GREEK LETTER FRATERNITIES NAME NINETY MEN THIS YEAR

Sigma Phi Epsilon and Theta Delta Chi Lead With Eleven Men Each; Number Pledged This Year Exceeds That of Last by Six

FAILURE IN WORK CAUSES MANY MEN NOT TO BE NAMED

Rushing Continues For Next Two Months; Men Must Pass Ten Hours Before Being Pledged

Ninety men are today wearing the pledge pins of the thirteen Greek letter fraternities on this campus after the formal close of the second season of deferred rushing. Out of the twelve national social fraternities and the one local organization on this campus, only ninety men were pledged. This exceeds by six the number pledged last year. Among the number this year were many upperclassmen. This gives an average of about seven men for each fraternity. Theta Delta Chi and Sigma Pi Epsilon lead the list with eleven pledges each. Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Phi Alpha, and Alpha Psi tie for second with nine men each.

These men will go through the "pledge-stage" for several weeks. They may be initiated when the fraternity desires to do so. Rushing has not been discontinued, for those men who failed to pass ten hours of work during the first semester cannot be pledged until they have successfully made ten hours work for any two of the next three academic months.

The list of pledges, as released by the Inter-fraternity Council, are listed according to their Fraternity's establishment on this campus in the following:

WIDEMEYER AND BAND FEATURE FORMAL DANCES

Blow Gymnasium to Be Scene Of Mid-Winter Dances Next Friday and Saturday

MANY ALUMNI TO RETURN

Next Friday and Saturday, February 27 and 28, Blow Gymnasium will be the scene of William and Mary's Mid-winter formal dances. Widemeyer's Band will furnish the music for the three dances. This is the first time that Widemeyer has played for William and Mary dances in a number of years.

A formal ball on Friday night from 10 o'clock to 2 o'clock, followed by a dansant Saturday afternoon, and a semi-formal ball Saturday night from 9 o'clock to 12 o'clock, will complete the 1931 Mid-winters.

According to officers of the Cotillion Club, these dances will be more colorful than any of William and Mary's preceding dances. After many attempts, Widemeyer's Band, has been secured for the dances. This band has just completed a successful run at Castle Farms, just outside of Cincinnati, and William and Mary (Continued on Page Two)

PORTRAIT OF DEAN UNVEILED TUESDAY

Dean Hoke's Work Here Celebrated By Memorial Portrait At School

A portrait of Dean Kremer J. Hoke, painted by the artist Silvette, was unveiled last Tuesday evening, February 17, at the Matthew Whaley School, as a memorial to the services rendered by Dean Hoke to the school and the community. The portrait was presented to the school with a brief address by Mrs. Preston Cocke, President of the Patron's League, which had sponsored its creation. Dr. W. L. L. Smoot, representing the city school board, accepted the gift. Little Bobby Hoke, the Dean's younger son, aged eight years, pulled the strings which unveiled the likeness of his father.

Guests numbering approximately three hundred, and including distinguished educators from various parts of the state, were present at the ceremony. The unveiling of the portrait was followed by an informal reception, with refreshments served by high school students. The guests were received by Dr. and Mrs. Hoke, Dr. and Mrs. Silvette, Major and Mrs. S. D. Freeman, Dr. and Mrs. Smoot, President Chandler, and Mrs. Cocke.

The portrait will hang in a prominent place over the stairway in the new school, in the building of which Dean Hoke played an instrumental part. Dr. Hoke is Dean of the College at William and Mary, head of the department of education here, and prominent in educational circles throughout the state. His connection with William and Mary extends over a period of nine years.

COMMITTEE ON RULES NAMED

Approving the recommendations of the Board of Control by an overwhelming majority, the joint men and women's student body in special session last Monday evening, passed five resolutions relative to the administration of student publications. The resolutions, submitted by Katherine Lam, President of Women's Student Government, after a brief introduction by Richard Mallowney, President of Men's Student Body, read as follows:

1. That there be created a joint organization of both men and women students for the purpose of providing for, maintaining, and regulating student affairs which may be of interest common to both men and women students,

2. That the chair be empowered to appoint a committee on rules to draft rules and by-laws for the conduct and functioning of such joint organization; such committee to report in writing its compilation of rules and by-laws at the next joint meeting of men and women students, for the approval of such assembly,

3. That the Executive Board be made the executive and administrative body of such joint organization, and that it shall have the power to transact, administer, regulate, and control all student affairs common to both men and women, except those expressly reserved in the constitution and by-laws of the joint organization, to the students themselves in assemblage, or to their duly elected officers. 4. That the staffs of several publications shall have the power, by and with the advice and consent of the Executive Board, to appoint the Editors and Business Managers of such publications.

5. That the Editors and Business Managers of the several publications, to wit, the Colonial Echo, the Literary Magazine, and the Flat Hat be paid out of the funds appropriated by the students to each of several publications an annual compensation for their services, such compensations to be apportioned as follows:

- Editor of the Flat Hat — $175
- Business Mgr. of Flat Hat — $150
- Editor of Colonial Echo — $150
- Business Mgr. Colonial Echo $150
- Editor of Literary Magazine $125
- Business Mgr. Literary Mag. $50

These resolutions were originated by the Executive Board of Control of the college after a thorough investigation of the problems involved in the publications of our periodicals had been made.

The board appointed to draft rules and by-laws for the conduct and functioning of the organization consists of the following: Ruby Adams, Martha Barrow, Anne Croxton, Rudy Zabel, Harry Paxson, M. W. Abbit. The Executive Board will consist of one person elected from each of the groups on the campus that spend student activities money for their organization.

will be one of the first 1931 college engagements for the Band.

The orchestra has quite a reputation as a dance band, and it is expected that they will be royally received at William and Mary. Many alumni and friends of the students will journey to Williamsburg for the dances.

The decorating committee, of which William Wellons is chairman, has arranged a color scheme of red and white. Members of the committee say that Blow Gymnasium will not be recognized. Booths are being provided by both the Cotillion Club and "13" Club for members and their guests. These booths will add to the effect of the decorations.

Admission to the three dances will be five dollars for members of the Club and seven dollars for non-Cotillion attendants. Tickets may also be secured for just one dance, though the price will be slightly increased.

William F. Rountree has been appointed in charge of publicity. Besides William Wellons as chairman of the decorating committee, the committee consists of: Y. O. Kent, John Lewis, Roy Charles, Kenneth Umlah, Jack Tuthill, Dick Allen, Wally Lynn, Binford Sykes and E. G. Outten.

Chicago—Don't get worried about it—but if the blood vessels of the body from the largest artery to the smallest vessel, were placed end to end they would reach two and one-half times around the earth.

Credit this information to Dr. R. W. McNealy, of Chicago, who described tonight to the Chicago Medical Society new discoveries in the comparatively unexplored field of blood vessel surgery.

Motion pictures of blood flowing through veins and arteries will soon be possible, Dr. McNealy said, through fluids that will perfect the X-raying of the circulatory system.

"With the new blood surgery", Dr. McNealy said, "it is now possible to treat effectively such almost incurable diseases as angina pectoris and gangrene, both induced by derangement of the blood flow."

OUTSTANDING STUDENT

WILLIAM F. ROUNTREE

William F. Rountree, or more appropriately, "Bill"—no one would ever know whom you were talking about if you said anything else but Bill—is the outstanding student above. Since we can't call him William, Willie, or Mr. Rountree, we shall refer to him throughout this story as Bill and maybe sometimes as "Rooster".

Let's see, Bill comes from Portsmouth. It seems that he graduated from the largest high school there Woodrow Wilson. He started in early in the journalistic field—just like Bill, you know—doing a little bit of everything. Well, while he was at Wilson, he began working on "The President" (in other words the annual) and in his senior year he was business manager of the book. This wasn't all either. He worked on the staff of "The Student," the newspaper, and was Director of Public Service to the student government. It was in 1927 that he finished high school. That was in the spring and then in the fall Bill is found in Williamsburg as a freshman.

Bill ran after journalistic work no sooner than he hit the campus, for going back over the Flat Hats, we find that he was admitted to the staff very soon after the opening of school. All that year he was a reporter, until the spring, when he was made a night editor. He still was unsatisfied with simply one publication; so he made the Colonial Echo staff, under the title of Organization Editor. And still he wasn't satisfied—can you imagine anyone so enthusiastic about doing so much,—he went in for Y. M. C. A. cabinet work and in the spring of his freshman year found himself Assistant Editor of the Indian Handbook, besides holding a position on the freshman "Y" cabinet.

And then, funny though it may seem Bill began his sophomore year. He says that after one's freshman year that you generally find yourself in the sophomore class. This year, Rooster carried on all of his publication work and advanced in all of them. He worked mighty hard on the Flat Hat staff and was rewarded by being made assistant managing editor. And then of course, he worked so well with the editor of the handbook that he was elected editor for the next edition. He also remained on the Echo staff, perhaps in the same capacity, but doing more. His work on the Flat Hat brought him in touch with the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association. Incidentally he was elected to the Executive Council of this organization, and had to serve on all kinds of committees and all that sort of a thing. They, meaning the Press Association, have a meeting every year and Bill went and probably had a fine time along with the other parts of the conference.

In Bill's junior year he somehow spent most of his time on the Flat Hat, for we imagine he had all kinds of thoughts about being editor someday. He worked harder and harder under the official head of managing editor. But as the year went on, the editor graduated and William was chosen Editor. Now at this time, he was also still working on the Colonial Echo staff and on the "Y" cabinet. And things got so much around Bill that he hardly knew where he was, and because he had so much to do and wasn't in the best of health, he found it necessary to resign his post, although he kept on working as Associate Editor.

