Volume Seventeen

Published by the Students of
The College of William and Mary
Williamsburg, Virginia

Foreward

To err is human and we are not divine but we have tried in the following pages to give a true portrayal of campus life. If it shall ever serve to recall pleasant memories of days gone by, if it shall ever gladden the heart of a tired mother, if it shall ever stir a man to success by recalling his Alma Mater, then we who have labored shall have won our reward

Dedication

To a broad-minded scholar and a statesman, to a writer of renown, to an old Virginia gentleman, to one who has spent the noon-day of his life that we might realize our highest success, to the second founder of William and Mary, to one who will never be forgotten,

To

Dr. Lynn Gardiner Tyler
we respectfully dedicate
this book

The Land Where the Gallant Fall

Under the sod of valiant France
The heroes are sleeping today,
Who fought for the right, who died lest the might
Of a vandal might conquer for aye.
They came from the land of the Stars and the Stripes,
From the land of the lion and where
The old Indus flows and the hurricane blows,
And the sun shines on Italy fair.

Under the sod of noble France
The heroes are sleeping alone,
Who gave of their blood to stay the red flood
In a land that was far from their own.
Though shocked by the shells and though torn by the steel
From the throats of ten thousand mad guns,
'Neath the night's pale gray, 'neath the starshell's bright ray
They made death for the pitiless Huns.

Under the sod of glorious France
The heroes will live for aye,
For Fame with her hand is guarding the land
Where the bravest are mingled with clay.
Though Time with his scythe gather years upon years
And though Death cover us with his pall,
They shall dwell with Fame to an age without name
In the land where the gallant fall.

Football Team, '17; Manager Colonial Echo, '19; Manager Football, '17; "S. O. S." Phoenix Society; President German Club, '18-'19; President Senior Class; Debating Team, '18; Student Council, '17-'18; Flat Hat Staff, '18-'19; Athletic Council, '17-'18; Tennis Team, '18; Chancellor Scholarship, '16-'17; Souther Scholarship, '17-'18; Magazine Staff, '17-'18; Assistant Instructor in Physics, '17-'18-'19; Chairman Inter-fraternity Council, '18-'19; Class Valedictorian; Kappa Sigma.

We present you, herewith, the genius of the Class of '19. A star in football, a Demosthenes in eloquence, a ladies' man of the first order, and a giant in Physics. In three years he has won a degree and yet no one has seen him studying, but to judge of his student abilities look at his A's. He is as popular as he is handsome, as modest as he is gallant, and his business qualities are not to be ignored. His opinions are always sought on every matter of import, and he holds a high seat in all Indian Pow-Wows. A man we rarely meet, and one ever welcome. A friend untiring, and a character beyond reproach.

"Ferg.," you can't fail. Old W. and M. is behind you. Go, with our blessings, go, and may we have more like you.

S. N. R. F., December 18, 1918; Phi Tau Beta.

We now invite your unmitigated attention to the laughing boy from the land of Rappahannock. He came to us in the fall of 1915, presenting at that time his pleasant smile and his ability to curl. He has curled them all from Dr. Stubbs to Captain Quimby. He is a man full of pep and college spirit. His record as a student, as a teacher, and in the service of his country is worthy of the best of them.

Here's to you Major! We sincerely hope that there is a future filled with success and happiness for you.

Here comes "Bill," or "W. W.," the largest of our "runts." Large in more than one sense of the word, for when it comes to athletics he is right there with the goods, and in business, in the class-room, in debating, in editing, and with the ladies he is not lacking. Bill to some, however, may appear peculiar, but to know him is to like him. If he were traveling on his face he would not get very far, but if on his big heart he could tour the universe. One of his peculiarities is that he had rather argue than eat, his stomach is never too flat or the weather too cold for him to stand on the corner and sling "it" over nothing; and for this reason we predict for him a bright career as one of W. and M.'s most successful lawyers.

HARRY HOOPER EDWARDS
Palls, Virginia

Varsity Football, '16; Monogram Club; Joke Editor, Echo Staff; Teacher's Diploma; Chaplain Senior Class; Brafferton Tribe; Phoenix.

A stolid looking individual with a determination that cannot be withered, a worthy friend of all upper-classmen, and a terror to ignorant "Dues." These few words do not enumerate his accomplishments, for we remember back in the fall of '16 how he used to plow a football line like a British tank and roll "Johnny" in the class-rooms. His wit is dry and stoical, but heavens, how ridiculously funny! The "Dues" will miss you Edwards, and so will we.

