years. Co-captain, John Flanagan, was injured early in the year and was sorely missed at defensive halfback. John Creamcheck was one of the biggest men ever to play for the Big Green, and his 245 pounds made him a tower of strength at tackle for his three varsity years. End, Moe

Maddox, held down his starting berth with effectiveness; and John Krog and Sonny Cowling were both rugged defensive ends. Jim Shatynski was a letterman at guard for three years, and Tommy Lewis was one of the strongest operatives in the defensive backfield. Tony Vjuevich played the best game of his career against Virginia, and Don Layne and Julie Poms were always on hand to give good accounts of themselves.

Many veteran sports writers and observers believed that the 1952-1953 basketball season at William and Mary would be highly successful, and the Indians were regarded as top contenders for the Southern Conference Crown. The Tribe had a seasoned squad which was composed predominantly of juniors and seniors, and a new head coach, Boyd Baird, formerly of Davidson. The record of 10 wins and 13 losses was a definite disappointment to the Big Green rooters, for bad luck marked the season and the unexpected decline in the Indians' basketball fortunes resulted. Howie McCallen, a star senior, suffered a broken ankle in a pre-season practice, and four of last year's expected returnees were not present. Chick Cornell and Howie Bollerman dropped basketball, while Rhea Lazarus and Herb Klapp left school.

For the first time in five years, the Indians, with an eight and three mark, were dethroned as Big Six champions, as they finished second to Richmond. Outside the Old Dominion only two wins in ten contests were recorded.

Missing from this season's schedule were the opening Eastern trip and the Mid-west tour during the Christmas holidays, for all 23 encounters were against Southern foes.

Under the capable leadership of Co-captains Bill Chambers and Jerry Harris, the Big Green opened the hardwood campaign against George Washington in the nation's capital, with a 90-79 setback despite 30 points by Chambers. Next, Maryland eked out a 64-61 decision at College Park, though Chambers was high with 26 markers. Before returning home, the Tribe routed W & L, 37-62, and Virginia, 87-71, to record their first victories.

In one of the most action-packed displays of sharp-shooting ever seen in Blow Gym, the Indians dropped a hard-fought 101-100 overtime contest to West Virginia on a long set shot by Red Holmes in the final two seconds. Soph John Mahoney and Chambers hooped 25 and 20 points respectively. The Tribe total was a record, besting last season's high mark of 97, while the total score was a Southern Conference record.

Baird and company departed on a three-game holiday trip which resulted in an 82-63 win over the Winston-Salem Bullets, and setbacks against Clemson, 81-71, and Furman, led by All-American Frank Selvy, 85-78.

Decisions over Hampden-Sydney and V.M.I. evened the slate at 5-5, before the North Carolina State contest in Norfolk. The Tribe's three-year victory string was snapped by a 62-58 loss to the nationally ranked wolf-pack. A poor second quarter hurt the Indians, as they outscored the Wolfpack in the other quarters. Richmond's surprising Spiders outran Baird's cagers, 82-78, in a nip-and-tuck thriller at the State capital.

After a two-week break for examinations, the Big Green returned to action against V.P.I. at Blow Gym. Co-captain Chambers scored 30 points in a 91-74 rout. During the game Joe Hume uncorked a record-breaking 65 foot field goal. After rolling over V.M.I., 88-54, the Indians were whipped by N.C. State, 101-71, in Raleigh. Highly-touted Wake Forest was encountered at Norfolk, and the Hemric-Williams duo led the Demon Deacons to a 78-76 verdict due to a two minute freeze and a last second lay-up shot. Virginia was trampled 105-84, as the Braves and Chambers set new scoring marks of 105 and 37 points, respectively.

At this stage of the campaign, the Tribe still had an outside chance for the conference tournament with a four and nine conference record and six games remaining. However, the sudden loss of juniors Hume, Ducky Drake, Dick Savage, Dave Berry, and soph Bob Hoitsma crippled the team and erased the chance. Possession-minded Maryland was the next foe. The Terps, paced by Gene Shue's outstanding 34 point effort, outmanned a fighting Indian team, 79-57.

