Va. Alumni to Aid Athletes

Richmond, Feb. 23-(A)-Richmond Alumni of the University of Virginia planned today to award five scholarships of $800 value each to students with athletic ability who also meet requirements as to "character, leadership, and scholastic ability." Awards will be made by the executive committee of the local chapter on a competitive basis, with candidates appearing before the group. This plan was endorsed by a meeting of Richmond alumni last night.

Will Build Model Community Ways, Georgia, Feb. 23-(A)-Henry Ford revealed today plans to establish an industry here as a part of his broad program for this rural south Georgia community. 'Automobile parts will be manufactured", the Detroit manufacutrer said, "but we haven't determined what kind." The Ways plant will be closely affiliated with Ford's newly-completed Manual Arts School and workers will have farms nearby.

Ambassador Commits U. S.

Paris, February 23-(A)-Ambassador William C. Bullitt was considered in informed circles today to have placed the United States, with President Roosevelt's approval, beside France men received grades of B or better on through Sunday afternoon, will mark to the world armament race. Bullitt's speech last night at Washington's birthday dinner was interpreted as a virtual indication of the new U. lows: S. international policy.

Auto Problems to Conference Detroit, February 23 -- (AP) -- More ground remained to be covered than has been traveled so far as negotiations for General Motors Corporation and the United Automobile Workers of America entered their second week of conferences.

The question of seniority rights for workers was still before the conferees.

GONDOLIERS TO BE STAGED MARCH 5-7 BY FINE ARTS DEPT.

Presentation Will Feature New Production Styles, Unique Scenes and Lighting.

By TIM HANSON

The William and Mary production of Gilbert and Sullivan's The Gondoliers will be distinctly refreshing in comparison with the old manner of presentation. New production styles have been introduced and new methods of scene painting and lighting have been used. New life has been instilled in the acting of the show. New faces mean little to an operetta but new voices mean a great deal, and the chorus of The Gondoliers has a wealth of new talent possessing exceptionally fine voices.

The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. George M. Small, is a distinct improvement over last year's. There are a dozen musicians who were selected in tryouts from a large number of William and Mary students.

The costumes, designed by Miss Jean Nelke, of New York, are not only beautiful but they possess a vibrancy of style seldom seen in any production. Forty-five costumes have been made under Miss Nelke's supervision and all of them are extremely colorful, introducing the use of many brilliant and scintillating fabrics,

Some of the humor will be supplied mechanical stage devices will be introduced but the artificial quality of the satire as well as the grandeur of Gilbert and Sullivan will be evident. Anderson, William Morris, Cramer- The scenery is really something to

PROFESSOR RAND LECTURES HERE ON "HORACE'S SABINE FARM"

Harvard Latin Professor Believes That "Horace Was Born to Write Lyrics."

One of the most colorful lectures of the season was delivered by Professor Edward Rand of Harvard University | rusry 24th. in Phi Beta Kappa Hall Friday evening, February 19, at eight o'clock. Gary Cooper says:

'It's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke"

"A little over a year ago I changed to Luckies because I enjoy the flavor of their tobocco. Ever since, my throat has been in fine shape. As my voice and throat mean so much to me in my business, it's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke. So I'm strong for Luckies!"

DIRECTED BY CECIL B. DE MILLE

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women-lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Cooper verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies-a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

The Charge Requires An Answer

The life of the coach of a losing football team is not an easy one, as everyone knows. The William and Mary football team showing.

"William and Mary", Bocock says, "is badly in need of competent athletic material." He then adds that he is constantly troubled by scholastic delinquents, and that it is difficult to keep some of the athletes from growing "soft" or going to "seed." And lastly, he says few boys at William and Mary possess the required talent, and too few of them seem disposed to make the necessary sacrifice to attain superior athletic capacity.

Alas and alack! Mr. Bocock and his associates not only do not have the football material which they would like to have, but what they have doesn't keep up with classes and is not willing to die for dear old W. & M.

In view of Mr. Bocock's statement, it would seem that the time has arrived for a stock-taking at William and Mary. The coaching staff may not have the best material there is available, but it should be able to inspire what it has to a point where the players will attempt to keep up with their studies, keep in condition and put forth their best efforts.

What, we wonder, have some of the players to say about the support a dance as they did. I hope Then the heavens gaily laugh to see charge lodged against them by the coach? Again the cut of an actor fills a coveted niche in the Hall of Fame. He is Carl Eugene Buffington of Lewistown, Pennsyl-

In his early years, he showed promise of what he was to become. At three, under the tutelage of his father, he studied art. "I could draw better at the age of three", he says, "than I can now." At five he played his first role, in "Tom Thumb's Wedding." At six he turned to music and now plays the piano with a rich and graceful touch for his own pleasure. In his musings at the piano, he has written a number of songs, one of which has been copyrighted.

