Morissania Feb 7th 1815

Dear Sir

I wrote to Mr Copes a few days ago requesting him to call on you and read the packet which I took the liberty of forwarding to your care last week. By this days mail I send (in three packages) a copy of my answer to Mr Randolph's letter. I am anxious that it should be seen in Richmond with the certified copy of his. I should indeed be a monster were it possible for me to comomit any impropriety as the wife of such a husband, the mother of such a child as heaven has blessed me with.

Poor Saint-George has recently written me a most affectionate letter. Such only did I ever get from him.

Most respectfully I am your humble servant
Ann. C. Morris

Faint, illegible handwriting is visible on the paper, appearing as bleed-through from the reverse side. The text is mirrored across the central fold and is too light to transcribe accurately.
