SEVEN HERE NOW AMONG NEW GROUP

Two Out of Class of '28 and Four Out of '28 Summer School Also Get Honor

Virginia Alpha Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa elected thirteen members this week, according to information received by The Flat Hat from Dr. W. T. Hodges, Dean of Men. Seven of this group are members of the Class of '29, two of the Class of '28, and four of the Summer Class of '28.

Those receiving honor are: From the Class of '29: Boyd G. Carter of Duffield, Katherine Carter of Richmond, Phyllis Logan of Norfolk, Frances Lord of Newport News, W. S. Melvin of Cape Charles, Upton B. Thomas, Jr. of Troy, O., and Charlotte Ziegler of Richmond.

From the Class of '28: Elizabeth Saunders of Newport News, and Marian Sillinger of Norfolk.

From the Summer Class of '28: Milda B. Cohen of Norfolk, Margaret Howie of Norfolk, Mary Land of Surry, and Ruth Stern of Richmond.

This marks the first time that a fall election for students has been held by the mother chapter of Phi Beta Kappa. Last spring marked the first time that undergraduate students were elected to membership in the order here.

Milton "Mit" Stribling, secretary of Alpha Kappa Psi, national Business fraternity announces the following list of initiates into the local chapter this semester: Weston Willis, James Gilley, Milton White, Earl Swem, Jr., Charles Scammon, and John Culver.

"Vocational Guidance" Carries Article

By Dr. M. F. Beeson of Education Faculty

A study of the "Vocational Preferences of High School Students" made by Dr. M. F. Beeson, of the Education Department here, in conjunction with R. E. Tope, Superintendent of Schools in Grand Junction, Colorado, will appear in the Vocational Guidance Magazine published at Harvard University. Dr. Beeson disclosed to a member of the Flat Hat Staff when interviewed this week.

Dr. Beeson is at present preparing for publication, a study of the Retardation of Pupils in High School. This study is based on investigations made in Grand Junction by Dr. Beeson as a result of courses in educational research which he conducted. Mr. Tope as well as teachers in Grand Junction have assisted Dr. Beeson in making this study.

Total enrollment of students in the college proper and extension courses of William and Mary, for the first semester 1928-29, numbers 2,448, according to complete statistics from the office of Dr. W. T. Hodges, Dean of Men and Director of Extension.

In addition to the 1341 resident students, the college has registered 1107 men and women from five cities in the extension division. Richmond leads these cities with 429 students; Norfolk is second with 269, being followed in order by Newport News with 255, Portsmouth with 122, and Hopewell with 32.

The figure from the Extension schools is those registered in all courses. The Hopewell school is the latest to be founded.

Dr. Hodges stated that on the face of the above figures, William and Mary has enrolled this year in all its departments the largest number of students in the history of the College.

William and Mary Summer School in Europe Will Run Again in 1929 For Fifth Time; A. G. Williams Director

The fifth annual study tour of William and Mary students in Europe will be conducted this year under the guidance of Dr. A. G. Williams, Head of the Department of Modern Languages at this college. The William and Mary Summer School in Europe last year, of which Dr. Williams was the Director, was a success according to the report of the Director and of the students who made up the party.

Leaving New York about the middle of June, the party will proceed directly to Paris where five weeks will be spent, touring the city and points of interest in its vicinity, and in study at the Sorbonne, celebrated school of Liberal Arts in the University of Paris. Students successfully completing their work at the Sorbonne will be given credit at William and Mary. The Director, however, wishes to call attention to the fact that all lectures and examinations are optional.

Featuring the 1929 Summer School in Europe, will be a ten days trip through Belgium and Germany. The party is to visit Heidelberg with its 500 year old University as well as the castles and castle ruins which are regarded among the most picturesque in all Europe. From Heidelberg, the party will proceed to Frankfurt, rich in medieval traditions, and from there down the historic Rhine to Cologne with its wonderful Gothic Cathedral. On leaving Cologne the party will make a tour through Belgium, and from there will sail for America.

In Paris a delightful program is being arranged for the group. Frequent trips to the theater will be made, and all the central attractions of Paris will be visited. Among these will be the Louvre, the World's most famous art gallery, Invalides, containing the tomb of Napoleon, Notre Dame, the Pantheon, the Eiffel Tower, the Musee de Cluny, and les Jardins des Tuileries with their many points of interest.

Numbered among the excursions to be made in the vicinity of Paris are Versailles, Fontainebleau, Sevres, Chantilly, Saint Denis and a number of others.

The William and Mary Tours in Europe have a twofold purpose, according to Dr. Williams. Firstly, they envisage giving an opportunity to students for study in one of Europe's most cultural institutions; and secondly, to offer a delightful program to those desiring to spend a pleasant and cultural summer abroad. Mrs. Arthur George Williams, who chaperoned the party last summer, will accompany the group as chaperon.

Original Plans of Main Building Found In California Says E. G. Swem, Librarian

The plans of the original Main Building of the College of William and Mary have been found in a library in Huntington, California, according to Dr. E. G. Swem, the college librarian. These were the plans drawn up by Thomas Jefferson in 1732 and sent to Lord Dunmore, then governor of Virginia.

In 1705 the first fire destroyed the Main Building and as the college was still supported by contributions and help from England, Lord Dunmore asked Thomas Jefferson to make a plan of the main building with proposed additions. This plan was to be sent back to England for the purpose of making estimates on the reconstruction.

Jefferson drew up the plans and proposed a building similar in construction which was to be placed in back of the main building forming a quadrangle. The plan reached the hands of Lord Dunmore the last royal governor of this state and from there it disappeared. The finding of this paper in California will doubtless be of importance to the present reconstruction and will clarify several matters which are under weighty discussion and research.

Twenty-five men, both students and faculty members, were publicly informed of their election to Omicron Delta Kappa National Honorary society at the semi-annual tap service of Eta Circle, Wednesday night, in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. The number is understood to be the largest initiated at one time in the seven years the organization has been on the William and Mary campus.

Included in the group of initiates are six members of the college faculty, thirteen seniors, and six juniors. Those tapped, in order, together with the offices they hold, are as follows:

Dr. Williams G. Guy, Associate Professor of Chemistry at the College of William and Mary, and member of the Freshman Advisory Committee;

W. F. Gibbs, Associate Professor of Accounting at the College of William and Mary, and a member of the student's activities auditing committee;

Dr. Edward M. Gwathmey, Professor of English, member of the Three-Three-Three Athletic Committee;

L. Tucker Jones, Professor of Physical Education at the College of William and Mary, and a member of the Three-Three-Three Athletic committee;

Dr. W. A. Montgomery, Professor of Ancient Languages at the College of William and Mary;

William S. Gooch, athletic manager, College of William and Mary;

Sweet Senior Students Soon To Swagger Stealthily With Stylish Sport Sticks

Senior girls have decided to carry swagger sticks to distinguish them from other upperclassmen. This class insignia was voted upon and passed at the meeting of the senior women held in Phi Beta Kappa building last Tuesday morning. Many other suggestions were made but the sport sticks proved to be the most favorable. The women will carry these sticks only on Tuesdays.

The committee in charge of this matter urges all senior women to be present at the meeting of the class next Tuesday morning at which time various styles of swagger sticks will be on display.

