Indians Conquer In Last Richmond Game

Spiders Taste of Bitter Defeat at the Hands of Tasker's Slugging Crew in Final Encounter, 8 to 5; "Mickey" McGrath Huris Fine Game.

The University of Richmond went down in defeat at the hands of the Indians in the second tilt of their two-game series by an 8-5 score May 23 on the Mayo Island Park field. The game was hotly contested and only the superb hurling of Mike McGrath in the pinch kept the Braves on the long end of the score. The winning of this game put the two institutions in a tie for baseball honors of the year.

Captain Moss, playing his last game against the Spiders, had a big day both in the field and at the bat. He reached first every time but one at the bat. Kahn, Bloxson and Smith also made great showings and contributed a large part to the victory.

Richmond opened the scoring in the first when two walks, a sacrifice and a wild pitch netted them a tally. One hit and several errors gave the Indians a tying run in the third and sent the Braves on the road to victory. They scored in every inning

Final Dances To Be Held June 7, 8 and 9

George Madden's Orchestra Will Furnish Music for Final Balls of the Year; Much Preparation Being Made by Committee for Last Night.

The return of many alumni and the presence of many visitors will be the feature of the final dances to be held in the Blow Gymnasium on the nights of June 7, 8 and 9 by the Cotillion Club. George Madden's Orchestra, from Wilmington, Delaware, has been secured to supply the music and every indication is that music comparing favorably with any that has been offered at William and Mary this year will be given by these musicians. Although the orchestra is appearing for the first time at the College, they have been well recommended to officers of the Cotillion Club.

The decoration committee, under the chairmanship of Joseph Perkins, has promised new and more brilliant decorations, adding that every effort will be made to make the hall as attractive to those who visit the College as decorations can possibly make it. Novelty acts and features presented by the orchestra will complete the attraction for the dances.

The club plans to make the final ball on the night of June 9 the gala occasion of the year. Beautiful favors have been secured for the girls to be distributed at the opening of the

During the three years Andrews has also published other literary productions, including many good poems, in the Magazine, the "Indian War Cry" and the entertaining articles in The Flat Hat this year under the name Collegian. He has also been active in "Y" work, in debating and literary society, president of the Debate Council, and a member of the track team. He was elected secretary-treasurer of the Student Body for next year. Mr. Andrews is a member of Pi Epsilon Beta, O. D. K., Phi Delta Gamma and Sigma Upsilon.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The session 1925-1926 is a memorable one in the history of the College. There have been enrolled this year 1097 students, of which 629 were men and 468 were women. In our extension work in Richmond, Norfolk, and Newport News we have had an enrollment of 864. The enrollment in the summer school of 1925 was 826, making a total enrollment of 2787, the largest in the history of the Institution.

The conduct of the student body has been, on the whole, good. The preparation of the incoming class has been exceptional. The standards of the College have been maintained, and the automatic rule by which students who did not make a certain amount of work at the end of the first semester was duly enforced in the interest of the student body. The effort of the administration has been to encourage scholarship and those college activities which promote good spirit and produce leadership. The faculty has been enlarged and now consists of 71 members, of whom practically everyone has had, in addition to his undergraduate work, training in the best universities of this country. I feel that William and Mary can boast of a well-trained faculty and fully believe that the students have had the opportunity to secure the very best instruction.

The physical equipment has been improved. The brick wall has been completed around 2/3 of the College campus proper, and more than 1200 yards of brick walks have been laid. About $25,000 have been expended for this type of improvement. Some trees have been planted and others are to be planted in the fall. Some grading has been done and more will be done to beautify the grounds. The Phi Beta Kappa building, which contains an assembly hall that will seat 1100 persons, will be ready for use during next session. The contract has just been let and work will begin at once on the William Barton Rogers Science Hall, at a cost of $230,000. The equipment of this building is estimated to cost $70,000 and will be ready by September 1, 1927. The Board of Visitors is now working on plans for the construction of two new dormitories, but all the money that is needed for their construction is not yet available. The Board of Visitors is exceedingly anxious to abandon a number of temporary buildings which we have been using for some years, particularly Tyler Annex, Boundary No. 1, Boundary No. 2, and the Institute. It is proposed, however, to turn the Institute building into a practice school, after it is given up as a dormitory. Many other improvements are needed at the College and the plans of the Board of Visitors are far-reaching and the opportunities of the College are limited only by lack of means with which to provide facilities.

At this season of the year the College is interested very greatly in the Student Body for next year. May I, in the name of the Board of Visitors and the Faculty, appeal to students and alumni to furnish me with the names of young men or young women in their respective communities who are outstanding in ability and give promise of a successful college career. The College Registrar will be glad to furnish them with catalogs and other material setting forth the advantages offered at the College of William and Mary. In the long run the College is judged by its Student Body and its alumni and those who are still students and those who have completed their work at College and entered life, are therefore deeply interested in seeing that the incoming Student Body is of such a type as will reflect credit upon our Alma Mater.

I desire to thank the students and alumni for the cordial cooperation which they have rendered in all endeavors to build up the Institution and to still further call upon them to help in the undertaking to keep this Institution with its wonderful history and traditions a center of culture and useful learning.

An Alumni commencement will be the plan of the administration and the Alumni Office in arranging the program for the final exercises this year. Every effort is being made to bring to the College as many of the old grads as possible, and the speakers for alumni day and commencement will both be former students of William and Mary.

The Baccalaureate sermon will be preached by Dr. W. A. R. Goodwin in Bruton Parish Church, Sunday, June 6. Dr. Goodwin has been professor of Sacred Literature and Director of Endowments at the College for the last three years and has been intimately connected with the members of the graduating class. Dr. Goodwin recently assumed the duties as rector of the Bruton Parish.

J. Murray Hooker, '93, will deliver the alumni address. Mr. Hooker is a prominent attorney and is known throughout the State as Chairman of the Democratic Party in Virginia. He was formerly a member of Congress, representing the Fifth District. His home is at Stewart.

Another alumnus, Professor Robert H. Tucker, Professor of Economics and Business Administration at Washington and Lee University, will deliver the commencement address. Professor Tucker graduated from William and Mary in 1897, and after taking his master's degree became a member of the faculty at Washington

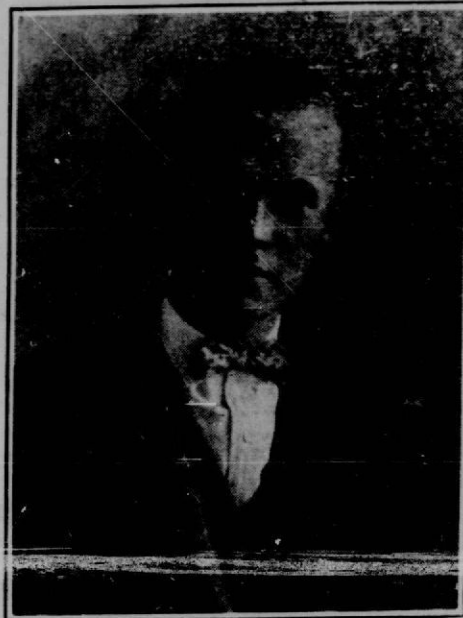

Beside the usual attraction the alumni office is trying to arrange some special features to bring back a large number of the old grads. Following the regular policy, college officials made no announcement of the names of those who will receive honorary degrees, but indications are that, if any are granted, they will be conferred upon alumni.

