

Saint George Tucker Esq -

[1407?]

Nancy Burdett

I hope my beloved Mr. Tucker is quite well this morning - your little excursion yesterday must have been very agreeable - Alas! I am compelled to pass the day without going to kiss my dearest friend - There are, at this moment, ulcers in my throat fully as large as the end of my finger - I recollect having the same kind of sore-throat two years ago - tell Mr. Tucker not to be alarmed at the idea of Maria being taken with it - I do not think the smallest danger attends it - your own A. C. B.

Vertical handwritten text on the right side of the document, possibly a date or recipient's name.

Main body of handwritten text, oriented upside down relative to the paper's fold. The text is faint and difficult to decipher due to fading and bleed-through.

Vertical handwritten text on the left side of the document, possibly a date or sender's name.