Purpose Is to Stimulate an Interest in Acquiring Personal Libraries; Outstanding Entries to be displayed.

TO BE AWARDED IN JUNE

Gene Barclay, President of Senior Class, Appoints Class Committee Members.

Gene Barclay, president of the senior class, announced at its first meeting held Tuesday night that President Bryan will offer an annual award of fifty dollars to the senior having an individual library of greatest interest and used with the highest intelligence.

At the end of the year a committee will inspect each senior's collection and will place the outstanding ones on display. The winner will be chosen from those on display and the award will be made personally by President Bryan at the commencement exercises.

The award will be based on the individual's discriminating taste in having acquired the best personal library, and given evidence of competent judgment in the selection of titles supplementing the senior's interests while in College, and forming the nucleus of an interesting library for future years. The purpose of the award is to stimulate the student's interest in making a collection of his own books with the hope that there may be an increasing interest in the appreciation and continued use of good books of a practical as well as a cultural nature.

President Barclay also appointed committee members who will carry on the work of the class during the year. The committees and those appointed are as follows:

Senior Privilege Committee: George Mason, chairman; Doris Van Dien, Henry Seymour, Jay Simpson, and Margaret Van Oot.

Senior Invitation Committee: Bob Wallace, chairman, and Fred Eidsness. Senior Entertainment Committee: Everett Blake, chairman; Billy Rhoad (Continued on page 6)

W-M Literary Magazine To Appear in November

All Material and Copy Must Be Submitted by Last of October, Says Editor.

COVER DESIGN CHANGED

Work is progressing rapidly on the Fall issue of the W. M. and Mary Literary Magazine which is scheduled to make its appearance in the early part of November, it was announced by the staff. All literary copy and material for publication must be in the hands of the editor by the last of this month.

Although financial appropriation for the magazine has not yet been made by the activities committee, numerous bids have been received from printing jobbers for work on the magazine this year. It is assumed that the contract will be let shortly and work will begin at that time.

The exchange list of the Magazine has grown this year, showing a marked increase over that of last year. Many more colleges will exchange publications with William and Mary this year. The system of exchange is of great help to student journalists offering new ideas for publications.

Art work as well as literary compositions are welcomed by the staff of the magazine. Any type of work will be used; essays, poetry, short stories, or articles on any subject. If the work handed in is not used in the Fall issue, it does not mean that the work has been rejected. It will probably appear in a later issue. Cover designs are no longer used, as last year the magazine adopted a type of cover similar to that used by Reader's Digest.

Plans are now being carried out for moving the offices of the Magazine to the second floor of the old administration building, old Taliaferro Hall.

W.-M. Players to Launch Season Ticket Sale Drive Wednesday for 1935-36

Purpose Is to Reduce Cost of Attending Plays and Insure Elaborate Productions.

FIRST PLAY IN NOVEMBER

The William and Mary Players will launch their season ticket drive for 1935-36 Wednesday. The purpose of this drive is to reduce the net cost of attending all the productions, as well as insuring more elaborate productions. The sale will be under the direction of Gordon Shinnors, business manager of the Players, and he will have on his committee, Martha Fairchild, Frances Moreland, Jean Tenney, Florence Allen, Carol Osgood, Carl Buffington and John Sturges.

This marks the first time since 1931 that a season ticket sale has been held. The plans as announced by the committee, feature a scale of prices for regular and reserved seats. The price of general admission ticket is $1.25, and for the reserve seat is $2.00. The first fifteen rows in the orchestra and two rows in the balcony will be held for reserved ticket holders. Each play will be presented two nights. The ticket office is now located in Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

Miss Althea Hunt, director of the campus productions, has announced a tentative schedule for the year. "Unattainable," a modern comedy, will be produced on the nights of November 13th and 14th for the opening performance of the season. An eighteenth century revival play will be given in February, the Dramatic Arts production in April, and a Shakespearean play in May.

Freshmen At Last Have Opportunity To Engage in Campus Social Affairs

Flash! Flash! We don't mean to steal that Broadway stuff—but it's headline news when we finally are able to go to a dance. There are people here who remember when Saturday night dances were a college institution, but if this keeps up the freshmen and a number of other undergrads will never know about such a thing.

However, we may look forward to one such event anyway, for Saturday night in Blow Gym from 9 to 11:30 (the dates just must keep proper hours) William and Mary will sway once more to the strains of the "Colonial Collegians." These boys incidentally have been working mightily and they're really sweet and smooth. It's swell that they now have an opportunity to show what they can do.

Formal Rushing Season Postponed to Nov. 16 by Interfraternity Council

Mid-Semester Examinations Coincide With Original Schedule Of Fraternity Rushing Period.

LAMBERT ASKS SUPPORT

The Interfraternity Council postponed formal rushing for two weeks at its first meeting of the year on Thursday evening, Oct. 12. Formal rushing week was scheduled for Nov. 2, but due to the fact that mid-semester exams coincide with this date, the postponement to Nov. 16 was thought necessary. The same rushing rules with the exception of the dates, will remain in effect.

Mr. J. Wilfred Lambert spoke at this meeting and stressed fraternity cooperation with the administration. He went on to point out several deficiencies of the fraternities as a whole. Among these faults Mr. Lambert listed such things as financial embarrassment, low scholastic record, and poor support of campus activities. He also itemized several excellent influences of the fraternities on college life. Mr. Lambert said it was to be the policy of the administration to cooperate with the fraternities and only asked the fraternities to work with it.

The Interfraternity Council adopted a motion to the effect that resolutions of the council's intentions to cooperate with the administration to improve conditions, be written and turned over to the College. The Council further planned to hold its next meeting on Tuesday evening at 7:15 in Washington 300. Mr. Lambert will attend this meeting and further plans for the year will be arranged.

William and Mary Battles Gobblers in 0-0 Deadlock

Famous Actor to Speak to Students Wednesday At Special Convocation

Norman Hackett to Deliver Address on Shakespeare and Give Famous Readings.

MARKS THIRD VISIT HERE

Norman Hackett, temporarily retired actor of note, will address the William and Mary student body at a special convocation on Wednesday morning, October 16th, at ten o'clock in Phi Beta Kappa hall. The speaker will be introduced by President John Stewart Bryan and is expected to talk on Shakespeare, give readings from his plays and a short address on the value of personality and pure English.

Mr. Hackett has twice before appeared before convocations of William and Mary audiences in recent years at the invitation of the late Dr. Chandler. On those occasions, he addressed large gatherings, giving renditions of selections from Shakespearean drama and accounts of his experiences on the stage. By many requests, he has been invited by Mr. Bryan to repeat his address before the student body.

Norman Hackett has been on the field nearly all his life. He was born in Canada, grew up and received his elementary education in Detroit, and is an alumnus of the University of Michigan. He made his stage debut with Madam Rhea and has supported such outstanding stage stars as Louis James, Frederick Ward, Madam Modjeska, Kathryn Kidder, Robert Mantell, James O'Neill and Sothorn and Marlowe.

Mr. Hackett starred at the head of his own company for a number of years and with Charlotte Walker in "The Green Hat" and "The Constant Wife"; with Wilton Lackage, Amelia Bingham, Charlotte Walker, and Henry Dixie in "The Circle."

Mr. Hackett temporarily retired from the stage five years ago and has since devoted his time to college fraternity work. He is now president of the College Fraternities Secretaries Association, is a member of the executive council of the National Interfraternity Conference, and a national officer of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity. The occasion of his visit to Williamsburg is the annual official visitation of the Epsilon Charge of Theta Delta Chi fraternity. He is expected to remain in town until Thursday, October 17th, when he will go to the University of Virginia.

Mr. Hackett's last visit to William and Mary was made in the fall of 1932. At that time he also delivered readings from the plays of Shakespeare. Following his address he led an informal discussion as to the value of correct speech and writing.

Eason, Norfolk Attorney, Graduate of W. & M., Dies

Prominent Alumnus Was Member of Phi Kappa Phi and Omicron Delta Kappa.

Charles Lorenzo Eason, graduate of William and Mary in the class of '31, died at a Norfolk hospital on Wednesday morning. He received both his A.B. and LL.B. degrees here. While in college he was elected to Omicron Delta Kappa and Phi Kappa Phi fraternities.

Mr. Eason had been associated with the law firm of Foreman, Pender and Dyer of Norfolk for four years.

