Foreword

To remember the pleasant things that we have experienced is one of the greatest joys of mankind. In the years to come, perhaps this book—representing the efforts of the staff and the co-operation of the students—will be a source of joy and happiness, for it will help us better to remember our college days, happiest of days.

Such, at least, is the hope of

The Editor.

About Our Past

OUR college, although poor in things material, is rich in tradition and those rare things that money cannot buy. Every college and university in America has been moulded by those precepts that had their beginning at the College of William and Mary. It is the first college that received its charter direct from the crown of England; it is the only one in the Western Hemisphere to receive a coat-of-arms from the College of Heralds in London.

In 1729 it boasted a full faculty of professors, consisting of a president, six professors, an usher, and a writing master. It was the first college in the United States to have a complete faculty.

William and Mary was the first college to adopt the lecture system, now prevalent in college and universities the world over. Dr. William Small, who adopted this system, was the favorite professor of Thomas Jefferson; and it is of him that Jefferson wrote, "He fixed my destinies in life." Later Small went back to England where he aided James Watts in his experiments with the steam engine.

William and Mary was the first college to establish the elective system. Jefferson was very enthusiastic about this plan, and he wrote to Francis Eppes: "At William and Mary, students are allowed to attend the schools of their choice, and those branches of science only which will be useful to them in the line of life they propose to follow."

Perhaps the priority that William and Mary views with the most pride is the honor system. For some time it had been the custom of the professors to control the students without harrassing them with petty regulations or subjecting them to a system of espionage in the class-room and on examinations. This principle found fertile soil at William and Mary, and as early as 1779 we have record of the honor system. The influence had by the honor system on education the world over is indeed a heritage.

During the same year, the college widened its scope, and became the first university in the country. In this university were given for the first time, courses in municipal and constitutional law, modern languages, political science and history.

William and Mary is responsible for the Phi Beta Kappa Society, the honorary fraternity made up of scholars all over the country. Phi Beta Kappa is the mother of the vast system of intercollegiate fraternities that honey-comb colleges and universities today.

A great part of the work of wielding the thirteen colonies into the Union was done by alumni of William and Mary. George Wythe, who in 1764 wrote Virginia's first remonstance to the House of Commons about the Stamp Act;

Richard Bland, who was the first to announce in a pamphlet that America was no part of the kingdom of England, and only united with it by the common tie of the crown; Dabney Carr, who was the patron of the resolutions for the appointment of committees of intercolonial correspondence; Thomas Jefferson, who wrote the Declaration of Independence; Peyton Randolph, who was the first president of the first Continental Congress; Edmund Randolph, who submitted the "Virginia Plan" there; and John Marshall, who constructed the Constitution are some of the men who took leading roles in the establishment of our Republic. George Washington, though not an alumnus, received from the college his first public office as surveyor, and his last office as chancellor of the institution.

This is but a part of the things William and Mary has done, and but a few of the men she has given to the country. Today, we, like our fathers, try to put our best into the college so that we can do our share in keeping intact the heritage they have left us.

Botetourt

The grand old keeper of the campus,
Standing upright in the lane,
Facing eastward by the compass,
Reflecting sunshine, shedding rain.

Beneath whose stare the ages
With their wars and sad complaint,
With brilliant lighted pages—
All do homage to this Saint.

He has seen the war of brothers,
Watched alike the Blue and Gray—
Pass on by to welcome others
Who have homage here to pay.

Botetourt we have requested,
As the aeons wend their way,
To leave you standing unmolested,
For they, too, must homage pay.

Graduate Students

NANCY MAKEPEACE FRENCH, M. A. ....	Washington, D. C.
JANE CHAPMAN SLAUGHTER, M. A. ....	.....Mitchells, Va.
JOHN PAUL MCCONNELL, M. A. ....	.....East Radford, Va.
EMILY MOORE HALL, M. A. ....	.....Williamsburg, Va.

PAUL WILFRED ACKISS, JR., A.B.
Back Bay, Virginia

Student, business man, and scatterer of sunshine—that's Ackiss. Not much with the fairer sex, perhaps (perhaps), but business to the core. Not a grind, but a curler of Class AA rating; never down-hearted; always hustling without hurrying.

Ducks may be wild in Princess Anne county, but as for the people—to judge from "P. W."—we would say invert the "w."

CORNELIA ADAIR, A.B.
Richmond, Virginia

Miss Adair is a "mature mind" whom the class of 1923 is proud to claim. Not only do we appreciate her prominence in the teaching world, but her pleasing personality and her friendly good humor.

Theta Delta Chi; Thirteen Club; N. N. O.; Assistant Manager Baseball, 1922; Business Manager, "The Flat Hat," 1921-22; Business Manager, "The Flat Hat," 1922-23.

Treasurer of the National Teachers' Association; President of the Richmond Teachers' Association; "Mature Minds."

FRED LEE ANDERSON, B.S.
Independence, Virginia

With his sheepskin in one hand and his ability to extract wealth from seemingly unfruitful sources in the other, success cannot help coming through his endeavors.

As a scientific explorer in the realms of biology, Andy is going to discover the Bunkanhokumus germ one of these days, which will put an end to all of our troubles in one way or another.

CÉCIL RAVENSCROFT BALL, A.B.
Ditchley, Virginia

Speaking of "curlers," he never gets balled up, though he did come to us from "Northern Neck," where the boat runs only once a week.

We are proud to have him as president of our class, a position which shows in a small way our appreciation of his ability as a leader and our pride in his accomplishments as a student and a writer.

Eta Alpha (Yezdekast);
Clayton - Grimes Biology
Club; Phoenix Literary Society; President, Southwest
Virginia Club, 1921-22; President, Rifle Club, 1922-23;
Vice-President, Waiters'
Club, 1922-23.

ALBERT BRAUN BELANGER, B.S.
Morgan City, Alabama

If you know this boy who hails from the bulrushes of the Mississippi, you will not ask why he is called "Count." In spite of this, he is a fine chap and has made good in the North.

He is a "dog" with the women, and, as a master of physics, he has no equal. He conquered all the physics that was offered here and then wept because there was no more to conquer.

CATHRYNE BRADFORD, B.S.
Eastville, Virginia

Here is a girl with plenty of sense! Cathryne is getting her degree in three years—and it's in Home Economics, too. So that has meant hard work.

She has never been too busy, though, to stop long enough to help someone else. That's one of the many things which have made her classmates fond of her.

Pi Kappa Alpha; Cotillion Club.

German Club; Y. W. C. A. Cabinet, 1922-23; Whitehall Literary Society; Secretary and Treasurer of Eastern Shore Club, 1920-23; Chairman of Ways and Means Committee of Edith M. Baer Club, 1921-23.

DEAN BARTON, A.B.
Norfolk, Virginia

Dean has only been with us a year, but her ready wit and pleasing personality have won a permanent place in our affections. As for her scholastic ability—Dean has a mind and a line that even Dr. Geiger succumbed to. Wherever she goes or whatever work she undertakes, her brains and versatility is certain to place her in first rank.

JAMES DAVID CARTER, A.B.
Duffield, Virginia

"J. D." comes to us from the battlefields of France, having served with the famous "Fighting 80th" at Meuse-Argonne, at St. Mihiel, and at the Somme.

"J. D." is a "curler" as evidenced by his obtaining two degrees in three years. He is very cognizant of the tonsorial beauty of the fair sex, and those excelling in such envious pulchritude fathom the most sequestered nooks of his compassionate heart.

Southwest Virginia Club; Overseas Club; President, Country Club; Vice-President, Freshman Class, 1920; Member of Student Council, 1921-22; Vice-President of Discipline Council, 1923; Winner of the Orator's Medal in the Inter-Society Contest, 1922; Omicron Delta Kappa.

PU-KAO CHEN, A.B.
Shanghai, China

From the land of "blue gowns," comes "P. K." for his second year in America.

Early he proved himself a real man in character and ability. He is a deep thinker and a "shark" in his books. Track, tennis and soccer—he can do them equally well.

Thus we send him forth to help in the reconstruction of our beloved sister-republic—China.

FAYETTE FUNK CLINE, A.B.
Newport News, Virginia

"Do you know that good-looking Mr. Cline? He is such a marvelous dancer, so smooth and easy." Thus they rave when "Fay" appears with his air of "Bring them on; nothing phases me."

Tennis, however, is "Fay's" hobby. One of his fondest ambitions is to possess a tennis monogram. He is an excellent player and has done much towards promoting tennis at W. & M.

