Morrisania June 14th 1810

My affection for you, Dear Sir, can never diminish - Heaven has blest me with the best of husbands and all his relatives treat me with great affection but, altho' truly grateful for all these complicated blessings, yet - they deprive me altogether of leisure - Mr^r Morris is a large establishment and he has been in the habit of entertaining a vast deal of company during so many years that it would be difficult to change our present mode of life - I therefore, acquiesce - notwithstanding the excessive fatigue of having a succession of guests with only "New York Servants" to receive one's orders - "New York Servants" are a motley crew composed of wild Irish some French who have fled from Napoleons conscription - a few cut-throat english - a portion of Americans who disdain subordination - also a small number of Germans - the latter are the best - and we are said to be better provided than our neighbors -

Remember me most affectionately to all your family - namely Tucker, Fanny, Henry, Beverly, Polly and Charles - Tell me every birth among them and believe me

Cordially yrs

A. C. Morris