Widely known and popular, Mr. Eason was active in church and civic activities. News of his death came as a shock to many of his friends. He had suffered with heart trouble for some time. Mr. Eason was a member of the Larchmont Baptist church. He was president of the Norfolk and Princess Anne County Baptist Sunday School Association. His other memberships included senior council of the Central Y. M. C. A., the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and Camp 300, Woodmen of the World.

INDIAN CAPTAIN HURT

Bryant's Dash of 23 Yards Through Tech Line Highlight Of First Quarter.

With Pete Bunch on the tossing end and Walter Zable receiving, William and Mary's Indians put on one of the finest passing attacks ever seen in Richmond Stadium as the Indians made a dazzling though futile attempt to break the scoreless deadlock in the waning minutes of last Saturday's battle with Virginia Tech before 7,500 fans.

In the last five minutes of play, Bunch threw seven passes, six of them to Zable, and netted four first downs. Five were completed but the two which failed were over the goal line, all of which amounted to great excitement but no score as the huge stadium clock ticked off the final seconds. Zable kept the crowd in an uproar with his circus catches, on one occasion leaping high among three Tech players to snag a long looping pass with one hand.

The brilliant last quarter offensive aroused the hopes of William and Mary students and supporters, who had little to cheer about after their great little halfback and captain, Stumpy Bryant, was carried off the field with a broken ankle after the first play of the second quarter. Bryant's long distance punting duel with Dickerson and his dash of 23 yards through the Tech line were the highlights of the opening period.

V. P. I. attempted three field goals in the first half after being stopped by the Indians' stout defense but all were wide. With two seconds to play and William and Mary's ball on Tech's 15-yard line, Coach Dowler sent in Dan Edmondson, substitute lineman, to try a placement kick from a difficult angle, but a swarm of Gobblers broke through to block the kick as the game ended.

With Bryant out and Al Szumigala not even in uniform as a result of injuries received in the Army game, the Indians had little to offer in the way of a running attack and were forced to rely heavily on Bunch's accurate passing to keep them in the running. Joe Zanghi, Ted McGowan, and Red Woodard played great defensive ball to halt numerous Tech drives.

The Gobblers reached the Indians' eight and four yard lines but when unable to push it over resorted to attempts at field goals. William and Mary was on Tech's two after a long pass from Bunch to Zable who lateraled to Truehart netted 25 yards but after being stopped three times at the line of scrimmage, an incomplete pass over the line ended the threat.

Each team made seven first downs, V. P. I. five by rushing and two via the aerial route and William and Mary two from rushing and five as a result of passes. The Indians completed six out of 13 attempted passes while Tech was successful three times in nine tries. Tech outgained the Indians in rushing by 92 yards to 86 while the Indians gained 98 yards through the air to V. P. I.'s 13.

Foots Dickerson, Tech halfback, lived up to his reputation of being one of the Southern Conference's best punters, consistently kicking outside within the Indians' ten yard line and often getting off 55 and 60 yard punts. In the first quarter Bryant gained about an even break with the big Gobbler ace but during the rest of the game Dickerson enjoyed a big advantage over Bunch who proved his versatility by handling both the kicking and passing and doing the best ball carry for the Indians after Bryant had been injured.

Student Opinion

Editor Student Opinion, Flat Hat, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va.

Dear Sir: I would like to speak of two subjects in this letter to you. Of course, I realize that you will most likely revise all of this even if you consent to print it. I personally think they are worthy subjects.

The first subject of which I wish to venture an opinion is the bubble fountain in front of the library. This could be a very useful and much appreciated addition to the campus but as it now is it is a snare and a delusion. The unwary are apt to come to it and press the lever down as is the usual custom with such fountains and they are rewarded with a deluge of water all over them. It seems to me that most fountains of this type have some means of regulating the flow of water. Can't this one of ours be regulated?

The visitors must think not kindly of this exhibition of inefficiency.

Sorority Teas

Now that Sorority Teas are upon us I would like to suggest some means of making them less painful. First would it be possible for the men who come to be introduced to the pledges for according to the invitations that is the reason for their being. Could not one girl be assigned to meet each group of people entering and stay with them until they had met the new pledges and been served? I think that that would help the men very much. I am a firm believer in dating and approve of it but I do not think that at one of these affairs the dating should take all of the hostesses away from their guests.

Yours respectfully, M.D.W.

Football Contest Will Be Held Here

A football guessing contest, sponsored jointly by the Flat Hat and the manufacturers of Old Gold Cigarettes will be held shortly. The contest will be based on the final scores of the William and Mary-V. M. I. and the University of Richmond-Georgetown games to be played on November 2.

Contestants will write their scores for these games on the backs of Old Gold Cigarette package labels, dropping them in boxes which will be placed in the Williamsburg Drug Store, the College Pharmacy and the College Shop. Contestants may make as many predictions as they wish, but they must be on separate package labels. The ballot boxes will be collected not later than 1 p.m. on the day of the game. In the event of a tie score the contestant having the greatest number of Old Gold package labels will be awarded the first prize.

Prizes are as follows: First prize $10, to be awarded to the student guessing nearest to the exact score of each game. Second prize, $5 in cash. Third prize, 400 packages of Old Gold cigarettes.

CLUB NOTES

Library Science

The Library Science Club held its first meeting of the year in the L. S. Laboratory on Wednesday evening, Sept. 25, with eleven members present. Violet Ramsey, president of the club, welcomed the Junior majors to the department, Dr. Swem, the College Librarian, and Dr. Stone, head of the department of library science and assistant librarian.

Ann Dickerson gave an interesting report of her work in Richmond this summer under C. W. Dickenson, director of state libraries.

The senior L. S. majors choose big sisters from the graduates of last year with whom to correspond. This plan will enable them to become familiar with the type of work in which they will engage.

The entertainment committee provided a contest which was followed by refreshments and the adjournment of the meeting.

A called meeting of the Library Science Club was held Monday evening, Oct. 7, for election of several officers. Marjorie Dearhart was selected as secretary of the club, and Lucille Palmer, reporter to the "Flat Hat." Before closing, Dr. Stone gave an inspiring talk on the history, progress, and possibilities of librarianship as a profession.

Choral Union

Plans are being formulated for a number of campus sings the first of which is planned tentatively for the first week in November. Anticipating these sings, the large choral is rehearsing college and folk songs as a part of the training given in choral technique. Membership in the large choral group is still open to all students without try-outs. More than one hundred are already enrolled.

Following the meeting of the choral union on Thursday, prospective members of both the men's and women's glee clubs met for their first rehearsal under the direction of Mr. Griffey and Miss Murrell. The membership of the choir and glee clubs will not be selected definitely for several weeks in order that all available talent be given opportunity to take part.

Music

A call has been issued for ten or more freshmen who are willing to practice regularly to form a beginning class in brass instruments. Instruction will be given without charge, the only requirements being that the freshmen indicate they intend to complete four years of schooling at William and Mary and are willing to comply with the regulations made by the music department. If the class is successful, the music department plans to continue with another beginning group next session. This year's class would become regular members of the band or orchestra next year. The department has a number of instruments available for practice purposes. Freshmen interested are asked to see Mr. Small or Mr. Griffey at Old Taliaferro Hall, first floor.

Sigma Pi Sigma

The Zeta Chapter of Sigma Pi Sigma, honorary physics fraternity, held their first meeting of the year Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Rogers 114. Seven of the eight active members remaining on campus were present.

The principal reason for the meeting was for the election of new bids. The secretary, Margaret Thompson, was instructed by the president, Lewis Kissenger, to send bids to the following men: Gilman Bailey, William Davies, Albert De Gutis, Walter S. Foster, Edward Katz, Judson Sherrill, Archie Sinclair, and Walter Zable. The bids have been sent out and the new men will be initiated at the regular meeting of the Chapter on Oct. 22.

The president appointed an initiation committee consisting of Roy Prince and W. L. Davidson, Jr., and a refreshment committee of Margaret Thompson and Galen Ewing.

The program was conducted by Galen Ewing who gave a very interesting demonstration on the Recollescence of Wires. The purpose of Sigma Pi Sigma, membership in which is limited to juniors and seniors majoring or minoring in physics, is to promote interest in research and advanced study among those whose high scholastic standing gives evidence of their genuine interest in the subject.

Kappa Delta Pi

A short meeting of Alpha Xi chapter of Kappa Delta Pi was held last Wednesday evening in Washington 100. Plans were discussed and committees appointed for a reception to be given for the new education students Thursday, October 17, from eight to ten o'clock in the Y-Room of Barrett. It was decided to hold a meeting once a month.