Sigma Phi Epsilon; Chi Beta Phi; Tennis Team, 1922-23; Track Squad, 1923; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet, 1923; Manager, Tennis Team, 1923; President, Phoenix Literary Society, 1923; Captain of Fraternity Track Team, 1923; Vice-President of Glee Club; Secretary-Treasurer of Tennis Club; College Pianist, 1922-23.

GILES BUCKNER COOKE, B.S.
Gloucester Courthouse, Virginia

B. S. degree, crowned with A's, in three and a quarter years—that's Cooke. He puts us all to shame when it comes to ideals and perseverance. With lots of friends and plenty of old W. & M. spirit, Cooke is one reason why college men are the great leaders of civilization. Chemist, mathematician, friend, advisor—you can always count on Cooke.

AGNES FAUDREE DONALDSON, A.B.
Alexandria, Virginia

Isn't Agnes becomingly and fittingly attired? Three years ago when she first came to William and Mary we just had to half close our eyes and use our imagination to see her as she appears now—in cap and gown.

Agnes is gifted with a thirst for knowledge. She's not merely a student, but a real scholar.

Chi Beta Phi; Tennis Club.

Clayton-Grimes Biological Club; Piedmont Club; George Washington University Summer School, 1921; Treasurer, J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society, 1922; Treasurer, Y. W. C. A., 1922-23; Literary Critic, J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society, 1922-23; John Archer Coke Scholarship, 1922.

GEORGE ALFONSO DOWNING, A.B.
Ettrick, Virginia

"Let George do it" has been no exception in his case. Besides helping to run a law office down town, George has taken a prominent part in the literary and social life of the college. Although he has an inclination towards athletics business has prevented him from going out for the teams. Despite his brilliancy as a student, he is popular on the campus.

JULIA RUE DUNCAN
Newport News, Virginia

Julia came to us last year—already a quite dignified school teacher.

She is an amiable girl on whom you may depend. When asked to help you, she is always ready and willing, and she is sure to make you feel that it is a pleasure.

Sigma Upsilon; O. D. K.; Flat Hat Staff, 1921-22, 1922-23; Associate Editor, Students' Handbook, 1922; Associate Editor, Straw Hat, 1922 (Summer School); Secretary, Philomathean Literary Society, 1923; President, Philomathean Literary Society, 1923.

Delta Phi Kappa; Westhampton College, 1918-19; Student Representative Student Council; Y. W. C. A.

MARY ELIZABETH EADES, A.B.
Norfolk, Virginia

"Eades" is humor, dignity, and nobility personified. Her good influence and her broad-mindedness have helped others on to finer, better things. Her greatest gift is leadership, which she showed in the splendid way in which she lead three hundred girls. When she is gone, we shall all feel that one of the higher, nobler elements of our college life has gone with her.

ZAIDEE GREEN, A.B.
Virginia Highlands, Virginia

"Zade" is one of our intellectual stars; however, you are not reminded of the fact when with her, for her conversation is far from the professional lines. Socially, she is what we call a high strung, argumentive, typical lawyer.

From all reports, Miss Green is everything but that which her name signifies; yet she will doubtless make it known.

Member Clayton - Grimes Biology Club; Vice-President, J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society; Associate Editor Literary Magazine, 1921-22; Member Student Council, 1921-22; President Student Council, 1922-23; Chi Delta Phi.

Washington College of Law, LL. B., LL. M., M. P. L.; Member of the Bar of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia; Attended Cornell and George Washington Universities.

ANNA WARING HAILE, A.B.
Minor, Essex County, Virginia

There're toasts to brown-eyed Susans, to bouncing Bets a few;
 But here's to brown-eyed Anna, whose sterling worth rings true
 Old Essex gave us of her best when
 Anna Haile(d) to town,
 And those who recognize "A.," will never turn her down.

SNOWDEN COWMAN HALL, JR., A.B.
Kilmarnock, Virginia

Here is one of our biggest "curlers."
 He hails from the county of Northumberland—and for this reason alone deserves to be listed in the Hall of Fame.

"S. C." has a leaning towards the classics, though math holds no terrors for him. His influence has been felt especially in the literary societies and in the classroom.

Perseverance, dependability, geniality, success—these qualities summarize his college career.

Treasurer, Alpha Club, 1922-
 23; Whitehall Literary Society; Rappahannock Club;
 Tidewater Club.

Sigma Upsilon; Debate
 Council, 1922-23; Flat Hat
 Staff, 1922; President, Philomathean Literary Society,
 1922; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet,
 1922-23.

WILLIAM POLLARD HALL, A.B.
King and Queen Courthouse, Virginia

Hall is a man of experience in spite of his few summers. He entered William and Mary before the traditions of this college had been blighted (?) by co-eds; stayed out of school two years; returned in the fall of 1921 and has succeeded in getting his A. B. in three sessions.

His stay at William and Mary will long be remembered by his friends.

HARRY TUCKER HARRISON, B.S.
Carterville, Virginia

To have been at this Ancient Institution and to have not known this "Curler of Curlers" Harry Tucker Harrison, alias "The Duke," would be the most heinous charge that could be preferred against any "duc."

In his graduation, W. & M. will lose an energetic student who will be missed in the many branches of college activities. But we feel in her loss she will give to the world a hard worker, a true friend, and above all, a loyal son of his Alma Mater.

Secretary, Phoenix Literary Society, 1922; Literary Critic, Phoenix Literary Society, 1923; Treasurer, Rifle Club, 1922-23; Tennis Club; Chess Club; Rappahannock Club.

Entered, 1918; Taught, 1920-22; Phoenix Society; Biology Club; Rifle Club; Piedmont Club; President of Doctors' Club; Laboratory Instructor, Organic Chemistry; Chi Beta Phi.

WILLIAM THOMAS HENLEY, B.S.
Tappahannock, Virginia

"Bill" is quite a student, and in social affairs he stands "ace high." He is famous for that enviable characteristic—that of making friends easily and then holding them.

It is understood that "Bill" is going to Texas to enter the lumber business.

MYRTLE LUCILE JACKSON, A.B.
De Land, Florida

Lucile came up from Florida two years ago and brought Dr. Blocker and his family with her from Stetson University.

Lucile is naturally a leader in scholastic work and otherwise. Plenty of life and fun is hers always.

After a course at Harvard, she expects to teach physical education at Shorter College, Georgia.

Pi Kappa Alpha; Thirteen Club; S. O. S.; Vice-President, Rappahannock Club, 1919-20; Elected Manager Football, 1920-21; Assistant Manager, Baseball and Football, 1919-20; Cotillion Club; Doctors' Club; Rappahannock Club.

Pi Beta Phi; Dramatic Club.
K. O. B.

JAMES SIDNEY JENKINS, JR., A.B.
South Boston, Virginia

Jimmie philanders
From dame unto dame,
Jimmie meanders
From game unto game.
How he gets what he's after
Nobody can tell,
But admit you will hafter
He does it up well.
Oh, those sweet, lovin' gals!
Oh, the votes he corrals!

CHARLES BLAND JONES
Blackstone, Virginia

This brown-eyed lad, popularly known as the "Sheik," hails from ye fair city of Blackstone—and a fellow worth knowing he is, to be sure.

Jones believes there is a time for work and a time for play. Always in full possession of himself, he is a man to be admired and trusted.

Efficient as a business man, proficient as a student, and accomplished as a moon chaser. What more can you ask of a senior and of a future doctor?

MAY EVELYN KING, A.B.
Rescue, Virginia

May is one of the quiet co-eds of old W. & M. However, it is said, "A still tongue denotes a wise head" and she isn't an exception. In fact, May gets a continual series A's—without losing her good disposition and cheery smile either.

May may fail; but if we may judge this May, May decidedly will not.

OTTOWELL SYKES LOWE, A.B.
South Norfolk, Virginia

Here's to one of the best men of the Senior Class. He has the honor of being the first President of the Student-body under the present system of student government. He is a student of the first class as ninety per cent of his credits are of the "A" variety.

The Class of '23 wishes you all the success possible, Otto; and shall always remember you as an athlete, a student, and a "prince among fellows."

Pi Kappa Alpha; Flat Hat Club; Wythe Law Club; President of Monogram Club; Vice-President of Corillion Club; Inter-Fraternity Council; Flat Hat Staff; N. N. O. Ribbon Society; Joseph Prentis, Floyd Hughes and Pi Kappa Alpha Scholarships; Candidate for Rhodes Scholarship for State of Virginia; President of Student Body; Varsity Football; Varsity Baseball (Captain, 1920-21-22-23); Coach Freshman Football, 1921.

MAUDE EVELYN MALLORY
Richmond, Virginia

Here's a girl with a multitude of interests, who does them all well. She has perseverance, initiative, integrity. We predict for her a path of sunshine and happiness, for her charming personality has won a host of friends. Good fortune is yours, Evelyn, for

"Fame has crowned with her success,
The selfsame gifts that you possess."

