SUMMER SESSION SEEMS PROBABLE BOARD OF VISITORS ASKED FOR AID

Superintendent Promises Assistance If The Board will Make an Appropriation

For some time it has been the hope of President Tyler, and others, to establish a summer session of the College. But the refusal of the Finance Committee to make the necessary appropriation seemed to end the whole affair. However, the Board of Visitors has taken more kindly to the proposed undertaking, and has been making investigations that will most probably lead to the success and promotion of the project.

MAY JOIN MR. EGGLESTON

The Board is expected to make an appropriation in conjunction with Mr. J. D. Eggleston, Superintendent of Public Instruction. The latter gentleman has already signified his willingness to help finance the worthy undertaking, and from the present outlook the College of William and Mary will inaugurate its first summer term this year.

WHERE TO BE ESTABLISHED

The school will not be held in Williamsburg. The place of settlement has not been definitely decided upon, but it seems most probable that some town in Southwest Virginia will be selected. There the climate of the mountains will conduce to the health and comfort of the summer student, and the remoteness of any such institution to that section will bring about a large attendance.

ANOTHER GAME ON BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Manager English announces the addition of another game to the baseball schedule. The Union Theological Seminary, of Richmond, will send its nine down here on Monday, April 29, which game is the ninth that has been scheduled for the home grounds this season. The Theologians expect to have a strong team, and many of their players will be old stars from various colleges throughout the state, including a phenomenal third baseman, who last year fielded 1000 in that position and batted close to the 400 mark.

A call has been issued for candidates, and outdoor practice will begin Monday, March 10. Dr. Young has had most of the material under his eye for a month or more, and expects to put a fast aggregation in the field for the first game with Randolph-Macon on March 23.

WHO'S HOW, AND WHY AT THE VENERABLE COLLEGE OF WILLIAM & MARY

Something of The Great and Super Great in These Parts. Number I, William B'sh Lee

William Byrd Lee was born in Guinea at an early age, so early, indeed, that he himself does not remember it. His youthful days were spent in chasing snails across the dark fens of his native land, and in sleeping; in which latter he has always been able to excel, either by ear or by the book. The outbreak of the War between the States delayed "Bish" in his education, but soon after its close he entered William and Mary, his natural brilliancy admitting him to the Junior Class, which exalted position he has held without intermission ever since by virtue of stern application and attention to duty.

FACIAL AND OTHER CHARACTERISTICS

In appearance, "Bish" is a cross between a Greek god, a stranded sailor, a parabola, and a point of view. He excels in football, craps shooting and mission work, but his fortiest fortes are politicking and bed-ticking, to which latter he devotes fourteen hours of each working day, and twenty-four of every holiday.

He proposes to devote his life to the elevation of the heathen at a net price of $3.47 per elevation, strictly in advance. The fact that his hair is as infrequent as handles on a billiard ball adapt him particularly for work among the pure and unadulterated Indians of the West.

LECTURE BY MRS. JNO. H. LEWIS

The public is cordially invited to the lecture by Mrs. John H. Lewis, of Lynchburg, on Equal Suffrage, to be given in the College Chapel on Wednesday evening at 8 p. m. Her lecture will be given under the auspices of the local organization, and NOT the College. She will be the guest while in Williamsburg of Miss Elizabeth Coleman.

MAGAZINE TO APPEAR THIS WEEK

The William and Mary Literary Magazine will make its appearance tomorrow, having arrived this morning. The delay has been occasioned by the printers. The Magazine should have arrived a week or more ago.

Two snow storms in a week-end are a little severe for those inclined toward Chapel and Lenten services.

THE CASTE IS PICKED FOR 'THE RIVALS' ELIZABETHANS TO GIVE PLAY EASTER

Rehearsals Being Given Every Afternoon in the Chapel, Dr. James S. Wilson Directing

The Elizabethans have begun work on the play to be given here during Easter Week. Richard Brinsley Sheridan's "The Rivals" is the one selected, of which cut copies are now in the hands of the caste.