It is the stage, though, that has caught his fancy. He played numerous roles in high school, including that of Inspector Dupin in his own adaptation of Poe's "Murder in the Rue Morgue". Here at college his talents have been displayed to advantage in "Arms and the Man", "Jealous Wife", "The Lying Valet", and the opera "Patience", and have culminated in his superb characterization of Death in "Death Takes a Holiday".

Twice in high school, Carl received medals for being the "most useful boy." He seems to have deserved them. Beside other activities he played baseball (he was captain of his freshman team) and basketball, was a member of the student council for three years, and was president of his class for four consecutive years!

At William and Mary, he is corresponding secretary for his social fraternity, Kappa Alpha, and president of the honorary dramatics fraternity, Theta Alpha Phi. Besides, he is a member of the Men's Honor Council, the Inter-fraternity Council, the Dramatic Club, and, just recent-

TALES OF THE CAMPUS

This past Friday night will be remembered by many of us as one of William and Mary's finest social events since the gay nineties. We feel that a great deal of credit should be given to a number of people. Acknowledgement is due Mr. Charles J. But enough of medal-pinning, let us turn to a certain article taken from the sport sheet of the Richmond News Leader of Friday afternoon February 19, 1937. We agree thoroughly with Mr. Bocock's statements concerning the comparatively "few boys at W and M who possess the required talent and too few of them seem disposed to make the sacrifices necessary to attain superior athletic capacity." Our only objections to Mr. Bocock's statements are these. Why can't we have an athletic department capable of maintaining harmony within itself? And why can't we have an athletic department whose interests are centered on Pretty little droplets, dancing on the the boys and on the school as a whole rather than on their own petty affairs? The Charge Requires An Answer

The life of the coach of a losing football team is not an easy ly the F. H. C. Society and the O. D. K. one, as everyone knows. The William and Mary football team lost eight of the nine games which it played in 1936, and Coach for the latter, he is taking majors in English and government, Branch Bocock thinks that he knows the reason for the poor showing.

"William and Mary", Bocock says, "is badly in need of competent athletic material." He then adds that he is constantly troubled by scholastic delinquents, and that it is difficult to keep some of the athletes from growing "soft" or going to "seed." And lastly, he says few boys at William and Mary possess the required talent, and too few of them seem disposed to make the necessary sacrifice to attain superior athletic capacity.

Alas and alack! Mr. Bocock and his associates not only do not have the football material which they would like to have, but what they have doesn't keep up with classes and is not willing to die for dear old W. & M.

In view of Mr. Bocock's statement, it would seem that the time has arrived for a stock-taking at William and Mary. The coaching staff may not have the best material there is available, but it should be able to inspire what it has to a point where the players will attempt to keep up with their studies, keep in condition and put forth their best efforts.

What, we wonder, have some of the players to say about the support a dance as they did. I hope Then the heavens gaily laugh to see charge lodged against them by the coach? He has given them we may have more formals and fewer and the alumni an opportunity to state their views without laying themselves open to the charge of carping. The public would like to know their reactions.—Newport News Daily Press.

Campus Hall of Fame

Again the cut of an actor fills a coveted niche in the Hall of Fame. He is Carl Eugene Buffington of Lewistown, Pennsyl-

In his early years, he showed promise of what he was to become. At three, under the tutelage of his father, he studied art. "I could draw better at the age of three", he says, "than I can now." At five he played his first role, in "Tom Thumb's Wedding." At six he turned to music and now plays the piano with a rich and graceful touch for his own pleasure. In his musings at the piano, he has written a number of songs, one of which has been copyrighted.

It is the stage, though, that has caught his fancy. He played numerous roles in high school, including that of Inspector Dupin in his own adaptation of Poe's "Murder in the Rue Morgue". Here at college his talents have been displayed to advantage in "Arms and the Man", "Jealous Wife", "The Lying Valet", and the opera "Patience", and have culminated in his superb characterization of Death in "Death Takes a Holiday".

Twice in high school, Carl received medals for being the "most useful boy." He seems to have deserved them. Beside other activities he played baseball (he was captain of his freshman team) and basketball, was a member of the student council for three years, and was president of his class for four consecutive years!

At William and Mary, he is corresponding secretary for his social fraternity, Kappa Alpha, and president of the honorary dramatics fraternity, Theta Alpha Phi. Besides, he is a member of the Men's Honor Council, the Inter-fraternity Council, the Dramatic Club, and, just recent-

Carl can be aptly called a "gentleman and a scholar". As and a minor in Greek; he has written a successful play and pleasing songs; he has made the Dean's List three times out of a possible four.

