

Harlem 14 May / paid 20

Judge Tucker

Williamsburg

Virginia

Paid

I received your letter, Dear Sir, with much ^[18107] gratitude, and should have written again, but, indeed, keeping house with Yorks servants leaves one very little leisure. My pen is seldom used, except in keeping Household acc^{ts}. and I pride myself much on domestic management. M^r. Morris has a very extensive acquaintance - his relatives are numerous, consequently we are seldom alone

Gen^l. Moreau and his wife have just come to spend the day - therefore, with love to M^{rs}. Tucker and Poley - Hoping at some period to greet you at Morrisania I must hasten to beg your excuse for this scrawl which is not worth postage -

God bless you! as he has done your affectionate

A. C. Morris

P.S. Tell B. C. she is dear to me -

Received your letter, was in, with much gratitude, and would have written again, but, being keeping house with Mr. Larnard's leaves me very little leisure. My pen is seldom used, except in keeping household acc'ts and I spend myself much on domestic management. Mr. Larnard has a very extensive acquaintance - his relations are numerous, consequently we are seldom alone Gen. Larnard and his wife have just come to spend the day - therefore will have to Mr. Larnard and Polly - being at home joined to great part of the afternoon I must hasten to beg your excuse for this letter which is not worth postage - God bless you, as he has been your affectionate
J. C. Larnard
Mr. Larnard has been to me

Received your letter, was in, with much
gratitude, and would have written again, but, being
keeping house with Mr. Larnard's leaves me very
little leisure. My pen is seldom used, except
in keeping household acc'ts and I spend myself
much on domestic management. Mr. Larnard
has a very extensive acquaintance - his relations
are numerous, consequently we are seldom alone
Gen. Larnard and his wife
have just come to spend the day - therefore
will have to Mr. Larnard and Polly - being
at home joined to great part of the afternoon
I must hasten to beg your excuse for this
letter which is not worth postage -
God bless you, as he
has been your affectionate
J. C. Larnard
Mr. Larnard has been to me

Received your letter with much
gratitude
and would have written
again, but being keeping house
with Mr. Larnard's leaves me very little leisure.
My pen is seldom used,
except in keeping
household
accounts
and I spend
myself
much on domestic management.
Mr. Larnard
has a very extensive acquaintance
his relations
are numerous,
consequently
we are seldom
alone
Gen. Larnard
and his wife
have just come to spend the day - therefore will have to Mr. Larnard
and Polly -
being
at home
joined to great part of the afternoon
I must hasten to beg your excuse for this letter
which is not worth
postage -
God bless you, as he has been
your affectionate
J. C. Larnard
Mr. Larnard
has been
to me