Dear Sir

As usual, your kind favor received a most cordial welcome - and I am determined to acknowledge its safe arrival - altho' surrounded by all kinds of domestic business - it would indeed, gladden my heart to greet you & Mrs. Tucker, with your sons and daughters, in my house - where every effort would be made, by us both, to render you happy - I think Mrs. T. would be much pleased with the society around us - we have recently been gratified by two visits from Doct. Short - he has promised to stay many more days with us - Virginia Cary has written me several very affectionate letters since her return to Fluvanna - she describes her pecuniary situation to be too narrow for much ease - Poor William in his last letter informs me that Lucy again looks well - Polly Harrison, and Harriet Hackley, had given me quite an alarming account of her health - she is certainly an excellent mother - and in my opinion there is not a being on earth who could supply her place to the dear boys - My niece M^{rs} Miller has been with me - in September she was here - Dear M^{rs} C. S.

long protracted silence renders me diffident of addressing her - more than a year has elapsed since she last wrote - From M^{rs} L. H. J. for merly Miss Beverley, I often hear - our correspondence has continued, nearly twenty three years, without any interruption -

Unable to fill this sheet, as I intended, I hasten to prescribe for a complaint with which M^{rs} Tucker formerly suffered much - any preparation of Gallnuts, affords immediate relief - either an ointment, or bath - for the bath - simply boil the nuts, and use it cold - in the other way beat them to a paste and mix a little yolk of egg (as a cement) and a small quantity of lead water -

Adieu my Dearest M^{rs} Tucker - M^{rs} Morris tenders his best respects - he is truly, all goodnights - present my love to M^{rs} Tucker and believe me always your affectionate A. C. Morris