ELIJAH BAIRD MOFFITT, A.B.
Wakefield, Virginia

"Midget" is a big little man. Though small in stature, he is a giant in intellect. Editor, business man, student, teacher, ladies' man—Moffitt is all of these combined. In spite of his numerous attainments he has an unassuming mien, and his cheerful smile and amicable disposition have won him many and lasting friends.

(MRS. GEORGE MURRAY)

Indian River Park, Hampton, Virginia

She chose for her motto, "Never too late to learn." So she laid aside her family cares, even forgot that she was an "MA" and worked with us for her A. B.

BERTHA OVERRY, A.B.
Richmond, Virginia

Here's a girl who puts her heart and soul into everything she does. She not only has the art of making friends, but knows how to keep them. A rare combination of those valued possessions of good judgment, sympathy, leadership.

She has been a true student, a good friend, and a loyal member of the class of 1923.

Alumna of Randolph-Macon Woman's College; "Mature Minds."

EDWIN HAMMOND PIERCE, B.S.
Alexandria, Virginia

"Piggy," as he is popularly known on the campus, besides being one of the high moguls in the chemistry department, is right there with the goods when it comes to playing basketball.

Although he is a member of the Anti-Saloon League, he is considering resigning, it is generally understood.

MILLS RAYMOND PILAND, JR., A.B.
Newport News, Virginia

Here he is, the original "Mills Raymond" himself. I am sure that Piland needs no introduction to you, for this genial personality has been gracing the campus for the past four years.

Though he is no athlete, he was manager of the track team in 1921—a most successful team, too. Good luck, "old horse," keep a curling 'em.

Kappa Sigma; Thirteen Club; Flat Hat Club; Chi Beta Phi; S. O. S.; Cotillion Club; Laboratory Assistant in Chemistry; Basketball Squad, 1919-23; Monogram, 1922-23; Manager of Baseball, 1922; Secretary-Treasurer, Monogram Club; Athletic Association Council, 1921-22.

JOHN GARLAND POLLARD, JR., A.B.
Williamsburg, Virginia

When someone asked "Polly" whether he rather put out a "best yet" annual or make a financially successful one, he replied in the affirmative. So there you are.

"Polly" is going to the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration for a while and then expects to do something in the nature of advertising or banking.

NELLE FAVILLE RICHARDSON, A.B.
Churchland, Virginia

Here's a great girl. Full of laughter and fun. The beauty of it is she knows when to be serious, and may always be depended upon.

"I may be as good as I please,
If I please to be good."

CHARLOTTE MILES SHIPMAN, A.B.
Williamsburg, Virginia

Charlotte's outstanding characteristics seem to be dignity and indifference, but when one knows her as a friend there are a wealth of other qualities that endear her to us. Chief of these are her absolute sincerity and her freedom from petty spitefulness. Best of all, Charlotte is the kind of friend who "wears well" as a host of fellow-students will testify.

CHARLOTTE ELIZABETH SEWARD, A.B.
Surry, Virginia

"Always laughing, always jolly,
Always full of fun and folly."

Though some say she is "mighty particular" and even address her as "General Seward," Charlotte is a girl whose heart is large and who usually has a smile and a kind word, along with a readiness to do a kind deed for every one.

Chi Omega; Student Council, 1922-23; Alpha Club.

mont College; Southside

Society.

BEETRIS EMMA SHOCKLEY, A.B.
Roanoke, Virginia

"Bee" came to us in 1921 from Elizabeth College. She is life all over—her motto is "never trouble trouble until trouble troubles you."

As for scholarship, it is enough to say that she is getting her A. B. in three years.

In bidding her good-bye, we wish her happiness, for she radiates it.

ELIZABETH MARGARET SMITH, A.B.
Richmond, Virginia

Elizabeth is pretty,
Elizabeth is smart,
Elizabeth has a caustic tongue,
A very tender heart.

Warm-visioned and warm-spoken,
She's Irish to her soul—
The wounds wrought by her burning words
Are by her smiles made whole.

MABEL STRATTON, B.S.
Charlottesville, Virginia

Since her freshman year Mabel has led in student elections as the prettiest girl in college. This was even before she bobbed her hair, but since —! Besides, she is an all-round college girl, a splendid woman, and a loyal friend. The only trouble with her is that no matter what happens she must get her beauty sleep!

HOWARD RANDOLPH STRAUGHAN, A.B.
Heathsville, Virginia

Straughan is a great mixer with the men and is always ready for a good time. Yet his record shows that he has ever placed his class-work above all.

Our class elected him to the Honor Council and his friends made him president of the Rappahannock Club.

Straughan is a strong member of a strong class and makes a strong bid for success.

G. G. G.: Alpha Club, Vice-President, 1921; Secretary-Treasurer, 1922; Student Council, 1919-20; Associate Editor of Flat Hat, 1920-21; Vice-President, Edith M. Paer Club, 1920; Undergraduate Student Representative Y. W. C. A., 1921-22; President Whitehall Literary Society, 1921-22; Treasurer of German Club, 1921-22; Treasurer of Senior Class.

Senior Representative to Honor Council, 1922-23; President of the Rappahannock Club, 1922-23.

GRACE HOPE SWIFT, A.B.
Buckner, Virginia

A demure gentlewoman of attractive personality whose work at William and Mary, in her short stay of two years, is equal to the best. It has been a joy to have you as a classmate, Grace; and it is with that fondness of true friends and admirers that we bid you farewell. May Alma Mater be blessed with more like you.

STUART CARLTON SWIFT, B.S.
Buckner, Virginia

"Dean" Swift, the reticent lad from Louisa, a county remembered since the days of Patrick Henry's fame, will no doubt add more glory to his celebrated county, when he becomes the leading mechanical and electrical engineer in the great scientific field.

He is a student who lives in thoughts --and he who thinks most lives most.

Baer Club: Pan - Hellenic
Council, 1922-23; Student at Blackstone College, 1919-21.

DOROTHY LOUISE TERRILL, A.B.
Roanoke, Virginia

Attention! We are now speaking of a very intriguing person, a regular college girl. For four years, Dot has kept us wondering how one small girl could do this much and yet have time for wasting. She has proved that one can make A's in Oral Expression and serve about a million college organizations without missing a single good time or a single opportunity for making friends.

WINIFRED WATKINS TINSLEY, B.S.
Danville, Virginia

Poised, without being snobbish; brilliant, without being conceited. The offices she has held bear witness to her popularity and her capability; yet she's not at all officious. No need to rave on about her merits—the world will find that out for itself. As the slang of '23 has it, she's "a peach in this world"—especially to live with.

(Signed) AN HONEST ROOMMATE.

SARA GLADYS WESSELLS, A.B.
Greensbush, Virginia

Dignified but never doleful, she moves from classroom to classroom with a serenity far beyond her years. She has a sweet and cheerful disposition.

Three years ago Sara came from Accomac High School. She has been a good student, and leaves behind her many friends, who wish her much success and happiness in the future.

FRANCIS FOLLIARD WILSHIN, A.B.
Irvington, Virginia

"Will take you over in half an hour!" Yes, and all the "would-be" tennis stars know that "Wilsh" means what he says. Since his arrival no tennis championship has been safe. He has held the singles championship for two years.

As for classes, only one thing need be mentioned. He has achieved immortal glory—95 on Ethics.

BETTIE PURKINS WOODWARD, A.B.
Saluda, Virginia

Bettie Woodward? Yes, I remember her. She wasn't very popular though. Didn't seem to be a girl of much ability, so she wasn't very prominent on the campus. Then, too, she can't dance. And she's not cute looking. What! You've seen her picture and her list of honors? Well, we'll have to admit that we've always been just a little bit jealous of Bettie.

WHITING FAULKNER YOUNG, B.S.
Hampton, Virginia

"Buck" is an all-round college man. He starred for four years as a guard in basketball, won honors in the broad jump and the pole vault, and managed the football team in '22. Erring students knew him, as a member of the student council, and he was one of the select members of the Flat Hat Club. The college hates to lose you, "Buck," and wishes you the success you deserve.

The Graduate

I opened my books where I found them,
I flunked or I passed each in turn,
And now that the time is nigh when
They are cast in the fire to burn

I make my will to show that
They're fit only for ashes down here,
On this point I'm going to stand pat,
For not one do I hold a bit dear.

To the hand-book now of Wooley's
I cannot praise or sing,
For it surely gave me the "Willies,"
Gosh! how I hate that thing.

And here is one which I do detest,
And damn me if I lie,
It may be a kind of knowledge test,
But French from my head doth fly.

