Eisenhower Will Visit William And Mary On May 15

Student Candidates Submit Petitions To Dean's Office As Monday Deadline Nears

Petitions must be filed by Monday for all students planning to run for student body president and vice-president and for all class officers except those for the freshman class, Election Chairman John Munger announced.

Students planning to run for office are reminded that their petitions must be filed at the office of the Dean of Men before noon Monday for the first election and before noon of April 20 for the second election.

Elections scheduled for April selecting a student body president and vice-president and for the selection of all class officers excepting those for the freshman class. The second election on April 22 will be held to select representatives to the Student Assembly and to the Men's Honor Council.

Contrary to popular belief, students do not have to procure signatures of fellow classmates in order to run for office.

Candidates for the offices of student body president and vice-president must be members of the 1954 graduating class and hold a 1.0 quality point average. They must also have completed at least 70 semester hours of academic credit with a 1.0 average in the semester immediately preceding the election. Petitions must be filed by noon of Monday.

Candidates for all other offices must be in good standing in their respective classes and hold a quality point average of 1.0 for the semester immediately preceding the election. Petitions for this election may be filed anytime between Monday, April 13 and noon of Monday, April 20.

Armstrong Conducts Students To Europe On Educational Tour

A European tour, sponsored by the Brownell Travel Bureau, Inc., and under the direction of Mrs. D. B. Armstrong of the Department of Modern Languages, will be open to William and Mary students this summer. The tour will sail from Quebec on the Arosakulm June 9 and will last seven weeks.

The tour will arrive in London on June 19. Five days will be spent in England with London as headquarters. During this time, the tour will visit all spots of interest in England, including the Shakespearean Country.

On June 24 the group will cross the Channel and spend the next two days touring the Lowlands. They will then proceed through Germany, where they will spend three days, and then on to Switzerland where they will spend two days at Lucerne and one at Como.

From there the tour will proceed to Italy, stopping at Milan, Venice and Florence. They will arrive in Rome on July 7, where they will stay for three days. The tour will spend two days on the Riviera, followed by a day in Lyons, and will arrive in Paris on July 14, Bastille Day.

Five days will be spent in touring Paris and all the surrounding country, including Versailles. The group will sail from Le Havre on July 19 and arrive back in Quebec on July 29.

The cost of the tour is $925 for tourist class (dormitory-style sleeping with 15 or more in a room), or $15 extra for cabin class (three or six in one cabin). A deposit of $200 should be made as early as possible, but no later than April 15, and full payment by early May. A passport and a smallpox vaccination will be necessary.

New President To Receive Traditional Honorary Degree At Inauguration Of Chandler As W&M College President

By Madge Cushing
Flat Hat Managing Editor

President Dwight D. Eisenhower will visit the College of William and Mary and receive an honorary degree at the inauguration of College President Alvin D. Chandler on May 15, it was announced Friday by the presidential press secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Both President Eisenhower and Virginia Governor John S. Battle will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree. President Eisenhower will deliver an address during the ceremonies, titled "Greetings from the Nation's Capital," according to Hagerty.

The decision by the President to come to William and Mary is the first such acceptance he has made since becoming President. He will be the ninth chief executive to receive an honorary degree. President Chandler has announced that the ceremonies will be held as a convocation at 11 a. m. in the historic area in front of the Wren Building. The convocation will be followed by a luncheon for the special guests of the College.

The inauguration of Chandler as twenty-second President of the College will be attended by more than 200 official visitors from other colleges, universities and international honorary societies.

The announcement by President Chandler that Governor Battle would receive a degree at the May ceremonies was made shortly after Hagerty disclosed that Eisenhower was coming to William and Mary.

"William and Mary is indeed proud to add the names of these two distinguished Americans to the roster of eminent leaders who have been similarly honored in the past," President Chandler stated.

Although there has been no decision yet on how President Eisenhower will travel to Williamsburg, according to Hagerty, President Chandler stated that the Chief Executive would be met at "whatever point he first touches the soil of Virginia."

The convocation will include an academic procession, but detailed plans for the ceremonies have not yet been completed. News of the invitation extended to President Eisenhower was revealed early last month. The White House announced at that time that a decision regarding the matter could not be made for several weeks.

The President came to Williamsburg on March 8, 1946 with Prime Minister Winston Churchill. It was on March 28 of the same year that Eisenhower and Admiral Chester Nimitz received honorary degrees from the University of Richmond.

United States presidents who have received honorary degrees from the College of William and Mary are Thomas Jefferson, John Tyler, Woodrow Wilson, Warren G. Harding, Calvin Coolidge, Herbert Hoover, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

W&M Gets Diploma For Aid In Success Of Italian Exhibition

William and Mary has been awarded a diploma in recognition of its "splendid cooperation and assistance toward the success" of the World Overseas Exhibition held at Naples, Italy, last summer.

President Alvin D. Chandler received the diploma for the College from Vittoria Ivella, Italian consul in Baltimore, given on behalf of the exhibition officials.

The World Overseas Exhibition was held in Naples from June until October. Its purpose was to show the part the Italian people played in the building of modern nations throughout the world.

William and Mary contributed information of Carlo Bellini, professor of modern languages at the College from 1779 to 1803. He was the first professor of modern languages at the first American college to establish a chair of modern languages and was a close friend of Thomas Jefferson.

Dr. W. G. Guy States Student Scholarship Available To Exeter

Students interested in the Exeter College Scholarship are asked to make their applications now, it was announced by Dr. W. G. Guy.

The Exeter College Exchange Scholarship is open to those students who are now completing their sophomore year or who are in this year's graduating class.

Exeter College, an undergraduate, co-educational college, offers a variety of courses in Arts, Science, Economics, Commerce, Law and Music.

The college year begins near the end of September and extends to the end of June.

Henretta Trent, a junior from Danville, was awarded the scholarship for the 1952-1953 session at Exeter College. The Exeter Exchange student to William and Mary this year is Jill Tester from Sussex, England.

Applications for this scholarship should be made before April 25, accompanied by a statement concerning the student's proposed line of study at Exeter and addressed to: W. G. Guy, Chairman of the Committee on the Award of the Exeter Scholarship, College of William and Mary.

Theatre Announces Date Of Next Play 'Much Ado About Nothing' April 22-25

The William and Mary Theatre will present its seventh annual Shakespearean production, Much Ado About Nothing, April 22 through 25 in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium under the direction of Miss Althea Hunt.

As has been the custom with the Theatre's Shakespearean productions in the past, the Friday and Saturday night presentations are planned particularly for high school audiences, although the theatre will not be limited to these groups exclusively.

The play will coincide with the week of Shakespeare's birthday, April 23.

Messina, the chief city of Sicily, is the scene of Much Ado About Nothing. Anne Helms, star of many William and Mary Theatre productions, has been cast in the female lead as Beatrice, niece of Leonato. Leonard Schneider will play opposite her as Benedick, a young lord of Padua.

Schneider played the male lead in Playboy of the Western World and The Silver Cord. He designed the set and costumes for The Trojan War Will Not Take Place and also appeared as Oiax in the play.

Barbara Marsland, who appeared in First Lady and in many other Theatre productions, will play Hero, daughter of Leonato. George Burns will appear opposite her as Claudio a young lord of Florence. Burns will be remembered for his performance in The Country Girl, First Lady, Playboy of the Western World and The Trojan War Will Not Take Place. He will be seen in The Clandestine Marriage, a restoration comedy opening Friday at the Reception Center.

Barry Wilson, who is writing and directing this year's Varsity Show with Bill Farley, will play Leonato, Governor of Messina. Wilson has acted in The Country Girl, Playboy of the Western World and The Trojan War Will Not Take Place.

Gray Bromleigh has been cast as Don Pedro, Prince of Arragon. Bromleigh starred as Hector in The Trojan War Will Not Take Place.

Cadet Staff Elects Honorary Colonel To Sponsor Military Ball This Friday

The traditional field artillery colors, American beauty red and canary yellow, will decorate Blow Gymnasium Friday night as the William and Mary ROTC unit holds its Third Annual Military Ball from 10 p. m. until 2 a. m.

The unit's Honorary Cadet Colonel will be crowned during the intermission of the dance. She and her court will be escorted to the bandstand through an arch of sabers formed by the senior cadet officers of the corps.

Nine sponsors have been nominated for this honor by the ROTC cadet officers holding the rank of captain or higher. The candidates are: Mary Warren Collier, Mary Knabb, Mary Ellen McCloskey, Elsie Nelms, Marilyn Powell, Betty Schindler, Ann Smith, Bobbie Tignor and Jane Topping. The senior cadet officers will choose the winner from among these sponsors.

Tomorrow afternoon a battalion revue in the Sunken Gardens will honor the nine sponsors. At this time awards will be given to Cadets Paul F. Nichols, Philip T. Brown, John C. Marsh and Henry P. Kaplan. These men hold the highest scholastic ranking in their respective classes.

The dance Friday night is open to all students and will be formal. Cadets will wear their uniforms.

Tickets for the Military Ball will be $2 if bought during the advance sale and $2.50 at the door. Jim Apostolou, John Flanagan, Tom Guthrie, Martin Irons, Mo Maddox and Tony Vujevich are handling the ticket sales.

HALESTONES

By Jane Hale

This column is respectfully dedicated
 To those dear people who have trouble talking in class,
 To those gentle souls who are fated
 In eternal silence
 To pass
 Unnoticed when discussions are by.
 How shy!
 Why,
 I
 Could cry
 For all you people
 Whom
 I presume
Were born without vocal cords!
 It seems obvious, but I'll point it out
 Anyway:
 One must open one's mouth
 When one has something to say.
 One cannot expect other people to guess
 Unless
 You talk. There is a limit to being meek.
 Not many students have voices so weak
 That they could not compete
 With the average tonal quality
 Of the hog-callers elite.
 When a question is asked
 In class
 Either answer it or let it pass
 Silently.
 When a discussion is stirred up
 Either join in Violently
 Or shut
 Your pink shell-like ears and don't listen.
 However,
 Be clever,
 Always pretend
 That you're not talking because you can't get a word
 In
 To be heard.
 Never
 Admit that you have nothing to say.
 Play it fair, kid,
 It's better that way.
 Along with an absence of creative writing
 There seems to be a dearth of "creative fighting"
 Around here.
 Our conversations are "withered and sere"
 Indeed.
 To learn how to read
 Critically enough to talk about it.
 We need to think
 Fast enough to link
 More than two ideas together.
 A harsh demand? — Kather!
 But do the best you can because it's more polite
 When you don't keep other people guessing
 What you're thinking when you're sitting tight
 With all your big silent "high-seriousness"
 (They are apt to be overcome with a weariness
 And the impressiveness
 Of the bed
 They could be sleeping in Instead.)