Sophomore Class

Mr. John Stewart Bryan, speaking to the class of 1938 last Wednesday evening, reminded them of the need for new men blood in any organization and expressed his wish that the present students keep William and Mary alive.

At the business meeting of the class, the members discussed the idea of holding a sophomore dance. It was decided to discuss this matter in detail at a later meeting.

Freshman Class

Mr. J. Wilfred Lambert, dean of freshmen, will address the freshman class sometime this week, probably Wednesday night. The meeting will be informal and no elections will be held, as they are to take place early in November.

Wranglers' Club

Tryouts for the Wranglers' Club were assigned the Italo-Ethiopian situation as the topic for their three to five minute talks to be delivered at the next meeting on Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 in Washington 300.

Each man is to prepare his speech in defence of one of the following countries and their policies: England, France, Ethiopia, Italy, Germany, United States, or the League's stand on the question. After each individual speech the tryout will be cross-examined by members of the club to whose queries he will give a short rebuttal. When all the tryouts have completed their initial performance there will be a general parliamentary discussion of the whole affair. The judges for the club are Mr. T. S. Cox, Mr. D. W. Woodbridge and Mr. Merrill Brown.

Those students who missed the first meet and still wish to try out may prepare the same topic and come to the next meeting with the rest as absence from the first does not prohibit a person from trying out. Coach Brown stressed organization of matter over ability in oratory in a short talk to the Club since he said that the latter comes out of the first. The club is looking forward to a large attendance on this Wednesday.

Women's Debate

An informal reception was given for those interested in debate by the Women's Debate Council in the "Y" Room of Barrett Hall on Thursday night. At this time, the guests were given the opportunity to meet the active members.

The debate topic for tryouts will be announced at a meeting of the Council at 7:15 Tuesday night in Washington 200. All who are interested in debate are urged to attend this meeting.

Preliminary tryouts will be held in ten days. Those who do not meet the requirements at this time may continue to tryout for five weeks longer.

Phi Sigma

Phi Sigma, honorary biological fraternity, held its first meeting Thursday night and discussed extensive plans for the coming year. It was planned to have an exhibition for the student body sometime during the year. Various exhibits and specimens will be on display to stimulate the student's interest in biology and all will be invited to take part in informal discussions as a regular part of the program.

Gene Barclay, president of the fraternity, announced that speakers from the United States Bureau of Fisheries who are making a special survey and study of the oyster at Yorktown at this time will be brought to the campus to speak before the fraternity group. It was also made known that the biology department is cooperating with the Bureau of Fisheries in connection with their study by taking an active interest in the survey.

The fraternity also plans to hold two banquets during the course of the year, with hikes and other forms of activity included at frequent times for educational purposes. It is of interest to note the fraternity is the only undergraduate chapter in the United States and is one of the most outstanding biological organizations in the country.

Theta Chi Delta

James Callen was elected program chairman and James Harvell was elected corresponding secretary at the first regular meeting of Theta Chi Delta scientific fraternity on Monday night. The fraternity passed a resolution that the freshman having the highest grades in chemistry and continuing his study in that subject will be given a free subscription to the Chemical Journal. Announcement of this year's winner will be made at a later date. Following this resolution, plans for the year were discussed and the records of all new members were checked.

NORMAN HACKETT

Orator who will speak at convocation tomorrow morning.

The New Professors

This is the first in a series of articles on new professors at William and Mary.

Dr. Lionel Laing, William and Mary's new professor of government and international relations, is a thin man of medium height, with dark brown hair and a serious, earnest expression. His voice is soft, and during his lectures, he raises his eyebrows, brings a few wrinkles into his brow, and looks at the ceiling of the room in Marshal-Wythe where he holds classes. He has the habit common to most of our professors, of gesturing to emphasize his comments. His attempt is to inspire confidence in the students, for he likes them and wishes to make his classes as conversational as possible. He advises his students to take advantage of the opportunity for wide reading in the library, as this should make their background so much richer and enable them to get a college education, not merely a degree, in four years of study.

Dr. Laing first visited Williamsburg last spring when he found the town a most charming and interesting place. The college, he believes, is an ideal size, and it is to its advantage to be situated in a community where the college is the town. The traditions of the college should furnish the students with a broader cultural background than would be possible for them to achieve in a newer place.

William and Mary is going through an interesting development at this time, Dr. Laing believes, and feels that President Bryan is the revitalizing factor. "Mr. Bryan will set the 'tone,' and the students will help in building up the college."

Dr. Laing received his Ph.D. at Harvard and before coming to William and Mary, having received a Fellowship of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, was engaged in research work in international law. He feels a strong loyalty to Harvard, but believes that William and Mary has something more than the loyalty of the students.

The well-known "Harvard indifference" and lack of interest in the affairs of one's fellow students gives way here to a friendliness which is characteristic of a smaller college. It is a certain community feeling and a knowledge that the college needs the individual that binds the student to William and Mary in a way that would be impossible in a larger institution.

Huge Telescope to Aid Astronomers in Texas

FORT DAVIS, Tex., Oct. 15.—(AP)—High atop Mt. Locke in the Davis mountains, the silvery dome of McDonald observatory, the world's newest star-gazing chamber, faces skies that remain serene and unclouded more than 300 nights a year.

The building on this 6,800-foot peak telescope mirror, which is being ground has been completed, but the 82-inch telescope mirror, which is being ground in Cleveland, may not be ready for installation before another year. It will be the world's second largest telescope when installed, but will drop to fourth place with the completion of the 200-inch mirror for Palomar mountains in California and the 85-inch disc for the University of Michigan observatory. The 100-inch telescope at Mt. Wilson, California, will then become the second largest.

To Use Aluminum Coating The McDonald mirror will be coated with aluminum, making it possible to photograph a considerable band of ultra-violet light which is largely absorbed by silver-plated mirrors.

Instead of viewing a star through an enlarging lens, the observer will see the image of a star reflected into the eyepiece by the huge concave mirror. The telescope will be a "reflector," not a "refractor."

The 75-ton telescope that will bear aloft the two and one-half ton mirror to the dome's sliding shutter, will be mounted on a great concrete and steel pier in the building's center. The polar axis of the telescope will be exactly parallel with the earth's axis, so that the motion of the earth's revolution may be compensated by a single motion of the telescope.

Clockwork to Drive It Electric clockwork will drive the telescope to follow the stars across the sky. The clock will turn a screw geared to a big wheel. Its operation is to be so precise that a star may be kept at cross-hairs for hours to permit long photographic exposure.

The dome and shutters can be moved quickly to a desired position by electricity. The observer merely has to press a few buttons.

The late W. J. McDonald, banker and philanthropist of Paris, Tex., gave $900,000 toward the construction of this observatory. It will be operated jointly by the University of Texas and Yerkes observatory under the direction of Dr. Otto Struve.

Among the Yerkes astronomers who will compose the operating staff are Prof. George Van Biesbroeck, Prof. E. F. Ross, Dr. W. G. Moffitt, Dr. C. L. Elvey, Dr. W. W. Morgan, and Dr. P. C. Keenan.

Dr. Franklin E. Roach has been making a series of preliminary observations at McDonald observatory, attempting to measure the light of the night sky by a "sky photometer." For this work, he is using a 12-inch refractor telescope borrowed from Yerkes observatory.

VIENNA HAS RESTAURANT FOR NEEDY INTELLECTUALS

VIENNA, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A home for intellectuals, including a restaurant, where the mind as well as the stomach may be nourished, has made its appearance here.

Intended to served penny-pinched intellectuals, it provides at a cost of two cents a day coffee, tea, bread and butter. As mental fodder, books and music are available to customers.

When the establishment was opened recently, only 200 of the 700 applicants—lawyers, physicians, musicians, singers, and writers—could be accepted.

FOOTBALL FAMILY REIGN IS HALTED TEMPORARILY

HEREFORD, Tex., Oct. 15.—(AP)—They'll have to wait awhile for another Russell from the family that has had one or more of its members on the Hereford high school football team the last 12 years straight. Daniel, youngest of the Russell brothers, will be ready for football in three or four years. His brothers, who played a combined total of 17 years for the "Whitefaces," all starred as backs, except Artis, who was a sensation at end.

FATE UNKIND

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 15.—(AP)—When fate took a hand to rob Coach Dan Faurot, new University of Missouri football coach, of a veteran end, there were no half-way measures about it.