ROBERT CARROLL RIVES
McKenney, Virginia

Editor-in-chief Echo, '19; Phoenix; Football Squad, '16-'17; Secretary Southside Club; Glee Club; President Athletic Council, '17-'19; Historian Junior Class; Track Team, '16; Vice-President Senior Class; State Student Honor Roll; Senior Class Poet; Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Before us appears the face of one familiar in every college activity. Upon each stepping-stone from the gridiron to Tyler Hall can be seen his name inscribed in bold letters—the stones, first of poetry, then of athletics, literature, and patriotism all bear his titles. “Bo-cat,” (and we all know the etymology of that name), with his indomitable spirit can arouse more enthusiasm in a celebration than any ten men together. A rally wouldn’t be complete without him, and when he left us to help Uncle Sam last year no one could have been missed more. To be sure, he has as many A’s to his credit as anybody else, but as side-issues Rives holds down an editor’s job or directs the Athletic Association. No one could expect the genius of this gentleman to do less than make for William and Mary a noble and esteemed alumnus.

ALBERT PETTIGREW ELLIOTT
Forest Depot, Virginia

Philomathean Literary Society; President Debate Council, '19; Flat Hat Staff, '17-'18; President Student Body, summer session, '18; Student Council, '18; Assistant Librarian, '17-'19; Editor-in-chief Flat Hat, '18-'19; Literary Editor Colonial Echo, '19; Assistant in Chemistry, '18-'19; Secretary and Treasurer Senior Class, '18-'19; Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Gentlemen, the future editor of the New York Tribune and the sole possessor of Doc. Hall's Anglo-Saxon. In three years of college life he has reached the summit of literary attainment and yet has not slighted college activities. He has always specialized in English but he has a natural tendency for Math, and Astronomy, which has led him to the study of "Celestial" bodies. Still he takes some time from arduous labor to visit Tyler Hall.

He has one distinction that we feel we must record, his admiration for women—in their place, and his consistent efforts to keep them there will always find a warm spot and high appreciation in the hearts of those who love our Alma Mater.

BENJAMIN BURRASS MITCHELL, JR.
Brandy Station, Virginia

Teacher's Diploma; Brafferton Tribe; Historian Senior Class; United States Navy; Philomathean.

Mitchell has been here at intervals for the last six years and within these years he has been a student, a teacher, and a sailor. He is a fine man at handling the hose, (ask "Duc" Harrison), chasing "Dues," dispersing information, and reading French. Feeble "Dues" tremble when he heaves in sight, quake as he draws near, pray when he seizes them, feel damp when he is gone. He can write, too; if you don't believe it, read the Senior Class History. He's the man.

ROBERT JOHN JOHNSON
Gilmerton, Virginia

Philomathean Literary Society; Debating Team; "S. O. S.;" Track Team, '17-'18; Baseball Team; Corp. S. A. T. C.; Cotillion Club; Secretary Philomathean Literary Society; Kappa Alpha.

"Cataline" is what we call him around college but the ladies prefer Robert. We can't picture life around the Campus without "Cataline" pointing skyward with a little whoop to fool someone about an airship; we can't imagine the baseball field without his jovial chatter, which attracts so much attention.

In his graduation William and Mary will lose an energetic student who will be missed in the many branches of college activities in which he has taken such a prominent part. But we feel in her loss she will give to the world a hard worker, a true friend, and, above all, a loyal son of his Alma Mater. May her future sons have the qualities of "Cataline," and if they have, the success of the college and of those she sends out is assured.

JAMES THOMAS JONES
Blackstone, Virginia

Secretary Philomathean Literary Society, '18; Vice-President, '19; Y. M. C. A. Treasurer, '17-'18, President, '18-'19; Y. M. C. A. Class Leader, '19; Literary Magazine Staff, '18-'19; Inter-fraternity Council; Secretary South-side Club; President Student Council, '18-'19; Echo Staff; Scholarship, '17-'18; Sigma Phi Epsilon.

"Jimmie," as we know him on the Campus, has become prominent in the Y. M. C. A. work; for the past year he has been the acknowledged leader in that department. Incidentally he was the big factor that placed the "Y" on its present firm basis. "Jimmie" is one of the few that can store away enough credits to get a sheep skin in three years. At our literary meetings we always find him present, while on the Magazine Staff he is an essential cog. But even in his busiest moments "Jimmie" steals away frequently to the "Frau Shack." Someone has said that it is his intention to organize a Y. W. C. A., but this hardly seems plausible.

The Class of '19 expects great things from you, Jimmie, we are grieved to lose you, but in bidding you au revoir we wish to express our appreciation of your noble efforts and achievements that have brought credit to our class.

RUTH TAYLOR CONKEY
Superior, Wisconsin
A.B., Lake Forest

Here's the first one of her kind, and the only "Mary" that the class can boast of. Ruth is a friend of every student here and likewise is loved and admired by all of them. It is true that this is her first year at William and Mary, but she has assimilated our habits and unified her thoughts with ours in such a manner that we can't help feeling she has been a companion of ours many years.

Ruth is life all over and a great asset to our class; may she continue her bright career, and for the accomplishment of this we extend to her our dearest thoughts.