A Welcome Visitor

The formal announcement that President Dwight D. Eisenhower will visit William and Mary on May 15 to receive an honorary degree from the College at the inauguration of President Alvin D. Chandler is a most welcome one. We would like to take this opportunity to express our delight at the approaching visit of the nation's chief executive.

The presidential visit should bring the College additional prestige and favorable publicity—commodities which William and Mary can certainly use. President Eisenhower's presence on the College campus will be a very auspicious occasion and one which the entire College Community can take part in with pride.

It has become a tradition for Presidents of the United States to receive an honorary degree from the College of William and Mary. In doing so, President Eisenhower will join such notable predecessors as Thomas Jefferson, Woodrow Wilson, Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry S. Truman.

Regardless of party preferences, we can all welcome our nation's president with the courtesy and dignity that his office demands. Our own presidential preference in the recent campaign is well-known and remains as ardent as the convictions which caused it, but we are happy to welcome President Eisenhower to the College.

Sorry, Wrong Number

If you have ever attempted to make a telephone call on campus, you have probably discovered an interesting fact—you can't get any of the women's dormitories because the telephones are always busy and you can't get any of the men's dormitories because no one will answer the telephones. In the ordinary events of the day, this can become a most frustrating experience; in case of an emergency, it can become very serious.

With regard to the popularity of telephone conversations in the women's dormitories, there is little that can be done except to make a plea for abbreviated telephone-talk and, of course, for some more telephones. The telephone difficulties with regard to the men's dormitories are of an entirely different nature; something constructive can be done and should be done immediately—by the men themselves.

The telephone system that we have on campus can operate successfully only if everyone cooperates to make it work. When a telephone rings in any of the dormitories, everyone within hearing range should feel obligated to answer it and take any messages which may be given. The person nearest the telephone is obviously the most logical one to answer it. We are all cognizant of this simple fact and should recognize it as an obligation.

We realize that it may be inconvenient at times to answer the telephone and take a message, particularly for the poor unfortunates who live right next to the campus telephone and are constantly harrassed by it. But we also must realize that our campus telephone service, by its very nature, depends on this cooperative system of use.

Additional telephones in the men's dormitories are needed and would do much to alleviate the present situation, but the essential element in making our telephone system work adequately is the cooperation of the dormitory residents.

As Red Skelton would say, answer the phone, boy! Who knows, it might be Marilyn Monroe asking you to Spring Finals.

STUDENT VOICE

Cites Need For Student Action

It is my belief that there is a definite need for action along the lines of reorganizing and increasing the efficiency of what is potentially the major influence on college affairs—The Student Government.

There are two ways of thinking about the problem of what to do with the present unclear picture of the general Student Government organization. The women students have achieved a degree of self-government through the development of an efficient and well-organized Student Government structure.

One alternative would be the establishment of a separate Men's Student Government. This idea, however, is incompatible with every theory of co-education.

The second and more logical alternative is a more highly integrated Student Government system which would fully utilize the WSCGA.

The students themselves are naturally the best qualified to know what they want in a government. Right now the College Administration has to dig deep to find out what the students want. The students have elected leaders to represent them, it is true, and from these leaders the Administration gets whatever information it has about the students' wishes. But the leaders do not always know who to approach with their problem.

The Student Government cannot do anything with its present set-up because it is all messed up within itself and spends most of its energy trying to get around its own organization and not because its leaders haven't tried hard.

I believe it will be possible to derive a Student Government organization which will be a truly representative body, which will effectively communicate the opinions of the students to those with the authority to act upon them, and which will insure their being put into practice.

Sincerely,
 Jim Grant.

Criticizes Faculty Voice

To The Editor:

In reference to Dr. Mooney's article in the Faculty Voice column of March 17, I would like to say that the moral implied is one of merit, but as for the preceding arguments, which are supposed to support his conclusions, I fail to see the need for such a disparaging evaluation of American thinking.

We all agree that the key to scientific progress is supplied by the innovations of a relatively few men. However, it is the teamwork of millions of our people, enhanced by our economic system, which makes it possible for us to enjoy these technological benefits.

Dr. Mooney reprimands those of us who are proud of our standard of living. His implication seems to be that if we do not understand the operation of a television or radar set, we have no right to take pride in such electronic devices.

He fails to acknowledge the contributions of the engineers, executives, capitalists, mechanics and others, without whose skill these amazing contrivances would never progress beyond the scientist's laboratory. In the light of this, I can not agree with the author in his assertions that "we are a nation of parasites" and owe the comforts we enjoy to an "infinitesimally small group of exceptionally talented and relatively unknown individuals."

Furthermore, if our people are not graced with some unique attribute, why is it that no other civilization in history has ever attained the level that we have? Can all our remarkable achievements be attributed to our abundant supply of natural resources?

Sincerely,
 John Sirich

P. S. I'm one of the three hundredths of one percent he refers to.

FACULTY VOICE

By Dr. William H. McBurney

In an editorial last week, the Flat Hat made a laudable appeal for the creation of an intellectual climate on the campus. In its analysis of what it termed the "insidious disinterest," the chief impediments to this climatic change turned out to be the faculty members who were described, in a somewhat familiar phrase, as having retreated into academic ivory towers, taking with them, presumably, the secret element of "inspirational incentive." This accusation is as customary as the equally prevalent conception of the absent-minded professor and has as much validity.

Actually the briefest reconnoiter of the campus reveals the truth of the situation—that the faculty has much to learn from the students about the techniques of tower-building and disappearing acts. With few exceptions, the towers have vanished. Further search fails until the teacher arrives at the foot of the Corner Acropolis from whose heights come the sound of profound pronouncements which have been carefully nurtured in the silence of the classrooms.

The elite however, remain invisible and the distance makes the remarks fragmentary and properly oracular. Nearby on the upper slopes of Montparnasse (Restored) the habitués of the local Cafe des Poetes plan the publication of a humor magazine which will consist of blank pages (one of them saw the Cocteau film), little realizing that the valiant decline and very imminent fall of the Royalist is laughable enough—the year's best bad joke.

The majority of the students meanwhile have vanished into the woodreits of Fraternity Row, and the searcher can only speculate on the activities of the weekend Werthers and their pleasant sorrows, the echoes of which haunt the weekday classrooms. (Invisibility, once learned, is a trick that can be performed anywhere.)

The truth, then, is that the faculty is not aloof but alone, and that close ties between faculty and students are practically impossible without students. There is no need for invitations to faculty homes (a suggestion in a recent letter to the editor), since arrangements have already been made to have teachers entertain the students in rooms conveniently near the dormitories on an average of six mornings a week. That these matinees fail to provide "inspirational incentive" may be, in part, attributed to the lack of facilities of cloud machines and Hollywood waterfall effects. The failure to make contact on this "close" level surely indicates that the supply of faculty-student relations far exceeds the demand. Request for more ties only seems to indicate a lack of sense of proportion or sheer perversity.

Another proposed solution to the problem of an intellectual climate has been that of more frequent and informal meetings of faculty and students through "special interest" clubs. The Philosophy Club and the theatre group happily exist upon occasion, but unhappily they are the exceptions which prove the rule.

With the cry for "critical thought, creativity, individualism, and free expression" ringing through the editorial colonnades one finds it difficult not to point out that the dozen or so special-interest groups on the campus—most of them with faculty advisers—only interest one-sixth of the student body and that non-attendance at meetings is, according to a recent survey, conservatively estimated at fifty percent.

It would be consoling to think that, not discovering "creative interest and incentive" in the classroom, the students were turning to the original works. The library, however, does not need another wing. It needs a secret entrance and a locker room where students who want to use it for something more than a Teen Canteen can put on disguises and thus avoid the ostracism which apparently follows any association with a book other than required elementary text or a paper-volume of Pogo. The disguises might also be used by students who wish to answer questions in class without fear of detection.

Whatever the causes, productive faculty-student relations seem to be almost as impossible as they were during the famous years of 1881 to 1888. The bell, however, still sounds in the cupola of the Wren Building, the books are still in the library, and the classrooms are waiting. And the students, returning from their ivory towers, might find that offering inspirational incentive to faculty minds is a rewarding task, that they may fan a spark of genius into flame. At any rate, it would provide an antidote to ennui and the exercise would improve their circulation.

Dr. William H. McBurney, associate professor of English at the College, received his A.B. degree at Southwestern in Memphis and his A.M. and Ph.D. at Harvard. He has been at William and Mary since 1948 with the exception of a year abroad on a leave of absence from 1950-51. Dr. McBurney served in the army intelligence during the last war.

President Reviews Events In Letter To Alumni

To The Alumni:

Since I became President of the College seventeen months ago, I have, on numerous occasions, used the phrase "The William and Mary family." It seems only natural to me to think of the students, the faculty, and the alumni of the College in this warm, personal fashion. This is the first of a continuing series of personal communications which I shall address to you—"a personal letter from home." I sincerely hope that, if you feel so disposed, you will reply with the same degree of frankness and understanding that you would use in a reply to a real letter from home.

As much as I should like to begin this letter with a report on the very definite forward steps which have marked this academic year to date, I shall begin by a frank statement of the facts regarding the so-called "cribbing scandal" which has received such widespread publicity in recent weeks.

As one of the newspapers was frank enough to admit editorially, all of these stories were "according to reports" or "it is rumored." In keeping with the time-honored practice at William and Mary, as well as at other honor-system schools, no personal details have been or will be publicly released. When the newspapers indicated that they intended to publish rumors which had come to their attention, two general statements were made; one to the press generally; one to the Flat Hat.

Back of these statements lie certain facts to which you as members of the William and Mary family are entitled and which I think you should know firsthand.