Among the reasons Evans Powell, the end, cannot play this fall are: An ankle injury suffered in tennis. A knee injury suffered in softball.

An infection which reduced his weight 15 pounds in a few weeks. Powell also is captain of the Missouri basketball team and a baseball and tennis player.

A new bridge to be built over the Kentucky river at Frankfort will be named in honor of Gov. Ruby Laffoon, who made its construction possible.

INDIANS, MINUS BRYANT, MEET GUILFORD HERE ON SATURDAY

FIRST WIN OF SEASON SEEN FOR DOWLERMEN

Only 'Breather' in Tough Schedule for Indians; Quakers Have Light, Fast Team.

With a record of two ties and two losses in four starts, William and Mary faces the season's lone "breather" this Saturday when Guilford College, of North Carolina, comes here for a tiff with Coach Dowler's Indians. Guilford will be making its first invasion of Williamsburg in more than three years. Back in 1932 the Quakers visited Carey Field, but with disastrous results as bandy-legged Billy Palese led the Indians to a 47-0 triumph over the invaders.

Will Take No Chances
Despite the fact that the game will be generally accepted by local supporters as a fill-in on the tough William and Mary schedule, Coaches Kellison and Dowler plan to take no chances and will throw the full strength of their attack against Guilford.

Head Coach Dowler, confirmed exponent of the intricate double wing-back style of play, made no predictions as to what he expected of his Indians Saturday. If possible, however, he may experiment with new plays and give action to as many players as the score permits.

Guilford dropped an 18-6 decision to Wofford, of South Carolina, two weeks ago and dropped a 25-6 game to Erskine last week.

Squad in Good Shape
William and Mary emerged from the Tech fray seriously handicapped by the loss of Captain Stumpy Bryant and it is doubtful that Al Szumigala, injured in the Army game, will be able to play this week.

Red Woodard and Wayne Harper, fullback and tackle, respectively, who were injured in pre-season practice and who rejoined the squad only last week, will get a chance to show their wares against Guilford. The remainder of the squad is in good shape and William and Mary should register a rather decisive victory over Guilford.

FROSH TEAM BOASTS OF MANY PREP STARS

The freshman football team, which won its first game of the season with Fork Union Academy, has proved its ability. The squad consists principally of high school and prep school football stars. Many states are represented.

Charles (Red) Hearn, quarterback, is from Massachusetts. He played on the Stoughton high grid team and later starred as quarterback on the Bridgton Academy eleven. Hearn is a protégé of Jack Fisher, Fordham's all-American quarterback.

Tom Della Torre is a New Jersey man. He was brilliant in the backfield of the Ridgefield Park high school team. Pat Canapa, fullback, performed for the Newport News Apprentice School. Herb Kreuger, center, comes to William and Mary from Everett, Mass. He played for the Everett High team and for Raymond Rordan Academy of New York City.

Injured Captain

Melville "Stumpy" Bryant, brilliant Indian halfback and captain, whose collegiate football career was halted abruptly last Saturday when his ankle was fractured in two places as he was tackled on an end run. Bryant's injury removes from the Old Dominion football spotlight one of William and Mary's best all-round backs of a decade and a sure all-state choice.

William and Mary's chances for a successful season suffered a severe blow since Stumpy's great punting in addition to his ball-carrying abilities have been an Indian mainstay for the past three years. Bryant entered William and Mary in '32 after an outstanding record at Newport News high school where he captured all-state honors in '30-'31.

INTERSORORITY TENNIS IS UNDERWAY; THETAS LEAD

After the first week of play in the inter-sorority tennis tournament, the Thetas are leading with 8 points in League A. The Kappas have 3 points, Alpha Chi 2, and Kappa Delta and Pi Phi one point each. In League B, Gamma Phi and Tri Delta are tied for first place with 5 points each. Phi Mu has one point and Chi Omega has scored nothing as yet. The play will continue during this week, and the finalists from each league will play on Friday, October 18.

The result of the matches played last week are:

- Alpha Chi vs. Kappa Delta, 2-1
- Theta vs. Pi Phi, 2-1
- Gamma Phi vs. Chi Omega, 3-0
- Tri Delta vs. Phi Mu, 2-0
- Theta vs. Alpha Chi, 3-0
- Kappa vs. Kappa Delta, 3-0
- Gamma Phi vs. Phi Mu, 2-1
- Tri Delta vs. Chi Omega, 3-0

ON THE SIDELINES BY EDWARD J. NEIL

World Series gatherings are always great places for fanning bees as the boys sit around, when the day's work is done, and haul out the top stories of the year.

Bud Shaver, Detroit sports editor, told about the Hank Greenberg Day in Boston, of all places. The athletes were talking it over in the clubhouse, and everyone was happy but Goose Goslin, the veteran outfielder.

He was a trifle irked by the fact that in all his long career he never has been called up to the plate, doffing his hat, to take a bow and accept, blushing, a gift of some kind from a group of admirers.

"As a matter of fact," said the Goose, a trifle bitterly, "the only thing I ever get up there at the plate is a slow ball."

You may suspect that the Goose doesn't do so well with slow balls.

Dizzy "Haunted" Hank

The loss of Dizzy Dean from the 1935 World Series can scarcely be weighed in the regret that the Tigers feel at losing the chance for a return engagement they've been looking forward to all season, and the sadness of the experts who like the color of the Deans in their stories.

They were talking about Dizzy in that last game, when he shut out the Tigers, 11 to 0, in 1934, and the fun he had with Hank Greenberg, the big Detroit first-baseman who has been thirsting for revenge ever since.

Dizzy had Hank's number, as well as his goat. He insisted that he could strike Hank out every time he came to bat if he wished. He'd whistle a fast one across Hank's wrist for the first strike, then break a couple of curves over the outside corner while Greenberg looked in vain for another inside ball.

In that last game, Greenberg got one hit, a single, and Diz went over to him at first base, grinning.

"That's all for you today, Hank," he said. "I'm going to strike you out the rest of the way."

Frankie Frisch didn't like that. He told Diz to pay attention, to remember this was a World Series game, no time for clowning. Diz went back to work, still having a fine time.

Alteration of Football Rule Leads to 'Wide Open' Play

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—(AP)—This is the year marked for wide open football.

The only major alteration in the rules since last fall—and it is called a mere interpretation of a standing rule—make it legal for a player whose forward progress has been halted to pass or break away for a kick or run until the ball is blown dead by the referee.

This liberalization effected by a supplementary note inserted in the old rule book is expected to encourage later passes. You may see the ball pop out of the arms of a tackled runner to a teammate at any time, so long as his pass is either lateral or backward after he has advanced.

A "Radical Development"
H. J. Stegeman, director of athletics at the University of Georgia and member of the national rules committee, regards this as a "radical development in one of the spectacular phases of the game."

"The remarkable popularity of such lateral passing teams as Colgate and Ohio State has brought an insistent demand for this type of play," says Stegeman.

"The new interpretation is going to allow the ball carrier all possible opportunity to pass the ball to a teammate—even if he is held in the grasp of an opponent.

"This season the referee is required to allow a ball carrier to throw the ball as long as he is in any possible position to do so. As long as the ball carrier is not on the ground his opportunity to pass must not be taken from him. As soon as this opportunity ceases, the ball will be declared dead."

Stegeman Answers Critics
Answering the viewers-with-alarm, the stand-patters who think the new interpretation will devitalize football, Stegeman says:

"There is no danger of the game developing into basketball, but the fans can expect to see the ball in the air on almost any play. You will see the ball carrier, as he is about to be tackled, look around for a teammate. The forward passer also will have more opportunity to complete his passes under the same interpretation, so it is to be expected that more forward passing will result.

"The passer will be allowed more time to find his receivers—and receivers will have more time to get into the open.

"All in all it looks like a season of wide open play."

Coach Sees Benefits

From the coaching ranks comes the suggestion that the change wrought by the interpreters likens football more to the parent game of Rugby and that the American game will benefit thereby.

"There are dangers in the lateral pass," says William H. (Bill) Spaulding, coach of the University of California at Los Angeles, "but it has some definite advantages. In Rugby the offense expects to lose the ball from time to time through interceptions and in football the other side is going to take the ball away from you occasionally and perhaps score on the play.

"However, a team ought to get more out of Rugby tactics than it loses—if the youngsters know how to handle the ball."

CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

There are approximately forty-three clubs and honorary fraternities at the College of William and Mary, exclusive of social fraternities and sororities.