Sothorn Advocates Reorganization of Theater in America

SHAKESPEAREAN ACTOR SPEAKS HERE TUESDAY

Beauty and Nobleness of Old Drama Still Exist, Famous Player States in Talk

AUDIENCE ROARS WELCOME

Internationally Known Tragedician Receives Vociferous Applause at Convocation

Students and faculty of William and Mary College, assembled in convocation Tuesday morning, were addressed by E. H. Sothorn, described by Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin, who introduced him, as "the greatest interpreter of Shakespearian drama in the world." The famous actor spoke chiefly on the trend of the modern theatre, and concluded with the rendition of a passage from "Hamlet." Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the College, presided.

In beginning his remarks, Mr. Sothorn read from opinions of various critics and producers regarding the needs of the drama and the changes necessary to bring about the restoration of the real theatre.

"American producers today," he said, "are giving what they think the public wants, rather than what they believe they should have. Plays should be the means of giving not only enjoyment and entertainment, but also ennoblement to the minds of the audience, which must necessarily be an educated one."

The beauty and nobleness of the old drama is still there, the speaker said, but it takes great actors to show it. At present we have mostly inadequate performances and incapable performers. All the great plays have been written for actors, who are more important in the success of the offering than the actual play itself.

Mr. Sothorn stressed the fact that salacious plays are entirely devoid of any points which would tend to advance the drama. The great fortunes in drama have been made in wholesome plays, not nasty ones, he said. Most of our actors are interested more in the advancement of the theatre than in gaining personal fortune and renown.

Mr. Sothorn made reference during his address to "the theatre you are going to have here." Before concluding his talk he advocated a plan which he thought would be a long step towards the restoration of the theatre. Several foreign countries, he said, now have an organization such as the one he is propounding.

In brief, he advocated that the country establish a committee of educated, wordly people, who are not narrow-minded, and whose duty it will be to select a repertoire of perhaps 500 plays, secure a competent producer and director, as well as capable actors, and reorganize the theatre. The actors, he stated, must have essential emotional and physical characteristics. American actors have these traits: they love the theatre and drama, not for personal gain, but for the furtherance of their art.

In response to vociferous applause, the dramatist read the Soliloquy from "Hamlet," and ended with an incident of humor that "put him right" with the audience.

ROGERS BROTHERS LINEUP AGAINST EACH OTHER IN G. W.-INDIAN GRID GAME

Politics are not the only thing this year that is arraying members of the same family against each other. Last week in the game with George Washington, "Chuncy" Rogers of William and Mary played directly across the line from his brother Calvin Rogers. Both are former Central High School players where the game was played. Their father witnessed the game.

Newport News-James River Bridge Opens Next Saturday

NEW STRUCTURE, FOUR AND ONE HALF MILES IN LENGTH IS ONE OF LONGEST BRIDGES IN U. S.

New Route Will Put Williamsburg Closer to Southside Virginia, Portsmouth and Norfolk

PARADE TO FEATURE OPENING

Celebration Will Begin in Morning and Will Last Great Part of Day

On November 17, at Newport News, will be formally opened the James River Bridge, four and a half miles in length, and the longest concrete highway bridge in the south. This structure will place the Coast to Capital highway, which runs through Williamsburg, in direct touch with the main arteries of travel southwards, and will place the Tidewater Peninsula into physical connection with Southside Virginia, Portsmouth, and Norfolk.

A parade of various types of floats, stretching out two miles, will be one of the principal features of the celebration, according to plans formulated in Newport News. Historical floats depicting scenes in the colonization of the country, centered chiefly on this section, will predominate, with commercial and civic organizations coming in for a large share of the pageant. The celebration will begin in the morning and last the greater part of the day, it is thought.

The parade is to move off at the conclusion of the celebration luncheon and will pass through the streets of the principal business section of the city and out to the Newport News approach to the bridge. Here it is to pass in review and winning floats will be selected. Following the parade there is to be a program of music and speaking. The program is to be concluded with the cutting of the ribbons at the bridge and a reproduction of the battle of the Virginia (Merrimac) and the Monitor.

There are to be many notable persons present for the celebration, including governors of neighboring states, the secretary of the navy, a number of congressmen and senators from both the state and national government and other outstanding persons of the day.

As a vanguard in the parade will be troops from Fort Eustis, heavy guns and anti-air craft guns from Fort Monroe and airplanes and airships from Langley Field hovering overhead. There is to be also a detachment of marines and sailors in the parade. As the ribbons of the bridge are to be cut three United States government destroyers will pass under the giant lift span of the bridge.

A number of students from William and Mary are expected to go down to witness the dedication exercises.

ROUNTREE WILL CONDUCT COLONIAL ECHO ELECTION

Barton D. Pattie, Editor of the 1929 Colonial Echo, announces three additions to the staff. William F. Rountree, of Portsmouth, who is now a member of the Flat Hat Staff and experienced in annual work, has been appointed Activities Editor and will have charge of the Colonial Echo elections which are now in progress.

Alan Graff of Newport News and Daniel A'Hearn of Hartford, Conn. have been appointed from the freshman class as staff typists.

234 Out of 729

But 234 out of the 729 men at William and Mary "passed" all of their first month's work, according to Dean Hodges' report, which leads many people on the campus, both students and faculty, to wonder where the trouble is.

There are those who contend that grades mean nothing in getting an education and therefore students should pay no attention to them. We quite agree with the first part of this, but unfortunately a bachelor's degree (not necessarily an education) is summed up on the books of the registrar in the form of "credits" received by making up or more on "courses." Because of this, it is sometimes necessary to stop and think about mathematical grades.

Accusations against the students have been made by certain faculty members that they are not working. This may be true, but is it possible that 495 men in the college, approximately 67 per cent of the total, are loafing? Hardly.

Accusations against faculty members have been made by certain students that the said faculty members are talking "above the heads" of the classes. If this is true, whether the class is particularly "dumb" or not, then the faculty member doing so is not a good teacher. He may be a learned man, or have a string of letters behind his name 20 ems long, but nevertheless, he is not a good instructor. The best teacher is the one who can put his subject across to his class—not the one who spends his time showing what he knows.

If the latter accusation is true then the faculty members condemning the students for not working should look to some of their colleagues for a solution to the problem. As it is now, many of the students are wondering if a special prize is to be awarded to the teacher who succeeds in giving the lowest grades.

Motion Pictures at College

Several times last semester there was talk of equipping Phi Beta Kappa Hall with motion picture projection machines and a screen for the purpose of running this type of entertainment there once a week, and having the equipment in the hall in the event that any class or instructor might be able to use it in scholastic work. There was a student body meeting about it, several conferences were held, and a possibility arose that it might be installed during the past summer. The matter was then dropped.

We can hardly see how it would fail to take with the students, if high class pictures were obtained. Certainly the atmosphere of the Phi Beta Kappa Hall is more conducive to the enjoyment of screen presentations than that of local picture houses. It would be a certain bet that the plan if put into operation would draw patronage.

The idea is one that should not be discarded altogether. It is worth following.

The Open Forum

A pleasing feature of the Flat Hat work this year is the interest taken by the students in the Open Forum columns conducted by the paper. This department, one which has usually been a nightmare to the editors heretofore for the lack of interest, has apparently taken hold of the students, since the paper is receiving more than it can use.

Because of this, it will be necessary that the editors reserve the right to cut all letters over 250 words long, if they deem it necessary. This is done because of the demand of space and for no other reason. This should not prohibit any reader from writing, since it is easily possible to get the average letter of this sort into that number words.