The exercises will follow the usual program with alumni day falling on Tuesday, June 8. A baseball game has been scheduled for that day between the Indians and the Randolph-Macon Yellow Jackets. That night the second of the final dances will be held in the Blow Gymnasium.

To Seniors

Needless to speak of parting, needless for us to sigh,

We've had the joy of the years that have gone.

There's really no need to cry.

Why stop to think of the future, why worry of the day ahead?

A Kindly God will be good to you
And again we shall meet to break bread.

So "Carry On" like a true one, but keep remembrance too,

For when we gather in the days to come

There'll no one be sad or blue.

Best Ever Issued Say Editor and Pub.

Manager of Publishing Company States Colonial Echo is One of Three Distinctive Books Being Published This Year; Many Changes in Policy.

For the first time since its first issue, the Colonial Echo appeared this year before the end of the school session, and the book made by Editor R. Lomax Wells and his staff is by far the best prepared in the twenty-four volumes that have been published. Mr. Wells, with his staff, has labored faithfully and the result has been a book that has a finish, literary excellence, and artistic charm that mark the editor as an artist and a man of letters. With the co-operation of his staff and the help of his efficient business manager, Stirling King, the book was delivered to the students last Monday. Predictions that the Echo would be a pleasant surprise were fulfilled by the excellence of the book.

Paul Hammersmith, President of the Hammersmith-Kortmeyer Company, engravers and printers of the Colonial Echo, has this to say in regard to the production:

"You will appreciate the wonderful quality that has been put into the book this year. It is a truly splendid book, being rather unusual in that it has many colors and many features that are different."

H. G. Warren, general manager of the company, is high in his commendation of the Echo, stating:

"It is one of the three really distinctive books to be printed by our company this year."

"I feel certain," said Editor Wells a few days before the publication arrived, "that the 1926 Colonial Echo will prove the most distinctive book ever published at William and Mary, for each department of the book has received as careful attention as to its make-up and appearance as though it was the entire publication. A willing and efficient staff has made this possible.

"The book has been designed with an eye for beauty in an effort to give the students something entirely new and thoroughly modern. Something unique at William and Mary has been introduced in the campus views, alternating scenes of snow and summer full page, rough tone pebble."

The sponsor section is unusual attractive. The sponsors for 1926 are Wilhemina Swann for the Student Body, Anne Townsend for The Flat Hat, Chippie Barrow for the Literary Magazine, Dorothy Morris for the Colonial Echo, Virginia Jones for football, Kitty Myrick for basketball, Elizabeth Smith for baseball, Eugene Wingfield for track, Dolly Gainey for the Senior Class, and Bert Pressy for the Cotillion Club.

The photographic work is better than in years past, the individual and group pictures showing up very clearly. Group pictures are all set in panels in an attempt to bring them out to the best effect. Inserts are a Indian designs appropriate to the section which they introduce, while the arrangements, sequences, and layout is particularly good. Each page has a border and a base with colonial pictures, an effort to further the colonial atmosphere.

The fraternity section incorporates new features this year by having pictures of the various chapter houses and the fraternity seal as a background for the write up pages.

The Echo reflects a great deal of credit on Mr. Wells and his assistant Mr. King. Future staffs will have a difficult task if they follow the standard set by Mr. Wells for this year's book.

are the colonies free and independent. More than 400 of those assembled were in the official party, and the rest were visitors from all sections of the State with a generous number of guests from other States. President Coolidge arrived at Yorktown on the presidential yacht, the Mayflower, early Saturday morning. He came to Williamsburg about 10 o'clock to attend the first ceremonies held at the other end of the town, on the site of the old capitol. At the conclusion of these ceremonies the president, escorted by a battalion ofantry, proceeded to the College, where he was received by an official reception committee. Governor Byrd accompanied Mr. Coolidge.

From the steps of President Chandler's home, the President reviewed the Student Body in academic procession. After the procession had ended, the President, with his party joined it and proceeded to the platform.

When the celebration was over President Coolidge presented the Williamsburg troop of Boy Scouts with flag, and after lunch in the College dining hall the party returned to the Mayflower.

Governor Byrd's Introduction.
To introduce the President Governor Harry Flood Byrd delivered one of the best speeches of the day. He began by reviewing the Resolutions and pointing out that their passage meant war for Virginia if for no other colony. But the very passage of the Resolutions, he added, encouraged the patriots at Massachusetts, and from them the idea of a declaration of independence gained prominence until it bore fruit in Thomas Jefferson's document.

Governor Byrd painted a vivid picture of the young Jefferson, then a law student at William and Mary, and the impression that Henry's "Caesar-Brutus" speech made on him. He also showed how the speech affected the rest of Jefferson's life and therefore, the future history of the country.

In concluding his introduction, Virginia's chief executive paid a high tribute to the men who have held the presidential chair, saying that they have "reverenced God, lived good lives and dedicated their talents and their strength invariably to the service of their country." President Coolidge, Mr. Byrd pointed out, is a representative of this line.

The President Speaks.

President Coolidge opened his speech with a review of the history of the section between Washington and Norfolk, and of the lives of Virginia's famous statesmen. He then began:

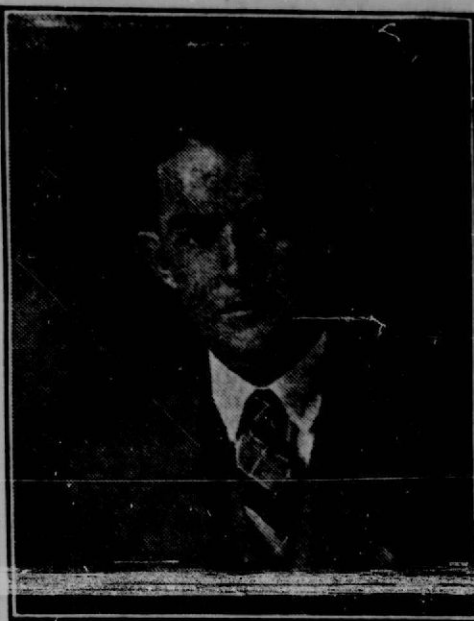

"Our life is complex and interwoven with thousands of varying motives and cross currents. One act leads to another. Yet certain actions stand out with so much prominence against the background of the past that we are justified in saying of them that at least there is an event which is one of the beginnings of a new epoch. In accordance with this standard, we are altogether warranted in asserting that 150 years ago, on the

Editor H. L. Ganter Is Praised For Work

Stories by Hopkins, Myrick and Staples Are Outstanding, With Poems of Walsh and Berkley; All Departments Are First-class.

(By F. JAMES BARNES.)

Improvement in the William and Mary Literary Magazine has for the past several years been marked, but the improvement of Volume XXXIII, the work of Editor Herbert L. Ganter and his assistants, over the preceding volumes is even more decided than was the improvement in the issues going before.

Since the magazine was first departmentalized several years ago, there has from year to year been development in first one department and then the others, but Editor Ganter has been the first to produce a magazine in which all departments have been given equal attention and have reached an equal stage of perfection—a stage of perfection which has gained for the magazine unusual and flattering recognition in literary circles of the South and elsewhere. Aside from his success as an excellent executive, the editor is to be congratulated for the real soundness and constructive tone of his editorial.