And chemistry I do believe
Is just a great big mess,
For my lab fee I receive
Most of it on my dress

Now physics is painted plain and clear
Upon my soul I'm sure,
For math is always easy, dear,
When mixed with things so pure.

And History's fiery pages fade,
As do the deeds within it,
For better stuff I know I'm made;
When did some fool begin it?

And English is the biggest farce
That I was told to learn;
What do they mean by a word to parse?
Why none of it's worth a durn.

Now on economics cryptic shore,
There'll always be a light
To guide those whose marks are poor,
And make their report cards bright.

In the gym class, too, I've done my bit,
I've learned to box and scuffle,
In dancing I can make a hit,
For I can double shuffle.

So take my advice, 'tis plain and clear,
Waste not your time in playing.
It's not the fault of books, I fear,
But time lost in chapel, praying.

H. T. M.

Senior Class History

WE cannot write the history of our class without writing the history of William and Mary's transformation. That is too great a task for your humble chronicler. It is enough to say that during the past four years the old College has leaped into a new prominence and power, has grown amazingly in attendance, faculty and facilities—has, in short, passed abruptly from gentle decay into aggressive vitality.

We would be the last to suggest that these changes resulted exclusively from the efforts of the senior class. But all of this we saw and part of this we were—we are distinguished observers, in any event.

We have obvious reason to take pride in our athletic prowess. Our scholastic record is an enviable one. We need not go outside the class for competent business managers, gifted authors, inquisitive journalists, and finished dancers.

But let us speak more seriously. As surely as the history of a college is written by its students, so is the history of its students written by the College. The thought awes us when we see with what wonderful material we have been provided for the writing of our lives—the very stuff which Marshall and Monroe turned to such excellent uses. What we shall do with our heritage is a question which the future must answer. Will the traditions and ideals of William and Mary bear fruit in our lives? The real history of the class of '23 is just about to be bodied forth. The recording of it must be left to fifty years hence.

Opportunity

*I am Angel, great, in shining might,
Mine thoughts of majesty and dazzling light,
From these each day I bid thee choose; and on thy choice
Attend the listening ear, the feeling heart, and many a voice
Of those the young, who look to thee for guidance, counsel, aid;
And yet, perchance, I come but once, but once each day.
Oh, let no trifling thought, no careless word, their trusting look repay!
Thou, made in likeness of thy wondrous Maker's face,
Let no irreverence thy birth disgrace,
Or bring a shade o'er one fair face of those who look to thee,
That they the wonders of God's works may see,
Scorned, mocked, rejected, then I come no more
And, when I pass, I close, perhaps, the door
Of upward, heavenly growth, for thee;
Strong angel, I, of matchless opportunity,
But if thou, listening, heed my voice
That bids thee ponder and make choice,
Within thy soul, or treasures brought
Of precious, deepest, rarest thought,
Nor eye hath seen, nor ear hath ever heard,
Sweeter than song of sweetest bird,
That e'er the depth of forest stirred,
The wonder of the deathless message brought to thee
By God's great Angel—Opportunity.*

Junior History

A CLASS DIARY

OCTOBER 15, 1920.—This is a great old place after all. We have been rather discouraged; but now that our homesickness is wearing off, that we are no longer paying the penalties of being ducs, and that a part of the class can make A's, life seems brighter. We have become acclimated, as it were. Most of us know the Science Hall from the library. And all of us are acquainted with Doctor Hall—from afar. We have organized our class with William Bland as president; but we have not yet chosen our motto. An upper-classman suggested that we make it "A little learning is a dangerous thing." We have decided to ignore his sarcasm, however, and show him what we really can do.

SEPTEMBER 20, 1921.—Back at college again, enjoying the supremely happy moment of college life—that in which one realizes one is no longer a duc. We have been very busy lately signing up for all the deep subjects that we were not allowed to study last year, and trying to impress the freshman with our superiority as upper-classmen. We have elected Swanson Smith president. We feel that this is going to be a good year for our class, and all expect to work hard to make it so.

JUNE 1, 1923.—Well, our days of almost-a-Senior are over. We went to our last chapel exercise this morning and saw our President, the eloquent J. C. Phillips, make his final attempt to get the class together. As we marched slowly down the aisle, there came over us the realization that we should never meet again in the historical old chapel as Juniors. Some of us, perhaps, not at all; for a few will finish in summer school, others in another college. We turned the perilous corner at the door, banging our shins against the same seat that we have collided with on our outward march for the past three years, and parted in the hall for our separate ways. Seated in the various classrooms with examinations staring us in the face, we thought

"In front, the sun climbs slow, how slowly
But, westward, look, the land is bright."

The Honor System

CONCERNING her many priorities, William and Mary feels proud that she can justly claim to be the first institution in America to inaugurate an Honor System.

Having the faith in the students that they could be trusted for individual responsibility, William and Mary established the Honor System in 1779, which found official expression in the rule of 1784, that required students to take a pledge to respect the rules of the institution. It was the custom then that the signing of the pledge should take place on the Saturday after the opening of the college in the presence of the assembled students, the faculty, and some of the citizens of the town.

In 1830, after the resignation of President John Augustine Smith in 1826, the Board of the College passed a remarkable statute which was afterwards a rule that the word of a student given on honor should be accepted without question, for the assembly felt that "no student would degrade himself by a falsehood and that an appeal to his honor would never be made in vain."

The students of the college carry out the regulations of the Honor System through their Student Councils. Until the year of 1922, the Men's Student Council was composed of seven representatives, one from each class, and three from the student body at large. The President of the Council was President of the student body. Matters of discipline as well as those of honor were considered by the Council. With a rapidly increasing student body, the idea of two Councils instead of one suggested itself—an Honor Council having jurisdiction over matters relating to lying, stealing and cheating, and a Discipline Council taking jurisdiction over all other matters of student conduct. The then acting President of the Council recommended an amendment authorizing the establishing of two Councils and a President of the student body independent of the Councils, which was passed by the members of the Council and by the students.

The content and spirit of the Honor System, and how it is conducted at the College, was fully expressed in 1834, by Judge Nathaniel Beverly Tucker in an address before his law class. "His honor," declared the Judge, "was the only witness." This same spirit has continued in actual and successful operation without interruption until the present day.

William and Mary set the example for all the other colleges as a "school of honor." She substituted frank appeals to the nobler ideals of the student and absolute faith in his high sense of honor for secret scrutiny, austerity, and the curb of monition. While the student government has gone through many changes to meet the needs and requirements of changing ideals and an expanding student body, the Honor System continues to operate at the College and claims the same great respect, reverence, and communal bravery from the students for the enforcement of its regulations.

THIS year William and Mary debated the University of South Carolina and the College of Charleston on the subject, Resolved: That President Harding was justified in vetoing the Bonus Bill as passed by Congress. T. H. Mawson and A. J. Winder, both of whom represented William and Mary last year, upheld the negative of the question; but at the time of printing the debates had not been held. The Council is trying to develop debating by fostering inter-class and inter-society contests before attempting an extensive intercollegiate schedule; therefore only two intercollegiate debates were arranged for this year. The increasing interest in the annual Freshman Contest and the contest between the literary societies give promise of stronger men and a greater development of debating than has been possible in the past.

The Virginia Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest was held at Washington and Lee University; but the representative from William and Mary had not been selected at the time of printing.

James G. Driver, Athletic Director

COACH "JIMMIE" DRIVER, who has headed athletics at William and Mary for the past four years, has resigned from that position, much to the regret of the student body, closing his athletic career with the wonderful baseball season just completed.

When Driver came to the Indians four years ago, athletics were at a very low ebb; William and Mary teams were about as much feared as those of a first-class preparatory school. It is due, in no small part, to his efforts that William and Mary has risen to its present high standing in intercollegiate sports circles and are meeting the teams of Penn State, U. S. Naval Academy, and Syracuse University on the gridiron, and Harvard, Holy Cross, Lafayette, Yale, Lehigh, Amherst, Penn State, and others on the diamond.

Jimmie Driver has developed at William and Mary good football teams, excellent basketball quints, and wonderful baseball nines. His baseball tossers have scored victories over such outstanding opponents as University of Pennsylvania, Lafayette, Harvard, Amherst, New York University, Delaware, Johns Hopkins, University of Virginia.

His record is better recorded in the results as shown in the victory column. Besides his athletic victories, he has instilled into the Indian athletes an excellent spirit of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct that will leave its impress long after his victories on Cary Field will have been forgotten.

Coach Driver carries with him the best wishes of the students and alumni wherever he may go or whatever work he may undertake.

