R.K.O. THEATRE PLANS PERFORMANCES FOR BENEFIT OF CHARITY

Local Theater to Give Three Performances on January 30 in Connection With National Presidential Balls to Aid Poor.

DANCE AT INN TO FOLLOW

Three benefit performances are planned by the RKO for January 30, the date of the annual President's birthday balls throughout the country. Half of the proceeds of the performances will be turned over to the local committee in charge of distribution of the funds.

Thomas McCaskey is chairman of the special committee in arranging the benefit performances. He will be assisted by Rolf Hamre, who will supervise the ticket sales. William Schmiedel is handling the sale of tickets at the College.

These performances will be held in conjunction with a dance at the Williamsburg Inn, the proceeds of which also will be turned over to the local committee. Thirty per cent of the net proceeds from both the ball at the Inn and the benefit at the Theatre will be forwarded to the national committee sponsoring these celebrations throughout the country. These funds will be presented to President Roosevelt and by him turned over to a special commission to carry on extensive research in the fight against infantile paralysis. The remaining seventy per cent of the proceeds will be given to the Kate Custis Circle King's Daughters, local sponsors of the birthday party, for their work

TRIBUNAL ASKS CO-OPERATION

Men's Duc Rules Are Still Effective and Violators Will Be Brought Before Tribunal.

Ever since the end of the Christmas vacation there has been a definite let-down on the part of the freshmen in regard to "Duc" rules. The freshmen men have had no authority to remove their hats or ties.

There are many freshmen who have the mistaken idea in thinking that because the women's freshman rules have been removed the same applies to the men. This is not so. The men's Tribunal is a separate organization and works entirely apart from the women's organization.

President Ed Hessian of the Tribunal states "that a very exact account has been kept of the freshmen who have persistently been breaking the 'Duc' rules. And at the next meeting of the Tribunal these freshmen will firmly be reminded that they are still freshmen at this college."

It had been the idea of the Tribunal to let the "Duc" rules be lifted somewhat before the regular time had the freshman class showed the proper cooperation. The attitude of the freshman class has been anything but cooperative, and therefore there are no immediate prospects of the freshman rules being lifted for some time. If the freshmen would only realize that the sooner they show definite signs of cooperation, the sooner the Tribunal will act accordingly.

The Tribunal again requests upperclassmen for their cooperation in enforcing the "Duc" rules. It is a physical impossibility that the Tribunal carry on this work alone.

Broken-Hearted Scholars Join For Companionship After Unhappy Loves

The most recent and interesting society to be formed on the William and Mary campus is the Broken Hearts Club. This promises to be one of the most active organizations and is expected to survive until the early part of Spring.

The charter members of the club include Pete Christian, Frank Manning, Shorty Trueheart, Chick Walker, Ken Cummings, Jud Sherrill, and Lu Plummer, president, and Dixie Moore, vice president. Mac McCutcheon, Ned Le Grande, and Huddy Blaker are the first set of pledges.

Lu Plummer was unanimously elected president as he was the first to get the well known "gate." Most of Cotillion Club Makes Plans for Set of Dances to Be Held in February; Several Well Known Orchestras Being Considered.

The Cotillion Club is making plans for the mid-winter set of formal dances to be held in the latter part of February. Officers of the club have not yet decided on the orchestra to play, but several well known ones are being considered. The decoration theme will very likely be in accord with the season. Fraternities are urged to appoint committees early to decorate their respective windows more elaborately than ever before, for the Cotillion Club expects to spare no effort to make this set of formal dances the most successful ever held at William and Mary. Admission prices will be about the same as usual. Bids are to be sent to social groups at other colleges in the state and all factors point to an unusually gala affair.

The Cotillion Club expresses regret at the loss of their secretary-treasurer Eddie Boisseau, who had to leave school because of illness. Any communications to the club should be addressed to John A. McManus, president.

DRAMATIC CLUB IS HOST TO STUDENT PLAYWRIGHTS

Miss Hunt Gives Summary of The Life and Accomplishments of Late George Pierce Baker.

The Dramatic Club played host to the playwright and play production classes at a meeting in Brown Hall Thursday, January 10.

Two plays, "Shadows on the Swanee" by Clifford Brooks, and "Off the Path" by Mary Louise Hollowell were read before the group. The plays represented incidents in the lives of loyal Southerners in the North during the War Between the States and the strict customs of the Mennonites. Parts in these plays were read by Louise Merkel, Leona Yoder, Frances Moreland, Mrs. Gardiner and her two children, Hiram Davis, Michael Clif-fel, Chris Sorenson, and Cliff Brooks.

Some of the plays seen during the holidays were discussed by Elizabeth Ware, Katherine Williams, Arebella Hubbard, Stuart Hall and Dan Velsor. Miss Hunt gave a brief summary of the life and accomplishments of the late George Pierce Baker who died January 6. He is most famous for the founding of "Workshop 47" at Harvard and his work with the University Theater at Yale.

The Club announced its February meeting to be held at Kappa Kappa Gamma House soon after the beginning of the next semester.

ALEXANDER WOOLLCOTT MAKES ADDRESS ON JAN. 8

President Bryan Introduces Noted Journalist and Lecturer Who Speaks on "The Invisible Newspaper."

Alexander Woolcott, noted journalist and lecturer, spoke before the faculty and student body of the College of William and Mary on January 8. Mr. Woolcott was brought to the campus through an effort of the Administration to give the student body leading speakers of the day.

Mr. Woolcott was introduced by President John Stewart Bryan in the simple and easy manner that is so symbolic of the new administration. The topic chosen by the famed journalist was "The Invisible Newspaper." In his lecture, Mr. Woolcott traced his own career, from his first job on the Philadelphia Record to becoming dramatic critic of the New York Times.

The audience was held spellbound through a number of stories taken from Mr. Woolcott's category of personal experiences. His delivery was so intense that he made the audience feel that they, too, had taken part in many harrowing actions.

Although a newspaperman at heart, Mr. Woolcott takes part in many broadcasts over the radio. He stated that the radio is really an oral newspaper but sooner or later the two will conflict.