There has been in the magazine this year an agreeable paucity of the pendantic articles, colorless stories and prosaic verse, which too often goes to make up the college magazine; instead there has been a varied assortment of short stories, essays, translations, sketches (literary and historical), book reviews, and finally a collection of verse, which, in itself, would have won lasting recognition for the magazine because of its individuality, its delicate charm and at the same time because of its soundness and depth.

Ranking pre-eminent among the verse are "A Sonnet" and "To a Cripple," by Phyllis Walsh, both of them finished productions, deemed worthy of being republished in the Sigma Upsilon Newsletter as being representative of the high tone of work being done by the William and Mary Literary Magazine. Ranking with the poems of Mrs. Walsh are the delightful and imaginative "Gypsy," by Fairfax M. Berkley, "Desire," by Ellen Graves, and "The Heathen Writes a Poem" and "Gloria," by H. C.

Of the short stories, perhaps the most striking were the colorful Virginia dialect story, "The Hell P'int Champion," by Sewell Hopkins, "Fear," by Kitty Myrick, "He Who Laughs," by Samuel Staples, and "The Mother Smiles," by Ruth Burton.

The other departments of the magazine, the essays, translations, book reviews, and exchanges were creditable to the editor and to the authors, and were sufficiently meritorious in themselves to make it necessary only to say that they were well done.

The work of the editor has been noteworthy in every respect, but he could have accomplished little except for the diligence and efficiency of the business manager, Henry Frazier, of whom too much cannot be said in praise; for under his guidance the financial status of the magazine has been raised to an unprecedented degree.

Frank S. Hopkins, of Gloucester, was elected editor-in-chief and E. Cotton Rawls, of Franklin, business manager of the Literary Magazine at a meeting of the staff held Monday, May 17. Eddie Nicholson was elected circulation manager at the same meeting.

Mr. Hopkins has been on the Magazine staff for the past two years as associate and assistant editor. He is known as one of the outstanding literary men on the campus, and he has attained high standing in scholarship. Several articles of his, including some editorials written in the magazine, have received wide attention and have shown well the qualification of the new editor. Mr. Hopkins is a junior and a member of Sigma Upsilon. Cotton Rawls is business manager of The Flat Hat for next year and manager of the College orchestra.

THE LAST WORD

No harder task is set for man than that which comes when he must bid farewell to his friends and depart, leaving behind him many things which have become so extricably moulded into his life that they feel a part of him. Mental productions are as truly a man's children as are his physical offspring, and to leave them is equally as hard. But this is the order of progress to which man must accede for the good of the organic group of which he is an insignificant part.

With this issue we conclude our work as the staff of The Flat Hat. Many thoughts come to our minds as we turn to our successors the trust which the Student Body has placed in our hands this year. Many impressions cling in our memories; impressions at once pleasant for our few successes and bitter for our many short comings; impressions that will last with us as we pass to the missions of trust that a larger community may deign to impose upon us.

We have made mistakes; we have failed to measure fully to the mark set for us. But we have tried at all times to remain true to one principle: everything that advances the interests of William and Mary and of liberal education is the province of The Flat Hat. We have tried to present the campus news in the most attractive form. We have tried to point out the direction in which the academic world is moving. We have tried to interpret the happenings in the world and in our community and to chart the paths that will lead to the most efficacious conclusions in advancing these interests. Nothing partisan has entered into our work. Rather we have tried to bring faculty and student and the various groups in each of these class together, and we have tried to connect William and Mary with the outside world in her rightful relation. Having come to the end of our tenure we must now lay aside our labors and take our places in our niches among those who have passed on.

As we step from our places we extend our greetings to those who have so honored us as to place their trust in us. We wish the departing Seniors their full measure of felicity and prosperity. To those who will return we say bend your efforts to the upbuilding of William and Mary, materially, if you can, but above all spiritually in the resuscitation of her traditions, in the rehabilitation of her status as the nursery of scholars, and in the ex-carnation of every tendency that will detract from her welfare as an institution of learning. The individual is only a transient detail, but the college is a permanent institution. Finally, to our successors we say discharge your administration with the experience gleaned from our mistakes.

With this word we submit the fifteenth volume of The Flat Hat to the Student Body, to the Faculty, to the Alumni, and to the College of William and Mary.

THE EDITOR SAYS FAREWELL

An editor seldom addresses himself to his readers in a more familiar manner than that expressed by the usual editorial "we," but it seems not out of order to ask pardon for laying aside now and extending a direct address to the Student Body.

I wish first to thank both the Student Body and the Faculty for the co-operation given me this year. No more hearty support could be asked than that which I have been accorded by students, instructors, and officers of administration. No small quantity of appreciation is also due the Alumni Secretary, whose contributions and suggestions have aided materially in the preparation of the paper this session.

No words can express the debt I owe to my staff. Each member on the list has performed his duties faithfully, cheerfully, and efficiently. This is not a perfunctory statement but a sincere expression of appreciation for the excellent support they have given me. Any success that The Flat Hat may have attained is due directly to the efforts of the staff.

Finally, I should like to commend to the Student Body and to all other readers my successor, Mr. Andrews. His administration, I am sure, will be worthy of confidence and approbation. The support of the students will mean his success, while the lack of support will necessarily detract from his efficiency.

I assure every one concerned that I have enjoyed my work with The Flat Hat and my connections with its followers. With best wishes I greet each of its readers and bid each farewell.

GEO. W. REILLY.

A Glimpse Into the College World

Here and There Among the Exchanges of The Flat Hat

Seniors at Earlham College made a pledge of $50.00 each toward constructing a new class room. This will be the senior gift to the college.

Butler College has substituted a system of giving a series of quizzes throughout the year instead of having final exams.

Hobo College, Chicago, held its first commencement on March 22, at which time one hundred and fifty students were graduated.

A student wishing to enter the University of California must be able to spell five hundred words correctly. We wonder if our freshmen class would be as large as it is, if we had such a ruling.

Upper classmen at Dartmouth are required to engage in some sort of athletics at least three times a week with only six cuts allowed.

"Late reports from the University of Kansas announce that the 'red flag Bolshevism' secretly hoisted to the flag pole, turned out to be a pair of red bloomers."

TO THE STUDENT BODY:

In the name of the Faculty and Board of Visitors of the College of William and Mary, I wish to return my sincere thanks to the Student Body for their hearty co-operation on May 15th on the occasion of the visit of the President of the United States, the Governor of Virginia, members of Congress, and members of the General Assembly of Virginia. But for this co-operation it would not have been possible to have handled with any degree of satisfaction the large number of people who were here. The student Body of William and Mary, and the Alumni, however, can always be counted upon in times of strain to render appropriate and efficient service.

Cordially yours,
J. A. C. CHANDLER,
President, College of William and Mary.

Hughes and Chandler Honored by Sigma Upsilon

Pres. of College and Distinguished Alumnus Are Taken Into Gordon-Hope Chapter of Sigma Upsilon National Literary Fraternity.

Gordon-Hope Chapter of Sigma Upsilon National Literary Fraternity closed its activities for the present session last Friday night when at the final meeting President J. A. C. Chandler and Judge R. M. Hughes, of Norfolk, a distinguished alumnus, were initiated into the order. The ceremonies which came after the annual election of officers, were followed by the final banquet given in the tea room at which the initiates were the guests of honor. Dr. J. Leslie Hall, one of the original members of the local chapter, acted as toastmaster while short speeches were made by Dr. Chandler, Mr. Hughes, Dr. Hamilton, and Dr. Montgomery.