Our comments on these clubs are purely arbitrary, based on observation and personal opinion, and subject to correction.

Phi Beta Kappa elects to membership students of outstanding scholastic attainments and distinguished alumni and visitors.

Omicron Delta Kappa, for men and Mortarboard, for women, recognize leadership in all forms of college activities.

The F. H. C. Society is the oldest college fraternal organization in America.

The "13" Club also recognizes campus leaders. It is apparently getting away somewhat from fraternity lines.

The "7" Society is a secret organization which was formed for the purpose of aiding the college and students in any manner possible.

Philomathean and Phoenix Literary Societies are known mostly for their terrific and awe-inspiring political battles for the election of the respective presidents.

International Relations Club had five meetings last year. The last four were for the purpose of electing new presidents.

Wrangler's Club is the debate team. In the days when the Board of Control existed, membership was political.

The Y. M. C. A. is composed largely of men students who need an activity credit to graduate.

The Y. W. C. A. has been and is very useful and active. It sponsors an orientation program for freshmen and does good work.

Tau Kappa Alpha, debating fraternity (supposedly), sponsors a speaker here once a year.

The Cotillion Club is composed of invited members. They are invited if they happen to have a fraternity brother in the Club.

The German Club is another dance organization. It is made up of two groups, the K.O.B. and the G.G.G.

J. Leslie Hall Literary Society, for women, is quite active.

THE COLLEGIATE REVIEW

In comparison with other countries the United States ranks tenth in the educational scale, according to a statement made at the last national convention of the Parent-Teachers' convention.

The Rocking Horse, University of Wisconsin literary magazine, held a nation-wide contest last year to discover "America's worst sonnet."

According to an announcement from the University of Illinois, plant molecules have been brought within man's microscopic vision.

The Science Society of China was founded 21 years ago by Chinese undergraduates at Cornell University.

Rayon yarn is being made from slash pine by the State experimental station at Georgia Tech and research workers are studying the possibilities of its commercial production.

Dr. H. W. Stopher, director of music at Louisiana State University, has made arrangements with the famed Mozarteum, Austrian National Conservatory in Salzburg, whereby two students from each school will exchange for a year's study.

Twelve American and five Canadian colleges have organized the Intercollegiate Ski Union to further competition in ski jumping and racing.

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, widely known historian, has written or edited 104 volumes of history. Dr. Hart, professor emeritus at Harvard is 80 years old.

More than two-thirds of the physicians in the Health Department of New York City recently enrolled for intensive post-graduate courses given by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

Northeastern University in Boston will award two Civilian Conservation Corps scholarships of $100 each this year. The money will be applicable on the second payment of tuition of $200 in the colleges of liberal arts, business administration or engineering.

The University of Texas will in time become the richest institution of learning in the world. It owns two million acres of land that will yield oil and precious metals.

Probably the most unique scholarship in America is one offered by Hamilton College. Worth $500, it is open to all men in America by the name of Leavenworth.

Some smart lad at New York University has found a new way to crib. It seems that notes written on spectacles or watch-crystals in grapefruit juice become visible when breathed upon.

A Colorado University student caught drinking is forced to attend Sunday school for three years. Yes, every Sunday.

Raleigh, N. C.—If you're driving between 7 and 9 o'clock in the evening of a clear day, preferably Saturday or Sunday, during the month of December, in a passenger car, on a straight dry, well-paved road in the country AND have had a couple of drinks, watch it, because you're heading for a crash.

So says Prof. Harry Tucker, director of the North Carolina Engineering Experiment Station and head of the highway engineering department. He draws the picture from statistics gathered during his long experience as a highway authority.

In addition to the setting for the ideal fatality depicted above, the car is most likely to be in good condition, with four-wheel brakes and balloon tires, the driver between 25 and 54 years of age, and with one or more years of driving experience.

New York—Charles R. Gay, recently chosen president of the New York stock exchange to succeed Richard Whitney, admits that occasionally, when he has time, he envies his brother, Robert Malcolm Gay, professor of English and dean of the graduate division of Simmons College, Boston.

"My brother leads a life exactly contrary to mine," Gay says plaintively. "He spends his time quietly, under no pressure. He visits his friends of the intellectual circles of Boston, goes to the Boston symphony concerts, and studies."

Gay has been a member of the stock exchange since 1911, and is known as a strictly commission broker. He never speculates!

R.O.T.C., long a violent point of controversy at City College (New York), is an unrestricted elective this term, and liberals are pointing to the change as a signal victory for them.

Previously hygiene or military science was compulsory.

"This world is suffering from uncoordinated thought. Never was there more brilliant thinking and never was brilliant thinking more productive of accomplishment, but the thinking and accomplishment of one group are entirely detached from the thinking and accomplishment of another." Thus saith the president of Dartmouth college, Dr. Hopkins.

SEEING and HEARING

Our sports editor has it pretty tough this week-end. Writing up the VPI game (which was some game) and being House Daddy over at the Gamma Phi Homestead.

Kelly and Feiser went to different football games together Saturday. Just a word of warning Betty, our Bob couldn't be expected to be real true when the loveliest girls in school—meaning Nancy Mason, Kayo Hall's kid sister, Kay David and Vivian Brown were all alone on that special to Richmond—and you Betty way down at Duke. (You and me, Kelly).

Tis said that Junie Smith, Pat Lyons and Kelly have the biggest following of the feminine hearts around these parts and they really were "right" on the VPI special.

Do you all know that new decided blonde? She decided last night.

This year's Homecoming promises to be the biggest in history. The cotillion Club is doing its part in bringing the best band ever booked at William and Mary.

BLACK MAIL DEPARTMENT
ALL THOSE THAT WERE IN MURPHY'S HOTEL AND DON'T WANT THEIR NAMES MENTIONED IN THE COLUMN NEXT WEEK * * * SEND IN FIFTY CENTS AT ONCE.

In appreciation for that swell write-up last week my friend Squinty Reynolds gave me a ride from the stadium after the game—the great fellow only hit two cars and near scared me to death.

What's this about Smeltzer and Davis—Sorry Groettum, Ames and the whole gang who told me their nicknames—I've forgotten them. And why do they call you the "Whistling Kid," Dick? Poor Milky gets his Pin back and then loses it.

"Little Peggy" Stoehr shows promise of being a good boy if Karl stays away long enough. Wonder who ties the bow ties for "Charlie Brown" Macdonald. Gene Barklay and Bee Torrence rent a booth by the week at the Pharmacy.

"The 'Black Balls' do get ahead. Thelma Mains writes down to announce her engagement. Can you imagine Mops and LeGrande playing ping-pong—it's true. The story is out that "Playboy" Beach and Smoothy Bennedetto got together under the kissing rock on Flirtation Walk after the Army game.

Since the boys' rushing season has been deferred until after exams, freshmen won't be the best men on the campus until the week of November 16th.

How many of you have ever noticed how interesting the social column can be?

Booty Mapp had one date with the Duchess. I find you are liable to run into Bill Findlay and his Darling most any old place.

After reading this darn sheet over I can see what a lousy mess it is. Anybody that wants a good job and thinks that he or she would like to take a shot at writing this column, please, for my sake, get in touch with Hank right away on account of I'm sick of it.

Movies

Wednesday
"The Gay Deception," with Francis Lederer who is a prince disguised as a of a small town stenographer who wins a $5000 sweepstake prize and goes to New York to spend it, posing as an heirless. She meets Francis Lederer who is a prince disguised as a bellhop. After a great deal of deceiving on both sides, all ends happily.

Thursday

"The Little Big Shot," starring Sybil Jason, with Glenda Farrell, Robert Armstrong, and Edward Everett Horton. Another child actress, Sybil Jason, is introduced to America in this one. Other attractions in the picture are lots of gangsters, a couple of murders and a kidnapping.

Friday

"Two for Tonight," starring Bing Crosby, with Joan Bennett, Mary Boland, and Lynne Overman. A musical comedy about three brothers and their troubles in writing a musical comedy to order. Crosby is excellent as usual in a crooning and comedy part. Good songs are "Without a Word of Warning," "From the Top of Your Head to the Tip of Your Toes," "I Wish I Were Aladdin," and "Two for Tonight."

Saturday

"The Case of the Lucky Legs" with Warren William and Patricia Ellis. This is a story about a girl who wins a contest for beautiful legs, only to have the promoter skip town with the prize money. He is later found murdered and of course the girl is accused. Warren William plays the detective who solves the mystery. Besides being a good detective story, the picture has some excellent comedy. Genevieve Tobin, Lyle Talbot, Allen Jenkins and Barton MacLane are also in the cast.