At the end of his lecture Mr. Woolcott received a tremendous ovation from the audience.

PAYMENT OF STUDENT FEES URGED BY BOARD

Activity Fees for Both Semesters Must Be Paid in Order to Get Annual.

Student Activities Fees must be paid for both semesters in order to secure the 1935 Colonial Echo, our campus annual.

This fee is payable at any time to any of the following men and women: Ralph Stambaugh, Frank Manning, Roland Hall, Dave Rutledge, Dot Dunlap, or Mary Louise Hollowell.

During registration a desk will be placed at a convenient place in Washington Hall and the Board of Control Office will be open during the hours of 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily.

The payment of this fee entitles the owner to the Colonial Echo, a semester subscription of the Flat Hat; the Literary Magazine; and eligibility to the Men's or Women's debate teams.

Three years ago the collection and distribution of student funds was transferred to the student administration. The success of student publications and debate teams depends upon the cooperation of the students themselves. This cooperation comes directly through the payment of the student activity fee of $5.75.

Miss Kathleen Alsop, registrar, announced that registration for the second semester will be held the 29th, 30th, and 31st of this month. It was further stated that those students wishing to register before this time will not be permitted to do so. The new term will begin February 1.

The registrar has been in communication with a number of new students and it is expected that fifty or more will register for the second semester.

WAGENER APPOINTED FOR ORGANIZATION OF SUMMER CRUISE

Classical Pageant Important Feature in Celebrating Two-Thousandth Anniversary of Roman Poet, Horace.

Announcement has just been received by Dr. A. P. Wagener of his appointment as one of the organizers for the Horatian Cruise which will take place this summer. This cruise will be one of the most important features of the celebration of the two-thousandth anniversary of the birth of the Roman poet Horace, who was born on December 8, 65 B.C. Throughout the present year, both in America and in Europe, celebrations commemorative of this event will be held under the auspices of Classical groups. Many persons will remember the pageant held on the William and Mary campus in connection with the Vergilian Bimillennium in 1930. Eta Sigma Phi Classical Fraternity is planning a similar Horatian pageant, but on a smaller scale to be presented this spring in Players' Dell.

The Horatian Cruise will be organized in two parts, one on land and one which will use a private cruise ship. Starting from Milan, Italy, the party will visit sites identified with Horace's life and writing. These will include Lake Como, Florence, Rome, Naples, Pompeii, Beneventum, Bari, and Brindisi. At Brindisi, the party will board a specially chartered ship, the "City of London", and for four weeks will cruise in the Mediterranean and Aegean seas, traveling mostly by night and sightseeing on shore by day. The voyage will extend as far as Constantinople.

STUDENTS, ATTENTION!

I have recently received an unsigned letter from a student who claims to be a senior. This letter contains an accusation against a certain student of the College. This student is charged specifically with having cheated his way through college without being reported for this infraction of the honor system.

I want to call the attention of the writer and of the student body as a whole to the following two facts. First, an anonymous communication is absolutely valueless as evidence in this or in any other type of case. Second, the student who wrote the letter referred to above is as guilty of violating the honor code at William and Mary as the person who was accused.

Honor involves not only personal observance of the honor code, but also the courage to report any student known or suspected of an infraction of its provisions.

CAMPUS UNITES IN CHRISTMAS PARTY

Lighting of Yule Log Followed By Christmas Dinner and Dance. Students Cheer Bryan.

President Bryan held a Christmas party here Thursday night, December 20, for students and faculty of the college.

The affair, which was the first annual celebration of its type, began with the bringing in of the Yule log by the freshman football team. It was taken to the great hall of the Wren building where it was lighted according to the ancient ceremonies, with the ODK and the Mortarboard societies in charge of the lighting.

Last year's Yule log was burned and this year's was lighted from it, later being extinguished with wine and kept until next year's party to carry over the Christmas spirit from one year to the next. A torchlight parade, students carrying flaming pine knots, was staged to the dining hall, where the Christmas dinner was served and real merriment reigned. A Christmas tree 25 feet tall graced the corner of the refractory. The dinner had turkey and Smithfield ham as modern viands while harking back to the past four men bore in with great ceremony a boar's head, and plum pudding made with real rum was served.

President Bryan, as lord of the manor, with several others, was dressed in colonial costume and sat as was the colonial custom, at a table somewhat higher than the others. Mr. Bryan received an ovation from the students when he announced that they did not have to attend classes the dealt with the two opposing points of view set forth by Plato; first, that the development of the individual depends on the development of the State, and second, that the development of the State depends on the individual. In the discussion which followed, the question was raised as to whether the two theories were mutually opposing or actually did involve each other.

Margery Croft reported on a newly published aspect of the theory of emotions.

The next meeting will be held February 11, in Brown Hall.

Literary Society Plans An Original Program

J. Leslie Hall Literary Society will meet next on Wednesday, February 13. This will be the first gathering of the organization since before Christmas, as J. Leslie Hall does not meet during January.

A cabinet meeting of the Society will be held February 4 at 9 p.m. in the living room of Brown Hall, to discuss plans for the coming semester. A Negro quartet is to sing at one of the February meetings. An April program will be devoted to original compositions—short stories and poems—by members.

Other suggestions that will be considered are a play to be given by the members at a joint meeting, and a 3-cornered contest between Philomathes, Phoenix, and J. Leslie Hall Literary Societies.

Wants to Eliminate Billboards on Roads

Mrs. Durham Chairman of Council to Protect Roadside Beauty. Is Out Against All Road Signs.

"Shall our highways be scenic or signic?" This is the question asked by Mrs. Janet Stuart Durham, chairman of the Virginia Council for the Protection of Roadside Beauty, in a signed article which appears in the January issue of The Commonwealth, publication of the Virginia State Chamber of Commerce.

"It is the height of folly to bring the beauties of Virginia to the attention of the country and invite visitors to come here and then let these visitors go away disgusted at the unsightliness of our roadsides," Mrs. Durham declares.