Football

UNDER the mentorship of All-American Bill Ingram, of U. S. Naval Academy fame, the Indian eleven, consisting of the best football material that has represented the Orange and Black in years, made a most auspicious start by holding the Penn State Nittany Lions to a 7 to 27 score in the first grid contest of the William and Mary season. The Indians were given credit for playing a great defensive by the Northern newspapers.

In the next game the Indians were forced to bow to the superior V. P. I. eleven which was undoubtedly the best that the Blacksburgers have turned out in several years.

The Indians "came back" and defeated with ease Randolph-Macon, Trinity College, Hampden-Sidney, and Wake Forest.

Then came the proverbial Indian hard luck in football—three star linemen and two of our best backs were suspended from the team for infringement of training rules. Just three weeks before the blue ribbon game of the season, with our biggest rival, University of Richmond, and at the period of the season when all the playing combinations had been worked out and built around the suspended men. In face of these difficulties, Coach Ingram was able to put a team on the field the next week that ran rough-shod over the much-touted Roanoke College eleven by a 14 to 0 score. A wonderful feat for the coach and team for which the student body and alumni are highly appreciative.

With a much weakened eleven, the Indians outplayed the Spiders during the first half of the Thanksgiving classic. The superior Spider reserve power pushed over two touchdowns in the second period and won. Considering the eleventh-hour loss of five stars, the Thanksgiving defeat was anything but ignominious.

Tasker, a former Syracuse University star, and head coach at Connecticut Agricultural College for the past two years, has been secured to coach football, basketball, and baseball at William and Mary for the coming school year. Coach Tasker has developed some wonderful teams at the Connecticut institution and judging from the results of the spring football practice on Cary Field, we ought to have another good year in athletics next session. Vernon Geddy and Bob Wallace, former Indian grid stars, contributed invaluable aid as scout and line coach, respectively.

Captain Ferdie Chandler, plunging tackle and captain of the 1922 eleven, and Monk White, star halfback, who were graduated in June, are the only letter men that will not return next fall for football.

The 1923 schedule follows:

September 29—Navy . . . . .	Annapolis, Md.
October 6—Syracuse University . . . . .	Syracuse, N. Y.
October 13—Guilford College . . . . .	Williamsburg, Va.
October 20—Trinity College . . . . .	Rocky Mount, N. C.
October 27—Randolph-Macon . . . . .	Williamsburg, Va.
November 3—Hampden-Sidney . . . . .	Norfolk, Va.
November 10—University of Delaware . . . . .	Williamsburg, Va.
November 17—Roanoke College . . . . .	Roanoke, Va.
November 24—Richmond University . . . . .	Richmond, Va.

PENN STATE, 27; W. & M., 7.

In the opening game of the season Penn State had to resort to a series of trick plays to defeat the Indians by a 27-7 score. At the beginning of the first quarter Hastings grabbed the ball on a State fumble and crossed the line for the Indian score, and kicked goal for the extra point. Fumbles by Dietz and Flanders cost the Indians two more touchdowns. It was not until the second period that the State superiority of weight and experience began to tell, enabling them to win the game.

V. P. I., 20; W. & M., 6.

On October 7, V. P. I. easily defeated the Indians by a score of 20-6. The Indians showed flashes of brilliant offensive football at times, but only in the last two minutes of play were they able to score, when White and Charles worked three successful passes and Monk plunged through center for the single score.

W. & M., 33; R. M., 7.

The Indians had little difficulty in defeating the Yellow Jackets at Williamsburg on October 14. Line bucks and end runs were the leading roles in the Indian victory; the Jackets' line stiffened at times and held, but only for short periods. The entire Indian back-field played good football, and the features of the game were a seventy-five-yard run by White, and two forty-yard passes completed, White to Jordan.

W. & M., 13; TRINITY (N. C.), 7.

In a thrilling game, marred occasionally by fumbles, the Indians took the scalp of Trinity in Norfolk on October 21, by the close score of 13-7. The Williamsburgers swept the Methodists off their feet in the first quarter, but the latter tightened in the second and only in the third period were the Indians able to score again. Trinity also secured their only score in that period. The Indians' second score came after Hastings completed a beautiful seventy-yard run from kick-off, and Levvy on the first scrimmage ran the necessary distance for the touchdown. The Trinity team showed plenty of fight, and the game was close from start to finish.

W. & M., 32; HAMPDEN-SIDNEY, 6.

After thirteen years of patient waiting, the Indians took the measure of the Presbyterians to the score of 32-6 in Richmond on October 28. The Indians got away with a flying start, and kept the pace throughout the game. White, Levvy, Irwin and Todd were the outstanding stars for the Indians, while Rangeley played a beautiful game in the line. The Tigers had only one shining light in Tyson, who did most of the work for them.

W. & M., 18; WAKE FOREST, 0.

William and Mary defeated Wake Forest in Norfolk on November 14 by the score of 18-0 in a sluggish, slow game. There was very little fight in the Wake Forest aggregation, and had the Indians played the right sort of game the score would have been much larger. There were some redeeming features, however, among which were the terrific line bucks of Cofer, a substitute, and the line work of Doc Rangely and Keister. The game further was marred by numerous penalties.

W. & M., 14; ROANOKE COLLEGE, 0

The Indians celebrated Armistice Day by defeating Roanoke on Cary Field by the score of 14-0. Despite the absence of the five regulars suspended, the Indians outplayed the Roanoke eleven at every stage of the game. Roanoke with a 196-pound line was able to garner only three first downs. The heady work of the Indians brought one touch down after a break, while the second was pushed across by means of straight football.

W. & M., 45; GALLAUDET, 0.

The Indians ran rough-shod over the Gallaudet College team at Newport News on November 18. After the first five minutes of play the Indians seemed to be able to score at will, while the Mutes were powerless on both offense and defense.

The Indian backs ran wild at many stages of the game, and only in the first play of the game when a nicely completed pass brought the ball to the fifteen-yard line was the Indian goal in danger. Charles and Cain were the outstanding stars; the entire Indian eleven played well.

UNIVERSITY OF RICHMOND, 13;
W. & M., 3.

On Thanksgiving Day at Mayo Island Park, Richmond, the Indians were defeated by their ancient rivals, the University of Richmond, by a 13-3 score. Both teams fought like wild men from the first whistle, and in the first half the Indians had the decided advantage. The first score of the game came in the first quarter when Flanders kicked a field goal from the fifteen-yard line. The rest of the first half was a series of zig-zags back and forth up and down the field, with brilliant plays by both teams. Richmond's first score was made in the third period when Mahaney got away for a run of forty-one yards off the Indian tackle for a touchdown. Zeigler failed to kick goal. Later in the same quarter Zeigler got back as if for a kick, faked, and passed the ball to Jones who dashed across the line for the second touchdown. The fourth quarter was scoreless with honors more or less evenly divided. The game ended with the ball on the Indians' forty-seven-yard line.

It Seems to Me

Praises are fine when they are due,
But why restrict them to a favored few?
Too many flowers bloom to blush unseen;
Some are right here on our college green.

We hear of praises of our gridiron team,
And famous men who somehow seem
To fill the pages of every news,
Giving us each sport writers views.

But then the fame of many men
Is left untold, but when
The deeds are tallied up
There are more praises in the cup.

The scrub team gives its brain and brawn,
And nurses bruises from night 'till morn;
But no one thinks to say a word
Of praise of this unfortunate "bird."

They bump his head and break his knee;
His clothes are such that you can see
Most of him peeping through.
To him, don't you think praise is due?

So hats off to the scrub team,
Let's give it a yell and scream;
They're made of stuff you can be sure
THAT'S MANHOOD TO THE CORE.

Indians Have Good Season in Basketball

DESPITE the fact that only four letter men returned to college, and from that number, Cooke and Hicks, star forward and running guard, respectively, were lost to the Indian quint for important contests, Coach Driver's Indians finished the season with eight victories out of a possible twelve, and, by defeating the Spiders in the final game of the schedule, went into a tie standing with University of Richmond for Class B honors of Virginia. The season was a successful one, for which Coach Driver, and Tucker Jones, who assisted him in drilling technic into the quint, deserve highest praise.

The Indians returned winner over the teams of Richmond Blues, Randolph-Macon (two games), Hampden-Sidney, Fort Eustis, George Washington University, Lenoir College, and Richmond University, and lowered their colors to Wake Forest, University of Richmond, University of Virginia, and Newport News "Y."

Captain Young and "Piggy" Pierce closed collegiate basketball careers this season. Young, who has performed creditably at stationary guard for the past four years, commemorated his final appearance on the local floor by playing a brilliant game against the Spiders. Pierce, a two-year letter man, who graduates this June, exhibited the most consistent floor work and guarding seen here since the time of Bake Jones.