It happened that Bill put out such a good handbook that he was re-elected to edit the book again. And so he did, and made a better job of it than before. A lot of changes took place in the handbook and one hardly knew the book when it came out. Bill had achieved so much in the journalistic line that he was elected to Sigma Upsilon, honorary journalistic fraternity.

This same year, Bill's junior year, at the V. I. P. A. conference, he was elected President of the association for the year 1930-31. Well, the association met here, yes right here in Williamsburg, and Bill was running things in a fine way. More students from all of the Virginia colleges came here representing all kinds of publications, and stayed for several days and the Association was declared to have been one of the most successful ever held.

And now Bill is a senior. He is now Editor Emeritus of the Flat Hat, and the Flat Hat couldn't do without him and he's still working on the Colonial Echo staff as Managing Editor. Bill loves the work and always will and that is one of the greatest gifts to any—to find out this soon in life just what kind of work he likes and will want to do the rest of his life. We understand that he has already been given a position on a northern newspaper when he leaves William and Mary. And we know that Bill will do great things for any newspaper—or any publication, for that matter—and there's nothing too good and big and fine and huge for him either.

Bill is a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon and this year was elected to the "13 Club".

Special Picture Display In Colonial Echo Office

Charles H. Dunker, Editor-in-Chief of the Colonial Echo, announced that the White Studios of New York City will put on a special display in the Colonial Echo Office, February 23 through 26, from 2 to 6 o'clock.

All proofs of those students who did not have pictures made up last fall have been returned to the Colonial Echo office so that any desiring to reconsider having pictures made may do so now. A special price has been arranged for those wishing to have only one picture made. In the fall the studio did not have this to offer, but saw need of making this special offer.

Students who had pictures made before Christmas may also take advantage of this offer of having one picture made now.

The novelties offered are very unique and it is hoped that all students will take advantage of this unusual opportunity to get them at the special prices for college students.

Dwight C. Brown and Ralph Murray will meet debaters of New York University, February 25, the College of the City of New York, February 26, and Fordham University, March 1. They will also debate on the employment insurance problem.

On February 24 with Rutgers University, and February 27 with Columbia University, Dwight C. Brown and A. D. Johnson will debate "Resolved: That this meeting affirm its belief in the principles and practices of Democracy". They will use the split team system, one man from William and Mary participating on each side.

This is one of the most extensive schedules that the varsity debaters have made for some time. Merrill Brown and Ralph Murray are newcomers to this field, while Calvin Berry, Dwight C. Brown and A. D. Johnson have debated for the college on previous occasions.

LARGE GATHERING EXPECTED

Geo. W. Guy, Executive Secretary of the William and Mary Alumni Association has just received a letter from M. Carl Andrews, President of the Roanoke Club stating that they would have a meeting and banquet on Thursday evening, April 30. Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, President of the College has agreed to address the group on that occasion and a large and enthusiastic meeting is expected. There are a large number of William and Mary folk in that section and Mr. Andrews is very anxious for them to attend the banquet and hear the address by Dr. Chandler. The following are the officers of the Roanoke Chapter:

President, M. Carl Andrews, Times-World Corporation, Roanoke.

First Vice-President, Miss M. Elizabeth Brown, 923 S. Jefferson St., Roanoke.

Second Vice-President, Miss Kitty Harvey-Cutter, 110 Broad St., Salem.

Secretary-Treasurer, Miss Edna Gibbons, N. & W. Offices, Roanoke.

On May 1st, the day following the Roanoke meeting Dr. Chandler will attend the meeting of the Southwestern Virginia Club at Big Stone Gap.

Fine Arts Class Gives Five Book to Library

The Fine Arts 101 class presented five books, which were bought from the proceeds of Christmas Cards, to the library recently.

These books were J. J. Lankes' "Virginia Woodcuts, which contains pictures of scenes about Williamsburg, and other places of historic interest; Leon Riator's "Paris de Chavannes"; Kelly and Schawbes' "Histori Costumes"; Frank M. Rines' "Drawing in Lead Pencil"; and the 1930 Edition of "Commercial Art".

Mrs. Frank McClean, William Welons and Elizabeth Waddell made the cards the profits of which amounted to twenty seven dollars which was five more than last year.

The Glee Club which broadcasted from Richmond rendered a program consisting of several group selections and solos by Arthur McLawhon.

SEVENTH ANNUAL EUROPEAN TOUR BEGINS JUNE 13

Professors Wagener and Fisher To Have Charge of Group

CREDIT GIVEN FOR STUDY

The seventh annual study tour in Europe of the College of William and Mary begins June 13, 1931 when the party will sail from New York on the S. S. "Volendam". For the summer of 1931 two groups will be formed permitting of travel and choice of residence in Paris or Rome for study. Dr. J. R. Fisher, Head of the Department of Modern Languages will be in charge of the Paris group and Dr. A. P. Wagener, Head of the Department of Ancient Languages will be in charge of the ancient language group in Rome. The Vergilian Cruise is a part of the celebration of Vergil's two thousandth anniversary. The cruise takes in the ground covered by Aeneas in his wanderings from Troy to Italy. This summer the cruise will be limited to one hundred and a privately owned boat small enough to visit out-of-the-way places will be used.

The purpose of the William and Mary Study Tours is to combine travel with study. They will appeal primarily to teachers and upper classmen in college who wish to pursue their study of the French, Italian and Latin languages on their native soil and to secure with this a background of national culture, and of art and topographical history. Study will be pursued under the direct supervision of the instructor in charge and for work successfully accomplished credit will be given on the same basis as that allowed for courses in the regular summer session at William and Mary. At the same time persons are invited to join the party who do not desire college credit but wish to travel with agreeable companions.

An attractive bulletin has just been issued on the Study Tours in Europe and will be sent upon application.

APPRECIATION

It is always gratifying to see work well done rewarded with something more than the proverbial joy of doing it. For that reason the FLAT HAT puts its stamp of hearty approval on the unveiling of the portrait of Dean Hoke at the Matthew Whaley School last Tuesday evening.

To the gentleman in question it may be doubtful whether or not a portrait of himself is adequate compensation for years of endeavor in the cause of educational improvement. In the present instance, however, the value of the portrait consists in the affection which prompted Dean Hoke's admirers to have it painted. The fact that these admirers came from the ranks of people who had worked with the Dean or had studied under him, enhances the value of the gift, since it means that he was esteemed by those who knew him in the most trying capacities of his daily life.

The portrait is dignified with the character of a symbol. As such, it will not only be a source of gladness to the unassuming gentleman, but will also hang as a constant reminder to the pupils of the Matthew Whaley School that men with visions do succeed—and are appreciated.

PEACE AFTER THE FIGHT

Now that the smoke has cleared from the battle field, fraternities can look around and find out what they gained in the struggle. And all should be well satisfied for a fine bunch of men are now wearing pledge pins. And of the battle itself, we might say that it was on the whole a good clean fight.

Among those who were not pledged there are several groups. Some men are not suited to fraternity life. These men instead of mourning, would do well to congratulate themselves on being free to seek their own element—frequently the worthiest of them all—in college life. There is another great group among the freshmen who have waked up to the startling conclusion that they have made too little work to be pledged. To this group—and to many individuals—the FLAT HAT suggests that honest endeavor in fields of scholarship will enable them to wear pledge buttons in the near future.

To the pledges we say, remember that it is a great honor to be pledged to a fraternity. For that organization does not need you—cannot use you if you do not enter whole heartedly into their work.

Athletics, journalism, dramatics and other outside activities build up a fraternity's standing on the campus and each member can find some place on the campus to help his group.

But, to lead in athletics, campus drinking, or extra-curricular activities may make a fraternity "outstanding" but none of these priorities guarantees the real worth for which such organizations should stand. These things are merely the points—and sometimes questionable ones—where the real life of the group touches that of the outside campus. It is in the association with others, in living together, for three or four years, and in making friends that you will wish to have forever that the real good and real pleasure are found. There can be no ONE fraternity on a campus as large as this. There are too many different types to crowd them all into one grouping. And therefore, for you who have chosen, it is your part to make your choice the most agreeable, and the best for you. It is within your own power to make your fraternity life a success or a failure.

VATICAN CITY,--French and Canadian wireless stations reported to Vatican City today that while the address of Pope Pius XI were being broadcast from here on Thursday at the opening of the papal radio station HVJ, a Soviet station sent out continuous signals on the same wave length 19.84 meters.

MADRID,--King Alfonso XIII accepted today the resignation of the year-old dictatorial government headed by General D'Amaso Berenguer and simultaneously issued an order postponing indefinitely the scheduled election of a Chamber of Deputies on March 1st, and a Senate on March 15th. As a result the Spanish political situation tonight is more critical and confused than it has been in half a century.

All reports of King Alfonso's voluntary abdication may be discounted. He is holding fast to his throne and is standing firmly by his declaration of a fortnight ago: "I have much work to do in Spain yet, and I am not going to leave my country."

Nevertheless during the course of today Alfonso had interviews with nine political leaders, almost all of whom advised him that the only hope of a solution of the present crisis lay, not in proceeding with the election of a cortes (parliament), but in convoking a constitutional convention with power to limit the monarchy's scope, if necessary.