Monday and Tuesday

"The Call of the Wild," with Clark Gable, Loretta Young and Jack Oakie. The screen adaptation of Jack London's famous novel. There is lots of romance in the far north in this picture of the Klondike days and a great deal of violence and huge outdoor scenes. Jack Oakie supplies the comedy.

The Stooge

Say, I'm glad the name of this column didn't scare you out. I've been told that the name of stooge recalls the "eye-jabbing" antics of Ted Healy and his boys. But really this is a very different kind of stooge—you know the fellow who is planted in the audience and heckles the actors and comments on the act—anyway, hats the sort of person that this column is supposed to represent.

Last week we just mentioned the desirability of saving for a season ticket for the year's productions and the campaign will be launched sometime this week. It's a good change to get a real bargain for yourself as well as insuring uniformly good productions.

Another good change—the plays are going to be given two nights in order to accommodate those who may have made previous engagements for one of the nights.

CAMPUS ORGANIZATIONS

There are approximately forty-three clubs and honorary fraternities at the College of William and Mary, exclusive of social fraternities and sororities. Many of the students are unfamiliar with the majority of these organizations, and know nothing of their functions and reasons for existence. We believe that a short explanation of them would be enlightening and useful.

Our comments on these clubs are purely arbitrary, based on observation and personal opinion, and subject to correction. No attempt will be made to discuss the departmental groups, such as the Spanish Club and Art Club. These groups operate in a limited field with the express purpose of increasing student interest in their particular department.

Phi Beta Kappa elects to membership students of outstanding scholastic attainments and distinguished alumni and visitors. It is one of the few honoraries here which has not suffered from political management at one time or another. It is faculty controlled.

Omicron Delta Kappa, for men and Mortarboard, for women, recognize leadership in all forms of college activities. Both organizations are active in college life and work for the general good of the students.

Phi Kappa Phi, faculty controlled, elects the outstanding students in each department of the college. The departmental heads nominate the prospective members.

The F. H. C. Society is the oldest college fraternal organization in America. And that's all. Apparently inactive, it supposedly recognizes leaders in college life. Political.

The "13" Club also recognizes campus leaders. It is apparently getting away somewhat from fraternity lines. Both the F. H. C. Society and "13" Club could be very useful and active, but at the present time seem to be resting on their laurels.

The "7" Society is a secret organization which was formed for the purpose of aiding the college and students in any manner possible. Has done good work in the past, but nowadays seems to spend a great deal of time painting "7s" on the sidewalks. May still be functioning usefully, but due to its secret membership, we cannot say definitely. We protest, however, against their childish habit of disfiguring the campus with red paint.

Phiomathean and Phoenix Literary Societies are known mostly for their terrific and awe-inspiring political battles for the election of the respective presidents. Used to be the most powerful organizations on the campus, but have lost most of their prestige because of continued inactivity and internal bickerings.

International Relations Club had five meetings last year. The last four were for the purpose of electing new presidents, as each new leader resigned immediately upon election. Should be very active this year. We hope for the best, but past experience does not promise a great deal.

Wrangler's Club is the debate team. In the days when the Board of Control existed, membership was political, as the president of the Club was automatically president of the Board. It is too soon to prophesy whether conditions have changed for the better or worse since then. A fairly active organization.

The Y. M. C. A. is composed largely of men students who need an activity credit to graduate. Did nothing of any importance last year. It started out in a great burst of activity, but soon calmed down.

The Y. W. C. A. has been and is very useful and active. It sponsors an orientation program for freshmen and does good work.

Pi Delta Epsilon, journalistic fraternity, was formed last spring for the purpose of recognizing ability in publications work and bringing together the leaders on the various publications. It is a good idea, but so far nothing has been done. Promises to be useful, if active.

Tau Kappa Alpha, debating fraternity (supposedly), sponsors a speaker here once a year. It is otherwise inactive.

The Cotillion Club is composed of invited members. They are invited if they happen to have a fraternity brother in the Club. Sponsors dances.

The German Club is another dance organization. It is made up of two groups, the K.O.B. and the G.G.G. We can't remember which sororities are in which at the moment.

J. Leslie Hall Literary Society, for women, is quite active.

THE COLLEGIATE REVIEW

In comparison with other countries the United States ranks tenth in the educational scale, according to a statement made at the last national convention of the Parent-Teachers' convention.

The Rocking Horse, University of Wisconsin literary magazine, held a nation-wide contest last year to discover "America's worst sonnet."

According to an announcement from the University of Illinois, plant molecules have been brought within man's microscopic vision.

The Science Society of China was founded 21 years ago by Chinese undergraduates at Cornell University.

Rayon yarn is being made from slash pine by the State experimental station at Georgia Tech and research workers are studying the possibilities of its commercial production.

Dr. H. W. Stopher, director of music at Louisiana State University, has made arrangements with the famed Mozarteum, Austrian National Conservatory in Salzburg, whereby two students from each school will exchange for a year's study.

Twelve American and five Canadian colleges have organized the Intercollegiate Ski Union to further competition in ski jumping and racing.

Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, widely known historian, has written or edited 104 volumes of history. Dr. Hart, professor emeritus at Harvard is 80 years old.

More than two-thirds of the physicians in the Health Department of New York City recently enrolled for intensive post-graduate courses given by the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University.

Northeastern University in Boston will award two Civilian Conservation Corps scholarships of $100 each this year. The money will be applicable on the second payment of tuition of $200 in the colleges of liberal arts, business administration or engineering.

The University of Texas will in time become the richest institution of learning in the world. It owns two million acres of land that will yield oil and precious metals.

Probably the most unique scholarship in America is one offered by Hamilton College. Worth $500, it is open to all men in America by the name of Leavenworth.

Some smart lad at New York University has found a new way to crib. It seems that notes written on spectacles or watch-crystals in grapefruit juice become visible when breathed upon.

A Colorado University student caught drinking is forced to attend Sunday school for three years. Yes, every Sunday.

Raleigh, N. C.—If you're driving between 7 and 8 o'clock in the evening of a clear day, preferably Saturday or Sunday, during the month of December, in a passenger car, on a straight dry, well-paved road in the country AND have had a couple of drinks, watch it, because you're heading for a crash.

So says Prof. Harry Tucker, director of the North Carolina Engineering Experiment Station and head of the highway engineering department. He draws the picture from statistics gathered during his long experience as a highway authority.

In addition to the setting for the ideal fatality depicted above, the car is most likely to be in good condition, with four-wheel brakes and balloon tires, the driver between 25 and 54 years of age, and with one or more years of driving experience.

New York—Charles R. Gay, recently chosen president of the New York stock exchange to succeed Richard Whitney, admits that occasionally, when he has time, he envies his brother, Robert Malcolm Gay, professor of English and dean of the graduate division of Simmons College, Boston.

"My brother leads a life exactly contrary to mine," Gay says plaintively. "He spends his time quietly, under no pressure. He visits his friends of the intellectual circles of Boston, goes to the Boston symphony concerts, and studies."

Gay has been a member of the stock exchange since 1911, and is known as a strictly commission broker. He never speculates!

R.O.T.C., long a violent point of controversy at City College (New York), is an unrestricted elective this term, and liberals are pointing to the change as a signal victory for them.

Previously hygiene or military science was compulsory.

"This world is suffering from uncoordinated thought. Never was there more brilliant thinking and never was brilliant thinking more productive of accomplishment, but the thinking and accomplishment of one group are entirely detached from the thinking and accomplishment of another." Thus saith the president of Dartmouth college, Dr. Hopkins.

SEEING and HEARING

Our sports editor has it pretty tough this week-end. Writing up the VPI game (which was some game) and being House Daddy over at the Gamma Phi Homestead. "Love and Kisses" Degutis ain't best man 'round there any more on account of Bill Thomas has gone and hung the old Phi Tau placard on Pete Moreland. Congratulations to Bill and Pete and cigars to the boys over in dark town.

Kelly and Feiser went to different football games together Saturday. Just a word of warning Betty, our Bob couldn't be expected to be real true when the loveliest girls in school—meaning Nancy Mason, Kayo Hall's kid sister, Kay David and Vivian Brown were all alone on that special to Richmond—and you Betty way down at Duke. (You and me, Kelly).