JULIAN ARLINGTON BROOKS
Williamsburg, Virginia

Scholarship, '16; "S. O. S." Monogram Club; Football Team, '17; Student Council; Cotillion Club, '17-'18-'19; Baseball Team, '18-'19; Basketball Team, '18-'19; Capt., '19; Pan-Hellenic Council; Philomathean Literary Society; First Sergt. S. A. T. C.; Associate Editor "Flat Hat;" "D. D. Club;" Kappa Alpha.

Here's to one of the best men of the Senior class. This is not news to us, for we all know that "Judy" is a wonder in athletics, has good literary ability and is never in need of A's and B's on his monthly report.

His remarkable ability together with his good looks, and we say "Winsome Ways," have gained for him such an admirable feeling for the other sex that he keeps us in constant fear that we will lose him before we leave, by the marriage route. So, "Judy," a word to the wise should be sufficient. Now try not risk yourself so much with the fairer ones and just keep up your good work, and if you do this the Class of '19 is confident that your future career will not only be successful but a happy one.

NATHANIEL JARRATT WEBB
Ivor, Virginia

Glee Club; Student Council, '16-'17-'18-'19; Treasurer Philomathean Literary Society, '16-'17; Varsity Football, '17-'18; Vice-President Y. M. C. A., '17; Cotillion Club; President Philomathean Literary Society, '17; Teacher's Diploma; President Junior Class, '17-'18; Echo Staff, '19; Magazine Staff, '19; State Student Honor Roll; Active Military Service, March to Dec., '18; Phi Tau Beta.

"Nat," as he is known on the Campus, is not such a pest as his name would imply, and his record during the years that he has spent with us shows that he is diligent, industrious, capable, and worthy of any trust. He has shown his physical fitness by holding the line on the "gridiron," and his mental ability by his A's on the Registrar's books. He is a good all-round college man and he possesses as much of that "sticktoitiveness," if you please, as any man on the Campus.

In the spring of '18 when filled with some of that spirit which sent hundreds of William and Mary men into the war he joined the U. S. Navy, where he served diligently and patriotically until his recent release, and he is as steady a student as he was a "salt." "Success to you 'Nat.," the Class of '19 will always remember you as an all-round fellow, and a 'hard sailor.'"

LESLIE WALTER SIMMONS
Newsoms, Virginia

Secretary Southampton Club, '16-'17; Secretary Tidewater Club, '17-'18; Secretary Athletic Council, '18-'19; Member Student Council, '19; Assistant Librarian, '18-'19; Instructor in Chemistry, '18-'19; Secretary and Treasurer of Y. M. C. A., '18-'19; Cotillion Club; Business Manager Flat Hat, '18-'19; Teacher's Diploma; Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Leslie Walter Simmons, a name to conjure with, and more than a name, for in that rare personality that came to us from Elon College bringing with him the doubtful blessing of co-education, we have something that a Delphic Apollo could neither understand nor appreciate. A staunch mathematician, constantly proving that a straight line is the shortest distance between two points, especially when those two points are Ewell Annex and Tyler Hall, a thorough "Chemisterial" student, especially famous for research in the possibilities of the motive force and properties of hydrogen oxide. With all his knowledge thoroughly human, and blessed with one of those smiles that is as contagious as measles. May this smile shine through all the years to come.

COLONIAL ECHO

LLOYD EARL WARREN
Portsmouth, Virginia

Secretary-Treasurer of Y. M. C. A., '17-'18; Debating Team, '18; Business Manager of Literary Magazine, '17-'18; Assistant Editor Flat Hat, '17; Secretary Phoenix Literary Society, '17-'18; President Phoenix Literary Society, '18-'19; Student Council, '17-'18-'19; Debate Council, '17-'18; Declaimer's Medal, '16-'17; Magazine Medal, '17-'18; Assistant Manager Echo, '18-'19; Editor-in-chief Literary Magazine, '18-'19; Sigma Nu; Phi Tau Beta.

You have before you Lieutenant Lloyd E. Warren, who during his time here has become quite famous about the Campus for his literary attainments. But do not think for a moment that being editor-in-chief of the Magazine, president of the Phoenix Society, and a participant in various other literary and social activities has hindered him in piling up credits. At this game he is excellent for we find him taking an A.B. in three years.

The occupants of Tyler Hall, the Faculty, and some of the students do not agree with Warren, on the view he takes of co-education. "I believe I am right—my name is Warren, and I don't care," he shouts when approached on the subject. We, the Class of '19, are proud of you, Warren, but while we appreciate your efforts here, we expect great things in the future.

Nightfall in the Hills

The weary birds are trilling plaintive notes,
And o'er the ridges of the mountains old
The sinking sun through gorgeous purple clouds
Sends long and slender beams of burnished gold.

The shadows of the hills are growing long,
The mist and gloom are hiding every burn,
The shepherds with their flocks are hastening home,
And to her nestlings flies the lonely hen.

Now all is still and in the deepening gloom
The old gray guardians of the ages long
Like sentinels along the western sky
Look down, brood over, ponder human wrong.