"A bill to regulate billboards in rural areas was introduced in the 1934 session of the General Assembly of Virginia. The opponents of this bill argued that a special tax on billboards was justified because a special benefit was conferred. The motorist pays a special tax on gasoline because of the special benefit he derives from good roads. But the outdoor advertiser parks his boards along the highways and receives free publicity without paying any direct tax for it.

"The women's clubs and garden clubs of Virginia are unitedly backing the movement to beautify the highways of the Old Dominion. They are setting out trees along the roadsides and are endeavoring to get the people living along the highways to adorn their places with flowers and shrubbery. They are also becoming increasingly hostile to those businesses which use the highways for advertising purposes. It would be much better business they think to make the highways of Virginia beautiful.

"We remember the beautiful things we see. We have a revulsion toward the unpleasant and the ugly. It is the height of folly to bring the beauties of Virginia to the attention of the country and invite visitors to come here, and then let these visitors go away disgusted at the unsightliness of our roadsides."

A.A. Association Sets New Safety Pace 1935

Local Director R. P. Wallace Issues Word of Warning to Motorists. Safety Posters for New Year Aid To Children.

Caution—the first rule for self-protection on the streets and highways—is emphasized in the AAA Safety poster for January, now being distributed by the Tidewater Automobile Association.

Commenting on the first safety poster for the New Year R. P. Wallace, Williamsburg Director for the AAA affiliation, declared that it carries a most timely message to school children as well as adults.

"January is one of the worst months of the year for motor accidents," he said, "and weather conditions are, of course, an important factor. It is a season when there is a tendency for pedestrians to keep their heads under umbrellas and under coat collars. The failure of pedestrians to be alert—to be cautious—accounts for hundreds of deaths and countless thousands of injuries. Motorists should also feel obligated to use every caution, particularly in making turns and approaching corners."

Mr. Wallace pointed out that the January AAA poster is in colors and shows a youngster passing a car parked at the curb and heading out into the maelstrom of traffic. "Be sure it's safe before you cross," is the AAA message to millions of school children and it is being broadcast through the medium of safety posters.

FRESHMAN BASKETEERS OPEN NEW SPORTS YEAR WITH THREE VICTORIES

FRESHMEN VICTORIOUS IN OPENING CONTESTS

Carolina Teachers, Suffolk and Hopewell High Schools Bow to Coach Scott's Charges on Successive Days.

GOOD SEASON FORECAST Sheehan, Oliver, Price Give Outstanding Performances for Papooses. Next Game Jan. 17.

The Papoose basketball team started off on the right foot last Thursday by hanging up a 35-17 victory over East Carolina Teachers College and kept victory on their side in two successive tilts with Suffolk high and Hopewell high.

The first half of the game with E.C.T.C. showed clearly the co-operative of a good team. The opponents, while showing a lot of fight and spirit, did not seem to have the stamina of the Papooses. They called the majority of fouls during the first half and were constantly substituting. The play, for the most part, was clean and open, although it got rougher as the period drew to a close and, incidentally, the majority of fouls were called against the visitors. Flashy, yet consistent and characteristically co-operative playing was especially noticeable in Sheehan and Oliver, who did all the scoring in the first period. The excellent floorwork of Price and the consistent defense of Harper, Mathison, and Scruggs also deserves mention. The half ended in William and Mary's favor, 19-8.

The second half opened with very erratic play which soon smoothed down after time was called by the visitors and several substitutions were made by both sides. As Oliver, Sheehan, and Price went out for the first time, they received a tremendous ovation from the sporting spectators, an indication of appreciation. Scott played the entire squad in the second half and they showed up well. The game ended William and Mary leading the E.C.T.C., 35-17.

The following day the team played Suffolk high and with a few substitutions being made again came out on top with a score of 37 to 26. To complete the week they trimmed Hopewell high last Saturday, 26-16.

In both of these contests the Scott men clearly outclassed their foes, the reason for the fairly close scores being that every man on the squad saw action. These frequent substitutions broke up many of the passing combinations, thus preventing a higher score.

The Papoose athletes are living up to their gridiron reputation as winners on the court so far, and they bid fair to continue. The student body turn-out at the two home games showed the popularity of the Papoose cagers.

Kappa Deltas Win Intersorority Cup

Basketball in the intra-mural class came to an exciting finish before the holidays. The new sorority champions for this season are the Kappa Deltas. The winning six remained undefeated throughout the series of well played games. Thus the Chi Omegas must relinquish the silver cup which they won last year.

The KD's started the season in grand style by winning their first few games and then kept up their fast pace to hang up a record of eight straight wins against no defeats.

Results: Kappa Delta, 100 points; Phi Mu, 80; Chi Omega, 70; Gamma Phi Beta, 60.

Dormitory basketball games produced a new winner in Barrett Hall. The girls representing this dormitory won all three of their games played against their rivals.

Results: Barrett Hall, 100 points; Jefferson, 80; Chandler, 70; Brown, 60 points.

INDIAN CAGERS DROP OPENER TO VIRGINIA CAVALIERS BY 25-21

Both Teams Give Ragged Exhibitions. Elmore, Flickenger, Crist Star for Tri-Color.

Coach Tommy Dowler's Indian cagers opened their fourteen-game schedule last Thursday night in Charlottesville by dropping a close 25-21 decision to the University of Virginia Cavaliers.

In playing their first game under the newly-installed system of play, the William and Mary basketballers showed flashes of good play and also traces of mediocrity. The game was exceedingly rough and the Indian mentor was forced to complain on several occasions about the officiating.

Although it was their first contest and Virginia's fourth, and despite the fact that the huge gallery was distinctly partisan and unsportsmanlike, the Indians played the Cavaliers on practically even terms and led 15-13 at one point. The score at the half was 11-17 for Virginia.

The highlight of the game was Ralph Elmore's close guarding of Virginia's brilliant Sturm. The Cavalier captain was held to four points while Elmore scored the same number. Rogers was the big gun in the winners attack, scoring ten points, while Flickenger and Crist led the Indian scoring.

