ZETA EPSILON, NEWEST FRATERNITY ON CAMPUS, NOW ORGANIZED WITH APPROVAL OF BOARD OF VISITORS

Organization Effected After Several Months of Consideration

ORDER HAS NEW HOME ON RICHMOND AVENUE

Plans Underway for Another House to Be Built in Near Future

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of a new local fraternity for men students on the William and Mary campus, when the Zeta Epsilon fraternity was officially approved by the Board of Visitors, by Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the College, and by H. E. Bridges, secretary to the board.

The announcement comes as a result of efforts expended during the last several months to obtain such an organization. At a meeting last month the Board of Visitors reviewed the petition for the local, delved fully into existing conditions and need for the fraternity on the campus, and unqualifiedly approved the application. When the document reached President Chandler for ratification it met with the same success as before the board.

The regular ruling of the Board of Visitors setting forth that no local fraternity may remain as a local more than a year, with the possible extension of time to two years, binds upon Zeta Epsilon, it is stated. Members of the new group have expressed the thought that a national charter may be secured within the next few months, as negotiations with one of the most prominent national fraternities have been underway for some time.

Ala M. Graff, of Newport News, is first president of Zeta Epsilon, Emile D. Neumann, of Tuscaloosa, Ala., is secretary, and William B. Koufman, of Brookline, Mass., is treasurer. Other charter members are as follows: George O. Baer, of New York City; Lester M. Phillips, of Brookline, Mass.; Edwin M. Kaufman, of Boston, Mass.; Bernard Wallack, of Hartford, Conn., and Orrin Levin, of Brookline, Mass.

The fraternity has made arrangements for a home in upper Richmond Avenue, and expects to assume occupancy the end of this week or the beginning of next week. Plans are already being discussed looking towards the erection of a fraternity house in the near future.

Edwina Carver Named to Indian Handbook Staff

Edwina Carver, of Alexandria, and Charles Dunker, of Brookline, Mass., have been added to The Indian Handbook staff, according to William F. Rountree, editor of the publication.

Miss Carver was appointed by the Y. W. C. A. cabinet, and will serve as Women's Associate Editor. William R. Savage and Alan Graff will serve as Men's Associate Editors. Charles Dunker has been appointed Assistant Business Manager.

New President Will Be Installed With Other Incoming Officers Next Tuesday

De Ette Jones of Atlanta, Ga., was named president of the Young Women's Christian Association, at its annual election of officers Tuesday night in Phi Beta Kappa hall. She succeeds Phyllis Logan, retiring president. Other officers elected were: vice president, Katherine Lam; secretary, Jess de Bordeneau; treasurer, Anne Croxton.

These officers will be installed at special services Tuesday night.

Miss Lam, whose home is at Norfolk, succeeds Eleanor Williamson, of Vivian, West Virginia, as vice-president. Miss de Bordeneau, of Franklin, succeeds Marian Handy, of Crisfield, Md., and Miss Croxton, of West Point, succeeds Edwina Carver of Alexandria.

The elections were conducted rapidly and were followed by a brief cabinet meeting.

H2E CLUB CIRCUS DRAWS APPLAUSE

Held in the Blow Gymnasium last night with L. Tucker Jones acting as ringmaster, the circus given under the auspices of the H2E Club was an unusual success. Although this was the first circus ever sponsored by the H2E Club, it is thought that the initial success of the undertaking will cause it to be made an annual affair.

Music for the grand parade, which preceded the beginning of the various performances, was furnished by the college orchestra. From the moment the parade began, which included the participants in all the side shows and other features of the circus, until the end of the show, spectators shrieked with delight.

Probably the menagerie elicited more applause from the audience than the other attractions. However the gymnastic wedding, fake boxing, apparatus and tumbling, also drew forth copious applause.

Washington and Lee Collegians to Play For Easter Dances Here Next Week-End

The Washington and Lee Collegians will furnish the music for the Easter Dances next Week-end, Friday and Saturday, March 15 and 16, according to McLain T. O'Ferrall, president of the Cotillion Club.

The Collegians hail from Washington and Lee University, and it is understood that the orchestra has been quite a sensation at the various colleges and cities in which it has played. This year the Collegians

WEST VIRGINIA WOMEN DEBATE HERE TONIGHT

Tonight at 7 o'clock the Women's Debate Team will meet the team from the University of West Virginia in the Activities Room of Barrett Hall. The subject for debate is Resolved: The Jury system of the United States should be abolished. Louise James, Margaret Morris, and Evelyn Steele will uphold the negative side of the question for William and Mary. The University of West Virginia will take the affirmative side. Each speech will be 8 minutes long with the rebuttals 3-3-5. The audience will make the final decision.

PHI KAPPA PHI ELECTS MEMBERS

National Honorary Fraternity To Have Public Meeting Tonight

Fourteen senior students, five women and nine men, were elected to the William and Mary Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternity, when members of the chapter here held their annual election in February.