Sigma Upsilon, which has as a prerequisite for membership achievement in the field of literary work, is a distinct honor to the undergraduate as well as faculty. It actively engages in support of literary production at the College, and numbers among its present membership the retiring and incoming editors of all three College publications.

Besides the guests of honor at the banquet Friday night, the following members were present: Dr. J. L. Hall, Dr. W. A. Hamilton, Dr. W. A. Montgomery, Dr. J. R. Geiger, Prof. P. P. Peebles, Prof. C. E. Castenada, Prof. H. Babcock, Mr. C. R. Ball, Fairfax M. Berkley, Frank Marston, Jr., Frank S. Hopkins, Herbert L. Ganter, R. Lomax Wells, F. James Barnes, Snowden Hall, and M. Carl Andrews.

Hampden-Sidney recently celebrated its one hundred and fiftieth anniversary. Many alumni and distinguished guests were present to help make the program an elaborate one.

Mount Holyoke College refuses to admit any girls for next year who will not give their word of honor not to smoke while a student of the college. This is practically the only college to take such drastic measures against smoking.

INDIAN SPORTS

STATE COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL CHAMPIONSHIP WORKS HIGH TIDE OF INDIAN ATHLETIC SUCCESS FOR YEAR

A FINAL WORD ABOUT SPORTS

It seems that no matter how well groomed Indian athletes are, as compared with the Spiders, the Dobsonites appear invariably to be at their best when a William and Mary-Richmond contest occurs. The track meet last week, however, was one which went a good way toward proving that the Richmond harriers have developed the best team they have had for a number of years.

With the time for exams drawing near, Indian athletics have settled down to a mere wait. The two games scheduled to be played during finals will occur in fine baseball weather, in so far as seasons are concerned; but the fact that a majority of Indian supporters probably will not be at hand to witness the contest may detract somewhat from the thrill of battle.

* * * * *

Although the freshmen began their baseball season a bit late, they more than made up for their tardiness, and lived up to the old adage to the effect that a lot of preparation is best in the long run. The number of games won by the freshmen showed that the material for a strong varsity next year will not be lacking.

* * * * *

The exhibition put on by the various branches of sports at the May Day festival would have made a good starter for spring football training.

* * * * *

It seems only fitting that those men who have worked hard for four years on the varsity track squad should have received service monograms. Even though these monograms might be somewhat distinctive from the regular ones, some form of recognition is undoubtedly warranted. Honestly to put out for four long years, to put out his best efforts and still not to attain the coveted goal—well, it takes a man to do that.

* * * * *

And now that the year of Indian sports is nearly completed, let us hope that next year will see the Indians victorious in every branch of sports that they engage in. And to those Indian warriors that may not return—the best o' luck to ye."

Jackets Will Oppose Indians For Finals

Captain Johnny Moss Will Lead His Team for Last Time in Game on Cary Field Alumni Day; W. & M. Resting Since the Spider Game.

The last two games on the Indian baseball card are scheduled to be played during the final exercises of the year, the first coming on June 7, with Randolph-Macon at Ashland, while the second and last will be on Cary field with the Jackets again as opponents the following day.

William and Mary has not yet had an opportunity to cross bats with the Randolph-Macon club. Immediately following the Indians' northern trip, the game with the University of Richmond engrossed their attention for a while, and since that time a period of relative inactivity has been the order of the day for Coach Tasker's charges. Randolph-Macon's card has been somewhat similar with regard to the lapse in scheduled games.

Coming as they do during the closing exercises of the year for both institutions, large crowds of spectators are expected to be present for the games. The contest at William and Mary on Tuesday, June 8, will occur on the annual Alumni Day, and the number of former students of the college and their friends should swell the attendance to that usually on hand during the regular baseball season.

Captain Johnny Moss, only member of the regular nine to be lost by graduation, will lead his team of green, gold and silver clad warriors for the last time of his college career in the final contest.

Defeat Richmond In Last Baseball Game

Triangular Meet With Harvard and Washington and Lee Features a Brilliant Track Season; Loss to Richmond in Final Proved Hard Blow.

(By JOHN B. GREEN.)

In ringing down the curtain for 1925-26 the Indian teams are completing the most difficult schedules as a whole ever attempted by managers, coaches and teams of the Green, Gold and Silver. In every branch of sport the William and Mary teams have been rewarded with great success, and on the gridiron they easily defeated all comers decisively to clinch the State title in the realm of football. The records and prestige established during the former seasons throughout the territories visited by William and Mary aggregations were upheld in every detail and in many cases greatly strengthened by the representatives of this year's athletics.

Football.

William and Mary's eleven, for the second consecutive year covered itself with glory on both the local fields and those of the powerful northern universities which it encountered. Navy and Syracuse took victories whose scores do not give insights to the real power of the Indians, but the college world was given a big scoop when the same team held the great Crimson team of Harvard to a 14-7 score and until the last quarter had a big edge in a 7-7 tie. Randolph-Macon, Duke, Albright, Roanoke and Richmond all suffered defeat at the Indians' hands. Notable among the Indians' play was the work of Davis and Irwin, who were the choice of the majority of sports writers for South Atlantic honors. From the regular line-up six men will be absent on the resuming of play next fall. Graduation this June claims Captain Elliot, Parsons, House, Charles, Cain and Irwin. Next year's varsity, however, should not suffer, with the returning wealth of reserve material which Coach Tasker had during the last season.

Basketball.

Under Captain Marshall the Indian quint came through its season with an average of approximately .500. Only one victory was needed to make the losses and wins equate and the total of points amassed was very close to that got by the team's opponents. In the games with State teams, the Indians were very successful and gave fall to each of its opponents, but the Richmond Spiders, who lay claim to the State title. Only one regular will be lost to the varsity next year, this being Captain Marshall. Accordingly followers of the court should be able to look forward to a very brilliant season.

Track.

The title of conference champion was lost to the Indian tracksters this spring when the Spider aggregation took their measure on the Richmond track, but the Braves had a good field and track team just the same and deserve a share of credit for the showing made. Meets with Harvard, Washington and Lee, V. P. I. and George Washington featured the schedule.

The sports feature of the year was the triangular encounter with the first two. William and Mary made a very creditable run for honors, considering the comparative strength of the three institutions. But the value of the meet was the excellent performance of the Crimson runners and the relations established between the two institutions.

The Indians defeated George Washington, Randolph-Macon and Wake Forest by large scores on the local track, and lost to V. P. I. and Richmond on the cinder path of the opponents.

Grove, Hooff, Thomas and Yates were the outstanding stars of the team, each breaking college records during the spring schedule.

Track history would not be complete without a word about the cross-country and relay teams which wore the green, gold and silver during the fall and winter. The former kept a clean slate, with two victories and two ties to its credit, and the latter took from Johns Hopkins the first relay victory ever attained by a William and Mary team.

Baseball.

The Indian nine swept through another successful season even though it lost the Virginia-Carolina title to the Dobsonites of Richmond. Comparative scores show that the William

Interest In Girls' Sports Much Larger

Basketball Team Made Wonderful Record for 1926 Season, Suffering But One Defeat in Ten Games; Captain Love is State High Scorer for Second Time.

