Examinations for the first semester of the college year will begin at William and Mary Monday and will continue daily until the following Monday, with the exception of Sunday. The second semester will open Wednesday, January 30. Students intending to remain in college can register for the second semester Monday the 28th and the following two days or later, although the registrar's office urged early enrollment.

The influenza epidemic which has been comparatively mild at William and Mary, will have no effect upon the examination schedule. The administration has again this year announced its intention to strictly enforce the three hour examination rule. Under no circumstances will any student be allowed more than three hours for a single examination. Any difficulties in adjustments for examinations should be referred to the proper administrative authorities.

ORGANIZATION TO PROMOTE MARKETABLE CREATIVE WRITING FORMED ON CAMPUS

ANNUAL SCHEDULED FOR APRIL

The 1929 edition of The Colonial Echo is scheduled to be published April 30, instead of the usual later date in May or June, according to an announcement by Barton D. Pattie, editor, yesterday. Members of the staff are rapidly advancing copy and pictures for the year book, and it is expected that the forms will be closed shortly after the beginning of the new year.

CONDUCT CODE KILLED BY MEN

Defeat Motion For Sportsmanship Code For Athletic Contests; Deemed Unnecessary

A motion to adopt a code of sportsmanship was defeated Monday evening at a meeting of the Men's Student Body. A model code, much like those in use at other colleges, was presented for consideration, but after a lengthy discussion on the matter, such a procedure was decided to be entirely unnecessary upon consideration of the actual conditions at the College.

The fact that there had been un-sportsmanlike conduct on the part of a small group of students during the basketball games was the cause of the suggested action. Some of the older members of the Student Body thought that the adoption of a standard for sportsmanship would terminate any unpleasant occurrences of this kind in the future. It was brought out, however, in the course of the discussion that the small group of students who had taken part in the ungentlemanly actions would change their conduct when they realized the common attitude of the Student Body.

"SCRIBBLERS" GET UNDERWAY

G. Glenwood Clark Named as Critic And Advisor to Newly Formed Association

FIFTEEN STUDENTS MAXIMUM

"The Scribblers," an organization to promote marketable creative writing among students here, was formed Monday evening at a meeting in Citizenship building. Thirteen men and women, including students studying short story writing at William and Mary agreed to join forces for mutual criticism and to encourage creative writing in quantity. A petition for official recognition by the College will be presented to the administration.

G. Glenwood Clark, instructor in journalism was unanimously chosen as advisor and critic of the organization. J. Clark Samuel, of Wilmington, Del., was elected president and Lucy Nottingham, of Norfolk, was chosen secretary. A committee to adopt by-laws and outline a program for the first meeting was appointed. It comprises Edward A. Fales, Jr., chairman; Robert Moses, Miss Nottingham and Arthur P. Henderson.

The organization decided to meet every Friday evening at which time members of the group will read their work and the other members will comment and criticize it. The first meeting will be held the first Friday evening of the new term.

In order to assure a membership composed entirely of persons seriously interested in writing as a career, the club decided to limit the membership to fifteen. Admission to the club will be by invitation only. The group will in no way conflict with the purposes of literary societies now existing on the campus. Its purpose is purely one for mutual benefit of those professionally interested in various types of creative work.

Members will be required to submit writings once every fortnight.

Members are also required to revise their work after criticism by the group and by Mr. Clark and to submit them to at least three legitimate periodicals for sale possibilities. There are a number of persons on the campus who are writing regularly and several have sold manuscripts during the current semester. It is the desire of these persons to further their output and to develop their style through the functions of the club.

Well known writers will be invited from time to time to meet with the club and speak to the students on phases of writing.

Those who attended the meeting Monday night are Lewis F. Brown, Patruchia Clarke, Edward D. Fales, Jr., Arthur P. Henderson, Beatrice Hood, Fay Le Compte, Robert Moses, Byrd Nelson, Lucy Nottingham, J. Clark Samuel and John Ward.

Christian World Education Conference Announced for February 3rd and 4th

February 3 and 4 have been announced as the dates for the 1929 Christian World Education Conference at William and Mary. This conference is an annual thing here and is sponsored jointly by the Young Men's Christian Association and Young Women's Christian Association on the campus.

Five well known men and women including educators and editors are scheduled to be on the campus at the conference. Among these are Dr. Charles Hodges, Associate Professor of Politics and Director of the Division of Oriental Commerce and Politics at New York University; Dr. John Nevin Sayre, editor of The World Tomorrow; Dr. R. B. Eleazer, former editor of The Daily Herald, Clarksville, Tenn., present editor of The Missionary Voice, and author of many articles on race relations; Arthur Rugh, connected with foreign Y. M. C. A.'s, and Miss Matilda

Lindsay.

It is expected that Dr. Hodges will address the entire student body at a convocation on Monday. The remainder of the group will be visiting lecturers to classes peculiar to their field, hold private interviews with students interested, and will address public meetings to which all students will be invited who choose to come.

The speakers will arrive Sunday morning, and will address Sunday school classes in the churches of the city, and from 4 o'clock to 6 o'clock that afternoon will be given a tea in Blow Gymnasium to which the student body will have an invitation. At this time the visitors will be introduced to the students by Forrest Brown, State Student Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. and well known to the local campus.

Further details will be announced in a later issue of The Flat Hat.

Spanish Society Plans For Fiesta This Spring

Definite plans are being formulated by Los Quixotes for its annual Fiesta to be held in April. A similar festival was given last year in Blow Gymnasium and according to the president even more elaborate preparations will be made this year.

At a meeting held this afternoon in the Activities room of Barrett Hall preparations were made for a tea to be given on February 1 in honor of Dr. E. C. Branchi who is returning to the college next semester. A meeting will be held after the tea.

Largest Enrollment in History Next Semester, Says Bridges

TO TOTAL 1425; 100 NEW ENTRIES FROM 11 STATES

Will Raise Men's Registration to 775;
Women Will Total 650; Present
Total is 1350

MAJORITY ARE TRANSFERS

Virginia and Surrounding States to Furnish Most of Incoming
Students

The opening of the next semester will witness the largest enrollment in the history of William and Mary, according to H. L. Bridges, registrar of the college. Registrations are coming in daily to Mr. Bridges' office and approximately 100 new students are expected to enter by the opening of the semester.

This new enrollment will bring the total number of students in the college for the session to about 1,425. The present enrollment is 1,350. According to Mr. Bridges estimate, the increased number of students will cause the enrollment among men to be raised to 775 and the registration of women will approximate 650. At present there are 746 men and 604 women in the college.

When this article was written, seventy-seven new students had enrolled for the next semester. The majority are transfers from other institutions, although a few will enter as freshmen. Several are students returning to complete work at the college.

According to the present new registration, eleven states are represented, including Virginia, New York, Delaware, Indiana, Connecticut, Tennessee, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Kentucky, Ohio and Pennsylvania.

It is pointed out that the fact that the majority of new students are residents of states other than Virginia, indicated the increased interest in William and Mary and the educational advantages it offers.