Founded at the University of Maine in 1895, Phi Kappa Phi is one of the oldest honorary fraternities in America. Abiding by the constitution, it elects to membership only the most outstanding senior student from each department in the various institutions where chapters are located.

Initiation of the students elected, will take place this evening in Phi Beta Kappa Hall. Preceding the initiation, which is to take place in the Apollo room, there is to be a public meeting at 7:45 o'clock at which time interesting papers will be read by some of the initiates. As an initiation requirement, each student has been asked to submit a paper of at least 1000 words on some phase of his major study in which he is vitally interested.

Officers in charge, announce that a new and unusual program will be presented to which all students and members of the faculty are cordially invited. In keeping with the surprise element of the program, those elected to membership will not be made known until tonight.

Political Campaigning To Take Pollard From Deanship at College

Head of Government and Citizenship Here Will Resign Shortly to Devote Interests to Candidacy For Democratic Nomination

CHANDLER DECIDES NOT TO RUN AFTER LENGTHY CONSIDERATION

Dr. John Garland Pollard, Dean of the Marshall-Wythe School of Government and Citizenship here will resign shortly to conduct his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the governorship, according to a statement from him Wednesday afternoon.

His candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination was announced Saturday, following a statement by Dr. J. A. C. Chandler, president of the college, to the effect that he would not run. As long as there was a possibility that Dr. Chandler would become a candidate Dr. Pollard was backing him. He had advocated the college president for the nomination last fall.

Dr. Pollard stated Wednesday that plans for his campaign were as yet uncertain because of the sudden announcement of his candidacy. It is expected, however, that definite plans will be formulated shortly.

JURIST OF NOTE IS CAMPUS GUEST

Judge Lehman of New York Indulges In Photographic Hobby While Admiring Williamsburg

Judge Daniel Lehman of the Court of Appeals of New York State, and a brother of the present lieutenant-governor of New York, was an interested visitor on the campus of William and Mary Wednesday.

The distinguished jurist whose hobby is photography, carried a large camera and snapped pictures of the college buildings and the structures now undergoing restoration under the Rockefeller plans.

Judge Lehman was particularly impressed with the ideal situation and planning of the college and the collegiate atmosphere about the campus.

"It has been a long time since I was in college and the true college spirit here brings back many fond memories to me," he said.

LARGER MAILING FACILITIES HERE

Citizenship "A" Converted Into Room Where Students May Secure Letters and Packages; Open Next Week

A larger and more efficient post office for the College of William and Mary will be an actuality within the next week, according to H. L. Bridges, registrar. The room formerly known as Citizenship "A" is being remodeled, and a partition erected in the center as a counter over which letters and packages may be distributed.

It is pointed out by Mr. Bridges that the new office will not be operated by government employees, but will serve merely as a place where students will have an easier time getting their mail. R. L. Spencer, of Williamsburg, will be in charge of the office, and he will be assisted by several students, probably those who are now working in the post office in Monroe Hall, it was declared.

It is expected that the new post office will rectify existing conditions under which women students must walk all the way downtown to receive packages. It is practically impossible for a number of men students to get mail at the same time from Monroe, as the waiting space is small.

Mr. Bridges could not say exactly the hours the new office would observe, nor just what day it would first open, but it is definitely understood that the doors will be open eight hours a day, starting sometime next week.

Inauguration of the new system is expected to alleviate mailing conditions which have been under censure from students since the beginning of last semester, it is said.

have played at Randolph-Macon and Hampden-Sydney, and will furnish the music for the Easter dances at Randolph-Macon this week-end. The past summer the Collegians played on a cruise abroad. The orchestra consists of eleven pieces, featuring two pianos, and a soloist.

Blow Gymnasium will be attractively decorated in a Red and White color scheme, with the windows covered in a checker board effect. This is entirely a new scheme of decorations, and the officers of the club are looking forward for the most successful formal dance ever held at William and Mary.

As announced in an earlier issue of the Flat Hat the admission for stags will be cheaper than usual. The price of admission for the dances will be as follows: $6.00 for Cotillion Club member and date; $5.00 for Cotillion Club stag; $8.00 for Non-Cotillion member and date; and $7.00 for Non-Cotillion club stag.

Harriet Smith Named Vice President of Co-ed Association

OFFICERS ROLL COMPLETE FOR ENSUING YEAR

Eleanor Fields Elected Treasurer; Catherine Cook Secretary to Executive Council

BEEBE TO EDIT HANDBOOK

Three Members to Student Executive Council Also Selected at Meeting Monday

Harriet Smith, of Ashland was named first vice-president of the Women's Student Government Association at a meeting of the body Monday afternoon. Principal business transacted at the session was the completion of the roll of officers for the 1929-30 student government term, chief of which was the first vice president.