Several likely looking men have been developed on the Scrub team and should give the regulars a hard fight for positions next year.

Resume of Season

The Indians opened the season with Wake Forest at Williamsburg on January 13, Wake Forest winning by a 38-33 score. The teams were evenly matched, and it was anybody's game until the last few minutes of play when Wake Forest broke away for the lead which the Indians were unable to overcome. Buck Young's guarding was decidedly the feature of the game for the Indians, while the remainder of the team showed a slight weakness. A much better showing of floor work marked the game with the Richmond Blues on the night of January 17, when the Indians won by a score of 24-10. The excellent work of Sexton at center, and Pierce at guard were the features of the game for the Indians, while Klise and Harner played well for the Blues.

With only one good workout after the Blues game, the team went to Ashland on the night of the 19th and had very little trouble winning over Randolph-Macon by a score of 29-11. The consistent caging by Hicks and spectacular floor work of Cooke gave the spectators a number of thrills. Captain Young also played well at guard; for the Jackets, Clarke and Vint were the stars. From Ashland the team went to Charlottesville and met Virginia, the Orange and Blue winning by a margin of 35-19. Hicks was high scorer for the Indians with fifteen points to his credit, while Stanley led the victors in scoring.

With a crippled team which was unable to stack up against the superior floor work of the Spiders, the Indians met defeat in Richmond on January 26 at the hands of the University of Richmond quint by a score of 31-15. John Todd, playing his first game at forward, was the best of the Indian quint.

On February 1 the Indian quint defeated the Fort Eustis five by a 34-20 score. The air-tight five-man defense and the floor work of Hicks and Sexton were responsible for the victory. On February 6 the Indians were trimmed by the Newport News Shipyard Y. M. C. A. team 41-34. The game was very exciting, and several spectacular shots from the center of the floor brought thrills to the on-lookers. Hicks played well for the Indians, and Burke and Mittlemeyer were factors in the Y victory.

The Indians came back strong on the night of February 8 and swamped Hampden-Sidney by the big score of 43-11. Hicks and Cooke played their usual good game at forward, and the guarding of Pierce and Young was more than worthy of mention. The Tigers were unable at any time to penetrate the Indian defense, and their three field goals came as the result of long shots by Putney and Carter from the middle of the floor.

Hicks and Cooke, with the usual brand of shooting, were in a large measure responsible for the 36-21 victory over George Washington University on February 13. Todd was also a star for the Indians while Gosnell was easily the best for the visitors.

Lenoir College was the next victim of the Indian machine, when they were snowed under on February 17 by 49-19 score. Driver's new combination of Hicks at running guard and Cooke and Todd, forwards, brought wonderful results, and the second half was a "walk-away" for the Indians.

In the Indians' victory over Randolph-Macon on February 20 by the score of 39-17 the Hicks-Todd-Sexton-Cooke combination worked wonders, and piled up the score with very little trouble. Cooke thrilled the spectators several times with his sensational passing, dribbling and shooting.

Buck Young covered himself with glory in the final game of his college basketball career when his stellar guarding held the Spiders to 22 points while his teammates were running up a score of 32. The entire team played wonderful basketball, and it would be a difficult matter to select any individual stars. For the Spiders Miller at guard and Fray at forward were the outstanding figures. Zeigler was unable to get away from the Indian guards.

Track Prospects Bright

UNPRECEDENTED attention is being given to track activities this year and the prospects for a successful season are the most promising in years. The College has at its command for the first time the services of a real track coach, Tucker Jones, of the Department of Physical Education, who has developed many track athletes of reputation. The return of only four letter men has been offset by a wealth of new material, and Tucker Jones has expressed himself as being very optimistic for the track outlook at William and Mary. Among the letter men who returned, "Scrap" Chandler can always be depended upon to take first place in either the half or the mile events, and usually in both. "Tighty" Moore in practice on Cary Field has been able to throw the javelin 175 feet on several occasions. It will be remembered that a 172-foot throw took first place in the South Atlantic meet last year. "Red" Hancock is showing up well in the 440, having led the Indian cinder path men in this event last year, and "Buck" Young, star pole vaulter and broad jumper, make up the four letter men. In the annual Field Day held on Cary Field, March 29, Coach Jones again expressed himself as being highly pleased. Moore carried off the medal for individual points by taking first places in the javelin and discus, second in the sixty-yard low hurdles, and third in the running broad jump and shot put. The feature of the meet was the 100-yard dash when Hooff and Chandler came to the finish neck and neck, Hooff breaking the tape barely an instant before Chandler. Mention is made of the following men who are showing up well: Wesson, high jump; Moss in 440 race; Rangeley, shot put, and Daley, mile. The schedule follows:

March 29—	College Field Day.
April 4—	Pennsylvania State .....	Williamsburg, Va.
April 11—	Interfraternity Meet .....	Williamsburg, Va.

1923 Baseball Prospectus

WITH the return of nine letter men and additional strength recruited from Freshmen material, Coach Driver's tossers give every indication of completing the most successful season of any team that the departing mentor has ever developed at William and Mary. Up to the present writing the Indians have defeated the teams of U. T. S., New York University, Amherst College, University of Virginia and Harvard, losing contests to the strong college nines of Penn State and Holy Cross.

The victory over Virginia was particularly sweet to Coach Driver, who has taken fast teams to Charlottesville for the past two years and seen them pile up large leads in the early parts of the contests only to throw the games in the ninth innings. This year, being Jimmie Driver's last year as coach at William and Mary, his resignation taking effect in September, he was doubly anxious to have the Indians give Virginia a sound drubbing. And the Indians did everything the score 17 to 6 would indicate. The Indians worked the squeeze play, stole second and used every other play known to baseball. After the sixth inning the game was a farce as far as Virginia was concerned. Curt Thompson wrote his name in the baseball hall of fame when he held Amherst College hitless and runless while his teammates batted the Amherst hurlers for eighteen hits and ten runs.

This year's baseball card is the heaviest one ever attempted by the Indians, but if the first few games can be taken as any indication, Coach Driver will close his coaching career at William and Mary in a blaze of glory. Driver certainly deserves the credit for putting the Indians on the map, athletically speaking. Among the big games remaining on the card are contests with U. S. Naval Academy, Quantico Marines (two games), St. Johns, and University of Richmond (two games).

The 1923 infield includes only one new face, that of Denton, a substitute from last year's team, at second base. Chandler and Chaulkley, catchers; Cooke (Captain), first base; Hicks, shortstop, and Lowe, third base, make the rest of the infield that many sports writers claim to be the class of the State. The outer gardens are well taken care of by the veteran Joe Chandler, Westbrook, from last year's squad; Moss, a clever fielder, fair hitter and heady base runner; Love, a fast fielder and dependable hitter. Todd, utility outfielder and second baseman, is giving every indication of becoming a heavy hitter.

The pitching department seems to be well taken care of in the persons of Curt Thompson, last year's pitching ace; Cox, who has improved more than fifty per cent since last year, and Saffelle, a freshman from Alexandria, who, besides being an unusually likely looking hurler, is one of the heaviest sluggers on the team. Saffelle is perhaps the most promising new man on the squad. "Gi" Stephens, who made a wonderful pitching record on the 1921 team, is still suffering with a lame shoulder and it is very doubtful whether he will be of any help to this year's nine.

Summary of games to date:

W. & M., 2; UNION THEOLOGICAL, 0 (SEVEN INNINGS).

In the opener, on March 23, which was marked by light hitting by both teams, the unusual happened and the pitcher and catcher, Saffelle and Ferdie Chandler, were credited with a home run apiece. Saffelle, the lanky right-hander from Alexandria High, showed every indication of becoming a college pitcher of the first class. Cox, who relieved Saffelle after the fourth inning, also showed good form.

W. & M., 2; HOLY CROSS, 7.

Garnering only two hits off of Carroll, of the Holy Cross nine, the Indians were defeated on March 28 by that team, which is considered the best college team in the East, and which, incidentally, sends several men to the big leagues each year. The pitching of Carroll for Holy Cross and beautiful catches of difficult chances by Gautreau, of Holy Cross, and F. Chandler and White for the Indians were the features.

W. & M., 2; NEW YORK UNIVERSITY, 1 (EIGHT INNINGS).

With the mercury a little above 40°, the Indians defeated N. Y. U. in Norfolk on March 31. It was a duel between Cox and Carlson from start to finish, Carlson holding the Indians hitless for the first five innings. Flynn's batting was the feature for the Violet team, while a timely double by Moss was the feature for the Indians.