The orations, which must not require more than ten minutes for delivery, must be on one of the following subjects: The Constitution, Washington and the Constitution, Hamilton and the Constitution, Jefferson and the Constitution, Marshall and the Constitution, Franklin and the Constitution, Webster and the Constitution, and Lincoln and the Constitution.

The nation is divided into seven regions for the purposes of the contest. The colleges in each region compete among themselves, generally by States, to determine the finalists

ARE COLLEGE STUDENTS "COLLEGIATE"? W. & M. INVITED TO PARTICIPATE IN U. S. SURVEY ON QUESTION BY GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIV. DEAN

The College of William and Mary has been invited to participate in a nation-wide survey of educational institutions, undertaken to ascertain the real status of the so-called "collegiate" in American college life.

Henry Grattan Doyle, Dean of Men of George Washington University, Washington, D. C., has addressed a questionnaire to Dean K. J. Hoke asking a number of significant questions pertaining to the "collegiate." He wants to know whether the "collegiate" is the typical college student; also whether slouchy dress or neatness in appearance is typical of the student body. He further asks whether student opinion favors neat dress and courteous manners or approves slouchy appearance and careless habits of dress and conduct. Other queries calculated to classify the "collegiate" are also made.

A similar questionnaire has been sent to the Deans of four hundred leading colleges. When replies are received Dean Doyle believes he will have a survey which will be of wide informative value, which may be presented to the annual convention of the Association of Deans and Advisors of Men in Washington, April 11, 12, 13.

"I am sure that in common with me, you have felt concern and sometimes chagrin over the mental picture of the 'collegiate' boy or girl which the general public has apparently created during recent years," says Dean Doyle, in his letter of inquiry. "I feel that this imaginary individual is by no means typical. For the purpose of contributing something toward the correction of what I believe to be erroneous public opinion and the creation of correct opinion founded on facts, I am sending this letter to deans in a number of the leading colleges and universities throughout the country in order to get a consensus of fact and opinion which can be presented to the public."

SEVEN ARE INITIATED INTO CO-ED LITERARY SORORITY

Theta Chapter of Chi Delta Phi, national honorary literary sorority, held its annual initiation banquet last Saturday night at the White Heron Tea Room, following the initiation services of the afternoon. Initiation services were held in the Activities Room in Barrett Hall.

De Ette Jones of Atlanta, Georgia, toastmistress at the banquet gave the welcome address. During the evening three toasts were given; a toast to the new initiates, by Patruchia Clarke of New York, a toast to the old members, by Jane O'Flaherty of Richmond, and a toast to Chi Delta Phi, by Peggy Nininger of Norfolk. Decorations were in dark blue and gold, the sorority's colors.

Those initiated into the sorority were: Mildred Moore of Atlantic City, N. J., Beatrice Hood of Philadelphia, Penna., Louise Coyner of Linwood, West Virginia, Edwina Carver of Alexandria, Jane O'Flaherty of Richmond; Mrs. W. T. Hodges and Miss Althea Hunt of the faculty were initiated as honorary members.

Old members present were: Peggy Nininger, president; De Ette Jones, vice-president; Grace Vipond, secretary-treasurer; Lucy Nottingham, Julia Coleman, Patruchia Clarke.

STUDENT'S STORY IN "NEW YORKER"

Miss Beatrice Hood, a member of G. Glenwood Clark's class in story writing, has been notified of the acceptance of a short story, "The Third Sex," for publication in "The New Yorker."

Members of the class, several of whom also sold stories this term, congratulated Miss Hood.

"The New Yorker" is regarded as the brightest, wittiest and most cleverly written magazine in America. It was started over four years ago and its success has been phenomenal. Those writing regularly for the periodical include such well known names as Dorothy Parker, Donald Ogden Stewart, Frank Sullivan and Hugh O'Connor. Artists of reputation such as Peter Arno and John Held, Jr., are frequent contributors.

In addition to her work in Mr. Clark's class, Miss Hood has been contributing special stories to newspapers on phases of the restoration progress of Colonial Williamsburg.

for the one speaker from each region who is to have a place in the National finals. A place in the National finals automatically carries with it an award ranging from $350 to $1500, according to the ratings given the different national finalists.

Colleges may be enrolled in the contest by action of either a college official or a student. Entries close March 15. The spokesman for each college must be designated by April 15. Regional semi-finals will be held April 27.

SESSIONS TO BE HELD FEBRUARY 15 AND 16

Flat Hat Will Compete to Retain Title as Best College Weekly in Virginia

UNL. OF RICHMOND HOSTS

Literary Magazine, Echo and Handbook Also to be Represented by Delegates

The annual meeting of the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association will be held in Richmond, February 15 and 16. The meeting this year will be conducted at the University of Richmond, where officials of the university publications will act as hosts to the visiting delegates.

Emmanuel Emrock of the University of Richmond is president of the association. Other officers are B. M. Johnson of V. P. I. and P. R. Harwood of Washington and Lee, vice-presidents, and R. Johnson, of the University of Richmond, secretary and treasurer.

William and Mary will again be represented at the convention by delegates from The Flat Hat, The William and Mary Literary Magazine, The Colonial Echo, and also The Indian Handbook, if the handbook field is to be discussed.

At the meeting in Farmville last year, The Flat Hat was adjudged "the best college paper in Virginia," and the William and Mary Literary Magazine the leader in its group. Other awards made were the best annual, The Bomb of V. M. I., the best magazine to Cargoes, of Hollins, the second best newspaper to The Ring-Tum-Phi of Washington and Lee, and the second best annual to The Bugle, of V. P. I.

Practically all college publications in Virginia will be entered in the competition this year, and similar rankings will be made by judges named by officers of the association.