Again we must remind those sending in letters to the "forum" that letters as they come into the office must be signed. A pen name, or initials may be used if the writer desires it, but the real name must be on the letters to show evidence of good faith.

A New School Song

The new school song, "Victory," which made its appearance on the campus last week fills a need long felt here. It has a snappy rhythm that is "catchy," and should prove a surprise to alumni when they hear it sung at a game by the students.

Oscar Wilkinson, former student who composed it, deserves the thanks of every student here. His action in preparing it, after being off the campus two years was most thoughtful.

FRESHMAN PUNISHMENT AGAIN

Measures adopted by the Senior-Sophomore Tribunal in taking away social privileges of freshmen who break "duc" rules "tend to a deprivation of their rights, rather than toward a fair punishment," states a reader of The Flat Hat in a letter to the editor. In this letter, the writer asks that the Tribunal reconsider its action in the matter.

While this letter is from an upper classman, it is quite likely that he heard freshmen comment on the subject before he wrote it, and in the letter, by asking that the matter be reconsidered he unconsciously points out the possibility that the problem has been solved.

As The Flat Hat stated last week, no real-honest-to-goodness-two-fisted-he-man minds being paddled, but it hurts his pride to have his privileges removed. It is in this, in our belief, that the efficiency of the plan will lie.

The purpose of the Tribunal should be corrective rather than punitive. A freshman rule that is observed is of much more value than one which is broken and the person who broke it punished, the same principle working here as in the police world, namely, that a crime that is never committed does less damage to society than one which is committed and the culprit punished.

With a method of punishment of the type now being used by the Tribunal staring him in the face, the average freshman will stop and think before he breaks a rule.

"LORD BOTETOURT SAYS"

By BILL

One of these tempestuous popularity-seeking, and aggressive co-eds was heard to ask: "Why did you give me that dirty look?" The coveted smoother replied, "I didn't give it to you, you had it all the time." Where upon the campus cheered and elected "Skeets" Dunbar champion orange-ade drinker.

George W. Niceboy walked hurriedly and uncertainly into the College Shop. One could see at first glance that George was disturbed. Tragedy was on his face and mud was on his feet. He drank two limeades in quick succession. This was something unusual and the nonchalant idlers who took life as a matter of course were alive with keen interest. Someone queried, "What's the matter old man, on pro?" The questioner was sympathetic. "No," said George, clapping his hands which were trembling, "You will never know the sorrow that is in my heart." "Well, tell us, Lloyd Williams here is a boy-scout; maybe he can help you." "Well, it was just after this manner, I saw one of the football men kissing my sweet-heart and I was so mad I could have crushed a grape." "What did you do?" asked every one breathlessly. "I took his slicker and threw it out in the street and said, 'now you mean thing I hope it rains.'" Whereupon he was given a job by the Y. M. C. A.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?" "To Chem-lab, sir," she said. "What do you do there, my pretty maid?" "Experiment with boys, sir," she said.

"What's the formula, my pretty maid," "S. A. plus alcohol," she said.

Our excellent associate, Mr. "This Department" has found fault, it seems, for my harmless propoganda for Varney as a possible candidate for the presidency. This proves my worthy colleague to be an anti-prohibitionist and as the college stands "pat" on this subject in a most positive manner, it would be wise for us to ride on the band-wagon, so to speak. If he doesn't think the college is for prohibition, ask the "heroes of the night," Al and Wheeler.

Well, since it is all over now but the shouting, and there is a good deal of it needed, we will take time out just now for said rites. We did not go to Washington this week-end as work detained us here yet we watched with keen interest the score-board which wasn't there and should have been and listened with care to the play-by-play broadcast which was handicapped by too much static. From now on we do intend to see for ourselves the games and not to pay any attention to what people tell you who were in Washington at the time. Still for Will Rogers and Boyd Carter. —L. B.

THE OPEN FORUM

Flat Hat Readers Write on Current Subjects

Editor of The Flat Hat, Sir:

In last week's issue of the Flat Hat I noticed an article concerning the new form of punishment to be meted out to "ducs" for infraction of their various rules.

The article stated that instead of paddling the freshmen as in former years, the Tribunal would punish them by depriving them of their "Social Privileges."

I think this is an action that should rest entirely in the hands of the administration. I am not trying to defend the freshman class, because I admit they are rather smart, but I believe that the measures taken tend

LOOKING BACKWARD

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Announcement was made of an unusually interesting annual celebration of the founding of the Phi Beta Kappa Society at William and Mary, December 5. Dr. Edwin A. Grosvenor, president of the United Chapters, was scheduled to speak.

Prof. John Tyler's automobile was reported to be resting easily at Person's garage while undergoing repairs.

In a joint meeting of the Philomathean and Phoenix Literary Societies it was decided to organize a debating council to arrange for an intercollegiate debate. Messrs. J. L. Tucker, G. C. Outland and Shackelford were chosen to represent Philomathean on the council. F. M. Barnes and W. M. Grimsley were selected by Phoenix, with Dr. J. S. Wilson as faculty representative.

The Academy Literary Society presented a short program before the public on the evening of November 7.

FIVE YEARS AGO

The William and Mary eleven advanced one step nearer the championship of the Class "B" Colleges of the state last Saturday when they outplayed and outfought the strong Hampden-Sydney Tigers to a 20-0 score at the Norfolk ball park. Irwin Hastings and Cain were the Indian stars.

D. W. Griffith, movie producer, accompanied by a party of associates, was a visitor at the College. The cinema-men were the guests of Dr. J. A. C. Chandler at luncheon at the refectory.

Dr. J. Lesslie Hall, head of the Department of English, received a letter recently, informing him of his election to membership in the Author's Club of London.

After looking over a few scores, it was found that William and Mary was the only team that scored on the powerful Syracuse eleven during the early part of 1923.

Quoted from the editorial columns of the November 9 edition of 1923: "The couples who have dates on the campus these chilly November nights evidently act upon the assumption that many are cold but few are frozen."

THIS DEPARTMENT

It was a privilege, in more ways than one to William and Mary last week to be permitted to hear President Southwick of Emerson College speak in Convocation. In these days of noisy presidential campaigns, when all ears ring with the din of political diatribes, radio speeches and observation car observations, the address of this veteran among orators, was a refreshing, heart-warming affair. President Southwick showed that oratory can be more than fevered shouting and tumult.

President Southwick uncovered a new side of oratory for many of his Williamsburg hosts.

There was, however, another discovery of great scientific value embodied in his address. "I visited your neighboring shrine at Jamestown," he said, "seven miles away."

Herein President Southwick answered one of the problems of the ages: How far is it to Jamestown? A thousand tourists have sought enlightenment on this score from a thousand students passing in Jamestown road since September, and so far as This Department's Special Investigators have been able to learn, none of them has obtained satisfaction.

This condition reached such a state that This Department thought it advisable to ask for a special report from its Investigators.

"We are unanimously of the opinion," they opined, "that every incoming student should be informed the correct distance to Jamestown and sign a pledge to state this information accurately and unhesitatingly when approached by a tourist or an upper-classman."

Fortunately, President Southwick has made further action unnecessary. However, just to be on the safe side, This Department will take one more step.

As soon as they have completed their investigation of the mysterious whistles and electric light signals, our entire force of Investigators will carefully measure off the distance to Jamestown Landing. Perhaps—we dread the thought—President Southwick's statement was based on the estimate of some misguided student.