TRENTON, N. J.--The rules governing admission to the bar in this state have been more exacting, it was announced here today by Chief Justice William S. Gummere of the Supreme Court. The prevention of unethical practices, which have developed since the previous revision in 1926, were one of the purposes of the change.

The new qualifications provide that each candidate must have been graduated with an academic degree from a college or university, approved by the bar examiners, at least three years before taking the examination. Candidates for attorney must be at least twenty-one years old and residents of the state for a minimum of six months. A certificate showing good character also must be filed with the examiners by each candidate.

NORFOLK, VA.--The lives of at least 125 men on five stricken ships were endangered late today as high winds swept the coasts of North Carolina and Virginia, where the vessels were stranded. Coast Guard aid was sent out from numerous points.

The situation represented the greatest series of simultaneous distress messages received in Coast Guard circles here in many years. Four of the ships were hard ashore under conditions which were described as grave, while the fifth ship a United Fruit steamer, the Oroginie, reported itself in "dire distress" with disabled machinery 150 miles off the coast.

THIS DEPARTMENT

Dear readers we are sad this week! Yes, I mean sad, in fact almost in tears. But be patient, and skip from line to line, and maybe there will be a laugh.

It is this way— No, it is that way— Have you ever been kicked? I mean real, real hard! I ain't got no girl, no pals, no friends, more than ever I feel so bad. I almost want to call Bucktrout!

I can't cry 'cause I'm too old. I can't go back to her 'cause she won't let me. I can't do nothing; but I must try to interest you.

Recently I found the following on the street. If you don't mind we will go ahead and let you read it. I think the writer felt just about as bad as I do now. This is how he was writing his troubles:

"HAVE I BEEN KICKED? Oh-O-O-O-O (just plain O)
A little country girl comes to town, makes a sorority, gets all the boys she wants, me too, and then what she does! Kicked, and we are so sad.

Think of it! A "duccess" kicking me. It is a sad, sad story.

Went to Richmond other day, saw two shows, played fish, bought two restaurants, had waffles, rode the train, used the telephone, saw a comedy, had a date, but she felt bad, rode a taxi, came back to school, haven't got any money, and no girl!

Have you ever been kicked? I ask, have you ever been kicked?

ADVICE TO LOVERS—POINT NUMBER SEVENTEEN—Don't ever believe what a co-ed tells you, not even on a dying hospital bed.

I ain't sad, though, better men have been kicked than me, and also— No, we won't say that!

In conclusion, I will publish this in all the local papers. This is to certify that I am no longer responsible for any debts contracted by Miss Elena Lavoris.

(Signed)

Rooster Wagon.

Now readers, you can see how sad that poor boy was. I wish to apologize for publishing Rooster Wagon's writings, but I feel just as that poor boy does.

By the way, don't forget to go to the William and Mary mid-winter dances next Friday and Saturday. For a reasonable price you can hear a good orchestra, see a lot of people, dance a lot of times, listen to a lot of "lines", get tired a lot of times, enjoy yourself a lots, you can get a lot of sore feet, a lot of troubles can be forgotten. Go to the dances! I am going!

Jimmy Lucy says he positively will not believe in Einstein's Theory. Can't blame him, though. He says that any college man with three meals a day, a good place to sleep, and the possession of a sweetheart, should not be worried. But I ain't got no sweetheart!

Oh, I am so sad! I feel so bad.

In short:

I am so sad,

I am so bad,

That if I had a gad,

I'd shoot him in the head!

I am a poet. Oh, yeah?

(Paid Advertisement)

One man, good habits, "a smoothie", (oh yeah?), a good student, a poor boy, wishes to get a girl. I mean, wants to put on the "love-bag".

Please send all applications to me, in care of..... Just send them anywhere around here. He'll get them! He is a man who keeps his eyes open!

But if you ever get kicked as I have, just read the following resolutions that I have adopted:

1. Never to believe a co-ed.
2. Never to have another date.
3. Never to speak to girls when they come in a store.
4. To be just friendly with men, and positively men.
5. To look sad, and never glad!

This is to certify that the following has been adopted by me, and that I am going to live up to them.

(Signed)

NOTICE THAT A REASONABLE TIME HAS ELAPSED
Oh, boy, you should meet my girl! She is a sugar! Come on over and meet her. Say, don't you want a dance with her? Oh boy, I'm in love. Going to give her my pin 'fore long!
See you next Friday and Saturday at mid-winters!

"Books Again" Still Argues Literary Society Stand on Book Buying

Editor of the Flat Hat,
Dear Sir:

"Literary Society", in his reply to my letter, named some of the things the literary societies spent their money on, and suggested that if they expected to continue these activities they could not appropriate the $25 a year for works of fiction which I had recommended.

This answer implies that after these other activities have been taken care of and the annual banquet at $1 a plate provided for, there isn't $25 left in the treasury. It would be easy to find out if that is so. Inasmuch as he didn't attack my proposal on any other than financial grounds, it is safe to say "Literary Society" approves the recommendation if funds can be found. If any money is left in the treasury of the literary societies at the end of the year, no better use could be made of it than in the manner suggested; for three professors to buy new works of fiction. The $75 obtained from the three literary societies would buy about 50 books. This would be an excellent start and would provide ample reading matter in that field.

Books Again.

SIGMA PHI SIGMA MEETS

The regular meeting of Sigma Phi Sigma, honorary Physics Fraternity, took place Friday, February 13, in Rogers 114. The main feature of the program was a paper on the history of mechanics by William Blair. The society has lost three members this term by graduation, Emmett Riddick, Ruth Seamon and Upsher Joyner, and it plans to have the initiation of new members February 26.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

He asks ten people every week some question on college life. If you have any problems you would like to see discussed in this column, send them to "The Inquiring Reporter," in care of THE FLAT HAT.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

Do you think it would be a good idea to discuss current events for ten minutes a day in any one class?

Allan Charles, '32: "Yes, because nine out of every ten William and Mary students don't know what's happening beyond Toano."

Irma Adams, '31: "Yes. It would help students find something interesting in the happenings of the day."

Elizabeth Trout, '31: "Yes, it would be an excellent idea as very few of us know the important things that are happening today."

Harry P. Joslyn, Jr., '32: "Yes, I think it would be a good idea because it would help broaden the knowledge of the individual on certain facts which would advance his learning."

Margaret Baughman, '32: "No, I think it is a high schoolish idea."

Parker G. Clark, Jr., '34: "Yes, it would help break the monotony of class work."

Virginia Hawthorne, '32: "No. William and Mary students are old enough to read newspapers for themselves."

Larry Shaffer, '32: "Yes, it is a wonderful idea."

Marjorie Harper, '32: "Yes, I think it is more important to know what is going on in the world at the present time than what went on in past ages."

Brownie Bauserman, '32: "I think it would be better to have an entire class in current events. It would provide an easy course for football players."

POPULAR MELODRAMA TO BE REVIVED BY LEAGUE ON FRIDAY

Flickenger and Matier Have Leads In Boucicault's "Streets of New York" Here

McLEAN DIRECTS PRODUCTION

One week from tonight at the Matthew Whaley High School, the Williamsburg Little Theater League will present to the public a revival of the eighty year old play, "The Streets of New York". Dr. Frank McLean, president of the League, is directing this "grand stella revival of a popular American melodrama of 1857". Popular as melodrama at that time when audience wept buckets, it may be expected that the 1931 audience will have tears streaming down its cheeks as it becomes convulsed in hilarious laughter. Time and imaginations as well as the training of audiences change greatly. It is reported that the cast as yet has not been able to control its laughter at rehearsals at the exhibitions of acting by Mr. Flickenger, Dr. McLean, and others. The mood of interpretation is a serious replica of Victorian stage antics. The cast includes popular college lecturers, their wives, town residents, and one college student. The cast: Dr. S. D. Southworth, Dr. Frank McLean, Dr. William G. Guy, Mr. B. Floyd Flickenger, Mr. G. Glenwood Clark, Mr. Robert McLelland, Harry Stinnett, Dr. J. D. Carter, Mrs. Doris Macomber, Miss Lucy Ann Taylor, Mrs. Mildred McLean, Miss Mildred Matier. There you have the English, French, Greek, Chemistry, Economics, and Biology departments drawn together in participation as well as the Restoration, the Matthew Whaley High School, and the student body. Following the performance here on February 27, the Williamsburg Little Theater League journeys to Norfolk to play before the William and Mary Extension School. Price of admission here, fifty cents.

From the Baldheaded Row

W. A. J. B.

"The Streets of New York" produced by the Williamsburg Little Theater League under the direction of Dr. Frank McLean at the Matthew Whaley High School, February 27; "Merchant of Venice" produced by Theta Alpha Phi under the direction of Miss Althea Hunt, March 27 and 28.

WELL, how did you like "Just Suppose?"

DEAN GRACE LANDRUM delivered a very scholarly talk on the classical allusions in "The Merchant of Venice" at a meeting of the Dramatic Club at the Phi Mu House recently; particularly to those who have hopes of being cast in the play here very soon, the talk was at once fascinatingly interesting and valuable, by way of making every line intelligible to those who might have found the inferences rather obscure in some of them.

HOW DID YOU LIKE the banner over our "theater" entrance on Wednesday? Thanks to the ability and arduous labor of Earnest de Bordenave and Charles McCurdy for it.

REMEMBER Dr. McLean's Little Theater League production is at the High School's modern and excellent auditorium; one week from tonight. It's going to be a riot of a revival; and comedy will evolve from old fashioned seriousness.