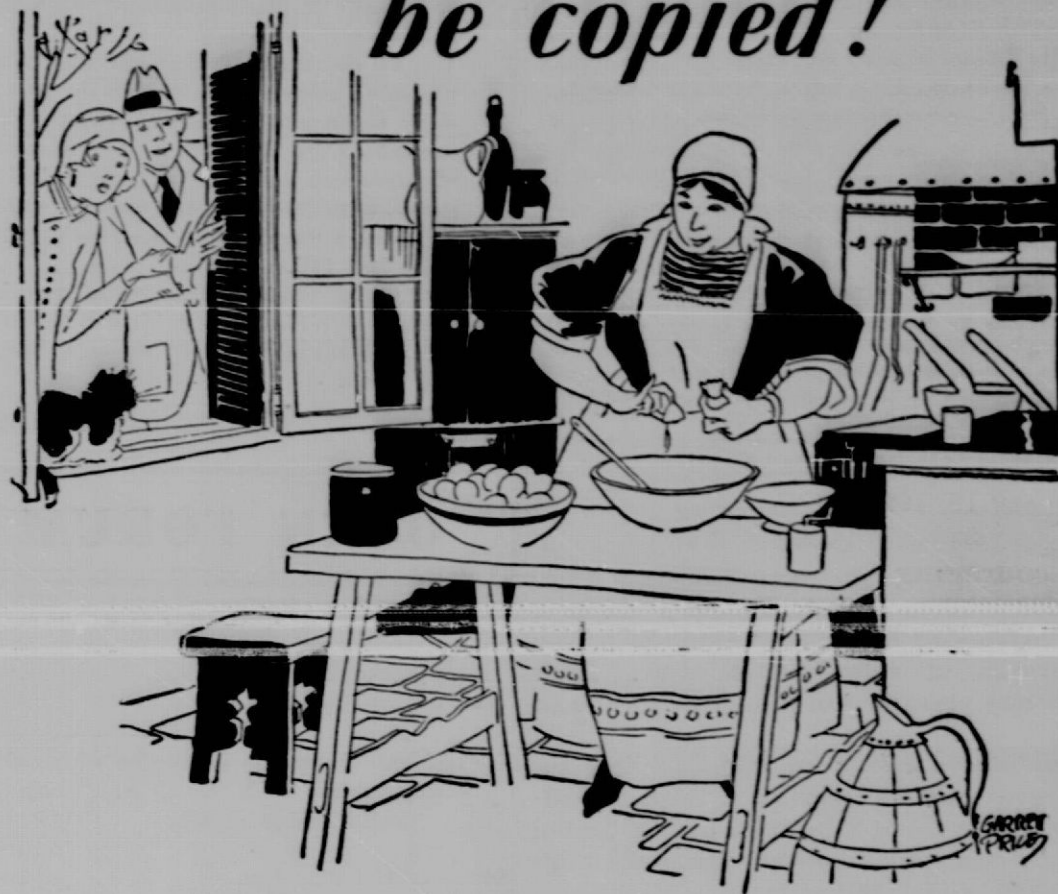

The Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association is scarcely a year old, having been formed early in 1928 under the leadership of Miss Evelyn Duane of the Farmville State Teachers College, and Archie Hudgins of Hampden-Sydney College.

Interesting Silhouette Given College Library By New Orleans Woman

An interesting silhouette of the Rev. Robert Andrews, member of state legislature, and Professor of Mathematics at the College of William and Mary in 1784, was recently presented to the college library by his great granddaughter, Miss Cecilia M. Egan of New Orleans, La.

The Rev. Andrews was educated in the College of Philadelphia and tutor for several years in the family of Mann Page of Rosevell, Va. In 1772 he visited England for ordination. He first lectured on Moral Philosophy at William and Mary and in 1784 was made Professor of Mathematics. Later in his life he was private secretary to General Nelson. Williamsburg Representative at state Convention and Member of state Legislature.

"And the blend can't be copied!"

No visitor to Normandy ever considered his tour complete until he had made the pilgrimage to Mont St. Michel and the Inn of the Famous Omelet—Chez Madame Poulard, l'Incomparable, la Fameuse Omelette.

The Madame is since gone, but not until just before she died did she reveal the secret of her famous omelets. No doubt hundreds have tried—and struggled in vain—to use the precious information, but as a writer has put it, the Inn without Madame is "like Tara's hall without the harp!"

The making of a great cigarette, too, is a secret to be guarded. The artistry lies in how the tobaccos are blended—and from our own private formula comes the rich fruity flavor that you get in your Chesterfield.

Suffice it to say that our blend can't be copied—nor for mildness with flavor can you duplicate the rare Chesterfield goodness.

Discouraging?

TWO TENDERS recently made public in the educational world have a significance that cannot be overlooked by either the student or the professor engaged in any branch of collegiate endeavor. Both throw revealing light on conditions prevailing in America's great and growing industry, education.

Nearly twice as many men and women are going to college today as were listed on the collegiate rolls as recently as 1922, according to the new edition of the Educational Directory of the United States Bureau of Education. From 1922 to 1924 alone the college enrollment jumped from 437,000 to 665,000.

Concurrent with this announcement is the thought-provoking report of the Yale University chapter of the American Association of University Professors, whose committee on the academic standard of living investigated whatever inducement, other than that of the Scholarly Life, is offered men of high quality to undertake the profession of the college instructor or professor. The committee reports that "the present scale of salaries affords good conditions for a scholarly life for an unmarried man; but a distinctly meager existence in all grades for a man and wife with no children."

On the face of it the situation cannot but discourage those considering the professional life. Yet there is a ray of hope. It is reasonable to assume that when the great and growing American universities have caught pace physically with the heavy influx of students, they will find time and money to undertake a general readjustment of faculty arrangements, thereby enabling this new American industry to compete successfully with more materialistically inclined enterprises in bidding for the services of men of high intellect and force of character.

Motion Pictures of College "Life"

The "uprising" of students against the magazine College Humor, and motion pictures which portray college life as it "isn't" is an "encouraging sign" says The John's Hopkins News-Letter editorially. The writer in the Baltimore publication points out in support of his statement the severance of two associations of college comic magazines from the larger magazine as it had "misrepresented college life to the outside world and damaged the advertising field of the college comic magazines," and goes on to say the college student is beginning to tire of his role as the "Great American Jackass."

It is the belief of The Flat Hat, however, that the greater trouble comes from the motion pictures rather than from the magazines. As The News-Letter says, the chief purchasers of College Humor are "high school students, who wish to give the impression that they are 'collegiate'; drug store cowboys, who pose as men-about-town and sophisticates; flapper typewriter punchers, who tell their boy friends they know all about the wicked college life; and banquet speakers, who are searching frantically for new gags to be used in the next Rotary luncheon speech," whereas the proportion of the population who see motion pictures is much larger.

The motion picture products of college life which the editor has been so unfortunate to see has been small, but they were enough. After witnessing one Mr. William Haines' effort in 6,000 feet of wasted celluloid known as "Brown of Harvard," he is led to wonder if the Cambridge institution will ever again be "taken in" on such a proposition to use the university's name. Then again on a number of occasions he has had the very ill luck to witness several of those "Collegians" things, produced by the Laemmle forces out at Universal city, in which the hero makes all the teams as regularly as the seasons roll around, and has yet to look at a text book. One of the latest things is a production from the Lasky-Famous Players lot known as "Varsity". This is laid at Princeton, and reports state that theatres dependent largely upon the New Jersey University trade have refused to book it, because of the feeling of Princeton alumni and students on the subject.

It is hard to believe that college students wish to be painted as the News-Letter so naively expressed it, the "Great American Jackass". The solution may come when the 665,000 or more students refuse to witness false pictures of college life.

And Now the "Scribblers"

There is material for interesting speculation in the activities of the constantly growing group of students at William and Mary who are interested not only in contemporary literature but in writing as a profession. Now comes announcement that a number of these, including amateurs and also several who already are placing their material regularly with American periodicals, have banded together for mutual criticism and suggestion in the organization known as the "Scribblers." In thus joining forces, they have wisely adopted a pledge to produce regularly, to revise industriously after having obtained the judgment of their associates, and finally to make persistent efforts to place their material with publishers.

At the same time comes word that at least one student of the short story art has within the past few days sold a classroom story to an outstanding American periodical. Another student in the same class is said to have written a play which is in the hands of producers and will be presented shortly, although formal announcement has been temporarily withheld. Similarly, a number of other students have been selling stories at regular intervals since last fall.