A return game with Virginia will be played February 11 in Newport News at which time the Indians will be conceded a good chance to turn the tables on their opponents in view of their showing last Thursday.

Box score table with columns for G, F, T for Virginia, William & Mary, and non-scoring substitutes.

Non-scoring substitutes: Virginia, Cox, Smith, Male, Booker, Gordon. Fouls missed, Sturm 2, Zeisberg, Rogers Cox Elmore 3, Franklin 2, Blaker 2, Flickenger, Crist. Personal fouls, Gist 4, Rogers 2, Sturm 2, Booker 2, Cox, Marrett, Zeisberg, Blake 3, Franklin 2, Crist 2, Folcher.

The Phi Alpha Basketball team will play the Lion's Club Junior Varsity on Wednesday night at 7:15 at the Matthew Whaley high school. This game will be a preliminary to the Lion's Club-Old Mansion game. Geo. Proctor's Old Mansion team is from Richmond.

Richmond University is represented this season by the strongest basketball team in its history. Thus far the Spiders have run roughshod over their five opponents, two of their wins being at the expense of Virginia.

SWIM SCHEDULE CHANGED. R-M ADDED TO LIST

Position of Richmond Meet Moved up to Feb. 19th to Avoid Exam Conflict.

Coach "Scrap" Chandler has just released a revised swimming schedule for this season. There have been but two changes made on the card.

The Indian Mermen were scheduled to meet the University of Richmond tankmen at the start of the season, but this meet has been postponed until February 19th. At this time the William and Mary swimmers will be hosts to the Richmond swimmers at the Blow Gym pool. Another notable change is in the addition of Randolph-Macon on February 6th. All of the meets, with the exception of the University of Virginia, will be here.

Coach Chandler reports that practice is now in full swing. The Christmas vacation interfered with practices, but both the varsity and the freshman teams are beginning to look like fast and classy aggregations. With more practice, both varsity and freshman should have teams that will offer their opponents no little competition.

The revised schedule for the coming season is as follows:

- Feb. 2—Washington and Lee, here Feb. 6—Randolph-Macon, here Feb. 9—Duke, here Feb. 16—Virginia, there Feb. 19—Richmond, here Feb. 23—North Carolina State, here March 2—V. P. I., here

MEDICAL COLLEGE WILL MEET DOWLER'S FIVE HERE THURSDAY

Twelve Games Remain on Indian Schedule. Richmond to Play Here Feb. 8th.

The Medical College of Virginia will be met here Thursday night in the third basketball game of the season for the William and Mary varsity cagers. Although this contest is listed on the schedule as a practice game, it is expected to provide just as many thrills as a regular game, since the Sawbones have several ex-college stars in their line-up, including Jarrett, former Washington and Lee star, and Bo Hanna, who played for William and Mary last season.

Following a two weeks' lay-off for examinations, the Indian five will return to action with a four-day trip through the western part of the state. V.P.I. will play host to the Tri-Color cagers on Feb. 2, Roanoke on the 4th, and W. & L. and V. M. I. on the two succeeding days.

The Richmond Spiders, already boasting two wins over Virginia in their string of five successive victories, will come here on the eighth for the biggest game of the season. It will be recalled how the Indians, after trailing for three quarters, staged a great comeback in the last minutes of play to nose out the Spiders 27-25 in Blow Gym last season.

Newport News will be the scene of the return game with Virginia on Feb. 11. Roanoke's Maroons and Virginia Tech's Gobblers come here on the 12th and 16th and then the Dowlermen travel to Newport News for another practice game with the Apprentice School.

V.M.I. plays here on the 22nd and the Indians will conclude their season against the Spiders in Richmond on the 26. The complete schedule: Jan. 10—Virginia, there Jan. 14—Apprentice, here Jan. 17—Medical College, here Feb. 2—V.P.I., there Feb. 4—Roanoke, there Feb. 5—W. & L., there Feb. 6—V.M.I., there Feb. 8—Richmond, there (Continued on Page 6)

REBOUNDS

By MANNING

Well, let's forget all about our Christmas toys and talk once more about this basketball situation. The team has settled down to some real hard practice and showing plenty of good results and fight. If you doubt the use of the word "fight" just come around the gym any afternoon when the team is in session.

Our team journeyed to Charlottesville last Thursday night and took a beating from Virginia via "the usual method." (Note: ask some of the older members of the squad what this "usual method" is). The team displayed plenty of good basketball, despite the results. And remember, this was our first game against a team that had played four previous games.

Scallions to those referees who watch the visiting teams like a couple of detectives and then play a quiet game of Blind Man's Bluff when the home team has the ball.

The joy was soon changed to sadness when the team welcomed Hutzy Blaker, who was confined to home with a touch of the flu, and then heard the news that Al Michaels would be out for the rest of the season with an injured shoulder. Tough luck, Al, but you are making the smart move. The team will sure miss those good passes.

Here's one for the believe it or not department. Mum Mavis, who plays forward for a semi pro team in New York, shot 110 fouls without a miss.

Our Freshman team has shown plenty of class in their first few games. Sheehan, Price, and Oliver are holding the spotlight at present, but these Freshman teams have a funny habit of not being able to find their five best men. For instance, Preacher Franklin played in very few games his freshman year, yet he is captain of this year's Varsity and one of the best guards this school has ever known.

A former William and Mary player will be in the Medical College lineup (Continued on page 6.)

Franklin, Indian Captain, Is One of State's Outstanding Performers

Cabell K. "Preacher" Franklin, William and Mary's basketball captain, by virtue of his showing on the court for the past two years and in the two games played so far this season, has stamped himself as one of the most consistent and best all-round cage performers in the Old Dominion.

Probably Preacher's most outstanding characteristic in action is his ability to remain cool when the going is tough or when the team is in a tight spot. At first glance one is able to recognize that the Indian leader is a veteran by his cool, sure playing and his anticipation of his opponent's plays.