Mimeographed copies of mid-year examinations in Military Science and Tactics were removed from the offices of the department prior to the examination and came into the hands of several students. Their violation of the Honor Code came to the attention of the Honor Council, and, as a result, twenty-four students were separated from the College.

This episode has been one of the most distressing which I have ever had to face. Despite the unpleasantness, however, I believe that the end result is good—good for the boys involved who most surely have learned a valuable lesson, good for the College whose tradition of honesty and integrity not only stood the test, but has actually been strengthened by the ordeal.

Those of you, who, as members of the Society of the Alumni, receive the Alumni Gazette, have been reminded of most of what follows. Those of you who do not have this link with the College will be interested to learn that Bryan Hall, the new dormitory for men, and the new power plant are progressing satisfactorily, and will be ready for occupancy or use as scheduled. The staff of the Dean of Students has been augmented by the addition of an Assistant Dean of Men.

Upon assuming the presidency of the College, I deemed it appropriate to conduct a survey of every phase of college life in or-

William and Mary Go - Round

By Barry Wilson

Hi. I talked a little about the arrival of Spring and its accompanying consequences last week, but I didn't go nearly as far into it as I might have. Spring is a rather complicated proposition in its effects upon both men and women.

Take me, for instance. (You don't have to, but you might as well, if you plan to read the rest of this column.) After I have been back at school for three or four weeks, my characteristic vile and vicious mood sets in, and I begin to shun all life that is beautiful, or that smacks of people and their society.

My few scattered whiskers grow to lengths previously unheard of (sometimes as long as 1/16 inches in length!), my hair is transformed from a trim crewcut to a ragged shambles reminiscent of a moth-eaten porcupine pelt and my eyes, once blue as the azure waters of Lake Manitowanawakoy on a sunlit Summer afternoon, gradually disappear behind a delicate filigree of ruptured blood vessels.

I begin to talk to myself, at first hesitantly, but gradually, as I begin to get better acquainted with myself, with more and more enthusiasm. I get quite vociferous at times. Two pneumatic drill operators working down at the new powerhouse behind Taliaferro dropped in the other day and asked me to try to keep my voice down a little bit—they could hardly hear themselves think. All my movements about the campus are accompanied by odd and incoherent mumbling and grumbling sounds.

People look at me and point, or nudge their companions, saying, "Look! There goes Harry Winslow, the eccentric essayist," or else, "Look! There goes Harry Stillson, sometimes known as 'The Recluse of the Fine Arts Building and Points North! He's an odd one. They say he dabbles in voodoo, showers daily, and keeps a turtle in his room. Can you imagine?'"

Just Gossip

That's the sort of thing people say about me. You can hardly blame me for snarling at them when I pass them on the street—the nasty old things, standing there smirking at me with sly grins, their hot, chubby little hands grasping mounds of letters from home. So I snarl at them. Little children run from my path, old ladies cringe and cower before me and stray dogs bark and try to bite me.

But all this is in the Fall and Winter. When Spring comes—ah, that's a different story. A mellow warmth enters to my very soul.

My heart is filled with a great sense of well-being. It is around this time of the year that I quit the Communist Party, give up my mistress (who was pretty tired of me anyway), yank the booby traps and barbed wire entanglements from in front of the door, burn my books, break my "Gloomy Sunday" record and get my hobby jeans and my tux out of mothballs.

All sorts of innovations take place in my room—I make my bed, break out a clean towel, throw out my powdered pumice stone and splurge on a bar of Dial. I wash all my socks, begin to shave, give up Clorox and go back to Guckenheimer's (not much difference, but it's something) and in general try to improve my habits.

Long Hair

I let my hair grow out—it makes me look a bit as if I was the Royalist's chief contributor, but it's better than looking like a human haystack. I preserve only one of my Winter habits—I still don't go to any class that meets before 2 p. m.

Having given up my mistress (the one I mentioned before who was getting tired of me anyway), my lovelife takes a definite turn for the better. Spring has its effect on the women, too, and they seem less tense when they are around me than they do in the Winter.

I like to see girls that are relaxed and well-poised. I believe that the co-eds around the campus should learn to stay loose. As a matter of fact, a few more loose women around this campus and we'd really have something. (A stampede, probably.)

Wont Of Women

It is not exactly the wont of the women upon this campus to flock about me because it is Spring, whether it is my want or not. However, things usually pick up considerably, what with the desire of various women around campus to get their names in my column.

Things worked out fairly well during the casting of the Varsity Show, too. (By the way, since this lousy rag didn't see fit to do more than put the title of the show in boldface type last week, I'll put it in caps for you here—spelled correctly, too—it's GIVE'M HELL.) How's that for a sneaky plug?

I'm going to start selling advertising space soon. Dateless girls can get their names, telephone numbers, and one or two pertinent comments in my column by addressing me, care of the Flat Hat. Something on this order might be the thing:

Miss Suzie Sex
Barrett Teamroom
Those Who Necks Like Suzie Sex!

Get the idea? You can see the obvious good points about this sort of thing. Of course, there are women on the campus who don't care for this sort of advertising of their personal life—in fact (believe it or not), I know at least—well, several—girls who would rather not be mentioned in my column. To their will (because I am, in actuality, a truly good-hearted lad) I can only bow.

But enough of this digression. Let's talk about me.

At any rate, Spring has a very definite effect on me. (So does sex, for that matter, but that goes on all year 'round.) It mellows me, as does age a fine old wine and a shot of bourbon in a can of Schlitz. As I walk down the campus, I bare my snagged teeth in what passes, with a select few, for a smile.

Big Change

No longer do people shy from me. Little children frolic about me, wagging their tails and begging for bones, stray dogs offer to play cops-and-robbers with me and old ladies follow me home. Spring hath wrought a change in me, and in them, too. It pleases me to see them, leading their simple lives.

(Okay, Arnie—I'm hurrying—You'll get your lousy 26 inches of copy.) You may have observed that I did not open my column with one of my characteristic greetings this evening. I had thought of starting it with "To all you lads and lasses, I offer poison gases," but I managed to squelch the thought in the nick of time. Aren't you glad? I've just run out of alliterative salutations, that's all.

That's All Folks

And I am also running out of space to finish this column in, so I must close. So to all you kiddies, here and there, hither and yon, far and near, I can only wish one more thing:
Goodnight, gargoyles.

Reviewer Praises Program In Final Concert Of Series

By Dr. Andrew C. Haigh

The last of the current series of William and Mary concerts was given last Thursday evening in Phi Beta Kappa Auditorium by Eric Itor Kahn, pianist. Mr. Kahn is familiar to local audiences through his appearance several years ago with the well-known Albeneri Trio, of which he is the founder.

The artist offered a quite unhackneyed program, which leaned considerably to the romantic side. The charming Bach Duets, delivered straightforwardly and crisply, deserve to be heard more often. The Beethoven Sonata, a favorite of the composer himself, combines lightness with graceful and serious lyricism. Faure and Chabrier provided a French group of pleasing contrast. For Liszt devotees, the not too frequently heard Ballad, one of the composer's most interesting and original works.

Schubert's posthumous A Major Sonata, which occupied the second half of the program, can hardly be surpassed in the literature of romantic sonatas, for spaciousness, contrast of mood, and fertility of invention.

In this reviewer's opinion, the concert progressed in excellence as it proceeded. There was a certain stiffness, a paucity of nuance, in the Beethoven. Perhaps the pianist was struggling with the rather harsh and unmanageable tone of the piano. In the Ballard, Lisztian pyrotechnics were somehow successfully integrated with the musical essence of the piece. Mr. Kahn's very respectable technical equipment is never used merely for display or surface brilliance.

In the Schubert Sonata, the artist was completely in the vein. I have never heard a more impressive performance of the somberly dramatic second movement. In the whole work, the player's immersion of himself in the composer's inspiration was complete.

Sincerely yours,
A. D. CHANDLER,
President.

Backdrop Club Conducts Art Contest To Select Design For Program Cover

First prize of $10 will be awarded to the winner of the contest to select a design for the program cover for the Varsity Show, Give'm Hell.

This contest is being conducted by the Backdrop Club under the direction of Margaret Owens, program chairman. She urges all artists and cartoonists to give special attention to the rules of the contest.

The cover for the program will be eight inches by 10 inches, and all designs submitted to the contest must be made double size (16 inches by 20 inches). Printing should be drawn in, and the entry should be signed in small letters.

Theme Of Show

The theme of the show is a "series of Hellish experiences," so the designs should be made accordingly. A rather modernistic design is preferred, Margaret added.

Students planning to enter this contest are also asked to submit ideas and drawings for sketches to be used inside the program. All entries for the contest should be given to Margaret Owens at the Gamma Phi Beta House by March 31.

Give'm Hell, the 1953 Varsity Show, will be presented by the Backdrop Club on May 11, 12 and 13 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall, according to Meade Johnson, president of the club.

The idea for the show was originally Bill Farley's but when the Backdrop Club decided to use it, Barry Wilson was asked to help with the actual writing. Both authors optimistically agree that the show should be "pretty great."

Diverse Cast

From approximately 85 students who appeared during the three days of tryouts, a cast of 63 was selected. Parts were won by freshmen and other students with no previous stage experience here at the College as well as by veterans of the William and Mary Theatre.

Of the 29 speaking parts, the role of C. Chillblain Surly, a "modern-day Scrooge," will be taken by Wilson. Other male leads are Bill Thomas as Hives, Jerry Clulow as Jack Surly and George Burns as Franchot.

The 21 members of the ensemble include: Earl McNeal, Bob Stern, Brad Besse, Mel Hines, Dave Daugherty, John Kantanos, Hank Dressel, Jay Birnbauer, Eunice Myers, Bettye Zepht, Bobby Jo Peters, Nancy McCray, Vicki Stone, June Garrenton, Carolyn Mason, Jean Carlson, Marge Huff, Mary Knabb, Bette Bodley, Bumsy Young and Dinny Stevens.

Wythe Law Club Holds 'Moot' Court With Dr. D. W. Woodbridge As Judge In Historic Petersburg Murder Trial

Dr. D. W. Woodbridge will act as the presiding judge Thursday evening when the Wythe Law Club holds its "moot" court. The proceedings will begin at 7 p. m. at Washington 200 with the case of Silas Rodgers versus the Commonwealth of Virginia being reacted by the members of the Wythe Law Club.