The gold and purple cloud-banks change to dun,
And from the mountain tops there gleams no light,
While silence, solemn silence reigns supreme
And over all is spread the somber night.

CLASS POET.

Senior Class History

PERHAPS few if any graduating classes of old William and Mary have had such a checkered career as that of '19. Never have there been such potentially momentous issues, to overshadow and affect college life as have come within the history of the present Class. Nearly all of the Senior Class answered their country's call to arms in the "Great Struggle" just past; and while those of us who have returned to college are again able to experience the inspiration and fellowship of one another, let us not be unmindful of those less fortunate would-be classmates, who either as yet have been unable to return to their studies, or of those who have made the "Supreme Sacrifice."

However, amid all the tendencies and influences to the contrary, fifteen of us have reached the coveted prize. Our path was filled with difficulties, yea even perplexities, still undaunted and undisnayed, we have journeyed on.

In addition to lecture room requirements time has been found for participation in various college activities. In religious, literary, business, and athletic activities the class has always had able representation. On the gridiron, court and diamond we have had creditable numbers, and all appointments to positions of trust have been filled efficiently and effectively.

As we go forth from these time-honored walls we cannot but carry with us a wealth of inspiration and zeal to live up to the noble traditions of our Alma Mater. Father Time cannot diminish our ardent enthusiasm for the attainment of lofty ideals and purposes inculcated while students of this venerable college. Deep within our hearts is felt an inexpressible sorrow that we are going away from these walls never to return as students. Equipped, ambitious, determined, yet modest, we venture upon the stage of stern and inconsistent realities. Even as our college career was fraught with possible success and failure, we as worthy citizens in a democracy will not be free from conundrums and baffling problems. Already by our manner of life here, our attitude and views on great moral, political, and social issues are practically determined. Yet, only the beginning has been made.

This is pre-eminently a period of change in the standards of living and social conventions. The change has been noticeable in our own college life, and just as we launch out, the world is undergoing a transformation and transition into a new era. A period of reconstruction either for the best or for the worst is at hand, and many manifestations of disintegrating forces are in evidence which may prevent the fullest realization of the dearly bought blessings incident to the world conflict. As sober, rational beings we cannot be oblivious to the most vital public questions, nor can we be negligent in the performance of our duty. May we rise to the level of our responsibilities as men not only of thought but of action.

Probably there has never been so far-reaching a change in the annals of our college as the breaking of all past traditions when the last session of the General Assembly of Virginia voted co-education for William and Mary. So with the beginning of the present session women on the same basis as men have availed themselves of the advantages of higher education in a State Institution. It is not for us to say to what degree co-education is or will be a success here, since time only can determine this. May we venture to hope that it is a forward stride to the realization of larger things and of greater usefulness.

From the status of Freshmen to that of Seniors are many devious and varying paths of progress. So few succeeded in reaching the distant goal which marks the crowning of our efforts! Sanguine and hopeful was the class at first, but disposing forces have determined the ultimate outcome. Soon will our efforts be past history, but may our deep-seated love for our venerable Alma Mater, and respect for her noble traditions and principles grow ever in intensity, as we bend our energies to greater endeavors.

ISAAC DEWEY AKERS
Phi Tau Beta

Isaac Dewey is just about as sincere and open-hearted a chap as you ever come across. He has convinced a number of the faculty that he knows what it is to "burn the midnight oil." But this is not all; he is known outside the classroom equally well. One day a young lady was heard to remark, "Oh, hasn't he a cute round face?" Well, it is easy to guess his new name.

JAMES DURRETTE CARNEAL, JR.
Theta Delta Chi

"J. D." as he is generally known, is one of those jovial personalities who makes life run smoothly, and who radiates a pleasant spirit among his comrades. His tendency to be a ladies' man far surpasses an inclination, and this makes him feel quite at home in such company. "J. D." is quite a student too, and the seriousness with which he has undertaken his studies spells success for him.

HERBERT SMITH FENTRESS
Theta Delta Chi

"Spees" is a "big dog" in every branch of college activity. Athletics is his specialty and William and Mary is proud to brand him as an all-round athlete. When it comes to popularity "Spees" can't be surpassed, and he always has a pleasant smile for everyone. We hope the future has great things in store for him.

VAN FRANKLIN GARRETT, JR.
Kappa Sigma

Here is the ladies' man of the class. He is hard to know, but once you know him you feel that he is well worth knowing. Though small in size, we wish him a large measure of success.

CLAUDE ALEXANDER JOYCE
Phi Tau Beta

A true Indian even to the forelock which tops his cranium. He is a lover of logic, and if you are in doubt as to a psychological question, see Joyce. Quiet and unassuming, he is the type of fellow you can't get along without. If he curls his opponents in the courtroom as he has curled the professors at college, we have no doubt of his success.

DAVID BRACKINRIDGE STUART
Kappa Alpha

David has been with us for the past three years and seems to have acquired the habit of eating frogs and catching cats during the last year of his stay with us. From this experience we may consider him to be very intimately connected with "Zoo." At different intervals Stuart is a student of some repute and a member of the "Holy Rollers." We believe he is a pious man.