Franklin began his basketball career at Newport News high school and later transferred to E. C. Glass high of Lynchburg, his present hometown. At both schools he was a star performer and was accorded all-state honors at Lynchburg. Preacher also participated in football at the latter school.

He entered William and Mary in September, 1931, and played freshman football and basketball. During the fall of '32 Franklin was a substitute end on the powerful Indian eleven and played regular guard on the cage squad. In '33 he won a regular end position in football and was, without question, the outstanding member of last season's basketball team which chose him to captain this year's squad.

Preacher also is a better-than-average tennis player and represented William and Mary on the court last spring. In addition to his athletic endeavors, he was a member of the Senior-Junior-Sophomore Tribunal during his junior year and is at present a member of the Monogram club and the 13 club. He is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity.

A WILLIAM AND MARY SHOW

During the last few weeks there has been an unusual amount of interest shown by members of the student body in the possibility of producing a show of the musical comedy variety on the William and Mary campus. Such a presentation would be written and staged entirely by members of the student body and would afford an opportunity for all to participate in the dramatic art.

The type of production would follow the same general type as is staged by the Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania, and other leading colleges and Universities.

In a recent interview with President Bryan the possibility of staging such a presentation was discussed and received very favorable comment. With the cooperation of all those interested in such activity it is well within possibility that during the spring the William and Mary Campus will enjoy a new type of entertainment.

A WORD TO THE WISE

One of the many things of which the College of William and Mary may rightfully be proud is its Honor System. This system and its success reflects directly upon the character of the student body; pointing out this campus as one of the few where honesty continues to be a primary entrance requirement.

Within the next two weeks the final examinations will be given, a time when every member of the student body is given a real opportunity to demonstrate his intention of maintaining the Honor System. During these coming weeks will be the first time the members of the Freshman class will meet a real test of the System.

Every member of the College of William and Mary should know the rules of the Honor Council before entering the examination rooms. With such information in mind it will not be any necessity for the Council to take action against any student.

The expression "A Word to the Wise is Sufficient" is as true today as it was at the time it was first coined.

TELEPHONES

With the installation last week of an additional telephone station in Barrett Hall much of the former "line busy" trouble has been cleared up. The telephone was installed through the courtesy of the local office of the telephone company, and their manager Mr. Walker. We wish to thank them for their kind interest in helping remedy a difficult situation. One more is slated for Chandler in the near future. The Flat Hat aided in presenting the need for additional service to both the administration and the Telephone Company, our attention having been called to the situation by a student opinion letter.

We have our idea of a person who will hold a telephone conversation of over ten minutes to one girl in a dormitory having 170 girls—but we can't say what it is. There is no reason for being selfish in such a manner, even if you do think that you are so good that your girl friend will want to stand up in a hot telephone booth to listen to your sweet voice for a half hour, or longer. If you like to get a call through asking for a date sometime won't you try to help others, and limit your conversation to a ten minute interval.

The Telephone Company has also recently installed a telephone in Old Dominion Hall. There has been no station there for about a year—when some enterprising youngster saw fit to destroy the booth in a playful mood. The company suffered a financial loss in the destruction of the booth and the telephone contained therein, but agreed to try a station there again this year. The destruction of this one will mean that no more telephone service will be furnished this building and its hundred or more students will be forced to go elsewhere for their telephone calls. We would like to call this matter to the attention of the boys living in the hall, and the matter is entirely up to them.

COLLEGIATE REVIEW

Anybody knows that a good proportion of the conversation among members of one sex is about members of the other sex.

Young women in a writing seminar at Wellesley College were enough interested in each other's opinions about men to take a written canvass of the class in order to determine each girl's qualifications for her "ideal man."

One list, that of a brilliant poetess includes these points:

1. He must take a woman as a person, not as a woman.
 2. He must be honorable.
 3. He must be tolerant in every way—this is most important.
 4. He must have a broad interest (character, social ease, intelligence).
- Another young author's list was very short:
1. He must be generous.
 2. He must be ambitious.
- The third list, that of a millionaire's daughter:
1. He should be gracious—the sort of graciousness that goes with a pipe and tweeds.
 2. He should be helpless at times.
 3. He must be a real person—three fourths of all men have only a superficial knowledge of life.
 4. He doesn't have to have a "moral" character.

Strangely, not one of the girls mentioned wealth or social position. After the answers were read in class, a visiting married woman asked for the floor and declared, "You girls have been picturing saints, not men. In the first place, he should be intensely masculine. Then he should be broadminded—that's about all you can ask."

A physics class out at the University of Montana was being instructed in the laws of the solar system. A pendulum hanging from the ceiling was set to swinging and its path was marked on a flat table. After a few hours members of the class were shown that the angle of the pendulum to the marked course had changed, indicating the turning of the earth.

"Gosh," a young freshman said as he made his way out of the room, "Gosh, but I felt insecure."

The famous Oxford Union resolution of two years ago hasn't yet ceased reverberating in the colleges of the western world. The latest echo comes out of McGill University at Montreal, where a group of undergraduates voted 233 to 83 against support of their government in any war it might undertake.

"Culture" no doubt is the intangible will o' the wisp that men say it is. Surely sophomores at the University of Minnesota thought so when they came across this question in their annual "culture test."

"Polygamy is A. the marriage of one woman to several men. B. the marriage of several men to one woman. C. the marriage of several men to several women in a sort of group marriage. D. a situation where the father's part in procreation is unrecognized."

There is a certain amount of reason behind Wilfred Smith's prejudice against the military department at Ohio State. Wilfred, after a drill one day, dragged his rifle listlessly across the armory floor. A sergeant dashed up, clamped the gun in its proper place on the boy's shoulder and barked, as he took out his notebook, "What is your name?"

"Smith."

"Oh yeah!" the officer sneered.

Harold Laski, the famous Socialist, now at the London School of Economics, recently toured the colleges of the States. At one of them, during a tea, he was interrogated by an eager young coed of the type who worships the liberals of the land.

"Tell me, Mr. Laski," she cooed, "do you play bridge? I'm so fond of it."