ONE OF THE EASTER WEEK EVENTS

This production is but one of many events to be given during the week after Easter. The members of the company are industriously working on their parts, and there is no doubt but what the final touches will be completed by the time appointed. Other Easter attractions are the four cornered track meet, baseball, the Easter German and possibly the Fraternity Germans of Kappa Alpha, Pi Kappa Alpha, and Kappa Sigma.

CASTE OF THE RIVALS

The following is the caste as picked for the play. The entire list is made up of young men of the College, except the parts to be taken by three young ladies of the city:

Sir Anthony Absolute, Mr. Arthur W. James; Capt. Jack Absolute, Mr. E. R. Willcox; Faulkland, Mr. C. G. Riedardson; Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Mr. Earl B. Thomas; Fag, Mr. W. Elliott Dold; David, Mr. Alan F. English; Boy, Mr. Sam H. Hubbard; Thomas, Mr. W. Mortimer Harrison; Bob Acres, Mr. Robert B. Jackson; Mrs. Malaprop, Mr. Wm. Kavanaugh Doty; Lydia Languish, Mrs. Alfred H. Miles; Julia, Miss Katherine Geddy; Lucy, Miss Elizabeth Macon.

LAST DAYS OF PICTURE MAKING

Mr. E. L. Owens, of the Yorktown Historical Photograph Company, was at the College through Thursday, Friday and Saturday, finishing the photographic work for the Colonial Echo. All of it is now in his hands for completion, and from what has been received, thorough satisfaction is expected by the Staff.

MR. BRIDGES PLANTING TREES

Superintendent Bridges has begun at this early day to make improvements on the Campus. Trees have been planted in various bare nooks and corners, and ivy is to be placed later on the newer buildings at the College.

QUESTION OF FRATERNITY GERMANS ONE THAT STILL REMAINS UNSETTLED

Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, and Pi Kappa Alpha Final Dances May Be Eliminated

The question of the final fraternity Germans is still in doubt. From present conditions it appears as most probable that the three Fraternities, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, and Pi Kappa Alpha, will not give the regular dances during Finals.

SITUATION IN DETAIL

For ten years or more the three fraternities mentioned have given dances during the Final Week. This year however Dr. Tyler has granted the first night of that week to the Theta Delta Chi Fraternity for a German, and the other three feel unwilling to separate after such a long and pleasant connection in entertaining at Finals. One of the three would of necessity have to fall out under the present state of affairs.

ACTION OF THE FACULTY

The Faculty was asked to suspend the Final Ball and so make place for the three regular Germans. But the petition was objected to in the Faculty meeting by an ex-officio member, and the decision will result more than likely in the elimination of the old Germans.

COLLEGE HOUR HELD MONDAY

College Hour, which has proven such a great success as a general convocation of the student-body for the introduction and discussion of College affairs of interest and importance, was again held Monday with a large attendance. Several topics were taken up by the Senior Class, among which was a phase of the Honor System.

It will be remembered that College Hour was inaugurated at William and Mary three years ago, and in its initial year effected some changes which have been of great benefit to the Student-body. Among which may be mentioned the opening of the Library at night and securing more efficient management of the baths.

Mr. Neblett, President of the Senior Class opened the meeting with a resolution offered by the Senior Class that all copying of notes, exercises, etc., known as "shagging" should be discountenanced at William and Mary and

THE UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA AND THE HONOUR SYSTEM

For many years the University of Virginia has laid claim to the distinction of founding the Honour System, and the equally famous Elective System, as well. So persistently has it made the claim, and so widely has it set forth its boastings on the subject that the college world, for the greater part, has come to believe that such is really the case, and the University itself has said so so repeatedly that it has even arrived at a firm conclusion regarding its right in the matter. Things often repeated eventually are believed as an old veteran's stories of personal adventure in time assume the realism of actual truth in his own mind.