(By PEGGY EACHO)

The time was when girls' sports had not been heard of, but the co-eds have been working hard, and it seems that the time is coming when the boys will have to look to their laurels in order to get their share in the interest of the Student Body. At least, this conclusion will be drawn from the support that has been given girls' athletics this year. No phase of men's sports has drawn a larger crowd than the girls' intercollegiate basketball games.

Not only has the support of the Student Body been excellent, but there has been an unusually large number of girls trying out for the various sports. Also quite a large part of the credit for a successful season is due to Misses Barksdale and Roberts, who have proved themselves very efficient coaches and enthusiastic workers. A more definite idea of the work done may be got from a brief summary of the various sports.

Hockey

This year has been the first in which an intercollegiate hockey game has been played by William and Mary. This game was an easy victory for Sweetbriar College on their home field, but, judging from the number who came out for hockey this season, it is destined to become one of the strongest women's sports of the future at William and Mary.

Soccer

Only inter-class soccer was played but the sport proved most enjoyable and interest in it has shown itself to be increasing rapidly. This season was the first in which points toward the point monograms were given for soccer.

Basketball

Basketball has been the strongest co-ed sport here for some time. The interest has been continually increasing, until this year when the team played ten intercollegiate games. The only defeat received was by Savage, a team which was itself undefeated this season. By this remarkable record, the William and Mary co-eds showed themselves to be one of the strongest teams in the East.

Captain Love was the highest point scorer in the State for the second consecutive time. She made a total score of 193 points which was within 11 points of the total score of the opponents this season. Anna Wilkins, varsity side center for two years, has been elected captain of next year's squad.

Those who received monograms in basketball are Captain Love, Manager Gibbs, Viola Ethridge, Jean Miles, Anna Wilkins, Nancy Burke, Louise Tompkins, Anne Townsend, and Sally Cogle.

Swimming

Official batting averages for the baseball team released by Eddie Nicholson, team scorer, show that Gook Gregory, diminutive hurler, leads the Indian hitters with an average of .555 in eighteen times at bat. Mike Smith, slugging right fielder, ranks second and leads the fielding players, having secured 31 hits in 61 times at bat for an average of .508. Tommy Thompson, third sacker, is third with an average for the season of .387. Three other men entered the charmed circle of the .300 hitters, these being Kahn, ss.; Delk, c.; Captain Moss, c. f.

mering five doubles, one triple, four homers, and 21 singles in 61 trips. In the same number of games Mike stole five bases and sacrificed twice. He also leads the sluggers with four home runs, the only man on the team to get more than one circuit drive.

Jonnie Moss leads the base stealers with a total of 14. Rats Kahn, with eight sacrifices, leads his team mates in that department of play.

The team average shows that the Indian crew had a year of exceptionally good hitting. The entire squad batted .291 for the season while .250 is a good aggregate average.

The complete record for the squad is:

universal in interest. There has only been one exhibition, which was given by part of the life-saving class as a Red Cross exhibition.

Tennis

The girls' tennis team has had four matches this spring. Two of these have been victories over Kecoughtan Country Club, 6-0, 6-1, respectively. The team took a trip to George Washington University and lost 4-1. The second match with George Washington was played here last Saturday, resulting in a defeat for the Indianettes, George Washington sweeping the entire meet. Ann Wilkens, Ellen Moody and Laura Whitehead received stars in tennis, while Marguerite MacDaniel, Brownny Osmond, May Slemple and Elizabeth Towner were awarded letters.

Other Sports

Other activities have been featured this year in the women's athletic circle of the College, activities which have elicited quite a bit of interest and have given evidence of future strength. Among these are track, archery, hiking, and baseball. In the one track meet that was held four of the records made in past meets here were broken. The hikers were out in the early mornings and late afternoons of the spring, getting their credits toward point monograms.

This year there have been more applicants for point monograms than ever before. Those who have made enough points to receive these monograms are: Marjorie Carter, Ellen Moody, Olive Thomas, Anna Wilkens and Harriett Zimmerman, who were awarded stars, and Nancy Burke, Alice Chewning, Sally Cogle, Bessie V. Harwood, Polly Hines, Genevieve Hoffman, Rosa Mountcastle, Minge Perkins, Virginia Turner, and Madeline Waldrop, who received monograms.

State Collegiate Football Championship Works High Tide

and Mary team is easily the State's best, but fate and immortal jinx intervened and played a very big part in keeping the title from Williamsburg. In the two-game series with the Spiders the Braves dropped the first and annexed the last contest, but a defeat at the hands of the Medicos, whom the Richmond club beat, gave the University aggregation the judges' decision in awarding the title. Gook Gregory and Captain Moss will be lost to the team next spring and Coach Tasker will find it hard to fill the vacancies left by these two veteran mainstays.

Tennis.

Under the student coach, Parrott, the tennis team underwent its most successful season. Matches with most of the principal colleges of the State were held and the final outcomes and averages were very favorable to the honor of the court game at William and Mary. All members of the team were veterans this year and with one exception the aggregation will remain intact for next year. Complete reorganization and adjustment in the carrying on of the sport has played a big part in the achievements of the club.

The Rifle Team.

A new sport took its place among the ranks of William and Mary athletics this year in the shape of the rifle team. Much credit is due the patient upholders of the sport for their earnest work they did in making it a go and firmly establishing it on the campus. Shoots with the very best of the American collegiate world were held, and two victories in twelve tries is a very creditable record when one considers that the team is in its infancy. A grand climax to their season came on May 15 when the local club took twelfth in a large meet at the Naval Academy, where twenty-two teams were competing.

The athletic committee at this time is considering adding this work to the list of minor sports. This department wishes them the greatest success in this decision.

thereafter. Captain Creath, pitching his last game for the Spiders, found the bombardment too much and retired in favor of McCary, who found going just as hard.

McGrath's work on the mound received considerable mention, and the Richmond followers paid him great tribute for his contribution to the victory.

"Officer," she said in a soft voice, "I want to tell you that your number is the number of my favorite hymn."—Exchange.

Contrary to last year when the Championship squad broke ten of the fourteen records, this year's team has only set four new marks, but the events were much harder and the previous marks higher. Tom Yates clipped a fifth of a second off the 440 record set by Coach "Scrap" Chandler in 1923, while Hooff took a fifth of a second off his own 220 mark of last year. In the field Tiny Grove hurled the discus for 133 feet, or over nine feet farther than his best heave of last year, and Thomas added an inch to the high jump record set by Taylor and Kahn in the Richmond meet of 1925.

Combined May Day and Physical Education Department Exhibitions Witnessed by Over 3,000 People; Athletes of All Sports Perform

Combining the third annual May Day with the first athletic and physical education exhibit, an excellent program arranged by the staff of the physical education department was presented to about 3,000 people on the afternoon of Saturday, May 15. The crowning of the May Queen, Miss Virginia Smith, whose honor had been kept secret, was the feature of the pageant.

More than 600 student students took part in the exercises, the performers being drawn from the freshman, advanced, and professional physical education classes and from the dancing class. The whole body, with all of William and Mary's athletic teams, both men's and women's, formed an impressive procession as they entered the field.