"Seven-fifty, please, and costs!"

toward a deprivation of their rights, rather than toward a fair punishment. It is only natural that after the grind of hard study that a man should seek recreation at a dance, at a movie, at the pool room, or by having dates.

These privileges should only be taken away on account of failing work or abuse of the privileges. By abuse, I mean constantly breaking the rules. I have been without my privileges for quite a while, and it is yet some time before they will be returned, and I know exactly the degree of punishment it is to be without them.

I hope that the members of the Tribunal will reconsider their action concerning freshmen, and use another, that will be just as effective and yet not impose upon the rights of man.

From a Freshman to a Freshman

It is said that we are experiencing one of the greatest, if not the greatest year of William and Mary spirit among Freshmen.

If this is true, and we have every reason to believe that it is, I am of the opinion that it would be wise for us to consider the following points and to give them serious thought:

(1) Are we justly entitled to the praise and glory given us that Friday evening? The memories of the well spirited rally held recently in the Phi Beta Kappa Hall are still fresh in our minds, and well do we remember the praise given us for outnumbering the Upperclassmen ten to one in attendance.

There is a doubt in my mind as to whether we deserve all of this glory. Every speaker on the platform threw flowers at our feet, congratulated us and said that he had never seen as great a freshmen class.

When we attend all of these meetings of various kinds aren't most of us there because we feel that we must do so as a result of observing the "duc" rules. I am perfectly free to think this, because the evening before Dr. Geiger most graciously consented to address the freshmen in the "Y" room, and fellow freshmen, how many of you were present? The attendance was so poor that the committee met with much embarrassment. The meeting was called for our interest and since we have a freshmen cabinet to assist the main cabinet we should back every move made by the "Y". We should appreciate their recognizing us to the extent of permitting us the privilege of having a cabinet for the purpose of executing duties assigned us.

(2) Is our attendance at the meetings voluntary? If our spirit were to be judged by our showing at the meeting mentioned above, then I would say that it is very low.

I have merely given the above illustration to show us that we are lax in certain phases of campus activities. However, let the past be past, and with the thoughts brought to us by Coach Bocock that Friday evening, let all of us go forward with new vim and determination; and let us remember that we get no more out of a thing than we put into it.

(3) Shall we let our false pride cause us to forget the duties which are still ours while freshmen of William and Mary?

E. H. Sothern, Shakespearean Actor, Confers With Dr. Goodwin On Project

Plans for rebuilding and maintaining the Livingston theatre at Williamsburg, first theatre in America, were taken up this week at a conference between E. H. Sothern, noted Shakespearean actor, and the Rev. Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin, director of the Restoration. The old theatre, which stood opposite Palace Green, was built in 1716.

According to those associated with the work it has long been a dream of Mr. Sothern to establish in Colonial Williamsburg an actors' national shrine. Benefit performances staged by actors throughout the country would make possible the work, it was thought.

The very best of America and English dramas will be included in the repertoire of the new theatre when it is completed, it is said, and it is expected that the leading actors and actresses on the English-speaking stage will gather here each year for these performances.

The project of rebuilding the original theatre constructed by William Livingston is part of the restoration program being launched throughout Williamsburg by John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

ELIZABETH SMITH TO WED JOHNSON MOSS NOVEMBER 10TH

Announcement has been received by The Flat Hat of the marriage of Miss Ruth Elizabeth Smith, '26 to Johnson C. Moss, Jr., '26 Saturday November 10. The marriage will be performed in the Park View Baptist Church, at Portsmouth.

Miss Smith is a member of the Virginia Gamma Chapter of Pi Beta Phi. Mr. Moss was captain of the varsity baseball his senior year in college, and a member of Alpha Tau Epsilon and Omicron Delta Kappa.

I wonder what complaint the "Three Co-Eds" would make if there were no "Judges Stand" at the College Corner and at the dining hall?

If these "stands" were not there, these same three would probably write in a complaint about co-eds not rating with the fellows on the campus.

As to rating—well I would hate to say what or how most of them rate. Some of them rate 100%, but most of them are lucky if they rate 75%.

These three probably rate about 10% and know it.

More honor to the "judges." May they last forever.

DICKEY CHARLES AND ART MATSU PLAYING PROFESSIONAL BALL

There are at least two former William and Mary athletes who are playing football in the professional ranks. They are Dickey Charles and Art Matsu. Both are playing with the Dayton, Ohio Trianguliers. Charles played halfback for the Indians and also was on the track team for four years, and at one time was among the leading scorers in the state. Matsu will be remembered as the greatest quarterback that ever represented William and Mary and one of the best who ever played in the state. He was a great triple threat man and could always be counted on when a kick for point was needed. He made famous the Matsu-Davis combination.

NOVEMBER 9, 1928

234 Out of 729

But 234 out of the 729 men at William and Mary "passed" all of their first month's work, according to Dean Hodges' report, which leads many people on the campus, both students and faculty, to wonder where the trouble is.

There are those who contend that grades mean nothing in getting an education and therefore students should pay no attention to them. We quite agree with the first part of this, but unfortunately a bachelor's degree (not necessarily an education) is summed up on the books of the registrar in the form of "credits" received by making 75 or more on "courses." Because of this, it is sometimes necessary to stop and think about mathematical grades.

Accusations against the students have been made by certain faculty members that they are not working. This may be true, but is it possible that 495 men in the college, approximately 67 per cent of the total, are loafing? Hardly.

Accusations against faculty members have been made by certain students that the said faculty members are talking "above the heads" of the classes. If this is true, whether the class is particularly "dumb" or not, then the faculty member doing so is not a good teacher. He may be a learned man, or have a string of letters behind his name 20 ems long, but nevertheless, he is not a good instructor. The best teacher is the one who can put his subject across to his class—not the one who spends his time showing what he knows.

If the latter accusation is true then the faculty members condemning the students for not working should look to some of their colleagues for a solution to the problem. As it is now, many of the students are wondering if a special prize is to be awarded to the teacher who succeeds in giving the lowest grades.

Motion Pictures at College

Several times last semester there was talk of equipping Phi Beta Kappa Hall with motion picture projection machines and a screen for the purpose of running this type of entertainment there once a week, and having the equipment in the hall in the event that any class or instructor might be able to use it in scholastic work. There was a student body meeting about it, several conferences were held, and a possibility arose that it might be installed during the past summer. The matter was then dropped.

We can hardly see how it would fail to take with the students, if high class pictures were obtained. Certainly the atmosphere of the Phi Beta Kappa Hall is more conducive to the enjoyment of screen presentations than that of local picture houses. It would be a certain bet that the plan if put into operation would draw patronage.

The idea is one that should not be discarded altogether. It is worth following.

The Open Forum

A pleasing feature of the Flat Hat work this year is the interest taken by the students in the Open Forum columns conducted by the paper. This department, one which has usually been a nightmare to the editors heretofore for the lack of interest, has apparently taken hold of the students, since the paper is receiving more than it can use.

Because of this, it will be necessary that the editors reserve the right to cut all letters over 250 words long, if they deem it necessary. This is done because of the demand of space and for no other reason. This should not prohibit any reader from writing, since it is easily possible to get the average letter of this sort into that number words.

Again we must remind those sending in letters to the "forum" that letters as they come into the office must be signed. A pen name, or initials may be used if the writer desires it, but the real name must be on the letters to show evidence of good faith.