NEWS MAGAZINE "TIME" expresses in regard to another show exactly what we have been thinking of "Just Suppose". It says, "When one overcomes the impression that 'Green Grow the Lilacs' is a succession of song cues, it becomes a diverting presentation." The only qualification of that criticism necessary when applied to "Just Suppose" is the question aroused as to whether one can be divertingly entertained by the play itself. We had intended to make a list of all the possible song titles such as "There's a Kind of Magic About It", "Will You Remember Me?", "I've Met Thousands of Girls", "I Seem To Understand" (all appearing on the same page of dialogue) that Martin Jurow and George Diggs found so conducive to setting to music, but the task would have been too great a one.

GLADYS MONROE certainly played the part of "Linda Lee" very sweetly, and she is to be highly commended, but the part itself defeats its own purpose. It was surely the intention of Playwright A. E. Thomas to make "Linda Lee" the essence of charm; in a too enthusiastic effort toward this end he has evolved one of those overbearing, superior, consciously clever people: And yet not so clever either, unless you can see anything either funny or philosophical in the hypothesis that, for all we know, silver linings may be very uncomfortable to clouds. Pooh!

DRAGGED IN by the heels is everything in the play pertaining to the South. The atmosphere of the South not being essential to the play and extraneous to the plot, Southern mannerisms are dragged in everywhere without purpose or effect. In fact, there is little excuse for the play at all, 't all, 't all. The idea is good but not new, and its vehicle inexcusable; there is little foundation for the sudden and desperate love affair; the lines of the Southerners are boring, an insult to the genuine Southerner whose manners and hospitality are not a superficial affectedness; "Monty" has no excuse for being in the play and only fools the audience into believing he is of some importance; the darky has not a single relevant line; "Sir Calverton's" lines are good but the characterization is inconsistent with the common notion of English nobility; the Prince's part is tolerably well written; and "Lord (Continued on Page Ten)

INDIANS MEET RICHMOND IN IMPORTANT BALL GAME

INDIANS AND R-M JACKETS IN TIE FOR LOOP LEAD

Both Clubs Have Won Five Out of Six
Conference Battles; R-M Loses
To Lynchburg

The Indian basketball five, back after a tour of western Virginia are scheduled to meet old rivals tomorrow night in a game which will have a lot to do with the Virginia Conference championship. Last night the Braves met the Bridgewater outfit, which leaves the club with three more conference games to be played.

Richmond, to date, has broken even in six games. Medical College has been beaten twice by the Spiders by respective scores of 32-26 and 45-39. Roanoke has also fallen before the Red and Blue by a count of 27-24. V. M. I. took their measure by a score of 33-28, Hampden-Sydney also won, 41-35 and William and Mary took a close one by a score of 46-38.

Tomorrow night, the Spiders will line up as follows: Captain Eacho and Krapin at forwards; Reams at center, and Sherman and Onesty at guards. Eacho Krapin and Sherman are the team's leading scorers.

W&M is not in the best of shape due to the recent illness of several of the men, illness contracted from last week's western tour. The tricolor won three out of four ball games but very few people realize just what an accomplishment it was. Shaffer was unable to play in one game and Sundin and Frank Mozeleski played the game in far from good shape. The club deserves a lot of credit.

Now that Randolph-Macon has been defeated by Lynchburg, the Indians are once more tied for the leadership of the Conference loop. If they can hurdle Richmond, Roanoke and the Jackets, the second Conference title will pass into the hands of the Indians. The race is somewhat similar to last year's campaign, in which R-M defeated W&M only to lose the title in a great ball game which ended 32-30.

FENCING OUTFIT PLAYS VA & VMI THIS WEEK-END

Engage VMI Representatives Today
At Lexington and Journey to Meet
Cavaliers Tomorrow

The William and Mary Fencing Club, encouraged by its recent victory over the University of Virginia here, is meeting V. M. I. this afternoon at Lexington in what is expected to be a keenly fought contest.

Tomorrow the squad, to probably consist of Fowler, Nolan, Simonds and Wheeler, journeys to Charlottesville to meet the University of Virginia in a return meet which will either place the William and Mary Club definitely in front of the Cavaliers or leave the two teams divided in honors.

M. Mozeleski Sinks Winning Shot On Foul In Final Minute of Fray;
Sundin High W&M Man

In one of the most exciting and tense court tilts in the William and Mary team's schedule, the Virginia Military Institute yielded to the Braves last Saturday afternoon, losing by the very close score of 29-28. The battle took place at Lexington, V. M. I.'s home grounds.

In the first half both teams missed easy shots. The Cadets' misses were more evident for, though they got the ball down under their basket by clever passing, they seemed unable to score. Before the half ended, Shaffer rustled the strings with two long shots, to give the Indians a 19-13 lead.

The second half was marked by very close guarding, both teams playing defensive ball, for Bob and Marion Brown, V. M. I. forwards, aided by Cutchins, guard, succeeded in putting their team one point ahead of the Braves with only three minutes left to play. Unfortunately for the Cadets, Captain Mozeleski was allowed a free throw which again brought the Indians up to tie. In the final minute of the game "Mitch" put in another shot from the foul line to give William and Mary the winning margin.

M. and R. Brown achieved the high scores of the tilt, having scored 11 and 10 points respectively. "Corky" Sundin ranked next with seven points to his credit.

WINK JOHNSON TAKES SECOND PLACE AT PHIL.

Loses By Two or Three Yards In 1000
Yd. Handicap Run At Meadowbrook
Games; Sole Scratch Man

"Wink Johnson, William & Mary's great mile and half mile star, ran one of his greatest races recently at the Meadowbrook Games, held in Philadelphia, although he was nosed out by a Millrose A. A. runner in the final yards of the 1000 yards, class A run. The race, which proved to be one of the best of the thirty events staged by the Club, was a handicap affair in which about twenty-five or thirty men were entered, men representing both athletic clubs and colleges from all over the country.

The handicaps of the men ranged from five to fifty yards, Johnson ran from scratch, the only man to run from this position. Rozenkranz, the winner, had a twenty-five yard handicap.

Soon after the starting gun had been fired, Johnson began to overtake and pass men with handicaps and after about a half of the race had been run, he was leading the van. It had taken quite a bit of effort to pass the final men for on the fourth lap, Wink was forced to sprint in order to pass a bunch of men on the straightaway in order not to get in a jam on the banks.

Soon after the silver, green and gold man had taken the lead, Rozenkranz, comparatively fresh, by virtue of his handicap, fell in back of Wink and stayed with him until about nine hundred yards had been run. With a half a lap to go, the Millrose man put on a spurt which took him past Johnson into the lead and despite a strong finish on the part of the latter, Rozenkranz' handicap had been too much. The winner had a margin over Johnson of about two or three yards at the tape.

Shepard of Princeton, with a handicap of fifteen yards, was third. Among the other men who competed were Reed of Princeton, Jensen of North Carolina, Wagner of the University of Penn, McGugan of Catholic U. and Jackson of the Meadowbrook Club.

There is a good possibility that Johnson may run in a special invitation 1000 yard run to be held at Catholic University, March seventh. Ray Conger, who recently turned in a :13 2-5 mile, is to be a starter in this run.

Maroons No Match For Fast Redskin
Attack; Trailing 25-9 At Half Time

Despite Dr. Walter Aiken Smart's candid remarks, Friday the thirteenth proved to be an unlucky day for Roanoke College, since they fought a losing battle at Salem that night against William and Mary, and after a brief rally in the closing minutes of the last half, surrendered the contest 40-21.

The initial quarter of the game found both teams matching shots. Roanoke was playing good ball for this period and managed to keep the score at 9-9. But soon Frank Mozeleski and Johnny Sauerbrun started on a scoring rampage, and, proving too elusive for the Maroon guards, effected a 25 to 9 score at the end of the first half, with the Indian Quintet on the heavy end of the score.

For the major part of the second half, the Braves continually outplayed the Roanoke cagers with apparent facility. The Maroons, nevertheless, exhibited a snappy comeback, but this was short-lived, and died as fast as it had started.

Johnny Sauerbrun was high-point man, with six field goals and two fouls for a total of fourteen points. Purvine, second high scorer, starred for the home team, having made ten of their 21 points.

KELISON TO HAVE WILLIAM FETZER AS ASSISTANT

Bocock Asks For Release From Contract
Due to Pressure of Business Affairs

At a recent meeting of the William and Mary athletic committee, John Kelison, assistant coach of football for the past three years, was appointed head coach of football for the season of 1931 following the unexpected resignation of Branch Bocock, Indian mentor for the past three years. The committee also wishes to announce that William Fetzter has been appointed to the position of assistant coach of football for the coming season.

The action was taken by the athletic committee following the request of Bocock to be relieved from his contract which had one more year to run. He has accepted a position with the Williamsburg Holding Corporation which will prevent him from continuing his duties as head coach.

Kelison has been a member of the W&M coaching staff for the past three years, serving in the capacity as coach in varsity football and basketball and freshman baseball. This spring, he is varsity coach of baseball. A graduate of West Virginia Wesleyan, where he was an All-American tackle, Kelison has been connected with several other institutions. He has been Director of Athletics at both his own college and Marietta College of Ohio. He was a coach of the national championship Washington and Jefferson team which played in the Rose Bowl that year and was also a coach at the University of Virginia for six years.