Other officials of the co-ed association named in the following Monday afternoon were treasurer, Eleanor Field, of Nuttall; secretary of the executive council, Catherine Cook, of Petersburg; Editor of the W. S. G. A. Handbook, Elsie Beebe, of Lewes, Del.; recorder of points, Dorothy Lankford, of Caribarien, Cuba; and members to the student executive council, Catherine Lam, of Norfolk; Mary Nininger, of Norfolk; and Shirley Wright, of Westfield, N. J.

These officers will go into office at the next meeting of the association which is scheduled for the first Monday in April. At this time, officers named a short while ago, will also take over their duties. This group is composed of:

President, Alice Harwood, of Appomattox; vice-president, Ellen Ticer, of Alexandria; secretary of judicial council, Marion Handy, of Crisfield, Md.; house president of Barrett hall, Pauline Shumate; house president of Tyler hall, Mary Rigby; house president of Jefferson hall, Anne McNulty.

Generating Brain Power

BRAIN power, not horsepower, is the chief operating requirement of the electrical industry.

This requirement must be continuously anticipated to provide leaders for the future. Accordingly, each year, more than 400 picked college graduates come to the General Electric Company for a post-graduate course in electrical science.

With a faculty including inventors and engineers of international distinction, something more than electrical knowledge is imparted to these young men. Here they also find inspiration which prepares them for leadership in this electrical age.

You will see this monogram on the powerful motors of an electric locomotive and on the convenience outlet where you plug in a floor lamp—always and everywhere it is a safe guide to electrical quality and dependability.

Up At Yale

Of interest to all college men and women in general, and to Dartmouth men in particular, is the announcement this week that Yale seniors prefer a Phi Beta Kappa key to a major "Y" earned in sports. The high esteem in which the scholastic honor is held at New Haven was revealed by the annual class vote of seniors in Yale College and the Sheffield Scientific School, in which members of the graduating class express their preferences in various fields.

Not long ago the scholastic world was agog at the refusal of a Dartmouth student to accept membership in Phi Beta Kappa. The overwhelming expression of preference by men at New Haven for the honorary key instead of the sports letter which is commonly considered a college goal, repudiates completely any false judgements that might have been formed by the world at large after the Dartmouth affair.

This is but one of a number of preferences voted at New Haven. All of them furnish material for conversation, if not for thought. We list a few merely as a matter of interest.

Colonel Lindbergh and "my father" tied for the honors in the vote at Yale College for "what man, now living, I admire most." English was judged the most valuable subject, and psychology the least valuable. Sheffield seniors declared accounting the most valuable course. Harvard and Princeton are favorite colleges next to Yale, Episcopalian the favored faith, senior the most pleasant year, freshman the hardest, tennis the favorite sport to play, football the favorite sport to watch, d'Artagnan the favorite character in fiction, Napoleon the favorite character in history, "The Three Musketeers" and "The Forsyte Saga" the favorite novels, "If" the favorite poem, Tennyson the favorite poet, Emil Jannings the favorite movie star and Hampden the favorite actor, Joan Crawford the favorite movie actress and Helen Hayes the favorite actress.

The Saturday Evening Post was adjudged the favorite magazine, Republican the most popular party, Hoover, Lindbergh, Mussolini and Will Rogers the most favorite world figures. Incidentally, when they came to vote for the most admired living man, four frank chaps admitted "myself."

All this is pretty interesting. Some may doubt whether it is significant.

On Borrowing Library Books

Librarians, professors and students register alarm as volume after volume of valuable books disappear from the library and fail to return. It is hardly likely that students at William and Mary deliberately remove books from the library with no intention of returning them. It is hard to believe that a few students are violating the trust placed in them, when they are allowed to rummage through the stack rooms at will and to have access to all but the most valuable manuscripts in the library. Yet this is what is being done, intentionally or unintentionally.

Many courses given at this college require an immense amount of supplementary work to be done in the library. This is particularly true in the English department. To facilitate this reading, most professors have the necessary books placed on reserve shelves. These books are not to be taken from the library. Some students, however, who lack an inherent sense of fairness do slip out and keep them over long periods of time. Other members of their class suffer because of this dishonesty on their part.

Is it possible that more restrictions must be placed on students in the use of library books? Must they be denied the privilege of free access to them? To do so means that many students who have a love for books and who enjoy wandering among the stack rooms examining musty old volumes will be deprived of this pleasure because of the neglect, thoughtlessness, or intentional book roguery of certain individuals. It is to be hoped that the future will see a minimum of books wander out of the library and that those which do disappear will not be those placed on reserve.

RECOGNIZE ZETA EPSILON

The Flat Hat extends congratulations to Zeta Epsilon, William and Mary's newest social fraternity, on the occasion of its recognition by the President of the Board of Visitors. With eight charter members, the fraternity already has a strong place in campus activities and is going into its home on Richmond Road this week. Each of its members has already shown in some way that he is serviceable to the college and worthy of membership in the new brotherhood. The infant chapter is represented not only among the ranks of men with high scholastic attainments, but also in such extra-curricular activities as football, the drama, The Flat Hat, the Colonial Echo, the Indian Handbook, baseball, track and swimming.