A New School Song

The new school song, "Victory," which made its appearance on the campus last week fills a need long felt here. It has a snappy rhythm that is "catchy," and should prove a surprise to alumni when they hear it sung at a game by the students.

Oscar Wilkinson, former student who composed it, deserves the thanks of every student here. His action in preparing it, after being off the campus two years was most thoughtful.

FRESHMAN PUNISHMENT AGAIN

Measures adopted by the Senior-Sophomore Tribunal in taking away social privileges of freshmen who break "duc" rules "tend to a deprivation of their rights, rather than toward a fair punishment," states a reader of The Flat Hat in a letter to the editor. In this letter, the writer asks that the Tribunal reconsider its action in the matter.

While this letter is from an upper classman, it is quite likely that he heard freshmen comment on the subject before he wrote it, and in the letter, by asking that the matter be reconsidered he unconsciously points out the possibility that the problem has been solved.

As The Flat Hat stated last week, no real-honest-to-goodness-two-fisted-he-man minds being paddled, but it hurts his pride to have his privileges removed. It is in this, in our belief, that the efficiency of the plan will lie.

The purpose of the Tribunal should be corrective rather than punitive. A freshman rule that is observed is of much more value than one which is broken and the person who broke it punished, the same principle working here as in the police world, namely, that a crime that is never committed does less damage to society than one which is committed and the culprit punished.

With a method of punishment of the type now being used by the Tribunal staring him in the face, the average freshman will stop and think before he breaks a rule.

LOOKING BACKWARD

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Announcement was made of an unusually interesting annual celebration of the founding of the Phi Beta Kappa Society at William and Mary, December 5. Dr. Edwin A. Grosvenor, president of the United Chapters, was scheduled to speak.

Prof. John Tyler's automobile was reported to be resting easily at Person's garage while undergoing repairs.

In a joint meeting of the Philomathean and Phoenix Literary Societies it was decided to organize a debating council to arrange for an intercollegiate debate. Messrs. J. L. Tucker, G. C. Outland and Shackelford were chosen to represent Philomathean on the council. F. M. Barnes and W. M. Grimsley were selected by Phoenix, with Dr. J. S. Wilson as faculty representative.

The Academy Literary Society presented a short program before the public on the evening of November 7.

FIVE YEARS AGO

The William and Mary eleven advanced one step nearer the championship of the Class "B" Colleges of the state last Saturday when they outplayed and outfought the strong Hampden-Sydney Tigers to a 20-0 score at the Norfolk ball park. Irwin Hastings and Cain were the Indian stars.

D. W. Griffith, movie producer, accompanied by a party of associates, was a visitor at the College. The cinema-men were the guests of Dr. J. A. C. Chandler at luncheon at the refectory.

Dr. J. Leslie Hall, head of the Department of English, received a letter recently, informing him of his election to membership in the Author's Club of London.

After looking over a few scores, it was found that William and Mary was the only team that scored on the powerful Syracuse eleven during the early part of 1923.

Quoted from the editorial columns of the November 9 edition of 1923: "The couples who have dates on the campus these chilly November nights evidently act upon the assumption that many are cold but few are frozen."

THIS DEPARTMENT

It was a privilege in more ways than one to William and Mary last week to be permitted to hear President Southwick of Emerson College speak in Convocation. In these days of noisy presidential campaigns, when all ears ring with the din of political diatribes, radio speeches and observation car observations, the address of this veteran among orators, was a refreshing, heart-warming affair. President Southwick showed that oratory can be more than fevered shouting and tumult.

President Southwick uncovered a new side of oratory for many of his Williamsburg hosts.

There was, however, another discovery of great scientific value embodied in his address. "I visited your neighboring shrine at Jamestown," he said, "seven miles away."

Herein President Southwick answered one of the problems of the ages: How far is it to Jamestown? A thousand tourists have sought enlightenment on this score from a thousand students passing in Jamestown road since September, and so far as This Department's Special Investigators have been able to learn, none of them has obtained satisfaction.

This condition reached such a state that This Department thought it advisable to ask for a special report from its Investigators.

"We are unanimously of the opinion," they opined, "that every incoming student should be informed the correct distance to Jamestown and sign a pledge to state this information accurately and unhesitatingly when approached by a tourist or an upper-classman."

Fortunately, President Southwick has made further action unnecessary. However, just to be on the safe side, This Department will take one more step.

As soon as they have completed their investigation of the mysterious whistles and electric light signals, our entire force of Investigators will carefully measure off the distance to Jamestown Landing. Perhaps—we dread the thought—President Southwick's statement was based on the estimate of some misguided student.

"LORD BOTETOURT SAYS"

By BILL

One of these tempestuous popularity-seeking, and aggressive co-eds was heard to ask: "Why did you give me that dirty look?" The coveted smoother replied, "I didn't give it to you, you had it all the time." Where upon the campus cheered and elected "Skeets" Dunbar champion orange-ade drinker.

George W. Niceboy walked hurriedly and uncertainly into the College Shop. One could see at first glance that George was disturbed. Tragedy was on his face and mud was on his feet. He drank two limeades in quick succession. This was something unusual and the nonchalant idlers who took life as a matter of course were alive with keen interest. Someone queried, "What's the matter old man, on pro?" The questioner was sympathetic. "No," said George, clasping his hands which were trembling, "You will never know the sorrow that is in my heart." "Well, tell us, Lloyd Williams here is a boy-scout; maybe he can help you." "Well, it was just after this manner, I saw one of the football men kissing my sweetheart and I was so mad I could have crushed a grape." "What did you do?" asked every one breathlessly. "I took his slicker and threw it out in the street and said, 'now you mean thing I hope it rains.'" Whereupon he was given a job by the Y. M. C. A.

"Where are you going, my pretty maid?" "To Chem-lab, sir," she said. "What do you do there, my pretty maid?" "Experiment with boys, sir," she said.

"What's the formula, my pretty maid," "S. A. plus alcohol," she said.

Our excellent associate, Mr. "This Department" has found fault, it seems, for my harmless propaganda for Varney as a possible candidate for the presidency. This proves my worthy colleague to be an anti-prohibitionist and as the college stands "pat" on this subject in a most positive manner, it would be wise for us to ride on the band-wagon, so to speak. If he doesn't think the college is for prohibition, ask the "heroes of the night," Al and Wheeler.

Well, since it is all over now but the shouting, and there is a good deal of it needed, we will take time out just now for said rites. We did not go to Washington this week-end as work detained us here yet we watched with keen interest the score-board which wasn't there and should have been and listened with care to the play-by-play broadcast which was handicapped by too much static. From now on we do intend to see for ourselves the games and not to pay any attention to what people tell you who were in Washington at the time. Still for Will Rogers and Boyd Carter. —L. B.

Flat Hat Readers Write on Current Subjects

Editor of The Flat Hat, Sir:

In last week's issue of the Flat Hat I noticed an article concerning the new form of punishment to be meted out to "ducs" for infraction of their various rules.

The article stated that instead of paddling the freshmen as in former years, the Tribunal would punish them by depriving them of their "Social Privileges."