Whether from ignorance (as it is hoped) or from more censurable motives, the effect has amounted to the same thing—the College of William and Mary has been disputed her right to the most notable contribution to student life and discipline ever inaugurated in the vast educational system of America. This mistaken idea permeates the entire literature of the University of Virginia. It is steeped and saturated in the claim, and for years this material has been scattered broadcast over the face of the earth. As for example, Dr. William Harrison Faulkner, in an article contributed to 'Indoors and Out' for December, Nineteen Hundred and Six, asserted such to be the fact; Professor Charles William Kent in the April number of the 'Review of Reviews' for Nineteen Hundred and Five, insinuated as much, although carefully avoided absolute committal; and Mr. William Minor Lile, positively and extensively set about in the 'Alumni Bulletin' of last spring to prove the claim, which he doubtless did to local satisfaction. These are representative instances, but the list is well-nigh innumerable. Public and private printings concerning the University have been laden with the false assumption for years and years and years.

In the meantime the College has lain couchant, if not dormant. Except for the occasional and feeble protests of a small number of Alumni, and a correct account of the Honour System in Dr. Tyler's History of the College, little has been done. And as THE FLAT HAT is read by several thousand people, weekly, and as it stands for the expression of student opinion, it was decided to make this statement, hoping thus to contribute a small mite to the recognition of the prestige of William and Mary.

The Honour System originated in Seventeen Hundred and Seventy-nine. The Professors were desirous of controlling the Students without subjecting them to a galling system of espionage. The principle grew up independent of the College rules, as an innate matter-of-course with gentlemen; and not until Eighteen Hundred and Seventeen did the statutes of the Visitors contain a provision requiring students 'to give evidence on their honour' respecting offenses. Dr. Tyler said, that proof of the existence of the System before its recognition by the Visitors, was to be found in the words of Judge Nathaniel Beverley Tucker, a student at the College in Eighteen Hundred and One, and afterwards Professor of Law for a long period of years. He referred to it as one of 'long experience,' and said further, 'It has been the study of the professors to cultivate at the same time the intellect, the principles and the deportment of the student, labouring with equal diligence to infuse the spirit of the scholar and the spirit of the gentleman. He comes to us as a gentleman. As such we receive and treat him, and resolutely refuse to know him in any other character. He is not harrassed with petty regulations; he is not insulted and annoyed by impertinent surveillance. Spies and informers have no countenance among us. We receive no accusation but from the conscience of the accused. His honour is the only witness to which we appeal .....The effect of this system in inspiring a high and scrupulous sense of honour and a scorn of all disingenuous artifices has been ascertained by long experience and redounds to the praise of its authors.'

The Honour System was transferred to the University, whither Mr. Jefferson transplanted all the desirable characteristics of his Alma Mater, and there it has flourished, and increased in honour and reputation, and usefulness.

For this William and Mary is glad. She takes pride in her robust young daughter, or rather granddaughter, being the creation of Mr. Jefferson who himself was made, so far as the world is concerned, by the College of William and Mary; and she wishes her fair descendant well. But also would she have this grandchild remember that her chiefest glories were matters of inheritance, not of achievement or invention. Let the University remember that William and Mary was venerable before the Rotunda was even dreamed of; that when the doors of the classic Lawn were opened in Eighteen Hundred and Twenty-five, the College had already had a noble life of one hundred and thirty-two years; that her sons had already quelled the French and Indians and English in America, and established the greatest nation of modern times, not to mention the acquisition of the greater part of her territory; and finally let the University remember that William and Mary College founded The Honour System, has employed it for a hundred and thirty-three years, and regards it as not inferior to any of her accomplishments, however brilliant; and that, furthermore, in all ages, strength, and youth, and beauty have been accustomed to pay deference to age, and wisdom, and truth.