Fetzter has long been called one of the best football coaches in the South. He is an alumnus and an All-Southern halfback from Davidson College of N. BOCOCK COACH THREE YEARS

Contract Had Another Year To Run
But Resignation Accepted By College

Branch Bocock, who has been head coach of Football at William and Mary for the last three years has, much to our regret, requested that he be relieved of the obligation to fulfill the unexpired portion of his appointment. Mr. Bocock, under his present appointment, has another year to serve. In his request to the College Authorities, it was stated that he had an opportunity to enter private business which he desired to accept.

It is understood that Mr. Bocock will be identified with Williamsburg Holding Corp., Agent of Mr. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., now engaged in the restoration of the Colonial portion of the City of Williamsburg. His duties will require residence in Williamsburg.

The College authorities announce that because of their interest in the

Indian Mermen Meet U. of Delaware Tomorrow

VISITORS HERE TO AVENGE LAST YEAR'S DEFEAT

Have Good Record For Current Season But Have Lost Several Men Of Last Year's Club

By Bromley Freeman

William and Mary's swimming outfit will run up against the toughest opposition of the season when it encounters the strong Delaware club tomorrow afternoon. The visitors are still smarting under the defeat administered them by the tri-color last year and prospects for another great meet are in store.

Delaware, who is being coached by a new man this year, Ed Bards of Springfield (Mass.) College, has had a successful season to date. She started off her campaign with a victory over Johns Hopkins University by a score of 35-30. The next meet terminated in a defeat for the aggregation at the hands of Franklin & Marshall, this time the count being 38-30. Gettysburg was smothered to the tune of 60-15 and last week, Delaware defeated Carnegie Tech.

The team is led by Captain Bill Brown, a backstroke, who broke the William and Mary pool record two years ago by 10 seconds. Other entries include Jim Adams and Latomus in both the 50 and the 100 free-style; Lindstrand, another dash man; Sortman and Hartman, divers; Jacobs and Palmer in the breaststroke; Moore in the backstroke and Barker in the 440.

William and Mary is in good shape for the meet and practically the same lineup as engaged Washington and Lee will perform for the silver, green and gold. Coach Meb Davis, Bill Casey and Les Phillips, captain of the club, have all been working with the squad and expect to obtain another victory over the top-notch invaders.

DUCESSES MEET ST. CATHERINE'S

Visitors Come Here With Undefeated Record; Game to Be Played Tomorrow Night

Tomorrow evening at 7:30 the ducesses will combat the representatives from the St. Catherine's hoop club in Jefferson gymnasium. The freshmen have been working hard at practices and keeping training so they should be well prepared for the tussel.

In the class games the freshmen succeeded in defeating all other teams which were put up against them. Holladay, Hoit, and Wylie are the probable forwards, while Hudak and Felts will play guards. The center positions is between Hurtle and Michel for side, and Oewel and Paggett are disputing for jump.

The St. Catherine's basketeers have played many games this year and have remained undefeated. Petersburg High is one of the schools over which they were victorious.

FENCING PRACTICE

L. Tucker Jones, coach of the William and Mary fencing representatives, wishes to announce that all men interested in fencing should report to him as soon as possible.

Several matches have already been played but there are several pending meets which are expected to be closed some time in the near future.

Fencing is not a recognized sport at W&M but if enough spirit is exhibited by undergraduates, there is a possibility that the activity may be added to the W&M sports list.

Co-Ed Basketball Leader

Agnes Winn, who has been one of the hoop mainstays for three years is serving as Captain of basketball for the second year in succession.

The Squaws last Saturday put on record their ninth victory against a Sweet Briar Sextette. The score stood at 27-22 at the final whistle.

"Fem" Papposes play St. Catherine's tomorrow night in Jeff Gym. This should be a grand battle. Here's hoping that the Papposes do the scalping.

Talk about John D. if you must, but we have another great celebrity among us. Here for all time (Four years at least and does not need any restoring). "IT" is none other than Elsie Hudak. This ducsess is an All-American Turner. In competition at Buffalo she won out against opponents from all over the world. Her city, Baltimore, recommended her on account of her splendid track record and ability on the parallel bars. By the way she has dozens of National and Sectional track medals. Imagine being modest and silent about that!

Valentine's Day was a big day for C. Crane. Playing basketball against Sweet Briar at three and being initiated Pi Phi at five is rather a full schedule.

Agnes Winn went to the movies Thursday and again on Saturday. The men's varsity was away on a trip through western Virginia for the entire week. There is positively no connection?

Chewing and Solly are letting their hair grow. Two less customers at the barber shop and two more sales for berets.

New basketball jerseys arrived Saturday. They are rather brief.—More short circuits.

Edith Ford has been elected new fire chief of Williamsburg. She is very efficient at telling onlookers and non-helpers where to go to.—

SQUAWS WIN FAST GAME FROM FREDERICKSBURG

Co-Eds Lead At Half Time, 11-8, But Swing Into Stride In Second Half To Rout Visitors

This Tuesday the Indianettes gained their third straight victory of the season by defeating Fredericksburg 39-19 on the local court. The first half found a close game, but in the last half the Squaws got into their stride with forwards making their shots good.

Although at no time did Fredericksburg lead, the final outcome was a toss up in the first half. The Squaw forwards had numerous opportunities, but often failed to sink their shots. The first half found the score 11-8.

In the second half Anna Sollenberger who had been substituted led the scoring, and it was largely through her efforts that W. & M. obtained the score it did.

Capt. Agnes Wynn played a great game at guard for the tricolor.

In the last quarter Coach Barksdale was able to use several substitutes, and in the last few minutes of play she used an entire new team Brickhouse, right forward was outstanding for Fredericksburg. At the final whistle the score stood at 39-19 leaving the Indianettes still undefeated this season.

SQUAWS DEFEAT SWEETBRIAR IN FAST TILT, 27-22

Dabney Gathers Individual Honors In Renewal of Ten-Year Rivalry Brame Also Stars

By Vivian Dreyer

On Valentine's Day the Squaws took the Sweet Briar lassies into camp by a score of 27-22 on local court. This was the tenth annual Sweet Briar-William and Mary fray, and the Indianettes ninth victory.

Sweet Briar started off the game with a field goal. Brame, Squaw forward, tied the score. With the game at 2-2 Dabney, William and Mary's little forward, broke into the scoring list, from then on, Dabney was probably the most outstanding player on the floor. Woodward, Sweet Briar right forward, was a close second with four field goals and three charity shots to her credit. Lois Roberts, tricolor guard, put up a fine game. Her steady good work pulled William and Mary out of many bad places.

At half time score stood at 14-9. Sweet Briar picked up in the second half. Rucker, playing in center for Sweet Briar, showed up better at side than at jump, but she was "there" in both positions. With both teams making thirteen points in the last half the game ended with William and Mary's victory 27-22.

This was not as fast as Sweet Briar games usually are, but it was a clean one, typical of games played against (Continued on Page Eight)

"COLUMN BY BUD"

Fraternity rushing is over and practically every fraternity man is darn glad of it. One A. M. meetings, three or four times a week isn't exactly good for nine o'clock classes and botany quizzes. It might be fitting (and it might not) to make a few remarks concerning the present deferred system of fraternity rushing as used here at W. & M. This is not a bellyache article in the least but rather a census of opinion of most, if not all of the fraternity men. It is not a criticism of anyone, for the idea of giving another form of rushing a trial was justified.

This is the second year of deferred rushing and after a fair trial it would seem advisable to return to the old system of having rushing during the first three weeks of the fall session.

Fraternities have all violated the role of no rushing until February to some extent, some more than others. These infractions of the rules have caused some, not much, but some agitation and hard feelings. The writer repeats that all fraternities have done some rushing in one form or another. This is not a criticism of any one or two fraternities, but rather of the form in which rushing is now conducted.

Deferred rushing was installed for the principal reason of allowing freshmen to get their books and not get off to a bad start. Even with this object in view, there are a number of men who will not be allowed to be pledged up until they have passed enough work for the first two months. It stands to reason, that fraternities ought to be able to make a freshman study to much better advantage than his roommate. The writer believes that if fraternities had this offer, they would take advantage of it.

There may be some disadvantages to fall rushing, but there are a great many more advantages than disadvantages. There wouldn't be any hard feelings, freshmen could be made to get their work, and all-round relations of fraternities would be much better.

Rushing is rushing whether or not cokes and cigarettes are served. Whatever form of rushing is to be employed in the future, rules and restrictions should be absolutely observed to the letter by each and every organization, and if they aren't, action should be taken immediately against the offending member.

Recently Knute Rockne of Notre Dame put in a request for $9,000 expense money which he claimed was due for expenses of a charity game held last December. In reply, Frank H. Hutton, ruler of the local Elks lodge which sponsored the game, wants to know how Rockne spent $9,000 to help a $65,000 grid game, from which only $1,000 was obtained for charity.

Quite a scramble Hutton claims that instead of the 20 Notre Dame players scheduled to appear on the Irish squad, no less than thirty men showed up, etc., etc.

It would seem that Rockne wouldn't try to pull anything crooked at this stage of the game. The club was composed of ex-Notre Dame stars and it took quite a bit of jack to round them all up, outfit and transport them to the Coast. It will be quite interesting to see what happens.

Here's a new one. A basketball coach at Illinois was getting a bit worried because a couple of his star forwards were not shooting as they should.

So he took them to a Dr. Griffith who examined the eyes of the two men. He reported that the right eye of the right forward was dominant and the left eye of the left forward was dominant. The doctor suggested that the two men be switched around. This was done and the play of both picked up considerably.

Dr. William Irvine, addressing the Illinois State of Optometrists, claims that many football men have the same trouble and that one reason that Red Grange reached the heights as a ball player was due to the fact that the field of vision in his eyes was large.

