SEVEN INITIATED TO HONOR GROUP IN TAP SERVICE HELD LAST NIGHT

Eta Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa Elect Three Faculty Members and Four Students in Semi-Annual Public Exercises

DR. R. L. MORTON DELIVERS PRINCIPAL TALK AT AFFAIR

Dr. Warren, Dr. Taylor, and T. J. Stubbs Bid From Faculty; Frank Craven, John H. Waters, J. J. Davies and Paul Ryan From Students

Eta Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary society for campus leaders, tapped three faculty members and four students in its spring initiation service held last night in Phi Beta Kappa Memorial Hall. Dr. Richard L. Morton, professor of history, charter member and faculty adviser of the William and Mary circle since 1921, delivered the principal address of the evening.

Students elected were: Frank B. Craven, of Port Washington, New York. He is a member of the Sigma Nu social fraternity and member of the class of '30. He will be business manager of the Literary magazine next year, serving as assistant business manager now. He has played consistently with the college golf team for three years, and will be manager of the team next season. Mr. Craven is said to have had one of the highest scholastic averages of any student bid.

John H. Waters, Jr., of Portsmouth, Virginia. He is a member of the Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity, and belongs to the class of '30, as do all other students initiated last night. He has been a member of the Honor Council for several years, and is vice-president of the Junior class. Mr. Waters is also serving on the managerial staff of the track team.

James J. Davies, third of the students bid, is from Manassas, Virginia, and is a member of the Kappa Alpha social fraternity. He is manager of basketball for next year, and is a member of the Flat Hat honorary club. His scholastic ranking is very high, it is learned.

The last of the four initiated was Paul A. Ryan, of Lynn, Mass., a member of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity, and outstanding in baseball and football, in both of which he has won letters. Mr. Ryan had higher grades than any other athlete considered for membership, and has served in the glee club two years, and in dramatics also.

Dr. Paul A. Warren, of the Biology department, was elected as active faculty member to fill the unexpired term of Dr. J. R. Geiger, who resigned from active duties because of press of school affairs. Dr. Warren will serve the full four-year term starting next fall. He came to Williamsburg in 1922 from the Medical College of Virginia, where he was head of the department of biology and pharmacognosy. Previous to that time he had taken degrees of B. S. and Ph. D. from the University of Maine and the University of

COL. WM. P. KENT HEADS W. ALUMNI

Col. Kent, Formerly of U. S. Foreign Service, Graduated From W. & M. in 1876

Col. William P. Kent, U. S. Foreign Service, retired, who graduated from William and Mary with the Class of 1876, was installed as president of the William and Mary Alumni Club of Washington, at a dinner Thursday night at the University Club, succeeding Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson. Other officers installed were Maj. Francis Scott Key-Smith, Representatives S. O. Bland and R. Walton Moore, vice-presidents; F. Shield McCandlish, treasurer, and C. H. Bush, secretary.

In presenting Col. Kent, toastmaster F. Shields McCandlish read his biography in "Who's Who in America." The new president practiced law in Kentucky and Virginia until the outbreak of the Spanish-American War, when he was commissioned as a captain. Thereafter, he accepted an appointment as Consul-general at Guatemala City in the U. S. Foreign Service. In 1909, he was nominated for governor of Virginia. After serving twenty years in the Foreign Service, in China, Germany, Switzerland, Ireland and Bermuda, he retired to live in this city.

In his address of acceptance, Col. Kent declared that "there is no college or university in America that is so rapidly growing into public attention as is William and Mary College."

Dr. W. T. Hodges, Dean of Men, was the official representative of the college at the installation exercises. He recited statistics showing that a large percentage of the students are coming long distances from every state in the nation to enroll at William and Mary. Dr. W. T. L. Taliaferro, of the faculty of the University of Maryland, who attended William and Mary over fifty years ago with Col. Kent, addressed the meeting upon the subject, "The Value of Tradition to an Educational Institution."

Retiring officers, besides Admiral Grayson, include J. W. Sommerville, secretary, and Erle Edward Stacy, treasurer. Over a hundred alumni of the College reside in and near the District of Columbia.

Carroll Pierce, president of the Citizens National Bank and former member of the Board of Trustees of the College, was chairman of the committee in charge of the installation exercises.