Tis said that Junie Smith, Pat Lyons and Kelly have the biggest following of the feminine hearts around these parts and they really were "right" on the VPI special. I wonder if that cute little lady believes all those big black lies that Crandle and "Pinhead" Walker were tossing around?

Do you all know that new decided blonde? She decided last night.

This year's Homecoming promises to be the biggest in history. The cotillion Club is doing its part in bringing the best band ever booked at William and Mary. I speak of Charles Barnett and his 15 stooges. You've all heard him over the CBS broadcasting from Coconut Grove in the Park Central Hotel of New York. Let's give Charlie a big crowd.

BLACK MAIL DEPARTMENT
ALL THOSE THAT WERE IN MURPHY'S HOTEL AND DON'T WANT THEIR NAMES MENTIONED IN THE COLUMN NEXT WEEK * * * SEND IN FIFTY CENTS AT ONCE.

In appreciation for that swell write-up last week my friend Squinty Reynolds gave me a ride from the stadium after the game—the great fellow only hit two cars and near scared me to death. Margy and Sherrill were along but didn't seem to mind.

What's this about Smeltzer and Davis—Sorry Groettum, Ames and the whole gang who told me their nicknames—I've forgotten them. And why do they call you the "Whistling Kid," Dick? Poor Milky gets his pin back and then loses it. Sorry to see Micky Daly leave school—what are we going to do for a pitcher now? Burt "Dimples" Rosendale makes a certain man's heart to flutter. Junie Smith went Esquire and gave the Chi O pledges their first look at a mighty Senior. Smedley—in case I don't get a chance to see you, Hazel told me to make some time for her. If you want to enjoy a show, don't sit near Harold Freeman. He likes to tell you what it's all about.

"Little Peggy" Stoehr shows promise of being a good boy if Karl stays away long enough. Wonder who ties the bow ties for "Charlie Brown" Macdonald. Gene Barklay and Bee Torrence rent a booth by the week at the Pharmacy.

"The 'Black Balls' do get ahead. Thelma Mains writes down to announce her engagement. Can you imagine Mops and LeGrande playing ping-pong—it's true. The story is out that "Playboy" Beach and Smoothy Benedetto got together under the kissing rock on Flirtation Walk after the Army game. Jealous Berger? Tiger Mason knows when he's sucked in, he couldn't ever find his date in Richmond and it cost him RR fare, dinner and tickets for the game. Shirley Daiger and Luke Phillips are such a cute couple.

Since the boys' rushing season has been deferred until after exams, freshmen won't be the best men on the campus until the week of November the 16th. What a break it will be if they are made to wear something to distinguish them from the upperclassmen.

How many of you have ever noticed how interesting the social column can be?

Booty Mapp had one date with the Duchess. I find you are liable to run into Bill Findlay and his Darling most any old place.

After reading this darn sheet over I can see what a lousy mess it is. Anybody that wants a good job and thinks that he or she would like to take a shot at writing this column, please, for my sake, get in touch with Hank right away on account of I'm sick of it.

Movies

Wednesday
"The Gay Deception," with Francis Lederer who is a prince disguised as a of a small town stenographer who wins a $5000 sweepstake prize and goes to New York to spend it, posing as an heiress. She meets Francis Lederer who is a prince disguised as a bellhop. After a great deal of deceiving on both sides, all ends happily.

Thursday
"The Little Big Shot," starring Sybil Jason, with Glenda Farrell, Robert Armstrong, and Edward Everett Horton. Another child actress, Sybil Jason, is introduced to America in this one. Other attractions in the picture are lots of gangsters, a couple of murders and a kidnaping.

Friday
"Two for Tonight," starring Bing Crosby, with Joan Bennett, Mary Boland, and Lynne Overman. A musical comedy about three brothers and their troubles in writing a musical comedy to order. Crosby is excellent as usual in a crooning and comedy part. Good songs are "Without a Word of Warning," "From the Top of Your Head to the Tip of Your Toes," "I Wish I Were Aladdin," and "Two for Tonight."

Saturday
"The Case of the Lucky Legs" with Warren William and Patricia Ellis. This is a story about a girl who wins a contest for beautiful legs, only to have the promoter skip town with the prize money. He is later found murdered and of course the girl is accused. Warren William plays the detective who solves the mystery. Besides being a good detective story, the picture has some excellent comedy. Genevieve Tobin, Lyle Talbot, Allen Jenkins and Barton MacLane are also in the cast.

Monday and Tuesday
"The Call of the Wild," with Clark Gable, Loretta Young and Jack Oakie. The screen adaptation of Jack London's famous novel. There is lots of romance in the far north in this picture of the Klondike days and a great deal of violence and huge outdoor scenes. Jack Oakie supplies the comedy.

The Stogie

Say, I'm glad the name of this column didn't scare you out. I've been told that the name of stogie recalls the "eye-jabbing" antics of Ted Healy and his boys. But really this is a very different kind of stogie—you know the fellow who is planted in the audience and heckles the actors and comments on the act—anyway, he's the sort of person that this column is supposed to represent.

Last week we just mentioned the desirability of saving for a season ticket for the year's productions and the campaign will be launched sometime this week. It's a good chance to get a real bargain for yourselves as well as insuring uniformly good productions.

CO-ED FASHIONS FOR THE CAMPUS

SOCIAL PAGE

DORMITORY AND SORORITY NEWS

FASHIONS FOR CO-EDS

Your fashion "eye" took Saturday off and went window shopping in Richmond—after the game, of course. Everywhere I went I saw such beautiful coats that I have to devote the column to them this week.

During the duller moments of the game, polo coats, swagger coats, and smart tweeds became the center of attention. Tan polo coats with slightly smaller collars are as good this year as ever before and there are a great many of them in the larger cities as well as on the campus. The swagger coats are sensational—especially those lovely plaids. Don't attempt anything conservative in a sport coat of this type—the louder the better. But actually the colors don't glare at you but they are soft and beautiful. I am thinking now of the brown and white plaids which blend together so well.

You will be crazy about the fur trimmed tweed coats which Best & Company are sponsoring this season. These are again full swagger coats with fur continuing from the collar on down to the hem on both sides. These bands of fur are wide or turned under leaving only an inch or two visible, as you prefer.

The collars are wide and large, furred most often with natural lynx or fox. This type of coat is probably the best all round coat being shown. It is still too early in the season to dress up, yet there are many times when one wishes not to be too casual.

These coats dress up to meet the formality of city life and still are perfectly at home in the stadium.

Many of the tweeds have been cut down the back and stitched in such a way as to give even more fullness. Their collars are usually of a rough, long fur and altogether they are the perfect answer for that extra coat for heavy weather.

This is still more or less of a prophecy to us in Williamsburg and Richmond for I am still quite comfortable in the lighter suit top-coat, but winter is surely coming.

overhauling to give adequate space for real box sets, which will be used for the first time in the play "Unattainable"—Not only that, but a huge sum of money has been secured for a unique lighting effect.

Congratulations are in order for Roger Child and May Fielder who were elected to the Dramatic Club last Thursday night. The club has gotten off to a good start with nineteen returning members. I believe the club should increase the dues for members who insist on remaining after meetings to clean up the refreshments and initiate new furniture for the sororities.

Rehearsals are well under way for "Unattainable," and it certainly has all the earmarks of a real hit. It is one of the smoothest plays ever attempted here.

Say—we've just heard from Alice Cahill, who is teaching in Hawaii. Remember what a "heavenly creature" she was stretched out on the wall in "Hotel Universe."

Oh yeah—the meanest girl in the world, Ruth West, she has been away—on her sister's honeymoon. Who was it told us? I'm not sure, but it might have been Hiram Davis. Just a tip—be mighty careful what you do around here. I wouldn't be surprised if he weren't a special reporter for the gossip column—if not he would qualify.

The Dramatic Club has decided to go dramatic as well as literary. Skits, selections, and what not have been voted on for future meetings—so if your roommate mutters "Hamlet's" speech to the players in his sleep, please be considerate. Who knows, maybe you will be doing the same thing before long.

Before I start muttering some news that I shouldn't spill myself, I had better sign off for now—see you in the column next week.

Italian Communication Lines Observed As Danger in Battle

By CHARLES P. NUTTER

LONDON, Oct. 15.—(AP)—Recognized by British military strategists here as the greatest weakness in any Italian effort to subjugate Ethiopia is the perilously thin and dangerous long line of Italian communications.