VIRGINIUS JEFFRES LOVE
Sigma Phi Epsilon

Our star second baseman, and the Junior President awaits your attention. A most excellent dancer and an accomplished ladies' man awaits your approval. His name is Love. Oh! what a good explanation of his tendencies.

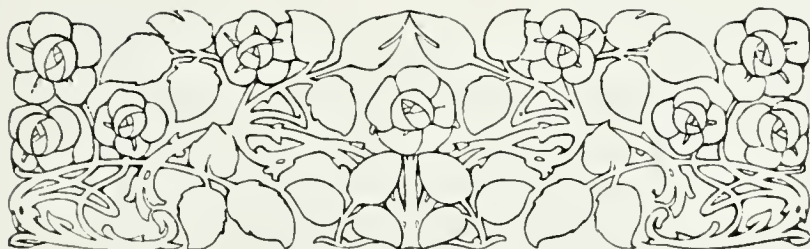

RATLING JACK PARRISH
Sigma Phi Epsilon

This youngster has made a name for himself on the diamond, but when traveling with the team he has a curious tendency to stop off at Farmville. We would like to see the "attraction."

FRANK SEYMOUR CALKINS

A man who came to us bringing three rare qualities. First, he never seems to be in a hurry in giving away information; second, he never fails to give desired information when called upon; third, he never seems ruffled on any occasion. He's going to make good. Watch him.

Junior Class History

THE task of the historian, especially of him who must chronicle the happenings of such an illustrious class as that of 1920 is indeed a great undertaking.

Three years ago we alighted from the train at "Ye Ancient Capital." On arriving at college we were hailed as "Dues." Like most new men we felt our importance, considering our knowledge equal to the best of our comrades. But through the kind reception of the upper classmen we were soon given a thorough understanding of the mysteries of college life.

Another year and we were "Sophs," but this was a sad year for our class. Members deserted us daily for a nobler service and our ranks were sadly depleted before the beginning of the present session by the "Call to Arms."