New Organization Will Mean the Passing of "Minus Mary" Performance

PRODUCTION SET FOR MAY 21-22

Director Kathleen Hipp Will Use "Naughty Marietta" as Basis For New Presentation

"Minus Mary," the annual men's show on the campus is no more. Instead comes the announcement of a larger and augmented musical production known as "Plus Mary" which will be presented here May 21 and 22, with both men and women in the cast.

This production will be based on Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta," but it has been pointed out by Mrs. Kathleen Hipp, director of the show, and also director of "Minus Mary," and "Minus Mary II," that it will consist of something more than the well known composer's operetta. Additions have been made and specialties have been added along the line of the original "Minus Mary" shows.

Hazel Storch, of the Women's Glee Club, has been assigned the leading role in the performance. Who will play opposite her, is still in doubt, because of the difficulty of the role. The remainder of the principal cast is also in a state of flux, but will be announced shortly according to Director Hipp.

Among the specialties to be worked into "Plus Mary" are a dancing quartet which was featured in "Minus Mary II," a singing trio, Rosy Ryan, in a dancing specialty similar to the one he put on in "Minus Mary," and of course the combined men and women's glee clubs with an addition of a few former members and some new talent that came on the campus at the beginning of the second semester.

If G. Walter Mapp '92 who recently announced his candidacy for Democratic nomination for governorship of Virginia receives the nomination and wins in the general election in November he will have been the seventeenth alumnus of William and Mary to hold this office. An inspection of William and Mary's Roll of Fame shows sixteen alumni have been thus honored.

Former governors who attended this college were: Thomas Jefferson, Benjamin Harrison, Edmund Randolph, Beverly Randolph, John Page, William H. Cabell, John Tyler, Sr., John Tyler, Jr., James Monroe, Wilson C. Nicholas, James P. Preston, William B. Giles, Littleton W. Tazewell, Wyndham Robertson, John M. Gregory, and A. J. Montague.

Imagine the governor all set for a solid evening of comfort in his cozy old library—and finding that the women folks had "modernized" it with triangular sofas, conical armchairs, and July 4th rugs!

Now, imagine you bought some cigarettes, and discovered that they were supposed to do almost everything in the world except what you bought them for, i.e., satisfy your taste for tobacco. Maybe it's the modern idea, but—oh, well, let's talk about something else!

Chesterfields, now. They satisfy. Their only "specialty" is high tobacco quality. Friendly as your most comfortable armchair, as full of flavor as your favorite book. A splendidly made and blended cigarette. And—maybe we are old-fashioned—recommended to you for that very reason.

Those Tennis Courts

Some day, as the saying goes, William and Mary is to have new tennis courts.

Meanwhile, as an afternoon's observation of the four student courts now available will show, William and Mary's tennis devotees are anxiously waiting. There are two hundred of them, if the estimate of members of the tennis team is to be accepted, and due to court limitations not more than sixteen can play at the same time. Meanwhile, these patient white-clad racket wielders are almost literally waiting in line to get the use of courts. Every bright afternoon brings them out in droves—hopeful of playing half an hour's tennis if fate is kind and the earlier occupants of the court are considerate.

There are not, according to members of the tennis team, enough courts even for the ordinary intercollegiate matches. In the recent Delaware contest the team was forced to request the use of the faculty courts in order to play its sets. Meanwhile a considerable number of student players waited all afternoon without opportunity to play at all.

The College, and particularly the physical education department, should see to it that new courts are provided. Daily physical exercise is of tremendous value to the maturing student, and yet many avoid it because they dislike the mechanical form of gymnastic work or do not find other fields of athletics to their choosing. Surely the great interest in tennis is something the physical education and athletic directors should be quick to encourage and utilize.

Out of the Fog

The Flat Hat Club not commonly considered by outsiders or by its own members a "campus service" society, has thrown its support behind the Debate Council in encouraging attendance at William and Mary's debates. The Club has offered to work with the Council in order to repopularize, by public advertising and in other ways, the field of debate.

It is significant that the oldest college fraternity in America should be seeking to revive, at this date, interest in an activity that owes its national prominence to a large extent to William and Mary. There is more in the Flat Hat Club's support than the mere backing of another field of college activity. For this is not the purpose of the F. H. C. group; such work it leaves to Omicron Delta Kappa and similar campus-minded organizations. What the F. H. C. Society desires is the re-establishment of the popular debate to its former lofty position.