At the end of the grand march came the May Queen and her attendants. Miss Smith deeply impressed the spectators as she moved to the field and mounted the throne. She was attended by the Queen Regent, Virginia Hardy, two maids of honor, Miss Louise Sale and Miss Mary Hurt, a group of courtiers, and pages and flower bearers. The four principles were very attractively attired in white, and ably represented William and Mary's beauty. Miss Smith's honor comes as a fitting conclusion to one of the most successful and constructive campus careers among the co-eds.

The mass drill and boxing exhibits given by the freshmen spoke well for the various instructors in the department.

During the program every William and Mary team was seen in action. The following squads were on the field: Men—boxing, gymnasium, tennis, swimming, basketball, baseball, track, and football; women—tennis, fencing, archery, swimming, hiking, baseball, hockey, and basketball.

Credit for the success of physical education at the College goes to Professor L. Tucker Jones and his staff. Mr. Jones is an athlete whose appreciation for scholarship is remarkable. This is reflected in the motto of his department, "Health, Happiness, and Efficiency." This program is the only one of its kind that has been presented in the South, including as it did a mass demonstration of physical education and athletics.

Indian Serenaders To Make Tour of Europe

College Harmonizers Will Sail With Summer School Party As Ship's Orchestra on June 19; Will Make Extended Tour of Belgium, France and Switzerland.

Two month's playing at various continental hotels in Switzerland, Belgium and France will feature the Indian Serenaders' trip abroad with the William and Mary Summer School in Europe this summer. The Cunard Line has engaged the William and Mary college orchestra as ship's orchestra for the two crossings with the summer school on the Cunard liner "Tuscania," sailing from New York June 19, and returning August 28.

Once in Europe, the Serenaders will leave the summer school and go at once to Switzerland, where they will play for two engagements of about a week each. From Switzerland they will go to Brussels, Belgium, for two or three more engagements. With Brussels as a base, they will tour France and Belgium until August 28, when they will return with the summer school.

Mr. B. D. Adams, representative of the Cunard Line, who came here to hear the Serenaders, was very favorably impressed and spoke highly of their performance, saying that it was much better than some of the University orchestras, which had played for the Cunard Line in the past few years. This compliment was not a light one, since some of the best college and university orchestras in the country have played on the Cunarders.

The William and Mary College orchestra, now officially known as the Indian Serenaders, was organized a few years ago and is now recognized as one of the best college orchestras in the South. They have broadcasted from WRVA in Richmond several times and have received high compliments on their programs. The trip to Europe is a fitting climax to their activities this year and should prove not only interesting, but also profitable to every one who makes the trip. The members who will sail on the 27th are: H. C. Wescott and Townley Gamble, saxophone; E. Cotton Rawls, trumpet; Robert Pulley piano; J. M. Weaver and Oscar Wilkerson, banjo; D. B. Daughtery, violin; and Harry Blair, drums.

Review of Past Session Shows Faculty Members Contributed Much to World

Every Department In College Represented

Hall's Translation of Beowulf Continues a Standard; Babcock's Gazette Wins National Recognition Through Colonial Edition of May 15.

During the past year the faculty of William and Mary has continued to write for the outside world with all the success of former years. Every department has been represented in various current periodicals, and some new books have been published by the members. It is the desire of The Flat Hat to review to a very slight extent the outstanding works of the past and former years, which have been written by members of the faculty. Although all the members of this body are not represented below, this is no criterion that they, too, have not been writing lately, but rather that they have neglected to hand in their list before The Flat Hat went to press.

Dr. John Leslie Hall, dean of the faculty and professor of English, for his "Translation of Beowulf," which is considered by authorities as the standard translation, and for several other works. Dr. Linwood Taft has had published his "Technique of Pageantry," four plays including "The Woodcutter's Christmas," and "The Son of God," "Galahad, Pageant of Thanksgiving," and "Pageant of Savannah, Georgia," are two of his best known pageants. Mr. Gwathmey contributed "An Unpublished Picture of Edgar A. Poe" to the International Book Review and is at present engaged upon writing "Life of John Pendleton Kennedy," which will be published soon. Mr. Babcock has been very actively engaged in the publication of The Virginia Gazette, many of his editorials and articles having been reproduced with credit in thirty-eight papers in the last three months. The colonial edition of the Gazette was ordered and sent to buyers in forty States and two foreign countries.

Dr. J. A. C. Chandler has written himself, or has been joint author to many books on Virginia history and government. Recently he edited the "Genesis and Birth of the American Constitution." Dr. Morton has written several articles on Virginian history, most prominent of which is "The Negro in Virginia Politics, From 1865-1902." He is also author of the third volume of the "History of Virginia," by Tyler, Bruce and Morton.

In the field of government, Dr. John Garland Pollard is preparing volume sixteen of "Pollard's Code Biannual." He has also written several articles for the Bulletin of the American Institution of Banking, and will be remembered as the co-author and editor of the William and Mary Citizenship Creed. Dr. E. G. Swem has many volumes concerning Virginia history and government. Prominent among these is his "Bibliography of Virginia Conventions and Constitutions." He has also edited several books and pamphlets concerning colonial days, as well as the William and Mary historical Quarterlies.

In the language department, Mr. Williams has contributed articles to the Modern Language Bulletin. Mr. C. E. Castaneda has been busy with numerous contributions to prominent current publications. Most recent of these articles, "A Trip to Texas in 1828," is a translation published in the Southwestern Quarterly last April." The First Pan-American Congress" in the North American Review," and "Is Mexico Turning Bolshevik?" in the Catholic World, both appear in the June issues of these magazines. Mr. Castaneda has been writing historical articles of Mexico and Texas, as well as dissertations on the Spanish language ever since coming to William and Mary.

Miss Gertrude L. Carey is the joint author of "Measuring Scale for Free-Hand Drawing." Dr. Hoke is the author of "Placement of Children in Elementary Schools" and co-author of "How to Measure." Mr. Krebs has also contributed "Reaching the Children" and "Being a Good Teacher" from the education department.

In the business department Mr. Voke has just written "Accounting Methods of Colonial Merchants in Virginia"; while Dr. Klamon has published "The Incorporation of Trade Unions."

In philosophy and psychology Dr. Geiger has recently had published in the Religious Herald "Reconstruction in Religion." "Authority in Religion,"

Library Has Increase of Over 5,000 Volumes

Efficient Work of Librarian Swem is Building up Standard Collection; Paintings, Letters and Historical Documents Are Added.

(By CORNELIUS de WITT)

About 5,000 volumes, of which about 3,500 were presented by friends of the College, have been added to the stacks of the College Library this year. In addition many valuable manuscripts, pamphlets, portraits, and documents have been acquired, and throughout the period about 500 periodicals have been received by the College. The average daily attendance at the Library has been about 400.

Many sources have contributed to the growth of the Library during the past session. The list of donors includes the Medical College of Virginia, the estate of Mrs. Edwin Booth, Colonel Clarence Hodson, Miss Mary L. Morris, G. H. Norcross, Frederick E. Brasch, the Hon. Oscar L. Shewmake, Dr. H. E. Bennett, the Hon. Robert M. Hughes, David Belasco, the United States Bureau of Education, Theodore Presser, Mrs. William Jennings Bryan, Miss Ruth H. Early, Guillermo Sherwell, and James Poyntz Nelson.