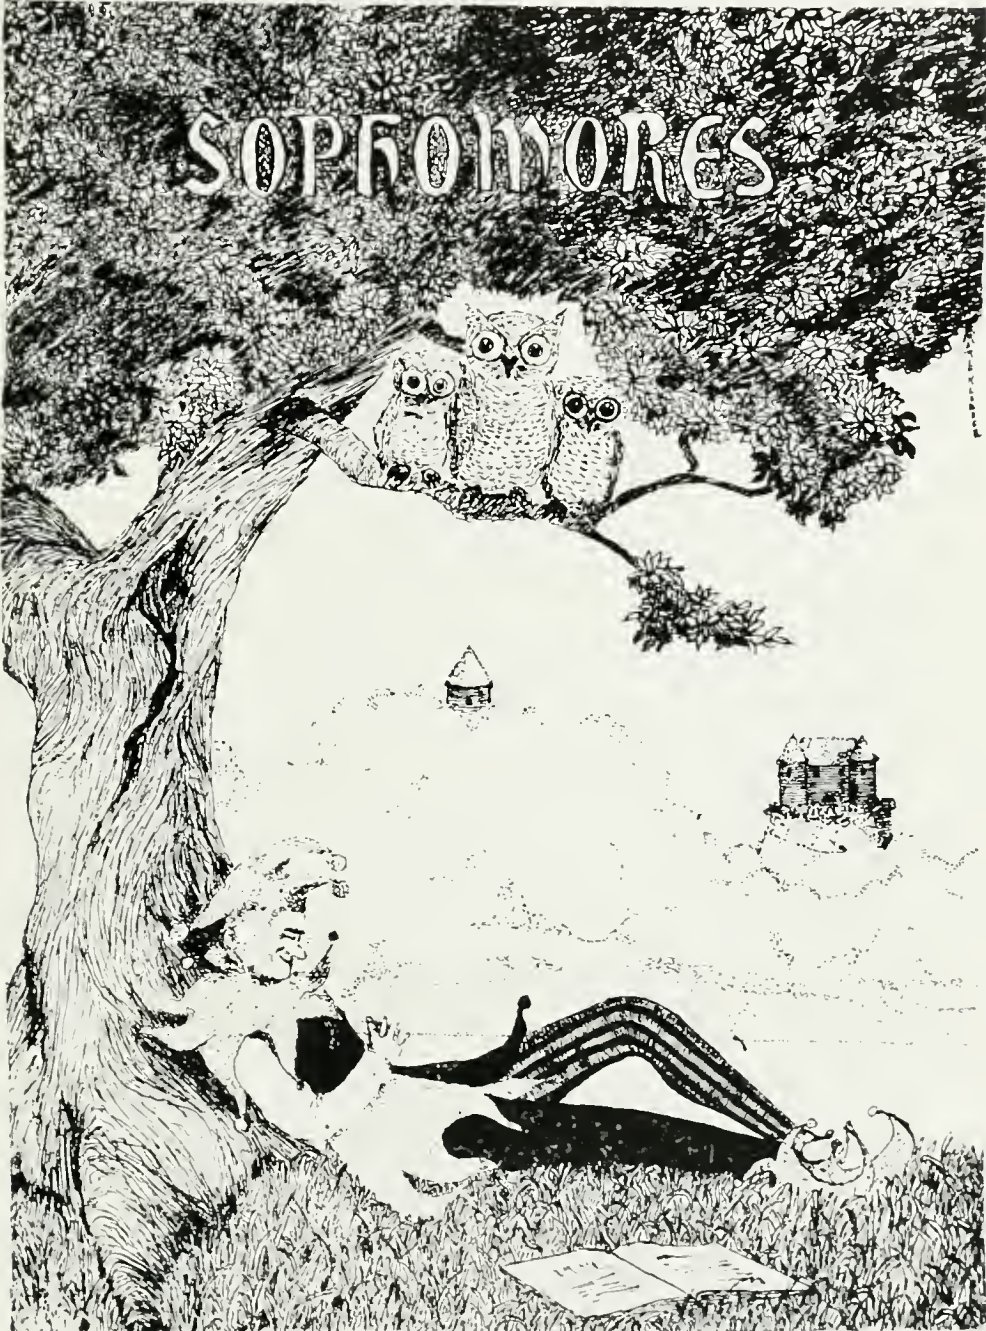

At last we are Juniors, but on calling the roll we hear only eight of the old band answer, "Here." However, we stand united as one, fighting the battles of college life and we are known by the laurels we have won. We have gained success in every phase of college life, in the class-room, on the athletic field, in the literary societies, or as "Calico Sports," our class holds its own with the best of them.

In the class-room every member is doing credit to his Alma Mater. On the athletic field we point with pride to Fentress, Love, Parrish, and Garrett. In the literary societies, Carneal, Joyce, and Akers are conspicuous figures.

Classmates, truly the few years that we have spent together have been happy ones. Thus far on our life's journey, our record has been a brilliant one, illuminated by more honors and noble deeds than space permits to mention. May we in years to come establish a record as untarnished and even more brilliant than that of our brief sojourn here, never losing an opportunity to bring greater fame to our class, our Alma Mater, and our country.

Sophomore Class History

IT was on the night of September thirtieth that the shouts of a peculiar company of people, composed of prospective teachers, doctors, artists and business men rang about the Campus. This class, though somewhat below its normal strength, on account of the fact that many members had gone into the national service, has faithfully held up the old traditions and ancient customs of its predecessors.

When the session opened this year the "Dues" were seen on the Campus with an all-important air, and as green as only "Dues" can be. The Faculty gave a reception a few days after college opened; and the "Dues" were the guests of many other receptions also. Last but not least the session of Supreme Court was held.

Upon charges from old men the "Dues" were brought before the bar of justice and the penalty administered by the officials of the court. The charges were of many descriptions and too numerous to mention here, but the Court accomplished its purpose and the "Dues" have been very respectable citizens ever since.

The Court was the last of the class activities for a while, for it was about this time that the S. A. T. C. was organized, and, on account of this, most of our time was devoted to military duties.

We are proud to say that the members of the Sophomore class took an important part in the military life of the Campus, as well as in other activities. We have been well represented in the literary and athletic events and some of our members have played an important part in the social affairs of the college.

Since Christmas the "Dues" have upon several occasions tried to assume an important air, but each time we succeeded in restricting them to the proper places. This attitude on the part of the "Dues" we believe has been due to the fact that the Faculty has made many new rules protecting them from the ancient customs in which the paddle held such an important place, but the superiority of the Sophomores over the "Dues" was brought home to them very forcibly in a series of championship basketball games.

Thus this company of young people with a realization that there is more beyond is ever striving to attain the step higher, which shall be reached that day in '21, ever present in the minds of us all. Then shall each ascend the first step of a new height which extends so far into the vast unknown that its steps remain uncounted.

Freshman Class History

NOT to the clear call of the trumpet of Knowledge, but to the deep call of the bugle and the symphony of tramping feet did the Freshman Class of 1919 come from the hills and valleys of Virginia to that greatest of Alma Maters, William and Mary.

We might propound a riddle: "When is a due not a due?" and the answer would be, "When he is a soldier." That was the condition that the class of '22 found itself in last September. Under the strict discipline of army life we did not have opportunity to show our strength—and our weakness, so it may well be said that the real Freshman Class was born with the new year, and from that time the dignified upper-classmen have become very much aware of our presence, or at least we of theirs.

In every branch of college life and activity we have silently and surely made our influence felt, and to find evidence of this, one has but to take this book, read, ponder, mark, learn, and digest, to see the extent and measure of our success.