The case of the present-day college debating team is a curious one. Somehow, although debate audiences seem constantly growing smaller, these energetic collegiate orators seem to have a miraculous way of untying the purse strings of their respective alma maters. The go on long trips; they can be found wandering hundreds of miles from home, arguing before crowds that in too frequent cases are mere pitiful handfuls. They even cross the Atlantic.

Certainly somewhere there is a reason for all this. In these days of business management even college treasurers do not finance costly debate tours merely for old sentiment's sake, or to give the campus orators their annual outing. There must be some unquenchable fire to debating, smouldering at present under the suffocating displeasure of audiences that have sat through too many battles of amateur oratory.

Give debating a chance to throw off the stigma of boorishness. Encourage its orators to fight their way out of the age-old fog of tariff, public ownership, open shop and marriage laws. Certainly these subjects are still debatable; but they're not good business. No motion picture house would prosper if it constantly re-presented old films. Urge debaters to study popular taste, to learn what the public wants, to keep abreast of the popular trend. The old timers may wince, but only in this way can debating hope to revive. William and Mary can do a great deal for collegiate debating if it will encourage these principals.

THE RECENT PLAY

Undoubtedly the recent production of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" by Theta Alpha Phi dramatic fraternity was a revelation to countless students in the College. In the fast, colorful comedy that they witnessed in Phi Beta Kappa auditorium many realized for the first time to what heights the amateur drama at William and Mary has risen. Merely to mention Shakespeare and amateur actors in the same breath is to challenge opposition and to call forth devoted theatre goers whose sole purpose in witnessing the performance is to see how many lines the cast can mispronounce and how well they can botch the play in general.

It is probable, therefore, that the skeptics and critics were well represented in Theta Alpha Phi's audience. However, it is certain that even the most skeptical were astonished by the facility and sparkling vigor with which the College actors handled the play.

The play was a revelation likewise to the amateurs who produced it. For the crowded auditorium that awaited the opening curtain, the frequent applause and the general enthusiastic approval when the performance was over proved that William and Mary had encouraged the cast's efforts and found favor with the result.

OPEN FORUM LETTERS

The Open Forum column is open to all readers of The Flat Hat for the expression of their opinions on subjects of current interest. The editors urge that whenever possible criticism be constructive. Contributions must be signed, but initials or a nom de-plume will be published instead of signatures if the contributor so desires. The editors reserve the privilege of cutting all letters over 300 words in length.

"Water, Water, Everywhere! And Not One Drop to Drink," This Writer Finds

Editor of The Flat Hat, Sir:

I don't like to knock the soft drink industry, but the lack of decent drinking water has caused my bank account to "faw down and go boom." I have made several attempts during my college career to drink warm Williamsburg city water, and each time I withdrew my head from the water squirter, my face unconsciously tries to imitate the natural expression on the countenance of Sergeant Jiggs II. Now if that dog were human he undoubtedly would sue me for stealing his "stuff" (like Charlie Chaplin's walk), but I can't help it.

I have nothing against the nice new drinking fountains in the buildings and rather enjoy testing them out to see whether I am destined to get a shower bath or a drink of water. Everything to its own business, I say, and the drinking fountains—like insurance agents—are apt to burst out in a flood of business without any special encouragement from the poor public. But to go on with the story.

Not being able to quench my thirst at the usual drinking fountains I have, in the last few months, become a frequent drinker at the soda fountains. Sometimes I reach over the marble front and help myself to ice water, but it hurts my conscience to do that often. Consequently I pay several nickles a day to keep my whistle wet. My father has recently decided that I'm his April Fool and has cut off my allowance, and now I will have to go back to warm water or famish.

I would just as soon stay on the water wagon if that water has a lovely taste but, here, the English language isn't adequate enough to describe it. The stimulus of warm Williamsburg water, to say nothing of other Williamsburg drinks, is terrible. What can be done about it? Only one thing, and that is to install the old water coolers a few months earlier this year, to freeze the bad taste out of the water.

Can't we have them during the month of May, at least? The authorities must remember that individual students are not equipped to ice water for their own consumption and if it is done at all, it must be done by the college.