The purposes of the trial are twofold, according to a law club member: (1) to give the law students some actual trial practice; (2) to benefit the Introduction to Law Class in familiarizing them with general trial procedure.

The law club presented the same case two years ago before the Soroptimist Club of Williamsburg. At this time, however, the facts of the case were altered, but this time it will be tried according to the official record.

Murder Case

The Silas Rodgers case is of particular interest to Virginia residents as it concerns the murder of a Petersburg policeman on July 18, 1943. The facts were conflicting as to whether Rodgers was the murderer or just happened to be in the wrong place at the wrong time. As it happened Rodgers was indicted and, after a two-day trial, found guilty and sentenced to death. Later his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

This case was of such a nature that several nation-wide magazines and newspapers wrote articles concerning the innocence or guilt of Rodgers.

Those to take part in the trial are: Dr. D. W. Woodbridge as the honorable judge; Charles Bruce Lester and Mell Mendell as the Commonwealth Attorneys; James B. Sawyer and Robert Mellon as the Defense Attorneys; and Peter Shebell, Jr. as the accused.

Portray Witnesses

The parts of the witnesses will be taken by the following: William Forbes, James Lawrence, Dick Kavalgan, Sam Phillips, Betsy Booth, Channing Hall, Jr., Al Gordon and Robert Reveille.

College students appearing as witnesses in the first trial were: Harriett Jordan, Raleigh Cooley, James Murphy, William Hornsby, Thomas Martin, Sara Miller, Henry Lam, Jefferson Davis, Mary Proctor and Wilson Edmunds.

The trial Thursday will be an open court and the Wythe Law Club invites all interested students to attend.

Buddy's All Stars Triumph To Win State Cage Crown

By Mac McDaniel
Flat Hat Sports Writer

With Little Joe Hume spearheading a last quarter spurt, Buddy's All-Stars came roaring from behind Friday night to nip the Y Chiefs, 72-70, and capture the Old Dominion Tournament cage championship at Richmond. The win gave the Williamsburg five the mythical state independent basketball title.

Hume, a former William and Mary ace guard, was inserted for Freddy Allen with three and one half minutes of game time remaining. During this period the stocky, blond lad split the cords for 10 points, including the winning field goal, a one-hand jump shot in the final 13 seconds, to pace his teammates.

Both teams carelessly tossed away substantial leads throughout the first three quarters, but the Y Chiefs emerged in front by eight points, 63-55, in the early stages of the final period. To make matters worse Howie Bolleman, Buddy's six foot nine inch center, and Allen went out via the foul route in the waning moments of the contest.

Hume ignited the necessary spark, however, as the local hoopsters rolled into the lead and went on to gain the two point decision. Allen captured high-scoring honors for Buddy's with a 16 point effort as Bolleman contributed an additional 15 tallies.

Buddy's All-Stars is an independent cage team sponsored by Buddy's Restaurant here in Williamsburg and composed mostly of W&M hardwood stars, both past and present. The local five was top-seeded club in the eight-team Richmond tourney.

Other teams in the tournament included the second-seeded Dixie Containers, Tire Center, Starlight Club, Fellowship, Sportsmen's Shop, Fredericksburg Cavaliers, and, of course, the Y Chiefs.

Buddy's Breezes

Buddy's breezed to a first round victory, 80-60, on Tuesday night over the Fredericksburg club. Bolleman, Allen, Chick Cornell, and Jerry Harris all hit in double figures with Allen's 16 tallies representing the top effort.

The following night the All-Stars were idle, but they bounced back to an impressive 88-75 court triumph over the University of Richmond dotted Tire Center quintet. Again Allen set the pace with a 23-point performance. The contest was reasonably close until the final quarter when Buddy's started rolling to coast to victory.

By virtue of these two wins the Williamsburg cagers gained the right to meet the Y Chiefs for the crown.

Allen, Buddy's tiny playmaker and William and Mary J. V. basketball coach, was the high point-getter for the tourney champs. The aggressive guard showed a total of 55 tallies in the three encounters.

Teefy Stars

Six foot nine inch Jim Teefy of the runner-up Y Chiefs received a pair of trophies for both high game and high tournament scoring honors. The giant center's 26 points were the high single game effort and his overall 76 points were easily tops for the trio of games.

Commenting on the success of the All-Stars, their sparkplug, Allen, stated, "We had a fine team, particularly when you consider the fact that we had little practice together, and I might add that we were very fortunate to capture the title."

According to reports, Buddy's again plans to floor an independent basketball team garbed in new uniforms next season.

'Colonial Echo' Aces Prepare For Contest With 'Flat Hat' Team

March 28 at 1:30 o'clock in Jefferson Gym is the time that has been set for the grudge game of the season, as the sports writers of the Flat Hat and The Colonial Echo will battle it out to see which publication has the most worthy reporters.

After criticizing sports events all year the two squads are now giving the student body a chance to get even by watching this tremendous classic. The presence of a relatively large number of girls on both staffs will mean that at least one young lady from both sides must be in action at all times.

The fact that Coach John Westberg of the Yearbook crew is taking the game in a most serious vein can be attested to by the fact that he was seen throwing the ball over the backboard in Blow Gym last Thursday in his ROTC uniform.

John, along with "Bullet Bill" Humbert and Nate Carb, are expected to power the Yearbookers' torrid fast break that has reduced many teams to a pile of tired rubble about the fourth quarter.

Haabestad to Ref

Shirley Haabestad will be one of the officials, if she will consent to such a grave responsibility. The other ref will come from a source that is unknown at the moment, but she will be there. In fact, if there is a qualified girl official who would like to undertake this dangerous assignment the two teams would appreciate it if she got in touch with either Dick Rowlett or Dave Heinrich.

The Flat Hat has obtained a huge advantage over the Echo in the fact that they have one varsity player on the squad in "Alex" Dahm, better known to her friends as Sally. She has promised, however, not to shoot for that 64-point total. Unfortunately, Sally is a guard and thus next Saturday marks her debut on the shooting end of the game.

Dave Ferriday and Dave Rubenstein, a couple of hot-shots from the Intramural League, along with deadeye Mac McDaniel, are three of the supporting cast that are expected to see plenty of service.

Tribe Nine Practices Hard For Opening Tilt On April 6

By Dave Rubenstein
Flat Hat Sports Writer

The William and Mary baseball team is intensifying its practice sessions every day in preparation for their opening game of the season on April 6 against the Quantico Marines. New head coach Eric Tipton expects that the Indians will be ready and raring to go on opening day.

Since Coach Tipton just took over the reins last week, he is not quite sure who will be in the opening day line-up. However, co-captain Hardy Cofer and "Bullet" Bill Bowman seem assured of starting berths in left and center fields respectively.

The rest of the positions on the squad are all wide open at the present time. A few men are trying out for outfield posts but Roger Groettum seems to have the lead in the race for the right field slot.

Last year Don Jeffrey held the catcher's mitt but this season he is being given a strong battle by Don Colley, a hustling freshman from Jamaica, Virginia.

Co-captain Al Kersey, a .357 swatter last season, is in line for the first base bag, but Harvey Lasky, a newcomer to the team will battle him for the job.

Four men are battling it out for the keystone sack. Bruce Rhea and Pete Stromberg seem to be the leading candidates while Mike Jordan and Tom Rardin are also in there plugging for a chance to open the season on second base for William and Mary. The all important shortstop position has narrowed down to two men, Dick Pendleton and Monte Knight. Both boys have looked good in practice this past week so it has been hard to tell who will be first string come April 6.

Practice Cutoffs
Last Friday the squad was practicing double plays and cutoffs. Coach Tipton said that the majority of the boys were having trouble picking up ground balls because the infield has not been skinned yet.

Ed Aubin and Jim Garivaltis are the two best prospects for the hot corner at third base. According to Coach Tipton, pitching will play perhaps the most important role throughout the season.

Bill Twomey, who had a 4-3 record last season, is the leading hurler. He will be backed up by veteran Jim Carter and Harry Carl. Dick Wall is also trying out for the mound corps.

The Indians will face their first real test of the season when they meet the Apprentice School of Newport News in a practice game on April 1st.

On Saturday afternoon the Indians held their first intrasquad game. Coach Tipton was very pleased with the results and he praised the pitchers for their fine effort. The "Kerseys" defeated the "Cofers," 6-2, in a six inning affair.

Carl Superb
Carl was superb on the mound as he pitched one-hit ball for the "Kerseys" in his three inning stint. Jim Hubbard followed Carl and gave up only one earned run on two hits. Second baseman Stromberg led off the game with a home run.

The game was primarily a pitcher's battle until the fifth inning when Groettum broke the tilt wide open with a resounding triple to right field. Since the bases were loaded, he sewed up the game. Coach Tipton is going to try to play as many intrasquad games as he can before opening day.

Schedule Changes For W&M Golfers

With the announcement made public last Thursday by the University Athletic Department and an agreement at Charlottesville, the William and Mary golf schedule underwent several revisions last week.

Two matches which had been slated with Richmond were cancelled. Richmond authorities blamed student indifference for their action. They were unable to organize a complete team of golfers and were forced to take the action as a result.

The move has left the golfers with open dates on April 28 and May 11 on the Indian schedule, leaving eight matches.

The William and Mary linksmen have agreed with the University of Virginia golfers to change the date of their match on April 17 to April 16. This will enable Tribe golfers to participate in the Virginia Beach Open that weekend.

Tribe to Compete

This tournament is to be played on the Virginia Beach Country Club course and several members of the Indian golf team have been invited to participate.

Last year the golf team won eight matches and lost only one, that to Virginia. All eight wins were against Southern Conference opponents, enabling the Tribe to finish with an undefeated Conference slate. However, the team was unable to participate in the Conference tourney.

The Indians' eight-game schedule begins on April 15 against West Virginia and ends in the middle of May against Washington and Lee at Lexington.