All of this is indicative of growing interest in the literary pursuit at Williamsburg. It will be hailed by students and faculty alike as another sign of the new life that has come to William and Mary.

OPEN FORUM LETTERS

The Open Forum column is open to all readers of The Flat for the expression of their opinions on subjects of current interest. The Editors urge that whenever possible criticism be constructive. Y President Comments on Action of Administration in Y. M. C. A. Co-Ed Bridge Action

Editor of The Flat Hat,
 Sir:

I should like to take this means of commenting through your columns of The Flat Hat with regard to the request made of the administration by the Y. M. C. A. to allow the men and women of the college to play cards occasionally in the "Y" Room under proper supervision, if such were deemed necessary.

Our college is growing in size and importance and it would seem to me that Puritanical thought should be placed in the discard to keep pace with that growth. Student government can never gain adherents where no power or discretion is permitted the students, and such seems to be the case when the present issue was raised. The Cabinets of both Christian associations expressed their approval of the question of card playing between the men and women and this opinion was presented to the "Y" Advisory Board, who passed a motion to that effect without registering a dissenting vote. The whole procedure was then handed the administration and the letter appearing in last week's Flat Hat "explains everything."

College policy would seem to indicate that the sanction of occasional bridge playing, if nothing but an administrative gesture, would gain the good will of the student body and when some other issue arose of greater magnitude the authorities would find the students ready and willing to cede a point or two in reciprocity for the cause.

LeRoy M. Ober,
 President of "Y"

Student Asks for Co-operation On Part of College For Students Who Have to "Live in Town"

Editor of The Flat Hat,
 Sir:

With the coming of the second semester, the usual scramble for rooms has started, and where will it end? Unless a large percentage of the first semester students return home for battery rechargings, a number of the new student body will be compelled to erect tents on Cary Field or to pay New York flat rates for obsolete haymows in the townspeople's barns.

In the years to come, William and Mary will be overflowing with students. Will not the Administration look into the housing problem and arrange for a maximum charge in the city as well as in the dormitories? Then, after an appropriate check has been made on the rooms, it is entirely proper to promise admittance only to a student body limited by this survey.

Williamsburg, sad to relate, is no place to get stranded on a rainy day. Too little co-operation on the part of incoming students with the college authorities has caused much confusion and disappointment in the past. Let's be more careful.—R. M.

And Now a Student is Worrying Over Condition of Citizenship Building

Editor of The Flat Hat,
 Sir:

It was reported some time ago that Citizenship building was to be torn down. Nothing has been done about the matter and it seems that nothing will. If however nothing is to be decided until later it is evident that a few repairs will not be of any harm to the building. Classes in the early morning have to meet in cold classrooms at times. There is always great danger of the plaster falling from the ceiling of the rooms and doing damage to the students or the professors. The steam fittings of the building are rusted so that when heat is turned on there is a great clanking and clashing as if some one were pounding on the pipes with a hammer. When one is in the middle of a test trying to remember something that he or she has heard at the beginning of the month it is very disconcerting to hear several lost chords being played on the pipes of a common radiator. Something should be done about this but all we hear is, "The plans are rather indefinite."

Desirous.

Freshman Claims That "Punishment" For First Offenses of "Duc" Offenders

Editor of The Flat Hat,
 Sir:

Concerning the letter by one "Hard-Hearted," printed in the "Open Forum" of last week's issue of The Flat Hat, as a member of the Freshman class I wish to make this reply and further comment.

To keep the freshmen within the bounds of their privileges is a task the upperclassmen should look upon as their duty, but a sophomore is not doing his duty who without inquiring into the situation turns in the name of some perhaps well-meaning "duc" whom he chances to notice for the

Now listen, folks, nobody is trying to tell the big boys how they should run things around here because we are not experts in college management but we have a few ideas which they can reject or use. We submit these to you without fee because we are patriotic and avoid the mercenary side as much as possible. Boiling down the situation in a capsule to be taken without the usual accompanying unpleasantness which comes along with the swallowing of bad and so-called efficacious medicine. It is all over this social racket. If the assumption that all boys and girls are bad until they are proven good and trustworthy is the central idea in the system, there is a chance that it will defeat its own purpose and the very things which people come to college to learn are not given to them. We do not feel the game to be worth the candle, and we have implicit faith in the youth of today and believe it is wiser, stronger, and better fitted to meet the exigencies of these so-called "terrible times" than these prophets would have you think. After all that is said and done these prophets are not without an axe to grind and prohibition, though already a decided question, comes up again and again to brow-beat honest voters into believing their children are hitting the primrose path to inferno instead of the saw-dust path to virtue. They, the voters, are innocent of the underlying reason for it all until politics turns a search light on the works.

But let's laugh it off, we know what it's all about, don't we? Another little point to bring up on today's session is that little matter about the dining hall? We are not complaining about the food since that would be useless but we would like to feel the atmosphere could be improved. The boys would dress for dinner and make an attempt to be a little more, well, yes, genteel like the girls, but they are afraid the waiters in their hurry to go to their athletic practices might accidentally drop a plate of soup down their back and ruin their clothes. We just want to leave the suggestion with you and hope that even if we can't all eat in the special or the tea-rooms, we might change a few gross and unpleasant conditions which exist in Ray Poole's "lunch-room."

Now, perhaps His Lordship is a little irritated this week and is not in good spirits and we will try to bring you a more cheerful word from him next week. Yours in Phoenix.

THIS DEPARTMENT

We know it was bound to happen sooner or later. As a matter of fact we remarked to Algernon only last week, when he put his nose in the doorway on one of his occasional visits, that it was a far cry back to the old days when a new campus club made its appearance every fortnight. Algernon was at that time, as usual, extremely bored, and said nothing, but nosed about the room a few minutes and then departed, chewing disconsolately on an empty match box which he found under the radiator.

He was not seen for several days, but last night he bounded in, flapping his mauve ears and wagging his bushy tail with such eclat and abandon that huge clouds of dust filled the room and veiled the light, and we knew at once that he had been rolling in the middle of North England street. So taking advantage of his good humor, we informed him of the new turn of events.

"You remember our little conversation about campus societies?" we inquired.

Algernon's eyes brightened, and he wagged his tail harder and leaped about a bit, as if he recalled every word of it. Knowing perfectly well that his recollection actually was a bit hazy, and this was only his way of being polite, we nevertheless proceeded to break the news.

"Well," we continued, "we were right!"

At first we thought this might baffle him, but he was indeed the man for the occasion, for he brushed a forepaw over his right ear as if thinking a moment, and then looked up brightly.

"You were always right," he barked.

"Thank you, Algernon," we replied modestly, "and we may say without hesitation that it is the frankness and confidence of your sort that spurs us on in the pursuit of accuracy."

He accepted the tribute without wavering, only licking his chops contentedly and smiling in his own doggyish way.