Dr. James H. Naismith, inventor of basketball, recalls a game in 1894 in which the players were shod with roller skates.

Donie Bush, manager of the Chicago White Sox is not going to allow his men to use automobiles this spring. He remarked that he "hunted baseball players all over Texas last year" on jumps from one exhibition game to another. This year the R. R. will do a little business.

Maybe that ball game with Randolph-Macon the latter part of this month isn't going to be a honey. R-M lost to Lynchburg and now the Indians are tied with the Jackets with the second game between the two probably deciding the championship.

George Fisher, who ranked fifth in batting averages last year with an average of .374, was waived out of the league and sent to Rochester.

Any guy that can clout the old apple for a mark like that and still be farmed out must have a tough disposition or something else radically wrong.

Anyway, there's one fellow who agrees with the author in that Jack Sharkey is the best heavyweight, namely, Jim Corbett, former heavyweight champion. But since Jim has a failing of never picking the right men, maybe this writer had better look around for someone else.

William and Mary was supposed to race Princeton and Columbia in the recent Millrose Games and if they had, the Indians would have beaten them both by at least two seconds time.

The Indians negotiated the distance in something like 3:30 while the winning time in the Princeton-Columbia race was 3:32 and a fraction.

Out in Mill Valley, California, they had a freak golfing match the other day. One player used a bow and an arrow for golfing equipment, another used a lacrosse net and a gold ball while the third member used a single-gold club.

BENEDICTINE NO MATCH FOR DUCS

Lose Third Game In Fifteen Starts To Little Indians By 48-26 Score

The Little Indians brought their string of consecutive victories up to eight when they defeated the Benedictine basketball team by a count of 48-26. Except for a few moments at the beginning of the fray, the DucS had complete command of the situation, leading at half time, 22-11.

At the start of the fray, Benedictine rung up a few points and kept the ball under the W&M basket, but the Papoose offense began to click and successive goals by Whitehead and Chalko put the frosh in a lead which they never relinquished.

During the second half, Litwin, Chalko and Whitehead kept piling up points, the visitors being able to score but four tallies in the session.

Acting-captain Whitehead led the W&M scorers with seven goals and 1 foul for a total of fifteen points.

W-M NOSES OUT BRIDGEWATER IN FINAL MINUTES

Snatch Game From Maroons, 30-27, After Trailing For Most Of Fray

The William and Mary hoopsters nosed out Bridgewater, 30 to 27 in the Harrisonburg High School gymnasium last Wednesday night. The match was a close one, and, till the last few minutes of play, seemed as if it were going to be a victory for the home team.

The game started with a snap, and Will, Eagle center, seemed to have no trouble in scoring the first basket on a short but swift pass from his teammate, Flory. With equal facility, the Bridgewater team managed to carry the fight all the way through the first half, and led, 14 to 12, when the whistle blew.

They continued to set a fast pace till the closing minutes of the game, when the Indians, on the short end of a 27-22 score, staged a thrilling spurt led by Captain Mozeleski, Sundin and Sykes, who scored eight decisive points, and which resulted in victory for William and Mary.

Will scored four field goals and four foul goals for a total of twelve points, bringing him the high scoring honors of the game.

W&L GENERALS DEFEAT BRAVES

Put Bee On Tri-Color In High Scoring Tilt; Shaffer Sinks Five Baskets And Three Fouls

The Washington and Lee Generals maintained an undefeated record by taking the Indian five into camp to the tune of 44-31 last Thursday night.

The Washington and Lee club did not have much trouble in defeating the Indians, despite the fact that the William and Mary outfit put up a good hard battle throughout the match. The game was marked by the smooth machine-like playing of Cox, Williams, Jarratt, and Barasch, who clicked well enough to give their team an easy win.

The first half went rather slowly, the Generals mainly on the offensive, though the Indians did manage to score several baskets. The end of the half found the Generals leading, 24-15. In the second half the Indians exhibited more pep and snap than before, but this did not stop the home team's attack. Cox of Washington and Lee led the scorers with a total of 15 points. Shaffer worked sufficiently well under the basket to share second scoring honors with Williams, the Generals' center, both having tallied thirteen points.

Restoration and Mr. Boccock, his resignation as head coach has been accepted. But, through the co-operation of the Williamsburg Holding Corp., the authorities are glad to further announce that Mr. Boccock will continue his identification with William and Mary football during the 1931 season in the capacity of Advisory Coach.

Mr. Boccock has been associated with a number of colleges during his coaching career. From 1909-1911, he had charge of all sports at V. P. I. and from 1913-1915, he held positions as coach of football, basketball and baseball at the same institution. He served as coach of football and basketball at the University of North Carolina in 1911-12. He has also coached the major sports at the University of South Carolina and Louisiana State Univ., holding the position of athletic director at the latter in 1922. From 1917-20, Mr. Boccock was a member of the United States Dept. of Justice.

The College extends to Mr. Boccock its congratulations upon the connections he has made. And although we regret the loss of his services as head coach, we consider it quite fortunate to be able to have the benefit of his knowledge, experience and personality in the capacity of advisory coach.

One is always able to find a case of a big league star bringing a brother or a close friend to the spring training camp as one of the future stars of the league.

The latest is Joe Cronin of the Senators, who is bringing a fellow townsman in the name of Leo Burn down to the National's training camp at Biloxi. These bushers usually last about one week, during which they get stocked up with food for a couple of months. We'll watch young Leo and see what happens.

Here are a couple of remarks from the men to assimilate. According to Joseph Smith, Hunter College fencing coach, women are by far the better fencers.

Quoting from Joe: "Women, if trained properly, can beat men because they are naturally quicker and think faster. Since fencing is a game where skill consists of anticipating the next move of your opponent, women, their minds thinking much faster than men, have the advantage." Oh, hello.

Medals Given to Winners Of Lit Society Debate

Medals were presented to Harry Howes and Isaiah Cash at a meeting of the Philomathean Literary Society held in Washington 200 Friday, Feb. 13, at 7:15 P. M. These medals were awarded to the winners of the debate in the annual contest between the Phoenix and the Philomathean Literary Societies. Another presentation in the form of a box of cigars were made to Charles Hadeburg, ex-president of the society, in appreciation of his work as president.

Several important motions were made and passed. The banquet committee was instructed to try and arrange for dancing in connection with the semi-annual banquet. The treasurer was instructed to pay $150 to the council. Finally, Dr. Peebles was elected an honorary member of the society.

The meeting concluded with the program, consisting of a talk on current events by Hugh Williams, a talk on Thomas Jefferson by Harry Howes, and a reading by Fuller.

DR. BRUCE WRITES TWO NEW HISTORIES

Economic Phases of State History Considered By Campus Professor

RESEARCH CALLED VALUABLE

"Virginia Iron Manufacture in the Slave Era", a history by Dr. Kathleen Bruce, appeared first in print on January 10th, and is now on sale.

This study was undertaken for the special purpose of a doctoral dissertation and was published by the Century Company for the American Historical Association by whose aid the publication of her research was made possible. Simultaneously comes the announcement from Dr. Bruce that a history dealing with economic conditions in agriculture is in the process of completion. A title has not yet been selected for this book, upon which Dr. Bruce has carried on intensive research during the last year in the Library of Congress and from the Bruce Papers, private manuscripts in the Berry Hill Plantation House to which Dr. Bruce has had access.

The results of her research and study on iron during the Slave Era constitute an interesting and scholarly study of an industry, now almost forgotten, which played important part in the history of Virginia and the Confederacy during the Civil War. The study is based largely on manuscripts and old ledgers of the Tredegar Iron Works of Richmond, the chief munition factory of the Confederacy. The book shows how Virginia had been accumulating industrial resources through the development of coal and iron mines, and subsidiary manufactures since the 18th century; and that Negro slaves were an industrial asset and were successfully employed in the coal and iron industries. Literary skill is much in evidence in the pleasing style which presents its subject in a most interesting manner.

Dr. Bruce's motive in writing the book was to present material to casting new light in Virginian history. She found evidence of an industrial life, proving that, contrary to the general belief, southern genius has devoted itself to other than agricultural and political pursuits; and to present the relationship between economic, political, and social elements in Virginia. Dr. Bruce regards this book as but "A pioneer in an unexploited field."

Her historical study of economic conditions in agriculture will trace agricultural conditions through commercial records in Virginia until 1860. One of her papers, "The Agricultural Revolution in Tidewater Virginia" will be included in the book. The social Science Research Counsel provided for her research in The Bruce Papers, which are not open to the public so that Dr. Bruce is exceedingly fortunate in having the use of them.

Dr. Bruce was born in Richmond, and later lived in Arizona and Texas, attending the public schools there. She completed her elementary education in Richmond at the Virginia Randolph School, now St. Catherine's, and later attended Radcliffe College, from which she received her A. B., A. M., and Ph. D. degrees. She has been a member of the faculty at this college since 1926, and is now lecturing in Williamsburg, and on extension in Richmond.

Dr. Bruce is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, the American Historical Association; the Mississippi Valley Historical Association, and the Virginia Social Science Association. She is the author of several essays, including "Economic Factors in Manufacture of Confederate Ordnance", which is now being used in the course on Ordnance and Gunnery at the United States Military Academy at West Point.

COMMANDER HALL SPEAKS AT CHAPEL

Graduate of Shurtleff College and Noted Officer of Navy Is Guest of Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A.