Several contributions of importance were made during the year. Miss Fannie M. Burke, of Alexandria, presented the Library with a copy of Stuart's "Jefferson," and Dr. C. Grant Robertson, of Birmingham, England, contributed a portrait of Sir Christopher Wrenn. A notable collection of letters from the Ewell family, including much interesting material concerning the College, was presented by Mrs. R. M. Crawford, of Williamsburg. Colonel Hodson has given several letters from Presidents Monroe and Tyler, while Mr. Hughes has been a continual contributor to the Library. Many other alumni have helped by notifying the Librarian of valuable collections, some of which have been secured.

The credit for the Library's prosperity undoubtedly goes to the efficient Librarian, Mr. Earl Gregg Swem. Mr. Swem has been Librarian since 1920 and during his administration has built up the Library remarkably. Complete catalogues have been prepared on a scientific basis, and the whole Library has been run under the motto "Service." The efficiency of the Library force and the courtesy with which visitors are treated has won many friends for the College, and secured many valuable donations to the Library. Mr. Swem is also an authority on Virginia History, and he maintains a large correspondence with those who consult him on matters pertaining to this subject. Many public speakers and promoters of historical celebrations are included in this list. Mr. Swem has helped the students directly by his personal attention when requested. His interest in College activities has led him to devote much of his time to their development, and his assistance with The Flat Hat has been free and valuable.

Mr. Swem is assisted in the Library by a staff composed of: Miss Emily Christian, Miss Mary Beverly Ruffin, Miss Jane Moss, and the following student assistants:

Vigorous Revival of Y. M. C. A. Work Has Been Outstanding Under Sec'y Cassady

Growth of "Y" Has Been Very Marked

Famous Speakers Such As J. Stitt Wilson and Allyn K. Foster Have Been Brought to College; Many New Branches of Activity Opened.

(By UPTON B. THOMAS, Jr.)

Under the very capable leadership and guidance of Maynard L. Cassady, student "Y" secretary here, the Young Men's Christian Association has just completed the most successful year in its history at William and Mary. For the first time, the College has had the services of a full-time "Y" secretary; the result has been most noteworthy. The Association has expanded from a small group, which, for all practical purposes, existed only nominally, to a living, growing organization, with a long record of service rendered to its credit and a brilliant future before it. The "Y" in its objectives and in its program has grown to keep up with the rapid expansion of the college.

The establishment of the "Y" room as a social center for men has been one of the outstanding improvements of the year. Heretofore the Association has had no place to call its home. This room in the George Preston Blow Memorial gymnasium was presented to the men of the college by Mrs. George Preston Blow, III, of Yorktown, in memory of her husband and his father and grandfather, who were William and Mary men. This room, furnished in colonial mahogany of rare beauty, was given by Mrs. Blow in order that the men of the college might have a room where they could spend their leisure hours in the midst of beautiful and stately surroundings. A piano and a new orthophonic Victrola have been added to the equipment of the room. The Association keeps the room furnished with checker and chess boards, as well as the latest periodicals and phonograph records.

The "Y," seeking as it does, in its program to meet the needs of the campus, has made itself felt perhaps more through its activities than in any other single way. The Sunday afternoon teas were inaugurated and have become a regular gathering place for hundreds of the students and many members of the faculty. Socials for the freshmen and special musical features have also been a part of the program. This year for the first time a joint banquet of the Y. W. and Y. M. cabinets was held. Later in the year over four hundred men and women attended the first annual banquet of the active members of both associations.

A large number of men attended conferences in the State, on missions, world court, Bible study, boys' work, community service and many other related subjects, under the auspices of the local Y. M. C. A. Last summer four men were delegates from here to the Student Conference at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, and the Association hopes to send even more this year. The "Y" has brought to the campus to speak men of high calibre, such as Robert E. Speer, J. Stitt Wilson, W. Taliaferro Thompson and Allyn K. Foster. Dr. Foster spent several days here in April, visiting the various classes and speaking to the students. The response from the campus to all these meetings was most encouraging. The Wednesday night fireside meetings has proved of great value as the only regular men's devotional meeting on the campus. Various other things have been undertaken by the "Y" in the past year, which may be even farther developed in the future, such as the sale of second-hand books, a student employment agency, etc.

The Extension Department of the Association is also just in its infancy. A class in boys' work was held under the leadership of Professor Faithful and Professor L. Tucker Jones. Some of the men trained in this group have been helping with the Boy Scout work in the local high school. This same type of activity, greatly expanded in scope, can be carried on by deputations in the future.

The Y. M. C. A. has been treading on new ground and through the work of Mr. Cassady, has advanced greatly. It has sought to bring about a fellowship in the Student Body and a definite Christian organization among those who are vitally interested in the religious life of the campus. In short, Mr. Cassady has endeavored through the medium of the "Y" to serve the College wherever service is needed. Mr. Cassady came here last fall a perfect stranger, but he leaves his position this summer, a man well known and universally liked. The new secretary came here from Juniata College in Pennsylvania, where he was instructor in Latin. Mr. Cassady received his M. A. from Princeton and his B. D. from the Seminary in 1923, in which year he

THE OLD GRAD

A Column Devoted Exclusively to William and Mary Alumni

J. MALCOLM BRIDGES,
Alumni Secretary

The two hundred and thirty-third final exercises of the College have been designated "Alumni Finals" by President Chandler, and William and Mary is anxious to have the largest alumni attendance in the history of the Institution.

A portion of Monroe Hall has been set aside for alumni and their families for final week, June 6, 7, 8 and 9. Reservations should be made through the Alumni Office at once.

The College brings to a close her most successful year—a year marked by development and many successful undertakings. To make it the biggest year, as well as the most successful, it is necessary that the sons and daughters of William and Mary make the trip to the campus and see for themselves the strides that their Alma Mater has made over the past nine months.

TUESDAY, JUNE 8, is Alumni Day. Make no other engagements for that date. William and Mary needs you here at that time to make of it a success. The Hon. Murray Hooker, '93, has consented to serve as Alumni Day orator. Business meetings of both the General Association and the Board of Managers of the William and Mary Alumni Association will be held at that time. The annual alumni dinner will be held in the College Dining Hall, and a baseball game with Randolph-Macon will come as a feature of the afternoon program. All roads will lead to William and Mary at that time, and, incidentally, these roads are among the best found in Virginia.

Reunions will be held for the Classes of '76, '86, '96, '06, and '16. COME HOME, and take a part in the various events of interest.

O. D. K. Installation Followed by Banquet

Herbert Ganter Takes Office of President for 1926-27; Final Banquet at Colonial Hotel Attended by All Members and Associate Members With Guests.

Twenty-nine members of Eta Circle gathered at the Colonial hotel last Wednesday night for the farewell banquet of the Omicron Delta Kappa fraternity. The occasion followed the installation of the new officers held at the Theta Delta Chi house immediately before and marked the close of the year for the O. D. K.'s

Dr. W. A. Hamilton presided as toastmaster with his usual dignity and entertaining style. He introduced the five speakers of the evening, all of whom gave interesting talks to those present. The speakers were Dr. W. A. Hamilton, who welcomed the guests; Mr. A. G. Williams, national president of Omicron Delta Kappa; Andre Goetz, retiring president of the Circle; Herbert Ganter, next president of the Circle; Coach Tasker, and Dr. R. L. Morton, one of the founders of the local Circle.