"Y" Notes

EVER before in the history of the college has the Y. M. C. A. enjoyed such a lively existence, for this year has been one of complete upheaval and rejuvenation for the "Y."

The life of the S. A. T. C. was short, but one impression it left with us was a step forward for the Y. M. C. A.

At the beginning of the year there were so many student-soldiers and they were necessarily so closely confined to the Campus, that those in whose hands the Y. M. C. A. rested felt that it was time to awaken to the needs of these men and furnish them with amusement and recreation, and above all to place before them those things that are clean, upright, and wholesome.

One of our prime assets is a splendidly equipped "Y" room, which serves as a center from which the diverse branches may radiate. Here too may be found such things as a pool table, victrola, games, magazines, and writing materials, all of which when properly used have their value. The social intercourse that grows out of the use of these instruments of recreation is coming to be one of the most enjoyable features of our college life. Another feature of recreational value is a weekly program of music and motion pictures presented every Monday night in the College Chapel, to which the entire college and community is welcomed.

The educational activities of the association are being more fully emphasized by a combination of Bible and Mission Study Courses, having as its general topic the "Ideal of World Democracy." To carry on this work successfully the students have been divided into five groups, including a group of girls, each of which has a student leader. The student leaders are themselves organized as a normal class and receive instruction from a faculty member on the topic for the following lesson. From our usual twice-a-month Vesper services, conducted by some of the best local and out of town speakers available, one may also secure valuable information. For the most part these talks have been discussions of life-work ideals from the Christian point of view. Again, a considerable number of students who are members of the Bible schools in the churches of the town receive instruction that is valuable in an educative as well as in a religious sense.

The principal social work of the "Y" has been the organization of a troop of Boy Scouts by our Secretary, Dr. Geiger, who is acting as Scout Master. For the present the "Y" room is used as a headquarters for the sprightly Scouts.

For fear that some may say that the Y. M. C. A. is unbalanced, and not measuring up to the standard and proper goal, there has been started recently a series of mid-week addresses, to be held Thursday evenings by some member of the Faculty or minister of the town, in the College Chapel. These meetings are highly educational and have a great religious significance; while they are meant to serve as a supplement to the other activities carried on by the Association.

Thus we seem to have reviewed the great changes and improvements in our Y. M. C. A. For the most of these we owe our gratitude and thanks to our Secretary and esteemed professor, Dr. J. R. Geiger, who by his faithful work has created within our "Y" a new heart and a new soul for the betterment of our College and student body. May we continue to raise our standards by having the cooperation of the students in the future as in the past, and especially this year; may those upon whom the responsibilities of another year fall do all that is within them to uphold and promote this great work. May we realize that without efforts on our part we can do nothing, and may we put forth those efforts which are commendable of College and "Y" men.

Tyler Spirit

O girl with innocent, yielding air,
Wondering way, and baby stare,
I fear to think what life will do
To fluffs of helplessness like you.
You'll find, alas! that men today
Don't think or mean the things they say:
The game they play is mostly guile,
And there's a lie behind the smile.
But—maybe you with untought way
With childish looks and eyes of blue
Can play the game as strong as they,
And do your share of fooling, too.

Look, dear old thing,
And see
The crowd pushing, pushing
Into Main Hall.
Girls
In bestest clothes
And boys with brand-new ties
And shining shoes!
What can it mean?
They go so eagerly,
So hopefully,
Expectantly,
And those who stay behind,
How sad are they,
And almost desperate.
What can it mean?
O! Yes!
Today, they say,
Doc. Hall
Begins
His course in Romeo
And Juliet!

The Phi Beta Kappa Society

THE Phi Beta Kappa Society was born here in 1776. It was at first a social and literary club composed of collegians, but soon revised its constitution to admit non-collegians, the first initiate under this new clause being Captain John Marshall, of the patriot army, who was temporarily here to induce the General Assembly to recruit more men for the military service of the young nation.

After the "fraternity" spread to other states, it took on the character of an honor society. Men of high standing in the junior and senior classes have for many years, been elected to membership; but this feature has not been continued at William and Mary since the revival of Virginia Alpha in 1893. Some few of the best members of the graduating class have been elected; but, generally, a man has to "season," show unusual promise and ability, before he is elected. The very high quality of these young members, together with the distinguished list of "honorary members," has made the mother chapter very strong and given her no little influence in the society at large.

To interest the present study body, we subjoin a list of the William and Mary students elected since 1893:

Jokes and Grinds

Tennis, in Hist. V.: "Dr. Wilson, are those German iron crosses made of silver or of gold?"

"Doc" Clarke: "I say, where is that Powder Horn around here? I haven't heard it blow a single morning yet."

Prof.: "What is your nickname, Miss Lee?"

Miss Lee: "Peggy."

Prof.: "What, 'Piggy?'" And the whole class roared.

Co-ed, at breakfast table: "Martha, you and Rives looked so cute on that sofa last night. He had his arm——"

Martha: "Sh——!"