Water Fiend.

And Now "Vacuum" Advocates That Men and Women Should Eat and Be Merry Together

Editor of The Flat Hat, Sir:

In the Open Forum a few weeks ago a person calling himself Breadheaver labored earnestly to convince us that the men students behaved in a perfectly disgraceful fashion over at the dining hall, and he suggested as a remedy for this that the men and women eat at the same tables in the main dining halls.

I'm sorry that, apparently, no one has paid any attention to him. Probably this is due to the way he expressed himself; a genuine old maid couldn't have done better—I mean worse. He exaggerated, too, when he implied that we were continually showing off for the women—everybody knows we never pay any attention to 'em. And, as a rule, the way to get things done is not to start off by roasting people.

But he is right in saying that things could be improved. I've often heard fellows say that they found on trips home that they had practically forgotten how to behave at the table. We forget how to eat and talk at the same time and do justice to both. The faculty has noticed our antics; and so have visitors.

Let's not probe into Breadheaver's motives in suggesting his "remedy"—he may have been in love at the time—but investigate it. I think it's not such a bad idea. Probably most of the fellows and co-eds would be glad of the chance to talk to each other at meal time. This conversation might, for instance, prevent dismal speculations as to the nature and origins of the newest dessert. Besides, those who weren't pleased with the new system could herd off by themselves if they wished to.

So I am renewing the plea, for I think that the idea is fundamentally sound and that the men and women should eat together.

Vacuum.

"LORD BOTETOURT SAYS--"

By BILL

The Easter-rabbit having left his generous supply of eggs and corsages at our door-steps, we return again to the hard grind of routine and take up once more with renewed vigor the pursuit of that elusive will o' the wisp, Joe Knowledge. And yet no doubt with all the gaiety of this festive occasion, there have been many disappointed people. There have been little girls who have always loved flowers for their own beauty and who believed implicitly that Danny Cupid was a florist in addition to his many other vocations. For these we weep a sympathetic tear and bid them go to find richer soil. And lo! there were those also that said it with flowers to costly accompaniment and were unheard except only by the collectors—but enough, we are speaking of flowers, not thorns.

Since the mythical personage Mr. Crump, has stalked upon the scene, we fear we have caught something of his stern and cynical manner which we hope, gentle reader, you will pardon and share with us this strange and uncanny sort of Crump complex. So that if you hear some one very gravely say, "Mr. Crump doesn't like it and he isn't going to have it here," you must indulge them and remember he is only a victim of the Crump psychosis which all good alienists recognize as one of the signs of genius. We will tell you more of Mr. Crump another time.

Yours,

course in Journalism to acquire a more varied study of English than as an indication of how college women look at journalism courses, the following editorial from the "Sweet Briar News" is worthy of note. In view of the development of the journalism department at William and Mary it is particularly significant:

In "Campus Opinion" of two weeks ago three people out of five expressed the opinion that they would rather see a course in Journalism added to the college curriculum than any other. If this is a fair percentage of the number of people in college who desire such a course it would most assuredly be a thoroughly worth-while goal to seek. The News would, of course, be among the strongest supporters of a course in Journalism, not only because of its own benefits, but because it is one of the policies of the paper to support every issue which it considers of value to Sweet Briar.

Journalism is a branch of the study of English which is by no means confined to the science of newspapering. In fact, a busy "city editor" will tell any applicant for a reporter's position that he "wants a newspaper man, not a journalist!" Thus it is that we would elect a can be secured by electing all of the courses we now have, some of which in that department and in others, tend to overlap each other.

Besides being a branch of English, Journalism is a field of intellectual activity which has found for itself thousands of followers among all those who take delight in any sort of activity, physical as well as mental. For Journalism is a vivid study and unceasingly interesting not only to its skilled practioners, but to its novices as well. For example, we believe that there are many students in Sweet Briar who have potentialities for various activities which can be brought out by writing for the college newspaper, guided by an organized course in Journalism in the college itself. And this is important, since the News is the organ for giving the experience which might lead some, who aspire higher than this, to be better "newspapermen" because they have been taught the principles of Journalism.