The scholar gazed at her a moment over the rim of his cup and then replied, "My dear young lady, bridge is a game devised by people who cannot carry on a conversation, or to take money away from people who can."

There is a young national president of a certain sorority (which we had better not name) who is not so popular right now as she was a short time ago. Not quite. During the convention, when she was a candidate, her husband sent a gorgeous bouquet of flowers for the convention platform with his best wishes. She was elected; for the opposition broke down immediately. But then—then she submitted a bill of $50 to the sorority treasury for "flowers."

'ROUND CAMPUS

By I. C. M.

Most of the dirt our special staff has gathered about Christmas vacation seems to consist of something like this: "Well, we started out with a quart of Segram's 7 Crown, etc., etc." It might be that the staff knows only that type of people, come to think of it. Howsoever, we hope that everybody had a most merry vacation, with lots of Christmas spirit and no hang-overs.

We nominate for the lousiest pun of the year the one which we saw on a Christmas card. It ran something like this—"We hope Yule log it." Takes all the joy out of life.

Yvete Winslow, Chi Omega, and Hardy Dudley, Sigma Nu, are being married on the last day of this month. Congratulations and Felicitations to the happy couple . . . One of the local boys is feeling very bad because Ann Green left school the other day. She is marrying the hometown flame after all . . . Hannah Severin and Wiley Nash were married on the twenty-second of last month.

Ads seen in Norfolk Christmas: In Rice's window, Frivolous Fashions for the Gay Holiday Night Life . . . featuring nightgowns. Seems to go with the ad across the street at Ames and Brownley,—Gifts for Girls that Wear Well . . .

Everett Harris, of the Baptist's Orphan Home (Excuse me, the Phi Tau House) pinned Margaret Graves, Fredericksburg S. T. C., over Christmas . . . and Sally Elmore has been seen with a Pi K. A. pin, which might belong to Dick Rhodes . . . Robert Walton, Kappa Sig, gave his to Elizabeth Swartz, also F. S. T. C., some time ago . . . And Cooley Berry likes the same school . . . The Richmond Phi Gamma Delt seems to like Greta Grayson, what is a Gamma Phi pledge. She's known locally as the Phi Gam Sweetheart.

Betty Chapin and Gardner Brown, both ex-35, were married before Christmas . . . 'Tis said that Jimmy Warner and Beth Robinson are contemplating the final step in June . . . Much sadness in the Phi Mu House these days. Bill Musbach graduating, Jeff Davis leaving, and we hear Si Duffin is departing . . . And Jack Hillier wears a sad expression too, as June Smith of the Kappa Delt's is graduating . . . Ned LeGrande and Florence Saybolt have called it a day.

NASTY CRACK DEPARTMENT
 Bill Reynolds seems to be in the wrong school. It's Coe College, Iowa, where they wear old rose shirts, yellow vests, and checked coats to winter dances . . . We hear he is going to get a job modelling for Esquire . . .

MacFall—"Did anyone ever tell you how wonderful you are?"

Ann Price—"No, I don't believe they did."

MacFall—"Then where'd you get the idea?"

Red Krank—"You're one of the best looking redheads I've ever seen . . . but, God, they're an ugly bunch."

And that's enough of that for this week.

Seen at the dance in New York: Barrett Roberts and Jimmy Ellis, Ben Foster, Huck Finn, Hank Lawson, Herman Hoffman, Jimmy Warner and Beth Robinson, and about two hundred others . . . A good time was had by all, with the help of Hal Kemp and his boys . . . We hope it's made an annual affair, like the Christmas party thrown by President Bryan . . . Which reminds me of a remark made there by one of the budding lights of W. & M. It seems that the lady desired to sit down, so said gentleman brought up a chair and courteously exclaimed, "Park it, babe." The catch being that she was the wife of a member of the faculty.

We understand Pooch is going to change schools next year . . . And we wonder why Bernice Shield spends so much time in the Comparative Anatomy lab . . . Jane Williamson, Theta, married Lieutenant Roy Alsbaugh . . . And Lucy Boyd, of the library staff, was married during the vacation.

CAMPUS LEADERS

MARGARET VAN OOT

Our choice for the last issue of the Flat Hat for this semester is none other than Margaret Van Oot. She came to William and Mary two years ago last fall from the John Marshall High School in Richmond.

Since her Freshman year Margaret has been very active in the debating field. In her first year on campus she was a member of the Women's Debate Council and the following year a member of the Women's Varsity Debate team. In the spring of her sophomore year she received the honor of being chosen a member of the Cup Debate team. She was one of the two women selected from a group of women debaters to participate in an annual debate against two representatives of the men's debating group. Because of the fact that Margaret was a victim of what is commonly called appendicitis, she has been more or less inactive in the debating field this year. It was in her freshman year that she pledged Delta Delta Delta, National Social Sorority.

We find that she has been very active in "Y" circles during her college career. She was a member of the Y.W.C.A. in her freshman year, and she served on the freshman "Y" cabinet also in this year. The German Club, the G. G. G. are the remaining activities of her first year.

In passing, we must not forget to mention that Margaret was president of the Women's Sophomore Tribunal. Margaret proved herself an outstanding student in French when she was bid to membership in the French Club last year.

This year she was one of the Freshman Orientation sponsors. Through a series of meetings sponsored by outstanding leaders of the Junior and Senior classes, freshmen are greatly aided in adjusting themselves to the rigors of college life. Margaret also is one of the two junior representatives to the Women's Honor Council and also is a member of the Philosophy-Psychology Club. It was this past fall that Margaret received the distinct honor of being chairman for College roll-call for the Red Cross.