I think this is an action that should rest entirely in the hands of the administration. I am not trying to defend the freshman class, because I admit they are rather smart, but I believe that the measures taken tend

Roanoke Maroons and Indians Go To Richmond For Game Monday

GRID CLASH WILL BE FEATURE OF CAPITAL'S ATHLETIC CARD ON ARMISTICE DAY ANNIVERSARY

Spruhan's Men Face Indians Fresh From Victory Over Hampden-Sydney Tigers

BLOXSOM IN LOCAL LINE-UP

Bocockmen Will Still Be Minus Services of Mozeleski and Bill Scott, However

The Roanoke College Maroons, fresh from their recent victory over Hampden-Sydney, will invade the Indian territory next Monday to meet the Bocockmen at Richmond. This is the third conference team that the William and Mary eleven has met this year, and the results of this game will have much to do with determining each team's position in the conference standings.

Roanoke has one of the best teams in its history this year and it has been playing excellent football thus far. The Maroon squad has victories over Lynchburg and Hampden-Sydney to their credit. In addition to that they held the Richmond Spiders to a 13-13 tie at Richmond several weeks ago. The Maroons also were able to score two touchdowns on the strong V. M. I. eleven. However, they went down before the Emory and Henry Wasps by the score of 22-0. This leaves them in about the same position in the Conference as William and Mary holds.

This Lutheran eleven has developed one of the most deadly passing offensives in the state. Coach Spruhan has developed a passing combination in Dietrich and Ramsey that is hard to beat. End runs have also been substantial ground gainers for the Maroons all season. Not only are these huskies from Western Virginia good on the offensive, but they are veritable bull dogs on the defense.

In their game with the Indians the Maroons will again miss the services of Gilbert, but with Williams and Ramsey playing as they have been in the last few games, this loss will not be as heavy. Bell and Captain Nank are the outstanding Maroons in the front wall.

The Indians, bolstered up by their 24-0 victory over the George Washington Colonials last Saturday, will be ready to meet the Maroon attack. The line will be much the same as in previous games; Lankford and Harris, ends; Carmichael and Murphy tackles; Nofal, Paxson, or Rodgers, guards, and Fields, center.

The backfield presents a difficult problem. The services of Mozeleski and Scott will still be missed, although Coach Bocock has found a gold mine in "Spud" Bloxsom, who again put on the football togs last week. Bloxsom, who had been out of the game this season because of illness made a creditable showing at George Washington last Saturday and his passing ability and broken field running was greatly needed by the Indians. The Indian ball toters will not be decided until game time, but they will probably be chosen from Darden, Ryan, Baldacci, Willis, Taylor, Bloxsom, and Bauserman.

WILLIAM AND MARY CAPTAINS 2

NANCY BURKE
Captain Basketball

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of a series of ten stories on William and Mary captains. The remainder will follow in successive issues of The Flat Hat in alphabetical order.

The young lady who is the subject of this sketch is one of the leading co-ed athletes at William and Mary. Coming here in 1925 she obtained a position as guard on the varsity basketball team. In her sophomore year she was forced to refrain from athletic participation because of ill health but was again back at her old position in 1928. At the close of the season she was unanimously elected captain of the team.

Miss Burke is not only active in basketball, but also in hockey. Last year she was a member of the varsity eleven playing right inside. Last session she was president of the Women's Monogram Club and was named as one of the three leading athletes of the year. This year she is president of the Women's Athletic Association.

She hails from Hampton, Va., being the daughter of H. W. Burke, '00, and hangs her hat at the Phi Mu House over on Richmond Road.

J. MALCOLM BRIDGES NOW ON STAFF OF TIMES-DISPATCH

J. Malcolm Bridges, '25 and former editor of The Flat Hat became a member of the Times-Dispatch staff at Richmond this week. Mr. Bridges for eighteen months previous to this was with the Virginian-Pilot at Norfolk, and previous to that was alumni secretary and publicity agent at William and Mary.

Cimilkosky Wins Flat Hat Score Award

Another List Given Today

Topping a list of about 70 contestants, Stephen Cimilkoski of Nodwich, Conn., wins the Flat Hat football score contest for last week. Mr. Cimilkoski guessed correctly the outcome of eight games, missing only the Cornell-Columbia and Princeton-Ohio State games which resulted in a tie. He will be rewarded with a necktie donated by Garner and Company, local dealers in men's clothing. Maurice Goldblatt and W. Tarrant Fox were the only two men who guessed as many as seven out of ten correctly, while Lawrence Gilman, Macon Sammons, J. N. Hubbard, M. C. Butt, W. V. Bradshaw, J. W. Carney and Herbert Gill Stewart were the only entrants to score six correctly.

The losing team seemed to be favorites with the majority of William and Mary students last week, consequently the guessing was somewhat off. A member of the Indian varsity eleven turned in a list this week upon which only three correct guesses appeared.

This week offers a choice selection of games. The winning contestants in the ten games listed below should be regarded as the champion football score guesser of the season. Certainly the lineup will be a challenge worthy of every student. Let's go.

List the winning team on the right and add up the probable scores. Seal in an envelope, address to B. D. Pattie, Sports Editor, and place in the Flat Hat box in Brafferton Building before Saturday noon.

DUCS WIN OVER SOUTH NORFOLK

Ted Meyers' Terrible Tigers Tame Tabbies After Freshman Fray Here on Friday

The William and Mary freshmen football team, undefeated this season, added another victim to its long list here Friday when the South Norfolk High School Tigers withered before the young Indians' strong offensive and succumbed to defeat, 38 to 0.

The winners started their drive early in the first period and gained speed as the game progressed, scoring at least once in every period except the second. A squad of substitutes finished the game for the freshmen and managed to score a touchdown.

The Papooses registered 14 first downs to their opponents' five.

COLONIALS DROP SHUT-OUT GAME TO INDIANS 24-0

Bocockmen, Taking Advantage of All Breaks, Bring Home Bacon From Washington

CARMICHAEL RUNS 85 YARDS

W. & M. Captain Gets Spectacular Tally; Bloxsom to Ryan Passes Prove Ground Gainers

Taking advantage of every break which presented itself, the William and Mary Indians defeated George Washington University Saturday afternoon, 24 to 0, in the Central High School Stadium, at Washington.

The Indians started soon after kickoff and after an exchange of punts soon had the ball on the Colonials' five-yard line. A pass over the goal gave the ball to George Washington, who promptly kicked out. A punting duel then developed between Bauserman and Carey with the former having the best of it.

The Indians' first score came in the second quarter, when Bauserman blocked a George Washington kick on the 15-yard line, which Lankford recovered on the two-yard line. A plunge by Bauserman was good for a touchdown. The try for point failed.

In the third period the Colonials unleashed an attack which soon had the ball on the Indians' 15-yard line. Here Carmichael interrupted a pass, shook off tacklers and raced eighty-five yards for a touchdown. He broke up the best attack the Colonials had, for the Colonials had advanced fifty yards down the field by a 33-yard run by Barrow and a long pass, Lope-man to Barrow.

The Indians added two more in the fourth period. Paxson interrupted a pass on the 50 yard line and carried it to the 20-yard line. A series of end runs placed the ball on the one-yard line, where Bauserman carried it over. Later George Washington recovered a blocked kick on the Indians' 20-yard line. They tried to make a field goal, which was blocked by Carmichael, who carried the ball to the 50-yard line. A 15-yard penalty forced the Indians to kick out. An exchange of punts gave the Indians the ball on their own 30-yard line. A long pass, Bloxsom to Ryan, was good for forty-five yards, placing the ball on the Colonials' 25-yard line. Another pass, Bloxsom to Ryan, was

FARMVILLE WILL ALSO BE MET ON PRESENT JAUNT

State Teachers' College Will Entertain Local Co-Eds Monday Afternoon at Farmville

FIVE VETERANS ON TEAM

Captain Hofman, Bups Tanner, Charlotte King, Brownie Osmond and Helen Maffett Back

William and Mary's Hockey team will entrain tomorrow afternoon at 5:33 o'clock for Lynchburg where it will meet Sweet Briar Saturday afternoon on the Briarites' home lot. On Monday, the local shinbusters will switch back to Farmville, where they will cross sticks with the hockey squad of the state teachers' college there.