Tipton Assumes Duties As Baseball Coach After Long Professional Diamond Career

By Dave Heinrich
Flat Hat Sports Writer

"William and Mary was fortunate in getting a man as good as Eric Tipton for baseball coach," stated Athletic Director Jackie Freeman when he announced that Tipton has been selected as baseball coach for the Tribe. Truer words were never spoken, for "Tip" has fourteen years of professional baseball behind him and possesses a wealth of baseball knowledge.

The 38-year-old Tipton, who was born in Petersburg, Virginia, went to Duke University on a football scholarship. He freely admits, however, that he went to Duke because of their fine baseball coach, Jack Coombs.

All-American

Tipton, the football player, was quite a halfback in his day, being good enough to make All-American in 1938. That year Duke went through the regular football season unbeaten, untied and unscored upon. The resulting trip to the Rose Bowl then produced the happiest and saddest moments of his life.

The Blue Devils grabbed a 3-0 lead and held it until late in the fourth quarter. Then Southern Cal put in a fourth-string quarterback named Roland Nave who completed four straight passes. The last resulted in the only touchdown scored against Duke all year, defeating them, 7-3. The sad part of it was that the scoring pass was completed in Tipton's territory.

Tip was also noted for his punting prowess and is generally credited with developing Dickie Lewis, 1951 Tribe quarterback, into a good punter.

While at Duke, Tipton played left field for the baseball team and stood out with his hard hitting. He got his biggest kick out of hitting a home run with the bases loaded in his last time at bat against Duke's bitter rivals, North Carolina.

His play at Duke earned him a major league trial with the Philadelphia Phillies, but he only stuck for one year. The Phils shipped him to their Toronto farm club where he played for two years. In the Spring of 1942 he was sold to Kansas City in the American Association, but he was bought during the middle of the season by the Cincinnati Reds with whom he played for three and a half years during the war.

He had his best season with the Reds in 1944 when he hit .301. After the war, Tip was forced to make way for returning servicemen and was sold to St. Paul in the American Association. He played for the Saints for six years and was named to the League All Star team four times. He had his best batting average in his professional career in 1948 when he hit .328.

Last season Tipton closed out his baseball career with the Portland Club of the Pacific Coast League.

Comes in 1939

In 1939 Tipton was named assistant freshman football coach at the Reservation and has been here ever since. He served as assistant coach under five William and Mary head coaches—Carl Voyles, Rube McCray, Marvin Bass, Suey Eason and Jackie Freeman. One year he served as Business Manager of Athletics when Pappy Cooch was in service.

Only two days before Tipton had signed as Indian baseball coach, the Richmond Times-Dispatch stated that he had refused the post of manager of the Class B Richmond Colts in the Piedmont League, so it can be seen that the Tribe has secured the services of a much-sought-after man.

Sigma Nu Five Takes Eighth Straight To Wrap Up Fraternity Cage Crown

The Fraternity Basketball League title has been virtually cinched by Sigma Nu, which won its eighth straight game last Wednesday without a loss. With only two games left to be played by the league leaders, their closest rivals, Theta Delt and Kappa Sig, are each trailing by one and one-half games.

Wednesday's action saw Sigma Nu take a hotly contested game from SAE, 50-42. The Ghost, Al Kersey, led the winners with a total of 17 points. George Parozzo gathered in 14, all in the first and last quarters.

Kersey and Parozzo controlled the boards and Moe Maddox added his play-making skill to give a winning combination that was always just a step ahead of the losers.

Jack Timmis led the defeated SAE team with 11 points. This loss put SAE into third place, but they have one more game to be played than do either of the second place teams.

Kappa Sig won two games this week while Theta Delt split two, giving each team a 7-2 record. SAE, in third place, has a record of 6-2.

Kappa Sig took its first game from Lambda Chi, 57-34. The second win for Kappa Sig came against Sigma Pi, 66-33. John Kepley threw in 21 points for the winners.

Theta Delt won their first game when Jerry Sparks hit for 20 points in a 67-42 contest with Pi KA. With the absence of two regulars, Theta Delt dropped a 44-39 battle with Lambda Chi.

Sparks was again high man for Theta Delt with 14 points, but he did not have enough support from his teammates from the floor and they were out-scored. Bob Daniel and Bob Smith had 19 and 14, respectively, for the winning Lambda Chi team.

In the remaining game of the week, a well-balanced Phi Kappa Tau team out-scored KA, 48-40. Dick Stanley led both teams with 17 points, but Jack Martin, Bill Bickler and Howie Cline joined together to total 35 for the winners.

The Standings

Team	W.	L.
Sigma Nu	8	0
Kappa Sig	7	2
Theta Delt	7	2
SAE	6	2
KA	5	3
Phi Tau	5	3
Lambda Chi	3	6
Pi KA	2	6
Pi Lamb	2	6
Sigma Pi	1	8
Phi Alpha	0	8

Anthony's Return To Squad Bolsters Indian Net Hopes For Coming Season

"Not as many powerhouses as usual, but plenty for us," was Garner Anthony's reply when asked about the tennis schedule for the coming season. Garner is the last of the so-called "old guard" of William and Mary tennis players from the national championship years and is top man on this year's team.

When Garner arrived at William and Mary in the Fall of 1949 as a freshman the one remaining star of particular note was Howie Atwater. He was the only remaining player from the NCAA champs of the year before.

Freshmen were not eligible to play on the varsity that year, but Garner teamed up with Tommy Boys and Ronnie Barnes to give the Indians a better than average freshman team, in fact one of the best in the country.

Prospects for the next season were rudely jolted, however, when Garner decided to remain at home and go to school at the University of Hawaii. While he was there he was not exactly inactive, for he copped the Men's Singles and Doubles titles for two years in a row.

Last year he transferred back to William and Mary and was unable to defend his laurels, since he was ineligible to play for the Tribe varsity.

Last year was almost a complete loss tennis-wise to Garner. However, he did gain a wife, pretty Carroll Walker, a Pi Phi who graduated from William and Mary last year.

Garner Anthony

Garner is the only senior on the squad and a large majority of the remaining members of the team are freshmen. Garner cited the tough schedule that the team is facing this year.

"North Carolina is probably as good a club as there is in the country this year," he remarked. They remind him of the old Tribe teams that used to smash the country's best competition by 9-0 and 8-1 scores. "In those years William and Mary used to face them all," he stated.

One of Garner's greatest experiences was playing defending champion Art Larsen in the 1951 United States Nationals at Forest Hills. After slipping by a first round foe, Garner fell to Larsen by scores of 6-2, 6-0, 6-4. When asked about the match, Garner sadly shook his head and said, "He was just too good."

The 23-year-old star is a member of Sigma Nu social fraternity and has been seen in action several times for the Numen's league-leading basketball team.

Tennis Rules

All students are asked to cooperate in enforcing the following regulations with regard to the tennis courts. (1) Please always wear tennis shoes when playing. (2) Stay off the courts when wet. The tennis committee is doing all it can to keep the courts in good shape.

Intramural Notes

Badminton began last week on the Reservation. Only a very few of the large field of entrants completed their first-round matches, however.

The following men captured victories: Rene Henry, Sigma Nu; George Trowbridge, Ind.; Joe Reynolds, Pi KA; Tom Burke, SAE; Paul Rutkowski, Theta Delta Chi; Lou Hoitsma, Faculty-Rogers Hamilton, Phi Alpha; Jay Lawrence, Theta Delta Chi; Don Spivey, Pi KA.

Also winning were: Bruce Rumage, KA; Bob Cottrell, Phi Kappa Tau; Dudley Jensen, Faculty; R. Kaldenbach, Sigma Nu.

Several entrants received byes in the first round.

These men were: Bob Tyson, Pi KA; Tom Mikula, Faculty; Garner Anthony, Sigma Nu; Buddy Gardner, Sigma Pi; Dick Bennett, Pi Lambda Phi; Hosey Hearn, Theta Delta Chi; Ed Mioduszewski, SAE; Carl Spies, Kappa Sigma.

All team rosters must be handed in for the intramural softball season by April 1, Dudley Jensen announced. The season will begin April 14, the day after Spring vacation ends.

Managers of both Fraternity and Independent League basketball teams should submit their selections for All-Star squads by this Friday. The intramural championship game will be played a week from this Thursday.

Manager Wanted

Anyone interested in becoming a baseball manager is requested to contact Coach Eric Tipton in his office in Blow Gym as soon as possible. With the start of the season only two weeks away, applicants are urged to see Tipton right away.

CARB'S BARBS

By Nate Carb

Flat Hat Sports Editor

Not long ago, when I was sleeping off an evening of too many gin fizzes, I had a fascinating dream. Aside from the fizzes, that came up every 30 seconds, I was able to remember a good deal of the plot. Next morning, feeling my oats (I always feel my oats in the morning) I decided to write down the whole phantasmagorical affair on a piece of paper. I respectfully submit the result below, and if anybody cares to stage it, my asking price is two bits and a White Owl wrapper.

Scene: a dusty third rate hotel in a dusty third rate town in Florida.
Topic: Baltimore or Bust. Characters: Plenty.

Bill Veeck: "I tell you, it is simply a question of principle. The good burghers of Baltimore deserve Major League baseball. Now I have here a little plan which will transfer the Browns in four days flat . . ."

Bellhop: "I'm sorry it's flat sir, may I pour you another?"

Clark Griffith: "Temperance, jackass!"

Veeck: "Somebody called?"

Trader Lane: "Gentlemen, gentlemen, back to business, please. The question as I see it narrows down to a simple matter of relocating the city. Now what kind of an offer do I hear?"

Veeck: "Vic Wertz and 25 thousand on the barrel . . ."

Bellhop: "I sorry sir, we get our kegs from Milwaukee, but the canned stuff is quite as good."

Lou Perini: "Did somebody bring up the Brewers? Now there is a team that's ready for the Major Leagues. Mark my word . . ."

Tom Yawkey, lighting a cheap cigar with a 10 dollar bill, and incoherently mumbling the word "Williams" to himself: "Get the hell out of town, and I won't care if you go to Oshkosh."

Rickey: "Watch the language, son."

Veeck: "This is getting me nowhere. I demand action! ACTION!"

Lane: "Wertz and 30 thousand, and I'll give you a year's concession to weenie rights at Comiskey Park."