Added to these high qualifications is the fact that Zeta Epsilon is at present negotiating with one of the most outstanding national fraternities and expects to receive a charter under this prominent and select national organization as soon as it is firmly settled in its new home.

Zeta Epsilon should be recognized by the International Council. The Flat Hat feels confident that the addition of this social brotherhood to the ranks of the fraternities in Williamsburg will prove only of benefit to William and Mary. Through its affiliations with the national organization of which it will be a chapter it will be an inducement to a high type of student to attend the college.

Good national fraternities are of great advantage to any college in that they attract many men from preparatory schools who would not attend a school in which there were no social organizations of this calibre. For it must be borne in mind that membership in a college fraternity is the goal of practically every prep school undergraduate. William and Mary should welcome Zeta Epsilon.

Writer Puts in Kind Word for Dance Committee of Interfraternity Council Here

Editor of the Flat Hat,
 Sir:

In reply to the letter in the last week's issue of The Flat Hat from the "Pauper" I would like to ask a few questions from this individual who is to be seen frequenting the coffee houses (College Shop, College Pharmacy, etc.) in rags selling pencils. Did this self same individual ever act on the committee of putting across a formal dance? Does he know exactly how much an orchestra of any repute charges for playing for a dance? Did he take into account the fact that the interfraternity council is not an incorporated body trying to see how much money they can get from the students of this college? He admits that he had an enjoyable time but that his evening was spoiled by the constant thought of the dent made in his pocket by the enormous fee of three dollars. It is only by a large attendance at the formals that it is possible to have one of the better orchestras and to reduce the price of the tickets. If one wants to have a good time he must pay the price. To my mind the dance was given at the lowest cost possible.

"A Pauper Minus."

This Writer Would Place More Emphasis On Music and Forget the "Dead" Arts

Editor of The Flat Hat,
 Sir:

The other night I was sentimental. It's not an unusual state with me, but this time I craved a piano and sought refuge in Ewell Hall to ward off the attack at the keyboard. The clock had just struck six-thirty, or rather it would have struck the hour had the College of William and Mary possessed one. The building was deserted. I had no intention of injuring anyone, so I chose this hour to get lost in the "Minuet in G."

Everything ran smoothly, the few good keys responding nobly to hide their brethren who might have been "off color." Crash! Slam! And the front door of the hall shook with no more harmony than a modern musical composition. I shuddered and awaited the appearance of the intruder.

To my horror this person explained that I was trespassing on the Music Department's property and that I had no business stroking the keys. I promptly withdrew from the presence of this autocrat, feeling more remorseful than ever, even believing I had committed something worse than murder. And now, as it seems the policy of the college, I am trying to supplant my love for this art with a course in Latin.

If William and Mary intends to graduate students with a well-rounded education, why doesn't it offer more encouragement to music? Surely, to the average person, it will offer more pleasure through life than being able to translate ten pages of Julius Caesar!

One of the most commendable steps the authorities have taken in the last year gave to the musically inclined college students credit for some of their orchestra and band work. More important, however, is the rumor that more recognition for this work will be given in the future. Although I'm not exactly in sympathy with the manner in which the present department is run, I am able to visualize, at least, a larger and increased music department.

Which is the most helpful to the average community—a person capable of speaking ten languages—or a musician talented enough to play or sing well? To me, there is only one answer to that question.

Sincerely yours,
 R. M.

This Writer Asks for "Fair Dramatics and More Letters on This Subject"

Editor of The Flat Hat,
 Sir:

After reading your editorial on dramatics in the last issue, I wish to add my feeble "pipe" to the general assembly of lutes.

I wish to state however that this letter is not the disgruntled mutterings of one who has tasted sour grapes but rather a disinterested view of a bystander.

It is true that the selections of plays are picking up. This is due, I rather think, to the wishes of the student body as a revolt against the hackneyed comedies which the Dramatic Staff in past years has forced upon us. There is, however, still one thing for the dramatically inclined students to command. That

BATTLING FOR BILL

By (AP)

Hello, everybody. Just old L. B. himself trying to find something for the old column. The pinch-hitter, which is ever the sign of a good editor, showed marked ability and we congratulate him in his versatility as it is always our pleasure to recognize genius. And, too, we find that people in glass houses shouldn't project rocks. We have absented ourselves from the pages of the weekly periodical for a bit of journalistic experience.

Sometime ago the question was raised by the inquiring editor as to whether there lives in Williamsburg any one who remembers seven consecutive days without rain. We immediately took the cue and repaired to the by-ways and hedges in search of such a person. Long have we roamed up and down the earth as did his Satanic majesty in the time of Job, and lo, we must confess our search to be equally as fruitless. There never lived such a person, so the books in the courthouse stated. The day when Johnnie Smith came up to buy corn from the Indians he is alleged to have found it "full of water and most miserable under foot."