Two days later the fired-up Tribe gained their biggest triumph of the season, and 85-82 overtime conquest of highly-favored Duke. The Blue Devils were riding along on a nine-game winning streak, but the Indians forced a possession type game which cooled off the Blue Devils.

Co-captain Chambers went on a phenomenal 45-point scoring rampage to tie Chet Giermak's individual Indian record, as Washington and Lee was trounced, 94-73. Losses to V.P.I., George Washington and Richmond ended the regular season. The Richmond game ended the college cage careers of Chambers, Harris, McCallan, and Pete Markos, and they received a standing ovation at the finale.

Although the Big Green did not win the Bix Six Title or qualify for the Southern Conference Tournament, the season was not as dismal as pictured. The team averaged 79 points a game to rank 20th in the nation in scoring. They stood fifth in field goal percentage, and eighth in free throw percentage. Harris and Chambers ranked thirteenth and nineteenth, respectively, nationally in field goal percentage. Also, Chambers grabbed 498 rebounds for a 21.7 per game average, which was third highest in the country.

Co-captains Chambers and Harris were named to the All-State first and second teams, and Chambers was awarded a berth on the All-Conference second team. He scored 465 points for a 20.2 per game average. For his composite three season total the lanky Lynchburg cager accounted for 1456 points, a 17.7 game average.

Coach Baird's most effective team was composed of Harris and Mahoney at the forward posts, Chambers at center, and McCallan, Hume or Hoitsma at guard. The line-up was changed often and Pete Markos, Drake, Savage, Berry, Pires, and Mike Conte all saw frequent action.

SCIENCE HELD SUCCESS UNCERTAIN

In 1952, William and Mary had fielded one of its best baseball teams in recent years. It had won ten of twenty games and been humbled by more than six runs only once.

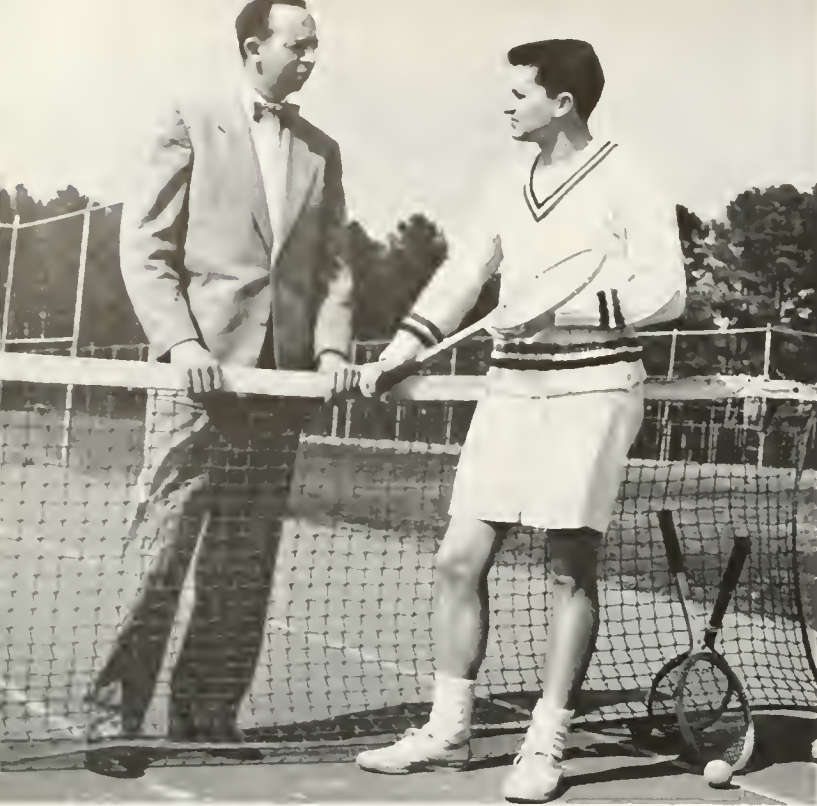

The pitching and batting had shown tremendous improvement with a seven runs-per-game average for the pitchers, and a team batting average of .287. Bill Twomey topped the hurlers in the won and lost column, winning four games in seven, though Warren Rutledge had been the workhorse, pitching in 67 innings. Jimmy Carter and Al Kersey had also twirled effectively. Six Indian batsmen boasted better than .300 batting averages, high man there being Hardy Cofer with a .395 mark and Bill Bowman, Ed Mioduszewski, Kersey, Rutledge, and Twomey being the other five.