W. & M., 10; AMHERST, 0.

The second game of the Spring vacation series was a walk-away for the Indians April 2 at League Park, Newport News, when they white-washed the Amherst team, Curt Thompson holding them hitless for the entire nine innings. The Amherst team had defeated V. M. I. the day before by a 6-4 score. The features of the game were the batting of Hicks, who got four hits in as many trips to the plate, and the pitching of Thompson, while J. Chandler hit three out of four times, and Otto Lowe poled a four-bagger and a single in four trips.

W. & M., 3; PENN STATE, 5.

The game in Norfolk on April 3 was a thriller from start to finish. Saffelle pitched consistent ball, but spectacular catches by Penn State fielders spoiled what might have been hits, and prevented the scoring of several runs. Hicks and J. Chandler furnished the fielding features of the day for the Indians, while the brilliant fielding of Reed, the Penn State second baseman, and a beautiful catch by Koehler featured for the visitors.

W. & M., 17; UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA, 6.

Coach Driver realized one of the greatest ambitions of his coaching career in Charlottesville on April 6 when the Indians batted four of Virginia's pitchers from the mound piling up a total of seventeen hits and as many runs. It was the Indians' day, and the Indians' game. Hicks, Lowe, Denton and Thompson were the batting stars of the game for the Indians, Dietrich and Lowman did the best work for the Orange and Blue. Otto

Lowe fielded well for the Indians, while Hicks played a good game at short.

W. & M., 5; NORFOLK VIRGINIA LEAGUE CLUB, 14 (7 INNINGS)

Stephens' wildness allowing a number of bases on balls gave the Virginia Leaguers a lead in the first two innings of the game which the Indians were unable to overcome. The hitting of the Indians was practically equal to that of the Norfolk team, and, as a whole, the fielding of the home team was somewhat better. Cox relieved Stephens after two innings, and pitched consistent ball, holding the professionals well in check for the remainder of the game.

Fair Harvard Lowers Colors to Indians Score 14 to 0

April 17th marks a new epoch in William and Mary athletics, for it was on that day that the oldest and second oldest institutions of learning met for the first time in athletic competition, the result being a glorious victory for the Indians. Despite its array of nationally recognized figures in the athletic world as George Owen, Buell, Hammond, Hill, Percy Jenkins and K. N. Hill, the Crimson team was outclassed by Coach Driver's premier Indian nine in every department of the game.

Saffelle, freshman hurler, held the Harvard sluggers to six hits, while his teammates found the deliveries of K. N. Hill and Bremis for seventeen hits and fourteen runs. "Scrap" Chandler was the individual star of the contest with two home runs, a double and a single in four trips to the plate, five put-outs and one assist in as many chances in the outfield. Several of his catches were of the spectacular variety.

Horace Hicks, Denton and Lowe also hit the ball well over the 500 mark for the game.

Tennis

TENNIS is getting to be one of the major sports at William and Mary, even though it is not yet considered a "major" sport. And even though football, baseball, track and basketball hold most of the interest, tennis happens to be one of the leading international sports. Its range is far greater; this country alone has millions playing it. So the unadorned fact is that it is a major sport, however the colleges feel about it.

Last year our team won from Richmond University, and the Medical College, the only two colleges they played. In the Middle Atlantic Tournament, our doubles team (Pollard and Wilshin) were runners-up, winning over University of Virginia, but losing to Georgetown.

This year W. and M. has a strong team with Wilshin, Pollard, Cline and Peterson. It is unfortunate that the first three are seniors and will not be back next year.

The schedule is as follows:

- March 24—Country Club of Virginia at Richmond.
- April 13—Hampden-Sidney at home.
- April 16—Union Theological Seminary at home.
- April 20—Union Theological Seminary at Richmond.
- April 21—Randolph-Macon at Ashland.
- April 27—University of Richmond at home.
- May 4—Randolph-Macon at home.
- May 10-11-12—Middle Atlantic Tournament at Richmond.
- May 18—Hampden-Sidney at Hampden-Sidney.
- May 19—Roanoke College at Roanoke (pending).
- May 21—V. P. I. at Blacksburg.
- May 26—Richmond University at Richmond.

Indianettes of 1923

Left to right—Standing : Emma Ball, Julia Dixon (mgr.), Frances Saunders, Anne Townsend, Thelma Brown (coach).

Indianettes Have Perfect Season

THE girls' basketball team for 1923, under the able coaching of Miss Thelma Brown, completed the most successful season in the history of co-education. Their record is perfect—five games and five victories. They have perhaps the clearest claim to State championship, for the teams they played represent the best in Virginia, as well as some of the strongest teams north of the Mason-Dixon line.

This year marks the first Northern trip ever undertaken by the Indianettes, and its success should insure many such jaunts in the future. While in Washington they played two games—the first an easy victory over George Washington University, the second a hard-fought and hard-won encounter with Swarthmore. The climax was reached in the game with Westhampton, always our bitterest rival. The issue was always in doubt, and when Louise Love caged the goals which brought William and Mary her first victory over the Richmond team pandemonium broke loose. The next game, with Sweetbriar, was another victory for the locals. The last game, a return match with George Washington, was a replica of the first one played with them.

A team of this caliber is a team of stars, and the credit must be equally divided. The teamwork was probably the greatest factor in its success. The phenomenal shooting of Love, high scorer, must be coupled with this. The fact that the entire team returns to college next season gives every indication of a still more glorious year to come.

(As Some See Them)

THETA DELTA CHI

Theta Delta Chi was founded by four Phi Beta Kappas and two prohibitionists, at Union College just when it was beginning to get cold. They decided it was better and cheaper for all six of them to live in one room, so they organized the club. They have had a hard time getting people to join from the beginning. You can get in if you are an athlete, cake eater, or the possessor of more than two A's during any one term, that is, if you care to join. Of course after you get in you can make D's just like the rest of them.

Like K. A., they have gold letters on a black background, showing that their past is cloudy like their future. All of this is imposed on a policeman's badge, around which are some cheap pearls. Over the Greek letters are two stars in which you can find two pieces of cut glass, one in each star. You must get very close to see these. Under the letters are two arrows which are just placed there to fill in that vacant space that would otherwise be there.

PI KAPPA ALPHA

This organization was put across because K. A. had got a little ahead of them, and since they weren't taken in, decided to start one themselves. They were so sore at K. A. that they swore they were going to be three and one-seventh times as large; so they called themselves P. K. A. When they got sober next morning, they realized what they had done, and decided to be brave and carry the thing through. It has just about gone through, too. Like Theta Delta Chi, they had difficulty in getting new members, which was quite natural; however, about 1900 they picked up and during the fraternity shortage, managed to install a few more chapters. Since that time they have been giving everybody a chance to join upon request.

They have a pin, too. It is easily recognized. The pin looks like an electrical signboard of a baseball diamond resting upon a pattern cut by one of the home economics class in sewing. It is an extraordinarily cheap pin with only a few pearls and illiterate Greek on it.

KAPPA ALPHA

The K. A. Club happened one night in a barroom outside of Lexington, primarily to create an impression on the ladies, so it seems. It has been rumored that their pins have been seen once or twice on girls; but that doesn't mean anything to them or to the girls. The S. P. E.'s are running them a close race in seeing which can put out the greatest number. They are very rank in scholarship; almost as low as Theta Delta Chi.

The club pin looks like gold, with a black background, showing the dark outlook the fraternity has. Some say the black denotes mourning for the date of its founding. Of course, that would be a secret. Sometimes you see a jeweled pin, but very seldom. What would be the use of putting out for a high-priced pin and then give it away? They are strong with the girls. The girls can shake 'em and kick 'em on the shin; but when the other fellow steps out they step right back in—They love it, that's all.

KAPPA SIGMA

Talking about something antique, this society was founded way back in the good old days by King Tut. Amen. When they opened up his tomb, they found his portrait painted while eating Bologne with several newly-initiated members and drinking near beer. Captain John Smith succeeded in getting the first permanent chapter in the United States. The number of their chapters has been lost track of long ago. Sigma Nu has been taking in several new chapters a year now; consequently Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu, and the Odd Fellows are about tied for second place. It has been rumored in the manual that the society was founded a little later than King Tut's day.

The brooch which they wear on their girls and other boys' girls is composed of a star, a crescent, a skull, a cross bones, a swords, some more stars, and a lot of cheap stones, all of which merely add bulk so that it may be seen and not necessarily recognized. They cannot remember what all of the symbols stand for. I know, because they couldn't tell me; neither could their girls, and they ought to know.