One old inhabitant, when interviewed by us, stated, however, that in the summer of 1882, three days passed without even so much as a cloud in the sky and although it rained for forty three days following the dry spell, old people often reckoned time from the brief period of drought.

Just recently we were mistaken for our "advice to the lovelorn" department and the letter came to us. We of course will withhold the name since our paper is not a scandal-sheet even if it does use Hearst-like headlines. It follows:

Dear Aunt Ophelia,
 I am a little girl 29 years old and I have decided that my technique is a little too archaic for present usage. I have attended college three summers and four semesters in search of—well, you know what I mean, a companion. Conforming to the accepted methods employed nowadays for securing such a necessity is unquestionably a difficult task and I have scruples which you may be able to understand, being yourself a woman. Dear me, if you could only help me,
 Yours,
 Lonely Lona.

Our reply:
 Dear Lonely Lona,
 As to what you mean by technique and methods we are wholly ignorant. We gather you are desirous of seeking masculine company, although you did not say so.
 Pick some desirable person out and write him poetry, this is a sure-fire man-getter and offer to pay his way to the movies and all expenses the both of you might incur. Speedy success is yours and we wish you well.
 Understandingly yours,
 Aunt Ophelia.

No, Cyrano, a ten-second man isn't one who has assisted in ten duels.
 Respectfully yours.—L. B.

is, a fair system of try-outs by competent judges and not a prejudicial opinion of one person. In the picking of the cast of the "Taming of the Shrew" there was a woeful shortage of men. Untried amateurs who would be docile were drafted into service while a number of experienced actors stayed away because of the obvious unfairness of the try-out.

From what I hear several of the men's fraternities have discussed the matter and a number of men have agreed to do no acting until the

THIS DEPARTMENT

A WHEEL CAME OFF

At Mexico City the other day a great plane soared out of the sky, zoomed low, skimmed the earth. Spectators saw a cloud of dust, heard a sound of ripping fabric, saw the ship swerve, stagger and collapse.

It only goes to show what This Department has always maintained: A lad's tough luck begins with the ladies. So long as he remained aloof, the good Colonel was a kind of a god with a charmed life, a winged phenomenon to be read about and looked at in awe, a sort of winged Mercury flitting about uncharted airways with Mercurian agility and dispatch and, ay—on occasions, even a scolding Mercurian tongue.

But the charm is broken now. Even those rare, imaginative souls who saw in him the embodiment of something above the human, know now that he is merely mortal. The signs are unmistakable.

They said it wasn't his fault. A wheel came off. But for that matter, tough luck isn't any man's fault—unless he invites it. Now of course Colonel Lindbergh had more sense than to invite that wheel off. He didn't, in what we may presume is his present joyful, reckless state, take the bolt from the wheel and deliberately dare it to fall from the axle at the critical moment.

No, the Colonel didn't deliberately invite bad luck, but he courted it, if you get what we mean.

Which reminds us of a joke we saw somewhere:

"Say, Larry, I think a wheel is coming off!" "O. K. with me Grace; I'm kinda tired of that out-of-gas gag myself!"

CARD OF THANKS

"You deserve thanks," writes Macon, "for your campaign for louder class bells. If we can't have electric bells controlled from a central office, let us at least put amplifiers on the College bell, so its ancient stroke can be heard in the farthest class hall."

Thanks, Macon, for your suggestion. And thanks, again, for signing a name that does not begin with an "A". The latter has been a matter of no little concern with us, for since the day Algernon first poked his head in the door it seems every contrib we've had has used a first-letter signature: Al, Ann, Alan, Anon, Art, A. P. and—well that's enough. We only hope, though, that the next group won't all turn out in your footsteps, Macon, as perhaps, Mac, Marx, Mike, Martha of Mandeville.

Notre Dame and a number of other large colleges are to have night football this year. Garcon, score another priority for William and Mary. Incidentally, the idea of amplifying the College Bell sounds also like a possible priority.

Weekly reminder: Easter dances March 15 and 16. (Are you a social success yet?)

LOOKING BACKWARDS

FIFTEEN YEARS AGO

News was received by the College authorities that the William and Mary appropriation from the State legislature for the new fiscal year was finally compromised at $66,500. In addition to the regular maintenance appropriation of $40,000, the surplus provided for improvements as follows: For a new dining hall and kitchen combined, $14,700; to make alterations to convert present dining hall into rooms for students, $5,000; repairs for Taliaferro building, $5,500; for furniture for new rooms, $1,500.

R. B. Gayle was elected manager of the 1914-15 basketball team, at a meeting of the Athletic Association recently.

At a meeting of the Athletic Council, basketball monograms were awarded to the members of the college quintet. Manager Jones, Gayle, Birtschey, Zion and Zehmer were given the athletic emblem.

Acting on Mr. Goodwin's resignation, the Board of Visitors elected S. H. Hubbard to fill the Academy chair of Latin and History.