In the main, the infield consisted of Ed Aubin, Bill Chambers, Joe Agee, Sam Tyler, and Mioduszewski, with Don Jeffrey, Bert Chase, Dick Pendleton, and Bob Thurston seeing frequent action. In the outfield, Bowman, Cofer, Kersey, and Rutledge prevailed.

In March, 1953, the prospects for the coming season were difficult to discern. New coach Eric Tipton found that few of the 1952 season's proven performers were still around. Twomey and Carter were present to bear the brunt of the pitching chores and catcher Jeffrey was back for his final year. Bowman and Cofer, now co-captain, had remained to anchor the outfield, but an entirely new infield was needed.

Co-Captain Kersey, Pendleton, Bruce Rhea, Monty Knight, Mac McCurry, Doug Henley, and Dick Wall competed spiritedly to fill the vacancies while freshman backstopper Don Colley arrived to challenge Jeffrey. In summary the outlook for 1953 could hardly be an optimistic one. The success depended too much on inexperienced newcomers. Good hitting was a proven factor though, and if the new infield and pitching came through, the 1952 record could be surpassed.

TENNIS

S T O R M Y

Spring at the reservation saw stormy weather ahead for brand new tennis coach Wayne Kernodle. Replacing Hal King, he had inherited a vastly depleted squad, for conspicuously missing from early practices were the familiar faces of Ronnie Barnes, Tom Boys, and Terry Mahloy, all lost to the happy hunting ground: and George Larkin and Carl Gieg who were laying out for a year.

But while the reluctant winter weather was slowly giving way to Spring, Kernodle called his team out for practice. Among a scrappy bunch of candidates he found reason for optimism. Leading the parade of candidates was captain-elect Hoseney Hearn and following close behind were lettermen Carl Spies and Jay Lawrence. The return of Garner Anthony, after a two year layoff, lent an especial boost to morale, and with the appearance of Intramural Tennis Champ Asghar Ali on the scene, the squad took on an international flavor. Also present and struggling for recognition were John Kris, Dick Bennett, Joe Bacal, Joe Reynolds, Tom Reel, John Tucker, and Buddy Leatherwood.

At the outset of the 1953 season, Anthony and Ali loomed as sure bets for one and two men, and Hearn, Lawrence and Spies were expected to pace the rest in the battle for the remaining positions.

The schedule included: Cornell, West Virginia, Virginia, W & L, George Washington, Maryland, V.M.I., North Carolina, Richmond, N.C. State, Hampden-Sydney, V.P.I., and Duke.

Back in 1952, Boys, Barnes and Larkin had led the netmen through a seven won, seven lost season. The victories were over Brown, Cornell, W & L, V.M.I., N.C. State, Richmond, and West Virginia. Barnes chalked up an undefeated 14 victory record while Boys was winning 12 of 13 matches and Larkin was triumphing in 10 of his 14.

FAIRWAY FORTUNE

William and Mary's golf team featured ten matches, including the Virginia Intercollegiate Tournament held at Hot Springs, and loomed as the only Indian team in 1952-1953 to come up a winner.

Sporting such veterans as Captain Bob Mitchell, Paul Hickey, Bill Wray, Jim Mark, and Fred Aucamp, the outlook was excellent. Down the line strength was provided by sophomores Jerry Murchison and Charlie Cloud, and freshman Bruce Rummage.

Al Stewart, prominent Virginia amateur, returned for his second year as coach.