This is a subject worth considering, at any rate, and its numerous advantages are readily apparent to those who think of it from every angle. We can only hope that such a course will find its place among Sweet Briar's program of improvements—that our cherished dream will soon become a treasured reality.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Dr. John W. Ritchie, director of the William and Mary Summer Session, after an interview with Superintendent Stearnes, announced that the summer school would operate as usual. The session was scheduled to be held at the Dublin Institute, in Dublin, Pulaski County, Virginia. The residents of that town, represented by C. L. Jordan, agreed to make extensive alterations in preparation for the summer students. The State Board of Education promised a liberal appropriation for the support of the summer work and an additional grant was made by the Board of Visitors.

Stanton L. Bertschey, '17, of Phoebus, Va., was unanimously elected captain of next year's quint at a meeting of the basketball monogram men last week.

Baseball scores for the week were: W. & M. 9, Richmond 7; W. & M. 2, University of West Virginia 6; W. & M. 8, Union Theological Seminary 3.

H. L. Harris was the candidate chosen by Dr. J. S. Wilson to represent the college at the Virginia State Oratorical Contest. The title of his oration is "Personal Worth."

The Flat Hat for April 1, 1914, was called the All Fools' Day Edition, published on yellow paper, and containing many stories which were interesting, if true. In the issue on Tuesday, April 21, a letter from (Dr.) W. T. Hodges, superintendent of the Alexander County Public Schools, was published, the first paragraph of which read as follows:

"I take pleasure in sending you a dollar check for The Hat, particularly for the 'Yaller Hat' which was worth the price of a year's subscription."

FIVE YEARS AGO

On April 4, 1924, The Flat Hat printed photographs and letters of some of the oldest alumni of the college. Capt. W. H. Graves was adjudged the oldest living alumnus in point of years of graduation, having been graduated by William and Mary in 1856. Capt. J. S. Jones, a classmate of Captain Graves, was mentioned, and Dr. J. S. Prout was given the honor of being the oldest living former student of William and Mary, born in Washington, D. C., in December, 1833.

In this same issue there were listed among the alumni of the college the names of three of its sons who were presidents of colleges. These names were: Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of William and Mary; Dr. W. A. Maddox, president Rockford College; and Dr. James Noah Hillman, president of Emory and Henry College.

The college nine swamped the Richmond Medical College Saturday, on the new athletic field by the score of 18 to 2.

K. R. ADDINGTON TO WED

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest L. Cunningham, of Richmond, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elva Roberts Cunningham, to Kermit R. Addington of Gate City, Virginia. Mr. Addington who is now a member of the modern language department of Newport News high school received his degree from this college in 1926. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa Society and of the Phi Kappa Tau fraternity.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION FROM MRS. W. A. HAMILTON

Mrs. W. A. Hamilton has asked to use THE FLAT HAT as a medium to express the heartfelt appreciation of herself and her son William for the kindly sympathy expressed in the floral offerings by the following fraternities and organizations on the campus: The Faculty of the School of Economics and Business Administration and the School of Jurisprudence; the students of the Department of Economics and Business Administration; students of the School of Jurisprudence; the Faculty; the Student Bodies; the Wythe Law Club; Beta Chapter Chi Beta Phi; Pi Chapter of Kappa Phi Kappa; Alpha Zeta Chapter of Kappa Alpha Order; Virginia Alpha Chapter of Theta Alpha Psi; Epsilon Alpha Zeta of Lambda Chi Alpha; Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi and Alpha Theta Chapter of Chi Delta.

Conquering the Cascades

SNOW falls every month in the year where the Great Northern crosses the Cascades. Steep, tortuous grades increase the difficulty of the railroading problem. Nature has stubbornly resisted man's effort to conquer the range.

In January, 1929, the new Cascade tunnel was opened. Man, with electricity as an ally, had conquered the Cascades.

The eight-mile bore was driven in three years—a record impossible without electric power. And electrification has been extended to the entire 75-mile route through the mountains.

The conquests of electricity on the land and on the sea, in the air, and underground, are making practicable the impossibilities of yesterday. As our vision encompasses wider horizons, electricity appears as a vital contribution to future industrial progress and human welfare.