"But all this," we told him, "is beside the point. What we want you to realize is that they actually have formed another campus club, proving thereby that our college founders-and-joiners were not gone at all, but merely forgotten."

"Dormant," he suggested.

"Just the word," we agreed.

Algernon took leave of absence a moment to eat two ants which he saw running up a table leg, and then barked out a question.

"What is the name of the club?"

"They are a group of writers," we replied, "and they call themselves the 'Scribblers'."

"The what?"

"The 'Scribblers'."

Algernon's mauve ears, which had been all at attention, relaxed slightly, and then collapsed altogether. His face became a picture of utter dejection, and presently he cleared his throat painfully and barked in a hoarse whisper.

"Scribblers!" he repeated softly. "Horrible, isn't it?"

For five minutes thereafter he maintained complete silence, and studied a Chinese design on the carpet, but we could hear him muttering far down in his chest at intervals, "Horrible, how utterly horrible." But shortly he looked up in a troubled way and his eyebrows, always pleading, lifted inquiringly.

"For heaven's sake, can't something be done? Surely it is not too late?"

"Yes, Algernon," we returned. "There was a vote."

Whereupon he made a visible effort to throw off his dejection, rousing and shaking himself with such vigor that the room again was plunged into a dusty gloom. And out of the haze came his bark, strong and clear, and we knew that Algernon, with characteristic fortitude, had accepted the inevitable. In the cloud of dust we could not see him, but we could tell he was moving toward the door.

"Scribblers!" we heard him say. "Sounds like Scribblers." Not a bad association, but merely as a point of dignity the club should have been called—

His voice ceased a moment as though he were speculating.

"Yes, yes," we urged impatiently; "go on. What should it have been called?"

"The Author's Club."

The air cleared suddenly, and Algernon was gone. We heard him bounding down the corridor, and presently through the window we saw him trotting westward across the campus, on his way, we thought, to some affair at Toano.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

Stanton L. Bertschey was chosen football captain for the season of 1914 at a meeting of the varsity football men in the chapel recently.

The Richmond Howitzers' basketball team came to Williamsburg Saturday, January 10, and carried away another scalp in their belt. A great spurt in the second period was responsible for the eleven point lead for the gunners.

Clarence Jennings, J. T. Barnes and Dr. Clarke were William and Mary representatives at the National Y. M. C. A. convention held in Kansas City.

The Academy and Maury High engaged in a court tussel which netted the locals another victory 26-24. Two clever goals by Gilliam in the last minute of play were the feature of the game.

"In a State Where the Infringements of the Prohibition Law Are As Widespread As They Are In Virginia, It Is Unjust and Unfair to Institute Such an Investigation Implying That College Students Are the Prime Offenders," Says The Hi-Po of High Point College.

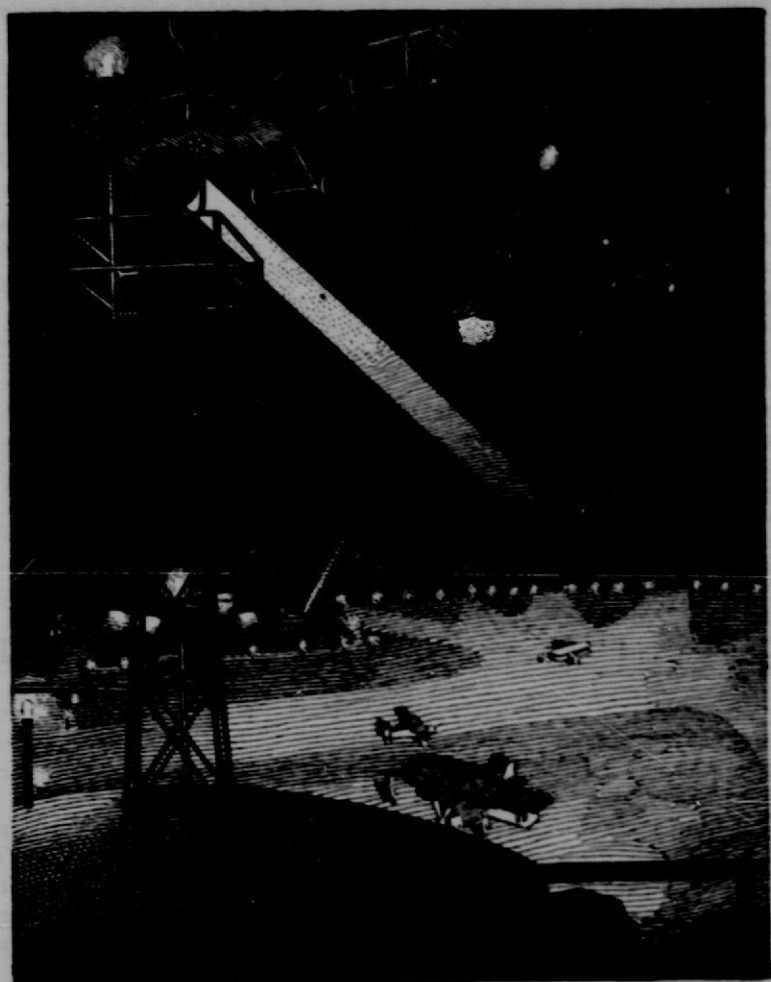

The Governor of Virginia has ordered an investigation of alleged infringements of the prohibition amendment by students of Virginia colleges. This action on the part of the Governor has brought the colleges a great deal of unwanted and unfavorable publicity. It has also given those pessimistic members of the older generation an opportunity to wonder what the world in general is coming to and to observe that college students in particular are wasting their time and their parents' money.

In no way can we see that Governor Byrd was justified in ordering such an investigation. If such an investigation was necessary, why not have it made by local authorities? The officials of the colleges should have been quite competent to handle the situation without any outside interference.

We are not condoning the offense of drinking, but are the colleges the logical places to start the "drying-up" process in Virginia? In a state where infringements of the prohibition law are as widespread as they are in Virginia, it is unjust and unfair to institute such an investigation implying that college students are the prime offenders. Such an action is not only an insult to the dignity of the colleges and the integrity of officials but it creates a wrong impression of college life. There are probably some students in as large an institution as the University of Virginia who drink, but there is without doubt a larger percentage outside who are constantly violating the dry law. Why pick on the colleges?

Lights that Fill the Skies with Commerce

THE air map of America is now in the making—on the ground.

Ten years ago, there were 218 miles of air mail routes with two station stops; to-day, a network of sky roads bridges the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Can you imagine this growth without electricity—without illuminated airports—without trunk lines studded with electric beacons?

Men of vision are building for increasing traffic of the air. Soon, the skies will be filled with commerce.

Just as electricity is helping to conquer the air, the land, and the sea to-day, so to-morrow it will lead to greater accomplishments in aviation and in every human activity.

A majority of the beacon lights used in airport and airway illumination have been designed and manufactured by the General Electric Company, whose specialists have the benefit of a generation's experience in the solution of lighting problems.