The schedule: West Virginia, Virginia, George Washington, Maryland, N.C. State, Richmond, V.P.I., V.M.I., and W & L.

SWIMMING

MORE SUCCESS TO COME

Swimming at William and Mary took an encouraging turn for the good during the 1953 season. Coaches Dud Jensen and Bill Bailey produced a team which promised more success for the future.

Captain Scotty Petrequin and seniors Skip Risjord and Rod Lawrence formed a nucleus for the hard working tankmen. Stuart Sell and Winkie Wilde led in point output and much support was received from Jim Duff, Tony Werner, Dave Bannerman, Rod Soholt, Ed Wolfe, Dwight Ozment, and Joel Schechter.

Victories over Catholic University and Randolph-Macon highlighted a schedule which listed Duke, Virginia, V.M.I., Georgetown, Catholic University, W & L, and Randolph-Macon.

VICTORY OVER VIRGINIA

Co-Captains John Munger and Leo Spencer.

Captains John Munger and Leo Spencer led the William and Mary Harriers through another encouraging season. Habitually undermanned, the distance men came out victorious in one contest and copped an impressive third place in the Big Six Meet.

Veterans Bart Hellmuth, George Southwell, Leo Schutte, and Bill May contributed much in ability and spirit to the 1952 season. Newcomer Sam Mitchell and freshman Bud Fisher continuously turned in good performances, and as the season wore on, Fisher achieved prominence in being hailed as a future conference star.

Victory over Virginia at Charlottesville climaxed the cross country season. Munger clocked in at 19:02 to take first place ahead of Cavalier Mike Byrnes, and Spencer's 19:44 time was good for fourth place. Southwell, Fisher, Hellmuth, and Mitchell finished sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth for the Indians to earn them the victory.

The schedule included V.M.I., Richmond, N.C. State, Virginia, and Georgetown.

TRACK

OPTIMISM

The return of a seasoned group of veterans plus the appearance of many spirited freshmen added up to an optimistic outlook for the 1953 Track season.

Coach Gil Joyner mourned a lack of depth but found good front line strength in most events. In the distances, John Munger, George Southwell, Leo Spencer, Bart Hellmuth, Bud Fisher, and Leo Schutte appeared to be in good shape, and power in the weight events was provided by John Kreamcheck and Bill Levine. John Mahoney was back to throw the javelin again and pole-vaulters Larry Young and Dick Rowlett with high-jumper John Risjord added much to the outlook. Sprinters Jim Coley and Marty Mountain were setting the pace in the dashes while all around reserve strength was provided by Dick Blanchard, Dave Ferriday, Bud Norton, Bill May, and Bob Clark.

The 1953 schedule had the Indian Cindermen pitted against Hampden-Sydney, The Apprentice School, V.M.I., Richmond, Randolph-Macon, W & L, and Virginia.

INTRAMURALS

F O R T H E L O V E O F

William and Mary's intramural program enjoyed another successful year in 1952-1953. Dudley Jensen and Rene Henry again coordinated a well-balanced program which effectively satisfied the many varied interests of student and faculty performers. Friendly competition took place in the popular sports, football, tennis, swimming, basketball, volleyball, handball, ping pong, place-kicking, foul-shooting, horseshoes, softball, bowling, track, and badminton.

wrapped up the crown. Sigma Nu went on to win over the Underdogs for the intramural crown.

Theta Delta Chi wrestled the swimming championship from SAE, who had hung on to the title for three years straight, while over in the individual competitions, Ashghar Ali eliminated all challengers for the tennis crown. Joe Burke, of Pi Kappa Alpha, walked off with the horseshoe title, and Skippy Fein, of Pi Lambda Phi, annexed free throw honors. Hardy Cofer, of Sigma Nu, emerged as place-kicking king, and the Administration's Lou Hoitsma defeated George Parozzo for the coveted handball championship.

TRIBAL COUNCILS

Many squaws of different tribes are assembled on the reservation of William and Mary. All the "ugh's" and "how's" cease as Chief Bebe Hammond approaches and ceremoniously calls the pow wow to order.