A WORD ON 'HOT SPORTS'

The stand taken last week by THE FLAT HAT, concerning the observance by a few slatterns of the command, 'He that is filthy, let him be filthy still,' was regarded by some as a word in praise of the 'hot sports' of the College. Not at all. It was simply an utterance in derogation of those who do not have enough self-respect or College-respect to brush their coats, teeth, hair and shoes, and look the best possible.

As for hot sports, there are none at William and Mary so far as our observation has extended. The young men here are, for the most part, well dressed, but they are dressed conservatively. Their apparel is neat, but it is unassuming. There is less of that senseless, college rah-rah-ism at this College than in any we have seen. Red, green, and yellow hat bands are the exception. O-you-kid-clothes are sent farther on to the O-you-kids.

But allow this to be said right here before the winding. A hot sport is much preferable to a cold sloven.

If any one wonders why Thomas Jefferson wrote the Statute of Virginia for Religious Freedom, let him attend Chapel on a rainy week.

IN AND OUT OF COLLEGE TOPICS

Mr. Jackson Davis, a prominent alumnus of the College, spoke here yesterday evening on the Rural work of the State Department of Education.

Dr. Lyon G. Tyler, President of the College, was prevented from attending the celebration at the University of Pittsburgh last Wednesday. He was to have had conferred upon him a Doctor's degree by the University.

Mr. W. L. Hopkins, '11, of Rocky Mount, Virginia, was the victorious orator of the 100th anniversary celebration of the Washington Literary Society of Washington and Lee University on February 25. His subject was "Endowment versus Heredity." Mr. Hopkins is very pleasantly remembered here, where he always took a prominent part in college activities.

Ex-Coach J. Merrill Blanchard was visiting friends in town last week.

DEBATE IS PERMANENTLY SETTLED

After a lengthy discussion the question for the triangle debate between Randolph-Macon, Richmond College, and William and Mary has finally been adopted. Randolph-Macon proposed six questions, all of which were turned down either by Richmond College or William and Mary, and a meeting was called Feb. 20 to discuss the matter. Mr. Griggs, of the Phoenix, representing W. and M. At this meeting, it soon became apparent that the Yellow Jackets coincided with W. and M. in preferring the question of Initiative and Referendum. Richmond College, however, would only agree to this on the condition that they be allowed to defend the negative at home instead of the affirmative, which change was not suitable to Randolph-Macon. At a second meeting on Feb. 23, no progress was made, Richmond proving stubborn. However Randolph-Macon's debaters against Richmond at length agreed to the change, being willing to defend the negative at Ashland, and the following question was adopted: "Resolved, That the Initiative and Referendum should be Adopted in Virginia." This shall be construed to mean an initiative of not less than 10 per cent. and an optional referendum of not less than 5 per cent.

Messrs. Harris and Griggs will debate against Randolph-Macon here, Messrs. Nickelson and Chapman representing the Ashlanders. It is probable that the date, April 10, will be changed, as this request has been made by Randolph-Macon owing to their examinations.

With the State Annual Contest here in the middle of May, this will be a full year in the literary societies, and every incentive has been offered their members to put forth their best efforts.

COLLEGE HOUR HELD MONDAY

dealt with as a breach of the Honor System.

Mr. Neblett was followed by Dr. Wilson who spoke on the Honor System and stated that he considered that he had "indisputable documentary evidence" that this system originated at William and Mary.

Mr. E. B. Thomas, Editor-in-Chief of the "Lit." then spoke in behalf of the magazine, followed by Messrs. Neblett, Business Manager, and English, Editor-in-Chief, for the Colonial Echo.

The hour was an enjoyable one and suggests enormous possibilities as the common meeting ground of faculty and students from which many benefits may be reaped by both bodies.

The editorial in this issue of THE HAT was written before the College Hour proceedings on Monday, but the coincidence was a happy one in that it brings the matter before the Student-body in both spoken and written form.