Modernizing the old adage that an army moves on its stomach, observers here point out the almost staggering problems of transport, communications and supply involved in Mussolini's East African campaign. A single break in this long line of communications, which stretches back from Eritrea nearly 3,000 miles to Italian ports, might turn a victorious march of blackshirts into a stupendous debacle of a retreat of 250,000 starving, thirsty men.

Suez Canal Called Vital

Up to Eritrea the line of supplies stretches through peaceful friendly waters and country, provided the vital Suez canal is not closed. Observers believe such a step would turn the East African campaign into a nightmare of rout.

At Eritrea, however, Mussolini's real problem of keeping his line of supplies open through enemy country, begins. It is well beyond 500 miles from Asmara to Addis Ababa—and the route lies through swamps and across deserts, high mountains and deep canyons. Use of wheeled vehicles through this country is impossible, and probably could be accomplished only after years of labor by Italian road and bridge builders.

Afoot and upon mules, horses and camels, Mussolini must be prepared to move supplies along this perilous route toward the Ethiopian capital. Every foot of the ground is certain to be contested by savage fighters, challenging not alone the army vanguards but the thousands of troops who must be left at periodic intervals to guard the line of supply.

Lesson Found in Old War

Military experts say that for every man an army has on the firing line, there must be ten behind the lines to keep supplies coming up. This ratio must automatically be increased in Ethiopia by the staggering difficulties of nature and lack of modern transport.

An index to what the Italians may expect is encountered in a survey of the campaign directed by General Sir Robert Napier who defeated Emperor Theodore in the Anglo-Ethiopian war of 1867-1868.

At that time armies needed few of the supplies necessary today and Napier moved away from the Red Sea with 42,000 soldiers, and about 10,000 baggage carriers and men of all work.

He reached and stormed Magdala with only 3,500 men, less than 10 per cent of his original strength. The rest were claimed by rigors of the campaign, enemy attacks or strung back along the long line to the base.

The history of this campaign leads English observers to believe that if Italy moves 250,000 men out of Eritrea, less than 25,000 ever would reach Addis Ababa. There they would face a precarious fate, dependent upon the strength of their enemies in that sector and the ability of the men they left behind to keep food, ammunition, medicine, clothing and even water coming forward.

Staff Warns Mussolini

A break in this line for even a week might reduce the Italian army to starvation. Living off the country would be impossible for such an army. With no ammunition factories or other industry in the empire, the troops would be wholly dependent upon what came forward from Italy.

All of these factors are believed to have been detailed by the Italian general staff in a report submitted to Mussolini months ago. Military sources here understand Il Duce exploded when he read its recommendations to forego the African adventure because of the almost insurmountable difficulties, and tore up the report, exclaiming:

"Fascism will march straight ahead to victory."

The general staff report, reliable sources here understand, said it would require half a million men from 8 to 10 years completely to subjugate the Ethiopians. The cost, they said, would be prohibitive.

Literary Guidepost

By JOHN SELBY

"THE PRIVATE JOURNAL OF HENRI FREDERIC AMIEL," translated by Van Wyck Brooks and Charles Van Wyck Brooks, introduction by Bernard Bouvier; (Macmillan).

For months the midnight electricity has burned in an attractive white house on Kingshighway, in Westport, Conn. The house is that of Van Wyck Brooks, the project has been the translation of "The Private Journal of Henri Frederic Amiel," and the result is published today.

The result is a wholly charming book, with one possible black mark. This last has nothing to do with the worthy labors of the translators, Van Wyck Brooks and his son, Charles Van Wyck Brooks. It is the long and somewhat sententious introduction by Bernard Bouvier, a slightly high-flown effort quite out of the spirit of the book and one that can be skipped with pleasure.

The Journal is one of the last century's most durable literary products. Amiel was a Swiss professor who never was a success, in the usual sense. He was trained in numerous schools, he knew the contemporary scene, he had curious ideas (one of them was a personal purity which seems warped to the modern sense). But he was a thinker, sensitive to all that passed and capable of analysis which led him often to conclusions so far beyond his Victorian surroundings as to leave him unique.

The book published is only a new and longer selection from his Journal, which runs to 14,000 pages. Perhaps the entire Journal would be too much, but the selection is so thought-provoking, so honest and so delightful as prose that one is tempted to doubt it. Sample:

"The truth is that the family relation exists only to put us to the proof and that it gives us infinitely more suffering than happiness. It must be accepted as Socrates accepted Xanthippe, as the providential exercise of our patience and as a constant occasion for obscure heroism."

Yes, M. Amiel was also a philosopher.

Mr. Taylor stated that the Drum and Bugle Corps from Newport News has been invited to take part in a competitive drill during the half of the scheduled football game between William and Mary and Virginia Military Institute at 2:30 p.m. on Carey Field.

Other plans for the day include an out-door luncheon for the Alumni in Matoaka Park and a dinner and oyster roast at 7 p.m. at Topping's Tourist Camp. Mr. Henry Billups, custodian of the College bell, will be presented with a solid gold watch for his long service to William and Mary and for his loyalty to the Alumni. The day will be climaxed with a dance, probably in the Blow Gymnasium from 9 to 12 p.m.

It is anticipated that the largest gathering in the history of the College will assemble here to witness the Homecoming celebration.

Concert Orchestra Acquires Instruments

The William and Mary concert orchestra expects to have the most complete instrumentation in its history this year. The purchase of a number of more unusual instruments, including oboe, tympani and string bass, will enable the organization to present symphonic arrangements.

Clarence Verner, '38, of Cincinnati, Ohio, will begin work as a tympani player; Robert M. Griffey, director of the band and men's glee club, will play the string bass; and Richard Dooley, clarinetist and saxophonist of the Colonial Collegians, will play the oboe. These additions to the orchestra will complete the string and percussion sections.

The music department urges all students who have had experience in playing musical instruments, to report to Prof. Small in old Taliaferro Hall, in order that work may start on programs to be presented during the year.

NOTICE

All students interested in fencing are invited to come to the practices held at 4:00 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday in the fencing room of Blow Gymnasium, located on the second floor. Regular practices will be held from now on.

ON THE SIDELINES

The next time Greenberg came up, Diz fanned him as he promised, and it was so funny to him that he laughed loudly, and held his nose, as though there was an odor of some kind. That made Frisch real mad.

"Listen," he said, "You're going great and you're a big shot, but remember, this is a World Series game. You pull anything more like that, and Dean or no Dean, I'll pull you out of the ball game."

Dizzy, still grinning, pondered that. Then he said in a small voice: "All right, Frankie. No more clowning. But is it all right if I keep striking him out?"

Frisch had to admit it would be. And with a solemn face that was even funnier than his clowning, Diz struck out Greenberg twice more.

NOTICE

Beginning Monday, October 21, the Williamsburg Theatre will resume its winter schedule of adult evening admissions, according to an announcement today by the management of the Theatre. The new schedule will be thirty-five cents for adults at evening shows, the same scale which was in effect when the theatre was opened in January of 1933.

There will be no increase in matinee admissions, the summer rate being continued at twenty-five cents for adults and ten cents for children under twelve years of age. Children's admissions will not be affected but will remain at ten cents both matinee and evenings for those under twelve.

WSCGA Holds Party For Freshman Women

Barrett Hall was the scene of a party Monday night for freshmen and transfer women students, given under the sponsorship of the Y. W. C. A. and the Women Students' Cooperative Government Association. Charlotte Johnson headed the committee of Assistant Sponsors, who were in charge of arrangements.

The program of entertainment during the evening included a tap dance by Ava Burke, piano selections by Jean Cecil, and reading by May Fielder. Refreshments were ice cream and small cakes.

The party for new students is an annual affair, marking the close of the series of weekly sponsor group classes, in which upperclass women teach the rules and traditions of William and Mary. Final examinations in the material covered were given earlier in the evening.

The annual lantern festival of the Y. W. C. A. was held last Thursday at eight o'clock in front of the Christopher Wren Building. There were two groups of people represented: the northern and the southern. Each group marched down opposite sides of the campus carrying lanterns.

...but, after all is said and done, it's the cigarette itself that counts

...the question is, does it suit you?

Now, when it comes to a cigarette that will suit you... you want to think whether it's mild, you want to think about the taste

That Chesterfields are milder and taste better is no accident...

The farmer who grows the tobacco, the warehouseman who sells it at auction to the highest bidder, every man who knows about leaf tobacco will tell you that it takes mild, ripe tobaccos to make a good cigarette.

In making Chesterfields we use mild ripe home-grown and Turkish tobaccos.

Outstanding .. for mildness .. for better taste