NEW ASSISTANT PILOT SIGNED

John S. Kellison Comes Here From Athletic Staff of University of Virginia

Branch Bocock, who coached football here last fall will be retained for the next two seasons, according to an announcement made early this week by Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college and member of the Three-Three-Three Athletic Committee of the college. Dr. Chandler also announced that John S. Kellison, associate of "Greasy" Neale at the University of Virginia, will become assistant coach of athletics at William and Mary.

Cy Young, present freshman coach will have charge of varsity baseball this spring. Mr. Kellison will assist him and will take charge of the freshman baseball team. He will also assist Tucker Jones in basketball. It is likely that he will have charge of the varsity cagers next year as Mr. Jones is unable to leave Williamsburg because of his classes in Physical Education.

Mr. Kellison attended West Virginia Wesleyan where he was a star lineman. Later he coached at Marietta, Washington and Jefferson and the University of Virginia. He coached the line and was also scout at the university. He is regarded as one of the best in this section of the country, and will report here this week-end.

TIGERS WIN BY LENGTHY SHOT

Strader Tosses Ball From Mid-Floor For Margin of 26-24 Victory

In what was one of the most exciting games ever seen on the Blow Gym floor Hampden-Sydney defeated William and Mary 26-24 Saturday night. The game was won in the last few seconds by a shot from past mid-floor by Strader, Tiger guard. It was a neat throw and came as the pistol fired.

The Tigers owe their victory largely to their ability in shooting fouls and in getting the tip-off. They made 8 out of 11 fouls, while the Indians made 6 out of 13. Long shots also contributed largely to the Tigers' victory.

For Hampden-Sydney, Strader, H. Harriss and Sloan were outstanding. For the Indians, Scully and Light at guard were outstanding while the floor work of Sauerbram was exceptional.

MAROONS BOW TO INDIANS, 24-21

Sauerbram, Light, and Silverman Star for Red Men; Nank and Deitrich for Visitors

In another of those thriller affairs the William and Mary Indians defeated the Roanoke Maroons Monday night 24-21. The Maroons took the lead a few minutes after the opening whistle on a free toss by Williams, Maroon guard. A few minutes later Johnny Sauerbram, Indian forward sank one from the corner of the court and the Indians piled up a lead of 9-1. The half ended 12-8.

The second half saw the introduction of the Indian second team and the second stringers played a beautiful game for ten minutes. When they left the game the score stood 19-12 in favor of the locals. A few minutes the Maroons began an attack which soon had them threatening the Indians. The final score stood 24-21.

Sauerbram, and Light played a bang up game for the locals. Silverman also played a heady-floor game and exhibited some beautiful passing. Butte looked best for the Indian second stringers. For the visitors Nank looked good and Deitrich played about the best game of either team.

Since the beginning of the basketball season, the William and Mary freshman squad under the direction of "Cy" Young, freshman coach, has been piling up a string of victories.

Last Tuesday the little Indians met the quintette from Fort Eustis, and in a one sided contest left the visitors on the short end of a 44-18 score. Mozeleski and Sundin were the leading scorers for the Indians having 14 and 11 points respectively to their credit. Cinto lead the Soldiers with eight points.

On Thursday the Papooses trounced the Medical College of Virginia's second team 42-14. Mozeleski again led the scoring attack with four two pointers and one foul.

GAME LAST FOR INDIANS UNTIL FEBRUARY 1ST

Jonesmen Will Take Trip Around State Shortly After Start Of Coming Semester

Tomorrow night Coach Tucker Jones' basketekers will face the University of Richmond Spiders on the latter's floor. So far the Spiders have not been traveling at a fast pace, but there is no telling what will happen when a Spider meets an Indian and a battle is expected.

Following the University of Richmond game, the Redmen will lay off for a while because of the examinations, but on February 1 they start on their annual trip into western Virginia, where they will meet three strong teams in four days. On February 2 they will line up against the strong quintette from Washington and Lee. Last year the Indians suffered defeat at the hands of the Generals, but this year's game will probably be a struggle from start to finish.

The next evening the Indians will meet the V. M. I. Cadets at Lexington. V. M. I. has one of the strongest basketball squads in their history, but so has William and Mary and a scrap is bound to result.

On the 4th, the Jonesmen travel to Roanoke where they will meet the Maroons of that place. In a closely fought game last week the Indians defeated these Maroons and they will be anxious to get revenge. In all three of these games the Indians will have their hands full, but it is expected they will return with some scalps tied to their belts.

Boxing to Enter William and Mary Sport Field Tomorrow Night

INDIAN LEATHERPUSHERS GO TO LEXINGTON FOR FIRST SCRAPS

Washington and Lee Will Entertain W. & M. Face Pounders For Initial Bout

SEVEN MEN TO MAKE TRIP

When the bell for the opening bout sounds at Lexington tomorrow night a new sport will be inaugurated at the College of William and Mary. The Indian leatherpushers will meet the Washington and Lee Generals in several three round bouts in a hostile ring. This will be the first boxing game that this college has ever turned out and much is expected of them. The team, composed chiefly of experienced boxers, has been practicing daily in Blow Gym under the direction of Collins, Rogers, and Campbell. After recovering from some minor injuries received in sparring, the squad seems in fine shape for their initial meet.

The Indians will be represented by Collins, Berkman, Rogers, Frizzell, Campbell, and possibly some from the unlimited class.

PAPOOSES ROMP OVER SOLDIERS

Eustis Quint Fails to Overcome Early Lead and Trail 42-22

The Little Indians in a fast game Tuesday night repeated their victory over the Fort Eustis five, 42-22. The game was played on the Artillerymen's floor.

The Yearlings sprang to an early lead when Mozeleski cut in for a two pointer and from that time on the Papooses remained in the lead. At the end of the half they were leading 26-8. At this point the second team was sent in and finally the third team. The game ended with the soldiers on the tail end of a 42-22 score.

INDIANS DEFEAT M. C. V. SAWBONES

William and Mary Team Wins Over Doctors by 26-13 Margin

William and Mary last Thursday defeated the Sawbones from the Medical College of Virginia in an exciting game 26-13. The Doctors had an excellent team composed of some of the best stars formerly in Virginia college basketball. The Medicos are coached by John Todd, former Indian star and assistant coach here for three years. Lee Todd, brother to John also played for the Doctors. The Medicos did not show their brilliant play which they made when they defeated the University of Richmond last week. The Stars for the Medicos were Lee Todd and Butterworth and Daniel. For the Indians Sauerbram and Scully were the shining lights.

WILLIAM AND MARY CAPTAINS 6

E. T. JUSTIS Captain Swimming

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the sixth of a series of ten stories on William and Mary captains. The remainder will follow in successive issues of The Flat Hat in alphabetical order.

The subject of this week's sketch hails from Chester, Va. and is entered on the college books as E. T. Justis. He is a senior here and has made quite a name for himself in the last four years.

Ed came to William and Mary from Chester High School with an athletic record, and he fulfilled all expectations. In his early college career he starred on the gridiron and track. Last year he broke the college and the South Atlantic record for the Javelin throw. This achievement gave him a chance to participate in the Olympic tryouts this summer and he showed up very well. When swimming was inaugurated at the College of William and Mary as a minor sport last year Justis was chosen as the first captain of the sport. At the end of last year's season, he was again elected to lead his team of tankmen this year and they will soon be seen in action at Blow Gym.