Student Opinion

Dear Editor:
 With exams only a few days off, I would like to register a complaint. It seems to me that a great deal of work always piles up at the end of the semester just when we need all the time we can get to study for our exams. I admit that some of the professors give us a chance to review before exams, but some of them work us right up to the last minute. These professors happen to find out about two weeks before exams that the class is behind, and in order to complete the work of the course, it is necessary to double the assignments of the last five or six classes. When this happens, it must be that the course contains too much material to be covered in one semester or that the professor has failed to distribute the work evenly over the time allotted, and it seems to me that it is unfair to make the students do extra work to catch up. It has been said many times that if a student studies every as-ignment thoroughly he will not have to study for the exam. If a student does his work as well as he should, he will know enough about the course for practical knowledge, but he still will not know enough about it to get a good grade on the exam. Everyone has to study for exams in order to get as good a grade as he thinks he deserves.

Of course, I know we are in college to study, and I don't mind working, but I don't like to do twice as much work as usual just before exams, when it would hardly be noticeable if it were spread over the semester.

I don't think that we ordinarily work too hard here but I, for one, and a lot of others feel the same way, would like a little slowing down before exams. I know the whole student body would appreciate it if the last meeting or two in every class were devoted to review. It would certainly be a big help in pulling the grades up, and we all need those qualities.

A Student

Dear Editor:
 Campus opinion is all het up over our "lovely" basketball schedule. Games with the Apprentice School might be fine, but why can't we have some good home games, and why all these tank town teams?

It seems that our Mutual friend, Mr. Gooch, is interested only in football, for he always leaves us a basketball schedule with about three home games, etc. Guess there can't be any money in basketball games. We know the Flat Hat won't side with us, for if you were at all interested you would write an editorial about this situation.

Virginia will be played in Newport News this year—my, my such delectable news. After that skunking we got from that bunch of foul officials at Charlottesville last week we have to suffer the indignity of playing them out-of-town. Virginia won't play us here, why?—'cause they are yellow. That is about the only reason we can find. If we can play up there they could play down here—great sport this basketball.

Well, it won't do much good to talk about it—how about backing us up?
 A Hoopster

Dear Editor:

Since this is the first issue of the Flat Hat after Christmas, we would like to take this opportunity to express our appreciation for the Christmas party which was given by President Bryan the night before we left. It was another example of the Administration's cooperation with the student body, and we want to tell Mr. Bryan that we liked it a lot. Everybody had a swell time and things like that go a long way toward bringing about a better spirit between the students and the Administration.

Plans for a series of Sunday afternoon concerts for the second semester are being arranged by the music department. The programs will be given by visiting artists and groups.

Students and faculty will be invited to attend, but admission cards will have to be secured in advance from Mr. Small.

These concerts are being arranged through the courtesy of President Bryan and fulfill his objective to bring only the higher quality of entertainment to this campus.

The Intramural Council announces that there will be an Intramural Swimming Meet some time in February, between the sororities and dormitories. All who are interested in trying out may do so any time on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Fashions ... for ... Co-Eds

My friends, it seems that the very best authorities agree that no girl of today can get along with only one lipstick. It seems, too, that the shade to be used depends on the occasion and the wearer's hair, complexion, and dress.

Now that you are convinced (?) let's get on. They say with a red dress you should use a stick the same shade as your dress—try it some time and let me know what happens!

With browns, beige, and copper a truly red stick is best. Of course, throughout you are expected to take into consideration your complexion—keeping somewhat on the dark side if you are a brunette, turning to pastel shade if you are a blond.

But besides bringing out the best in your dress and your face the use of more than one lipstick can add a certain charm to your mouth that heaven and nature denied you. If you possess flattish lips or a mouth whose corners tend to turn down, a very charming disguise can be effected with the use of two sticks—both the same shade but one a bit darker than the other—by applying the lighter as usual and then shading just a little with the darker.

Well, if you don't get double quality in all your exams, don't blame me. So goodbye, now, please, and we wish us all (including you) all the luck in the world during these coming dread days.

DIRECTOR PRESENTS DRAMATIC SCHEDULE

Three Major Productions Featured on Dramatic Program. Tryouts Open to Entire Student Body.

Dramatic plans for the forthcoming season were recently announced in an interview by Miss Hunt.

Beginning in March, the Dramatic Club will sponsor an eighteenth century play or some play included in the repertoire of the old companies of Williamsburg. This play will be in keeping with the spirit of the Restoration. A large cast will be required and tryouts will be open to the entire student body.

Although tentative, an outdoor production of a Shakespearean play is being considered. Especially under consideration is "Romeo and Juliet," now enjoying popularity on Broadway with Catherine Cornell and Basil Rathbone in the title roles. This play is scheduled for production in May.

In addition to these plans the dramatic groups will take notice of National Dramatic Week with appropriate exercises.

Miss Hunt is very eager to have large tryouts for these productions in order to secure the best of the campus talent.

Garden Week Fixed For Week of April 22

Over 100 Famous Old Estates Will Be Open to Public. Historic Williamsburg Will Be Visitors' Mecca.

The Garden Club of Virginia has again announced that it will sponsor a "Virginia Historic Garden Week," and has set the week of April 22 for the event. The owners of more than 100 famous old estates in Virginia already have agreed to allow their places to be shown. A complete list is to be compiled within the next few days.

The tour in 1935 will be featured by the return of the James River Plantation belt. Brandon, Upper Brandon and Claremont were among the estates not shown last year which will be open for four days of the six during Garden Week. Owners all over Virginia are showing a splendid spirit of cooperation, according to Mrs. Lewis G. Larus, the chairman, who states that the finest list of places ever shown to the public will be open during 1935.

A large number of beautiful old homes in Gloucester and Mathews Counties have been added to the list of places generally shown during Garden Week. The completion of the street work by the Williamsburg Restoration also has added much to the numerous sights of the ancient city, all of which will be on display during Garden Week. Not only will Williamsburg display a number of its public buildings and gardens all week, but it has arranged to have a list of private estates opened, different ones of which will be shown each day. Many Piedmont and Northern Virginia homes are to be opened. It is probable that Route 41, the What's Ahead for College Men?

Don't Points to Perennial Need for Those Well Trained

Dear Dean: As a high school student I worked in local grocery stores and in a chain drug store. During my college course I have acted as commissary and house manager of my fraternity. My summer have been devoted to selling magazines and other specialties.