The members present and their guests were: Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Williams, Dr. and Mrs. D. W. Davis, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Morton, Dr. J. R. Geiger, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wilder Tasker, John Todd with Ruth Oliver, Flicky Harwood with Virginia Hardy, Mac Bridgers with Mary Cabaniss, Andre Goetz with Anne Townsend, George W. Reilly with May Reilly, C. H. Cain with Elizabeth Duke, George Gregory with May Laudenslager, Al Carlson with Kitty Brooks, W. H. Irwin with Agnes Curtis, John Marshall with Peggy Eacho, Johnson Moss with also won the Gelston-Winthrop Fellowship, which took him abroad for about a year and a half, where he studied at the universities of Berlin and Turbingen. While on the continent, he also was engaged in war relief and mission work. His many friends here are sorry to see him leave, but wish him all success in his new position. He has been appointed to the Department of History at the Shantung Christian University at Tsinan, China.

The officers next year are: President, L. W. P'Anson; vice-president Allan Cook; secretary, Garland Tallmadge; treasurer, Carl Andrews. The editor of the Handhook and his assistant are William Thompson and Richard Angle. The chairmen of the various committees are: Devotional, Robert Brewer; social, Kenneth Beatty; extension, William H. Morrow; world Christian education, A. Scott Anderson; publicity, Upton B. Thomas, Jr.; room, Thad King; sick visitation, E. P. Simpkins, and freshman, Lee Todd. As yet no full time secretary has been obtained to take the place of Mr. Cassady.

Pick a pipe
with good old

TALK about "alliteration's artful aid" . . . the printer certainly raided the "p" box that trip. But let that go! The advice is just as serious and sound as though it were couched in the careful diction of an English prof.

Just get yourself a jimmy-pipe and fill the bowl to the brim with Prince Albert. Light up, and let the first fragrant whiff tell you that no other tobacco is like P. A.—or can be! Cool and sweet and fragrant, P. A. has everything a fellow ever wished for in a smoke.

P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat. The Prince Albert process settled that in P. A.'s freshman year. Get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today. The first load-up will tell you why pipes are so fashionable among young men today.

PRINCE ALBERT

—no other tobacco is like it!

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

5th of May, 1776, formal action was taken in this city by a patriotic band of Virginians in their public capacity as servants of the common cause of America, which had a most direct influence in leading to the Declaration of Independence."

The speaker then pointed to the resolutions passed by the voters of Cumberland county and those of Charlotte county, which really led to the passage of the Lee Resolutions. After summarizing the events that preceded the Declaration of Independence, President Coolidge continued:

"The importance of these resolutions was well understood in the locality. The event was marked that evening by a celebration, the ringing of bells and the firing of guns. The British flag went down at the State House never to raise again, and in its place was flown the Crosses and Stripes, the temporary emblem of a new government."

The excellence of our official documents of the period indicate to the President that the men who drafted them were men of particular merit and ability.

"No one can contemplate these events," he said, "without a deep realization that those who participated in them were guided by an inspired vision."

Modern Implications.

Moving from the past to the present President Coolidge plead for unity of spirit throughout the country:

"Our country holds to political and economic independence, but it holds to co-operation and combination in the administration of justice." Mr. Coolidge added that we should recognize this national unity, develop a feeling that our country is one bound up in common interest, and that we should "have done with national divisions." This would not be inconsistent with local self government, which was foreseen in the resolutions by the provision that "the regulation of internal concerns of each colony be left to the respective colonial legislatures." As an illustration of this point the speaker offered the comparison brought out by assuming that either local or national government be abolished. The abolition of the Federal government would not be immediately discovered by the citizen, but the abolition of local government would be a stunning blow. The States must discharge their duties or the Federal government will be forced to interfere, for:

"The doctrine of States' rights is not a privilege to continue in wrong doing, but a privilege to be free from interference in well doing."

President Coolidge concluded his speech with this paragraph:

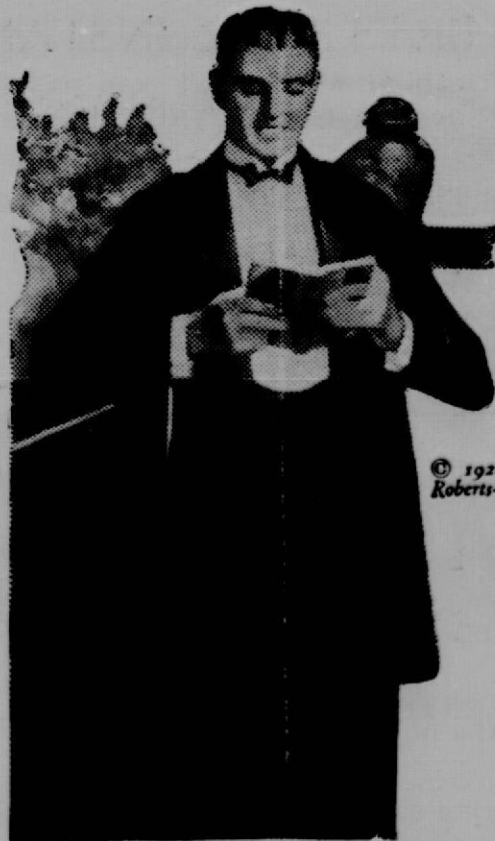

"Amid all the contentions of the present day nothing is more important than a constant and vigorous resistance to the domination of selfish and private interests in the affairs of government in order that liberty and justice may still be secure and the public welfare still be supreme."

Other Speakers.

Representatives were present from Connecticut, Massachusetts, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New York to extend greetings to Virginia at the celebration. Telegrams were received from the others of the thirteen original States and from several of the other States.

Representative Ogden L. Mills, of New York, said in his greetings:

"To intrust the American principles to one central authority is to hazard their very existence for, deprived of that sense of personal responsibility in the independence from which they derive their strength, and removed from that jealous vigilance which should invariably attend them, they will gradually lose their strength and grow pale until the shadow rather than the substance remains, and they may be blown away by the first tempest."

Review of Past Session Shows Faculty Members Have Contributed Much to World

"Coue, Auto-Suggestion and Prayer," "Can An Evolutionist Be Anti-Christian?" and "Modern Doubt, Its Cause and Its Cure." Dr. Geiger has also contributed several articles to The International Journal of Ethics, in which was lately published "The Honor System in Colleges," "Evolution As Hypothesis and As Fact" appeared in School and Society last summer. Most noteworthy of all however is "The Religious Implications of Pragmatism," which was published by the University of Chicago Press.

Finally, the science department has been peering into microscopes and test tubes. Dr. Warren contributed "Fruit Shape in the Garden Tomato" to the Michigan Academy of Sciences. Dr. Guy is co-author of "Short-lived Radio-active Products of Uranium," published in the Journal of Chemical Society, and "Radio-activity of Potassium, Rubidium, etc." in the Bulletin of National Research Council. Dr. R. C. Young has completed his "The Riemann Surface for a Special Algebraic Function," and has now in the press "Binaural vs. Monaural Sensibility of the Human Ear to Small Changes in Frequency."

An important contribution not in the field of letters was the invention by Dr. Rowe, of Rowe's Plane Trinometer, an instrument designed to assist in solving triangies. The pattern was presented by Dr. Rowe to the Virginia Academy of Sciences, and it has demonstrated its usefulness. If its use becomes general, the whole science of mathematics, its teaching, and many phases of engineering will be revolutionized and simplified. The trinometer will also combine plane geometry and trigonometry into a new science, trinometry.