In addition to his athletic prowess, Justis is a brilliant student, president of the senior class, a member of the Lambda Chi Alpha social fraternity and several honorary societies among them Sigma Delta Psi and Omnicron Delta Kappa.

STUDENTS ORANIZE SUMMER TOUR GROUP

The William and Mary Tour to Europe, of which Elsie Beebe and J. W. Hurt are organizers, will sail June 26 from New York in the new motorship "Saturnia," according to announcement this week. The tour is associated with the Intercollegiate Travel bureau.

Leaving June 26, the "Saturnia" goes through the Strait of Gibraltar, and its passengers visit Algiers, Naples, Venice, Florence, Rome, Genoa, Italian Lakes, Lucerne, Interlaken, Montreux, Geneva, Basle, Heidelberg, Cologne, Brussels, Paris, London, Stratford, Cambridge, Durham, Edinburgh, Windermere, and Liverpool. The "Saturnia" is due to return to New York, August 19.

FOUR MEETS BOOKED FOR SWIMMERS

TANKMEN FACE VIRGINIA FIRST

Catholic U., Washington and Lee, And Delaware To Come To Williamsburg

Ed Justis and his squad of tankmen, after a period of rest, have returned to strenuous practice for their initial meet at Charlottesville on February 1. The Indian swimmers are being coached this year by "Cy" Young, freshman coach, and Justis, captain of the team.

This year's team is composed of nearly all new material. Captain Justis, Wood, and Phillips are the only lettermen from last year's team that are now out. However with the close of the basketball season several other members of last year's team are expected to join the squad. Several freshmen have been showing up well and with their help an excellent team can be developed.

The schedule for the tankmen is as follows:

- Feb. 1—University of Virginia at Charlottesville.
- Feb. 9—Catholic University, here.
- Feb. 14—Washington and Lee, here.
- Feb. 23—University of Delaware, here.

Other practice meets will be scheduled with local teams, but no definite dates have been set for any of them.

Seven Frays On Schedule For Sextet

The schedule for the Co-ed basketball games as authorized by the manager will include seven games. The first game will be played on the home court on February 9, with Beaver College instead of New York University as previously announced. The other games will include:

- February 16—Sweet Briar College, at home.
- February 19—Bridgewater College, at home.
- February 23—Savage School, at home.
- March 9—George Washington Univ., at Washington.
- March 11—Drexel Institute, at Philadelphia.
- March 12—Ursinus College, at Collegeville (pending).

The team was undefeated last season and they are looking forward to as successful a season this year. Members of last year's squad who are back include Captain Burke, Tanner, King, Kemp, Alexander, Pierce, Winn, and Wyatt. There are a number of new women making a bid for a berth on the varsity, so the prospects are indeed bright. The girls have gone in training in preparation for their first game which will take place soon after exams.

H2E CLUB BIDS NEW MEMBERS

The H2E Club announces the pledging of four new members, Edith Shackman, of New York City, Charlotte King of Waynesboro, Penna., Virginia Bishop of Paterson, New Jersey, and Joseph C. "Scrap" Chandler of Williamsburg, honorary member.

Silverman Leads Scorers

Flashy Forward Has Forty-Eight Points To Credit To Date

Sauerbram Follows Second Having Run Up Thirty Points To Present

The William and Mary basketball team are led so far this season by Abe Silverman, forward of the Indians. In six games Silverman has scored 48 points for an average of eight points per game. He is being followed by Johnny Sauerbram, midget forward who has been playing a brilliant game lately. It seems that the locals have hit their stride in the last two games and the Indian basketball team will be dangerous for the rest of the season.

The scoring includes only those games which have been played against college opponents and does not include practice games.

DEBATERS LOSE TO EMORY-HENRY

Team From Southwestern Virginia Wins In First Forensic Fray of Season

By John Eversole

The debate team of Emory and Henry was awarded the decision Tuesday evening over the William and Mary representatives. The Indian team, taking the affirmative on the question, "Resolved That There Should be National, Uniform Marriage and Divorce Laws," seemed unable to stand the bombardment of its opponents' spirited rebuttals. The contest throughout showed excellent ability on the part of both teams.

The William and Mary men seemed to lack the necessary evidence to support their statements, and their opponents, taking advantage of this fact, brought out numerous articles and newspaper clippings to further substantiate their reasoning. Carl Looney of the Emory and Henry team appealed especially to the audience. His spirited manner of delivery and his exalted sense of humor made his speeches most interesting.

Mr. Looney and Jack E. Williams comprised the Emory and Henry team, while John C. Swanson and A. D. Johnson represented William and Mary. The three judges for the occasion were Miss Thelma Brown, R. S. Raglin and Rawls Byrd, Superintendent of the Williamsburg High School. Gordon Campbell acted as the chairman for the debate. The usual routine was followed with the usual fifteen minute speeches and the six minute rebuttals.

Student Chapel Committee Gives Up Experimentation

The committee appointed by Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, earlier in the school year to experiment with chapel exercises under its supervision has returned the project back to the administration, according to a letter directed to the president this week by members of the committee.

Reasons advanced by the committee which was composed of the four class presidents and presidents of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. was that it believed a more successful medium of conducting chapel exercises could be found.

The letter follows:

Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, President, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia.

Our Dear Dr. Chandler:

On various occasions meetings have been held to discuss the Chapel exercises to which students and faculty representatives, acting in an advisory capacity, were present.

It was agreed this year was to be a year of experimentation and we, the committee appointed by you, consisting of the Presidents of the two Associations, and the four class presidents, believe that a more successful medium of conducting Chapel services during the coming year would be to return this project to the administration.

As we are deeply concerned with this issue we hope you will call on us for any aid possible for us to render.

Respectfully yours.

The Inquiring Reporter

He asks ten people every week some question on college life. If you have any problems you would like to see discussed in this column, send them to "The Inquiring Reporter," care of The Flat Hat.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Do you prefer Blow Gymnasium or Jefferson Hall for informal dances?

Sue Cornick, junior: "I prefer Blow gym for the informal dances because there is more room for dancing. One is able to hear the music better and I think that the dances in Blow seem to be more congenial than those in Jefferson."

Mary Quick, senior: "To me the dances in Blow seem to be better. In Jefferson it is always so hot and crowded. Blow is better ventilated."

Ned Deemer, freshman: "The girls have an opportunity to dance in Jefferson every day and when they hold the informal dances in Blow gym there is an entirely different atmosphere. I would say that it gives the girls a feeling of freedom."

Peg Bailey, sophomore: "I would much rather that they would hold the dances in Jefferson because if all of the dances are held in Blow they would all seem the same. They would have the same atmosphere."

Frances Butler, freshman: "The dances that have been held in Blow have been better dances in my estimation. There is much more floor space in Blow and everyone seems to enjoy themselves much more in that place than in Jefferson."