This year the team has five veterans on the squad—Captain Hofman, Bups Tanner, Charlotte King, Brownie Osmond, and Helen Maffett.

Another of last year's women, Issy Maffett who was not on the 1927 team, has made a place on this year's varsity, however. Most of the rest of the team is new to the William and Mary campus.

Women who are making the trip include:

Benedix, Moore, Bishop, Tanner, Gary, Kemp, King, Dignam, Richardson, Hoffman, Osmond, Seasman, Miley, N. Johnston, Shackman, and Maffett.

Wash. Alumni Receives Students at G. W. W. & M. Game With Open Arms

The William and Mary Alumni Club of Washington turned out in full force last week at the game with George Washington in that city. Cheerleader Williams sent the William and Mary yells to the secretary who had them mimeographed and distributed to all who attended. Each was given a pin with the colors and the letters W. & M. on it. In addition to that a large banner with the name William and Mary was raised in back of the stand. The sign was eighteen feet long. The Alumni with nearly two hundred students who went to see the game cheered lustily and sang the college songs with vigor.

Dues Go Up Against Shipbuilders With Clean Record for Season

The William and Mary Freshman football team will close its season here tomorrow night with the Apprentice School of Newport News. This will be one of the best games on the Papooses schedule. The Shipbuilders have been noted for turning out excellent teams and annually meet some of the best teams in the state. They have played South Norfolk and lost by a lone touchdown. They also lost to the V. P. I. Junior Varsity. The freshmen so far have neither been scored upon nor defeated and have in turn defeated Washington and Lee Freshmen, Woodrow Wilson High and South Norfolk High School.

This is the only game here this week-end and a large crowd is expected to turn out for the fray. It will be at 8 o'clock.

The locals will probably lineup as follows: Dyer and Bauserman, ends; Michaels and Barclay, tackles; Darden and McAlexander, guards; Ayers, center; Mozeleski, quarterback; Mapp and Scheff, halfbacks and Maxey, fullback.

WEEK OF PRAYER PLANNED BY Y. W. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. will observe the World Week of Prayer from November 11 to 17. Each night a short prayer service will be held in every dormitory from 10 to 10:30 o'clock. On Tuesday night a vesper service will be held in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 7 o'clock. All girls are asked to take an active part in the forwarding of this national project.

The Y. W. C. A. is endeavoring to establish an employment list for all girls interested in doing part time work. Any girl interested in placing her name on the list may place her name and college address in the employment box in the Y. W. C. A. room in Barrett Hall.

Boxing Announced As Minor Sport For William and Mary Athletes

SCHEDULE OF THREE GAMES IS ANNOUNCED

Locals Will Meet Washington and Lee There, and Hampden-Sydney There and Home

SEVERAL VETERANS HERE

Number of Men On Campus Here With Prep School and Athletics Club Experience

Following the policy adopted last year of expanding the athletic system at William and Mary the athletic council has approved of boxing as an intercollegiate sport at this college. For some time in the past the department of Physical Education has had some classes and groups in boxing. The leatherpushers will now branch out and enter intercollegiate competition.

Billy Gooch, manager of athletics, has been working on a schedule for some time and has announced the schedule of three meets to which several others are expected to be added. Just who the coach will be has not yet been announced but it is thought that some member of the department of Physical Education will be the coach.

There are several men in the college who have had some experience at this sport in prep school and in amateur clubs. Those who serve on the team will be awarded minor letters. This will give William and Mary four major and six minor sports for men.

The schedule is:

Jan. 19—Washington and Lee at Lexington.

Feb. 22—Hampden - Sydney at Hampden-Sydney.

Feb. 22—Hampden - Sydney at home.

ANOTHER CLUB FORMED HERE

Latest is a D. B. S. Club for Purpose of Discussing Modern Problems

It was announced yesterday that twelve girls in Tyler Hall have formed a D. B. S. Club. This Club was organized for the purpose of discussing modern problems, and the aim, as is stated by the constitution, is that of "enlarging our general fund of information." The following formal discussions have been held at the preceding weekly meetings: "Attitude Toward Foreign Students," "Questionable Books," and "The Characteristics of Friendship."

The club announces the name of Miss Althea Hunt as its honorary member and faculty advisor. The officers are as follows: President, Mildred Matier; Vice President, Grethe Christensen; Secretary, Gladys Prause; Sergeant at Arm, Ethel Blanks; Publicity Chairman, Amy Louise Reid and Chairman of pin committee, Mildred Roberson. The remaining active members are: Eleanor Douthat, Frances Hancock, Betty Mathews, Mary Stephens and Sadia Ushur.

NOTICE

It has been requested by the Business Manager of The Flat Hat, that those students living in town and various other places where it is difficult for the circulation staff to deliver, come to the office for their Flat Hats after lunch and not before as the papers are not ready for distribution until that time.

WRESTLING TEAM STARTS TWISTING NECKS MONDAY

WOMEN START SOCCER AND VOLLEY BALL

Soccer for girls started on Wednesday with a number of women reporting for practice.

Games between the different teams have been arranged similar to those for Hockey, and will be played off in the next couple weeks.

Practice will probably be held for a period of two weeks and then the points will be awarded and an honorary varsity chosen.

Isabel Kemp is captain of the Soccer Team this year and Laura Field is manager.

Four Volley Ball Teams have been organized in Physical Education 201 and 101-c. These teams are running a series of games in their class periods. They are becoming quite efficient in the game and some exceptional team work is being displayed.

The captains of the various teams are:

Team I Helen Andrus

Team II Estelle Ironmonger

Team III Margaret Baughman

Team IV Dorothy Halligan

H2E CLUB TAKES IN TWO MEMBERS

Athletic Club Will Run Lost and Found Office In Jefferson Hall Gym Office

Bert Gary and Laura Field were initiated this week into the H2E honorary women's athletic club at a meeting at the home of Miss Marguerite Wynne-Roberts. Only students majoring in physical education are eligible to membership, it was stated.

This year the club will supply emblems to alumnae, seniors, and juniors majoring in physical education work. These emblems must be returned by June 1 of next year if the wearer fails to graduate.

The organization plans also to place a "Lost and Found" box outside the gym office in Jefferson hall. Lists of all articles lost in the gym or office, or turned into Miss Taylor will be posted on the box, which the girls are urged to watch.

Officers of the H2E club are: President, Charlotte Miley; Secretary, Isobel Kemp; Treasurer, Mary Quick; and Chairman of Entertainment Committee, Virginia Alexander.

CHANGE IN SCHEDULE

Billy Gooch, manager of athletics, has announced the following change in the basketball schedule—the game with the Medical College will be played later on in the schedule while the Johns Hopkins University will be played on December 17 in Baltimore.

1928 GRAPPLERS HAVE NEW COACH

Red Wilson, For Three Years Southern Conference Champion to Direct Squad

SCHEDULE OUT SOON

The William and Mary Wrestling team will soon start out on its second season. Last year the grapplers started wrestling as a sport at William and Mary and won two out of three of their meets.