"Since we must have brave and dauntless squaws to keep our tribe strong," she urges, "we will plan a series of war games for the next nine moons." And as she speaks, there arises murmured assent from Ludwell-Greek and Pi Toka Phi. Immediately the tribal representatives begin discussing what games to include. Chief Bebe points her tomahawk of office toward Kappamagua, who stands and proposes swimming and canoeing. Pi Toka Phi adds tennis, and Alpha Chioux threatens to withdraw from the council unless basketball be included. Chickasaw Chandler, denouncing their selfish interests so vigorously that her headdress slips down over her eyes, urges the spirit of cooperation and teamwork and suggests volleyball and softball. Pounding her tomahawk, Chief Bebe commands silence. Gradually the opinions and recommendations are sifted and the sports decided upon. A certain paleface, Miss Lawndes Scott, who had drifted up to the fire and who often acts as mediator between the Indians and the Whites, expresses her approval of their plan but reminds them that the ultimate decision rests with the white tribunal, and perhaps even the Great-White-Father Chandler.

P L A N W A R G A M E S

Just before dawn ends the long night of planning, modest Kappa Apache Theta wishes to bar seasoned warriors from competition, but when Alpha Chioux and Kappamagua immediately protest, it is hastily decreed that perhaps it is best to allow them to participate. It is, after all, an excellent way to keep in practice when there are no battles to be fought.

Confident of the success of their ideas, Chief Bebe and smoke-sender Sally Cronk later meet with the paleface tribunal. After the solemn peace pipe ceremony, the squaws outline their proposals, and all sports are eventually agreed upon except canoe races. "Our supply of birch bark is too low for anything not strictly essential, you see." Satisfied at last, after another round of the peace pipe, they depart, eager to put their plans into execution.

As the year progresses, rivalry grows sharper and sharper. The squaws are developing firm muscles and quick thinking, two essential attributes in any fight. Certain maidens have now achieved renown for prowess in particular activities; in swimming, Margot Ketcham, and in basketball, Julie Holmes. The tribes may never be called upon to fight an actual battle, but those engaged in these mock conflicts have well earned the names of warrior!

TRIBAL HONOR

While each squaw on the reservation devotes a part of her time to athletics, certain ones of outstanding ability receive more arduous and specialized training, for it is upon these warriors that the safety of the tribal community depends. Fortunately, this year has been a time of peace, and the maidens, eager to display their mettle, challenge nearby reservations to mock battles. No crusade, no revolution is fought so vigorously as these conflicts, and the victors are extolled in song and chant on the following feast days.

Hockey is the first war game of the season. Attired in their traditional green and gold warbonnets and directed by Chief Liz Sacalis, they continually surge upon their opponent's goal like a raiding party on an isolated log cabin. Often when the English missionary, Miss Appleby, is visiting the reservation, she attempts a conversion to this more civilized form of fighting that is slowly gaining the respect of the Indians.

No sooner are the hockey sticks stored away than the basketballs are brought out. It is in this sport, more than any of the others, that the squaws develop the trait of Indian cunning. Subtly, craftily the two chief-tians Liz Sacalis and Bebe Hammond lead the team to glorious victory or, on occasion, noble defeat.

Throughout the winter of games many excursions are made away from the reservation, but the most exciting one is to the yearly pow wow in Philadelphia of the mighty eastern Indian confederation. Owning their own ponies, the team has no transportation problem and a leisurely two-day trip brings them into competition with the skilled Swarthmore warriors.

During the tennis season a similar trip is made, this time to compete in the Eastern Indian Tennis Tournament. Last year, one of the maidens, Shirley Haabestad, reached the quarter finals; this year, they all intend to return with the scalps of the vanquished strung on their wampum belts.

When it's a toss-up the Squaws get the ball!