I am a college senior, 21 years old. My major field of study has been history. For the past year I have been uncertain as to whether to study law or prepare for some business career.

I have hesitated about business because of the apparently decreasing opportunity due to conditions that are well known. On the other hand, practicing lawyers have tried to influence me against law as a career, claiming that it is overcrowded. Do you think this is true?

Do you feel that business holds a future for young men? What suggestions have you to offer? My parents want me to continue my studies in some university for at least two more years. I have made a good record in scholarship but I wonder if I should invest more money and more time in preparation for a career in which opportunities are uncertain.

If you know of any helpful books or booklets that will help me to come to a decision I shall be glad to learn of them. What institution do you consider outstanding in preparation for business careers? Your reply will help a perplexed college senior, and perhaps save other students from so late a decision. Very sincerely, Bill.

Dear Bill: There is probably an over-supply of rule-of-thumb business men today just as there is an excess of undertrained teachers, mediocre lawyers and untrained farmers.

Even during the abnormal conditions that have prevailed since 1929, I have seen outstanding students of law, business, education and agriculture graduate and go into good positions.

It is almost axiomatic around law schools that men who by their scholarship are accepted into the order of the Coff will take care of themselves. Engineering students whose grades are high enough to win for them membership in Tau Beta Pi are still being sought by personnel directors of great corporations. The Alpha Zeta man in the College of Agriculture is not likely to cause the placement officer any sleepless nights. I notice that an unusually large number of college teachers and officials wear Phi Beta Kappa keys. These are evidences of scholarship only. When their wearers possess personality, initiative and character the world wants them still more.

Guidance Bulletins

"Business Training for Lawyers" and "What's Ahead in Business for College Men" are guidance bulletins that answer some of your questions concerning law and business. They are issued by the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, Soldiers Field Station, Boston, Mass. I quote from the last-mentioned bulletin: "There are some who believe that the present is an era of business failure—it is for many of those in the passing business generation—but for the young man properly prepared it is an era of opportunity. All business and social forces are in a state of flux, and as always at such times new leaders are demanded."

I quote also from this same bulletin facts that should remove doubt as to opportunities in business for properly trained men: "From 1930 to 1934, four classes with a total of 1489 men graduated from the Harvard Business School and were absorbed by business in an almost normal manner. On Dec. 11, 1933, 89 per cent of the 1933 class were employed, and by Feb. 15, 1934, 93 per cent were employed."

Able Managers Needed

The scope of studies open to college graduates who are accepted by the Harvard Graduate School Business Administration may interest you, Bill. In the first year accounting, finance, statistics, industrial management and marketing are included. In the second year the student may specialize in foreign trade, advertising, banking, accounting, transportation, public utilities, or retail distribution. In closing, I quote from a letter recently received from Dean W. B. Donham of this school:

zation based on constantly changing technological developments cannot run itself without managers who possess ability, experience and initiative. Regardless even of the form of government, the stability of society depends mainly on what is done by such men in this great area of economic change."

If you can't decide whether to study law or business, Bill, I suggest that you study both. The lawyer needs a business training. He who would advance in business needs a legal education. Those who advance in either law or business with schooling in only one, you may be assured, inform themselves in the other field of knowledge by their own efforts as they gain experience.

The cruise will appeal particularly to students and teachers of Latin and Greek and to lovers of history and art. Dr. Wagener is anxious to organize a group of students and alumni of William and Mary and of teachers of Latin in the Virginia high schools to take part in the cruise. He will be glad to confer with any who are interested with regard to rates and tours in other parts of Europe preliminary to the actual start of the cruise from Milan on July 13th.

Y. W. C. A. UNITS DISCUSS FEBRUARY JOINT MEETING

Groups Will Hold Social Meeting February 7. Ruffin, Simpson, and Croxton Form Social Committee.

On Thursday night, January 10, the various groups of the YWCA held individual meetings in their respective meeting places.

The purpose of the meetings of the Devotional, Poetry and Social groups was mainly to plan a joint meeting of all of the YWCA groups which is to be held on February 7. A committee to assist in arranging the meeting was appointed in the social group. The members of it include Barbara Ruffin, Helen Simpson and Juliette Croxton. The committee plans to serve refreshments, thus making it more of a social meeting.

The Dramatic group, with the play writing class and the play production class, held its meeting in Brown Hall. Two plays, written by students, were read by several members of the organizations.

In Washington 200 the Music group was entertained by Elizabeth Allison, who told the story of Wagner's famous opera, "Tannhauser." Virginia Shanklin supplemented this report by playing several selections from the opera.

Art Club Will Sponsor Modern Exhibit Feb. 23

The William and Mary Art Club held a meeting on Wednesday, February 9th, at 7 o'clock, at the Gamma Phi Beta House.

Miss Skinner, club sponsor, reported that Dr. K. J. Hoke has given the club permission to join the College Art Association.

The club expects to exhibit the Traveling Museum of Modern Art on February 23. This exhibit is sponsored in New York by Mrs. Rockefeller.

Two reports were made at the meeting on Wednesday. The first was on Carol made by Louise Thompson and the second was on Current Art Events made by Polly Hirst.

A formal program for the entire year was made in the form of a palette with each event as a "dash" of paint.

The club decided to visit various homes in Williamsburg, Yorktown, and Jamestown to study colonial art in the near future.

Did you ever notice..in a roomful of people.. the difference between one cigarette and another..and wonder why Chesterfields have such a pleasing aroma

Many things have to do with the aroma of a cigarette... the kind of tobaccos they are made of... the way the tobaccos are blended... the quality of the cigarette paper.

IT takes good things to make good things.

Someone said that to get the right aroma in a cigarette, you must have the right quantity of Turkish tobacco—and that's right.

But it is also true that you get a pleasing aroma from the home-grown tobaccos... tobaccos filled with Southern Sunshine, sweet and ripe.

When these tobaccos are all blended and cross-blended the Chesterfield way, balanced one against the other, you get a flavor and fragrance that's different from other cigarettes.