FIVE YEARS AGO

Dr. J. Lesslie Hall was the guest of honor at a surprise party in honor of his sixty-eighth birthday last Sunday afternoon. The celebration was given by Dr. Hall's namesake, the J. Lesslie Hall Literary Society.

E. C. Johnson, George W. Reilly, A. J. Winder and D. C. George were selected to compose William and Mary's debate team for the spring.

Intercollegiate World

Editor of Randolph-Macon Woman's College Sun Dial Files Strong Protest Against Sleep-Rousing Efforts of Neighboring Victrola Record Enthusiasts

For some time it has been our lot to wake, to sleep, to work, and to play to the accompaniment of "Me and the Man in the Moon." Before it some other beloved record supplied the music for our every activity. It's not that we particularly dislike these records, or that we object to victrolas just on general principles, but it does seem that sometimes a little peace and quiet is absolutely necessary. For when the time comes when we have both Latin and Phil to do in one period, that period is full. But we insist that we do not wish to do away with victrolas entirely, or to prevent music-lovers from playing them at any time they please, but we do wish to call down a blessing upon the heads of those who have discovered the happy secret of a private and almost undiscoverable method of using these instruments—so silent a method that even the hour of ten-thirty p. m. need not put an end to their pleasure. These—and their neighbors—are indeed fortunate. And we heartily approve of all who may discover this secret.

For those who are not so fortunate, or who perhaps prefer more pep in their music, we may suggest that there are times when people are not so inclined to study as they are from eight a. m. to one p. m., nor as eager to sleep as they are on Sunday mornings. And—could we recommend the little principle of variety once more?

Free mail delivery will be a Williamsburg institution after April 1, according to a notice issued by Postmaster W. M. Thomas.

Emily L. Hall, daughter of Dr. John Lesslie Hall, left Sunday for the Norfolk Naval Base where she sailed for San Francisco on board the United States transport Chaumont.

A CORRECTION

In last week's announcement of the men's Dean's list, The Flat Hat through a typographical error stated the semester average of Albert Cornell, Brooklyn, N. Y., as 90.58. The figure ought to have been 95.29.

ANNUAL MANLESS DANCE SCHEDULED FOR MAR. 23

The annual 'Manless Dance,' sponsored by the social group of the campus Y. W. C. A. is scheduled for March 23, according to Frances Butler, a member of the group.

The scheme for this year's dance is said to be something original and decidedly different from anything of the past. Further details will be announced later.

The Inquiring Reporter

He asks ten people every week some question on college life. If you have any problems you would like to see discussed in this column, send them to "The Inquiring Reporter," care of The Flat Hat.

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION

What do you think of the Flat Hat Club's plan for a joint deposit file for campus activity records during the summer?

W. R. Prelow, '31: "This idea, which would prevent the usual confusion at the beginning of the year, is a very good one. It would help the societies in formulating and organizing their programs at a time when it is of vital importance to the welfare of the societies."

Elizabeth Trout, '31: "I think that this is a very constructive idea as it enables rapid reorganization at the reopening of school."

S. H. Stradley, Jr., '31: "This idea is an excellent one. It would facilitate matters of reorganization greatly and the clubs and societies would be able to 'carry on' where they left off at the closing of school."

De Ette Jones, '30: "Most of the campus activities suffer at the beginning of the school year because of difficulty arising in organization and this plan seems to offer a partial solution. It is well worth trying."

Byron H. Close, '31: "Rather a good idea. There are many problems that arise at the beginning of the fall term that would be avoided if the records of campus activity organizations were safely deposited in such a file during the summer months."

Sara Ann Everett, '31: After school reopens in the fall there is usually much confusion due to the fact that the records of the societies have been misplaced between the closing and the reopening of school. If such a file were used all of this would be done away with."

Indianettes Leave Today on Jaunt to Capital and Philadelphia

INDIAN RUNNERS START SPRING TRAINING MONDAY

PROSPECTS LOOK GOOD THIS YEAR

Squad to Be Recruited From Eighteen Veterans of Championship Team Conference Meet Here in May

With the coming of spring weather, the William and Mary track team will start their preliminary practices. This training period will begin Monday and a squad of some twenty or thirty men will be out for berths on the team this year.

Coach "Scrap" Chandler at present is optimistic of his teams chances this spring as he has eighteen letter men back from last year's squad. Captain Gresham, Graham, Zabel, Trice, Campbell, and Daugherty will be called upon to stand the brunt of the distance runs again. Scott, Bennett, Davis, and Quesenberry will participate in the sprints, while Duggett and Stribling will be seen in the hurdles. Justice, Kent, Moseleski, Strayer and Levin will again be in the field events. With these veterans and the other material recruited from among the three upper classes prospects look bright for a successful season for the Indian runners this spring.

During the season the Redman will participate in seven meets according to a schedule released by Graduate Manager William S. Gooch. They will open here April 6 with the University of Maryland and close May 11 when they entertain the Virginia Conference in the annual conference meet. All but two of the meets will be held at Williamsburg.