TALES OF THE CAMPUS

This past Friday night will be remembered by many of us as one of illiam and Mary's finest social events since the gay nineties. We feel that a great deal of credit should be given to a number of people. Acknowledgement is due Mr. Charles J. Duke, Jr., without whose aid and helpful suggestions the dancee could not have gone on. The Fine Arts Department under the direction of Leslie Cheek deserves full credit for the settings of the dance. Not the least of the credit for the success of the dance is due Johnny Long and his Duke Collegians. They played both sweet and hot with equal ease and were most obliging in the playing of requests. And we should not forget Jack Saunders and the President's Aides, who built the sets and sold the tickets. We hope that the support given this dance will be such that we may have a set of dances at

But enough of medal-pinning, let us turn to a certain article taken from the sport sheet of the Richmond News Leader of Friday afternoon February 19, 1937. We agree thoroughly with Mr. Bocock's statements concerning the comparatively "few boys at W and M who possess the required talent and too few of them seem disposed to make the sacrifices necessary to attain superior athletic capacity." Our only objections to Mr. Bocock's statements are these. Why can't we have an athletic department capable of maintaining harmony within itself? And why can't we have an athletic department whose interests are centered on Pretty little droplets, dancing on the the boys and on the school as a whole rather than on their own petty affairs? When you walk around the Wren Building and hear loud cries of "Gad demme", and "Stap me vitals", don't be alarmed. It's just A Trip to Scarborough in full swing with Lord Foppington to the fore. "There was a young man name Buffington

The time was ripe For Miss Hunt to type,

So now, Gad's me, Carl's Foppington". In fact, the players seem to suit their parts all around. Apropos of nothing, of course, J. C. Sturges plays Sir Tunbelly Clumsy. They do say that Stuart Hall is making a noble effort to live down his role of Loveless these days. Ask all those who saw him in the lounge of Blow Gym Saturady night. Local Yokel Liked the Dance. Scenery Put Him In A Trance

I always said that thar're some that that I'm one of them that these here up. One sorta rolled up an' dropped kinda looked right spruce.

er. But, Ma, somethin' went wrong; sometimes they do seem awful funny she said she'd go when I called her, to me. but when I went to carry her to the party, seemed like the right gal had the wrong name, but this other gal didn't seem to mind. Ma, she was really dressed an' rarin' to go, she had a bird nest an' a bunch of bangs on her head, an' her dress was slick and shiny. So off we went to the ball.

They said it was in the Jim an' when we tried to get in the back door an' couldn't but had to go in by the front door, I knew it was somethin' big. Soon as we got in the door she said stand here, an' thar I stood I reckon near about an' half hour. Wal, she finally came back an' the orchestra boys were jest arrivin'. An' becose we couldn't begin dancin' becose thar warn't no music she led me into a handsome big parlor wher we sits a spell until the other folks begin to come. Ma, she smoked a cigarette.

When the music started an' we got up to go in the hall to dance, I felt a pequioor feeling, I had set down on is an' some that ain't. An' I reckon them doggoned tails an' mashed 'em people up here at college would say back. But, Ma, they was as forgotthat is-from a hick town, I mean. ten as last year's chickens when I That's jest the reason that I wanted saw that hall. I wanted cloth an' on top of everything thar a chance to wear my roommates tails was a lot of bright lights ashinin' an' an' look like the funeral director back ablinkin'. She wasn't a very good home. The coat was too tight an' the dancer. She stepped on my feet. Aftshirt front bulged, but all in all I er a few minutes somebody tapped me on my shoulder an' she danced off Wal, Ma, you tole me to always be with him. That was the last time I kerful of these here city women. An' saw her that evenin', cose I got tired so I looked around me a long time, a little later an' went home. Seems an' there is a little co-ed gal who sits kinda silly, don't you think, Ma, to behind me in biology. I hered she take a gal to a dance an' she dances came from Rockingham county, an' be- off with somebody else? But that's cose she was a purty lil' thing that what she did. I reckon I'm learning don't wear no paint, I decided to ast'- how proper folks does things, but

PIKAS to Celebrate 69th Anniversary

In unison with the 76 undergraduate and 80 alumni chapters of Pi Kappa Alpha Fraternity the William and Mary Chapter will celebrate the 69th anniversary of the founding of the Fraternity at a dinner on March 1st at the Royal Arms Inn.

Gamma expects to have the largest turnout of alumni at its dinner in the history of the Chapter. Feature of the evening will be the drinking of a toast to Miss Marsha Hunt, motion picture star, who has just been voted the Fraternity's official "Dream Girl" from their sweetheart song, "Dream Girl of Pi K A."