Co-ed, persistently: "He had his arm——"

Martha, blushing and leaving the table:—

Co-ed, innocently: "What's the matter? I just wanted to say he had his army suit on."

W. W. Johnson (on Bolsheviki Day): "Say, Doc, who's attending class today?"

"Doc": "Nothing 'cept girls and 'bout four female men."

Price to "Ducess" Powers: "Do you believe that ignorance is bliss?"

"Ducess" Powers: "Well, you always seem to be happy."

Prof. Garrett (in Chemistry): "Can any of you gentlemen tell me how many kinds of iron there are?"

"Doc" Willis: "Three kinds, Doctor, pig iron, flat iron, and raw iron, all named after the way they are made."

1919

"Duc" Somerville: "What's that thing all the time buzzing around my room?"
Senior Edwards: "That's a horse fly, Duc, an insect that pesters horses, mules and jackasses."

"Duc" S.: "You mean to insinuate that I'm a jackass?"

Senior E.: "No, I don't insinuate anything, but you can't fool a horse fly."

Carneal (reading Vergil): "Three times I strove to cast my arms around her neck, and—that is as far as I got last night, Professor."

Prof. Clark: "Well, Mr. Carneal, I think that was quite far enough."

"Duc" Allen: "Inman, what did you get that medal for?"

Inman: "Declaiming."

"Duc" Allen: "I didn't know that you could sing."

"Duc" Reid: "I say Evey, if you're going around to Cameron Hall, I wish you'd hurry up and get your breeches on."

Wicker (to Simmons in Dining Hall): "This fish is quite fresh, it was caught this morning."

Simmons: "Go on! That fish was never caught—it just gave itself up."

Miss Tupper: "Katherine, this won't do, 11:30 and Willis not gone yet! Don't he know how to say good-night—"

Katherine: "Oh, yes m'am, I should say he does."

Dr. Hall: "How did Dickens start out, Mr. Ferguson?"

Ferguson: "Er—as a poor boy."

Dr. Hall: "Ya, Ya, but he started out as a boy first, didn't he?"

Catherine: "Miss Tupper, I found a real disappointing book in the library this morning. I thought it was a story about ants."

Miss T.: "What was its title?"

Katy: "An antology."

ATHLETIC COUNCIL

Athletics

COLLEGIATE athletics have suffered many handicaps and interruptions during the past year. The establishment of a Students' Army Training Corps at William and Mary, the fact that the athletic department was without a coach in the beginning of the year, and the returning of a limited amount of material to work with were staggering blows to athletics.

Because of these and other adverse conditions our real collegiate athletics made a most belated start, but with an end of the Great War the demobilization of the S. A. T. C., and the return of a few men to college, a great revival was witnessed in our athletic life and spirit. The question of securing a coach was then solved through the extreme good fortune of securing the services of V. M. Geddy, a former William and Mary star and assistant coach at Woodberry Forest.

In the face of such abnormal conditions and the fact that such a belated start was made we feel that this year's athletic record is one of which we are proud.

Football witnessed the hardest blow. Military discipline and duties were too binding and predominant, and consequently an incomplete and rather unsuccessful season resulted.

Our basketball season opened with only one man of the '18 team answering to the call, Captain Brooks. The prospects were not promising as the material was light and to a great extent inexperienced, but Coach Geddy began the task of rounding the men into shape with a spirit that drew the sincerest efforts from the members of the squad. As a result of this effort and hard work he succeeded in producing an aggregation which represented our Alma Mater well. Although our preliminary exhibition games were unsuccessful, the quint soon hit a winning stride and cinched second place on the championship roll. The stellar work of Captain Brooks and the excellent team work and passing of all gave us a team of which we are proud. Although we probably had the lightest quint that ever represented William and Mary it was scrappy and fast and this added much in spelling the success of the season.

Prospects for baseball were exceptionally good. The return of seven letter men and an abundance of new and experienced material on the Campus caused the season to open with highest hopes. Unfavorable weather conditions prevented an early call to the candidates, but Coach Geddy worked with them later under ideal conditions. He got a good line on the men and in each exhibition game he presented a nine which surprised their opponents. On the state trip several of the big nines of Virginia went down in defeat and as a result of this successful trip the Indians hold the scalp of the University of Virginia. With Chief Settle at the head of our strong pitching staff and with a team that hit and fielded well our hopes were high and Coach Geddy said, "Watch the Indians and the 1919 cup." We were not disappointed. On the All Eastern Virginia team there were selected of the Indians: Settle, Chandler, Tipton, and Garrett.

Tennis and Track received their usual support. The return of Prof. Oglesby on the Campus has increased the interest in track very much and a good number of men are working on Cary Field. Prof. Oglesby hopes to have a strong team to represent us at the spring track meet to be held soon.

In summarizing this year, we can say that every team has stood for clean athletics and has promoted such spirit at all times. Each has shown qualities that deserve praise and has received the support of every single student.