Bellhop: "Liverwurst all right? We seem to be out of franks."

Yawkey: "On rye toast."

Clark Griffith: "I refuse to permit it. Baltimore is too close. Say, could I interest you in a couple of good Cubans?"

Bellhop: "Coming up right away, sir."

Rickey: "Temperance, jackass. By the way, I'll sell you a promising young third baseman, Lodigiani by name, for 50 grand . . ."

Lane: "Make it 20."

Veeck: "Wertz and cash."

Perini: "Make it 25."

Yawkey: "Make it gin and juice."

Bellhop, who by this time has signed a contract with Veeck to play left field for the Browns: "I don't have to take your guff anymore, you dirty capitalist, I'm a free man. Who do you think will be in left for the Browns on opening day?"

Rickey: "Lodigiani, if you'll accept my offer. Now here is a ballplayer who has everything, legs, arms, eyes. He'll make a crackerjack left fielder, you just wait and see."

Veeck: "I just want to go to Baltimore; the good burghers . . ."

Mr. Burger, an innocuous character who has been lurking behind a morris chair: "I demand my rights as a citizen and a Burger . . ."

Bellhop, somewhat downcast when, upon studying his contract carefully, discovers that it says "Payable in Uncle Ted's play money": "Mustard or relish?"

Mr. Burger: "Onions."

Lane: "But isn't Bermuda a little far to go on Eastern trips?"

Griffith: "It's near Cuba, isn't it? Now I once knew a clever little southpaw, Zapata, by name. What a screwball!"

Veeck: "I'm glad you are finally getting around to me. Now this is no laughing matter. The Browns simply must get to Baltimore by April 15. I am prepared to sacrifice anything to get them there. Any offers?"

Lane: "Rockey Krsnich and six cents."

Rickey: "Sold!"

Lane: "For Lodigiani?"

Rickey: "Why not? Now here is a crackerjack ballplayer. What a future." (The two walk off stage, arm in arm, and hand in each other's pocket).

Griffith: "I'm leaving too. Got to see a first baseman from Panama, who's coming in on a banana boat this afternoon. What a fielder . . . and he'll play for nine cents a day and a bowl of chili." (Goes offstage, dancing a tango).

Veeck: "I'm being forsaken! Oh pity me in my distress! Is there none who will help me?"

Perini, simply: "No." (Leaves).

Yawkey: "This calls for another round of milkshakes, guv'nor."

Bellhop: "We're out of milk, and have been for the past three years. But I know a place where we can get a couple." (Two leave for the Corner Greeks).

Veeck: "Ye Gods! Ye demons! Ye mighty rolling oceans! Oh save me from a fate far worse than death! Oh swallow me in my entirety! Ye Cats!" (Chokes to death on a copy of the Sporting News).

Mr. Burger: "Onions." (He turns around, blows his nose, and tunes in a T.V. set).

And I ask you, is this Justice? What would THE MYSTIC FOUR say?

W&M Trackmen Open At Carolina

The William and Mary Track and Field squad of Coach Gil Joyner will travel to Chapel Hill tomorrow for the season's opening encounter against the University of North Carolina Tarheels.

The Indians will be led by four lettermen returning from last year's runners. Of these men who have turned up regularly at practice, team captain John Munger heads the list. Munger has been concentrating this season on the 440, low hurdles and four-man relay.

In the half-mile and mile distances, Leo Schutte and George Southwell are returning. Schutte will probably also run the relay. Senior Bart Helmuth is another Brave who has tasted the cinders as he returns to run in the quarter and half mile jogs. He will also be a member of the relay team.

It is hoped that other lettermen now in School who have not turned out will strengthen the team's ranks after mid-semester. The absence of these delinquents has left several events vacant. They include the pole vault, two-mile, high hurdles, high jump, javelin, 100 and 220-yard events.

Quite a few men have, at one time or the other, tried their hands at the sport in practice sessions earlier in the season. They have not been reporting to the Cary Field Stadium with any regularity, however.

Three new men from this year's crop of Freshmen were added to the roster. Bud Fisher, who already distinguished himself in cross country competition earlier in the school term, is jogging the two-mile. He has been joined by two classmates, Hugh MacMahon and Dick Blanchard.

MacMahon is a miller while Blanchard runs the quarter. Scotty Stone, an upperclassman, has turned out with consistency and will sling the discus at the meet tomorrow.

About the Tarheel battle at Carolina, Coach Joyner warned, "Unless more men turn out we will be under strength for this meet." He was apprehensive over the vacant slots at many positions, but expected several men to return at the first of this week.

WOMEN'S WILES

By Helen Male

Flat Hat Women's Sports Editor

Congratulations to Sally Dahm and Shirley Haabestad, the newly elected co-captains of next year's Women's Varsity Basketball Team. May they carry their team to many victories in the year to come.

Shirley, a junior, has participated in women's sports since her freshman year. She also is very active in many campus organizations. Sally, a sophomore at present has also played an active part in women's athletics for the past two years.

She, too, has many campus activities, of which writing for the sports Staff of the Flat Hat is very important. Sally, as the avid follower of this column well know, was my predecessor to the exalted position of women's sport editor. Since I have been most neglectful up to the present, I would like to take this chance to thank her for her valuable and willing help and support.

Barbara Brown and Jean Wycoff were chosen as managers of the basketball team, and Mary Lou Riggan and Nella Dagggett were elected intramural managers.

While bouquets are being handed out, the new officers of the W.A.A. certainly must be included. To Shirley Haabestad, president, Sally Dahm, point recorder, and Brenda Korn, secretary, go my sincerest congratulations.

Lately, the favorite saying on campus has been "Spring has sprung, the grass is ris'. I wonder where the birdies is!" I have found the answer to this perplexing problem. They are right outside my bedroom window.

Every morning, promptly at six o'clock, the first rays of sunlight (or are they the last rays of moonlight? I can't quite tell at that hour) wake the little dears who, in turn, wake me. Anyone interested in stuffing birds may contact me and I shall be glad to oblige with a couple of beautiful carcasses.

Last week end found several William and Mary co-eds travelling to various parts of the country. Sally Baker, Barbara Brown, Mac Rodriguez and Grace Stone journeyed to Goucher College in Maryland to participate in a lacrosse instruction and play course.

The fencing team, accompanied by Miss Reeder, was off to Harrisonburg, Virginia. There they took part in a tri-college fencing tournament at Madison College.

Last week, the Varsity Fencing team competed against the International "Y" of Baltimore. The first team's loss by a score of 4-5 was redeemed by the second team's 5-4 win. Liz Sacalis and Margaret Owen proved to be the outstanding William and Mary fencers.

The Swimming Club, which thrilled all spectators with its spectacular water ballet, is incorporating a new idea into its schedule. On Tuesday, March 31, the club will hold a Swimming Workshop in Blow Pool at 8 p. m.

The purpose of this project is twofold. First and foremost, the girls wish to promote interest in swimming among the women students. In the second place, they wish to make available the instruction of the fundamentals of synchronized swimming and water ballet skills.

Members of the club will act as instructors and demonstrators for the Workshop and cordially invite all girls to attend and join the fun. This is an excellent opportunity for those girls who are interested in the techniques of swimming to music, and it is hoped that many girls will take advantage of the Workshop.

Major League Preview

By Dick Rowlett
Flat Hat Sports Writer

As another baseball season arrives, the predictions as to who will win the National and American League pennants always fly fast and furious. Spring training is an enjoyable interlude for the fans since every team shapes up as a sure winner in practice, even though their play on the field often makes the so-called "experts" look like George Gallup after 1948 elections.

In the National League it looks as if the Brooklyn Dodgers are the team to beat again. The addition of Russ Meyer to go along with Preacher Roe, Joe Black, Carl Erskine and Billy Loes gives the Bums one of the toughest pitching staffs in the league. However, there have been reports of discontent among the Dodgers these last few days and they can't risk dissension in the ranks.

The Phillies, who are Winter book favorites with some people, are our choice to outlast the Cards and Giants for second place. The Phils might have been able to win if they had hung onto Russ Meyer and not benched Eddie Waitkus. Robin Roberts is the best pitcher in baseball and Curt Simmons and Karl Drews can be very tough on occasion.

The Giants will nip the Cards for third place. They could take it all if their old pitchers, Sal Maglie, Larry Jansen and Dave Koslo hold out. Such stars as Whitey Lockman, Monte Irvin and Al Dark assure the Giants of a strong finish.

The St. Louis Cardinals have an outside chance to win the entire bunting, but the Cards are a team of youth and maturity with few players right at the peak of their playing career. Still, though, the Cards, have Stan Musial, the greatest player in the game today.

The Chicago Cubs, last year's surprise team, will be no weaker than last season, but not very much stronger either. Hank Sauer holds the fate of the Cubs in his bat hand, and what kind of a season Hank has will go a long way towards determining if the Bruins can beat out the Cincinnati Reds.

The seventh and eighth slots have been assigned to the Milwaukee Braves and the Pittsburgh Pirates. Both of these teams have one outstanding star, Warren Spahn and Ralph Kiner, respectively. Neither of these teams has much of a chance to play anything but a "spoiler" role.

The American League race has eight teams of more equal strength than the National League, but only one, the Yankees, have the fight to win the pennant. The Yanks always seem to be in front when it's all over in September and I'm tired of picking against them.

The Yanks' closest pursuers will be the luckless Cleveland Indians, who have the best team in baseball everywhere except on the playing field. However, that tremendous pitching staff of Bob Lemon, Mike Garcia and Early Wynn is bound to get a few breaks and I hope they blow the Yankees right out of the League this year.

The Chicago White Sox will be a much stronger club this season with the acquisition of Ferris Fain and Vern Stephens, who will team up with Nellie Fox and Chico Carrasquel to give the "Go-Go" Sox one of the most colorful infields in baseball.

Fourth place goes to the "sleeper" team of the year, the St. Louis Browns. The Browns are the most improved club in either League. Vic Wertz, Johnny Groth, Clint Courtney and rookie Bill Hunter will spark the Browns to this lofty position.

The luckiest team in baseball, the Philadelphia Athletics, will be nosed out for sixth by the Washington Senators in spite of the presence of Bobby Shantz and Eddie Robinson. The Senators could end up third if they get some punch at the plate.