The complete schedule follows:
April 6—Maryland, here.
April 13—Johns Hopkins, there.
April 17—Catholic U., here.
April 20—V. M. I., here.
April 27—Navy, there.
May 3—Richmond, here.
May 11—Virginia Conference Meet, here.

"Ducs" Get Awards

Eleven members of William and Mary's undefeated freshman basketball team will be awarded numerals for their work this season on the court. They are Carlton Sundin, of New Bedford, Mass.; Frank Moseleski, of Camden, N. J.; Lawrence Shaffer, of Cumberland, Md.; Lester McMinnamin, of Alexandria; Binford Sykes, of Danville; Livingston Swentzell, of Garden City, N. Y.; Joe Sheff, of Turners Falls, Mass.; Crawford Syer, of Portsmouth; Robert Pettit, of Newark, N. J.; Otis Johnson, of Hampton and Clarence Maxey, of Norfolk.

WILLIAM AND MARY CAPTAINS 9

F. SAM WILCOX, JR.
 Captain of Golf

F. Sam Wilcox, Jr., of Wilmington, Del., is the subject of this week's article, and is captain of the William and Mary golf team. When golf made its appearance at William and Mary last year, he was chosen captain and has retained that post since.

Wilcox entered William and Mary with a reputation as a golfer. He made fine showings in the state championships in and around Norwich, Conn. In 1927 he won the New Haven Open, one of the classics of the eastern coast. He holds several course records both in Delaware and Connecticut and has been defeated but once in his intercollegiate golf career.

In addition to being a golfer, he was president of the Philomathean Literary society and is a member of the Theta Delta Chi social fraternity, Omicron Delta Kappa and The Flat Hat Club.

EXTENSION SIX DEFEATS CO-EDS

Anna Wilkins Protoges Win Over Freshman Sextet by 35-23 Score

Anna Wilkins' proteges in the William and Mary Richmond Extension paddled the Yearlings by a score of 35-23 here Saturday. Although the game was one sided it was the best one that has been played on the floor this season. The Extension sextet showed every sign of knowing the game, their passing being excellent and their team work outstanding.

Dreyer, center for the Indianettes, played a good game, as did Sollenberger and Bibee.

Brame was high scorer with 23 points to her credit, Sollenberger was next with 17 and then Cunningham with 12. Sally scored all but 4 points for William and Mary.

Summary:

Extension School	William & Mary
Cunningham	Forward	Sollenberger
Brame	Forward	Young
Drinker	Center	Dreyer
Umberger	Sidcenter	Chewing
Newton	Guard	Stern
Sutherland	Guard	Troupe

Score: Brame 23; Cunningham 12; Sollenberger 17; Herring 2; Young 2; Dabney 2.

Referees: Thomas and Bishop.

Williamsburg People to Attend Lynchburg Confab

Several members of the faculty and Y. M. C. A. cabinet will attend the Faculty-Student Conference to be held in Lynchburg today through Sunday. This is the second conference of this nature to be held, it being inaugurated last year at the University of Virginia.

Among those expecting to attend the conference from Williamsburg are Roscoe Jones, pastor of the Williamsburg Methodist Church, Miss Zo Anna Davis, Biblical Literature Instructor, Robert Price, Blacknall Cook and Garland Johnson, all of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet.

TIDEWATER H. S. MEET HERE

The Tidewater City High School track meet will be held here April 26 according to an announcement released by the Physical Education Department this week. This is an annual event and this will be the fourth year that this contest has been held in Williamsburg. John Marshall High School of Richmond won the meet last year.

Eight Necktwisters, Captain, and Manager to Receive Minor Letters For Service On Mat

Last week the William and Mary Athletic Association awarded minor letters in wrestling to ten men, members of this year's squad who had participated in a sufficient number of matches to warrant this award.

The following men received monograms: L. L. "Red" Wilson, of Danville; James Kelly, of Big Stone Gap; J. W. Phillips, of Hilton Village; W. J. Blair, of Danville; J. W. Chambers, of Dewitt; Harry Barrett, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Harry Paxson, of South Norfolk; Gordon Campbell, of Norfolk; Otis Douglas, of Reidville, and Manager Joe Hancock, of Newport News.

Second Game Scheduled For Philly Monday Afternoon of Next Week

William and Mary's Co-ed basketball team leaves this afternoon to play games in Washington and Philadelphia. Those who are making the trip will probably include: Tanner, Dignan, Richardson, King, Kemp, Winn, Burke, Wyatt and Young. There may be additions, however, before the team leaves.

This is the tenth game to be played between George Washington and William and Mary. The Indianettes have been victorious in all but one game. The scores stand:

	G. W.	W. & M.
1926	8	36
	17	33
1924	23	25
	10	19
1925	37	45
	30	28
1926	14	29
1927	13	31
1928	26	29

The game with Drexel Institute is only the second to be held between the two colleges, William and Mary winning the first game in 1927 by a score of 34-10.