Commander W. R. Hall, U. S. Navy has been the guest of the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. for the past week. In chapel he has spoken on the following subjects: When Scaffolding Comes Down; Synchronized Living; Shifting Gears; and The Penalty of Leadership. On Thursday evening Chaplin Hall spoke on "How Big Is Your World?"

Chaplin Hall is a graduate of Shurtleff College, and the Berkeley Baptist Divinity School. Since he has gone in the Navy, he has served on board the U. S. S. Oregon, U. S. S. Minneapolis, U. S. S. Frederic, and U. S. S. Idaho; and has served as Chaplain of the Naval Station, Guam, where in addition to his Chaplain's duties he was the Head of the Department of Education of the Island Government which had to do with the education of more than 3,500 native children. He served with the Fourth Regiment, Marines, Shanghai, China, where he did most excellent work. From the foregoing it is easy to see that the Chaplin has had a wide experience in dealing with the youth of services.

DEBATING SOCIETY CHOOSES MEMBERS

Ben Bruner and N. G. Shelton Admitted to Wrangler's Club at Semi-Annual Tryouts

Ben Bruner and N. G. Shelton were admitted into the Wranglers club, the debating society of the college, at the semi-annual tryouts which took place in Washington 300 Friday, February 13th, at 7:30 P. M. The judges were D. C. Brown, M. E. Pruitt, and Dr. D. W. Woodbridge. The subject assigned to the candidates was, Resolved; "That the Chain Stores are more beneficial than detrimental to the American Public". The reason for this choice is that H. R. Lowman and M. L. Bolton freshmen members of the Wranglers will debate on the affirmative side of this question against the team of the American University Friday, February 20th.

The eight candidates were obliged to draw lots for their turn to speak. In accordance with an old custom of the club these candidates left the room to return only when it was their turn to speak. Merrill Brown, the timekeeper, limited the talks to 7 minutes.

Biological Club Holds Regular Meeting Monday

The regular meeting of the Clayton-Grimes Biological Club was conducted in Washington 100 on Monday evening, February 16, at 7:15 o'clock. The meeting was presided over by the vice-president William Tyson. Betty Pratt read the minutes of the council meeting, and they were corrected.

The meeting was then turned over to the Program Committee, and the following program was presented:

Edgar Wiggins read a paper on "Believe It or Not". William Tyson gave a talk on "Autopsy" which he illustrated by diagrams. Dr. Dolloff illustrated his talk on "Scientific Reports" by humorous examples. He divided his lecture into six parts, which include the topic, a review of literature on the subject, methods of procedure, results, discussion, and conclusion. William Talton announced that Biology Pins and Keys could be ordered after the meeting. The meeting was then adjourned, and refreshments were served.

Karnaby", the one superb thing about the play, despite his rhetorical speeches, is eloquent, convincing, a true diplomat—a masterful characterization. We trust you liked "Just Suppose".

IF THE THEATER would stop trying to compete with the movies and play to a more intellectual audience, we feel that it would rapidly recover its former stronghold in the field of entertainment. Plays are not made for the masses, i. e., the Middle-Western farmer and the negro, as movies are, but for the urban dweller of greater refinement, culture, education, and intellect. If the producer would keep that in mind, he would not find his audiences going to the movies, because his audience likes something better than the movies can offer to the general public. The cause of this outburst of passion and wisdom is the recent production of "The Queen's Husband" by Warner Brothers. That title makes us smile as we visualize the humor to be offered by a hen-pecked king. But when Warner's filmed the play they changed the title to "The Royal Bed", which means nothing and is only used as a foil to get a certain class (rather a large one) of American people into the theater on the half-promise of showing them something sensual. Subtleties which were the meat of the play, are entirely abolished from the film since public density would not be capable of piercing them. But the small, but adequate, public which the legitimate theater draws enjoys art, cleverness, subtlety, and the better things that drama is capable of offering. Movies cannot present a rich man without furnishing him with untold millions and ravishing mansions upon him; movies cannot present a poor man without depriving him of the barest necessities of life; movies cannot present a cripple without making him surpassingly repulsive; movies cannot present a woman without making her "wondrous fair"; if the movies wish to kill a man, they cannot refrain from brutally massacring men in wholesale lots. And thus, in "The Royal Bed" these principles are faithfully adhered to. The king is well dressed of his own accord, where as he should be slovenly as in the stage play; he is handsome, whereas he should be homely looking or at least "homey" looking; he wears a sophisticated boredom, whereas he should be bored by sophistication; he makes obvious attempts at being funny or clever, whereas the humor should come forth from him spontaneously and unconsciously. In short, the stage show let us use our own imaginations, permitted us to enjoy art and high comedy, allowed us to enjoy ourselves without employing sex interest. The picture deprives us of all that.

TEA GIVEN IN BLOW FOR JEWISH STUDENTS

The Newport News chapter of the council of Jewish women had its annual tea in the Y. M. C. A. room in Blow Gymnasium Sunday afternoon February 8th, at three o'clock. Under the leadership of Mrs. Katz, president and Mrs. Franzbeu, vice-president, invitations were mailed to all Jewish students in the college, and refreshments were provided. To this invitation the men responded well, turning out 60 strong. However, in the attendance of the women there was great cause of disappointment as only two put in their appearance.

Undaunted, however, by the poor showing of the young ladies, the hostesses spread good cheer in every way possible and proved that a practically stag affair could be an enjoyable one. The capable hostesses were: Mrs. A. Eisenman, Mrs. Louis Mirmelstein, Mrs. H. Sachs, Mrs. C. Kaufman, Mrs. J. Eisenman, Mrs. J. Aaron, Mrs. Lebow, and the Misses Isabell Levy and Celia Morowitz. A cause of great disappointment was the absence of Mrs. Katz who was ill and unable to attend.

Rabbi Franzbleu took advantage of this occasion to make several announcements. He announced that a passover supper would be held in Newport News and that for a slight charge any student might attend. He further announced the establishment of a young folks group for cultural education and invited our students to attend its meetings. He concluded his announcements by reporting that a Purim masquerade would be held on March 4th, and that a Purim entertainment would be held Sunday, March 8th.

VALENTINE PARTY GIVEN

Methodist Students of the college were given a valentine party, Saturday night, February 14, in the Methodist Social Hall. The Epworth League was the host and a large crowd attended. Katherine Pendleton, president of the League, conducted a variety of games, contests, and stunts. Another event was an old-fashioned "mellerdramer". Later in the evening, members of the league served refreshments.

FROSH DEBATE IN PHI BETA KAPPA

Ducs oppose American University Friday in only Home Meet of Year

The only Freshman debate on the campus this year will take place to-night in Phi Beta Kappa Hall at eight o'clock, at which time Ruffner Lowman and Luther Bolton will argue the affirmative of Resolved: "That the chain store is more beneficial than detrimental to the American Public" with a team from American University of Washington, D. C.

Grover Clay will preside over the debate. Decision will be rendered by three judges, who it is understood are business men of this vicinity.

Both of the debators to-night participated in the annual Freshman debate in the fall, in which they convinced their audience of women's place was in the home. They were marked at that time their excellent presentation, delightful manner, and clever arguments started in clear, concise statements. The only other Freshman debate will be with Randolph Macon Collegeon April 13th, Harry How Richmond, and John Watson Salem, will argue the negative of the unemployment insurance problem.

MEDICAL STUDENTS EXAMINATIONS HELD

Aptitude Examinations Were Held Here On Friday February the 13

All pre-medical students who plan to enter a medical school in September, 1931 took the Aptitude examination on Friday, February 13, at 4 P. M. in Washington 100. Many medical schools will accept only students who have taken this examination and it was given only on that date. A fee of one dollar for each applicant was paid to the examiner at the time of the test for transmission to the Association of American Medical Colleges. Pen and pencil, but no other equipment was required.

All candidates for medical school next September should immediately file with the registrar requests for such transcripts of their records as are required by the medical schools for which they wish to apply. The number of applicants for medical education being much greater than the number that can be accepted. It is very important to get applications in as promptly as possible.

CHEWNING ELECTED NEW PRESIDENT OF EXECUTIVE COUNCIL

by defeating Puby Adams, of Formosa, and Margaret Baughman, of Richmond, is a member of the present Junior Class, and has been holding the position of Secretary of the Executive Council. She has varsity letters in hockey, basketball, and tennis, in each of which sports she has been a prominent player since her freshman year; and she has served as manager of girls' basketball. Her home here is the Kappa Kappa Gamma House on Richmond Road.

Katherine Cubberly, '33, of Norfolk, a Phi Mu, graduates with this election from the position of treasurer to that of vice-president. She, too, has been active in athletics. Harriett Pittard, another Phi Mu, is a member of the Freshman Class. Betty Pratt, a Sophomore hockey player; is a Kappa Alpha Theta; and Virginia Romm, Alpha Chi Omega, has been active in student government work for the whole of her two years at William and Mary.

The newly elected officers will be installed at the April meeting of the Women's Student Body, and will take over the duties of their offices at that time.

COMPETITIVE ESSAY RULES ANNOUNCED

American Chemical Society Offers Prizes to Freshmen Students

The American Chemical Society Prize Essay Contest which is open to all Freshmen taking College Chemistry, closes March 1, 1931. The purpose of this contest is to encourage students to a greater familiarity with the science of Chemistry. The contest will be written under the supervision of members of Theta Chi Delta, honorary Chemical Fraternity, and members of the Faculty. For the writing, only a bare outline of the topic may be used.