The aging Boston Red Sox, who have lost a number of promising rookies to the draft, will have to hustle to escape the coalhole in front of an improved Detroit Tiger nine. George Kell is the big gun that the Red Sox will count on to keep them out of the cellar.

Four Women Gain Third Net Victory

Those girls who have won their third game in the Intramural Badminton Tournament are Sally Jett, Jean Woodfield, Margot Ketcham and Pat McClure. It was announced by the Women's Physical Education Department that all games must be completed by April 1.

Chi Omega, Alpha Chi and Tri Delta, by winning two consecutive games in the volleyball tournament, have qualified for play-offs for the semi-finals. Kappa Alpha Theta and Jefferson are ahead in the consolation contest.

On March 30, practices for softball intramurals will begin. Each organization may have three teams and the names of the members should be turned in this week.

Also, on March 30, preliminary instruction for the Red Cross Water Safety Instructor's Course will commence at seven p. m. in Blow Pool. This course, which is open to men and women, is under the leadership of Mr. Howard Camp of the American Red Cross.

Any student who is at least 18 years of age and holds a Senior Life Saving certificate is eligible for this instruction. All those interested in taking the course should contact Miss Donna Barand in Room 1, Jefferson, by this Friday, March 27.

Faculty Remains Unbeaten In Independent Cage Loop

The Faculty extended its undefeated record to five games in the Independent Basketball League this week with a close 46-44 win over Windy's Indies. Gil Joyner led the victors with 16 points. He was followed by teammate Dudley Jensen, who racked in 11.

The opening of the last quarter showed the team from the Indies trailing by well over 10 points. Paced by Jerry Sazio, who was high scorer with 20, they battled back to a two-point deficit as time ran out.

The Kappa Swiggers fought their way to a win against the Underdogs from O. D. for their first triumph of the season. The final score was 40-30.

In another game that witnessed the rebirth of hustling ball playing, the Monarchs took an overtime contest from the Eight-Balls, 55-52. The losers stole the ball from the Monarchs again and again to make up for the 13-point edge that the Monarchs held at the opening of the last quarter.

Doug Watson intercepted some passes in the crucial stage of the game that set the Eight-Balls back on their feet. When the whistle sounded the end of the fourth quarter, the score stood at 46-46.

In the overtime period, Hugh Covington, the big man for the losers, fouled out to leave the boards open to the Monarchs. They jumped into the lead and were never headed.

Phil Kennedy, with 19 points, and Paul Rutkowski, with 17, were the big guns for the winners while Covington gobbled up 16 for the losing Eight-Balls.

The only other game of the week was between the Squaws and Windy's Indies. The Squaws outplayed the losers to win, 48-32. Sam Cole was high man in the contest with a total of 14 points.

Mayor Stryker Discusses Vital Issues
Of Prime Williamsburg Importance

By Andrea Thunander
Flat Hat Feature Editor

Dr. H. M. Stryker, Mayor of Williamsburg since 1948, said he considers of prime importance to the city the questions of taxation and the school issue which has been confronting civic and county authorities for some time now.

Mayor Stryker attended William and Mary in 1914-1916. While here, he played on the varsity football team. He went to the Mayor H. M. Stryker

Medical College of Virginia in 1916, where he was Omicron Delta Kappa and received his D.D.S. in 1919.

After a year of practice in Lynchburg, he returned to his native Williamsburg. He has always been "intensely interested" in his city and its government.

The year 1934 saw his election to the City Council, and from 1936 until 1948, he was Vice-Mayor of the city.

A family man, Mayor Stryker has a wife and daughter, both of whom are alumnae of the College. Outside of his duties as Mayor and his dental practice, he mentioned that when he has time, he enjoys a game of golf and devotes some time to his hobby of growing roses.

Several years ago, Mayor Stryker was awarded the Alumni Medallion. In December 1952, he was elected to the Board of Trustees of Alumni Endowment to succeed the late Vernon Geddy. At one time, he was a member of the William and Mary Athletic Committee.

A Vestryman and Senior Warden at Bruton Parish Church, Mayor Stryker is a Past President of the Chamber of Commerce.

School Dispute

In regard to the dispute between James City County and the City of Williamsburg over the school situation, Mayor Stryker said he saw no solution in sight.

The argument between city and county authorities over how the educational needs of children of elementary school and high school ages in the area should be met has now been going on for a long period of time. Overcrowding of schools since the last war has been a problem here as much as it has throughout the nation.

Mayor Stryker has always held that city and county schools should be allied in some way, for reasons of economy as well as to have a "unity of interest" between the residents of the county and Williamsburg.

He believes that one of the main reasons why the proposals recently rejected didn't go through is that half the people in the lower section of the county who wanted the measure did not get out to vote for it. Not getting out to vote was, in effect, "Voting against the proposal." Secondly, he said there are "mutual jealousies" between the upper and lower halves of the county.

Large Problem

The other large problem that Williamsburg, as a city, has to cope with, is, lack of adequate funds, said Mayor Stryker. Since the College, the Restoration and Eastern State Hospital occupy so much of the city area, there is little taxable land left in the city.

He indicated that he would like to see an annexation to the corporate limits made sometime in the future and suggested part of the area near Lake Matoaka as a possible direction in which to expand.

Another project he would like very much to see accomplished in the near future is the expansion of water supply facilities. At present, Williamsburg is supplied by a surface reservoir which is connected to one city water tank.

Civic Organization

The city organization consists of the Mayor, Vice-Mayor and City Manager and Councilmen. The present Vice-Mayor is Lloyd H. Williams, the City Manager is Hugh B. Rice and Councilmen are Winston Butts, Vincent D. McManus and Russell M. Carneal. Miss Mary Inman is the City Attorney and Miss Virginia Blanchard is City Secretary.

The Council meets in the court house the first Monday of each month. The meetings are open to the public. Such problems as taxation, sanitation and education are chief topics of discussion.

Elections Fill Remaining WSCGA Offices And WAA Posts

Last Wednesday seven women students were elected in the final elections for WSCGA, and the three officers of the WAA were chosen.

Shirley Haabestad and Sarah Dean Spangler were re-elected to the Women's Honor Council to serve as the two Senior members. The newly-elected members of the Judicial Committee are: Zelda Wildman, Senior member; Barbara Crovo, Representative-at-Large; Victoria Stone, Sophomore member; Peggy Ives was elected to the post of Senior member of the Executive Council and Jane Kesler will serve as Representative-at-Large.

The Women's Athletic Association elected Shirley Haabestad as President, with Sally Dahm to serve as Point Recorder and Brenda Kornis as Secretary.

Senior Member

Shirley Haabestad, Senior member of the Honor Council, is a Junior from Upper Darby, Pennsylvania. She has been on the Women's Honor Council since her Freshman year, serving as Secretary for the past year. Shirley has been a Dean's List student every semester with a straight "A" average for two of these semesters. She is a member of Alpha Chi Omega social sorority.

Also elected as the new WAA president, Shirley has previously served as Secretary and Point Recorder for the organization.

The other Senior member to the Women's Honor Council, Sarah Dean Spangler, served as the Junior member this year. Sarah Dean is from Norfolk and has been on Dean's List since her first semester in residence. She is a member of Chi Delta Phi, honorary literary society, and Alpha Chi Omega, in addition to being Make-up Editor of the Colonial Echo.

Zelda Wildman, Senior member of the Judicial Committee, hails from Arlington. During the past year, she has served as Secretary of the Judicial Committee and Recording Secretary of Alpha Chi Omega.

Sophomore Member

The Sophomore member to the Judicial Committee is Victoria Stone from Chicago, Illinois. Vickie is a member of the Chorus, Canterbury Club and Alpha Chi Omega.

Barbara "Boots" Crovo, Representative-at-Large to the Judicial Committee, is a Junior from Bethesda, Maryland. On campus Boots serves as House President of Barrett, Class Editor of the Colonial Echo and is the newly elected president of Delta Delta Delta.

Senior Member to the Executive Council is Peggy Ives whose home is Western Spring, Illinois. Peggy, Dean's List student and Merit Scholar, is president of Kappa Kappa Gamma. She is also Business Manager of the Flat Hat, a member of the Chorus and Westminster Fellowship.

Representative-at-Large to the Executive Council is Jane Kesler, a Sophomore from Virginia Beach. A member of Pi Beta Phi sorority, Jane served as a member of Student Assembly during her Freshman year. She is secretary-treasurer of the Sophomore Class and was a Freshman sponsor.

Newly elected WAA Point Recorder Sally Dahm has been active in campus sports, participating in varsity basketball, hockey and lacrosse. She was recently elected Co-Captain of the women's varsity basketball squad and was Women's Sports Editor of the Flat Hat last semester. Sally is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and is from Saint Davids, Pennsylvania.

Brenda Kornis, who was elected

Secretary of the WAA, has been a member of the junior varsity basketball and hockey teams. She was recently elected Treasurer of WSCGA and is a member of William and Mary Chorus and Alpha Chi Omega. Her home is Chevy Chase, Maryland.

IF YOU CAN WIN

THESE WINGS YOU CAN EARN OVER $5,000 A YEAR AFTER GRADUATION

Important facts about the opportunities for YOU as a Commissioned Officer—Pilot or Aircraft Observer—in the United States Air Force

Must I be a college graduate to take Aviation Cadet Training?

No. But you must have completed a minimum of 60 semester hours or 90 quarter hours toward a degree. In addition, under the new Aviation Cadet training program, you must be between the ages of 19 and 26½ years, unmarried, and in good physical condition—with high requirements for eyes, ears, heart and teeth.

How long before I get my commission?

60 calendar weeks. You will receive the finest aviation training in the world—training that not only equips you to fly modern military aircraft but prepares you for executive and administrative work as well. At the completion of your training, you will have acquired a commission as a 2nd Lieutenant and the coveted silver wings of the United States Air Force.

Where do I take my training?

Pre-flight training will be at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. Primary, basic and advanced training will be taken at any one of the many Air Force bases located throughout the South and Southwest.

What happens if I flunk the training course?