SIGMA NU

People have often wondered why it is that military schools—V. M. I. and the like—are not allowed to have fraternities. The inside dope on this situation is that Sigma Nu was founded at V. M. I., unbeknowing to the officials; then, after it was founded, the officials found it out, and the whole bunch found themselves outside, before they found out that they had been found out. Their ambition now is to become as large as the Elks, Moose and Republican party. All you have to do is just get a sufficient number of men together, make out your roll, call it, read the minutes for the next meeting, tell them you are a local running on scheduled time, and there's your charter. If you cannot get the required number together, eat vitamins (bran), grow strong, hurl your stuff to a monogram in anything but dancing, or become a leading politician. Never lose hope.

Their badge is the "snake's hips" when it comes to symbols and funny markings. The pin is five pointed with S N E T T on each one of the points. Of course, they never have told me, but I reckon I'm a pretty slick guesser, when I say it means "Some Nuts Even Try This."

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

These are the boys who have a heart, that is, their pin is shaped in that general direction. On the front of the heart is their advertisement, S. P. E., right out where it can be seen. Over this is a death-mask and a pair of bones (cross bones). The eyes of the skull are bored out. This is supposed to save on the cost of the pin since copper and the other metals are going up.

If the fraternity lasts another quarter of a century, our standing army will be small in comparison to number.

The members lose their hearts very soon after they belong. Girls cannot join, but why should they worry so long as they get the hearts.

There are some other fraternities around here, but they haven't got much history yet. So there you are.

(To Be Continued)

How Girls Can Make Fraternities

By M. R. W.

When you come to college for the first time, you will no doubt get off the train at the imposing depot. If you wish to make a sorority—I beg your pardon, I mean fraternity—put on your glad rags. Of course, you might make something up here even if you do not doll up, perhaps the basketball team. It would be better if you could drive up in your two, three, four or five-passenger Star or Henry. If you haven't a car, borrow a cheap Packard from some of your poorer associates.

I hope that no girl would be so foolish as to think that when she comes to college she will make a she-fraternity on her ability or merit, or looks. Believe me, if you can't "flap," you're a flap-jack so far as they're concerned. They tear their hair trying to decide which girl has the prettiest clothes and the greatest variety, so as to take her in. Don't show up here on the campus with a sallow complexion. Buy a good one from some druggist, put on some loud hose, a striped skirt, a checkered coat and impossible footwear. On top of that, kink your hair a la mode, after cutting off at the first cervical, and don't forget, please don't forget to comb it so that your face is completely hidden from ordinary view. That is the ideal girl we now have before us. What could be sweeter to mere man. A sweet woman in all her glory is not arrayed like one of these. Thank goodness for that much.

Girls, I've got you started on the right track to make the Geta Damma Geta hen-fraternity. Right away, after you have mastered the foregoing instructions (by the way, it would be a good plan to go over and over them until you have definitely in mind just what you have in view; one slip may save you a lot of money), go over to the library with any kind of book and sit down. It will not be long before one of the fine-looking, foot-shaking, soft-brained cake-eating, tea-drinking boarders will engage you in a silly conversation. So far you have played the part well. Everyone is looking at you. You are attracting attention. Mr. Swem and his assistants are unable to go on with their work; neither are the students who are trying to study. You and your fine looking prey, which you have caught in your trap, are the center of every gaze. At first, whisper to your friend. Gradually talk louder until you can be heard all over the library. Everyone is getting more and more distracted. When you think you have reached the climax, get up slowly, knock over a chair daintily, with a light ripple of laughter grab up your book as well as his arm and drag your feet all the way to the door. At the door you have your greatest chance

The Phi Beta Kappa Society

THE Phi Kappa Society, founded at the College of William and Mary, December 5, 1776, numbered among its first fifty members John Marshall, William Short, John James Beckley, John Heath, and Bushrod Washington. To quote from the original Phi Beta Kappa records: "At a meeting of the Society the 18th of May, 1780, Captain John Marshall being recommended as a gentleman who would make a worthy member of this Society was ballotted for and received." The founders of the Society were John Heath, who was the first President, Thomas Smith, Richard Booker, Armistead Smith, and John James.

The first period of the Alpha chapter lasted only five years, when the fear of the British fleet in 1781 caused the chapter to place its records in the hands of the College steward. "1781. On Saturday, the 6th of January, a meeting of Phi Beta Kappa was called for the Purpose of Securing Papers of the Society during the Confusion of the Times, and the present Dissolution which threatens the University." "And this Deposit they make in the sure and certain Hope that the Fraternity will one day rise to Life everlasting and Glory immortal." These records were lost, but were regained by the Virginia Historical Society and were returned to the mother chapter in 1893.

Although the first five years were greatly interrupted by the war, it was a very prosperous period for the Society. During this time a petition was received from Harvard and was granted December 4, 1779; another chapter was granted five days later to Yale. These two chapters, with the consent of the Alpha chapter, established the fourth chapter at Dartmouth College. Brilliant men were enrolled in the New England chapters: J. Q. Adams, Emerson, Beecher, Bryant, Holmes, Longfellow, Bret Harte, Stedman, Stoddard, Webster, and Lowell.

In 1840 the old mother chapter rose from her dormant position and took on new life. William Short, one of the fifty founders, was still living and was interested in the Alpha chapter. He revived the mother chapter and placed its stewardship in the hands of the College faculty. However, in May, 1861, war again knocked at the doors of the old College, calling forth the Phi Beta Kappas to lay aside their college activities and to enter the army. Thus from 1861 to 1893 the mother chapter again slumbered peacefully.

In 1893, after the College had been in operation for five years, William Lamb determined to revive the chapter by initiating into the Society the whole College faculty and the librarian. Thus the mother chapter, again raised from her dormant state, took on new vigor and yet survives as the greatest honorary fraternity in existence today. The revival of the chapter was welcomed by all lovers of the historic old Society, which has clustered about its scroll a constellation of associations unparalleled in the history of any honorary society.

Alma Mater

*O. Alma Mater, as once more I stand
Amid the quiet shades my willing feet
Again have led me to, thy gentle hand
Is on me still, and memories fond and sweet,
Fragrant of other times when hearts were light,
Sweep o'er my soul; years roll away, and though
By graying temples and failing sight
And new, strange faces in thy halls, I know
The day is dying and the night comes on,
Amid old scenes, old times again I live
One fleeting golden moment. Much has gone
Forever from me thou didst freely give;
But for these memories, priceless gifts to me,
My heart o'erflows with gratitude to thee.*

ALUMNUS, '03.

Can You Imagine?

Judge Feidelson without a cigar.
John Wesley with the soft pedal on.
Dr. Chandler on the campus ten consecutive days.
Monk White with nothing to say.
Dr. Jacob shorn of his "Woolley."
Lucy Mason Holt not fussing for a cup of Dr. C.'s coffee.
Bob Wallace with his mind on books.
"Hercules" Gay with nothing to do.
Bill Bull wearing Colonel Lane's pants.
Dr. Hall being happy without his "aged lambs."
"Angora" without his Etta Belle.
Co-eds remembering, the sun is low.
Poached eggs for breakfast.
More Marys than Williams.
"Simmy" teaching what is not in the book.
Dr. Morton preferring any fruit to "dates."
Lillie Lawless a mail man.
The "fire drill girls" in broad day light.
Any "ducs" speaking English.
You've imagined enough.

Dining Hall Grace

Good Lord make us able
To eat what's on the table,
And give us digestions like oxes;
Tell the hearts of our mothers,
Beaus, sweethearts, and others,
For God's sake send us some boxes.

How Girls Can Make Fraternities

to make everyone feel your presence. Open it widely and give it a good slam with more laughter and conversation out on the steps. To your otherwise utter astonishment, everyone in the library is talking about you. Remember, I'm telling you all this and it isn't costing you a sou. From then on, I leave you to use your common intelligence, which it will no doubt be if you have gone this far.

All of this is done so as to attract the she-societies. If this kind of stuff repeated for several times doesn't bring the desired result, get campused for a couple of weeks. After that it will, of course, be difficult to decide which one you will join.

Above all things, do not spend any time on anything frivolous, such as your studies, literary societies Y. W. C. A., or anything like that, and make it a point not to be seen with a student whose grades are above C. This is very distressing to the fraternity girls because they think you have come to college merely for an education which is very ordinary.

One more thing before I go to the dining hall. Don't ever be seen eating in the college dining hall. Pay your board promptly every month, but whatever you do never say a good word for it; just go down the street and see if some of the ringtails are hanging around who will put out for a couple of sandwiches and a coca-cola for your repast. Take this warning, however, there are times when you have to put out yourself. Generally this is during the last of the month before poor old dad has sent his dutiful money-spending son his check.

I'll tell you what, now if you'll do all these things I know to be true from four years' experience, you will have no difficulty in getting through this college in a hurry, and she-fraternities will never bother you in the least.

I thank you.