Old Liners Not As Strong As In Former Years, But Will Give Chandler Harriers Stiff Opposition

CLOSE SCORE PREDICTED

Practice Meet Shows William and Mary Squad To Be in Mid-Season Form; Weak In Distances

Tomorrow afternoon the college trackmen will have the University of Maryland as their opponents in a dual meet. This is the first time that these two teams have met in a dual meet for some years and a hotly contested fray is expected. Last year the Old Liners were here in a triangular meet with Harvard, William and Mary, and themselves, and the Maryland school lost several of its former track stars by graduation, but their places have been filled by other men equally as qualified. They do not, however, present as strong a team as was here last year, even though their team this spring is considered to be one of the best in the history of the university.

Indians Have Formidable Team

William and Mary will put a much more formidable team on the field tomorrow than they did last year. The Indians suffered little by graduation and have been strengthened by several additions to their team. Last week's practice meet between the freshmen and varsity squads brought some very promising material to light and showed that "Scrap" Chandler's harriers were in mid-season form.

In the 100 yard dash, Bill Scott showed a burst of speed and broke the tape at ten seconds flat. This is excellent time for the run and the Indians are relying on him to produce tomorrow. Quesenberry finished the 220 in fairly good time and Davis and Bennett can be relied upon to gather in some places in the dashes. In the 440 yard run, Davis turned in excellent time and was only two-fifths of a second slower than the college record for the event. The varsity had an easy time with the half mile, but were weak in the mile and two mile.

Indian Golfers Meet Hardest Opposition Of Schedule on Trip Into North Carolina

Following a victory over George Washington University Saturday afternoon on the Yorktown Country Club links, the college golf team goes to Raleigh, N. C., today where it will meet the University of North Carolina tomorrow and Duke University Sunday.

The match tomorrow afternoon appears to be the hardest that the Indian linkmen have this season, Carolina having been reported to have one of the best college golf teams in the South, and the team's victory in the South Atlantic Inter-collegiate last spring bearing this out.

The Indians, despite the loss of Art Matsui, star golfer, swimmer, and football player, are putting a strong team to the front, Captain Sam Wilcox two weeks ago broke the course record at Yorktown, one of the hardest courses in the country, while Ike Turner, holds the open championship of Wilmington, Del., with Frank Craven and Dick Mallowney having nice golfing reputations on Long Island and around Lynn, Mass., respectively.

Manager Mallowney has announced that while arrangements are not completed for all the matches, the following temporary schedule will be observed this season:

- April 6. North Carolina U. at Raleigh.
- April 7. Duke University at Raleigh.
- April 13. Washington and Lee U. at Yorktown.
- April 14. University of Virginia, at Yorktown or Richmond.
- April 20. George Washington U. at Washington.

Earned Runs—Boston 3, William and Mary 1; Stolen base—Temple; Sacrifice hit—Scammon; Sacrifice fly—O'Day; Struck out by—McNulty 3, Wallace 7; Bases on balls, off—McNulty 3, Wallace 1; Hit by pitched ball—by McNulty (Bloxson); Double plays—O'Day to Creeden to Weston; Silverman to Bloxson to Scammon; Left on bases—Boston 4, William and Mary 8; Winning pitcher—O'Conner; Umpires—Gresham and Lampkins; Time of game—1:59.

JOHNSON AND SCOTT BETTER RECORDS IN PRACTICE MEET

Last week "Wink" Johnson, freshman track star, shattered the college record for the mile. Johnson was running in the freshman-varsity practice meet against all the milers on the varsity and freshmen squads. The college record stands at four minutes, thirty-five and two-fifths seconds. Johnson's time was four minutes and thirty-four seconds.

In the same meet, Bill Scott, running for the varsity clipped off the hundred in ten flat. This bettered the college record by one-tenth of a second. Neither of these times will go as records for they were made in a practice meet.

Tennis Team Wins First Meet by Narrow Margin; New Players Show Up Well

Monday afternoon the William and Mary Tennis team opened their season here by nosing a victory over the University of Delaware racketmen, 5-4. The Indian team was composed chiefly of inexperienced players, but showed up very well in their first meet.

Wiggins and Joslin were playing in mid-season form and took both singles and doubles from their opponents. Cushing, and Fink, playing their first games for the Indians also won in the singles but split in the doubles. For Delaware Hoffecker perhaps played the best.