There are six prizes of $500, six of $300 and six of $200 which will be awarded by Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Garvan. The Theta Chi Delta fraternity is also offering a prize for the best essay written by a William and Mary student. Dr. W. C. Guy, associate professor of Chemistry, expressed a hope that William and Mary would be represented in the National prizes.

The contestant must confine his essay to one topic, the length of which must not exceed 2,500 words. The topics include the Relation of Chemistry to Health and Disease; the Enrichment of Life; Agriculture or Forestry; the Home; the National Defense; the Development of an Industry or to the Resources of the United States. Dr. Guy stated that all contestants should have the subject well in mind and be preparing for the final work.

Fine Arts Class Gives Five Book to Library

The Fine Arts 101 class presented five books, which were bought from the proceeds of Christmas Cards, to the library recently.

These books were J. J. Lankes' "Virginia Woodcuts, which contains pictures of scenes about Williamsburg, and other places of historic interest; Leon Ritor's "Puris de Chavannes"; Kelly and Schawbes' "Historic Costumes"; Frank M. Rines' "Drawing in Lead Pencil"; and the 1930 Edition of "Commercial Art".

Mrs. Frank McClean, William Weltons and Elizabeth Waddell made the cards the profits of which amounted to twenty seven dollars which was five more than last year.

CHORUS CHOSEN FOR OPERA TO BE GIVEN SOON

Twenty Men and Fifteen Women Have Parts In Songs and Dances

Selection of the three chorus groups for "The Pirates of Penzance", the opera to be given here on March 4 and 5 by the combined glee clubs, was made last week and includes over twenty men's and about fifteen women's parts.

The chorus of girls, headed by Hazel Storch who carries the feminine lead, includes, Mildred Lockhart, Edith Blon, Catherine Blanton, Elizabeth Allen, Lois Daugherty, Mary Acree, Ann Garrett, Mary Solliday, Elizabeth Leonard, Jane Utgard, Ruth Proudman, Agnes Downs, Mary Rigg, Barbara Allison, Nancy Davis, and Page Johnson.

In the first male chorus—the Pirates—there are, Ben Shotwell, Lloyd Johnson, John McDonald, John Eggleston, Ruffin Winfree, Ross Jones, Elton James, Ernest Horton, Robert Ash, William Bergin, and Murray Harrison. The Policemen, second male chorus, consists of Douglas Hubert, Ed Bowen, Herman Hoffman, Ben Brugh, Charles Haggberg, Joe Morrow, Robert Blackwell, and Everett Shaw. Jimmie Littlepage, as Edward the police sergeant, leads this last group through many side splitting capers.

According to the announcement of the directors of "Pirates of Penzance" the whole opera is rounding out nicely. The leading characters under the direction of Mrs. Loughlin have their themes well in hand, while the chorus groups, under Mr. Small, have practically mastered the difficult movements given them. Miss Althea Hunt, assisted by Carrie Lucas, is now at work on the dramatic action of the opera and from all standpoints things are looking most favorable for an unusually high type of collegiate production.

Bill Scott and Hazel Storch, carrying the two principal roles of Frederick, the pirate chief, and Mabel, his love, have the larger portion of the burden. These two have many lovely themes, solos, and duets scattered throughout the two acts and are rendering them in a professional manner in the practices. Page Johnson, as Ruth, and Arthur McLawhon, as Richard, are also showing great talent in their respective roles. George Stewart, as the Major, and Tom McCaskey, as Samuel the pirate lieutenant, have two comedy roles which are highly entertaining.

Stage effects of the Gilbert-Sullivan production are reported as being very elaborate. James Habel, stage manager, with Garland Oliver, Doc Stinnett, and Doyle Seeman to assist him, has already begun work on the massive setting. The first act calls for huge rocks as would be found along a sea coast as well as a complete back drop curtain showing the sturdy old pirate ship and the sea. William Wellons will have charge of the scenery and will supervise the painting of the back drop personally. Catherine Hasseltine and others will aid Mr. Wellons in this task.

Ernest DeBordenave, who is to have control of the lighting, will also have a problem to solve as the lighting effects called for are very intricate. Doyle Seeman will assist Mr. DeBordenave in arranging a suitable system of flood and spot lights to stage the opera.

Similar to The Royal Family, the senior play given here last year, the entire stage will have to be used for "Pirates of Penzance". Due to the massive scenery and the large cast, the action will be carried all the way down to the stage's edge. Foot lights will have to be done away with, therefore, and some overhead arrangement made.

Costumes for this production will no doubt be of the best quality. Complete outfits for the 40 odd members of the cast have been ordered from Hooker and Howe, of Boston. This company recently furnished costumes for this same opera to a large professional opera company in New York and should be able to give the best costumes possible for the show here. Ann Solliday has charge of the costumes, while Mary Quarles, property chairman, will assist her.

Practice is being held nightly now, and by the first week of March the opera is expected to reach a highly professional and polished form.

PRESS ASSOCIATION CHOOSES OFFICIALS FOR COMING YEAR

Frances Bragg Is Vice-President Named On Committee Announced

COMMITTEE WILL MEET SOON

M. Waller Belcher, Jr., of Lynchburg College, and president of the Virginia Intercollegiate Press Association has announced the executive committee of that organization, according to the Richmond News Leader, of February 5. The committee includes: M. Waller Belcher, Jr., president of Lynchburg College; Ann Hargrave, secretary and treasurer of Randolph - Macon Woman's College; Frances Bragg, first vice-president, of the College of William and Mary; R. McK. Cuthbert, Jr., second vice-president, of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute; and Miss Ruth Cooper, of East Radford State Teachers' College; W. Edwin Hemphill, of Hampden-Sydney College; Lyle J. Hansbrough, of the Virginia Military Institute, and William C. Edwards, of Washington and Lee University. A ninth member of the committee is yet to be chosen and is to be of the student body of Harrisonburg State Teachers' College.

The officers of the organization were named in November at the fourth annual meeting which was held here on the campus of William and Mary. William F. Rountree was then president.

Mr. Belcher has announced that a meeting of the executive committee is to be held either in Lynchburg or Richmond early in the spring. One of the main issues to be presented at this meeting will be the details and work on "The Southern Collegian" the monthly magazine, which was established by resolutions passed at the last meeting. The first issue is to appear on February 28, it has been announced by the editors.

London—The United States will not be represented in the Schneider cup races this year but Great Britain probably will enter planes capable of 400 miles an hour to compete for the famous trophy, which is emblematic of the seaplane speed championship of the world.

Executives of the Royal Aero Club said today the entry list closed Dec. 31 and that therefore it would be impossible to accept the entry of Lieutenant Alford J. Williams, American flier, who obtained backing only in the last few days to compete in the contest.

"We would like to accommodate the United States," said one of the officials, "but we could not possibly alter the rules."

England will bid for permanent possession of the famous trophy. Planes that can beat 6 miles a minute—so fast that no human can time them and only the most skilled pilots can handle them, will carry the Union Jack against the best pilots of France and Italy.

Chicago—Alexander Legge is preparing to retire from the chairmanship of the Federal Farm Board soon after March 4 to rejoin the International Harvester Company, it was learned recently.

It had been reported that Mr. Legge would resign before many months, but his action was not generally expected to occur so soon after the end of the present term of Congress.

Mr. Legge became chairman of the board on July 1, 1929. At that time, it was stated that he probably would not retain the post more than a year, as the International Harvester Company, which loaned him to the government, desired his return. Mr. Legge then felt that a year was all he could devote to the chairmanship.

Frequent attacks on Mr. Legge's handling of the wheat situation have been made by representatives of farm groups and others. To all critics, he has replied vigorously, but many of his associates believe the attacks influenced his decision to retire from public office.

Shanghai—Reminiscent of the days of the Chinese Empire when emissaries from tributary rulers as far distant as India and Burma, Mongolia and Manchuria, traveled thousands of miles by land and sea to lay costly gifts before the Dragon Throne, a delegate from remote Sinkiang province (Chinese Turkestan) has arrived in Nanking bringing a mammoth piece of uncut jade as a present to the national government from the Sinkiang provincial government.

From this costly stone, which is as large as a man's head and weighs approximately forty pounds, will be cut a national state seal. The rare jewel is roughly heart-shaped and of sufficient dimensions to permit cutting an eight-inch cube. Its colors include shades of gray, green, white and brown. This extraordinarily large piece of jade and a companion stone of approximately the same size were found in a stream bed in Sinkiang which is noted for its rich mineral deposits.

Managua—The entire Nicaraguan cabinet resigned today. Semi-official reports said the ministers took this action that President J. M. Moncada might be at liberty to form a new cabinet, but it was said tonight that most of them would be retained although shifted around. One report was that there would be a new minister of agriculture.

Biological Club Holds Regular Meeting Monday

The regular meeting of the Clayton Grimes Biological Club was conducted in Washington 100 on Monday evening, February 16, at 7:15 o'clock.

The meeting was presided over by the vice-president William Tys Betty Pratt read the minutes of the council meeting, and they were corrected.

The meeting was then turned over to the Program Committee, and the following program was presented:

Edgar Wiggins read a paper "Believe It or Not". William Tys gave a talk on "Autopsy" which illustrated by diagrams. Dr. Doll illustrated his talk on "Scientific Reports" by humorous examples. He divided his lecture into six parts which include the topic, a review literature on the subject, methods procedure, results, discussion, and conclusion. William Talton announced that Biology Pins and Keys could be ordered after the meeting.

The meeting was then adjourned and refreshments were served.