Indian cunning outmaneuvers opponents

RITUAL DANCERS INVOKE VICTORY

BOOM, boom, boom, boom, boom, boom. From a teepee on the side of the reservation comes a rhythmic beat of a tom-tom. Shadowy forms glide stealthily in a series of sustained movements. Everywhere within the great wigwam different dances are being practiced for the coming tribal ritual. One group of squaws is practicing to writhe in pain, their bodies contracting in one convulsive gesture. Amid the soft steps and flickering shadows, six maidens leap by: three, two, one. Barefooted, heads high-like playful fawns they go. In the center of the teepee three handsome Braves stand alert. With a swiftly bending motion, they reach out, lift three maidens and raise them to the high priestess, Lou Biggs. In a corner are three squaws, Kitty Sioux, Pegg Hall and Joan Farinholt. All alone they squat and plan, trying a step and working it out across the floor, then back again to deep concentration. Over the three in concentration and over the groups of dancers there comes a voice that breaks their meditation and stops the dancers in their steps. It is the voice of the ancient master, Burd-of-Song, long skilled in the tribal art of dance. She calls her band together and has them gather 'round her feet. In awed tones she tells of the mystery of the dance and how their mothers danced before them by the shores of Lake Matoka. Burd-of-Song reminds them of their duty: to bring beauty, culture and feeling to the tribe out of dance. Orchesis must pray for great success in the coming ritual dancing, so the Squaw leads them in their worship of the great goddess, Martha Graham.

Weaving a spell

A Gift for the Gods

ON THE SHORES OF LAKE MATOAKA

All Indians can swim and the William and Mary Squaws display this ability as part of their heritage. Swimming was even necessary for survival because during rainy season the Indians often had to swim from one part of the reservation to the other. There were few complaints, however, because the practice kept them good, strong, healthy swimmers. Furthermore, the William and Mary Tribe was often in danger of attack from the paleface who wanted to rule the reservation, so every William and Mary Redskin had to be able to make his escape, which meant swimming Lake Matoaka. But many winters ago, after the Indians and palefaces came to somewhat peaceful terms, the tribal leaders met in a big pow wow to discuss swimming. Like the councils of today they met, and after much smoking of the peace pipe, they agreed to form a Swimming Club from all the little tribes for the William and Mary Reservation. "We will have a water ritual," said the chief, "and the William and Mary Squaws will not only swim quick like the fish, but graceful like the swan." And so it was written and so it is today. The Squaws swim and dive to music, form sunflowers and Indian symbols in the water, and even wear headfeathers in their water ritual. To the whole reservation these water maidens are a source of pride. To become an Indian mermaid is an ambition held by many of the Squaws of the reservation. Every maiden has a chance to compete in the four war games which determine the chief's honored swimmers. Barand and Conyers, the friendly palefaces, help Water-Chief-Cronk to judge ability, interest, cooperation and skill in swimming. As all Indians, these like to paint themselves with warpaint, dress in costumes, or imitate the palefaces. Emmy Ketterson and Cynthia Kimbrough lead the maidens in the Mardi Gras water carnival. However, now the Braves are crying for equality and as they have been permitted into Orchesis, so the medicine man prophesies, "The Squaws and the Braves of the William and Mary Reservation shall swim together."

The overall scene is one of active construction.

At the end of our career at William and Mary, during our years here, we have built a foundation for the future on the knowledge acquired through scholarship, studies, and participation in college life. Now this foundation must serve as a basis on which we must make our adjustments to the world and further our spiritual and intellectual growth.

So, too, the College, though conscious of its past, must adjust to the changing times. It must develop its facilities physically and spiritually in order to provide for the intellectual and social welfare of its future students. An example of physical growth is the new men's dormitory. In a few years we hope to see a Student Activities Building and then, perhaps, a new Fine Arts Building.

Spiritual development of the College should include giving the students more responsibility in the administration of their activities and encouraging individual freedom of expression. The faculty should become aware of the student as an individual so that they may exert a greater influence as teachers.

As the college builds for the future, so must its alumni build their lives on the foundations of a William and Mary liberal arts education.

. . . and these are our farewell hopes.