Every effort is made to help students whose progress is unsatisfactory. You can expect extra instructions and whatever individual attention you may require. However, if you fail to complete the course as an Aviation Cadet, you will be required to serve a two-year enlistment to fulfill the minimum requirement under Selective Service laws. Veterans who have completed a tour of military service will be discharged upon request if they fail to complete the course.

What pay do I get as an Aviation Cadet? And after?

As an Aviation Cadet you draw $109.20 a month pay. In addition, you get summer and winter uniforms, flight clothes, equipment, food, housing, medical and dental care and insurance . . . all free. After you are commissioned a 2nd Lieutenant you will be earning $5,300.00 a year—with unlimited opportunities for advancement.

Are all Aviation Cadets trained to be Pilots?

No. You can choose between becoming a Pilot or an Aircraft Observer. Men who choose the latter will become commissioned officers in Navigation, Bombardment, Radar Operation, or Aircraft Performance Engineering.

Do Aircraft Observers get flying training, too?

Yes. Aircraft Observer Cadets receive approximately 200 hours of "in the air" instructions. The primary phase of Aircraft Observer training is the same for all branches (navigation, bombardment, etc.). The basic and advanced phases of training vary, depending on the specific course you pursue.

What kind of airplanes will I fly?

You will fly jets. The Pilot Cadet takes his first instructions in a light, civilian-type plane of approximately 100 horsepower, then graduates to the 600 horsepower T-6 "Texan" before receiving transition training in jets. You then advance gradually until you are flying such famous first-line aircraft as F-86 Sabre, F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet, B-50 Superfortress. Observer Cadets take flight instructions in the C-47 Dakota, the T-29 Convair, and the TB-50 Superfortress before advancing to first-line aircraft such as the F-89 Scorpion, B-47 Stratojet.

Will my commission be in the Regular Air Force or Reserve?

Aviation Cadet graduates, both Pilots and Aircraft Observers, get Reserve commissions as 2nd Lieutenants and become eligible to apply for a regular Air Force Commission when they have completed 18 months of active duty.

How long must I remain in Service?

After graduation from the Aviation Cadet Program, you are tendered an indefinite appointment in the United States Air Force Reserve and are called to active duty with the United States Air Force for a period of three years.

What recreation and leisure time will I have as a Cadet?

Discipline will be rigid—especially for the first few weeks. However, it is not all work. You'll find swimming pools, handball courts, movies and other forms of recreation on the post.

Where will I be stationed when I get my commission?

You may be stationed anywhere in the world . . . Hawaii, Far East, Europe, Puerto Rico, elsewhere. During your tour of duty, you will be in close touch with the latest developments in new flying techniques. You will continue to build up your flying experience and later should have no difficulty securing a CAA commercial pilot or navigator rating.

Your future is assured if you can qualify! Here's what to do:

- 1 Take a transcript of your college credits and a copy of your birth certificate to your nearest Air Force Base or Recruiting Station. Fill out the application they give you.
- 2 If application is accepted, the Air Force will arrange for you to take a physical examination at government expense.
- 3 Next, you will be given a written and manual aptitude test.
- 4 If you pass your physical and other tests, you will be scheduled for an Aviation Cadet training class. The Selective Service Act allows you a four-month deferment while waiting class assignment.

Lou Biggs Displays Dance Techniques, Lends Talents As Orchesis President And Choreographer Of Varsity Show.

Lou Biggs Rehearses For Orchesis Program

Lou Biggs, who is president of Orchesis, first started dancing when she was six years old. She began with tap, went on to acrobatic dancing and character dancing, which Lou explained as being "national dances into which you try to put the character of a people."

At William and Mary, she has become very interested in modern dance although she prefers ballet. Lou said that she thinks modern dance is more of a challenge to an individual's initiative, for it gives students a chance to create while not requiring the skill and practice needed for ballet.

This opportunity for a creative outlet is one of the aims of Orchesis. This year's Orchesis concert is being choreographed entirely by students.

Besides her work with Orchesis, Lou is choreographer of the Backdrop Club. As soon as the Orchesis concert is over next week,

Lou will be devoting most of her time to varsity show work, which is already shaping up. She's doing all the choreography for the show. Many of the dances will be novelty numbers, ranging from modern to chorus line dancing.

Lou hasn't limited her interests entirely to dancing, however. She adds, though, that dancing has been a means of broadening her knowledge of the arts, for she has come to know a lot of music through it, and has become familiar with great paintings since many dances are composed around them.

An English major, Lou enjoys writing and has been a contributor to the Royalist.

Orchesis will present its annual Spring program of modern dance on April 1 and April 2 in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at 8 p. m.

Versatile Anne LeHew Loves Cooking, Children, Spillane, Bridge, WSCGA

By Andrea Thunander
Flat Hat Feature Editor

"One of the things I would like most to get started this year is a State student government organization," said Anne LeHew, newly elected President of the Executive Council of WSCGA. The question of whether or not to send a representative to the SIASG at Dallas this Spring was brought up in the WSCGA meeting a week ago, and by vote of the general assembly, it was decided not to send a representative because of the distance and the travelling costs that would be incurred.

Anne believes that this difficulty could be surmounted by a more localized organization and also that a group which could work closer together could gain more from the organization.

A junior from Clifton Forge, she has had several years of experience in student government. She was vice-president of the governing body of her high school and has been active in WSCGA since she came to William and Mary.

Another thing she would like to see promoted during the next year is more day student participation in student government.

St. George's Day will be a big project in the coming year and one in which Anne will be deeply concerned.

Anne is an English major and believes she would like to teach when she finishes here. She enjoys working with children and her job last Summer provided her with ample opportunity to do so.

She was lifeguard in the Clifton Forge pool, and every day she had about 80 children to look after, from the ages of five to 14.

She has done some writing and is a member of Chi Delta Phi. Her bookcase testifies to her varied tastes in music run from classical and semi-classical to hillbilly. Referring to the latter, she says, "When you live in my part of the country as long as I, you learn to like it."

Anne's a good cook, or at least, her two brothers tell her so, for she insists that "they'd eat anything I set before them." One of their favorites (and hers, too) is a chocolate cake with a frosting she invented to go on it.

Anne has also been active in Alpha Chi Omega, and last year was elected song leader, which is quite a job in a meeting full of quite a few people who can't "carry a tune in a bucket."

She was elected to Eta Sigma Phi, the honorary ancient languages fraternity, and she has been on Dean's List consistently from the time she came here as a freshman.

tastes in literature, for in it can be found almost anything, including Mickey Spillane sandwiched between Goren On Bridge and Chekov.

Since she has been at William and Mary, Anne has sung in the College Choir. She says that her

'The Clandestine Marriage' To Open Play Series Friday

The Clandestine Marriage, presented by Colonial Williamsburg in its Spring play series, will begin Friday at the Reception Center.

"An outstanding comedy success of the 18th century," this play will be presented each Friday evening for 10 weeks during the Spring and will start again in the Fall to continue into late October or early November.

The Clandestine Marriage is directed by Howard Scammon, director of The Common Glory, which is presented at the Matoaka Amphitheater during the Summer. William and Mary students who have had previous stage experience were chosen for the cast from tryouts held last month.

George Burns will portray Lord Ogleby, a typical nobleman of the 18th century. George has appeared in many of the William and Mary Theatre presentations and in last year's Spring play, The Country Girl, shown at the Reception Center.

The heroine of the play, Fanny, will be played by Jeanne Shepard. Jeanne has been seen in many of the College productions, among them being The Miser and First Lady.

Familiar Performer

Jerry Clulow plays the part of the parvenu Mr. Sterling. Jerry is familiar to students for his work in many of the College plays and in The Country Girl.

Bill Thomas portrays Lovewell, the hero of the play. Also appearing in last year's The Country Girl, Bill has had many roles in William and Mary Theatre productions.

Mary Elizabeth McDow, well remembered for her part as head of the WPPA in First Lady, will be cast as Mrs. Heidelberg, Mr. Sterling's socially ambitious sister.

Young Fop

A young fop, Sir John Melville, will be played by Hank Dressel; Brush, a servant, will be played by David Daugherty; and Mickey Mighell will appear as the chambermaid. Mickey is remembered for her role of Pegeen in this year's Theatre production of The Playboy of the Western World.

Revel Michael is cast as Canton, a Swiss servant with a pseudo-French accent, and Ginny Hungerford will be seen as Fanny's faithful maidservant, Betty. These two have appeared in many William and Mary plays.

Tickets will be on sale at the Reception Center all week. Reserved seats are priced at $1.80 per person, general admission seats at $1.20 and student tickets are 70 cents per person.

A musical program begins at 8 p. m., with the play starting at 8:15 p. m.

W&M Debate Team Will Engage Rutgers On Campus Tuesday

Director Howard Scammon

The William and Mary inter-collegiate debate team will engage the forensic squad of Rutgers University in a debate next Tuesday at 1 p. m. in the Apollo Room of Phi Beta Kappa Hall.

The debate will be held on the national topic—Resolved: That the Congress of the United States Should Pass Compulsory FEPC Legislation. Rutgers will uphold the affirmative side of the question, while William and Mary will uphold the negative side of the question.

The debate is open to the public and all students are cordially invited to attend.

Student Assembly Conducts Meeting; Discusses Various College Problems

Election dates were announced to Student Assembly members at last Tuesday's meeting.

President and vice-president of the student body and class officers will be voted for April 1, and elections for the Men's Honor Council and for Student Assembly will take place on April 22. Petitions are now being accepted at the office of the Dean of Men.

Bud Jay reported that the Campus Chest Drive had closed with a total of $475.

The new editors of the Colonial Echo and the Royalist will be elected at the next meeting of the Publications Committee.

Carmen Romeo announced the list of items needed in the new Student Activities Building that were submitted to the architect. John Dalton reported that plans for renovation of Phi Beta Kappa Hall or the building of a new auditorium are on the agenda for the next five or six years.

Tex Wilde, Dick Blanchard and Bob Clark are to make posters and announcements in an effort to discourage students from cutting in front of one another in the Cafeteria line.

Those students absent and unexcused from the meeting were Cary Skates, Ann Johnson, Emmy Ketterson, Mel Hines, John Westburg, Martha Austin, Jeff Davis, Sharon Montgomery and Jo Ann Napolino.