Polly Venable, senior: "Jefferson hall to my mind, is the more ideal of the two places for holding the informal dances. It is much easier to find people in Jefferson. A spirit of get-together which is not prevalent at the dances in Blow is found at the dances in Jefferson. Blow Gymnasium is too large for an informal dance."

Rhoda Fry, junior: "The dances in Blow are the best because there is more room and people are not so crowded as they are in the small gym of Jefferson Hall."

Lelia M. Chewning, freshman: "Because of extenuating circumstances it is immaterial to me as to which gym, in which they hold the informals."

Trixie Wimbish, sophomore: "I would much rather that they hold the dances in Blow gymnasium because the gym in Jefferson Hall is too small to accommodate the number of students who attend the informals."

Geraldine Swift, freshman: "The dances in Blow have been better by far than those held in the small gym of Jefferson. I think that Jefferson is too small."

KAPPA DELTA PI INITIATES SIX

Honorary Educational Fraternity Adds Students and Faculty To Roll

Three students, one member of the college faculty, and two members of the Williamsburg High School were initiated into the Alpha Pi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, national honorary educational fraternity, Wednesday night. Formal initiation services were held at the Methodist Church of the city.

Those initiated Wednesday night were: Roselyn Webb of Disputanta; Marion Laning of Pennington, N. J.; Anne White Blake of Norfolk; Lydia Sherritt of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., director of supervised teaching; Ruby Sharpe of Portsmouth, teacher of English and French at Williamsburg High School; Joan Chaffe Miller of Ruston, Louisiana, teacher of English at the Williamsburg High School.

Kappa Delta Pi is an honorary educational fraternity for juniors and seniors who have a grade above the average and have completed some work in education. Its distinguishing feature is that it has a Laureate Chapter composed of leading educators throughout the country.

THE OPEN FORUM

term has been the first experience at school away from home and the holidays a celebration in which the "college freshman" was a "big shot" and the sudden come down from the "Gentleman about Town" to an "Insignificant Duc" is tremendous and must be taken gradually. I do not believe that many of the new men mean to break the rules merely to show that they are not afraid to do so.

It is to freshman interest, to cooperate with the customs that be if we are to have any say over next year's class. I agree with Mr. "Hard-Hearted" that the rules should be enforced and that the means of punishment is a problem. It is my opinion that to the bold and boisterous freshmen who really are the stubborn law breakers, the paddle would not have the same curbing effect that goes with the loss of social privileges. It has been argued that sophomores hesitate to pass in names because it seems such a dirty trick to cause any man, be he a freshman or upperclassman to lose his privileges for the semester. With the present system this is quite so, but a modification of the punishment to say a week or so of "pro" for first offence would offset this drawback and result in a reasonable and practical system of co-operation between the freshmen and the upperclassmen.

NOTICE

Announcement is hereby made that a representative body of William and Mary salesmen have organized what is to be known as the INDIAN SALES AGENCY. The purpose of this organization shall be two-fold: (1) co-operative selling among student representatives on a larger scale, and (2) to do away with unfair competition from outsiders. It is evident that much business goes to outsiders which should go to student salesmen.

Any student salesman is eligible to membership in this organization, but he shall apply on his own initiative and his application shall have been acted upon favorably by three-fourths of those constituting the organization.

The following men took an active part in the organization work: B. C. Embrey, A. D. Johnson, R. J. Showker, E. C. Shortt, F. H. Taylor, Dan A. Hearn, J. N. Wilkerson, J. W. Phillips, and A. P. Williams. At the first meeting last week, E. C. Shortt was elected manager and given the power to appoint an assistant manager.

It is not probable that the organization will begin to function to any noticeable extent until the beginning of next semester.—Adv.

No Snooping On Colleges States Attorney General

NO SPECTACULAR SLEUTHING FOR HIM-SAUNDERS

"Matter Will Have to Be Studied Carefully As a Preliminary Step"

STUDENT UNDER-COVER AGENT RUMOR UNTRUE

There will be no snooping or hiring of student spies in the investigation of drinking in Virginia educational institutions ordered by the Governor, Attorney-General John R. Saunders declared this week.

"Reports that the prohibition force intends to do a lot of spectacular sleuthing within the colleges of the state are absurd," Colonel Saunders said. "Such methods would do more harm than good and would defeat the purpose of the inquiry."

Asked about the methods that might be used to bring out the facts and stop whatever bootlegging is discovered, Colonel Saunders said that he was not yet ready to go ahead and that he does not know exactly what course will be pursued.

"Governor Byrd's request will be carried out to the letter," he said, "but naturally an investigation of drinking in the schools and colleges is a task which cannot be performed successfully without considerable thought. The matter is being studied carefully as a preliminary step."

The students of a number of Virginia universities have been considerably excited since the holidays by false reports as to what is being done by the prohibition force under the attorney-general's control. The jokesters at a number of institutions have been busy and not a few of the rumors circulated in fun have been believed to such an extent that protests already are being made of supposed spy work.

Dr. Henry Louis Smith, president of Washington and Lee University, was quoted last week as saying he would not countenance any such tactics at his institution.

The statement followed false reports as to the intention of the state officers to employ student under-cover agents.

Experienced prohibition enforcement officers generally agree that under-cover work at the state institutions would be a herculean task and entirely impractical in view of the small size of the state force. This kind of inquiry would require several years and would cost more than the entire annual appropriation for state enforcement, according to some opinions.

About the only method believed practical would call for the full co-operation with the state of student organizations, faculty organizations and local law enforcement agencies.

None of the schools in question have special police forces, all being under the control—so far as law enforcement is concerned—of the regular local machinery.

Governor Byrd asked Attorney-General Saunders to look into the liquor situation at the schools following a complaint by Rev. David Hepburn, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia.

This complaint referred particularly to conditions alleged to exist at the University of Virginia during the Thanksgiving football game.

Debate Team May Clash With Oxford and Harvard After Returning From Long Tour of Southern Colleges in March Debate plans for the coming season are maturing rapidly, according to an announcement by A. Earle Garrett, debate manager, following a recent meeting of the Council.

The schedule calls for a debate here March 5 with Davidson College. On March 8, Hampden-Sydney will be the home team's guest. The debaters from Hampden-Sydney, are new to the schedule this year, and are reported to have a very good record. On March 23, the team from William and Mary will go on a trip of ten days, meeting Wake Forest the first night. From the North Carolina college the men will journey to Georgia, where they will meet Emory University, March 25. On March 27 the team will meet the University of Alabama. After this meet, the team will go further south to clash with the strong debate team of the University of Florida. On April 1, Southern University will be met, and then the William and Mary team will go to Mercer, and return to college, April 3.

After returning to Williamsburg, the team will meet Johns-Hopkins University here, April 5. Mercer University will conduct a return meet here April 12, and the team from Wake Forest will also come here, but the date is still pending.

Mr. Garrett is negotiating a Triangular meet between Harvard, Oxford, and William and Mary, to be held at the Phi Beta Kappa Hall in Williamsburg.