The summary:

Singles—Joslyn (WM) defeated Moran (Del), 6-1, 6-1; Wiggins (WM) defeated Taylor (Del), 10-8, 6-4; Hoffecker (Del) defeated Johnson (WM), 2-6, 6-4, 6-1; Cushing (WM) defeated Pyle (Del), 6-3, 6-4; Brown (Del), defeated Lewis (WM), 6-4, 6-3; Fink (WM) defeated Le Carpenter (Del) 6-3, 6-1.

JOHN MARSHALL HERE TOMORROW

Papoose Nine to Meet Justices Here Tomorrow In First Game On Their Schedule

The William and Mary freshman nine will have for its opponents tomorrow afternoon the crack baseball team from John Marshall High School of Richmond. This will be the first game for the yearlings this season.

The Justices have been going along at a pretty fast clip this season and have not lost a game as yet. Last week they played the Washington and Lee freshmen and defeated them 7-5 in a fast game. Their team is well organized and they possess some excellent hitters. A feature of their squad is their air tight infield.

The freshmen have not had a chance to show what they could do against any team of their own strength this year, but in several practice games with the varsity they have shown some excellent qualities, both at hitting and fielding. Their pitching staff is very ample and experienced and most of the men on the squad have played on various other nines before entering college. Coach Kellison intends to run as many of the candidates into the game as possible and it may be before the game is over that he will have had two complete teams on the field. It is hard to say who will start on the mound for the freshmen, but before the game is over the whole pitching staff will be given a chance to show their wares.

Indians Fall Before Bull Dogs In Fast Well Played Game; Ryan Stars At The Bat

The Boston College baseball team won a close game from the Indian nine here Monday afternoon, 3-1. The game was tight from the start and both teams played fast, air-tight ball.

Until the seventh inning it looked as if the Indians had the game sewed up, but in that inning the Bull Dogs came through and pushed their three runs across the plate. In that inning Weston worked a walk from Wallace, star Indian hurler, and scored when Gibson singled to right. Gibson scored on Temple's questionable triple down the first base line. He stole second and scored on O'Day's sacrifice.

The Redmen scored their only run of the afternoon in the fifth frame, when Scammon walked and scored on Ryan's double. Hitting honors were divided, both teams having six. Ryan, Indian shortstop, led the individual hitting three bingles, two of which were doubles.

Indians Meet Manhattan, Harvard, Randolph-Macon and Juniata On Cary Field In Week

MANHATTAN HERE TODAY

Redmen In Fine Shape To Meet Foes; Same Team Will Go On Field to Face These Opponents

Beginning today the Indian diamond men find themselves facing stiff opposition as they play Manhattan College, Harvard, Randolph-Macon, and Juniata. Harvard is the only team of the three that William and Mary has met in recent years and little is known of the others' strength.

Manhattan College in New York City has always had a name for producing good baseball teams and this year show that this year is no exception. They have been rather hindered by rain and cold weather and are not as far along as the Indians, but it is not safe to predict a victory for the Redmen. This game is scheduled to be played on Cary Field this afternoon.

Monday the Harvard Crimson's will be the attraction here. Harvard has been touring through the south for several days and has been playing excellent ball. Last season the Cambridge men left the Indians on the short end of a 13-2 game in a post season game and Monday afternoon the Indians will be hot for revenge.

Randolph-Macon will be William and Mary's opponent Thursday afternoon. This is the first time in several years that these two rivals have met and an exciting game is in prospect. The Yellow Jackets have been playing several northern schools during the past week and their record is anything but bad, so the Indians are scheduled to have a tough time with them Thursday.

Friday Juniata College in Pennsylvania will meet the Indians. These two colleges have never met on any sports field before and this marks the inauguration of athletic relations with another northern college for William and Mary.

The Indian nine is in fine shape to meet these foes. Although scarred by some of their opponents last week the Braves are still fighting and will go on the field determined to add some scalps to their belts. The same team that has been playing will probably be sent against these enemies, but it is hard to predict who will be on the mound for the Indians.

TENNIS TEAM TO HAVE HARVARD AND VIRGINIA FOR OPPONENTS THIS WEEK

The William and Mary tennis team plays two of its hardest matches of the year here next week. They meet Harvard at Norfolk, Wednesday and the University of Virginia here Thursday. The Indians have never met either of these teams before and their strength is unknown.