The team this year is to be coached by Red Wilson formerly of the Virginia Military Institute. For three years Wilson was Southern Conference Champion in his class. The new coach has ordered that all those who wish to go out for this sport to report in Blow Gym at four o'clock in the wrestling room. Manager Handcock is working with Billy Gooch, the athletic manager on a schedule which will be released soon. The wrestling team is captained by Robert E. Diebert of Bedford, Penn. Other men on the last year's team who have returned are Bloxson, last year's captain, Garrett, Diebert, and others.

New Library Building Will Be Finished in June

WORK STARTS ON STRUCTURE

Cost of Addition Will Approximate $100,000 When It Is Completed

By June of next year the College William and Mary will possess one of the most beautiful libraries in the south, construction on the new addition having started in earnest this week, according to Dr. E. G. Swem, librarian.

Contract for the work has been awarded the Farmville Manufacturing Company, of Farmville, Virginia, and already workmen are busy getting the ground in shape before actual building begins. The edifice will cost $100,000, funds having been furnished by the state, it was said.

Since 1923, when the building was enlarged, the library has grown considerably, until the needs of the much larger student body necessitated another addition.

On the east end of the new building will be reserved for old books, prints, documents, and portraits relating to Virginia. The William and Mary library is credited with having the most notable collection of this sort in the Old Dominion. The west end of the structure will house the administrative offices of the library organization.

An inspection of the names of the students tapped indicate that all are members of some college social fraternity.

The principal address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Donald W. Davis, head of the Department of Biology here, and a charter member of the local Circle. The speaker was introduced by James M. Robertson, president of Eta chapter.

Dr. Davis spoke interestingly of the work of O. D. K., linking it in a measure with biology, in that the effectiveness of an individual in his work hinges in great measure on heredity and environment. An organization, he started off by saying, must be judged by its work, and every college organization should be asked to prove how it justifies its existence by being an agency for good.

"Good organizations," he said, "develop one's capacities to the utmost, stretching the limit given us by heredity to the greatest degree. Omicron Delta Kappa has proved of great importance in college life, bringing out the outstanding students in campus activities."

Virginia Historian Pays Tribute to Dr. E. G. Swem

A tribute to Dr. E. G. Swem, the librarian was found in the preface of one of the latest additions to the book shelves here. In explaining his reasons for writing the book called, "Campbell Chronicles and Family Sketches," R. H. Early, a Virginia historian wrote the following paragraph:

"To the information which has come under my observation and of which free use has been made, county people have contributed, yet the instigation to continued research is due to the suggestions of the librarian of William and Mary College, E. G. Swem, whose familiarity with and interest in Virginia records encouraged me to follow his advice in completing this history of Campbell County as far as possible.—R. H. Early."

WILLIAM AND MARY PLAYERS VOTE TO THANK ASSOCCATES

Acknowledgment to several persons who aided in the presentation of the three one-act plays produced in Phi Beta Kappa hall last week was made at a meeting of the William and Mary Players this week.

It was voted to thank Mrs. Kathleen Hipp, Miss Lillian Cummings, Miss Ruth Davies, Mr. Tucker Jones, Miss Carrie Sheren and Mr. W. P. Cook for assisting directly or indirectly in the production.

Girl Reserve Unit Active Under Direction of Miss Lam

The Y. W. C. A. is doing active work in the Williamsburg High School in addition to its constructive programs given here on the college campus. Under the leadership of Katherine Lam, chairman of the Girl Reserve Committee of the Y. W. organization, a Girl Reserve Club has been formed at the local high school. This club meets every Wednesday afternoon and has a membership of about 50 girls. Increasing interest and enthusiasm is shown at each meeting and the work in general is a vital part of Y. W. C. A.

Other college students connected with this special branch of "Y" work, are Charlotte McKown, Violet Page Koteen, and Frances Bragg.

"EVOLUTION" IS TOPIC OF BIOLOGY CLUB DISCUSSION HOUR

Clayton-Grimes Biology Club met last Tuesday night in Ewell Science Hall. The subject "Evolution" was discussed by Harry Lee Doll and Lawrence Moscher. Mr. Doll spoke on the prevailing theory of evolution that of "All life started with a single cell." Mr. Moscher upset this theory by presenting the theory that, "Life began in different groups at the same time and evolution took place within these groups."

After a brief discussion of this subject, S. Sanger gave a short talk on "Bees and Their Habits" and the meeting came to a close.

Phoenix Will Meet On Thursdays Hereafter

Melvin Fields, President of the Phoenix Literary Society, has announced that the Phoenix meetings from now on will take place on Thursday night instead of Friday, hour and place as usual. This change is the result of the society's having been forced to cancel several meetings on account of the many activities which take place on Friday evenings. Mr. Fields also states that he is preparing the particulars of the freshman contest, and will present his report to the society at an early meeting.

"All the changes in Turkey were due to two things, namely Western civilization and the study of old Turkish customs," said Madame Halide Edib of Turkey, speaking here Wednesday morning.

Madame Halide Edib spoke at the convocation through the generosity and kindness of Charles R. Crane.

Wednesday's speaker was the first to receive an A. B. Degree from "The American College for Girls" in Constantinople. She is a novelist, a lecturer, and an influential worker in the field of education. At the present time she is beginning a lecture tour through the U. S.

"During the 13th century," said Madame Edib, "Hundreds of people came to the near East and gradually the Turks became conquered by the culture of these older people. The greatest changes made in Turkey were most noticeable in their ideas of Government, religion, and social life. Today they have a separation of Church and State, but great improvements are yet to be made."

The talented speaker continued by tracing the conditions of women and the attitude toward women's rights from the time of the Conquest of Constantinople up to the present time. Even though the Conquest of Constantinople had its bad results it had many good results as well. The rule of women began at this time and they built mosques, schools and aided charity. The entire educational system was improved.

She concluded her address by saying, "Turkey is not only interested in the great past of America, but primarily in its glorious future. What are the women of the country going to do for the world? They are not only going to do what man has done but they are going to do even greater things. They will bring the world closer together."

DR. FRANK CRANE, NATIONALLY KNOWN MINISTER AND SPEAKER WILL BE ON CAMPUS APRIL 14

BULLETIN

Dr. Frank Crane, scheduled to speak at William and Mary next spring, died suddenly Wednesday, according to information received by The Flat Hat yesterday. He was at Nice when stricken.

Dr. Frank Crane, nationally-known lecturer and minister, will address the students of William and Mary next April 14, according to arrangements just completed by the Young Men's Christian Association of the College. Officials of the organization have expressed pleasure that Dr. Crane has accepted their invitation to give practical solutions to some of the greatest problems in the world.

Dr. Crane is pastor of the Centre Methodist Episcopal Church, one of the most outstanding in New England, it is said. His greatest work outside of his regular preaching in his church has been in the colleges and universities of the country. His marked success in this field has caused him to make his work with the students one of the vital passions of his life, it is stated. The orator is a young man and is said to have an exceptional personality, being unusually attractive physically and having a strong appeal for everyone.

The lecturer is a graduate of Wesleyan University and the Boston School of Theology. He was rated as a star athlete in college and is still a crack tennis player. His eloquence and humor, but most of all his evident sincerity and conviction, cause him to win and hold the interest of his audience, according to those who know him.