The varsity will play George Washington at 8 o'clock on Saturday night and Drexel on Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

FLAT HAT CLUB SPONSORS FILE

Club Proposes That File Be Established to Keep Records During Summer Months

When the Flat Hat Club met recently, a proposal was made that a joint deposite file be established in which records, charters, and other documents of the various organizations on the campus might be preserved during the summer months.

The need of such a joint deposite file has been felt keenly for some time. When the campus organizations wish to become active in the fall, they are frequently prohibited from doing so due to the misplacement of records during the summer. It is thought that a joint deposite file of this nature would be of inestimable value to honorary fraternities on the campus.

situation has been remedied. Other men appeared and were sidetracked, and one, a seasoned actor, was given no try-out at all, though he was there all afternoon. And for no apparent reason either.

Girls too, hesitate because no one may give a real presentation when she knows it would do no good. Those who did were awed and disgusted by the unfairness shown. Then too, certain persons were told weeks ahead of time to prepare for specific parts and were given to understand that it might help. Might! Is this fair to a candidate who comes upon the stage and reads his or her part for the first time?

A better and less prejudiced plan would be to have three competent judges from the faculty (and there are quite a few) to give their views and decisions independently and the parts assigned by a process of grading. In this way one biased judge's opinion may be offset by the other two. Thus more persons would be encouraged to try-out, rehearsals would go on in more harmony and no one would be slighted.

Let it here be known that this is no expose of secret scandal but a statement of facts which everyone interested knows.

Yours for fair dramatics and more letters on this subject.

The Open Forum is to be congratulated, for, undoubtedly this measure has been taken as a result of the flow of let-

WOMEN'S GLEE CLUB NAMES NEW OFFICERS

Eliza George of Lovettsville, and Mary Stearns of Richmond, were elected president and secretary, respectively, of the Women's Glee Club of the college, at a meeting of the club held last week in Ewell Hall. Miss George is a senior and has taken an active part in glee club work for the past three years. Miss Stearns is a transfer from the William and Mary extension school in Richmond and has been enrolled in the college proper since last fall.

At the present time the members of the club are spending every spare minute of their time in practice and preparation for a concert to be given in Phi Beta Kappa Hall March 19. All practices are being held in Ewell 3, a room recently given over to Mrs. Kathleen Hipp, director of both Men's and Women's Glee Clubs. During the first part of April the women's club will enter in an intercollegiate contest to be held in Fredericksburg.

PSYCHOLOGISTS DOING RESEARCH WORK IN SCHOOL

Dr. Beeson's Educational Psychology Class Observing Students in Williamsburg High School

In connection with his class in Educational Psychology, Dr. M. F. Beeson, of the Education Department here, is having students enrolled in the course make observations in the Williamsburg high school, especially in the psychology of learning. The object of this plan is to give students studying this subject an opportunity to make application of psychological principles in education, in a practical way.

In doing this laboratory work in the Williamsburg high school, all students in the course are divided into sections according to their subjects of major interest, for the purpose of observing instruction in them.

Before starting observation each group of students meets and discusses plans for points of observation to be emphasized. These are put in the form of an outline for the observation of subjects selected. These outlines are then revised and typewritten so that each student receives copies to guide in observation. These observations are made in groups of from two to five students, usually under the supervision of Dr. Beeson.

The idea especially stressed is the mental reaction of high school students in learning various subjects. In this way students get knowledge of psychology of high school students and of high school subjects.

Each student observes at least three lessons in his or her subject and then writes results of observations, following outlines prepared. In addition, each group of four or five students prepares an oral report of observations and submits the results to the class, where a general discussion takes place.

During the past semester, it was found that this practical work in the schools was closely related to the instruction in the psychology of learning and individual differences discussed in the class room. This aspect of the course was profitable from

FACULTY MEMBER ENTERTAINS MEN

George W. Brooks Reads Poems for Phoenix; Joint Meeting of Philomathean and Phoenix Tonight

George W. Brooks entertained the members of the Phoenix Literary society last Friday night by reading a few poems he had been collecting during the past ten years. The members of the society were not satisfied to let him off with this but requested that he read Poe's "Bells," which he gratuitously did. One will recall that in this poem Poe's play upon words gives the effect of the various bells, such as the sleigh bell, the church bell, the fire bell and the death bell. Mr. Brook's reading of the poem brought out clearly the different tones of the bells.

After Mr. Brooks had given his readings, the regular meeting of the society was held. The program was as follows: current events, Emmet Frizzell; oration, W. E. Brown; talk, Ryland Knuckles; reading, W. Heywood; debate, "Resolved: That Freshmen Rules Should be Abolished" at William and Mary," with Hal Happer upholding the affirmative side and Frank Beard the negative side.

The Phoenix and Philomathean Literary societies will hold a joint meeting next Friday night at 8 o'clock in Rogers 212 for the purpose of voting upon a resolution concerning the election of the president and manager of the Debate Council.