Harvard invades Indian territory determined to take the Indians into camp. The Crimson team is one of the best in years and the Indians will have a hard time taking this match from the northerners.

The next day the University of Virginia racketmen meet the Indians on their home courts. This is the

William and Mary Link Men Win From George Washington Team Four to Two

The William and Mary golf team defeated George Washington University 4 to 2 last Saturday at the Yorktown Country Club. Considering a steady drizzle which fell throughout the match, the scoring was good. Cole, Wilcox, and Mallowney each turned in scores of 78. In the feature match between Capt. Wilcox, of William and Mary, and Capt. Shorey, of George Washington, the outcome was never in doubt. Wilcox assumed the lead at the first hole and maintained the advantage throughout.

Summary:

Captain Wilcox (W&M) defeated Captain John Shorey (GW) 3 and 2.

Charles Cole (GW) defeated Frank Graven (W&M) 2 and 1.

P. D. Mallowney (W&M) defeated Walter Alexander (GW) 5 and 3.

Haspel (W&M) defeated Evans (GW) 2 and 1.

Field Contestants Strong

Mosesleski, Quesenberry, and Fields showed up well in the field events. Justis is not quite up to his usual form in the javelin, but is expected to be in shape before tomorrow. Baldacci is a close second to Justis in the javelin and is holding his own in the broad jump. Levin, and Strayer are showing up well in the jumps also. Stribling and Baggett can be relied upon to produce in the hurdles.

With the showing they made last week against the freshmen, the varsity seem in fine shape to meet all comers and a close score is predicted in tomorrow's meet.

first time in years that these two colleges have met on the court and an intense rivalry has sprung up between the two. Although this match will not be as hard for the Braves as the one the previous day, they will have their hands full to defeat the Cavaliers.

Fresh from their 5-4 victory over the crack outfit from the University of Delaware, the Indian racketmen are anxious to add these opponents to their string of victims. Practically the same team will represent this college in these matches as did in the Delaware fray.

Yale men decide which is best cigarette...

OLD GOLD CIGARETTES WIN FIRST IN TESTS AT YALE

In the recent cigarette test made at the University, OLD GOLDS were chosen by the students as the best. The cigarettes were masked by black labels so that the names of the brands were concealed. Each label was numbered. This was judged to be the most sporting way of testing the merits of the four leading brands. Some 208 Yale students were asked to smoke the four disguised brands without knowing their identity.

They were merely to choose, by number, the one that was most appealing to the taste.

The NEWS supervised the test on January 18 at various fraternity houses and in the NEWS office.

When the votes were recorded it was discovered that OLD GOLD (Cigarette No. 3) had won. Old Gold was given 63 first choices, which was 11 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 2, 34 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 1, and 53 per cent ahead of Cigarette No. 4.

SEVEN INITIATED TO HONOR GROUP IN TAP SERVICE HELD LAST NIGHT

Michigan, and had served in various high capacities with the Carnegie Institution, the United States government, and the University of Michigan. Dr. Warren has taken considerable interest in student affairs here, it is said.

Associate Faculty Members
Associate faculty members elected are T. J. Stubbs, Jr., of the history department, and Dr. A. G. Taylor, acting head of the Business School. While a student at William and Mary Mr. Stubbs was one of the outstanding men on the campus, being president of the Cotillion club and captain of the baseball team, besides holding a number of other student offices. At that time there was no chapter of O. D. K. at William and Mary, as is explained. Dr. Taylor had not been with the college a very long time, but he has interested himself greatly in student matters during his residence here.

Previous to last night's election, Eta circle numbered twenty-one faculty members and twenty-four students. It is a national rule of the organization that only three percent of the total number of men matriculated during the year may be taken in, according to Upton B. Thomas, secretary of the society.

The policy of the William and Mary chapter, it is stated, has been to take in only juniors in the spring elections, and both seniors and juniors in the fall tapping, as it is felt that to bid seniors in the spring would be unfair to those initiated, inasmuch as it would be their last term in college.

The late Dr. William A. Hamilton was initiated as an active member of Eta circle of Omicron Delta Kappa in 1923.

Secretary Thomas announced that Eta circle will elect officers for the coming session within the next two weeks, and these officials will be installed at a banquet at the first meeting during May.
